Three Robbers Accost Bakers

The Second Squad is investigating a robbery that occurred at Flakowitz Bakery, 433 N. Broadway, Jericho, at 3:30 a.m., February 18.

Two bakers were in the shop when three subjects entered through the back door, running towards baker James Thomas, 48, of Hollis, Queens. The first subject was armed with a tire iron, and struck the victim over the head. Mr. Thomas ran out of the shop by the front door, as did the other baker, Fred Carrillo, 25, of Hicksville.

They both ran to the nearby Jericho Fire Department where the dispatcher notified the police. The subjects did not leave the shop, and when police searched the area, they were gone. Loss is unknown at this time, possibly some money from the office.

Mr. Thomas was treated and released at Syosset Hospital for a head wound, for which he received ten stitches.

The subjects are described as three male whites, all 22-25 years, 150-165 lbs., one armed with a tire iron.

'Teacher Day' Next Tuesday

A very special day for some often unheralded people is coming up on Tuesday, March 4. That day is National Teacher Day. It is the one day of the year that public officials, parents, and just about everybody in the Hicksville School District can take time to thank teachers for their contributions to our community.

"Teachers here in Hicksville are proud of the work we do," says Bob Zaleski, President of the Hicksville Congress of Teachers. "We want our community to share in that pride."

According to Zaleski, the National Teacher Day celebration locally is part of a national and statewide program developed by the National Education Association and NEA/NY. The Hicksville Congress of Teachers will begin the day by providing an early morning breakfast for teachers in each Hicksville school.

"We deeply appreciate the support the Hicksville community has shown its teachers," says local union President Zaleski. "We intend to do our best each and every day of the year to show how much we care."

Court Dismisses Suit Against Bible Study

Hicksville Board of Education President William P. Bennett announced that a suit challenging a Bible study group formed by high school students was dismissed by the U.S. District Court.

Gregory Guercio, attorney for the Board of Education, informed the district that Judge Francis X. Altieri dismissed the action brought by community resident Harold B. Somer, ruling that he had no standing to sue because he had no children attending the Hicksville Public Schools. Mr. Somer contended that the meeting of the Bible group violated the establishment clause of the first amendment to the Constitution. The group was formed under the provisions of the federal Equal Access Law, and Mr. Bennett had requested that the U.S. Department of Justice act on the district's behalf in defending the law. The Justice Department representative also sought a dismissal of the case.

The Hicksville Board of Education has established administrative regulations governing all student clubs, including the Bible Study Club, a districtwide policy outlining the procedures to be followed pursuant to the Federal Equal Access Act has been adopted. Other districts in the area have requested copies of Hicksville's regulations to use as guides in their local implementation of Equal Access.

Founders Day At Fork Lane

This year Fork Lane is proud to honor the following three people: Mrs. Rita Bernstein our school Librarian, Mrs. Virginia Romano, our P.T.A. President and Mrs. Madeline Senn, founder of our hot lunch program.

These three women have devoted many hours of their time to help make Fork Lane a better school, and it worked.

Mrs. Bernstein has been our Library Teacher for 15 years. She's always there to help the children and teach them how to use the library to its fullest potential. She also devotes two days a week working with the Gifted and Talented classes.

Mrs. Romano has been our P.T.A. President for the past two years and has done wonders in this position. She has brought many new ideas with her from Loundale where she was P.T.A. President also. In the three short years that she is here she has been involved as co-founder of our Junior Girl Scout Troop, she has also devoted her time with the Brownie Troop of which her youngest daughter is in. She has given the P.T.A. many ideas on new fund raisers, she's class member also accompanied classes on field trips and cares about the educational opportunities that Fork Lane has to offer our youngsters. Mrs. Romano has two daughters who attend Fork Lane, one in third grade and one in sixth, her son is in the Jr. High in ninth grade and another daughter who is away at college. So you can see her information is gathered on all levels of education.

Mrs. Senn is our resident grandmother. She has worked her tail off for the past three years getting involved in our lunch program. She is responsible for bringing us the State Funded Milk Program. She is also responsible for giving our children hot lunches once a week. Madeline is the kind of grandma everyone wishes they had. Her concern for the children is beyond compare. She's in the lunch room everyday of the week from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. On Wednesday when hot lunch is being served you can find Madeline and her crew of volunteers in the kitchen from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Mrs. Senn has been a resident of Hicksville for the past 33 years, her son attended Fork Lane back in the 50's. She was a secretary to the late Bernard Baur, principal of the Junior High School. She also spent numerous years in the Scoopet School district from which she is retired. Her granddaughter is in the third grade at Fork. She has a grandson who is a Senior in the high school and who happens to be playing the lead role of "Danny" in the musical production of "Grease".

We are very proud to have all three of these women with us, and hope they will continue to strive for excellence in our school.

Church Of Christ Conducts Survey

In an attempt to become more of an active part of the Hicksville community, the Church of Christ of Hicksville will conduct a survey, March 10 through 13. During those days members of the congregation will be going door-to-door throughout the Hicksville neighborhoods asking willing participants to respond to five simple questions.

- The questions are as follows:
1. Are you an active member in a nearby church?
  2. What do you think is the greatest need among the people of Hicksville?
  3. Why do you think most people in your neighborhood do not attend church?
  4. If you yourself were looking for a church what kind of things would you look for?
  5. What advice would you give to leaders of a church in this community?

The answers to these questions will help the Church of Christ determine the major needs of the Hicksville community and, thus, help shape its programming.

All surveying will be done by people wearing large badges that will identify them. They will be in neighborhoods only: between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Responding to the questions should take only a few minutes and no surveyor will ask to enter your home.

Please welcome these workers as they come to your door. Your participation will be extremely helpful to the Church of Christ, and, hopefully, all of Hicksville.

Also, look for results of this survey to be published in the March 28 issue of this paper.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Gabby Tabby

WITH a $22 million surplus the county is threatening to increase property taxes if it can't keep taxing an extra cent sales tax on everything purchased in Nassau County. Many businesses believe the county would reap more revenue if the sales tax went down because less things would be bought out of county and state. Democrats would not mind if the GOP in power up property tax either because it might sweep them into the county offices. THE TOWN will spend $1,851,879 to fix up the Bethpage Community Pool complex, a new L shaped swimming and diving pool and a kiddie wading pool are included. THE TOWN is increasing the fines for violating any section of the Building ordinance. The fine was raised from $250 to $350 for a first violation. A NEW snow emergency parking law will establish alternate side of the street parking on snow emergency days. On even numbered years you have to park on the even numbered side of the street during emergencies and on odd numbered years on odd numbered sides of the street. Of course if you park during the day and get snowed in and can't move your car and you are on the wrong side of the street it will be up to the police.

"Any planting on the public right-of-way, between the curb and sidewalk, will require a permit, and approval of such plantings. ## Our Children

Child spacing a personal decision

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Q. We have a young child (not quite 2 years old), and my wife and I have a running discussion about the timing of our next one.

How close in age do you think children should be? She feels an interval of five or six years might be best, but I believe that there are more advantages if they are just a year or two apart.

Your opinion please.
A. Because there are often advantages and disadvantages in both close and distant spacing of children in a family, strengths and weaknesses can be listed for each approach.

A substantial space of five or six years gives the first child the opportunity of getting more complete parental attention for that time. It also provides a chance for him or her to reach the school years and be on the road to independence. However, such spacing lengthens the time of parents being tied down with young children.

Having children close together can result in closer ties between them and a chance that their relationship can be preserved into adulthood. On the other hand, having two or more in the dependency stage at the same time can put quite a burden on their parents.

You can probably add some pros and cons of your own for each point of view. What it adds up to is this: Some decisions have to be hammered out between the people involved. They are just too personal for outside interference, or even honest, sincere advice.

Q. My son slept with me until he was nearly 4 years old. I despaired of getting him to sleep in his own room. I read somewhere that a child may choose a specific reward as a goal to work toward in overcoming a problem, so I tried that out.

He chose a popular "superhero fortress" as the reward for sleeping in his bed for 30 days, not necessarily in a row.

Because he is afraid of the dark, he sleeps with a lamp on almost every night. That made a difference in his ability to try the experiment. Making sure that there were pleasant bedtime rituals and an early enough start so he wouldn't be crabby or irrational, we talked about the wonderful prize he would earn.

I was very surprised at how hard he worked at it. After two initial difficult nights he slept in his bed for the 30 days, earned his toy, and has stayed there ever since.

Some may say this is bribery, but the psychologist who recommended it says that it is no different than adults working toward specific financial goals. Human beings seem to respond well to positive reinforcement, especially young ones who do not yet rely much on reasoning through their problems.

Maybe this could be of help to other parents as a way that could work. It seems important that the goal be chosen by children as something they really want, not something the parents may think they want or need.

A. Let me share a bit of philosophy with you: If a possible solution to a problem works and there are no negative side effects, why not try it? Your plan makes good sense, especially including your emphasis on the child's part in selecting the goal. It is so difficult, and so important, to try looking through the eyes of the youngster.

Q. Having a constant complain-er in the house is really a pain in the neck. It is our 12-year-old son for whom nothing at home seems right — meals, schedules, allowance, clothes that we pick out, everything we say or do. He is a terrible fault finder.

My husband says to just ignore all the complaints, but that's easier said than done.

Solutions please — for my mental health!

A. It may take some "Academy Award" acting on your part, but your husband's suggestion might not be so bad. It may be helpful if you accompany the ignoring with a happy disposition that tells your son that all's really OK with the world.

Adjusting the home environment to each of his complaints or arguing about them could reinforce what may already be a habit on his part.

However, you might give a thought to the idea that some of the complaints are well-founded. If you really feel they are, removing the basis for them could provide a possibility for reducing some of the tension his attitudes seem to cause.

College Notes

Cathleen Daxidowsky, 136 Myers Avenue, Hicksville, has earned placement on the Dean's List at The University of Connecticut for the first semester of the 1985-86 academic year.

Willet Avenue Greet A Visitor

Even sixth grade teacher Sandra Salat came in costume. She's the lady with the feather in her hat, shown with princess Susan Fleem, friar Chris Lynn, farm wife Erin Brennan, Tom and Paul, guardsman Sean Downes, and "Robin Hood" Michael Speranza. Ian Kean and Marc Walton examine the merits of a multi purpose walking stick.

The scene was reminiscent of the legend of the Pied Piper, with a character in Medieval garb, playing unfamiliar tunes on his recorder, and followed by a throng of similarly costumed students. Actually, "Tom the Tinker" had returned, bringing with him on this visit another anachronism, "Paul the Bard". Together they led the costume parade of sixth graders through the halls of Willet Avenue School, to assemble in the Library/Media Center for an afternoon of studying the Middle Ages.

Tom is actually Thomas Daunt, well known as the popular curator of the Hicksville Gregory Museum. Paul DiTrola, a recent graduate of Hicksville High School, shares Tom's interest in history, but specializes in folk music. Together they provided an afternoon of entertainment and information.

After explaining to the sixth graders about his membership in The Society for Creative Anachronism, in which each member assumes a "persona" from another era, Tom told them his reasons for choosing the characterization of Thomas the Tinker, from tenth century Ireland. He described everyday life in that historic period—education, housing, food, clothing, weapons, and entertainment. The final topic held great appeal for the students, especially when the chairs were pushed back and they all took part in some lively dances of the period.

Weapons also proved of interest. Tom brought with him some mock weapons, including dagger and staff. He and Paul demonstrated the art of self defense, tenth century style.

This interdisciplinary program was correlated with the sixth grade students' study of the Middle Ages. They had already visited the Cloisters and the Medieval exhibit at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. In their music classes, some had practiced Medieval songs on the flute. Those in In-Depth Studies had researched the development of law during that historic era. All had carefully examined illustrations of the period in preparation for making their costumes. Their art work included layouts of Feudal castles and cities and the design of heraldic shields for their family crests.

The day's activity was cooperatively planned by teacher Sandra Salat, Library/Media Specialist Rosemary Barrow, and Music Teacher Theresa Sgammato. Parent Connie Williams assisted with costumes. Tom the Tinker came through the courtesy of the Hicksville Gregory Museum Outreach to the Schools Program.

Paul the Bard and Tom the Tinker demonstrate their skill with mock Medieval weapons while Joe Williams and Jennifer Bains watch.

Following the music of Tom the Tinker and Paul the Bard, sixth graders at Willet Avenue showed off their costumes to the younger students. Sean Downes, Joe Williams, "King" George Nolan, Michael Speranza, princess Jessica Kaiser, and Jester Stephanie Wolchok.

In their finest Medieval array are Jennifer Bains, Patricia Horvath, court Jester Dina Wallick, Kristen Schroeder, Peggy Horan, Joe Williams and Doug Usakewicz.

Willet sixth graders Mark Walton, Stephanie Wolchok, Jessica Kaiser, Kristen Schroeder, and Michael Speranza had a wonderful time as participants in a Medieval dance called a bransle (pronounced brawl).

Lee Ave. Studies American Indian

Fourth graders at Lee Avenue school have been studying the American Indian. Due to the interest shown the fourth grade teachers: Miss Paton, Mr. Savalas and Mr. Skupinsky planned a trip into the city to visit the American Museum of Natural History. There the children saw artifacts, original costumes of the Plains Indians. There was also a special showing of paintings of the American Mid-West. There were canoes, fishing apparatus and games of dice which were made from bones.

The fourth grade also made a detour on the fourth floor to visit the dinosaurs.

Ceramic made in Japan

By James G. McCollam

Q This pottery vase is like glazed earthenware, and two elephants stand out in high relief. The vase is red and the elephants are gray. Please tell me whatever you can about this.

A This is a fine example of Sumida (a Japanese type of ceramic) that was made around the turn of the century. It should sell for between $325 to $375.

Q I have a pressed glass covered butter dish with this mark. I am interested in knowing who made it, where and when. Also, what is it worth?

A This was made by the H.B. Higbee Co. in Bridgeville, Pa., during the early 20th century. It would sell in the $50 to $60 range.

Q Do old glass milk bottles have any value as collectibles?

A Most of them range from $1 to $3, but if you are lucky you might come across some of these:

- Alta Crest Farms, Spencer, Mass — $275
- Big Elm, green, quart — $225
- Brighton Place, green, quart — $250
- Buttermilk, amber, quart — $125
- Kumysgen, blue, quart — $450
- Thatcher, no glass lid — $185
- Thatcher, with top, quart — $275
- Weckerl, green, quart — $225

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, stamped, self-addressed envelope, and $1 per item to James G. McCollam.

East St. Celebrates Founder's Day

The PTA at East St. School celebrated Founder's Day with its annual Covered Dish Dinner. At this celebration, the district honorees from East St. were honored by all of East St.'s PTA members.

This year's district honorees are Mrs. Helen Miller, retiring fifth grade teacher and Mrs. Connie Mancuso, Cultural Arts Chairman.

Mrs. Miller has taught in the Hicksville School District for the past 25 years. She has taught at Lee Ave. and came to East St. in 1961. She is the mother of three, a teacher, a doctor and a policeman. She has grown with Hicksville at East St. and has many memories here. She especially has a talent in helping the children develop their reading and writing skills. The children's reading and writing centers and goals are well supported by her. She gives them in language and writing, reading, writing and with their ability in accepting responsibility and staying motivated.

The parents and teachers at East St. with Mrs. Miller are happy, healthy and long future members of a really good school as well.

Mrs. Connie Mancuso has also been honored this year. Connie's contributions to the PTA are many. She is the mother of three and a graduate of Queens College. She taught school before starting her own family and has gained an understanding of what is contributing and educational to children. She has spent six years on the Executive Board of East St.'s PTA, helping to bring quality programs to the children of the school. Thank you Connie for a job well done.

At the Dinner, East St. also named two new Life Members of the PTA. Mrs. Edie Allen, current President and Mrs. Maria McCann were given the Honor Roll. They have been exceptional in their dedication to the children of East St.

A special memorial honor was given to Mrs. Janet Nelson by the PTA. A plaque will be given to her family to show East St.'s appreciation for her.

Kiwanis Club Inducts Member

The Hicksville Kiwanis Club continues to grow under the leadership of its President, Dr. Keith Pastuch, in order to better be able to provide service to the community.

Another new member, Mr. John Fitzpatrick, was inducted at the February 19 meeting of the club. Mr. Fitzpatrick is a Funeral who welcomed Mr. Fitzpatrick into Kiwanis and encouraged him to become active in the club's community services.

Director with the Dalton Funeral Home at 47 Jerusalem Avenue.
