Fourth Graders Visit JFK

The boys and girls in Mr. Savalas fourth grade class visited J.F.K. Airport on April 22. This trip was very exciting and educational as the children saw the 747 in the hangar under repair. They were told how the engine works, there were so many questions to be asked about the length, wing span, passenger load, cost of repairs, travel, etc.

They also took a tour of the jet and were thrilled to relax in first class before taking turns sitting in the cockpit, they especially enjoyed sitting in the pilot's seat. Thanks again to Mr. Savalas for a well planned trip. The other two fourth grade classes made the same trip on Wednesday, April 23.

Giese Park Battle Continues

On Wednesday, April 16, the signed petitions from the rally at Giese park on April 13th were submitted to Supervisor Joseph Colby and the Town Board by Thomas McGovern. The petition requested alternate park plans to those proposed by the Town and presented by Councilman Thomas Clark. A cover letter was submitted with the petition expressing the concern of the residents and asking to be more directly informed of any plans for this area.

In response to this action, Mr. McGovern received a letter from Deputy Supervisor James Bell acknowledging the receipt of the petition and noting the residents' views concerning Giese park. Also, Mr. Bell stated that arrangements were being made for a meeting with Mr. McGovern and Town representatives to see what compromises could be reached. Mr. McGovern has since received an invitation for him and members of his committee to attend said meeting which is to be held on May 6th. Also scheduled to attend are Councilman Clark and representatives from the Parks Department and the Hicksville American Soccer Club. Results will be announced in a later newsletter.

There have been some strong urgings by local residents surrounding Giese Park to pursue the formation of a Civic Association. To this end, Mr. McGovern has contacted local civic associations and has spoken to an attorney. He has learned that there was a local civic association in action in 1971 that fought for the Giese Park property to remain off the tax rolls as opposed to the area being sold to a private developer. Heavine has information about that civic association, and most importantly the name of it, please contact Tom or Fran McGovern at 10 Brooks St., telephone 938-7309.

Young Authors At Burns Ave.

On Friday, April 11, a Reception for Young Authors honoring Mrs. Terry Well's English students, grades five and six, was held at the Burns Avenue School.

The children shared their books with faculty members and fellow students in the afternoon, and with family members in the evening. These books, which were illustrated and hand bound, were the result of a four month in-school writing effort. Each book contained a pocket for library cards so that as each book was enjoyed, the reader could sign the author's card.

The theme for the young authors was a Brazilian saying: "A person has achieved success when he/she plants a tree, has a child and writes a book."

For the fifth consecutive year, the fourth, fifth and sixth grade students at Lee Avenue Elementary School participated in the Easter Seals Basketball Shoot-Out. This year it was sponsored by the New Knicks—57 students competed. Each child was given three minutes to make as many baskets as she/he could and was then verified by physical education teacher, Miss Feuerstein.

For the third time in five years, the children at Lee raised the most money of all the other schools participating—$2,093.42, resulting in the beautiful trophy pictured. Six of the children did an outstanding job in raising money, four raising over $100 each and two raising over $200 each. Up to date, the children of Lee Avenue School have raised $9,644.27 for Easter Seals. All the children that partici-ated had a lot of fun shooting for the baskets and were glad to help people less fortunate than themselves.

'Super Sundae' Kiwanis Fundraiser

On Sunday, May 4, the residents of Hicksville will have an opportunity to help build up the Hicksville Kiwanis Club's High School Scholarship Fund.

One of the newer members of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club operates the two Carvel Stores at 42 West Village Green on Newbridge Road (Route 106) and 447 South Broadway (Route 107), and offered the use of his Carvel Stores for a Scholarship Fund Raising event. He suggested that we announce that on Sunday, May 4, between noon and 5 p.m., for every Super Sundae purchased for $2.50 at either of the two Carvel Stores listed above, he will donate $1.00 to the Hicksville High School Scholarship Fund.

Besides enjoying some delicious ice cream on a Sunday afternoon, you will have the good feeling of helping to build up the Scholarship Fund. By buying a Super Sundae, you get 50% more ice cream and 100% more topping than is in the regular sundae, in addition to helping the Scholarship Fund.

So, make your plans to go to either of these two Carvel Stores on Sunday, May 4, between noon and 5 p.m. and remember that you are helping someone while you are enjoying a Super Sundae.

The Hicksville Kiwanis Club will appreciate your support to the Hicksville High School Scholarship Fund.

Letters

To the Editor:

I would like to express my views concerning the upcoming school budget vote on Wednesday, May 7 for the Hicksville community.

There will be a very important vote taken by the taxpayers concerning the busing issue. This consideration to decrease the mileage came from many hours of investigation by the School Board concerning the safety in this community. So many people do not realize the amount of traffic and hazardous weather conditions which these children endure during the seasons while school is in session. I myself have passed by many accidents which children were involved in on the major roads in this community while they were walking back and forth to school.

I urge all taxpayers and voters to really use their conscience on this matter and know that there is State aid which goes along with this privilege and that we should be more concerned about "saving a life than saving a buck."

H.S. Students Perform Musically

Various musical organizations from the Hicksville Junior and Senior High Schools will be performing at various locations outside their schools this spring.

Students in the Tri-M music honor society at Hicksville High School performed for senior citizens at Levittown Hall on April 23. The group is composed of instrumental and voice students who have excelled in music and is advised by Mr. Thomas Buttice. This same event was held successfully last year and is presented in cooperation with the high school Student Council which is advised by Mrs. Nancy DeSorbo.

On May 7 the Hicksville High School Symphonic Band will participate in "Classical Music Day" at Hofstra University. The band is conducted by Mr. J. David Abt.

The Center Island Nursing Home will be entertained by a concert featuring the Junior High School Orchestra under the baton of Mr. Robert West. The orchestra will appear on May 19.

The Junior High School Ninth Grade Band will perform a concert on May 22 at the Holly Patterson Home in Uniondale. The band is conducted by Mr. Robert Pownall.

Man Arrested For Impersonation

The Second Squad reports the arrest of a man for two counts of criminal impersonation, two counts of grand larceny, one count of sexual abuse and two VTL warrants that occurred in Plainview and Hicksville on April 19, at 12:35 and 1 p.m.

The subject would allegedly get behind female operators with his auto, blink his lights and blow his horn, then motion the women to pull their vehicles over. When he approached the women he would state that he was an off duty police officer and was going to give them a summons and impound their autos for their traffic violations.

He allegedly told the women that they could pay him money or provide him with sexual favors and he would forget the violations. He stopped a 45 year old Melville woman on Sunnyside Blvd., Plainview and allegedly received $15. In another incident on N. Broadway, Hicksville the 24 year old Huntington Station woman gave him $70. He allegedly gave her back $10 for gas, kissed and sexually abused her before leaving.

Police Officer Joseph Ferrari, Fifth Precinct arrested Alan D. McEaney, 25, helper, of 15 Sapir Street, Valley Stream at 12:01 a.m., April 21 for traffic warrants. After an investigation, on information received through a joint effort between the Second Squad, Nassau and the Suffolk County Police Department, the subject was charged with the other charges.

McEaney will be arraigned in First District Court, Mineola. The investigation is continuing.

Power Squadron New Officer

Louis G. Kaufmann II, a resident of Bethpage, has been installed as Secretary of the United States Power Squadrons District 3, the Long Island District, which is comprised of 20 local Squadrons that sponsor boating education and safety activities from Brooklyn to East Hampton.

District Lieutenant Commander Kaufmann is a Past Commander of the Great South Bay Squadron, where he attained the rank of Navigator. He has been active for many years in that Squadron's educational and safety program.

The United States Power Squadrons is an association of men and women whose objectives are to encourage and promote a high standard of skill in the handling and navigation of power and sail boats; to promote the study of the science and art of navigation, seamanship and small boat handling; to develop instructional programs for the benefit of members; and to stimulate members to increase their knowledge of and skill in boating through self-education and participation in marine sports activities and competition. The local Squadrons also conduct public boating classes for boaters and would-be boaters throughout Long Island.

Many Activities For Bethpage Girl

Worries about the increase of teenage drinking and driving accidents led the State Legislature to raise the drinking age to 21. Similar fears last year led Shari Nudelman, a senior at Bethpage High School to organize the Students Against Drunk Driving (S.A.D.D.) program with the assistance of Mr. Rager, Chairman of Driver Education. Scheduled for the day before the Senior Prom, it was intended to have the maximum impact on students. This year, again, she began coordinating the S.A.D.D. with a conference in September and plans to present a well-known athlete to a student Assembly.

This was only one of many interests of Shari who was honored as Teenager of the Month by the local Elks Lodge. A member of the swimming team for the last 3 years, a lifeguard and a water safety instructor on Saturdays, she is also in the top rank of Bethpage High School, active in the Spanish Club, Honor Society and Yearbook staff and this year helped to draft the Students' Bill of Rights as a participant in the Principal's Cabinet.

Shari's plans are to enter the Health Professional program at SUNY in Binghamton and hopes to become a pharmacist. In her current Advanced Placement course in Biology, she is completing a paper on Interleukin 2 that has frustrated her because of the amount of information that is appearing daily. Her minor will be in the field of computers, a field that has turned her on just this spring.

Shari Nudelman is a fine caring person who spoke of her special excitement at helping a young person learn how to swim. Mr. Rager called her a dynamic leader and coordinator of the S.A.D.D. program for two years who deserves full credit for its success. "She doesn't flag, she doesn't quit."

afternoon, enthusiastic young storytellers, their happy parents, teachers, friends and dedicated judges gathered at the Bethpage Public Library for the Gala Finals and Awards Ceremony of the Long Island Storytelling Contest. On this festive occasion, ten young people, winners in their own schools, told stories before a panel of judges who selected two all-district winners, proudly holding their gilded trophies awarded by Citibank. The all-district winners are fourth grader Melissa Haudberg and fifth grader Rhonda Prensny, both from Charles Campaigne School.

Other winners are: fourth graders Susie Vivolo (Central Boulevard School), Melissa Melendez (St. Martin's School), Marc Weitzman (Kramer Lane School), Courtney Peterson (Our Lady of Mercy School) and fifth graders Kathy McCarthy (St. Martin's School), Susan Tesoriero (Central Boulevard School), Michael Freudenberg (Our Lady of Mercy School), Joseph Ernst (Kramer Lane School).

Bethpage District fourth and fifth grade participants each learned a fairy or folk tale by heart, attended coaching workshops at the Bethpage Public Nurses Week At Mid Is. Hosp.

Two hundred staff nurses at Mid-Island Hospital will be honored next Tuesday, at a special "National Nurses Week" afternoon tea, it was announced by Patricia Canigiani, Assistant Administrator and Director of Nursing Services.

Officiating at the tea and ceremony will be Douglas J. Hynes, of the Town of Oyster Bay, to present a citation for "Outstanding Nursing Services" to the communities served by the 234 bed health care facility in Bethpage.

In addition to the tea, the Hospital's Administration will distribute flowers to each nurse during the week long celebration.

Last week, the Hospital received a proclamation from Governor Mario Cuomo offering his compliments and stating that, "nurses must stay current with a diverse range of new developments in the medical field."

Library, and told their stories in the school contests. All young storytellers on the school level received certificates of participation and a coupon for a Burger King Whopper Sandwich, courtesy of the Burger King Corporation, 4201 Hempstead Turnpike, Bethpage.

Families, teachers, and friends of the young storytellers turned out for the gala finals in force. Refreshments were served and a good time was had by all.

Gilbert & Sullivan At Bethpage Library

The New York Gilbert & Sullivan Players will serve up "A Gilbert & Sullivan Banquet" on Friday, May 16, as the twentieth and final offering in the 1985-86 "Distinguished Artists Concerts" series, according to Oyster Bay Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond.

The concert, which is being sponsored by the Cultural and Performing Arts (CAPA) Division of the Department of Community Services, will be held at the Bethpage Public Library, 47 Powell Avenue, beginning at 8:15 p.m. For further information, contact CAPA at 795-5943.

"A Gilbert & Sullivan Banquet" is a selection of solos and ensemble numbers presented with staging and costumes by the Wand'ring Minstrels, who are all members of the highly acclaimed New York Gilbert & Sullivan Players", Diamond said. "The Minstrels perform frequently in nursing homes, schools, for local arts councils and have traveled as far as Dallas, Texas, where they appeared as part of a fortnight festival, "Britain Then and Now."

IT TAKES ONE TO KNOW ONE.

Our Volvo technicians have certain advantages over the mechanic who works someplace else.

First, many are factory-trained to service Volvos. This higher education is available to all Volvo dealer employees.

Second, our technicians are the first to know about new service procedures. And changes in older procedures.

Third, when new tools are designed to service Volvos faster and better, they're put in our technicians' hands first.

Does all this mean the non-Volvo mechanic is working at a slight disadvantage?

No. It means he's working at a huge disadvantage.

TOB Supports Aux. Police Aide

The Oyster Bay Town Board has formally expressed its support for proposed State legislation which would enable towns in Nassau County to sell unneeded equipment to the Nassau County Auxiliary Police, according to Town Councilman Howard T. Hogan, Jr.

"By formal resolution, the Town Board voted unanimously to forward a Home Rule request to the New York State Legislature in support of Senate Bill 280 and Assembly Bill 5730 and request their adoption by the Legislature," Hogan said. "If passed, Town Boards in Nassau County, as well as the County Board of Supervisors, would be empowered to sell, lease or transfer used or unneeded equipment to the Nassau County Auxiliary Police, another municipality or to a school district."

Hogan explained that the process was required by the State Legislature in order to amend the Nassau County Civil Divisions Act with regard to permitting this type of action by Town Boards.

Museum Holds Lapidary Workshop

On April 14, the Gregory Museum held one of their continuing monthly workshops, "Rock Stars". Mr. Richard Schuler, a member of the Nassau Mineral Club, showed a group of 20 children the art of lapidary. The next workshop will be May 3. Joan Scancarelli, director of the museum, will show the children how to etch fossils on slate.

When the etchings are completed they will look like real specimens of the past. The class will also learn about the Erypterid, the New York State Fossil. Enrollment is still open. The class called "Slate Etching" will be Saturday, May 3, 1:30-2:30 p.m. for children between the ages of 9-12. Members $3, non-members $5.

The museum is located in Hicksville and open Tuesday-Friday 9:30-4:30 p.m., Saturday and Sunday 1-5, closed Monday.

Parola Seeks Fifth Term

Assemblyman Fred Parola

Saying that his fight for the concerns of residents in the 14th A.D. is far from over, Assemblyman Fred Parola (R-C Wantagh) declared his candidacy for reelection to the New York State Assembly.

"The public service I have attempted to provide to constituents in Nassau County has been highly rewarding for me, and through the many outreach programs I annually take part in, I take pride in knowing that I am reflecting the concerns of those who have elected me to office since 1978," said Parola, leader of the Assembly Republican delegation in Nassau County.

"Growing up in Nassau County has instilled in me a deep pride and fierce loyalty to the people who make up our communities," said Parola. "That is why I make it a point to visit every home in the district each year, which has now taken me to nearly one-quarter of a million households!" The assemblyman noted that his priorities include the following issues:

- property tax reform, especially as to the needs of local schools;
- tax relief, which was started last year, but remains insufficient especially related to local property taxes; and
- crime, including tougher sentences and restrictions on plea bargaining for vicious criminals, along with support for the death penalty in certain cases.

"Through constituent responses to my annual legislative questionnaire, I continue to also reflect their views in working towards extension and expansion of tax cuts; reduction of Long Island Lighting Co.'s (LILCO) electric rates through redistribution of cheaper hydropower; an overhaul of the insurance system; and a clean-up of area dump sites through the use of state Superfund money," said Parola.

She attended Nassau Community College and Hofstra University where she obtained her Basic Certificate in Banking. Ms. Pniewski is currently working towards a degree in Business Management and Communications at Adelphi University.

Ms. Pniewski resides in Hicksville.

Holy Family Players Production

The Holy Family Players are planning their 20th annual production entitled, "It's Curtain Time!", to be held at the Holy Family School auditorium, 25 Fordham Avenue, Hicksville on May 10 and May 17 at 8:30 p.m.

Songs, dance, and comedy are all a part of this original musical variety show. Tickets will be sold at the door for $3. All proceeds, after expenses, are donated to Holy Family Parish.

Tom O'Connor, the director, and his wife Pegge, accompanist and choreographer, are a dedicated, talented, delightful couple. The members number about 50 and are from all walks of life, with a wide age span. Throughout the year, Tom and Pegge give their time and experience to accomplish an evening of professional quality entertainment.

The show has been "on the road" many times over the years with performances given at Leisure Village, Sons of Italy, Republican Club, nursing homes, etc., many being booked one year for the next year's show.

Most Callers Believe School Bds. Don't Need To Stump

Most callers to Input think that school boards should not go out stumping to have budgets passed in answer to this question: "Since the court has ruled that school districts cannot directly appeal to residents to vote for the budget in taxpayer funded material this year do you think school districts will have it more difficult in getting their budgets passed? Here are some of the answers:

DOESN'T MATTER

It does not really matter how much the school boards push budgets. What matters is whether the people think the increase is in line with what they can afford to pay. If the school district asks for a small increase and the public believes it is a good school district they will get the budget passed regardless of how much advertising they put out. N.R.

GOOD IDEA

It was high time that school boards were given guidelines on what they could use tax money for in presenting the budget. I can remember many districts sending out a flyer to every house telling them to vote for the budget. But I remember when a group opposed to the budget asked for equal time at taxpayer expense they were told that the Board would not allow it. We have a tradition in this country of protecting free elections and keeping the government free of partisan politics. Then it is no wonder that school districts that are asked to be models for upcoming generations should have to adhere to the same tradition. K.Q.

LITTLE CHANGE

There will be little change. Most school districts won't tell you exactly whether you should vote for the budget or not but they will tell you what will happen if you don't. They will say that the kids will have to walk miles to school; that there won't be any athletics or other extracurricular activities and that if you don't pass the budget that it will only affect the rate a small amount because salaries are already agreed to under contracts. So why get worried about the budget? J.R.

WRONG WAY

I hadn't heard that school districts cannot ask you to vote for the budget. I think they ought to be able to tell you why they favor it and why they want us to vote for it. I see nothing wrong with that and if they are not able to do that this year then it is wrong. L.W.

TIRED OF BUDGETS

I am tired of school budgets. They are always formed by lobby groups who are only thinking of what they can get out of the taxpayers. The parents want the taxpayers to provide things they won't give. The teachers organizations have only the good of their members at heart and the school board members are ineffective. It is high time we stopped fooling ourselves that we can change things. It never happens. K.E.

MATTER OF PRINCIPLE

While in the past I have objected to the practice of the school system using its official institutional publication to ask for votes approving the annual school budget, I don't believe that a legal restriction on that practice will greatly affect the outcome. It's more a matter of principle in that there is a rightful resentment against the employment of one's own financial support to appeal to the general public to vote for something to which he or she is opposed. I still find it difficult to accept the pat rationale for the continued and apparently unrestrained increase in school taxes when school registration is down year after year. The entire concept in Garden City at least, is based upon the concept as expressed in a 1985 issue of the official newsletter "Within Our Schools" of the assumed ability of our taxpayers to pay and the far out theory that the continued improvement in our schools is a tacit form of insurance toward the maintenance and improvement of our property values. Some of us want to continue to be able to afford to live in Garden City and increases in our property values do not put food on the table, clothes on our backs, and enable us to pay the increasing taxes which are sold to us on the basis that everything the School's Board and Administration decide is absolutely necessary. Our apparent capitulation to the union demands of a virtual 7% across the board annual increase in pay over three years in the face of a lower increase in the cost of living adjustments in other fields is so difficult to accept. Elder citizens in Garden City, largely dependent on fixed income and limited in Social Security increase to 3.1% this year, certainly offers some kind of valid counter argument to the negotiated teacher COL increases. To answer your question further I think that the schools have lost an important vehicle in presenting their case to the public but the affirmative votes are so deeply entrenched and so well organized that the "nays" haven't got a Chinaman's chance especially in the face of the ever-present and fearsome alternative of the austerity program in the event of defeat. But, in our democratic society, a basic privilege and responsibility is the right to vote and there is no excuse for anyone to stay home and shirk that responsibility. P.G.S.

OTHER ISSUES

LIBYA BOMBING

I wonder how many lives of innocents we would have saved if we didn't bomb Libya but instead sent a free lance commando group of soldiers of fortune over with a $1 million bounty on Khadafy's head? I remember how the commandos goofed at the airport for Pres. Carter but I mean real, rugged, survivalists. The ones who rent out. Something to think about, isn't it? H.S.

RIGHT THING

The Americans attacked the Libyan capitol of Tripoli and I think we did the right thing even though our allies are complaining. We should keep attacking him until he leaves office or his countrymen turn on him. If our Nato allies don't want to help us we must go it alone but if they do Khadafy will be stopped. A.B.

DISCOVERY

A My Name Is Allyce

By Anne Feldman

Remember when you were growing up and you knew exactly how to spell your friends' names?

When I was about ten, I changed my name from just plain Ann to Anne. That's how my friends and relatives know me now--Anne--with an e. I wanted to be different.

The only homonyms in my fourth grade class were Stewart and Stuart. It wasn't until college when I met the infamous roommates Marcia and Marsha.

But that's all changed now. I have been teaching preschool on Long Island for over five years, and my afternoons are thoroughly confusing:

On Mondays there's Erik with a k (Eric with a c is a "morning child"), and Erica. In the group are two sweet girls named Sara--identical spellings. However, every once in a while daddy respectfully reminds me that his Sara's name is pronounced Sarah! Think twice, Miss Anne. It's Marc with a c and Steven with a v.

On Tuesdays, I have Lyndsey and Lindsay. With a pair of blondes answering to Heather, one tyke refers to herself as "this Heather." It certainly can be confusing to three year olds when I call upon one Heather and the wrong one responds. My usual reaction is, "No, I wanted that Heather." This, "this Heather" becomes completely logical! Bobby's mother deserves a kiss! From day one she gave me the okay to use his nickname at all times. He and Robert have no problems knowing who I'm addressing.

Wednesday is my lucky day. Eleven little darlings with eleven different names.

Thursday is my nemesis. When it comes time to line up for the Pledge of Allegiance, I must be sure that Daniel is on the left side of the room near the instruments. Danielle, with the girls, of course, should be standing in front of the flannel board. Danny (fortunately for me) attends playgroup in the morning. And, yes, there are two Mellissas--each with her very own pacifier!

T.G.I.F. No preschool!

With registration for next year just about complete, I can anticipate what's in store. Come September I'll greet Stacey--not Stacy or Staci (they were from my class of '85). Then there'll be Jayme and Jamie, Marni and Traci, Lori and Lauren, two Jasons and a pair of Jareds. It's obvious that Corey will have to line up near the drums and Kori near the alphabet.

And I'm really looking forward to reintroducing myself to a mom named Phran!

READER RATINGS

Q. If bouillon is served in a cup, do you drink it? Should you take part of it with the spoon? What if the cup has two handles. Do you use both hands? B.K.

A. Spoon up part of the bouillon before taking it up to drink. If the cup has one handle, hold it in one hand. If it has two handles, hold it by both handles. If the bouillon has solids in it, take them up with the spoon before drinking the bouillon.

Q. If someone asks you to dinner, shouldn't he make the reservations, tell you where to come, and pay for the meal? F.G.D.

A. Yes. The person who does the asking takes the responsibility for making the arrangements and for paying, unless it is clearly understood beforehand that it is "dutch."

Q. Who is served first at table and when is the proper time to begin eating? F.G.D.

A. The hostess is not served first unless she is the only lady at the table or is alone with her husband and children. If Grandmother or even a young girl guest is present, the dishes are first presented to her after inspection by the hostess. When the hostess is serving from in front of her place, with or without the aid of a servant, she is served next to last and her husband last. For her to serve herself earlier will mean her food will be cold and her filled plate in the way.

After several people have been served, urged by the hostess, guests begin eating so their food will not be cold. And, except at breakfast, the polite husband waits until his wife has been served before beginning to eat.

NICE PLACE

The Fortune Cookie in Garden City is a delightful new restaurant. It is bright and cheery, well laid out and decorated. They did not have a liquor license when we were in it recently but their food was exceptionally good. The young people running the restaurant seem eager to please and we had a very good meal there. We'd recommend it to anyone.

SMALL BUT ELEGANT

The Ristorante San Giorgio is one of those small but elegant Italian restaurants. It is located in a shopping center near the A and P in Westbury on Old Country into it you feel that you have taken a step into continental elegance.

The food is Italian from Northern Italy. The fare includes freshly made pasta of all varieties and some of the finest veal dishes you can find anywhere on Long Island. We went there last week and found it to be a great dining experience. I think many of your readers will enjoy this one. J.W.

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides—a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great, and near great, food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings".

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

SUPERB SERVICE

Devins is an upbeat restaurant in Garden City. It features superb continental food served by a staff that is attentive to your every need. We took a group of eight people there last week and found that the food was excellent and that the service was remarkably good at a time when many restaurants just let you wait and wait. The restaurant had many people in it but we were still taken care of with good service. Devins has excellent Italian veal parmigiana and fine fish dishes. We recommend that your readers go there and find out for themselves what a good place this is. L.R.

GOOD PERFORMANCE

What a posh restaurant this Benihana is in Manhasset. It is designed with a beautiful bar and cocktail lounge where you can gather before and after a special meal. We did that last Saturday. Probably most of your readers have been to Benihana, but if there are still some who have not we want to say that we were pleasantly surprised with its new form of entertainment in eating. You see it is not only the food at Benihana but the performance of the chef who is an expert in the use of a knife. You can watch him prepare the shrimp with a few swats of the blade and a steak and all of the other items the people around you get. This is the performance. Then you are surprised that food prepared so quickly and with such acrobatics is so good to eat. We recommend this restaurant. S.C. and M.T.

SAY 'YES' TO A JOHN PEEL WEDDING PROPOSAL.

Once you say 'I do' to a wedding reception at John Peel, you really have to do very little. We'll plan the menu with you. Show you our traditional English banquet rooms. (You might even want to ask about our outdoor patio overlooking the pool.) We'll chill the champagne, bake the wedding cake, and on the big day, we'll even provide the rice. All you do is bring us up to 300 guests.

And call our banquet manager today.

Here's a prescription for healthy living: Eat with your heart in mind.

That may not be as easy as it sounds; our aboriginal forebears did a better job of it than we do.

Since most of their protein was on the hoof, cave cuisine tended to consist mostly of inherently low-cholesterol, low-sodium fruits, vegetables, grains, tubers, roots, berries, beans, nuts and seeds. Plant foods provided 60 to 80 percent of the diet in those primitive societies.

Modern technology — which assures us a longer life through the use of vaccines and antibiotics — also has enabled us to all but reverse this percentage. To excessive protein we have added equally excessive amounts of fat, sugar and sodium, so that we now can expect to live long enough to succumb to such chronic illnesses as heart disease, hypertension, stroke and cancer.

A 1982 report from the National Academy of Sciences established that at least 50 percent of fatalities from the 10 leading causes of death in the United States are lifestyle related.

What that means, Jane Brody says in her comprehensive "Good Food Book: Living the Carbohydrate Way," is that we are "wiping out the public health gains of our younger years by the way we now live, and especially by the way we eat. ... A vast body of evidence indicates that the current American diet contains too much fat, sugar, protein and too little starch. ..."

Correcting that situation doesn't mean giving up all your favorite foods; it simply means establishing a more sensible nutritional profile — one high in complex carbohydrates (fruits, vegetables and whole grains) and low in protein, fat, sodium and cholesterol.

Since heart-healthy recipes are healthy overall as well, the following dishes are appropriate for the whole family. They were designed to fit into a diet moderately low in calories, cholesterol and sodium. They were not intended to supersede dietary restrictions prescribed by a physician.

Main dishes and desserts are emphasized, since they are generally the hardest for people to adapt. Calorie, cholesterol and sodium counts are given where available.

calls for Oriental eggplant, use one common eggplant in place of four of the Oriental type.

Cooks preparing eggplant for the first time may be surprised at the amount of oil eggplant absorbs as it cooks. This quality has been known to cooks in the Middle East for centuries, as the following traditional tale indicates.

An imam (priest) was so taken by an eggplant dish his fiancée prepared for him that he asked that her only dowry be a supply of the oil needed to cook it. Before the wedding, the legend continues, servants arrived at the imam's house bearing two huge urns of olive oil. For the first two nights after the wedding all went well. On the third night, however, the imam came home to a bare table and a weeping wife.

"What has happened?" he cried. "Alas, our wedding oil has all been soaked up by the eggplant!" the bride sobbed, and the imam fell down in a faint.

One of the most popular Middle Eastern eggplant dishes, Imam Baaldi, is named in honor of the hapless priest.

Eggplant isn't really quite this oil-absorbent, but it is a good idea to drain it carefully on paper towels after it is cooked. Another good idea is to mix a lighter, unsaturated oil with virgin olive oil for cooking eggplant.

EGGPLANT PARMESAN

Preparation/cooking time — 15 minutes plus do-ahead steps

8-12 slices of eggplant, (skin removed) ½ inch thick, from the widest part of two large eggplants

- 2 large eggs
- ½-1 cup fresh bread crumbs
- 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
- ½ cup virgin olive oil (add more during cooking, if needed (OR: mix olive oil with equal amount of safflower or peanut oil)
- ¼-½ tsp. dried oregano
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 cup coarsely grated fresh Parmesan cheese

DO-AHEAD STEPS

1. Steam eggplant slices — 2 or 3 at a time — for 2-3 minutes, turning once. Drain, pat dry and allow to cool 10-20 minutes.
2. While eggplant is cooling, whisk eggs lightly in medium bowl.
3. Dip eggplant slices in egg, then coat with bread crumbs.

FINAL STEPS

Lightly saute garlic in oil, over medium heat. Add 2-3 slices of eggplant at a time. Sprinkle lightly with oregano, salt and pepper while cooking. When eggplant is light-golden brown, drain well on paper towels.

When all slices have been cooked, place on large baking tray or aluminum foil, cover, with Parmesan cheese and broil briefly (about 1 minute), until cheese is melted and bubbling. Serve with pasta and your favorite tomato or white clam sauce.

FINAL STEPS

2. Chop pulp coarsely and sprinkle generously with salt. Place salted pulp in colander and allow to drain 30 minutes, then roll in double layer of paper towels and squeeze gently to dry.
3. Meanwhile, sprinkle inside of eggplant shells generously with salt and pepper, and drain upside down on paper towels 30 minutes, then pat dry.
4. Sauté sausage until browned. Drain on paper towels.

FINAL STEPS

Eggplant excellent as meat substitute

By Paul Benzen

Many people today are reducing their consumption of red meat, or eliminating it entirely from their diet. Fortunately, there are lots of excellent main course recipes that use little or no meat, and today we're featuring two that have eggplant as their central ingredient. Today's other recipe is for a quick and easy eggplant casserole that can serve either as a meatless main course or as a distinctive vegetable course.

In Italy, China, France and other countries, eggplant has long been valued both as a satisfying meat substitute and as a vegetable accompaniment to other dishes. Today's recipe for Eggplant Parmesan is an original one — quite different from the usual casserole-type preparation — which has received good reviews from both carnivorous and vegetarian guests. Eggplant Casserole, with cream, butter and fresh cracker crumbs, is a rich, yet delicately flavored dish. Eggplant Stuffed With Sausage and Feta Cheese, with a flavor reminiscent of Greece, is a hearty entree that is both delicious and dramatic.

The large, dark-purple eggplants (Solanum melongena) familiar in this country are native to the warmer parts of Europe. They are called aubergine in France, and many English-language cookbooks also refer to them by this name. Oriental eggplants are much smaller and more elongated than the ones common here. As a rule of thumb, if you're following a recipe that

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q: I am currently in the process of buying a piece of property where the seller is deceased. The loan company states on one of the items a requirement for funding is the receipt and approval of a building permit for a rear patio enclosure and covered patio. The family member who is the seller has no idea if there was or ever had been a building permit. The escrow person says it is my responsibility to get the permit since I am applying for the loan.

I think this escrow person is wrong. I didn't know anything about this when I saw the house. How was I to know whose responsibility it was to get the record of the building permit?

If I am unable to get the loan, I have incurred some expenses and I am losing out. Also, do I have the right to impose some of these expenses on the seller since I was not informed? The loan amount is for 50 percent of the purchase price.

Whose responsibility should it be to get the record of the building permit? Your answer may help us to decide to purchase the house or not. — F.L.

A: If there is no record of a building permit for this addition to the house, the seller is responsible to pay for one and get it recorded. Sometimes the type of loan will determine whether you will need the permit or not, or if the price of the permit can be negotiated.

For a California Veterans Loan or a FHA loan, it is a must to have the building permit in order to qualify the property for a loan. Sometimes with a VA loan or a conventional loan this can be negotiated.

However, the lack of the permit may affect the appraiser's evaluation of the property. In most cases the seller would be held responsible for providing a record of a building permit, unless the buyer and loan firm agree otherwise.

Regardless of the responsibility of obtaining the permit, you will want the property properly recorded if you continue with the purchase. The lack of a proper building permit will likely affect any future sale of the property and this again would become an issue.

Q: Last November I had a telephone call from a reader who

Mainly for Seniors

By Leonard J. Hansen

No one really wants to think about passing on from this earth. It is all the unknown, at a time uncertain other than knowing that it will happen to each of us at some time in the future. So, in our day-to-day activities, we really don't give it a lot of thought, perhaps that is a mistake.

Perhaps for one or two days, each of us should address that question, not for our individual benefit but in concern for those who will survive. Unless we tend to the subject in advance, those survivors will have to deal with our affairs, our estates, our obligations — all in addition to any memorial service or event.

What we have created as our individual estates can be and should be our individual obligation for disposition, not the burden of others. This means communication and resolution now — facing up to the question and making determinations and records. When resolved, the questions become answers and we can put them behind us and go forward.

Use this checklist for yourself.

● Wills — Have you prepared a will for the disposition of your estate as you want it accomplished? Have you identified your assets for your attorney? Have you identified those to be heirs — family, friends, organizations, charities? Have you checked the will lately for any recent changes? Has it been checked by your attorney so that it will be held valid in court?

● Trusts — Either as an alternate to a will or as an addition, have you considered a trust arrangement for your assets to effect the smoothest, least taxable transition of property to those you want as recipients? Have you considered the transfer of property but retaining full use of it until death? Are there other considerations that can be handled by a trust arrangement — to avoid probate in the courts and possible determination otherwise by the state?

● Pre-Needs — Have you already arranged and funded your disposition on death? You can pre-purchase all funeral needs, and remove that incredible burden from family and friends at a time of very high emotion. If you think about it now and resolve it, you and your survivors will never have to think about it again.

● Records — Have you identified in a single place records on all your assets, your insurance, titles to properties, numbers of bank accounts and safety deposit boxes, receivables and obligations and more? Have you communicated the location of those records (in a fireproof location, of course) to your attorney and/or key family members or your named executor? (One of the very best books for this recording is "Legacy of Love" by E.A. Petterle, which is a complete and foolproof workbook for all such information. Purchase price is only $10.95 from Petterle wanted to know a cleaning formula for varnished woodwork.

She mentioned something she had remembered reading some time ago about turpentine and/or vinegar.

"I couldn't find the reference in past Gene Gary columns and have been scanning copy for such a formula since, to no avail," she said.

"If you could find it and send me a copy of the article, great, if not, possibly you could mention such a formula in a forthcoming column." — M.B.

A: I am happy to repeat the formula.

In a double-boiler, heat a mixture of 1 quart warm water, 3 tablespoons boiled linseed-oil and 1 tablespoon turpentine. Keep the mixture warm, but not boiling. Apply with a soft cloth and wipe dry.

A simpler method would be to use Murphy's Oil Soap, which is a commercial cleaner. It is distributed by the Phoenix Corp., Cleveland, Ohio 44122.

Publications, 3 Greenside Way, San Rafael, CA 94901. Send check or money order with your request.)

● Titles — Have you checked the ownership titles on all property, securities and other instruments? Simple wording can determine whether the property can be tied up in probate. (Prepare a list of each property or instrument and copy off the actual wording of the ownership each and have your attorney check it to see if it exactly conveys your desires.

Most people die without wills so the state will determine the disposition of their assets. Even more significant is that 93 percent of Americans have not pre-planned or structured their affairs in advance of their deaths — leaving the burden heavily on those who survive them.

Ralph Waldo Emerson said it well: "You can never do a kindness too soon because you never know how soon it will be too late." The message is not specifically for older adults — this type of planning needs to be impressed on people of all ages.

"None of us wants to think about dying or death, — but by facing the question we can put it behind us. Accomplishing this can be most satisfying if we take the time and pay attention today.

Q: You have discussed lowering telephone costs in your column, but I have misplaced the address for the book you recommended. Will you provide it again? — O.O.

A: The book is "The Complete Guide To Lower Phone Costs," published by Consumer's Checkbook, $6.95. Two editions are available, one for the San Francisco area, one for Washington, D.C., but the suggestions are applicable wherever you are in the United States.

You might urge your library to secure a copy, or send your letter, plus check or money order for $6.95 to Consumer's Checkbook, 222 Agriculture Bldg., 101 The Embarcadero, San Francisco, CA 94105.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am 17 and my boyfriend is 19. He is a super-guy but he does have one flaw. He drinks. Oh, don't get me wrong, he is not an alcoholic but he does have two or three beers every Friday, and Saturday night. I'm concerned that he might be stopped for drunk driving, but Tim says that three beers in an hour does not mean that he is drunk.

Dr. Wallace: I don't think he is a drunk, either, but sometimes he drives a little odd and I get a little scared. When I question him, he only calls me an "old nag" and tells me to keep quiet. Help! — Judy.

Judy: Most states and provinces consider a driver "drunk" when his blood alcohol level is .10 or greater. For a 150-pound person, this means four drinks consumed in one hour. A drink consists of a 12-ounce beer, 6 ounces of wine or 1 ounce of 80 proof alcohol.

It appears that three beers would not constitute a drunken driver but according to The National Student Educational Fund, after three drinks within an hour, the drinker's judgment can be considered unsound. He will not think clearly. His reasoning is less reliable. He may do or say things that are rude and unreasonable.

So, although Tim is not legally drunk, I wouldn't ride with him after he has been drinking. In alcohol-related crashes, 22 percent of those killed were passengers. Maybe if you stop riding with him after he has been drinking, he might just get the message and give up his dangerous habit. In a few months it will be against the law for 19-year-olds to drink in Minnesota.

Dr. Wallace: How did the national symbol, Uncle Sam, get started? I've looked everywhere and I can't find out. As you recommended, I went to my librarian and she couldn't help. — Phyllis.

Phyllis: Your librarian should have been trained with mine. Four minutes after I proposed your question to her she had an answer. Not only did she find the answer, she typed this for me from the book, "1,000 Questions and Answers" (Treasure Press, 1985).

"It is thought that the original Uncle Sam was an affable, pleasant man named Samuel Wilson, (1776-1854), who lived in Troy, New York State, and supplied beef to the U.S. Army in the war with Britain in 1812. Wilson was known locally as "Uncle Sam" and, as government purchasers stamped U.S. on the barrels of meat being shipped, local workmen referred to it as "Uncle Sam's beef."

Tradition has it that the name was picked up by soldiers and soon came into familiar usage as a nickname for the United States. A resolution passed by the Congress of the United States in 1961 recognized Wilson as the namesake of the national symbol."

Dr. Wallace: I am 13 and live with my mother and stepfather. My parents were divorced two years ago and my mother married Jim last year. By the way, Mom is 33 and my stepfather is 62.

In fact, he is more like a grandfather than a stepfather. Also Jim is old-fashioned. He thinks this is 1956 instead of 1986. Would you believe he thinks that I am too young to date, too young to have a glass of champagne to celebrate special occasions and too young to read Playgirl magazine?

How can I get him to act like a stepfather and realize that this is 1986? I hate his rules. — Nancy Nancy: You are very fortunate to have a stepfather who cares enough about you that he sets rules that show wisdom on his part. So this is 1986. Does that mean you can do anything and everything you choose? No way! Teens in 1956 needed the wisdom and guidance of wise parents. The same holds true today.

Dr. Wallace: My parents are always yelling at each other and now they are saying they want a divorce. I am 13 and I love my parents very much, and when I think they may get divorced it scares me very much. For the past two weeks I have been crying myself to sleep because I'm afraid of the future.

Do you know of anything that would make them realize that a divorce is not the answer? Please hurry with your answer. I tell them that I love them both, but it doesn't help. — Ann

Ann: Potential divorces most times are so emotional the husband and wife react without giving much thought to anyone or anything other than themselves. Since talking hasn't helped, why not try reading? Cut out this column and show it to them together (when they are not arguing with each other).

This might just wake them up to the fact that a young/teenage daughter loves them and needs them together very much.

How to cope with too much sun

By Sharon Owen Haven

Q After adding on a greenhouse-type addition to our living room to bring in the sun, we are finding that we have too much of a good thing. The sun is blinding during certain parts of the day. Our carpeting and upholstery are fading.

We find we are not using this area very much. Is there some way of decorating this space which would make it more comfortable and less susceptible to sun damage? J.G.

A Since your purpose in remodeling was to add a sun room and not a sauna, take a look at some of the solutions pictured here. By treating their greenhouse-type addition as outdoor space rather than interior space, the home owners came to amicable terms with the sun.

Notice the ceramic tile flooring. The tile absorbs the sun's heat during the day to keep the house warm at night and it does not fade. You can always add area rugs in the shaded portions of the space if tile seems too cold to you.

Furniture made for the outdoors is also a good choice. Note how the home owners have created two furniture groupings in the space — a formal living room grouping in the part of the room that does not get direct sun and a casual grouping in the greenhouse area.

The casual grouping of fade-resistant natural canvas deck chairs, cushions and pillows can be recovered or replaced without breaking the bank. Wicker, willow, rattan or plastic furniture will also work well in hot spots.

Don't neglect window coverings. There are many types of films and coatings you can use on the glass itself to lower the admission of heat and infrared rays. In addition, a low-profile window treatment (such as mini-blinds) retains the character of the space while protecting it from blinding glare at certain times of the day.

Q I have a terrible time buying furnishings because I am never sure if they will look good or fit right when I get them home. What can I do about this? C.T.V.

A It never hurts to keep a floor plan drawn to scale on graph paper, tucked in your purse for emergency buying cravings. You can measure on the spot and see if the piece you like will fit.

When shopping, be sure to ask if it is possible to try out pieces at home before you buy. Many businesses will let you take furnishings home on 24-hour approval.

You might also consider the services of a professional interior designer, particularly if you are frequently indecisive and have difficulty "picturing" a potential design decision. They can save you a fortune in expensive mistakes.

CLASSIC WELSH RAREBIT

- 8 ozs. processed, pasteurized American cheese
- 1 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1/4 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 1/4 tsp. dry mustard
- Dash pepper
- 1/4 cup half-and-half

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power). MEDIUM (50 percent power)

Dice cheese and place with butter in 1-quart glass casserole.

Microwave 2 to 3 minutes on HIGH, stirring every minute, until cheese melts. Stir until smooth.

Stir in Worcestershire sauce, dry mustard and pepper, blending well. Quickly stir in half-and-half.

Reduce oven setting to MEDIUM and microwave 5 to 6 minutes longer, stirring every minute, until mixture is smooth and heated through. Serve hot over toast points.

Serves 2 to 3.

BEER RAREBIT

- 2 EGGS
- 1 cup beer
- 10 ozs. processed, pasteurized American cheese
- 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 1/4 tsp. dry mustard
- Dash pepper

Oven Setting: MEDIUM (50 percent power)

Cube cheese, set aside. Crack eggs into 1-quart glass casserole; beat with wire whisk until frothy. Beat in beer, then stir in remaining ingredients.

Microwave 7 to 8 minutes, stirring every minute, until cheese is melted and mixture is heated through. Beat with wire whisk before serving, if necessary, to make smooth.

Serve hot over toast points. Serves 4.

CHICKEN A LA KING

- 3 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup each minced onion and chopped green pepper
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 3 1/2 cups chicken broth
- 3 cups diced, cooked chicken
- 2 (4 oz.) cans button mushrooms, drained
- 1/4 cup chopped pimiento
- 1/4 tsp. each salt and pepper
- Dash garlic powder
- 1 large egg
- 1/4 cup milk
- Snipped fresh parsley

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Combine butter, onion, and green pepper in 2-quart glass casserole. Cover and microwave 3 to 4 minutes, stirring every minute, until vegetables are tender.

Add flour gradually, blending, well, then slowly stir in broth until mixture is smooth. Microwave, uncovered, 4 to 5 minutes, stirring every minute, until sauce is thickened.

Stir in remaining ingredients except parsley. Mix well and microwave 8 to 10 minutes longer, stirring every 3 minutes, until heated through. Serve over toast points or biscuits, and garnish with snipped fresh parsley. Serves 6.

ENGLISH PIZZA ROUNDS

- 2 English muffins
- 1/2 cup commercial or homemade spaghetti sauce
- Dash leaf oregano
- 1/4 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
- Grated Parmesan cheese

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Split muffins and toast conventionally. Arrange on plate.

Divide spaghetti sauce evenly among muffin halves; spread to edges. Crumble small amount of leaf oregano (to taste) over spaghetti sauce, then top sandwiches with equal amounts of shredded Mozzarella cheese.

Sprinkle lightly with grated Parmesan cheese and microwave 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 minutes, or until cheese is melted and bubbly. Serve immediately. Serves 2.

(NOTE: For single serving, halve all ingredients. Follow above instructions, but heat for only 1/2 to 1 1/2 minutes.)

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

By James G. McCollam

Most clock collectors itch for an Ithaca

Q. This antique Ithaca clock has a calendar and compensates for leap year. Can you tell me when it was made and its value?

- Amber ashtray — $25
- Bowl, 3 1/2 inches, iridescent pink, decorated with King Tut — $225
- Rose bowl, spattered ruby glass — $35
- Toby mug — $40
- Pitcher — $35
- Humidor — $175
- Art Deco vase, 9 inches — $100
- Covered pottery box — $120
- Plate, rooster in center — $20

A. This is an Ithaca No. 35 parlor clock and was made in the fourth quarter of the 19th century. The value would be in the $3,000 to $5,000 range.

The company was founded by H.B. Horton and stayed in business well into the 20th century.

Ithaca clocks are the first choice of most collectors and most models sell for over $1,000.

Q. I see a lot of items marked "Made in Czechoslovakia." What can you tell me about these in general?

A. Czechoslovakia was founded in 1918. Most of the items you see were made between 1918 and 1938, a few are from the years following World War II. Since all of them are less than 70 years old, the prices are quite moderate.

Q. I have a 10-inch cut glass vase with the enclosed mark etched on the bottom. Can you tell me who made it, when, and its value?

A. Your vase was made by the H.P. Sinclair Co. of Corning, N.Y., between 1905 and 1929. It should be worth about $300.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1 per item to James G. McCollam

Points on Pets

Q: Are dogs susceptible to prostatic disease like older men are? Our 8-year-old mongrel male dog seems to have difficulty urinating, but does not seem to be suffering any pain.

A: Our dog has not been neutered. Should we have had him castrated when he was younger? Would castration be of benefit now?

A Prostatic disease is fairly common in intact male dogs older than 6 years of age.

The prostatic gland located at the neck of the urinary bladder secretes a milky fluid during ejaculation. This gland may become enlarged, infected, abscessed, cystic or tumorous.

Prostatitis, an inflammation or infection of the prostate gland usually arises following infection of the urinary tract. Infectious agents from other parts of the body can be carried to the prostate by the circulatory system.

Most dogs exhibit pain with prostatitis. There usually is loss of appetite, fever and vomiting. Many affected dogs are reluctant to move and have arched backs.

The veterinarian diagnoses prostatitis by carefully evaluating the history, clinical signs, physical examination and digital palpation of the prostate gland. Clinical laboratory tests performed on a urine sample or washings of the urethra often are utilized to confirm the diagnosis. Radiographs of the pelvic area also are quite helpful.

Prostatitis usually is treated successfully by antibiotic therapy. A bacterial culture and sensitivity test determine which antibiotic to prescribe. If the prostate is abscessed, surgical drainage may be necessary. Chronic prostatitis often is complicated by cyst formation, requiring correction by surgery.

Most uncastrated dogs older than 5 years of age have some enlargement (hyperplasia) of the prostate gland, similar to the syndrome seen in elderly men. An enlarged prostate in an older dog is often due to hormonal imbalances. Very enlarged prostates cause difficulty in urinating, straining while urinating and dribbling of urine. There may be interference with bowel movements because of pressure on the colon by the enlarged prostate.

Veterinarians can diagnose prostatic hyperplasia by digital palpation of the enlarged gland. A biopsy may be required to rule out a tumor as the cause of enlargement.

Castration, which results in permanent reduction in the size of the gland, is the best treatment for prostatic hyperplasia. An alternative to castration, chronic administration of female hormones, may have serious side effects.

While abnormal condition of the prostate is serious, most dogs can be treated successfully. If you suspect your dog has prostatic disease, you should have your veterinarian conduct a thorough physical examination as soon as possible.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

The Sunday after next it will be Mother's Day and I'm sure we're all thinking of this special day. The big question is, what to get for Mom? Here are a few suggestions.

Most Moms like flowers and plants, so that's one possibility. Clothing is a bit expensive for most boys and girls and there's always a problem with the correct fit. However, a pretty scarf can be reasonable and, of course there's no problem with size.

Candy or cookies are great—unless Mom is on a diet! Paperbacks (if your Mom likes to read) and writing paper (if she sends letters to her friends) are other possibilities.

These are just a few ideas. I'm sure you can think of many more. Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Jen Cerrone and Ann Hanrahan. (In answer to your question, Jen, nothing too much is up. I'm afraid my life is a little boring, too!)
