Bicycle Safety Fork La. Project

Making a List and Checking it Twice....Jason Klagsley, 6th grade In-Depth Studies student at Fork Lane School and Officer Gambino, center, inspect Paul Heng's bicycle, right, as Stacey Sheehan observes.

Fork Lane School's In-Depth Study class (four "Kids From IDS"), while studying a unit on Law, conducted a bicycle safety program with the cooperation of the Nassau County Police Traffic Safety Unit recently.

Police Officer Gambino spoke to students from Grades 3-6, stressing the importance of bicycle riders observing all traffic rules that apply to any moving vehicle. After a brief question and answer period, a film was shown to reinforce the various points made in Officer Gambino's presentation. This was followed by an examination of 48 bicycles belonging to Fork Lane's upper grade students.

The Kids From IDS assisted the Police Officer in checking bikes

for various safety factors. Those who participated in the inspection were given a report of the condition of their bicycles, signed by Officer Gambino, and instructed to take the citation home to be corrected and discussed with their parents.

May is Bicycle Safety Month. The students and In-Depth Study staff, consisting of John Maiorino, Rita Bernstein, and Yolanda Grigg, agreed it would be a wise idea to have this inspection become a yearly activity.

Could Your bicycle pass a safety inspection? Do you know the safety rules for bike riders? Better call the Traffic Safety Unit (535-7958) for Safety's Sake!

David Canner of Syosset and Margaret Bertram of Hicksville were the men's and women's champions, respectively, in the recent Syosset Rotary Run. Upon completing the race, the winners were issued awards from Ron Wagner, a regional vice president of National Westminster Bank USA, the event co-sponsor. David finished the 3.1 mile race in 16:11 while Margaret crossed the tape in 19:50. The event benefitted the Gift of Life, Inc.

News From Road Runners

Michelle Bush sets the Long Island women's 5K record at the 1985 Women's Championship Run.

Applications are now available for the third annual "Thank You Paine Webber" Long Island Summer 5 Kilometer Women's Championship Run, to be held on the roads of the Nassau County suburban communities of Jericho and Brookville on the morning of Independence Day, July 4.

The Run, which will be open to women of all ages and abilities, will be conducted by the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club with the technical assistance of Finish Line Promotions of Port Washington. The start and finish will be at Jericho High School, and the starting gun will go off promptly at 9:30 a.m.

The first and second annual Women's Runs held were even bigger and better than we could possibly have hoped for, observed Plainview-Old Bethpage RRC Vice President Julie Shapiro who will serve as Director of the Run again this year. "It's obvious that there is a real demand for a major women's road race here on Long Island. We expect to stage another first class race this year, a race that will attract both top flight women racers and more to the point—the average back-of-the-pack recreational runner. It should be good fun for every woman who competes, and a real boost for women's running and fitness on Long Island."

The 1985 edition of the Women's Championship Run was won by 1988 Olympic hopeful Michelle Bush with a time of 16:12, the fastest 5 Kilometers ever run by a woman on Long Island. The field of 391 finishers made it the largest women's race ever held on Long Island as fourteen women crossed the finish line in less than 18 minutes, and the top 25 finishers all broke 19 minutes.

The Jericho/Brookville course provides a dramatic combination of rolling countryside and level straightaways through some of the most pleasant and scenic roads on Long Island. The course is TAC certified and the race is TAC sanctioned, so that personal results may be used as qualifying times for TAC events throughout the country. Time splits are given at every mile mark and there are three water stations spread throughout the course.

Substantial cash prizes will be awarded to the top five finishers once again this year, including a $1000 first prize, plus a $500 bonus if a new course record is set. $150 will be awarded to the top finisher in each age group.

This year's Run has been designated as the TAC Regional Championship Qualifier, so that the first place open and first place masters finishers will receive free transportation and lodging to compete in the TAC Region I Championship in Syracuse in October.

Every competitor will take home a special commemorative women's running shirt and a luxury package of Forsythe Cosmetics. There will be a giant postrace merchandise giveaway and party for all runners.

There will be a team competition, once again this year with special awards to each of the top three teams of four women per team.

The entry fee has been set at $8 for those who pre-register and $9 for those who register the day of the race.

In addition to Paine Webber, the prime sponsors of the 1985 Long Island Women's Run include Forsythe Cosmetics, Woodbury Super Star Sneakers and Sports, and Syosset Physical Therapist David Balsley. Substantial support is also being provided by The Gallery Restaurant of Plainview, Dr. Robert Friedman, the Long Island Savings Bank and WGSM.

For applications or more information, contact Race Director Julie Shapiro at 822-2835 or POBRRRC President Mike Polansky at 433-0919.

Service Station Robbed By Gunman

The Eighth Squad is investigating a robbery that occurred at the Conlon Service Station, 100 Hicksville Road, Bethpage, at 9:20 p.m. April 29.

Gary Giampetrucci, 19, from Levittown was in the office of the Station when an unknown man walked in wearing a ski mask. The suspect opened his jacket and displayed what appeared to be a handgun in his waistband, and demanded that Gary give all the money he had. The victim opened the cash register which was then emptied by the gunman of between $200 and $300.

No injuries were reported, the subject is described as 5'9" tall, black hair, 200 lbs. approx. 20 years, wearing blue jeans, and a cream colored jacket. Det. Robert Keteltas is investigating the incident.

Truck Driver Injured At Landfill

On April 30, at 2:40 p.m. at the Town of Oyster Bay Land Fill, Bethpage Road, Old Bethpage, a truck driver was seriously injured. Sebastian Caruso, 49 years, of 2 W. Chester Avenue, West Babylon, a tractor trailer driver for Carl Zalak Co., was injured when his rig started to roll away after he had exited the cab. Mr. Caruso attempted to re-enter the tractor and fell off the step leading to the cab. When he fell he rolled under the rear wheels of the trailer. His right leg was crushed.

The injured man was taken to Nassau County Medical Center in East Meadow by Nassau County Police Helicopter piloted by Police Officer William Nolan, while AMT Michael Irise tended to his injuries. He was admitted to Intensive Care in critical condition. The truck was impounded for a safety check.

Detective William Kacinski of the Eighth Squad is investigating the incident.

Brownie-Junior Scout Weekend

Story and Photos
By A. Eichenauer

Brownie Troop #3186 and Junior Troop #3001 both of Fork Lane School went on a long awaited camp weekend. Both troops have been planning this event since January, and the weekend of April 25, 26, and 27 just couldn't come fast enough for all of us.

The third grade Brownies have been going to meetings since February with the Junior Troop, to plan events, menus, make hand washing stations, fire starters, sit-up-ons and many other things.

All the girls in both troops had been counting the days until the big event. Finally on April 25 at approx. 3:30 p.m. we packed up the bus, took a head count, waved good-bye to all the parents and off we went, for three wonderful days of camping at Camp Blue Bay in the Hamptons.

All the girls were so happy that after all those months of waiting, the time was finally here, or was it? We didn't get two blocks away when our packed bus broke down. The driver had to call for another bus and we had to unload bus #1 and load up bus #2. Well now it's about 4:30 p.m. and we're off, we hope, but Oh No, the traffic on the expressway was completely stopped, was this a hint, was someone trying to tell us not to go? We as Girl Scouts never give up. We were all determined to make the best of this weekend.

After almost three hours on the road, we finally got to Camp Blue Bay, but it was so dark we couldn't see a thing. Out came all the flash lights, and off we went like little fire flies trying to find our camp site.

When we got to the site, everyone pitched a tent, put their gear in it and went back to help the rest of our group. Once we were all accounted for we went to bed.

Saturday morning 5 a.m. to be exact, all of us were up and ready for breakfast. This was a good opportunity to take a look around the site and make ourselves familiar with everything. Well, it's now 10 a.m. and no breakfast. Someone left the charcoal and the fire starters out uncovered, and they were wet from dampness, so no hot breakfast.

After breakfast, we made lunch to take to the beach with us. The weather was great, so we picnicked on the beach, and after lunch the girls made sand castings. They really turned out nice.

When we got back to our camp site it was time to get dinner ready. The girls enjoyed every minute of this, even if the leaders were getting more gray hairs. Saturday night we had our camp fire. We all sat around singing camp songs and making smores.

Even though we had some minor problems, and we thought maybe this was not meant to be, everyone of us enjoyed this weekend and we know the girls sure did.

Brownie Troop Leaders-Annette Eichenauer and Maureen Traxler, would like to thank Jane Senn for coming along to help with the Brownies.

Junior Troop Leaders-Sharon Fusco and Marcia Gunnigle would like to thank Lucy Antonacci for helping with their troop.

We are now all looking forward to the community camp weekend in September.

This program is free and all are welcome.

Meet the Author at the Hicksville Library

Author Cin Forshay-Lunsford will be at the Hicksville Public Library on Friday, May 9, at 1:15 p.m. in the afternoon.

Cin writes books for Young Adults, her first one written when she was 18. She says of her book "Walk Through Cold Fire". "I had always wanted to write a book and my senior year of High School seemed the time to do it. My mother said I might not remember the feelings I had had, that the fire wouldn't be there forever, so I wrote it." Her book won the Delacorte Press prize, an award given to the most promising young authors.

Copies of her book will be available to buy and to have autographed. This program is free and all welcome.

Young People's Juried Art Show at the Hicksville Library

All young artists are welcome to enter the Juried Art Show at the Hicksville Public Library. Musical Comedy At Bethpage H.S.

The formidable Lady Bracknell, as played by Margaret Reynolds, casts a long shadow in "Ernest", the new musical version of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest".

(Photos by Janette Kennedy)

Martin Waters plays Dr. Chasuble in "Ernest", the new musical based on "The Importance of Being Earnest" being presented in Bethpage.

"Ernest", a new musical comedy based on Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest", will be presented May 9-10 and May 16-17 in Bethpage. The new show, which features a cast of native Long Islanders, is the creation of Garden City resident Gayden Wren (book and lyrics) and Vance Lehmkuhl (composer).

"Ernest" is an attempt to translate the Wilde classic into a 1980 musical," Mr. Wren says. "It was a tricky job, because we had to retain the spirit of Wilde's witty, epigrammatic humor while paring down the long speeches and obscure references which can make the play inaccessible to modern audiences."

"Pacing was the key," Mr. Lehmkuhl agrees. The Philadelphia-based composer says that the creators worked hard to combine Wilde's convoluted plot and clever epigrams with the fast-paced tempo of a modern musical. "It was a question of boiling the play down to its essence, and then reinterpreting that essence in the language of American musical theater."

Phil Gellis, the production's music director, feels that the fusion is a successful one. "Adapting any well-loved play into a musical is a risk," he comments, "but I think 'Ernest' manages to be Wildean enough to please lovers of the original play, but contemporary enough to entertain musical-theater fans." The music director is especially impressed with Mr. Lehmkuhl's score, which, he feels, combines elements ranging from Broadway jazz to Dixieland and operetta to produce a unified, upbeat score.

"I'm particularly struck by the way the songs heighten the play's already wonderful scenes," he adds. "The sequence in which Gwendolen and Cecily have tea together, each thinking that she is engaged to the mythical Ernest, or the scene in which Jack describes Ernest's supposed death, are very funny in the original play, but the songs add another dimension. The effect is the same, but the impact is greater."

Mr. Wren, who is also directing the production, considers the case for "Ernest" exceptionally strong. Soprano Kim Dacey and Terry Sue Pinzur, both veterans of the Gilbert and Sullivan Light Opera Company of Long Island, play Gwendolen and Cecily. "It's hard to say which is the better," Mr. Wren says with a laugh. "I prefer whichever one is on stage at a given moment."

Larry Weisberg plays Algernon Moncrieff, Wilde's debonaire witt who, in this production, proves also to be a clever patter man and dancer. "Larry is outstanding," the director says. "He simply is Algernon."

Bethpage's Gloria Montlack and Great Neck's Martin Waters, both familiar to Long Island audiences for many years, play Miss Prism and Dr. Chasuble. "They are true professionals," Mr. Gellis says of the two. "Their interplay is so funny that it's sometimes hard to conduct!"

The formidable Lady Bracknell is played with verve by Margaret Reynolds. Ms. Reynolds joined the production at a later date, but Mr. Wren says, there's no sign of it. "She knows her stuff better than some of the people who've been with us from the start," he notes, "and her Bracknell is overbearing, tyrannical and dictatorial - everything a Bracknell should be."

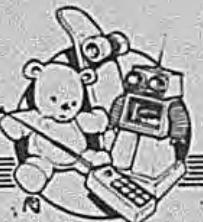

As the butlers Lane and Merriman, Stefan Miller and David Bumcrot perform with deadpan grace and perfect timing. Their rollicking duet in Act II is a highlight of the show.

Holding everything together is pianist Charles Levi, under Mr. Gellis' baton. His accompaniment provides the show with a reliable foundation. "I can't say enough good things about Charlie Levi," the conductor says. "Accompanying an original musical is never easy. He's had to deal with brand new, unrecorded music; a score that's hand-written and sometimes hard to read; and singers who are feeling their way through the show - not to mention a music director doing the same. But he does it all and totally reliably. We couldn't do the show without him."

Production designer Janette Kennedy, based in Manhattan, has designed and built sets, costumes, lighting and make-up for "Ernest". "It's very exciting to design an original show," she says, noting that most of her work in New York and elsewhere has specialized in original productions. "It's a more creative, involving experience, because there aren't any previous productions, preconceived ideas which you have to deal with. The people who do it next time will have to deal with my preconceived ideas," she says with a laugh.

"Ernest" will be performed only four times, at 8:30 p.m. May 9-10 and 16-17 at Bethpage High School, on Stewart Avenue and Cherry Avenue in Bethpage. Reservations are advised. For tickets and further information call 938-5112.

Our Children

Are criminal tendencies inborn?

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Q. My wife has the strange idea that all children are born with criminal tendencies. That belief makes her feel that it is necessary to be exceptionally strict with them and punish them severely for any, even slight, disobedience.

She was raised in a home where her father ruled with an iron fist, putting tremendous pressure on the children and instilling a lot of fear in them. They respected him, but there was certainly no love. Her mother was a very passive lady who also followed orders of the man of the house.

My childhood home was the opposite, both parents involved with the children, with a lot of laughter and communication. It was almost as if by instinct that they expected us to be considerate, obey and carry our school and home responsibilities, and we did so.

Our two children are only 2 and 3 years old, and I don't yet see any signs of their suffering from my wife's attitude, but what about the future? I'm really worried.

A. The heredity-environment argument has gone on for a long time, and children carry the gifts as well as the burdens of both. We do inherit certain traits and our environment imposes others on us.

However, the theory that all children have tendencies of a criminal nature has fortunately not materialized. A very small percentage of our children may tend toward negative behavior patterns.

Your parents' approach based on expectations is one that was demonstrated in research reported in the book "Pygmalion in the Classroom." It showed that what adults expect they often get, if such expectations are realistic. You might want to share the book with your wife — diplomatically!

Q. Our daughter and son-in-law will soon have their first baby, and he or she will be our first grandchild.

In our religion it is customary to name children after close relatives who have died. Because we recently lost my wife's mother I think it only appropriate to name the baby in some way after her. My wife agrees, but is reluctant about bringing up the subject to them. She doesn't think I should either.

Do you think I should keep quiet or let our wishes be known to them?

A. Important feelings that members of an immediate family have should be shared, openly and comfortably. In this situation it seems appropriate to remind your daughter and son-in-law of the child-naming practice.

However, it is also important for you and your wife to realize that the final decision is theirs and it should be supported as wholeheartedly as both of you can.

Q. I have just come home from the hospital with our new baby. The doctor who delivered her told me that everything was just fine, but I'm worried just the same.

He didn't suggest any further checkups for her, so I just don't know what to do about her not seeming to respond to me. I hold her and talk and sing to her, but there are no reactions.

She is our first child, so this is a matter of great concern to me.

A. The odds are that you may be expecting too much too soon, but let me add quickly — I'm not a medical doctor. Through your obstetrician, the local medical society or the recommendations of family members or good friends whose judgment you trust, locate a pediatrician, make an appointment and get his or her advice.

Good luck, and have a good time enjoying your new baby.

Girls Instructional

Wise Funding Corp.	6
Long Island Trust	5

Great team effort for first game played. Terri Ann Radicella made a nice stop at pitching mound to throw girl out at first base. Nice first base play by Jill Mezeul. Good hits by Beth Karmann, Tricia Cook, Kelly McCarthy, Jessica Savin and Jillian Synder. In keeping it a close game for the Wise Funding Red Devils, and clinching the win.

Manufacturers Hanover	12
Long Island Trust	10

We had an outstanding game despite the wind and cold. Natalie Etergeno hit a triple and two home runs. Nicole Franchino hit a home run and made two game saving catches. Leigh Morris also hit a home run. All our other little chipmunks did outstanding hitting and fielding. We would also like to thank Jennifer O'Hara and Sue Schaub for their much appreciated help.

Long Island Trust	15
Wise Funding Corp.	14

Our outstanding defense player was Kelly Mullee in offense. Jill Swidler and Nicole Watkins helped in the winning effort for Long Island Trust.

Robert Chevrolet	6
Thomas F. Dalton	6

Thomas F. Dalton's Red Sox were led by Martin Hughes and Andrew Coppola who went 3 for 3. Chris Isley went 2 for 2, both triples. Third baseman John Zaites went 2 for 3 with a home run and made several outstanding defensive plays. Thomas Morillo also went 2 for 3 and turned in a sparkling defensive play.

Boos Florist	30
Galileo Lodge	18

Home run power supplied by Richard Mauer, Jim Alexander, Peter D'Amato and Paul Tanck added to the barrage of hits by Vito Pagano, Michael Schnipper, Chris Kearney, John Danzi, Sean Flynn, and Chris Chase, the combined hitting of the entire team, with sparkling plays in the field by Brian Soper, Michael Marsicano and Richard Maurer kept the game out of reach for a 30-18 Boos Florist win.

Old Country Toyota	5
Vigilant Assoc.	5

Old Country Toyota's Mike Baglieri made a diving catch at shortstop to force a runner at second. Matt Pinelli had 2 triples. John Schiarelli caught a fly ball at third. Steve Wolf had his first hit.

Thomas F. Dalton	26
Meenan Oil	19

Thomas F. Dalton had 7 players with 4 for 4; David Ng (12 for 13 on the season) Thomas Morillo, John Zaites (5 RBIs) Martin Hughes, Andrew Coppola, Chris Isley (3 triples) Bobby Price. Jack Sandler went 3 for 4 and did Randy Knope who also made a spectacular catch on a fly ball.

The Meenan Oil Twins lost a hard fought offensive game. The Twins hit 4 home runs. Nick Castoria's grand slam and 5 RBIs, Joe Iocco's home run, 4 RBIs, Kevin Anderson, a home run and 2 RBIs, Tim Foery home run and 2 RBIs, Chris DeStefano, Dennis Pettis, Tim Moffett had 3 hits each. Greg Chase had 3 hits, 1 double, Ramon Pla, Jason Weber, Tommy Patrone and Matt Puerta each helped with the offense.

Midway Liquors	7

Joy Flynn struck out 7 out of 17 batters, and got a base hit in the third inning.

James McVeigh, second baseman, made two nice infield plays. Vincent Cavatorta struck out 5 out of 15 batters in his pitching debut.

7-11	8
Vernon C. Wagner	1

In a sparkling relief performance, Dennis Becker retired the last 5 batters of the game with the bases loaded to lead 7-11 to victory. Billy Rogers had 3 solid innings of pitching, striking out 9 batters. Matthew Moone and Robert Rogers each homered and combined for 4 RBIs. Jeremy Scinocco doubled for 2 RBIs. Excellent defensive play by Joseph Reardon.

7-11	10
Midway Liquors	7

7-11 recorded its fourth consecutive victory by defeating Midway Liquors by a score of 10-7. Scott Granai started a 6 to 3 to 5 triple play in the third inning. With the bases loaded in the third, Scott picked off a fly ball at shortstop, threw to Dennis Becker at first for 2 out, and Dennis threw to Jeremy Scinocco at third base to complete the triple play. Dennis Becker was 2 for 2 with a home run, a double and 3 RBIs. Scott Granai was 2 for 3 including a double and 2 RBIs. 7-11 is undefeated at 4-0.

Chris Chase's triple brought in three runs in the fifth inning. Joey Flynn and Brian McCarney great pitching. James Flynn doubled in the third and in the fifth inning to clinch Midway Liquor's victory.

Eight strikeouts by starting pitcher for Hi Ho Video, Michael Moylan. The overall great hitting and fielding by the entire Hi Ho Video team.

7-11 Food Store	8
Vernon C. Wagner	2

The Vernon C. Wagner team played well in a losing effort. Chris Hamann had an outstanding double play.

Girls Majors

Anton's	24
Cotton Rashbaum & Assoc.	0

Christine Langone pitched a 2 hit shutout, went 4 for 5, 5 RBIs, and scored 3 runs. Jeannette Mulstrey played a super shortstop and scored 4 runs. Kara Schwartz went 3 for 5, scored 3 runs, and played an excellent third base. Dawn Mulstrey had 2 hits, scored twice, and played great second base. Carolyn Meir scored 3 runs and played outstanding first base. Irene had a double and single and scored 3 runs.

Boys Minors
West Village Carvel	11
National Westminster	10

A well played game by both teams. Matthew Morillo went 2 for 3 and Peter Berzins had his first hit of the season to keep the National Westministers alive in the top of the sixth inning. But they fell short after John Davidson's long triple in the sixth. Only a great play by Ron Ladimor of Carvel drenched the hopes of a National Westminster victory.

Wickers	19
Malvese	7

Boys Seniors

ATTENTION: JERICHO RESIDENTS

On June 26, 1984 John (Jack) L. Carlson, an active member of the Jericho Fire Department sustained fatal injuries while answering a fire call. The fire engine on which Jack was riding was in a collision with another vehicle and he was injured from the force of that collision. Our Department not only lost an active firefighter, but a compassionate caring man, who served as a leader and role model for our Department. Jack Carlson was also active in local civic, religious and community organizations.

On May 17, 1986, the Town of Oyster Bay and the Jericho Fire District will be holding a Memorial Service honoring our fallen brother, John L. Carlson, and we would be pleased if you could attend this service. A dedication will be made from the Town of Oyster Bay. The Jericho Fire District will re-dedicate the substation on Cantiague Road in the name of John L. Carlson.

THE PUBLIC'S apathy with School Board elections has set in. In very few school districts are incumbents being challenged this year. (Jericho is an exception). The answer could be 1. The public is satisfied with its schools. 2. The public is disgusted and believes that school boards do little. Take your pick. But remember, when the public had a younger age in this area, school elections were always competitive seasons. LILCO which could use more revenue has an energy saving center at Sunrise Mall on how to save money on electricity.... THE IDEA for a bridge across L.I. POLICE Week
MAY 11-17

News From Bethpage Library

On Saturday, May 17, wildlife consultant Hans Van Breukelen will present a fascinating wildlife program called, "Animals of Wheels" for young people at the Bethpage Public Library.

At this time, youngsters will have an opportunity to observe live ferrets, goats, lambs, raccoons, snakes, turtles, lizards, pheasant, ducks, rheas, and many other animals. Children will be able to hold, touch, and pet the animals and learn all about their habits and habitats where they live, what they eat, and what they do.

Mr. Van Breukelen, a specialist in vertebrate zoology, has lectured widely and produced animal shows for the past twelve years for many environmental and educational organizations.

The program will begin at 2 p.m. Youngsters of all ages who reside in School District #21 are invited to attend. Tickets are available now in the Children's Room of the Bethpage Library. For information, please call 931-3907.

On Saturday, May 10, the Bethpage Public Library will show "Seal Island" (color-SS5 minutes), an outstanding and exciting film special on endangered wildlife, for youngsters in Grades K-6.

On Pebble Island, a peaceful natural paradise and haven for seals, two cold killers stalk with drawn guns! Young Mike and Kate love to watch the playful seal pups with their soft gray fur and appealing eyes. But one day, a horrible barking and yelping fill the air with stark terror that can mean only one thing—the hunters are on the prowl, determined to shoot the seals for their skins. Will Mike and Kate be able to save them?

Thrill to non-stop action and high adventure that dramatically spotlight worldwide ecological concerns. Showtime is 2 p.m. Tickets are now available in the Children's Room of the Bethpage Public Library for young people who reside in District No. 21. For further information, please call 931-3907.

Galasso Visits Bethpage GOP

The members of the Theodore Roosevelt Republican Club of Bethpage welcomed John Michael Galasso, Esq., as the Special Guest of Honor at their most recent meeting on April 14.

Galasso is expected to be the GOP candidate for the 13th Assembly District seat in the New York State Legislature. The 13th Assembly District includes the northernmost portion of the Bethpage community (generally, north of the High School).

In his address to the membership, Galasso discussed a variety of issues, and particularly emphasized his concern for those which affect the environment. He stressed the need for the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation to give greater assistance to local governments to find practical solutions to environmental problems, and said that he would call upon the Governor to improve his commitment of state resources towards that goal.

Club member Edward O. Lauritsen III, gave a report to the other members in attendance about his recent trip to Washington, D.C., whereby he represented the Club at the National Young Republicans Convention. It was a treat to hear the many highlights of a truly worthwhile experience.

George F. Yochmann, Executive Leader of the Bethpage GOP Organization, commented that, "The Bethpage GOP is proud to welcome John Galasso to our Club. He has developed a fine reputation as an Assistant District Attorney in Nassau County and, as a lifelong resident of Oyster Bay, he has been involved with many community issues, demonstrating his qualifications for the 13th Assembly District seat. Also, I couldn't be more pleased with the fine young representative we sent to Washington this year. Ed Lauritsen (III) gave a good report about it too...we're all proud of him."

Club President Kevin Galloway has announced that Town of Oyster Bay Councilman Angelo A. Delligatti will be welcomed as the Guest of Honor at the Club's next meeting, on Monday, May 12, at the American Legion Hall on Washington Street, beginning at 8 p.m. Additionally, a representative of the Grumman Corporation of Bethpage will present a program entitled "Air Power at Sea". Everyone is welcome to attend and to be a part of it!

Getting In Shape At Fork Lane

Story and photos by A. Eichenauer

Now that spring is really here, some people have been taking advantage of the Dancercise classes Fork Lane had to offer.

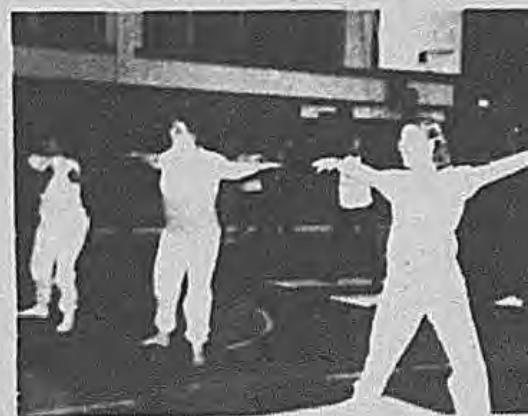

The classes are held every Tuesday evening from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. The instructor for these classes is Jane Senn. Jane has held classes in dancercise before at Fork Lane, and is an excellent instructor.

The ladies in her class enjoy the exercise and seem to be having a great time doing them.

Fork Lane PTA would like to thank Jane Senn once again for offering her time and talent.

Benefit Concert For Vietnam Vets

Ray Luisi

A 1970 graduate of Hicksville High School is using his musical talents to put together a Benefit Concert for Vietnam Veterans of Long Island.

The young man's name is Ray Luisi and with the help of his band, Gateway 1000, and a dozen other Long Island bands, have organized a Benefit Concert to be held on Sunday, June 8, at the OBI-East in the Hamptons. They have also recorded a song entitled

"Just Remember," which is currently being pressed into a 45 A. M. The record will be played on 41 various radio stations on Memorial Day in dedication and memory to all the men and women who served in the Vietnam War.

Let's all take a few minutes to "Just Remember."

For information please call Ray at 931-7948.

Dog Attacks Are Postal Complaint

Dog bites to post office letter carriers have tripled this year. So far, 47 letter carriers in the Hicksville Sectional Center have been bitten," said Roger Nienaber, General Manager, Hicksville Division.

The Postal Service has joined forces with animal shelters from various Long Island municipalities, in an attempt to curtail this current "epidemic", by forming a Dog Bite Prevention Task Force.

After meeting to exchange ideas and develop a plan for eliminating the dog bite problem, their plan is to visit post offices to discuss and demonstrate some very effective dog bite prevention techniques. In addition, the animal control authorities are hoping to dispel the old "Dog Catcher" stigma.

Charles Yodice, Director of the Town of Oyster Bay Animal Shelter said that he and his staff are available for demonstrations and discussion at any Town of Oyster Bay post offices.

"Requests by letter carriers for on-the-road assistance have increased dramatically. We would like to believe that our visits to post offices and responses to road calls are helping to prevent dog attacks," said Mr. Yodice.

Included in the discussion and demonstrations on dog bite prevention, carriers are instructed not to deliver the mail to any premises where a dog threatens them. "We do not want to disrupt delivery to any of our customers, however, our customers must realize the Postal Service cannot jeopardize the safety of its employees. We ask that customers cooperate by restraining their dogs during delivery hours and keep the dogs away from mailing receptacles. Anyone spotting a stray or loose dog should contact their local animal shelter immediately," said Mr. Nienaber.

Dog owners also should be aware of a program under which the Postal Service can recover money it loses in work hours in addition to injury compensation to bitten carriers.

"Owners need to realize that dog ownership carries with it several responsibilities. Preventing their dogs from biting or attacking people who enter their property is one of them. I hope the efforts of the Dog Bite Prevention Task Force will reduce this serious dog bite situation," said Nienaber.

VOLVO INVENTED THIS TOOL TO FIX YOUR VOLVO BETTER.

(Does your mechanic own one?)

Tools make life easier for the Volvo technician who works on your car. But they also make life easier for the car. (Can you imagine hammering the lug nuts off a wheel because nobody had invented the lug wrench? Or its predecessor, the wrench-wrench?)

And when a tool doesn't exist to perform a job, your Volvo mechanic doesn't try and make do with the wrong tool. Instead, Volvo's tool and die makers invent one of their own. (Inventions like these help Volvo mechanics work more productively. And that saves you money.)

Which won't prevent somebody from making a tool that's just a little bit different from Volvo's. But then it wouldn't be a Volvo tool designed especially for Volvos. And that could make a world of difference.

Old Country Rd. School News

The children in Miss Dillon's third grade classroom have been very involved in their work. The children are working on a unit on "Machines" developed by Miss Dillon, Miss Soeger, and Dr. McCann.

In the picture some students are constructing simple machines with Lego blocks. Activity cards with pictures assist the children in their construction. The interest generated by these materials, science experiments, reading, and research on machines has been terrific.

The students at Old Country Road School have been actively pursuing the study of other countries and of Immigration. They have become more aware of the world around us, the people and their customs and how their lives effect ours.

The children have become aware of Immigration and its effect upon us.

Mrs. Harnett's second grade class has been extremely busy these last few weeks with their contracts on "Far Away Places". Their contracts consisted of a packet of activities, they studied the culture of a selected country. The report contained a list of famous people of that country, the students had to cut pictures out of magazines showing their country's famous landmarks. They had to tell how the land was grassy or mountainous, the type of food and housing, they also had to draw a map and the flag of that country.

The children listed their ancestors and how they got to this country, and studied the hardships they faced. The children had to bring in a recipe, sing a song, do a dance, and bring any treasure of that country. Billy Murphy, did his contract on Ireland, and brought in an Irish Walking stick and a Shillelagh. The children interviewed relatives and friends who left their native lands to come to America. On a special day at school the children wore native costumes or dressed dolls up in the attire of their selected country. The children really enjoyed this special unit and have learned a great deal about many different countries.

In Mrs. Blumenthal's fifth grade class the students studied Immigration and its effect upon us.

Here are some lessons learned by students:

Recently Mrs. Blumenthal's class did a unit on Immigration. First she gave out folders and asked us to decorate them with magazine pictures of our ancestor's country. Next, she put up a bulletin board with a map, questions about the map, vocabulary words, our family trees and graphs. We had to answer all the questions, look up the vocabulary write a report and bring in food of our ancestor's countries. My Father's ancestors are from Italy and my Mother's ancestors' came from Italy and Greece. Since a lot of students were reporting on Italy I did my report on Greece. I really learned a lot and had a lot of fun. My Mother made a Greek baked macaroni dish called "Pastitsio" and I brought it into school. I am not sure everyone liked it but I did. Among the other foods we tasted were Greek cookies, stuffed grape leaves from Egypt, zeppolis, steak pizzaioli, chicken parmagiana, gnocchi and polenta from Italy, pierogies from Russia, kielbasa from Poland, soda bread and trifle from Ireland, bratwurst from Germany, stuffed cabbage from Czechoslovakia and Swedish cheese and crackers.

We finished the unit by having a debate. Mrs. Rodriguez's class came in to watch us and I think they found it very interesting. The two teams for this debate were made up of three students each. The first team who argued in favor of limited immigration into the United States were Christine Sacco, Elizabeth Fichtner and myself.

Carmine Maccariello, Maryann Mirabelli, Matthew DePalma, Cathy Licai are a few students holding articles from "their" country.

The second team consisting of Lauren Giacopino, Maureen Hamel and Dennis Schneek argued in favor of unlimited immigration into the United States. Both sides worked very hard researching their arguments.

I am really glad Mrs. Blumenthal chose this unit. I think the class enjoyed working on it.

Jacqueline DePalma
Grade 5

I think immigration should be limited because too many people are coming in. We do not have enough housing for everyone or enough jobs. Experienced workers are getting fired because immigrants volunteer to work for less money. If these people lose their jobs they will lose their houses because they don't have enough money to support their families. If they don't have enough money that means they will not have enough food. This cycle is caused because too many immigrants are free to enter without limitation.

Christine Sacco, Grade 5

I think there should be unlimited (unlimited means that there is no limit) immigration. People who come here have a better opportunity and a better chance at life. If they can't live free in their own country, why not here? That is why America is called the nation of immigrants. They have been coming to the U.S. for years and years. In 1910 there was a peak in the number coming in. If they want to make a limit on immigration now, why didn't they do it when a lot of them were coming in 1910.

People say there should be limited immigration because there is not enough room left in New York. But how do they know if all the immigrants stay here? They could have relatives living in California, Florida or elsewhere.

Taxi Driver Robbed At Station

A 26 year old Lynbrook taxi driver was robbed of $32 dollars at knifepoint by two fares in his cab at the Hicksville railroad station around 3:30 a.m., May 2.

Joseph Witte, from East Rockaway, a driver for Lynbrook Taxi, had picked up two male whites in Lynbrook who wanted to go to Hicksville. After being prepaid for the Hicksville destination from Lynbrook, which amounted to $32 dollars, Witte drove to the Hicksville railroad station, where the fares demanded their money back at knifepoint. Both suspects then fled the cab on foot, southbound on Newbridge Road.

No injuries were reported and the Second Squad is investigating.

THE STRONG BANK IS GROWING AGAIN.

WE'RE PROUD TO ANNOUNCE THAT FLUSHING FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN IS NOW A PART OF
THE LONG ISLAND SAVINGS BANK.

The Long Island Savings Bank warmly welcomes Flushing Federal Savings' customers and its staff. We are confident that the combined strengths, services and resources of our banks, working as one, will bring a quality of banking welcomed by all.

Over a century of commitment

Long Island Savings began as a neighborhood savings bank 10 years ago. Since then we have grown to become the largest savings bank headquartered on Long Island, now with 55 offices serving Queens, Nassau, Suffolk, Upstate and New York City. And with our new combined assets totaling over $5.2 billion we are the 2nd largest savings bank in New York State, and one of the largest and most financially sound savings banks in the country.

Run by Long Islanders for Long Islanders. As a neighborhood bank, we have been and continue to be firmly committed to a policy of reinvesting our depositors' money back into their communities. In 1986 we are committed to investing $1 billion in mortgages, co-op, home equity and home improvement loans in New York State.

We are known for our competitive rates, recently offering our 1-year adjustable mortgage loan at a breakthrough rate of 6.95% with an annual percentage rate of 9.99%. We will also provide financing for a variety of consumer loans such as auto, boat and personal.

We offer a broad range of financial services and investments to help our customers manage their money better.

The Long Island Savings Bank looks forward to helping Flushing Federal Savings and Loan and its customers build a prosperous future through better banking.

"Nearly sixty percent of our students come to us through the Local Yellow Book. The 'driving force' behind our success is Local Yellow Book advertising."

Sy Rubinstein, President
Bell Auto School, Massapequa, L.I.

As a good businessman, Sy Rubinstein makes sure that all callers are asked how they heard of Bell Auto School. Overwhelmingly, their source is the Local Yellow Book. Businesses know that when customers are ready to buy, they pick up the biggest little book on Long Island—the Local Yellow Book.

When it comes to advertising, it pays to buy by the book—your Local Yellow Book—and buy wisely. Consult your advertising representative for advice on how to get the most out of your Yellow Book advertising program. Call 765-1900.

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Do you think the Russian nuclear disaster will curtail the use of nuclear power throughout the world?

Call 931-0027 24 Hrs. a Day

Ground Rules

You are not limited to the above

but may talk on any subject of interest to readers.

•One subject to a caller per week•

Simply dial 931-0027 - 24 Hours a Day and follow these simple rules:

1. Wait for the beep.
2. Confine your INPUT to one subject.
3. Limit your opinion to five minutes (make notes before calling)
4. Leave your name and telephone, or simply use a pen name.
(your message can be anonymous)
5. Publishers reserve the right to edit, modify or omit any and all material.

Mixed Ideas From Callers On Academics In Schools

Callers to Input had mixed ideas on whether academics and extra-curricular activities should be intertwined in answer to this question: "Do you think schools should ban students who are flunking academic subjects from participating in extra-curricular activities?" Here are some of the answers:

SOCIAL EXPERIENCE

I believe that students should be allowed to play some sports or engage in other extra-curricular activities even if they are not up to passing all subjects. The fact is that going to school is a social experience in addition to learning process. To eliminate students who are just not up to everything in academic studies puts them down more and will not help them to learn in the long run. When a student fails courses, it should be up to the teachers who have the subjects to make recommendations. If the teachers feel that the failure is due to not applying enough time to the subject, then of course there should be a restriction but if the student is just not mentally up to making a passing grade, then there is no point in denying sports or other activities. J.E.

OTHER WAYS

The fact is that not every student will be good academically so why stop those with sports, acting ability, or anything else from those endeavors? After all, the graduates will earn their livelihoods in many different ways so why say that passing grades is the only way to success in school? A.G.

AUTOMATIC

The question should not have to be asked. Students flunking more than one subject should automatically be suspended from doing anything except trying to pass the academic requirements. If that is not the case, then why be bothered at all with how good the schools are academically? L.T.

FLEXIBLE RULES

No. There should be flexible rules and they should be reviewed according to the student involved. Sometimes through extra-curricular activities, students change attitudes and become better students. These things at times give students a feeling of success that they cannot get from true academic subjects. K.E.

ONE WAY

The world is filled with bubble heads who have diplomas and degrees and really did nothing but play sports in school. There is no reason for this; if they can't pass subjects, they should not play on teams. It is just that simple. J.W.

MUST BE STUDENT

I do believe that students should maintain certain averages to play on sports and other activities.

HARD TO ANSWER

As a student myself, it's hard to answer your question. First of all, most sports activities take place after school and homework could be done in the evenings. On nice days, instead of goofing off all afternoon, at least by joining in extra-curricular activities you're doing something good for the school. However, if a student starts to flunk subjects very badly, then it should be suggested that he devote more time to studies. A.B.

MANAGE TIME

In my opinion one factor that causes some students to do well in school and also participate in extra-curricular activities is successful time-management. Another factor is an interest in what they are learning. For those students who are failing in academic subjects, I suggest that instead of banning them altogether from additional activities, they should eventually be involved in a related activity. Working for the school newspaper, for example, for those who once failed English would be helpful. It is important for students to learn and for teachers and parents to encourage them. C.P.

NO QUESTION

There should be no question about the problem you pose. Actually, in my mind there can be only one answer with no equivocation. Schools are supported by the taxpayers to provide educational opportunities for embryo citizens to take a meaningful part in the general welfare of the nation at all levels. If those students under the guidance or with the permissiveness of their parents or on their own, feel that their enjoyment of and participation in extra-curricular activities is not conditional upon a serious concentration on academic subjects with a determination to succeed, they cannot be regarded as serious participants in our economic, political and social concepts. They should be restricted from enjoying those non-academic subjects. P.G.S.

OTHER ISSUES

As a multi-degree teacher now desiring to work on a per diem basis, I feel humiliated to be offered a low wage of $35 or $40 a day given by many school districts. I refuse to work for less than the $45 that a houseworker earns or even a babysitter ($90 if the houseworker does two jobs a day). I feel degraded when recalling the sacrifices that my parents and I made and the full time I worked to finish my education. It makes me feel I would be prostituting myself were I to accept these low wages. Now if you are paying taxes to those districts employing me, what does that make you? Mrs. R.

Take Me Out To The Ballgame

By Harry Schreiner

Take Me Out To The Ballgame

America's favorite pastime is steeped in folklore and fun and interesting happenings. Here are a few:

The Naked Sole

Danny MacFayden (Braves, 1937) had been wearing the same pair of shoes for so long no one could recall when he first put them on. Al Lopez and Al Cuccinello, two of the jokers on an all-joker team, managed by the biggest joker, Casey Stengel, decided to have some fun with Danny and they nailed his shoes to the floor of the dressing room but they cut carefully around them to release the upper part of the shoes which were attached just by threads. When Danny slipped into them, he walked away and clear across the room before he discovered his soles were naked even though he seemed to have shoes on. He stopped, scratched his head, and looked back where the soles still stood. The team erupted with laughter with Stengel straight-facing it all the way as he shrugged his shoulders at MacFayden's questioning look.

Wrist Watch

Lefty Grove told author Donald Honig in his book "Baseball, When the Grass was Green", that during a game in 1938 when he fielded a foul bunt with his bare hand and pegged it to first base, he felt a peculiar twinge in the arm. When the team doctor felt Lefty's wrist, he said, "You must be dead. You have no pulse!"

They rushed Grove off to the hospital where a team of physicians observed him as a medical oddity - the man without a pulse. They had him hooked up to machines, his arm in a glass boot affair, Grove told the author, and still couldn't determine why his pulse did not register on the machines. After two weeks, Lefty revealed, his pulse returned and he went on to one of his greatest seasons the following year.

The Meanest Man

The All-Star Game in Chicago (1933) had opposing teams composed of what sounded like a Who's Who of baseball, with Connie Mack as manager of the American Leaguers. Wes Ferrell, one of the pitchers for the Mackites had always worked extra hard to establish a reputation as a mean and nasty pitcher. During games he would glower, gnash his teeth, frown, and sometimes even snarl at the batters in an effort to psyche them out. It worked so well, even some of his team mates believed it.

In a pre-game meet in a local hotel, Connie Mack spoke to some of his players. "Ruth," he said, "You're playing right," and the Bambino nodded. "Lou, you're on first," Mack said, reading from a list as Gehrig smiled. Mack went down the list and then he pointed to Ferrell, who sat quietly in the corner. "And you are going to relieve. I want you in the bullpen. Is that all right with you?"

"I guess even Connie believed my act," Wes laughs, "because he told all the others, he asked me!"

The Invisible Ball

In 1934, a group of ballplayers journeyed to Japan to put on some exhibition games and play the nation's best teams. Among the U.S. stars were Ruth and Gehrig, along with Lefty O'Doul. At pre-game practice, the stadium in Tokyo was jammed with wild fans who cheered every move the Americans made. As a joke, our ballplayers began to toss around an imaginary ball. They whacked their gloves to simulate catches, reached for high ones, batted them a mile (while team mates pointed to the sky) and generally put on a pantomime Harpo Marx would have been proud to have been in. The fans cheered each and every move and the Babe insisted they yelled louder than during the games. The next day when the home team took the field for practice, they did the same invisible ball act! Charlie Gehringer who was on the U.S. team said, "I guess they thought it was some kind of practice we do over here!"

Rapid Robert

Measuring the velocity of a pitch is a common thing these days with our sophisticated equipment, but in 1946 it was almost unheard of. The nearest thing to the "gun" we use today was the exclusive property of the United States Army and it was utilized to measure the speed of a projectile and was described by columnists then as a photo-electric cell machine. Used as a gimmick to bring more fans into the ballpark, they tried it out on Bob Feller, at least Clark Griffith did. The results? Bob's pitches were all recorded at about the same 98.6 miles per hour!

By the Way...

The world remembers December 7, 1941 as the day the Japanese attacked the American Naval Bases at Pearl Harbor, but Big Johnny Mize remembers it for another reason. It was the day he got a phone call at home from Leo Durocher. At the time, Leo was interested in knowing John's reaction to a possible trade from St. Louis to the Brooklyn Dodgers. When Leo, who lived, breathed and slept baseball, was through with his pitch and Mize was about to hang up, Leo said, "Oh, hold it...by the way, the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor today", then he hung up. John, who was still trying to digest the other news, suddenly realized what Leo had said offhandedly and he sat at the telephone, stunned. Oh, John was traded to the Giants instead, in case you are rushing to the record books.

Stormy Weather

It was during the second game of the double-header on September 21, 1938 when the storm really struck. During the opener, there was intermittent rain and wind, but the Boston Bees fans, all 1366 of them, refused to give up and their team finally beat the Cardinals 6-4.

The rain really came down in the first inning, but the players andumps seemingly paid no attention, nor did they react when the high winds came (the radio said they were of "50 mile an hour intensity") swept into the field and swayed the rickety press box to such a degree that most of the newsmen rushed out of it. The umpire, John "Beans" Reardon refused to call the game because he claimed it was too late in the season for a makeup. At this point, the stands were rocking in the wind and fans were in a panic exit. The Boston outfield, Tony Cuccinello, Vince DiMaggio and Max West, was being blown around the grass like puppets. The Cards' Jimmy Brown managed to get a chunk of a Lou Fette pitch and walloped it high in back of second base into short right. Cuccinello moved back to catch it but a sudden gust blew him about 20 feet off course. The two others were bucking the wind and couldn't even give it a try. Then the impossible happened. Reporters said the ball began to come down slowly and then it hung there right in the air. It seemed as though it was there for minutes but actually it was seconds, and then it moved like a missile, back over the pitcher, and then it started its descent in foul territory near the grandstand backstop. Boston third baseman, Joe Stripp made a try at it, but the wind blew him to his knees. Catcher Al Lopez was right there, though weighted down with his heavy equipment, and he dived toward the stands and captured the wayward sphere. It was the first time in the history of baseball they a fly ball hit to the outfield had ever been caught by a catcher!

Aftermath of the storm was damage in the millions. The stadium was a wreck, glass smashed, ticket booths uprooted, phone poles down, electric power out; Oh, and the game was finally called because it hadn't reached the official four-and-a-half inning total. The storm, judged a full scale tornado by the weather bureau, was one of the most severe to ever hit New England.

Baseball Cards

One of the first groups of baseball cards were 2½" x 5¼" and they were issued by Hassan Cigarettes in 1912 and they are referred to as the T-202 series by serious collectors. Some popular drawings in the set include "Evers Makes A Safe Slide", and "Hartsel Strikes Out". Action was popular rather than the posed scenes of batter waiting with bat at ready which we see today on Topps and Donruss cards.

London Cards

Jack "Call of the Wild" London saved baseball cards from the age of 12, starting in 1888. In those days they were mostly small issues by tobacco companies, Allen & Ginter's and Champions, to name a few.

It's In The Cards

The Fleer 1981 Baseball Card Set had more than 15 informational errors - all later corrected. Some collectors claimed it was done purposefully to make the set more valuable. The company president denied it for a long while saying, "I am a little embarrassed."

The Tugger

When Tug McGraw was relief pitcher for the Mets he once asked for permission to plug his mobile home into the scoreboard at Shea Stadium and live just beyond the outfield.

Q. I'm not Italian but I enjoy Italian food. However, I'm not sure of the proper way to eat spaghetti. Some of my friends simply use a fork. Others press a large spoon (held in the left hand) against a fork (held in the right hand) while twirling the spaghetti around the fork. Which system is correct?

A. In Italy both methods are used. The difference is regional. But then again in Italy, Pizza is eaten with a knife and fork!

Our own preference is for the fork, no spoon, system.

Q. Help! What does someone do who enjoys eating out, but is constantly on a diet and has absolutely no will power?

A. One solution might be eating in a Chinese restaurant. The food is low in fat, desserts are simple and the usual beverage-green tea, with no cream or sugar-has no calories at all!

Another good idea might be choosing a restaurant with a big salad bar-a delicious and nutritious way to take the edge off an over-eager appetite.

Q. My wife and I both work and we like to try new restaurants. In some places we find the service is inadequate. What does a patron do who wishes to summon his waiter, but finds the waiter has "disappeared" for a long interval?

A. He might try to get the attention of a waiter not assigned to his table, asking him to find his "missing" colleague.

Imperfect service is a common complaint by those who dine out. Even the best restaurants have difficulties of this kind once in a while.

If you find a restaurant has excellent food but is lacking in fine service, a word to the manager (or to "Input") might be helpful in correcting the problem.

FINE SEAFOOD

Our party of four had dinner at Estoril Granada, on Mineola Boulevard in Mineola. Seafood seems to be their specialty. We asked the waiter for suggestions and he thought we would enjoy Carne Porco Alentejana. This consists of pork and clams in a delicate brown sauce. It was a happy choice. The other couple ordered the Caldeirada, which is the Portuguese version of Bouillabaisse. Our friends heartily endorsed their choice. If you are hankering for something unique and delicious, I think you will enjoy Estoril Granada. We enjoyed the ambiance of the restaurant and found the service excellent. G.W.

Where Our Readers

Have The Last Word

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides—a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great, and near great, food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings".

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent directly to the restaurant.

READER RATINGS

BEAUTIFUL PLACE

Last week we read an ad in your section about Gerlich's restaurant in Glen Head.

I must say we were well pleased with the wonderful food and service at this restaurant. But I do not think the advertisement does the place justice. It is a beautiful place just to be in. It is decorated in a way that would thrill antique lovers with its Tiffany lamps and antiques.

In addition to all of this they have a pianist who plays at the delightful bar. We suggest you recommend this to all readers. Thanks for giving us the chance to phone in.

TOP RESTAURANT

Manero's in Syosset is a top restaurant. We went there Sunday and found that it was a friendly and fine place to take a full table. Most had prime ribs and found that Manero's in Syosset certainly lives up to its reputation for fine beef. The price is well within range for quality beef. The vegetables and salad were just very delicious and well prepared. Manero's has been on Jericho Turnpike, Syosset for quite a long time. If any of your readers have missed it they should try it now and they will like it.

GOOD PERFORMANCE

What a post restaurant this Benihana is in Manhasset. It is designed with a beautiful bar and cocktail lounge where you can gather before and after a special meal. We did that last Saturday.

Probably most of your readers have been to Benihana, but if there are still some who have not we want to say that we were pleasantly surprised with its new form of entertainment with its You see it is not only the food at Benihana but the performance of the chef who is an expert in the use of a knife. You can watch him prepare the shrimp with a few swats of the blade and a steak and all of the other items the people around you get. This is the performance. Then you are surprised that food prepared so quickly and with such acrobatics is so good to eat. We recommend this restaurant. S.C. and M.T.

Putting your leaf on the line

By Verne Palmer

Want to put your life on the line? Try serving your family something leafy and green and don't put it in a salad bowl.

You know the kinds of things we're talking about — the pushy, dark green types like chard, spinach, collard greens and kale, the ones that muscle all the other foods off the top of the nutrient density chart.

Believe it or not, you can serve this gang of nutritional heavyweights in side dishes, soups — even main dishes.

And when you do haul out the salad bowl, don't get hung up on iceberg — a nutritional wimp — throw in a little bok choy, mustard greens, escarole, endive, romaine, red leaf or butter lettuce.

Leafy greens contribute generous amounts of iron, vitamins A and C, calcium, niacin, thiamin, riboflavin, potassium and fiber to the diet without adding unhealthy fat or calories.

When choosing any leafy green vegetable, look for fresh-looking leaves with good green color. They should be crisp, moist, clean and cold.

At home, rinse leaves gently dry between paper towels and store in a plastic bag with holes punched in it for air circulation. Keep them cold and humid and use quickly despite their tough nutritional profile, leafy greens have a tender nature.

If you're at a loss as to just what to do with these lovable leafy types, take a look at the savory side dishes and soups that follow — there's even a couple of salads for old times' sake.

HERBED SAVORY KALE

2½ lbs. fresh kale
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. dried leaf marjoram
¼ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. sugar
2 tbsps. cider vinegar
2 tbsps. butter or margarine

Wash kale well. Cut off coarse stems and discard. Place kale, garlic, salt, marjoram, pepper, sugar and 1 tablespoon of the vinegar in large saucepan. Cover and cook 5 to 8 minutes or until just tender. Add remaining vinegar and butter. Heat only about 30 seconds. Serve hot.

Makes 6 servings.

Although popular in the Deep South, collards are practically unknown to most of us. Too bad, because this dark-green leafy vegetable is not only a terrific low-calorie source of calcium, vitamin A and dietary fiber, it's delicious even when cooked without a ham hock.

RICE WITH COLLARDS

2 cups broth (chicken or vegetable)
1 cup long-grain rice (white or brown)
1 tsp. butter or margarine
3 cups chopped fresh collard greens
Freshly ground black pepper to taste.
Salt to taste, if desired (omit if broth has salt)

Bring broth to a boil in medium saucepan. Add rice and butter or margarine, stir rice, and add the collards in 3 batches, stirring mixture after each addition.

Return mixture to a boil, reduce heat, cover pan, and simmer mixture for 20 minutes (35 minutes for brown rice) or until rice is done. Add pepper and salt, if needed.

SAUTEED COLLARD GREENS

1 lb. fresh collard greens, washed, stems removed, cut into shreds
2 quarts boiling water, salted if desired
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 tsp. minced garlic
2 tbsps. broth or water

Plunge shredded greens into boiling water for 3 minutes. Drain immediately.

In skillet, heat butter or margarine, and cook garlic, stirring, for 30 seconds. Then add blanched greens and broth or water, tossing ingredients well. Cover pan, and cook greens over low heat for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Preceding two recipes are from Jane Brody's "Good Food Book."

The following recipes are from "The New American Vegetable Cookbook."

PROVENCAL CHARD SOUP

3 tbsps. olive oil
1 small yellow onion, minced
1 tsp. chopped garlic
2 medium carrots, cut into ¼-inch slices
10 medium or 5 large chard leaves, minced
2 large red potatoes, peeled and cut into ½-inch cubes
3 cups chicken stock
3 cups water
Salt and pepper to taste

Heat olive oil in heavy stockpot. Add onion, garlic, and carrots and sauté for 3 minutes. Add chard, potatoes, and stock and water. Simmer for 45 minutes. Season with salt and pepper and serve.

Serves 4.

In this dish, chunks of firm-fleshed fish, tomatoes, and curry spices are wrapped in an envelope of chard and baked in a flaky pie crust.

CURRIED CHARD AND FISH PIE

½ lb. chard
Pie dough for 2-crust pie
3 tbsps. oil
1 yellow onion, chopped
1 tbsp. chopped garlic
1 tbsp. chopped fresh ginger
1 tsp. freshly ground cumin
1 tsp. grated fresh turmeric or ½ tsp. ground turmeric

1 tsp. freshly ground coriander
Salt to taste
½ lb. shark, swordfish, or halibut, cut into 1-inch cubes
1 medium tomato, peeled, seeded, and chopped

Preheat oven to 350 F.

Cut chard leaves from stems and tear each leaf into 4 or 5 pieces. Save stems for another use.

Prepare dough and cut in half. Roll half into 12-inch circle on a floured board. Place dough in 9-inch pie pan, folding edges under, and pierce with a fork in several places. Bake for 10 minutes or until it just begins to brown. Remove from oven and set aside.

Heat oil in saute pan or skillet. Add onion, garlic and ginger and cook over medium heat until onions are translucent. Add spices and salt and cook another 2 minutes. Remove pan from heat.

Roll other half of dough into 12-inch circle. Line bottom of pie with half of chard leaves. Place fish and tomato on top of chard and cover with onion-curry mixture. Place remaining chard leaves on top and tuck in around filling.

Cover pie with top crust. Pinch two crusts together around edge. Cut off any overhanging top crust. Pierce top crust with a fork in 5 or 6 places. Bake for 30 minutes or until browned. Serve hot or at room temperature.

Serves 8 to 10 as a first course, 6 as a main dish.

CREAM OF LETTUCE SOUP

2 heads romaine lettuce, or escarole, or enough endive to yield 8 cups of loosely packed leaves
1 bunch watercress, stems removed
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter
1 tsp. chopped garlic
1 tsp. chopped fresh tarragon, or $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. dried tarragon
1 tsp. chopped fresh parsley

1 tbsp. minced yellow onion
1 red bell pepper, roasted, peeled, seeded, and chopped
3 cups beef stock
Salt and pepper to taste
2 egg yolks
2 cups half and half

Shred greens finely. In large pot, melt butter. Add garlic, herbs, onion and red pepper. Sauté for 3 minutes, then add greens and beef stock and cook for 15 minutes. Keep soup warm. Just before serving remove pot from burner. Season to taste.

Whisk egg yolks and half and half together and add slowly to soup. Serve in warm bowls accompanied with slices of warm baguette and butter.

Serves 8.

MIXED GREEN SALAD WITH GROUVERE, WALNUTS, AND WARM VINAIGRETTE

10 walnut halves
2 tbsps. peanut oil
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup olive oil
1 garlic clove, peeled and crushed
1 to 2 tbsps. red wine vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste
2 cups mixed lettuce leaves (romaine, butterhead, red leaf, curly endive, etc.), torn into small pieces
6 to 8 beet leaves
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup Gruyere cheese, cut into $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch cubes

Preheat oven to 325 F. In a bowl, sprinkle walnuts with peanut oil. Bake on cookie sheet for 15 minutes. Cool to room temperature.

To make vinaigrette, heat olive oil and garlic in small pan until oil is hot. Turn off heat and add vinegar and salt and pepper. Allow to cool slightly.

Make a bed of greens on a serving plate. Top with walnuts and cheese. Drizzle warm vinaigrette over salad and serve.

This salad features the stems as well as the leaves of Chinese mustard and bok choy. Young greens are best, but you can make a fine version with older vegetables.

CHINESE GREENS SALAD

2 cups leaves and stems of Chinese mustard and bok choy

1 tsp. sesame seeds
Dressing:
2 tbsps. light soy sauce
1 tbsp. fresh lemon juice
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. sugar

Cut stems into $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch slices and leaves into bite-sized pieces.

Toast sesame seeds until brown in a saute pan or skillet. Mix dressing and pour it over greens. Toss salad, sprinkle with sesame seeds, and serve.

Serves 2 as a first course.

After Work Gourmet

Asparagus —

ASPARAGUS QUICHE

Preparation time

15-20 minutes

(using commercial crust)

Cooking time - 35 minutes

1 lb. of asparagus, cooked and cut in $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch lengths

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped onions

2 tbsps. butter

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese

4-6 thin slices Swiss cheese

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup grated sharp cheddar cheese

3 eggs

1 cup heavy cream

1 dash Worcestershire sauce

$\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. dried thyme

1 pinch nutmeg

1 tbsp. fresh chopped parsley

Salt and pepper to taste

1 quiche crust (recipe follows — or use a commercial crust)

DO-AHEAD STEPS:

1. Sauté onions in 2 tablespoons butter until soft. Set aside.

2. Prepare crust (recipe follows)

— or use commercial crust.

FINAL STEPS:

Sprinkle inside of crust with freshly grated Parmesan cheese, then place a generous layer of Swiss cheese over it. Spread sautéed onions over Swiss cheese, followed by asparagus. With a whisk or beater, beat eggs and cream together. Add Worcestershire, nutmeg, thyme, parsley, salt and pepper.

Pour mixture into quiche shell, allowing time for it to sink in around other ingredients. Do not overfill (depending on size and depth of crust, there may be some extra filling).

Sprinkle grated cheddar over top and bake at 375 F 35-40 minutes, until golden brown and firm on top. Serve warm.

QUICHE CRUST

1 stick unsalted butter, chilled, in small pieces
1 large egg yolk
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt
5 tbsps. cold water
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups unbleached all-purpose flour

In a food processor, or in a large bowl using a pastry fork, process or mix together butter, egg yolk, salt and cold water. When these are partially blended (there will be lumps of butter), add flour and process or work dough just enough so that it begins to form a mass. Do not over-mix.

Wrap dough in waxed paper, work it into a ball shape and chill at least two hours. When dough is chilled, roll it out to $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch thickness and line a quiche pan with it.

Prick holes in bottom of crust with a fork, cut a round of waxed paper to cover bottom of crust and pour a layer of dried beans over waxed paper. This will keep crust from puffing up too much during first baking.

Bake in a preheated 400 F oven about 10 minutes, until crust is just beginning to brown. Discard waxed paper and beans, allow crust to cool slightly and fill.

For slightly crisper crust, return it to oven for 5 minutes after waxed paper and beans have been removed.

EASY HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

2 tbsps. fresh lemon juice
4 egg yolks
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt
1 pinch white pepper
1 pinch cayenne
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. dry mustard
1 stick unsalted butter

In blender or food processor blend lemon juice, egg yolks, salt, pepper, cayenne and mustard. Melt butter in small skillet or saucépan until bubbling (it must be bubbling or the hollandaise will not thicken).

With blender running on medium or high speed, slowly add hot butter in a thin stream. Serve hot.

NOTE: For thicker hollandaise or to reheat, sauce may be placed over hot water in a double boiler.

Makes about $\frac{3}{4}$ cup, enough for four servings of asparagus.

Removing tire treads

Q My husband parked his bicycle on a no-wax vinyl floor during the hot desert summer, leaving black tire tread marks. Is there any way to remove them, short of replacing the flooring?

I have tried alcohol, tub and tile cleaner, scouring powder and vinegar to no avail. Can you recommend anything? — M.C.

A If the stains haven't penetrated too deeply it may be possible to remove them by rubbing with fine steel wool and a scratchless scouring powder and a little water. You might even try mineral spirits and steel wool. Rinse with clear water.

If this does not work, you could consider replacing just the section of vinyl flooring affected, if the section is not large and you have some matching vinyl. To do this you would place the matching piece of vinyl on top, matching the pattern exactly. Then cut through both thicknesses with a linoleum knife, razor blade or other sharp instrument. Tear out the damaged part and cement the new piece in its place with linoleum cement. Wipe off any excess cement immediately with turpentine before it dries. Place heavy weights on top until the cement hardens.

Q I would appreciate any help you can give me regarding algae on a Mexican tile floor in a lath house. There is about a 2-foot dirt area underneath the potting shelf. The algae is green to black and like scum, and very slippery. How can we get rid of it and prevent reoccurrence? Also, is there something we can apply to the tile to prevent the slipperiness, as this could be dangerous. Thank you for any help you can give us. — M.B.

A You can kill the algae with triox, a product available through your local nursery. This will sterilize the area and prevent future growth. On the soil area, it will prevent growth for up to two years, so it is not recommended for any areas where you plan to plant in the future.

After you have solved the algae growth problem, you may find that your tile is not too slippery. However, if you still want to dull this surface you can roughen the surface in several ways, but this may mar the beauty of the tile.

A rented sander with coarse sandpaper used on the tile will probably roughen it enough to help control the slippery condition. A terrazzo grinding machine would be another alternative. This can also be rented.

Another method would be the use of muriatic acid to dull the surface (mixed with one part acid to nine parts water; be sure and pour the acid into the water rather than the reverse). If you use the muriatic acid use extreme care, wearing both rubber gloves and goggles to protect your skin and eyes.

Prior to roughing up the surface of the tile make sure that the drainage on this surface is adequate. If both drainage problems and the algae problem are corrected you may not have a problem with the tile.

will to so cover all of the estate. It is the type of program, if considered, that should be handled by an attorney because errors in titles, transfers or provisions could be costly and even create problems for yourself and your property.

Living trusts are being used today very actively by mature adults. In most cases probate can be avoided and property can be transferred surely and with some tax savings.

There also are some proponents of living trusts who claim that you can use the concept to protect your property if you ever have to go to a nursing home. The claim is to have the property transferred to protect the estate and then have the welfare system support the nursing care. Such is fraudulent in concept and action — and there can be severe — even criminal — penalties.

Most older adults do not have wills to direct their estates — and that is a mistake because it leaves the disposition totally up to the state. And in some states this can be costly in both time and legal and court costs for administration.

Living trusts are one of the very valid estate planning methods. It is worth the time and expense to explore both with an attorney.

If you want to read on the subject first — before talking with an attorney — consider the purchase of the "How to Avoid Probate Kit." Its subtitle describes its content: "A step-by-step guide to the ultimate in estate planning." Publisher is Homestead Publishing Co., 4455 Torrance Blvd., Suite 220, Torrance, CA 90502. The book includes an in-depth briefing and all the forms necessary for the do-it-yourselfer, or for understanding when working with an attorney. Price is $39, plus postage and handling, to be sent with your order. There is a full refund guarantee.

care supplement insurance or health maintenance program.

Financial planning in retirement should be for quality investments, low risk and assured return. This can provide a predictable return as income. There is no place in retirement planning for high-risk investments, if that investment is necessary to produce income, or you cannot afford to lose all on that investment.

The approach you are taking seems prudent and responsible for a person operating with power of attorney for the financial affairs of another. If you know and trust your broker, if that broker has a fine reputation, and if that broker does not try to move your investments every few months, you have a fine starting point for the development of your investment package.

Q I am interested in having a "living trust." Where may I get information on this? — A.M.

A A living trust is, for many people, a viable concept in planning their estate for protection while living and for the most efficient disposition after death. Basically, the concept is to structure ownership of your property to pass full title to heirs prior to or after death, while still having full use of and claim to that property while living.

A living trust can be used for all property or in conjunction with a

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm really mad and I need you to agree with me. I'm a very trustworthy 15-year-old girl who has never been in trouble. My mother is a lovely person but she thinks that I don't need privacy. Mom never knocks before she enters my room. Instead, she just trots right in whenever she feels like it.

When I'm not at home, she will also go into my room and check things out. She even goes through my desk drawers and reads my diary. I know this is true because my diary and things in my desk drawer have been moved.

To be blunt, my mom is a snoop and she gets very upset when I hint that she is a bit "nosey." When I ask why she checks out my room, she says that it is a mother's right and, besides, it's her house. Who is right, my mother or me? — Rhonda

Rhonda: In your case, you are. Teens need privacy but the privacy must be earned by trust and honesty. Parents who suspect trouble brewing (drugs, alcohol, depression, etc.) should be "inquisitive" and do a lot of "intelligent" probing into their teens' lifestyle, and if this includes so-called "snooping," so be it.

Wise parents know when and when not to be nosy.

Dr. Wallace: I've been reading a lot in the newspaper about child sexual abuse. Why is this an epidemic now? Don't you think writing about child sexual abuse only makes the matter worse? Also, who is doing all this abusing? — Janice Janice: According to Dr. Anne Cohn, executive director, National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse, as many as one out of five young women and one out of 10 young boys will have had a sexually abusive experience while still a child, and reports of child sexual abuse have increased dramatically over the last few years.

Cohen does not feel the amount of sexual abuse has increased significantly in the past 10 years; however, reporting of it has gone up. She also says that there is no clear social, economic, racial, cultural or geographic group that is more likely to sexually abuse than others. But 90 percent of all abusers are male and in 85 percent of all cases the abuser is someone who is known and trusted by the child — a father, stepfather, uncle, mother's boyfriend, camp counselor, youth worker or volunteer.

Janice, it's imperative that child sexual abuse be discussed openly and often.

Children need to learn from parents, medical experts, teachers, nurses etc., what can be done to prevent it and to inform "key" adults at the first sexual attempt. Informative writing about child sexual abuse can do nothing but help.

Dr. Wallace: About four weeks ago my brother's best friend asked me to go to a movie with him. I asked my mom and she said for me to ask my father. He said he needed 24 hours to think about it. Well, when he made up his mind he said I could go but I had to double date and we had to go on a Saturday afternoon.

I think that's very unfair.

My parents said I could start dating when I was 15 and I'm now 15. This also would be my first date. My dad knows this boy very well. He has been in our house many times in the past five years and even went on vacation with us one summer.

Do you think this is fair? I asked the boy and he said he would gladly go along with my dad's demands, but that still doesn't make it fair. Please give me your opinion. — Debbie Debbie: First dates for daughters make many fathers nervous. They know everything will be all right, they just aren't experienced sitting up waiting for daughters to get home.

Don't press the issue. Go along with Dad's "conservative" plan. Next time, he won't be so nervous.

Dr. Wallace: Jim and I were in love but he went into the Navy and I met Tom. Now Tom and I are in love and last week he asked me to marry him and I said yes. Well, three days ago Jim came home on leave and we had a chance to meet alone. Sparks flew and it was like old times again.

I do love Tom and want to get married but I also care for Jim. Please tell me what to do. I am 19 years old. — Roberta Roberta: Still date Tom but stop going steady with him. The next time you say yes to a proposal make sure the guy is your one and only love and that you would not trade him for any man on Earth.

Date around and also see Jim when he is home. You just are not ready to settle down — and why should you be? Enjoy the company of many different guys.

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE
Oh holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful and intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depths of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power, to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return, I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. St. Jude Pray for us all who invoke your aid. Amen. Say 3 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Mary's, 3 Glorias. Say for 9 consecutive days. Publication must be promised. This novena has never been known to fail. Thank you for answering my prayers LEK

Q. My wife and I both bring paperwork home at night and we each need a home office. We also need a guestroom when my folks visit.

Is there any way to get all this into the one 9-by-11-foot extra room we have available? — L.C.

A. With careful planning and the use of space-saving built-ins, it is amazing what a small room can accommodate. Look at the room pictured, for example.

Built-in cabinets with a wood desk surface wrap around two sides of the room, providing "his" and "hers" home offices. What could have been wasted corner space has been put to work as a headboard and niche for a small convertible sofa placed on the diagonal.

A wall-mounted shelving system stores books and art. Notice how the concealed over-counter lighting system provides abundant task lighting while freeing the desk surfaces for paperwork.

The use of white walls and cabinetry with a light wood trim serves to visually enlarge the small space. Even the most dedicated workaholics should be tempted to rendezvous on the love seat for the 11 o'clock news!

Q. Can you give me some ideas for a window with a truly ugly view? I can't stand looking out of it but I don't want to cover it because I need the light. — C.J.B.

HIS AND HERS OFFICES — Built-in cabinets wrap around two sides of the room to provide home offices for husband and wife. — Photo by Kim Brun

A. The endless possibilities are really only limited by your personal taste and imagination. But the basic trick is the same: to distract the eye from the ugliness by making it focus on the foreground within.

The object is to place something interesting and appealing on or in front of the window that does not significantly block the light.

Here is a window box of assorted ideas to install in front of your uninspiring view: put up glass shelves to display plants or glassware; hang a piece of stained or beveled glass in the window; try one of the chemical techniques for frosting or etching glass; hang an intriguing mobile; add an open lattice screen; use concentrated liquid starch to glue a translucent piece of fabric directly on the windowpane and hide edges with ribbon or trim.

Be creative. Give your imagination free rein. You've got nothing to lose except your dreadful view.

MICROWAVE MAGIC

Raisins: ugly, but yummy

By Desiree Vives

FRUIT-STUFFED PORK CHOPS

1 cup coarse dry bread crumbs, or unseasoned croutons
½ cup chopped apples
½ cup chopped raisins
2 tbsps. minced onion
2 tbsps. melted butter or margarine
2 tbsps. sugar
Dash each pepper and ground sage
8 thin pork loin chops (trimmed of fat)
½ cup red wine
Salt and pepper to taste

Oven Setting: LOW/DEFROST (30 percent power)

In medium mixing bowl combine bread crumbs or croutons, apples, raisins, onion, butter, sugar, pepper and sage. Toss to combine ingredients, moistening with a few drops of wine or water, if necessary.

Arrange 4 chops on bottom of 8x8-inch square glass baking dish. Divide stuffing mixture into 4 equal portions and spread over each chop.

Top with remaining 4 pork chops, pressing down slightly to sandwich stuffing. Drizzle wine over meat and sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper.

Microwave, uncovered, 20 to 23 minutes, rotating dish every 5 minutes, until meat is tender and no longer pink.

Serves 4.

RAISIN-LEMON PUDDING

1 cup raisins
1 tsp. baking soda
1 cup boiling water
½ cup butter or margarine, softened
1 cup sugar
1 large egg
2 tbsps. fresh lemon juice
2 tbsps. grated lemon rind
1¼ cups unsifted flour
1 cup chopped walnuts
½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. ground nutmeg
½ tsp. salt

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Place raisins in small bowl and sprinkle with soda. Pour boiling water over top and set aside.

In medium mixing bowl beat together butter and sugar until fluffy. Beat in egg, lemon juice and lemon rind.

In separate bowl combine flour, walnuts, baking powder, nutmeg and salt. Add gradually to creamed butter mixture, beating to blend well, then stir in raisin mixture.

Turn into 8x8-inch square glass baking dish, using back of spoon to spread evenly.

Combine the 2 tablespoons sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon; sprinkle over top of pudding.

Microwave, uncovered, 10 to 12 minutes, until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean.

Remove from oven and let cool in dish. Serve warm or chilled with whipped cream or ice cream, if desired.

Serves 6 to 8.

CHOCOLATE-RAISIN NUGGETS

8 ozs. semi-sweet chocolate chips
½ cup sweetened condensed milk
1 cup each raisins and Spanish peanuts

Oven Setting: MEDIUM (50 percent power)

Place chocolate in medium-size glass mixing bowl. Microwave, uncovered, 3 to 5 minutes, or until chocolate is melted.

Add milk and stir until smooth, then stir in raisins and peanuts.

Drop by teaspoons onto cookie sheet lined with wax paper. Chill until firm.

Makes about 2 dozen.

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

By James G. McCollam

Japanese bowl a fine legacy

Q. I have had this Japanese Imari bowl (14x5 inches) for many years. As I am getting to the point of distributing my treasures to various members of my family, I would like to know the vintage and value of this beautiful bowl.

A. No doubt about it, this is a fine piece. It probably was made in the mid-1900s and should sell in the $300-to-$500 range.

Q. I know barber poles and barber bottles are collectibles. What about other items associated with barber shops?

A. Since professional hairstylists are rapidly replacing the old-style barber shops with the girly magazines, anything associated with the vanishing barber shops is collectible.

Here are some typical examples:

- Simpson wood-handled brush in case — $15.
- Lifetime, ivory-handled brush — $20.
- Catalog of old-time barber supplies — $65.
- Barber shop basins — $150 to $175.
- Backbars — $600 to $1,500.
- Chairs — $225 to $450.
- Clocks (numbers in reverse) — $350.
- Mugs — $50 to $500.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1 per item to James G. McCollam.

McCollam is a member of the Antique Appraisers Association of America.

Q. My bread tray is made of heavy pottery decorated with begonias. The colors are very brilliant and highly glazed.

What can you tell me about its origin, vintage and value?

A. This is a majolica tray made by Graham, Smith and Hill in Phoenixville, Pa., during the late 19th century. It would sell for at least $75 to $100.

Keep puppy away from electrical cords

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q Our 16-week-old female Pomeranian puppy likes to chew on everything. I worry constantly that she will bite through an electrical cord and kill herself.

If such a tragedy should occur, what should I do? Do dogs that bite electrical cords usually live? If so, are they seriously injured?

A The most common cause of electrocution in dogs is from chewing on electrical cords. Considering that nearly all puppies chew on electrical cords, serious injury is surprisingly rare. Many puppies do receive minor electrical shocks and quickly learn to leave the cords alone. Others are more persistent and a real cause for worry.

During the maturing phase of your puppy you might try to isolate her in areas of the house such as hallways, bathrooms and kitchens, where there are no floor-level outlets. Strict scolding or discipline at the time of chewing should be administered.

The usual injury from chewing on electrical cords is a mild shock or an electrical burn on the tongue, mouth or lips. These burns usually have a grayish appearance and heal rapidly without complications.

Dogs with burns of the mouth, tongue or lips often are reluctant to eat or drink for a few days.

If a severe electrical shock is received, the dog will lose consciousness, collapse and stiffen. Once the source of electricity is interrupted, most dogs regain consciousness quickly, but some seizure activity may occur while the dog is recovering.

The first thing a dog owner should do after encountering an electrical accident is to unplug the cord. Do not try to pull the dog from the cord while it is still plugged into the wall socket. Doing so may cause you to get electrocuted. Every child in the household should be given these instructions. Human nature is to go to the dog instead of to the source of electricity.

If it is impossible to unplug the source of electricity, throw a breaker or turn off electricity at the fuse box. If this is impossible, knock the dog free of the electrical cord with a wooden object, such as a chair.

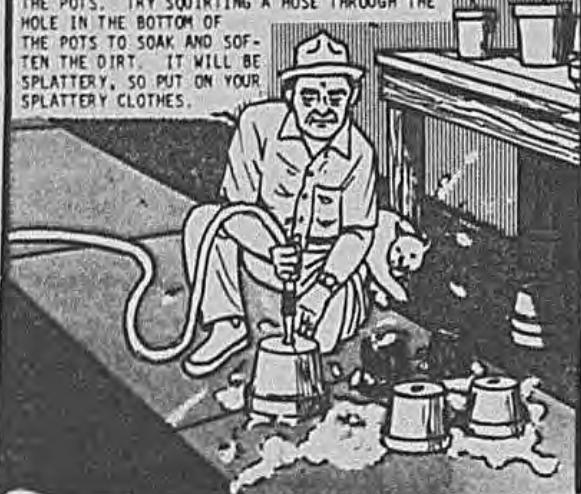

If the dog has no heartbeat or is not breathing, cardiopulmonary resuscitation should be started. The dog should be taken to a veterinarian as soon as possible for a complete physical examination.

Most dogs will survive if someone is present and quickly unplugs the cord. If no one is present, respiratory and cardiac failure will be fatal in a short time.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

This week I had some interesting mail from readers of this column. A few of the boys and girls told me what they are getting for Mom on her special day this Sunday. The favorite gift seems to be plants or flowers and candy is surely in second place.

The best way to celebrate Mother's Day, though, is by sharing your company rather than giving a gift. I think that would make Mom happier than anything she could receive.

Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Allison Holt and Barbara Willson. You'll be hearing from me soon!

RULES

BOYS AND GIRLS

Here is your chance to win One Dollar ($1.00) - to spend or save.

Here's all you have to do:

1. Contest is open to children 4 to 12 years of age.
2. Entries must be received by Friday, May 16, 1986.
3. Paint, watercolors and crayons must be used on the above.
4. Decision of the judges will be final.

Mail your entry (just clip out cartoon) to this newspaper at 105 Hillside Avenue, Williston Park, N.Y. 11596

The World's Most Beautiful Grandchildren

Here is a picture of our first grandchild, beautiful Brian Marshall Cochrane. He is 2½ years old. His parents are Donna Marie and Brian Paul Cochrane. Grandparents are Thomas and Clementine Galicia of Bethpage and Flora Cochrane of Bethpage.

And this is a picture of our adorable granddaughter Jennifer Anne Novak. She is 22 months old. Her parents are Linda Anne and Charlie Novak of Cocoa, Florida. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Galicia of Bethpage and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Novak of Wisconsin.

GRANDPARENTS... HERE IS YOUR CHANCE!

You have been telling everyone you meet that you have the "World's Greatest Grandchildren". You've been carrying pictures around with you and finding people to look at them. We have a better answer!

Each week we will run photos of the World's "Most Beautiful Grandchildren".

(in the eyes of the grandparents) and for each photo selected, we will send, as a prize, a permanent version of the way it appeared in the newspaper for you to keep.

To enter the contest, simply send a small (preferred) photo to:

Discovery Magazines
81 East Barclay Street,
Elleaville, N.Y. 11591

If you want the photo returned, you must print your name and address on the back.
