Auxiliary Police Awards Night

Once again, the Nassau County Auxiliary Police will hold their Annual Awards Ceremonies to recognize the outstanding performance of its volunteer members.

Thomas Schneider, Chief of Hicksville Unit 312 says, "there will be a presentation of awards to local government officials and civic organizations for assisting the Auxiliary Police in their efforts to serve and help protect the community." The ceremonies, which are open to the public, begin at 8 p.m., Tuesday, October 8, at Turtle Hook Junior High School, Jerusalem Avenue, Uniondale.

'Gloria' Takes Its Toll In Many Hicksville Areas

Hurricane 'Gloria' may have pulled its punches as far as the metropolitan area was concerned but it was powerful enough to topple thousands of trees in Nassau and Suffolk County. Coming ashore about noon, it was strong enough to cause flood tides on the south shore and put much of Nassau and Suffolk into darkness. In Hicksville electric power was still out in some sections as late as Sunday evening. Touching a fence electrified by a fallen power line sent one Hicksville woman to the hospital with shock and burns. Getting ice for refrigerators and freezers was a problem. While most people were lending a neighborly hand in the emergency, there were some reports of profiteering among sellers of ice. LILOCO crews were confined, seemingly, to daytime restoration efforts because of the many fallen-tree entangled live power lines.

Local Residents On Dist. PTA Board

Nassau District PTA presently services approximately seventy-three thousand members belonging to over three hundred local units and councils in Nassau County.

The District Board included over seventy women and men who possess outstanding leadership qualities and a sincere interest in the welfare of children and youth. All are volunteers who accept the responsibility of sharing their knowledge and experience with PTA members throughout Nassau County. They give unselfishly of their time and energy in order to broaden the understanding of PTA work.

It is with great pride that we announce the following from your school area who will be serving as members of the Nassau District PTA Board this year:

Mrs. Honey G. Singer of Hicksville, Leader Editor and Mrs. Nancy Staron of Hicksville, Corresponding Secretary.

AHRC Meeting On October 16

The Levittown-Hicksville-Wantagh Auxiliary for the Association for the Help of Retarded Children (AHRC) will hold its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, October 16, at Levittown Hall at 8 p.m.

Mr. Dan O'Connell, a Financial Consultant for Merrill, Lynch, will speak about "How to Get the Most for Your Money."

The meeting is open to the public. Coffee and cake will be served.

$3 Robbery At Cantiague

The Second Squad is investigating a robbery that occurred in the Administration Building, Cantiague Park, Hicksville at 2:55 p.m., September 26.

An employee, Cecilia Wicks, 35, of Levittown was in the office of the building when two unknown men walked in and demanded money. She handed them $3 dollars and for no apparent reason one of the suspects punched her in the chest. They fled the scene on foot and the victim was transported to Nassau County Medical Center, East Meadow, treated for a contusion and released.

The suspects are described as 1) male black, 25, 6' 7", 240 lbs, blue wind breaker, shorts; 2) male black, 25, 6' 1", 180 lbs, shorts, tee shirt with blue lettering.

TOB Postpones Tuesday Hearing

A public hearing, scheduled for Tuesday, October 8, by the Town of Oyster Bay Board to consider a special use permit for Dawn Industries Inc. and Frank J. Antun Properties, Inc. has been postponed.

The applicants were seeking permission to operate a van and auto refurbishing business in Hicksville, on the north side of Old Country Road, approximately 690 feet west of Newbridge Road. The site is in a 'G' general business district.

Field Avenue, Hicksville's one-time "Gold Coast" did not seem to be hard hit during the 'eye' of Gloria hurricane. An exception, unfortunately, was a smaller home on the eastern end where this giant fell on the house front.

Postal Service honors youth groups with new stamps. Roger Nienaber, Hicksville Manager/Postmaster will present a representative from each of the organizations depicted on the above stamps with a First Day Cover Cancellation at the Hicksville Post Office Safety Fair on Sunday, October 13.

"By proclamation of the United Nations General Assembly, 1985 has been designated as 'International Youth Year'." said Roger Nienaber, Hicksville Manager/Postmaster.

The Postal Service is issuing a block of four stamps honoring youth groups on October 8. Depicted on the stamps are the Boy Scouts, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Young Men's Christian Association (YMCA), Youth Camping and Campfire. Each stamp features an outdoor scene and representative individuals from each particular youth groups.

At the Safety Fair on October 13, at the Hicksville Post Office from 1 to 5 p.m., Mr. Nienaber will present representatives of each of the youth groups with a First Day Cover Cancellation. Each group will also have a display at the Safety Fair. "These groups are vital in providing our nation's youth with unique opportunities to participate in a wide variety of character developing programs and in teaching the importance of safety, health and first-aid," said Mr. Nienaber.

In addition to displays by these youth groups, this year's Safety Fair will be the first time the Postal Service opens its Driver Training Simulator to children. Children sit in the driver's seat as a movie showing hazardous driving conditions tests their driving skills.

Another new feature at the Safety Fair is Carrier Safety Town. Children become letter carriers as they deliver mail and learn about the many hazards faced by their mailmen.

There are over 50 other exhibits by the Hicksville Fire Department, Nassau County Police Department, the Long Island Railroad, the American Red Cross, American Cancer Society, Plainville Health Center and many other organizations.

Crowd At LILCO Demands Dry Ice

A crowd of 175 people became unruly at the LILCO Main Office on Old Country Road in Hicksville at 8:30 a.m., September 29, when they were told there would be no dry ice distributed at the plant.

LILCO security called the police after the arrival of a trailer load of dry ice. Apparently people had been lining up since early this morning to get some dry ice. After the truck's arrival the crowd became disorderly and demanded they open the gate and give them the dry ice. The police responded with one sergeant and three cars and at 9:10 LILCO staff advised the crowd that no distribution of ice was going to be made. The area was cleared in an orderly fashion by 9:25 a.m.

It is unknown where the people received the information that LILCO was going to give away the dry ice.

Paul Nikolaky, a dedicated employee in the Housekeeping Department at St. Francis Hospital, Roslyn, has been honored for 27 years of service at The Heart Center. A retirement celebration was held at the Hospital where an award and gifts from the staff were presented to him. Although he is retiring, this Sea Cliff resident will remain active as a volunteer.

Vets Should Record Discharge

"Many veterans are not aware of the fact that they can have their discharge from military service recorded, free of charge, at the office of the County Clerk in his/her home county," according to Oyster Bay Town Councilman Howard T. Hogan, Jr.

"Under New York State law," Hogan said, "the veteran can have the discharge papers filed at the Nassau County Clerk's office and, after filing, the veteran, his dependents or survivors may obtain a copy any time it may be needed. Recording the discharge is especially important," Hogan continued, "since following the death of a veteran, the survivors must produce the veteran's discharge when applying for a variety of benefits."

Regardless of when a veteran was discharged or released from service, the official papers can be recorded.

"I urge every veteran who has not already done so, to record his discharge papers in order to avoid possible future problems should the papers be misplaced or lost," Hogan concluded.

Information regarding Veterans' Affairs may be obtained from the New York State Veterans' Counsellor at 977 Hicksville Road, Massapequa, 798-5626, between the hours of 9 and 4:45 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

Photos Welcome

Much has been said about unsightly conditions that plague the streets and parking areas of our community. Residents have complained over the years, various groups have tried to campaign in an effort to attract the attention of town government, but conditions remain unchanged.

Everyone knows that "a picture is worth a thousand words" so we are now inviting readers to snap a favorite eyesore and send it to us for publication. A brief explanation of location would be helpful.

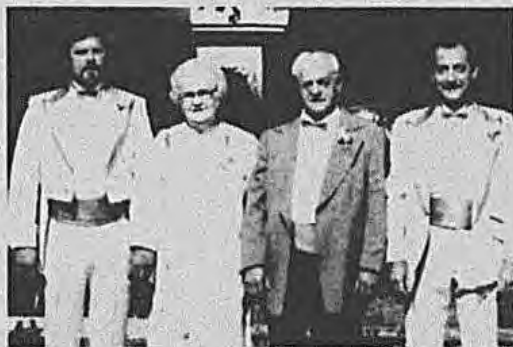

Mail them to this newspaper at 81 East Barclay Street, Hicksville, N.Y. 11801. If you wish your photos to be returned, just put your name and address on the back and we will be happy to do so.

Storm Brings Auto Accidents

Five Auto accidents were reported to the Eighth Precinct which were apparently caused as a direct result of Storm damage. This included four of which happened at intersections where the Traffic lights were out, and one which was the result of a tree blocking the roadway.

Aided cases included a Hicksville woman Eileen Justis of 29 Tip Top Lane who at 8:15 a.m., September 27, touched a fallen power line in her back yard and suffered serious burns. Three Farmingdale residents were taken to Brunswick Hospital in Amityville suffering stomach pains which may have been the result of eating food which had been to long out of refrigeration.

Busy Storm Day For Firefighters

As Hurricane Gloria headed our way the Hicksville Fire Department mobilized its forces and braced for a very busy day. The first call came in at 7:21 a.m. From that time on the phones never stopped. Vamps saved themselves many useless responses by recording all wires burying in trees (nothing can be done by the Fire Dept.) A mini storm center was set up and as calls came in reporting downed trees and wires they were charted and reported to the county center.

The Fire Department responded to an actual 31 alarms. The most serious being wind blown propane tanks at a tank farm and a falling tree striking a passing vehicle injuring three occupants slightly.

Storm Related Fire

A split level house sustained moderate damage when a fire started on an electric stove that was left on after power loss. While the occupants at 6 Neil Court were out power was restored. The fire burned 20 minutes before being discovered. The kitchen was gutted and part of the roof was damaged as fire spread up through a vent pipe. There were no injuries. 57 members responded under Chief Owen Magee. The alarm came in at 9:23 p.m. Sunday, September 29.

Flea Market Craft Sale

Our Lady of Mercy School on South Oyster Bay Road in Hicksville will hold their annual Flea Market on Saturday, October 5, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Included among the eighty tables of new and used merchandise will be several tables exhibiting beautiful original hand-crafted items. In addition, there will also be a sale of a variety of delicious home made cakes, cookies, brownies and cupcakes. Hot and cold refreshments will be served all day. There will be bargains in all areas.

Firefighter Saves Woman From Wire

The quick actions of a Hicksville Fire Lieutenant saved a woman from being electrocuted. Hurricane Gloria was fast approaching when Fire Dispatchers received a report of a LILCO wire down in the yard at 25 Tip Top Lane, Hicksville. An engine was dispatched at 8:16 a.m. Upon arrival, a youth started to approach the firefighters, as he did so, he started to shake as if he were having a seizure. Firefighters ran to help him and managed to learn the youth was getting an electric shock from the wet ground.

Fire Lt. Eugene Pietzak of Hose Co. #4 ordered all people clear of the yard. As he shouted the orders Eileen Justus of 25 Tip Top Lane also received a shock and reached out to a nearby metal fence to steady herself. High voltage from a power line on the fence and in a swimming pool arced and made contact with Justus. Lt. Pietzak ran to her and punched her in the shoulder breaking her free from the fence. As Firefighters could feel the voltage. She was dragged to a safe area where she was revived. Justus was transported to the Mid Island Hospital suffering from burns to the hands. Hicksville Fire Chief Owen Magee praised the heroic actions of Lt. Pietzak. "It took a lot to touch a person being electrocuted by a 13,000 volt wire. In a word it was a spectacular rescue." Magee said he would recommend Lt. Pietzak for a commendation.

Our Children

Grandma insists on giving kids candy

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Q. I have a wonderful mother, but she is killing my children with kindness. Well, not exactly, although it is coming pretty close. She loves my children, but one way in which she shows her affection is in giving them presents whenever she comes to visit.

Every time it is the same thing — candy. I tell her it is harmful to their teeth and their general health, but she just will not change her ways. Her response is that there was always candy around the house when my sisters and I were kids, we ate it often, and there were no bad results. I'll admit that our teeth and health have been pretty good, but I still don't want my children to have candy.

Once she brings it into the house, it is difficult to keep them away from it, but what to do? Any ideas?

A. It isn't easy to argue with facts. One of them is that sugar causes tooth and other problems. Familial tendencies through genetics may combat that conclusion, but you are basically correct. Your opinion can include not only sweets, but also smoking and excessive alcohol.

It will obviously take tact and sensitivity on your part to handle this problem with your mother. Expressing your love and your desire for her to be with your children will have to be balanced with a firm request that her gifts be limited to non-edibles because you have a balanced diet for them well in hand. There are so many other gift possibilities that can relate directly to individual interests of your children, perhaps including books, recordings or hobbies.

Too many grandparents have a mistaken notion that they have to "buy" the affection of their grandchildren, not realizing that their time, ability to listen, and showing an interest in and understanding of what the youngsters are doing are far more important. Recognition of their achievements and an appreciation of their problems are among the "sharing" factors from which a grandparent (and the children involved) can derive so much enjoyment.

Q. I would like to react to the individual who wrote to you requesting aid in keeping their son, 7 years old, and a black school chum apart.

My reply is simple: "Dear sir or madam, your racism is showing."

A. Your response isn't much different from my original one. I replied, "Your question deserves another very brief one: Why? Please write again and verbalize your objections, which are implied in your letter. Then let's talk about it."

I haven't heard from that letter writer again, but I'm not surprised.

Q. I just can't get my 2-year-old to brush his teeth as he should. In fact, I don't seem to be able to get him to do most things that he ought to be able to do — like dressing himself, eating neatly, going to bed when he should or handling the bathroom in a clean way.

My husband says I'm just too impatient with him, but I don't really think I am. After all, I tell him constantly what to do, but he just won't listen.

My husband suggested that I write to you about all this. I don't really see the purpose in doing so because it is all just a matter of getting the little fellow to follow some commonsense ways of beginning to get along in this world. Don't you agree?

A. Yes — and then again, no. One of the biggest problems parents face is being unrealistic about the capabilities of their children. Your expectations seem to be far in excess of what most 2-year-olds can do. They have had such a little time to learn all the skills of cleanliness and order that you seem to expect. It is really a matter of readiness.

Your pediatrician and some of the better books on child development might help out. Writings of Dr. T. Berry Brazelton could be a good starting point.

JerichoTeacherOn Education Comm.

Robert Lynch, Social Studies teacher at Jericho Senior High School, will serve on the Education Commission of the State. Mr. Lynch accepted an invitation from Hon. Thomas H. Kean Governor of New Jersey, to participate in a series of conferences designed to help state policy leaders better understand educational issues by meeting with outstanding classroom teachers.

The first meeting of the national panel of scholars will be held in Princeton in October. It is expected that the "Talks with Teachers" will help strengthen and encourage teaching by presenting new perspectives to leaders and legislators.

Mr. Lynch has been a teacher in the Jericho district for 16 years. He also serves as a member of the Board of Directors for the National Council for Social Studies.

Your Social Security

Custodial care not covered by Medicare

Q. My mother-in-law, who is in her 90s, must be assisted with walking and getting in and out of bed. She is becoming more and more feeble.

Would Medicare pay for her care in a nursing home? — P.A.

A. Care that is primarily of a personal nature and can be provided by people without professional skills or training is considered custodial care. For example, custodial care includes help in walking, getting in and out of bed, bathing, dressing, eating and taking medicine.

Medicare does not cover care if it is mainly custodial.

Q. Can victims of the new disease AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) receive Social Security disability benefits? — L.L.

A. A person with AIDS may be found to be disabled based on the regulation that defines disability as the inability to do any substantial gainful activity (work) because of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment that has lasted, or is expected to last, at least 12 months or to result in death.

In evaluating AIDS, the important aspect of this definition is "expected to result in death." As with any other impairment, the documented medical findings must be comprehensive and detailed enough to clearly establish that the individual has AIDS.

Application for disability may be made by mail, by telephone or in person at any Social Security office.

Q. I recently applied for Supplemental Security Income payments and was told I must notify Social Security if I give up my apartment (I live alone) and move in with someone else.

How does this affect me? — C.C.

A. Your SSI payment is reduced by one-third if you live in another person's household and receive support and maintenance from that person. The one-third reduction takes the place of actually counting the dollar value of the support and maintenance as income.

The amount of the SSI payment is based on the amount of other income a person has.

Q. My next-door neighbor received an increase in his July check. Cost-of-living adjustments are paid in January. What would this increase be for? — F.J.

A. Almost 2 million working beneficiaries received a benefit increase in their July checks based on additional earnings since their benefits were last computed.

Benefits for working beneficiaries are recomputed automatically.

It seems impossible that we could all have the same thing, but I'm wondering if it could have something to do with the way we eat? Are there certain foods that could cause it? We are all a little overweight, but I've seen other people who are a lot fatter. *

Can you give me some ideas that might help? — E.R.J.

Dear E.R.J.: For some unknown reason, more black Americans suffer from high blood pressure, and more severely, than others in the population.

The American Heart Association says that as many as one-third of all black Americans have the disease, compared to 22 percent of white Americans.

The most important thing is to identify and treat it as soon as possible. Age, sex, race and family history are all factors that contribute to it. The older a person becomes, the more likely it may develop. If parents have or had high blood pressure, the potential is even greater.

Stopping smoking, weight reduction, a low-salt diet and daily exercise help lower blood pressure for a great many people. There are no specific foods that cause hypertension, but there is new evidence that high-calcium foods may help it — soft bones of fish, green leafy vegetables, fruits, cereals and low-sodium dairy products. Lower the fat, salt and calories in your diet to lose weight and help your blood pressure.

There are some new "potassium sparing" diuretics on the market that are very effective and comparable to next.

Dear Shirley: I have always loved watermelon, but after reading about the poison they put on them, I'm afraid to buy any. They say the scare is past, but how do we know?

Do you know what the stuff was? How does it affect a person? Why don't they check these things?

I think it's terrible to let people get sick like that, don't you? — Mrs. W.P.

Dear Mrs. W.P.: Yes, indeed, and obviously, more accurate testing is sorely needed. The offending material is a pesticide called aldicarb, sold under the brand name of Temik.

Apparently, even if inspectors had tested the poisoned melons, they would have been certified as edible and sent to market, because the screening methods are inadequate to detect the breakdown products of the chemicals. Aldicarb sulfoxide is formed when the pesticide breaks down in the soil. It caused a flu-like illness in many people who ate the tainted melons.

Testing only for the presence of a compound and ignoring its possible breakdown by-products may miss the most toxic elements. While aldicarb is not legal for use on watermelon, there seemed to be some loopholes in the law.

ANTIQUÉ OR JUNQUE

Vase made in France

By James G. McCollam

Q. This vase is 16 inches tall, tan with brown and red trim. It is signed "LeGras" on the side. On the bottom it is marked "France."

Please tell me whatever you can about this.

A. Auguste LeGras founded a company in St. Denis, France, in 1864, which produced cameo and enamel decorated glass that was very popular and has become quite valuable.

Your vase was made between 1900 and 1920. It should be worth from $325 to $375.

Q. When I contacted a china replacement service about buying individual pieces of Haviland china, I was shocked at the prices.

If a cup and saucer is worth $65, my 80-piece service for 12 should be worth about $5,000 (after spending over $1,000 to fill in the missing pieces).

Frankly, I could use a little advice on the subject.

A. First you have to understand what a china replacement service does. They carry an inventory of antique and collectible china in which they have a huge investment. When you spend $65 for a cup and saucer, it is $50 for service and $15 for china.

If you spent $1,000 to complete your set of Haviland, you would have invested more than your set is worth. If you would get your money's worth in satisfaction — OK.

Q. I have recently acquired a few souvenir spoons and think it might be interesting as a hobby to collect more.

Please state your opinion and some typical prices.

A. This is a worthwhile hobby, particularly if you concentrate on sterling spoons with no enamel trim. Silverplate wears off and enamel chips.

You might select one category — cities; here are some typical prices — all sterling silver:

Montreal, maple leaves on handle — $25.

St. Louis, 1904, buffalo handle — $45.

Albany, N.Y., state seal on handle — $30.

Boston, Old North Church — $30.

Harrisburg, Pa., floral handle — $40.

New Orleans, city seal — $25.

Portland, Maine, Longfellow handle — $60.

Casper, Wyo., Indian on handle — $60.

Sonora, Calif., pick and shovel — $25.

You will find that prices usually will depend on how much the buyer is willing to pay. This is one field of collectibles where prices are really negotiable.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and $1 per item to James G. McCollam

Birth Announcement

Peter and Cathy Ciarelli, of New Woodstock, New York, are happy to announce the birth of their first child, a son, Nicholas. The baby weighed 6 lbs., 1 oz. and was born on September 5, 1985 at St. Joseph's Hospital in Syracuse.

Louis Ciacciarelli, the proud paternal grandfather has been a Hicksville resident for many years. After graduating from Hicksville High and college, Peter is now a music teacher with the Cazenovia School District in upstate New York.

Library Equipment To Aid Hard Of Hearing

The Hicksville Public Library has purchased equipment to assist the hard of hearing to enjoy the concerts, lectures, discussions and films offered in the library auditorium.

Funded in part by the Auditory Assistance Equipment Grant from the Nassau Library System, this new service includes a small pocket-size transmitter and lavaliere microphone that are used by the speaker/performer, and a battery-operated receiver (about the size of a bar of soap) and a lightweight, foam-cushioned pair of headphones that are used by the listener. The receiver, which weighs in at a scant four ounces, is contained in a soft leather pouch which may be clipped onto a belt or handbag or simply held in one's lap. The thin, flexible headband is easily adjustable to head size or hairdo. Produced by Com-Tek, this auditory assistance equipment allows each listener to sit anywhere in an audience within a 200 to 500 foot range of the speaker/performer with personal control over the volume of sound in his or her receiver. There are no wires, no visible connections with the speaker's microphone or transmitter. The set enables the user to enjoy high fidelity reception without distracting room reverberation and background noise. As one first-timer user described the experience, "You can actually create your own peaceful little world of sound."

In announcing this unique outreach service, Library Director Kenneth S. Barnes said, "For years, libraries have been concerned with the sight problem of patrons and have been able to offer a variety of reading materials in Large Type and in recorded 'Talking Books' format. Today, we, in Nassau County, are able to extend library service to more people and in an additional sense...through the very real sense of Hearing."

For further information about Com-Tek auditory assistance equipment, please contact Ms. Suzanne Welker at the Hicksville Public Library.

In our video cassette collection, now numbering nearly 300, we have a number of close-captioned films that are usable for persons with a hearing impairment. The user must purchase a caption decoder or a television with built in closed caption capability. If you have a hearing problem and wish to know what is available, you can visit the library or call us at 931-1417 for information.

Midland Civics Have A Busy Summer

Despite heat, rain and vacation time, the Midland Civic Association has been an active presence in the welfare of the homeowners in northwest Hicksville throughout the summer. Eileen Richards, President, has held Executive Board meetings in June, July, August and September, and a great deal has been accomplished.

Vice President Larry Weinstock and his committee re-wrote the old by-laws and new ones were adopted by the Board. An excellent job was done and will serve as our guide for years to come. Plans for a "Neighborhood Watch" have been further developed, particularly since crime has been present in our community. An organizational meeting is planned.

Our organization was very supportive of homeowners fighting the widening of Nevada Street. At a hearing in Town Hall where the making of Jeanson Street and Rotary Street as only ingress streets to Mid-Island Plaza was discussed, members of our association attended and Eileen Richards read a strong statement written by Ellie Draycott, Civic Affairs chairman. The resolution passed. Hopefully, this will decrease traffic on Nevada Street that it will obviate the State's need to widen it. The date for the change is November 18.

Several meetings were devoted to the problem of class size at the Willet Avenue School and members came to give statements and argue for smaller classes in lower grades. Our organization is a "listening post" for vital community matters.

As you can see, each person is important. Your vote is also important in the upcoming elections. If you are not registered, please do so on October 10 between 1 p.m. and 9 p.m. and on October 12, 12 noon to 9 p.m. at the Junior High School.

If you have not yet joined our vibrant organization, do it now. Fee $10 per household, $8 for senior citizen households. We need you all to keep us strong. Be counted. Checks may be sent to Midland Civic Association, 11 Primrose Avenue, Hicksville, N.Y. 11801.

No Change In Sanitation

There will be no change in the Town of Oyster Bay sanitation collection schedule for the Monday, October 14, Columbus Day, holiday, it was announced this week by Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark.

"While Town government offices will be closed on Monday, October 14, residents having Town sanitation collection can expect their regular pick-up," Clark stated. "Residents who have private carting should check with those agencies to see what the holiday schedule will be." Clark noted that all Town park facilities will be open on Columbus Day.

At the September meeting of the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club, Roger Loberto was presented with a special plaque in honor of the "retirement of his van after 275,000 miles." "Bessie" has been a mainstay of POBRRC relays and other road trips from Montauk to Mahopac, and the plaque was awarded to Roger in belated recognition of his kindness in making her available. Pictured here, Roger, left, accepts the plaque from POBRRC Executive Board member Sam Zinn.

PUZZLED?

Are you puzzled why we run more Classified Ads in our areas than our biggest competitors including the N.Y. Times, Newsday, The Daily News and the free throwaways that come to your door?

The Answer Is Simple -

RESULTS: When readers run ads with us they get results, not numbers of printed copies or other irrelevant information.

An Ad, any ad, is only an advertisement for you when people READ it. Large numbers of copies printed and hung on door knobs or multi pages of newsprint in large out-of-town newspapers are not what count. Only readers get your message and can bring you results. The next time you are thinking of advertising something - remember that it takes readers to get your message.

And then you will know why so many more local ads are run in our newspapers than in the big papers, or the so-called saturation throwaways. Don't count door knobs - count customers.

The Answer Is Readers = Results

Local Bethpage Poet's Work

Perhaps
Perhaps we'll meet again
somewhere
Some other time and some other place.
There amidst the throngs of other folk
We'll recognize each others face.
They say beyond the farthest star
Where Human contact cannot reach
We'll find the happiness and love
This sad old World could never teach.
The trail of Life grows shorter still
And age creeps up and touches me.
The things that were and used to be
Are gone forever and I'll never see.

Yochmann Re-elected Bethpage Leader

George Yochmann

At a "Breakfast Meeting" held on September 21 at the Embassy Diner in Bethpage, the Bethpage Republican Committee unanimously reelected George F. Yochmann as its Executive Committeeman.

Mr. Yochmann was nominated to continue his leadership of the Bethpage Republican Organization by Buddy Mazzara, who is the Committee's Senior Member. The nomination was seconded by Kevin Galloway, President of the Theodore Roosevelt Republican Club.

A vote was taken, whereby Mr. Yochmann was reelected by acclamation of the full 38-member committee. Yochmann expressed his appreciation for the overwhelming "vote of confidence," stressing that he would strive to continue the Bethpage GOP Organization's record of achievement to the utmost of his ability.

Yochmann has served as the Leader of the Bethpage GOP for five years, beginning in 1980, and, with his reelection, is beginning his third consecutive full term. He and his wife, Dorothy, have resided and been active in the Bethpage community for more than 25 years.

Distinguished Artist Concerts At Library

A performance by violinist Hamao Fujiwara and pianist Katsurako Mikami on Friday, October 11, at the Bethpage Public Library, will kick off the 1985-86 season of "Distinguished Artists Concerts." It was announced this week by Oyster Bay town Councilman Angelo A. Delligatti.

Sponsored by the Cultural and Performing Arts (CAPA) Division of the Department of Community Services, the free concert will be held at the Library, 47 Powell Avenue, beginning at 8:15 p.m. For information, contact CAPA at 795-5943.

"In addition to an active recital career since his New York debut in 1972, Hamao Fujiwara has appeared worldwide as a soloist and guest artist with major orchestras. Delligatti stated, "A graduate of the Juilliard School of Music and a prize winner in several major music competitions, Fujiwara is a member of the New York Chamber Soloists and the Sea Cliff Chamber Players as well as a member of the violin faculty at Juilliard."

"Katsurako Mikami received her musical training at the Toho School of Music in Tokyo, Japan, the Conservatory of Music in Paris and at the Juilliard School of Music, where she was a scholarship student." Delligatti continued, "A winner of numerous prizes and medals in music competition, Miss Mikami has made recordings, performed in chamber music concerts and appeared as a guest artist with leading orchestras throughout the United States, Europe and Japan."

For this performance, selections will include Stravinsky's "Suite Italienne," Beethoven's "Sonata in A major for piano and violin, Op. 47," and Ravel's "Trigane."

"This is the first of twenty performances that will take place between October 1985 and May 1986 featuring well-known classical artists and groups," Delligatti commented. "Some of these programs will be 'warm ups' for upcoming concerts in New York City, which means our residents will have the opportunity to hear for free the very same music that others will be paying top dollar to experience."

"I hope many of our residents will come out and enjoy these fine performances."

The usually lovely and tree shaded Marie Street-Plainview Road became a community casualty in the wake of Gloria. Great old trees as here just east of Park Avenue lost straining big limbs.

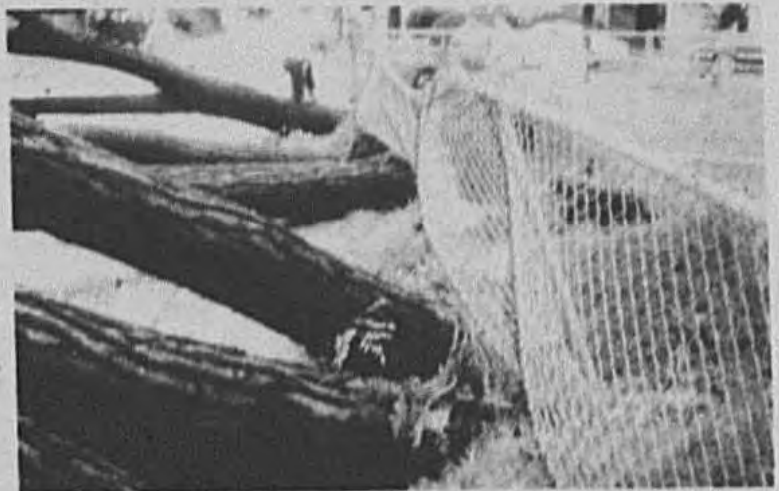

LILCO's nightmare in the wake of Gloria's passage is just beginning in this photo of electric powerline poles tilting noticeably on New South Road, facing south. Many poles will require straightening and guying, cables rehangng in weeks ahead.

The Tony Gagliones and friends seem philosophical about the downed tree at their home, 8 Gables Drive. At least it turned at the last seconds in the wind and missed their house.

Many family favorite trees died during Gloria's brief but turbulent passing. Friday noon-time, Mrs. Elenore Hodkinson of 18 Gables Drive sadly stands next to her sundered backyard tree which had shaded so many family cookouts.

"It was like dominoes falling", said Mrs. Patricia Wahlen of 44 Harding Avenue, describing how these four tall oaks next to her at the Rocco Martino family's 99 Heltz Place property came down one after another. The spectacular loss blocked the narrow street for two days.

Most Callers Think Some Farm Help Needed

Most callers to Input believe that the government should do more to help farmers in answer to this question: "Farmers are presently in a difficult financial situation in many places. Do you think the government should financially help farmers in difficulty?"

SHORT TERM

In general I believe that the government should have a helpful attitude towards farmers. We know that the health of the nation is tied to the growth of food. Unfortunately I believe that farm programs of the government have done harm to farmers rather than to help them over a long term. Farmers were subsidized not to grow crops. The rules were written so loosely that many people got into farming on the basis of gaining a public subsidy. So yes, the government should help farmers but it should carefully plan what it is offering and only do it on a short term basis. G.E.

HELP OVERSEAS

The problems on farms have been gaining for a number of years. Some of the problem is that farms are producing an abundance and there may be too many people in farming to sustain a livelihood for all. At the same time we cannot just let these lands go into other usage because as the population grows in years to come we may need more output of food. One of the best things to do would be to channel some of our foreign aid to nations into providing food. This would help the farmer and the starving countries. J.E.

CHANGE PROGRAM

The answer to farm problems is not a simple one and for too long we have been giving simple answers. Some places there may be too many farms. There may be more output than we can use. Why not channel that labor into producing things that are needed such as better housing? We are already subsidizing farms with price supports, sometimes with worthless things such as tobacco. J.T.

BACK TO FREE ENTERPRISE

The graphics shown to illustrate the farm subsidy question tell a couple of stories. But, I think that more than anything else, they point up the fact that for 30 years the only reason the public "benefits" from government farm support is that they pay invisible premiums on agricultural products through their federal income taxes. As a result, farmers are not subject to the same marketing pressures which influence the price of other products or services. Obviously, without that support, the trend comparison between the farmer and the psychiatrist would not have shown that much of a disparity in the product price to the customer over a thirty year period. I am a firm believer in free enterprise and market influences and the mere fact that the farmers through the years have not had to devise new approaches to meet changing competitive conditions has robbed agriculture of the need to be innovative. Furthermore, it has spawned a new breed of absentee farmers who purchase acreage to be worked by others solely for the supports made available by an overly generous government. We have created this monster and perhaps it is too late to pull back completely at this time but we should definitely head in that direction with help made available on a case by case basis to farmers in difficulty awarded only on the basis of curing an immediate problem and with guide lines and performance criteria established toward programs of self sufficiency. P.G.S.

NEED FARMERS

Being a farmer was never easy. It is one of the most important and demanding jobs in the world. I think that there are different ways farmers who are in "a difficult financial situation" can be helped. The government should assist those who are in need as much as they are able to because farmers deserve it. It is good to know that the public has been much more aware of the farmers' plight, especially through the recent Farm Aid Concert. I sincerely hope that there are many more of these concerts. We all need farmers and farmers need us. C.P.

LESS GOVERNMENT SPENDING

American farmers are the most subsidized and supported industry in this country. Not only can farmers obtain market priced, low interest loans for unsold inventory, farmers receive free advice on what and when to plant from the government financed, land bank colleges. This farm oriented research cost hundreds of millions of taxpayers' dollars, each and every year. Farmers got into financial trouble by over expanding their land holdings and becoming a highly leveraged operation, very susceptible to upside changes in interest rates. Farmers re-mortgaged their already owned properties to buy additional land and now are having difficulty in paying the carrying charges on these mortgages. Farmers who did not speculate that inflation would continue up, up and away and did not borrow to buy more land, are not now in a financial squeeze. These high interest rates that have placed many a farmer in financial jeopardy, are mainly a reflection of the government spending more than it had on so-called social justice programs and being forced into the debt market driving up interest rates. The problem must be solved before it becomes too big to stop. The best medicine for the farmer, as well as every other small business person, is lower interest rates. Our Congressmen should be required by the voter to bring government expenditures in line with government tax receipts to stop spending more than the government takes in. We all have to learn to kick the government subsidy habit whether we are a farmer, a student, or a senior citizen, otherwise we will all start experiencing the farmers' financial problems. W.G.

HELP EATING

Should the government help the farmers? Well they helped Lee Iacocca and we eat bread, we don't need cars. I think bread is a lot more important. Yes, they should help them. After all if they subsidize tobacco farmers and keep cancer alive they should keep good eating alive too. H.S.

My Mother's Credo

By Patrice Barry

"The most important thing for a woman or man, is to get married and have children". So went the credo every Wednesday. I was raised upon that credo. Not by the Church, but by my mother. Being adventurous as well as obedient, I dated as many young men as I could meet. Each time mother encountered me, she sighed a weary, "So what's wrong with this one?" By the time I finally chose Jon, wisely or not, mother was too relieved to offer any criticism. Her final word was "smile" as I walked down the aisle, and sure enough, every wedding photo has me grinning like a Cheshire Cat. Mother's dreams were glorified when I presented her with two beautiful grandchildren. She enjoyed them fully until the moment she passed away--much too soon to give me the help I so badly needed as soon as they came to the age of dating! Feminist that I had become by then, I still felt and heard mother's credo, which I tried to instill in Lisa and Todd when they reached puberty. They giggled, pledged themselves toward careers, and vowed never to marry.

Todd brought home many girls--one at a time--and I was properly enthusiastic. Naturally he dropped each one as soon as I liked her. When he went off to College, he introduced me to Sue, and asked my opinion.

"She's nice," I said cautiously.

"Why don't you like her?" he asked.

"I do," I answered, "but if I'm too eager, you'll drop her. If I negate her, you'll see more of her, and then she'll have me forever!"

Todd just shook his head. I'd like to think he understood my reasoning. Realistically, he was just tolerating a mother about to turn middle-aged. Obviously he continued to see Sue. Recently, he called to ask for suggestions for a special gift.

"What's the occasion?" I queried.

"It's our fifth anniversary," he replied.

My heart stopped, "Of what?"

He laughed, "Of our fifth year of going together."

I knew I should bite my tongue, but somehow it slipped out, "Todd, do you realize that you've been going together more years than most current marriages last?" There was silence on the other end of the phone. I figured I'd quit before I got into more trouble.

Lisa is a different type of personality. While Todd would only go with one girl at a time ("How else can you develop a meaningful relationship?"), his sister felt there was safety in numbers. And so her dating life has been like rush hour traffic on Jericho Turnpike. How she tells her dates apart or remembers their names is beyond my comprehension or ability. This week she is expecting seven phone calls from as many prospective "suitors". Her reasoning is that you can't know someone from just one meeting. So if He seems nice, and asks to see her, she finds time to spend with Him. All the Hims, I have to admit that she does attract very nice young men. And they do treat her with respect and royal attention. But I do worry. I sound like my own mother, asking, "Isn't it time you settled on one, and let the others find other girls who will truly appreciate them?" Lisa answers, "How will I know which one to choose unless I can compare him to other men?"

Lisa is destroying my enthusiasm for feminism and women's lib. As soon as a young man becomes serious and proposes, she bolts and meets someone else. Mother's credo still engulfs my heart when Lisa says, "I don't know if I really want to spend the rest of my life with Him." Or any of the other Hims. The voice of my mother stirs violently inside. "You won't always be so young and pretty and sought after as you are now." I hear her lilting voice, "Just what is it that you are looking for? There is no such thing as a perfect man."

"But you found one," Lisa replies softly. I hear the same words--my own words--said so long ago, as my beloved mother stared at me in astonishment.

"You need a sense of humor," my husband says. "If I were in my twenties today, I wouldn't get married either."

"Thanks a lot," I give him the meanest look I can manage, and add for good measure, "I had a sense of humor before I married you!"

Jon grins happily and goes back to reading his book. What do fathers know?

Mother again fills my thoughts. I lean back and smile at what I know she would say. "Have patience and faith. The day will come when Todd and Lisa will marry. Then some day they will have sons and daughters just like themselves, and they will understand." I think, "From your lips to God's ear." My fantasy is both satisfying and fulfilling. I throw a soft pillow at my husband. Mother was a very smart lady who lives on through every generation.

GREAT CHOICE

The Executive Restaurant on Mineola Blvd. in Mineola, is consistently a great choice. We have been patronizing this restaurant for many years and always come away real pleased. Their seafood is fresh daily, and I particularly enjoy the way they prepare fresh fish. In my opinion it takes more artistry to tastefully prepare fish than to prepare meat. If you enjoy prime ribs, you won't be disappointed. This specialty is served every Friday and Saturday. The service is always friendly and the atmosphere is cordial. We heartily endorse this restaurant, and if you have never had the pleasure of dining there, don't hesitate. E.P.

 For authentic Spanish and Portuguese food you need go no further than Arlindo's Restaurant located at Mineola Boulevard in Mineola. Our party of three enjoyed two terrific dishes. We ordered Arlindo's famous Seafood Paella for two, served with Saffron Rice. Just thinking about that repeat makes my mouth water anew. Truly, it was the tastiest I have ever had! The third dinner consisted of Veal and Seafood combination. It, too, was superb. With our dinner we had Chablis wine, which complimented the dinner. Delightful pastries from their Pastry Cart and Coffee Espresso topped off a memorable dinner. The service was attentive, also we liked the fact that there was plenty of parking in the back. There were several interesting dishes on the menu that we thought we would like to try on our return visit. We would like to recommend this restaurant to your readers. M.J.T.

WONDERFUL CUISINE

Koenig's restaurant is one that defies time. It has been around for a long time but every time we go there we are well satisfied with the wonderful continental cuisine.

Koenig's is a place of good decor and it is a very comfortable restaurant. The establishment caters to large parties but if you come there with just two people, as we did, you are made welcome. The menu includes beef, chicken and veal and there is a large assortment of fish dishes. The prime ribs we chose were great and we think Koenig's in Floral Park is No. 1. Y.T.

HAPPY CHOICE

We have found the Alpine Garden Restaurant on Hempstead Turnpike in Franklin Square a happy choice. Whether it is Austrian, Italian or French cuisine, you will be pleased with the specialties from the Alpine region. We have known the chef, owner, Franz, and his wife, Anna, for many years and find the warm welcome as well as the food excellent. The atmosphere is that of a garden and the ambience is cordial and not the least bit hurried. For a restful dinner away from home we endorse this restaurant both for good food and delightful atmosphere. M.M.

READER RATINGS

GOOD FOOD

We thought we would try Fianona Restaurant, on Hillside Ave., in New Hyde Park after reading the Reader Rating in your paper. Especially pleased were we to receive a complimentary glass of wine, (our choice either red or white) simply by bringing the Ad. The homemade ravioli was particularly good, the broiled fish was both fresh and done to perfection. The fresh escarole was a treat. We found the service prompt and attentive. There were several specialties on the menu that we will order on a return visit. We endorse this restaurant and were pleased we have such fine cuisine right in our own neighborhood. E.P.

CLASSIC RESTAURANT

Devins on Seventh St. Garden City, is a classic restaurant. By that I mean that everything is done right for you. The service is perfect, the food which includes many top Northern Italian dishes is exceptional.

We went there last Thursday for dinner and found it to be just as it looked, "out of this world". The entree consisted of shrimp parmigiana and steak au povre both were good. The desserts too are imaginative and varied.

We highly recommend this restaurant to your readers. T.K.

READER RATINGS

If you have Questions about etiquette or dining out you may call them in to We 1-0027 and we will find the answer.

Q. Some restaurants make a big thing over a lobster tank, but I think it is disgusting to have to kill these animals in order to get a meal. Why do they have these tanks?

A. The reason is simply that lobster has to be freshly killed to be eaten. The lobster tank lets the diner see that what he is getting is really fresh lobster. Possibly some squeamish people believe that the lobster tank should be somewhere else but most diners want to see the live ones and if you do not, you should be suspicious. They are killed instantly in boiling water.

Q. Are restaurants allowed to serve you something else if you ask for "Coke" or "Coca Cola" and they do not serve it?

A. The answer is technically they are not. But many will say that they only carry "Pepsi" or another beverage. But you should be able to know in advance and refuse something you did not order. At least the "Coca Cola" company probably would want it that way, and "Pepsi" will also if it is the other way around.

If you have Questions about etiquette or dining out you may call them in to We 1-0027 and we will find the answer.

Q. In a good restaurant that we attended recently an accordion player came around to each table and asked whether we had any requests. My wife made a request and the musician played it. Is this music provided by the restaurant or should I have tipped? J.B.

A. Generally the musicians are paid by the restaurant to entertain all of the diners. But when you make a special request it is expected that a small tip will accompany the request. In this case $1 would have been a fair tip.

Q. When a man and woman come into a restaurant, who asks for the table?

A. Traditionally the man asked for the table and talked to the head waiter, then the woman went first following the head waiter. Presently people who are not traditionalist where the woman is the host for the evening, she could ask for the table particularly if a reservation was in her name. The seating order is still the same with the woman going first.

Q. It is often confusing in restaurants to know whether to pay the waiter or to pay on the way out. What is the rule? D.C.

A. There is no rule of etiquette because each restaurant determines its own system. But generally the check will say, "Please pay server," or "Please pay the cashier." When in doubt it is never out of order to ask the waiter.

Cooking Corner

Big on broccoli

Scoring with pasta

By Verne Palmer

Rare is the home these days that doesn't harbor a football fan somewhere on the premises.

What that means is that weekends from late summer to early January are one long succession of TV gridiron clashes. Whether you regard that fact with enthusiasm or resignation, you can make the most of the situation by inviting a group of like-minded souls to share the fun(?).

Football parties lend themselves to entertaining of the very best kind — little effort and lots of fun.

Avoid being tied to the kitchen all day by planning a buffet of flavorful foods that guests can enjoy as the spirit moves them.

Imaginative pasta salads not only make good eating but also won't leave your buffet table looking limp and bedraggled as the afternoon wears on.

Team up fanciful shapes such as twists and shells, or more conventional noodles or fuselli, with such diverse companions as crunchy broccoli, chunks of ham, tender-crisp zucchini, bell peppers, cauliflower, water chestnuts, ripe olives, tomatoes, mushrooms, onions, capers, asparagus, peas or cheese.

For a final flavor touch, add a zesty oil and vinegar or creamy dressing and blend the whole together.

The salads can be made the night before, leaving the morning for laying out a complementary selection of sliced meats and cheeses, imported mustards, deli breads, fresh fruits and relishes.

CALIFORNIA PASTA SALAD

- 1 (6 oz.) pkg. pasta twists
- Flowerets from 1/4 head fresh broccoli
- 1 (3 oz.) slice ham, diced
- 1/2 red onion, sliced and separated into rings
- 4 scallion tops, chopped
- 1/2 red bell pepper, cut in chunks
- 1/2 cup black olives, sliced
- Bottled or homemade oil and vinegar dressing

Prepare pasta according to package directions. While pasta is cooking, steam or microwave broccoli flowerets until tender crisp. Allow broccoli to cool.

Mix all ingredients together in a large bowl and toss until thoroughly coated with dressing.

Refrigerate for at least 30 minutes to allow flavors to mingle.

STIR-FRY GARDEN PASTA SALAD

- 2 cups spinach ribbon noodles, cooked
- 2 cups fettucini noodles, cooked
- 2 tbsps. olive oil
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/4 tsp. dried basil
- 1/4 tsp. dried oregano

After Work Gourmet

Oyster appetizers

- 1/4 cup snow peas, fresh or frozen
- 1 cup broccoli flowerets
- 1/2 cup chicken broth
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 cup fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 1 medium tomato, diced
- 1/4 cup water chestnuts, sliced
- 2 tbsps. ripe olives, sliced
- 1/4 cup fresh parsley, minced
- 2 tbsps. Parmesan cheese

Heat olive oil in medium skillet. Sauté garlic, basil and oregano. Stir-fry snow peas and broccoli. Cook, covered, 3 minutes. Add chicken broth. Remove from heat. In large bowl, sprinkle salt on cooked noodles. Add mushrooms, tomato, water chestnuts, olives and parsley. Toss. Add hot vegetable and spice mixture to noodle mixture. Toss to mix. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

Serves 4.

GARDEN PASTA SALAD WITH PESTO SAUCE

- 3/4 cup salad oil
- 1/2 cup walnut pieces
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 2 tbsps. basil leaves, crushed
- 1/4 tsp. garlic powder
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1 1/2 cups lightly packed fresh parsley leaves
- 4 cups cooked ziti macaroni
- 1 cup sliced yellow squash
- 1/2 cup cauliflowerets
- 1/2 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
- 1/4 cup sliced radishes
- 1 tbsp. sliced green onions
- Shredded Romaine
- 6 cherry tomatoes, halved

To make sauce: In covered blender container, combine 6 tablespoons oil, walnuts, cheese, basil, garlic powder and salt. With rapid "On-Off" action, blend to coarse puree. Add remaining oil and parsley. Repeat "On-Off" action until mixture is pureed (do not overblend — small particles of parsley are desirable).

In large bowl combine cooked ziti and remaining ingredients except Romaine and tomatoes, with dressing. Toss to coat pasta mixture evenly. Cover; refrigerate at least 4 hours. To serve: Line serving platter with Romaine; top with salad. Garnish with cherry tomatoes.

Makes 7 cups or 6 servings.

PIZZERIA SALAD

- 1 (10 oz.) pkg. tagliarini (flat noodle) pasta
- Italian dressing (see below)
- 2 cups turkey ham chunks
- 1 cup chopped tomato
- 1 cup sliced mushrooms
- 1 cup cubed mozzarella cheese
- 1/2 cup sliced ripe olives
- 1/4 cup sliced green onions

Cook tagliarini as package directs; drain. Prepare Italian dressing; pour over pasta while still warm. Add remaining ingredients; toss gently. Serve immediately or chill if desired.

Makes 6 to 8 appetizer or lunch-oon servings.

Italian Dressing: Combine 1/2 cup red wine vinegar, 1/2 cup salad oil, 1 clove fresh garlic, minced, 1 teaspoon each sugar and prepared mustard, 1/2 teaspoon each Italian herb seasoning and seasoned salt, and 1/4 teaspoon pepper.

Evander Preston

Oysters, once thought of as a food for the rich, or for those lucky enough to live near an oyster bed, are now available, at very reasonable prices, in almost every part of the country. Many great appetizers include oysters as their main ingredient, and today's recipes are for three of our favorites. Each can be prepared in just a few minutes.

One still occasionally hears the old adage that oysters can safely be eaten only during those months that include an "r" — September through April. This once-valid caution dates back to the time when refrigerated shipping was a chancy business at best, and oysters that were shipped during the hot-weather months of May through August were likely to arrive in questionable condition.

With today's fast and efficient shipping, oyster lovers can safely indulge their palates during any month of the year. When it comes to taste, at least in some parts of the country, the "r" rule may still have some validity. Oysters in northern waters breed during the warmer months, and many feel that they do not taste as good during this period. Southern oysters breed year-round, and so are equally good at any time.

Lists of dishes served at banquets in the New England Colonies soon after they were founded almost always included oysters. Indians introduced the settlers to the tasty bivalves, eaten au naturel from the half-shell just moments after they were pried from the bed. No account that we have been able to find gives the name of the intrepid Pilgrim who first gulped down a raw oyster, but one does wonder if he didn't first look over his shoulder to be sure that the Indians weren't rolling on the ground, laughing at his gullibility in eating such an outlandish-looking creature.

Oysters in the shell should be alive when you buy them, and their shells tightly closed. They should have no odor other than a light briny smell. Oysters can be kept alive in water for a couple of days. The water should be changed at least daily, and some cornmeal added to get the oysters to release any grit inside the shells.

Shucked oysters should be plump when you buy them. Their liquor should be clear, and the oysters should have no sunken or shriveled areas. Prepare them as soon as possible after you buy them.

Today's oyster recipes come from three different parts of the world. Lemon Oysters are a favorite appetizer in many parts of Africa. Oysters Parisienne are our version of a recipe from a wonderful neighborhood restaurant in Paris. Oyster Fritters are from the Low Country of South Carolina.

OYSTER LEMONS

- 4 large lemons
- 4 ozs. smoked oysters
- 8 ozs. cream cheese
- 2 dashes Tabasco or to taste
- Salt and freshly ground

black pepper to taste

Cut top third off lemons and scoop out flesh and reserve. Cut skin off pointed ends of empty lemon shells, so that they will stand on flat surface. The tops of lemon shells may be scalloped with sharp knife, if desired, to make a more attractive presentation.

Using fine strainer, extract 1 tablespoon of juice from reserved lemon flesh and cut some thin strips of peel from removed tops of lemons, for garnish.

Drain smoked oysters and reserve liquid.

In blender, place oysters, cream cheese, Tabasco, salt, pepper and lemon juice and blend well until smooth. Add some of reserved oyster liquid if necessary to allow mixture to blend completely.

Fill lemon shells with oyster mixture and garnish top with lemon peel strips.

Serves 4 as an appetizer.

OYSTER FRITTERS

- 4 egg yolks
- 1/2 tsp. salt, or to taste
- 1/2 tsp. freshly ground black pepper, or to taste
- 1 1/2 tbsps. minced onion
- 5 tbsps. flour
- 1 cup chopped, drained oysters (fresh or tinned)
- 4 egg whites
- Vegetable shortening for frying

Beat egg yolks until smooth and creamy in texture. Add salt, pepper and onion. Whisk in flour, a bit at a time. Fold in oysters.

Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into mixture above.

Heat shortening and drop fritter mixture in, a spoonful at a time, and fry until golden brown.

Serves 4 as an appetizer.

OYSTERS PARISIENNE

- 24 oysters on half shell
- Rock salt to hold oyster shells
- 1 cup softened butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 tbsps. chopped scallions
- 2 tbsps. chopped parsley
- 1 1/2 tbsps. freshly squeezed lemon juice
- 1/4 tsp. minced garlic
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste
- 1/4 cup bread crumbs
- 4-8 lemon wedges

Place oysters on bed of rock salt in shallow baking pan(s).

In medium bowl, mix butter, scallions, parsley, lemon juice, garlic, salt and pepper, whisking until well blended.

Top oysters evenly with mixture, sprinkle with bread crumbs, dot with butter and bake in preheated 350 F oven until bread crumbs are golden brown — about 8 minutes.

Serve immediately with lemon wedges.

Serves 4 to 8 as an appetizer.

Microwave Magic

By Desiree Viven

The cauliflower

The French know the cauliflower as chou-fleur — it sounds prettier, doesn't it? Like broccoli, brussels sprouts and spinach, this is one of those vegetables you either love or hate with a purple passion.

And speaking of purple, the Italians prize the purple-headed cauliflower (try saying that five times in a row!) that grows in their country.

The cauliflower found in American markets is a creamy white, but if you should notice a few brownish spots here and there, just shave them off with a sharp knife.

When shopping, look for unblemished heads with compact flowerets and fresh-looking green stems. Use as soon as possible after purchase and store, refrigerated, no longer than five days.

While it's available year-round, September and November are peak cauliflower months, so check your market for specials.

This vegetable is rich in vitamin C, and it's kind to dieters, too, with only 28 calories per cup. Raw flowerets are lovely on a platter of crudites, and taste great with creamy dips. And cooked cauliflower goes well with a variety of sauces.

To microwave frozen flowerets, place one 10-ounce package (about 1½ cups) in a 1-quart glass casserole with 2 tablespoons water and ¼ teaspoon salt. Microwave, covered, on HIGH (100 percent power) 8 to 9 minutes, stirring after 4 minutes. For two packages, microwave 12 to 14 minutes.

Mark Twain once called this vegetable the "cabbage with the college education." Why, I haven't the foggiest. But it is a smart idea to include the cauliflower in your diet. The following microwave recipes will give you some ideas:

CAULIFLOWER WITH CHEESE SAUCE

1 medium-size cauliflower
½ cup water
½ cup mayonnaise
2 tbsps. milk
¼ tsp. each dry mustard and ground white pepper
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese

Wash cauliflower well, removing outer green stalks. Break cauliflower into flowerets.

Place flowerets in a 1½-quart glass casserole with the ½ cup water. Cover and microwave 12 minutes on HIGH (100 percent power), stirring after 6 minutes. Drain, then return to casserole dish and cover. Set aside.

To make cheese sauce, combine mayonnaise, milk, dry mustard and white pepper in small glass mixing bowl. Stir in shredded cheese.

Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH (100 percent power), stirring every 30 seconds, just until cheese melts. (Watch carefully to avoid overcooking.)

Stir well and serve over cooked cauliflower.

Serves 4 to 6.

CHINESE CAULIFLOWER

1 medium head fresh cauliflower
½ cup water
½ cup each diced onion and celery
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 cup hot water
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 tbsps. cornstarch
1 tbsps. soy sauce
¼ tsp. pepper

Remove outer green stalks from cauliflower and discard. Rinse cauliflower thoroughly under cold running water.

Place whole cauliflower, stem side down, in 2-quart glass casserole dish. Pour in water. Cover and microwave on HIGH (100 percent power) 10 to 13 minutes, turning cauliflower over after 7 minutes. Drain well, return to dish and cover. Set aside.

In a 1-quart glass container combine onion, celery and butter. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH (100 percent power), 5 minutes, stirring after 2½ minutes.

Dissolve bouillon in hot water. Blend small amount of cold water with cornstarch to make runny paste. Stir into bouillon with soy sauce and pepper. Pour over onion/celery mixture; stir.

Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH (100 percent power) for 2 minutes, stirring every 30 seconds.

Place cooked whole cauliflower on serving dish and pour sauce over top. Serve immediately.

Serves 4 to 6.

MIXED VEGETABLE RELISH PLATE

½ small fresh cauliflower
3 stalks celery
2 carrots
1 small onion
1 (4-oz.) jar chopped pimiento, drained
½ cup wine vinegar
½ cup olive oil
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. leaf oregano, crumbled
¼ tsp. dried basil
¼ tsp. pepper

Separate cauliflower into flowerets; slice larger ones in half. Trim celery and cut, diagonally, into 2-inch slices. Scrape carrots and cut diagonally into 1-inch slices. Peel onion and cut into chunks.

Combine cauliflower, celery, carrots, onion and pimiento in 4-quart glass casserole. In small mixing bowl combine remaining ingredients; pour over vegetable mixture. Stir well.

Cover and microwave 15 minutes on HIGH (100 percent power), stirring every 5 minutes.

Let stand, covered, until cool, then refrigerate at least 1 hour before serving. Arrange chilled vegetables on platter to serve.

Serves 6.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. I have a 7-year-old stucco house that appears to be in need of paint for appearance's sake. Beige color was mixed into the stucco before application, and the coloring is uneven.

I have had several estimates from painters. One would spray it with one coat, another would roll it on with one coat, and the third would roll on two coats and apply Thompson's Water Seal to the lower 3 feet.

A fourth said not to paint the stucco because paint seals in moisture, and when it needs restuccoing in about 10 years, the painted stucco would have to be sandblasted.

What is your recommendation? I need to make a decision soon. — D.M.K.

A. If the stucco is in good condition, by all means paint it. Select a good-quality stucco or masonry paint. There are many quality alkaline-resistant paints, and each has its advantages and disadvantages.

For example, latex paints for use on masonry surfaces can be used with confidence. They come in a wide variety of colors, are water-thinned and can be applied to a damp surface. Indeed, the surface should be dampened before applying the first coat if you select a water-base paint.

Oil-base stucco and masonry paints are similar to conventional house paints in many respects. Their flat or low-sheen qualities tend to hide surface irregularities and these paints produce good results when concrete and adjacent wood trim are to be painted the same color.

An application of Thompson's Water Seal on the lower 3 feet after painting will help protect the finish from moisture from such sources as watering the lawn or rain. This is a good idea.

If the stucco is in good condition, I can see no reason for you to consider restuccoing. Stucco surfaces maintained properly and painted periodically should last for years.

match for the garage door. The foundation should be painted to match the beige of the new siding, as you do not want this to stand out.

Q. The fiberglass shower pan in our 5-year-old home is becoming increasingly hard to keep clean with dirt streaks appearing only a few days after each cleaning. Apparently the surface of the pan has become worn, enabling the dirt to accumulate easily.

We use a specially designated cleaner for fiberglass, but it still requires scrubbing and does not stay clean long.

Is there any product or technique for resealing the surface? We've inquired about professional refinishing, but discovered it is prohibitively expensive. Any suggestions would be welcome. — G.G.M.

A. Fiberglass can be painted with special paints. Consult your local paint dealer for the type he would recommend.

You may want to consider one of the newer linear polyurethane paints, which are very durable and now are used on boats because of their long-lasting qualities. They are more difficult to apply than regular paint, but will last five years or longer. Paint should help smooth the surface of the worn fiberglass and make cleaning easier.

By Robert Wallace, E.D.

Dr. Wallace: Our history teacher told the class that the child's game ring-around-a-rosy was started by a horrible tragedy but she won't say what it was.

What horrible tragedy is she talking about? — Bev

Bev: I'm sure your teacher wanted you to research the answer in a library — that is what I had to do because you made me a bit curious.

Ring-around-a-rosy did indeed have a gruesome origin — the fatal bubonic plague that swept England in 1665.

The "rosy" referred to the rosy rash of the disease; "posies" were herbs and spices carried to sweeten the air and "we all fall down" meant falling down dead.

Dr. Wallace: I met a super-nice boy from another school at our high school football game. He attended the school we were playing. When the game was over we talked for about 10 minutes (I met him at half-time) and he asked me for my telephone number and I gave it to him.

When I got home I told my mom about this super-nice boy but she wasn't too thrilled. She said I should not have given him my phone number on our first meeting.

Was I wrong? I am 17 and I thought it was proper. — Debby

Debby: It was proper. It's just that Mom is wary of the unknown.

If he does call and you do go out with him, make sure Mom meets him as soon as possible so she can be assured that he is a super-nice boy.

Dr. Wallace: I am 17 and find it very difficult to maintain my desired weight of 120. I've tried a lot of diets but they never seem to work. Presently I'm 140 and I must lose 20 pounds before Christmas.

My friend told me her sister lost a lot of weight by eating a lot of protein (eggs, meat). It's called the drinking man's diet. I'd like to try it but my mother says it's high in cholesterol and therefore not safe. Is this true? — Marge

Marge: There are hundreds of fad diets that promise a fast, painless way to lose weight, including the grapefruit diet, the liquid protein diet, the high roughage diet, the don't eat anything that's white diet and the high protein diet.

According to a leading home adviser, Dorothy Wenck, fad diets supply a formula or food list that replaces your normal eating pattern. They tell you exactly what to do, and if you follow them exactly, you probably will lose weight because all do involve some form of calorie reduction.

All are promoted as "easy," "foolproof," and above all "quick." All have some new gimmick that's presented as a "scientific discovery." The need for unpleasant things such as exercise, willpower, changing eating behavior is ignored or downplayed. Many include testimonials and "success stories" of people who have lost weight following the diet.

You can lose weight on just about any diet if you take in fewer calories than you use up in your activities. But what you want to do is lose weight in a healthful way and KEEP IT OFF. So don't be misled by the diet profiteers. Ask these questions of any diet plan:

1. Is the diet nutritional-ly well-balanced? Does it include foods from all the food groups? — Milk and cheese. Meat, fish, poultry, eggs, legumes. Fruits and vegetables. Breads and cereals.

2. Does the diet include a wide variety of foods that you like and normally eat — not just a few foods — so that it will not become monotonous or impossible to follow? Are they foods you can afford and not some high-priced special products?

3. Is the diet really low in calories so you can lose weight on it, but not so low that you will be undernourished or hungry all the time?

4. Is the diet lower in calories because of reduction in size of servings and in amount of high-calorie extras — fats, sugars, cream sauces, salad dressings, desserts, candy, fried foods, alcoholic beverages, etc.? (Yes, people with weight problems MUST learn to eat less of these.)

5. Will the diet teach you new, healthful eating habits that you can follow the rest of your life (with some added calories once weight is lost)? Only by doing this will you maintain your weight loss.

I have a question I hope you can answer. Why does the Olympic flag consist of five rings and what do they represent? — Tony Tony: The five interlaced circles represent the five inhabited continents: Africa, the Americas, Asia, Australia and Europe.

Each ring is a different color — red, yellow, green, black and blue — but they do not represent particular continents.

Mainly for Seniors

Updates and hints for active older adults

By Leonard J. Hansen

In today's world you, as a senior citizen, can test your own eyes regularly, lower your telephone costs, gain more from your Social Security and look forward to a possible new treatment for severe rheumatoid arthritis. For your interest and benefit, here is a briefing:

Testing Your Eyes

You can check your own eyes for macular degeneration — that is, deterioration of the part of the retina that controls the ability to read, drive and see color. Find something with a straight edge such as a door frame or flagpole and stare at one point on that edge for a few seconds. According to Prevention magazine, if any of it looks wavy or as if part of what you see is missing, you may have macular degeneration.

The Minnesota Society for the Prevention of Blindness provides this personal test and others, which can be received by sending $1 to Prevent Blindness, P.O. Box 1528, St. Paul, MN 55101.

If you feel you have reason for concern after taking the test, consult with a competent medical professional.

Lowering Telephone Costs

There are ways to save on your telephones and its usage, and the Center for the Study of Services has done extensive research for its "Complete Guide to Lower Telephone Costs."

There are two regional issues, for the San Francisco Bay area and for Washington, D.C., available at $6.95 each. Most of the information in the book is valuable almost anywhere in the United States.

You might urge your library to secure a copy, or send your letter plus check or money order for $6.95 to Consumer's Checkbook, 222 Agriculture Building, 101 The Embarcadero, San Francisco, CA 94105.

About Social Security

Although one out of every four Americans is eligible for Social Security, only one in five actually collects. Given the program's complex rules and the bureaucracy, it is easy to see why.

"Your 1985/1986 Guide to Social Security Benefits," by Leona G. Rubin and Richard L. Rubin, is a fine new information source for pre-retirees and retirees alike. The 188-page book presents plain-English answers to the most frequently asked Social Security questions. Price is $6.95 in paperback; $14.95 for hardbound; published by Facts on File.

The Arthritis Question

Medical science still does not know what causes arthritis, nor has it produced actual cures. There are treatments that range from medication to surgery, depending on the severity of the condition. Research continues, though, and recently there have been announcements of treatments that may brighten the horizon.

For adults suffering from severe rheumatoid arthritis, there is a possibility that an existing anti-cancer drug, Methotrexate, may be used for treatment. Lederle Laboratories presented new research to a medical symposium in June 1985 that also will be presented to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

John R. Ward, M.D., director of the department of rheumatology at the University of Utah Medical School, told us that "both uncontrolled experience and double-blind prospective trials have demonstrated efficacy and acceptable tolerance and safety of Methotrexate treatment in rheumatoid arthritis."

Check with your doctor about these new studies and the future possibilities for Methotrexate treatment if you have rheumatoid arthritis.

And, About Age

Are we young or old at whatever number of chronological years we have achieved? It really is a state of mind, for we see some people "old" — slowing down and resting — at 40, while at the same time we can find and delight in mature adults of 80 who are alive, active, creative and achieving every day.

Baseball player Satchel Paige pitched professionally into his mid-60s, and summed up his philosophy in question form: "How old would you be if you didn't know how old you was?"

It's a good question — and the answer is for each of us to decide as individuals.

JUNIOR EDITION

GIVE THESE LAMES POWER EYEBROWS AND EYES! THEY CAN BE PRETTY OR FUNNY!

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Well, how did all of you get through Hurricane Gloria? My family had a few problems. First our plum tree in the back yard fell down dragging the phone line down with it. That meant we had no phone service for several days.

An hour or so afterwards the electric power went out--and stayed out a day and a half.

It was a great feeling to have the power and phone back on again. I enjoyed a nice warm shower and talking on the telephone with my friends!

Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Bernadette Clark and Fred Wright. You'll be hearing from me soon.

Kennel cough is a common complaint

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. We left our dog at a local dog and cat boarding kennel recently when we went on vacation. Our dog now has an intermittent cough and some discharge from her nose.

The kennel operators told us that this is very common and that we should not worry about it. Should we take our dog to our veterinarian? We do not want to be overly anxious, but we do want to do what is best.

A. The coughing syndrome you describe constitutes one of the most frequent complaints registered against boarding kennels for dogs and cats. The disease is commonly called "kennel cough" or "canine cough," because dogs often contract the disease while boarding at a kennel.

At many kennels, boarders often are exposed to other dogs carrying the disease or to contaminated premises. Because kennel cough is highly contagious and readily spread among dogs, it can be picked up at even the cleanest kennels. Kennels are to blame for the disease only inasmuch as they force many dogs to live in close quarters with each other.

Dogs with kennel cough usually are bright, alert, eat well and do not have a fever. They have a dry hacking cough or bouts of deep, harsh coughing often followed by gagging. Foamy mucus is often produced by the gagging.

Coughing usually can be precipitated in dogs with kennel cough by applying external digital pressure to the trachea or larynx.

Many viruses and bacteria have been associated with the disease. The parainfluenza virus and the canine adenovirus 2 have been implicated in many cases. Vaccines are available for both of the viruses and studies in boarding kennels have demonstrated that vaccinated dogs are far less likely to catch kennel cough.

Many cases do not require treatment, with the cough usually subsiding within about two weeks. However, many veterinarians recommend antibiotics to prevent secondary bacterial infection of the upper respiratory tract during the convalescent period.

Children's cough suppressants are often helpful if the cough is overly frequent and tires your dog. It must be remembered that coughing is a protective mechanism designed to clear secretions from the larynx and air passages, so coughing should not be unduly suppressed.

Dogs with kennel cough should not be further stressed. They should be allowed to rest and be kept in a comfortable environment. They should be quarantined from other dogs to prevent exposing them.

Although annoying, kennel cough is not usually very serious. Fear of the disease should not keep you from boarding your dog.
