Mr. Carlos Nazario, the Lieutenant Governor of the Long Island North Division of Kiwanis International, has established the practice of naming a "Kiwanian of the Month" to recognize and honor a member of Kiwanis in the L.I. North Division for some outstanding achievement.

The Kiwanian whom Lt. Gov. Nazario chose as the honoree for the month of May was Hicksville's Past President "Bill" Murphy, because this month, Bill Murphy will attend his 33rd consecutive Kiwanis International Convention, and later this year, he will attend his 33rd New York District Kiwanis Convention. In the photo, taken at the May 28 meeting, Lt. Gov. Nazario, on the left, is congratulating Bill Murphy, center, for his accomplishment, as Hicksville Kiwanis President Dr. Keith Pastuch looks on. On Thursday, May 22, Mrs. Blaauboer's second grade class from Burns Avenue School took a walking trip to the Hicksville Post Office. This trip was arranged by Mr. Tom Gaynor, Public Information Officer of the Hicksville Post Office. This was a culminating activity in conjunction with our unit on letter writing. Since the children brought their own letters to be mailed, they were given the opportunity to view the "procession of letters" first hand. This proved to be a very informative and worthwhile trip for all.

Public Hearing Set For Hicksville Budget

Special to Mid-Island Times
By Maureen Traxler

While cuts were continuing to be made in the 1986-87 school budget, the Hicksville School Board set June 18 as the date for its public hearing on the amended budget to be resubmitted to the electorate, June 25. The Board seized the opportunity at its monthly public meeting on May 28 to trim another $12,900, bringing the budget down to $40,638,229. Voter registration also takes place on June 18 from 3 to 8 p.m., and the public hearing will be held in the Senior High School cafeteria at 8:15 p.m.

Prior to the start of the meeting, the District held its Silver Anniversary Reception, and 19 celebrants of 25 years of service were presented traditional silver bowls. Eighteen retirees and nine recipients of Achievement Awards, including one newcomer to the district, were also honored.

Under the Action Section of the agenda, the Board was asked to approve revised budget figures. At that time, Trustee Thomas Nagle chastised the Board members for their lackadaisical attitude toward budget revision and challenged them to cut even deeper. He labeled the amended budget, "the Board's budget", and called on his colleagues for more action, stressing that "seven people are responsible for it."

Mr. Nagle requested additional deletions. He began by urging the Board not to become involved in budgetary gimmickry by adding $3900 to the 1986-87 budget to cover the costs of the June 25 vote. He asked the members to adhere to generally accepted accounting principles, reverse its decision, and find the money for this 1985-86 expenditure in the present budget. The Board agreed with Mr. Nagle's view and unanimously deleted the $3900 from next year's budget.

Mr. Nagle proceeded to present his suggestions for reductions, but only one item was approved. That item was the deletion of $9,000 in transportation costs from BOCES. Mr. Nagle vowed to bring his suggestions back before the full Board at the public hearing. (Only five members of the present Board were in attendance on May 28. Newly elected trustee Carol Wolfe also attended this meeting.)

Mr. Nagle stated that nobody likes to make cuts, but added, "I'm not afraid to make the cuts." He called it a "mistake" not to have input from the public, and urged residents to come to the public hearing. He further urged the Board to campaign for people to get out to vote, acknowledging that the Board cannot, by law, campaign for budget approval.

No other members addressed the budget matter. Board President William Bennett assured all present that the Board would do all possible to reduce the budget "without jeopardizing education."

At the last meeting, $243,068 was deleted from the 1986-87 budget. The additional deletions of $3900 and $9000, plus adjustments for employee reductions, brings the revised budget to $40,638,229, down $329,468 from the $40,967,697 proposed on May 7.

Other actions taken by the Board on May 28 included:

- Approval of policy GCEA-R Administrative Regulations - Long-Term Substitutes. This policy governs the determination of salary placement for long-term substitutes.
- Approval of a revision in policy BDAA Smoking at Board Meetings. Smoking will be prohibited in all rooms where the Board or any of its committees is in public session.
- Approval of new policy GBK Smoking on School Premises by Staff Members. Staff members who choose to do so, may smoke only in designated areas in each of the district's buildings, as so specified by building administrators.

• Approval of a contract extension with WE Transport, for 1986-87 which will realize a savings for the district of $15,000 over current costs.

• Approval of the award of bids totaling $692,046. The bids included renovations, construction supplies, wall replacement, flooring, classroom modernization, facility refurbishing, asphalt sealing, paving and resurfacing, roofing repairs, and ceiling and lighting. All items were budgeted for 1985-86.

• Approval of recommendations for educational and civil service personnel made by Superintendent Fenton. The Board also denied two leaves of absence.

Letter to the Editor

The Board of Education Administration Building
Division Avenue
Hicksville, NY. 11801
Gentlemen:

On June 25, the people of Hicksville will again vote on the school budget, which previously was defeated by only a few votes. However, the proposition for increased busing you have removed from the ballot. This means that children who live long distances from school will be forced to walk in the streets when snow covers the ground. Many a child has been killed by a drunken or careless driver.

Please reconsider and put back on the ballot the proposition for increased busing.

Sincerely yours,
Henry & Karin Frey

To all residents of Hicksville:
On May 7, the residents of the Hicksville School District voted the school budget down. At the meeting of May 20, the school board voted and agreed to resubmit the school budget on June 25.

On May 28, the board again met and agreed to a public hearing on June 18. This will be the last time that the budget figures can be adjusted either by adding additional monies or by the deletion of monies from the present suggested budgetary amount.

I am inviting all the residents who wish to participate in the budgetary process by giving feedback and comments to the school board and to witness how the board members vote on the budgetary items to be considered.

The budget for the school year 1986-87 is your budget. Please attend the meeting of June 18 and have the opportunity to speak on the issues and to vote on June 25.

Thank you.

Thomas Nagle

Woodland Classes Study Cocoons

The Special Education classes in Woodland Avenue School received a number of Cecropia Moth cocoons from the Gregory Museum in Hicksville.

The children enjoyed watching and waiting as each moth emerged from its cocoon.

The Gregory Museum have these cocoons available as an extra service for those teachers who will request it.

Jacklyn Verozie, Brian Salts and Allen Scholl from Mrs. Specht's Early Learning Center take a close look at their newly born Cecropia moth.

Brooke Campbell, Lauren Parker, Kirsten Cammarano, Christopher Verini, Tojo Varkey and Loretta Clark of Mrs. Goldstein's Primary Developmental Learning Center watch their cocoon and wonder when the moth will emerge.

Linda Mills, Arthur LaBus, Catherine Fleming, and, bottom center, Robert O'Shea proudly stand with their Cecropia moth. Linda is pointing to the moth as it was opening and closing its wings.

Tree Planting At Fork Lane

Story and Photos
By A. Eichenauer

May 29, the students and teachers of Fork Lane planted a tree on the front lawn of the school, dedicated to those astronauts that lost their lives on January 28, 1986.

The program consisted of the school band playing "America" our principal Mrs. Carol Bentsen, introduced speakers from each class starting with Matthew Pinelli Kindergarten. Brian Smith and Alia Akkam First grade. Kristen Burns, Todd Masters, Jennifer Traxler Second grade. Jonathan Schwartz, Diane Traxler Third grade. Douglas Matson, Susan Gaylord, An Ya Wu, Ji Young Lee, Kiri Gallahue, Fourth grade. Marina Thomas, Fifth grade. Courtney Mullin, James Fitzsimmons Sixth grade.

Scout Schubert held a picture of all 7 astronauts. Bevon Ferreri held a picture of Christa McAuliffe and Jennifer Eichenauer held the American Flag that she had made herself. All the above students are in Mrs. Grib's third grade class.

A plaque was made and reads as follows. In Memory of the Challenger Astronauts, January 28, 1986, Fork Lane PTA. This plaque will be put on a cement slab and placed at the base of the tree.

Each student that came up to the platform read poems and short stories about the 7 astronauts. These writing were very heart touching and brought tears to many teachers and spectators.

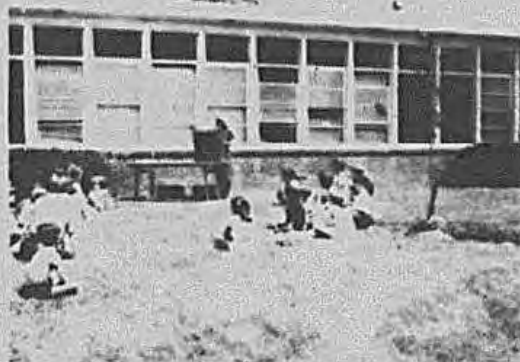

After the speakers were done a representative from each class assisted in the planting of the tree.

The trowel that was used to place the corner stone at Fork Lane in 1952 was used again for this tree planting ceremony.

To end this dedication, "taps" was played by Danna Harris and Chris Kemmlin.

Our principal Mrs. Carol Bentsen and some of the children who will read their poems in memory of the astronauts.

At the right is the tree that the children of Fork Lane planted and dedicated to the Challenger Astronauts.

Hicksville Girl Serving in Israel

Sharon Schoenfeld, of Hicksville, is devoting a year of service to Israel as a member of Hadassah's Young Judea Year Course, after finishing high school. She is the daughter of Linda and David Schoenfeld.

During the year she worked as a volunteer in a kibbutz and moshave (a cooperative farming village), and tutored children in English in Tiberias, a town with many social problems. She and her Young Judean group lived in an absorption center, where there were numerous new immigrants from Ethiopia, whom they helped in many ways. They also worked in the afternoons in a club for the elderly.

Sharon also spent several months in Jerusalem, where she studied Hebrew, Judaism, and the history, geography and archeology of Israel. She will be given credit for these studies at American universities.

She commented, "I guess it is hard to be away from home for ten months, but I have experienced so much here with the land, the people and my friends on the course that I think I've grown a lot, and now see myself as a totally different person. Living and working in Tiberias I have got a taste of what life is really like in Israel. It was particularly rewarding to live in the same center as the Ethiopians, and to help them, and to get friendly with them. I am going to tell every Young Judean I know to come on the next Year Course."

In photo, Sharon is looking after an Ethiopian child newly arrived in Israel from Ethiopia. A group of Young Judeans on the year course are living in an Absorption Center in Tiberias where there are many newly arrived Ethiopian families whom they help in a variety of ways.

Burns PTA Honors Mrs. Terry Wells

On May 15, the Burns Avenue PTA held a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Terry Wells as this year's Honorary Life Member. PTA president Joanne Ellinger presented Mrs. Wells with a pin and had her name inscribed on the Honorary Life Plaque which is hung in the lobby of Burns Avenue.

Mrs. Wells is a fifth grade teacher at Burns Avenue School. She initially came to Burns Avenue in the 1959-60 school year. Over the years, she has earned the reputation of an outstanding and innovative educator who dedicates endless hours to classroom planning, instruction and evaluation. Her classroom is a prototype for a vigorous and attractive learning facility where all her pupils are expected to give the same 110% that she does. She is known to be "fair but firm" and the children enjoy her classes despite the high level of teacher expectation.

Mrs. Wells' enthusiasm, caring and scholarship will be long remembered by all. This year will be Terry's last year at Burns Avenue as she is retiring with her husband to beautiful Vermont. Mrs. Wells will be greatly missed by the PTA, students, parents and faculty. Congratulations and best of luck, Terry Wells!

Burns Avenue PTA President Joanne Ellinger presents Mrs. Terry Wells with PTA Honorary Life Member Pin 1986 and shows her inscription on Honorary Life Plaque which hangs in lobby of Burns Avenue School.

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond was on hand for the second of four special programs to salute senior citizens during May, which is celebrated nationwide as "Senior Citizen Month". The Councilman presents a citation to Dr. Emily Waxberg, corresponding secretary for the Town of Oyster Bay Arts Council, Inc., in appreciation for the Council's sponsorship of entertainment for the four senior salute programs. Emily Williams, left, of the Syonset Garden Senior Citizens Club, Conrad Schlusack of the Hicksville Seniors of 355 Newbridge and Lena Van Velsor of the Doubleday-Babcock Senior Citizens Club in Oyster Bay hold packages of cards to be presented to club members in recognition of their outstanding volunteer work.

Harrison-Mascioli Engagement

Darlene Harrison

Mrs. Jane Harrison, of Kuhl Avenue, Hicksville, is pleased to announce the engagement of her daughter, Darlene Harrison, to Michael Mascioli, son of Mrs. Jenny Mascioli, of Hicksville. Darlene is a graduate of Hicksville High School and the Alice B. Skinner School. She is currently managing a travel agency in Westbury.

Darlene and Michael's engagement took place on April 6. A wedding date is planned for 1987.

Mid-Island Hosp. Wins Recognition

The Mid-Island Hospital was awarded a special recognition certificate for its support of "continual education of Emergency Department nurses." It was announced by Patricia Canigiani, Assistant Administrator and Director of Nursing at the health care facility.

The Long Island Emergency Nurse Program was founded in 1976 by Ms. Canigiani and Susan Johns, who today is Assistant Director of Nursing at the North Shore Hospital.

Within the last ten years, 400 Emergency Department Nurses from hospitals throughout the region have completed their nine month certification program and graduated the course.

Ms. Canigiani said, "These very special graduates have acquired recognized skills permitting them to assume expanded professional rolls for delivering outstanding Emergency Nursing services."

Hofstra University Baseball player Greg Polli one of the nation's leading hitters over the past two seasons, was recognized for his impressive on-field accomplishments with selection to regional and All-America teams.

Greg, a senior from Hickville, was selected to the East Coast Conference, All-East Region, and Second team All-America squads. Polli, who was pursuing graduate studies in health administration, led the nation in runs-batted-in per game (2.1) in 1985. This season, Polli finished this season as the leading hitter in the conference (.478), and the left fielder also topped the conference in home runs (12) and runs-batted-in (57 in 30 games).

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Q: I have been receiving reduced retirement benefits since age 62. I will be 65 in August. How do I sign up for Medicare?

A: If you are receiving Social Security retirement benefits, your hospital insurance protection will start automatically at 65 and you will be automatically enrolled for medical insurance — unless you say you don't want it — at the same time you become entitled to hospital insurance.

Q: I would like to know if I will receive part of my recently deceased husband's Social Security. I receive benefits on my own work record and my husband received benefits on his own work record.

A: When an individual is entitled on more than one record, the individual receives whichever is the larger of the two. If the amount to which you are entitled as a widow is larger than what you get on your own record, you will receive the larger of the two sums.

Q: My wife wants to quit work in May of this year but will not be 65 until May 1987. Should she start drawing this year or would it be better for her to wait until she is 65?

A: If your wife elects to receive benefits before age 65 the check is reduced permanently. The amount of reduction depends on the number of months she receives checks before she reaches 65. If she starts her checks early, she will receive about the same value in total benefits over the years, but in smaller amounts to take into account the longer period she receives them.

DO THE JUNIOR TWO-STEP.

It's the Army Reserve's Alternate Training Program. And it means that if you're a junior in high school, and 17, you can split your training into two summers. Basic the first and your special skills school the second. You'll earn at least $1,100 each summer, then over $1,225 a year for serving one weekend a month, normally, and two weeks annual training. Your first step should be to come in or call.

Expansion Prog. At Trinity Lutheran

Trinity Lutheran Church, 40 West Nicholas Street, Hicksville, is expanding its facility to not only more adequately provide for its current ministry but to give it the opportunity to extend its ministry more effectively to all God's people in Hicksville and the surrounding communities. In this regard it has added space which will strengthen its parochial school, currently the second largest Lutheran school in the nation, and allow it the opportunity to more fully institute additional ministries of caring.

Among other things, an elevator will be installed that will make the entire new facility accessible for the elderly and handicapped, and make the existing church completely accessible for all God's people.

In October the members of Trinity will invite the entire community to rejoice with them and give thanks to God for the new facility. If you do not have a church home of your own, Trinity's members invite you to join them for worship on Saturday evening at 7:30, on Sunday morning at 8:15, 9:45 and 11:15. Sunday school is at 9:30 a.m.

Trinity is thankful that several community organizations, businesses, as well as individuals have contributed towards the over-two million dollar cost of the expansion. Although much of the funds have been raised, the members are fully confident that our Lord will provide people who will meet the remaining needs of the program.

Currently the building is approximately 60% complete. As part of the overall project the commercial building previously rented by the Meenan Oil Company on West Marie Street has been torn down to provide additional parking. The community is invited to observe the progress. West Marie Street is a particularly good place to view the construction. The building will be in full use by the end of the year.

The Board was asked by the New York State School Boards Association to sign a petition to be sent to U.S. Senators D'Amato and Moynihan. The petition called for support of full retention of the deduction for State and local taxes, retention of full tax-exempt status of all bonds issued by local school districts, retention of current law permitting tax-exempt bond issuers to retain arbitrage earnings, retention of laws governing advance refunding and early issuance by tax-exempt bond users, and the rejection of proposed time limits on the spending of tax-exempt bonds and notes. The Board voted not to sign this petition.

The next regular meeting of the Board is scheduled for Wednesday, June 25, the night of the budget vote, 8:15 p.m. at the Senior High School Cafeteria A.

Input Callers Have Mixed Ideas On Travel In U.S.

Input callers had mixed opinions on whether travel in the U.S. will replace overseas travel in answer to this question: "Do you think that vacationers who change plans because of terrorists overseas will find the U.S. as enjoyable as foreign travel? Here are some of the answers:

PERFECT IDEA

There are so many things to see in the U.S. that you could go on vacation twice a year and never use up everything for 50 years. We have mountains, seashores, resorts, parks and marvelous scenery in the West that is unequalled anywhere. I will find traveling and vacationing in the U.S. perfect for me. J.E.

WANTS BOTH

There is little to compare when you are comparing traveling in the U.S. and foreign travel. It is important that people who want to expand their lives do both. Certainly there are many things to see in the U.S. but a trip to a foreign country has an added element of mystery to it that is not present in the U.S. I will opt to travel as far as possible and take my chances on terrorists. M.R.

JUST A RISK

The question pre-supposes that everyone is that worried about being hijacked. I prefer to think of it as a risk that can be taken the same as other risks in traveling. I think an individual's chance of being taken hostage is small. For that reason I intend to continue my plans to visit Germany this summer. K.E.

BETTER HERE

Yes. For too long we Americans have been trotting off to foreign countries and neglecting the great things in our own country. Some people have visited more places outside of the U.S. than they have in this country. The present fear of hijacking will awaken the country to the great things on this continent in the U.S. and Canada. L.E.

GOOD OFFERS

I think with the increased security that is being put in place in major airports that it will become safe once again to travel in most countries overseas. For that reason I am going to take advantage of the good offers now being made for travel to Europe. It should be good and not so crowded. I take chances every day in crossing the street, so why not take a chance in traveling? K.W.

MORE SECURITY

The National Parks, wonderful lakes of Canada and all of the great things in the U.S. and Canada will get more attention this year as people stop wasting their money in foreign countries that only think badly of Americans. When we return again, they will be glad to have us back. But security will be improved if there is a loss of tourists—we will get the cooperation of all governments that depend on the tourist industry. L.W.

MORE EXCITEMENT

While many people will opt to visit the U.S. and be very satisfied, everyone should know that it will be bargain time for trips to Europe and you can bet that security will be tightened up so that it won't be a problem. I would rather travel to a foreign country than spend a vacation in the U.S. There is more excitement overseas. L.W.

FOR OVERSEAS

I would say "No!" The mere fact that their original plans called for visits to foreign countries gave clear indication that that trip had won their first priority in preference to a vacation in the U.S. So, quite frankly, it is difficult even to make a valid comparison. I would say that the majority of Americans, given the opportunity and a financial advantage, would opt for an overseas vacation. It has so many things going for it—strange language and customs, exotic foods and drink, exciting entertainment, desirable things to buy and take back home, completely different scenery, unusual travel facilities, etc., etc. So, having made that decision to go abroad, the need to change plans due to terrorist threats overseas leaves quite a vacuum not easily filled by a U.S. substitute. In many cases, such a traveller has for years been taking a vacation in the U.S. in the mountains, in the country, at the shore, or visiting some other state or city such as the other coast, the Capitol at Washington, gambling at Las Vegas or Atlantic City, etc. So, when the economies has reached a point of great attraction for foreign travel, is it any wonder that plans are made with great and pleasurable anticipation and that the need to revise those plans constitutes quite a wrench. Frankly, I don't believe that those vacationers under those circumstances will find the U.S. as enjoyable. And, it's quite a shame too because the terrorists have accomplished much more than they had in mind in the first place. They have not only created the fear of being killed or maimed but have drastically upset the economic balance represented by the reliance of foreign countries on tourism and the importation of exchange by overseas visitors. P.G.S.

OTHER ISSUES

CRIME NEWS

Yes, I think local papers should print news about crime in the neighborhood. As a taxpayer citizen, I think I have the right to know what's going on around me. It would help me to take proper precautions to thwart incidents.

POLICE REPORTS

I believe one of the responsibilities of a newspaper, and particularly a neighborhood paper, is to publish criminal activities and any other accident information. The information you pass on is extremely helpful. I believe that many people who would be inclined to vandalize property and commit crimes, etc. are deterred by the thought that their neighbors and friends would read about it. The news need not be gruesome but the facts are very helpful. A.G.

The Dotted Line Habit

By Victoria Lemley

There is a habit I've got to break. It is ridiculous that little slips of paper no bigger than 2 1/2" X 6" (and we're not talking checks here) should have such control over my state of mind or be allowed to run amuck in my life, not to mention a fairly large and accommodating kitchen drawer.

If you think I'm muttering to myself now, we didn't pass in the aisles of the supermarket only minutes ago. Not that anyone noticed there. The few who may have probably attributed my disturbed disposition to today's headlines, an ugly encounter with another driver or a teenager or two in my life.

Au contraire, this little outburst has to do with coupons. I habitually cut them out and seldom have the satisfaction of using them. Fifteen cents off a box of cereal on occasion does not satisfaction make. At least it doesn't begin to make up for the time and effort I spent collecting the little critters; hacking my way through cardboard containers and drowning bottles of bleach if I had to. It doesn't make up for the time I spent sorting and filing them - well, "sort of" filing them. And while a savings of $4.22 - my coupon record to date - may make up for a financial loss at the library - it's hardly a noticeable dent in the food budget or a decent return on time invested.

Therefore, certain truths - and one is about time - have become self evident:

• If on the rare occasion I have my entire coupon collection on my person, it takes me forever to shop. Produce wilts, dairy items sour and the freezer section of my cart defrosts if I have that bulging packet of paper change along.

It has not escaped my attention that people shopping for a family of six for the week with a house party planned on the weekend are in line checking out before I am anywhere near there with my express list of twelve items or less and handy dandy coupon keeper.

• If on the other hand and on one of my better days (the ones when I remember the shopping list as well), I plan ahead and only take along the coupons I intend to use, I fare no better.

- a) the store is out of the product
- b) another product is a better buy
- c) a coupon for the better buy is at home
- d) the coupon is good for the gargantuan size only...and only when buying four or more

Then there's always e) the coupon's expired. The good ones often do. And they die young: mostly by elate, but often forgotten in the newspaper now lining the guinea pig's cage or globbed to death by grape jelly at the breakfast table.

For me it's decided. First, there will be a ceremonial coupon toss, beginning with "Baking Goods/Desserts" not stopping until the Cleaning Needs/Paper section is wiped out. Who needs them anyway?! (The right attitude is crucial in breaking any habit.)

Then comes a commitment. I will ignore all perforated and dotted lines. I will develop an indifference to numbers whatever their amount. This, my husband assures me, I've already developed. I will swiftly turn the page on any tempting coupon.

With a little will power it can be done. With a six year old residence, the scissors are never around anyway.

Race you through the supermarket!!!

CROWDED BUT GREAT
The Arbor Inn in Rockville Centre is a fine place to go. We went there last week and were very pleased with nearly everything. The food was just great from a fine continental menu. The service was exceptional and our only unfavorable comment is that the wait was a little too long (one half hour). In talking to other people at the restaurant they all agreed that it was worth waiting for but that if you come on in between days such as Monday (they are closed Tuesdays) that the wait is non-existent. The fine cabaret type bar does take up much of the slack in waiting so it is still a great place. R.B.

Heart Healthy Recipe

OATMEAL BREAD

- 1 1/2 cups boiling water
 - 1 cup rolled oats
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup light molasses
 - 1 1/2 tablespoons oil
 - 1 package dry yeast
 - 1 cup warm water
 - 4-4 1/2 cups all-purpose flour, sifted
- Pour the boiling water over the oatmeal. Add the salt, stir, and cool to lukewarm. Dissolve the yeast in the warm water, then add molasses, oil and dissolved yeast to the oatmeal mixture and gradually add the sifted flour until the dough is stiff enough to handle. Knead the dough on a lightly floured board for about 5 minutes or until dough is smooth and elastic.
- Place dough in a lightly oiled bowl, turning to coat all sides of the dough with oil. Cover with a clean cloth and let rise in a warm place (about 85°F) until double in bulk.
- Punch down the dough and knead again for a few minutes.
- Shape into a loaf and put it in a well-oiled 9 x 5-inch loaf pan. Cover and let rise again (about 1 hour) until doubled in bulk.
- Bake at 375°F for 50 minutes. Remove bread from pan and place on a wire rack to cool.
- Yield: 1 loaf (16 slices)
Approx. cal/serv. 1 slice = 150

Variation:

One-quarter cup of wheat germ and/or 1/2 cup of seedless raisins may be added.

Approx. cal/serv. 1 slice = 170

PLEASANT SURPRISE

We were pleasantly surprised by a new restaurant in Garden City just off Roosevelt Field. It is the Akbar. This restaurant features Indian food but it does not go overboard on spices such as curry which tend to obscure food. We had drawn with just a flavor of spices and herbs of India and my wife enjoyed a chicken dish with its subtle touch of spice. We have been to many new restaurants in the area but this one is unusual and a real treat.

The building housing the Akbar is a delight to enter. It is found on 1 Ring Road with an entry from the main entrance at Roosevelt Field. We felt that this is a restaurant that will surely be enjoyed by your readers and hope you will publish this review of our personal feelings. A.R.

FRESH FISH

The Executive restaurant in Mineola has long been a favorite of mine. Some time ago the restaurant changed ownership and I was afraid that it would never be the same. It is not really the same now but I like it better. Presently they have added fresh fish to the menu and it is cooked in some of the tastiest dishes I have ever eaten. We went there last Thursday for dinner (I have eaten lunch there many times and were pleasantly surprised with the fine selection of fresh sole. We certainly recommend this restaurant. It is on Mineola Blvd., Mineola. S.D.

DIFFERENT RESTAURANT

The name is different and so is the whole restaurant. I am talking about the Red Caboose. A real live old time freight caboose is hooked up to the back of the Red Caboose restaurant on Old Country Road, Westbury.

When you enter the tastefully decorated main area you will like the intimacy of the restaurant.

In addition the menu is Northern Italian with many fine veal and shrimp dishes. When you order a dinner entree you are given free access to the salad bar which has a good selection of items for salad and before dinner snacking.

Have The Last Word

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides—a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings."

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

READER RATINGS

Q. Is it proper to tip soup or dessert dishes? And when is soup eaten with a spoon? I sometimes see people drinking bouillon, etc., directly from a cup. Is this correct? C.T.

A. The tipping of soup or dessert dishes is acceptable if the plate is tipped away from the spoon, not toward the eater. Soup or bouillon served in a handled cup or (Oriental fashion) small, cup-sized bowl may be drunk. If there are vegetables or other garnish floating on top, these may be in the bottom of the cup and are spooned up after the liquid has been drunk.

Q. If bouillon is served in a cup do you drink it? Should you take part of it with the spoon? What if the cup has two handles. Do you use both hands. B.K.

A. Spoon up part of the bouillon before taking it up to drink. If the cup has one handle, hold it in one hand. If it has two handles, hold it by both handles. If the bouillon has solids in it, take them up with the spoon before drinking the bouillon.

Q. Why aren't bus boys in hotels and restaurants tipped? G.H.

A. Because the waiter for whom he clears the tables shares his tips with him. In resort hotels, however, student bus boys are tipped.

Q. What are the rules adults should remember about napkins? C.H.

A. The large dinner napkins need to be only half-unfolded; the smaller luncheon napkin must be spread out completely on the lap. Never return the napkin to the table until you leave it. Even if everyone has long finished eating and people are lingering over coffee at the table, keep your napkin on your lap.

A chicken quiz

Today's culinary quiz:

What do the following people and places have in common?

- Julius Caesar
- Italian soprano Luisa Tetrazzini
- Opera composer Gioacchino Rossini
- A Napoleonic victory
- A Napoleonic defeat
- Assorted queens, kings and princes

Answer: They have all given their illustrious names to delicious chicken dishes — poulet Cesar, chicken Tetrazzini, poularde a la Rossini, chicken Marengo, salade Bagration and a variety of poulets a la reine.

There is perhaps no food in history that has been more tinkered with in the name of creativity, than the chicken. From hard-luck days when it was promised swimming in every pot, through the Americanization of haute cuisine and the fame of chicken Cordon Bleu, to the present predilection for chicken grilleu over mesquite with an avocado-chili-cilantro refresh, this humble little bird has fed the masses and fueled culinary imaginations.

Nineteenth century philosopher, Brillat-Savarin aptly summed up the charm of the chicken, declaring that "poultry is for the cook what canvas is for a painter... it is served boiled, roasted, fried, hot or cold, whole or cut up, with or without sauce, boned, skinned, stuffed, and always with equal success."

Roast chicken is an elegant centerpiece for a formal dinner for four. But it can also be the unimpeachable accomplice of mashed potatoes and gravy and peas.

Grilled chicken, with crossbars lightly charred on crackling golden skin, is grand when seasoned only with salt and pepper, or enlivened with the fruity taste of extra virgin olive oil, mellowed with the nutty flavors of ham and bacon.

Chicken can be flamed with aged Armagnac or drowned in smoky red barbecue sauce. It can announce its plebian heritage — fried chicken and chicken fricassee are solid favorites. Or be turned into such upwardly mobile morsels as stuffed chicken legs sauteed with walnuts or boned chicken breasts with basil cream sauce.

Because of its fairly bland taste, chicken takes well to most fresh herbs, to Oriental spices and to expensive black truffles. It also marries well with many fruits and such prepared condiments as mustard, marmalades and chutneys.

Full-flavored free-range chickens (ground-scratching creatures raised on a farm) are hard to find today, as are chickens that have not been frozen for shipping. Thus are herbs, marinades and citrus juices important to improve the flavor of the finished dish.

Chicken is a great food buy, with many markets offering whole birds at less than $1 per pound, cut-up fryers at about $1.10 per pound. It ranks high as a digestible meat and has considerably less fat than many other meats (especially if the skin is removed). In addition, chicken's calorie count is lower — 4 ounces of baked chicken has 290 calories (the same portion with the skin removed has only 183 calories.) The same amount of broiled T-bone steak has 473 calories.

Chicken should be refrigerated immediately after purchase and cooked within two days. It can also be wrapped well and stored in the freezer for about three months, but it will suffer some loss of both texture and flavor.

The following recipes offer our complete "uptown" and country-style chicken dinners, as well as a few delicious alternatives to simple roast chicken.

ROAST CHICKEN

- 1 5-lb. chicken
- 1 lemon, halved
- 5 cloves garlic
- ½ orange
- 1 medium onion
- 4 tbsps. unsalted butter
- Salt
- Freshly ground black pepper
- ½ cup water or chicken stock

Preheat oven to 500 F. Remove fat from crop and cavity of chicken. Freeze neck and gizzards for stock; save liver for other recipes. Stuff cavity of chicken with lemon, garlic, orange, onion, butter, salt and pepper. Season skin with salt and pepper.

Place chicken in roasting pan breast side up, and roast 45 minutes to an hour, or until juices run clear. During first few minutes either shake chicken or move it frequently with a wooden spoon to keep from sticking. When done tilt chicken over the roasting pan to allow cavity juices to fall into it. Remove chicken to platter.

Put roasting pan on stove burner, add water or chicken stock and bring to a boil, while scraping bottom vigorously with wooden spoon. Serve pan juices over chicken, or for crisper skin, in a sauceboat.

Scallops are perfect for hurry-up cook

Scallops are the perfect seafood for the chef in a hurry. They come from the market ready to cook, and cooking time for most scallop recipes is only a few minutes. Even better, scallops lend themselves to a variety of elegant preparations that will make your guests think you've spent hours in the kitchen. Today's recipes are for two delicious scallop dishes that can be served either as main courses or appetizers.

The most commonly eaten part of the scallop is the adductor muscle, which the scallop uses to open and close its shell. In most parts of this country, sea scallops are more common and less expensive than the smaller, sweeter bay scallops.

In the United States, most seafood markets display only the ready-to-cook muscle, while in much of Europe, scallops are generally sold in the shell. Europeans often eat the scallops "coral," or roe, as well as the "beard," a fibrous material on the shell. Recently, whole scallops have started appearing in some of the larger seafood markets in major U.S. cities.

In case you decide to get adventurous and buy some whole scallops, here's a brief guide: The roe is prepared as any other roe would be, and the beard should be cut up, sauteed briefly and simmered, covered in white wine, for half an hour or so.

In France, scallops are called Coquilles St. Jacques, and they often appear under this name on menus in the United States. The French name commemorates the pilgrims who visited the shrine of St. James of Compostella. A number of sources mention that the pilgrims ate the scallops as a penance, and afterwards fastened the cockle shells to their caps to show that they had made the religious journey. No available source explains why eating scallops was considered a penance, but doing so has to be one of the most pleasant ways to atone for past sins.

When you are buying scallops, check to see that they have a mild, sweet, fresh odor. If you are buying in bulk, be sure that all liquid has been poured off before your purchase is weighed.

Today's recipe for Coquilles St. Jacques is an original, probably closer to the Parisienne preparation than to any of the other traditional versions. It calls for a bouquet garni, which I prepare by combining a few sprigs of parsley, a bay leaf, two scallions and a couple of cloves, surrounding them with three or four celery stalks and binding the bundle together with white string.

COQUILLES ST. JACQUES

Preparation/cooking time - 30 minutes

- 2 cups dry white wine
- 1 bouquet garni (see text, above)

- 1½ lbs. fresh scallops, rinsed in cold water and drained
- ½ lb. fresh mushrooms
- 3 medium cloves garlic, chopped
- 6 tbsps. butter, plus more for dotting
- 1 tbsp. chopped parsley
- 1 tsp. fresh lemon juice
- 4 tbsps. flour
- 2 egg yolks, beaten with 4 tbsps. heavy cream
- ½ cup fresh bread crumbs
- Salt and white pepper to taste

In saucepan, bring wine, along with bouquet garni, to a boil. Add washed scallops and simmer until tender (about 10 minutes). Drain scallops, reserving broth, and cut into small pieces.

Clean and coarsely chop mushrooms. In small saucepan, melt 2 tablespoons butter and add garlic, mushrooms, parsley, lemon juice and 2 tablespoons water. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Drain and add liquid to reserved wine.

Melt 4 tablespoons butter in heavy saucepan. Whisk in 4 tablespoons flour to make a roux, and slowly add wine broth mixture, stirring, and cook until thick and smooth. Remove from heat and stir in egg yolks and cream. Add salt and white pepper to taste, and spoon into shells or ramekins. Sprinkle with bread crumbs, dot with butter and brown under broiler 3 minutes, or until bread crumbs are nicely browned.

Serves 4 as a main course or 8 as a first course.

ginger and a vinaigrette dressing made by whisking together vinegar, oil, salt, pepper, mustard, sugar and herbs, if used. Marinate chicken in dressing for 2 hours, covered, in refrigerator.

To roast peppers, place in 500 F oven, turning frequently, until skin is black and charred, about 15 minutes. Remove from oven, wrap in kitchen towel and allow to sit 15 minutes or until cool; peel away skin and wash away seeds. Cut peppers into strips.

Heat 2 tablespoons of butter in large saute pan or wok. Drain chicken on paper towels, and pat dry (or it will not brown). Pick off ginger. Saute chicken and whole garlic cloves in hot butter for 2 minutes or until cooked but still tender. Remove with slotted spoon and place in a bowl. Discard garlic. Melt remaining 1 tablespoon butter in pan and add vegetables. Saute 1 to 2 minutes, making sure snow peas and cucumbers remain crisp.

Return chicken to pan, add lemon juice, dill, salt and pepper to taste, and enough cream to make a light sauce. Heat through and serve immediately.

JIM HALLER'SCHICKEN STIR-FRY WITH RAISINS AND SAMBUCA MAYONNAISE

3 whole large chicken breasts

1 cup raisins

4 tbsps. olive oil

1/4 cup chopped scallions, both green and white portions

1/4 cup white wine

Hot Sambuca Mayonnaise:

1 cup homemade or good-quality commercial mayonnaise

1/4 cup minced scallions, green and white portions

1 egg yolk

Juice of 1 lemon

4 tbsps. Sambuca

1 tsp. olive oil

1 tsp. minced tarragon

Salt and pepper to taste

Garnish:

Chopped herbs or strips of roasted red bell peppers

Cover raisins with hot water and soak 30 minutes to soften, then drain.

Bone and skin chicken breasts, removing fat and tendons. Pound lightly to an even thickness and cut into slices or squares. Set aside.

Heat olive oil in saute pan, skillet or wok until a round of scallion will sizzle. Add chicken and scallions, and stir-fry for 30 seconds over high heat, stirring constantly. Add raisins and white wine, and continue cooking 1 minute over high heat. Scoop mixture into serving dish and set aside.

In small saucepan, combine mayonnaise sauce ingredients. Whisk until well blended and set pan over low heat to warm, stirring constantly. Do not let sauce come to a boil or it will separate; if it does, pour it slowly into blender or food processor fitted with steel blade, motor running, until it is smooth.

Stir sauce into chicken, and garnish with chopped herbs or strips of roasted red pepper.

CHICKEN WITH PRUNES AND HOT PEPPERS

Prunes, hot peppers and ground almonds are traditional ingredients in many chicken dishes from North Africa. Doubling this recipe to serve a dozen people works fine. It is a perfect buffet supper.

16 pitted prunes

1/4 cup olive oil

2 lbs. whole chicken breasts, each cut into 4 parts

2 lbs. chicken thighs

4 large onions

1 hot red chili pepper, about 4 inches long

5 tbsps. unblanched almonds, finely ground

1/4 cup strong chicken stock, heated

The night before, put prunes in a bowl and cover with boiling water

In a large heat-proof casserole brown oil until almost smoking. Brown chicken pieces in batches, setting them aside as they are finished.

Meanwhile peel onions, seed hot pepper and coarsely chop both (be sure to wash your hands with soap and water after handling any hot peppers). Also grind almonds (can be done in food processor) and have them ready.

When chicken is browned, pour off all but 1/4 cup rendered fat and add onions and hot pepper to casserole. Turn heat down and cook 15 minutes. When onions are wilted, stir in ground almonds and add chicken pieces. Drain prunes and add them; pour in hot chicken stock. Cover tightly with foil and make half a dozen holes in the top. This dish can be set aside and refrigerated for several hours at this point.

From "City Food" by Lee Bailey (Clarkson N. Potter Inc. $18.95).

Divide mixture among 4 ramekins or scallop shells. Combine bread crumbs and melted butter in small dish, tossing with fork to moisten. Divide over top of shells and sprinkle lightly with paprika.

Arrange ramekins or shells in circle on floor of oven, microwave 6 to 9 minutes, rearranging every 3 minutes, until heated through. Serves 4.

That poetic critter, the crab

By Desiree Vives

Even the lowly crab has found its way into poetry. In his "Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock," T.S. Eliot complains, "I should have been a pair of ragged claws/Scuttling across the floors of silent seas." Wow! What imagery!

I doubt that there's any better crustacean poetry than this. A "pair of ragged claws" pretty well describes the little critters, with their scuttling, sideways gait and their overgrown pincers.

If you've seen Annie Hall, you no doubt remember the famous "Lobster Scene" with Woody Allen and Diane Keaton. If the scene made you squirm (that is, if the thought of plopping a live crustacean into a vat of boiling water makes you cringe), you'll want to purchase pre-cooked crab. Believe me.

Call me a wimp but I always buy mine precooked and, luckily, almost all crab on the market is fully prepared and ready to eat. You can tell it's cooked because the shell will be reddish in color. And, of course, the crab won't be moving.

Cooked crab is eaten chilled, or may be easily reheated in the microwave. Microwave on HIGH (100 percent power), stirring occasionally, 3 to 5 minutes (depending on amount). Let stand, covered, several minutes before serving.

When using canned crab, be sure to pick over meat for small bits of shell and cartilage missed by the packer.

Dungeness crabs are found along the Pacific Coast, while king crabs hail from the icy waters of Alaska, as do snow (also called tanner or Alaskan Queen crabs).

While it may look weird, almost everyone loves the delicate flavor of crab. And it's the perfect food for springtime, when lighter fare is called for.

CRAB ONTHE HALF-SHELL

1 tbsp. butter or margarine

1 (4 oz.) can mushroom stems and pieces, drained

3 tbsps. minced onion

1 tbsp. minced parsley

1 (10 1/2 oz.) can condensed cream of celery soup, undiluted

1 (7 1/2 oz.) can crab meat, rinsed and drained

2 tbsps. lemon juice

1 tbsp. minced pimiento

1/4 cup fine dry bread crumbs

2 tbsps. melted butter or margarine

Paprika

Over Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Place butter in 1-quart glass casserole. Microwave 30-45 seconds, or until melted.

Stir in mushrooms, onion and parsley; cover and microwave 3 minutes, stirring after 1 1/2 minutes.

Blend in soup and microwave, covered, 1 minute, stirring after 30 seconds.

Pick over crab, removing any cartilage, and stir into hot mixture with lemon juice and pimiento.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. We have an older Spanish-style home built in the late '30s. The outside walls are stucco and the roof is red tile.

My problem is with the stucco walls which have developed cracks. Two years ago I had the house painted and now the paint is breaking along all of the old cracks.

Is there any way I can repair these cracks so this won't happen again when I repaint? I have been told to scrape off the loose stuff in the cracks and paint over them again. But, I am afraid, this won't be any better than the last time we painted.

Can you make any suggestions? I would like to do the job myself. — R.M.

A. The cracks should be repaired before repainting.

First, use a wire brush to remove all loose or peeling old paint or stucco. Go over the areas to be patched with concrete glue, then fill the cracks with the patching material which should be mixed with 60 pounds of patching material to one pint of concrete glue.

When this job is completed and the surface is dry, paint with a good quality masonry paint.

Q. I am planning on building some brick planters. The design calls for some of the bricks to be cut.

I read somewhere about scoring a brick on four sides with a cold chisel and hitting the waste piece with a hammer. I have practiced this several times, but the brick seems to break partly where there is no scoring.

What am I doing wrong? H.R.

A. You may not be making the scored line deep enough. But it is more likely that you are placing the brick on the ground or other hard surface when rapping it to knock off the waste piece.

You should hold the brick in your hand. Wear work gloves and hit the excess with a quick rap.

Q. How can I remedy small splits or checks that sometimes appear in old or weathered plywood panels? M.C.

A. You can give these panels a new surface by rubbing floor filler into the cracks with burlap or other coarse material, working across the grain. Then, when dry and sanded, you'll have a smooth, solid base for a new coat of paint.

Q. Please tell me the cheapest, safe way that I can preserve the wooden stairs that are on the outside of my home.

There are 28 steps that lead up to the second floor and receive a lot of traffic and wear. Pressure-treated wood was used to build them and I put two heavy coats of water sealer on them before painting. They have become weathered and are beginning to crack. Regular outside paint doesn't seem to do much good and doesn't last.

Thank you for any help you can give me.

A. Most surfaces on stairs which are in constant use will eventually wear out and need to be replaced. Indoor-outdoor carpeting would be an inexpensive choice for a covering that will wear well and protect the wooden steps.

Installation of quarry tile or ceramic tile would be a more permanent solution, but would be much more expensive.

• Keep track of your savings and your discounts earned. It is rewarding to see your progress in saving on what you are paying, while not trimming your lifestyle or desires.

Ask for discounts

Oftentimes, if you ask, you will find discounts offered by merchants to mature adults. The qualifying age might be 65, 62 or 60, or they might accept a membership card in a national senior citizens organization. Call your Area Agency on Aging to ask if there is a senior discount card and program for your area. If so, secure the card and the directory of businesses that honor the discount. Then, if you want or need a service or product, consult the directory, but also check your newspaper and compare prices of similar services or products offered other places.

Ask if there are senior citizen discounts before you do business with anyone. You will be surprised how many do. You'll probably find far more unpublicized discounts available than you ever imagined. Businesses offering senior citizen discounts include attractions, motion pictures, pharmacies, health and fitness studios, shopping centers, dentists, medical practitioners, auto service shops — the list goes on. Basic discounts are 10 percent. Many are higher.

Dine out early

Many restaurants offer lower prices for diners who patronize the restaurant before the normal rush of evening business. If your time is flexible so you can dine around 5 p.m., you should be able to enjoy some savings. Check your newspaper also for restaurant ads that offer "two dinners for the price of one" or other discounts. Make your decision based on what you want for your best lifestyle, so that the enjoyment of the meal is achieved while, at the same time, you are saving on the out-of-pocket cost.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I baby-sit for a lady next door and I only charge her $1 per hour to care for her 3-year-old daughter. I usually sit about 10 hours a week. The problem is that she never pays me all the money she owes me.

I keep strict records and she is $42 behind. I'm afraid if I stop baby-sitting I will never get my $42. Please tell me what I should do. I do enjoy the work but I want my money. — Jill, 7

Jill: Discuss everything with your parents and then you and Mom talk with your employer. First, instruct the lady that she must pay you the full amount for every hour you baby-sit for her and she can add $1 extra to pay off her debt to you. If she doesn't live up to this agreement refuse to baby-sit for her — ever again.

Dr. Wallace: I am 17 and my boyfriend is 19. My problem is that he never calls me and I only see him once or twice a month. Please tell me what I can do to make him pay more attention to me? I really care a lot for this guy. — Connie, York, Pa.

Connie: The best thing you can possibly do is tell your "boyfriend," if you ever see him again, that you want to end the relationship with him. If he couldn't care less, then you don't have a relationship to end.

If he really is concerned, then lay down some rules as to how often he sees you.

Dr. Wallace: No wonder it's so tough to be a teenager these days. Last night I was reading a newsletter from Parents Who Care that was mailed to our house and I ran across a very interesting article titled "How Times Have Changed." It listed the prime discipline problems in public schools in the 1940s and the prime discipline problems in the 1980s. I know your readers will find this most interesting.

- 1940s:
1. Talking.
 2. Chewing gum.
 3. Making noise.
 4. Running in the halls.
 5. Getting out of turn in line.
 6. Wearing improper clothing.
 7. Not putting paper in wastebaskets.

 2. Alcohol abuse.
 3. Pregnancy.
 4. Suicide.
 5. Rape.
 6. Littering.
 7. Assault.

 14. Extortion.

 16. Abortion.
 17. Venereal disease.

Debbie: Thanks for the interesting list, but lists like this one are made to impress certain segments of society and they are not considered completely valid.

I think it would be safe to say that those responsible for this list are using "shock" methods to make their point.

Dr. Wallace: My parents are very strict and old-fashioned. I have a good friend (we are 13) and he happens to be a boy. He is very nice and I enjoy talking with him at school. We have two classes together and there are times we discuss and help each other with homework.

He calls me once a week or so and we have a nice chat. There are times I would like to call him (he has told me to call) but my parents say, "No way." The reason? Good girls don't call boys. This is in the 1980s. Dr. Wallace, not the 1950s. I see nothing whatsoever wrong with a girl calling a boy. Do you? — Sylvia

Sylvia: I see no reason why a girl should not be allowed to make calls to a boy because of the weak excuse, "Good girls don't call boys."

Dr. Wallace: Our family was fortunate to see a part of the 1976 Olympic Games in Montreal and the 1984 Games in Los Angeles. I know the first Games were held in Greece, but when were they held? My dad says it was about 2,000 years ago but my teacher said the first Games were held around 1900. Somebody is way off on their dates. Help! — Tommy Tommy: According to tradition, the first Games were founded in 776 B.C. and were abolished in the year A.D. 393. After about 1,500 years, the modern Games were revived in Greece in 1896. Since then the Games have been held every four years except for 1916, 1940 and 1944, when they were suspended because of two world wars. The 1988 Olympic Games will be held in Seoul, South Korea.

TWEEN 12 & 20

Mainly for Seniors

By Leonard J. Hansen

There are two ways to have more money: produce more than you take in now, or create savings from what you are spending now.

For the retired adult, both methods are possible and productive, without altering one's lifestyle or scrimping on needs.

Ways of making more money include a re-examination of current investments and shopping for better or increased returns, taking on a part-time job, creating a business or by selling off long-unused items or other property. You can make money by re-financing yourself in any of a combination of ways.

For discussion today, we want to tackle ways of saving money — how to pay less for what you use, what you buy and where you patronize. Here are some proven ideas, many of them a way of living while saving for this writer.

At the supermarket

Mature adults spend more per capita in the grocery than other age groups, so you just might have more to save if you follow these guidelines:

• Use manufacturer's coupons. You'll find them in the food section of your local newspaper, in magazines, in the mail and even on a rack at the supermarket. Look for items and brands that you do use or for an item where you might consider another brand.

Sort the coupons by section of the store, and be ready to access them from an envelope or folder when selecting the item from the shelf. Be sure to check the price on the item, and then subtract the discount to see how the net pricing compares with other similar products you might consider.

If your supermarket offers double discounts for coupons or other incentives, consider these for the items that you know you will want and use. I, for one, save an average of 10 percent off every grocery bill by using discount and double-discount coupons.

• Shop for sale prices. Each week your newspaper will have supermarket ads. Look for sale prices on the items that you know you will want as part of your regular shopping. If it is not perishable — such as canned or frozen — buy several when the price is "right." You can save from 5 to 15 percent off your regular grocery bill.

• Plan your menus — what kind of meals you want to create — so you can buy for what you plan to use. Plan some casserole or large-dish entrees that you can cook and then cut or separate portions and freeze for future meals.

• Shop only after you have eaten a good meal. This reduces the temptation to buy impulse items.

• Shop where you can get the best prices and best sale prices on the items you want. Scan the newspaper ads and compare prices. Avoid, whenever possible, shopping at a convenience store because the prices are generally

HOLY SPIRIT YOU WHO SOLVE

All problems, who fight all roads, so that I can obtain my goals. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evils against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you ever in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Say for 3 consecutive days after which the favor requested will be granted even if it appears difficult. This prayer must be published immediately. Thank you Holy Spirit MC wjnl

Romantic prints make a comeback

By Sharon Owen Haven

Q. My house is suffering from a terminal case of the blahs. I've got traditional furniture, but it all seems a bit faded and dated.

How can I perk things up without refurbishing? — T.W.

A Changing colors, fabrics and accessories gives exciting new life to your decor without refurbishing or going broke. Repainting in a different color or using new wallpaper can give a room a lift. Even a new piece of artwork can change the focus in a room.

You might also consider using some of the new romantic cotton prints that are making such a comeback.

There seems to be a trend toward more lavish use of fabric in new creative window treatments, upholstery and layered, skirted table coverings. These fabrics come in a multitude of patterns and colors, often with coordinating wallpapers.

It is generally less expensive to reupholster good furniture than to replace it. If your sofas and chairs seem dated in style, a good upholsterer can often make some changes in styling while he's reupholstering.

Most fabric manufacturers offer a group of fabrics that can be judiciously mixed and matched to create more warmth and intimacy. Otherwise, be cautious in the patterns you choose to mix together. You wouldn't want to replace the blahs with nightmares!

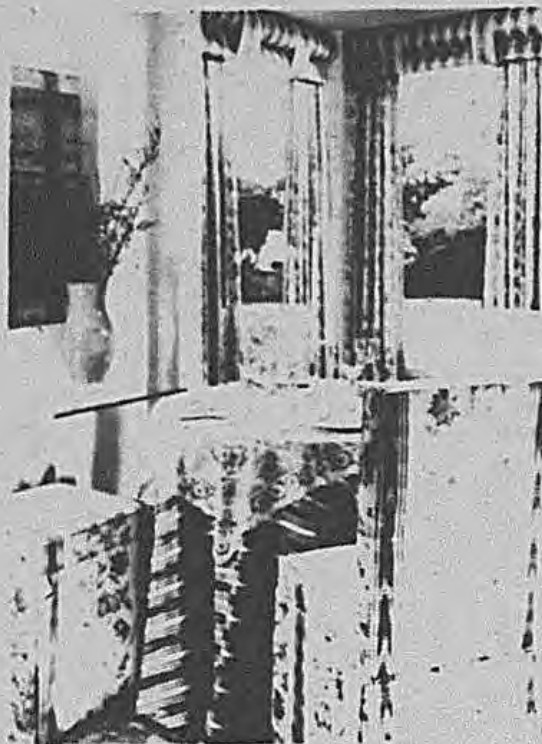

Q. Help! What can I do with an old bathroom that has pink and green tile and pink porcelain fixtures?

It has to be a cosmetic solution because we can't afford to remodel. — M.T.

A Because every color scheme is bound to come back into fashion sooner or later, you have a terrific opportunity to make a virtue out of a liability. If your bath were mustard yellow, orange and brown, you'd be in trouble, but green and pink are, once again, "in."

Why not paper the walls with one of the many new patterns that use these colors. You might also make a shower curtain or bathtub drape in a matching fabric. Suddenly your bath seems fresh and contemporary.

You can really give it sophistication by using a paper or fabric pattern that includes black. Black towels, bath mat, cabinet hardware and a couple of black art decor accessories can rocket your old bath into the heights of fashion.

ROMANCE AND WARMTH — New cotton print fabrics from John Wolf illustrate how pattern can be used judiciously to create romance and warmth.

If this is too adventurous for you, there are companies that can re-coat old porcelain (and tile too) in a new color of your choice. This process can be expensive, however, and reviews on the results are mixed. You are probably better off finding a way to love green and pink.

ANTIQU OR JUNQUE

By James G. McCollam

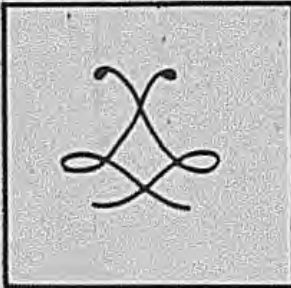

Ansonia clocks very popular with collectors

Q. Anything you can tell me about my Ansonia mantel clock will be appreciated. It is all metal and looks like pewter. It was made by Ansonia and is in excellent condition.

Q. I have a beautiful porcelain vase. It is cobalt blue with hand-painted panels of men and women in romantic poses. It is embellished with what appears to be gold leaf. The height is 14 inches. The mark on the bottom is attached. Can you tell me anything about it?

A. Your Ansonia clock was made of spelter or white metal. In some cases this was plated with brass. It is the "Knight" model and was manufactured in the 1880s. Popularity with collectors has run the price up to more than $500.

A. The mark you provided is that first used by Sevres (Royal Manufactory of Sevres, France), from 1738 to 1752. It also is the mark most commonly used by imitators.

Q. My son has developed an interest in magic and now thinks he would like to collect old items relating to magic. Is this a recognized field of collectibles and is it an expensive hobby?

If it is authentic, the value would be worth well more than $5,000. I suggest you take this to the local museum for authentication.

A. Yes this is a recognized hobby, and relatively inexpensive as the following will illustrate:

- Deland's automatic playing cards — $8
- Ball and tube — $10
- Ball and vase — $10
- Ball through brass bolt — $30
- Cigarette case (vanishing cigarettes) — $25
- Cup and ball — $75
- Nest of silver boxes — $75
- Nickels to dimes — $15
- Burning globe — $160
- Morison ball vase — $125
- Okito coin box — $40
- Quarter (heads both sides) — $3
- Multiplying billiard balls — $35
- Dancing cane — $20
- Vanishing doll — $55
- Dove pan — $55

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1 per item to James G. McCollam.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. We live near a beach and occasionally find oil-soaked birds. What is the best method for handling them?

A. Are solvents such as gasoline harmful to birds? We have not had much luck in cleaning them. Your advice will be helpful.

A. Oil soaking is a serious condition for birds, usually involving wild species.

The oil-soaked birds may be chilled, in a state of shock, and suffering from the toxic effects of the oil. Since oil reduces the insulation value of feathers, severe heat loss results if the environmental temperature is low.

Oil-soaked birds should be handled carefully, making every attempt to conserve the bird's body temperature. The bird can be placed in a cardboard box containing a soft, warm cloth or bedding on the bottom. A hot water bottle may be also placed in the box if necessary. Of course, the amount of external heat required will depend upon the time of year and geographical location.

Any wild bird found injured or oil-soaked should be delivered promptly to an appropriate public health authority or veterinary hospital. Generally, sophisticated treatment procedures are required to save these birds. Medications to combat shock and formulations to overcome starvation are usually required.

Almost all wild birds are protected by federal laws. They cannot be kept legally as pets without the authorization of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, U.S. Department of the Interior. Local conservation officers or game wardens can usually give helpful advice regarding the laws and care of wild birds and creatures commonly found in their local areas.

Organic liquid solvents such as alcohol, ether or gasoline should never be used to clean oil off birds. Although these cleaners do a thorough job of removing the oil, they are dangerous for the bird.

In an emergency, if professional help is not available, diluted liquid household detergents may be used to remove the oil. After cleaning the bird it should be rinsed thoroughly with plain water and dried with warm air. A blow dryer is helpful in drying the bird.

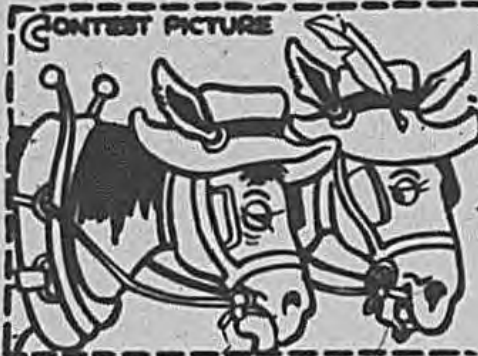

It usually takes several weeks for oil-soaked birds to recover completely. Complications from cleaning often occur. Approximately 50 percent of oil-soaked birds recover if given proper veterinary care.

Oil slicks should be promptly reported to local authorities so that the risk to wildlife and man can be minimized.

Your local veterinarian can give you additional advice regarding the handling of oil-soaked birds and injured wildlife.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

This afternoon I'm sitting here laughing to myself! I'm looking over all the coloring contest entries that have come in this week and I must say some of them are funny. This past week in the paper you were asked to sketch in ladies' mouths, eyebrows and eyes. You could make them pretty or funny--and most of them are amusing.

I'm glad I don't look like any of the pictures I have in front of me right now. I don't think you'd want to look like them either!

Your friend,

Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Eric Steininger and Caroline Steen. You'll both be hearing from me soon!
