Two Arrested In Loan Fraud

Nassau County District Attorney Denis Dillon announced the arrests of Sundal Bestman and Evita Gray on four counts of Grand Larceny. Bestman, 35, and Gray, 32, of 180 East 18th Street, Brooklyn, are married and are accused of submitting fraudulent student loan applications to the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Company in Hicksville, claiming they were U.S. citizens, when in fact they are Liberian natives and thus ineligible for the student loans.

According to Dillon, "The couple entered the U.S. in 1974 on non-resident student visas. Both applied for extension of their student visas after one year and were turned down, however, both remained in this country. In September of 1980, both filed student loan applications with Manufacturers Hanover Trust. Bestman for a student loan for Baruch College, claiming he was a U.S. citizen. Gray also filed a loan application for New York City Technical College, also stating she was a U.S. citizen. Bestman and Gray received $1,230 and $1,973.40 respectively. Neither was entitled to any money since they were not citizens of the U.S."

The DA said Bestman and Gray continued to submit fraudulent student loan applications in 1981, 1982 and 1985. Bestman collected an additional $7000 and Gray $5,170. In all applications the two maintained that they were U.S. citizens.

Both will be arraigned in District Court. Each face up to seven years in prison if convicted of Grand Larceny Second Degree.

Board Approves New Contract With Principals, Supervisors

By Maureen Traxler

The Hicksville School Board, at its meeting held on July 24, unanimously ratified a three year contract with the district's principals, assistant principals, department chairpersons and supervisors. The contract which terminates in June 1988 includes a wage increment of 7 1/2% in the first year and 7% in both the second and third years.

The Board approved the appointment of Vicki Feurstein as Senior High School Guidance Chairperson, effective August 1, 1985. Three resignations and 15 appointments of educational and civil service personnel and one recall to service were also recommended to the Board and approved.

The agenda also included the approval of textbooks, continuation of certain contracts and awarding of bids on a wide range of items such as maintenance and sanitation, science supplies and equipment, classroom furniture, transportation, music equipment and learning materials.

Trustee Jay Schwartz requested permission from Board President Bennett to draft a resolution to be presented to the Board regarding President Reagan's proposal to eliminate state and local tax deductions from Federal income taxes. Mr. Schwartz was directed to draft the resolution. Discussion and action on the subject will take place at the time of his presentation.

School Superintendent Dr. Catherine Fenton, in her report to the Board, outlined the district's program for gifted and talented students on the elementary level from its conception in 1980 to its present day status. She explained that the program began in the schools early in 1982 as an in-class situation in grades K to 3 and as a pull-out (outside the classroom) activity for students in grades 4, 5 and 6. Beginning in school year 1986, the program will be conducted completely within the class situation on the entire elementary level grades K-6, and will be referred to as the district's Academic Enrichment Program.

Dr. Fenton stated that a goal in the preparation for this program is to have every district teacher trained to incorporate this program in the classroom and able to write his or her own curriculum. She remarked that the district has been educating individual teachers via two-hour, in-service training sessions, sharing of ideas within grade levels and with administrators, and the compiling of curriculum data during the summer months. This program is designed to encompass all Hicksville students, each being exposed to the enrichment program within his or her own classroom, and through the learning center technique, each progressing to the height achievable by his or her abilities.

The Board was addressed by Bob Rogers on behalf of the Hicksville Baseball Association. It was brought to the attention of the Board that the fields adjacent to Dutch Lane School used by HBA are in less than desirable condition. The poor condition of playing fields in other school locations was also mentioned. It was requested that the Board look into this matter and update maintenance of these fields for the sake of the children who use them for recreational enjoyment.

Hank Frey also addressed the Board regarding the School district's decision to revamp its mathematics curriculum. He expressed concern that students may lose interest in the subject if the special programs the Hicksville Schools now provide are altered, particularly citing the loss of the Math Olympiads, a competition designed to challenge skills in formulating strategies used in problem solving. In answering these queries, Dr. Fenton referred to the recent math consultant's study which indicated a need for department upgrading and the hesitancy on the part of some math teachers to continue the Olympiad program.

The next regular meeting of the Board will take place on Wednesday, August 28, at 8:15 p.m. in the conference room of the Administration Building.

Library Offers Art Exhibits

The Hicksville Public Library will have two exhibits from the Town of Oyster Bay Rotational Art Exhibitions during the month of August. Sister Agnes Scheurmann will provide photographs for the Lobby and Fiction Room cases. Lisa Sachs will display her photographs in the Community Room.

The Lobby and Fiction Room cases may be seen during regular library hours. The Community Room is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily and Saturday.

Among the officers elected by their peers to steer the fortunes of the new Alumni Association at Nassau Community College are, left to right, President Anthony J. Bellacera of Hicksville, who is senior vice president of Beacon Federal Savings and Loan in Baldwin; Director Patricia Kelly of Massapequa, Recording Secretary Tina Wenzel of Farmingdale, Director Jayne Brown, of Farmingdale, and Second Vice President Jo Calo of Jericho. Graduates of Nassau Community College who have not been contacted by the new Association are urged to call Alumni Coordinator Hughie Mills at 516 222-7484.

Town Schedules Hearing On Satellite Antennae

The Oyster Bay Town Board will hold public hearings on August 20, to consider amendments to the Town's Code of Ordinances to include provisions for the installation of parabolic satellite dish antennas in residential, commercial and industrial zones, according to Town Councilman Douglas J. Hynes.

"Two separate hearings will be held to regulate and restrict the placement of satellite dish antennas," said Hynes. "The first hearing will deal with requirements on the placement of dish antennas in residential zones. The proposed regulations would permit them as an 'accessory building' on residential property and require the applicant to apply for a building permit before installing the antennas."

For safety reasons it is proposed that the dish antennas be placed only in rear yards and be screened by six foot high fencing or by densely planted evergreens of the same height along the rear yard property line. The height of the dish will not be permitted to exceed 10 feet or the surface area to exceed 100 square feet. The dish will not be permitted closer than 20 feet from any property line and no dish antennas will be permitted on roofs in residential zones.

"A second hearing will establish requirements on the placement of satellite dish antennas in commercial and industrial zones," Hynes said. "In those zones, the ordinance proposes restrictions on the setback from the roof's edge and screening, under certain conditions. A building permit will also be required."

The hearings have been scheduled for Tuesday, August 20, beginning at 10 a.m. in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

THE OFFICE CAT

THERE has been no threat of criminal prosecution of the political bosses if the one percent case is decided against the GOP yet. But if evidence that is not past the statute of limitations comes up, it could mean criminal prosecution for some big political names.....THE TOWN of Oyster Bay has finally decided on offering early retirement to workers. The move could save the taxpayers a million. It could have been done six months ago and saved additional money but there was no action by the Town Board. The offer would allow retirement at 55 years old and over for workers who had 10 years seniority. They in turn would be replaced by workers at starting pay scales.....THE TOWN is considering restricting the placement of satellite dishes at private residences but it probably won't be able to restrict their use if the FCC steps in. Cable companies dislike the dishes because it often makes it unnecessary to use cable to get many programs.....THE CRIME REPORT is published each week as a public service to acquaint residents of where crime is taking place in the area and as an aid in the Neighborhood Watch program. I've earned one promotion with another promised when I graduate. Now I feel like I have a real future. Berkeley can do the same for you!

I had a diploma but no job! Until a friend told me about Berkeley.

A three-month GATEWAY program gave me the office skills employers want... Speedwriting, Keyboarding, Office Administration and Management... even an Orientation to Word Processing and Computers, Personal Development, and Career Planning.

Then they started me on a career at a company I love. With my degree and Berkeley's business skills I'm moving up fast! So can you!

13th Annual Summer Science Congress

Students from grades 9 through 12 will participate in the Thirteenth Annual Summer Science Congress of the Syosset Public Schools Summer Research Program on Friday evening August 9, at 7:45 p.m., in the air conditioned Choral Room of the Senior High School. Students will present their results of summer research in the fields of biology, chemistry, and physics. The Public is cordially invited to attend.

Participants spent most of their time doing research under the careful supervision of Richard M. Lesse, Steven Silverman, and Joseph Killian who are teachers at the Senior High School during the regular school year. Mr. Lesse, who is completing his fifteenth year at Syosset, has been involved with the program since 1971. Mr. Lesse, who teaches A.P. Physics during the regular school year, has done research at SUNY at Buffalo and at Brookhaven National Laboratory. Mr. Silverman has a background in biology, and is also completing his fifteenth year at Syosset. Mr. Killian teaches chemistry during the year and has completed his twenty-second year with the District.

In addition to pursuing their research endeavors, students went to the research library at Cold Spring Harbor Biological Laboratories where they learned how to use such facilities. Susan Gensel, librarian at the facility, taught the youngsters how to use Biological Abstracts as well as other technical journals.

Student researchers also learn techniques for photomicrography and receive instructions in the preparation of a scientific paper and abstract writing. Several students pursue their studies during the school year as part of our district's Independent Study Program directed by William Plunkett. Each year these researchers are encouraged to enter their investigations in the Long Island Science Congress competition. At the Science Congress, students get the experience of orally presenting their findings before an audience, and verbally defending their position if necessary.

Highlighted in this summer's investigations are a study of holography, a study of aerodynamics, embryology, recombinant DNA techniques, and others. Color slides and other visual aids will be shown to enhance each presentation.

This summer's participants are Claudette Bakhtiar, Lynn Cetin, Chris Milmerstadt, Ken Feldman, Ron Flax, Francis Shin, Bruce Fischer, Andrew Haber, Stuart Levine, Margaret Weingart, Saul Rosenthal, Brian Weisfeld, Mark Chong, Ignatius Cyriac, Mitch Davis, Tom Kuzma, Bryan Kim, Peter Protzel, Jonathan Blumenthal, Ami Park, Manoj Illickal, Tony Jensen, Heidi Park, Keith Silverstein, Aparna Sodum, and Ting-Li Wang.

For further information, call Mr. Lesse or Mr. Silverman at 921-5500 ext. 342 during summer school hours.

Syosset Residents Complete Biathlon

For the fifth year in a row, four Syosset residents completed the Long Beach Biathlon. This Biathlon consisted of a 3 mile Steeple Chase Run along the beach over jetties and rocks, finishing with a 300 yard ocean swim. The Biathletes who finished this demanding event were: Marjorie Kroeger, Tom Mollet, a Syosset H.S. teacher, John Mulvey and Charlotte Rosensweig.

Marjorie Kroeger took first place in her age group with a great time of 31:43. Mr. Mollet had the best time among the four. He took second place in his age group with a time of 27:30. John Mulvey beat out 2 old friends, John and Bill Callaghan from his old neighborhood, Inwood, N.Y.C. in a time of 33:56. Charlotte Rosensweig finished in fourth place in her age group just missing an award with an excellent time of 34:53.

Kevin Boyle, Wantagh, beat five time winner Mike Trunkes of Roslyn by 1.5 seconds to take first place overall in a field which included 319 finishers.

Mirrors have high mortality rate

By James G. McCollam
Member, Antique Appraisers Association of America

Q. This mirror is 2 feet by 4 feet, of solid walnut with burl walnut inlays and incised carving. The glass appears to be original and the silvering is intact.

Can you tell me anything about its value and age?

A. This is a late Victorian mirror made between 1880-1890. It seems that antique mirrors have a high mortality rate; there are not too many of them still available.

This should be worth at least $300.

Q. I know that "Old Sleepy Eye" pottery is collectible, but I have recently seen the same term applied to other items. Can you shed a little light on this subject?

A. The town of Sleepy Eye, Minn., was named for an old Sioux Indian chief. A flour mill was founded there in 1883 and took its name from the town.

The company issued many advertising premiums — pottery paperweights, match holders, etc. They also used their trademark (the head of Old Sleepy Eye) on flour sacks, cookbooks, fans, etc.

The most popular and the most valuable items are the mugs, pitchers, bowls, jars, etc.

Pitcher: $250 to $1,000 plus.

Mug: $200 to $1,000 plus.

Pillow cover: $300 to $500.

Flour sack: $200 to $300.

Q. Enclosed is the mark that appears on the bottom of a ceramic figurine, consisting of three small children in Dutch clothes.

I would be interested in anything you can tell me about it. I don't know whether it is antique or just junk.

A. It is not really either; it's something in between antique and junk.

This mark was used by Schafer & Vater in Volkstedt, Germany, from 1890 to 1962.

Your figurine probably was made in the early 20th century.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and $1 per item to James G. McCollam.

8 Year Old (Farms)

Mid-Island Tournament

Hicksville 31
Syosset 6

On Thursday, the HBA 8 year old All-Star team defeated Syosset by a score of 31-6. Hicksville scored 14 runs in the top of the first inning to put the game away. Matt Moore led the hitting attack for HBA. He was 3-4 on the night with 4 RBI's, including 2 doubles and a triple. Paul Weber went 2-2 (single-double) and 3 RBI's. Billy Rogers and Mike Moylan combined for 6 hits and 3 RBI's. Matt Moore and Billy Rogers scored 8 runs and wanted to keep on running.

July 27

Hicksville 17
Merrill 0

On Saturday, the HBA 8 year old All-Star team traveled to New Hyde Park (Merrill) in search of their sixth straight victory. For the coaches of the 8 year old team, this was the most satisfying victory as the boys played a near perfect game in a tremendous team effort. The 8 year olds combined pitching, hitting, defense and baserunning to earn a 17-0 shut-out. The pitching was amazing as Matt Moore and Billy Rogers combined for 16 strike-outs. They allowed only 1 hit and gave up only 5 walks in 6 innings. They did not allow a Merrill baserunner to reach third base. The only hit for Merrill came in the fourth inning, the hit was to right field and Paul Weber made a superb attempt to throw the runner out at first base. The runner was safe or Rogers and Moore would have had their second no hitter in All-Star competition.

The hitting was fantastic. Timmy Catugno exploded for 1 single, 2 triples, a home run and 5 RBI's. Mike Moylan 2-3 - 3 RBI's, Tommy Mullee chipped in with a double and 2 RBI's and Dennis Becker singled up the middle for 2 RBI's. Mike Moylan's base running antics are now legendary among the 8 year olds and their coaches. Mike Bernius (L.F.), Andrew Etergeneso (S.S.), Paul Weber (R.F.), Dennis Becker (L.F.-R.F.-1B), Tommy Mullee (L.F.-3B) all played excellent in the field. In the bottom of the sixth inning, with Merrill runners on first and second base via walks, Merrill's number 11 hitter hit a line drive shot up the middle. It looked like a sure base hit and an end to Hicksville's shut-out, except that Joe Flynn at second base made a spectacular back-handed grab to preserve the shut-out. Matt and Billy - you owe Joe an ice cream!

July 28

Hicksville 15
Plainedge 7

The HBA 8 year old All-Star team completed the Mid-Island Tournament on Sunday by defeating Plainedge by a score of 15-7. This final victory made the 8 year olds undefeated in All-Star competition. Their record is 7 wins and no losses. All of the boys should be proud and honored by their achievements. The HBA team scored 117 runs and only allowed 33 runs in the 7 game tournament. They had one no-hitter, one 1-hitter, and one shut-out. They had 6 home runs, 14 triples, 21 doubles and 33 singles. They outscored their opponents by an average score of 17-5. They averaged approximately 12 hits per 6 innings. They played excellent defense and their base running was unbelievable. Again these boys should be commended for they have truly earned the name All-Star. The 8 year old All-Star team consisted of Dennis Becker, Mike Bernius, Timmy Catugno, Andrew Etergeneso, Joseph Flynn, Scott Granal, Justin Grecco, Matthew Moore, Mike Moylan, Tommy Mullee, Billy Rogers and Paul Weber. Thomas D'Angelis was hurt prior to the first game but we are sure his thoughts were on his team.

July 20

Boys 9 Year Olds

Hicksville 4
Syosset 3

Mark Cullen led HBA to a victory by going 3 for 3 a run scored and the winning RBI in the bottom of the sixth inning. Also contributing in a hard fought game was Peter Humann with an RBI, Dennis Schneck with an RBI and Mike Parella had an RBI.

Pitching for HBA was Dennis Schneck who pitched outstandingly. Chris McAuley and Peter Humann who relieved McAuley with the bases loaded in the fourth inning, to shut out Syosset the rest of the game. Craig Robey made a fine catch in right field to prevent a home run. John Patricola and Chris Lentz played well in their first game after coming home from camp.

July 24

Plainedge 3

John Davidson, Dennis Schneck and Chris McAuley pitched very well for HBA. Mark Cullen contributed his hot bat, going 2 for 2, including a double. John Davidson scored a run and had a triple. Dennis Schneck had a big triple and 2 RBI's. Andrew Sham and Jimmy Moeller had a hit and an RBI each. Chris Lentz had a hit and a run scored and Craig Robey with a big hit and a run scored. Mike Parella hit an opposite field double and had an RBI to pace HBA to their third win. Good defense by all the players kept HBA in the game.

July 25

Hicksville 2

In a good pitchers duel, Joe Barile, Peter Humann, and John Patricola combined to strikeout 11 Syosset batters. HBA managed only 3 hits one each by John Davidson, Mark Cullen and Andrew Sham. Mark and Andrew had the only RBI's for HBA. Defensively, John Davidson turned in a beautiful double play by catching a ball in deep short and doubling the runners at second base.

July 27

Hicksville 9
Merrill 7

In a game that featured a lot of hits and runs, Mark Cullen, Peter Humann and Chris Lentz had 2 hits each. The big blow came in the fourth inning when Chris Lentz hit a 3 run triple. Mark Cullen, Peter Humann, John Davidson and Mike Parella had an RBI. Dennis Schneck hit an awesome 2 run homer for HBA.

Defensively for HBA, Mike Parella had an excellent play in the outfield to prevent another outstanding game at short stop, fielding a wicked one hopper stepping on second and nearly getting the runner out at first base. Joe Barile also played great at second base turning in his third double play of the tournament. John Patricola, Chris Jendras, Walter Gaylor and Chris Robey all had fine plays in the outfield, to prevent Merrill from coming from behind. Scott Liptak made his tournament pitching debut and did a fine job on the mound for HBA.

July 28

Plainedge 3

Chris McAuley and Peter Humann combined their pitching to pitch HBA to a victory in the All-Star Tournament, giving HBA a 5-3 record.

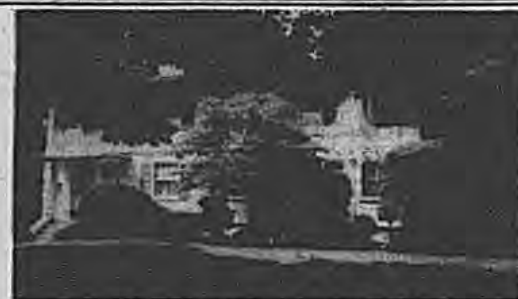

The hitting stars again were Mark Cullen, a double, run scored and 2 RBI's; Peter Humann, a triple and 2 RBI's; Dennis Schneck 2 for 2 including a double and 2 RBI's; John Patricola, a big double in the fifth inning with 2 RBI's and a run scored to secure HBA the game. Chris Lentz had a double and a run scored, Steve Forey a hit and 2 runs scored, John Davidson also scored a run for HBA.

For the defense, Stephen Foery fielded a hard grounder at third and made a beautiful throw to first base to nip the Plainedge runner. Dennis Schneck made good plays in the outfield. Last but not least, on behalf of myself, co-manager Kevin Cullen, coaches Stan Sham, Ed Moeller and score keeper Joe Barile, Sr., I would like to thank the following players: John Davidson, Mark Cullen, Andrew Sham, Jimmy Moeller, Joe Barille, Peter Humann, Chris McAuley, Chris Jendras, Chris Lentz, Dennis Schneck, John Patricola, Scott Liptak, Stephen Foery, Craig Robey, Mike Parella, and Walter Gaylor - they listened, they learned and they played their hearts out. Thanks - John Davidson, Mgr.

Another kind of child abuse

By Willard Abraham
Ph.D.

Q. With all the stuff that hits the press about physical and sexual child abuse, I wonder when we're going to become more aware of the more frequent kind of abuse that hits so many of our families.

All you have to do is walk through some of our supermarkets and you'll see what I'm getting at. Specifically, hang around the breakfast cereal, cookie and candy sections, and you'll be aware of the terrible nutritional child abuse that's going on.

Little kids in carts and others underfoot grab the packages of sugar-coated cereal off the shelves, and parents don't put them back. Even worse, the parents themselves often select ones that may contribute to tooth decay and general health problems. With so much written these days about diet and nutrition, you'd think more of them would know better.

Thanks for letting me blow off steam. This is a real pet peeve of mine.

A. I agree. One of the major tasks of parenthood is being a good model for our children. Another is to provide guidance for them in matters such as health and safety.

Sensible food selection fits into both of these factors.

Q. My problem is related to my teenage daughter who always has been a good girl. She has done well with her schoolwork, has nice friends and never has been in any trouble — until now.

She is pregnant. Fortunately, she shared her situation with me early in the pregnancy so that there is at least a possibility that I can provide some guidance for her.

Her choices are obvious and we have talked about all of them, including abortion, adoption and keeping the baby. Marriage is out of the question because she is only 16 and so is the boy with whom she's involved. (Both of them are in high school.)

So what to do? I believe strongly that the decision has to be hers because she will have to live with it, and it would be terrible for her later on to blame someone else for the action she takes now.

Incidentally, she hasn't yet discussed this problem with her father, although both parents of the boy are fully aware of it.

A. First, you ought to feel good about a few things, like a relationship with your daughter that encourages her to be so open with you, and the fact that she didn't delay her sharing with you.

You didn't indicate why her father isn't in on the situation, so the wisdom of the family's involvement (both parents, but not necessarily other children if there are any) might be given full consideration.

It isn't wise for a stranger unacquainted with all of you even to comment on the alternatives available to you. (I can just imagine the letters I'd receive if I came out strongly in print either for or against abortion, for example.)

However, it could be helpful to discuss the pros and cons of your daughter's options with selected people who know her, you and her father. You might consider your priest or rabbi, a professional family counselor, Planned Parenthood personnel and qualified staff members in other community agencies.

After all the facts and opinions are gathered, it's to be hoped that a suitable decision can be made, one that is appropriate for your daughter's present and future. You seem to be understanding of the reference Thomas Gordon makes in his writing to "ownership of the problem," a necessary factor in your family's approach to this matter.

It's out of family happenings like this that its members often become even stronger, within themselves as well as in their relationships with each other.

Q. Since last summer practically the only thing our 12-year-old daughter talks or thinks about is the Olympics and how she'd like to be in the next one.

Her choice is swimming, and although she's a pretty good swimmer she's not championship material. The coach at the swimming gym she goes to says she has a lot of potential, but I really think that's said just to keep us paying the monthly dues.

What worries me is that our girl will become frustrated and the happy outlook on life that she now has will turn sour.

What advice do you have for us?
A. She enjoys it, the cost apparently doesn't bother you much and, honestly, it is possible that the coach is telling you the truth. Your observation of your daughter and other girls at the gym can help you be objective about her swimming possibilities.

As time goes on your daughter probably will become realistic about her swimming strengths and weaknesses. However, in the meantime, why not let her go on being an enthusiastic 12-year-old?

Many other parents would be so pleased if their youngsters had an absorbing interest as healthful as your daughter's is.

Felon's beneficiaries still receive payment

I took care of the funeral expenses but when I tried to file for the lump-sum death payment I was told I was not eligible. What is the reason I can't collect this payment? — H.K.

A. A lump-sum payment of $255 can be made under certain conditions when a worker dies. The payment only can be made if there is an eligible surviving widow, widower or entitled child.

Q. My brother-in-law soon will be tried for a criminal offense. If he goes to jail, what happens to the Social Security checks he and his wife and children receive? — M.J.B.

A. Benefits are suspended for any month a person is confined to jail due to conviction of a felony. However, even though his benefits are suspended, payments to other beneficiaries continue.

Q. My husband and I were divorced six years ago after 25 years of marriage. Recently my ex-husband remarried. Will I be cut off from benefits that might be due me later as his ex-wife? — C.J.

A. You continue to be eligible for benefits based on your ex-husband's Social Security whether or not he remarries, since you were married for at least 10 years.

This applies to the checks you can receive as an ex-wife once you are 62 or older and also to the widow's benefit you can collect if he dies.

Q. Recently my uncle died. He was a widower receiving Social Security on his own record. He had no children.

Q. I recently read that there is a different system of benefits for those employed in civil service and drawing a pension for same after 1985.

I was born Feb. 22, 1923. I will retire to receive a pension in 1988; I also will be eligible for full Social Security at that time. Does that affect me? — G.H.A.

A. No, this provision — the "windfall benefits" provision enacted in 1983 — will reduce the Social Security benefit of a worker who both reaches age 62 after 1985 and first becomes eligible after 1985 for a pension based on non-covered employment.

Rev. Paul Given New Assignment

The Rev. Wayne C. Paul, curate of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, Hicksville, since July 1, 1982, has accepted the bishop's appointment as priest-in-charge of Christ Church, Brentwood, beginning September 1, 1985. Recognizing the qualifications of Fr. Paul, Bishop Witcher of the Episcopal Diocese of Long Island, offered him this challenging post in Suffolk County. Fr. Paul will be acting under the supervision of the Venerable Edward Wisbauer, Archdeacon of Suffolk.

Fr. Paul came to Holy Trinity after graduation from the General Theological Seminary, New York City, with the degree of Master of Divinity. Bishop Witcher ordained him to the diaconate on June 7, 1982 at the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, and to the priesthood at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church on April 9, 1983.

Fr. Paul has left his mark not only at Holy Trinity but upon the community at large through his associations with the Mid-Island Ecumenical Council and the service organizations of our community.

This Sunday, August 4, Fr. Paul will bid adieu to the members of the Holy Trinity who, with other well-wishers, will join in a fellowship hour in the Parish House, provided on his behalf, following the 10 o'clock Eucharist.

Workshop Features Reptiles of Past

Nature's wonders and beauties - the focal points of the Gregory Museum's vacation workshops for children - continue to hold much interest and fascination for Long Island's youngsters. July's program on the world of insects ran for four afternoons and, as well attended all the way. As predicted, Museum naturalist, Joan Seacarelli crowned the four sessions with new slide pictures and a talk on her most recent adventure, insect study and collecting on the banks of the great Amazon River.

Starting August 9 and continuing each Friday afternoon thereafter Aug. 16, 23 and 30, from 2:30 to 4:30, children ages 9-12 may enjoy the summer's Gregory Museum Workshop Finale, "Reptiles of the Past". They will learn about the awesome lizards of the past, the Age of Dinosaurs. Activities will include making a "time machine", going on a "dig" and constructing the child's very own dinosaur. Ms. Seacarelli is most enthusiastic about working with youngsters keen on nature but she especially experienced at awakening even casual interest in youngsters. The registration fee for the four August Fridays, commencing August 9 is $12. Fee checks may be drawn to the Gregory Museum and mailed to Heitz Place, Hicksville, 11801.

A reminder: the Gregory August workshops will be held in the Community Room of the Hicksville Public Library, Jerusalem Avenue and 1st Street. For further information, phone 822-7505.

"What we're doing, we're doing for you"

Paul R. Martin, Jr.
Community Relations Manager
Long Island

If you're living on a fixed monthly income and find it difficult to pay your home phone bill by the due date, let us know. We may be able to make arrangements for you to pay by a more convenient date on a regular basis. Call your Residence Service Center, listed in the front pages of your phone book.

Last year 17 percent of your phone bill went to pay state and local taxes. We're taxed at a rate about twice as high as the average of all other major phone companies in the U.S. and more than twice as high as general businesses in the state. But legislation passed by the State Legislature and signed by the Governor this year will remove some of this tax discrimination, and we'll pass the savings on to you, by giving you a credit on your bill — and by reducing our request for increased rates.

If your phone has ever gone dead because someone accidentally cut into one of our underground cables, you appreciate why we keep reminding people: Call before you dig. The number's in the front pages of the phone book, and we'll appreciate your call. It gives us a chance to mark out for you any underground cable in the vicinity — and protect your telephone service and your neighbors'. Our network includes 95.5 million miles of wire in our telephone cables — and 62% of it is below ground.

These days there's more than your New York Telephone bill in your New York Telephone bill. We provide a variety of billing services for some long distance companies, so their bill may be included in, and added on to, the one you get from us. The companies pay us for the service, and that helps pay for your basic phone service.

How many phones are there in New York? We're not the right ones to ask anymore because we don't provide phones anymore, and we don't repair them — with a few exceptions, such as special equipment for the disabled and coin phones. But we do provide — and we do repair free of charge — the line that connects your home or business to the local telephone switching center. By the end of 1984, our customers had more than 8.2 million lines. Add about 870,000 served by 40 other telephone companies, and that makes more than 9 million telephone lines in New York State, each with a telephone company central office at one end, and a customer with one or more phones or communicating devices at the other.

If you have a phone in your home — and in New York the chances are better than 9 out of 10 that you do — you have a unique telephone address. It's not duplicated by anyone in the nation. It's 10 digits long. The first three make up your area code. It says what part of the country you're in. The next three digits show which local central office switches your calls. It's your "central office designation", but some people call it an "exchange number". The last four make up your "line number". It identifies the line that connects us to you.

When someone dials your telephone address — your 10-digit phone number — switching machines "read" those digits to route the call (1) to the right section of the U.S., (2) to your central office and then (3) out along your own line to your home or business.

Your phone line allows you to make — and receive — local and long distance calls. It's your link to the network, and includes a pair of wires reserved for your use only. On the average, it costs us about $21 a month to provide that connection between your place and ours, whether or not you make any calls. It costs that much just to have it there and in working order so you can use it when you need it. (If you're several miles from our central office, it may cost several times more than the average).

The average home customer pays for less than half the cost of that line. We get the rest mainly by charging extra for long distance services. New "access charges" will help pay for more of the cost of those lines. They went into effect last year for businesses with more than one line and started in June for businesses with one line and for most home customers. (Customers receiving certain types of public assistance may be eligible for a lifeline-type of service and the access charge won't increase their bills).

Most Callers To Input Against Work Smoking

Most callers to Input believe that a special smoking area in companies with 50 or more employees would be a good idea in answer to this question: "Do you think the proposed Nassau County ordinance requiring companies with 50 or more employees to set aside smoking areas is right? Here are some of the answers:

LONG OVERDUE

Yes, I believe that smoking should be banned in the work area of companies and that if smoking is permitted at all that it should be in special areas. We are long overdue in this type of legislation. The idea that it is interfering with the rights of others doesn't hold much weight because the argument can be made that smoking is interfering with the right of those who do not want to smoke by forcing them to inhale someone else's smoke. L.K.

KEEP GOVERNMENT OUT

No, I think that the government should stay out of it. The surgeon general is already issuing warnings. There is no concrete proof that giving up smoking will stop cancer because the use of tobacco has fallen drastically and the number of cases of cancer has increased. Until the direct relationship between smoking and reducing cancer cases can be proved there will always be smoking. The compromise to set up a special smoking area is all right with me but it will cause companies to add to costs and in the long run cancer will continue unless some better research comes along. The present reliance on getting rid of cigarettes to get rid of cancer is diverting and misleading in finding a real cure for cancer. J.S.

FIRE HAZARD

Smoking should be banned in the work area because it is a fire hazard, wastes employees time and it infringes on the rights of people who do not want to smoke. I do not see how anyone would object to a law which stops that. I am all for it. E.D.

TOO MUCH CONTROL

Smoking is now banned so many places that it will not matter much if it is stopped in the work area. I do not think that the county should be making laws like this because the government is now trying to control too many things that individuals do. It would be better if they could get voluntary compliance because this would save a lot of enforcement that will be costly and may not be very effective. K.E.

NEW FIELD

With all of the things the county could do they as usual are zeroing in on something that is remote from what they are really elected to do. In fact this probably will be a new way to gain more budgets and hire more people to put in the rule. The government should not be constantly trying to enter new fields when it fails in everything it does. W.V.

GOOD IDEA

By all means there should be no smoking in work areas. This is only fair to all of the people who are forced to work near people who smoke because they have to make a living. It is not right to allow some people to do things that annoy others in places where both smokers and non-smokers have need to be. D.F.

PASS IT NOW

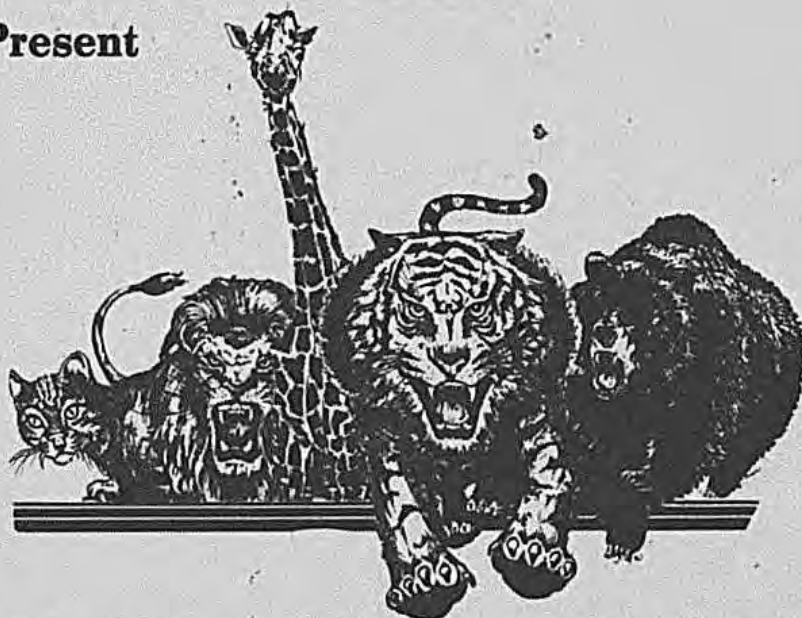

Yes, I'm for completely banning smoking in any public or work area. We have had enough of smokers bothering others for too long. Pass the ban immediately. G.Q.

SMALL VICTORY

I remember the day when the only employees who had the privilege of smoking in the work place were management people. On the other hand, there were some companies, especially large ones, where smoking was forbidden and "lighting up" was limited to the beginning of the lunch break and quitting times with some renegades sneaking out to the rest rooms for a quick smoke during the day. I don't recall how or why these limitations were imposed but my guess is that smoking was regarded as interfering with job performance and discipline and had nothing to do with health hazards in any sense. Today, we are told by the Surgeon General that smoking is bad for our health with mounting evidence that there is no doubt about it including detrimental effects upon exposed non-smokers. I guess I just can't fool myself into believing that these warnings have no foundation in fact. As a reformed smoker, I josh friends who have the habit but I still feel that they have the right to enjoy it as long as it does not impinge upon my own well-being due to proximity. I have tried to be objective in commenting on the proposed Ordinance but it is difficult. Frankly, I think that smoking should be forbidden in offices by all employees rank and file and management alike. There is no basically logical reason for companies to permit it to any degree and setting aside smoking areas can only encourage the waste of time socializing during business hours, lend credence to corporate permissiveness which ignores proven dangers to health and increase the cost of doing business which eventually finds its way back to the consumer. However, I suppose that any restriction is a victory of sorts but it really only begs the issue. Perhaps doing away with tobacco growing subsidies would be more effective and help solve some deficit problems but the politics of that solution are almost insurmountable. P.G.S.

DISCOVERY

Zoos - Past and Present

By Sanford Weinberg

During a recent trip to New York's spacious and beautiful Bronx Zoo, my ten year old daughter asked me numerous questions relevant to the animals residing there. Most of them I answered with the characteristic alacrity which parents develop over the years of responding to their offspring's interrogations. For example, "Why does a camel have a hump?", or, "What is the difference between a monkey and a gorilla?" However, one question posed to me by my inquisitive daughter started me thinking deeper about the subject and embarked me on a mini-research project in order to ascertain the answers. The question is, "When and where was the first zoo started?"

Perhaps it was Noah in the Biblical story of the Ark who was the world's first zookeeper. For it was he who collected breeding pairs for each species of animal and took upon himself the responsibility for saving the animal kingdom from extinction. In this respect, Noah was not only the first zookeeper but also the first animal conservationist.

However, zoos were not always committed to the cause of saving animals. In early history zoos were actually animal prisons, the chief purpose of which was to flaunt regal and imperial power.

In the 15th century B.C., a Queen of Egypt named Hatshepsut displayed her power by dispatching an expedition for collecting animals through the Red Sea to a land known today as Somalia. The expedition brought back leopards, birds, wild cattle and exotic monkeys. These, in addition to wildcats and lynxes comprised the Egyptian palace zoo.

It came as something of a surprise to me that the world's first zoo goes so far back in time. Since, the zoo generally, is considered a relatively modern phenomenon. The great royal menageries were, of course not public zoos in the sense that we know them today. They were for the most part solely for pleasure and political purpose, such as the entertainment of foreign potentates.

By the 12th century B.C., in China, there is evidence of zookeeping among the ruling classes. Confucius writes that Empress Tanki built for her own pleasure a deer house entirely of marble. Later on, Emperor Wen Wang of the Chou Dynasty, set aside a park for exotic animals including a giant panda.

A few centuries later, King Solomon of Israel not only staffed his palaces with a large harem but is also credited with collecting a royal zoo. Solomon is established as one of the first great wild-animal traders. In addition to swapping animals with King Hiram of Tyre, his neighbor, he also conducted business with his father-in-law, the Pharaoh of Egypt. The peacock, during Solomon's reign, was the oldest and most exotic of birds. In India, where it originated, it was sacred. Acquiring a breeding pair was like obtaining a prize of war. Kings and rulers spared no means to get them. There were many peacocks in the aviaries of Solomon's zoo.

Alexander the Great was probably the first man in history to turn the zoo into an educational institution. He made the royal menagerie available to his teacher and tutor, Aristotle, for the study of wild animals through direct observation. When Alexander began his extensive conquests, he had a unit march with armies whose sole mission was to collect all the living animals and zoological information it could obtain. He sent back to Greece specimens of each country's local fauna. When he conquered Egypt, Alexander set up that nation's first public zoo.

The Ptolemaic Dynasty was installed as the new rulers of Egypt before Alexander's death. Starting in the third century B.C. Ptolemy II put on parades of animals which were one of the greatest and most stupendous spectacles ever presented by man. The procession consisted of 24 chariots drawn by 96 elephants, four to a team. The lead elephant was harnessed and garlanded in pure gold. These were followed by chariots pulled by animals of all kinds - lions, ostriches and wild asses. There were leopards, cheetahs, lynxes, bears and camels by the dozens each. This collection of animals indeed surpassed that of any modern zoological garden.

With the rise of the Roman Empire, at first, the wild animals were displayed merely as curiosities. Afterwards, the emperors turned to a slaughter of the animals on a very large scale. One form of entertainment was to provide animals for the people to hunt them. It all took place in a huge amphitheater in which a natural forest was created by transplanting trees into the theater. Each carried away the animals he killed.

A second form of entertainment was the combats. These were contests between animals. In the third form, men engaged in death struggles with wild animals. Gladiators attended schools where they were instructed in the procedures of such conflicts. Noblemen as well as some women took part in these battles. Although gladiators were known to have killed 20 animals which attacked them, the beasts were usually victorious over the men.

It is on record that during Caesar Octavian Augustus' reign at least 10,000 men and an astronomical number of animals fought and died in the arena. It was because of the colossal thirst for blood among the Roman masses and their emperors a good part of the earth's wild animals were exterminated in the Roman amphitheaters. Elephants were no longer seen in Libya nor the hippopotamus on the Egyptian Nile, lions disappeared totally from Europe. With the decline of the Roman Empire the animal massacres ended. Most of the menageries that remained were in the care of the royal family and the newly powerful Catholic Church.

In the 8th century, Charlemagne, the first emperor of the Holy Roman Empire, had three menageries of his own spread around his domains. Bishops and monks in the Empire were charged with responsibility for maintaining animal parks on monastery grounds. Monarchs of other lands presented Charlemagne with animals for his zoo.

By the 12th century, Britain came upon the scene of keeping animal stocks. The newly appointed dukes and noblemen acquired large private parks stocked with animals.

In 1230, Henry III entertained his guests with lion versus tiger fights modeled after the old Roman games in order to determine who really was the King of Beasts. However, Henry III did more than devote himself only to animal contests. He imported into England the first elephant ever seen in that land. Henry's zoo became one of the first municipally supported zoos in history.

In Asia, at about this time, Chinese civilization had reached the peak of its magnificence. Kublai Khan, ruler of the Mongol Empire, had acquired wealth and territory exceeding even that of the Roman Empire. He kept animals for the purpose of hunting; also birds and falcons for the sport of falconry.

In Mexico and South America, the civilizations were in many ways more advanced than those which sent missionaries and explorers to "discover them". Therefore, it will come as no surprise that one of the best zoos the world has ever known existed in Tenochtitlan (now Mexico City).

This royal menagerie belonged to Montezuma, the emperor of the great Aztec civilization. Its aviaries were so immense that they required the services of 300 keepers.

Today, in 1985, zoos, especially the Bronx Zoo and San Diego Zoo among others are becoming environmental parks with beautiful gardens, large trees and wide paths leading from one animal display to another. In many cases, they also serve as repositories for vanishing species, such as the European bison and Siberian tiger. Zoos provide living laboratories for zoologists who study animals. They learn about the habits of animals by studying them at the zoo. The Bronx Zoo saved the American bison from extinction. The Bronx Zoo has the largest collection of animals of all the zoos in the United States with over 400 species comprising a total of 3600 animals.

OLD LANDMARK
Up until I saw the ad in your section last week we had forgotten that we wanted to go to that new restaurant, the Davenport Press, which has been around as a printing shop but never a restaurant for many years.

They must have performed a miracle to change the old Davenport Press building on Main St. Mineola into a restaurant. But let me tell you it is a good one.

There are several large intimate rooms. The large one we were in contains a real fireplace. There is a long bar at one end of the building. The menu is a good one. We had prime ribs that were juicy and tender with an appetizer called "Davey Jones Locker". It contained different types of seafood, shrimp, oysters and other choice pieces. We recommend the Davenport Press.

SUPERB SEAFOOD

Mahoney's Hillside Restaurant has been serving quality food for over thirty years. Their specialty is fresh seafood and I have always come away knowing that their seafood is superb. Last week we went there again for dinner as their soup and salad bar is always a delight. I had broiled lobster and my partner had the broiled scrod. Both dinners were beautifully prepared and delicious. I would heartily recommend this restaurant. Once you dine there I feel you will become a loyal patron.

ADDED DISHES

The new Executive Restaurant located on Mineola Blvd., Mineola presents much of the same atmosphere that had been in the restaurant for many years, but it has added one plus. The food is much better than it has ever been.

Although there were not many complaints about the Executive under former ownership, the new people have a complete line of superb Italian dishes to add to the already good continental cuisine. We went there last week and decided that it was worth a call to recommend it to others.

The Last Word In Restaurant Guides

Where Our Readers

Have The Last Word

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides - a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated in the past, and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings".

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Certain news ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

(Guide to Good Dining)

You can apply to join "Reader Ratings" if your establishment has been missed, or you have not yet answered our invitation, we invite you to call Littera Publications at WE 1-0012 for more details as they might apply to your restaurant.

 You have a new restaurant listed in your reader guide so I had to try it because we generally find that the restaurants are good. The new one to us is the Whalers Inn but we found something funny it is one of the oldest places in the area. It overlooks the harbor right off of Route 25A. And goes back to the whaling days. We thought we would try one of the specialties of the house and had the shore dinner for two. We found that not only is the fish good but it comes with a Greek Salad, soup, potato and vegetable. The dinner tab for two is only $19 and you get fresh fish and all of the trimmings. I do not think that any other restaurant can beat that. The Whalers Inn is tops. C.McD.

DINING GUIDE

READER RATINGS

Q. I thought it was standard fare to get at least two vegetables with an entree but last week at the (name omitted) restaurant we were charged extra for vegetables. Is this right?

A. A number of restaurants have changed to charging extra for vegetables, particularly fresh ones, but the safest way is to look at the menu and ask the waiter. Sometimes there are extra vegetables and they are the ones that are given an added charge. But there are some restaurants that charge for every item individualy.

Q. In some very large restaurants there are more people to be tipped and I do not know which ones should be tipped. How can I tell?

A.C. A. If you are just slightly observant when leaving an expensive restaurant you will notice the entire staff from the captain to the wine steward lining up to say good night to you. These are generally the ones who expect to be tipped and they do not generally share in the splitting of the regular tip. These people are usually given a single amount and it is not contingent on the regular 15-20 percent tip. However, most restaurants no longer have large staffs and you usually only pay the regular tip.

Q. I recently tried a new recipe for Southern Vegetable Stew that called for pieces of corn on the cob cut into big chunks. What is the proper way to eat corn? E.N. A. Because it is so difficult to eat, I'm afraid I'd never make that stew. However, to eat the corn, you can insert a fork in one end of the cob and eat the kernels while holding the chunk with the fork. If necessary, support the other end of the cob with a finger of the other hand.

Q. Should a wine glass be held by the stem or by the bowl? I have seen people do both. J.S. A. Because it is precarious to hold a glass by a long stem, the wine glass is usually held by the bowl. However, if it contains champagne or a very cold white wine, you might grasp the stem just below so that your hands will not warm the wine.

Q. What do you do with your fork and knife when you've finished eating? J.P. A. Place them side by side in the middle of your plate, the fork tines up or down, the knife to its right, sharp blade pointed inward toward the fork.

Cooking Corner

For tasty food, Thai one on

By Linda Susan Dudley

Interest in the foods of Thailand is blossoming. But if your town has no Thai restaurant, the answer to a bountiful Thai meal may be to cook it yourself.

Cooking instructor and food authority Gloria Zimmerman is a cookbook author and colleague of chefs such as Jacques Pepin and Madame Grace Chu.

While she has not yet published a volume on Thai cooking, her new cookbook is "The Classic Cuisine of Vietnam," written with Bach Ngo. She also contributed to an encyclopedia of Chinese cooking.

Zimmerman spends 10 weeks a year away from her Connecticut home, on the road, teaching classes.

es. She has been doing this for the last 15 years. At least once a year, she teaches Oriental cooking on board the Queen Elizabeth II.

And for one back-breaking summer, Zimmerman ran a restaurant with Pepin and his wife in Connecticut.

"Don't be intimidated," Zimmerman tells her students. "Thai cooking is very simple, not as complex as Chinese."

But first, one must learn something about the basic ingredients that give Thai food its fundamental nature.

They include the exotic tamarind — a flavoring that looks like a big brown pod and contains seeds surrounded by a sour pulp — which is often used by the Thais. It is sold in the pod or in jars of concentrated pulp paste.

The tamarind imparts a sour flavor to water in which it is soaked. It can be found at Asian markets and East Indian stores.

According to Zimmerman, it is this sourness — and prominent sweet and hot elements — which gives Thai food its distinctive taste.

Lemon grass, also called citronella root, also is said to be one of the more important Thai flavorings. Use the portion of the white base up to the point where the leaves begin to branch, discarding the yellowish green leaves. Bruise a stalk for a hint of the fresh lemony essence you'll find in a finished dish that incorporates that ingredient. (It also is available at some Asian markets in fresh or dried form and in powdered form in some natural food stores and herb shops.)

In Thai cooking, the fish sauce is the main source of salt and flavor. It isn't overpowering in fish taste and is available at Asian markets.

"Like the Chinese use soy sauce and the Americans use ketchup, the Thais use fish sauce," said Choosak Sukramule, who cooks Thai foods at home and is an employee in a restaurant.

Fresh coriander (or cilantro, as it is usually identified in this country) is sprinkled on nearly everything in Thailand and the combination of coriander root and garlic also is basic to some dishes. The root is available attached to the bunches of cilantro sold in almost any supermarket produce department.

"The root is kind of a Thai secret," said Sukramule. "The root is probably five times more flavorful than the fresh leaves. When I buy it, I look for a bunch with a lot of roots. They can be frozen," he said.

A typical Thai meal might include an appetizer, a main dish soup, a curry dish, a meat dish, white rice and some sauteed vegetables. The rice is very important, according to Zimmerman.

"When you're eating hot, spicy food it's the rice that soothes the palate, not any kind of cold drink," she said.

One of the most popular main-dish soups in Thailand is Sweet and Sour Shrimp (recipe follows).

For those who want to learn more about Thai cooking, Zimmerman will lead a cooking and travel tour of Thailand and Hong Kong (for Chinese food classes) Nov. 12-25.

(For details, contact Hanssen Travel, Texas Commerce Tower, 600 Travis, Suite 2875, Houston, TX 77002.)

HOT AND SOUR SHRIMP SOUP

- 1 tbsp. vegetable oil
- Shrimp shells
- 8 cups chicken stock
- 1 1/2 tps. salt
- 3 stalks lemon grass, cut into 1-inch lengths
- 4 fresh or dry Kaffir lime leaves (available dry in Oriental markets)
- 1 tsp. lime zest, slivered
- 2 green Serrano chilies, slivered
- 1 1/2 lbs. medium shrimp, shelled and cut in half lengthwise
- 1 (tbsp. fish sauce (available in Thai or Oriental markets)
- Juice of 2 limes
- 1 red Serrano chili, slivered
- 2 tbsps. fresh cilantro leaves, coarsely chopped
- 3 green onions, coarsely chopped

Heat oil in saucepan and fry shells until they turn pink. Add chicken stock, salt, lemon grass, lime leaves, lime rind and green chilies. Bring to boil, cover, reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes. Strain mixture through sieve. Return liquid to saucepan and bring to boil. Add shrimp to boiling stock and cook 2 to 3 minutes. Reduce heat to simmer and add fish sauce and lime juice. Stir and immediately remove from heat to prevent overcooking.

Pour soup into tureen, sprinkle with red chili, cilantro leaves and green onions. Serve hot.

GALLOPING HORSES

- 5 garlic cloves
- 4 roots of fresh coriander/cilantro
- 2 tbsps. vegetable oil
- 8 ozs. ground pork
- 3 tbsps. roasted peanuts, coarsely chopped
- 1 1/2 tbsps. fish sauce
- 1/4 tsp. freshly ground black pepper
- 2 tbsps. palm sugar (made from the coconut palm and available in Thai markets)
- 1 fresh chili, seeded and chopped
- 2 tbsps. chopped fresh cilantro leaves
- Mandarin oranges or fresh pineapple

Crush garlic and coriander roots and fry in oil over low heat. When garlic turns golden add pork, peanuts, fish sauce, pepper, sugar, chili and cilantro leaves and continue to stir-fry over high heat until mixture is well cooked, dark brown and quite dry.

Prepare fruit. Peel mandarin oranges (or tangerines). Separate into segments and cut each segment open down the back (similar to de-veining shrimp). Lay them flat on serving dish, skin downward. Pineapple slices can be cut into bite-size pieces.

Pile pork mixture on top of mandarin or pineapple pieces. Serve as hors d'oeuvre or with rice.

MEE KROB

- 4 scallions
- 1/4 lb. rice vermicelli
- Oil for deep frying
- 12 eggs, lightly beaten
- 1 large onion, finely chopped
- 1 tbsp. garlic, finely chopped
- 1/4 lb. pork, cut into 2-by-1/4-inch strips
- 1 boneless chicken breast, cut into 2-by-1/4-inch strips
- Skin of 1 lime, cut into 1-by-1/4-inch strips
- 1/4 lb. of medium shrimp
- 2 chilies, seeded; cut into 1-by-1/4-inch strips
- 3 tbsps. soy sauce
- 1/4 cup tamarind water (see directions below)
- 3 tbsps. fish sauce
- 4 tbsps. sugar
- Juice of 2 limes
- Egg nets (directions below)
- 2 tbsps. chopped cilantro
- 2 tbsps. chopped scallion greens
- 1 chili pepper, fringed
- 1/4 lbs. bean sprouts

Trim all but 2 inches off top of scallions. Cut 4 intersecting cuts 1 inch deep on both ends of scallions. Place in ice water and refrigerate.

Heat oil to 375 F and deep fry rice vermicelli in sections, turning over after noodles puff. Briefly fry second side. Remove from oil and set on paper towels.

Make egg nets: Heat oil in pan suitable for deep frying to temperature of about 300 F. (Use of a deep-frying thermometer is recommended.) Dip fingers of one hand into well-beaten egg and drip egg into hot oil in four different directions. The goal is to make fried egg look like net. Remove, drain and keep warm. Make second egg net.

Discard all but 6 tablespoons of oil in wok used to deep fry rice vermicelli. Heat and add onions and garlic. Fry for about 1 minute until they become aromatic. Add pork. Cook for about 2 minutes and add chicken. Continue to cook another 2 minutes. Reduce heat and add sauce mixture, chilies and shredded lime. When sauce has reduced to almost half, add shrimp and cook for additional 2 to 3 minutes until sauce becomes syrupy.

Place 1/4 of fried noodles in large bowl and 1/4 cup of the sauce over it. Mix with 2 forks, being careful not to crush noodles. Repeat this until all noodles and sauce have been combined. Mound Mee Krob on large platter. Sprinkle on chopped scallions and cilantro. Spread egg nets over mound and decorate with fringed chili. Arrange bean sprouts around the mound Mee Krob.

For tamarind water: Soak tamarind paste in hot water until dissolved. Strain and discard pulp. Use 2 teaspoons paste for every 2 tablespoons hot water.

The wok — a nearly perfect cooking tool

(A number of readers have written in recently, requesting that we reprise the column we wrote a couple of years ago on using the wok, since their copies had been lost or, in at least one case, gotten so spattered with Oriental food that the text was no longer legible. For today's column we've updated the wok information and added two new recipes which we hope will please both novice and veteran wok chefs.)

The wok is a very nearly perfect tool.

In the last few years these mainstays of Oriental kitchens have taken up residence in millions of American homes, bringing with them a whole new approach to cooking.

The wok's concave design makes it possible to fry foods with very little oil. Its ability to heat foods very fast and evenly makes it possible to cook a variety of foods quickly, so that their nutrients are not lost and their colors and textures are enhanced. With the addition of a bamboo rack, the wok becomes an efficient steamer.

Wok cooking is no mystery, and many non-Oriental dishes — Chicken Kiev for one — are fine candidates for cooking in the wok.

Many Oriental chefs prefer cast-iron or steel woks to the aluminum or stainless steel types commonly available in this country. The cast iron or steel types heat more evenly and absorb more oil, so that food almost never sticks, even at high heat.

Authorities are in nearly universal agreement that the electric woks marketed in the last few years are not satisfactory for serious chefs.

Though gas provides a much more even heat source for wok cooking than electricity, an electric stove can be used on the "high" setting with good results.

When you buy a wok, don't look only at the price. As with most things, you get what you pay for.

You will need the wok itself, a rounded cover, a metal ring that goes over the burner and steadies the wok, and utensils. We suggest that you go to a store specializing in Oriental foods and cookware, and which caters to an Oriental clientele. At such a store you will find serviceable, moderately priced woks and accessories.

Once you've gotten a wok, and are ready to try today's recipes or other Chinese dishes, a couple of pointers may be helpful.

Before using your new wok, season it by heating it and then putting 3 or 4 tablespoons of peanut oil in it. Allow the oil to become quite hot, then coat the inside of the wok evenly. Peanut oil is excellent for wok cooking because it can be used at much higher temperatures than vegetable oil.

After you've coated the wok with the oil, keeping it at a high temperature for several minutes, pour off the oil and allow the wok to cool. When it has cooled, wipe the inside of the wok with paper towels. Never use soap or abrasives on the inside of your wok. The burned-on oil forms a patina that improves your wok with every use.

When you're ready to cook, heat the wok for a few minutes, then add peanut oil and allow the oil to become quite hot before you add your first ingredients. A good test is to put a small piece of food in the hot oil. If it immediately begins to fry and sizzle, you're ready to cook.

Wok cooking in Chinese is called ch'ao tsai — "toss-cooked." You must use your wok spatula like a shovel. Push the spatula quickly under the food and quickly turn it over with a twist of your wrist. The objective is to evenly coat the ingredients with oil and spices, and to keep them at a high temperature.

When you prepare your ingredients, remember that Chinese foods traditionally are eaten with chopsticks. This means that each piece should be bite-size, yet large enough to be picked up easily.

So Kan pei (cheers)! We hope your wok brings you many delicious meals.

If you don't have a wok, and don't plan to buy one, you can use a good-quality frying pan for today's recipes. Though the results won't be identical to wok cooking, they should be quite acceptable.

DICED CHICKEN WITH FRESH GARLIC

2 whole chicken breasts, boned, skinned and diced into ¾-inch cubes

Marinade:

1 tsp. white wine or dry sherry
1 tsp. cornstarch

2 cups plus 2-3 tbsps. peanut oil

2 tbsps. minced fresh garlic
¼ cup green bell pepper, cut into 1-inch squares
¼ cup canned sliced bamboo shoots
10 slices carrot, cut into 1½-inch lengths
¼ cup chicken broth
1 tsp. white wine or dry sherry
2 tbsps. soy sauce
Salt to taste

1 tsp. cornstarch, mixed in 2 tbsps. water
1 tsp. peanut oil
¼ tsp. sesame oil

Mix chicken with marinade, and let stand for 10 minutes.

Heat wok over high heat for few minutes, then add 2 cups peanut oil. When oil is very hot (beginning to smoke), stir in half of chicken and cook for 5 to 10 seconds, until meat begins to turn white. Remove and drain. Cook second batch of chicken. Discard oil and wipe wok with paper towels.

Heat reserved 2 to 3 tablespoons oil till smoking hot. Add minced garlic, green pepper, bamboo shoots, carrot and chicken broth; stir-fry for 1 minute.

Return chicken to wok; add wine, soy sauce and salt. Stir until well blended. Add water-cornstarch mixture to thicken gravy. Add 1 teaspoon peanut oil to glaze. Garnish with sesame oil and serve immediately.

Serves 2 as main course.

EGGPLANT WITH YU- XIANG SAUCE

1-2 large eggplants or 4-8 small ones; about 1 lb.
¼ cup peanut oil
¼ lb. pork
2-3 tbsps. fresh ginger, finely chopped
3-5 tbsps. garlic, finely chopped (about a handful)
1 tsp. hot bean sauce, or more to taste

Seasonings:

2 tbsps. soy sauce
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar

½ cup chicken or pork stock (or water)
2 green onions
2 tbsps. sesame oil

1 tsp. cornstarch, mixed with 2 tbsps. water

Wash eggplant and cut into 3-inch strips, about as thick as your little finger. Skin may be removed. If it is not, the dish will have a characteristic purple color. Salt strips lightly and pat dry.

Heat ¼ cup of peanut oil in wok until very hot. Add eggplant and reduce heat to medium. Cook, stirring frequently, until eggplant has become soft and moist-looking. More oil may have to be added as eggplant absorbs original quantity. Remove eggplant with slotted spoon and drain. Press excess oil out of eggplant with spoon or spatula. (Note: Eggplant may be prepared ahead of time, and following steps performed just before you are ready to serve.)

Chop pork into ¼-inch pieces.

Heat 3 tablespoons peanut oil in wok until very hot. Add pork and stir-fry briefly until meat is gray. Add ginger, garlic and hot bean sauce. Cook, stirring, until ginger, garlic and meat begin to absorb red color from hot bean sauce. Add seasonings. Stir briefly, then add reserved eggplant.

Cook, stirring occasionally, until liquid starts to disappear. Add green onion, chopped into small pieces, and sesame oil. Stir and add cornstarch/water mixture. Stir. When sauce has thickened and begins to adhere to eggplant strips, remove to serving dish and serve immediately.

Serves 4 to 6.

CRUNCHY SPICE COOKIES

1½ cups whole wheat pastry flour
1 tsp. ground ginger
¼ tsp. ground cinnamon
¼ tsp. allspice
¼ tsp. baking powder
6 tbsps. margarine
5 tbsps. natural liquid sweetener
1 tsp. vanilla extract

Glaze:

2 tbsps. liquid natural sweetener
1 tsp. margarine

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Lightly grease 8- or 9-inch square pan. Combine dry ingredients in mixing bowl and stir with fork to mix. In medium-size bowl or food processor fitted with steel blades, beat together margarine, sweetener and vanilla until creamy.

Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture and mix only until ingredients are blended. Transfer dough to pastry board and knead gently for a minute or two until mixture holds together.

Use fingers to spread dough into prepared pan. Bake until top is golden brown, about 25 to 30 minutes. Let cookies cool in pan on cake rack for 10 minutes. Meanwhile, make glaze: Heat sweetener and margarine just until margarine is melted. Let cool slightly and spoon over cookies. Cut cookies into squares while still warm.

Store airtight. If possible, keep for a day or two before serving to let flavors mellow.
Makes 20.

ISLAND MACADAMIA PINEAPPLE BREAD

2¼ cups whole wheat pastry flour
2¼ tbsps. baking powder
¼ tsp. teaspoon salt (optional)
¼ cup natural liquid sweetener
3 tbsps. corn oil
1½ cups fresh or canned unsweetened crushed pineapple
¾ cup fresh orange juice or coconut milk
1 tsp. vanilla extract
¼ cup unsweetened grated coconut

9 oz. macadamia nuts
Preheat oven to 350 F. Grease a 9x5-inch loaf pan.

Combine dry ingredients in a medium-size bowl and stir with fork. Blend sweetener and oil in large bowl or food processor fitted with steel blade until creamy.

Mix pineapple, juice or coconut milk in a separate bowl. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately with pineapple, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Fold in coconut and nuts.

Turn batter into prepared pan. Bake until tester inserted in center comes out clean, about 60 to 70 minutes.

Let cool in pan on rack.
Makes one 9x5-inch loaf.

Microwave Magic

By Desiree Vivea

Microwave eggs for light, economical supper fare

Who says eggs are only for breakfast? When summer weather is sizzling warm, preparing and eating a heavier meal can be just too much trouble. A light and nourishing egg dish may be the answer.

While you don't want to overdo it on egg consumption (remember, they're high in cholesterol), these small oval wonders are packed with nutrients. Eggs provide the highest-quality protein known to man, and are second only to mother's milk in the essential amino acids.

The protein content of a meal is generally the most expensive item. Eggs, with their natural no-waste packaging, are the most cost-effective protein on the market. When large eggs are $1.25 a dozen, the cost is a mere 83 cents per pound. Even the most economical cut of meat can't beat that bargain!

There are a few things to watch for when microwaving eggs. The American Egg Board recommends cooking omelets, scrambled and poached eggs on HIGH (100 percent power). At this setting, allow 30 to 45 seconds per egg, cooking until almost done to your liking. Then just let stand to finish cooking. For other egg dishes, use 1/2 to 3/4 power to prevent too-rapid heating.

Because the yolk contains fat (the white doesn't), it will cook faster, and may explode during rapid heating. To avoid a real microwave mess, pierce the yolk's membrane with a toothpick or the sharp point of a knife before cooking.

Always store eggs in the fridge, since warm weather encourages spoilage. (An egg left at room temperature for just one day loses more quality than one refrigerated for an entire week.) Store with the large end up to suspend the yolk properly within the white.

Today's recipes, perfect for a light supper or any meal, come from the pamphlet Eggs in the Microwave, published by the American Egg Board, 1460 Renaissance Drive, Park Ridge, IL 60068.

SPINACH RING

- 1 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen spinach
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 1/2 cups dairy sour cream
- 2 tbsps. flour
- 2 tbsps. grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. onion powder
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped

Remove outer wrapper from package of spinach. Place unopened carton in dish and cook 5 minutes. Turn out into strainer and drain well, pressing out excess moisture with back of spoon. Set aside.

Combine all remaining ingredients except hard-cooked eggs and blend well. Stir in reserved spin-ach. Fold in chopped eggs. Pour into well-greased 1-quart ring mold. Microwave on 50 percent or 30 percent power 20 to 30 minutes, or until knife inserted halfway between center and outer edge comes out clean.

Let stand uncovered 10 minutes. Unmold onto serving platter. Serves 4.

EGGS BENEDICT

- 8 slices chopped, pressed cooked ham
- 4 eggs
- 2 English muffins, split,

toasted and buttered
Hollandaise sauce (recipe follows)

In each of 4 (6 oz.) custard cups arrange two slices of ham, one on top of another, so that corners alternate. Break and slip an egg into each cup. Gently pierce yolks with wooden pick.

Place cups on pie plate or platter. Place sheet of waxed paper over cups. Microwave 5 1/2 to 6 1/2 minutes on 50 percent or 30 percent power, rotating pie plate 1/4 turn every 2 minutes.

Remove eggs just before they reach desired doneness. Let stand, covered, 1 to 2 minutes to finish cooking.

Serve each egg on 1 muffin half. Top each with about 2 tablespoons hollandaise sauce.

Serves 2.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

- 3 egg yolks
- 2 tbsps. lemon juice
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. paprika
- Dash ground red pepper or hot pepper sauce
- 1/2 cup butter

In 2-cup liquid measure or small bowl combine all ingredients except butter. Set aside.

Cook butter about 1 minute, just until melted. (If butter bubbles, it is too hot. Allow to cool a bit.)

Stir egg mixture vigorously while adding butter in a very thin stream. Cook 45 seconds to 1 minute, stirring vigorously every 15 seconds.

Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens. Foods are cooked on HIGH (100 percent power) and uncovered unless otherwise specified.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

How to fill in the cracks before painting a ceiling

Q. Before painting our living room we must seal cracks in the ceiling, which is plastered. Please tell me what to use and how to properly accomplish this job. — D.L.D.

A. Fine hairline cracks can be filled by brushing with a mixture of three parts boiled linseed oil and one part turpentine.

For somewhat wider cracks, use white lead thinned with turpentine to a fairly thin paste. This is rubbed on with a cloth to force the paste into the cracks, and the excess is wiped from the surface. Light sandpapering may be required when the paste has dried.

If the cracks are significant, I suggest you use a mastic compound and glass fabric combination, which is manufactured by Tuff-Kote and is available at larger paint or building supply stores.

This two-part process bridges cracks, rather than filling them. You simply brush on a first coat of the mastic material, covering about 2 1/2 inches on each side of the crack. Then, you apply glass fabric, anchoring it in the first coat of mastic by smoothing it into place with an inexpensive applicator. The fabric itself is only the thickness of a good coat of paint. This will dry in several hours. Then a second coat of mastic is brushed-applied, filling all voids in the glass fabric.

While mastic is still wet, it is then smoothed into place with the inexpensive applicator in such a way that edges are feathered, blending in perfectly with the wall or ceiling surface. The finished repair should be invisible.

If the surface remains rough, smooth with fine sandpaper. Repaired cracks may be painted, using priming and painting directions supplied by the paint manufacturer.

If the ceiling surface is seriously damaged, you might consider the installation of ceiling tiles rather than a major repair job to the present surface.

Q. We have a problem of what appears to be a lime deposit on some of our drinking glasses, cut glass and frosted glass tumblers.

We have tried Scotchbrite, Brillo Pads, Lime Away and various other products including baking soda and even coarse sand. None of these has made the slightest difference. Strangely, the glasses appear clear when wet, and we are triumphant, but alas, the marks reappear when they dry.

We have a dishwasher and use either Finish or Cascade and a little basket of Jet Dry. We have a water softener that is properly maintained. Could you suggest a method of removing the stains? — P.L.

A. Dishwashers are hard on good glassware. A water softener helps, but it adds salt content to the water. Natural soft water does not have the same problem. Continual washing in a dishwasher, particularly when you live in an area with hard water, will eventually build up a film on your glassware. The water actually dries on the surface of the glass.

To remove the film you can try washing your glassware in warmed white vinegar, full strength. Then rinse well and dry the glassware with a soft dish towel.

If the damage has already etched the glass there is no remedy.

TWEEN 12 & 20

PAGE 13A Friday, August 2, 1985

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am 17 years old and, to be quite honest, I drink more than I should. My problem is that I drink to escape my "problems," not because I enjoy the taste of alcohol. I'm now starting to worry that I might become an alcoholic, and I don't want that because my dad (who is now dead) was an alcoholic and it made our entire family life miserable. Other than drinking a lot and often, how will I know if I'm hooked on booze? — Todd.

Todd: You and I both know that alcohol never solves a problem; it only makes it worse. Here are the earliest danger symptoms of alcoholism, according to the National Council on Alcoholism:

1. Feeling that parties or other social occasions aren't complete without a couple drinks.

2. Having a drink or two just to "relieve" tension and fatigue or to "get over" disappointment, frustration or quarrels at home or at work.

3. Being able to handle more alcohol than others, and you drink two to their one.

4. Having blackouts, when parts of the previous evening cannot be remembered although you did not pass out.

Dr. Wallace: I am 18 and I'm dating a guy who is 29. We like each other and have a lot of fun when we are together. It's when we are apart that we have problems. Jimmy likes to go out with the boys every Friday night and I don't mind because that's my night to go out with the girls.

Last Friday night my girlfriends and I wound up at a place that is kind of known as a hangout. It's where guys and girls go to get "picked up." We went there just for fun. We did not intend to get picked up. Well, you guessed it. Who did we meet there? Good old Jimmy and his buddies.

Jimmy then told me that I had to leave because he didn't want me hanging around such a place. I told him that he had to leave because I didn't want him hanging around such a place. He didn't leave and neither did I. In fact, he and his buddies left before we did. Now Jimmy is really mad because when he called me today I told him, "What's good for the goose is good for the gander." Did I say the right thing? — Jessica

Jessica: You couldn't have said it any better. The days of the macho double standard are long, long over — thank goodness.

Dr. Wallace: I am 18 and dating the sweetest, most wonderful guy in the whole world. He is witty, kind, considerate, thoughtful, loyal and terribly cute. I am crazy about him and he feels the same way about me.

My older sister and my parents think I've "got a screw loose" because the boy is two years younger than I. They keep telling me that I am robbing the cradle, and whenever we go out they remind me to take along a baby bottle.

Sometimes I do a few things that are considered dumb. Is dating this "younger man" one of these times? Actually, I'm only a year and five months older. That's 17 short months or 515 shorter days. — Jenny

Jenny: Absolutely not!

No one says a word when the guy is 18 and the girl is 16. I don't see any difference. The key is not the age difference. It's the qualities he has. Don't toss him back. He's a "keeper" and quite a catch.

Dr. Wallace: You stated that teen boys are physically stronger than teen girls when they are both the same age. I disagree. I am 14 and can run faster, jump higher and physically whip my 15-year-old cousin who happens to be of the male gender. — Becky

Becky: I'm sure you were referring to my statement about girls playing on the school football team competing with boys. I agree that a few girls of comparative age can run faster, jump higher and physically whip a member of the opposite sex, but those cases are rare. Pound for pound, girls have equal (some say greater) strength as boys. It's just that boys grow a lot taller and weigh much more in general. There always are exceptions.

Dr. Wallace: I recently read an article in the newspaper that stated that professional people who are supposed to help other people are not in touch with the reality of those people because of the "social" distances in both money and education. Since that includes you, I'd like to know what you have to say about this. — Ann

Ann: As Will Rogers once said, "Don't believe everything you read in the newspapers."

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

Wants no part of Medicare

Dear John: I send the Social Security system a very large Bronx cheer from the southernmost city of the United States.

On 16 June 1981 I received from SS, Baltimore, Md., a card to let them know if I desire to participate in A and B part of SS benefits.

I chose not to belong to either, had the card verified by my mark in the appropriate boxes and witnessed.

Well, I felt that now I was secure in my SS benefits come 29 Oct. 1981, so that same date of 16 June 1981, I shoved the marked-witnessed card into the postal pickup box.

Now, I received from Baltimore card notice that deductions would commence under the health insurance of the Social Security act, effective 1 Oct. 1981.

It was explained to me that $204 deductible under Part A was mandatory given and I could not refuse that. However, Part B would commence immediately.

I blew a fuse. Brownsville expedited a request for termination of premium hospital and/or supplemental medical insurance and sent it away, to whom I do not know.

How can anyone terminate something I said no to in the first place? How did the unwanted get into being to begin with?

By what matter or means is the SS dipping into my pocket for $11 plus for the first month, when I did not want the thing last June, and I certainly do not want it in October and/or any other mo. — HN

Now the boobies started on the East Coast, between Baltimore and Philadelphia. Where does one have to start correcting the SS agencies' own error? You guessed it, 2,800 miles away in Brownsville, Texas.

I'm not going to tell you how long it will take to amend the SS agency's own mistake, because I'll blow another fuse.

Meanwhile, my SS checks will be deducted in payment for monthly dues for Part B.

I claim whatever is deducted, plus interest on the amount plus $5 postage, phone calls and personal visits to SS at Brownsville, and I should be paid the sum in full. After all, I made no mistake. Why should I suffer? — Charles Shole.

Dear Charles: You didn't say why you want no part of Medicare, but I hope it's because you have other adequate health insurance. Many a person arrives at retirement age with never a health problem. Then things begin to happen.

Look around you and compare. Despite the many admitted goofs of the unwieldy Medicare program, $11 a month is very cheap health insurance.

Dear John: I have an infected prostate. Is there a cure for such an infection? — J.W.

Dear J.W.: There is, but you will have to consult a physician. There is also surgery, but I have known cases of being cured without cutting.

Dear John: In regard to Certo and powdered pectin, where can I purchase it? — Mrs. Y.N.

Dear Mrs. Y.N.: You are referring to treatment of arthritis pain, of course. Both Certo and other pectins are used in making jam and jelly. They should be found in the canning section of your food market.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Last week I took my nieces to the Bronx Zoo. It was many years since I visited the zoo and I certainly enjoyed the trip.

All three of us had different opinions about the animals. My favorites are the deer, while Jane, who is 8 years old, prefers the lions and tigers, the "big cats". However, Ellie likes nothing more than watching the birds. She thinks their feathers are just beautiful and their songs are fun to hear.

We had a wonderful day at the Bronx Zoo and hope to go back there at least one more time before the summer comes to an end!

Your friend,

Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are: Jennifer Janok and Danielle Okas. You'll be hearing from me soon.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

What to consider before declawing your cat

Q. I am considering having my cat declawed. Does the declawing procedure cause any lasting physical or emotional side effects?

Although many of my friends have had their cats declawed, I am confused about the reasons for the operation.

A. Whether or not to declaw cats is a controversial subject.

One view is that declawing is unnatural and psychologically harmful. Some owners have reported that their cats have become withdrawn and introverted after they were declawed.

Other owners have reported that the operation had no effect on the personalities of their cats and that the surgery made their animals better pets.

Cats can be extremely destructive to furniture and draperies, so declawing is often the only solution for indoor cats insistent on scratching or climbing on household furniture.

Cats who live outdoors should not be declawed. Declawing affects the cat's ability to climb, hunt and defend itself. Therefore, before declawing a cat, you should think about the possibility of the cat ever becoming an outdoor cat. Is there the possibility that at some time in the future you might wish to give the cat to someone else? If so, would that individual be willing to allow the cat to live its entire life indoors?

Most veterinarians recommend that the cat be at least 12 weeks or older before declawing; many recommend waiting until the kitten is 4 to 5 months old so that it can be done at the time of spaying or castrating. Young cats normally learn to cope without their claws more readily than do older cats.

Usually only the front claws are removed; the rear claws are seldom used for scratching furniture. Also, leaving the back claws gives the cat some measure of protection.

Declawing is done while the cat is anesthetized. The claw and part of the last bone of the toe are removed. If the claw is not entirely removed it may regrow, and regrowth usually is irregular, causing a misshapen toe and foot.

Following the surgery, the feet are bandaged firmly. The dressing usually can be removed in a day or two. The feet may be tender for a few days, but most cats recover quite quickly.

Generally, declawing does not adversely affect indoor cats, but owners having their cats declawed should think seriously about the responsibility of maintaining the cat indoors for its entire lifetime.
