The Hicksville Kiwanis Club will again be raising funds for the Salvation Army of Nassau County when they gaily ring a bell next to the traditional "Red Kettle" in the entranceway to Pathmark Supermarket on North Broadway on Friday evening, December 13 and Saturday afternoon, December 14.

In preparation for this activity, the Kiwanis Club was visited at their weekly luncheon meeting on November 27 by Salvation Army officials Major Donald H. Spencer, Nassau County Director, and Mr. Stuart Mott, Nassau County Field Representative.

Major Spencer spoke to the Kiwanis members about the beneficial services provided by the Salvation Army for needy Nassau County residents. He also thanked Kiwanis for their help in previous years and for what they will do again this year.

The Kiwanian "Santa's Helpers" who will be on duty on the 13th and 14th will appreciate your generosity, as will the Salvation Army. In the photo, Kiwanian Vice President and Program Chairman, as well as Treasurer of the local Salvation Army branch, Lou Pasellino, center, is flanked by Major Spencer on the left, and Mr. Mott on the right.

To the Editor:

SCAN (Syosset's Community counselling agency) recently held a fund-raising Pancake Breakfast. Mr. Steve Arianaws of the Syosset Station Diner made a very significant contribution by allowing SCAN to use the Station Diner for the breakfast. He, and his family and staff also worked hard that day.

We thank him publicly for this wonderful service he has done for SCAN and for the town.

Sincerely,

A Memorial To Dr. Galloway

By Kenneth S. Barnes
Hicksville Public Library

The recent death of Dr. Leon Galloway, Library Trustee, School Administrator and public spirited citizen, was a sad loss to the community. Leon Galloway's career spanned 41 years in the Hicksville School system.

In a 1976 interview, conducted as part of the Oral History project of the Hicksville Public Library, Dr. Galloway reminisced about his career in public education and the changes in the community. In 1929, when young Leon Galloway arrived, he began teaching business subjects as the head of a department of three. Hicksville was an agrarian community of about 6,000 people, mainly potato farmers and small businessmen.

Fifty teachers served the schools at Nicholai Street, East Street and the Junior-Senior High School on Jerusalem Avenue. When he was appointed principal of the Junior H.S. in 1947, he was confronted almost immediately with the vast post-war expansion that transformed Hicksville and Long Island forever. In less than six years, Hicksville had built half a dozen elementary schools, and by 1968, served more than 13,000 school children. The way this educational crisis was handled by School Board, School Administrators and teachers was certainly a model of community responsibility. Mr. Galloway seemed to be most proud of the pre-BOCES Vocational Programs and the early foreign language program developed by the schools. He also served as Principal of the Hicksville High School and Administrative Assistant of the Superintendent of Schools.

In 1949 Dr. Galloway joined the Library Board of Trustees and served until 1961. He served with distinction during a period when the public library was trying to cope with increased demand and the loss of their first home in the Nicholai Street School in 1950. He fully supported the first library expansion in 1955 and served as a

Dr. Galloway was well known for his Civil War Collection of Confederate money and signatures. His 5,000-6,000 volume library of the Civil War is one of the most extensive in the area. His other hobbies included travel and, in recent years, foreign language study. He was a generous man who established college scholarships for Hicksville residents and provided the funds for a chapel in the United Methodist Church in Hicksville.

Dr. Galloway was a dedicated educator who was always primarily interested in the youngsters in his charge. He will always live in the hearts and minds of several generations of Hicksville children.

Since a sizable percentage of Hicksville residents and businesses are being asked to choose which long distance telephone company they wish to use, or face having a company assigned to them, it was very timely for the Hicksville Kiwanis Club to invite Mr. Paul Martin, Jr., Community Relations Manager of New York Telephone Co. to speak to them about "Equal Access" at their December 4 meeting.

Mr. Martin suggested that residents and businesses should analyze their long distance calling needs, and then discuss these calling practices with all of the available companies to determine what charges the various companies have for the distances, time of day, length of calls, etc. for their usual long distance calling practices. This could help them to decide which company to sign up with.

East St. Mourns Mrs. Nelson

East Street School is mourning the loss of Janet Findlay Nelson, beloved first grade teacher. Mrs. Nelson dedicated 30 years of caring and devotion to the children of Hicksville. Janet took many courses and was always enthusiastic about each new idea she could bring back to her classroom.

She made a special effort to know and satisfy the needs of each of her children. Janet spent many outside hours preparing tapes and other materials for her first graders.

Janet was a supportive friend to the whole staff in times of trouble. She added her wonderful "touch" to all the social coffees at the school. Her caring, dedicated spirit will be missed by everyone; parents, teachers and children.

Workshop Scheduled For Phone Service

On December 11, the Nassau County Department of Consumer Affairs will host a workshop for Nassau County residents on choosing a long-distance telephone carrier, according to Town Councilman Douglas J. Hynes.

"The workshop," Hynes said, "will provide Nassau County residents with information regarding the selection process involved in choosing a long-distance carrier. Representatives from New York Telephone and the various long-distance carriers will be at the workshop to answer questions."

The workshop is being hosted by the Nassau County Department of Consumer Affairs in conjunction with the New York State Public Service Commission.

The workshop will be held at the Nassau County Board of Supervisors Hearing Room, One West Street, Mineola, beginning at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, December 11.

Give A Tree For The Holidays

The Manetto Hill Jewish Center is in the process of planting a grove of 1000 trees in the land of Israel.

From the time the Jewish people were exiled from ancient Judea in the year 70 C.E., until the return of the Jewish people to their ancient homeland in the 20th century, that territory known as Palestine was permitted to deteriorate ecologically. Since 1900, when the Zionist Movement began, over 150,000,000 trees have been planted by hand as the soil of ancient Israel is reclaimed for the benefit of citizens and visitors alike.

An unusual gift idea, for Jews and Christians at this season of the year, is planting one or more trees in honor of a relative or friend. People so honored receive a beautifully illuminated tree certificate indicating how many trees were planted, the name of the honoree and the name of the person or persons who purchased the tree.

Trees cost $5.25 each and may be purchased by calling the Manetto Hill Jewish Center office at 935-5454 Monday through Friday, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

When the congregation reaches its goal of 1000 trees, a special sign will be erected at the site of the grove in Israel.

Priority Mail Offers Fast Delivery

There is a fast way to mail Christmas packages that many last-minute shoppers may have overlooked, according to Hicksville Postmaster Roger Niemeyer.

Priority mail affords First-Class handling for packages weighing over 12 ounces and up to 70 pounds. It's fast and consistent, offering next-day delivery up to 150 miles from the originating post office and delivery in three days anywhere in the United States.

"It's the ideal service for people who want prompt package delivery yet would like to avoid the higher cost of Express Mail Next Day Service," said Niemeyer.

Priority Mail can be sent from any post office, station or branch or through rural carriers to any address in the United States and even to foreign countries. The service is available with insurance, return receipts, COD, certificates of mailing and special delivery.

Customers interested in Priority Mail should contact the Hicksville Post Office for details.

To help those last minute shoppers, the Hicksville main lobby will be open on Sunday, December 15 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Christmas Poem

Softly rings the Church
Bells Chime
Once again it's Christmas time
Stacked beneath the Xmas tree
Are wonderful gifts for you and me.

Stockings hung by the fire side
Smaller toys in which to hide.
Candy Canes and clothes so fine
Oh the Joy at Xmas time.
Slowly down the stairs we creep
Mother and Dad are fast asleep.
Santa came and went away
May happiness be yours this Christmas Day.

Fork Lane Goes Shopping

Story and Photos by A. Eichenauer

December 5 and 6 were very busy days at Fork Lane. The entire student body along with teachers, and parents were able to do all their holiday shopping without ever leaving the school.

The P.T.A. held a super holiday shop this year. The variety of items available were excellent for young shoppers.

Classes were permitted to come in the shop for approximately 30 minutes, look around and buy. Some children came in with a list of gifts they needed to buy, and found everything they wanted.

The P.T.A. would like to thank Dr. Anne Martin for the use of her class room for the two days. Also thanks to all the following for giving up their time to help in the holiday shop: Ginny Romano, Madeline Senn, Aurea Zeiders, Sharon Fusco, Joanne Tomolonis, Annette Eichenauer, Joann Zagarello, Marcia Gunnile, Maryann Goldberg, Pat Burns, Jackie Adelstein and Eileen Patricolo.

(L to R.) Ginny Romano, Madeline Senn, and Maryann Goldberg checking off their lists of gifts they are going to buy.

Joann Zagarello was in charge of the Jewelry table. All the girls in the school went crazy for the birthstone rings.

'Thank You' Mrs. Nelson

By Geraldine Geannikis

It is the October Open House at East St. 1984. I squeeze my 5'8" body uncomfortably into my six year old daughter's desk. A rather short, dark haired, blue eyed, Mrs. Nelson is about to welcome parents to her domain. The greeting is cordial. She begins her presentation by handing out a newspaper article, which she has made copies of, concerning the effects of today's fast paced television shows on the minds of young children.

This lady describes, as she has done for so many years before, what it is like to be in first grade. She explains her goals and what she expects to teach the children. I have been through this many times but this time something happens. I find myself completely under her spell. She demonstrates props (teaching aids) she will use, she shows us the tapes that she herself has prepared for the children which will augment her lessons. Tapes which took hours of her time to prepare.

When she tells of teaching the children to read, her face lights up and her eyes sparkle with excitement as she relates her feelings about written words and the imagination. My uncomfortable body becomes relaxed and this feeling of peace of mind takes over. My child will be with her in first grade, one of the most important grades in a child's school career and she will have this gift of enthusiasm and excitement.

The dictionary defines vocation as a calling. Mrs. Nelson took this calling and made it her life. Her occupation was not five days a week. It was much more. It was Saturday class trips to the Long Island Philharmonic. It was a weeks worth of homework written by hand and copied for each child with a brief note as to the goings on for the week and very often a cordial greeting to the parents. It was her Halloween costumes of story book characters she wore each Halloween.

It was her joy to teach the children that walked through her door for thirty years. Each year a new class, each year the same love and devotion, never tiring.

At Thanksgiving, East Street School had a poster hanging in the hall entitled "Things I am Thankful For". Mrs. Nelson signed her name and wrote "for being able to teach for thirty years". It will be much more than thirty years, Mrs. Nelson. The children whose minds and hearts you have touched will remember you and be taught for the rest of their lives.

We thank you for all you have given us.

Pieces like love seat popular with collectors

By James G. McCollam

Q. This love seat appears to be hand-carved walnut. The upholstery fabric is petit point and is in fairly good shape.

I would appreciate your opinion as to the period and value of this beautiful piece.

A. Your love seat is a relatively modern version of Louis XV styling. It probably was made around the turn of the century.

Collectors are buying pieces like this regardless of age and one like this would sell for $800 to $900.

Q. I have a Hummel figurine No. 7 (II)2, "Merry Wanderer." It is 9½ inches tall and has the attached mark on the bottom.

What can you tell me about its vintage and value?

Goebel
W. Germany

A. The mark you provided is Trade Mark No. 5 and was used from 1972 to 1979. Currently, this version of the "Merry Wanderer" is selling for at least $600.

Q. I bought a small dish with a human hand standing up in the center. The dealer said it was a "ring tree." Are these really collectible, and what kind of prices do they bring?

A. Ring trees can be as you describe or be like the branches of a tree or a post with rods sticking out. They all are intended to hold rings and jewelry. They can be made of china, glass or metal.

Here are some typical prices:
Custard glass — $100.
Cut glass — $30.
Milk glass — $25.
Silver plate (elaborate) — $125.
Limoges porcelain — $50.
Nippon porcelain — $70.
Noritake porcelain — $60.
Royal Worcester porcelain — $95.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and $1 per item to James G. McCollam. All questions will be answered but published pictures cannot be returned.

McCollam is a member of the Antique Appraisers Association of America.

Our Children

Child abuse takes many forms

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Q. Please don't think I am not concerned about child abuse, because I certainly am. It is just that I sometimes think we have to broaden our view somewhat, taking in the kinds of abuse that seem to get no attention. Sometimes they may occur more often than the physical or sexual kinds that get so much publicity through newspapers and magazines.

Kids eating candy, drinking soft drinks and gobbling down junk foods are one example. Another is the way some parents use sarcasm or other put-downs with their children.

My own are now grown up, thank goodness, but I seem to see and hear more and more of the types I have mentioned here. I wish you would let parents know how often they overlook (and would be surprised at the frequency of) the types of child abuse of which they are guilty.

A. You are on target. To call attention to nutritional and emotional child abuse is definitely worthwhile.

While we are on the abuse subject, it may also be useful to stress another factor. Much emphasis is placed on sexual abuse incidents in schools and preschools, but there is considerable evidence that it occurs far more frequently in families, among so-called friends and in other non-school settings. That is where the spotlight of news coverage needs increasing emphasis.

Q. You have received letters in the past from parents regarding traveling with their children. Their questions usually relate to noise, disorder, activities and cleanliness.

Mine also relate to traveling, but with an adult "child." He is 21, and we have just completed a cross-country driving trip which we both looked forward to very much. Your suggestions are obviously too late for that one, but there might be another sometime, and I want to be prepared.

Don't get me wrong. The trip was pretty pleasant, but perhaps it could have been even better. He drove and I "navigated," so a lot of my comments related to where we had been, where we were headed, mileage involved, motel possibilities and other logistical factors.

I suggested word games like "three-fourths of a ghost" (which pestered out pretty fast), and brought up books, movies and news items. His responses were generally cryptic or non-existent. The radio was on whenever we could get a station, but our tastes differed quite a bit. Much of the time was filled with silence, especially in long stretches between communities in the Southwest and West.

Because we had time for few stops for scenery or state and national attractions, we spent full days on the road.

Neither of us seemed to be dissatisfied, so maybe it is just difficult for father and adult "child" to get more out of a trip like this than just a common experience.

What do you think?

A. Unless you have common interests in career involvements, hobbies, national or international events, or reading, motion pictures, music or other entertainment resources — and are both willing to share them — perhaps you did as much as you could.

One other factor to consider is how much communication you have when you are not traveling together. If it normally is somewhat limited, there is no reason to expect it to loosen up just because you are in a car.

Besides, silence isn't so bad once in awhile. Every pause doesn't have to be filled with something that may seem nonsensical to one of you.

Any other readers with reactions to these issues? How about sharing them?

Q. Have you ever had a gum chewer in your family? How about two?

The oldest one in mine (my wife) is too far gone with the habit for me to do anything about it. She has been at it for years, and either enjoys it or just enjoys taunting me with it because I think it is so unattractive.

But maybe it isn't too late with our daughter, who is only 6 years old. My wife rewards her by giving her gum, and the two of them chew together while they watch television.

Can you imagine how unpleasant it is to see them chewing in rhythm? Can you dream up a solution for the problem?

By the way, my wife works, and because her working hours are different from mine I often spend more time with our girl than she does.

A. You have several factors going for you: "Rewards" for your daughter based on an earned compliment you give her when she restrains herself; you as a non-chewing model; your reminding her of how unpleasant it looks, but without reaching the point on your part of nagging.

To be critical of her in front of others or using overt or implied criticism of your wife might defeat your purpose. Another danger you probably should try to avoid is putting your daughter in the middle.

Trying to have your wife support your efforts appears to be hopeless, so asking her to be an ally might just lead to an unpleasant confrontation between the two of you.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

PAGE TWENTY ONE Friday, December 13, 1985 MID ISLAND TIMES

New design and color for benefit checks

how do I report my earnings to Social Security? — J.D.Y.

A. An annual report of earnings must be completed no later than April 15 of a year. This report declares your earnings for the previous year and is an estimate of earnings for the current year.

If your earnings exceed the allowable yearly limits, we will notify you of the amount of overpayment and our intended action to recover it.

Q. I will be 62 in February. However, my husband won't be 62 until 1987. If I started collecting on my own record next year, will I still be able to receive wife's benefits when my husband retires? — C.J.

A. Yes, you can file for wife's benefits when he retires. If your wife's benefit is larger than what is payable on your own record, you will continue to receive what is payable on your own account plus the difference between your own benefit and the wife's benefit amount.

Q. I understand that the color of my Social Security check is no longer going to be the familiar green. Are all U.S. government checks going to be changing in appearance? — B.D.

A. The Social Security checks delivered beginning Dec. 3 have a new design, texture and color. The design features a full-length representation of the Statue of Liberty over a multicolored background ranging from light blue to pale peach.

All U.S. government checks eventually will be issued in this design. SSI checks will remain gold in color until the April 1 check.

Q. If I should decide to join a Health Maintenance Organization, do I continue to pay for Part B of Medicare? — B.J.

A. Yes, you must continue to pay your monthly Part B Medicare premiums to keep this coverage. The premium you pay the HMO is for deductibles and co-insurance. It is not the premium for Part B of Medicare.

Q. I know there is a limit on how much I can work and earn after I elect to draw Social Security. But Holiday Carnival At Woodland Ave.

On Saturday, December 7, the Woodland Avenue PTA hosted its annual Holiday Carnival. There was so much to enjoy for children and parents alike. There were game booths set up by parents from each grade; a bakery table displaying homemade cookies, cakes and cupcakes; a good table serving hot dogs, pizza and soda; a crafts table of handmade items made by sixth graders and Woodland Avenue parents, and a white elephant table set up by SEPTA. Face painting and nail painting were also made available by Woodland Avenue alumni girls. It seemed that everyone took chances on the many raffle prizes which included Twin Cabbage Patch Kids and two autographed Islander hockey sticks. And much to the chagrin of all the boys, these terrific prizes, including the hockey sticks were won by girls - Theresa Rejowsky and Lisa McCoy won the hockey sticks and Ms. Destefano won the Twin Cabbies.

The day was made even more special by the visit of one of Woodland Avenue's most famous families. The Liguoris - Al, Mona, Al, Dolly and Michelle - had returned from Vermont for a weekend visit and made the Holiday Carnival one of their stops. Dolly even helped out at the Face Painting booth.

All in all, it was a very enjoyable day for everyone at Woodland Avenue School.

News From V.F.W. Post 3241

By P.P.C. Carmine A. Somma

As we celebrate the Holiday Season with our families, let's take time out to remember that our fine young men are still missing in South East Asia Prison Camps. Let us pray during the Holy Season that all our (2,500) M.I.A.-P.O.W.s return home some day and that there will be peace around the world. Let us not forget about those young men during the Holy Season and say a prayer that they might be alive and healthy.

Good News-The Board of Education plans to put two War Monuments: one for all who served in Korea and the other for Vietnam. If any Veterans in the Hicksville area have any ideas or for more information call the V.F.W. Hall at 931-7843 or call the President of the Hicksville School Board, William P. Bennett, at 681-3182.

We as one of the Veterans Organizations in Hicksville, want to thank the Board of Education and the School Board for refurbishing War Memorials at the Hicksville Junior High School.

On November 15, we had our judging on the Voice of Democracy; our judges were Sheila Noeth from Mid Island Herald, Mr. Sig Widder from the Hicksville Community Council, and Mr. Tom Clark T.O.B. Councilman. On February 10, we have our Voice of Democracy Awards Nite.

Our Chaplain, Vincent Ferrara has his hands full with his committees. He is in charge of our Children's Christmas Party to be held on December 15, at the hall. He also will be running a Christmas Party for the Veterans we visit at 8-A at Northport Hospital. The food for this event will be donated by Iannone's Restaurant in Hicksville.

Sr. Vice Comdr. Bill Schuck will be in charge of the committees for Membership and the Post Christmas, to be held on Dec. 21, and our 51st Anniversary Dinner and Dance to be held on Saturday, Feb. 15. The Post's annual New Year's Eve Party will feature a prime rib dinner, unlimited liquor, music, and dancing from 9 to 2 a.m. The tickets are $35 per person. If you are interested, please contact Connie Steers at the V.F.W. Hall, 931-7843.

Veterans and their families who receive government checks should be aware that a new multi-colored paper check will soon replace the heavy green check which has been used for many years according to T.O.B. Councilman Angelo Delligatti. Information regarding veterans affairs may be obtained from the New York State Veterans Counselor located at Town Hall South, 977 Hicksville Road, Massapequa.

Starting January 11, we have new hours for our Las Vegas Nite from 7:45 p.m. to 1 a.m., and every second Saturday of the month, except in December, it will be first Saturday of the month.

Our two Bar Stewards, Max Bergson and Duncan McLean are happy to announce the H.V.A. provides for limited only "Cablevision" at the V.F.W. Hall. The bar is open Mon. and Wed. from 7 to 11 p.m., and Fri. only, 7 to 1 a.m.
