Letters

To The Editor:

I would like to pose a few questions regarding your article "Wolf and Arena to Run for School Board". To begin with, I would ask, will Mr. Arena and Mrs. Wolf be accompanied in this quest by the Knights of Columbus and the V.F.W.? Will the rear guard be made up of the American Legion?

Whether or not one favors prayer in the schools is not and should not be a major point in voting for a school board member, and it should not be allowed to obscure the real, important issues as it was allowed to in our past election. If anyone in the "Coalition" actually believes that to have or not to have a moment of silence in the Hicksville schools affects the intellectual development of our students, to him I would say, "You are a very ignorant person and you should not be involved in any decisions regarding the education of our children."

If the people of Hicksville want to help improve the quality of their children's education, I would suggest they vote against any candidate who uses this Coalition and instead, look for people who have the courage to investigate the real issues, such as: What textbooks are our children using? How can we improve the Math programs? How can we improve staff morale? What can we do to get the Board of Education to accept its responsibilities and remind Dr. Fenton that they and not she are the elected representatives of the people, that she works for them and not they for her?

These are the real issues that we must face and solve if we are to improve the quality of education in our schools. If these issues are snowed under by the Isler than their legions, of the moment of prayer, our children will be far worse for the tragedy.

I would add for the knowledge of your readers who may think that I am either a Red agent or an atheist or both, that I am a Roman Catholic, educated from first grade through college in Catholic schools. Only my master's and post-master's work has been taken in non-Catholic universities. I would also inform the reader that, in Divine, I am in favor of school prayer and that I deeply resent the Supreme Court decision on the issue. I must add that I conclude after almost thirty years of teaching, that prayer in school has had no influence on our children's education, but that the non-thinking emotional response to this issue which made a mockery of our last board election will once again cloud the real issues of this election, the educational issues which have been so poorly dealt with by our Board and Superintendent for so long.

In closing, I raise several questions for your consideration. How often have these candidates attended Board meetings in the past few years? What other candidates did the Coalition interview before they made their choice? How well was the public informed about the interviews? Will the coalition give the public the candidates' backgrounds? Will it tell the voters that Mr. Arena has already served 9 years on the Board, a period of time during which he did nothing for our children. Will the Coalition inform the public that none of Mrs. Wolf's or Mr. Arena's children ever attended Hicksville Public Schools. If these people have such feelings for our schools, why do they choose to send their children to other schools for their education? Will the Coalition inform the people that Mrs. Wolf is, in fact, Mr. Bennett's cousin? If one has had quite enough of Mr. Bennett's influence on our children's education and I have also seen enough to feel most negative towards the Coalition and its methods of operation.

I would hope that the people whom we seek for the Board of Education, will be people who are interested in the real educational issues of our schools because their children are in our schools. These are the kind of people I want on my children's Board of Education.

Respectfully yours,
John F.X. Tobin

To the Editor:

The questionnaire of the Hicksville Board of Education has one serious flaw: terms are not defined. When the Board asks our opinion of statement No. 8, "Values and ethics should be taught in our schools," do they mean religion should be taught? The statement would seem like an insult to all the fine teachers in Hicksville who by example and teaching daily show their pupils what is right and wrong and have done so for many years. Ethics means teaching people how to treat one another. How can any teacher teach any subject whatsoever without such values?

Statement No. 9, "Awareness of our religious holidays should be celebrated in our schools in the form of art, music, and/or assemblies." This would violate the separation of church and state, one of our most cherished possessions. It means that the State, through the schools cannot make it its policy to celebrate religion. Religion is a private affair. Every religion has an equal right to exist and to be practiced. By having no state religion, every faith is strengthened. No one can dominate another one. Every religion is harmed if any religion gets a monopoly. Pluralism is our greatest strength. The one way to ensure that all faiths exist equally before the law is to favor none. Keep church and state separate. This separation benefits every one.

Very truly yours,
Miss Runhild E. Wessell

SRO At Central Civics Meeting

Standing room only was the order of the day at the March 18 meeting of the Central Civic Association of Bethpage. Topic: zoning changes applied for that would change the character of an entire neighborhood in Bethpage; changes that would allow a three story office building with parking for over 300 cars to be constructed at the present location of Bethpage Tennis Time.

Community opposition to the proposed zoning change is universal. An office building at this location, a dead end where the only access is through a residential neighborhood, was labeled absurd.

The next meeting of the Central Civic Association will be held at the Town Board meeting at Oyster Bay Town Hall, March 25 at 10 a.m., where their opposition to the proposed changes of zoning will be presented. The Association is providing transportation to residents who would like to attend the meeting next Tuesday. Arrangements can be made by calling 938-8375.

Once we install genuine Volvo replacement parts in your Volvo, you could put a million miles between us and your car. And the parts would still be warranted for a year from date of installation.*

But this one-year Volvo parts limited warranty goes much further than that.

It even includes the labor (good at any North American Volvo dealer) it takes to replace those parts originally installed by a Volvo Dealer as long as they're still under warranty.

So if you've been taking your Volvo someplace else where you're lucky to get a 90-day parts warranty (labor not included), it's time to forget about luck. And think about us.

Dutch La. Visits Fire Department

On March 11, Dutch's two second grade classes learned all about safety, fire drills, smoke, fire houses, and fire engines. Mrs. Niceforo and Mrs. Hoch's classes are studying firemen and firehouses as part of their social studies curriculum.

After seeing a film on safety Mr. Jack S. Janovsky (of Hicksville Fire Department) took the children on a tour of the Fire House and all of its equipment. The fireman's uniform, rescue trucks, hook and ladder trucks, etc.

Mr. Jack S. Janovsky started the tour of the Fire Department with a film on safety.

Back at school the two classes drew pictures and illustrated them. They saw a follow up movie and had a discussion of what they had learned at the firehouse.

The children wrote a thank you signed by all the second graders. They are now working on home-made fire pails made from coffee cans and baking soda.

The children have now learned emergency phone numbers of the fire house, ambulance, police, poison control center, doctor, and how to report an emergency clearly.

Restaurant Hearing Rescheduled

The Oyster Bay Town Board has rescheduled a public hearing for May 13, on an application for a special use permit in Plainview to construct and maintain a restaurant, according to Town Councilman Douglas J. Hynes.

"The applicant C & B Realty Co. #3, is requesting a special use permit to construct and maintain a restaurant with seating for up to 275 persons in an 'F' Business District (neighborhood district) within the Woodbury Plaza Shopping Center," Hynes said.

The Woodbury Plaza Shopping Center is located at the south east corner of Woodbury Road and South Oyster Bay Road in Plainview.

"The original hearing date was March 25," Hynes explained, "however the attorney for the applicant requested a later date and the Town Board was able to accommodate his request."

The hearing has been rescheduled for Tuesday, May 13, beginning at 10 a.m. in the Town Hall Hearing Room, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

As students learn all about fire trucks Mr. Janovsky answered any question that they had. The children were amazed to learn just how much equipment firemen use!

Busy Time At Fork Lane

Story and Photos By A. Eichenauer

Wednesday and Thursday, March 12 and 13 were very busy for the students and many PTA members of Fork Lane.

Wednesday was an early morning for seven members of the PTA. It started at 8:30 a.m. with a briefing from a Nassau County Police Officer who explained to us all how to use the equipment for the Ident-A-Child Program.

This program is done in all the elementary schools, and it is excellent. The Ident-A-child program is a small I.D. card that contains your child's picture, name, date of birth, height, weight, hair color, eye color, and any distinguishing marks. It is sponsored by Lileo and Kodak.

In order for the children in Fork Lane to have this done, a permission slip went home telling the parent what this program was about. When the permission forms were returned to school with all the information filled in correctly, it was typed on cards by Maryanne Goldberg and Annette Eichenauer. These cards were then given back to the teachers. Each class was allotted time to come down and have their picture taken, between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The pictures were taken by Maryanne Goldberg and Annette Eichenauer, the lamination was done by Joann Zagarello and Linda Smith. Madeline Senn, our resident grandmother was there to keep the children in line and to match the cards to the kids. We had Sharon Fusco and Shirley Finocchio to help fill in any missing information from the child's card.

We photographed approx. 203 students out of 244 on Wednesday, and approx. 15 pre-school children on Thursday. Thursday was set aside just for Pre-school children and any children who were absent on Wednesday.

The entire program went extremely well, and we had an overwhelming amount of cooperation from the teachers, students, parents and our Principal Mrs. Carol Bentsen.

The PTA would like to thank all the volunteers for giving up their time to help, and to Maryanne Goldberg and Mrs. Bentsen for introducing us to this excellent program.

Food Tasting Burns Ave. Party

Mrs. Blaauboer's second graders, winners of "It's OK to Say No" button contest: Jason Stewart, Danl Atlas, Aitha Rizopoulos.

The Sixth Annual Burns Avenue School Food-Tasting Party was held on Thursday, March 6. This year it was combined with a production entitled "Too Smart For Strangers". This was the culminating activity of an interdisciplinary unit aimed at helping to keep the children safe and encouraging them to make the right choices if confronted by strangers or uncomfortable situations.

This production consisted of songs by Mrs. Grumo's a.m. and p.m. Kindergarten classes and Mrs. Rosof's class and original poems and stories by Mrs. Oliveri's and Mrs. Blaauboer's second graders. The second graders also held an "It's O.K. To Say No" button contest with original designs submitted by each second grader.

Costumes and scenery were painted by the Kindergartners and Mrs. Rosof's children under the guidance of Ms. Berzner, the Burns Avenue Art Teacher. The musical selections were adapted to the young voices by Mrs. Kathy Scheck, Burns Avenue Vocal Music Teacher.

Once again, the nutritious snacks served were prepared by the children and the parents. This was truly a cooperative school effort initiated by Burns Avenue S.N.T., Mrs. Gail Cooley, as part of our Growing Healthy Program. Special thanks to Mrs. Ariene Bartlewitz who created and sewed all of the Winnie the Pooh character costumes worn by the children.

This was an exciting, positive learning experience as witnessed by the many district administrators and parents who attended. A special Thank-You to Dr. Frank E. Burke, Principal of Burns Avenue School, for his continued support and to Dr. Catherine Fenton, Supt. of Hicksville Public Schools, for her continued interest and enthusiasm.

Mid Island Hospital Expands Care

Mid-Island Hospital Executive Director Robert J. Reed, announced the opening of the hospital's new Ambulatory Care Unit today and said the facility will significantly expand the hospital's capability to serve area residents who need simple surgical or diagnostic procedures that do not require overnight hospitalization.

Currently, about 25 percent of the surgical procedures performed at Mid-Island Hospital are done on such an outpatient basis.

"The benefits to patients are considerable," Reed explained. "By minimizing the duration of the hospital stay, patients reduce their health-care costs and cut down on time away from job or family.

Further, patients who are treated in our on-premises Ambulatory Care Unit realize an additional measure of comfort from the knowledge that the hospital's full array of backup and support services are available to them, if needed."

Surgical procedures that can be performed in an outpatient setting include removal of foreign bodies and cataracts, arthroscopy, biopsies, skin grafts, bunions, colonoscopies, tooth extractions and, in the future, with Laser surgery capabilities, hemorrhoids.

Reed pointed out that health care professionals and facilities nationwide have been moving increasingly toward same-day surgery and discharge. The trend has been accelerated, he added, by the development of highly sophisticated surgical techniques and tools, including the carbon dioxide (CO<sub>2</sub>) laser.

Mid-Island Hospital recently installed a CO<sub>2</sub> laser, which enables delicate and precise surgery by surgeons using a highly focused, pinpoint beam. The laser minimizes post-surgical bleeding and permits faster and more comfortable recovery.

"These recent events—the opening of our Ambulatory Care Unit and acquisition of the Sharplan CO<sub>2</sub> laser to complement our YAG ophthalmic laser system clearly place Mid-Island Hospital on the cutting edge of modern health care, and position us well to serve our patients' needs into the next decade and beyond," Reed stated.

Members of the community who wish further information on the Ambulatory Care Unit may call 520-2471 from 8 a.m. through 8 p.m., Monday through Friday. Karin Weisenberger, R.N., has been named administrative supervisor for the new unit.

Mid-Island Hospital has served residents of Eastern Nassau, Western Suffolk Counties for more than three decades. Communities served by the 237-bed facility include Farmingdale, Bethpage, Massapequa, Levittown and surrounding areas.

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

Plaque needs expert appraisal

By James G. McCollam

Q This hand-painted porcelain plaque was bought in Italy before World War I. The frame appears to be gold leaf. The size of the plaque itself is 2 1/2 by 3 1/2 inches. Can you tell me something about its vintage and value?

A If this is a genuine painting (not a copper plate transfer), the value would be $200 to $300. If the frame is genuine gold leaf, add another $100.

I suggest that you take it to a local museum for the experts to examine.

Q What are fairy lamps? When were they made? What are some typical prices?

A Fairy lamps originated in England in the 1840s. They use candles instead of kerosene and were used as night lights. They were popular into the late 1800s.

Fairy lamps are extremely popular with collectors and the prices run a little higher than kerosene lamps.

- Baccarat glass — $250
- Brass — $175
- Burmese glass — $600
- Cranberry glass — $100
- Frosted glass — $120
- Opalescent glass — $200
- Peachblow glass — $700
- Satin glass — $300

Q I find three Theodore Haviland marks (sketch enclosed) with minor variations. Can you tell me if these were used interchangeably or if they were used at different times?

A Mark "A" was used between 1893 and 1903. Mark "B" was used between 1903 and 1925. Mark "C" was used between 1925 and 1936. There may have been some overlap of these periods but essentially they are correct.

Fork Lane Skate Night

Story and Photos
By A. Eichenauer

Sunday, March 16, Fork Lane held its annual family skate night at the Levittown Roller Rink. We had 198 people skating and approximately 30 to 35 spectators.

Some of our teachers even came out to have fun with their students and families.

The high light of the night was the races. The race was 1 lap around the rink. The winners were as follows:

Girls: 4-6 Danelle Faulkner, 7-8 Merry Seun, 9 Kathy Tomolonis, 10 Jennifer Dayne, 11-12 Erin Miller, 13-14 Penny Passaro.

Boys: 4-6 Danny Carsten, 7-8 Scott Levy, 9-10 Matthew Gold, 11-12 Justin Kingsley. Mom's:

Lucy Antzoulides. Dad's: Rick Reed

The funny part of the night was trying to skate backwards. I noticed that the kid's had no problems doing this, but the parents just couldn't get the hang of it.

Is this telling you parents something?

To end the night off right everyone joined in to do the Hokie Pickle. A good time was had by all. I'm sure today, that many of the parents are suffering from sore aching muscles, but it was all worth it. Right!

The P.T.A. would like to thank Maureen Trasler for putting this event together for us again this year, and to her assistants Annette Eichenauer and Ginny Rompton.

New Date Set In Zone Hearing

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond announced that the Town Board has set May 13, as the new hearing date on a request for two change of zone applications in Plainview, requested by the same applicant.

Diamond said, "at the request of the applicant, Nopa Realty Corp., the hearing scheduled for February 25 had to be adjourned and was re-scheduled for a later date."

The applicant is seeking a zone change on two separate parcels from Residence 'D' to 'R-O' (Residence-Office District) for general use," Diamond said. The buildings are located north of Old Country Road at 20 Central Park Road and 65 Central Park Road in Plainview.

The hearings have been scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, May 13 in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Most Input Callers Agree Credit Card Rates Too High

Most callers to Input believe that credit card rates should be reduced in answer to this question: "Do you think that an 18-20% interest rate on credit card purchases is worth the convenience of the card?" Here are some of the answers:

TOO HIGH

No. Credit card charges are far too high. These rates are in addition to annual fees. The banks charge these high rates which in effect mean that everything purchased with the card costs 18 to 20 percent more. So the idea of taking advantage of a sale with a credit card is nonsense. The item would not cost more if you waited. J.L.

SHOULD FLUCTUATE

Credit card interest rates should fluctuate with the rates charged for other loans. The credit cards went up when interest rates went higher and now the banks are holding the rates up because it is a good source of profit. But the banks should realize that good will is important. I have cancelled all of my credit cards until the interest is right. E.F.

NOT NECESSARY

While people can complain about credit card interest, they should admit that it is not necessary to use most credit cards at specific times. In other words unless you really need to charge the purchase because you need the item right now, you can pay cash later. The amount of interest that is paid would never be very great even if the percentage is high. J.W.

PRIME RATE

It is time for the banks to get in line and lower interest rates on credit cards. It is true that you can shop around for banks that have lower rates but it certainly is inconvenient to have to keep going through new credit checks to make the switch. Banks find that they have to competitively keep all other rates in line with interest rates on the prime rate so why do they think that credit cards are an exception? J.W.

STORES BENEFIT

I believe the reason many stores want you to take a credit card from them is because they can make more at high credit rates than they do from the article they sell you. If the banks would get competitive as was promised when deregulation set in then the stores would probably not be so interested in their own credit cards and the banks would benefit. Presently 18 percent interest is far too high. Most people did not look at it that way when they took out the card. L.E.

HIGH PRICE

Credit cards have pushed too far and they are now at a point where they are one reason many people are over extended financially. The cards make it too easy to buy things that do have to be paid for in a short time. When the interest is added, then the people with little money are paying terribly high prices for their purchases. M.E.

PAY REGULARLY

Although I think there is some advantage to using credit cards, I wouldn't recommend that everyone use them. Because they can conveniently take the place of cash it is worthwhile to make purchases with them, however, some people do not know when to stop. Trying to avoid an 18 to 20% interest rate whenever possible charge only items you can afford and pay for them, in full, when the bill is due is the answer. C.P.

IT DEPENDS

This has to be a multi-faceted question with answers dependent upon a number of factors which I believe breaks it down into three principal categories - 1. wage earners and salaried employees, 2. business people in an executive or marketing class as well as professional people and, 3. retirees in general. In the first category, I would say that the 18-20% credit card interest rate is punitive and would be more of a risk factor in building unwarranted debt than a convenience. In the second, where income is generally at high levels and where accountability is important especially for expense account and tax purposes, the high rate is probably supportable. As to the last bracket, with the exception of those retirees who are wealthy, I would say that 18-20% is exorbitant and unwarranted. Quite frankly, no matter what category we might consider, it is my feeling that the credit card business may have reached the peak of its success and profitability especially with slowing economic growth, increasing competition in its field, and the lowering of bank interest. P.G.S.

The Forgotten Arab World

By Jerome J. Niosi, Ph.D.

Arabs do not fare well in the American Media. Rather, caricatures overwhelm the delightful impression created by literature like the "Arabian Nights" or "Scheherazade". Even the Crusades during which Europeans clashed with a superior culture was for years colored by the injunction that the Holy Land had to be wrested from the infidels.

In Hollywood, the Arab is a "popular" villain. Sinister and backward, the Arab lives in dimly lighted hovels situated on crooked, narrow streets in an area teeming with an alien humanity. The Arab has also been pictured as a nomad who lives in tents and, therefore, possesses no cultural permanence. He has also been characterized as devious and cruel; his enjoyment centers around the harem or, at least, the gyrations of a jeweled "belly dancer".

The negative image is as unfortunate as it is unjust, but the Arab who has learned patience from living in an inhospitable environment with scanty resources, knows that his is a rich heritage of a remarkable civilization. He appreciates that a judicious account of his ancestors through the centuries would increase the awareness that Arab society was, in fact, the custodian of culture during an especially critical period when the rest of Europe experienced the "Dark Ages".

Today, some 150,000,000 Arabs, 44% of which are under 15 years of age, live in twenty-one sovereign states occupying territory twice the size of the United States. These Arabs send 60,000 students to American universities. Palestine, alone, is not sovereign.

Originally nomadic, the Arabs, descendants of Shem, legendary son of Noah, struggled for existence in the forbidden Arabian peninsula. In such austere circumstances, they were compelled to cooperate for self-defense and survival against the dangers and hardships of desert life. Highly individualistic, excitable, temperamental and unaccustomed to discipline, the Arabs might be persuaded, but never commanded. Only the custom of blood-vengeance limited the inevitable anarchy.

The Arabs, or "Aribi", first appeared in history when the Assyrian King Salmanser III records their defeat in 853 B.C. Afterwards, they lived beyond reach around the oasis and, guided by their communal religion, they developed an orally transmitted culture discoursing in what became "one of the finest and most expressive forms of speech ever fashioned by the mind and tongue of man".

When the population exceeded the sparse resources of the desert, the Arabs embarked on what became a period of national conquest which was not to cease until their sphere of influence reached China in the east, all of North Africa, and extended throughout the Iberian peninsula. Their furthest advance reached beyond the Pyrenees.

War unified the independent tribes and their strategy demonstrated considerable ability. From the trackless desert, and using camels for transportation of troops and supplies, the Arabs surprised and easily defeated their neighbors. Each victory was followed by the immediate distribution of booty which consisted of captured women, jewelry, sumptuous clothing and fabrics. With such a policy there was no dearth of enthusiastic volunteers for the Arab armies. In twelve years some 500,000 men left the peninsula taking their Islamic faith with them.

Islam was a pervasive religion meant to govern every aspect of Arab life. In war it carried the prescription: "Whoever is killed defending his property is a martyr"; his life would continue in paradise. Such a faith, combined with a pragmatic nationalism made the Arab unbeatable. He was the "Sword of God".

Arabization followed conquest and the process was simple: the Arabs made their society desirable. "Whoever lives in our boundary" ran the injunction, "speaks our language, is brought in our culture and takes pride in our glory is one of us." Since Arabic was the sole language of administration, commerce and culture, its adoption was only a matter of time.

Arabization was also encouraged by a pervasive spirit of toleration. Islam was presented as the completion of the Message of Revelation. Mohammed who venerated Moses and Jesus, was surely the last of the Prophets. Since the Arabs had been following the precepts laid by the Prophet, their power and success throughout the world was attributed to that faithfulness. Convinced of their superiority, therefore, the Arabs saw no need to impose their faith on non-believers.

Evidence of this spirit of toleration is a report of Rabbi Benjamin of Tudela. Visiting Baghdad, he noted 23 synagogues in the city and the esteem in which its Chief Rabbi was held. A herald would precede the cleric as he walked through the avenues with the exclamation, "Make way for our Lord, son of David".

Arabization was also fostered by intermarriage and racial mixing. Neither faced obstacles, although full Arab status was achieved through the male line. Women enjoyed an especially high status in Arab society. They could achieve distinction, went off to war, commanded troops, composed poetry and competed with men in literary pursuits. Their wit, musical talent, and accomplishments enlivened social gatherings. Christian women, like their Moslem sisters also went about veiled.

But economic realities pragmatically supported Arabization for many. Arab victories the distribution of booty did not pay for the cost of government. To do this, the Caliph levied tribute on the non-Arab portion of the population. Thus as arabization increased the number of tax-exempt Arabs, it reduced the number of non-Arabs remaining and reduced the revenues essential to support government. To avoid catastrophe, new Arabs after a given date were to continue tribute payments.

Christians and Jews found that they could play a prominent part in Arab culture. Some roles were special. Koranic law, for example, forbade Moslems from engaging in usury. Christian and Jews became the bankers. They adopted Arabic, wrote and translated in it. That they would do this was not remarkable. It was, after all, a Muslim society. There were those who complained, however. One bishop remarked on the inability of Christians to write in passable Latin, yet, who could poetry in that language with "greater art than the Arabs themselves".

In the Arab world nearly everyone could read and write, while in Europe only churchmen possessed those skills. Arabs had used numerals for generations. In Europe, people were still struggling trying to multiply Roman numerals using the abacus. A monk in Europe would spend a lifetime writing on parchment, while around the Mediterranean, anyone could use the cheaper, more available paper. It was a normal procedure for a check drafted in Baghdad to be cashed in Seville. The postal service was secure and Arab currency was used as a standard of value by Christians outside the empire. Even the Crusades, transitory in their effects on Muslim civilization, benefitted the Europeans when crusaders returned with spices, medicines, fine cloth and stained glass. The demand for more of the same stimulated trade and with the trade came knowledge.

The Arab world centered in three cities: Damascus, the oldest city in the world; Baghdad, opulent and powerful; and Cordova, "jewel of the world". From these centers, the best of the creative, literary, and philosophic energies of the Arabs was transmitted from ancient Greece, Persia, and India through Moslem Spain and Arab Sicily. It was a transmission which occurred long before the Greek scholars fled before the Ottomans who attacked and captured Constantinople.

But the empire after some six centuries showed signs of diminished viability. It had become sedentary and feudalistic, and with no enemies anywhere to burnish the aggressive, defensive spirit which characterized its growth, the Arab world languished. Seeds of disunity present from the beginning manifested themselves.

The unitary faith of Islam split into Shites and Sunnis when the death of Mohammed precipitated debate over his successor. The empire split into three caliphates. When the Arabs lost their intellectual hegemony in the 13th century, reaction around the periphery of the empire was inevitable.

In the west, Spaniards who had refused arabization had developed their own tightly knitted communities, began their "Reconquista" of the Iberian peninsula, completed finally in 1492. In Sicily, Roger II and his grandson, Frederick II, gave the island a brief period of preeminence as the leading country of western Europe. In the east, the Seljuk Turks, the Mongols, and the Ottomans in turn invaded the empire taking over great portions of the Middle East. The ultimate blow was economic: Vasco da Gama discovered a newer, cheaper though longer route to the spices and wealth of the Indies. No longer could the empire maintain itself by taxing the caravans using the internal routes to the west.

Of the singular unity and former glory of the universal Muslim society which had dominated the Middle Ages, only the Arabic language and the faith of Islam were left to the inhabitants. Even the subsequent defeat of the Ottomans after WWI merely displaced one overlord, with three new ones: the British, French and Italian.

The Second World War, however, brought with it the Arab awakening and with it the resurgence of Arab nationalism. One by one, foreign overlords were eliminated from the "Magreb". The exception is Palestine.

The awakening of the Arabs to their ancient heritage has prompted them to work closer together, a coalition cemented by their language and faith. A hopeful unity is already evident in the League of Arab States; in the United Arab Republic; the Arab Union; The United Arab Emirates. Such groupings have been compared to those of the American colonies, which led ultimately to the formulation and adoption of the United States Constitution. Political union is still in the distant future for the sovereign Arab states, but the cultural association, and common history encourages thought of greater cohesion.

Nowhere is this cohesion more evident than in the reaction of the Arab states of the "exception" which is Palestine. Despite political sovereignty, each state has recognized the Palestinian Liberation Organization as the spokesman for the Arabs of Palestine! To this organization flows considerable financial, religious and moral support.

As far as history goes, the Arab states are an ancient people in an ancient land. In modern society, however, politically, the Arabs have barely started walking. With a mature, objective approach to the Arabs in history and in the modern world, we may see in time, a new Muslim era which can once more enlighten the world in the future as it had in the past.

GOOD LANDMARK

The Davenport Press, which has been around as a printing shop but never a restaurant, for many years is a good restaurant.

They must have performed a miracle to change the old Davenport Press building on Main Street, Mineola into a restaurant. But let me tell you it is a good one.

There are several large intimate rooms. The large one we were in contains a real fireplace. There is a long bar at one end of the building. The menu is a good one. We had prime ribs that were juicy and tender with an appetizer called "Dasey Jones Locker". It contained different types of seafood, shrimp, oysters and other choice pieces. We recommend the Davenport Press.

REAL WINNER

The Portuguese Restaurant Arlindo's on Mineola Boulevard, Mineola, is a real winner. The arched entrance to the restaurant makes you feel as though you are entering a retreat long ago. The decor is beautiful inside with a bright and new appearance.

Featured on the menu are fish and great dishes with a distinct Portuguese flavor.

We were well satisfied with the food which included Shrimp cocktails (a combination of many fine fish treats including lobster, mussels, shrimp and scallops). The service was very good and Arlindo, the owner, personally thanked us for being among his guests. We highly recommend this restaurant. T.R.

FIRST RATE

I want to call in and say that the new restaurant Dallas Ribs, located where the Charred Oaks used to be on Jericho Turnpike, New Hyde Park, is a great restaurant. We went there last week and had two of the finest N.Y. cut sirloin steaks that we have ever tasted. The steaks are served with skin fried potatoes and cole slaw. There is a big menu with other items."

We thought the price was about right for first rate prime beef. We also have to comment that the service was very good and of course the decor is the finest.

NICE SURPRISE

What a nice surprise we found recently at Riddles on Old Country Road (opposite Fortunoff). The entire place has been renovated and it is now light and airy with a very comfortable greenhouse effect besides. The walls have been paneled and it is really very attractive. They continue to serve excellent food, especially the 2 dinners for $13.95 which can't be beat. The menu is semi-Continental with choices of veal, chicken, London Broil and my favorite, Shrimp Scampi. For those burger lovers, you really must try the 1/2 lb. burgers! I don't know of any other place serving such a hearty meal. I see their advertise frequently in Reader Ratings and I thought I'd like to tell your readers what a pleasant experience my husband and I found while there after a recent shopping trip. V.P.

READER RATINGS

Q. My friend and I enjoy a relaxing drink at the bar before eating dinner in our favorite restaurant. How much should we tip the bartender?

A. Ten or fifteen percent of the bill is the usual amount.

Q. What do you think of a girl who always orders the most expensive items on the menu when she eats out with a male friend?

A. I do not feel she is being considerate of her companion, and consideration of others is the essence of good manners.

Q. As a non-drinker I sometimes feel ill at ease in a restaurant when everyone at the table orders cocktails except me. However, liquor makes me ill. Should I say no to my companions?

A. There is no reason for you to feel uncomfortable or to give reasons why you do not drink. When the cocktail orders are being taken simply smile and say, "Nothing for me, thank you!" or if you prefer order ginger ale or Perrier water.

Q. Have you heard the expression "Maiden Dinner?" My cousin said she will be attending one soon and I did not like to confess my ignorance!

A. This is a rather old fashioned term and it refers to the traditional dinner given by the bride-to-be for her attendants usually a few days before the wedding. The Maiden Dinner is the equivalent of the male Bachelor Dinner.

Q. What is the correct way to eat crackers with soup?

A. Small crackers, such as oyster crackers, may be added to the soup and eaten that way. However, large soda crackers should really not be crumbled into the soup. It is better to keep them on the plate and eat them along with the soup.

Fancy breads for Easter tables

By Antonia Allegra

Easter breakfast can be a many splendored affair.

There are the traditional egg dishes — stirred, scrambled, fried and poached. There are the children's favorites — chocolate-covered, marshmallow-trimmed and maple cream-filled.

And, for those able to spend a few hours baking bread, there are elaborate golden bread baskets and wreaths, swirled with almond paste and nestled with brightly colored eggs. In many European countries, these fanciful breads and coffee cakes are the most popular way to celebrate this spring-time holiday.

Holiday breads add gaiety to the breakfast table, elegance to tea time and great comfort to any late-evening snack. They also make a festive centerpiece for the holiday table and a thoughtful gift for family and friends.

The following recipes offer an international array of stunning and delicious centerpieces for the holiday table.

TSOUREKIA
(Easter Cakes)

- 1/2 oz. yeast
- 1 cup lukewarm water
- 3 lbs. flour
- 1 cup warm milk
- 1 cup butter
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 6 eggs
- 1 tbsp. powdered anise seeds
- 1 tsp. salt

Grated lemon or orange rind
Sesame seeds or blanched, slivered almonds (optional)

Dissolve yeast in bowl with lukewarm water. Add enough flour to make thick batter. Cover bowl with napkin and set aside in warm place to rise for about 1 hour.

Place remaining flour in large basin or bowl, make lake in center and pour in batter. Rinse bowl that contained batter with warm milk and add to flour. Add remaining ingredients, reserving 1 egg yolk for glazing top.

Knead for about 10 minutes, until smooth.

Make stiff dough, adding a little more flour if necessary.

Cover dough and set aside to rise in warm place, for 2 to 3 hours until doubled in bulk.

Turn on floured board and knead like a large loaf of bread.

For every Tsourekia take 3 lumps of dough, the size of an orange. With palms of hands roll each lump on floured board to 8 to 9 inches in length. The rolled dough should be thicker in middle and pointed at ends.

Place 3 rolls side by side and braid. Fold pointed ends under neath ends of braid.

Grease sheets of paper the length of Tsourekia and, cover Tsourekia with them. Place them in baking pan 3 inches apart from each other.

Set aside in warm place to rise. Brush tops with beaten egg yolk. Decorate with sesame seeds or blanched, slivered almonds.

Bake in moderate (350 F) oven for 35 to 40 minutes.

BASIC COFFEE CAKE

(Good for shaped rolls and animals)

- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 cup butter (scant)
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 (tblsps. cardamom (preferably pounded cardamom seeds))
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 pkgs. yeast
- 1/2 cup water, warm to dissolve yeast
- 5 cups (approx.) sifted all-purpose flour
- 2 eggs, beaten

Scald milk, add butter, sugar, spice, salt and cool to lukewarm. Add milk mixture to softened yeast. Using mixer or hands, add enough flour to make thick batter. Add beaten eggs. Checking dough carefully, add a little flour at a time until you have soft dough. Be careful not to get dough too stiff. Knead until satiny and smooth. Let rise in warm place. Punch down, then let rise again, probably 1/2 of an hour. Roll out dough (flat, into rectangle, add filling of choice, following instructions below.

a) Fillings for coffee bread:

Filling No. 1

- 1/2 cup soft unsalted butter
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 4 (tblsps. cinnamon)
- 1 (tblsp. vanilla sugar (from specialty shops) or 1 tsp. vanilla extract)

Filling No. 2

- 1/2 cup soft butter
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup chopped, toasted almonds or filberts

Soften butter and spread evenly over rolled-out dough. Sprinkle sugar on top and distribute rest of filling ingredients over whole surface. Roll up dough, as for jelly roll and slice into smaller rolls which can be shaped as desired.

Place on greased baking sheet, brush with egg wash and bake in 375 F oven for 20 to 30 minutes, depending on size.

CHRISTINA'S
SPECIAL BREAD

- 1 1/2 pkgs. yeast
- 1/2 cup lukewarm water
- 2 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 cup bran

- 1/2 cup (scant) butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup honey
- 2 (tblsps. salt)
- 1 (tblsp. caraway)
- 1 (tblsp. anise)
- 1/2 cup whole wheat flour
- 5-6 cups bread flour

Dissolve yeast in water. Heat milk, add bran, butter, honey, salt and spices. Let cool and add to yeast mixture. At this point be creative: Toss in some toasted filberts, chopped coarsely, some currants or a handful of chopped fresh herbs. Maybe a tablespoon or two of fresh grated lemon or orange peel, whatever strikes your fancy at the moment!

Add flour gradually, taking care not to get dough too stiff. Knead until glossy, using mixer or hands. Shape into large satiny ball and place in greased bowl to rise in warm place. Shape and let rise again. Bake at 350 F 20 to 35 minutes depending on size and shape.

ITALIAN PANETTONE

- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup slivered fresh orange peel
- 1 pkg. dry yeast
- 1/2 cup warm water
- 1/2 cup melted butter
- 1/2 cup honey
- 3 eggs
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 tsp. salt (optional)
- Freshly grated peel of 1 lemon
- 1 tsp. pure vanilla extract
- 5 cups unbleached white flour
- Melted butter
- Chopped almonds (optional topping)

Combine raisins and slivered orange peel and set aside. Sprinkle yeast over warm water, stir well. In large bowl, combine butter, honey, eggs, egg yolks and salt. Mix. Add yeast and water mixture, lemon peel and vanilla. Stir in 2 cups of flour, then enough additional flour to make stiff dough.

Turn out onto lightly floured surface and knead until dough is smooth and silky (about 8 to 10 minutes). Cover with towel and let rest for 10 minutes. Then knead fruits into dough.

Return to bowl, cover and allow to rise in warm spot until doubled in bulk (about 45 minutes to 1 hour). When doubled, turn out onto lightly floured surface and punch down. Divide dough in half and place each part in buttered, 9-inch round cake pan. (If you have smaller cake pans, recipe will make 3 breads.)

Brush tops with melted butter and sprinkle with chopped almonds (optional). Lightly cover and let rise for about 1 hour.

Brush tops with melted butter again and bake for 40 to 50 minutes in 350 F oven.

From "Bread Winners" by Mel London (Rodale Press, $14.95).

GREEK HONEY-NUT BREAD

- 2 1/2-3 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 pkg. active dry yeast
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 egg
- 1/2 tsp. grated lemon peel
- 1/2 cup light raisins
- 1/2 cup chopped figs
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- 1/4 cup honey

In large mixer bowl, combine 1 cup flour and yeast. Heat milk, sugar, butter and salt just until warm (115-120 F), stirring constantly to melt butter. Add to dry mixture, add egg and peel. Beat at low speed with electric mixer for 30 seconds, scraping bowl. Beat 3 minutes at high speed. By hand, stir in enough remaining flour to make moderately stiff dough. Knead on floured surface until smooth (about 5 to 10 minutes). Shape into ball.

Place in greased bowl; turn once. Cover; let rise until double (1 to 1 1/2 hours). Knead in fruit and nuts. Let rest 10 minutes. Shape into round loaf; place in greased 9x1 1/2-inch round baking pan. Let rise till double (about 45 minutes). Bake at 375 F about 30 minutes. Remove from pan, brush with honey.

Makes 1 loaf.

After Work
GourmetBy Paul Bensen and Evauder Preston

Until just a few years ago, it was bad news when a commercial fisherman in this country caught a shark. There was virtually no American retail market for the meat, and the time spent dealing with a snapping predator was poorly rewarded by the few dollars the fisherman might get for his catch.

Today, shark appears on the menus of lots of fine seafood restaurants, and shark fillets and steaks are available at many retail markets. The meat is excellent — especially that of fairly small black tip and mako sharks — and is virtually indistinguishable from swordfish. When it comes to price, though, the difference is immediately apparent.

All of these recipes can also be prepared with other firm-textured, light-meat fish.

SAVORY BROILED SHARK

TOTAL PREPARATION/
COOKING TIME — 15 MINUTES

- 1 lb. shark steaks or fillets
- 3-4 (tblsps. butter)
- Juice of 1 lemon
- 1/2 tsp. dried dill weed
- 1/4 tsp. celery salt
- Freshly-ground black pepper to taste
- 1/4 cup fresh bread crumbs, finely ground
- 1 lemon, cut in wedges

Lightly butter heavy broiling pan or gratin dish. Place shark steaks or fillets in pan in one layer. Drizzle lemon juice over fish. Sprinkle fish liberally with dill weed, celery salt and black pepper. Lightly cover fish with bread crumbs and dot generously with butter.

Broil a few inches from heat source for 5 to 10 minutes, until crispy and golden brown and cooked through (fillets will cook more quickly than steaks). Serve with lemon wedges.

Serves 2.

BROILED OR BARBECUED SHARK WITH TOMATO AND CITRUS SAUCE

Do-ahead steps:

1. Marinate shark meat in salt water (overnight is fine).
2. Juice lemon or limes.
3. Make sauce (reheat before cooking fish).

TOTAL PREPARATION/COOKING TIME (NOT COUNTING DO-AHEAD STEPS) — 30 MINUTES

- 2 lbs. shark meat, cut into 12 pieces, marinated for 3 hours or more in salted water, drained and rinsed
- 1/4 cup oil
- 4-8 garlic cloves, crushed
- 1 tsp. ground coriander
- 1/4 cup tomato puree
- Juice of 1 large lemon or 2 limes (about 1/4 cup)
- 2 tps. freshly ground dried red chilies
- 1/4 cup water
- 2 tps. salt

In heavy skillet over medium heat, heat all but 3 tablespoons of oil, and saute garlic until it turns golden. Add coriander, followed a few minutes later by pureed tomato and citrus juice. Keep stirring mixture. When sauce begins to give off delicious smell, sprinkle in chilies and add water. Continue to cook, stirring, until sauce thickens a bit.

Rub salt into pieces of fish. Use reserved oil to coat shark. Place shark on grill or under broiler about 3 inches from source of heat, and cook, basting frequently and liberally with the sauce, 8 to 10 minutes. Turn fish over, baste again and cook an additional 8 to 10 minutes, until meat is tender when probed with fork.

Serves 4.

(Note: grouper, marlin and swordfish are also excellent candidates for this recipe.)

BARBECUED SHARK

Do-ahead steps:

Make sauce (reheat, stirring, before basting shark steaks).

TOTAL PREPARATION/COOKING TIME — 20 MINUTES

- 2 shark steaks, 1 lb. (total weight)
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 1/4 tsp. freshly ground black pepper, or to taste
- 1/4 tsp. dried tarragon, finely chopped (or 1/4 tsp. fresh)
- 1 tsp. finely chopped fresh parsley
- 1/4 tsp. dill weed
- Salt to taste
- 1 tsp. freshly grated lemon peel
- 2 tps. fresh lemon juice

Heat oil in small saucepan. Add pepper, herbs and lemon peel, and simmer for 3 to 4 minutes. Stir in lemon juice and cook, stirring, another minute.

Baste shark steaks liberally with sauce.

with sauce.

Over charcoal or under broiler, about 3 inches from source of heat, cook steaks about 6 minutes on each side, basting frequently with sauce.

Serves 2.

Coping with excess Easter eggs

By Desiree Viveca

The yearly coloring of Easter eggs is an event every mother anticipates with some trepidation. Was the kitchen floor white? Now, it's streaked and blotched with all the primary colors (much like the rainbow punk hairdo of the kid down the street).

Your children, bless their hearts, will do everything in their power to ensure that their arms — up to the elbow or even beyond — are as colorful as the floor.

And the eggs, which once sported a nice, clean, simple, basic eggshell hue, are now rendered gorgeous and florid as a peacock's spreading plume. Yellow and green, red and orange and purple, in swirls and stripes. Two-tone eggs, eggs with floral designs or rub-on grinning bunnies.

When the coloring's done it's time to put together those little cardboard stands, which will prop up your darlings' creations for proud display. Then you secretly tuck eggs into the Easter baskets, stealthily hide eggs throughout the back yard for the big hunt.

And after it's all done, what have you got? A pile of multicolored hard-boiled eggs that were fun to make, and fun to hunt down, but not nearly so much fun to eat as those marshmallow-filled chocolate eggs, or the solid chocolate bunny (already missing an ear), or the jelly beans.

HAM AND SWISS EGGS

- 2 tps. butter or margarine
- 2 cups thinly sliced onion
- 6 hard-cooked eggs, sliced

In 2-cup glass measure combine soup, milk, parsley flakes and pepper, blending well. Microwave, uncovered, until heated through, 3 to 4 minutes.

Pour soup mixture evenly over top of casserole, then sprinkle lightly with paprika.

Microwave, uncovered, 4 to 6 minutes longer, until cheese is melted and casserole heated through.

Serve over toast points.

MARINATED GREEN BEAN SALAD

- 1 lb. fresh or frozen green beans (if frozen, use French-cut beans)
- 1/4 cup water
- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 2 tps. red wine vinegar
- 1 tps. minced fresh parsley
- 1/4 tsp. each salt and pepper
- 1 medium green pepper, seeded and cut in thin strips
- 1/2 cup sour cream

- 1/2 tsp. dried dill weed
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 1 tps. bacon bits

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

If using frozen beans, place in casserole with only 2 tablespoons of the water. Cover and microwave 12 to 17 minutes, stirring once, until tender. Drain and set aside.

In small bowl combine olive oil, vinegar, parsley, salt and pepper. Pour over beans, tossing to mix well. Cover and chill at least 2 hours, stirring every half hour.

To serve, drain beans (reserve marinade), and combine in serving bowl with green pepper strips.

In separate bowl combine sour cream, blue cheese, dill weed and enough of marinade to thin to desired consistency. Toss dressing with vegetables, then garnish salad with chopped egg. Sprinkle bacon bits over all.

Serves 4 to 6.

AND SOME WORK GLOVES

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q I recently installed an oak parquet floor that had a pre-waxed finish. The instructions said not to apply any clear finish to the floor, wax only.

All I can find is paste wax for wood which is a lot of work and it becomes extremely slippery. Are there any liquid waxes or other protectants I can use? — F.S.

A There are three basic types of wax for wood floors, each of which has certain advantages and drawbacks:

Buffable paste waxes, for example, produce a deep, durable luster. With occasional rebuffering, the shine will last for three or four months, sometimes longer. The drawback, of course, is that paste waxes require buffing. Unless you own an electric floor polisher, this means you have to get down on your hands and knees to buff the floor.

Buffable liquid waxes, the second type, perform much like a paste wax. They produce a pleasant gleam and can be touched up between waxings by buffing. As a liquid, they have the additional advantage of being easier to apply. On the negative side, liquid wax is not quite so durable as paste wax and must still be buffed by hand when an electric floor polisher is unavailable.

The third type of wax is a newer self-polishing cleaner-wax. Like buffable waxes, one-step products clean while they wax. They differ in that they are self-polishing, with no buffing required. This type of wax dries to a hard, velvety luster. However, they cannot be re-buffed between waxings.

Most of these products are available at your local supermarket. However, if you are having trouble locating a full range of products, check with hardwood store or janitorial supply merchant, which will be listed in the Yellow Pages.

Q Do you have any formula for taking car battery acid from a concrete garage floor? It has left the floor all white. Thank you for any help you can give me. — J.B.Z.

A To remove the effects of battery leakage on a concrete driveway wash the area thoroughly with cold water.

If this treatment is not sufficient, wash with a solution of muriatic acid (one part muriatic acid to nine parts water). Be sure that you pour the acid into the water, not the other way around. Also, wear gloves and goggles for protection, as this is a highly corrosive solution and care should be taken when using it. Rinse thoroughly with cold water.

Complete removal may be impossible if the stain is deeply imbedded in concrete pores.

Q Can Formica be successfully painted, and with what kind of paint?

The Formica in my kitchen is on the cabinets and counter where food is handled. The color is green and I'm interested in covering it with white paint. I'd appreciate your professional advice concerning this matter. — P.G.

A No paint will adhere satisfactorily to the Formica surface for any length of time because of its slick non-porous surface.

To change the color of the counters, a sheet of Formica in any desired finish could be applied over the present surface, carefully following installation instructions available at Formica dealers.

their working years, and ask about the qualifications for the general welfare or relief systems in your state.

If applying for welfare, know that there will probably be a "means test" to qualify. In this the state wants to know what assets your parents have and can use for their own living and medical costs.

If they own their home, have savings or other investments they would not qualify for welfare programs. So, you will need do that type of assessment, using possible unemployment benefits and personal assets as the first course.

Of particular note is that Social Security is not a welfare system. People qualify only at retirement and after age 62 or 65, depending on the benefit level chosen, or qualify because of blindness or other certified disability if under age 65. Recipients have paid into the system out of working income.

Q We have a fireplace and have been using rolled-up newspapers as logs for burning, disposing of them in that manner. But now I have both contact dermatitis and a frequent sore throat.

Can the burning of rolled up newspapers be toxic? — J.B.

A The use of tightly rolled newspapers as fireplace logs is generally a fine way to save money and discard yesterday's newspapers. The process is a simple one you can do by hand — after dampening the papers to be rolled — or by a special paper-rolling gadget. Pages with colored inks should not be rolled for burning at all, because of the elements that go into those particular inks.

On your specific question of toxicity, yes, it is possible for some people to be affected. Many inks contain formaldehyde, according to Nancy Satur, M.D., and specialist in San Diego, and people allergic to this particular substance can experience the symptoms you describe as "contact dermatitis and a sore throat."

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 15 and like a boy my same age. I met him on the school bus that we ride home after our classes are over. He is real sweet but he does have a small problem. He is heavily into marijuana and other drugs and he drinks a lot of alcohol.

I ask him to walk me to my class but he won't. He says the guys will laugh at him if he does. Lately on the bus he won't even talk to me or sit by me. All he wants to do is sleep. He tells me to wake him up when the bus gets to his stop.

All this makes me feel real bad. Please tell me what to do. My grandmother says I should just forget him because he just isn't worth it. Help! — Angela Angela: Grandmothers are seldom wrong when offering advice to teenagers. The sooner you dump this loser, the better for you. All this guy will do is break your heart and cause you a lot of grief. It will hurt to tell him goodbye now but it will hurt a lot more if you wait.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 16 and sort of shy. My best friend gave my telephone number (with my permission) to an 18-year-old guy who attends her church and he called me. In fact, he has called me every night for the past four weeks but we still haven't met in person. Every time we plan to meet, something happens to his car or he has an emergency of some sort.

Lately he has been suggesting that I come over to his house first but I don't feel comfortable in doing that. Besides, my parents are very strict and I know they wouldn't approve.

This boy seems very interesting and I'm sure he is a nice guy. We seem to have a lot in common and I'm sure we would get along just great but it seems like we will never get to meet.

What should I do? — Tracy

Tracy: You have done enough talking — it's time to meet or forget about it.

Tell this boy (don't ask!) that you want to meet him at your house on a certain day at a certain time.

Don't talk with him on the phone again — until you meet this boy face-to-face on your turf!

Dr. Wallace: Call me a typical teen with a typical problem. I need your help and fast!

My sister was allowed to date when she was 15. She dated the same boy for a year and got pregnant. My parents wanted her to have an abortion but she wouldn't. Our house was in turmoil for a long time until finally my sister left and went to live in Toronto with our brother and sister-in-law. We haven't seen her or her baby since she left.

Now I am 15 and would like to date but my parents say, "No way." They say they were embarrassed by one daughter and they will make sure it doesn't happen to me. I have an interest in boys and they do in me. Just because my sister made a mistake doesn't mean that I'm going to do the same thing.

My sister was a poor student — I get good grades; my sister was into drugs and alcohol and I have never touched the stuff; my sister never attended church, while I teach Sunday school. She is responsible for her life and I'm responsible for mine.

What can I do to get my parents to think rationally? When I talk to them about it all they can say (they both think alike) is "I'll never date as long as I live under their roof. Please help me." — Rose

Rose: First off, I agree with you totally. It appears that you need adult help to cause your parents to rethink their unreasonable date ruling. Contact a favorite teacher or school counselor and/or your church clergyman. Ask this person to talk to your parents on your behalf and hopefully change their thinking.

For what it is worth, let Mom and Dad know how I feel concerning their philosophy on your dating.

Dr. Wallace: Our club would like to raise money and donate it to "needy" causes and we would like to know if you have any suggestions.

We have already raised money in the "standard" ways, including bake sales and car washes. We are willing and able. — Joanne Joanne: Why not try recycling? Besides saving energy, recycling can prove quite profitable.

Prices fluctuate but currently newspapers bring about 1 cent per pound ($20 per ton), aluminum cans bring 16 cents per pound and glass nets 2 cents per pound. There are many recycling centers throughout the United States and Canada (some are known as junkyards).

If you need assistance, contact local service clubs such as the Rotary, Kiwanis, Elks, Lions, etc. They all are interested in helping young people.

Mainly for Seniors

By Leonard J. Hansyn

Q My father drew his will, leaving his estate totally to three of his daughters while specifically excluding — by name — two other daughters. I am one of the named heirs.

Will my sisters be able to take the will to court and protest it? One attorney says the will will stand; another says that the daughters left out of the will can protest it in court. Which is true? — C.W.

A We took this question to attorney Frank Demet of Milwaukee, a specialist in wills and the contest of wills, who advises:

Challenges to a will can be made if a will is improperly executed. Are there two witnesses who have witnessed each other's signatures and that of the testator? Was the testator competent at the time of executing the will? Even a testator who is under a guardianship can be considered at times competent and therefore competent at the time of drawing the will. Or, was there undue influence by one or more of the named heirs to exclude the other daughters?

In the state of Wisconsin, according to Demet, most challenges to properly drawn wills are unsuccessful.

It is even very difficult to prove incompetency of the testator," says Demet. "The burden is on the challenger to prove it medically and other ways to the complete satisfaction of the Wisconsin court."

A properly drawn will in Wisconsin or in any other state means that you control the disposition of your estate. If the father in this case had not drawn a will the state, through probate, would have distributed the estate equally among the five daughters — contrary to the man's desire when he did, in fact, draw a will.

A will means that you can provide for special needs, too, such as for handicapped or minor children or grandchildren who might need a larger share of the estate, and this is determined by you when you draw the will," Demet said.

"You can also consider the use of a trust. It all depends on your estate and your desires for the distribution," emphasized Demet in our interview.

An attorney can offer that counsel and then provide the will and/or trust to your direction — and it is his or her job to execute the documents properly so that they will stand any test or challenge in court.

Q My parents, ages 57 and 51, are both unemployed and my mother is currently under doctor's care for hypertension. Are they eligible for Social Security or SSI benefits? — D.G.

A The only way to qualify for Social Security before age 62 is to be blind or disabled. The same criteria are in place for Supplemental Security Income qualification.

You might check for any unemployment benefits available from

Quality Or Quantity?

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.

Our (not so secret) ingredient
Readers = Results
 is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the many throwaways.

Multiuse furnishings maximize small rooms

By Sharon Owen Haven

Q. We have a small extra bedroom that has doors on three walls. This room has to serve as a TV room, den, guest room and storeroom.

How can we provide for all that and still get in the door? — A.H.

A. The idea-filled room pictured illustrates how you can accomplish your purpose in a dramatic way. Multifunctional furniture and tricks to maximize your one available expanse of wall are the keys.

Notice how the convertible sofa moonlights as bed and the side tables on casters conceal storage. Even the coffee table is lightweight, hollow and can store extra linens.

An impressive amount of book storage was gleaned by framing the sofa with wall-to-wall shelves.

By selecting a white or a light neutral color for the ceiling, carpeting and three of the walls, the small space can be enlarged visually.

Painting the bookcase wall a darker, bold color both dramatizes the wall as the focus of the room and serves as an eye-catching background for art and displays. Curl up and enjoy!

Q. We are renting an older home whose walls are in very poor condition with unsightly chips and cracks in the plaster.

Is there some way we can improve their appearance without a great deal of time or expense? — J.K.

A. Cover and camouflage are two time-honored ways to hide flaws wherever you find them. You might consider covering one or more walls with some of the myriad of well-designed sheet patterns now available.

By gathering the fabric at the top and bottom, and stapling along the wall perimeters, you can create a luxurious, soft atmosphere in a bedroom. Stretch the fabric taut and staple for a more tailored effect. The staples can be concealed with a wood trim or ribbon border.

Sheets can frequently be found inexpensively on sale and one evening's labor per room should be all the time required to glorify those unsightly walls.

LIGHT AND AIRY --- Glass tiles fitted into two small windows obliterate the view from indoors and yet allow natural light to come through. This window treatment, initially more expensive than draperies, solves the problem of an unpleasant view. Contemporary sofa and glass table are from Drexel Heritage.

Or, you might try a camouflage technique such as a sponge and paint treatment that gives an antiqued, marbled effect that turns flaw into virtue.

Paint the walls one color and slightly stamp over the dry paint with a sponge soaked in a different color (not too different!). This can produce a lovely, mottled effect that gives your world-weary walls character without breaking the budget.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q My neighbors have a ferret and are trying to persuade me to obtain one. Do they make good pets?

A I have read horror stories about ferrets attacking children. What is your advice regarding keeping one as a household pet?

Although many ferrets are as warm, intelligent and responsive as any dog or cat, the American Veterinary Medical Association (Council of Public Health and Regulatory Medicine has expressed serious concern regarding them as pets.

The AVMA recently has documented five human infant attacks by pet ferrets. Three attacks occurred in Nevada between 1981 and 1985 involving children younger than 7 months of age. The ferrets inflicted numerous bites on the faces, hands, heads and wrists of the infants. Similar attacks were reported in Indiana and Colorado. Two attacks occurred while the infants were in their cribs.

In all the reported cases, the ferrets were humanely destroyed and examined for rabies. All of the animals were found to be negative. However, at least six cases of rabies in ferrets have been reported in the United States, with at least three cases of rabies in pet ferrets.

There is no licensed, approved rabies vaccine for ferrets. The length of time that a rabid ferret sheds the rabies virus in its saliva prior to exhibiting clinical signs of illness is unknown. Therefore, the recommended action following ferret bites is euthanasia and examination for the rabies virus.

Reports from veterinarians in several states indicate that ferrets are becoming increasingly popular as pets. It is estimated that a fivefold increase in the number of pet ferrets will occur within five years in the United States.

Various cities and municipalities, including the state of California, have prohibited the keeping of ferrets as pets. The AVMA House of Delegates passed a resolution opposing the keeping of wild or exotic animals as pets and believes that commercial traffic in cat and dog distemper and may catch the common cold from humans and from other ferrets.

The chief disadvantages of ferrets are their musky odor and their ability to burrow and escape the premises. Visiting a family that has owned ferrets as pets and checking with your veterinarian would be a good idea prior to purchasing one as a pet.

Ferrets are mustelids, members of the weasel family, which also includes minks, skunks, badgers and otters. Mustelids have two anal glands which can, especially in males, emit a somewhat unpleasant odor. Female ferrets display a rather unattractive vulvar swelling while in season.

Ferrets are susceptible to both these animals as pets should be prohibited. This resolution has been reaffirmed by the AVMA House of Delegates on several occasions.

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

This week marks the beginning of a new season. On March 21 the Vernal Equinox takes place. Vernal means Spring and equinox means that the days and nights will be of approximately equal length.

In winter the days are short and in summer they are long. But during the spring and autumn their length is somewhere in the middle. That is, each day and each night is about 12 hours long to make up the 24 hour day!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Al Reddy and Ann Cochran.

RULES BOYS AND GIRLS

Here is your chance to win One Dollar ($1.00) - to spend or to save.

1. Contest is open to children 4 to 12 years of age.

2. Entries must be received by Friday, March 28, 1986

3. Paint, watercolors and crayons must be used on the above.

4. Decision of the Judges will be final.

Mail your entry (just clip out cartoon) to this newspaper at 105 Hillside Avenue Williston Park, N.Y. 11596

The World's Most Precious Pets

Can you guess why my owners, John and Linda Rock, formerly of Syosset, named me Six Pack? They put me on this table to keep me from digging up all the rest of the flower beds. It was hard work and I got real thirsty, but these flip tops pose quite a problem for a 3 month old sheep dog puppy!

Thank you for listening.

John & Linda Rock

They just have to be the Most Precious Pets. Left to right: Trinket, Suzette and Tasha. Three lovely French ladies!! Owned by Jackie Keating of the Cathedral School of St. Mary in Garden City.
