The Plainview Community Health Center of the Nassau County Department of Health and the Nassau-Suffolk Health Systems Agency, co-sponsored a health fair, "Habitat for Health". The Habitat was a huge success as many community organizations participated in presenting various health topics in demonstration, movie and pamphlet form.

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond, center, attends the formal opening of Harbor Distributing Corporation, a beer wholesaler, in Hicksville. Here, he congratulates president Stephen A. Spry, right, and vice president Kenneth M. Kraus on their new enterprise.

Record Breaking P.O. Blood Drive

John Lunghi, Director of Mail Processing, and Clerk Joe Sessa of the Hicksville Post Office enjoy a cookie at the Annual Post Office Blood Drive. They were among the first 265 postal workers to give blood during the drive.

"Life is Worth Fighting For - Give Blood" is the theme of this year's blood drive conducted by the Long Island Blood Services of Melville.

"We know we can count on the Hicksville Post Office to come through for their neighbors who need blood," said Steve Brady of L.I. Blood Services. "This year through the cooperation of Postal Blood Drive Coordinator, Rolf Huebner, we were able to increase the Hicksville Post Office blood donations by 31% to 265 pints. This is a remarkable achievement since Hicksville was already the largest post office blood drive on Long Island."

Over 600 pints of blood are needed daily for the patients of Long Island's 41 hospitals. However, this goal is not easily met because most Long Islanders are not aware of how important it is to donate blood. To make up the deficit, about one-third of our area's total supply must be collected from volunteer donor centers in Europe where there is a surplus of healthy voluntary blood.

Rolf Huebner summarized the need very well in the following words he gave to each postal donor.

Tomorrow - Some leukemia victim going to get his white blood cells.

Tomorrow - Some hemophiliac is going to get his platelets.

Tomorrow - Some burn victim is going to get his plasma.

Tomorrow - Some person is going to have that operation.

Tomorrow - Some accident victim is going to live.

Tomorrow - These people are going to make it.

Because....

Today - You said "Yes."

Today - You gave your blood.

Today - You cared enough!

Yesterday's commitment became today's reality and will be tomorrow's hope for someone.

My thanks to you all on behalf of all the unknown lives you have brightened. Not just the lives of those who will receive this blood, but also of their families. May God bless each and every one of you.

John Moehringer is all smiles for he was awarded the VFW's Albinus A. Hanlon Scholarship Award for 1985, and his grandfather Michael Tisdell is beaming with delight over the award made to his grandson at the Scholarship Ceremony held at VFW Post headquarters.

Jr. H.S. Honor Society Project

Jennifer Tower, David Danowski, Mrs. Marianne Moone, Jessica Garnets, Michael Roth

This school year, the members of the Hicksville Junior High National Junior Honor Society chose helping the Association for Children with Down's Syndrome as their service project. Under the guidance of Mrs. Marie Marshall, administrative advisor, they constructed many educational aids for the Down's Syndrome school and also made a cash contribution from a fund raiser they held.

Honor Society officers, Jennifer Tower, president; David Danowski, vice president; Michael Roth, treasurer; Jessica Garnets, corresponding secretary, accompanied by Mrs. Louise Higgins, faculty advisor, visited the school June 20, and made the presentation to Mrs. Marianne Moone, Special Services Coordinator of the Down's Syndrome School. Mrs. Moone, a Hicksville resident, was overwhelmed with the talent and dedication of time and effort the students demonstrated in constructing the educational aids that will help many youngsters learn to become productive citizens.

The Down's Syndrome School, located in Bellmore, consists of an infant program for parents and their children from birth to 14 months of age and then goes on to a toddler and pre-school program where the children are prepared for placement by their local public school. The school serves Nassau County and nearby Suffolk County residents.

To the Editor:

Recently it was my privilege to attend "Expo III" at the library. This educational extravaganza featured, as I understood it, works compiled by the children of In-Depth Studies groups at Hicksville's elementary schools. As I walked past each school's exhibit, I was most impressed by the effort that seemed to go into making Expo a big success. The displays and research ran the gamut from Greek mythology, nesting habits of animals and magic to stage performances co-authored and produced by the students themselves. To repeat, much research and effort-as well as enjoyment-seemed to make Expo a wonderful "happening."

Now the sad part-I've heard rumors that in two years, IDS will be taught in the classroom. Currently, those fortunate enough to attend meet in a different setting once a week. I personally feel that our teachers have more than enough to handle without being saddled with this program as another responsibility. And, contrary to opinion, I believe those students involved benefitted from the time spent in another classroom with children from other grades. I have also heard rumblings about the apparent demise of Math Enrichment. While I fully agree with the need for Remedial Math, I thought Math Enrichment was a terrific way to get youngsters who have the ability to actually "enjoy" arithmetic...something I was never able to do as a child.

With these two programs apparently "down the drain", I feel that Hicksville schools have abandoned two more innovative ideas as they now join the language and science programs that also bit the dust. Budget cuts notwithstanding, I wish it were possible for the policymakers to eliminate this "revolving door" approach to new programs and be more consistent. No one asked John Q. Public's opinion on this topic but I can't help wishing the powers-that-be would rethink their position on this one.

Karen Blicker

Albach-McCauley Wedding

At ten o'clock in the morning on the fourth of May, Cynthia Albach of Hicksville became the wife of John Richard McCauley, also of Hicksville. A beautiful ceremony was held at the Hicksville United Methodist Church with the Reverend Richard Smeltzer and Father Kevin Grueter officiating.

The bride wore an imported gown of white schiffeli embroidery and pearls. Her attendants, also dressed in white, wore tea length gowns to match. The groom and his ushers were dressed in gray.

The bride was attended by her sister Cheryl as maid-of-honor, and Susan Wolfe (sister), Cindy Albach (sister-in-law), and Carol Guage (close friend) as bridesmaids. The best man was the groom's brother Robert. Participating as ushers were the groom's brother Richard, the bride's brother, Scott Albach, and their brother-in-law, William Wolfe.

Hicksville Traveling Team - Sound Move Datsun

On Tuesday, the Sound Move Datsun Royals, continued their winning ways in sweeping the three games against the North Shore A's. Final score 6-1.

Strong pitching by Ed Rothchild kept the A's scoreless for six innings. Steve Steinmark in relief with bases loaded and no outs, no runs, no hits, no errors. Good game. Great job Steve. Offense supplied by Billy Cornelius' two run homer and John Dellaratta, single, double and 3 RBI's.

Royals do it again. Double-header victory against Coplague: 5-0, 12-4. Game one was all Steve Steinmark. From start to finish Steve was nearly untouchable. Twelve K's, 2 walks, 1 hit.

Game two, the Royals game out hitting and forgot to stop. Eighteen hits in the nightcap.

George Eng, John Senise and Richie Nataro all picked up 3 hits a piece in the game. Nick Petrilli and Steve Steinmark 2 hits a piece. Bill Cornelius continued to swing hot bat, going 2 for 2 on the day.

Good pitching by Jim Malone, as he picks up a second victory. Defense once again played excellent.

Next game Saturday, June 29, 10 a.m. at Hicksville High School. Doubleheaders vs. St. Mary's.

Hope to see you there.

Girls Majors

Peter's Cleaners 17

Northern 5&10 9

Great effort by the entire team from Peter's Cleaners with excellent support from the best rooters, their parents. Timely hitting by Kelli Connolly, 3 for 4, Kristina Kawawada 3 for 5, Lisa Poliseno 1 for 2 and Lauren Fecce with a single while bases were loaded. Our other stars were Irene Kane, Jennifer Mullens and Debbie Gardner all were on base 4 times. Great fielding by Michele Iorio at second and Dale Ann Lindsley at catcher. Jennifer Alexander was the winning pitcher.

Peter's Cleaners 11

Big Red Q-Quick Print 7

The game began sleepy at 9 a.m. and ended ten innings later at 12:35 p.m. Both teams played valiantly; in the end Peter's Cleaners outlasted Big Red Q-Quick Print 11 to 7. There were too many headliners to mention all their names, but will suffice to say: Dale Ann Lindsley was the winning pitcher and Kristina Kanawanda, with an unassisted double play, made the defensive gem of the season.

Boys Seniors

Anton's Caterers 3

Wicks Restaurant 2

Keith Walsh pitched an outstanding game, giving up only two hits. He did allow 3 runs to score in what turned out to be a close 3-2 loss. Keith Walsh and Mike Cuilla drove in a run each with infield outs.

Cleanup Drive Gains Momentum

New York Community Action Network members William Steinmetz of Bethpage and Joan Vecchione of North Massapequa are joined by NJ Clean Water Action leaders Elsa Bynoe-Andriolo and Barbara Vociarelli at June 18 news conference in Mineola.

Environmental leaders from the local area were joined by New Jersey toxic cleanup activists in urging Representative Norman F. Lent to support a 1985 Superfund cleanup bill "which is just as strong as the bill Mr. Lent 'championed' in 1984."

Toxic clean up leaders from the Bethpage and South Farmingdale-North Massapequa area representing the New York Community Action Network (New York CAN), held a news conference on Tuesday, June 18, in Pausing for a photo after an award presentation by the Hicksville Chamber of Commerce, at last week's luncheon meeting, are community business people who "have made notable improvements in the appearance of their property". Left to right are: Sieg Widder, Executive Director of the Chamber; Scott Reinhardt, the Manager of Reinhardt's Restaurant of 120 Woodbury Road whose building was singled out for its handsome paneling and face lifting; Marilva Reinhardt wife of the proprietor; Effie Krogmann, President of the Chamber of Commerce who made the presentations; Sister Beata Maria Berger, Director of Human Services for St. Ignatius Loyola Roman Catholic parish, Hicksville, who is being re-assigned to a new post after successfully meeting many social needs for the last decade, hereabouts, and was Mrs. Krogmann's guest at lunch, and James Michalakis, property developer who converted the old store and loft building at 107 Broadway into a handsome office and shopping site.

Mineola. The news conference was held to deliver a public message to Rep. Lent, who is the ranking Republican on the house subcommittee handling Superfund legislation. Also attending were neighborhood cleanup activists from New Jersey Clean Water Action.

"We are urging Congressman Lent to vote for a Superfund bill that is just as strong as the one he supported last year," said New York CAN member, Joan Vecchione of North Massapequa, who also represents the South Farmingdale based Citizens for Pure Water. "There are 15 National Priority List toxic sites on Long Island and 6 of these sites are in Rep. Lent's district."

The organizations are pushing for a Superfund bill, which they state is "virtually identical" to Rep. Lent's 1984 bill. The neighborhood cleanup leaders want a Superfund with $10.1 billion funding over five years with mandatory investigation and cleanup schedules, mandatory cleanup standards, community right-to-know provisions and citizen suit provisions.

"We need a strong bill that will cleanup these sites," said New York CAN member, William Steinmetz of Bethpage. "The cleanup record during the first five years of Superfund has been pitiful. Only six sites have been cleaned up nation-wide and not one to date has been on Long Island."

Although Mr. Lent and the subcommittee are currently rapping up action on the bill, both he and Congress will have a chance to strengthen the bill before it leaves the subcommittee and goes to the floor of the House of Representatives.

Other local groups participating in the National Campaign Against Toxic Hazards include the Sierra Club, the League of Women Voters, the Women's Club of Bethpage and the United Teachers of Island Trees.

Field Day At Fork Lane

Fork Lane School recently held Field Day, looked upon by many youngsters as the highlight of the gymnastic school year.

This season's events were, depending upon grade level, the Dash, Spoon and Egg Race, Mystery Ball Race, Cone Jump, Baton Relay Race and Tug-Of-War.

During lunch period, Fork Lane PTA mothers and fathers prepared and served a sumptuous feast of franks, iced tea and fruit juice, watermelon, ices.

The event, which was marked by wild enthusiasm and school spirit from children and parents alike, was the result of successful teamwork by gym teachers Carol Weber and Maureen Kuperberg who, as always, turn each Fork Lane event into a wonderful adventure.

Winners in the first grade, Mrs. Schreck and her "Super Stars" pause during Field Day, happy, proud, and excited about the number one award awaiting them.

Third graders prepare for baton relay race.

Clock made for jewelry store

By James G. McCollam
Member, Antique
Appraisers Association of America

Q. The dial of this clock is marked "Tiffany & Co., New York." I know it is at least 100 years old and everyone says it is extremely valuable. What is your opinion?

A. This was made (probably in Switzerland) for the New York jewelry store Tiffany & Co. Your clock would probably sell for about $700 to $800. Louis Comfort Tiffany, whose lamps are so valuable today, also made clocks. If your clock were made by Louis Comfort Tiffany, it would bring at least 10 times as much.

Q. Since seeing some old-fashioned straight razors at an antique show, I have become interested in collecting them. Could you comment on this field and provide some typical prices?

A. It is an interesting field and has little need for special knowledge. The key to firm values lies in identity; the razors to collect are those with the maker's name on them. Old razors with no names sell for from $5 to $10. Here are some goodies marked with maker's name and city: James Barlow, Sheffield, England, 1850s - $15; Jonathan Crooks, Sheffield, England, 1850s - $20; Fred Dolie, Chicago, 1880s - $30; Henry Harrington, Southbridge, Mass., 1830s - $100.

Q. What can you tell me about this vase? It is about 7 inches tall, and is glossy blue and green with a fleur-de-lis design. The attached mark is on the bottom, plus the initials "M.W.B."

When was it made, by whom and how much is it worth?

A. This mark was used by the Newcomb Pottery around the turn of the century. The pottery was founded at Newcomb College in New Orleans in 1886 and continued in operation through the 1940s. The vases were made by professionals and decorated by the female students of Newcomb College. Your vase was made about 1900-1905 and probably is worth from $225 to $275. The initials are those of Mary W. Butler, the student who decorated it.

Dutch Lane Girl Gets Pres. Award

On Thursday, June 20, diplomas were conferred on sixth graders who completed their studies at Dutch Lane School. Susan Capone of Hicksville received her diploma as well as the Presidential Award for Physical Fitness. A pin and certificate bearing congratulations and the signatures of President Ronald Reagan and Secretary of Education William Bennett were awarded to some ten youngsters in the class of approximately 50 graduates.

The daughter of George and Patricia Capone, Susan will enter the seventh grade in Hicksville Junior High School in September.

The Senior Ball: No Need

INPUT Your Voice

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

What do you think of the handling of the hostage situation by the Reagan administration?

Call 931-0027 24 Hrs. a Day
Ground Rules
You are not limited to the above

but may talk on any subject of interest to readers.

•One subject to a caller per week•

Simply dial 931-0027 24 Hours a Day and follow these simple rules:

1. Wait for the beep.
2. Confine your INPUT to one subject.
3. Limit your opinion to five minutes (make notes before calling).
4. Leave your name and telephone, or simply use a pen name.
(your message can be anonymous)
5. Publishers reserve the right to edit, modify or omit any and all material.

Most Callers Think Travel Should Be Restricted To 'Safe' Airports

Most callers to Input believe that the U.S. should restrict travel to foreign airports without proper security guards in answer to this question: "Do you think that the U.S. should restrict travel by citizens to known danger areas of the world until strong security safeguards are taken?"

RESTRICT COUNTRIES

Not only should we restrict travel to airports where there is not proper security but we should restrict travel to countries that are generally not favorable to Americans. We constantly are on the short end of the stick when it comes to things like hostages and being blamed for the ills of the world. Countries that cannot give good protection to tourists should be boycotted as well as airports that do not exercise proper security.

MAKE LISTS

No we should not dictate to American citizens where they should or should not travel except under very extreme conditions. We should, though, list advisories and spot check airports so that tourists will know what to expect in certain areas and decide what risks they want to take.

J.R.

NOT WORTH IT

We should definitely not allow our planes to fly into Athens unless something is done and we should not let our citizens go there because in the long run our government will have to deal with a hostage situation which could bring us close to war somewhere in the world. The travel to those countries is just not worth it.

K.E.

ECONOMICS

This question looks like a rewrite of the Iranian hostage problem. We should have been more on guard with airports where our planes fly and should have suspended flights. The economics of the problem will help in getting proper cooperation. Many of these airports need travelers from the U.S. and without them they would not be able to operate in the black.

G.W.

ADVISE TOURISTS

We cannot tell all of our citizens what to do. If American airlines do not fly into many of these airports, foreign lines will and unfortunately American tourists will be on them. We should advise all tourists of the problems and let them decide in advance whether the trip is really necessary.

MORE SECURITY

There is no reason that airports cannot get more security and there is no reason that crews cannot be locked away from passengers so that hijackers would be unable to get to the pilot to force a change in flight plans. The problem in Athens was just complete laxness and cannot be tolerated in the future.

DROP IN TRAVEL

The government plus the cooperation of travelers will force airports to have more security. If the number of tourists drops the airports will of their own free will decide to make security an important item.

P.B.

CERTAIN RISK

The answer seems to be plainly visible in the example which has just been acted out. The day after President Reagan warned of the dangers of using the Athens airport, two reactions were immediately publicized. Pan Am temporarily suspended their scheduled flights to Greece probably with the intention of considering steps to be taken to avoid high-jacking incidents in the future. On the other hand, a number of travellers publicly announced that they felt no danger in flying to Athens and planned to continue with their plans. Frankly, I cannot fault their decision as I am sure that the Greek Government will take immediate steps to minimize the danger. During a period of time when I travelled extensively from country to country and looking back at that experience in the light of the current high-jacking episode, I can't say that international airports were 100% safe at any time. I believe that intelligent Americans have got to take a certain amount of risk in making their travel plans and use common sense in including countries in their itineraries which are political danger spots. Our Government cannot legislate strong security safeguards abroad but it can publish a list of high risk areas and leave the decisions and their consequences up to the traveller. On the other hand, our Government in its own wisdom should control the travel of people who are sent abroad on government business, take necessary precautions and accept responsibility for any ensuing problems.

P.G.S.

RESTRICT

I think US citizens should restrict overseas travel because it will lower the chances of planes being hi-jacked and terrorism on airplanes.

OTHER ISSUES

DOGS

I'm calling as a concerned citizen about inconsiderate people who own dogs and let them out in the yard, tie them up and leave for a day and have them barking. Case in point: I've just been listening to a dog bark for over an hour and a half. The people are away for the day, the dog was let out early in the morning, barks during the day and then again at night. It seems as if we never get any peace and quiet. I'm getting a little fed up. It's about time people have some consideration for those of us who don't own dogs.

DISCOVERY

The Senior Ball: No Need For The June Nightmare

By Jerome J. Niosi, Ph.D.

The month of proms is upon us. Parents of emerging adults shudder over potential headlines: "Tipsy Teenagers Killed in Car Crash After Prom". "Enthusiastic seniors bubble over some new 'blast' to top last year's 'blast'. Administrators, weary from facing a barrage of requests in the circus approach to the important formal, will be glad when it is over. One had said 'no' to the renting of a boat to circle Manhattan Island. Another vetoed the suggestion that the class hire a railroad train to permit dancing to the clinking of railroad wheels for several hours. Yet, many have agreed to transfer the formal from school to night club.

Are high school proms 'out of hand'? Should they be abolished as 'frills' serving no educational purpose? Certainly the average prom has become enormously expensive. Many boys have prided themselves on spending between $200-$500 for the evening of evenings. Girls do as 'well' with gowns, coiffures and other incidentals. But what value can be placed on young lives rippling through broken windshields; or the hazard to chastity as the young celebrate the one 'night to be remembered'?

Of course, proms should not be abolished, nor consolidated with other dances, or downgraded to a mere party. The formal Senior Ball serves to complete the social preparation for the teenager. It encourages a certain dressed up, 'coming out' experience in boy-girl relationships. It is the fulfilling social climax to the high school years leading to graduation.

But the present 'bacchanalia' must be restored to its former purpose.

This is what usually happens: The Senior Ball is normally scheduled as part of the Graduation Week activities. The committee decides on a theme, hires an orchestra, decorates the gym and sells bids. Most of the seniors and their dates show up for an hour or so. The 'sophisticates' come in fashionably late - after cocktails - around 10 p.m. and leave by 10:30 p.m. for the night spots with their floor shows, drinking, smoking and high living - a real 'ball'.

Not willing to give any indication that they have no real place to go, other seniors follow. But they go home dissatisfied. By 11:30 p.m., the band leader is aghast, the ones dancing are the Dean of Students, his wife and a few chaperones. All that effort for less than two hours. The Senior Ball has become a short step to the gay world of adults where expert waiters quickly separate the young 'sport' from his long saved prom money, where couples bump each other dancing on a dime in a smoke-filled, dimly lighted night club against the wailing background of singer mourning undying love for the man who found another.

After the club, the thrill-seekers proceed to the beach to 'watch the sun rise', and, of course, discuss the 'international situation' until five in the morning after which they return home for breakfast. Many return to the beach. That afternoon, they attend graduation.

This Roman bacchanalia is rationalized by the declaration that 'there is only one Senior Ball'. But there is only one Junior Prom, only one Sophomore Hop, only one Freshman Party. There are many instances of only one of a kind activity. This cannot serve as the excuse for a carnival, or for dragging parents out of bed to prepare breakfast, or others to remove distributors from power boats anchored in the marina to prevent exuberant seniors from continuing the carnival on the water.

The site for the Senior Ball must be returned to the school, but the formal should be organized the way seniors want it, the way parents like, and the way administrators can do it.

What do the Seniors want? - A ballroom that does not look like a gym. They want a really good band to dance to, not pickup amateurs who moonlight and they want professional entertainment followed by a fine dinner. Finally, they want to be reasonably free from parental supervision. In short bring the night club into the school and one hundred percent of the anxieties connected with the annual formal will disappear. The seniors will enjoy the experience and the only catastrophe will be the gloomy faces of night club operators surveying their empty bars on June weekends.

Returning the prom to school will also drastically reduce costs. Today, the Senior Ball costs between $50-$100 per couple. The associated expenses increase this amount to approximately $300. In school proms can be expected to cost about $20 per couple. This is an overriding factor to a student of limited means who will be going to college in the fall.

After almost 50 years of association with high school teenagers, I remember fondly, the astonishing creativity of those students who transformed a four station gym into "An Evening in Paris", "New York at Night", "Southern Plantation" and "Arabian Nights". For "New York at Night" the guests approached the "city" by walking across the "Brooklyn Bridge" festooned with twinkle lights. The "Water" below was slightly choppy. Planes were coming for a landing. Barges were puffing their cargoes up the Bay. A wharf abutted the river and polite hostesses escorted the couples to their "Street" location. Our table was located at Times Square and Forty-Second Street. A caution sign, "Men at Work" marked the center of the "Square". "Bobbies" - Junior girls - kept order.

The seniors and their dates gasped with delight as they entered the "city" and took in the sights.

Seniors like to eat and the Senior Ball should have something special. Professionally prepared hors d'oeuvres were immediately served by "cocktail waitresses" - Junior girls, thematically attired. This was followed by professional entertainment, after which, promptly at midnight, the guests were served prime ribs au jus. Dancing continued between courses.

The schedule is vital. The Ball starts at 9 p.m. Dancing continues until the entertainment begins at about 11 p.m. At midnight, the leisurely dinner complete to the standards of the best night clubs, proceeds. The evening formally ends at 2 p.m. At times the Seniors have asked that the band be held over another hour. The Ball ends at 3 A.M. At this hour it is not possible to make reservations for additional nightclubs, which is exactly what the policy was designed to accomplish. Thus, by that early hour, the students were "danced, dined and entertained". Anything further could be presumed superfluous, questionable or illegal.

Most seniors returned home. The next day - Saturday - many seniors continued the festivities at beach parties, picnics, and breakfasts; others simply prepared themselves for graduation.

The successful school prom does not just happen. Nor must the principal become a "Maitre d'" as one indignantly remonstrated. Most important is the enthusiastic Grade Advisor. It is he (or she) who, beginning in the lower grades, insures the collection of class dues to provide a solid financial basis not only for the heavier expenses of the upper grades, but also for the social affairs of each succeeding grade. By June of the senior year, a full treasury, imaginative class officers and committees make the senior ball in school a delightful reality.

Keeping seniors at the dance requires a degree of firmness. Inevitably, a senior will approach the Advisor for "permission" to leave the dance early. She has a boy friend who does not attend that school and they, therefore, would like to spend only a part of the evening at the school dance. Such a couple must be told that "permission" cannot be given; if they desire to go nightclubbing, they need not be present at the Senior Ball at all, but once there, they must remain for the entire evening. Few couples ever walk out.

A major advantage of the school "night Club" approach is the greatly increased attendance. The senior ball is for all seniors, not the affluent few. Keeping the costs down encourages seniors to go with a friendly classmate. Heavier expenses for a night club date are usually undertaken by the "steady couple". In fact, one school was successful in increasing attendance by inviting cadets from the local academies to escort its senior girls. At a special tea, the cadets were introduced to their prospective dates and the subsequent senior prom turned out to be a delightful highlight for many years.

Unfortunately, today, many administrators take the easy way out. Emphasizing less work for school personnel, they permit the transfer of the Senior Ball from the school to the commercial, impersonal establishments with less than desirable consequences.

Let us have proms become once again, a time when all seniors can meet for the last time as a class, a time for the thrilling memory with their classmates, not a nightmare of extortion in a smoke filled clip joint, sampling unusual concoctions to gain adult status in one fast evening, driving unsteadily to become the statistic that can blight the teenage years. The high school period must be the culmination of adolescence after which the well-poised senior can look forward to an even more exciting life as a responsible adult.

DIFFERENT ATMOSPHERE

One of the nicest restaurants that advertises in your section is the Wine Gallery.

We went there last week and found that it is a great place for a meal with a little different atmosphere. The food, for one thing, is very good and they have a complete menu even when you come in late as we did. We had a full menu to choose from and found that they had steak and fish on the menu that was very favorably thought of by our party of four. The price was moderate. We also noticed that you can sit in the sidewalk cafe and enjoy the scenery. We recommend the Wine Gallery. It is in East Meadow at 2171 Hempstead Turnpike. K.L.

READER RATINGS

Q. Is it proper to tip soup or dessert dishes? And when is soup eaten with a spoon? I sometimes see people drinking bouillon, etc., directly from a cup. Is this correct?

C.T.

A. The tipping of soup or dessert dishes is acceptable if the plate is tipped away from the spoon, not toward the eater. Soup or bouillon served in a handled cup or (Oriental fashion) small, cup-sized bowl may be drunk. If there are vegetables or other garnish floating on top, these may be in the bottom of the cup and are spooned up after the liquid has been drunk.

Q. If bouillon is served in a cup do you drink it? Should you take part of it with the spoon? What if the cup has two handles. Do you use both hands?

B.K.

A. Spoon up part of the bouillon before taking it up to drink. If the cup has one handle, hold it in one hand. If it has two handles, hold it by both handles. If the bouillon has solids in it, take them up with the spoon before drinking the bouillon.

Q. Why aren't bus boys in hotels and restaurants tipped?

G.H.

A. Because the waiter for whom he clears the tables shares his tips with him. In resort hotels, however, student bus boys are tipped.

Q. What are the rules adults should remember about napkins?

C.H.

A. The large dinner napkins need to be only half-unfolded; the smaller luncheon napkin must be spread out completely on the lap.

Never return the napkin to the table until you leave it. Even if everyone has long finished eating and people are lingering over coffee at the table, keep your napkin on your lap.

FRESH FISH

The Executive restaurant in Mineola has long been a favorite of mine. Some time ago the restaurant changed ownership and I was afraid that it would never be the same. It is not really the same now but I like it better. Presently they have added fresh fish to the menu and it is cooked in some of the tastiest dishes I have ever eaten. We went there last Thursday for dinner (I have eaten lunch there many times) and were pleasantly surprised with the fine selection of fresh sole. We certainly recommend this restaurant. It is on Mineola Blvd., Mineola. S.D.

MID WEEK SPECIAL

Last week we took advantage of the midweek special at An Old Fashioned Fellow restaurant on Jericho Turnpike in Jericho. The midweek special, as advertised, was only $9.95 and included a full 16 oz. steak dinner. My wife had the seafood di zuppa and thought it was exceptionally well prepared with the freshest seafood. The complete meal is served Tuesday and Wednesday. This is a lively restaurant located on Jericho Turnpike and easy to get to from the road. We recommend this highly. J.W.

EXTRAORDINARY

We had dinner at the San Remo Restaurant on Old Country Road in Westbury the other day and found it to be extraordinary. All our dinners were excellent. It is not necessary to go into New York City to enjoy haute cuisine. The prices are quite modest for what the restaurant has to offer.

PLEASURE TO EAT

We have been going to the Scales of Justice Restaurant for lunch for a long time. It is convenient to my work in Mineola at the county building.

But last week my wife and I picked a Friday to try the Scales for dinner. We were so delighted with the lobster tails for just $10.95 that we decided we would just have to phone in about this fine place. It is well decorated, clean looking, and just a pleasure to eat. We rate it Grade A. G.R.

The Last Word In Restaurant Guides

Where Our Readers
Have The Last Word

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides - a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great, and near great, food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings".

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

DIFFERENT RESTAURANT

The name is different and so is the whole restaurant. I am talking about the Red Caboose. A real live old time freight caboose is hooked up to the back of the Red Caboose restaurant on Old Country Road, Westbury.

When you enter the tastefully decorated main area you will like the intimacy of the restaurant.

In addition the menu is Northern Italian with many fine veal and shrimp dishes. When you order a dinner entree you are given free access to the salad bar which has a good selection of items for salad and before dinner snacking.

The bittersweet story of honey

By Charlyn Fargo

Honey is often touted as a beneficial food because of its quick absorption, protein and lack of preservatives and additives.

But amid the back-to-nature hype about honey's virtues lies a forgotten principle: It is simply a sweetener, not a health food.

"There's nothing more hypocritical than granola bars with honey and chocolate chips dipped in chocolate," says Sandra Eardley, a registered dietitian.

Perhaps honey's greatest contribution is in the unique flavor it contributes to foods in which it's an ingredient. However, it is simply another carbohydrate food, mostly sugar, that serves as a source of energy rather than as a nutrient.

The point is, honey really isn't any more nutritious than sugar. Because the amounts of worthwhile nutrients in honey are so small, to consume enough to be significant would mean eating more than is good for you.

But natural foods teacher Nancy Wisleder argues that if you're going to eat something sweet, honey is better.

"Honey at least has some nutrient value, even though it's small. Sugar absolutely has no vitamins or minerals."

She contends, however, that consumers need to eat less of all kinds of sugar in general.

Consumption of honey has increased from 16.9 million gallons in 1968 to over 25 million gallons in 1982. Florida and North Dakota lead in honey production.

Honey is marketed in several forms, including liquid, comb, cut comb, solid and hunk. Liquid honey, the most popular form, is produced by forcing the honey from the comb and straining it free of crystals. Centrifugal force is used to extract the liquid honey from the comb. Then it is strained to remove all solid sediment and is pasteurized.

The origin of the honey usually determines its price. Honey specified as clover honey commands a hefty price compared to a generic jar (which could even contain corn syrup unless it is specifically marked "pure honey").

Most important, says Wisleder, is to have an idea of how it's been processed. The more processing, the less nutritive value left in the honey.

Honey needs no refrigeration, but should be stored in a tightly covered container in a dark, cool place. Should it crystallize, it can be reliquified by placing the container in warm water or a 200 F oven.

A few changes must be made to substitute honey for granular sugar in recipes. Better Homes and Gardens Encyclopedia of Cooking recommends substituting an equal measure of honey for granulated sugar, then reducing the amount of liquid in the recipe by $\frac{1}{4}$ cup for each cup of honey used; adding $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon of baking soda for each cup of honey used in baked products, and lowering the oven temperature 25 degrees when baking.

A few recipes follow:

HONEY-GLAZED CARROTS

10-12 small carrots
3 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 tbsp. brown sugar
2 tbsps. honey

Cook carrots in small amount of boiling, salted water for 10 minutes or until tender, and drain water.

In skillet, melt butter or margarine. Add brown sugar and honey. Simmer 2 minutes. Add carrots and cook, turning until well glazed.

HONEY SPICE CAKE

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup shortening

1 cup brown sugar
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup honey
2 beaten eggs
2 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups sifted flour
1 $\frac{1}{2}$ tbsps. baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. baking soda
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. cinnamon
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. cloves
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. nutmeg
1 cup sour milk or butter-milk

In mixer bowl, cream shortening, sugar, honey and eggs for 5 minutes on slow speed. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with sour milk to creamed mixture. Pour into two 9-inch layer pans lined with waxed paper. Bake at 350 F for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool 15 to 20 minutes before removing from pans. Frost with icing.

ICING

1 cup heavy cream
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup honey
Dash salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. vanilla
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup powdered sugar

Whip cream and add honey, salt and vanilla. Mix gently. Add powdered sugar and blend. Spread over cake.

HONEY-GLAZED MUFFINS

2 large egg yolks
1 cup milk
1 cup all-purpose, sifted flour
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. freshly grated nutmeg
2 large egg whites
Pinch cream of tartar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup honey

In bowl, beat egg yolks until they are light, then beat in milk. Beat in flour, salt and nutmeg until mixture is smooth.

In another bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar and pinch of salt until they hold stiff peaks. Fold into flour mixture.

Spoon 1 teaspoon of honey into each of 12 well-buttered $\frac{1}{4}$ -cup muffin tins, filling tins half full with batter. Bake in 400 F oven for 25 to 30 minutes. Remove muffins immediately from tins and spoon 1 teaspoon of remaining honey over each muffin. Makes 12 muffins.

Charcoal cooking won't foil your meal

By Olivia and Paul Bensen

Not long ago a friend visiting from New York introduced us to a new way to prepare shrimp over a charcoal fire. He simply mixed the unpeeled shrimp with some lemon juice, oil, ginger, garlic and seasonings, wrapped the mixture in a double layer of aluminum foil, folded it into a sort of pouch and cooked the mixture over a charcoal fire for several minutes. The result was a delicate, light entree with the qualities of both steamed and charcoaled shrimp — a delightful combination.

We decided to apply our friend's method to scallops, beans and potatoes, as well as to shrimp, to produce an easy and varied menu that combines the tastes of several cuisines. The whole dinner can be prepared and cooked in an hour or less and, since all four courses are cooked over a single charcoal fire, each wrapped in its own foil envelope, there are no pots and pans to wash, and no messy stove to clean.

For the potatoes, we decided on a Greek treatment, with olive oil, Greek seasoning, vinegar, scallops and Greek onions. The beans are decidedly Italian, with oil-cured tomatoes (available at specialty food stores), tomato puree, oregano, olive oil and onion.

The shrimp, as mentioned above, are Chinese style, with sesame oil (available at oriental specialty stores), ginger, garlic and lemon juice. The scallops have no particular national allegiance, and are simply a delicate mixture of butter, lime juice, parsley, wine and, of course, scallops. We used small bay scallops, but either sea or bay scallops would be fine.

The vegetable dishes cooked for about 30 minutes over a fairly hot charcoal fire, while the shrimp and scallops took only 8 to 10 minutes, so plan to place the vegetables on the grill well in advance of the seafood.

This technique produced such satisfying results that we'll be experimenting soon with some other foil-wrapped recipes for cooking over charcoal.

CHINESE-STYLE SHRIMP IN FOIL

- 8 ozs. shrimp, rinsed but not shelled
- 2 tbsps. fresh ginger, minced
- 1 tsp. fresh garlic, minced
- Juice of $\frac{1}{2}$ lemon
- 1 tbsp. peanut or vegetable oil
- $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. Chinese sesame oil

In medium bowl, mix together all ingredients. Place shrimp mixture on double thickness of aluminum foil. Seal sides and ends of foil together, leaving small opening at top for steam to escape.

Cook over charcoal fire 8 to 10 minutes, depending on how hot fire is.

ITALIAN BEANS IN FOIL

- 1 tbsp. olive oil
- 1 small onion, finely chopped
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup tomato puree
- 2 tbsps. chopped oil-cured tomatoes
- $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. oregano
- $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. freshly ground black pepper
- 8 ozs. string beans, trimmed

In small bowl, combine all ingredients except beans. Lay beans, all facing the same direction, on double sheet of aluminum foil. Spoon tomato mixture over them. Seal sides and ends of foil together, leaving small opening at top for steam to escape.

Cook over charcoal fire 30 to 40 minutes, depending on how hot fire is.

GREEK POTATOES IN FOIL

- 8-10 small to medium red potatoes, halved and cut into $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch slices
- 6 scallions, cut in $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch slices (greens included)
- 2 tbsps. Greek seasoning
- 4 tbsps. olive oil
- 1 tsp. salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. black pepper
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup vinegar
- 8 Greek olives
- 2 tbsps. butter, cut into bits

In large bowl, toss potato slices with scallions, Greek seasoning, oil, salt, pepper and vinegar. Place potato mixture on double layer of foil, add olives and butter, and pinch top and sides of foil together, leaving small opening at top for steam to escape.

Cook over charcoal fire 30 to 40 minutes depending on how hot fire is, opening foil and tossing ingredients couple of times during cooking.

Summer snacks for kids can be nutritious

By Diane Savage

For many a mother, summertime means a houseful of vacationing kids with endless appetites who regularly pop into the kitchen to ask that time-honored question, "Is there anything to eat?"

If you're home with the kids, you can safely monitor what they're munching. But if you're a working mom and shudder to think what your darlings are ingesting all day, here are a few tips you may find useful.

Prepare a variety of healthful snacks to leave around the kitchen for kids to find on their summer food hunts. Children love small, individually wrapped packages: boxes of raisins, packets of granola or trail mix, or individual servings of yogurt are good choices.

Slice cheese and wrap small amounts for quick nibbling.

To make vegetables more interesting, slice into bite-size chunks, or prepare carrot curls or peanut butter-stuffed celery to leave in Baggies in a visible part of the fridge.

Prepare a platter of crudites with a tasty dip and store in the fridge. Adults love them — why not kids?

Leave a bowl of washed fresh fruit on the counter. Dried fruits such as raisins and dates are a good source of iron, and fun to eat. And small servings of nuts make a great energy snack. While rather high in calories, those calories are anything but empty — which is a lot more than can be said for many commercial snacks.

Keep stocked up on a variety of chilled fruit juices. They're full of vitamins and minerals, and a welcome alternative to sugary soda drinks.

Today's recipes are just a few ideas for snacks that are both nutritious and popular with children. It's never too early to instill good snacking habits — and if you make healthful snacks available, kids aren't as likely to go looking for junk food.

Place in 200 F oven and leave there 6 to 9 hours (or overnight) until they have dried. Store in airtight container.

Microwave Magic

By Desiree Vive...

New products make microwaving even easier

If you're in the market for microwave cookware, check out the new "Visions" line by Corning. While it can be used for conventional range or oven cooking, it boasts some real microwave advantages.

"Visions" cookware is made of a transparent glass-ceramic material that Corning claims will withstand any temperature extremes found in the kitchen. Because it will not break, even with sudden extreme temperature changes, "Visions" can go directly from freezer to microwave.

Since the cookware is transparent, you can watch foods as they microwave — and maybe prevent a boil-over or two. This feature is especially useful when microwaving delicate sauces that you don't want to overcook. And, unlike some glass containers, this cookware's ultra-hard surface will withstand the use of any metal utensils.

The "Visions" line includes a lipped saucepan, various sizes of covered saucepans, a steamer/stew pot and a double boiler.

For information on "Visions" cookware, write to: Corning Glass Works, P.O. Box 1367, Corning, NY 14830.

Another product of interest to the microwave set is Proctor & Gamble's Bounty Microwave paper towels. Regular paper towels may be processed from recycled paper, and may contain metal particles. Bounty, the first paper towel specifically designed for microwave use, contains no dyes, colors or tints, and costs about the same as the regular product.

CURRIED FRUITED CHICKEN FOR TWO

2 chicken breasts
Dash salt
Dash pepper
Dash garlic powder
3 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1 medium-size ripe pear, or two canned pear halves
 $\frac{1}{2}$ medium green pepper, cut into strips
3 tbsps. chopped onion

Chopped green onion, for garnish

Skin and bone chicken breasts. Sprinkle lightly with salt, pepper and garlic powder, and place in two individual glass baking dishes.

In small glass dish heat 1 tablespoon butter for 30 seconds, until melted. Stir in lemon juice and brush over chicken.

Cover loosely with plastic wrap and microwave for 3 minutes, rotating dishes one-quarter turn after 1½ minutes.

If using fresh pear, wash and remove core. Cut into eight wedges. Add pear and green pepper to chicken.

Heat remaining butter for 1 minute, or until melted. Add onion and curry powder; microwave 2 minutes longer. Add to sour cream, stirring to blend.

Pour over chicken and microwave 40 seconds longer. Sprinkle with paprika and garnish with chopped green onion. Serve immediately.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. Our 20-year-old home has the original cedar shingles, which have never been painted. They look aged and are now dark, even black.

Is there any way we can get them looking somewhat "less aged" and lighter in color? — L.C.

A. You should be able to restore the natural cedar color with a little scrubbing. Cedar can be brightened even if it has been severely weather-darkened.

For a clean, fresh appearance, scrub the wood with a solution of one cup of trisodium phosphate per gallon of warm water. Use a stiff bristle brush. Rinse with clear water. Repeat if discoloration persists.

To lighten the shingles further, after they have been thoroughly cleaned, mix four ounces of oxalic acid crystals to each gallon of trisodium phosphate solution prepared for this second process. Use a non-metallic container. Apply the solution to an entire board or area at a time, using a cloth or soft brush. When the wood dries, rinse with clear water. Again, more than one application may be necessary if discoloration is severe.

Oxalic acid and trisodium phosphate may be obtained from retail druggists, or, more economically, from chemical distributors.

Take precautions when using the acid mixture by wearing rubber gloves and old clothing. Be careful not to let the acid or solution touch your eyes or skin. Try not to spill on plants.

When you have completed the cleaning and lightening process, you might want to apply a water-repellent preservative to protect the finish. Most paint stores and building supply stores will have this available in a choice of several brands. The preservative penetrates and continues for some time to spread into the wood. It will make the wood water repellent as well as more resistant to mildew and decay.

Q. I have three problems I would like solved.

First, how do you get stains and dirt off plastic jackets?

How can you get water stains from sprinklers off windows?

And how can you get water marks off wood furniture? — D.S.

A. I assume you are talking about a vinyl or similar material used to make clothing. If this is the case I cannot recommend a do-it-yourself method. You should contact a reliable dry-cleaning firm specializing in vinyl and leather garments.

For the water stains on the windows, I would recommend a solution of one part muriatic acid to nine parts water. This is a very strong solution and great care should be taken if you are going to use it. Pour the acid into the water rather than the reverse. Be sure you wear old clothing and rubber gloves and goggles to protect your eyes. You will have to be careful not to damage the window frames, as this acid solution is very corrosive. You can protect the frames by applying a heavy coat of soap or grease. Use a sponge and squeegee to apply the solution and control the drips. Rinse thoroughly with lots of clear water.

If the water spots on the wood furniture have not penetrated the finish too deeply, an application of sewing machine oil and cigarette ashes can do the job. Apply the oil, cover with ashes and rub over the stained areas.

Q. The library in our 50-year-old house is paneled with beautiful knotty pine. Recently the filler used to cover the many original nail holes has turned a muddy color, much lighter than the pine. This mars the beauty of the pine.

To try to touch up each nail hole's putty or wood filler would be a long job. If it must be done, however, we will do it. But there may be a better way of which you know. — A.C.L.

A. I do not know of any better way to tackle this problem other than dealing with each nail hole individually, not unless you want to refinish the entire wall. Even then the putty in the nail holes will not finish the same as the wood.

There is a crayon used by carpenters which comes in a variety of colors and is used to cover small scratches. You can try applying this on the putty spots to see if you can achieve a decent match.

You could also use a wood stain applied with a small brush to each spot. However, first you would have to be sure that any polish or wax was removed from the surface and that the walls were thoroughly clean before applying the stain.

In either case, try a small area first and experiment to make sure you have the best color match possible. After completing such a project, be sure to protect the finished job with a polish that preserves the natural color of the wood. Liquid Gold, available at most supermarkets, would probably be a good choice.

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

Plan healthwise for golden years

Dear John: When we were younger, it didn't seem so important to plan healthwise for our senior years. If we weren't feeling very well, we'd get ourselves in gear and we'd know we would feel better. But as we grow older, we have more things going wrong with us.

When we are sent home from the hospital, we wonder who's going to take care of us. Sometimes the wife or husband may not be able to. Home nurses, God bless them, do much for the shut-in.

Sometimes the infirm forget they can do for themselves, and take their mate for granted. They shouldn't be babied too much. Let them take on some responsibility. Don't run at every beck and call.

You would be surprised at the number of us who have been active all of our lives, but now have given up. Don't let this happen. Keep repeating: I can do it.

One can either get up and try, or lie there and wait for the end. I know, because this is happening in my family. My husband's a brilliant man, and now he feels tired, isn't fighting and is wasting away.

And where do you turn? The children have their lives and their families. Medicare helps indefinitely, but personal insurance lasts only for so long. Then the money comes out of your own pocket.

It's not easy for the sick or for those taking responsibility for them. Plan ahead, if you can, to have medical help available when you need it. Thank you for listening. — D.B.

Dear D.B.: Yes, it's a very hard thing to care for a sick person in your home. I know, because I took care of my wife of 53 years, who had cancer. I gave it my all and had a heart attack from the stress, but God gave me the strength to go on.

I know we need friends to come in and say hello. A card or telephone call can do wonders. Above all, don't give up. You can make it if you trust in and believe in yourself.

To the lady who wrote and asked why I don't print all these letters: I write a column like Ann Landers, Dear Abby and Heloise. I have tried several times to write the column as you suggest, but letters with requests keep coming in. Someone out there sure believes in the column, so I'll keep doing what I'm doing and be happy that I can help people through it.

I love you dear people out there, and receive some beautiful letters. Thank you for your suggestions.

Girls: Proper protection in the summer sun is not just for the face and body. According to beauty experts, hair also needs protection against sun, salt and pool water during the summer months.

How can you prevent the dull, dry and damaged look that comes with exposure to the sun? The first step is to understand how the sun and elements affect your hair.

Dr. Wilma Bergfeld, a dermatologist and head of dermatopathology at Cleveland Clinic Foundation, says all hair types are vulnerable to sun damage. When the sun penetrates the cortex of the hair shaft, it breaks its chemical bonds—leaving it in a weak and damageable condition.

The combination of the sun's damage and daily wear and tear ends up making hair dull and rough to the touch. Chemically treated hair becomes even more fragile from overexposure to sun. When combined with the double drying effect of saltwater, hair literally becomes dehydrated and brittle. Highlighted or colored hair can change color, and extended time in pool water can leave a permanent green residue on hair.

"Sunproofing" is the best solution to all of summer's hair problems. According to Bergfeld, just a few easy steps is all it takes to have gorgeous-looking hair all summer long.

During the middle of the day, when the sun's rays are strongest, expose as little hair as possible. Wear a straw hat; one with vents is best for cooling comfort. Another option is a simple summer style that provides protection—like pulling the hair into a ponytail and tucking the ends in. In addition, always remember to protect any exposed scalp, like the part, with sunscreen.

Since the active days of summer usually result in frequent shampooing, use a gentle product. A shampoo that protects or conditions also is helpful. And to keep hair in tiptop shape, always follow shampooing with an instant conditioner. This is particularly essential in the summer when you need to help seal in moisture.

Always rinse hair immediately after swimming, using fresh water or even club soda. This prevents overdrying and also removes the green tint. Shampooing acts as an additional safeguard. If a green cast remains, experts say it can be lifted out by applying a paste of ground aspirin and wa-

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Last week I went to a kindergarten graduation in New Jersey. What fun! The little "graduates" looked so cute in their caps and gowns and their young voices sounded sweet indeed as they sang songs for the audience.

The children looked serious as they received their "diplomas" from the principal. It was the Moms and Dads who were smiling! And what a sight the children were—all of them spotlessly clean and dignified in their behavior. It was hard to believe these same youngsters will probably be running around all summer, not caring much how they look and making lots of noise and commotion!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Bill Allen and Karen Hill.

Certification for hip dysplasia

Q. We recently purchased a St. Bernard puppy. The papers the kennel gave us state that the parents of our dog were OFA certified.

What does this mean? We assume that this adds to the quality of our puppy.

A. An OFA (Orthopedic Foundation for Animals) certification means that the parents of your St. Bernard puppy were radiographed (X-rayed) and found to be free of hip dysplasia. Hip dysplasia commonly affects the larger breeds of dogs — particularly those weighing more than 40 pounds at maturity.

With hip dysplasia the ball of the long bone, the femur, does not fit properly into the socket of the pelvis. The hip joint therefore is very unstable. This eventually results in changes to the cartilage and ligaments around the joints. Occasionally, pain and swelling may occur around the joint.

Veterinarians grade hip dysplasia from one to four. Grade four is the worst possible hip joint. With grade four the joint is almost nonexistent. The grade of the dysplasia usually is not correlated with the amount of pain or limp a dog experiences. In other words, some dogs with grade one dysplasia are in more pain and limp worse than some dogs with grade four hip dysplasia.

It generally is believed that hip dysplasia is an inherited characteristic, passed from parents to their offspring. If both the parents and all of the grandparents of a dog are hip dysplasia-free, the chances of developing hip dysplasia are greatly reduced.

The OFA does not certify dogs as hip dysplasia-free until they reach 18 months of age. If the condition is severe, some dogs begin to show signs as early as 4 to 5 months of age. However, some dogs have nearly perfect hips at 10 months of age and then still develop dysplasia at a later age.

Dogs with hip dysplasia usually are most affected around 9 to 11 months of age, the period of the most rapid growth. Controlling exercise, keeping the dog trim and medicating for pain often will get mildly affected dogs through this troublesome period.

Hip dysplasia may affect one or both hips. Most dogs with hip dys-

YOU HAVE A NUMBER OF FRAMED PICTURES TO HANG ON A BLANK WALL. YOU DON'T WANT TO POUND THE WALL FULL OF HOLES, HANGING AND REHANGING. HERE'S HOW: TRACE AROUND EACH FRAME ON CARDBOARD AND CUT OUT TRACINGS. HANG THEM WITH 2-SIDED TAPE UNTIL YOU HAVE A SATISFACTORY ARRANGEMENT. MARK THE POSITIONS WITH TAPE AND HANG THE ART.
