At the October 2 meeting of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club, several prospective new members were present to witness and be introduced to, a ceremony reserved for long time members of Kiwanis, namely, the presentation of a Legion of Honor pin.

One of our Privileged Members, Mr. Joseph Oliver, who retired from Grumman Corp. some time ago, and has been working with a group of other retirees from Grumman restoring old Grumman planes for a variety of museums, was presented with a 35 year Legion of Honor pin to commemorate his 35 years as a member of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club.

Town Candidate Blasts LILCO

Oyster Bay Democratic Town Supervisor candidate Joseph DelGiaco has sharply criticized LILCO for "still another sorry episode of incredible mismanagement" in its efforts to restore power in the aftermath of Hurricane Gloria, and has renewed his call for public takeover of the giant utility.

"It is clear to everyone that LILCO was not prepared for the storm," DelGiaco observed. "It should be equally clear by now that LILCO simply does not have the kind of competent and responsible management that is essential if we are to have reliable and economic electric service on Long Island."

"The only practical answer to LILCO's sorry record of ineptitude at the expense of Long Island homeowners is the public takeover of LILCO's assets and functions," the Democratic candidate continued. DelGiaco renewed his suggestion that a Long Island Power Authority be established to buy out LILCO and to take over the role of providing electric power to Long Island.

"As a member of the Nassau County Board of Supervisors, I will vigorously pursue plans for the establishment of such an Authority," DelGiaco pledged. "I will work diligently with other Nassau officials, with Suffolk County officials and with the State Legislature to make this solution to our electric woes a reality."

"Electric power is too important a service to be left to the vagaries of a private management that has proved time and again that it is incapable of coping with the needs of Long Island ratepayers," DelGiaco concluded. "We must utilize the good offices of local government to institute the kind of strong, competent and efficient management of electric energy that is long overdue."

Fork Lane Needs Security

Opinions and Photos by Annette Eichenauer

Just by dumb luck the other day I happened to notice on the side of Fork Lane School these words written in large white letters. I really couldn't make them out that clearly so I walked over to get a better look. As the pictures show, this is what was written on the wall of the school and the windows. Who ever the vandals were used white exterior house paint. I know this for a fact because the lid to the paint can was left on the ground.

It amazes me that this person or persons can find the time to do this but yet never has the time to complete home work or get involved in an after school activity.

It also amazes me that the grounds around the school are in such bad shape. You'll notice in the pictures that the play ground equipment is the Pits. The swings have been stolen and the ones they left behind are approximately 3 1/2 feet off the ground.

As I was walking toward the play ground area, I saw enough glass on the ground to make a full size window.

As a parent I'm concerned about the hazards and safety of my child along with the other children who are subject to these horrible conditions. As a taxpayer, I'd like to know what my tax dollars are going towards. School taxes go up and up but for what? Our school needs new play ground equipment, new lights around the entire building and security personnel.

If you can have rent-a-cops at the high school, who just stand around looking at the girls go by, then why can't you have them at the elementary schools.

Our new principal is very concerned about the safety of our children inside the building, and I'm all for that but I'm just as concerned about our children outside. I'm sure Fork Lane is not the only elementary school with these problems. We were told last year that our school would be graced with new more modern play ground equipment, and we got new swings but as you can see they were stolen.

If any person who lives around the school area should see our school being vandalized please get involved and call the Security Office at 933-6637.

Editor's Note: We encourage readers to send in their photos in regard to cleaning up our community.

School tax rates can be confusing to the average homeowner, particularly because of the many alterations in the estimated figures before the final rate is set by the Nassau County Board of Supervisors in August. Each year, the Board of Education adopts a budget and sets a dollar figure which must be raised by taxation. This amount of money is levied against the real property of the school district to support the budget. Although the district had originally projected an increase of $1.68 in April, further reductions by the Board and revisions in 1985 assessments resulted in an increase of $1.03.

The tax rate estimated at budget time is based on the previous year's assessed valuation. The new assessment totals are not known until the Town of Oyster Bay Board of Assessments Review has approved changes following Grievance Day. In August, the Nassau County Board of Supervisors sets individual tax rates for the four classes of properties (I-Homeowner, II-Hotels/condos, III-Public Utilities, and IV-Industrial/Commercial) and they have the right to transfer up to 5% of the Homeowner's (in class I) share of the tax levy to be paid by the other three classes.

The rates and increases by property class for the coming year are as listed:

Class	Rate 1984-85	Rate 1985-86	Increase
I	$21.06	$22.09	$1.03
II	23.17	24.38	1.21
III	23.97	25.20	1.23
IV	23.74	24.97	1.23

Homeowners should also note that the final tax bills will include the levy for the library as well as for the school district.

The Bethpage Library invites you to join Commander Pott, its madcap inventor, and his rambunctious family as they fly the English Channel, tangle with gangsters and monsters, and find danger lurking in many corners of the Continent. The film stars Dick Van Dyke and Sally Ann Howes and offers memorable music by the composers of "Mary Poppins."

Halloween.

The vampire bat costume workshop will be held from 2:30-3:30 p.m. Youngsters are requested to bring along a bottle of white glue, scotch tape, a stapler, a few felt markers, some black and/or brown yarn (optional). The library will supply the rest.

Bus Trip To Historic Raynham Hall

What was it like to be a child growing up in 18th and 19th Century Long Island? On Saturday, November 2, the Bethpage Public Library has planned an exciting bus trip for youngsters to Oyster Bay's historic, Raynham Hall, begun in 1738.

During this visit, young people will meet the Townsends - bold sea traders, clever Revolutionary War spies, Civil War patriots. And they will meet their children on tours, in a slide show, in stories, on a mysterious historical scavenger hunt, and in hands-on colonial crafts workshops.

How did young people do homework in the 18th century? Have fun creating your own attractive quill pens, inkwells, and other items that youngsters used long ago.

The bus will leave promptly at 1 p.m. from in front of the library and will return at approximately 3:30 p.m. All young people in grades 2-6 residing in District #21 are invited to attend. $3.75 per person includes all museum fees and bus fare. Registration is now being taken in the Bethpage Children's Room for the limited number of places available on the bus. For information, call 931-3907.

On Wednesday, October 23, at 1 p.m. Dee Bartsch (floral designer) will be at the Bethpage Public Library, 47 Powell Avenue, to demonstrate the Art of Flower Arrangement. Learn how to create a beautiful, eye-appealing silk flower arrangements that will bring summer into your home all winter through. The library has arranged with Mrs. Bartsch to obtain three silk arrangements to raffle at the end of the program. So come, learn and try your luck.

Pre-registration is required. Call 931-3907 or stop at the Reference Desk when you visit the library.

The life and work of artist Marc Chagall will be examined in a slide/talk program at the Bethpage Public Library on Thursday, October 17, at 8 p.m. Carol M. Dubs, artist, teacher, and docent at the Nassau County Museum of Fine Art, will be the guest speaker.

At the time of his death last March, only weeks before his 98th birthday, Marc Chagall was known in the popular mind as a painter of light and happy subjects - floating lovers, smiling animals, fiddlers and circus riders - depicted in bright, gay colors. But there is another Chagall - thoughtful, ironic, and tragic - who often goes unrecognized.

From her extensive collection of full-color slides of the artist's work, Carol Dubs has chosen about sixty which reflect the full range of his styles and subjects and which reveal the true nature of his extraordinary personality - a poet in paint, a dreamer of strange dreams - true to himself.

Finance Committee Schedules Meeting

The Finance Committee of the Hicksville Board of Education will hold its October meeting on Wednesday evening, October 16. The group, led by chairmen Lawrence A. Moor and Thomas F. Nagle, will consider action items to be recommended to the Board and several information items.

Recommended action items include the acceptance of warrant and transfer reports and the Independent Auditing Report for 1984-85 finances. The committee will also study bid awards for recommendation for asphalt and paving and magazines and periodicals.

Information items to be reviewed include the 1986-87 budget information packet, the monthly cash flow report, and multi-peril, auto liability, commercial umbrella, and excess blanket catastrophe insurance policies.

The meeting will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the Board's conference room in the Administration Building. All committee members and interested residents and staff members are invited to attend.

Fire Prevention Info From Fire Dept.

A COMMUNITY MESSAGE FROM THE HICKSVILLE FIRE DEPARTMENT

People think that smoke detectors let them rest in peace. Sometimes they do. Are there batteries in your smoke detector? Are they working?

Smoke detectors have saved thousands of lives. But unless your smoke detector is properly maintained, it cannot protect you and your loved ones.

To maintain your smoke detector, be sure to:

- Replace batteries yearly or when the low-battery warning sounds.
- Periodically test your alarm.
- Have at least one on every floor of your house, especially outside each sleeping area.
- Never remove a good battery or otherwise disable a detector.

Remember, most deaths caused by home fires occur at night when your detector is the only thing on guard.

Our Children

How to deal with temper displays

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Q. My daughter has a terrible temper. She is 3 years old and will actually scream through gritted teeth when something frustrates her.

We have tried to get her to stop this because the noise is very loud. I don't want her doing this when she starts school.

Have you any suggestions?

A. It isn't unusual for fuses to be pretty short when children are young.

Two factors come to mind in connection with displays of temper — they often attract attention, and adult responses to them may encourage children to continue, and even accelerate this attention-getting device in frequency and intensity.

One parental approach that is sometimes effective is to try ignoring the outbursts. It isn't easy, but as long as the child is in no danger of harm, in time it might pay off.

Various situations can bring on frustrations and consequent screaming and crying of young children. Toys that don't work, promises not kept, discomfort related to food, clothing, heat or tiredness, or expectations that are unrealistic are among reasons for losing control. Efforts to remove the causes sometimes can lead to removal of the results which are often wearing on parents' patience.

Q. I can't possibly understand how our daughter (she is 15) can even think in her wildest dreams about going into the field of medicine. My husband doesn't feel as I do, but then he doesn't have the same reason as my objection.

I have never thought about being a physician myself because the sight of blood nauseates me so much. (My daughter even talks sometimes about going into surgery! Horrors!)

Maybe she just expresses this preference to me because she knows how opposed I am to it, and she knows it upsets me. But I can't help it if just the thought of the gory situations she will face is too much for me.

Besides, just think of the difficulty of a girl succeeding in this profession.

Can you blame me?

A. Perhaps no one can blame you for the fact that you never selected medicine as a career, but what has that to do with your daughter's choice? Your repulsion doesn't seem to have rubbed off on her. And, as for a woman succeeding in this field, times have changed tremendously.

It would be pleasant if you both could select topics for conversation that are less controversial.

Q. Thank you for your reply to the parents of identical twins to their questions about keeping them together in school and dressing them alike. I would like to add my "two cents."

As the mother of fraternal twin boys, now almost 2 years old, I will definitely separate them when they reach school age. They need their individuality at that point. Granted that they have been best friends since birth, but at age 5 I believe they should find new friends.

So far as dressing them alike, this can be done by buying the same item with two different colors. I feel by the time they reach school age they should mainly be dressed differently and only on occasion dressed alike. This also allows for each person's individuality to come out.

I think you were speaking directly to me today through your column.

A. Parents of twins apparently give a lot of thought to their children's relationships with each other and their own with both youngsters. Their attitudes frequently show such good common sense.

In Service

Airman Thomas A. K. Trentanoue, son of Albert J. and Ethna T. Trentanoue of 26 Relda St., Plainview, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force law enforcement specialist course at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

Graduates of the course studied general law enforcement duties, tactics, weapons training, physical apprehension and restraint and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Trentanoue is scheduled to serve with the 3rd Law Enforcement Squadron in the Philippines.

He is a 1984 graduate of Plainview-Old Bethpage High School, Plainview.

Cadet Marnie J. Raza, daughter of Galo and Yolanda E. Raza of 34 Monroe Ave., Hicksville, has completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Dover Air Force Base, Del.

Field training, attended by cadets normally between their second and third year of college, gives an opportunity to evaluate each student's potential as an officer, according to an Air Force spokesman.

The summer's curriculum consists of orientations on jet aircraft, career opportunities, human relations education and equal opportunity training. Physical fitness and survival training is also emphasized.

Raza is a student at New York Institute of Technology, Old Westbury, and attending ROTC at Manhattan College, Riverdale.

Your Social Security

Surplus money invested in government securities

Q. I read in the newspaper that Social Security is not going broke and that there is now a surplus in the retirement trust fund.

It seems to me that the Social Security Administration would be better off if they invested the money rather than just letting it sit. — P.A.

A. Funds not required for current benefit payments and expenses are invested in interest-bearing U.S. government securities. The interest earned is added to the trust fund.

Q. My husband, who is 64, owns and operates his own business. He is not thinking about retirement at this time.

I will be 65 in December. I never have worked under Social Security. Will I be able to get Medicare when I reach 65? — E.L.

A. Yes. You can become entitled to Medicare if your husband has reached retirement age and is entitled to benefits.

Contact your local Social Security office for additional information.

Q. I reached 65 last February but did not file for Medicare. Now I need my Medicare medical insurance.

I have been told that I can't sign up until next year and that the coverage will not be effective until July of next year. Is this correct? — P.D.

A. If you don't take medical insurance during your initial enrollment period you can sign up during a general enrollment period, Jan. 1 through March 31 of each year. However, your protection won't start until the following July and your monthly premium will be 10 percent higher than the basic premium.

Q. When I filed my disability claim the interviewer mentioned something about vocational rehabilitation. I thought that was just for people who lost a limb. Why am I being referred? — L.C.

A. Everyone who files a disability claim is considered for possible services from his or her state vocational rehabilitation agency. Services may include counseling and guidance, medical or surgical treatment, physical therapy, training in the use of prostheses and job training and placement.

You must accept such services if they are likely to enable you to work.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Gabby Tabby

THE RECENT work of firefighters in all communities deserves comment for the extra service during Hurricane "Gloria". The work of Lt. Eugene Pietzak in Hicksville was exemplary. His fast action in moving a woman who was caught between an arcing wire, a chain link fence and a swimming pool, dragging her away saved a life. IF THE POLITICIANS get their way in Suffolk county, LILCO will turn into a publicly owned power company. With the difference in ideas now between the government in Nassau County and Suffolk any chaos apparent in LILCO during the hurricane will seem like nothing when those politicians and political appointees get their way. THE CRIME REPORT is printed each week to acquaint residents of where crime is taking place in the area. Anyone seeing suspicious activity should phone 911. BURGLARS broke into Island Plastics 120 New South Road, Hicksville between Sept. 27 and 30. They entered through a roof light and stole a circular saw and electric welder. $650 in cash is reported stolen from Bushmills 597 Hicksville Rd., Bethpage on Oct. 4. The thieves entered with a key. BURGLARS entered the Innocchino residence 75 Cheshire Rd., Bethpage on Oct. 4. They pried open a rear window and stole $400, gold chains and gold earrings. A REAR door was pried open at the Derespino residence 4321 Ludwig Lane, Bethpage between Oct. 3 and 5. $1400 in cash was stolen. BURGLARS used a rear window to enter the Bhambhani home 215 Syosset-Woodbury Rd., Syosset on Sept. 30. They stole cash and a VCR. AN UNLOCKED rear door was used at the Ruiz residence 16 Laurel St., Hicksville to gain entry. Leather jackets were stolen. BURGLARS entered the Rosenfeld residence 100 Oakwood Rd., Syosset on Oct. 3. The loss is unknown. A BICYCLE and TV were stolen from the Goldman residence 58 Maple Drive, Plainville on Sept. 30. PUZZLED?

Are you puzzled why we run more Classified Ads in our areas than our biggest competitors including the N.Y. Times, Newsday, The Daily News and the free throwaways that come to your door?

The Answer Is Simple -

RESULTS: When readers run ads with us they get results, not numbers of printed copies or other irrelevant information.

An Ad, any ad, is only an advertisement for you when people READ it. Large numbers of copies printed and hung on door knobs or multi pages of newsprint in large out-of-town newspapers are not what count. Only readers get your message and can bring you results. The next time you are thinking of advertising something - remember that it takes readers to get your message.

And then you will know why so many more local ads are run in our newspapers than in the big papers, or the so-called saturation throwaways. Don't count door knobs - count customers.

The Answer Is Readers = Results

Island Symphony To Perform Here

A performance by the Island Chamber Symphony on Sunday, October 27 at the Hicksville Public Library will be the second offering in the 1985-86 "Distinguished Artists Concerts" series, according to Oyster Bay Town Councilman Douglas J. Hynes.
The concert, which is being sponsored by the Cultural and Performing Arts (CAPA) Division of the Town's Department of Community Services, will be held at the Library, 169 Jerusalem Avenue, beginning at 3 p.m. For information, call CAPA at 795-5943.

The Island Chamber Symphony is a new ensemble concentrating on masterpieces of the baroque and classical periods. Hynes stated, "The group comprises between 25 and 30 players depending on the specific works to be performed at a given concert."

Library Film 'King Of Hearts'

The Hicksville Public Library will show the film, "King of Hearts" on Friday, October 11, at 8 p.m., in the Community Room of the library. "King of Hearts" takes place as World War I is coming to an end. Alan Bates plays a Scottish soldier sent to disarm a bomb planted by the fleeing German army in a small French town. When Bates arrives, the town is deserted, except for the inmates of the local insane asylum. He is embraced as their king and the results are both lyrical and hilarious. There is no charge for admission and everyone is invited. Children must be accompanied by parent.

Library will be open October, 14, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. only. No evening hours.

News From Road Runners

Most of us will never have the opportunity to play baseball in the same game as Dwight Gooden or Don Mattingly, or to play tennis with John McEnroe or Chris Evert Lloyd, or basketball with Patrick Ewing. But every October, anyone with the fortitude and determination to train for a 26.2 mile road race can compete in the New York City Marathon along with world champions like Carlos Lopes, Alberto Salazar, Grete Waitz and Joan Benoit.

The New York City Marathon is the most exciting mass participation sporting event in the world. On Sunday morning, October 27, 19,000 runners will line up at Staten Island's Verrazano Bridge Toll plaza for the start of an exhilarating run through New York City's five boroughs.

Many Long Islanders have been training for the Marathon for months, and their reward will be the incomparable sense of elation they feel when they cross the Central Park finish line in front of thousands of cheering spectators. Whether they complete the 26.2 mile course in 2 1/2 hours or 5 1/2 hours, it will be the kind of experience that they will never forget!

Local runners will initiate the 1986 Marathon weekend with the 5th annual Marathon Carbo-Load Pasta Party graciously hosted by Woodbury Super Star Sneakers And Sports. This year's Pasta Party will be held at the VFW Hall on South Broadway in Hicksville on Friday evening, October 25. All members of local running clubs and everyone who will be competing in this year's New York City Marathon is invited to attend.

Once again this year, bus service will be available to transport local runners to and from the Marathon. Deluxe air-conditioned coaches will leave from Woodbury Mall (Jericho Turnpike and South Woods Road in Woodbury) at 7 a.m. on the morning of October 27, and will take runners and spectators directly to the Staten Island starting line. Spectators can watch the start, and then reboard the bus for the trip to Central Park, where runners will be picked up after the Marathon for the return trip home. Refreshments will be available on the bus. The cost is $12 round trip. Call Bryan at Woodbury Super Star (364-2750) to reserve your seat.

Both runners and non-runners are needed as volunteer workers at the Marathon. There are all sorts of interesting jobs at the starting line, the finish line, and everywhere in between. All volunteers will get commemorative T-shirts, warmup jackets, and lots of other goodies-along with the excitement of being a part of this great event. Call the NYC Marathon Volunteer desk at 212-860-4455 or 212-860-2280 to volunteer your services.

Want more information about the Marathon, or about any aspect of running or road racing in our local area? Contact the Plainville/Old Bethpage Road Runners Club at 433-0919.

Backyard Gardener

It's time to plant spring-flowering bulbs

By Patrick Denton

Most home gardeners enjoy, and greatly look forward to, the colorful sights and pleasant scents of spring-flowering bulbs. Already most of us will have begun prowling about the garden, looking for pockets of free space that could accommodate a planting of some of the bulb flowers.

To bring us their delight, spring-flowering bulbs must be planted in the fall, for inside each bulb is an embryonic flower that requires a prolonged period of cold to trigger its complete development into a fully developed flower. And because the bulbs come complete with their flowers in embryo already tucked inside them, they are among the easiest of plants to grow.

There is a flower type and color to suit everybody's predilections in taste. And by choosing from among early, mid-season and late blooming types, the home gardener can enjoy a long season of spring bulb flowers.

There are many areas in the garden where spring-flowering bulbs can yield their individual pleasures. Small pockets of bulb flowers can be used to fill gaps between foundation, patio and border shrubbery.

This is an excellent method for brightening dark gaps in the spring garden. They can be given a display bed all their own, massed with solid blocks of complementary blooms arranged in gently curved lines.

Some can be planted in ground covers; others can be arrayed in casual drifts along pathways and around lawns. Low growers are ideal for rock gardens.

Early bloomers like Siberian squill, early tulips like the kaufmanniana or waterlily and the Greigii tulips, along with early daffodils, crocus and snowdrops where they are hardy, are ideal for planting under deciduous trees and shrubs that will leaf out after the bulb flowers fade.

The size of the area you are planting will determine how many bulbs of each variety to purchase. In small pocket plants, six to 10 bulbs make a nice grouping. In larger display beds, varieties should really be placed in groups of at least a dozen for best effect. In such larger plantings, aim for curved lines between colors and flower types, to avoid a rigid military look to your flowerbed.

Whether they are to be planted in one open area, in pockets between shrubs, in ground covers or in the rock garden, the soil must be well drained and the area must receive

Bethpage Teacher Receives Doctorate

An accomplished and dedicated teacher of the Bethpage Schools Social Studies Department for 15 years received her doctorate degree from New York University before the end of the 1984-85 school year. Born in Taipei, Taiwan, Yen Chu Sun was inspired to devote part of her life to the field of education. Graduated from the Normal University in Taipei with a B.A. degree in 1959, she taught history and geography for six and one half years to the students of Taiwan. She emigrated to this country in 1965. Her aspirations were to fulfill dreams of higher education and enjoy the freedom and opportunities offered to individuals of the United States.

Yen Chu Sun persevered to promote the status of women in education and the business community. She received her Master's degree from Queen's College in 1969 and proceeded to work toward her doctorate during employment as a high school teacher while raising a family. Her dissertation consisted of a case study on Chinese higher education for women in the context of social reform from 1919 through 1929.

Dr. Sun is happily married. One of her two sons, is a graduate of Princeton University with a Chemical engineering degree. The other, a graduate of Yale, is presently attending medical school at Stony Brook.

Aside from her educational pursuit and devotion to family responsibilities, Yen Chu Sun is an accomplished gourmet. Her culinary expertise whetted many appetites during the various festive holiday celebrations our school has had in the past. Mr. McElroy, the former High School Principal, Miss F. Cleary, the present one, and Mr. G.P. Danel, the Supervisor of Social Studies are honored to have Dr. Sun as a member of the teaching staff.

Professional encomiums are extended to this conscientious, progressive teacher who has acclimated herself to our American way of life, sharing responsibilities, knowledge and experiences with the faculty and students. Her devotion and pursuit for academic excellence are acknowledged and appreciated.

Bethpage GOP Hosts Candidates

Town of Oyster Bay Councilman Angelo A. Delligatti was the focus of attention at the most recent meeting of the Theodore Roosevelt Republican Club of Bethpage, on September 9. Delligatti was the recipient of a merit award, presented by Commander Gordon Rogers of the Butehorn Brothers (Bethpage) Post No. 4987 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Councilman Douglas J. Hynes also attended the meeting at which Councilman Delligatti was honored, commenting that "Angelo Delligatti is certainly deserving of this honor which has been bestowed upon him. In the time since he's become a member of the Town Board, he's repeatedly demonstrated a true commitment to the residents of our Town and its many various community organizations."

Club President Kevin Galloway has announced that the Club is now ready for its next meeting, which will take place on Monday evening, October 14, at the American Legion Hall on Washington Street, beginning at 8 p.m.

George F. Yochmann, Executive Leader of the Bethpage GOP Organization, added that "We have a really fine guest list for our meeting in October... County Comptroller Peter T. King, who's established an outstanding reputation as a Hempstead Town Councilman and, even more so, as County Comptroller, since his election to the post in 1981... Councilman (Howard) Tom Hogan, who's served for 3 consecutive terms, beginning in 1973, and who's now the senior member of the Oyster Bay Town Board... and our Town Clerk, Ann Ocker, who is only the second woman to hold that position since the Town was founded in 1653 - and she's held that office now for 6 consecutive terms, covering 12 years of truly fine service to the residents of the Town of Oyster Bay."

Leonard Kunzig, heading the Club's "Harvest Moon Dance" Committee, announced that tickets to the annual affair will be available at the October 14 meeting, at only $10, per person. It will take place this year on Saturday, October 26, at the Bethpage Fire District Headquarters on Broadway, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Kunzig added that "It's an inexpensive night out and everyone has a great time. It has traditionally been the highlight of the Club's activities each year."

Buddy Mazzara, who chairs the Club's Membership Committee, concluded that "It's going to be an interesting meeting on the 14th... everyone is welcome to join us then... we're always ready to accept new members."

It's up to us.

New York State is a great state in which to live, work and raise a family. We can be proud of our place in world commerce, industry and in the quality of our lives. But one of our greatest sources of pride is often overlooked, that being our huge forest preserves, wetland and marsh areas, and abundant fish and wildlife.

Now New Yorkers have an opportunity to help protect this unique heritage of wildlife so vital to the quality of life we all enjoy. "Return a Gift to Wildlife" is a program into which you may voluntarily contribute when you complete your state tax form. By checking off Line 18 on the long form or Line 12 on the short form, you can make a contribution to the New York State Conservation Fund. Monies collected have been dedicated by the State Finance Law to the protection, management and extension of wildlife in our great state.

The Need Has Never Been Greater

Hard economic times dictate hard financial decisions. This year, the federal government has already eliminated endangered species aid, jeopardizing the restoration of a number of birds and animals native to New York. In addition, thousands of acres of grassland, wetland, marshland and forest that are critical to the survival or extension of New York's wildlife are eliminated or disrupted each year. The New York State "Return a Gift to Wildlife" program is an important step towards a lasting solution to these problems and an investment in the future of our wildlife.

Return a Gift to Wildlife

An Effective Program

Like the environment which only thrives when the whole ecosystem is addressed, the areas of work to be addressed through tax contributions are broad and comprehensive. The largest single element is earmarked for habitat protection so critical to wildlife perpetuation. A species management program will be strengthened to help maintain all species of fish and wildlife at desirable population levels for human enjoyment. A third element is the public use program which will provide increased opportunities for enjoying fish and wildlife. Lastly, the plan calls for greater awareness development of fish and wildlife values through the creation of better educational resources and information services.

Consider the added dimension wildlife brings to your life. Won't you return a gift through a contribution on Line 18 of the long form or Line 12 of the short form of your State tax return. Your gift is tax deductible on your 1983 tax return.

Picture is a transfer print

By James G. McCollam

Q. The mark on this plate is "Empire" above a wreath and "Trenton, N.J." below.

What can you tell me about its history and value? Was this portrait hand painted?

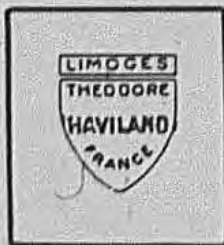

A. In 1863, the Empire Pottery Co. was founded and in 1892 it became part of the Trenton Pottery Co.

Your plate was made between 1892 and 1904. The value would be in the $60 to $70 range.

The picture of the fashionable lady was a transfer print — something like the decals you stick on automobile windows. A final glaze followed and protected the transfer from wearing off.

Q. I am confused by all the different marks used on Haviland china. Mine has the enclosed mark. I don't know the name of the pattern, but I have an 82-piece service for 12.

Can you tell me when it was made and its value?

A. The name of a Haviland pattern is less important than its vintage. Yours was made in the late 1930s, just before Theodore Haviland started production in the United States.

An 82-piece service for 12 probably would sell in the $500 to $600 range.

Q. I know that Coca-Cola trays (lithographed tin) bring fantastic prices. What about trays advertising other products?

A. Old tin trays are all collectible. Those that are dated or can be dated by the art work bring the best prices.

Steven Costa, 18, of 47 Hofstra Drive, Plainview, was operating a 1986 Mitsubishi owned by Arnold Weiner, eastbound on Old Country Road, when he apparently lost control and struck a pole. The driver and two other occupants had to be extricated from the auto.

Steven is in critical condition at Central General Hospital, Plainview with massive head and body injuries. Jodi Weiner, 17, of 11 Hofstra Drive, Plainview is in Syosset General Hospital, Syosset with serious neck injuries and a fractured collar bone. Nancy Mulroy, 17, of 44 Richfield Street, Plainview is in Central General Hospital, Plainview with serious neck injuries. Christopher Monteleone, 17, of 9 Fresno Drive, Plainview, is in Central General Hospital, Plainview suffering from possible shock.

The auto was impounded for testing. No charges have been filed at this time. The investigation is continuing.

Oct. 15 Marathon For Road Runners

The featured speaker at the October 15 meeting of the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club will be Don DiDonato of Hicksville, one of the New York Metropolitan area's top runners and racers. Don will address the Club on his experiences in the prestigious "Fifth Avenue Mile." The meeting will be held at the H.B. Mattlin School on Washington Avenue in Plainview, starting promptly at 8 p.m.

Don is a graduate of Floral Park Memorial High School and C.W. Post. As a member of Post's track team, he was the winner of the 1500 Meter Race in the 1980 NCAA Division Championships. A familiar face at Long Island road races, Don boasts personal best times of 4:02 for the mile, 14:20 for 5 Kilometers, 24:12 for 5 miles, 30:10 for 10 Kilometers and 2:24 for the marathon. He now runs under the colors of the nationally ranked Westchester Puma Running Team.

Don is a two time past winner of the "Metropolitan Mile" division of the Fifth Avenue Mile, so he is certainly well qualified to provide unique insights into this event and into the world of big-time road racing generally.

The general public is cordially invited to attend what promises to be a most interesting program. For more information, call POBRR President Mike Polansky at 433-0919.

Much has been said about unsightly conditions that plague the streets and parking areas of our community. Residents have complained over the years, various groups have tried to campaign in an effort to attract the attention of town government, but conditions remain unchanged.

Everyone knows that "a picture is worth a thousand words" so we are now inviting readers to snap a favorite eyesore and send it to us for publication. A brief explanation of location would be helpful.

Mail them to this newspaper at 81 East Barclay Street, Hicksville, N.Y. 11801. If you wish your photos to be returned, just put your name and address on the back and we will be happy to do so.

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

If sessions of the Senate and Congress were televised do you think that you would spend time in watching it?

SENATE ON LIVE TV? YOU'D DARE DISTURB THE WORLD'S GREATEST DELIBERATIVE BODY?

Call 931-0027 24 Hrs. a Day
Ground Rules
You are not limited to the above

but may talk on any subject of interest to readers.

•One subject to a caller per week•

Simply dial 931-0027 - 24 Hours a Day and follow these simple rules:

1. Wait for the beep.
2. Confine your INPUT to one subject.
3. Limit your opinion to five minutes (make notes before calling)
4. Leave your name and telephone, or simply use a pen name. (your message can be anonymous)

Input Callers Undecided On Ferraro Or D'Amato

Callers to Input were divided on whether Geraldine Ferraro would beat Alfonse D'Amato for the U.S. Senate post but the majority indicated D'Amato should win in answer to this question: "Do you think that Geraldine Ferraro would beat Alfonse D'Amato for the U.S. Senate post if nominated?"

NO NOMINATION

First of all I do not think that the Democrats will nominate Ferraro because she would have to live down her husband's liability and shortcomings. Ferraro is by far a better person to be a U.S. Senator than D'Amato is. He is not really a leader. He simply seizes issues that he thinks will bring him popularity. So far as being a leader who comes up with solutions to problems he is just not with it. Unfortunately Ferraro will not run and we will never know whether she would win or not. K.E.

NO CONTEST

There would be no contest between Ferraro and D'Amato. Ferraro did not do very well in N.Y. State for the Presidential ticket and since that time there have been additional things about her husband's dealings that have come out. As a politician she clings too strongly on the women's issues of the left and therefore loses male votes and many women as well. She would be a poor choice to run against D'Amato. G.W.

NOT MIDDLE OF ROAD

While I cannot say that I think D'Amato is a great Senator, Ferraro would not be an improvement. She did poorly running for Vice President and her lack of disclosure in Congress of her income, plus her husband's problems would hurt. But D'Amato came off looking pretty poor in the recent one percent trials so this portion might cancel out. Ferraro would still have to be more middle of the road to get enough votes to win and she is not. L.Q.

HOPE SO

I would welcome seeing Geraldine Ferraro run for the Senate. We have not had a good liberal Senator from N.Y. since Javits left. Ferraro would do worlds for the representation of N.Y. She could easily beat D'Amato who goes along following the crowd on every issue. Let's hope it happens. D.F.

NEED BETTER CONTENDER

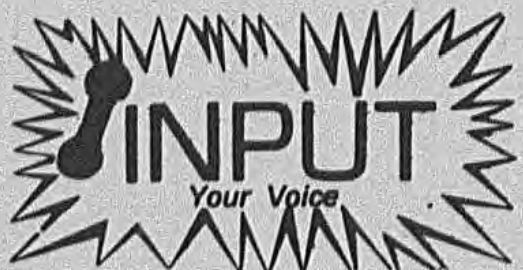

I think that D'Amato can be beaten easily but I would rather see the Democrats run someone else. Ferraro did not do well for the Vice Presidency and it stands to reason that she would not do well for the Senate. D'Amato would not have been elected if there was not a three way split last time. He won't have an ailing senator like Javits to push around and he will have to come out and show the people something. D'Amato is not good enough and a good contender could knock him out. Ferraro is not that good contender. L.S.

D'AMATO GOOD

There would be a very one-sided race, if Ferraro runs against D'Amato. She will not do well at all. I think that D'Amato has been working hard at the job and the people will want to return him to office regardless of who the contender is. Ferraro would be about the easiest to beat. K.N.

D'AMATO STRONGER

When Mr. D'Amato became the Republican candidate for the Senate, I wasn't thrilled - he seemed to lack so many of the things I wanted to find in the person who would eventually fill the job. I guess that's somewhat the same way I felt about the Vice Presidential candidates but in that case, there was no contest in my opinion between George Bush and Geraldine Ferraro - gender aside, Bush was head-and-shoulders above Ferraro. But, getting back to D'Amato, his performance since getting the job has been one of dedicated public service to his constituents and a demonstrated awareness of the things which are of the greatest interest to them. He has been diligent and intelligent in his efforts and I have secretly applauded the many instances when he and Senator Moynihan have displayed a togetherness in facing and solving problems where the public's interests and needs clearly called for action across party lines. As to Geraldine Ferraro, I don't doubt that she is an intelligent and capable candidate. However, whether we like it or not, the disclosures about her family financial ventures will not be easily forgotten although in all fairness, D'Amato's recent exposure in the Margiotta case might offer some offsetting possibilities for political attack. Still, there is a different aura to the respective positions and I think that D'Amato is more easily accepted. Everything considered, I believe that D'Amato with his work already having been favorably evaluated, will be a stronger candidate as an incumbent than Ferraro as a newcomer despite her Congressional experience. My prediction is that she would be defeated. P.G.S.

DISCOVERY

It Happened Once --

In 1492

By Jerome J. Niosi, Ph.D

Increasingly, more will be written annually about the Discovery of the New World until a veritable flood of literary activity commemorates the quincentennial in 1992. The events of that great October day which began when Christopher Columbus thought he saw a moving light on the distant landfall transformed the history of the world.

Europe was in despair. Christian civilization was shrinking. Islam was expanding. Efforts to recover the Holy Sepulcher had failed. The "Nuremberg Chronicle" sadly contained some six blank pages on which to record the final events of the world before Day of Judgment. Amid this sombre period, the Nina scudded into the harbor at Lisbon with its fantastic story. It revitalized the continent. Nothing like it had ever occurred before and nothing like it can ever be done again.

All the assumptions, myths and fables fantasized by the ignorant for centuries were abandoned. There was no "fiery zone". Nor was there a "frozen zone". To anyone observing the disappearance of the ship's hull after leaving the wharf and appreciated that the earth curved, sailing the Mediterranean presented no problem. But what would happen in the unknown Atlantic? After "going down the slope", how would one get back?

Indeed, the sphericity of the earth had been accepted by the ancients. Eratosthenes living in 200 B.C. assumed correctly that Africa could be circumnavigated. Strabo, the Greek geographer in the first century A.D. declared that the temperate zone "makes a continuous circle, so that if the great size of the western sea did not prevent, we might sail from Spain to India on the same parallel".

The ancients did more than theorize. The Phoenicians during the reign of Necho of Egypt (610-595 B.C.) had sailed around Africa. Carthaginians had sailed to Cornwall, England. They were familiar with the Canaries, the Madeiras, and the Cape Verde Islands. Hanno around 570 B.C. took sixth vessels as far south as Sierra Leone. Greek explorers in 100 B.C. had sailed up the Nile towards the equator and learned that the Torrid Zone was indeed inhabited.

But one must not denigrate assumptions. They provide working guidelines until experience confirms or demolishes the assumption. In the case of space travel, for example, it had been held that man could not attempt to land on the moon because the blood in his veins would "boil" in the rarified atmosphere. Experience disproved that notion.

More important than the myths in restricting exploration, was the quality of the means of transportation. The ships were small and fragile, hardly more than yachts in size. The crews were subject to famine and scurvy. Direction, however, based on the compass was somewhat more certain. The compass had been in use by Iberian sailors before the end of the twelfth century. It had been introduced into Europe by returning Crusaders who had secured it from the Arabs who, in turn had received it from the Chinese. By the end of the thirteenth century, the compass was widely used.

Despite the use of the compass, competent navigators used "dead reckoning" to plot their course. Latitude was more accurate on the maps than longitudes. Navigators, therefore would sail to the appropriate latitude and sail east or west. With such primitive navigational guides, explorers were able over a twenty year period to discover the Azores, the greatest feat of navigation up to the time of Columbus.

The principal result of the fifteenth century voyages was the confirmation of geographical information possessed by the ancients. By 1486, however, a milestone was reached: Bartholomew Dias had "turned the Cape" making the Indies accessible by sea. But he had traveled 13,000 miles. Was there a shorter route?

Columbus was already widely traveled when his younger brother Bartholomew informed him of his experience with Captain Dias. He had traveled along the Atlantic Corridor - Iceland, Ireland and the Azores. From Lisbon he had traveled south along the African coast. He had married and lived in Porto Santo, in the Madeiras, where his father-in-law, Bartholomew Perestrella, had been governor. Perestrella had gathered sailing charts and nautical notes which Columbus studied diligently. With Porto Santo already three hundred miles in the "mysterious" ocean, it was in the Madeiras, that Columbus developed the notion of a great voyage to the Indies by sailing west. Why sail 13,000 miles and more around Africa when a shorter route led directly west? Indeed, the notion of reaching the Indies by sailing west was "in the air".

Meanwhile, Paolo Toscanelli, one of the most famous astronomers and cosmographers of his time had written to Alphonse V, king of Portugal as early as 1474 and later responded to an inquiry by Columbus urging them to "shape your course steadily westward...The country is worth seeking...on account of its learned men, philosophers and skilled astrologers."

The principal difficulty to a westward course was the confusion over the size of the earth. The sphericity of the earth was common knowledge ever since Aristotle, but how large was it? The Greeks had divided the sphere into 360 degrees, but what was the distance between them? This question bothered mathematicians for eigneve centuries. Eratosthenes held that it would be easy to sail from Spain to the Indies on the same parallel for the vast extent of the Atlantic. Seneca thought it might take "a few days". Roger Bacon in 1267 did not think that the distance from Spain to Asia "could be very great".

Eratosthenes estimated the circumference of the earth to be 25,200 miles, one seventh too large. A century later, Posidonius, another Greek geographer, calculated the earth's circumference was 18,000 miles, one seventh too small. He further calculated that the distance between Spain and Asia was 7,000 miles. Further complications were added by Claudius Ptolemy, of Alexandria in the second century. Ptolemy whose book became the geographical Bible during the time of Columbus declared that the equatorial circumference was 20,400 geographical miles and divided each degree of longitude at 56.6 miles. This was the error that prevailed until modern times. Nor did Marco Polo's exaggerations modify the Ptolemaic error. On the other hand Toscanelli's estimate exceeded the actual distance by only 124 miles!

Columbus accepted Ptolemy's estimate; it would fit his own concept of the shorter distance by sailing west. Basing his calculations on Ptolemy, he concluded that the degree distance was 45 nautical miles. His world, therefore, was 25% smaller than Eratosthenes, or 10% smaller than Ptolemy. Taking two-thirds of the earth's surface for the landmass of Europe/Asia, he concluded that Cathay would be 6500 miles from Lisbon. Leaving from the Canaries, he would reach Japan after traveling about 3250 miles. One third of that distance would be the island of "Antilla", not yet proven to be mythical. Thus, landfall from Lisbon would be comfortably under 2,000 miles. From that forward area, arrangements could be made to reach Japan and ultimately Cathay. The grand project looked more promising than ever.

It is interesting to speculate what the fate of the world would have been had Toscanelli's more correct estimate of the distance involved, had been accepted. With Marco Polo's commentaries on his observations of the Far East, it is entirely possible that Columbus would never have developed his notion of sailing west. The distance would have been too great for the means at his disposal at the time. Would the New World have been discovered? Of course! In 1500, Pedro Cabral, another Portuguese explorer, was sailing for the Indies around the familiar coast of Africa when his ship was blown off course and he touched land which he named "Brazil". Thus, the existence of immense land unknown to that time would have been discovered only eight years after the monumental voyage of Christopher Columbus. But, for the moment, that was in the future.

With the "turning" of the Cape, Columbus more than ever felt himself to be a man with a mission. But the obstacles seemed insurmountable. Spain was embroiled with forceful efforts to oust the Moors from the country. Portugal was involved in the heavy financing of the trips around Africa to the Indies. Yet, Columbus may have had something in his project. King John of Portugal secretly sent a fleet to test the Genoese' theory. Not as strongly motivated, the Portuguese sailed as far south as the Cape Verde Islands and returned.

The Spanish sovereigns, their hands full with warfare, did direct a special council to evaluate Columbus' grand design and request for support. The report was deactivating: the calculations of the council indicated that the distance from Spain to the Indies was some 10,000 miles and that vessels on such a voyage would be out of sight of land for one hundred days. The project was visionary. But with the Portuguese reaping the benefits of the longer route, the priests of the council impressed with the faith of the foreign explorer, thought that the experiment was worth pursuing.

Meanwhile an important shipowner of Cadiz and grandee of Spain, Duke of Medina-Celi, convinced that a shorter route was feasible offered, in 1491 to outfit caravels for the expedition. He would feel more comfortable if he had secured the Queen's consent. More delays. The queen referred the project to Quintanilla, her treasurer.

Exasperated by the seventeen year delay, Columbus, now approaching old age, resolved to try France. On the way, he stopped at a Franciscan monastery; met Juan Perez, the prior and the Queen's former confessor. Interested in cosmography, the prior arranged a conference between Columbus, Garcia Fernandez, physician and cosmographer from Palos and Martin Alonso Pinzon, well-to-do ship owner who would eventually join Columbus in his first voyage.

Last week we went to Remsen's Restaurant in Greenvale. This restaurant is located at the Wheatley Plaza Shopping Center. It is truly one of the most attractive restaurants we have ever been in. It is designed in a turn of the century style with all of the modern embellishments to make it a comfortable relaxing place to go.

The food is very good at Remsen's. The menu ranges from sandwiches to a full meal. We had a wonderful beef dinner and found it to be exceptional. The service was good and attentive. We had no delays between courses and everything was done in good style. We highly recommend this restaurant to your readers. H.G.

AUTHENTIC PORTUGUESE

For authentic Portuguese food, we heartily recommend Ladeira's Restaurant located '66 East Jericho Turnpike in Mineola. Last week they opened their expanded new dining room and we enjoyed the native background music.

We have patronized this delightful restaurant for some time and have always declared that it was the next best thing to a trip to Portugal.

Our two favorite dishes are the Paella Marinheira, which consists of a bountiful platter of shellfish, mixed in a bed of saffron rice and the Mariscada, also a shellfish platter, served in a delicate tomato sauce faced with wine. White rice is served with this. For dessert, Caffe espresso with Pudim Flan or a Chocolate Mousse make for a meal fit for the gods.

I am sure you will concur this is fantastic good, fresh and delightfully prepared and reasonably priced. C.T.

HISTORICAL AND GOOD

Last week we went to the Milleridge Inn in Jericho. This large restaurant is like a trip into another world. It has the historical approach to hospitality with the hostesses garbed in American continental dresses. The buildings are all wonderfully restored Revolutionary era buildings. The floors are wonderfully shined and add to the special feeling of going to the Milleridge Inn.

The food is exceptionally well prepared and the menu is a large one. Our party of four found it to be a wonderful time and we recommend it to everyone. H.F.

OLD SHOP

The Davenport Press is a good place to eat and reminisce about things as they used to be in Nassau County. This restaurant, we were told the other night by one of the staff members, was made over from an old printing plant called the Davenport Press which printed many court records and other things.

You would never guess that a printing shop could be a restaurant, but that is just what has happened. They serve seafood and meat in a continental style but continue the old museum-like setting of the former print shop. We think your readers will like this one and urge them to go there. H.Y.

RECOMMENDED

If you are an aficionado of good North Italian cuisine and home made pasta we would like to recommend Piccola Parma, a new restaurant on East Jericho Tpke., in Mineola. We were there last week and came away absolutely ecstatic; we feel we made a great discovery. We had two of their specialties, the homemade ravioli and the homemade cannelloni, which were mouth watering and delicious. Too, the service was excellent and we plan to go back soon.

It is such a treat to find an outstanding restaurant that we want to share the good news! L.L.

DINING GUIDE

READER RATINGS

Q. I thought it was standard fare to get at least two vegetables with an entree but last week at the (name omitted) restaurant we were charged extra for vegetables. Is this right?

A. A number of restaurants have changed to charging extra for vegetables, particularly fresh ones, but the safest way is to look at the menu and ask the waiter. Sometimes there are extra vegetables and they are the ones that are given an added charge. But there are some restaurants that charge for every item individually.

A. In a restaurant we often frequent they do everything right except one thing. A waiter always comes over with the special of the day but never tells us the price. Now we do not quibble about a few pennies but often these specials are much higher priced than the other regular items. Don't you think the restaurant should tell us the price when making the suggestion?

A. We think you are right and we have checked several restaurants and they say that they either have a blackboard, a menu insert or the waiter is told to give the prices. Unfortunately since you only gave the initials we have no way of knowing which restaurant you are referring to or we would contact them. You may show this column to the manager and perhaps he will change his system.

Q. What do you do if you enter a restaurant and some friends at another table tell the waiter to see what you are drinking because they want to buy you a drink and you do not drink?

A. There is no set answer to your questions. You obviously have some generous friends who do not know your habits. The best thing to do would be to inform the waiter that you do not drink but you might make a gesture with a water glass towards your friends table as a toast.

Cooking Corner

Chef to royalty

By Antonia Allegra

When chef Jean Pierre Auge discusses class, he knows what he's talking about. The affable 50-year-old has been the in-home cook for well-heeled families, including those of Joseph Kennedy and the duke and duchess of Windsor, since his teens. He has traveled considerably with the various families, catering to the whims of their palates.

As a result, Auge has a storehouse of culinary and anecdotal treasures, which he spills with enthusiasm to those who listen.

"When I was sous-chef (assistant chef) in the Windsor kitchen, it was standard to serve two kilos of caviar with cocktails for about a dozen people. Summer suppers often started with a cold consommé topped with a dollop of tomato sherbet and a sprinkling of caviar.

"There were seven of us in the kitchen. Between cooking for the dog and cooking for her royal highness, it was 24-hour cooking!

"And let me tell you, you don't buy class; you're either born with it or not. Anybody can criticize the duke and duchess, but let me tell you, there was only one Windsor. He used to change his clothes five times every day. And Lady Windsor traveled with no less than 300 pairs of shoes. They were the movie stars of the aristocracy."

Every fiber of Auge speaks of a professional chef. He has cooked for 37 years. When he was 13, his father was incarcerated in a concentration camp, at which time his mother told him, "If you want to eat, learn to cook." The man worked for various families in France, including that of Douglas Dillon in Paris in 1962, followed by the Joseph Kennedys on the Riviera, after which he moved to the United States.

Now, Auge works 80 to 85 hours a week in St. Louis, coordinating his role as executive chef of the Mark Twain Bank and running his Pampered Pantry cooking school. He also does the cooking for himself and Paula, his wife of 25 years, in the couple's 400-square-foot kitchen, which houses a 10-burner stove.

Following are some recipes Auge teaches in his cooking classes.

Thin salmon scallops are filled with a mousse of salmon and cream and topped with a watercress sauce.

SALMON SCALLOPS WITH CAVIAR SAUCE
(Escalope de Saumon au Caviar)
(Sauce Cresson)

- 4 lbs. whole salmon
- 1 jar salmon caviar
- 3 bunches watercress
- 2 cups fish stock, made with salmon bones
- 2 acorn squash

Halve, skin and bone salmon, creating two large filets. Using fish knife (a flat knife with a sharp, flexible blade) make 20 scaloppini by slicing fish at a diagonal in thin pieces; set scaloppini aside, covered with waxed paper or plastic wrap.

With trimmings and remaining salmon, make mousse in food processor: Blend 1 pound fish, 2 egg whites (beaten until stiff, but not dry), salt and pepper, paprika and cayenne pepper to taste, 1 1/2 cups cream (beaten to firm) and 1 tablespoon chives, finely chopped.

Fold in chives after all mousse ingredients have been incorporated. Cover.

Spread 10 scaloppini with mousse and cover with other 10 scaloppini, like a sandwich. Arrange "salmon sandwiches" on jelly roll baking pan, pour 1 cup white wine (or could use fish stock) around base of salmon, cover with parchment paper and bake in 350 F oven 20 minutes or until salmon just starts to spring back to touch.

Watercress Sauce: (This quick sauce should be prepared at the last minute.) Remove leaves from watercress and blanch quickly. Immediately run cold water over watercress leaves to stop cooking and retain bright green color. Steam or blanch watercress stems, puree and set aside.

Boil fish stock to reduce it to 1 cup. Add any cooking juices from scaloppini. Thicken sauce with a little beurre manie (mixture of soft butter and flour worked in the hand and added to sauce as thickener). If necessary, add cream and/or adjust seasoning. At the last moment, whisk in puree of watercress, salmon caviar and watercress leaves.

Serve on platter, decorated with acorn squash that has been peeled, cut in wedges, seeded, blanched and buttered.

Note: Add salmon caviar just at the end of sauce making or caviar will turn white.

PASTA SALAD WITH GOAT CHEESE

- 2 red pimientos
- 2 stalks celery
- 4 slices prosciutto ham
- 1 1/4 lbs. cooked pasta (homemade preferred — recipe follows)
- 6 leaves basil

Sauce:

- 4 ozs. fresh goat cheese (Montrachet preferred),
- 1/2 cup cream
- 3 tbsps. Balsamic or red wine vinegar
- 1 tsp. Dijon mustard

Halve, peel, seed and julienne (cut into matchstick-size pieces) pimientos. Peel, julienne and blanch celery. Julienne prosciutto.

Make and cook pasta: Add eggs, oil, salt, pepper and paprika to flour. Knead until elastic. Let dough rest. Using pasta machine or rolling pin, roll into thin sheets. Cut into pieces 3 inches by 1/2-inch wide. Blanch in water seasoned with 2 tablespoons olive oil, salt and 1 tablespoon basil. Cool and set aside in bowl with pimientos, celery, prosciutto and basil.

Place sauce ingredients in blender and whirl until smooth. Adjust seasoning with salt and pepper. Combine salad and sauce. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and serve cold.

JEAN PIERRE'S PASTA

- 1 lb. flour
- 6 eggs
- 2 tbsps. olive oil
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Few shakes of paprika

Place flour in bowl or on counter. Make "well" in center of flour and drop all other ingredients there. Using fingertips, incorporate all ingredients until they form elastic ball of dough. Knead dough until smooth. (These steps can be accomplished with heavy-duty mixer or food processor.) Roll out pasta by hand or with pasta machine.

This soufflé is piped or spooned into small tomatoes or tomato halves.

COLD TOMATO SOUFFLE (Soufflé de Tomates Froide)

- 10 small tomatoes or 5 large tomatoes (for serving)
- 10 large tomatoes
- 2 shallots
- Pinch each tarragon, salt, pepper and sugar
- 4 envelopes gelatin
- 2 cups whipping cream
- 10 black olives
- 20 shrimp, cooked

Sauce:

- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup ketchup
- 1/2 cup gin
- 1 tbsp. chives

Preparation for serving: Peel small tomatoes and cut off tops or cut large tomatoes in half, squeeze out seeds, turn tomatoes upside-down and set on paper towel to dry.

Peel, seed and dice other large tomatoes. Chop shallots finely. In skillet, heat 3 tablespoons olive oil. Saute shallots. Add tomatoes, tarragon, salt, pepper and sugar. Cook until moisture evaporates. Remove from heat, add gelatine dissolved in a little water and blend well. Strain. Set aside.

Beat cream over ice until cream is firm but not hard. Place bowl with tomato mixture over ice and beat. When gelatin has set and tomatoes are cold, fold in beaten cream. This is the cold soufflé mixture.

Fill small tomatoes or tomato halves with mixture, using pastry bag or spoon and top with tomato slices and black olives. Refrigerate 2 hours.

To serve: Pour 2 tablespoons of sauce on serving plate, place filled tomato in middle and decorate with cold shrimp. Serve very cold. Makes 10 servings.

Variations: Use tomato soufflé mixture to stuff cavity of half an avocado or, using pastry bag, pipe some of the mixture down a slice of ham and roll ham to create cylindrical finger food.

Cooking with basil

By Paul Bensen and Evander Preston

The judicious use of herbs is one of the easiest and fastest ways to turn an ordinary meal into a special dinner. Many cooks limit their use of fresh and dried herbs because they are not sure which herbs are compatible with given foods. With a little research and experimenting, you can use herbs to create recipes that are distinctively yours.

Many supermarkets and specialty food stores across the country now carry fresh potted herbs, which can be grown on a windowsill. All you have to do is water the plant occasionally, and you'll have a supply of fresh leaves when you need them. In many recipes, dried herbs may be substituted for fresh. As a rule of thumb, use a third as much of a dried herb as you would of a fresh one.

Basil, the herb we're featuring in today's recipes, is an excellent candidate for home cultivation. It is very easy to grow, in a flowerpot on a windowsill, porch or breezeway, from seeds available at almost any gardening center.

A few days after you plant and water the seeds, tiny, light green sprouts will appear. Within a couple of weeks, you'll have a supply of fresh basil. If you forget to water basil for more than a few days in hot weather, its leaves will quickly parch and begin to wither. Don't be discouraged, though — an hour or so after you water it, the leaves will again be plump and green.

In folk medicine, basil has many uses. It is considered an aid to digestion and a tonic for the nerves, and basil oil rubbed on the temples is said to relieve headaches. Medieval physicians were divided in their opinions of basil's curative properties. Some asserted that even smelling the herb would cause scorpions to breed in one's brain, while others believed that basil increased one's strength and could draw poisons from the body. In a number of countries, basil still is considered an aphrodisiac and an aid to conception.

Basil's curative properties may be debatable, but its value in cooking is unquestionable. It has a special affinity for tomato, vegetable, egg, fish, meat and pasta dishes. Omelets with basil and cheeses are a special delight. Pesto, a sauce for pasta, owes its unique and delicious taste to the inclusion of plenty of fresh basil.

In all of today's recipes, except for Fish Fillets with Pesto, we have listed quantities for both fresh and dried basil. For pesto, fresh basil makes such a difference that we do not recommend using the dried herb. When you do get around to making a batch of pesto with fresh basil, though, it's a good idea to make plenty — the pesto you don't use immediately will keep for several months in the freezer.

FISH WITH PESTO SAUCE

- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/2 cup finely chopped fresh basil (tightly packed)
- 1/2 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1/2 cup pine nuts (pignola)
- 2 lbs. firm white meat fish fillets

In food processor or with mortar and pestle, thoroughly mix garlic, basil, cheese and salt together. Beat oil in, in a stream, until evenly mixed in. Stir in pine nuts and warm sauce over moderate heat, but do not allow to boil.

Meanwhile, grill or broil fish fillets. When fillets are done, cover with pesto sauce and serve.

Serves 4.

MARINARA SAUCE

- Italian olive oil
- 6 large cloves garlic, crushed (not chopped)
- 4 (23 oz.) cans Italian plum tomatoes
- 24 large, fresh basil leaves, coarsely chopped (or 3 tbsps. dried)
- 1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley
- 3 chopped "bird's-eye" peppers, or 1 chopped hot chili pepper
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

Coat bottom of heavy saucepan with Italian olive oil. In it, slowly simmer garlic cloves until they become translucent (about 10 minutes). It is important that garlic cloves cook slowly and not be allowed to turn brown.

Meanwhile, empty tomatoes into large colander. Press them with potato masher to extract juice until they are fairly dry.

Add basil, parsley, tomatoes, peppers, salt and pepper to garlic mixture and cook slowly, uncovered, until almost all liquid has disappeared (about 20 minutes).

Serve over pasta

Makes enough sauce for 8. Extra sauce may be frozen for up to three months.

STEAK WITH BASIL BUTTER

- 2-3 lb. sirloin steak
- 1/4 pound (1 stick) butter
- 3 tbsps. minced basil leaves, or 1 tbsp. dried
- 1 large clove garlic, minced
- 1/4 cup sour cream
- 1 tsp. tomato paste
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste

In medium bowl, whisk together all ingredients.

Just before steak is finished cooking, spread basil butter over top.

Alternatively, basil butter may be served separately at table and spread on steak as desired.

Microwave Magic

By Desiree Vivea

Have a Halloween bash at home

By Desiree Vivea

I can remember when Halloween ranked a high third on my list of favorite holidays, just after Christmas and my birthday. Now that I think about it, it still does.

I love to see the shining grease-painted faces of miniature monsters as they trek from door to door in search of sweets. All those 4-foot hoboes and princesses, Draculas and Wonder Women — it brings me back to the good old days when I was still small enough, and cute enough, to rate free handouts from strangers.

But nowadays, sadly, many strangers can't be trusted to give wholesome goodies to your little ghouls and goblins. Arrange to go with your kids while they're tricking and treating, and check the loot when you get home to make sure it's safe before you give the go-ahead for the year's biggest sugar-high.

Or, if you don't like the idea of trick-or-treating, why not have an at-home Halloween? Put together a variety of sweet treats and invite your children's buddies over for a fancy-dress Halloween bash. Have a costume contest, with prizes for the scariest, prettiest, most original. Wrap candies, nuts and inexpensive toys in small packages and hide them for a Halloween hunt.

Then sit them in a circle, turn off all the lights, and read them a spooky story by candlelight. If you're a real stickler for tradition, you can include apple-bobbing in the festivities, but somebody's carefully applied makeup is bound to come off in the water.

Microwave a batch of goodies to serve to your friendly little fiends. Today's microwave treats take just minutes to prepare, and they're sure to satisfy the sweet-tooth of even the most ravenous ghouls.

CARAMEL APPLES

- 1 lb. (2½ cups) caramels
- 2 tbsps. hot water
- 7-8 medium apples
- Wooden skewers
- ½ cup chopped nuts (optional)

Unwrap caramels and place in deep glass mixing bowl. Add water.

Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH (100 percent power) 2½ to 3½ minutes, until are caramels melted. Stir until smooth.

Insert skewer into stem end of each apple. Dip apples, one at a time, into hot caramel mixture, twirling to coat. Dip into bowl of chopped nuts, if desired, turning to coat.

Set apples on buttered wax paper to cool. (Reheat caramel mixture if it becomes too hot to work with.)

Makes 7 to 8 caramel apples.

NOODLE-NUT CRUNCHIES

- 1 (6 oz.) package chocolate chips
- 1 (5 oz.) package crunchy chow mein noodles
- 1 cup peanuts

Place chocolate chips in large glass mixing bowl. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH (100 percent power) 1 to 2 minutes, stirring every 30 seconds, until melted.

Stir in noodles and nuts, blending well. Drop by heaping teaspoonsful onto wax paper-lined plates. Refrigerate until firm, 30 minutes to 1 hour.

Makes about 2 dozen.

BUTTERSCOTCH BITES

- 1 (6 oz.) package butterscotch chips
- 4 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 5 cups miniature marshmallows
- 5 cups corn flakes or crisp rice cereal

Combine butterscotch pieces and butter in 12x7x2-inch glass baking dish. Microwave, uncovered, 2 to 2½ minutes on HIGH (100 percent power), stirring every 30 seconds, until melted.

Stir in marshmallows and microwave, uncovered, 2½ to 3½ minutes on HIGH, stirring twice. Stir until smooth and blended.

Stir in cereal, blending thoroughly, and press down gently with back of spoon. Let stand until cool, then refrigerate 30 minutes to 1 hour, until firm. Cut into squares with sharp knife.

Makes about 2 dozen.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. Is it possible to install a ceiling fan in a room that has an open-beam ceiling? The beams are 3 1/4 inches by 5 1/2 inches.

What type of ceiling fan would you recommend? I would have the fan installed by an electrician. — B.P.

A. I am sure it is possible to install such a fan. The major concern will be locating the new wiring so that it will not mar the effect of your open-beam ceiling.

Since you will not have an attic in which you can hide the wiring, you will probably have to bring it up through the wall and perhaps run it to the center of the room via the beam, keeping it tucked in the crevice and out of sight as much as possible.

Another method would be to install the wiring and then cover it with a false wood strip, hollowed out on the inside to make room for the required wiring.

A good electrician and/or carpenter should be able to help you with this problem. The installation will be more expensive than a normal ceiling installation because of the cosmetics.

Choice of a fan would be personal preference.

Q. Our sloped driveway was asphalt and we had it taken up and redone with concrete.

We did not seal the concrete, and several months after it was done, dark blotches appeared. How can we remove these blotches before we seal the concrete driveway? — F.J.M.

A. These blotches may be created by a faulty mixture of concrete. If the stains penetrate deeply into the surface, it may be impossible to remove them.

However, you can try this method of stain removal using a strong bleach: Dissolve 2 pounds of trisodium phosphate in 1 gallon hot water. Mix 12 ounces chlorinated lime to a paste in a shallow enameled pan by adding water slowly and mashing the lumps. Pour this and the trisodium phosphate solution into a 2-gallon stoneware jar and add water until the jar is full. Stir well, cover the jar and allow the lime to settle.

To use, make a thick paste of powdered talc and some of the liquid, and apply with a trowel to the stain, about 1/4-inch thick. When dry, scrape off with wooden paddle or trowel.

If bleaching doesn't remove the stain completely, you might select a colored sealer to apply to the surface after the cleaning. I would not suggest paint for a driveway surface, which is subject to a lot of traffic and wear.

To further protect your shingled roof, apply a formula of graphite and linseed oil. Check with your local paint dealer for commercial brands of other protective sealers.

Some of the new synthetic shingles are very durable and duplicate the natural shingle look very well. If you are considering reroofing, you might want to investigate these products. They offer greater fire protection than the natural wood product.

Q. Is there any way to remove the backing from a mirror so that it could be used as a window glass? — P.L.

A. The silvering on a mirror is usually protected against oxidation by a coating of paint.

In order to remove the silvering, the paint will first have to be taken off with a prepared paint remover. Then cover the silvering with a layer of salt and moisten with a mixture of one part water and three parts vinegar.

Allow the mixture to remain for several hours. Then wipe off the silvering and salt solution with soft cloths.

can produce a good monthly income, even if you do not get involved in the multilayered marketing method of recruiting other people to sell.

What to Avoid: Stay away from the "stuff envelopes at home" scheme or any work-at-home program that promises to make you a millionaire. If it sounds too good to be true it is probably a fraud — so say law enforcement officials across the nation.

For Help: Telephone the local office of the federal Small Business Administration, asking for the assistance of a SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives) volunteer. The volunteers normally work with established businesses, but you should find a volunteer willing to assist in your added-income business.

There are local media available to you for promoting your small business at little or no cost: community bulletin boards, club and organization newsletters and even cost-free "personals" — classified ads in local newspapers. Many local newspapers will carry a publicity story on a new business or service in the community. You also may have access to local church bulletins and newsletters in your promotion campaign to develop clients or customers for your sales.

To Get Information: Check your library for books and reference materials on small businesses. Read — or, at least scan — copies of Venture and Inc. magazines for ideas on small businesses. Consider buying a copy of "How to Start a Profitable Retirement Business," by Arthur Liebers. Price is $3.95, plus $1 postage and handling, from Pilot Books, 103 Cooper St., Babylon, NY 11702.

About Extra Money: Your income need not be limited, no matter what your age, no matter what your physical condition. The ideas presented here are just for thought starters — there are hundreds more possible, from baby-sitting to sewing, direct mail to a newspaper route.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, E.A.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am 13 and I baby-sit for my next-door neighbor. I've been helping her out for about six months and she pays me well and is a very nice person.

About two weeks ago I was late and I was watching some dumb, old boring movie. I turned off the television and started looking for something to do. The next thing I knew I was going through this lady's jewelry box and I took out a diamond ring. I intended just to look at it but all of a sudden I heard the lady put her key in the front door and I panicked.

I didn't know what to do with the ring so I stuck it in my shoe. When she paid me for baby-sitting I went home — with the ring.

Last night I baby-sat again and the first thing I did once the lady had left the house was to put the ring back where I found it. I honestly don't believe she even knew it was missing. She is divorced and I think it was her old engagement ring.

Well, now I'm beginning to feel like I am a thief — and I really am not. Something is telling me to tell the lady that I took her ring, to clear my conscience. But if I tell her, I know she would feel that I was dishonest and she probably wouldn't ask me to baby-sit for her anymore.

Please tell me what I should do. I don't care to discuss this with anyone in my family. — Nameless Nameless: Your "crime" was looking through the lady's jewelry box. Since you did not intend to steal the ring and you replaced it on your next baby-sitting venture, your conscience can rest in peace.

Say nothing to the lady about your unhappy experience.

Dr. Wallace: I am 16 and live with my mother and stepfather. My mom and real dad were divorced when I was 1. I love my stepdad and my mom very much but I would like to find my father. I have never seen him and I think the time has come for us to meet each other.

My mom is against this because she said that my father is no good and could cause a lot of problems for the entire family.

I do want to find my dad and meet him. I know where his mother lives so it wouldn't be too hard to locate him.

My mother will not stop me from doing this; she only suggested that I "leave sleeping dogs lie." My stepfather suggested that I write to you for your opinion and that you might help me make up my mind. So — here I am asking for you to help me make up my mind. — Phil

Phil: Leave sleeping dogs lie until you leave your parents' house and are out on your own. It would not be worth the risk to have this "stranger" disrupt a happy home.

Dr. Wallace: I admit that I smoke a cigarette or two (no more than two) each day but I'm not hooked on them. I can quit anytime I want. Besides, my doctor told me that anything in moderation will not hurt me.

I'm writing because my boyfriend is bugging me to stop smoking but I keep telling him that two cigarettes a day is not considered smoking. I only smoke after lunch and after supper. — Terry

Terry: When your doctor said anything in moderation will not hurt you, he wasn't referring to tobacco. Just a few puffs can hurt. One cigarette speeds up your heartbeat, increases your blood pressure, upsets the flow of blood and air into your lungs and causes a drop in the skin temperature of your fingers and toes.

Be wise. Your boyfriend is bugging you for a good cause — your health. Do yourself a big favor and give up smoking.

Dr. Wallace: I am 20 and my husband of two months works from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. six days a week. I am attending college full time at night because the tuition is a lot cheaper.

This arrangement has made me very depressed and I cry a lot. I am alone all day and I have not made any friends (we are new in town).

I love my husband and he is very kind but I never see him anymore. Please help. — Tina

Tina: Your marriage and mental well-being are more important than being a full-time college student.

Drop all of your evening courses but one and spend the rest of your time being a wife to your husband.

Added income possible in retirement

By Leonard J. Hansen

Does "fixed income" in retirement mean just that? Or can you increase your income over and above your Social Security, retirement pensions and investment returns?

Yes, you can. We'll start with this question:

Q. Help! There seems always to be more month left at the end of my money.

I am a single senior lady with Social Security, a small pension and savings. How can I meet my expenses and still have enough money to do pleasurable things, like traveling? Do you have a suggestion?

A. You bet there are suggestions and answers. The start to an answer is in your own attitude, abilities and interest in producing a solution.

There always are methods of producing added income in our American system of free enterprise. No matter what your age, you can find ways to make more money. The key is in putting your imagination and effort to work to make it happen.

Over the years I have seen very positive examples of how senior citizens provide for cash needs. Here are some fine examples:

Garage Sales: Groups of senior citizens stage garage sales each month. First, they sell off unwanted or excess items of their own. Then, in future sales they draw in merchandise from neighbors — selling on consignment. The garage sales become social events, with the opportunity of meeting and talking with lots of people. Some senior citizens report netting from $100 to $300 each weekend — depending on the merchandise, the location, the promotional signing and actual weekend used.

Wake-Up Service: Waking up in the morning is difficult for many people, so if you're an early riser, and/or confined to your home, consider developing a list of 30 or more clients for daily telephone wake-up calls. How much can you make? Some senior citizens net $200 to $500 each and every month in this type of business venture.

Direct Selling: Consider selling Amway, Avon, Shaklee or other special product lines. The actual investment is small — under $100 in most cases — and customers of these product lines tend to be loyal to the brands once they buy them. A regular customer list of 50 to 100

GRANDPARENTS.... HERE IS YOUR CHANCE! You have been telling everyone you meet that you have the 'World's Greatest Grandchildren'...

Each week we will run photos of the World's 'Most Beautiful Grandchildren' (in the eyes of the grandparents) and for each photo selected, we will send, as a prize, a permanent version of the way it appeared in the newspaper for you to keep.

To enter the contest, simply send a small (preferred) photo to: Discovery Magazine, 81 East Barclay St., Hicksville, NY 11801

NOTE: If you want your photo returned you must print your name and address on the back.

HAVE YOU A HIDDEN TALENT? We are looking for articles, not exceeding 3,000 words, on local topics, opinions, ideas, nice places to visit on Long Island, and even fiction. In our magazine section, we will try to 'Discover'...

Agreeing that Columbus had something, Perez sought out the queen in her military camp in Grenada, returned with 20,000 maravedis and the queen's promise to consider the matter after the imminent defeat of the Moors, a defeat which occurred on January 2, 1492.

When Columbus, frustrated by years of exasperating delays, raised his requisites, negotiations again broke down and once again, Columbus left for France. The queen's advisor pointed out the Columbus had made his prerequisites contingent upon his success in the venture and that, therefore, the opportunity he presented should not be allowed to pass.

To recruit the crew, debts were forgiven, civil actions were suspended, and criminals could be released from jail. This did not mean however, that Columbus worked with a crew of scoundrels. The ninety men who signed on were the pick of the sea-faring population of Palos and its environs.

Using 'dead reckoning' Columbus sailed south to the Canaries to the 28th parallel and turned west for Japan. The weather was delightful and portended a pleasant voyage. The Captain was not dismayed when the compass needle deflected from magnetic north.

It was October 4. They had already traveled 2,724 geographical miles from the Canaries. Columbus changed the course a few points thereby missing Cape Malabar on the Florida coast. But he could not have known that he was some 525 miles from landfall.

About 10 p.m., Columbus thought he saw the light of a moving torch. At 2 a.m. Rodrigo de Triana, lookout on the Pinta saw land distinctly about six miles away. It was October 12 on the Julian calendar, a Friday, ten weeks after they had set sail from Palos and 33 days from the coast of Ferro, in the Canaries.

We may be certain that with the approaching quinquennial, scholars all over the world will once again be scrutinizing every facet of the historic voyage. Obscure points will be evaluated and set in perspective. Suitable memorials will be erected to commemorate the event.

In recording that remarkable day, Ferdinand Columbus wrote: 'All having rendered thanks to our Lord, kneeling on the ground embracing it with tears of joy for the immeasurable mercy of having reached it, the Admiral rose and gave this island the name of San Salvador.'

BE A WINNER. PLAY THE CLASSIFIEDS

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

The other morning while driving to work I saw something quite dangerous. Two young children about four or five years old were playing with leaves in the street. They were taking turns covering themselves up with leaves, in fact.

I stopped my car and told the youngsters how hard it would be for a motorist to see them. I said it was a dangerous thing they were doing - they might easily get hit by a car.

Judging by their expressions, the children were not happy I interrupted their fun. But I hope they took my words to heart. Playing with leaves on the street could be a deadly game!

Love,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are P. Leder and Pamela Comstock. Congratulations!

Shoulder lameness hits large dogs

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. Our 6-year-old male Labrador retriever has favored his right front leg for the last several weeks. It appears that the muscles over his right shoulder area are getting smaller. So far as we know, the dog never has been injured.

A. It is difficult for us to take the dog to the veterinarian so we decided to write to you. Any ideas about what is causing our dog's problem?

A. Of course without examining your dog it is impossible to state with certainty the cause of your dog's problem, but one of the most likely causes is a condition called "osteochondritis dissecans." This disease causes shoulder lameness in young dogs of the larger breeds, most commonly in males.

The onset of osteochondritis dissecans usually occurs at 1 to 8 months of age. Affected dogs usually are active and robust.

The shoulder lameness is very persistent and usually does not disappear without treatment. If the disease has been present for a long period, the muscles appear to shrink in size, due to the dog not using the affected leg.

When only one leg is affected, the dog tends to avoid extending it either forward or backward as far as the opposite limb while at a fast walk.

When both shoulders are affected, there is a quickened step with the front limbs as the dog restricts their range of motion. The front limb gait is very stilted.

Usually there is no swelling present. Pain is only indicated whenever the affected limb is stretched far forward or far backward.

With osteochondritis dissecans there is an abnormality of the head of the humerus, the large bone of the upper front limb. Positive diagnosis can only be made by examining carefully taken X-rays. In order to obtain adequate X-rays the dog must be anesthetized.

The form of treatment is based on the severity of the condition. In affected dogs where there is little or no pain present, no treatment other than restricting physical activity usually is required. However, it sometimes is difficult to restrict the activity of a large, growing, energetic young dog.

Some veterinarians treat the condition by injecting corticosteroids directly into the affected joint. Repeated treatments at weekly or longer intervals usually are required.

Dogs with lesions evident on their X-rays, pain and continued lameness from one to two months are best treated by surgery. The loose cartilage in the affected joint is removed. Recovery following surgery usually takes about four to six weeks. No special care at home during recovery is required. However, owners can help speed recovery by providing physical therapy in the form of swimming, heat and massage. This should be done only under the direction of your veterinary surgeon. Most dogs will recover completely following surgery.

You should take your dog to a local veterinarian for a complete physical and diagnosis. If that is impossible, check to see if there are any veterinarians who make house calls. Mobile veterinary clinics for small animals are becoming increasingly popular in many areas.
