Oyster Bay Town Clerk Ann R. Ocker joins Monsignor John Sedinschwang of Holy Trinity High School at a sign change for Stewart Avenue to "German American Way" to kick off the Octoberfest celebration, which is scheduled to continue Thursday, August 28, through Monday, September 2.

Welcome Planned For Councilmen

Club President Kevin Galloway has announced that Town of Oyster Bay Councilman Angelo A. Delligatti and Douglas J. Hynes will be welcomed as special guests at the next meeting of the Theodore Roosevelt Republican Club of Bethpage.

The meeting will take place on Monday evening, September 9, at the American Legion Hall on Washington Street, beginning at 8 p.m.

The Club has extended its cooperation to the Butchhorn Brothers Post No. 4987 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who will make a special award presentation to Councilman Delligatti, in appreciation of his participation in the 1985 Memorial Day Parade and Ceremonies held here in Bethpage.

Joseph Morreale, (past) Commander of the Bethpage V.F.W., and who presided over this year's Memorial Day Services, commented that "It was a privilege to have Angelo Delligatti lead the Parade through our community. I must say that he made a fine, heart-warming speech at the ceremonies that followed, which demonstrated a true understanding and appreciation for what Veterans have offered to our country...particularly those who gave their lives in its defense."

George F. Yochmann, Executive Leader of the Bethpage GOP Organization, added that "We're privileged to take part in this way of honoring Councilman Delligatti. We're also pleased that Councilman Hynes will be joining us to help us honor his colleague and make it a special evening."

Club President Kevin Galloway concluded that "It will be a nice way to resume our meeting schedule after having recessed for the summer. We've planned to have refreshments and a small celebration following the meeting...everybody's welcome to join us."

Gas Spill Brings Citation

A driver making a fuel delivery to the Amaco Gas Station on 199 Broadway, Hicksville, spilled 120 gallons of fuel on the lot at 7:15 p.m., August 31.

The driver, Robert Mancelli of 5 Harold St., Patchogue, was filling an in ground tank and failed to notice that there was an overflow coming out of an escape valve until 120 gallons had spilled onto the property. Apparently the driver was trying to take care of the spill himself when two members of the Emergency Service Bureau who were on routine patrol smelled the odor of the gas and observed the condition at the station. The officers requested the Fire Marshalls office and the Hicksville Fire Department. The operator of the truck was issued two summonses for (1) spilling a flammable liquid and (2) failing to report the spill immediately, by Fire Marshal Richard McGee. The truck was owned by Island Transportation of North Babylon.

The Health Department was at the scene and said there was no danger to the storm drain system.

Fall Storytime At Beth Library

Beginning on Wednesday, September 11, the childrens librarians at the Bethpage Public Library will be registering youngsters for Pre-School Storytime and Tiny Tots Time.

Weekly Pre-School Storytime sessions will begin on Thursday, October 10 and Friday, October 11 for children aged 3½ to five years, who have had their third birthday by April 30, 1984. The programs will include stories, songs, puppet fun, films and games, and will be held from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m.

The first session of Tiny Tots Time, a series of four Wednesday morning programs of stories, fingerplays, songs, puppetry, and films for the very young (ages 2½ to 3½) will be held on Wednesday, October 9, from 10:30 to 11 a.m. Children should have had their second birthdays by April 30, 1984 and a parent must be in attendance at all sessions. Tiny Tots will be held at various times throughout the school year.

Saturday Storytime for youngsters in grades K through three will begin on Saturday, October 5 at 10:30 a.m. This program will include stories, songs, puppetry, films, games and fun. No registration is required.

Participation in all of the storytime programs is limited to residents of District 21.

School Board Grapples With Transportation

By Maureen Traxler

Hicksville residents are known to voice their opinions on issues, especially when the issue touches home. And this issue reaches home - transportation.

Over 60 residents attended the School Board meeting on Wednesday, August 28, where the main topic was the district's recent updating of mileage eligibility for bus transportation to its schools.

Due to heavy attendance and volatile emotions displayed by the residents, the Board moved the item from near last on the agenda to the first matter of consideration.

Superintendent Catherine Fenton explained the district's position. The policy remains the same: All students living further from their schools than the designated miles will receive bus privileges. The mileage remains 1/2 mile for grades K-3; 1 mile for grades 4-6; 1 1/2 miles for grades 7-9 and 2 miles for grades 10-12. Two years ago, the district commissioned a $5,000 contract to have a new map of the district drawn, using modern techniques and more accurate surveying. The district has also equipped one of its cars with a "fifth wheel," an instrument which can measure distance in feet.

At the end of school in June when district received students grade status for September, the job of recalculating distances from schools began, using routes planned by the district and implementing the new map and calibrated instrument. The findings were that over 200 students who up to now were receiving bus transportation were no longer eligible.

In the general public session following Dr. Fenton's report, resident after resident approached the microphone to present his or her case before the Board. The prime concern: safety. They noted many potential dangers along the routes proposed for their children: no cross walks, industrial areas, no sidewalks, no street lighting, tall bushes and large trees, heavily-trafficked roadways, cars and motorcycles parked on sidewalks, walking past the firehouse and through the municipal parking lot, and unfortunately, the possibility of confronting unsavory people.

Speaking on behalf of the Hicksville Council of PTAs, Pat Rooney, Health and Safety Chairperson, stated, "I am concerned and disturbed that our school district would attempt to change measurements by using a route that would endanger our children."

Also presented to the Board was a letter from Owen Magee, Chief of the Hicksville Fire Department, which reads in part, ".....walking routes being set up and measured will bring school children through Municipal Parking Fields just north east of Fire Headquarters and crossing at the Fire Station. All of the areas mentioned are hazard areas in that firefighters converge at Fire Headquarters using these routes."

A husband and wife team, parents of an 8 year old daughter, approached the Board. Karen Heckler reported that residents were told they could refute measurements by showing proof of mileage, but when they did, their rebuttals were all rejected by administration. Phil Heckler, an engineer, voiced the sentiment of the group by doubting the accuracy of the tape measure, which showed the same houses to be different distances from schools on different days.

Presenting the case of her bedridden daughter, one grandmother expressed great concern for her 5 year old grandchild. And another lady described herself as a self-appointed "volunteer monitor," helping children safely leave their school. Others stated the hardship of being imposed on families with two working parents, and the abrupt disruption to household procedures. In making her point about child safety, Joan Bollhofer concluded, "Yes, Hicksville will get on the map with the most children on the milk cartons."

Several compromises were proposed, mainly the issuance of temporary passes for these 200 youngsters until the matter can be resolved.

Chairing the meeting for President Bennett, Vice President Wolfson stated that the district is receiving "no monetary consideration" in this matter, and the same number of buses will be employed this year as last. He said the Board would get back to parents "as expeditiously as possible," but he could "not put any time frame" on the conclusion.

This emotionally charged and sometimes disruptive group of residents came to the Board looking for help and some kind of satisfaction. Many left disgruntled and with no firm commitment by the Board to solve the discrepancies swiftly.

To the Editor:

Congratulations to Race Director Donna Hanlon and to everyone at Holy Trinity Diocesan High School on the success of last Saturday's 1st annual Oktoberfest-Spaten 5 Kilometer Run.

Twenty-eight members of the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club were among those competing in the race, five of them were fortunate enough to win trophies, several others finished with "personal bests" and everyone agreed that it was an excellent race that was just plain fun to run in.

My wife Susan and I were among those who took advantage of the free Oktoberfest admissions that were given to all runners as part of our entry fees and we had a terrific time enjoying the music, games, food and beer on Sunday night.

The Run was a well organized and thoroughly enjoyable event, and we're all looking forward to the second annual Oktoberfest-Spaten Run in 1986!

Best regards,

Michael Polanski, President

After two hours of discussion and a short break, the Board continued with the night's agenda. At a time when many people are setting new objectives in their lives, the Board presented its goals. On a long-term, five-year basis -

1. Improve student performance in mathematics.
2. Improve student performance in language arts 1985-1990.
3. Improve guidance services in the secondary schools.
4. Develop a district-wide program to track student mastery of basic skills.
5. Develop a plan for improvement of the secondary program.

On its one-year plan, the Board's goals consist of documenting the computer skills program for grades K-12 and disseminating information on an all-day kindergarten program.

Trustee Jay Schwartz presented a resolution opposing the loss of state and local tax deductions from federal income taxes. Arlene Rudin substantiated Mr. Schwartz presentation with calculations she formulated showing the monetary differences under present tax procedures and under the new Treasury Department proposals. The Board's tie vote failed to carry the resolution, and Mr. Schwartz vowed to reintroduce his resolution before the full Board at a later date.

The Board approved May 7, 1986 as the date of its Annual Budget Vote and Meeting. The date for public hearings on the 1986-87 School Budget is April 22, 1986. The Board also tabled acceptance of the Teacher Aides job description pending rewording of one section.

As a final informational item, Senior High School Principal Richard Hogan updated the secondary schools attendance policy for the Board. He explained that an absence rate of 10%, or 18 days, in a full year course may render a student ineligible for credit, and also ineligible to take the course in summer school if the student has not come forward with an explanation for his/her absence.

Mr. Hogan said there was a 3.5% improvement in attendance within the last school year, the first year of the program. He termed this a "significant increase." The attendance procedure will continue with parent and student notification.

The Board's next regular meeting will take place on Wednesday, September 18, at 8:15 p.m. in the conference room of the Administration Building.

Nursery School Has New Program

This program is for Moms or Dads and their just-turned 2 year olds. It is an opportunity to spend time together with your child in a supervised group setting interacting with other children and adults. The group is limited to 8 children all reaching their second birthday between July 1 and December 1. The two hours (9:30-11:30) on Thursday mornings beginning October 3, will include sensory play, gross motor activity, music and fine motor activity in our beautifully equipped rooms. It is also a chance for you to talk with other parents who have the same-age child and share common concerns on various child-rearing subjects. The group will be led by a N.Y. State certified teacher and early childhood specialist.

As a parent in this program, you will be a full member of the HNS and will be expected to participate in all activities.

If you want more information or wish to enroll, please call one of our Membership Chairpeople Melanie at 822-9272 or Cori at 935-9465 or the school 681-8246.

Hicksville Rotarians were treated to an in-depth presentation on the Long Island Railroad and its illustrious history over the past 150 years. The presenter was Mr. James Burns, the railroad's Public Information Officer, who chronicled how the railroad was chartered April 24, 1834 and how it grew into not only the busiest but the most interesting commuter line in the country - if not the world. How the line evolved and what social, economic and political forces shaped its destiny made for very interesting listening. Mr. Burns' talk on the road's recent sesquicentennial sparked a lively question and answer period. Hicksville Rotary President Elie Zambaka (r) thanked the speaker on behalf of the Rotarians and presented him with a Certificate of Appreciation. (Official Rotary Photo by Joe DePaola)

Our Children

Youngsters learn at different rates

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Q. Our 3-year-old doesn't seem to be at all interested in learning colors or numbers. She does not put objects together according to color and can't remember colors.

Is this normal, and when do children begin to learn such things? I realize all children are different, but all kids we know her age can count to 10 and know at least five colors.

A. You are correct in implying that children learn at different rates, and can still be "normal." However, if all the 3-year-olds you know really can count to 10 and know five colors, they include some pretty bright children.

I'd like to share with you what Gesell and Ilg, two widely read and quoted child development individuals, once wrote.

"At 2 years he distinguishes between one and many. At 3 years he has a fair command of 'two' and is beginning to understand the simple word 'both.' At 4 years he can count three objects, pointing correctly. At 5 years he counts to 10, pointing correctly.

"At 4 years he can name one color, usually red. At 5 years he 'knows' his colors. He names red, yellow, blue, green."

Although their comments might be used as guidelines, children can differ from them and still be in the so-called "normal range."

Q. I thought your reply to the woman whose husband wanted her to go out and work to supplement their income, even though she wanted to stay at home, was well put.

It occurred to me that going from one extreme (being a housewife for so many years) to working full-time is not the only choice. Perhaps she could get a part-time job which would help financially and yet allow her to be home with her children.

There are many jobs listed in town and village newspapers' classified sections for part-time work. She could then be close to home.

If you think this advice could be helpful, I'm sure she would be most grateful.

A. The woman who wrote originally had a family income of $14,000 a year consisting only of her husband's salary. With three children in the family, times aren't so easy financially. I tried to get across the idea that her husband probably is frustrated, too. So I suggested that they both try to "give" a little — a less ambitious career goal for her that she pressures her toward, but still some work to supplement the family income.

Today's suggestion from the reader seems to be on target.

Q. Can you imagine a woman these days absolutely refusing to breast-feed a new-born baby? I can't, but the fact is that she lives in my house, is my wife, the future mother of my children, and as stubborn as the devil!

She is pregnant now, so a final decision has to be made pretty soon. She has all kinds of reasons for not wanting to do it — it will hurt; not enough milk; her breasts are too small; she wants to go back to work as soon as possible; sleepless nights; not as clean as pasteurized milk.

I have tried to convince her in every way I know, but I'm not getting anywhere.

So how about helping me out?

A. A visit to her obstetrician or your pediatrician may be in order to get the facts clarified. It is obvious that she has some misconceptions, or else she has made up her mind and is seeking excuses.

But I hesitate to tell you what the bottom line has to be. It will have to be her decision because, after all, no one can force her to breast-feed if she is adamant about not wanting to.

However, there is no loss in trying the route of reasonable persuasion from a professional who can stress the values to the baby as well as to her.

Your Social Security

Medicare pays for second opinion

Q. I have been diagnosed by my doctor as having a condition that will require major surgery. Will Medicare pay for a second opinion? — M.B.T.

A. Yes. Since any type of surgery involves some risk, it is recommended that you get an opinion from a second doctor to help you decide about surgery.

If you need assistance in obtaining another doctor you can call Medicare's Second Opinion Referral Center toll free at 1-800-638-6833.

Q. I've been told that I should get a statement of earnings every three years to ensure that my earnings record in Baltimore is correct. Why is there a time period in which to make corrections to this record? — B.B.

A. If there were not a statute of limitations regulating the period that records can be corrected, employers would be forced to keep detailed bookkeeping and personnel records for all years.

Q. My husband signed up for Social Security and Medicare last year. He has continued to work. As I understand it, he is allowed to earn $7,320 this year and still receive all of his checks. If he earns over the allowable amount, what happens? — A.K.

A. If your earnings go over the annual amount, $1 will be deducted from your benefits for each $2 you earn over the exempt amount. If you expect to earn over the annual exempt amount you should notify Social Security promptly so that an overpayment can be avoided.

Incidentally, the annual earnings test for beneficiaries under 65 is $5,400.

Q. I understand the disability provision protects the young worker, but at one time didn't you have to be 50 years old to receive disability benefits under Social Security? — S.H.

A. Yes. The initial disability insurance provision, which became law in 1956, provided benefits for severely disabled workers, age 50 to 64. The law was amended in 1960 to provide disability benefits for workers under age 65.

School Bus Drivers Screened

Last winter a Long Island school bus driver and the bus monitor were charged with sexually abusing a 14 year old handicapped girl while transporting her home from the special school she attended. Both the driver and the attendant had previously been convicted and served time in jail for other criminal offenses. In upstate New York last spring, a school bus driver was arrested for sexually molesting a young boy. At the time of his arraignment, a background check of the driver revealed an arrest record for committing the same crime in a different school district. In June, a bus driver in Nassau County was charged with sodomizing a 3 year old boy who was attending a school for hearing and speech impaired children. Police said the driver had sodomized the boy while on the bus alone with him.

These horror stories are being repeated throughout our state and country with alarming frequency. All of us are justifiably outraged by the demented actions of individuals who sexually assault defenseless school children. School district officials have little if any control over the situation, since up to now there has been no full proof method of checking on a driver's prior criminal record.

Under a new law that I supported, school bus drivers and monitors are required to be fingerprinted before being employed. Their prints are then forwarded to the State Department of Motor Vehicles and the Division of Criminal Justice for a complete background check. Such a system will reveal prior criminal records as well as traffic violations. The law prohibits anyone convicted of serious crimes like rape, sodomy, assault with a deadly weapon, etc., are automatically barred from driving a school bus. The same rule also applies to individuals convicted of driving while intoxicated and those with revoked licenses.

The vast majority of school bus drivers are hardworking, conscientious, law-abiding citizens. Obviously, the new law is not aimed at them, but at those demented individuals who prey on innocent children. Parents, school boards and law enforcement officials have praised the passage of this needed legislation.

Cusick Re-Elected Water Commissioner

Gilbert E. Cusick was re-elected to a three year term on the Board of Water Commissioners for the Hicksville Water District in voting last week. Running unopposed, Cusick received 105 votes with one vote cast blank. He will now hold the seat as Chairman of the Board of Water Trustees.

Commissioner Cusick expressed his appreciation to all the voters who showed their support by casting their votes in his favor.

In Service

Second Lt. LeRoy A. Mehan Jr., son of LeRoy A. and Elfi M. Mehan of 178 Princess St., Hicksville, has graduated from U.S. Air Force pilot training, and has received silver wings at Vance Air Force Base, Okla.

The basic camp is designed to give junior college graduates and college sophomores who have not taken ROTC courses the chance to enter the program. The camp also qualifies high school graduates for the ROTC program at any of the nation's six military junior colleges.

During the encampment, cadets received training in basic rifle marksmanship, military drill, and ceremonies, communications and individual and small unit tactics.

ANTIQU OR JUNQUE

Beaded decoration called Moriage

By James G. McCollam

Q. This vase has been in my family for over 50 years. The birds and the beading around the tip and handles are raised.

I would like to know the actual age and current value. It is marked "Made in Japan."

A. This beaded effect is known as Moriage. The term applies to the method of decoration — not the name of the maker. Sometimes the beading was formed by hand and sometimes it was applied through a tube.

Your vase was made in the 1920s and should be worth from $75 to $95.

Q. I am confused about the markings on silverware. Can you shed a little light on the subject?

I know if silver is marked "Sterling" it is solid silver, but what about all the rest?

A. Since the middle of the 19th century, solid silver (92.5 percent pure) is marked "Sterling." During the same period, silver-plated wares were marked with the name of the manufacturer and either "Quadruple Plate," "Triple Plate," "EPNS" (electro-plated nickel silver) or just "Silverplated."

Prior to the mid-1800s there was no silver plate, so sterling was marked with maker's name only. If there is any confusion between very early sterling and old silver plate, bend a spoon or a fork slightly; sterling bends more easily than silver plate.

The above applies only to American silverware; we'll take a look at the English counterpart at a later date.

Q. I have a Hummel figurine of a small girl with a lamb. Attached is the mark on bottom. It is numbered No. 182.

What can you tell me about its vintage and value?

A. This figurine is called "Good Friends" and was made between 1972 and 1979. Its value is about $85.

If often is confused with Hummel No. 136, "Friends," which is a small girl with a fawn.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and $1 per item to James G. McCollam.

In the 1800's, baseball was a child's sandlot game. Then came the curve ball, the slide, the crowds and the legends—like Babe Ruth. Baseball had become our national pastime.

Some things never change.

But one great American tradition has changed—U.S. Savings Bonds. Now Savings Bonds pay higher variable interest rates like money market accounts. Currently, Bonds are paying 9.49%.

Just hold Savings Bonds for five years and you get the new variable interest rates. Plus, you get a guaranteed return. That means you can earn a lot more, but never less than 7.5%.

You can purchase Bonds at almost any financial institution, or easier yet, through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Money and You

Why politicians can get away with lies

By Donald C. Bauder

"You can't fool all the people all the time," said Abe Lincoln more than a hundred years ago — but he wasn't a politician in 1985.

Indeed, Abe would never make it as a politician these days — that word "Honest" before his name would disqualify him immediately.

A recent poll by the Conference Board nakedly reveals why today, politicians can get away with deceiving all the people all the time.

The New York-based research organization's Consumer Research Center polled a representative sample of 3,000 U.S. households. People were asked what kind of cuts in government spending they could tolerate.

The profoundly depressing results show why today's politicians refuse to make any surgical move to eliminate the most ominous cancer threatening our economy long-term — Social Security and Medicare.

The Conference Board survey revealed that an astonishing 83.6 percent of Americans would not tolerate any cut in Social Security. Only 14.5 percent would countenance a small cut, and a mere 1.9 percent would tolerate a large cut.

A full 73.1 percent favored no cuts whatsoever in health and Medicare; 24 percent would take a small cut, and just 2.9 percent a large cut.

Child benefits? Only a little more realistic: 52.2 percent no cut, 38.7 small cut and 9.1 large cut. Unemployment benefits? 50.5 no cut, 39.1 small cut and 10.4 large cut. Farm supports — 43.5, 39.9, 16.6. Roads and highways — 42.2, 48.7, 9.1. Student aid — 32.4, 47.5, 20.1. Defense — 31, 40.3, 28.7. Small business aid — 28.6, 55.2, 16.2. Public transportation — 27.6, 50.2, 22.2.

Only in two areas does a semblance of sanity prevail. Just 24 percent insist on no cut in welfare; 39.9 would approve a small cut and 36.1 a large cut. And public housing had the least support among the respondents: 20.4 percent said no cut, 52.7 small cut and 26.9 large cut.

Everyone in Congress knows — and even a few state publicly — that it will require large cuts in the majority of these programs to restore real fiscal sanity to the nation.

Furthermore, the politicians know full well that the two programs that are in the worst shape — Social Security and Medicare — are the very ones that the voters are the most uncompromising about.

But how could you expect the people to feel otherwise? They have been deceived for years on the solvency of these programs. In 1977, both parties huddled behind closed doors, manipulated some numbers and declared Social Security blissfully solvent for the next half century or more. Six years later, the system was on the brink of the abyss again, and the politicians went through their ritual.

They emerged from the closed caucus to declare that the system was sound until the middle of the next century. But they didn't admit — and few in the press brought out — that the economic assumptions upon which the forecast was based were utterly fraudulent.

The pessimistic assumption was that inflation would be no higher than 5 percent from the mid-1980s until the middle of the next century! The politicians also solemnly forecast that interest would go no higher than 6.5 percent until the middle of the next century! The long-range forecasts on unemployment were equally ridiculous.

It's little wonder that in the 1984 presidential election, both candidates completely demagogued the Social Security issue — and that Congress is doing the same right now.

Why address the problem if the people won't tolerate the solution to it? Why tell the truth if the people will be satisfied with statistical lies?

Indeed, if they knew how to tell the truth, they wouldn't be in politics.

EAT YOURSELF SLIM

By Shirley Bright Boody
Registered Dietitian

Dear Shirley: My mother and my aunt both have osteoporosis, and neither one drinks milk or gets any exercise. They are both in their 60s, and they look older because they're getting a hump on their backs.

I am in my late 30s, and I want to avoid this problem if I can. I drink milk every day, but I wonder if that's enough calcium.

I work, so I don't have time for long exercise programs. What are the best exercises for making bones stronger that I could do at home?

How much calcium do I need? Do you think I will inherit weak bones from my mother? My sister wants to prevent osteoporosis too, so can you give us some ideas?

How does exercising make bones strong? I don't understand that. — Evie

Dear Evie: Exercise increases the blood flow to the bones and bathes them with nutrients that aid in the formation of new bone. It also adds stress that causes them to become thicker and stronger.

The bones of people who don't exercise regularly tend to become weaker. They often shrink and become porous and break easily. Exercise produces tiny electric currents within the bone tissue that are thought to be important in bone building.

The best kinds of exercise to build strong bones are the weight-bearing ones that will increase movement, stress and pull on the long bones of the body. Bicycling, jogging, brisk walking and jumping rope cause these bones to become denser and stronger.

Don't worry about inheriting weak bones: You can make your own strong and healthy. Three glasses of low-fat milk (8 ounces each) daily will give you about 890 milligrams of calcium. Add some low-fat yogurt (without fruit, if you're watching your weight), a couple of ounces of cheese, plenty of green leafy vegetables, and fish with tiny bones, to increase your calcium. Supplements are OK, too.

Dear Shirley: I have two very young children at home, and I have a new job that will keep me away all day. I've found a nice woman to baby-sit, but I'm already worried about how she will feed them when I'm not there. I am so fearful of children choking on certain foods.

Do you have any suggestions that I can write down and give to the baby-sitter when she feeds my children? I don't know why I'm so afraid of choking, but I guess it's because it happened to me when I was a child. I would really appreciate your help. — Mrs. P.F.

A. Dear Mrs. P.F.: You are wise to be concerned. Young children are at greater risk of choking because they have small air passages, weak coughs and inadequate teeth to properly chew many foods. Here are some guidelines to post for your baby-sitter:

1. Avoid all hard foods such as nuts, raw carrots, hard candies, tough meats or any food that the child may be incapable of chewing.

2. Cook foods and cut into small pieces. If there are any doubts, avoid the food.

3. Never leave a child alone while eating, nor leave a bottle propped into a child's mouth.

4. Don't let a child eat or drink unless he or she is sitting up.

5. Don't let a child eat while you're driving a car, because you couldn't act quickly enough.

6. Topical teething anesthetics numb the mouth area, and can interfere with swallowing and chewing.

7. Consult your pediatrician on what to do if choking occurs, and write it down next to the doctor's phone number.

Remember that children learn from having a variety of foods with different textures and tastes, so don't worry excessively. Just be sure they never eat alone.

Callers To Input Want TV 'Fairness Doctrine'

Most callers to Input believe that TV must be controlled by the "Fairness Doctrine" in response to last week's question: "Do you think that TV stations should be able to abandon the "Fairness Doctrine" which forces broadcasters to give time to candidates of opposing parties if one was presented?"

FAIRNESS NEEDED

Yes. It is a fact of life that TV and most media will not give more than one side of an issue if they are not forced to do so. As a matter of fact what has been going on is that broadcasters have been making believe they are giving full reporting to an issue when they are presenting only two sides to issues that have more than two sides. This has been polarizing issues and has stopped a debate process from uncovering new ideas. The TV stations should have to give time to as many parties as qualify to be on the ballot. N.T.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

The reason I say yes that TV must be forced to give more than one side to an issue and present the views of other qualified candidates is because unlike printed newspapers and magazines, TV stations are given a license to use the air waves. Not anyone can present TV programs. The government issues a license and it is illegal for anyone to broadcast but the people who have been licensed to use the public airwaves. Presently you would believe that the TV stations owned the airwaves and therefore they can use them any way they wish. But since this is not true they must give all sides and there must be regulation to see that they do so. W.T.

FAIRNESS IS UNFAIR

The problem with the present regulation is that it allows a minor candidate to demand equal time and thus crowd out the ideas of a major candidate making it impossible for TV stations to present the major candidates when they wish to do so, we do not get more public information but less. This is the reason the so-called "fairness doctrine" is unfair. J.E.

POOR DEBATE

Yes. There must be a continued protection for minority parties on the TV airwaves. The debates last year were sponsored by the League of Women Voters and therefore they did not have to provide equal time to minor candidates. But this was hardly a good situation. All the voters heard was rehearsed ideas aimed at fooling the public. Some other ideas would have forced the two major candidates to say it as it was and come up with some better solutions. The LWV aided the TV stations in circumventing the law but did little in preserving a free flow of information. The FCC should not lessen the restrictions because they are in the public interest. K.J.

FIRST AMENDMENT

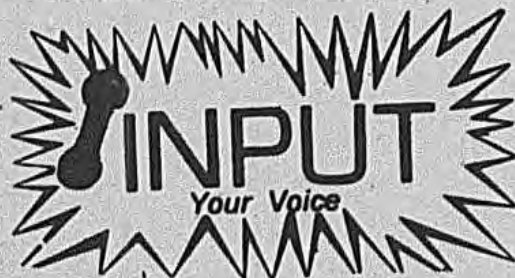

The regulation of TV, particularly news and public issues is protected by the First Amendment under Freedom of the press and the government has no Constitutional right to dictate to TV, radio or anyone else. G.W.

STOP REGULATION

Presently TV is doing a fair job of reporting the news and seems to try to put over both sides of an issue. I do not think that continued regulation will help at all. It could result in politics and fear of losing licenses dictating what will be presented. L.F.

FOR CONTINUATION

I don't think that TV stations could be able to abandon the "Fairness Doctrine" which makes equal time a legal mandate to enable opposing candidates to voice their side of a political position on a given issue. The public must know both sides of any important problem in order to vote intelligently and effectively. I simply can't understand the position taken by the FCC recommending the abolition of the Doctrine on the basis that "it has a chilling effect on free speech". What kind of double talk is that! The only thing I don't like about the "equal time" commandment is that the first one on the air is at a decided disadvantage inasmuch as the opposing candidate can tailor views to take full advantage of what has already been said. There's a bit of a gamble there but it is outweighed by the importance to the voter in trying to make up his mind. Furthermore, to the extent that they are able, the broadcasters also have a responsibility to the public to follow a "Fairness Doctrine" of their own in the allocation of time slots. I am in favor of the continuation of the "Fairness Doctrine". P.G.S.

DISCOVERY

Who's Superstitious?

By Sanford Weinberg

We have all, at one time or another, knocked on wood, thrown a pinch of salt over our left shoulder, carried a rabbit's foot, avoided breaking a mirror or walking under a ladder and performed similar acts in order to prevent incurring a streak of bad luck.

All of the foregoing are known as superstitious acts, and the belief that doing the act will preclude misfortune or moreover, that it may even bring good luck is known as superstition.

The term is used to describe forms of belief which are no longer regarded as valid. Superstitions have their roots in ancient times although their origins have been lost over the span of year. Those that have survived are relics of ancient and vanished cultures.

Man has learned very slowly to come to understand the world about him. For thousands of years strange or mystreous events and circumstances troubled and frightened him. There was an inclination by people to accept the existence of an external power which influence their lives and can, in turn, be influenced by the human will. Such a power has been known as good and evil, god and devil, white and black magic and today most of us sum it up by the term, luck. Actually superstition and all that it involves is concerned with specific attitudes towards the world of spirits.

At the basis of most of our surviving superstition lies an acceptance of magic as a rule of life which means the possibility of control by men over his destiny by exercise of key actions or rituals.

Although present-day science believes that everything in nature has a natural cause, and a knowledge of nature's laws assists us to explain every cause and effect, superstitions persist.

It has been assumed that the more civilized and advanced a culture becomes, the less likely it will be to exhibit superstitious phenomena. This, however, is not so. In the United States, the most technologically advanced society in the world, superstitious beliefs and practices are not only widespread but actually appear to be on the increase. This is true of other western industrialized nations.

Ironically, even people who say they are not superstitious will touch wood, cross their fingers or eschew walking under ladders. Superstions offer an uncanny support in all crises of life; in work or love, in war or peace and in birth or death - support for which most of us are only too grateful.

Several experts who have studied superstitious thinking conclude that far from being an ancient relic of an ignorant past that it is often considered to be, is actually a universal, normal, and often adaptive way in which human beings attempt to provide themselves with "order, regularity and meaning" in an uncertain and mysterious universe.

Superstitions have developed in occupations where people involved must depend to a great extent on forces beyond their control for success. For example, in the field related to Sailing and Seamen here are some illustrations of superstitions that have evolved:

It is bad luck to sail on a ship when its name has been changed. Ill luck will follow if a sailor steps on or off his ship with his left foot first.

Many sailors will not speak certain words at sea such as animal's names.

It is totally forbidden (even today) to whistle on board ship. It can raise a gale or summon spirits.

Illustrations of superstitions related to the field of Entertainment are:

Leonard Bernstein, the famous conductor, always wears the same pair of cufflinks when conducting - presumably for luck. They were a gift from Serge Koussivitzky, his mentor.

Zsa Zsa Gabor always wears a child's ring (valueless) which was a present from her grandmother, probably as a lucky charm.

Paul Anka is always careful not to go on stage until the first four bars of the introduction have been played.

Tony Curtis, it is said, has the fear of the number 14 and of white cats crossing his path.

Both Jung and Freud, famous in the field of psychology, agree that superstitious beliefs and practices are deeply rooted in man's unconscious mental processes. They both held that superstition is not a thing of the past, or confined to the less educated - in fact; it is part and parcel of every body's mental makeup, liable to come to the surface under certain circumstances.

Therefore, now when you pick particular horses at the racetrack or the lotto numbers in New York's Lottery this week, you may understand a little better just why you chose those you did.

TOUCH OF ELEGANCE
There is a real touch of elegance at Devins Restaurant in Garden City and it makes the difference when you are in a restaurant just how the restaurant looks and what type of service you get. It has always been our experience that Devins is first rate. Of course, the food is of great importance and Devins has a wonderful continental menu. We always enjoy the food at this restaurant. Last week we took a party of four to Devins and everyone in the party said they were exceptionally well pleased with the beef and with the fish served there. Devins is a restaurant that you can count on when you are entertaining important people or just go out for a wonderful meal. J.E.

Originality, Inspiration
The other night we decided to go to a new restaurant and we hit upon the ad for the restaurant with the novel name: Your Place Or Mine in Williston Park. While we had never been there before it appears that many other people had heard of it before us. The small restaurant was filled to overflowing. But we were treated courteously and well.

The food at this restaurant is exceptionally good and prepared in a different modern style. It has wonderful vegetables and the entree of beef that we had was cooked with originality and inspiration. In other words this is not just an ordinary restaurant.
We think it is the best. Your Place-Or Mine is located in

WORTH IT
 We watch your restaurant pages each week and last week noticed McKeon's in Hicksville. My husband and I went there for dinner and found it to be a great place. The service was good and the food was delicious. We thought for a minute we had bypassed it because it's on a busy intersection where Broadway (Route 107) and Bloomingdale and New South Roads meet. We're glad we looked for it from the ad in your newspaper - it is definitely worth it. V.K.

FINE STEAKS

The other night we went to McKeon's restaurant on New South Rd., Hicksville. It was the first time we had been in this restaurant although we had heard some good things about it from friends. We are happy to report that we had the finest shell steaks we have tasted in a long time.

The service is friendly and helpful and the price is in line with what we have paid for food that was not of this quality elsewhere. McKeon's is decorated in a style that is comfortable and appealing. We believe that we will become regular customers of this new restaurant and want to recommend it to your readers.

FINE ITALIAN

A really first rate Italian restaurant is located on Hillside Avenue in New Hyde Park. We went to the Fianona Restaurant last week and were amazed at the excellent pasta and veal.

In fact, I am of Italian descent and was surprised that a restaurant could produce food that rivaled the home kitchen preparations of my mother.

I wanted to let everyone in on this exceptional find so I decided to call and give the comments to you so that you can print them in the newspaper.

The service was just fine at the Fianona and it is a nice attractive restaurant.

Q. If bouillon is served in a cup, do you drink it? Should you take part of it with the spoon? What if the cup has two handles. Do you use both hands? B.K.

A. Spoon up part of the bouillon before taking it up to drink. If the cup has one handle, hold it in one hand. If it has two handles, hold it by both handles. If the bouillon has solids in it, take them up with the spoon before drinking the bouillon.

Q. If someone asks you to dinner, shouldn't he make the reservations, tell you where to come, and pay for the meal?

A. Yes. The person who does the asking takes the responsibility for making the arrangements - and for paying, unless it is clearly understood beforehand that it is "dutch."

Q. What do you do if you think you've been invited to a restaurant, so you don't bring any money and then you're suddenly confronted with having to pay half the bill?

A. You must pay your share of the bill in this circumstance. It happens often in our lives, simply because we don't pay enough attention to communicating and preplanning our engagements. We should all be specific about when, where, and who pays, when dates and arrangements are jointly made.

If you're in a restaurant with no money in a situation like this, go to the captain and tell him you plight and that you will send the money tomorrow - by messenger. If you show identification and if you sign a receipt for money owed, you might be able to arrange for payment of your share tomorrow. Otherwise you are going to have to borrow money from your friends at the table. It is embarrassing, but come up with a logical excuse for not having money or credit card.

Q. Is it proper to tip soup or dessert dishes? And when is soup eaten with a spoon? I sometimes see people drinking bouillon, etc. directly from a cup. Is this correct? C.T.

A. The tipping of a soup or dessert dish is acceptable if the plate is tipped away from the spoon, not toward the eater. Soup or bouillon served in a handled cup or (Oriental fashion) small, cup sized bowl may be drunk. If there are vegetables or other garnish floating on top, these may be lifted off with the spoon before the soup is drunk. Noodles or other things which may be in the bottom of the cup are spooned up after the liquid has been drunk.

NFL players and wives tackle tailgate recipes

By Allison Wicken

Good cooks and good sports across America are beginning to huddle around their tailgates. It's football season. And those pre-game parking lot picnics can be a festive way to prolong family fun at the stadium.

First popularized as a way to include football "widows" in the "armchair quarterback's" passion, tailgate buffets have become an occasion almost as popular as the game itself. Lincoln-Mercury even has designed a special tailgate for its Sable wagon, featuring built-in cup holders and storage slots for picnic gear.

Whether it's drumsticks or caviar, the only rules-of-thumb for a tailgate menu are that it be tasty and filling — and easy on the chef.

Few people have had more experience tackling this assignment than National Football League players and their wives. Today's recipes include favorites from Julie Haynes (wife of LA Raider cornerback Mike Haynes), Danny White of the Dallas Cowboys, Pat Grant (wife of Minnesota Vikings coach Bud Grant), Ken Sims of the New England Patriots and the Miami Dolphins' Lemon Bar specialty. The dishes are easy to make, easy to pack, easy to eat and easy to bring cheers from the fans.

After Work Gourmet

Chinese cooking with American ingredients

By Paul Bensen
and Evander Preston

Many Chinese recipes are natural choices for the after-work chef, since dishes that are stir-fried or deep-fried in a wok, like today's recipes, require just a couple of minutes' cooking time.

Over the last decade, Oriental cuisine has become much more popular in this country for a variety of other reasons, too.

For one thing, the quality and variety of Oriental restaurants here have improved dramatically — perhaps as a response to a more sophisticated and adventuresome American clientele. Also, the cuisines of China, Japan and other Oriental countries mesh well with the current prevailing trends in dining — toward light, visually appealing dishes that use meat sparingly and rely heavily on fresh, lightly cooked vegetables.

Both of us have often served Chinese meals to friends who loved the food, but felt that it was too exotic and difficult to prepare for them to try it at home. One major concern of these people was that some ingredients in Chinese recipes are available only at Oriental specialty stores, and they were hesitant about dealing with row upon row of jars and bottles containing unfamiliar ingredients and labeled only with Chinese characters.

This concern is largely unfounded, since the staff at such specialty stores are usually very willing to help novice Oriental chefs find what they need to prepare a favorite recipe. Even if you live miles from the nearest Oriental market, though, great Chinese meals are as close as your nearest supermarket.

Some time ago, we began hearing reports that American sauces and ingredients have become quite the rage among chefs in China. Condiments that we take for granted, like chili barbecue sauce, steak sauces and Tabasco have become sought-after items among Chinese chefs — much like American jeans and rock albums among Chinese young people.

We found this trend fascinating, and wondered whether you really can cook a great Chinese meal strictly with ingredients available at every American supermarket. Our experiments proved that this is, in fact, the case, and we hope you'll agree when you try today's recipes.

For a main dish, we decided on chicken prepared with some commercial American sauces mixed with sherry, cornstarch and soy sauce. Our four favorites, each very different from the others, represent a good cross-section of typical provincial Chinese seasonings.

The Tiger Sauce recipe has a piquancy reminiscent of Hunan and Szechuan seasoning — though it is not as spicy as many of those provinces' sauces (if you want a hotter version, just increase the amount of Tiger Sauce to taste). Heinz 57 sauce, combined with the other ingredients, has more of a Cantonese flavor. A1 Steak Sauce, again combined with sherry, cornstarch and soy sauce, brings Mandarin cooking to mind. The same basic recipe, but with Pickapeppa Sauce, has a definite Oriental flavor, but we weren't able to relate it to any specific regional cuisine. We decided to use chicken thighs in these recipes because Place all ingredients in container of blender and blend until smooth and creamy. Refrigerate in covered container up to 10 days. Makes about 1½ cups.

CREAMY TOFU CHEESE

1 lb. tofu, drained
2 tbsps. olive oil
1 tbsp. plus 1 tsp. lemon juice or wine vinegar
¾ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
¼ tsp. salt
Dash each garlic powder and pepper

Place tofu in bowl and mash well with fork. Stir in remaining ingredients, blending thoroughly. Cover and refrigerate several hours to let flavors blend.

Serves 3 to 4.

boned and cut in 1-inch pieces

SAUCE:

1 tbsp. Tiger Sauce (or A-1 Steak Sauce, Pickapeppa Sauce or Heinz 57 Sauce — see text, above)
2 tbsps. soy sauce
1 tbsp. sherry
2 tps. cornstarch

In wok, stir-fry green peppers in 2 tablespoons of the oil. Cook peppers just long enough to bring them to full color. Do not allow to brown or blacken. Remove peppers from wok, drain and set aside.

In other 2 tablespoons of oil, stir-fry scallions, garlic and ginger root 1 minute, taking care that none of the ingredients burns. Add chicken joints and continue to stir-fry 3 to 4 minutes more. Add reserved green peppers and sauce and stir-fry another minute, until all ingredients are mixed together well and heated through.

Serves 2.

CRAB EGG ROLLS

1 pkg. egg roll wrappers
2 (6-oz.) cans crabmeat, drained
4 ozs. cream cheese
2 scallions, chopped
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. white pepper
2 egg whites, for sealing wrappers

Cut 24 squares, approximately 4 inches by 4 inches, from egg roll wrappers.

In large bowl, mix crabmeat, cream cheese, scallions, salt and pepper until mixture is uniform.

On each square of wrapper, place 1 heaping teaspoon of mixture. Fold corners in to form "envelope" and seal edges with egg white.

In wok, heavy, deep-sided frying pan or deep fryer, deep-fry egg rolls, 3 or 4 at a time, at 350 F to 375 F, until golden brown.

As each batch is done, transfer to warm oven.

Makes approximately 24 egg rolls.

PLUM SAUCE

1 cup Chinese plum sauce
1 cup apricot preserves
1 cup peach preserves
1 cup applesauce
2 tps. dry mustard
½ tsp. garlic powder
¼ cup chill sauce

Pour plum sauce (available at many supermarkets and at virtually all Oriental food stores) through metal strainer into a large bowl, to remove any pieces of ginger, pimiento or spices.

Add all remaining ingredients and mix well with fork or with chopsticks.

Store, refrigerated, in tightly covered jars. This sauce will keep for months in the refrigerator.

STIR-FRIED ZUCCHINI WITH BASIL

1½ lbs. zucchini, washed
2 tbsps. salt
2 tbsps. unsalted butter
1 tsp. dried basil (or 1 tsp. fresh)
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste

Using julienne side of four-sided food grater, or julienne blade of food processor, grate zucchini into strands. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons salt (to draw off excess moisture) and let stand 1 hour. Drain and gently squeeze out any remaining excess moisture with paper towels.

In wok or heavy frying pan, heat butter until foaming. Add zucchini, basil and salt and pepper to taste. Stir-fry 2 to 3 minutes and serve immediately.

Serves 4 to 6.

TANGY TOFU DRESSING

¾ cup mashed tofu
3 tbsps. lemon juice
2 tbsps. vegetable oil
1 tbsp. chopped fresh parsley
1 tbsp. chopped fresh green onion
1 small clove garlic, peeled and diced
1 tsp. soy sauce
¼ tsp. each salt, pepper and curry powder

Place all ingredients in container of blender and puree until thoroughly blended. Refrigerate in covered container up to 10 days. Makes approximately ¾ cup.

GARLIC TOFU MAYONNAISE

1 cup mashed tofu
½ cup olive oil
¼ cup red wine vinegar
1-2 cloves garlic, peeled and diced
¼ tsp. dried mustard
Pepper to taste

they have excellent taste and texture when stir-fried, and are much less expensive than chicken breasts.

Crabmeat Egg Rolls and Plum Sauce are a combination that, we feel, competes with the best offerings of top Chinese dim sum restaurants. Stir-fried Zucchini with Basil, though definitely Oriental in flavor, is an excellent accompaniment for almost any main course.

STIR-FRIED CHICKEN THIGHS WITH ORIENTAL SAUCES

4 tbsps. peanut oil
2 green peppers, cut in 1-inch squares
3 scallions, coarsely chopped
1 tsp. minced garlic
1 tsp. minced fresh ginger root
1 lb. chicken thighs, skinned,

Microwave Magic

By Desirée Vivea

Naturally tender pork is a good choice for microwaving since meat cooks up flavorful and juicy — and looks great even without browning.

If you do desire a browned look, it's simple to achieve. Just brush meat with a little soy sauce or with equal parts of bouquet sauce and water.

With a browning grill, browned pork chops are a breeze. Preheat the grill in the oven on HIGH (100 percent) power setting as directed by the manufacturer. Arrange the chops on the preheated grill, cooking 3½ to 4 minutes per 3-ounce chop (5 to 6 minutes for two). Turn once, halfway through cooking time, and let the meat stand on the hot grill 3 minutes before serving, to finish cooking.

When cutting pork cubes for a casserole dish, remember to keep pieces of a uniform size for even cooking.

Today's pork is leaner and cleaner than in the past. Many cookbooks recommend cooking pork until its internal temperature reaches 185 F. But these days, pork is safely cooked when a meat thermometer or probe registers 170 F. (Use only a manufacturer-approved microwave thermometer in your oven.)

A 3½ to 4-pound pork loin roast will microwave, fat side down, in 14 to 15 minutes per pound on a MEDIUM-HIGH setting (70 percent power). Rotate the dish one-half turn every 10 minutes, and turn the roast after 30 minutes, basting with a browning agent if desired.

Remove from the oven when the probe inserted in the thickest part of the meat registers 160 F. Let stand, covered with foil, 10 to 15 minutes, which will finish cooking the meat and raise the internal temperature to 170 F.

While it's important to cook pork until it is done, be careful to avoid overcooking, or the meat may become tough. Pork chops and smaller cuts are done when juices run clear and the meat loses its pink color.

PORK CHOPS EXTRAORDINAIRE

- ¼ cup plus 2 tbsps. vegetable or olive oil
- 5 peppercorns, crushed
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 tbsps. red wine vinegar
- Pinch dry mustard
- 4 large, thick, boned loin pork chops
- ¼ cup flour
- ¼ tsp. each salt and ground thyme
- 1 medium onion, diced
- ½ cup dry white wine
- 2 tbsps. water
- 1 (4 oz.) jar mushroom caps, drained

In shallow dish, combine ¼ cup of oil, peppercorns, garlic, vinegar and mustard. Stir to blend well.

Place pork chops in marinade, turning to coat both sides. Cover and refrigerate 5 to 6 hours, turning meat occasionally.

Combine flour with salt and ground thyme. Pat marinated meat with paper towels to remove excess marinade, then dredge in seasoned flour. (Discard marinade.)

Use remaining 2 tablespoons oil to coat bottom of oblong glass baking dish. Arrange pork chops in dish and microwave, uncovered, 2 minutes on HIGH (100 percent power). Turn chops over and microwave 2 minutes longer.

Remove meat from dish; set aside.

Stir in chopped onion, cover, and microwave 4 minutes on HIGH setting, stirring after 2 minutes. Add wine, water and drained mushroom caps; stir gently. Arrange pork chops on top.

Cover and microwave 8 to 10 minutes longer on HIGH, turning chops once after 5 minutes. Let stand 2 to 3 minutes before serving.

Serves 4.

SWEET AND SOUR PORK

- ¼ cup vegetable oil
- 3 large or 4 medium carrots, peeled and diagonally sliced
- 2 lbs. boneless pork, cut into ¾-inch cubes
- 1 medium onion, cut in chunks
- 1 large green pepper, seeded and cut in chunks
- 1 cup canned pineapple chunks (reserve ½ cup liquid)
- ½ cup brown sugar
- ¼ cup each vinegar and soy sauce
- 4 tbsps. cornstarch
- ¼ tsp. pepper

Combine oil and carrots in 3-quart glass casserole dish. Cover and microwave on HIGH (100 percent power) 4 minutes, stirring every minute.

Add pork cubes, onion and green pepper; stir, cover and microwave 5 minutes on HIGH.

Stir in pineapple chunks, brown sugar, vinegar and soy sauce. Stir cornstarch and pepper into the ½ cup reserved pineapple liquid, blending well. Add to pork mixture and stir well.

Microwave, uncovered, 5 minutes on HIGH; stir and rotate dish one-half turn. Microwave 5 minutes longer. Pork should be tender and sauce thickened.

Let stand, covered, 3 minutes before serving over hot cooked rice.

Serves 6 to 8.

The 'wet look' for your bricks

Q. The brick walks in my garden will not retain their natural red color. White spots keep showing up. I have used the so-called tree wax sealer and other preparations, but these do not do the job. In fact, the bricks look worse.

A. There anything I can do to keep the bricks permanently looking like bricks are supposed to look, such as when they are wet? — M.R.

A. The white spots are due to efflorescence — moisture working its way through and carrying salts with it that remain on the surface when the water evaporates.

Masonry cleaning and etching preparations, available at masonry supply houses, will remove soil and various stains, including the white spots. It also will take off the other preparations you have used, which is necessary before you apply a new finish.

If there is any excess mortar clinging to the brick surface, this can be removed with a solution of muriatic acid, one part acid, to 20 parts water. Be careful to protect your eyes, face and hands when using the acid.

After the brick surface is thoroughly cleaned, a clear masonry sealer should be applied. If you wish to wax the walks, be certain to use a good exterior wax. There also is a sealer for masonry products that comes in colors and may give you a richer, deeper red than the natural brick, or more like the color of red brick when it is wet.

Possibly the reason you did not get good results from the preparations you previously used is that the brick surface was not cleaned thoroughly first. This is essential.

Q. We are having trouble with a couple of doors in our house. They do not seem to fit correctly, though we can get them opened and closed with some difficulty.

Do you have any suggestions, or must we call a carpenter? Actually, we do not know just what is wrong. — S.G.

A. One of the most annoying defects to be found around the average home is door trouble.

There are several different types of trouble — the door that will not stay closed, the door that sags so that it scrapes the floor or carpet, the door that jams so that it cannot be closed tightly and the door that cannot be locked. All of these can be corrected, and usually without taking the door down.

The door that cannot be locked, although it closes, and the door that will not easily stay closed are suffering from striking-plate trouble. The flat metal plate set in the door jamb, and into which the tongue of the lock in the door is supposed to 'catch,' has become slightly out of place. This can be caused by slight settling of the house or by warping of the door.

If you close the door almost all the way and line up the tongue with the square hole in the striking-plate, you can see whether the plate needs to be moved up or down or in or out so that the tongue will drop in where it belongs.

The door that scrapes along the floor or carpet when it is opened usually can be raised for proper clearance by taking the screws out of the lower hinge where it is fastened to the door jamb, slipping a piece of cardboard under the hinge and replacing the screws. This raises the outer lower edge of the door.

The door that jams does so because it has swollen or warped so that it cannot fit into the door opening. This is simply a sandpapering job on the door edge. There should be plenty of marks on the door opening to show where a fraction of an inch needs to be shaved off.

If all this seems too difficult for the handyman around your house to undertake, then it would be best to call in a skilled carpenter.

ing about arthritis. Millions of sufferers will bless you. I am enclosing a small donation to help pay for a leaflet on arthritis and the Certo remedy. — Mrs. Nora M.

Dear Nora: Thank you for the donation. It will help pay for the printing of leaflets and the clerical work involved. It seems like more and more people are writing for leaflets. Even non-readers of papers carrying this column, who say they were told about it by a friend

Dear John: Do any of your readers know any remedies for the burning sensation of the tongue? We know it's not from any medication, but the specialist doesn't know what causes it or what can be done to ease the sensation. — Sue R.

Dear Sue: You must have missed some of these columns recently. We had considerable discussion about the tongue and the burning sensation. We don't have space to repeat it here, but will try to carry more in a later column.

Dear John: Here's one more for the leaflet on the use of Certo for arthritis. A little late for me in two spots, as I have two total artificial hips. Boy, they are great. No pain.

I have one hand with a very bad spot. I wonder if the Frank L. mixture of Aloe Gel mixed with powdered spirits would help me, how much to how much?

What's the Pen Pal list about? — Mary H.

Dear Mary: The Pen Pal list is a list of people who are lonely or particularly like to write letters. It is available for the asking.

I know very little about Aloe Gel, have had few comments on it. I'd try the Certo or the vinegar.

Admire your spunk and good humor, Mary.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am 17 and dating a real nice guy. His only problem was that he smoked marijuana regularly. Since Bill and I have talked about getting married after I leave school, I talked him into stopping his nasty habit because he knows that I detest the use of illegal drugs.

Bill promised with all his heart and soul that he would not smoke another marijuana cigarette, and so far he has kept his word. The only thing he does once in awhile is sniff a little "hash." I'm told that hash is got a drug but more like snuff or chewing tobacco. Yes, I'm aware that regular tobacco use is habit-forming and is considered a drug, but at least it isn't illegal.

My next job is to get Bill off hash and cigarettes. Then I will have a perfect boyfriend. — Carol Carol: Someone has been giving you wrong information. Hash (hashish) is the juice from the flower and seeds of the marijuana plant and is a chemical 10 times stronger than the marijuana leaf. Hashish in powder form can be sniffed and is a potent illegal drug. It seems that Billy Boy is laying a "con" job on you. Don't even consider marriage with him until you are convinced that he is "clean" from all illegal drugs — if this indeed is possible.

Dr. Wallace: I am 19 and so is my best girlfriend. We are very close and tell each other everything, even our deep, dark secrets. Last night Sylvia called me and said that she was engaged.

I was thrilled until she told me that the lucky guy was my ex-boyfriend. She told me that she has been seeing him for over two months but she didn't want to tell me because she didn't want me to feel bad.

Now I'm really ticked off. Even though I do not love my "ex" I think my girlfriend is a sneaky "back-stabber" and I told her so. I also told her that we were no longer friends.

I've slept on this and today I feel the same way. Do you feel I'm justified in my thinking? — Connie

Connie: I'll admit your girlfriend was a bit sneaky, but since she didn't steal your boyfriend from you — back-stabber is a bit harsh. Since it's obvious that the guy in question will cause strained relations between you and your friend, it's best that you two part company until all three of you can be comfortable in each other's company — all three together at the same time!

Dr. Wallace: I am 18 and afraid to drive.

Last year I was riding in a car with my best friend driving when she hit a curb and then hit a truck. It was like the movies. The next thing I remembered was lying at the side of the road with a lot of people staring at me.

Thank goodness, no one was seriously injured, at least physically. My injury was emotional.

Please help me. I know how to drive; it's just that I can't. — Julie Julie: Go back to the basics. Try driving on roads that have little traffic and always have a licensed driver seated next to you. Little by little increase your driving time, then travel on roads with heavier traffic.

If that doesn't do the trick, you may need the services of a professional driving instructor or therapist — not necessarily in that order.

Dr. Wallace: Last week my family went on vacation and I met a wonderful guy. We were going to exchange addresses and phone numbers but I had to go home a day early and didn't get David's address or telephone number.

I miss him a lot and would like to contact him. This is very important to me. He lives in Indianapolis and I know his last name. — Christy Christy: Contact your nearest public library and ask if they have telephone directories for major cities. If not, they can direct you to a library that does.

Then it's a hit-and-miss proposition until you find the right family. Hopefully, his surname isn't Smith, Jones or Brown.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a 15-year-old guy and my problem is that I stutter and it really makes me feel stupid.

Is there any way I can get some help? My family doesn't have money for therapy. Can you please help me? — Mike.

Mike: Go to your school nurse or counselor. Many school districts offer speech therapy to assist students such as you.

If for some reason your district doesn't, your school nurse will know where you can receive help.

Mainly For Seniors

By John T. Watts

Wife can't draw on SS claim

Dear John: I have a question which you may be able to answer for me. I will be 65 next year and will be applying for Social Security.

I've not worked outside the home a lot, so have not accumulated much paid-into Social Security. However, my husband has always worked, but is six years younger than myself.

Can I draw on my husband's claim even though he won't retire for six years? — E.C.

Dear E.C.: I don't think so, but check with the SS office. You can do it by telephone. If you get Social Security next year it probably will only be a very minimum amount.

However, when your husband retires your portion as wife will be refigured on the basis of what he will get.

Dear John: On March 8 I wrote asking if you would please send me your article on arthritis, and the using of Certo and grape juice. So far have had no reply.

At this time I am sending a self-addressed envelope; do hope I may have a reply soon.

Would also like your opinion about which is the better of the two, Certo/grape or "something" with vinegar? — Evelyn P.

Dear Evelyn: You must always send a return envelope, self-addressed to get a reply. Also it must have a stamp.

As to your question, Certo vs. vinegar, that I can't answer. Some readers say one thing, some say another. Some people can't tolerate one thing, some another.

The best thing would seem to be to experiment. Personally I have used only Certo, with quick results in chasing pain from arthritis in the neck.

There is also an arthritis diet on the leaflet, but it is only for people with very, very bad arthritis.

Dear John: I read your column in the Valley Journal and enjoy it very much. Please don't stop writ-

I have developed a system for the trotters which, I believe, offers the greatest assistance to "do-it-yourself" handicappers. I do not suggest that the user will "make a million" overnight, but I categorically state that handicapping proficiency will be improved by anyone who follows the rules. JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Last Sunday I took a trip to New Jersey to visit a relative. We took advantage of the pleasant weather to sit outdoors. My hostess does not get out much, so she was glad to enjoy a little sunshine.

Both of us watched as a variety of animal visitors came into view. First a big black and white cat appeared on the scene. He (or she) was followed by a wild canary nibbling seeds from a bird feeder. Then four crows came ambling by and finally two squirrels came chasing each other up and down a wild cherry tree.

It was almost as if the animals were actors performing on a stage and we were the audience!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Ann Davis and Richard Hill. You'll both hear from me soon!

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Can plants, pets live in harmony?

Q. Are household plants poisonous to pets?

We have two indoor dogs and a lot of indoor plants. I really hate to give up any of my plants, but neither do I want to endanger the lives of my dogs.

If household plants are poisonous for pets, could you list those that are most dangerous?

A. Many of the common household plants are poisonous if eaten by dogs or cats. All portions of some plants are poisonous if ingested, while only certain portions of other plants are poisonous.

All parts of the following plants are considered to be poisonous to pets: azalea, bleeding heart, boxwood, castor bean, Christmas rose, crocus, daphne, delphinium, dieffenbachia (dumbcane), elephant ear, English holly, English ivy, four-o'clock, foxglove, hydrangea, iris, Jerusalem cherry, larkspur, lily-of-the-valley, laurel, monkshood, mountain laurel, oleander, philodendron, poinsettia, rhododendron, star-of-Bethlehem, yellow jasmine, yew.

The bulbs of the following plants are poisonous: daffodil, hyacinth, narcissus.

The seeds of the following plants are poisonous: golden chain, morning glory, sweet pea.

The berries of lantana and mistletoe and the needles of pine trees are considered to be poisonous to pets.

These lists are incomplete; there are probably many other plants or parts of plants that are poisonous to pets if ingested in sufficient quantities.

Puppies of course are usually quite curious and enjoy chewing on anything that they can reach and can get into their mouths. As puppies mature, they usually lose this annoying habit. Mature dogs that are fed properly usually do not crave household plants.

It is quite possible to have pets and plants in most homes. Dogs can be trained to leave plants alone - scolding or punishment properly applied will help new pets learn to avoid household plants.

During times when you must be away from home, all potentially poisonous plants should be placed where pets cannot get to them. They could be placed on tables or shelves off the floor, or in a closed room. Another solution is to place all potentially dangerous plants inside a baby crib while away.

If you suspect that your dog has ingested poisonous plants you should take both the dog and the remains of the plant to your veterinarian.

Q. Our dog's lower teeth protrude beyond his upper teeth. He always has been this way and it does not seem to bother him.

Is this condition normal and will it cause him problems later in life?

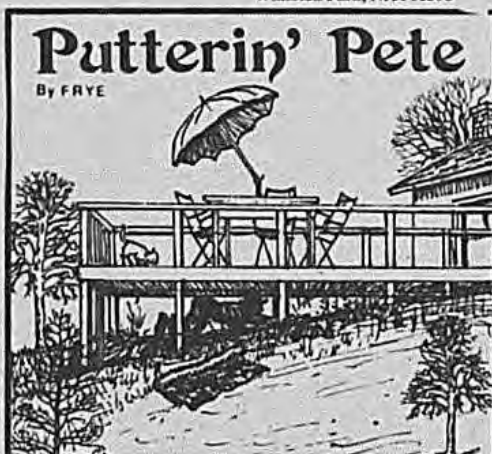

A. Whenever the upper and lower teeth do not meet properly, the condition is called malocclusion. The two most common forms are undershot and overshot jaws.

Undershot jaws occur whenever the upper jaw protrudes beyond the lower jaw, commonly referred to as buck teeth.

It is common for the Chihuahua, Pekingese, English bulldog, boxer, pug and Boston terrier breeds to have malocclusion.

Many dogs can live quite normal lives with malocclusions, but if the malocclusion is severe and interferes with eating, corrective surgery usually can be performed.

Your veterinarian can tell you if your dog would benefit from corrective surgery.

IF WEEDS ARE GROWING THROUGH THE CRACKS IN YOUR OUTDOOR DECK, PUT A SHEET OF BLACK PLASTIC OVER THE AREA UNDER THE DECK. YOU COULD HAVE SAVED YOURSELF LOTS OF CURSING AND GROANING HAD YOU TREATED THE AREA BEFORE BUILDING THE DECK.
