Health Careers Explored At Hospital

Young people between the ages of 14 and 20 who are interested in Health Care Careers are invited to join the Medical Explorers at Mid-Island Hospital.

Meetings are held twice a month to investigate the many different opportunities in the field of medicine. Members will also have the option of learning such practical skills as first aid and CPR under the guidance of trained medical professionals.

For further information, contact Kyle Berris, 520-2323, at Mid Island Hospital.

Post Office Expands Service

"We are expanding our lobby hours for stamp sales in offices in the 117 and 118 zip code areas (Eastern Nassau and Western Suffolk)," said Roger Nienaber, Hicksville Manager/Postmaster. "Most lobbies in these areas will be open an extra two to three hours on the three Saturdays before Christmas."

The main post office in Hicksville will be open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Mr. Nienaber said, "The Hicksville Sectional Center normally cancels a million pieces of mail a day, on our heaviest days before Christmas we cancel almost three million letters."

When visiting post office lobbies, postal customers will be asked to separate their cards according to the following breakdown:

1. All local mail
2. All mail for 117 and 118 zip codes
3. All other mail.

There will be trays in the lobbies for the appropriate separation. Customers are being provided with "Stamps By Mail" information. This allows them to order holiday postage by mail at no extra cost. It saves time and a trip to the post office since the order, which is paid by check, will be delivered by letter carrier with the customers regular mail delivery.

Mr. Nienaber encourages everyone to mail early, to properly address their letters with the correct zip code and to wrap packages properly and securely.

District's '85 Assessment Unveiled At School Bd. Mtg

Special to Mid Island Times
By Maureen Traxler

The Hicksville School Board held its general meeting on Wednesday, November 20. School Superintendent Catherine Fenton and Assistant Superintendent for Educational Services Dr. G. Robert Couillard presented the Board with the district's 1985 Comprehensive Assessment Report.

Prior to the meeting, the School Board hosted its third annual School-Community Partnership Day Reception. Among the honorees was this newspaper's owner and publisher, Robert L. Morgan. In presenting the certificate to his own nominee, Board President Bennett praised Mr. Morgan for his contributions to Hicksville and the six other communities where his newspapers are distributed. President Bennett noted that Mr. Morgan, working out of his plant here in Hicksville, has brought valuable information to the residents he serves. Mr. Bennett thanked him for helping the Board of Education continue to serve our nation's most precious resource, our youngsters.

School-Community Partnership Day, instituted by Governor Mario Cuomo, began in Hicksville three years ago. Among this year's recipients were Paul Lauricello, a former Hicksville High School graduate who has pursued a career in law. At the request of a former teacher, Mr. Lauricello has come back to Hicksville on numerous occasions to speak to classes studying law and the process of prosecution versus defense. Also honored was Cindy Sosa of the Hicksville Youth Council who has been working with teenagers at the Junior High School. Cindy has begun some programs which give a sense of self-worth to youngsters who find the restrictions of school life compelling.

The other award recipients were Tom Manaskie, Mary Ann Moore, Shiela Noeth of the Mid Island Herald and Nancy Staron, President of the Hicksville Council of PTAs.

Beginning this year, the State Education Department is mandated by the Board of Regents to publicize data on every public and non-public school. Contained in these Comprehensive Assessment Reports is a wide range of statistics: proportions of students living below the poverty line, average class sizes, attendance rates and three-year summaries of more than two dozen examinations. New York's assessment reports are part of a nationwide movement toward publicizing school data, in hopes of improving performance.

Dr. Couillard stated that Hicksville students scored "well above average" in reading and showed "strong gains" in the field of writing. On the Regents Competency tests, which encompasses reading, writing and mathematics for those students not taking a regents course, he remarked that Hicksville students are "holding their own," but there is "room for improvement."

Dr. Couillard also noted that better than 80% passed Sequential Math III this past year. He said the overall figures contained in this report show "how healthy the district is." Administration as well as the building principals noted that the downward trend of class size has contributed to student performance.

The following figures show the percentage of students taking the exams scoring above the State Reference Point (SRP). The percent tested above SRP indicates the percent of pupils making normal progress in developing the basic skills of reading comprehension, mathematics, and writing. Pupils scoring below the SRP must be provided with remedial instruction.

In tracking the figures for the PEP (Pupil Evaluation Program) testing for the school years 1982-83, 1983-84 and 1984-85, student performance ranked high in all areas. The total district percentages on the third grade level in 1984-85 showed Hicksville scoring 95% in reading and 94% in mathematics. Districtwide on the 6th grade level, performance yielded high scores of 97% in reading and 96% in mathematics. The district's 5th grade level is tested on writing ability, and last year's class posted a 99%.

Last year's percentage of students administered the preliminary competency tests on the 8th grade level show scores drop slightly to 88% in reading and 86% in mathematics.

Attendance figures for the last three years list Hicksville with above 90% attendances. On the high school level, Hicksville has reduced its drop out rate from 4.98% in 1983-84 to 3.6% last year. The drop out rate for the entire school district stands at 2.8% for the 1984-85 year.

Fork La. Students Study Finger Printing

November 22 from 1 to 3 p.m. was finger printing day at Fork Lane School. The rain kept a lot of people away and some people just forgot about it. The turn out was O.K. but could have been a lot better.

The children who came to be finger printed had to be accompanied by a parent or guardian. The parent or guardian signed a permission form and a police department finger print form stating the child's name, address and date of birth. Once the prints were taken, they are given back to the parent/guardian to be put away in a safe place.

We at Fork Lane suggest you take a current picture of your child and attach it to the card, then on the back of the card write down any visible scars, and scars that would be covered by clothing.

Fork Lane P.T.A. would like to thank the Nassau County Police Department for the use of the finger print boards, ink and finger print cards.

Let's hope we NEVER have to use them.

Almost 1000 delegates and guests attended the General Sessions and took action on resolutions that form the basis of PTA's legislative activities. They adopted a resolution seeking to establish a rating system for music videos. The PTA is also advocating increased school bus safety features and will encourage funding by the State Legislature for new educational mandates.

Holiday Boutique At Fork Lane

Fork Lane School will hold its annual Holiday Boutique on Thursday, December 5, from 9:30 to 3:30 p.m. for all the students in the school, and on December 6, from 1:30 to 3 p.m., for all parents, teachers and anyone else who wishes to come.

This year we will have a large variety of items for the entire family. I'm sure you'll even find the right gift for the person on your list who has everything.

So be sure to mark your calendar, spread the word, and come on over to Fork Lane for the gift you've been looking for.

Santa To Visit P.O.

Kevin Liba (son of Mailhandler John Liba) helps the Postal Service spread the message to "Mail Early" for the holidays by mailing his letter to Santa. Santa (Hank Tesmacher, Mailhandler) made a surprise visit to assist Kevin in getting his holiday greetings in the mail early. Santa will be on hand in the lobby to give out gifts to the children and assist mailers with holiday tips for mailing.

The holiday season is upon us, so you're already started thinking about how to make this holiday really special for the people you love. And you're picking out cards and presents that you know will be just right.

"At the post office, we know just how important it is that your carefully chosen cards and letters arrive in time for Christmas, so we'd like to remind you to mail early this year." Said Roger Nienaber, MSC Manager/Postmaster. "When you mail early you can be sure that all the care and thought you put into your cards and gifts will reach your favorite people in plenty of time for the holidays."

The Hicksville Post Office will have Santa Claus in the lobby from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Tuesday through Friday from December 3 through December 6. Santa will speak to the children and hand out candy canes and postal coloring books.

Santa will also encourage everyone to mail early and give postal customers tips on how to best prepare their holiday mail.

"Last year, our customers helped us tremendously. They mailed early in the season and early in the day," said Mr. Nienaber. "We hope they will choose to cooperate with us again this year, so we both will have an enjoyable holiday mailing season."

Mailing Tips

How To Pack And Address Your Package.

Proper packing and addressing are the best ways to have your package delivered without delay or damage. In preparing your package for mailing, be sure to:

Select the Proper Container

Use a box strong enough to protect the contents during handling. Heavy fiberboard boxes, such as the ones found in grocery stores, are generally strong enough to ship material of average weight and size. Other acceptable containers include reinforced bags, metal cans and tubes. Please don't use lightweight gift boxes for mailing.

Cushion the Contents

Cushion and secure the contents to make sure they don't move inside the container. Cushioning also absorbs shocks and vibrations. When several items are packed in a container, be sure that each item is individually cushioned and separated. Many types of suitable cushioning materials are available, including shredded or rolled newspaper, plastic and fiberboard inserts, and plastic chips (polystyrene).

Seal Your Package

Use filament-reinforced tape to seal and reinforce your package. Avoid twine and cord as they tend to get caught in mail-processing equipment. Also, whenever possible, avoid using wrapping paper on the outside of your package.

Use Complete Address Information

Your package should be clearly marked with the address, including the ZIP Code of both the sender and receiver. Please print or type this information clearly. Also place a list of the contents plus the name and address of both the sender and the addressee inside the package. This will help in case the outside address becomes unreadable or is accidentally detached.

Mark Your Package if the Contents are Fragile

Packages containing breakable items should be marked "Fragile" in three places: above the address, below the postage and on the reverse side. Food or other perishable items should be marked "Perishable." Packages containing photographs or similar items that should not be folded should be protected with cardboard backing and marked "Do Not Bend."

Parcel Post

This is the most economical method of sending packages. Parcel post packages can be sent from any post office in the country. Delivery usually takes from one to ten days, depending on the distance the package must travel. If your package weighs between 1 pound and 70 pounds, and is 108 inches or less in combined length and girth (distance around at thickest part of package), it can be mailed parcel post. A five-pound package sent coast-to-coast would cost $4.07.

A Majority of One

BY ASSEMBLYMAN LEWIS J. YEVOLI

Hardly a day goes by without hearing or seeing a public service message alerting us to the dangers of drinking and driving. Ironically, hardly a day goes by without hearing or seeing a news report relating the tragic results of an accident caused by an intoxicated driver.

The number of deaths, serious injuries, and the amount of property damage attributed to alcohol impaired drivers has reached staggering proportions. National surveys consistently reveal that alcohol is a contributing factor in more than 40% of all motor vehicle accidents in which someone is killed.

The drunk driver is found in every social, economic and age group. Persons over 21 years of age constitute an overwhelming majority of the licensed drivers in our state. Consequently, these supposedly mature adults are responsible for most alcohol related automobile accidents. Although there are far fewer licensed drivers under age 21, they comprise a large percentage of the total number of drunk driving accidents.

In recent years I have been part of an effort in the legislature to enact more stringent laws to combat the drunk driving menace. New York State is now considered to have the most stringent anti-drunk driving statutes on the books of any state in the nation. Unlike most states, New York has been experiencing a marked decline in the number of fatalities attributed to intoxicated drivers, and experts cite the tough new laws as the reason for this. Our latest law, effective December 1, 1985, increased the drinking age from 19 to 21 in an attempt to overcome the disproportionate number of youths involved in accidents caused by alcohol. Other state laws call for prison terms, stiff fines, and mandatory loss of one's driver's license if convicted of driving while intoxicated or driving while impaired by alcohol or drugs.

Clearly, the chances of a drunk driver being involved in a fatal accident, or causing serious injury and extensive property damage are great. The newer, stricter laws listed in the chart below indicate the seriousness of the offense. They should also serve as a significant deterrent to those who foolishly think that driving while intoxicated is a minor violation.

Assemblyman Lewis J. Yevoli, a member of the N.Y.S. Commission on Solid Waste Management addressed the Conference on Recycling in Albany recently where he stressed the need for a statewide recycling program to reduce the volume of garbage.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Gabby Tabby

THERE is more than rate shock coming from LILCO these days. The Republicans are afraid that by backing the utility they may knock out some state senate or assembly seats. It appears that when political seats are in peril that the utility will find itself the loser. A movement is underway for a bill authorizing a state takeover of LILCO with or without a referendum. The turnaround of John Bierwith, chairman of Grumman, who now favors a public takeover was a stunning blow for LILCO.....THE ONLY thing that is not stuffed on Thanksgiving is church. A number of churches have given up special Thanksgiving services because they were sparsely attended. Building Permits Over 66 Million

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond announced that the total value for construction permits issued by the Town's Building Division from April to September, 1985 reached $66.1 million. The value for the 1,613 permits issued during the six month period totaled $66,198,524, shattering last year's total of $65,071,037.

"The 130 permits issued for the construction of one-family homes amounting to $14,083,693, continues to demonstrate Oyster Bay's ability to attract new families," Diamond continued. "Ninety-two permits for home additions totaling $12,496,883 indicate that homeowners already located here wish to improve their property and remain in the Town of Oyster Bay."

Diamond noted that during the same six month period, 61 permits were issued for commercial additions, marking the highest total of any building category with a value of $17,535,755.

A record 6 months in building construction once again points out that homeowners, as well as businesses, continue to find a welcome home here in Oyster Bay," Diamond said.

Our Children

Activities the family can share

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Q. We really want to be good parents, and have tried very hard. Many times we have read and heard that it is important to be involved with children, but the specifics usually aren't available.

Our youngsters are 6 and 8 years old, both boys, and so far by sheer luck we have been able to select books, games and toys that seem to attract them (and don't bore us).

We hope you can offer a concrete suggestion or two for activities that our boys can enjoy and learn from, and in which we can participate.

A. You may be interested in a product that recently came to my attention. It is called "Smithsonian Surprises: An Educational Activity Book," the first children's book published by the Smithsonian Institution Press.

Designed to appeal to children 6 years old and up, it explores intriguing questions like these: "Can a trash bag fly?" "Can you find a bear in the sky?" and, "What do snowflakes, diamonds and salt have in common?"

Each activity is described, and instructions are given for completion of the project. Most of them can be carried out with inexpensive or no-cost materials.

Creative activities at the child's level relate to museum exhibitions, and can lead to construction of a paper zoo, mobiles, Japanese screens and other products. A book list related to the book's content is included.

You can order it from the Smithsonian Institution Press, P.O. Box 1579, Washington, DC 20013, including these order numbers: ISBN 909-3 and TOSSP. The cost is $7.95.

Another source of numerous creative, thinking skill materials is a publishing firm called Resources for the Gifted, located at 3421 North 44th Street, Phoenix, AZ 85018. It is headed by Kathy Kolbe. Their current catalog will give you many ideas of challenging projects and other activities in which you can participate with your children.

Your youngsters' teachers, school and community children's librarians and experienced bookstore personnel can no doubt recommend a lot of other resources of value.

Q. It would be so helpful to my husband and me if you could tell us how we can judge whether our youngsters' development is normal. We think it is, but checking it out with what you, and other experts say would make us more comfortable.

A. "Normal" isn't a point, but a range of development. So generalizations made (even by experts) might not be especially useful. For example, to say that the "average" child starts to walk or talk at a certain age can be misleading. Children beginning to walk or talk at an earlier or later age also can be within the normal range. I knew a child who didn't begin either skill until he was about 18 months old, and now in his young adulthood he is one of our most competent, successful and admired free-lance writers.

On the other hand, certain developmental targets can be used as guidelines, as long as they are not considered too rigidly.

The charts of Gesell and Ilg have been used that way for many years. So have the writings of Benjamin Spock, T. Berry Brazelton and Virginia Appgar.

You may obtain other recommendations from your own pediatrician. By the way, his or her evaluation of your children might be your best gauge of their "normalcy."

A long letter came to me, unsigned, with an interesting issue, so I made an exception by using it in this column — including only the major point raised.

Q. Do you think that in the future there might be programs in the school for kids who want to get out on their own as soon as possible? For example, can it be arranged for public high school students to graduate by the age of 16 with all requirements met, and preferably with a job skill?

A. There are some secondary school programs that now permit students to pursue a job skill program and complete it in less than four years. Some young people working on college preparatory high school programs also are able to finish them in shorter periods.

Not knowing the source of these questions, I don't know whether they exist in the community of this writer. However, the answer should be readily available from the administrative office of the school district. If they don't have such programs, perhaps they could be asked why not.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Disclosing SS number not always mandatory

Q. Recently, when cashing a check, I was asked for my Social Security number. Is this legal?

A. I had always thought that my number was to be used only for IRS tax purposes and matters relating to the Social Security entitlement program. — K.K.

A. Today the Social Security number is being used for purposes that were not even considered when the Social Security Act became law. It is used most often as an identifier.

However, any organization that requests a person's Social Security number is required to tell you whether disclosure is optional or mandatory and explain how the number will be used. In many cases it is not mandatory and it is your decision as to whether you disclose your number. If you choose not to disclose it, ask how this will affect you.

It is not illegal for organizations, businesses, etc., to ask for your number.

The Social Security Administration does not disclose any information about you from our files without your expressed permission regardless of whether you may have given out your number.

Q. I have an adult son (age 30) who has had multiple sclerosis since childhood and has never worked. Because I have provided his full support he is ineligible for SSI.

I have been told he will be entitled as an adult disabled child when I retire and start receiving Social Security retirement benefits. Is it true? — A.P.

A. Yes, your son will be entitled as a disabled adult child on your record. His income or source of support does not affect his entitlement to benefits as an adult disabled child on your work record.

Q. If you are drawing Social Security widow's benefits at age 60 and decide that you want to work, will the employer still take Social Security out of your check? — S.W.

A. If you are employed, you and your employer each pay an equal share of Social Security taxes. As long as you have earnings that are covered by the law you continue to pay Social Security taxes regardless of your age and even if you are receiving Social Security benefits.

Q. Is the Social Security allowable earnings based on wages before or after deductions? — S.M.

A. In figuring your total yearly earnings as an employee, count the gross wages you earn during the year, not just take-home pay. Wages include bonuses, vacation pay, pay in lieu of vacation, cash tips amounting to $20 or more in a month from your work for one employer, and severance pay.

If you have a question about whether a payment you get is wages, ask at any Social Security office.

Q. I was the named beneficiary of an insurance policy on my nephew who died in an auto accident last month. I expect to receive an insurance settlement check of $2,000. Since this is a one-time-only receipt, do I have to count this as income? — T.G.

A. Yes. Your right to SSI checks or the amount of your checks may be affected by changes in the amount of income you have. Under SSI such items as prizes, settlements and awards, including court-ordered awards and proceeds of life insurance policies, are counted as income.

Q. I lost my first husband on Feb. 3, 1984. I remarried on Jan. 1, 1985. I will be 60 years of age on June 9, 1986.

If I divorce my present husband before I turn 60 will I be eligible for benefits on my deceased husband? If I remarry again after my benefits start would I continue to receive them? — M.R.

A. You would meet the requirements for entitlement as a widow on your deceased husband's account once you attain age 60 and are unmarried. Benefits to a widow who remarries after age 60 can continue without any reduction in the amount.

Q. I was married to my husband for six years prior to our divorce. I have a 5-year-old son for whom his father provides child support. Would my son be entitled to any benefits in the event of his father's death? — A.M.

A. Yes. Benefits would be payable to your son in the event of his father's death. Benefits would also be payable to your son if your ex-husband became entitled to disability benefits.

Q. Once you are entitled to Social Security disability benefits, what determines how often your case is reviewed? — C.O.

A. The law requires Social Security to review all cases periodically to make sure that benefits are paid only to those individuals who continue to meet all of the requirements for entitlement.

If the impairment is so severe and/or progressive that medical recovery is not expected, the case will be reviewed less often than those where improvement is more likely.

ANTIQU OR JUNQUE

Age of chair was slightly exaggerated

By James G. McCollam

Q. Can you give me any information about the period, style and value of this chair? It was given to me recently and the previous owner said it was over 150 years old.

A. The previous owner exaggerated slightly — this chair was made between 1865 and 1885. The style and period would be balloon back Victorian side chair. The value would be at least $150.

Q. I know that Jim Beam and Ezra Brooks figural whiskey bottles are collectible and very valuable. I would like to know if there are any "no name" figural bottles that are collectible.

A. Sure there are! And there are some "name" brands that are reasonable prices. Here are some of both:

- Baby in horseshoe, Germany — $30.
- Bagpiper, multicolored — $20.
- Man with long nose, Germany — $30.
- Dog with bow on tail — $15.
- Camel, Germany — $20.
- Dachshund, Germany — $20.
- Bischoff Egyptian Dancers, 1961 — $13.
- Dant, Patrick Henry, 1969 — $6.
- Barnier, Bullfighter, 1963 — $20.
- Hoffman, Canadian Goose, 1977 — $20.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and $1 per item to: James G. McCollam,

Q. The enclosed mark is on the bottom of each piece of my tea set (teapot, sugar and creamer).

Can you provide some information as to the vintage and value of this set? I would also like to know the name of the maker.

A. Your tea set was made by Shore & Coggins of Longton, England. They produced fine bone china around 1900 and not very much of it is on the market.

The value would be in the $175 to $200 range for the set.

Hall Of Fame Dedication At HHS

munity, has been in the planning stage for almost one year and the commemorative plaque inscribed with the names of the first group of 20 Hall of Famers is now on display. Five additional honorees will be added to the plaque each year.

The dedication program began with a welcome by Superintendent Dr. Catherine J. Fenton, followed by the official unveiling.

Honorees and their families, Board of Education members, and guests representing a variety of community groups gathered in the lobby of Hicksville High School on Sunday, November 24, to dedicate the Hicksville Hall of Fame. This project, designed to honor former students and graduates who have gone on to record achievements in their fields and make contributions to the community, was introduced by Board Secretary Daniel C. MacBride, chairman of the District Facilities/Community Affairs Committee which supervised the project. Board President William P. Bennett introduced each honoree to the Superintendent and attending Board members with a brief biographical sketch. Honorees came from as far away as California and Maine to take part in this special event.

Honoree Raymond L. Rusch, former High School principal, flanked by Clara Bennett, President of the Library Board, and William P. Bennett, President of the Board of Education.

Dr. Catherine J. Fenton, Superintendent of Schools, addresses honorees and guests with words of pride and welcome.

Honoree Robert H. Kagann, Ph.D., a physicist, looks for his name on the commemorative plaque.

Old Westbury School of the Holy Child is an independent day school founded in 1959 as one of the international system of schools under the direction of the Sisters of the Holy Child.

Located on a 15-acre former estate, the school has grown from four classes in the main building. Into a complex serving nursery to grade twelve, housed in three separate buildings.

Our upper school offers a college preparatory for young women from the ninth to twelfth grades. It is our emphasis on small class sizes, personal care and concern for each student, and the abiding commitment to traditional intellectual, spiritual and aesthetic discipline that provides the foundation for our well rounded program of studies.

As there are Holy Child Schools all over the world, an international exchange program allows a student in her junior year to spend a semester or as far away as Ireland and California or as close to home as Maryland.

Local Author To Sign Books

By Richard Evers

Alumni of Hicksville High School are much in the news, this week of the dedication of the Hicksville Hall of Fame at the high school. Sharing the spotlight illuminating the deeds of the 20 notable grads honored this past Sunday will be author and journalist James M. Ehmman of the Hicksville High Class of 1966. Ehmman is the science editor of the Syracuse, N.Y. "Post Standard", a regular columnist and an author. He will be at Waldon's Bookstore, this Saturday afternoon, autographing copies of his latest book, "To Whom It May Concern: An Investigation of Elephant Art."

If the title is confusing, far-fetched, it is the name of a book describing the incredible ability of a pachyderm that draws, indeed, Jim Ehmman and his co-author, David Gueswa, an elephant trainer, have told and illustrated an amazing story of a female elephant, Siri, capable of sketching on oaktag in an East Indian style. The book was published by W.W. Norton Co., and reflects the Hicksville author's wide-ranging science and nature interests. A previous book, "Chattey's Island" was equally arousing, the story of an engineer's carefully designed plan to revitalize the great Port of New York and the Staten Island-Jersey seaways.

James Ehmman is the son of Mary and John "Jack" Ehmman, long-time former co-proprietor of Hicksville Firestone. No stranger to honors, Jim was a winner of a prestigious Westinghouse Science Journalism Award in 1984 for a six part series "Under the Weather", detailing the whys and wherefores of weather in Central New York.

Swap Jamboree At Bethpage Pk.

A Swap Jamboree for used ice hockey equipment will be held at the Town's Bethpage Community Park skate house, according to Oyster Bay Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark.

"This is a great opportunity for youngsters who are looking for used ice hockey equipment," Clark said, "and for those who would like to sell their equipment. The Swap Jamboree, open to all Town residents, will be held on Saturday, December 7, 1985, at the Bethpage Community Park skate house, from 9 a.m. until noon."

Clark added that "registrations for the Town's youth ice hockey program for youngsters between the ages of 6 to 16 will continue throughout the month of December. Participants in the program will be divided into five age groups, 6-8, 9-10, 11-12, 13-14, and 15-16 years of age. This program is designed primarily for the enthusiast who plays hockey for enjoyment, with the emphasis on teaching basic skating and hockey skills."

The free clinics are offered at the Town's ice rinks located at Marjorie R. Post Community Park, Massapequa, Bethpage Community Park and Syosset-Woodbury Community Park.

For additional information, about the Swap Jamboree or registration for the ice hockey program, call the Department of Parks at 795-1000.

The Gregorys Visit Hicksville

The Trustees, staff and volunteers of the Hicksville Gregory Museum enjoyed the company of the museum's founders, Dr. Gardiner and Anne Gregory, this past Tuesday. Making an annual Thanksgiving visit to kinfolk, the Gregorys drove down from their retirement home in Castine, Maine to be with long-time museum colleagues at an evening social gathering at the museum home, the Heitz Place Court-house.

The well-remembered Gregorys, leaders and participants in many Hicksville affairs of ten years ago, toured the museum during the afternoon, after being greeted by the Museum's New Director, Joan Scancarelli. Their fine collection of minerals has been much expanded in recent years with the splendid Leonard Zarin Mineral Collection and a number of striking new fossil specimens. The museum founders were relieved to see that the courthouse building has just about recovered from its fire on May 31.

Prior to the evening social with Museum Trustees, members of the Board of Advisors, staff members, volunteers and old Hicksville friends, Anne and Gardiner were guests for dinner at the home of Museum Historian Richard Evers and his wife, Anne.

Jr. Scouts Enjoy First Overnight

On November 16 and 17, the scouts of Junior Troop 3001 enjoyed their first overnight of the year. Seventeen girls went to the Great Neck Program Center on that rainy stormy Saturday. However the weather didn't dampen any spirits. Upon arrival a lovely Flag Raising ceremony was held and a tour of the house to point out fire exits was conducted.

The scouts made clothes pin reindeer ornaments, played relay races held a scouts own and pinned Jane and Julie Jedzinak with the Girl Scout pin welcoming them into the troop. A lovely camp fire ceremony with gratitude as the theme was held in front of a roaring fire.

On Sunday morning after a delicious pancake breakfast the scouts held a beautiful interfaith ceremony and then began the major cleanup of the premises. At two in the afternoon, after the last girl had been picked up the two leaders closed the door of the troop house taking home many memories of a fun filled weekend.

We at Fork Lane wish to thank Mrs. Susanne Dalby and Mrs. Virginia Perry for coming along and helping to make our overnight a big success.

Pinning the Girl Scout Pin on Jane and Julie Jedzinak are April Rodriguez, Shannon Faulkner, Wendy Fusco and Mary Rafic.

Dr. Fenton and Dr. Couillard were aided in assessing each school's individual performance by the building principals, each reporting on his or her own school's progress. The building administrators commented as follows:

- Principal John Mateer of Lee Avenue School mentioned his school's RIF (Reading is Fundamental) program. This Federally-subsidized program is a central movement at Lee, and has been used in combination with their emphasis on parents as reading partners.
- Dr. Burke at Burns Avenue School noted the district's screening of new entrants as an excellent way of targeting student problems, and in his way, ensuring that the proper help is given.
- Mrs. Carol Bentsen, Fork Lane School, told the Board of her school's "author of the month" program to start in December and of the emphasis on reading demonstrated by students and teachers alike, all setting aside 10 minutes during the school day to read for pleasure.
- Gerald Klein, Principal of the Junior High School, credited the interdisciplinary technique in teaching with fuller learning of subjects on all grade levels.
- East Street School Principal William Granville commented on the progress which can be seen in each student's "writing folder."
- Nance DeSorbe, Dutch Lane School Principal, stressed the importance of parents in their child's schooling career.
- Dr. Manus Clancy, Principal of Woodland Avenue School, expressed pride in the fact that 75% of the students in Woodland's third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades play a musical instrument.

• Jack Schwartz, Willet Avenue Principal, remarked on the excellence of the remedial reading and resource room facilities in the district.

• Old Country Road School's Dr. Dan McCann acknowledged the district's encouragement of professional growth, noting that "teachers like talking to other teachers about teaching." He commended the district on its ability to keep its teachers current.

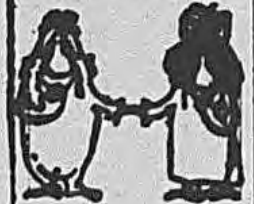

• Senior High School Principal Richard Hogan noted graduation statistics and claimed "the end result is what matters." He also credited the reduction in this year's drop out rate to the school's attendance policy and to the improvement of instruction.

In conclusion, Dr. Fenton said that in Hicksville "children compete with themselves" in performance. In this way, the district "can see how the students are moving along in relation to their abilities."

Board President Bennett announced that the Nassau Citizens Budget Commission has presented its good government award to the Hicksville Public Schools. In receiving the award this past week, Mr. Bennett said the Hicksville district was praised for its good management of money, its budgeting and its long-range planning program.

The Board's next general meeting will be held on Wednesday December 18 at 8:15 p.m. in the Administration Building.

Callers Have Mixed Ideas On Listing Of Ingredients

Callers to Input were mixed on whether they use ingredients listed on packages as a guide to purchases in answer to this question: "Do you look over the ingredients listed on packages before making new food purchases? Do you consider these listings of importance in deciding what to buy?" Here are some of the answers:

USED AS GUIDE

Yes. I most certainly look over the ingredients listed on wrappers before purchasing new food items. Sometimes I am really surprised by the number of added chemicals that are put into even common items such as bread and I do shop to get items with less chemicals. Before these listings appeared we never knew and had no chance to decide. J.E.

GOVERNMENT DECIDES

I don't think that most people who go grocery shopping read the labels. I see most people rushing around the store to get finished. It has to be true that people do not care. What most believe is that the U.S. Health Dept. will decide and dictate what is to be eaten or not and they let those decisions to government. Personally there are so many things to do in a day that I cannot read labels. B.N.

MORE PEOPLE SHOULD USE

It is very important to read the list of ingredients on products especially when purchasing a different brand. Some processors load the item with salt and sugar and do anything to make it taste good regardless of what happens to nutrition. The putting of ingredients on wrappers was a great step. I use it and more people should do so. J.D.

OUT OF PROPORTION

No. There are too many people running around blowing things out of proportion. If they see a very small percent of some chemical in the food they act as though it is something that will cause great harm. The U.S. government sets standards and the packers cannot go above those standards. Generally people have no idea what those levels are and reading the labels helps very little. G.D.

LITTLE USE

I rarely look over the ingredients on food packages either before or after making a purchase. And, quite frankly, I can't recall having seen anyone else do it either. The most important thing for me in shopping at the supermarket is to try to get it done as quickly as possible and therefore the greatest concentration goes into establishing a route among the aisles which will enable me to fill my list without doubling back and wasting time. In that respect, I guess I value my time more than the detailed contents of the food in the packages. I am quite content in knowing that regulations impose upon the manufacturer or producer the need to print those listings and that my interests are being taken care of without my having to verify the fact that they are being carried out. In any case, most of the ingredients, either by name or by volume as a percentage of the total, don't ring a bell with me so I am none the wiser and if they did, it would probably ruin my taste anticipation and consequently diminish my pleasure in eating. From the point of view of this family, I don't believe these listings affect our decisions to buy to any degree but I would certainly not advocate removing the mandate to print them for the protection of the customer. P.G.S.

CHEMICAL NAMES

I certainly do look at the list of ingredients before purchasing groceries today. I've formulated a rule with myself and, that is, if I look at an ingredient and if it is one of these long chemical names - if I can't say it, I don't eat the product (especially ice cream). When I look at some of the ice cream and see long chemical names I won't buy it. Ice cream should be natural. It doesn't need anything in it that is chemical. There is a popular brand on the market today and it's all natural. As far as other foods go I watch very, very carefully the dyes, especially Red #1. I won't touch a food with that in it since it is a known cancer causing agent. I try to stay away from foods with nitrites. Doctors have said that it is okay to eat frankfurters, ham, corned beef only once a month and even then it's a risk. Nitrites are dangerous. So, I think it's a very good idea to look over your food purchases but you can still be fooled, especially with some cereals. Corn flakes claims they are all natural and wholesome but if you look at the ingredients you'll find BHT which is an additive to insure freshness. I understand that's supposed to be dangerous too so the cereal isn't too wholesome is it? H.S.

ALWAYS LOOKS

Yes, I do look over the ingredients on packaged foods and now I even look at them in every area of my grocery shopping. I'm afraid the consumer must take some of the blame on the chemical ingredients added to almost every food on the market today. They demand speed, flavor and variety and food makers are doing it the easiest way they can. People don't cook like they used to and certainly have gotten away from good wholesome cooking. Who says everything you put in your mouth must be tangy and tasty? Remember a while ago Gerber Baby Foods was criticized for putting salt into their baby products? Babies don't care if something has salt or not and neither would adults if they chose to get used to it. Unfortunately all the quick, short-cut cooking methods are loaded with seasonings like salt and additives for taste, not your health. A.P.

RESTAURANT RATINGS

My husband has been in a wheelchair for some 30 years. I wonder if you could suggest to your readers that when they call in their comments about restaurants they also mention access. We've tried some of the restaurants only to find that there are steps or the only access for a wheelchair would be through the kitchen. It doesn't seem to me to be a difficult thing to include and it might help others besides myself. J.G.

Religion And Politics

By Michael Pakaluk

"Religion and Politics"—a frequently seen headline during the last year's presidential campaign. Like most abstract titles, it usually stood for something quite concrete: three topics, in fact—school prayer, tuition tax credits, and abortion.

It seems to me that now is the time to resume the debate about "religion and politics", after the frenzy and controversy of the election have passed, when there are no temptations to partisanship and electioneering.

In this essay, I propose to begin with the last topic—abortion. I'm not concerned here with whether abortion is right or wrong. I simply want to ask: is abortion, as many claim, a "religious issue"? But this way of speaking is rather vague: what we really want to know is whether any legislation that would limit or prohibit abortion would violate the separation of church and state.

We can approach this question by asking a simpler one: is the belief that abortion is wrong a religious belief? If it is a religious belief, then it would seem that any legislation that would make that belief a part of the law would violate the separation of church and state.

However, what is a religious belief? A belief may be said to be religious either because 1) it is deeply held, or 2) it has religious "content", or 3) it is accepted on the basis of some religious authority. We must consider whether the belief that abortion is wrong is religious in any of these three senses.

First, we may call a belief "religious" when it is strongly or deeply held. So, for example, we could say that a person on a low-cholesterol diet "sticks to it religiously". He takes his doctor's advice very seriously, and he strongly believes that he ought to eat in such a way as to promote his own health.

Now obviously the belief that abortion is wrong is religious in this sense—those who oppose abortion do so out of a deep sense of conviction. Yet, equally obviously, we do not want to keep a belief from being legislated as public law merely because it is deeply held. To the contrary, our laws often express our deepest convictions—for example, that bigotry against blacks is wrong, or that veterans should be shown gratitude for their service to their country. So even though the belief that abortion is wrong is "religious" in this sense, this in itself is no reason for thinking that laws limiting or prohibiting abortion would violate the separation of church and state. So let us press on to the other two senses of "religious belief".

A belief may be considered religious, secondly, if it has religious content. What does this mean? It means that the belief makes reference to religious topics—more specifically, to supernatural beings or powers. God or gods, angels and demons, good fairies and ghosts are supernatural beings; the power to create out of nothing, of bestowing grace, of forgiving sins, of tempting to sin, of possessing another's soul are supernatural powers. Thus, for example, the belief that God exists is a religious belief in this sense, as is the belief that priests can be ministers of forgiveness or that the Bible is God's revelation.

Now let us look at the belief that abortion is wrong. Does it have religious content? Let us state that belief as explicitly as possible: "The killing or destruction of a fetus before birth is morally equivalent to murdering a child after birth." It is quite clear that this belief makes no reference to supernatural beings or powers. Therefore, the claim that it is a religious belief in this second sense can be easily dismissed.

Third, and finally, a belief may be called a religious belief if it can be accepted only on the basis of a religious authority and not on the basis of ordinary reason or empirical evidence. A religious authority would be any person or writings taken to state or interpret for us God's thoughts and commands. Different religious groups take different persons or writings to be authoritative. For Protestants, the Bible alone is a religious authority. Catholics accept the authority of church tradition as well as that of the Bible. Muslims reject the Bible in favor of the Koran, and some Muslims take living figures, such as Khomeini to be religious authorities.

If there is no rational argument or empirical evidence for a belief, then it can be accepted, if at all, only because a reliable authority has revealed it to be true. So, for example, the belief that God is a Trinity of three persons is something that no philosopher ever argued for and no one who is not a Christian has ever accepted. The only way this belief can be accepted is by acquiescing in the religious authority of the New Testament writings and Jesus. Similarly, in order to believe that the Jewish dietary laws should be observed, one needs to accept the authority of the Mosaic tradition. One keeps Kosher out of faith, not through philosophical or scientific argument.

So we must ask: is the belief that abortion is wrong a religious belief in this third sense? Do those who oppose abortion accept the wrongness of abortion only because some religious authority teaches that it is wrong?

It is clear that abortion is not a religious issue in this third sense. Those who oppose abortion do so on the basis of argument and rational considerations. For example, they state that nothing magical happens to the baby at birth—just a few minor physiological adjustments—so there is no reason why killing the child before birth is any different morally speaking from killing him or her after birth. They also cite scientific evidence to show that the fetus is very much alive—a rudimentary heart beats at three weeks after conception; brain waves can be detected at eight weeks; fingers and even fingerprints are formed by ten weeks; and so on.

It is true that many religious authorities—most notably the bishops of the Catholic Church—do teach that abortion is wrong. But here we find merely that the teaching of a religious authority overlaps that which can be accepted without reference to that authority. The bishops also teach that bigotry is wrong; that nuclear war is forbidden; that incest and rape are wrong. All of these moral principals can be and are accepted without appealing to the bishops' authority. Likewise, the belief that abortion is wrong is accepted by Catholics, many Protestants, orthodox Jews and many atheists, without any necessary appeal to a religious authority.

We can conclude, then, that there is only one sense in which abortion is a "religious issue", but this is the one sense that poses no problem for the separation of church and state. It is, indeed, a moral issue, but abortion, like civil rights, nuclear weapons, and other moral issues that affect us all, should and must be discussed by politicians and citizens in the public arena. Let those who oppose abortion be allowed to air their case without the unfounded charge that they are thereby "imposing their religion" on others.

READER RATINGS

Q. What do you do if you enter a restaurant and some friends at another table tell the waiter to see what you are drinking because they want to buy you a drink and you do not drink? E.R.

A. There is no set answer to your question. You obviously have some very generous friends who do not know your habits. The best thing to do would be to inform the waiter that you do not drink but you might make a gesture with a water glass towards your friends table as a toast.

If you have Questions about etiquette or dining out you may call them in to 931-0027 and we will find the answer.

Q. Whenever I go to a restaurant that has a salad bar I see people taking two plates and some coming up several times. Aren't these people just acting like pigs? R.W.

A. They may be acting like pigs but the management ought to be the one to do the complaining if the dinner cost doesn't cover it. We are told by restaurant owners, though, that it evens out and that except in restaurants that specifically say the dinner includes "one trip to the salad bar" that they will not appear to notice how many trips are made and it appears that if they are "pigs" to you, the management still views them as customers.

Q. If I have a party of about 30 guests, is it best to go to a restaurant or a regular caterer?

A. Generally you can find a restaurant that would be more interested in that size party than a caterer although some caterers do have mid-week and off-season rates. But, in general restaurants have rooms that they can close off and give you special service. Often the price is no higher than the menu rates.

A. If you're giving a party in a restaurant, should you await your guests in the entrance of the restaurant, or should you go to the table?

A. If the entrance is tiny, there really isn't room for you to congregate all your guests there. It's better in this case to go straight to your table. However, remember to arrive before your guests do. It's extremely rude for the hosts to arrive after their guests!

Q. If I'm awaiting my host in the restaurant and he or she is very late, is it all right for me to order my own drink at the bar and pay for it?

A. It's far nicer to wait for your host to arrive before ordering a drink.

Q. How many people does a bottle of champagne serve at dessert time?

A. Normally four. If you're at a wedding-rehearsal dinner or an anniversary party, the toasting might go on for quite a while, so you have to supply twice as much champagne for your guests as you would for a regular dinner party.

READER RATINGS

IRISH ATMOSPHERE
 I think that many of your readers are Irish or of Irish descent as I am but it doesn't really matter. There is a nice cafe in Bethpage called Kenny's Cafe that has just great food and a lot more.
 It has good service and entertainment, folk songs and ballads on Friday and Saturday nights. We went there last week and found the food to be very good and the entertainment to be something special. I think that many of your readers would like to go to this fine place and I bring it to your attention. It is located at 729 South Oyster Bay Road, Bethpage. M.O'D.

U. We are not wine drinkers. If we're giving a party, what kind of wines should we stock in order to take care of our wine-drinking friends' pleasure-from cocktail hour through dinner? T.R.

EXCELLENT FISH

The Surfside Restaurant is a new one to me. We passed it last week along Hillside Avenue and then remembered we had seen it advertised so we popped in. The service was great but the fish menu is just excellent.

One in our party had filet of sole which was the freshest and most delicious ever. Another had scrod and it also was first rate. We also understand that there are many early specials served each week and that you can get a full dinner at a reasonable price. We think that New Hyde Park can well be proud of this new restaurant and recommend it highly to your readers. J.K.

GOOD PLACE

Your Place or Mine is the name of a new restaurant we visited last night. I has a somewhat funny name for a restaurant but we found the food and service to be nothing to make fun of. We had the best steaks we have had in some time at Your Place or Mine. The food is prepared in a continental style and they are just very delicious eating specials.

The vegetables were prepared well and the baked potato was right as, though it had been popped in the oven when we came to the restaurant.

The price is fair and we think the decor is nice. We recommend this restaurant located on Hillside Avenue. Williston Park to anyone who likes ggood food. H.R.

A FAVORITE
The Marmite restaurant has been my favorite for years. We went there last Thursday and had a delicious fish special for one and a beautiful steak for the other person in our party.

At Marmite everything is first rate from the fully decked tables to the service of food. But this would not be enough. The food is really good and the menu is varied. It is a place to go for special occasions.

We have been going to Marmite for a number of years now and want to heartily recommend it to all your readers.

Cooking Corner

Thanksgiving bounty, past and present

By Antonia Allegra

Human tradition is what it's all about ...

Carefully choosing forks, knives and spoons from what used to be her mother's silver, Carol Spong thought back over the years.

"I remember setting this same silver and those plates for all my childhood Thanksgivings.

"Grandma Spong always made plum pudding at Thanksgiving, and we ate it all the way through to Christmas. Oh, and she also made Yorkshire pudding during the holidays and sometimes served it with hot dogs."

The memories continued as she set the table:

"My mother's sister, Aunt Frances would always do the centerpiece. She is now the ripe old age of 87, swims 24 laps a day and took cooking lessons until last year. An extraordinary woman. The fact that she had polio never deterred her from running her dry-cleaning shop."

When asked about her own family traditions today, the mother of four grown children adjusted her apron and smiled as she looked out at the panorama from her family's country retreat in Julian, Calif.

"Our family and the (Neil) Cooper family are Massachusetts transplants (to Southern California)," Spong explained as she prepared for Thanksgiving.

"And for about 13 years our two groups — 12 of us in all plus a usual three to five friends and relatives — have shared Thanksgiving, swapping houses and splitting the cooking."

Any predictables for the annual meal?

"Well, we have a definite pattern at Thanksgiving. Theresa (Cooper) always brings the pumpkin pie, and I make apple pies with our fruit. Just make pastry for a double crust. Then peel, core and slice about six tart apples. I put them in the bottom crust, layering them with a mix of about 1 cup sugar and a teaspoon each of cinnamon and nutmeg. Then I dot a few teaspoons of real butter over the apples and cover with the second crust, sealing the edges with a fork.

"... And we never have a Thanksgiving without mashed potatoes and gravy," continued Spong. "The turkey goes without saying. I have tried different stuffings without acceptance. Sometimes I've tried serving different vegetables, but the kids complain; they want broccoli with Hollandaise sauce served in the cobalt blue bowl.

"But, you know, things have changed. Nobody wants or needs to gorge themselves anymore. We're trying to eat more discreetly now, choosing foods for their flavors, not just for their bulk. The basic idea is still the same, though; the food should look good and taste good."

Whether it is the Spong group in Julian or your family in the dining room, whether the meal is served on Meissen or Melmac, whether there is a roaring fire or the light of a single candle, it is hoped that your Thanksgiving will bring memories of family, friends and of Thanksgivings past.

And to make this holiday meal a memorable one, here are some recipes for vegetables and desserts to accompany the obligatory turkey for Thanksgiving 1985.

FILLED ACORN SQUASH RINGS

- 3 medium acorn squashes
- 24 small white onions
- 2 (10 oz.) boxes frozen peas
- 6 tbsps. butter
- 2 tps. nutmeg
- Salt and pepper

cut squashes in half and place, cut side down, on baking sheet. Bake in 375 F oven until knife easily can be inserted in side. Remove from oven. When cool enough to handle, scoop out seeds and discard them. Cut two rings of squash, leaving skin. Set aside unused (end) parts for future use. This can be done ahead and the squash rings reheated at serving time.

Pour boiling water over onions, then slip off outer skins. Steam or boil onions about 12 minutes or until tender. Can be done ahead.

Just before serving, cook peas according to directions. Drain them and toss with prepared onions, butter, nutmeg, salt and pepper.

Makes 12 servings.

YAMS 'N APPLES

- 5-6 yams, boiled
- 4 tbsps. butter
- 2 pippin apples, cored and sliced
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
- Parsley, freshly chopped (optional)

Peel cooked yams and cut into 2-inch chunks. Set aside. Melt butter in skillet. Saute apple slices (keep apple skin on) in butter over medium-high heat until lightly browned. Add honey, cinnamon and yam chunks to pan and stir all until thoroughly hot. Put in serving bowl and top with chopped parsley.

Makes 8 servings.

APPLE-CRANBERRY-PECAN PIE

- 5-6 medium-large Granny Smith or pippin apples, peeled and sliced
- 1 cup whole fresh or frozen cranberries
- 1/2 cup coarsely chopped pecans

- 3/4 cup brown sugar, packed
- Juice of 1 large lemon
- 2 tbsps. flour
- 1/2 tsp. nutmeg
- 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
- 2 tbsps. butter, cut up
- 1 egg beaten with 1 tbsps. water for glaze
- Granulated sugar for topping (optional)

In large bowl, toss fruit and nuts with sugar, lemon juice, flour and spices. Add mix to pastry-lined pan and dot with butter. Brush egg glaze over edge of bottom crust. Cover with top crust or make lattice top with strips of pie dough. Flute edge as desired, brush top with egg glaze, and sprinkle with sugar. Set pie in lower third of oven preheated to 425 F and bake 10 to 12 minutes. Reduce oven heat to 350 F. Move pie to center of oven and bake additional 40 to 45 minutes, or until pastry is golden brown. Cool on wire rack.

Serve warm with vanilla ice cream.

MAPLE PUMPKIN PIE

Pastry for 2-crust 9-inch pie
1 tsp. flour

- Base:
- 6 ozs. cream cheese
 - 2 tbsps. sugar
 - 1/2 tsp. vanilla

- Filling:
- 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
 - 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
 - 1/2 tsp. nutmeg
 - 1 tsp. maple flavor
 - 2 eggs, separated
 - 1/4 cup whipped cream
 - 2 tbsps. butter or margarine, melted
 - 1 (16 oz.) can pumpkin
 - 1/4 tsp. cream of tartar

- Glaze:
- 2 tbsps. maple syrup
 - Pecan halves

Prepare pie crust pastry. Preheat oven to 375 F.

In small bowl, combine base ingredients; beat at medium speed until smooth and well blended. Spread mixture in bottom of pie crust-lined pan. Bake in preheated oven 10 to 12 minutes or until center is set to light touch. Cool base 5 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 350 F.

Meanwhile, in large bowl, combine brown sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg, maple flavor and egg yolks; mix well. Add whipping cream, margarine and pumpkin; mix until thoroughly blended. Set aside.

In small bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until stiff peaks form. Gently fold into pumpkin mixture; pour over cream cheese layer.

To make lattice top, cut remaining crust into 12 strips about 1/4 inch wide. Arrange strips in lattice design over pumpkin mixture. Seal and flute edges.

Bake in 350 F oven 50 to 60 minutes or until lattice top is golden brown. Cool. Gently brush lattice with maple syrup and top with pecan halves. Refrigerate at least 1 hour before serving. Refrigerate leftovers.

Makes 8 servings.

Tip: Cover edge of pie crust with strip of aluminum foil during last 10 to 15 minutes of baking if necessary to prevent excessive browning.

TRADITIONAL CHINESE RIBS

- 1 rack (2-3 lbs.) pork spare-ribs
- 1/2 cup soy sauce
- 1/2 cup honey
- 3 tbsps. white vinegar
- 2 tbsps. sherry
- 1 tbsps. chopped fresh ginger
- 3 cloves garlic, chopped
- 1 1/2 cups beef broth

Cut ribs apart and into finger-length pieces. In bowl, mix all other ingredients and stir well. Add ribs and marinate at least 2 hours (longer if possible). Place ribs on rack in large roasting pan and bake at 350 F for 1 1/2 hours until brown and crispy. Baste frequently with marinade.

Serves 4.

SPICY CHINESE SPARERIBS

- 1 rack (2-3 lbs.) pork spare-ribs
- 6 tbsps. soy sauce
- 4 tbsps. dry white wine or sherry
- 1 tbsps. fresh chopped ginger
- 1/2 tsp. 5-spice powder (available at Oriental specialty stores)
- 2 tbsps. salt
- 1 tbsps. fermented black beans, rinsed and chopped (available at Oriental specialty stores)
- 1 tsp. crushed red pepper
- 1 tbsps. sugar
- 1 tbsps. sesame oil
- 1 tbsps. chili paste with garlic (available at Oriental specialty stores)

Cut ribs apart and cut into finger-size lengths. Mix together all ingredients in bowl and marinate ribs for at least 2 hours (preferably longer). Bake ribs in roasting pan 1 1/2 hours at 350 F, or until brown and crisp, basting frequently with marinade and pouring off grease as it accumulates.

Serves 4.

SPARERIBS WITH RICE CRUMBS

- 1 1/2 lbs. pork spareribs
- 2 cups raw rice
- 2 tps. star anise, powdered
- 1 tsp. powdered peppercorns

Marinade:

- 1/2 tsp. salt (or to taste)
- 1 tbsps. scallions, minced
- 1/2 tbsps. fresh ginger, minced
- 2 tbsps. soy sauce
- 1 tsp. freshly ground pepper (or to taste)
- 1 tsp. hot red pepper powder
- 1/2 cup dry white wine
- 1/2 tbsps. 5-spice powder (available at Oriental specialty stores)

Separate ribs and chop into finger-size pieces. Place ribs in large bowl. Mix together marinade ingredients and pour over ribs. Mix well and allow to stand 1 hour or more.

To make rice crumbs, heat wok or heavy cast-iron frying pan over high heat for 1 minute. Then add rice, star anise and peppercorns. Stir-fry over low heat until rice is crisp and golden-brown.

Remove ribs and allow to cool. Then, in electric blender, grind rice into crumbs.

If you have an Oriental steamer, mix ribs and rice crumbs in heat-proof bowl small enough to fit into steamer and roll ribs in rice crumbs until they are coated. Cover bottom of wok with water, place bowl in steamer over wok and steam ribs for 1 hour, or until tender, adding water as necessary.

If you have neither an Oriental steamer nor a wok, the bowl containing ribs may be placed on a rack in a large, loosely covered pot.

Microwave Magic

By Desiree Viveca

Leftover turkey has many uses

Your Thanksgiving meal is over. The relatives have gone home, the kitchen looks like the aftermath of World War III, and you don't think you'll want to cook (or eat!) again for weeks.

Not to worry — it's a perfectly normal reaction to the gastronomical extravaganza that is the typical American Thanksgiving. If you're fretting about what to do with those gargantuan platters of leftover turkey, relax! With the help of your microwave oven, you'll find dozens of quick and easy ways to serve the succulent bird.

If you didn't use the giblets for your Thanksgiving meal, don't throw them out. Instead, microwave them into a flavorful broth for soup or gravy.

In a 2-quart glass casserole, combine turkey giblets (neck, heart, liver and gizzard) with 3 cups water, 1 bay leaf and a dash each of salt and pepper. For more flavor, add a slice of onion and a few celery leaves.

Microwave, covered, on ROAST (70 percent power) about 30 minutes. Remove bay leaf, onion and celery leaves. (Meat may be chopped fine and returned to the broth, if desired.)

Leftover turkey tends to dry out when reheated in a conventional oven, but the moist-cooking microwave keeps it tender and juicy.

Perhaps the easiest way to serve leftover turkey is in a sandwich. For a quick, hot sandwich, just place 3 or 4 thin slices of turkey on bread or bun. Cover with a few tablespoons of gravy. Microwave on HIGH (100 percent power) 1 1/4 to 1 minute for 1 sandwich, 1 to 1-1/4 minutes for 2 sandwiches, and 2 to 3 minutes for 4 sandwiches.

Leftover turkey is great in a tasty casserole dish. Try one of the following, or use in any recipe that calls for cooked chicken.

TURKEY-NOODLE TARRAGON

- 3 cups cooked cubed turkey
- 1 1/2 cups uncooked wide egg noodles
- 1 cup hot water
- 1 chicken bouillon cube
- 1/2 tsp. dried tarragon
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese

Combine all ingredients except cheese in 2-quart glass casserole, stirring to blend well.

Cover and microwave on HIGH (100 percent power) 15 minutes, stirring after 7 minutes. Stir in cheese.

Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving.

Serves 4 to 6.

LUNCHEON TURKEY BAKE

- 2 cups cooked cubed turkey

- 1 (10 3/4 oz.) can condensed cream of mushroom or cream of chicken soup
- 1 cup diced celery
- 3 tbsps. minced onion
- 2 hard-boiled eggs, chopped
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 3/4 tsp. curry powder
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 2 tbsps. melted butter, or margarine
- Paprika

Combine turkey, condensed soup, celery, onion, eggs, walnuts, mayonnaise, curry powder and pepper in 2-quart glass casserole. Cover and microwave on HIGH (100 percent power) 5 minutes, stirring after 2 1/2 minutes.

Combine bread crumbs and melted butter in small dish, tossing to blend. Sprinkle buttered crumbs evenly over turkey mixture. Dust lightly with paprika.

Microwave, uncovered, 4 to 5 minutes on HIGH until heated through, rotating dish after 2 1/2 minutes. Let stand several minutes before serving.

Serves 4 to 6.

TURKEY CHOW MEIN

- 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 (10 3/4 oz.) can condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 1 (4 oz.) can mushroom stems and pieces
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 cups cooked cubed turkey
- 1 (3 oz.) can chow mein noodles
- Soy sauce

In 2-quart glass casserole combine butter, celery and onion. Microwave 4 minutes on HIGH (100 percent power), stirring after 2 minutes.

Stir in condensed soup, mushrooms, water and turkey, blending well. Cover and microwave 5 minutes on HIGH, stirring halfway through cooking time. Let stand, covered, 3 minutes before serving.

Serve over chow mein noodles, and sprinkle lightly with soy sauce.

Serves 4.

OATMEAL BREAD

- 1 1/2 cups boiling water
- 1 cup rolled oats
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/3 cup light molasses
- 1 1/2 tablespoons oil
- 1 package dry yeast
- 1/4 cup warm water
- 4-4 1/2 cups all-purpose flour, sifted

Pour the boiling water over the oatmeal. Add the salt, stir, and cool to lukewarm. Dissolve the yeast in the warm water, then add molasses, oil and dissolved yeast to the oatmeal mixture and gradually add the sifted flour until the dough is stiff enough to handle. Knead the dough on a lightly floured board for about 5 minutes or until dough is smooth and elastic.

Place dough in a lightly oiled bowl, turning to coat all sides of the dough with oil. Cover with a clean cloth and let rise in a warm place (about 85°F) until double in bulk.

Punch down the dough and knead again for a few minutes. Shape into a loaf and put it in a well-oiled 9 x 5-inch loaf pan. Cover and let rise again (about 1 hour) until doubled in bulk.

Bake at 375°F for 50 minutes. Remove bread from pan and place on a wire rack to cool.

Yield: 1 loaf (16 slices) Approx. cal./serv.: 1 slice = 150

Variation:

One-quarter cup of wheat germ and/or 1/2 cup of seedless raisins may be added.

Approx. cal./serv.: 1 slice = 170

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Do you have a means of removing water stains and other spots from oak hardwood floors?

A. In most cases you can remove a stain from a wood floor by wiping up the spill quickly and rubbing the area with a soft cloth dampened with a little cleaner-wax. If the stain persists, dip steel wool in the wax and rub the stain briskly.

To eliminate white water stains or hazing caused by spilled alcoholic drinks, rub the stained area with a little moistened cigar ash or fine steel wool dipped in mineral oil.

Chewing gum, crayon, candle wax and tar can be removed from a wood floor by first rubbing the area with an ice cube and scraping off as much of the brittle residue as possible. Then loosen any residue by pouring a little dry-cleaning fluid around the edges of the spot. Finish by rubbing the stain with a cleaner-wax.

To draw out stubborn grease stains, soak a cotton ball in hydrogen peroxide and press it on the spot. Then saturate a second cotton ball with ammonia and hold it on top of the first ball for several minutes. If the grease stain persists, sand the area lightly. Next, soak a cloth pad in a solution of 1 ounce of oxalic acid and 1 quart of water, and leave it on the stain for 1 hour. Wipe the area with a damp sponge, then allow the area to dry. You may have to repeat the treatment for stubborn stains.

To repair the finish after a stain has been removed, first rub the area with steel wool. Then apply a thin coat of matching finish, being careful to blend the new finish with the old.

Protect your wood floors with regular waxing and buffing. Waxing helps clean and preserve the floor's finish. Buffing helps give the wax a hard, stain-resistant shine.

Even a small amount of water can cause the wood to warp, swell or discolor, so wipe up spills quickly. Don't damp-mop or use water-based cleaners or waxes on a wood floor.

Q. I have had water seep into the basement of my 17-year-old house where the wall meets the basement floor. To correct this problem, I sealed it. Then outside in the yard I dug down about 2 1/2 feet, creating a trench located about 3 1/2 to 4 feet from the outside wall. I then filled this first with sand, then a layer of rocks and covered the area with dirt. The sand draws the water and seems to keep it away from the wall.

This past summer was much drier than previous years, and I have found two cracks in my basement floor. If I fill these cracks, will I be safe or am I in trouble?

A. You were right in first trying to correct the moisture problem by assuring that water is draining away from the foundation. In many instances repair of the existing drainage system is adequate to solve the problem. Relocation of down-spouts or construction of gutters to take water runoff from the eaves assists in carrying surface water away from walls.

If the ground outside of your basement slopes toward the walls, pack and back up the soil so that water will drain away. Avoid planting shrubbery too close to the foundation — 3 feet is a good minimum. Never water toward the foundation.

Your method of solving the drainage problem is not one I am familiar with. However, if the end result is preventing excessive moisture buildup in the walls and foundation of your home, this is excellent. Rather than being caused by a lack of moisture, the cracks in the basement floor you are now discovering could be attributed to settling of the foundation. This is not uncommon.

There are several methods you could use to repair the cracks. One newer product on the market is Bondex's Ready-Mixed Concrete Patch. It can be used to patch cracks, holes or chips in concrete without the fuss of mixing. It will dry rock hard, but it cleans up with water while wet.

Further settling of the soil and the foundation might cause added cracking. If this becomes excessive, you should call in an expert to survey the problem and recommend a solution.

retirement years, because there is still so much more to accomplish, so much more to enjoy.

• THANKS for a news media that is free of government control, so that we can read the news, the opinion, the commentary so denied citizens of many other nations. We are the best-informed nation in the world, and we accept even the gruesome details in full color on the 6 o'clock news when it reports a tragedy. We rejoice that we have the reporting, all of it, for our own consideration.

• THANKS for the opportunity of longer and more productive lives than our own parents had, due partly to the miracle of medical science.

• THANKS to a society that recognizes senior citizens as experienced, mature adults, and does not cast them off — again as in many other countries — or assign them to passive, non-productive chairs in the corner of the living room, just to age.

Thanks can be given for whatever is important to each of us — there are no "musts," no right or wrong things for which to be thankful on Thanksgiving, any day or every day.

Thanks to you for reading and considering these collected thanks.

becoming a translator.

Are there jobs available? Of course, I'll learn these languages in college. — Lauri Lauri: You bet there are. The language departments at colleges and universities assist their language majors in securing jobs as translators.

Dr. Wallace: I am 13 and my best friend is Nancy. We used to do everything together. About two weeks ago, Barbara moved next door to Nancy. Now Nancy has no time for me because Barbara and Nancy are best friends.

Believe me, I'm not included; not even one little bit. What should I do? I'm tired of waiting for them to include me in their plans. — Milly Milly: Stop waiting! There are many girls in Brantford who would enjoy your company. Get busy and find them.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a lucky teen. I guess, because I don't seem to gain weight. I've been eating a lot of junk food and rich cream dressings for the past three weeks and I've gained only 2 pounds (I need to gain 15). It seems I can't win for losing.

Now my physical education teacher is telling me I'm eating the wrong foods and that I'm hurting my health. I'm more interested in gaining weight than worrying about a few empty calories.

My teacher also mentioned something about 3,000 calories equaling 1 pound of weight. Please tell me what she means because she is not easy to talk with. — Beverly Beverly: Your teacher is right when she says that you are eating the wrong foods.

Basically, a person will gain 1 pound when he or she eats about 3,500 more calories than the amount burned off. Therefore, if you eat 600 extra calories above the energy used, you should gain 1 pound in six days.

These extra calories should not come from foods high in sugar, salt or fat. If possible, please talk with a nutritionist for a diet tailored specifically for your body.

Mainly for Seniors

able. Read here a selection of those thankful expressions:

• THANKS for this remarkable country and its system of government that allows us freedoms as guaranteed in the Constitution and its Bill of Rights.

Unlike many other nations in the world we are truly free to believe as we desire, speak out as we feel or know, act and achieve what we determine we want to do and accomplish, own what we can earn and build, share as we determine as individuals.

Unlike many other nations we can recognize our own God or none at all.

As a nation that involves a republic chosen by a democracy we have our problems, but thanks for the right of our choice.

• THANKS for our families, our children and grandchildren, even if they are located in other parts of the nation or the world. Our spirit of love and kinship is not diminished by time or distance, and we are thankful for what they, each and every one of them, mean to us — in the past, the present and the future.

• THANKS for the removal of most mandatory retirement, for a man's or woman's ability, energy and achievement do not suddenly extinguish instantly 365 days beyond the 64th birthday.

• THANKS to our spouses, even if they are no longer with us, because of what they were and meant to us in the lives we shared.

• THANKS to spouses who are still with us as we walk new avenues and share new opportunities in

Thank you.

That was the message of the Pilgrims so many years ago, as they recognized the abundance of their new country, the life-sustaining wealth of their crops, the friendship, interaction and support by the Indians, the freedoms of a new life where they could practice their religion, voice their views, and work productively to their gain. They had weathered the seas and the winter to leave oppression behind them in the old country.

It became a thanksgiving that was really more than the traditional day we mark each year. Thanksgiving became a way of life because they recognized success and accomplishment, while realizing — but not complaining — about the trials and tribulations, the aches, pains, disappointments.

While those younger might focus on the dining table, girding for a gluttonous test of consumption, senior citizens particularly can, through experience, express thanks for the people, events and circumstances which bring us to today.

Thanksgiving is more — far more — than the kickoff of the holiday gift-buying season, more than just football games on the television tube, more than an excuse to drink too much or eat too much.

We asked seniors citizens around the nation why they would be thankful this Thanksgiving Day and thankful, too, around the year. The responses were real and remark-

Aunt Tilly's Corner

This is Thanksgiving week - a time we've all been looking forward to. I hope you've enjoyed a wonderful get-together with your family!

Thanksgiving fell on November 28 this year. That is the latest possible date on which it could occur. Why? Because the first day of November fell on a Friday. The first Thursday of the month was November 7, the latest date it could ever be since there are seven days in the week. Thanksgiving Day (the fourth Thursday of the month) was 21 days later, so it, too, was as late as it could possibly be!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Chip Deger and Nicole Santer. You'll both be hearing from me soon!

Canine parvovirus highly contagious

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. We recently lost our puppy due to parvovirus and are confused how he got the disease. Where do dogs get parvovirus and how is it spread?

Our children loved and bugged the puppy a lot - can people get parvovirus?

We would like to get another puppy but are afraid it will suffer the same fate. Any information you can give us about the disease will be appreciated.

A. Canine parvovirus infection is a highly contagious viral disease. The virus attacks the cells of the intestinal tract, white blood cells and in some cases the muscles of the heart.

Dogs of all ages and of all breeds are susceptible. Parvovirus infection has been reported throughout the United States and in many other parts of the world. It is thought to be spread by dog-to-dog contact, therefore places where dogs congregate, such as dog shows, obedience trials, breeding and boarding kennels, pet shops, humane shelters, veterinary clinics, parks and playgrounds are places where the spread of parvovirus may occur. Dogs confined to one house or yard and rarely in contact with other dogs are far less likely to be exposed.

The fecal wastes of infected dogs usually contain large amounts of infective virus. The virus is resistant to environmental extremes and therefore can survive for long periods in the dog's surroundings. The virus is readily transmitted from place to place on the hair and feet of infected dogs.

Humans and animals other than dogs are not susceptible to canine parvovirus infection.

The first signs of canine parvovirus, usually vomiting and severe diarrhea, appear five to seven days following exposure to the virus. At the onset of the disease, fecal material usually is light gray or yellow gray and blood may be present. Depression and loss of appetite usually will be observed.

Young dogs often have fevers ranging from 104 F to 106 F; older dogs do not usually have as high temperatures. The white blood cell count usually drops significantly.

Most deaths due to infection occur within 48 to 72 hours following the beginning of clinical signs. Approximately 75 percent of puppies younger than 5 months and 2 percent to 3 percent of older dogs die if they are exposed to the virus. Treatment is primarily aimed at combating the severe dehydration caused by vomiting and diarrhea. The infected dog is given fluids and electrolytes by intravenous infusions. Drugs to halt vomiting and diarrhea also are administered, along with antibiotics to prevent secondary bacterial infections.

Canine parvovirus is a serious disease and prompt treatment by a veterinarian should be obtained. All dogs that are allowed contact with other dogs should be vaccinated - your veterinarian can recommend the best vaccine and vaccination schedule.

Responsible dog owners properly dispose of their dog's fecal wastes and owners should not allow their dogs to come in contact with fecal wastes of other dogs.

Canine parvovirus infection can be controlled by vaccination and good sanitation.
