Holy Family CYO Basketball Opener

On Sunday, November 24, the Holy Family sixth grade Eagles lost their opening basketball game to St. Edwards of Syosset by the score of 24-17.

Holy Family started out strong and was leading 8-7 at the end of the first half. However, in the second half St. Edward's shooting got hot and broke into the lead and went on to win by the final score of 24-27.

Ted Knoop led all scorers with eleven points. Mike Murray, Ken Davis, and Greg Schantzler scored two points each.

The following boys are on the team: Wayne Rothchild, Mike

O'Malley, Ted Knoop, Mike Murray, Jason Kingsley, Greg Schantzler, Ken Davis, Kevin Helbing, Brian Calabria, Chris Doyle, Chad Echezuria, and Philip Carter.

We would like to give special thanks to the following business' who sponsored our team because of their support the Eagles were able to get new uniforms this year.

Boas Florist, Carvel-W. Village Green, Cousin Video, Green Liquor Store, Peter's Cleaners, Tower Deli, Wicker's Pizza, Friend's Power-Test Station, and Wagner Funeral Home.

Town Sets Dates For 1986 Meetings

An official schedule for the Town Board meeting dates for 1986 was adopted by the Oyster Bay Town Board on Tuesday, November 26, 1985.

In accordance with State law on public meetings, the following is an announcement of the dates on which the Town Board will meet in the coming year:

January 7, (Induction ceremony at 2:30 p.m.), January 28, February 4 and 25; March 11 and 25; April 8 and 29; May 13, and 20; June 3, and 17; July 8 and 29; August 12 and 26; September 16; October 7, 21, and 28; November 18 and 25; December 9 and 16.

The schedule allows for the 1986 summer season as well as legal and religious holidays.

All Town Board meetings begin at 10 a.m. and are held in the Town Hall East hearing room, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Hicksville Woman Robbery Victim

A vendor at the Westbury Flea Market came to the aid of a shopper who had just had $186 taken from her pocketbook on November 20. The vendor caught the thief and held him for the police.

At about 2:25 p.m., Laurie Pesonem (26) of Hicksville was paying for a purchase when a male black took the money from her pocketbook and threw it to an accomplice who then fled on foot. Alert vendors saw the incident and one of them, Richard Lager, was able to stop the subject as he was trying to make his escape. Full recovery of the money was made and the police are looking for 2 other male blacks who were involved in the incident. No injuries were reported.

The subject Millard Richardson 18, unemployed, of 124 Gruve St., in Hempstead was arraigned in First District Court in Mineola.

The flea market operates out of Roosevelt Raceway in Westbury.

Hicksville Fire Elections This Tuesday

Hicksville Fire District residents will go to the polls on Tuesday, December 10, to elect two fire commissioners. Roy Schaaf is running unopposed, for the unexpired 4 year term created when Richard Kershaw moved out of state. Al Bianculo is running for a 5 year term, also unopposed.

Voting will take place at fire headquarters between the hours of 5 and 10 p.m. Fire officials have changed the voting time, to accommodate the elderly and working voters who would choose to stop and cast their vote before heading home.

Hicksville Rotarian and Past President John Hill addressed fellow Rotary members at last week's luncheon meeting at the Milleridge Inn. Mr. Hill's topic of discussion was the Rotary Foundation and its objective. The Foundation is a philanthropic trust adopted by the board of directors of Rotary International and trustees of the Foundation in 1931. The objective of the Foundation is the furthering of understanding and friendly relations between people of different nations through the fostering of tangible and effective projects of a philanthropic, charitable and educational nature. Rotarian Hill is the Hicksville club's only charter member and Paul Harris Fellow and has a remarkable perfect attendance record of 34½ years.

Mrs. Green and Mrs. Schmitt's second grade classes had a craft sale on November 27.

It was a smash!

All items were made by the children and proceeds will be donated to a worthy cause.

H.H.S. Students Earn Honors

The following students of Hicksville High School have earned the distinction of being placed on either the Principal's List or the Honor Roll for the first quarter.

This academic distinction is based upon a 90 or better average for the Principal's List and an average of 85 to 89 for the Honor Roll. In order to qualify, the student may not have a withdrawal or no credit in any course and the average is based on a minimum of three academic subjects.

In Memoriam

Leon J. Galloway, Ph.D.

Leon J. Galloway, Ph.D., retired Assistant Superintendent of Hicksville Public School District, died on Friday, November 29, 1985.

His career as a teacher began here in 1929 and lasted until 1956 when he became Principal of the high school. He was named Assistant Superintendent in 1966 and retained that position until his retirement in 1970. He was also a member of the Board of Directors of Friends Academy.

In his retirement years, Mr. Galloway traveled to France and studied teaching methods in Paris. He went on to obtain his Doctorate there.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of Henry J. Stock Funeral Home, Inc., Newbridge Road, Hicksville. Services were held at United Methodist Church on Tuesday, December 3 with burial at Spring Forest Cemetery, Binghamton, New York.

Although Mr. Galloway had no remaining family survivors, he leaves many friends.

New Hours For Town Annex

Effective Monday, December 2, the Town Clerk's Annex, located in the Town Parking Garage at Newbridge Road and Duffy Avenue in Hicksville, will be open to receive tax payments and parking permit applications on a revised schedule of hours, according to Town Clerk Ann R. Ocker.

"In order to provide these services more efficiently to residents who utilize this Annex," Mrs. Ocker explained, "the office will be open from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. weekdays from March 17 through March 28 to process applications for parking permit renewals."

"In addition," Mrs. Ocker said, "the Annex will be open from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. weekdays to accept 1986 tax payments on the following dates: February 3 through 10; May 5 through 9; August 4 through 8 and November 3 through 10."

All Town licenses and permits may be obtained from the Town Clerk's offices located at Town Hall, 54 Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay and Town Hall South, 977 Hicksville Road, Massapequa, during the hours of 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., weekdays.

Holiday Programs At Library

The joyous holiday season is again upon us and with it comes a time for celebration and fun in the Children's Room of the Hicksville Public Library.

The annual holiday program will begin with "A Recipe for Dance" a special program from the Town of Oyster Bay, Cultural and Performing Arts Division on Saturday, December 7 at 2 p.m. Children will see a professional dance performance as well as participate in creating and performing a dance.

On Saturday, December 14, at 2:30 p.m. Mr. Funn, a humorous clown will entertain us with colorful magic, prizes and balloon animals.

Our holiday story craft for 4 to 8 year old Hicksville children will be held on Saturday, December 21 at 2 p.m. Registration will be held the week of December 2nd and there is a registration fee of 50 cents.

On Thursday, December 26 and Friday, December 27, assorted children's films will be shown at 2 p.m.

Our Holiday program will conclude with a special movie presentation of "The Muppets Take Manhattan", on Saturday, January 4th at 2 p.m.

Winners of the recent Postal Service's National Card & Letter Writing Week "Pet Pen Pal" Contest attended award ceremonies at the Hicksville Post Office. Over 320 students from Hicksville, Plainview and Old Bethpage wrote letters from their pets to lonely pets in the Town of Oyster Bay Animal Shelter. Their letters are on display at the shelter. On Saturday, December 7, Pioneers for Animal Welfare Society will sponsor Pic-A-Pet Day at the pound (150 Miller Place, Syosset) from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.). You may visit the pound that day and adopt a lonely pet. Each winner received a Certificate of Appreciation and a 1984 Commemorative Stamp Album from Roger Nienaber, MSC Manager/Postmaster. They also had the opportunity to meet "Midnight" the Great Dane mascot of P.A.W.S. Present for the awards are: (First row, left to right) David Epstein, 1st grade, Old Bethpage School; Michael Lippert, 4th grade, Lee Avenue School. (Second row) Paul Marcus, from P.A.W.S.; Midnight; Katie Andruski, 2nd grade, Fork Lane School; Brian Knippenberg, 5th grade, Woodland Avenue School; Gregory Latini, 3rd grade, Woodland Avenue School; Tara Jachniewicz, 6th grade, Burns Avenue School and Roger Nienaber, MSC Manager/Postmaster.

Mrs. Schmitt's second graders made their own pies for their Thanksgiving feast. Each child made a costume complete with hats and jewelry.

Airman Daniel P. Carney, son of James J. Carney of 43 Floral Drive, Plainview, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the communications-electronics systems field.

College Notes

Miss Joanne Coogan of Hicksville is among students from The Berkeley School of Long Island in Hicksville who will be listed in the 1986 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges."

Selection was made on the basis of academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential.

The publication includes outstanding students from more than 1,400 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Coogan, Mrs. Coogan is a graduate of Hicksville Senior High School. She is enrolled in Berkeley's nine-month intensive secretarial program, which prepares students for responsible secretarial positions in the shortest possible time.

Auto Repair Hearing Set

The Oyster Bay Town Board has scheduled a Tuesday, January 28, public hearing on a request for a special use permit to conduct an automotive repair business in Bethpage, according to Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond.

The applicants, Speedy Muffler, Inc. and Bill Wolf Petroleum Corp., are seeking a special use permit to operate an automotive repair business in a "G" general business district in Bethpage," Diamond stated. "The property is located on the northeast corner of Hempstead-Massapequa Road and Hempstead Turnpike."

Diamond said that the meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 28, in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay, at 10 a.m.

Holiday Celebrated At Lee Avenue

The Thanksgiving Holiday took off at Lee Avenue School. All grades celebrated, some more than others. Kindergarten teachers, Mrs. Grayson and Mrs. Marra held their traditional pilgrim parties. Morning and afternoon classes thoroughly enjoyed their day and the visit from their honorary chief, Mr. J. Mateer, principal.

Mrs. Baumann and Mrs. Massa's second grade classes celebrated with their own United Nations. Children brought in costumes, food or artifacts from various countries. Each child gave a presentation of their item. Some of the countries represented were Chile, India, Ireland, Poland and many more.

The Lee Avenue fourth graders had their annual Thanksgiving dinner. Planned by the teachers and class mothers, the boys and girls enjoyed turkey, dressing and all the trimmings.

Cub Pack 172 Has Busy Meeting

The pack meeting on November 20 made a very exciting evening for the Scouts of Hicksville. It was the night of the annual pinewood derby race. The derbys were made by the cubs and their fathers.

The races began. Three at a time, they zoomed down the track. The excitement between father and son was overwhelming.

The boys raced each other in their own den. Then the 1st, 2nd and 3rd place winners in each den raced.

The following were the 1st, 2nd and 3rd place winners of the dens: Tigers Steven Locke - 1st; Brian Baker - 2nd; Robert McGregor - 3rd. Den 2 Michael Endes - 1st; Jimmy Walker - 2nd; Greg Walunas - 3rd. Den 1 Matt Aret - 1st; John Rasmussen - 2nd; Sajo Varkey - 3rd.

The winners of the pack were: Michael Endes - Gold medal; Jimmy Walker - Silver Medal; Robert McGregor - Bronze

Hicksville Aviator Trains Bombardiers

Lt. Cmdr. William McKeever, son of Gloria McKeever of Hicksville, is an instructor with Attack Squadron 42 based at Oceana Naval Air Station, Virginia Beach, Va. (Photo by Catherine Powell)

By Chris Holmes

Like a thief in the night the Navy's A-6 Intruder all-weather attack aircraft steals across borders—low and fast—avoiding enemy radar.

In Attack Squadron 42 at Naval Air Station Oceana, aviators such as Hicksville, Navy officer William McKeever, train new pilots and bombardier/navigators in the intricacies of this state-of-the-art aircraft.

Lieutenant Commander McKeever, son of Gloria McKeever and the late William J. McKeever of Hicksville, is a flight instructor and the squadron's administrative officer.

"Basically," says the 1970 graduate of Holy Trinity Diocesan High School, "I'm a bombardier/navigator flight instructor in the A-6 intruder aircraft, preparing 'Newly winged' aviators to fly the A-6 from aircraft carriers. I'm also in charge of all the paperwork and administrative support for the 900-person command."

In high school McKeever had two ambitions.

"I was totally turned off by the people who were marching around burning the flag, so I wanted to do something that was not in line with those guys. I didn't want to be a foot soldier and if you graduated in 1969-70 and didn't do anything else, six months later you were in the rice paddies of Vietnam," he says.

"I found that Navy ROTC was the way. My parents were working-class people and they could not afford to send me to a good, private four year college. So by competing and winning a Navy ROTC four-year scholarship, I could go to college, serve my country and avoid the Army."

At Marquette University (Milwaukee), where he graduated in 1974, he was accepted for the midshipman foreign exchange program during his last year before being commissioned a naval officer. He chose to sail with the Chilean navy and spent nine weeks in and around that South American country.

"Chile was great because it is a long country. It goes from 17 degrees south latitude—which is tropical—to 57 degrees south latitude which is near Antarctica," he says. "We were in every part of the country—from the northern deserts down to the southern polar regions. There were three of us (midshipmen) assigned to Chile. We spent three weeks at sea on an oiler, two weeks on patrol boats in the Straits of Magellan, two weeks at the Chilean naval academy and two weeks just touring, getting a feel for the country," he says.

"While we were down there they almost sent us home several times because everyone could see says. An 11 year veteran, McKeever has travelled to many foreign countries including Germany, Italy, Greece, France, Morocco, Japan, Korea, and Lebanon.

"I was in Lebanon right after the American Embassy was bombed in April of 1983. We landed at the Beirut International Airport and were having a hard time finding transportation downtown to see the damage. As luck would have it I spotted a familiar face sitting in a nearby jeep who turned out to be an old college ROTC buddy from Marquette, so he gave us a ride downtown."

"What was interesting was that although the city was bombed they were rebuilding like crazy. The city was alive and vital. We ended up at the American University and talked to about 20 Lebanese students. I was in my uniform and they showed genuine affection for Americans. We were from the USS Dwight D. Eisenhower at the time so we passed out 'I Like Ike' buttons and they gave us their addresses to write them," he says.

Looking back, McKeever thanks his parents for the opportunities he has had in the Navy.

"I think a lot of people think if you are a naval officer you probably come from money. That's crazy. Not a lot of kids in my neighborhood went to college, but I was fortunate enough that my parents spent the money and had the interest to send me to a college preparatory Catholic school. That separated me right away from a lot of my peers."

"I'm grateful to the Navy," he says. "I would never have seen any of those countries or done the things I've done without the Navy."

that a coup was coming. While we were at the academy the aide to the president, a naval officer, was assassinated and they held his burial at the naval academy," McKeever says.

After graduation from college and Navy flight schools, he was assigned to Attack Squadron 35 in Oceana, Va., located directly across the hanger from his present training squadron.

As a bombardier/navigator in an A-6 flying off aircraft carriers, McKeever is sometimes asked what it's like to land on a ship.

"Half of the people have no notion what a carrier landing is like and the majority of the other half think it's an extremely violent maneuver—it's neither," McKeever says. "When you hit the deck, you definitely feel the force but it's not painful."

When a Navy jet lands on an aircraft carrier, a "tail hook" on the plane catches one of four steel cables stretched across the flight deck of the ship. The A-6 intruder hits the deck of the carrier at approximately 175 mph and is jerked to a stop in one and one-half seconds.

"I think a lot of people thing it's a terrifying, crash-type situation. In fact some call it a controlled crash, but it's not as disorienting as that," he says. "The main difference from a regular landing is that the area in which the pilot has to plant the airplane is so ridiculously small—400 feet as opposed to 8,000 feet."

If few people understand a carrier landing, fewer still understand what McKeever's job is in the all-weather attack bomber.

"To put it in perspective," he says, "a 747 can fly around the world and not get lost because it has radio and electronic aids to navigation. And it has air traffic controllers telling it where to go. An A-6 has a similar navigation system but in time of war all those radio aids to navigation and those air traffic controllers will be gone. As a low level attack jet we have to get from point A to point Z through a very circuitous route to avoid detection. In that kind of circumstance, where the pilot is flying low to the ground, going fast, avoiding missiles, the pilot is doing everything he can just to keep the plane airborne."

So he needs someone else to get the plane from A to Z without the assistance of controllers. "That's my navigation role," McKeever says.

"In terms of the bombardier role—upon arrival at point Z you have to drop the bombs. The pilot can drop the bombs if he can visually see the target, but at night or in bad weather the aircraft has equipment that allows me to pick out the target on the radar and drop the bombs," he says.

"While we were down there they almost sent us home several times because everyone could see

Town Grants Zoning Change

The Oyster Bay Town Board has approved a request for a change of zone in Plainview, subject to certain restrictive covenants, according to Town Councilman John Venditto.

"The applicant, Wulfsen Associates, was seeking a change of zone from "D" residence to "F" neighborhood business in order to construct a two-story retail-office complex on the north side of Sunnyside Boulevard, 300 feet west of the intersection of Summit Street," Venditto stated. "Following a public hearing in December 1984, the Board has granted the request, but imposed a number of restrictive covenants for the benefit and protection of adjacent properties."

Venditto said that the Town Board is confining the use of the building to office purposes only. All outdoor lighting may be directed only at the subject premises and cannot spill over onto adjacent properties. The use of a public address system is prohibited.

Other covenants include providing and maintaining landscaping and keeping driveways and parking areas paved and in good repair at all times. All garbage, waste and refuse must be kept in suitable covered containers. Signs must be in strict compliance with the Town's Sign Ordinances.

Venditto noted that no building permit will be issued until a site plan has been submitted to, and approved by, the Department of Planning and Development. The Town may suspend or revoke the use granted if any violations are not corrected within 30 days after notice by the Town to the owner of the property.

Origami Art At Gregory Museum

Origami, the ancient art of Japanese paper folding, will be the next Children's Craft Workshop at the Hicksville Gregory Museum, on Friday, December 13 at 3:30 p.m. Children ages 9-12 years are invited to learn this fascinating art form by making a mobile or a decoration for their family holiday tree.

The fee for this delightful introduction to beautiful paper foldings is $5. Workshop registration is now taking place. Please call 822-7505 to register or for information. Registration may also take place at the Gregory Museum, Heitz Place, Hicksville, Tuesday-Fridays 9:30-4:30 and Sat.-Sun. 1-5.

Gregory Welcomed On Recent Visit

Visiting the museum they founded, recently, Gardiner and Anne Gregory had an opportunity to meet the new Director of the Hicksville Gregory Museum, Joan Scancarelli, right center, and to confer, also, with Board President Douglas Uzakewicz, left center, regarding Museum development plans.

Hall, hall, the gang's all here...well, not really as Trustees, staff and volunteers of the Hicksville Gregory Museum hold their annual gathering with museum founders, Gardiner, seated left, and Ann Gregory, in white, during the Thanksgiving week. Dr. Clancy Speaks At Woodland PTA

At the November 13 General Meeting of the Woodland Avenue PTA, the guest speaker, Dr. Manus Clancy, Principal of Woodland Avenue School, discussed two topics of interest to parents of school aged children. Dr. Clancy spoke briefly of an upcoming film to be shown to students Grades 1 through 6, entitled "Operation Safe Child". This film, which is part of a program presented by the Nassau County Police Department, focuses on helping children recognize potentially dangerous situations involving strangers and what precautions to take.

The second part of Dr. Clancy's presentation dealt with the All-Day Kindergarten Program versus the Extended Day Kindergarten program which are being considered by the Hicksville Board of Education.

The proposed All-Day Kindergarten program would have the kindergarten children starting school in the morning with the other grades and then giving the parents an option to have the students stay throughout the day, or to have the students leave at lunch time.

It is felt that a substantial number of parents would opt to have their child remain in school for the full day.

The Extended Day Kindergarten program would have the kindergarten students start school in the morning with the rest of the grades and remain through the lunch period. Then a small number of students would remain for a period of approximately one hour, on a once a week basis, for enrichment programs. (For instance, in a class of 20 students, 4 of the 20 students would remain on Monday for enrichment programs, while the other 16 students would be dismissed. On Tuesday, 4 different students would remain, and so on.)

Dr. Clancy asked the parents in attendance to let him know by a show of hands if they thought the All Day option would be an accepted alternative to the present half-day schedule. A great majority agreed that it would.

It was then suggested that all parents who are interested in this issue contact the School Board and attend the upcoming School Board meetings to let their opinions be known.

Mid-Is. Ecumenical Council Meets

The next meeting of the Mid-Island Ecumenical Council will be held on Tuesday morning, December 10, at 8 a.m., at the Plainview Reformed Church, 560 Old Bethpage Road, Plainview. The meeting will begin with a light breakfast.

In addition to the regular items of business, the program will feature a discussion on "The Role of the Homosexual in the Church and the Synagogue." Guest speakers will include Mrs. Joan McPartlin of Families In Response, a gay support group; Mr. Allen Bornstein representing Congregation Beth Chai, the first gay synagogue on Long Island; a representative of Nassau County Dignity, a Catholic gay support group; Rev. James Mitiulski of Metropolitan Community Church, Manhattan, and others. Following the presentation by the panel, the discussion will be thrown open to the audience.

This meeting is open to all clergy in the area, but advance reservations are required. Please call 681-1930 to reserve a place at this meeting.

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

In-laws are right

By James G. McCollam

Q: This chair is all walnut and appears to be handmade. According to my husband's family, it was made over 100 years ago and is quite valuable.

What can you tell me about it?

A: You had better believe your in-laws! This chair is Victorian Gothic Revival and was made about 1850.

As to value — it should sell in the $325 to $375 range.

Q: This mark is on the bottom of a beautiful bowl, 10 inches in diameter and 3 inches deep. It has an ornate, irregular rim and the portrait of a lady in the center.

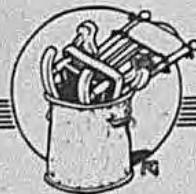

Please tell me what you can about it.

A: This was made by Carl Tielisch in Waldenburg, Germany, during the late 19th century.

It probably would sell in the $125 to $135 range.

Q: At a recent antique show, I saw one dealer with a display of dog tags (licenses). Are these things really collectible? Do they sell for very much?

A: If people will buy them, they are collectible. Records show that those dated after World War II are worth very little. Here are some prices for those dated prior to 1946:

Amsterdam, N.Y. — 1875 — $12.
Indiana State — 1892 — $5.
Staunton, Va. — 1892 — $5.
Washington, D.C. — 1894 — $12.
Kalispell, Mont. — 1906 — $4.
Hannibal, Mo. — 1916 — $4.
Baltimore, Md. — 1923 — $3.
Breckenridge, Ky. — 1926 — $3.
Elkhart, Ind. — 1935 — $2.
Peru, Ill. — 1935 — $2.
Washington, D.C. — 1945 — $2.

News From Road Runners

A team of 30 intrepid runners from the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club participated in the second annual "Point to View" Relay on Saturday, November 30, completing the 105 mile trek from the Montauk Point Lighthouse to Plainview High School in 15 hours, 24 minutes.

The first "leg"-run by Jim McDougall, Billy Eaton, Steve Attias, Pat Mulrain, Andy Mulrain, Nick Palazzo and Larry Davidson-left Montauk Point at exactly 1:06 a.m., and all 30 runners completed the last leg (including a lap around the Plainview High School track at 4:30 p.m.). There were a total of 21 five mile legs (the first eight of which were run in complete darkness), with each runner completing at least three legs. Nick Palazzo (50 miles) and Jim McDougall (45 miles) covered the most total distance, and Nancy Ackley once again covered almost the entire course on her bicycle.

Congratulations to everyone who participated: Larry

Tenth Juried Show Winners

The Independent Art Society is extremely proud to be among the small number of art groups who are privileged to award a Grumbacher Gold Plaque to a deserving participant in its juried shows. Mr. Dan Daniels presented this year's prize to Bill Fitzpatrick for his watercolor, "Sunday Morning". A representative of the Grumbacher Company, Mr. Daniels said that the high caliber of the works consistently displayed in Independent's exhibits had earned us this position.

The Friends of the Library special award went to sculptor Harry Rains for "Bird in Flight", and the Town of Oyster Bay Awards were presented by Dorothy Blumstein to Barbara Day Kelly, Georgette Mocciole, and Patricia Granise.

IAS awards of excellence went to Carolyn Clarke, Sylvia Lewis, Janet Loeb, Shain Bard, Elina Maurer, Walter Enderlein, Jeanne Perry Sherman, and Yoriko Iketani. Honorable Mention was conferred on the following: Robert Booth, Zell Schulman, Barbara Klein, R. Nadelman, Catherine Konstance, and Patricia Vesque.

Music at the delightful reception was provided by pianist Laurence Gagliano, and President Louise LaGatta and Co-Chairs Anne Zeif and Norma Dagna are most grateful to everyone who worked to make this such a successful event. A special word of thanks goes to the Friends of the Hicksville Library who served so graciously at our reception on November 3.

Fork Lane Thanksgiving

By A. Eichenauer

Wednesday, November 26, the children of Fork Lane had a Thanksgiving feast. The children in the lower grades brought in fruit, nuts and a variety of foods to be displayed on a long table the way the Pilgrims and Indians had their first Thanksgiving.

In some class rooms the children were dressed as Pilgrims and Indians in costumes made from pillow cases, construction paper and feathers.

In one of the third grade classes the children made projects and wrote stories all about Thanksgiving.

As you can see Fork Lane keeps its students busy by making learning a fun experience.

Story and Photos
By A. Eichenauer

This past Wednesday, the second graders at Fork Lane held a craft fair. All the items were made by the children, with the help of their teachers Mrs. Schmitt and Mrs. Green. The prices were very affordable.

The items the children were selling came from things they had at home. For example - bird feeders made from plastic soda bottles, necklaces made from painted sea shells, pine cone creatures, wooden ornaments, book markers and rainbow magnets.

All the children from the other grades were escorted by their teachers to the all purpose room to purchase the many items available. Both second grades had class mothers on hand to help the children display their items and also help them with the money.

Mrs. Schmitt said, "all the money made from the sale of these items will go toward a worthy cause."

From the looks of things all the items were selling like hot cakes, and I hope both classes made a nice profit.

Gas Attendant Robbed With Razor

The Second Squad is investigating a robbery First Degree that occurred November 28, in Hicksville at 1:15 p.m., at the Mobil Station, 600 Old Country road.

The attendant, John McCarthy, 20, was confronted in the office by a male black subject armed with a straight razor. The subject slashed McCarthy in the right palm with the razor, prior to receiving $100 from the victim.

The subject, described as approximately 24 years, 5'9", medium build, afro, dark skin, armed with a straight razor, escaped the scene on foot.

The victim did not require hospitalization for his injury.

Mrs. Schmitt's class putting out their displays of hand made crafts. Left to right: Craig Kemmlein, Scott Skrynecki, Ryo Nagashima.

Katie Andreski of Mrs. Schmitt's class shows off the crafts she has made for the fair.

Thanksgiving At Woodwind

The students at Woodwind Avenue celebrated the Thanksgiving feast in the usual holiday tradition.

Mrs. Grady's sixth grade class baked several loaves of pumpkin bread and pumpkin pie. Joining them in the afternoon was Mrs. Meyer's fifth grade class. The children filled their plates with apples, popcorn, oranges, nuts and sipped on apple cider. Mrs. Grady's class then put on a Thanksgiving play in the classroom.

Marilyn Goldstein's class was joined by Marcia Specht and Carole Stern's classes. The children ate and marched around in their Indian hats, which they made themselves.

A Thanksgiving box stood in the lobby of the school. The students wrote on slips of paper the things they were thankful for and dropped them into the box.

In doing so it helped them to realize the many things to be thankful for, which is, after all, the real meaning of Thanksgiving.

Hicksville H.S. Hall Of Fame

Honorees and their families, Board of Education members, and guests representing a variety of community groups gathered in the lobby of Hicksville High School on Sunday, November 24, to dedicate the Hicksville Hall of Fame. This project, designed to honor former students and graduates who have gone on to record achievements in their fields and make contributions to the community, has been in the planning stage for almost one year and the commemorative plaque inscribed with the names of the first group of 20 Hall of Famers is now on display. Five additional honorees will be added to the plaque each year.

The dedication program began with a welcome by Superintendent Dr. Catherine J. Fenton, followed by the official unveiling by Board Secretary Daniel C. MacBride, chairman of the District Facilities/Community Affairs Committee which supervised the project. Board President William P. Bennett introduced each honoree to the Superintendent and attending Board members with a brief biographical sketch. Honorees came from as far away as California and Maine to take part in this special event.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to a technical error last week, the beginning of this article was omitted. We are, therefore, running the above information as it had been received from the school district.

Mid Island Y Seeks Volunteers

The Mid-Island YM-YWHA at 45 Manetto Hill Road, Plainview, is looking for volunteers to help with the office, boutique or library. Those interested in giving their time should call Norma Cohen at 822-3535.

Mrs. Koblenz's sixth grade Indian tribe: Jennie Abaro, Cliff Allen, Robert Bentrewics, Veronica Hamczyk, Mike Hutzler, Jeff Knippenberg, Michael McCarron, Julianne Murphy, Bobby Pangas, Denise Schwarzman, Gina Tenentes, Robert Wood, Julianne Yanopoulos, Kim Zajicek, Billy Eaton.

Mrs. Goldstein's class. The children are standing in front of the pilgrim hats they made, along with their handprints and Indian hats.

Barbara Meyer and Kathy Grady's class share the goodies together.

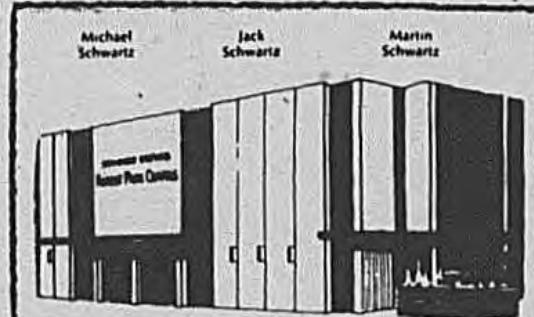

B. Meyer and K. Grady's enjoy getting together.

Two Arrested In Car Break In

Two people have been arrested after being caught attempting to break into an auto in the parking lot of Sears on Broadway in Hicksville at 5 p.m., November 25.

Police say, Norman Gagne, 30, an electronic technician from 1020 Roosevelt Avenue, Sayville, and Norine Mello, 30, a waitress from 196 Ave "A", New York City, were attempting to break into a 1985 Nissan Maxima owned by John Riley of Hemstead. Riley and her boyfriend, Sam Kendrick were returning to the car when they observed Gagne attempting to gain entry to the trunk. Kendrick held the subject for police and after an investigation by police at the scene the subjects were charged as follows: Mello and Gagne, Possession of Stolen Property, a stolen car, Possession of a Hypodermic needle. Gagne was also charged with Possession of Burglars Tools and Attempted Petty Larceny.

LEGAL NOTICE

At a meeting of the Town Board of the Town of Oyster Bay, Nassau County, New York, held at the Town Hall, in said Town of Oyster Bay, Nassau County New York, on the 26th day of November, 1985.

PRESENT:

Supervisor, Joseph Colby; Councilmen, Howard T. Hogan, Jr.; Kenneth S. Diamond; Thomas L. Clark; Douglas J. Hynes; John Venditto; Angelo A. Delligatti.

In the Matter

The Establishment of the Town of Oyster Bay Garbage
Disposal District in the Town of Oyster Bay, Nassau County,
New York

Whereas, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 771 of the Laws of 1985, Article XII of the Town Law and Article 1-A of the Nassau County Civil Divisions Act, as amended, the Town Board, on its own motion, adopted a resolution and order calling a public hearing upon the proposed establishment of the Town of Oyster Bay Garbage Disposal District encompassing the entire incorporated and unincorporated areas of the Town of Oyster Bay, excluding the City of Glen Cove, the boundaries so as to include the area bounded as follows:

Bounded on the west by the common town lines of the Town of Hempstead and the Town of North Hempstead; on the northwest by the boundary line of the City of Glen Cove; on the north by Long Island Sound; on the east by the Suffolk County boundary line; and on the south by the Atlantic Ocean.

Whereas, the purpose of the proposed district is to provide for the disposition of garbage, ashes, rubbish and other waste on behalf of the residents of such district, but shall under no circumstances include the disposal of Hazardous Waste as that term is defined by the Code of Ordinances of the Town of Oyster Bay, the New York State Environmental Conservation Law and the Federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act of 1976, as amended; and

Whereas, any improvement district which provides for the collection of garbage and refuse and any incorporated village within the Town, may withdraw from the proposed Town of Oyster Bay Garbage Disposal District upon the adoption of a certified resolution of its governing board and the Town Board of the Town of Oyster Bay shall establish procedures and requirements for withdrawal by any such improvement district or incorporated village, it is hereby

Ordered, that a meeting of the Town Board of the Town of Oyster Bay shall be held at the Hearing Room, Town Hall, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay, New York, on the 17th day of December, 1985, at 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon prevailing time on that day to consider the proposed establishment of the Town of Oyster Bay Garbage Disposal

District and to hear all persons interested in the subject thereof, concerning the same, and for such other action on the part of said Town Board with relation thereto as may be required by law or proper in the premises.

Library Film Scheduled Tonight

The Hicksville Public Library will present the film "Bell, Book, and Candle" on Friday, December 6, at 8 p.m.

This film features Jimmy Stewart, Kim Novak, and Jack Lemmon. Mr. Stewart plays the part of a conventional bachelor who is bewitched on the eve of his wedding by his beautiful blonde neighbor (Kim Novak).

Assemblyman Yevoli, center, discusses the N.Y.S. Dept. of Transportation's proposed plans for the Long Island Expressway's south service road extension at Marlene Drive, Syosset with the Birchwood Park Civic Association.

The Choice Will be Yours

Many customers will be asked to choose a long distance company by marking a special New York Telephone "Equal Access" ballot.

Simply put, Equal Access allows you to use the long distance company of your choice for all calls to points outside your Regional Calling Area by dialing the Area Code and telephone number.

Equal Access will affect about half of our customers' lines by September 1986. If you haven't received special information from us in the mail that's probably because Equal Access hasn't arrived in your neighborhood yet.

When Equal Access does come to your area, you'll be asked to choose from among participating long distance companies. You will want to find out as much as you can about these companies and choose the one that is best for you. If you do not make a choice, Federal Communications Commission regulations require that a long distance company be assigned to you. This assignment will be done at random and so may not fit your particular calling needs.

When it's time for you to make your choice, New York Telephone will mail you an Equal Access ballot. By using it to indicate your choice and mailing it back to us you'll be signed up with the company you want.

If you need answers to any questions about the Equal Access process, call us toll-free 1-800-555-5000.

Helping To Save The Lady

We New Yorkers are privileged to have one of our greatest national monuments in our state. Today the Statue of Liberty stands proudly as a beacon of hope and a symbol of freedom, just as it did when it greeted the immigrants arriving in America. We're as excited as you are about Miss Liberty's restoration and we're working hard to help out this historic cause. New York State members of the Telephone Pioneers of America, the telephone employee community service organization, have raised $89,000 through various internal and external fund-raising activities including the sale of the "Miss Liberty Celebrity Desserts" cookbook, Statue of Liberty lapel pins and cakes and cookies. Nancy Reagan, Matilda Cuomo and Ed Koch are among the famous Americans contributing recipes to the unique cookbook published by the New York State Pioneers.

Helpful Hints On Repair And Bill Paying

If you have a problem with your telephone service, we're here to take your call day or night. But before you contact us, you may want to check your telephone instrument first to make sure the problem is not with set. This could save you the cost of a service charge if our repair technician comes to your home and finds that the trouble is with your equipment. The easiest way to check your telephone instrument is to unplug it, plug another phone into the same outlet and see if the problem still exists. If it does not, the problem is probably with the first phone and you should follow the instructions on your telephone warranty or contact the supplier. If the trouble does not appear to be with your phone, call 611 and our Repair Service Bureau will schedule a visit. If the problem is your telephone line, we'll fix it at no charge.

With all bill payments, the way to assure quick and easy crediting of your account is to write your New York Telephone account number on your check or money order. The account number — consisting of your Area Code, telephone number plus the three digits in the box following it — is in the upper left corner of each page of your bill.

When paying your telephone bill in person, it's a good idea to bring both the cover page and page 1 of your bill with you. We'll stamp page 1 and you'll have an instant receipt that your account has been credited.

Input Callers Have Mixed Ideas On Hijack Case

Most callers to Input believe that the storming of the plane in Malta was the best course of action to follow in answer to this question: "Do you think that storming of an aircraft such as was done in Malta by Egyptian troops is a better way of handling hijackers than trying to negotiate a release?" Here are some of the answers:

BETTER WAY

Yes, as bad as it was I believe the only thing that could have been done in Malta was to use force to take the plane. The hijackers were clearly acting in a savage manner and did not care for anyone's life. It is always easy after an incident is over to come up with better solutions but given the circumstances and the shortage of time this was the best that could be done. J.R.

NO DEMANDS

It would have been possible to negotiate with the hijackers if they had made any demands but the only thing they asked for was to refuel the plane. They began taking lives without much provocation so it was not a great possibility to do anything but to use force in this case. It is necessary to evaluate each case before deciding on what should be done. N.E.

POOR TROOPS

The solution to have the Egyptians storm the plane was not the best because these troops were probably not well trained but since Egypt had the right to make the decision it had to be that way. It is only speculation that other troops would have done better. But there was no room for negotiation once the hijackers had decided to begin killing the passengers. L.E.

NEGOTIATIONS

Perhaps there should have been an international group to be allowed to negotiate with the hijackers. No one ever found out what demands were being given for releasing the passengers. The decision to not give fuel to the hijackers set the mood of the hijacking and it was met with executions. From that point on there was little else to do but to try to retake the plane. It was done but with a great loss of life. We should have taken a softer approach to start, only hardening when all else failed. N.W.

MIXED FEELINGS

I have mixed feelings about this. Certainly an initial and serious attempt should be made to ascertain the parameters of the hijackers' demands at least to let them know that a possible civilized solution could lie ahead. But, when the conditions are clearly outrageous using the lives of the hostages as a lever or bargaining, the incident must be treated as an act of undeclared war and military solutions must be considered and adopted to resolve the problem. In the case of the Malta incident, there is a lack of clarity as to the behind-the-scenes maneuvers allegedly involving the U.S., Egypt and perhaps others to bring military troops into the picture but the final outcome would seem to indicate that the execution of the "rescue" lacked the finesse and well rehearsed planning that such an attempt should exhibit. For example, it seems to me that with the knowledge and expertise we have in the area of non-lethal gaseous chemicals similar to smoke bombs but more sophisticated, the skin of the plane could have been penetrated preempting counteraction by the hijackers and without the disastrous effects which the military assault produced. Certainly, we must have reached a point of sophistication in planning and materiel sufficient to pull off a successful mission of this sort without the devastating results which the Maltese incident produced. It seems to me that we have been put on notice by terrorists in many places including our own country that this type of warfare is here to stay with increasing emphasis and we had better do something about it instead of mouthing the empty words which follow such disasters. P.G.S.

BIG MISTAKE

The storming of the hijacked plane in Malta was a terrible mistake. It caused the death of twice as many passengers as it actually saved. Negotiations are time consuming but should have been pursued more actively than was done. Furthermore, terrorists don't care about human life, only their own cause and getting publicity. The only way to prevent such tragedies is to not allow flights to airports where there is little or no security and to have multiple agreements with other countries forbidding terrorists any haven from justice. V.G.

WRONG WAY

The Egyptian government handled the hijacking wrong. They had a responsibility to make sure that passengers on board the airline got off safely. They chose to deal with the hijackers on a violent level. The hijackers do not care about dying. It is unforgivable that innocent people were killed because of one government's ineptitude. We must find ways to prevent and deal with hijackers. Stronger airport security in certain airports around the world is just one of the ways. I hope the U.S. and other countries take note of this situation and realize that dealing with hijackers in a violent manner only leads to more violence. A.N.

PAST ISSUES

LIFE SAVING

Reading the ingredients on foods you purchase is important enough to be life-saving. My wife is allergic to milk. Sulfito can mean death to others. Those who keep kosher homes cannot use products made with animal fats. Salt is a potential killer for heart and high blood pressure people. Don't forget the diabetics. I could go on and on. It is an extremely important item to have on packaging. A.A.G.

DOES NOT KNOW

Sure, I read the labels. But when I am finished doing it I do not generally know what is in the product. And if I search for products without chemicals I will not be able to find them anyway. I just hope that the manufacturer wants my business so that nothing is put in the product that will hasten to make me an ex-customer. G.R.

DISCOVERY

Mixed Marriages

By Patrice Barry

Me: "Do you know why you're so lucky?"
Him: "Because I married you."

That's the new script around my house. For twenty years, we compromised on every issue. His Mother's definition of compromise? "Give in!" And why not? She didn't have to vacation with him. But I did. Jon enjoyed hiking, backpacking, biking, exploring, photographing and mountain climbing. Anything with motion. Or a touch of danger. Our days ran from nine to five--only in reverse. We arose at dawn--5 a.m.--and went to sleep at dusk--9 p.m. Imagine my horror at waking up to a bright smiling face when the rest of the world was sleeping. And me, a night owl!

The memories of those trips will never leave me. The drive along the coastline on a winding mountain trail, as our rented car was perpendicular to the road, and sliding. The town that pulled in its sidewalks just as we reached it, and we had no food for twelve hours. The muddy wet field where I lost my shoes, because Jon tried to catch a runaway cow. The irate farmers who chased us off private property--with shotguns. The mountain, where Jon fell backward, looking like a scene from "Auntie Mame"--luckily the injuries were minor. Oh yes, and our trek through overgrown bushes, branches and sticky twigs, just to see a spotted deer. She was smart enough to leave for a comfortable civilized zoo.

For my last anniversary, I had only one request. Forget diamonds, furs, designer originals. Just take me to the beach. Let me lie leisurely on the hot grainy sand--feel the mist of the salty ocean--stare placidly into the cool moonlight. I told Jon we could die in each other's arms, the sea cradling us, as Joan Crawford in "Humoresque". He was not impressed. I then suggested the ending of "Aida"--where the lovers sing of their passion, as they are entombed, brick by brick.

This time Jon took me to the Museum, where I was disappointed to find the tombs chilly, dark, dreary and depressing.

"Enough", he said. "I am not ready to die!"

And so Jon took me to the beach, which he hates. In one hour, he ate forty grapes, and three apples, asked five people the time, eyes every female in a bikini, read the entire Sunday newspaper with a walkman on his head, and fell asleep. I covered him up but could not prevent the bright red flush that crept upon his blond, blue-eyed complexion.

The man on the blanket next to me chuckled, "So you have a mixed marriage too. My wife hates the beach, so I come without her."

I mumbled something about my anniversary gift, but sensed he was "coming on to me"--and turned away. Secretly I kept him in mind, in case my "mixed" union ever crumbled, but my immediate task was to awaken Jon, and get him home to Lanacaine, vinegar and cold compresses.

My husband was good-natured about everything. He should have been. He looked like the picture of health. With my olive skin, I looked like I'd been indoors the entire day! Not even a reddish blotch to announce to the world, "Look at me! I've been to the beach!"

Tonight Jon is taking me to the Opera, and next week to a Beethoven festival. His sleeping is now done at movies of my choice or symphonic concerts. Our life has become tranquil and cultural. Happily, I've cured him. Next month we go to an art exhibit. Then on to the Ballet. It'll be his first time, and he'll love it!

Me: "Do you know why you're so lucky?"

Him: "Because I married you. And guess what--the day after the Ballet, we're going sky-diving. It'll be your first time, and you'll love it!"

EXPANDED DINING ROOM

One of our favorite Portuguese Restaurants is Lareira's on East Jericho Turnpike, in Mineola. They have recently expanded their dining room, and we thoroughly enjoyed the atmosphere.

Our choice was Bacalhau cooked on the grill; actually it is Codfish. The taste was superb. We have also enjoyed the way they prepare steak, served in a ceramic dish with sliced Portuguese sausage and an egg on top. The imported beer is superb. Lareira's has become a place to share with our friends. You will find the food is excellent and the prices are modest.

READER RATINGS

Q. If your guests completely finish their white wine, down to the last drop, isn't it all right to pour red wine into their same glasses? H.B.

A. No. Either have separate clean wineglasses on the table for the red or wash the dirty glasses and bring them back to the table.

Q. We are not wine drinkers. If we're giving a party, what kind of wines should we stock in order to take care of our wine-drinking friends' pleasure—from cocktail hour through dinner? W.L.

A. For the cocktail hour you might have on hand dry or sweet sherry, or dry or sweet vermouth, or any of the popular "aperitifs." Many choose a glass of dry white wine at the cocktail hour (either chilled or "on the rocks").

For the first course, or to drink with any fish, salad, chicken, veal, or fruit, a chilled white wine is nice (such as a Chablis, Sauvignon, Riesling, Chenin Blanc, Pinot Chardonnay).

For the meat or game course (or the salad with cheese), serve a Burgundy, Bordeaux, Chianti, Cabernet Sauvignon, or Zinfandel at a cool room temperature (from 60 to 70 degrees).

Rose wines should be chilled, like white wines. A rose is best served with a light dish and is more popular in hot weather than in cold.

For dessert you may serve the same wine you had from the previous course. Or if it's something festive like an anniversary, dessert time is the moment to bring on the champagne (the drier the better).

Some people enjoy a sweet wine with dessert, such as port or a sweet sauternes or sherry, but one seldom sees this custom followed anymore in this country.

Q. Will you please describe the correct procedure for introducing one couple to another (1) when the couples are approximately the same age, (2) when one couple is older or more distinguished in station than the other? M.J.

A. When the couples are about the same age it doesn't matter whose names are mentioned first. When one couple is older or more distinguished—or perhaps guests in your town—you introduce the younger couple.

HISTORICAL AND GOOD

Last week we went to the Milleridge Inn in Jericho. This large restaurant is like a trip into another world. It has the historical approach to hospitality with the hostesses garbed in American continental dresses. The buildings are all wonderfully restored Revolutionary era buildings. The floors are wonderfully shined and add to the special feeling of going to the Milleridge Inn.

The food is exceptionally well prepared and the menu is a large one. Our party of four found it to be a wonderful time and we recommend it to everyone. H.F.

WONDERFUL CUISINE

Koenig's restaurant is one that defies time. It has been around for a long time but every time we go there we are well satisfied with the wonderful continental cuisine.

Koenig's is a place of good decor and it is a very comfortable restaurant. The establishment caters to large parties but if you come there with just two people, as we did, you are made welcome. The menu includes beef, chicken and veal and there is a large assortment of fish dishes. The prime ribs we chose were great and we think Koenig's in Floral Park is No. 1. Y.T.

GREAT PLACE

We have just come back from Gerlich's Restaurant in Glen Head. Now if anyone asks you whether there is still a good bargain in fine food you would just have to say that this restaurant has it.

We went there on a Wednesday and had their prime ribs of beef cooked to perfection. In addition they have a fine salad bar. The big treat was at the end of the meal when we found that their Wednesday night prime ribs special only cost $9.95 each including the salad bar. So this has just got to be one of the greatest.

H.L.

TOP BILLING

The Scales of Justice rates top billing with many of us. Last week we went there for dinner and found that they had excellent prime ribs with all of the trimmings on the early bird special for just $10.95. We have been coming to the scales of justice for many years at noon time. It is accessible to the county office buildings where we work and it is a first rate place to have lunch as well as dinner. The scales has the flavor that is given to it by the Tiffany lamps and cordial atmosphere. It is located on Mineola Blvd. just a short way from the court buildings on Old Country Road.

We have been to many Japanese restaurants. There seem to be more and more these days. However, the Umai on Merrick Road in Merrick is far above all of the others so far as we can see.

They, for one thing, do not give tiny portions that are the going fare at many Japanese restaurants. The decor is excellent and relaxing like a trip to Japan and if you order Sukiaki it will be prepared at your table as ours was. The taste, plus the aroma make it one big event. The Umai Restaurant is a cut above all other Japanese restaurants. G.R.

The word for yule party fare is 'simple'

Call it a cocktail party, an "open house" or a cocktail-buffet. Or just say — in the spontaneous and lively spirit of the holiday season — "drop by between 5 and 8."

A practical and adaptable form of holiday entertaining, the cocktail party lends itself both to champagne and nibbles for a few friends and to extravagant, once-a-year bashes where the host gets to catch up with folks he rarely gets to see. And it all can be done with minimal demand on the kitchen.

The most frequently heard advice from caterers and professional party givers is to offer simple fare.

Keep drinks "neat" and unembellished; keep cocktail nibbles easy-to-eat and straightforward (which does not preclude sumptuous). Today's fare is served with style on uncluttered trays and platters, with fanciful crowning touches such as a single, colorful flower or some exotic leaves as background.

It's also imaginative and unusual.

For cocktail parties of 30 people or more, there should be six or seven different hors d'oeuvres — some hot, some cold, and with a variety of textures. Include both the substantial and the "frilly"; the rich, sumptuous bites as well as morsels that diet-conscious revelers can also enjoy.

One of the thorniest questions in cocktail party planning is "how much?" Martha Stewart, author of "Entertaining," suggests planning for up to 20 tidbits per person. If the fare is heartier, she revises the number downward. Stewart also notes from experience that the greater variety of hors d'oeuvres she offers, the more excited guests get about the food and the more they eat.

The drinks at a holiday cocktail party also deserve some thought and imagination. In addition to supplying the traditional liquors and appropriate mixers, the thoughtful host will add some unexpected treat to the bar, such as a bottle of wonderful old Scotch, or crystal bowls of the eggnog, punch and Glogg that fairly shout Merry Christmas!

Since white wine remains a popular cocktail party drink, hosts should choose the bar's white wine carefully. Ideally, it should be dry, with only a hint of fruitiness. Chardonnay is a perfect choice; fizzes and fumés are also appropriate.

Champagne is another festive way of celebrating the holidays with friends and families; iced vodka is a stylish accompaniment to any hors d'oeuvre, especially those that include caviar.

And, of course, non-alcoholic drinks should be offered, not merely as an afterthought, but as an elegant, refreshing alternative.

Joy and merriment are a natural part of all holiday gatherings. The following recipes will add a delicious "spread" to the happy occasion as well.

CURRIED

CASHEW NUTS
2 tbsps. clarified butter
1 cup raw cashews
1 tsp. curry powder
Salt to taste

Melt butter in frying pan. Add nuts and curry powder. Fry until lightly browned. Drain on paper towels; sprinkle with salt to taste.

MUSHROOM PÂTÉ
1 cup cooked and seasoned mushrooms, domestic or any combination of wild
4 ozs. cream cheese
1 scallion, chopped
1 tbsp. cognac

Process with knife blade in food processor until smooth. Shape into mushroom. Garnish with sautéed mushrooms and parsley. Serve with melba toast, sliced bread or whole grain crackers.

CARAMEL BRIE
1 (2.8 lb.) wheel of Brie (60 percent butterfat)
2 cups granulated sugar
½ cup water
12-16 walnut or pecan halves

Put Brie on rack over large sheet of parchment paper or aluminum foil.

Combine sugar and water in heavy saucepan and melt sugar, swirling pan from time to time. Do not stir. When mixture begins to boil, cover pan to allow condensation to drip back down and melt crystallized sugar on side of pan. Uncover pan after 3 to 5 minutes and continue cooking over high heat until sugar becomes a deep golden color. The temperature of caramel should be hard crack, 300 F.

Immediately pour caramel over cheese to cover top evenly, allowing excess to drip down sides. You may have to tilt cheese a little to spread caramel evenly. Be very careful not to touch hot caramel. Press nuts around perimeter, if desired. The caramel will harden quickly. Serve within an hour.

Serves 38.

From "Hors d'Oeuvres" by Martha Stewart.

SCALLOPS WITH PESTO
3-4 scallops per person
Court bouillon (recipe follows)

3 cups pesto:
½ cup pine nuts
4 cloves garlic, peeled
3-4 cups fresh basil
½ lb. freshly grated Parmesan cheese
1½-2 cups olive oil

To make in food processor, grind all ingredients until fine with ½ cup of olive oil. Add remaining oil and process until smooth and creamy.

Court Bouillon:

4 cups water
¼ cup vermouth
1 small onion (chopped)
1 bay leaf
1 tsp. salt
3 whole peppercorns

In large pot, combine all court bouillon ingredients and simmer 10 minutes, then add scallops.

Poach scallops in court bouillon for 2 minutes. Drain circle in top of scallops. Fill with pesto and surround with thin slice of carrot done with potato peeler.

ASPARAGUS TREE

(Wrapped With Prosciutto)
Allow 2 to 3 asparagus stalks per person. Trim and peel each stalk. Blanch until just tender (2 to 4 minutes) in large kettle of boiling water. Immerse into ice water, drain and refrigerate until ready to serve. Cut prosciutto into thirds lengthwise and wrap around stems of asparagus. Arrange in shape of a Christmas tree.

CAPONATA

(Italian Eggplant Appetizer)
Olive oil
1 medium eggplant, unpeeled and cut into 1-inch cubes
1 large onion, chopped
1 cup chopped fennel or celery
1 garlic clove, minced
Handful of toasted pine nuts
¾ cup pitted green olives, coarsely chopped
¼ cup tomato sauce
3 tbsps. capers
2 tbsps. vinegar
Pinch of sugar

After Work Gourmet

Salt and freshly ground pepper
Lavash and/or Italian bread

Heat oil in large skillet over high heat. Add eggplant in batches and sauté until golden, adding oil as needed. Drain well on paper towels and set aside.

Using same skillet, sauté onion, fennel, garlic and pine nuts, tossing lightly. Reduce heat to medium and add olives, tomato sauce, capers, vinegar, sugar and salt and pepper to taste; cook briefly over medium heat. Add eggplant and simmer until eggplant is tender, but fennel is still crunchy. Allow to cool slightly, then cover and chill well before serving with lavash or Italian bread.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

HERB AND THREE-CHEESE QUICHE

½ lb. cream cheese
3 tbsps. all-purpose flour
4 eggs
½ cup sour cream
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup milk
1 cup light cream
4 ozs. Swiss cheese, grated
1 bunch chives, chopped
½ cup chopped parsley
½ cup chopped scallions
3 tbsps. grated Parmesan cheese

In mixing bowl blend cream cheese, flour, eggs, sour cream, salt, pepper, milk and cream. Set aside.

Sprinkle Swiss cheese in pastry-lined 11-inch quiche pan. Add chopped herbs and Parmesan cheese. Fill with custard mixture and bake in preheated 375 F oven until custard sets, about 45 minutes.

Japanese garnishes

By Paul Bensen and Evander Preston

GARNISH INSTRUCTIONS

Tomato Rose: Using a small, very sharp paring knife, peel a firm tomato, starting at the bottom, in a strip about ½-inch wide. If possible, peel the tomato in a single strip.

Form the rose by wrapping the strip around and around, concentrically, starting with one end of the peel and wrapping fairly tightly.

If desired, leaves or other greens may be added to the garnish to enhance the floral effect.

Scallion Brush: Cut the tip off a scallion and cut a 3- to 4-inch section from the stem. Remove the outer layer and the thin, transparent membrane. Using a small, sharp knife, make as many cuts as possible along the length of the scallion section, to within about a half inch of the bottom end, turning the scallion as you go. Place the cut scallion section in ice-cold water. This will cause the scallion slivers to curl outward, creating the "brush" effect.

Carrot Rings: Peel a large carrot with a vegetable peeler. Cut the thickest part of the stem in cylindrical cross-sections, to the desired thickness for the carrot "belt." If desired, notch the edges of each cross section with a sharp knife or a V-shaped chisel, for a scalloped effect.

Using a circular garnish cutter or a small quarter-round chisel, cut out the centers of the carrot cylinders, making room for beans or young asparagus.

Insert beans or young asparagus and steam, uncovered, until just done.

JAPANESE SALAD DRESSING

3 tbsps. smooth peanut butter
¼ tsp. minced garlic
1 tbsp. mayonnaise
1 dash cayenne pepper
1 tbsp. soy sauce
5 tbsps. wine vinegar
4 tbsps. chicken stock
¼ tsp. salt

Mix together all ingredients, pour into blender and blend until smooth.

Microwave Magic

By Decree Vives.

Use herbs for flavor instead of salt

Your average American taste bud is accustomed to some pretty salty fare. French fries and potato chips are among the most obvious culprits, but many common processed foods contain surprising amounts of sodium, as well.

The fresh cucumber in your market's produce section contains only about 2 grams of sodium, but a dill pickle carries a whopping 928 grams. A fresh tomato contains only 14 grams, while a cup of regular canned tomato sauce may have as many as 1,498 grams of sodium.

While many producers of processed foods are now offering "reduced salt" products, it's still a good idea to keep tabs on the number of ready-made foods you consume.

To reduce the risk of high blood pressure, most doctors recommend cutting down on the old sodium (and 40 percent of table salt is sodium). Steer your family away from processed foods and salty snacks. Try using herbs and spices — instead of salt — to lend flavor to your favorite dishes.

Remember not to mix two strongly flavored herbs together in one dish. One "strong" herb (such as bay, curry, ginger, hot pepper, sage) will blend with a milder herb or two with more pleasing results.

Following are several saltless blends for you to mix at home. Use in cooking, or sprinkle over foods at the table, instead of salt.

SALTLESS SURPRISE

2 tps. garlic powder
1 tsp. each of basil, oregano and powdered lemon rind (or dehydrated lemon juice)

Place all ingredients in blender and blend well to mix. Store in tightly covered glass container, airtight, and add rice to prevent caking.

SPICY SALTLESS SEASONING

2 tps. paprika
1 tsp. each of cloves, pepper, rosemary and coriander seed (crushed)

Mix all ingredients in blender. Store in airtight container and label.

If you'd like more information on herbs, write to Holly Shimizu (curator of the National Herb Garden) at the National Arboretum, 3501 New York Ave. N.E., Washington, DC 20002.

Once you start using your culinary creativity in the herb and spice department, you may find that your taste buds don't miss all that salt after all!

POACHED SOLE JACQUELINE

1 lb. sole fillets
2 tps. flour
1/2 cup water

3 tbsps. lemon juice
1/4 cup sliced green onion
2 tbsps. chopped fresh parsley
1/2 bay leaf
2 peppercorns
2 tbsps. milk

Arrange fillets in 10x6-inch glass baking dish with thicker pieces toward outside of dish.

Combine flour, water and lemon juice in small bowl, blending until smooth. Stir in green onion, parsley, bay leaf, peppercorns and milk. Pour sauce over fillets.

Cover dish with plastic wrap and microwave on HIGH (100 percent power) 4 minutes. Baste fish with sauce, recover, and continue cooking at same setting 3 to 4 minutes longer. Fish should flake easily with fork.

Remove bay leaf. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving. Serves 4.

SHERRIED SHRIMP SAUTÉ

1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sherry
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
3 tbsps. chopped fresh parsley
2 tbsps. minced fresh onion
1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
Dash pepper
1 1/2 cups small fresh or frozen, thawed shrimp
(Hot cooked rice)

Place butter in 1-quart glass casserole and microwave 45 seconds on HIGH (100 percent power) until melted.

Add sherry, bread crumbs, parsley, onion, nutmeg, garlic powder and pepper, stirring to blend.

Sprinkle shrimp evenly over top, cover, and microwave 4 minutes on HIGH. Rotate dish 1/4 turn after 2 minutes.

Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving over hot cooked rice.

Serves 4.

HERBED MICROWAVE CROUTONS

6 cups small bread cubes
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
1/2 tsp. garlic salt
1/4 tsp. dill weed
1/4 tsp. dried thyme
1 tbsp. Italian herb seasoning

Spread bread cubes evenly in large glass baking dish. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH (100 percent power) 6 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes.

Combine bread cubes, melted butter and seasonings in plastic bag, shake to coat evenly.

Return to baking dish and microwave on HIGH 4 to 6 minutes longer, stirring once every minute, until crisp. Store in airtight container.

Makes 6 cups.

Wine Talk

By Dan Berger

A paradox exists in the wine industry. There are more wine bargains than ever before, and yet Americans are not buying wine.

This leaves industry analysts confused and makes winery owners and grape growers angry. With wine consumption in America at a virtual standstill, many producers soon may be out of business.

Early in this decade, wine consumption in America was growing steadily at 6 percent per year, and there were even more optimistic forecasts.

Then a recession hit the entire alcoholic beverage industry in 1982, and even though the distilled spirits industry was hurt more than the wine industry, those who had invested so heavily in grapes, equipment and wineries began to struggle. And in that struggle to survive, the upward push of wine prices simply stopped. In fact, prices for premium wines began to decline.

A reason for that decline was competition. Prices for most French, German and especially Italian wines were dropping then because of the strength of the U.S. dollar.

A perfect example is Pouilly-Fuisse, once the darling of the nouveau riche in America. Demand drove its price to nearly $20 a bottle by the early 1980s, although it now has dropped back to the under-$10 level, which is where it ought to be.

Yet in spite of prices declining and production rising, Americans aren't buying more wine.

Intensified wine education efforts help to spur interest. Wine shops find they do well to conduct seminars at which fine wines are tasted. Also, wine cruises are popping up, giving captive audiences a chance to enjoy excellent wines. And more and more restaurants are featuring premium wine by the glass, which encourages people to try more wines.

And still wine sales are flat.

Yet the wines are better than ever. Here are a few examples:

— California's 1981 and 1982 Cabernets are showing just how good California wine makers have become. Many of the wines are very impressive.

— The 1981, '82 and '83 harvests in Bordeaux turned out to be the best three consecutive vintages in history, by some estimates, and in addition production was huge, too.

— In California, Chardonnays of 1983 and 1984 are proving to be far better than vintages of the past, as wine makers learn tricks of the trade.

— Americans have made huge strides in producing fine-quality Pinot Noirs, Zinfandels and even Petite Sirahs.

— The 1983 harvest throughout Europe (especially in Germany and France's Rhone Valley) was marvelous, producing exceptional wines.

Moreover, Australians have been making better and better wines just as prices for Australian wines have fallen considerably because of the relative strength of the U.S. dollar.

Among the values that will be hitting our shores are the fine wines of Brown Bros. of Milwaukie. I tasted the latest wines from Brown Bros. recently and was very impressed.

The best of them is the 1982 Brown Bros. Cabernet Sauvignon, with a very impressive, aromatic (almost pipe tobacco) fragrance and smoky, warm finish.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. We have a home near the ocean which has a storage cabinet on the outside that is exposed to the weather. We have not been able to keep a decent varnish finish on this storage area. Do you have any suggestions?

A. Varnished surfaces exposed to weather conditions, sunlight and moisture require constant upkeep. A marine-type varnish, in high-gloss finish, would be most suitable. However, even this type of varnish requires four to eight coats initially and surface retouches, i.e., light sanding and additional applications of varnish every three months.

If you prefer to keep the varnish finish, strip the current finish with a varnish remover, and sand and prepare the surface for new coats of durable varnish. Apply in thin coats, up to eight applications. You can then apply a new LP finish that will protect the surface for a longer period of time — six months to a year, depending on extent and harshness of exposure.

Paint will withstand the elements for a longer period of time, so you may want to consider changing the finish to a suitable color of paint. Again, I would suggest a marine-type paint for durability in the ocean air.

If you want the most durable product, choose an LP paint. Although this type of paint is more difficult to apply properly, it will last much longer. If you do use an LP paint and painstakingly apply two coats, the new finish will endure five to 10 years.

Check with a paint dealer that specializes in marine products for specific information on products and application techniques.

Q. Outside my house I have a marble statue that has developed hairline cracks. I would like information on how to treat these cracks and want to know if there is any type of sealer that we can coat the statue with which will not alter its appearance.

A. The easiest way to repair the cracks is to fill them with an epoxy resin material containing a filler, available at masonry dealers and large hardware stores. Follow label directions carefully.

Mainly for Seniors

By Leonard J. Hasson

There are a lot of myths about aging that are the basis of a batch of questions you have asked us to research. The questions are very revealing about your concerns, and we present the answers as we have found them.

Q. I am 55 and am deathly concerned about aging. At what age does senility set in?

A. Probably never. Senility affects a very small percentage of people as they age, so it is a myth that senility is a part of aging.

We know that symptoms of senility can occur when a person stops any form of exercise (even walking) and quits eating nutritionally. Most senility is actually caused when people starve the brain of the oxygen it needs by stopping exercise and depriving the body of nutrition it needs to fuel the brain properly. Most senility — or its symptoms — can even be reversed by proper diet and exercise.

The assumption that senility for older adults was inevitable was a cruel hoax perpetrated by society at large — and even the medical profession years ago — in order to put senior citizens "out to pasture."

Some senility today is connected with Alzheimer's disease, and research is under way for a solution or cure to this debilitating condition. But don't assume that you will get Alzheimer's or any other form of senility. Go to work on being healthy.

Q. My son tells me to "act my age" and be a senior citizen. What does this mean?

A. It means he does not understand that you have the right to do, act or be whatever you please at any age.

Many people are "old" — look old and act old because that's what they believe they're supposed to be at whatever age they are chronologically.

There is no reason why anyone at any age should be coerced by others into sitting on the front stoop and vegetating.

Satchel Paige, the great baseball pitcher, said it best: "How old would you be if you didn't know how old you was?"

Some people think "old" at 40, but who says you have to? There is no law — legal, ethical or moral — that says you have to act old. It is up to you — you're a grown-up and have the right to make your own decisions.

Q. I am 65. How soon should I plan on moving to a rest home?

A. Never — unless you have a medical condition that might mandate extra care.

The myth that senior citizens all move to rest homes is a bunch of bunk — fewer than 5 percent of seniors ever move to rest homes and most of those, for medical or other reasons, move there after age 85.

You have a lot of promising years ahead of you if you make them so. If and when you have a need for a nursing or rest home, you should have good medical counsel and the participation of your family and friends in that decision.

Q. What diseases prey on the elderly? I see lots of United Way and other ads which show senior citizens as terribly ill. I am 62 and worry about my future years.

A. First — don't presume you'll have any illness, for you needn't have any if you work on preventive health care. Doctors finally are discovering preventive medicine and the value of nutrition and exercise. If your doctor cannot counsel you on positive nutrition and exercise, find another who can. It is what you do with your body that determines whether it is susceptible to disease and infirmities.

A Japanese study, reported in Prevention magazine, found that people who ate vegetables every day had a decreased risk of developing lung, stomach and other cancers. The 20-year ongoing study also indicates that the damage done by bad habits like smoking and spurning vegetables is reversible.

"A Harvard University study of 1,200 elderly people," states Prevention, "found that those who reported the highest consumption of carrots, squash, tomatoes, salads or leafy greens, dried fruits, fresh strawberries or melon, broccoli or Brussels sprouts had a decreased risk of cancer."

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

After repairing the cracks, you could apply a coat of clear terrazzo-type sealer, which should not change the color and would also help prevent further cracking.

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE Oh Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful and intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depths of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition, in return I promise to make your name known and cause to be invoked. St. Jude, pray for us all who invoke your aid. Amen. Say 3 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Mary's, 3 Gloria's. Say for 9 consecutive days. Publication must be promised. This novena has never been known to fail. Thank you for answering my prayers. A.B.

HOLY SPIRIT YOU WHO SOLVE

All problems, who light all roads, so that I can obtain my goals. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evils against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you ever in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Say for 3 consecutive days after which the favor requested will be granted even if it appears difficult. This prayer must be published immediately. Thank you Holy Spirit. A.M.

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

This is the first week of December and soon we will be enjoying the Christmas and Chanukah holidays. Winter will also be coming and it will be time for ice skating and skiing.

Last week I started my holiday shopping and I decided to do most of it in the stores near my home. They are much less crowded than the malls and the lines are shorter - in fact, there are hardly any lines at all.

The first thing I did before going out was to write a list. This took a little thought. Would Cousin John like a necklace or a belt? What size blouse does Aunt Tessie wear? Is Baby Mark old enough for a tricycle?

After completing my list, I went out and visited several stores. I'm happy to say the shopping trip was highly successful - I've already crossed four people off the list - their packages are all wrapped and ready to be mailed. What a great feeling!

Love,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are J. Margiotta and Erika Staab.

RULES

BOYS AND GIRLS

Here is your chance to win One Dollar ($1.00) - to spend or to save.

Here's all you have to do:

1. Contest is open to children 4 to 12 years of age.
2. Entries must be received by Friday, December 13, 1985
3. Paint, watercolors and crayons must be used on the above.
4. Decision of the judges will be final.

Mail your entry (just clip out cartoon) to this newspaper at:

Veterinary medicine a rewarding profession

Q. I am a senior in high school. I am interested in pursuing a career in veterinary medicine. However, I do not know very much about what is required in order to get admitted to a veterinary school.

Also, I have heard that there soon will be a surplus of veterinarians. Is this true? I really like animals and want to be a veterinarian but do not want to train for a profession that is overpopulated.

Any advice you can give me will be appreciated.

A recent manpower study indicates that a 73 percent growth in the supply of veterinarians, compared with a 31 percent growth in demand for pet-animal veterinary services and a 23 percent growth in demand for food-animal services will result in an oversupply of practicing veterinarians by the year 2000. However, there are many opportunities for veterinarians in non-practice positions.

Veterinary medicine is a very rewarding profession and will continue to be so for those who truly enjoy working with animals and their owners. You are wise to start planning for your career in veterinary medicine early in your college program. It is difficult for most students to get admitted to a college of veterinary medicine. However, the rewards make the effort worthwhile.

There are 26 colleges of veterinary medicine in the United States, located in: Alabama, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, Washington and Wisconsin.

If you are a resident of any of these states, you probably will not be accepted into a school in any of the other states. If you are not a resident of any of these states, you may be eligible to apply to several veterinary colleges.

Regardless of your residency, you should write to the schools in which you are interested and ask for a list of admissions requirements. Schools vary on the number and type of courses required for admittance. Generally, most schools require a minimum of two years of carefully planned pre-veterinary courses.

In addition to an evaluation of your academic credentials, your non-academic credentials will be evaluated by an admissions committee. Most committees try to determine if a candidate really is interested in veterinary medicine and if the candidate has a realistic view of what a veterinary career encompasses. Of course, work experience with a veterinarian prior to application to a veterinary school will help demonstrate that the candidate is sincerely interested and understands the career for which he or she is applying.

Most veterinary colleges have a four-year professional curriculum. The earlier years are spent in learning the basics of anatomy, physiology, etc. The latter years usually are spent working with actual patients in teaching hospitals.

Following graduation, national and state board examinations must be passed before a new veterinarian can begin practice. The requirements for these examinations vary with each state. Many new graduates choose to continue their formal educations by enrolling in internships, residencies or graduate school programs.

Veterinarians may choose to specialize in any of several specialty areas. Examples are surgery, internal medicine, toxicology and pathology. To be recognized as a specialist, extensive training and testing are required.

Veterinarians are involved in a wide array of activities. These include private practice, teaching, research, food inspection and industrial activities.

FASHION FINDS

By Monica Perez

Jostling through crowded stores in an attempt to find just the right gift for a special person may have made your holiday mood anything but festive in years past.

But this holiday season, finding the perfect gift may be easier, since fashion stores are filled with wonderful items from glittering stocking stuffers to luxurious fur coats and jackets.

"Since almost every woman loves fashion, you can never go wrong choosing a fashion item for a gift," said Lynn Scott, fashion adviser for The Wool Bureau.

And choosing a fashionable gift is fun. "You may even be tempted to buy something as a treat for yourself," she said.

Fashion items in wool not only look great, but are perfect for gifts because they're practical, as well, she said. "A wool sweater or jacket will last for years if cared for properly, and the recipient of your gift will remember the gift given long past one season."

Sweaters, an ever-popular gift item, are updated this year in jacquards and bright prints like cabbage roses or huge paisley. The oversize sweaters make a bold fashion statement and are great for a weekend of fun or a special occasion.

Clothing gifts with style

Knit hats are making a comeback, with matching scarves and mittens. For more avant-garde headgear, try a scarf that doubles as a hood.

"The freshest look this season is anything in wool jersey," Scott said. "Designers are using the fabric for everything from pants to coats. It works because the fluid drape of jersey can be fashioned into almost anything."

If you or the "giftee" are in the market for a holiday outfit, start with an ensemble that is sedate enough for family gatherings but that can be dressed up for glittering parties.

Scott suggests "the little black dress" in soft wool jersey. For razzle-dazzle, add a chunky rhinestone necklace and dangly earrings. Wear a string of pearls for a more demure look. If the dress has classic lines, it never will go out of style and the fabric will hold up for seasons to come.

Or try an irresistible, fuzzy wool cardigan sweater in holiday brights of hot pink or turquoise. "Pair the sweater with matching wool trousers and a silk blouse for a look that's both practical and extravagantly, definitely luxurious," Scott said. "For a family dinner, wear a soft merino sweater underneath the cardigan and a touch of gold at the neck."

Other fashion items may not be as practical but are fun to wear or to give to get into the holiday spirit with style, Scott said. A saucy cocktail hat, beaded, veiled or feathered, adds the finishing touch to a black dress. Gleaming satin or lace dinner gloves and a black or red velvet evening purse studded with faux gems provide additional dash.

Rhinestone baquette ear clips and huge paste cuffs add sparkle to the evening. For a dazzling look, try a flower dress clip in pear-shape stones or a gold-lined necklace with oversize charms.

"If you're really daring, wear a pair of tapestry brocade or sequined shoes, and don't forget to put on the cut-glass bangle bracelets," Scott said.

Holiday gifts are meant to be fun, whether you're giving or receiving. And with all the luxuries available in stores this year, there's no need to be frustrated when trying to find a perfect, stylish gift.

Little black dress packs punch

By Wendi Winters

Why does the holiday season only come once a year? From mid-November through early January, there is an exciting flurry of parties, balls, dances and family dinners that wears out our feet and exhausts our wardrobes, yet leaves us yearning for more when the season ends.

This holiday season will see an opulent array of sumptuous evening dresses — for every special occasion — cut from gold lame, exotic gilded brocades, velvets and bright iridescent taffetas decorated effusively with glitter, beads and spangles. For the woman who wants megawatt glamour, these are the clothes in which she wants to make a much noticed entrance.

Yet this also is the year the "little black dress" makes a dramatic comeback in beautifully designed silhouettes that need no flashy gimmicks to stand out in the crowd. The little black dresses are notable for their slenderizing, close-to-the-body fit in luxurious midnight fabrics. And, being black, they will retain appeal long after this year's vibrant, trendy colors have faded from the scene.

These dresses look good at any length. Perry Ellis presented what he called "simple little slips," a sexy grouping of bias-draped, barely there, above-the-knee skimmers in silk, satin and wool vaguely reminiscent of those worn by the flappers in the '20s. Diane Pernet, an avant-garde designer, went to the other extreme with long, hooded and cowl-neck jersey dresses that sensuously cover the body and slither gracefully to the floor.

The knees are covered in Morton Myles' collection of black matte crepe cocktail dresses, but he deftly exposed a woman's back and cleavage to her best advantage. One short dress, with crushed cummerbund, features a bared back illuminated with plumes of multicolored beadwork and pearls. On another, the neckline swoops to the waist, yet is subtly screened with an inset of black organza and a ladder of jewelery.

A woman can leave her diamond necklace at home when she wears Adam Beall's short, simple black velvet chemise with padded shoulders and simple push-up sleeves — he's stitched a "necklace" of chunky, oversized rhinestones to the dress. Beall also elongated a black velvet cardigan to the knees, trimmed it with satin and an ivory ascot for a tuxedo look.

Black also provides an ideal contrast to this season's glitzy metallic fabrics. Geoffrey Beene's molten gold-lame top glows over a long, curvy, high-waisted skirt. In her premier collection under her own name, Donna Karan revived and glorified the simple bodysuit by redesigning it in luxurious cashmere with broadened shoulders. She then wrapped it with a shiny golden sarong and enveloped both pieces in an oversize sweater-coat.

TOE TINGLERS Stocking stuffers that pamper feet

By Wendi Winters

Remember the childhood Christmas stocking, embroidered with your name, that you carefully hung on a hook screwed into the fireplace mantle? When you last saw it each Christmas Eve, the stocking flapped limp and forlornly above the cooling embers of the fireplace. Yet every Christmas morning it awaited you, plump with special little gifts from Santa Claus that often were more fun to open than the new toys resting under the tree.

Even though people grow up, a stocking loaded with goodies still is a warm and welcome sight on Christmas morning — and is almost as much fun to give as to receive. It's an ideal "extra gift" to give to a special person in your life.

A stocking crammed with nuts, candies and fruits, however, might be too caloric for today's fit-conscious woman, so consider giving her one brimming with tiny, gaily wrapped gifts selected with a unifying theme. One idea might be to prepare a stocking full of surprises designed to flatter and pamper her feet and legs. After all, stockings normally belong on the feet, not tacked to the mantelpiece.

For today's woman on the run, often in uncomfortable high-heeled shoes, such a gift would be a relief and a luxury. Here are some suggestions from Johnson's foot-care products for a toe-tingling stocking. Many of the items can be found in one stop at a drugstore.

— A pumice stone, to rub away callouses.

- Powdered foot soap. Added to a basin of hot water, it soothes, softens and relieves feet after a hard day and is an ideal first step in home pedicure.

- Toenail clippers or scissors.
- Emery boards.
- Cuticle remover.
- Cotton balls.
- Nail polish in her favorite shades or in wild fashion colors.
- Moisture cream for her legs and feet.

- A pair or two of luxury evening pantyhose, glittery with metallic threads or studded with tiny rhinestones. Knowing the height and general weight of your recipient will guarantee that you select the correct size.

- A couple pairs of sensible hose in neutral business colors.

- Cushioned mini-soles that prevent feet from sliding inside shoes, especially high-heeled shoes.

- A pair of pastel cotton athletic socks to wear for jogging and aerobics or just to look like a good sport.

- A gift certificate for a professional pedicure at a beauty salon.

- Foot warmers to keep her newly pedicured toes warm and dry in winter dress boots and shoes.

- A gold ankle bracelet engraved with her name. Check the bracelet carefully, though, to make sure there are no rough or sharp edges that could cut skin or snag hose.

DICKENS' CHRISTMAS

By Dean Carroll

Entertaining for the holidays takes on historical and international tones with David Sandeman, sixth generation of the House of Sandeman, a producer and distributor of port wines and sherries.

Nestled on a 550-acre estate in Sussex is the classic British farmhouse where Sandeman and his wife, Sue, invite family and friends to enjoy wassail and other truly delicious and very British accompaniments during the holidays.

"Waes hael, the original words from which wassail was derived, was coined by a Saxon," Sandeman said. "In 450 A.D., the Saxon princess Rowena saluted British King Vortigen with 'waes hael' — a toast to health. Britshers take their toasts seriously, and we have derived numerous customs from the original."

By the 17th century, the British began to refer to wassail as a loving cup or bowl brimming with a warm and delicious combination of ales and spices. As new countries were colonized and trade formalized, new wines and exotic spices were added.

In the spirit of giving, well-to-do people offered wassail to people who came to their door wassailing - singing for a cupful.

The British brought wassail to America with them, where it officially became part of Christmas custom in the 19th century. And, as with most holidays, Christmas almost demands that food and drink be paired for best enjoyment. The house of Sandeman offers distinctive and easy recipes for wassailing with friends and family.

WASSAIL

12 apples, cored
2 parts tawny port
2 parts ale
1 part brandy
1 tbsp. grated nutmeg
1 tbsp. allspice
1 tbsp. ginger
1/2 tsp. cardamom
1 tbsp. clove
Thin strips of lemon peel
1 stick cinnamon
12 egg whites

Bake apples in 375 F oven for 30 minutes. Mix remaining ingredients, except egg whites, in saucepan and simmer.

Beat egg whites until frothy, pour gently into punch bowl. Add aseepan mixture to punch bowl and top with baked apples. Serve warm.

SANDEMAN'S FRUIT CAKE

1 1/4 cups raisins

1 cup candied fruit
1/4 lb. blanched walnuts
4 tsps. amontillado sherry
2 sticks butter or margarine
3/4 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup white sugar
4 eggs
2 1/2 cups flour
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt

Steep fruit and nuts in 2 tablespoons sherry overnight.

Line 9-inch round tin with two layers of waxed paper, extending paper 1 inch above tin.

Cream butter and sugar. Add unbeaten eggs and mix well. Add half of the fruit and remainder of sherry. Stir.

Sift flour, spices, baking powder and salt and gradually add to half to mixture. Add remainder of fruit and then gradually add remainder of flour. Mix.

Place mixture in prepared tin on middle shelf of 325 F oven. Bake about 2 hours (test after 1 1/2 hours).

HOT PORT WINE SAUCE

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
3/4 cup ruby port
1 tsp. grated orange rind

Cream together butter and sugar. Beat egg and add to butter mixture. Stir in port and orange rind.

Just before serving, heat mixture, stirring until warm throughout.

SPECIAL CHRISTMAS SUPPLEMENT

HOLIDAY CRAFT IDEA: Making your own wreath

MATERIALS

- Two 16 or 18 inch wire wreath frames.
- 50 long, slender (white) pine cones to form base, and approximately 100 regular (yellow) pine cones.
- Chestnuts, burrs, tiny pine cones, twisted off rosettes of spruce cones, artificial fruit for filling in and/or accent.
- Wire for tying wreaths together and for hanging.
- Thermogrip® glue gun and glue sticks.
- 1½ yards of wide velvet ribbon for bow (optional).
- Clear acrylic spray (lacquer).

PROCEDURE

- Soak about 50 long, slender pine cones (the type that can be easily found in wooded areas during the fall) in water until they close.
- Once closed, insert them like wheel spokes, alternating direction, through the wire spaces in one wreath frame.
- Attach the two largest wires of the two frames together, back to back. If they match well, glue the wires together. If not, wire them.
- Glue shorter, thicker pine cones (found in abundance in wooded areas during fall months) in three circular rows to the pairs of wires in the empty top frame.
- Attach artificial fruit, if desired, leaving space for a ribbon bow. Fill in empty spaces with anything available—chestnuts, burrs, tiny cones and twisted off rosettes of spruce cones.

- Attach a loop of wire or heavy cord for hanging and spray with several coats of clear lacquer to enhance color and preserve.
- If you have any difficulty tying a satisfactory velvet bow, use the glue gun to spot-glue the loops of the bow. Then, wire in place.

HOLIDAY DECOR

By Eric Jude

Family and friends are going to spend a lot of time in your dining room during the holidays, so it's important to establish the mood by setting a festive-looking table.

A Christmas table should be decorated with as much care as a Christmas tree, said Isabelle von Boch, spokeswoman for and eighth-generation family member of Villeroy & Boch, manufacturer of China and porcelain dinnerware.

"In the spirit of the holiday season, treat your table as though it belongs under the tree itself," von Boch said. "Tie pretty ribbons around the base of stemware and napkins. Place small wrapped presents on the table and set little gifts at each place."

A miniature porcelain cache pot

Trimmings for the table

filled with a small Christmas cactus is an easy, inexpensive favor that decorates the table. Or, fill porcelain boxes with homemade candies and set them in front of each guest's plate.

Nature's gifts also belong on the table since they are an important part of the season. China with delicate flowers and leafy designs coordinates well with a holiday centerpiece of pine cones, fir, holly and moss set on a large oval platter. Another idea is to fill a bowl with apples and cinnamon sticks, green peppers or limes and mix in gold or silver Christmas ornaments.

China that depicts scenes of winter can help create the feeling of a white Christmas. This can be combined with a floral arrangement of baby's breath and silver ornaments flecked with artificial snow and topped with tinsel.

Suggest the idea of a manger by using straw placemats and Scandinavian straw ornaments hung from a chandelier.

"Your dinnerware doesn't need to have the seasonal red or green colors in order to look Christmasy. Create a festive-looking color scheme by combining accessories in imaginative ways," von Boch said. "Buy miniature ornaments in matching dinnerware colors, put them in a crystal bowl and place them in the center of your table. Choose a gold tablecloth with slight red or green accents or a blue tablecloth with touches of gold. Use lace tablecloths with a liner in a color that matches your dinnerware. Cluster candles of matching colors and varying heights at one end of the table."

Different styles of entertaining can be just as fun and successful as a sit-down, formal dinner. One alternative is to invite friends over for a tree-trimming party and a light supper. Ask each guest to bring a handmade ornament. Surprise them and decorate most of the tree yourself before they come — but save the ends of the branches so each can hang his ornament in a prized location. Serve the supper as a buffet, using oversize buffet plates.

If there are children among your invited guests, consider setting a table just for them. The younger generation will enjoy having its own china, and there are many patterns available for children of all ages.

Another possibility for your holiday party is to set a theme. International themes are very popular, especially at Christmastime, von Boch said.

For an Oriental mood, china with touches of red and gold is very effective. Tie red ribbons strung with tiny bells around vases and fasten holly sprigs around napkins and chopsticks.

Marbleized dinnerware is especially appropriate for a Mexican fiesta. Pinatas, a pottery candelabra and Mexican tinware enhance this holiday motif.

For an interesting change, try recreating design trends of the past. To achieve an art deco look, combine china patterns with simple geometric motifs and primary colors," von Boch recommended. "Add frosted or colored stemware. White gladiolas or calla lilies are flowers of the period which would make an appropriate centerpiece."

Let the tabletop be a focal point for your holiday decorating and entertaining and enjoy a beautiful setting for the Christmas season.

LIVING MEMORIES

Videotape for Yule scrapbook

By Eric Jude

The holiday season is a special time when relatives gather from the far corners of the country, an event that generates memories people often want to preserve. The best way to preserve precious memories is with a custom-made home videocassette, according to Bob Burnett, a videotape expert with 3M in St. Paul, Minn.

A little preparation will ensure a visually interesting tape you will want to keep, he said. Following is some specific advice from Burnett: Write a shooting script that outlines the kinds of shots you want to tape — then stick to it.

Professional filmmakers know there are just three kinds of shot composition: the long shot, the medium shot and the close-up. Combine these shots, Burnett says, and your tapes will be crisp and exciting.

Be sure to use all three shots, he said. Consider the long shot first. It's used to establish the action that will take place. So holiday home-moviemakers might begin their tapes with a long shot of the Christmas tree or of the festive holiday table. Or try beginning outdoors, with a long shot of relatives arriving by car.

The next shot should be a medium shot. Tape your child sitting at the tree unwrapping a present or the lighting of the Hanukkah candles. The medium shot frames the subject from the waist up and gives more specific information, Burnett explained.

Then move into a close-up, he said. This shot is framed so that the head and shoulders of your subject appear in the viewfinder of your video camera. The close-up is like an "optical window to the soul," he said. So move in to catch the excitement and wonder on your child's face as he finds a special gift.

You then can pull back to another medium shot and cut to a close-up, perhaps to the relative who presented the toy or to the head of the house making a toast. Cutting from one sort of action to another is called cross-cutting, Burnett said. This technique sets up visual tension to keep your tape interesting.

When shooting indoors, you might not have enough light to get a good exposure when the scene is lit only by candles or tree lights. To correct this condition, Burnett suggests:

— Using a low-light videocamera that promises good exposure in poor light.

— Using a high-quality, light-sensitive videocassette.

— Attaching a top-mounting light to your camera. This should provide more than enough light for most shots.

Finally, to prevent candle or tree lights from burning an image on your tape, turn on all the room lights for your shot, Burnett said. Stay back from your subject when it is lit up and use a telephoto focal length.

MISTLETOE MYTH
All about the kissing tradition

By John Sinor

Let us warm up the season with a little talk of love today. For love is very much in style during the winter holidays. Some of these people in love even go as far as to get married.

A couple of my nephews used to hustle love during the winter by selling little bags of mistletoe.

They were pretty young at the time. They told me, "You can use it to kiss girls — if you want to."

Then they both screwed up their faces.

Today both are married, and I imagine they will be hanging little sprigs of mistletoe around their own houses.

This should get me into today's lecture.

It is titled, "All You Ever Wanted To Know About Mistletoe — And Probably a Whole Lot More."

Where did the legend of mistletoe originate? Good question. Fortunately, you've asked the right person.

The mistletoe thing began with the ancient Druids, who were forever cooking up future American holiday traditions.

They also dreamed up the spooks for Halloween.

The mistletoe was regarded by the Druids as a sacred plant. They would cut it only with a golden knife.

Then they hung it over their doors and believed only joy and happiness could enter as long as the plant stayed green.

Thus done, they would say, "Enter joy."

If Joy happened to be a girl, you could plant one on her.

One year, a couple of daughters hung mistletoe throughout the house. Practically everywhere.

Then they would run to their rooms in fits of giggles if one of their brothers brought home a friend or two.

The boys would come in talking about cars or football and never even notice the mistletoe.

Meanwhile, back in ancient times, when Christmas was established and the mistletoe business came with it, things were pretty lively.

However, when the church found out about the kissing privileges that went with mistletoe, the pope said: "Let's switch to holly."

That's the truth, although he may have said it in Latin.

You can also do in certain enemies with mistletoe.

If you have an enemy who cannot be harmed by the elements of fire, water, earth or air — say a bionic enemy — you can get that sucker with an arrow made of mistletoe.

This is because the plant is a parasite and does not spring from any of the four elements. (I just tossed that in, in case it comes in handy sometimes.)

Someone in the back of the room has asked where kissing originated. Well, I will tell you the truth and the scientific theory. Take your choice.

The truth is, in ancient Rome, it was considered extremely immodest for women to drink wine. However, girls will be girls.

Cato the Elder advised the men of Rome to give their women an occasional smooch to see if they had been taking a nip.

Sort of like a reverse lipstick-on-the-collar test.

Science believes it started with cavemen who craved salt. They found they could cool off by licking the salt from their women's cheeks.

Then the cavemen discovered fire.

SUNNY SANTA

Warm getaways for Christmas

By Gregg Howard

Face it, a white Christmas just doesn't appeal to everyone. Some people would rather not shiver through the holidays. They'd rather just hum Bing Crosby's song while soaking up soothing sunshine.

If that sounds like your style, take a look at the following round-up of warm Christmas getaways.

If you want to stay close to home, consider the values of Mexico and Hawaii.

Just south of the U.S. southern border sits Mexico, a tropical paradise with stretches of sun-drenched beaches, gentle breakers and warm blue waters, and ancient Mayan ruins.

Big game fish and exotic fish abound in the water of Guaymas, the water-sports capital of Mexico. And water skiers and skin divers will delight in exploring the secluded, calm bays that surround Guaymas.

The richness of the Mayan lore and culture is most evident in Merida, the starting point for visits to and exploration of ruins such as Uxmal and Chichen-Itza.

If you chose one word to describe the Big Island of Hawaii, it would have to be "contrast." Highlights range from sandy beaches to lava wastelands, from cattle ranches to fields of flowers, from peaceful bays to volcanic craters.

On any of the islands that make up the state of Hawaii, you'll find unparalleled beauty to capture your imagination — rugged mountains with twisted hiking and riding trails and verdant valleys, gently sloping hills covered with wild flowers, mile after mile of beaches, either bustling with activity like Waikiki or peaceful, unspoiled and unhurried like those on Kauai.

If you're willing to travel a bit further in your search for sun, try the South Pacific.

On Tahiti, the main island of French Polynesia, life is centered around the picturesque waterfront city of Papeete, one of the most romantic and legendary ports in the South Pacific. Away from Papeete, Tahiti's scenery turns to lush and colorful countryside, dramatic cloud-capped peaks and beautiful blue lagoons with activities such as big game fishing, water sports and cruises.

But no island in the world compares with the South Pacific's Bora

Bora for snorkeling. The verdant volcanic island is surrounded by a calm lagoon full of brilliant coral gardens and colorful tropical fish. People seeking relaxation or solitude will find ribbons of beaches on which to bask in the tropical sun.

And while you're thinking about that region of the world, how about Australia, the destination of the '80s. The Land Down Under is a land of both warm beaches, such as the Gold Coast, and sophisticated cities, such as Sydney, where you can attend the opera or ballet, dine in fine restaurants and enjoy great entertainment.

Australia also is a land of wilderness and bush ideal for safaris, hiking and camping, mountains for climbing, and lakes, oceans and streams suitable for all sorts of water activities. It's home to the Great Barrier Reef, the largest coral reef on earth.

For a truly adventurous and less common holiday vacation, think about South America, with exotic charms from the vibrancy of historic Buenos Aires, Argentina to the lost Inca Empire ruins of Peru. Travel from the majestic Andes Mountains' resort of Bariloche to the incredible splendor of Iguazu Falls, immense waterfalls that lie across the borders of three countries, from the hustle of Sao Paulo, Brazil's fastest growing city, to the soft white beaches Rio de Janeiro.

If you plan to follow the sunshine this holiday season, contact a travel agent for more details. Or hitch a ride south on Santa's sleigh.

HO HO IN THE SNOW

By Anita Issen Mizner

Planning a holiday vacation? Think Quebec City. Think Montreal. Unique and vibrant, they seem to come into their own this time of year. Starting even before the holidays. With the first snowflake, in fact. And, up north, the holiday spirit doesn't disappear on January 2. It goes on and on.

Quebec, captivating with its Gallic ambience, is a split-level metropolis that's pure Europe.

Perched atop a 350-foot cliff is the walled Upper Town with its many historic buildings, including the Citadel — a fortress of brilliant design, museums, shops, atmospheric eateries and hotels. An encircling art nouveau boardwalk provides transcendental panoramas of the St. Lawrence River.

Below, at river level, Lower Town's cobble streets — a picturesque melange of restorations, cafes and boutiques — radiate from Place Royale, where Champlain founded the city.

Holiday activities take off in December with a two-week crafts show and sale featuring the works of 200 artists. Then come glittering festivities that include beautiful Christmas church services, concerts and celebratory dinners in restaurants and hotels. Between the sightseeing, side trips and winter sports, there's plenty of action for all ages.

During January (through April), Quebec's the scene of great winter competition and games — hockey, curling, skiing, skating and more. The really big show, the famous Quebec Winter Carnival, takes place in February.

For the carnival's 10 memorable days, the city fairly explodes with exhilarating recreational, cultural and sporting events, indoors and out. Everyone gets into the act. And in the cast are merrymakers from all over the world. There's nothing like it anywhere else.

For American visitors, a bonus is the favorable exchange for American dollars and the relatively lower cost of things in Canada.

Among hotels, Chateau Frontenac is best known, but its heretofore exalted position is being challenged by newcomers. The only one officially rated in the same category, however, is the contemporary Hilton International Quebec, across from the walled Upper Town.

Here hospitality, comfort and convenience reign supreme, especially in the plush accommodations on the "executive" floors. Hotel amenities include a health club and pool.

Executive Chef Jean Soulard's cuisine, savored amid the provincial elegance of Le Croquembrocque, the hotel's formal dining room, is a very special experience. The food is sophisticated, original and totally delectable, whether it be salmon, lobster, holiday turkey, flambéed pepper steak or game. His fresh fruit sorbets are a trademark. Soulard also conducts cooking classes and wine tastings.

Regional fare at popular prices is available in the hotel's informal La Potiniere. And the top-floor Eden, with stunning views of the city and river, is a disco on weeknights and the setting for a lavish Sunday brunch. During the holiday, the restaurants feature Christmas and New Year's brunches, dinners, dancing and dinner music. Santa is on hand, too.

Other recommended Quebec restaurants: La Gélique, a delightful, warm, country inn on the Ile d'Orléans near Quebec. It's a must. Everything that emerges from the kitchen is marvelous — innovative and a delicious voyage of discovery. Also worthy is the posh, highly regarded A La Table de Serge Bruyère in Lower Town. Less expensive are Le Mechoui for Moroccan and continental dishes and Restaurant Au Parmesan for a fun-filled evening of accordian music, singing waiters and molto satisfying Italian food and wines.

For more information, contact the Quebec Tourist Office, 60 Rue D'Auteuil, Quebec City, Quebec, Canada G1R 4C4.

Whenever I visit Montreal, I'm charmed anew with its beauty and cosmopolitan atmosphere. And what a cornucopia of sight-seeing attractions.

Two greats are: The Mountain (Mount Royal), a veritable beehive of winter sports activity, and Old Montreal, historic in architecture but tres moderne in the classy wares purveyed by boutiques in the area.

One of the finest restaurants there, the intimate, lovely St. Ambroise, should not be missed. The perfection of each dish on the superb menu, the wine selection and the service make every meal an occasion to be cherished. Another interesting establishment is Les Chenets, with elegant cooking and a 38,000-bottle wine cellar. And the William Tell is probably the best Swiss restaurant on the continent. Very atmospheric.

I'd be remiss if I didn't mention the remarkable Bonaventure Hilton International. It's a rarity — a grand resort hotel in the heart of a big city built on the two top floors of Canada's largest trade and exhibit center, it's landscaped with more than two acres of gardens that frame a heated, year-round outdoor pool. Beneath the building is a fabulous, weatherproof shopping city, Place Ville-Marie, plus subway and railway stations.

Both Hilton International hotels offer special packages weekends, festivals and holidays, in addition to regular family plans. For more information, contact the Hilton International Quebec, 3 Place Quebec, Quebec City, Quebec, Canada G1K 7M9 or the Bonaventure Hilton International, 1 Place Bonaventure, Montreal, Quebec, Canada, H5A 1E4.

During the holiday seasons, the charming atmosphere of Montreal becomes pervasively excited — all bell-ringing and tingly.

Hotel restaurants sparkle with festive meals, music and dancing. Here, too, Santa will be on hand during Christmas. And there are New Year's Eve shows and dances.

Space limits a listing of specific events, but this can be obtained from the Montreal Tourist Office, Salle F, 1 Frontenac-CP 889, Place Bonaventure, Montreal, Quebec, Canada, H5A 1E6.

GLITTERY GIFTS

Strike-it-rich look of gold jewelry

By Janet Gordon

This holiday season easily can be hailed as the gilded age. Its gifts gleam with the warmth of shimmering gold to satisfy opulent tastes and create the fashionable "strike-it-rich" look of American and European fashion collections.

The fashion emphasis on dressing up and a stable gold price have rekindled the gold rush, according to the Gold Information Center. And an increasing variety of jewelry designs has kept the rush at full speed.

Goldschmidt have responded to changing lifestyles and fashion trends by creating a wide assortment of designs that complement every look, from traditional to trendy.

Jewelry and department stores throughout the country are well-stocked for the holiday season with an assortment of fashionable karat gold jewelry choices in all price ranges and styles.

For women on your shopping list, consider gold jewelry created with this year's romantic trend in mind — a rippled lacy cuff, a pair of rose-shaped earrings or a hammered bracelet incorporating a paisley motif. Pieces with unique texture and shape are increasing in importance among women who want to create an individualized fashion statement.

Other holiday gift front-runners include: gold coin and gold charm bracelets worn in multitude with several link bracelets for a sophisticated office look; gold bead necklaces worn in combination with the classic chain to complement tailored suits and geometric or angular jewelry such as a movable disk necklace or several interlocking triangles to form a bracelet.

For men on your list, consider their lifestyles so that you can select appropriate gifts. A conservative dresser may prefer gold with Old World charm — a pocket watch with fob, crest or signet ring or traditionally designed cuff links with coins, knots or monograms.

If his approach to fashion is more contemporary, consider a futuristic or high-tech piece of gold jewelry. Mixed with titanium, niobium or stainless steel, gold bracelets and necklaces look especially up-to-date. A geometric-styled ring with stone accents for color would be another good choice for the non-traditionalist.

With so many options available, there never has been a season like this one to remind us of gold's magic and power to stimulate the imaginations of jewelry and fashion designers. So, no matter what the fashion preference, you can color this Christmas gold.

MICROWAVE MAGIC

Holiday timesaver, perfect gift

By Gregg Howard

Many big boxes under Christmas trees in recent years have held microwave ovens, to the delight of recipients. Sometimes, however, these gifts aren't used to full potential.

"Like any other gift, a microwave oven's size and features should match the needs and lifestyle of its recipient," said Anne Howard, marketing services manager for Sharp Electronics Corp.'s appliance division. A deluxe model may overwhelm a person who uses the microwave oven only to defrost foods, while a chef-on-the-run may be unsatisfied with a basic model that doesn't leave open the option to prepare entire meals.

But any microwave can be an asset to a busy Christmas cook.

"A microwave oven is a perfect timesaver during the holiday season," said Nancy Boyle, manager of product development and training for the Sharp Electronics Corp.'s appliance division. "For instance, a microwave can make cracking nuts for holiday recipes easier."

Place an 8-ounce package of unshelled walnuts, pecans, Brazil nuts, almonds or filberts and 1 cup of water in a 2-quart, microwave-safe casserole. Cover the dish with plastic wrap and microwave on high (100 percent) for 2 to 4 minutes. Let the dish stand for 1 minute and then drain. Spread the nuts on a paper towel to dry and then, carefully crack the shells.

"Be careful — there still may be hot water inside the shell," Boyle said.

"While gifts from the kitchen always are welcome, many people don't have time to prepare them," Boyle said. "The microwave can cut gift-making time considerably."

To make $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of citrus extract used for baking, remove the peel from one lemon or orange with a vegetable peeler or zester. Discard any white membrane. Place the peel in a 4-ounce bottle and add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup vodka. Microwave on high for 30 to 45 seconds or until the bottle feels warm. Cap the bottle and let it stand at room temperature for two weeks. "Recipes for baked goods using the extract could be included with this gift," Boyle said.

Besides a quick way to prepare gifts, the microwave oven is a timesaver when preparing meals after a long day of shopping, Boyle said. "Leftovers reheat quickly, and favorite dishes like baked potatoes or steamed broccoli take only minutes. Cleanup time is minimized because food often is cooked and served in the same dish."

And, of course, microwaves are great for heating up holiday meal leftovers. The easiest way to reheat a single serving of turkey meat is on a dinner plate covered with wax paper or plastic wrap, Boyle said.

"Arrange the meat so the thickest slices are on the outside and microwave on medium (50 percent) for 1 to 3 minutes. This method saves cleanup time because the food is cooked and served on the same plate," she said.

Aside from single serving reheat, turkey or ham leftovers can be added to special casserole dishes made quickly and easily in a microwave oven. Following are recipes from the Sharp test kitchens:

QUICHE IN A CRESCENT

1 1/4 cups finely cubed ham
1 cup finely cubed Swiss cheese
1 small onion, finely chopped
1 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen chopped broccoli, thawed and drained
1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg
Pepper to taste
2 (8 oz.) pkgs. refrigerator crescent rolls

Preheat convection microwave oven to 375 F. Combine all ingredients except crescent rolls, mix well.

Flatten each crescent roll. Spoon 1 1/2 tablespoons ham mixture onto crescent. Roll up, starting at wide end. Pinch edges together. Place on ungreased pizza pans. Bake at low, 12 to 14 minutes, until golden brown.

Makes 16 crescents.

CHEESY TURKEY MARSALA

1/2 lb. cooked sliced turkey
6 ozs. mushrooms, sliced
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
1/2 cup water
1 tbsp. cornstarch
1/2 cup Marsala wine
1 tsp. instant beef bouillon
1/2 tsp. garlic powder
Pepper to taste
1/2 cup grated Monterey Jack cheese
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Place sliced turkey in 8x8-inch baking dish. Combine mushrooms and butter in medium bowl. Cook at high until mushrooms are soft, 2 to 3 minutes.

With slotted spoon, scoop up mushrooms and spread over turkey. Dissolve cornstarch in water, add to mushroom liquid. Add wine, bouillon and seasoning. Mix well. Cook at high until sauce begins to thicken, 3 to 4 minutes, stirring once.

Pour sauce over turkey. Cover with plastic wrap. Cook at high until turkey is hot, 5 to 6 minutes. Combine cheese and sprinkle over sauce. Cook at high until cheese melts, 30 to 40 seconds.

Makes 3 servings.

EPICUREAN EDIBLES

Gifts that satisfy friends' food cravings

By Ariene Mandell

Picture yourself doing all your Christmas shopping in a few hours and in only five stores. Imagine assembling 50 unique personal gift packages in 50 minutes without wrapping anything. Think of pleasing all the recipients immensely, without overspending.

"It's not only possible, it's incredibly easy," said Ron Solovitz, president of the Gourmet Group Ltd., manufacturers of Perfect Endings cakes.

"Since I'm in the specialty food business, I decided to get everyone food-related gifts last Christmas," he said. "But I didn't have a lot of time. So I made the usual Christmas list and next to each name I wrote that person's particular food passion. This formed the basis for a shopping scheme that yielded amazingly varied gifts tailored to the special cravings of each recipient."

Here's how you can do the same:

— List each person's favorite non-perishable food or flavor. Your list might include almonds, apricots, chocolate, cheese, coffee, hot peppers and spices, oranges, pasta, raspberries, walnuts and so on.

— Go to a local specialty food shop and pile a basket with gourmet goodies that include the preferred flavors — Jordan almonds, imported spiced apricots, Cointreau-soaked chocolate cake, Stilton cheese, decaffeinated mocha espresso, raspberry vinegar, dried jalapeno peppers, whole nutmegs.

— Head for the kitchen gadget section of your nearest department store. Look for items that in themselves would not make great gifts — slotted berry spoons, nutmeg graters, spice grinders and oversized coffee mugs — but would be wonderful additions to the food portion of each gift.

— Stop at a bookstore and pick up related cookbooks for those who might want to experiment further with their favorite food. Mexican cookbooks for the spice lovers, cheese-serving guides for the cheese aficionados and the latest chocolate cookbook for those who simply can't resist that craving.

— For more expensive gift packages, pick up some cordials and liquors from a liquor store. Some liquor stores will deliver, so you may be able to eliminate this stop from your shopping spree.

— Buy shiny red paper shopping bags in several sizes, gift cards, white tissue paper and red-and-white striped ribbon at a gift wrap boutique.

Assembling the gifts is the most fun, Solovitz said. Line up the empty shopping bags, tape the recipient's name on each (later replace with proper gift card) and begin filling them. Control the total price of each gift by the number of items you place in each bag, saving the cordials and liquors for more costly gifts. Stuff tissue paper between items as needed. Add gift cards, remove the temporary labels and adorn with striped ribbon streamers.

You'll have an array of very personal, edible and enjoyable gifts for your friends and family. And anything that's left over, you can consume yourself.

GOBBLING GOODIES
Baked goods
warm the season

By Carol Roberts

Let's face it. Sometimes Christmas isn't all it's cracked up to be. Throngs of Christmas shoppers, high prices tagged to "perfect" gifts and chilling weather can put a damper on the Christmas spirit.

At times like these, a good way to warm up to the holiday spirit — and cheer up — is through an afternoon or evening spent in the kitchen baking Christmas goodies with the family. The aroma of muffins baking to a golden brown, the buttery taste of warm coffee cakes and the crisp crunch of gaily decorated gingerbread men would make even the Grinch giggle with delight.

And while the goodies are delightful to eat, they also make wonderful gifts. When baking for your family, pop an extra pan of coffee cakes or sheet of cookies into the oven for neighbors and friends. Then let your kids play Santa's elves and deliver decorated goodies with the recipe attached. For an extra-special gift, leave the goodies in the bakeware, tie it up with a bright ribbon and give as a gift with the recipe as a tag.

Following are a few fun recipes to try from Chicago Metallic Inc., a manufacturer of bakeware.

COFFEE CAKE WREATHS

2 pkgs. dry yeast
1/2 cup warm water
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar

6 1/2 cups flour
2 eggs

Stir yeast into warm water in large bowl. In saucepan, heat milk, shortening and sugar to about 115 F; add to yeast. Beat in about 2 cups flour and add eggs. Beat in as much remaining flour as possible. Continue to add flour gradually. Knead for 8 to 10 minutes.

Place dough in large greased bowl. Cover and let rise until doubled. Punch down and turn out onto lightly floured surface. Divide dough into two equal parts. Cover with towel and let rest for 10 minutes before forming.

To make wreaths, cut dough into golf ball-size balls. Take dough balls between hands, shape into ropes. Take two ropes of dough, pinch together at ends and twist. Form a ring and pinch ends together. Place in greased oversized-muffin pan; let rise until doubled. Bake at 375 F for 15 to 20 minutes. Decorate as desired, with frosting or glaze.

Makes 6 wreaths.

CRANBERRY-PECAN MUFFINS

1 1/2 cups coarsely chopped fresh cranberries
1/4 cup sugar

3 cups flour
1 cup sugar
1 tbsp. and 1 1/2 tsps. baking powder
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup chopped pecans
2 eggs
1 cup milk

Combine cranberries and 1/4 cup sugar. Set aside.

Combine next three ingredients, mixing well. Cut in shortening with pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse meal. Stir in pecans. Make well in center of mixture.

In separate bowl, beat eggs, stir in milk. Add egg mixture to dry ingredients, stirring only until moistened. Gently stir in cranberry mixture.

Spoon batter into greased muffin tin. Bake at 400 F for 12 minutes.

Makes 4 1/2 dozen mini muffins.

GINGERBREAD PEOPLE

1 1/2 cups dark molasses
1 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup shortening
7 cups all-purpose flour
2 tsps. baking soda
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. ground allspice
2 tsps. ground ginger
1 tsp. ground cloves
1 tsp. ground cinnamon

Mix molasses, brown sugar, water and shortening. Mix in remaining ingredients. Cover and refrigerate at least 2 hours.

Heat oven to 350 F. Roll dough 1/4-inch thick on floured board. Cut with floured gingerbread people cutter or other favorite cutter. Place about 2 inches apart on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake until no indentation remains when touched, 10 to 12 minutes; cool. Decorate with frosting.

Makes about 2 1/2 dozen 2 1/2-inch cookies.

Mistletoe is 'tree thief.'

The scientific name of the romantic parasite, mistletoe, comes from Greek words meaning "tree thief." But that's not completely true, for mistletoe doesn't rob its host entirely.

It makes its own sugar and starch from its own chlorophyll, but draws on the host tree for water and certain minerals. Hardy oaks and other hardwood trees can survive this sort of petty larceny.

But the dwarf mistletoe, another species, is a slow killer of conifers in the western and southwestern United States.

ALL THE TRIMMINGS

Decorations for the Yule tree

By Gary Krieger

A little Yuletide quiz: Which of the following would you expect to find on a Christmas tree?

1. Heavy metal chains (the kind punks wear to concerts).
2. Plastic tubes (the kind some hospital patients simply can't live without — literally).
3. Plastic cocktail glasses (the kind Alcoholics Anonymous put cocktail peanuts in).
4. A partridge (the sort found in a pear tree).
5. All of the above.

The answer, as un-Santa and unsleigh bells as it might be, is No. 5 — All of the above. Christmas trees aren't — and are — what they used to be. Traditional trees festooned with ribbons and bows, gingerbread people, lace, dried and fresh flowers, bundles of potpourri, angels and other things nostalgic are the majority.

But there are other decorations that take a decidedly avant-garde approach to the season of mistletoe and holly.

Entries in a collegiate design-a-tree contest give the non-conformist several ideas for trimming his tree.

One tree built around a hardware store theme was decorated with non-edible candy canes. The decorations were four-inch aluminum plumbing sleeves wrapped with red glitter-covered pipe cleaners with pipe cleaner hooks at the top. Clear intravenous tubes were stuffed with the red glitter pipe cleaners and spiraled over the tips of the branches.

A new-wave theme tree was spray-painted black then decorated with bluish-silver chains and geometric, 3-dimensional ornaments.

Clear plastic drink cups and an oven were the basic ingredients of another tree. To make the decorations, preheat an oven to 400 F, line cookie sheets with foil, then place the plastic cups right side up on the sheets. Tuck colored plastic beads in the centers of the bottoms of the cups, then pop them into the oven for two minutes.

The cups will melt and collapse on themselves creating crinkled shiny decorations with colored-bead centers. When the ornaments come out of the oven, punch a hole in each with a heated nail and tie with ribbon for hanging. The plastic cups look very much like expensive crystal ornaments.

The 12 days of Christmas was the theme, and gold and white the color scheme of the tree decorated with plastic calling birds, white ceramic geese, foam swans trimmed in gold, ladies dancing, maids-a-milking and lords-a-leaping. The tree was finished with white ribbon bows.

Several trees had a decidedly Victorian look with decorations such as Styrofoam balls wrapped with lace-trimmed ribbon, satin and flower petal potpourri wrapped in lace and tied with bows. If you go for the spicy stuff, here are some suggestions from the American Spice Trade Association:

— Pomander balls, which are clove-stuck lemons, limes or oranges.

— Small wicker baskets filled with cinnamon sticks and tied with ribbon and lace.

— Miniature raffia or wicker wreaths encircling a cinnamon stick candle tied with a taffeta bow.

And if you like romantic decorations but don't have much time to prepare them, try a tree decorated with fresh flowers.

had flowers placed in florist vials of water for preservation and then were tucked in the boughs. The entire tree then was given a treatment of white baby's breath and garlanded with white, giving a delicate, high-fantasy presentation.

Make a toy list,
check it twice

By Rebecca Jo Tabb

It isn't enough to simply read a child's wish list while shopping for Christmas toys, warns a major toy manufacturer. For safety's sake, shoppers also should read the boxes in which the toys are packaged — after spending a Saturday morning watching children's programs on TV.

"If you want to get a good idea about what a toy is like and how safe it is, sit down with your kids on a Saturday morning and watch television with them," suggested Mary Woodworth of Tonny Corp.

"The important thing to notice in any commercial is the 'island,'" she said. "It tells you almost everything you need to know safetywise."

The island is the shot at the end of each commercial that shows the toy by itself. If the toy is a set, all its pieces are pictured in this still shot, and here any manufacturer's disclaimers are made.

"This is when you can find out if the toy comes with batteries or if it has to be assembled," Woodworth said. "Here's also where you can look at all the pieces and check each one for safety. Look for sharp edges, for small pieces that can be swallowed, for anything you feel wouldn't be appropriate for your child."

Commercials also can provide a springboard for discussions about which toys children like and why. In such talks, parents often can determine which toys would be treasured and which would be tossed aside after a short while.

Once lists have been made and the actual shopping is under way, carefully read the information printed on toy packaging, Woodworth said. The main item to look for is the age range for which the toy is intended.

The biggest mistake most adults make when shopping for children's toys is buying items that are too advanced for the child in question.

"What you often see is something like a father buying an electric train for a toddler," Woodworth said. "It's a case where the father actually wants the toy for himself because he remembers how much he enjoyed trains when he was a little boy. But the problem is that while an electric train is appropriate for an older child, it can be very dangerous for a very young one.

The solution might be for the father to go ahead and buy the electric train for himself, making sure it's clear that the toy is for Dad, not for the child. Then he can buy a similar but more appropriate toy for the toddler — maybe a plastic choo-choo that can be pulled around."

Children who are apt to put anything and everything into their mouths shouldn't have toys with batteries, Woodworth said. Batteries contain acid and can be very harmful.

Parents who have children of different ages in the home should be especially careful in toy selection.

"What's safe for an 8-year-old may not be safe for a 2-year-old," Woodward said. "The small parts of a building set or board game are potential hazards for little ones who may put things into their mouths. Make sure older children keep their toys out of the reach of toddlers."

Toys for toddlers should be checked for parts that can be removed and swallowed, sharp edges, pinching points and other hazards. Seams on stuffed toys should be closely examined, she said.

"Ideally, it would be great if you could go to a store and actually sit down with your child and try out the toy he thinks he wants," she says. "Unfortunately, that's almost impossible. That's why it's so important to be informed before you go shopping and to read the information on the boxes once you're in the store."

And that's why it's so important that toys be checked out as soon as shoppers get them home.

"If the toy requires assembly, check to be sure all the parts are there. Then if you have to make an exchange, you can do so while the stores still have that toy in stock," Woodworth said.

Once boxes are opened on Christmas Day, throw them away, along with the wrappings. Avoid boxes with such potential hazards as protruding staples.

BOOKSHELF

Volumes of cheer for Christmas

By Anita Issea Mizner

Delicious and delightful are these cookbooks — valuable far beyond their moderate price tags. Your neighbors, family, colleagues and friends all will love having copies of the following:

"New York's Master Chefs," by Richard Sax, Knapp Press, Los Angeles, $3.95.

Public television recently featured a popular series about 13 New York master chefs selected by Bon Appétit magazine as representative practitioners of six different cuisines.

For this book, the editors chose dishes from menus created by each chef — Andre Soltner of Lutecia, Simon Teng of Auntie Yuan, Seppi Renggli of The Four Seasons and Lydia Bastianich of Felidia, to name a few.

Each tasting menu, consisting of an appetizer or soup, main course and dessert, is a capsule course in a particular cuisine. Each of these exclusive restaurant recipes has been retested and adapted for the home kitchen by author Sax and his assistant, Sandra Gluck. Sax, food authority, journalist and teacher, displays his talents in the interesting text and written recipes of this book. Preparing the recipes at home is the next best thing to a gastronomic tour of the master chefs' own restaurants. And a lot less expensive.

"Muffins," by Elizabeth Alston, Crown Publishers, New York, $8.95.

Alston, food editor of Woman's Day magazine, has written a long-awaited treatise on muffins. A previous book on bread baking was one of the best on that subject, simply because she is such a creative and thorough professional.

"Muffins" is a little gem. Its 60 recipes are listed under five chapter headings: breakfast muffins, tea muffins, savory muffins, diet muffins and spreads and preserves.

The chapter on special diet muffins is invaluable to those concerned about calories, cholesterol and various allergies. But anyone fortunate enough to be gifted with "Muffins" will find all the recipes irresistible (and affordable). When you consider what a decent muffin costs at a posh take-out foodery, Alston's book is worth its weight in gold.

"Nutritious Brown-Bag Lunches," by Margaret Happel, Bantam Books, New York, $2.95.

This book offers a whole new concept on how to prepare portable meals.

Happel, food and nutrition editor of Redbook magazine, has written a book, an eminently portable book, for those who care enough to eat the very best — nutritious brown-bag lunches. Between the covers are more than 200 fast, easy and satisfying meals to take to school, the office, anywhere and everywhere.

If you were laboring under the impression that lunch away from home consisted mainly of gloppy sandwiches, Happel's book should change your mind pronto. In it you'll discover all kinds of recipes from lovely lunch-box soups to tempting dessert treats, plus cooking and preparation tips, recommended equipment, speedy shortcuts and tips for dieters. It's a great stocking stuffer.

Two additional cookbooks offer incredible value and are wonderful stocking stuffers — however, be sure to get giant-size stockings.

"Authentic Cajun Cooking," by Paul Prudhomme.

The McIlhenny Co., makers of products bearing the Tabasco® label, and Chef Paul, owner of K-Paul's Restaurant in New Orleans maximized on their friendship to produce this big softcover book, illustrated in full color and spiced with photos and vignettes from the master cook's childhood.

The book contains 17 special recipes to enable everyone to share the culinary magic of Cajun cooking. For a copy, send name and address with a check for $1.75 to: "Authentic Cajun Cooking," McIlhenny Co., Avery Island, LA 70513.

"16 Classic American Recipes," by Jean Anderson.

The McIlhenny Co. combined forces with Anderson, author of "The Grass Roots Cookbook," to create yet another large cookbook. It brings to life America's culinary heritage from 16 regions of the United States with details on the people, the times and origins of such dishes as chili, shrimp jambalaya, black bean soup, Maryland chicken and more.

You'll enjoy trying the foods that sustained the people of the nation when it was new and growing — and in the current culinary renaissance.

For a copy of this charming book, send name and address with a check for $1 to: "16 Classic American Recipes," Department 16, McIlhenny Co., Avery Island, LA 70513.

Why mistletoe is small

According to early Christmas legends, mistletoe was once a tree, but shrank in shame after Christ's cross was made from its wood.

The current romantic custom of stealing a kiss under a sprig of mistletoe comes from Scandinavian mythology.

But only "one berry, one kiss," wrote Washington Irving in his "Sketch Book." No more kisses once the berries are all gone, he said.

Mistletoe, a parasite, can't be cultivated — it just happens. — CNS

Holly sacred to Druids

Holly was sacred to the Druids, priests of ancient Gaul and Britain who appear in Welsh and Irish legends as sorcerers and prophets.

They believed the sun never deserted the holly tree, which was why it never lost its leaves. — CNS

GIFTS THAT COUNT No-blues budget gifts from the heart

By Carolyn Coll

Hey, wait a minute. Didn't you leave someone's name off your gift list?

Come on now, don't groan. Don't say you can't afford to buy another gift. After all, the person you've forgotten is the most important one in your life — you.

You deserve a treat, too, said Barbara De Angelis, a Los Angeles psychologist who has a Ph.D. in psychology and human sexuality. Give yourself a special gift, something you wouldn't normally buy, she said. It could be a day relaxing from the tensions of the season at a posh spa or a leisurely lunch with your best friend or a new hardcover book by your favorite author.

The ultimate gift you could give yourself, however, is one that won't cost a cent — eliminate the shoulds of gift giving from the holiday season.

Why should you buy your niece a gift simply because her mother gave your son a birthday gift? If you buy someone a gift only because you feel you should, you'll end up feeling angry and frustrated, De Angelis said.

And why should you have to spend the next six months scrimping to pay for the Christmas gifts you've bought? What's wrong with giving a gift of love, something from your heart that will have a special meaning for the recipient?

"People used to make gifts," De Angelis said. "Even with everyone working, there's still time to write to your grandmother and thank her for all the wonderful childhood memories she gave you."

She'll appreciate the letter much more than another nightgown she'll tuck away in a drawer. By getting rid of all the shoulds, you'll be more relaxed during the holiday season and less susceptible to a case of the holiday blues.

There are many reasons why people might feel a little depressed at this time of year, she said. "People get all caught up in what to buy for whom," she said. "We've gotten caught up in the materialistic side of the season."

Originally, she said, it was a religious time, a time of celebration, a time for new beginnings. "Now it's, 'How much do I spend?'"

Even children aren't immune to the blues, because there is such an emphasis on material possessions. They usually get a ridiculous amount of bought stuff, she said, but still feel let down after all the gifts have been opened.

The implied and sometimes blatant promise that if children are good, they will get everything they want teaches children a reward system that turns them into performers to win people's love, the psychologist said.

But people can break out of the materialistic web. De Angelis suggested teaching children that Christmas is a time of family celebration.

"Talk to them about the spirit of the season and about love and the family," she said. "Sit down with your children and say, 'We're going to give you some of the bought things you want and need, but we're also going to give you some love gifts.'"

The love gift could be a parent's promise to go horseback riding with the child once a week for a month, the psychologist said. Or the parent could say, "I'm going to fix your favorite food for your lunch every Thursday."

Aside from the materialistic side to holiday blues, holidays can cause depression for people who were in a relationship last year but since have divorced or broken up.

These people need to reach out to other people, she said. "Don't isolate yourself," she warned. Call up someone and suggest that the two of you take a bike ride along the beach or go to a movie, she suggested.

"You have to make an effort," De Angelis said. "Don't feel sorry for yourself. Don't wait for someone to call up and say 'I want you to come to this wonderful party.'"

Create your own special holiday event and invite everyone else who is waiting for someone to call, she said. "Ask others to help plan it, and have a ball."

If you are a divorced parent, she said, don't wait until Christmas Eve to decide where the children will spend Christmas Day.

"Make all the plans for the holiday well in advance," she said. "Discuss the gifts you'll be giving. Don't wait to find out that both you and your ex-spouse have bought bicycles for the children."

"There are some awful blow-ups during the holidays because people didn't make their plans clear."

What about the family who is grieving over the death of a loved one?

"Never ignore grief," she said. "If you or someone you know has lost someone, take some special time to honor that person. Talk about what the loved one meant to you. Share your feelings. There will be some tears, but don't shut out the grief. Honor the memory of that person."
