Town Plans July Hearing

A public hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday, July 29, by the Oyster Bay Town Board to consider a request for a special use permit to use existing buildings for school bus storage and maintenance, according to Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond.

"The applicant, Jberish Associates Co., is seeking a special use permit to use existing structures located at the northeast end of Carle Street at the southeast corner of East Cherry Street and the northside of Richard Street for school bus storage, maintenance, transportation and charter business," Diamond stated.

The hearing is scheduled for 10 a.m. in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Woman Abducted In Parking Lot

The Second Squad is investigating the rape of a 22 year old woman from Westbury.

The woman was walking through the parking lot, at Mid-Island Shopping Plaza, Hicksville June 13 at about 10 a.m., to go shopping. She was passing a black van when an unknown male jumped out of the rear door and grabbed her forcing her into the van. The woman was then driven to an unknown house and repeatedly raped by the two occupants of the van.

At about 10 p.m. she was returned to the van and told she was being taken back to Mid-Island but while she was being driven back she escaped. When she fled the van, she found herself at the Farmers Market, Broadway, Bethpage. While she was being held she was beaten with a belt, and $200 was taken from her.

The woman was treated at Nassau County Medical Center, East Meadow for multiple contusions from the beating and released.

The two assailants are described as both male white, one is 18 years, 5'11" tall, with brown eyes and hair, the second is 16 years, 150 lbs., thin build.

Public Board Hearing Raises Many Questions

Special to Mid-Island Times
By Maureen Traxler

The Hicksville School Board public hearing held on June 18 served as an excellent forum for residents to discuss the much-talked-about restructuring plans for Hicksville's present elementary-junior-senior, high educational program. The audience of some 75 people that night seized this opportunity.

The makeup of the audience ran the gamut from recent graduates to senior citizens, and each in turn spoke his or her plaudits or reservations regarding the 1986-87 budget. But the single thread woven through the evening's deliberations was that of the need for reforms and cost-effective consolidation.

The May budget defeat and disapproval of the $1.99 tax increase seemed to heighten the community's awareness of these needs. Residents were generally frustrated by the district's foot dragging. Warren Shields summed it up by saying, "It's a distasteful subject which must be faced."

Noting the declining enrollments and generally low class sizes, many residents who approached the Board called for increasing class size or closing a school building and redistricting as a way to ensure a fiscally healthier system. Board President William Bennett said the Board would "act on it in the proper time." He said that no action is expected before September 1987. Mr. Bennett referred to two reports that have been completed on the subject of restructuring.

In the 1981-82 school year, the Board of Education commissioned a 2-year Long Range Planning Committee with the task of studying community development and options open to the district in planning future use of facilities. The committee completed its charge in June 1984. In November, a formal report was finalized by the assisting consultant firm headed by Lloyd Bishop.

After reviewing the findings therein, Superintendent Catherine Fenton set up a Secondary Study Committee, headed by Assistant Superintendent for Educational Services G. Robert Couillard. The committee was asked to investigate and make recommendations in two areas: consider the advantages and disadvantages of placing the ninth grade in the senior high school and study the seventh and eighth grade organization to determine ways to improve the program.

The November 1984 report may be reviewed at the Hicksville Public Library where it is on file. The report of the Secondary Study Committee was just released last week. Copies have been distributed to each public school PTA unit. Or for further information, contact Dr. Couillard's office at the Administration Building.

After the Board members unanimously approved the $40,638,229 figure to be voted on June 25, several Board members spoke.

Out-going Board Trustee Ariene Rudin strongly voiced her feelings that Board philosophy regarding budget procedures, education in general and long-range planning should be revamped. Mrs. Rudin pointed out that the costs of transportation have risen 30.3% in the three years she has served on the Board, and called for investigation into "pooling" with surrounding districts to lessen costs. Mrs. Rudin called for study in the area of skyrocketing liability rates which have been devastating to school districts throughout the state. And, in answer to the problems of lower enrollment, she stated that raising class size would "not effect giving them (the students) the best education possible."

Trustee Jay Schwartz described the transportation cost issue as "a cloud overhead", but said that he felt the district was heading in a positive direction for the 21st century.

Out-going Trustee Lawrence Wolfson was critical of the budget figure adopted because of impact on senior citizens and the fact that it cuts into the surplus which gives the district the leverage needed for his safe passage to June 1987. Mr. Wolfson said the Board must "maintain high educational standards."

The Board must have felt some relief in the final remarks by resident Tom McGovern who stated in an earlier trip to the microphone that he voted "no" on May 7. Mr. McGovern concluded by saying that he is "totally confident in the education given in our schools."

The Board held its June monthly meeting on the evening of the budget vote this week, and we will be reporting that event in our next issue.

Giese Pk Civics Meet Monday

The Giese Park Civic Association will hold its first meeting on Monday, June 30, at 7 p.m. in the community room of the Hicksville Library. The main topic of discussion is expected to be the Giese park property.

The parks Commissioner currently has drafted plans for the area and intends to forward them to the Town Board for approval. These plans, if implemented, would cost the taxpayers approximately $700,000. A spokesperson for the association stated that prior input by the residents has resulted in alterations of plans that have been previously forwarded by the Town of Oyster Bay and therefore it is urgent for all those interested in the park property and how their tax dollars are spent to be in attendance. The plans by the parks Commissioner will be available for review and discussion.

July Fourth Library Exhibits

To celebrate Miss Liberty's birthday on July 4 the Hicksville Public Library has planned its own tribute featuring a multi display of posters, books and Hicksville memorabilia.

The display on view from June 30 to July 30 includes a series of posters "Images of Liberty," a hundred years of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island. Also, the library staff has gathered together, from the library's collection, a book display on immigrants and immigration. Last, but not least, on display in the Lobby Case will be a collection of Hicksville memorabilia assembled by Richard Evers. Mr. Evers has used material from the library's Local History Collection for this exhibit.

Also featured on display will be the much admired 1976 Bicentennial Quilt prepared by library staff and members of the community. A wall quilt featuring Miss Liberty will be hanging near the circulation desk. This quilt was made by library staff members.

Editor's Notebook

The month of June, in addition to being famous for the beginning of summer, is also a time when graduations are held throughout the district, from pre-schoolers to high school seniors and then college degrees. Congratulations to each and every one on this very important new step in their lives.

Ten new inductees have been named to Hicksville High School's "Hall of Fame" and the story can be found elsewhere in this issue. It is appropriate that they will be joining in the senior high school graduation ceremonies linking the past and present.

Congratulations also to all new officers of PTAs in the district. Any questions regarding publicity will gladly be answered if you call me at the office any day from 9 to 5. I'll be more than happy to make the publicity chairperson's job a little easier for 1986-87.

In the future, this column will be devoted to keeping you apprised of happenings in Hicksville. Contributions on topics of interest to residents will be gladly accepted. VP

Story and Photos
By A. Eichenauer

Friday, June 20, Miss Guadagnis Special Education class, under the direction of Mrs. Vicki Passaro, put on one outstanding Talent Show.

These children have been in rehearsal since January. They have gone through many hours of sweat and tears not to mention the final hours of nail biting and butterflies in their stomachs.

Mrs. Passaro, who produced, directed, made costumes and choreographed the entire show, has given so much of her time and love to each of these children, and it showed. She has worked so closely with Miss Guadagni since January that she has gotten to know each child's abilities and weakness.

The things these "Special" children have accomplished this year has been remarkable.

The show opened with "Ghostbusters" featuring Ghosts-Suzanne Aversano, Mary Larsen, Amber Roslund, Susan Tournour, Tracey Van Kasten, Busters-John Calise, Chad Passaro, Sal Totino. Poem: "Unique Is"-Mary Larson. "We Built This City"-Susan Tournour. Poem: "The Music of Life"-Amber Roslund. Dr. Jerome J. Niosi has maintained his interest in academic matters even after retiring some years ago as superintendent of the Hicksville Public Schools. He recently served as a judge for a Memorial Day essay contest sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Dr. Niosi is himself a veteran and Legionnaire.

The winner of the essay contest was a young girl named Lorraine Heim and Dr. Niosi pronounced her essay "one of the finest pieces of writing I was pleased to evaluate".

"What Memorial Day Means To Me"

"I don't have any experience with wars. I know there were wars fought. There was World War I, World War II, the Korean War, and the Vietnam War, but they're just names that I've read about in history books.

"When I stop to think that men I don't even know laid down their lives for me, I find it hard to believe. Thousands of men I am told were killed in these wars. But numbers mean little to me. How can I picture this tremendous number of human beings lying dead on a battle field?

"What I can imagine is one man going off to war, leaving behind his loved ones. I can imagine one man with tears in his eyes, leaving for a train to an unknown land, wondering if he'll ever return to see his family and friends.

"This soldier didn't know me, but he never protested fighting for me. He didn't know me, but yet he gave me the greatest gift of all, freedom.

"He preserved for me the right to speak my mind, even if my opinion should be different from his. He gave me the right to worship as I please even if my religion should be different from his. He secured the blessings of liberty for me and my posterity even though he might not live to see the day his own children could enjoy these blessings.

"No, he didn't know me, but I feel as if I know him. He was young. He was brave. He was afraid. It is this one soldier that I recall on Memorial Day, and in knowing his pain and suffering, I know every single veteran."

IF A PUBLIC take over succeeds with LILCO it could be the best thing since OTB for the politicians. They will be able to make political friends into electric company officials overnight. This could account for some of the political scramble to get on the bandwagon for public power....WITH the new Income Tax law in the Senate, sales taxes may no longer be deductible on the federal return. So Nassau County's bid to keep the extra three fourths cent tax may turn out to be a bigger bite from the taxpayer than before and at a time when the county government is running at a surplus....NEXT year daylight savings time will begin on the first Sunday in April rather than the last as it is presently. TOB Denies MAACO Request

The Oyster Bay Town Board has denied a request for a special use permit to operate an auto body repair and painting business in Hicksville, according to Town Councilman Howard T. Hogan.

The applicants, Precision Mason Contracting Corp. and Phoenix Heritage, Inc. were seeking a special use permit to operate a Maaco auto body repair and auto body painting business," Hogan explained. "The property is located on the north side of West John Street approximately 950 feet west of Kuhl Avenue in Hicksville."

In denying the application, the Town Board stated that the business would generate noise and air pollution which would adversely impact on surrounding residential properties and a nearby county park facility. The Board also cited increased local traffic and detrimental effects to the on-site underground water level and a nearby catch basin where drainage would accumulate.

Hogan noted that a public hearing on the application was held on Tuesday, April 8. At that meeting, residents expressed concern about increased noise levels, odors, traffic problems and the general environmental impact on the peace and tranquility of the entire area.

James Boccio, a graduate of John F. Kennedy High School in Plainview, is among new graduates of the Ross University School of Medicine.

Dr. Boccio earned a Bachelor's degree from C.W. Post College prior to entering Ross University School of Medicine.

The new graduates bring to 900 the number of physicians graduated from Ross University School of Medicine since its founding eight years ago by Dr. Robert Ross, who also established the Ross University School of Veterinary Medicine four years ago. The full-time faculty and visiting faculty members provide for a low student-teacher ratio with close interaction with students.

Soccer All Stars Take Second Place

On June 14 and 15 the 1980 All-Star Squirt Team played in the 8th Annual Brentwood Intramural Soccer Tournament. Despite the sweltering heat the team under the direction of Joe Koloski and Steve Conk managed to play their best.

On Saturday three games were played. The Hicksville All-Stars defeated Central Islip 3-0, lost to Brentwood with a score of 1-0, and defeated Deer Park 2-0. At the conclusion of Saturday's games the team was in second place.

On Sunday the team

mounted when the team learned they had a chance to take first place. The All-Stars won their first game over Central Islip. The final game against Brentwood would determine first place. Hicksville played hard and was winning 2-1 when a penalty was called with thirty seconds remaining in the game. Brentwood managed to score on the penalty shot and the game ended in a 2-2 tie.

The 1980 All-Stars returned to Hicksville with second place plaques.

Volunteering, All In The Family

Ellen Joel Snyder received the George Groner Award as an Outstanding Volunteer at the Mid-Island YM-YWHA Annual Meeting this month. It was the first time two people in the same family have received this highest volunteer award from the Mid-Island YM & YWHA.

Joel Snyder received the award because of his extensive work in the Y's efforts to computerize membership and accounting systems. As Chairman of the Computerization Committee, he gave hands-on time, related to vendors, trained staff and made telephone calls to all types of resources.

Circus Time At Willet Ave.

By Deborah Weintraub

Willet Avenue's Kindergarten class put on one of the best performances in what was the last circus show with Mrs. Geraldine Landgarten, Willet Avenue's Kindergarten teacher of 24 years.

Hosted by Ring Masters Daniel Voss and Hillary Weintraub, a startling array of acts were seen. The tightrope walkers, including Larissa Budnich, Ryan Monahan and Tracey Bachteler showed great skill as they slowly "hovered" across the classroom floor. The magicians, David Ruderfer and Michael Verde amazed us all with their great feats of magic.

Along with lions and tigers and elephants and their respective trainers, Frankie Seier and Amanda Ayres, were clowns, a strongman, ponies and even a dancing bear. To highlight the circus was a beautiful show with Rainbow Britte, played by Jennifer Baez and her friends, Twink-Jenny Coffee and Starlight-Melissa Sarno.

It was an excellent job on the part of all the children which received high acclaim from our principal, Mr. Schwartz as well as from all the parents of the Kindergarten class.

On June 23, a Tea was held for all the children of Willet Avenue to share their feelings with Mrs. Landgarten. She received stories and pictures from all of her past and present students. Cupcakes and a huge farewell cake added to this festive occasion.

The parents of Mrs. Landgarten's class would like to take this opportunity to thank her for all the hard work she did for the circus show as well as throughout the entire year. We wish her lots of luck on her retirement.

Students Study Butterflies

Mr. Atkinson's second grade class did a special project in the study of butterflies. Jason Berowitz' composition explained the project.

The Painted Lady

We started out with caterpillars and put them into see through plastic containers. We fed them mashed leaves. They started to wiggle. They were spinning silk. They then buried themselves in the silk. The silk turned green and then brown. When it was brown it is called chrysalis. The chrysalis got so thin we could see the butterfly inside, when the chrysalis popped open instead of a butterfly, out poured something like black ink. The black ink changed into a butterfly.

The children had a butterfly launch outside on the school grounds and released all the butterflies.

Pictured is the see-through plastic container with the butterflies coming out of their chrysalis.

His daughter Eileen, now a Y staff member had received the George Groner Award eight years ago as the outstanding teen volunteer. Eileen, a social worker and tween-teen program assistant at the Y was first employed there as a Junior Counselor.

Mr. Snyder is a professor at Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn and operates a consulting firm. Joel Snyder, his wife Harriet and their three children, Eileen, Jeffrey and Sharon have been active at the Y since it opened in Plainview.

Hicksville RN Employee Of Month

Maureen Clancy, R.N.

Maureen Clancy, R.N., of Hicksville has been named Employee of the Month for June at Winthrop-University Hospital in Mineola. "Compassionate is the word most used by people to describe Mrs. Clancy," says the nomination. She gives 100% of herself to everything she does, and gives total loving care to her patients. She is always willing to lend a helping hand and is beloved by all her fellow employees. Noted for her kindness and courtesy to everyone with whom she comes in contact, Mrs. Clancy is most deserving of the honor.

Mrs. Clancy came to work at Winthrop-University Hospital in 1982. In her file is a letter of commendation from a patient who praises the excellent care she rendered. Mrs. Clancy was described as a fine example of a professional nurse.

Bethpage Grad Receives Honors

Dorothy Conway

Mrs. Virginia Wolski, President of the Woman's Club of Bethpage, announced that Dorothy Conway, a 1983 graduate of Bethpage High School, has been honored by the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs which awarded her a $1,000 scholarship. The award was given in recognition of Ms. Conway's academic achievement and involvement in many undergraduate college activities. The Federation of Women's Clubs granted scholarships to five students from the many applicants who were in competition for the awards.

Dorothy Conway is a college student at Brockport College. In the fall of 1986, she will be entering her senior year. It is interesting to note that Ms. Conway, the present winner of the scholarship from the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, was also the recipient of a scholarship given by the Woman's Club of Bethpage at the graduation exercise at Bethpage High School in June of 1983.

Hospital Offers Sibling Classes

As another community service, sponsored by the Mid-Island Hospital, a Sibling Class Educational Program has been instituted at the Health care facility, in Bethpage.

The primary emphasis of the once-a-week informal training class is to help big brother and sister, (ages 3-8), prepare for the arrival of a new born baby into their household.

Program emphasis will be placed on "how to help mother" with the baby. During the Saturday sessions, the Hospital will show educational movies and conduct basic craft programs as well as a tour of Mid-Island's Nursery.

Sibling Classes, which carry a charge of $7.50 per family, will take place 10 a.m. to 12 noon, every Saturday beginning Saturday, July 26. To register your child or children, contact Dorothea Salzberg, R.N., Staff Educator at 520-2258 for registration information and enrollment forms. Enrollment is limited to ten children each Saturday.

Grumman Plans Family Blood Bank

In keeping with their sense of community spirit and in an effort to replenish blood used during the July 4 holiday weekend, Grumman and the Long Island Blood Services have announced a "Grumman Family Day" at the Blood Center.

On Monday, July 7, Grumman dependents, their relatives, neighbors, Grumman suppliers and all those who are interested in helping their community are asked to donate blood. The drive is being held at Long Island Blood Services, 155 Duryea Road in Melville, which is south of the Long Island Expressway, east of Route 110. The hours will be from 9 a.m. to 8:45 p.m.

Included in the day's activities will be celebrities and sports stars on hand to greet the donors. There will also be prizes for everyone including free coupons for Burger King whoppers, fries and sodas. Other prizes, such as tickets for baseball games, theater, and the movies will be raffled off at the end of the day.

This year, the Grumman Corporation has set a goal of 12,000 pints of blood donated by its employees. The "Grumman Family Day" is an additional blood drive which will give family and friends the chance to pass along the "gift of life."

Gerry Sandler, the 1986 Grumman Blood Drive Chairman, is looking forward to an exciting and productive day at the Blood Center. It is hoped that all the families and friends of Grumman will support this event by donating blood.

To schedule an appointment to donate blood on Monday, July 7, "Grumman Family Day", please call 752-7326 or 682-8920. Call today and make a commitment to help save lives.

Vacation Tip: Hold Up Mail

An overflowing mailbox is, at best, a way to damage or destroy mail and, at worst, an invitation to burglars. Postmaster Nienaber warned Hicksville residents.

"Before you pack up and leave for vacation, contact us and ask us to hold your mail," Nienaber said, "or arrange with us to have your mail forwarded for a specific time, then held again while you're enroute home."

Travelers, he said, can arrange for First-Class Mail to follow them for up to 16 months, 60 days for second-class publications and 12 months for third and fourth class items. Except for fourth-class parcels, there is no charge for forwarding.

The postmaster said such arrangements can be accomplished by filling out a Change of Address Order, Form 3575, which includes beginning and ending dates. The form is available at the post office.

The alternative may be letting mail overflow from a receptacle, possibly to be damaged by vandals, animals or weather conditions, or to be a clear signal that no one is at home.

Students Win Consumer Awards

Students in Mr. Ziell's fifth grade class at the Old Country Road School are congratulated by Nassau Consumer Affairs Commissioner James E. Picken on winning a first place award in the countywide Consumer Youth Contest, sponsored by his office.

At a ceremony held at Hofstra University on June 5, Nassau Consumer Affairs Commissioner James E. Picken presented awards and congratulations to the winners of the countywide Consumer Youth Contest, sponsored by his office.

Picken said, "we challenge youngsters to do a project that demonstrates their consumer knowledge in an original way. The winning entries were so creative, colorful and well-researched that you have to be proud of these young people."

Students in Mr. Ziell's fifth grade at the Old Country Road School, Hicksville, won first place in the intermediate level for their videotape on clothing, prices past and present.

Kelly O'Callaghan, a 4H club member, won first place for a price comparison of Easter bunnies. Meredith Mezeul, Erin O'Callaghan and Kathy Rombach of the 4H Rainbow Connection won second place for a price comparison of drugs and toiletries.

Jump-A-Thon Fundraisers

Congratulations to the following Fork Lane students who raised the most money as a team for the American Heart Association during the Jump-A-Thon: George Fuchs, Craig Robey, Eric Blicker, Chris Kemmlin, Rob Beck, and Matthew Gold. Top single money raiser was Kerry Burns. In total, the 12 teams that participated raised $2823.61. Top team will receive nylon jackets with Heart Association logo, while top single money raiser will receive a warmup suit. Thanks to all participating boys and girls for helping this worthy cause.

Many Activities For Special Ed.

The Burns Avenue staff has released this report of the many activities that take place during the school year for Special Education Classes:

You would have been proud at the Covered Dish Spectacular prepared and presented by the parents, children and staff of our Special Education Department. With financial backing from Dr. Burke, special dishes and desserts were made by parents, teachers and aides and a series of three programs were developed by the staff. The children rehearsed and then presented the program on the evening of June 18. It was a memorable production and a night to remember.

Mrs. Rosof's class had been learning about the human body in health lessons with Mrs. Cooley, our S.N.T. and performed in their skit "My Wonderful Body Machine." They demonstrated their newly gained knowledge with music by Mrs. Scheck, our Vocal Music Teacher, and costumes by our Art Teacher, Mrs. Bernzer. They truly deserved the applause and appreciation they received.

Miss Ricker's class wrote their own commercials utilizing their creativity and public speaking skills. Laughter and applause followed their successful presentation.

Mrs. Cohn's class provided us with a Latin lesson demonstrating their knowledge of the Latin language and the history related to the language. We were all impressed with what the youngsters in this class have learned.

The parents, teachers, aides, school nurse, music teacher and art teacher and, of course, the children worked together like a family, with our own Mr. Greenberg, head of PPS, in attendance to give his moral support and to show his appreciation of his students. Only a family pulling together could have created such an outstanding evening. We wish especially to thank our aides and parents for all the delicious food and most importantly, for their continued support.

Callers Support Doctors, Think They Are Qualified

Most callers to Input believe that doctors, in general, do have a high standard of competency and therefore they believe no new tests are needed. A smaller group thinks that some competency evaluation is needed. Here are some of the answers:

MALPRACTICE REPORTS

I believe that this question may be tied to news reports of high numbers of malpractice suits being launched against doctors. But it is unfair to believe that the suits given high publicity mean that many doctors are not doing their jobs right. As everyone can see some cases are won by lawyers who work feverishly to win while doctors are not trained to be lawyers and fall into many of the traps. There are, to be sure, some doctors who are poor in that they have fallen behind in keeping up with new developments or are handicapped by some neurotic problem. But the public usually can spot them long before a routine test given at intervals could do so. J.T.

TESTS GOOD IDEA

It is a good idea to have a test, say 15 years after a doctor is certified, and perhaps more often for those doctors who are caught up with a number of malpractice suits or who lose a malpractice suit that is overwhelmingly contrary to good medicine. In general the government is very lax on regulating many other health related professions where the practitioners do not have very much training to begin with and until these practitioners are thoroughly retested they should not spend a great deal of time re-testing medical doctors. K.R.

UNDERMINING DOCTORS

There has been a general spirit of trying to undermine the importance of doctors in recent years. This in itself will not serve the public well because we need doctors who are proud of their profession and who have the highest morale. Some people believe that monetary consideration is enough but doctors still do best when they know the public believes they are doing a good job. In some malpractice suits the doctor is in trouble for having attempted something that other doctors who are more frightened by law suits would not try. But the patient is fully aware of the risk. Then after being aware and taking the chance a complaint is made simply because the procedure did not work a miracle. Patients, juries and legal people have to be aware that tying doctors' hands with legal red tape will not result in better medicine but simply in a cautious ineffective medical profession. K.E.

REGULAR EVALUATION

Physicians are the only profession that are evaluated either annually or bi-annually to maintain their hospital privileges. The emphasis should be on those who are practicing medicine without a license. Let's give the Medical Society more power to police the medical profession. V.G.

NOT NEEDED

I don't think doctors should take competency tests to maintain their license. Before becoming a doctor you must attend a four year certified college or university, attend a qualified medical school and specialize 3 to 7 years after medical school in a qualified residency program. Also M.D.s are required by the Medical Society to maintain credits in continuing medical education courses. Medical doctors are the most competent and most qualified of any profession. Let's not allow a few unqualified doctors or a malpractice issue to cloud our judgement and response. A.G.

REGULAR REPORTS

Although most medical doctors provide adequate or superior care for their patients there are some who are incompetent. Some illnesses, unfortunately, are doctor-induced. To help protect us all from such practitioners, I feel that tests to check competency should be given on a regular basis. In the meantime doctors should report about any of their colleagues who may be making serious mistakes. Some errors still may be made but at least they will be kept to a minimum. C.P.

TESTS NEEDED

In view of the ever increasing medical malpractice suits taking place it would seem that too many doctors are not maintaining their original proficiency in their profession. Since, like an airline pilot, any slipshod performances can easily cost lives - so like a pilot, doctors should undergo periodic proficiency checks. In my opinion any doctor who takes pride in his profession should not object, nor should he be afraid of, any competency check. The public would certainly have a lot more respect for the medical profession. C.K.

SOME METHOD NEEDED

I find it difficult to define competency as it applies to this question. Presumably, every medical doctor continues to keep abreast of new developments during the years of practice following receipt of his or her degree. Obviously, it is not enough merely to analyze blood and urine specimens and to examine major organs of the body but it is the symptoms which are revealed by such tests and examinations which demand research and investigation to find the latest technology to formulate an educated opinion or to effect a cure. I like to feel an assurance that my doctor keeps abreast of professional progress and is not still relying upon the exact criteria he followed when I first became his patient or commenced annual examinations. In this respect, there should be some method by which every doctor can be judged in maintaining his awareness of medical progress without having to submit to a formal test. An interview with a medical expert or team of experts after a specific period of actual practice or at regular intervals should reveal the degree to which he has kept up current and this would apply particularly in the case of a specialist. Lacking such evidence, a binding recommendation should be made to demand the fulfillment of a catch-up effort with evidence to back it up. Certification of such evidence should appear on public view in the doctor's office and on his printed credentials. An engineer or a lawyer needs no such special requirement as the demands on their current competence are constantly under automatic examination by their employers, clients or courts of law. P.G.S.

DISCOVERY

The Ivory Tower Award

By Robert Rickon

The term "Ivory Tower" originated as a put down for those in high places whose words and deeds are out of 'sync' with the real world. So many people in leadership positions have lost track of their constituency that it is difficult to select one executive or governing agency that has been most unrealistic. Although there are no shortages of nominees, I must enthusiastically endorse the New York State Education Department and their Board of Regents.

The Regents Action Plan was a far-reaching model to improve the quality of education in the Empire State. The proposals were field tested most thoroughly with in-depth meetings held in every region within the State. The participants in these sessions were representative of every segment of the educational community. Educators and their negotiating units, board members, students and parents were given detailed questionnaires in order to get a broad based perception of the sweeping proposals. In addition, oral presentations were encouraged and one would have to admit it was a democratic process.

When the results were tallied, professional educators were supportive of many of the proposals. There was great concern about the non-college bound youngster since the major thrust was to increase mathematics, science and the foreign language requirements. This issue has still not been addressed to the satisfaction of most school administrators.

The area in which there was almost total disagreement was the dictate that every eighth grade program in the State must include five ninth grade subjects, to encourage advancement. The response from the State was to fully acknowledge the disagreement but to order us to implement it anyway. For those of us who love middle school youngsters and understand their need structure, we have been put into a position of being forced to do potential harm to our children. One has to wonder if people...non-doctors on the Board of a hospital, would mandate a particular brand of surgery. With total disregard for the educational community, the Board of Regents have taken just such an action.

The results of this advancement mandate will be that many incoming ninth graders will commence their high school experience with 5 Carnegie units of credit toward graduation. With 18½ credits required to graduate, a child who is unmotivated or going through the traumas of adolescence, need only pass 13 credits in grades 9 through 12. That's an average of a little more than 3 courses per year. How enriching!

For the majority of us who argued against this mandate, there were a variety of compelling reasons. The mandate strikes down everything the middle schools of the United States have been created to accomplish. It makes a sham out of every State approval for the districts which are converting to a Middle School structure. This is the most rapidly growing level of instruction. Colleges and Universities are presently planning courses of study for middle level educators because they recognize the unique needs of adolescents must be met by teachers with a different training emphasis.

In 1967 there were 1100 Middle Schools in the United States. The number went to 4,000 in 1977 and as of 1980 there were 12,226. These schools were dedicated to meet the needs of pre-adolescence and not to push them into the academic-social milieu of the high school. Flexible schedules, exploratory courses taught in a team environment have literally been destroyed.

As a college counselor, most of my students who were academically able and yet failing were those who were sixteen year old freshmen. I'd be interested in learning how the non-educators on the Board of Regents would counsel -

...the 16 year old freshman who couldn't study because her roommate was constantly in bed with a boy friend,
...or the young frosh who got lost in the college drug and alcohol scene,

...and yes, even the 16 year old young man who got credit for many college level courses in high school and found himself intimidated by 19 and 20 year olds in his sophomore level courses.

A few years ago the term senioritis was coined. Imagine how the Regents have enhanced the malady. Now almost every senior who took advanced courses in 8th grade could if they wish, take English, Social Studies and Physical Education in their senior year. What a temptation to the young adolescent!

Certainly some very mature youngsters might benefit, but the truth is that these highly motivated people could do it without rushing the 8th grade. In Nassau County, most high school students graduate with twenty or more credits - so what's the rush? At the present time, high schools on Long Island all offer college level courses. Most districts allow students to take advanced placement courses in Biology, Physics, Mathematics, Foreign Language, Accounting, Social Studies and Computer Programming. The eighth grade mandates mean the students may now begin these subjects as early as 10th grade. We have, in fact, seriously undermined the purpose of the high school as well as the Middle School. Eighth grade student schedules are being redesigned throughout the State for a purpose that few principals and superintendents support!

We are mandated to implement a program that many feel could eventually hurt our children. The Regents have said we will implement the entire plan and then they'll evaluate each element. That's like a parent forcing a child to eat the entire apple...worm and all.

Without prior notice to anyone the Board of Regents just changed the acceleration requirement from five to four subjects. This was done after all of the principals had planned for the five subjects and completed their orientation of students, teachers and parents. Everyone in education appeared foolish and uninformed.

For their arrogance...rigidity...short sightedness, and potentially destructive dictates, I recommend the New York State Board of Regents receive the Ivory Tower Award.

AUTHENTIC PORTUGUESE

For authentic Portuguese food we heartily recommend Ladeira's Restaurant located on East Jericho Turnpike in Mineola. Last week they opened their expanded new dining room and we enjoyed the native background music.

We have patronized this delightful restaurant for some time and have always declared that it was the next best thing to a trip to Portugal.

Our two favorite dishes are the Paelha Marinheira, which consists of a bountiful platter of shellfish, mixed in a bed of saffron rice and the Mariscada, also a shellfish platter, served in a delicate tomato sauce laced with wine. White rice is served with this. For dessert, Caffe espresso with Pudin Flan or a Chocolate Mousse make for a meal fit for the gods.

I am sure you will concur this is fantastic good, fresh and delightfully prepared and reasonably priced.

READER RATINGS

Q. I thought it was standard fare to get at least two vegetables with an entree but last week at the (name omitted) restaurant we were charged extra for vegetables. Is this right?

A. A number of restaurants have changed to charging extra for vegetables, particularly fresh ones, but the safest way is to look at the menu and ask the waiter. Sometimes there are extra vegetables and they are the ones that are given an added charge. But there are some restaurants that charge for every item individual.

A. In a restaurant we often frequent they do everything right except one thing. A waiter always comes over with the special of the day but never tells us the price. Now we do not quibble about a few pennies but often these specials are much higher priced than the other regular items. Don't you think the restaurant should tell us the price when making the suggestion?

A. We think you are right and we have checked several restaurants and they say that they either have a blackboard, a menu insert or the waiter is told to give the prices. Unfortunately since you only gave the initials we have no way of knowing which restaurant you are referring to or we would contact them. You may show this column to the manager and perhaps he will change his system.

Q. What do you do if you enter a restaurant and some friends at another table tell the waiter to see what you are drinking because they want to buy you a drink and you do not drink? E.R.

A. There is no set answer to your questions. You obviously have some generous friends who do not know your habits. The best thing to do would be to inform the waiter that you do not drink but you might make a gesture with a water glass towards your friends table as a toast.

READER RATINGS

Q. Who is served first at table and when is the proper time to begin eating? F.P.G.

A. The hostess is not served first unless she is the only lady at the table or is alone with her husband and children. If Grandmother or even a young girl guest is present the dishes are first presented to her after inspection by the hostess. When the hostess is serving from in front of her place, with or without the aid of a servant, she is served next to last and her husband last. For her to serve herself earlier will mean her face will be cold and her filled plate in the way.

After several people have been served, urged by the hostess, guests begin eating so their food will not be cold. And, except at breakfast, the polite husband waits until his wife has been served before beginning to eat.

Q. Is it considered bad manners to take anything to drink to your lips while there is still food in your mouth? B.C.J.

A. Yes, because this may leave particles of food in the beverage or leave an unattractive smear on the glass. Your mouth should be empty before you take anything to drink. Certainly you should avoid the effect of "washing down" food that is already in your mouth. It is amazing how many people are guilty of this breach of etiquette.

Q. Recently I was a guest at a club luncheon in a restaurant. Accidentally, I overturned my tomato juice. What was the right thing to do? The waiter didn't see the accident immediately. T.L.

A. A waiter seeing such an accident would immediately change the cloth or if that was impossible at a long table, would spread a clean napkin over the spilled food. As the waiter did not do this because he was busy elsewhere, at a large luncheon you could have spread a napkin over the spot yourself, without undue discussion of the incident. Everyone occasionally has things like this happen.

HISTORICAL AND GOOD

Last week we went to the Milleridge Inn in Jericho. This large restaurant is like a trip into another world. It has the historical approach to hospitality with the hostesses garbed in American continental dresses. The buildings are all wonderfully restored, Revolutionary era buildings. The floors are wonderfully shined and add to the special feeling of going to the Milleridge Inn.

The food is exceptionally well prepared and the menu is a large one. Our party of four found it to be a wonderful time and we recommend it to everyone. H.F.

Q. Recently I had an embarrassing moment in a restaurant. I accidentally tipped over a water glass spilling the contents all over the tablecloth! What is the best way of coping with a painful situation of this type?

WONDERFUL CUISINE
Koenig's restaurant is one that defies time. It has been around for a long time but every time we go there we are well satisfied with the wonderful continental cuisine.
Koenig's is a place of good decor and it is a very comfortable restaurant. The establishment caters to large parties but if you come there with just two people, as we did, you are made welcome. The menu includes beef, chicken and veal and there is a large assortment of fish dishes. The prime ribs we chose were great and we think Koenig's in Floral Park is No. 1. Y.T.

MOST ATTRACTIVE
Last week we went to Remsen's Restaurant in Greenvale. This restaurant is located at the Wheatley Plaza Shopping Center. It is truly one of the most attractive restaurants we have ever been in. It is designed in a turn of the century style with all of the modern embellishments to make it a comfortable relaxing place to go.
The food is very good at Remsen's. The menu ranges from sandwiches to a full meal. We had a wonderful beef dinner and found it to be exceptional.
The service was good and attentive. We had no delays between courses and everything was done in good style. We highly recommend this restaurant to your readers. H.G.

Calcium lowers chances of bone disease

By Jack Williams

The information, once spare as a skeleton, has turned into a healthy body of knowledge. Calcium is preventive medicine.

In the 1960s, and on into the 70s, the loss of bone mass leading to the disease osteoporosis was considered inevitable — a normal part of aging.

Now, with adequate calcium in our diets and attention to other environmental factors, we know the debilitating disease that often results in compression of the spine and broken bones can be prevented.

"There are things that should be and can be done about it," said Dr. Charles H. Chesnut, professor of medicine and radiology at the University of Washington, where his research has focused on osteoporosis.

Chesnut points out that calcium is our first line of defense. And calcium in the diet is the most efficient and easily absorbed source.

"If you increase calcium intake, you decrease bone resorption (deterioration)," he said. This translates into a decrease in bone loss over a period of time.

The usual daily intake of calcium in the United States — 450-500 milligrams — falls well below the Recommended Dietary Allowance of 800 milligrams, which is designed to meet the needs of approximately 95 percent of the population.

Metabolic studies, moreover, indicate a daily requirement of about 1,000 milligrams for premenopausal and estrogen-treated women. Postmenopausal women who are not treated with estrogen require about 1,500 milligrams daily for calcium balance.

Why aren't women — the primary victims of osteoporosis — getting enough calcium?

"Concern about weight is one reason," said Chesnut. "Individuals on diets tend to cut their consumption of milk and dairy products first. They don't have to; they certainly can consume low-fat and non-fat dairy products if they are concerned about fat."

Another reason, he said, may be gastrointestinal problems preventing them from efficiently digesting lactose-containing products such as milk.

"Smaller amounts of milk, say two or three ounces, consumed several times a day, will frequently alleviate some of the gastrointestinal problems that occur," said Chesnut. "Preparations such as Lact-Aid can be purchased from a drugstore and added to milk to make it easier to digest. Cultured dairy products, such as cheese and yogurt, can also be tolerated because they contain little or no lactose."

An eight-ounce cup of milk contains about 300 milligrams of calcium. So do eight ounces of tofu, two cups of cottage cheese, one cup of yogurt or 1½ ounces of cheddar cheese. Non-dairy sources of dietary calcium that would equal the 300-milligram dose include broccoli (two cups), collard or turnip greens (1 cup), kale or mustard greens (1½ cups), oysters (1½ cups), salmon with edible bones (4 ounces) and sardines with edible bones (2½ ounces).

However, according to the University of Texas Health Science Center in Dallas, calcium from vegetable sources is not as easily absorbed by the small intestine and is not as effective in fulfilling calcium requirements.

Absorption also is restricted among those indulging in excessive alcohol, which blocks both calcium absorption and new bone formation. Alcohol and other environmental factors such as smoking, excessive coffee intake (12-16 cups per day) and excessive protein contribute to osteoporosis, said Chesnut.

"We are not entirely sure how smoking contributes to bone loss," he said. "Presumably it may increase the loss of estrogens in the urine so that one is somewhat estrogen deficient."

The problem of osteoporosis is most acute in postmenopausal women, said Chesnut, because their bodies no longer are producing the hormone estrogen which prevents bone deterioration. This, he said, is the No. 1 risk factor in osteoporosis.

The second risk factor? Calcium deficiency.

"Individuals who are estrogen deficient," said Chesnut, "apparently do not absorb as much calcium as others. So it appears that there are many factors contributing to calcium deficiency."

"Normal individuals at age 65 absorb 40 percent of the calcium in their diet. Individuals with fractures of the spine or the hip, osteoporotic individuals, absorb about 20 percent."

"A third factor that probably contributes to osteoporosis is the quantity of bone mass at skeletal maturity." This, he said, suggests the possibility that building bone mass through sound nutrition between the ages of 12 and 25 can act as a preventive measure.

"Can we build a bigger skeleton at that particular time by increasing calcium intake so that we have a larger skeleton at menopause, and consequently prevent osteoporosis? We don't know, but our laboratory is particularly interested in this."

Osteoporosis — which has been known to cause height reductions of as much as 9 inches — is said to affect 15 million Caucasian females in the United States. One-quarter of all Caucasian females over 60 experience some symptoms of the disease.

"It appears that blacks have more bone mass at any specific age and in both sexes than do Caucasians," said Chesnut. "We rarely see osteoporosis in blacks because they simply have more bone."

When too little calcium is consumed in the diet, the body draws it from calcium reserves. Over a period of time, the bones become weaker with each calcium withdrawal and eventually become porous. The result: osteoporosis.

It is eight times more common in women than men because:

- Women are generally smaller than men and have less bone mass.

- Women are much more likely to follow weight-reducing diets, restricting their calcium and caloric intakes.

- Women tend to be less physically active than men, performing less bone-strengthening exercise.

- Women's ability to absorb dietary calcium decreases during menopause, and their calcium needs rise dramatically during pregnancy and lactation.

"Decreased bone density," said Chesnut, "also has been found in menstruating white female athletes. It may be calcium deficiency that exists in many of these athletes, who frequently diet to keep their weight down."

"New studies suggest that their calcium deficiency may be even a greater risk factor for bone loss than the estrogen loss they have from amenorrhea."

In the American food supply, dairy foods give us over 72 percent of available calcium. The rest of our calcium comes from the other food groups. Higher-calorie, whole milk products are not the only source of calcium; lower-calorie, low-fat dairy foods are also an excellent source of calcium.

Here are some easy, calcium-rich dishes for breakfast, lunch and dinner that the whole family can enjoy and feel great about.

PINEAPPLE-MINT GELATO

- 1 pineapple, cored, peeled, chopped
- ½ cup chopped mint leaves

BANANA GELATO

- 2 bananas, chopped
- 2 tbsps. EACH orange and lemon zest (strips of fruit skin exterior)
- 2 cups milk
- 1¼ cups sugar

Process banana and other ingredients in blender or food processor. Freeze overnight. Process again, then refreeze in a bowl for easy scooping.

Makes 8 servings.

microwave magicYou're never too old for peanut butter

By Desiree Vivea

If you think peanut butter is just for kids, think again. Author Kurt Vonnegut adores peanut butter and pickles on rye, and actor Charleton Heston is fond of the gooey spread slathered on Ritz crackers.

Even famed gourmet chef Julia Child admits to a craving for corn chips dipped in peanut butter.

Many of those who loved this all-American treat as children find their passion for peanut butter growing even stronger as adults. Could this be true of anyone you know? A friend, a spouse or even you, yourself?

Take heart. You're not alone. Grown-ups with a peanut butter "habit" are encouraged to write immediately for an absolutely free Peanut Butter Lover's Survival Kit. Kit includes official membership certificate, subscription to newsletter, refrigerator magnet, bumper sticker and button proclaiming "ADULT PEANUT BUTTER LOVER."

rave results (just ask any Reese's Pieces fan!). Use your microwave to turn out a quick batch of Star Bars or Easiest Ever Candy, and set your family's peanut butter lovers loose.

Peanut Butter Brownies are equally delectable - but none of these goodies is what you could call "low calorie," so watch yourself (if you can). Whether you prefer smooth or crunchy, or even if you're not too wild for the stuff on its own, you'll find the following peanut butter treats hard to resist.

STAR BARS

- 1 (6 oz.) package semisweet chocolate chips
- 1/2 cup chunky peanut butter
- 4 cups commercial granola with nuts
- 1/4 cup shredded coconut (optional)

Preparation Time: 5-10 minutes

Cooking Time: 2-3 minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Place chocolate chips in 2-quart glass bowl. Microwave, uncovered, 2 to 3 minutes, or until melted. Stir in peanut butter; blend until smooth.

Fold in granola and coconut (if desired). Lightly butter an 8-inch square baking dish. Turn mixture into prepared dish and spread evenly with spatula.

Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate 1 to 2 hours, to set. Cut into small squares. (Store uneaten bars in refrigerator.)

Makes 25 squares.

EASIEST EVER CANDY

- 1 (12 oz.) package chocolate chips
- 1/2 cup chunky peanut butter
- 5 heaping cups cornflakes

Preparation Time: 10 minutes

Cooking Time: 2-3 minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

In large, deep glass mixing bowl combine chocolate chips and peanut butter. Microwave 2 to 3 minutes, rotating dish 1/4-turn halfway through cooking time. Stir and blend until smooth.

Add cornflakes and blend thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonsful onto wax paper and allow to set.

Makes 4 to 6 dozen, depending on size.

PEANUT BUTTER BROWNIES

- 2 ozs. (2 squares) unsweetened baking chocolate
- 1/4 cup plus 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup peanut butter (smooth or chunky)
- 1 cup light brown sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 tsp. vanilla
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 cup chopped peanuts

Preparation Time: 10-15 minutes

Cooking Time: 7-11 minutes

Oven Setting: MEDIUM (50 percent power); HIGH (100 percent power)

In 1 1/2 to 2-qt. glass bowl, combine chocolate and butter or margarine. Microwave at MEDIUM setting 2 to 3 minutes, or until melted. Stir to blend.

Stir in brown sugar, allow to cool. Beat in eggs and vanilla, then add flour and baking powder, blending well. Fold in nuts.

Turn mixture into lightly buttered 8-inch square glass baking dish. Adjust oven setting to HIGH. Microwave, uncovered, 5 to 8 minutes, rotating dish every 2 minutes, until toothpick inserted near center comes out clean.

Let cool, then cut in squares. Makes 16 large or 25 small brownies.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. I am in the process of having a new house built, and would like to know if there is anything that I can put on the ceramic tile and grout (if silicon grout is not used). In the shower and bathroom stalls, I would like to keep the grout from cracking, staining or mildewing.

Can you suggest something such as a sealer for this purpose? — J.D.M.

A. Using a sealer over tile can create more problems than solutions. A sealer may make the sealed surface more slippery, which would be a safety hazard. A number of tile manufacturers will no longer guarantee their product if the tile has been sealed. This includes American Olean and Summitville Tile.

If a sealer is to be used, check with the local supplier of the tile and obtain a recommendation from the tile distributor for what materials have worked successfully with their products. The best solution is still using a neutral base soap for regular maintenance with ceramic tile surfaces, and this includes walking surfaces.

Q. I have been contemplating putting a blacktop coating over our cement driveway. I like the rural look it will give, plus the fact that it will hide car drippings that have accumulated over the past few years.

I've never heard of anyone doing this, and friends I've mentioned this to have insinuated that I am not playing with a full deck. What, if any, problems would I encounter?

I just assume the blacktop coating will adhere to cement. I understand it will periodically need resurfacing to maintain a fresh look, but I can live with that, if I can accomplish my end results. — E.S.

A. Yes, blacktop can be applied over concrete. I suggest that you consult a local contractor in asphalt paving and resurfacing for details on how the new surface would be applied and a cost estimate. This type of contractor will be listed in the Yellow Pages under paving. It is best to get more than one estimate, plus references from previous customers.

Q. I have a carved oak entry door which is periodically exposed to direct sun and indirect rain. I bought it unfinished and sealed it with exterior Watco Danish Oil Finish. Now, parts of the lower routed details have developed black penetrating stains, specks and streaks where moisture apparently collected.

What are these discolorations, how can they be removed and what exterior treatment or finish will offer the best protections and lowest maintenance for a door in this location? — S.L.

A. The wood needs more protection from exterior elements than the Watco finish provides. Before you apply a new finish, the stains must be removed.

First try this method of cleaning:

Use a fine grade of steel wool with a good floor cleaner or mineral spirits to clean each spot and the surrounding area. If that doesn't work, sand with fine sandpaper, feathering out a few inches into the surrounding area.

Natural finishes can give satisfactory service, provided a suitable finish is selected and properly maintained. But natural finishes in general are much less durable than good quality house paint and must be renewed much more frequently. Most will need to be re-pewed once a year, more frequently on areas exposed to sun, wind and rain.

It is very important to make a thorough evaluation of someone who suffers memory impairment. A complete evaluation includes the gathering of a detailed medical history, a mental status evaluation and a physical examination which may include blood tests, lumbar puncture (spinal tap), an EEG (electroencephalogram) and a CAT scan. Further testing may be necessary in selected cases.

It is the fact that some senior citizens contract Alzheimer's disease; it is the more important fact that 90 to 95 percent do not. It is not an assumption of the aging process and its symptoms can actually be caused by other, correctable conditions.

Century City Hospital is one of several institutions with a specialty in geriatric medicine, including Alzheimer's disease. Information may be requested from the Center for Geriatric Health, Century City Hospital, 2070 Century Park East, Los Angeles, CA 90067.

There is not yet a cure for Alzheimer's disease, but research is progressing rapidly. Professor Marott Sinex of Boston University's School of Medicine says that with the use of new technology, "we now have a dynamic anatomy of the disease. We can visualize its progression, which we couldn't do before." Given the variety of recent advances, Sinex says "it's simply a lot less traumatic to have Alzheimer's now that it was 10 or 15 years ago."

The symptoms are not the disease. For older adults who experience the symptoms it is best to get that important medical checkup in the soonest time possible. The odds are in your favor.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm told that I have a good singing voice by my relatives who have encouraged me to perform at school so I can gain some experience.

I don't mind singing at church or at home but I don't like the idea of singing in front of my peers. Teens can be very cruel and I don't know if it would be worth the shame if I mess up.

What advice do you have for a scaredy-cat like me? — Joan

Joan: I agree that teens can be cruel at times, but the vast majority of the time they are fair, honest and appreciative. High schools have excellent vocal musical programs. The teacher will assist you in overcoming your concern about singing in front of your peers.

Please don't allow this hang-up to hinder your enjoyment of singing.

Dr. Wallace: I am a faithful reader of your column but never dreamed I would be writing to you.

I remember reading a column you wrote regarding epilepsy. At the time I was curious because I had a fellow schoolmate who had the illness and several times I observed her having a seizure.

As fate would deem it, my young brother suffers from this disorder. I would be grateful if you would reprint the article. It would be a great help to our family. — Norma

Norma: More than 2 million citizens of the United States and Canada have epilepsy. Yet, so much public ignorance surrounds this disorder that its victims often suffer from senseless cruelty.

Medical science has learned enough about the disease that, with proper care, 80 percent of those who have it can lead normal lives.

But according to one expert, "The host of psychological and social problems — misunderstanding by family and friends, inability to get a job — that epilepsy can carry with it can be more difficult to handle than the seizure problem itself."

Epilepsy is usually the result of a brain injury occurring during pregnancy or delivery or from serious childhood infections. Alcoholism, lead poisoning and blows to the head from sports also have been linked to its development.

It doesn't take much to spark epilepsy. If as few as seven of the 120 billion nerve cells in the brain malfunction at the same time, a seizure can result.

While there is no known cure for epilepsy, 20 different drugs can be used to prevent or lessen the severity of seizures so that half of all patients enjoy total seizure control. Another 30 percent are vastly improved.

If someone near you has a seizure, keep calm. The person is seldom in pain or danger. You can't stop a seizure, so don't try to hold down or restrain the individual.

It's a good idea to loosen clothing and clear any hard objects out of the way. Don't force any object between the person's teeth to prevent him from biting his tongue. Such biting is rarely severe, and the danger of injury from objects a "helper" tries to insert in the mouth is much greater. (It's a myth that you can swallow your tongue during an epileptic seizure.)

You don't need to call for medical aid unless a seizure lasts more than 10 minutes.

Dr. Wallace: I am 16 and have a 12-year-old sister. We live with my mom and her boyfriend. Both of them work together from noon to 8 p.m. I have a boyfriend and we like to go out on Saturday night, but when we do I must take my sister with me. I don't think this is fair because I stay with my sister every night until my mother gets home.

I love my sister but I also love a little freedom. My boyfriend is a real doll. He never complains but I know he is not too happy with this arrangement. Am I asking too much? — Karen

Karen: You deserve to see your boyfriend without the company of your younger sister. If your mother doesn't want the responsibility of caring for her younger daughter once in awhile then she should pay for a baby-sitter.

Dr. Wallace: My parents put me on restriction for two weeks because of my poor grades. Restriction means no television, no telephone calls, no company and no going out after school and on the weekends. Well, my friends had a surprise birthday party for my best friend and, of course, I was invited.

When they finally consented to let me go, they informed me that I would be placed on another week of restriction. I don't think the penalty was fair. After all, the party only lasted six hours and for that luxury I was "jailed" for 168 hours. I would honestly like to know what you think about this? — Peggy Peggy: You had a choice and you chose to attend the party. The penalty is a bit severe but you were aware of it beforehand, so you have no legitimate gripe.

Mainly for Seniors

By Leonard J. Hansen

Whenever a disease is identified and the symptoms are known, many people — from alarmists to opportunists, from some practitioners to politicians — assume effective proportions much larger than the fact. Hypochondriacs rush to see if they might have the malady. There are speeches made and the television nightly news tells of what could be an epidemic.

Take, for example, senility. Senility became an assumption in most of this country, that it was part of aging and therefore "everyone would get it."

Or, nursing homes. We have heard so much about it that national surveys of younger people show that they "know" that all or most all senior citizens are in or will end up in nursing homes.

We know now that senility is not an assumption of aging. We know that senility does not affect most senior citizens. We know that the assumption of senility was based on wrong diagnoses by doctors: who themselves operated under the same misperception. We know these facts now because the research is available now to debunk those who spread the untruths earlier.

We know that nursing homes are never the residence of 95 percent of those over 65 years of age. Fewer than 5 percent of senior citizens are in nursing homes or will ever reside there.

But it is a fact that a very small percentage of senior citizens can be considered "senile." The condition is, in most cases, reversible, but there is a small amount of fact in it. And, it is a fact that a very small percentage of senior citizens do need nursing home care, and for them it is a reality.

Let's now tackle the fact or fiction of Alzheimer's disease. You have heard a lot about it, as if it were epidemic in this nation. As if it, too, were an awful assumption of aging. The thought can conjure up fears of the disease or in discovering that you might have it.

The early symptoms are of forgetfulness and then depression — and so many persons will assume that either of these conditions in an older adult is a sure sign of Alzheimer's disease. We have interviewed a number of senior citizens who thought themselves forgetful and would not go to the doctor for any reason. They were afraid the doctor would diagnose them as having Alzheimer's. So, these people missed early treatment for other medical needs and when finally forced to medical attention, found their other conditions worsened but that they did not have the dreaded Alzheimer's disease. Only 5 to 10 percent of the population over the age of 65 has any chronic dementia of any type, including Alzheimer's disease.

Quality Or Quantity?
 When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.
 When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.
 With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.
 Our (not so secret) ingredient
 Readers = Results is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the major throwaways.

Subtle dividers define spaces

By Sharon Owen Haven

Q: My husband and I just bought a condominium that is quite small with one main open space that must serve as living room and dining room. It is open to the kitchen at one end and the front floor leads directly into the main space. We are used to more formal living and entertaining. I don't like the idea of dinner guests looking into the kitchen. I'd be tempted to add some walls but the space just isn't big enough. Do you have suggestions? — V.M.

A: Much of modern housing is designed around the concept of a main core public space which incorporates several traditionally separate rooms. This reflects both a new consumer preference for a more open, casual lifestyle and the economic realities of having to cram more living into less space without it appearing as such.

Adjusting to such floor plans can take some ingenuity if you are accustomed to the formality of a more traditional home. My suggestion is that you explore some new ways of defining living areas that do not chop up your main living space with claustrophobic barriers.

The room pictured is chock full of good solutions to this problem. The designer has retained the visual spaciousness and unity of the core room by using the same color scheme and materials throughout. But note how he has created an entry where there was none with a subtle, see-through display divider in front of the door. The delicate Oriental screen that provides focus to the dining area is actually a set of bi-fold doors that close off the kitchen space from view when entertaining. When open, the kitchen shares the light and views of the larger room.

Artful solutions such as these can provide you with maximum flexibility and the best of both worlds — the bright open vistas of shared spaces and the formality and privacy of separate ones.

Q: I have a beautiful light-weight, handmade area rug that I am reluctant to put on the floor, so it sits in the closet. Do you have some other ideas about how I can use it in my decor? — T.N.

SEPARATION SOLUTION — See-through dividers and low-profile partitions can often separate living areas in small-space, open-plan homes without seeming claustrophobic. — Photo by Kim Brun

A: Fragile, handwoven rugs, though lovely, often lead to a short, brutish life underfoot, so you are wise to look for alternative ways of displaying it.

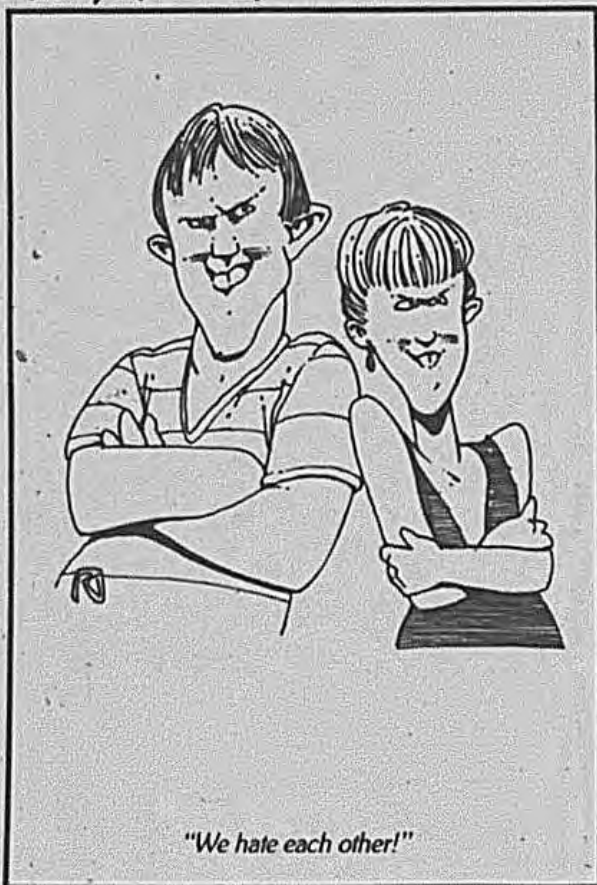

The most obvious solution is to hang it on a wall, either flat as a painting or artfully bunched and draped for a more sculptured, three-dimensional look.

Other quick ideas: drape it over a sofa as a colorful throw, use it to top a table with a protective layer of glass over it or put it on the floor under a glass coffee table where it can be admired without being trod upon.

Hutch's name derived from French 'huche'

Q. Enclosed is a picture of my antique cupboard which has been in the family for over four generations. I would appreciate any information you can provide regarding its age and value.

A. This type of cabinet is properly called a hutch. The term is derived from the French huche, the name given to a cabinet for storing food. Technically, a cupboard is to store cups and other dishes, also pots and pans.

Your hutch was made in the fourth quarter of the 19th century and would sell for $500 to $600.

Q. You recently told me that my small Madonna with the same mark that is used on Hummel figurines was made by Goebel, but was not a Hummel. Can you explain and give some prices on other Goebel items?

A. Goebel Co. (Rodental, West Germany), makes Hummels and also other items. All Hummels are signed "M.I. Hummel." Otherwise, Goebel items have the same trade marks as Hummels. Here are some Goebel prices:

- Baby in crib — $45.
- Baby robin — $25.
- Blue titmouse — $20.
- Colonial girl with dog — $30.
- Goldfinch — $25.
- Figaro — $95.
- Flamenco woman dancer — $150.
- Madonna with child — $95.
- Nude — $45.
- Pinocchio — $325.
- Rabbits — $15.
- Swan — $15.

Q. I have a hand-painted porcelain 10-inch plate with the attached mark on the back. The picture is a farmer, cows and dog. Can you tell me who made it, when and where? I also would like to know its value.

A. This plate was made in Potschappel, Germany, between 1870 and 1890. It would probably sell for from $65 to $75. The initials, "C.T.," stand for Carl Thieme.

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1 per item to James G. McCollam.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. Our children recently found a box turtle on a hike through the woods and would like to keep it for a pet.

A. Do box turtles from the wild survive in town? What should we feed the turtle? Do turtles hibernate? Also, how can we tell if it is male or female?

A. Box turtles demand very little in terms of care and are relatively easy to maintain as pets.

Box turtles are land animals and like a habitat that includes earth or sand, rocks, logs, vegetation such as grass, and some shallow water. They need and enjoy an occasional bath. If properly cared for, they may be kept inside.

They thrive on a variety of fruits, vegetables, earthworms, lean hamburger and chopped hardboiled eggs.

Turtles like to bask in the sun. However, shade or materials that they can burrow under should also be provided.

During the cold months of the year, box turtles go into a state of suspended animation. Before going into this form of hibernation, the turtle should be well fed. A well-fed turtle feels heavy — a sign that he has a good store of fat.

Turtles usually like to bury themselves under leaves or grass while hibernating, so these materials must be available.

Male turtles usually have a slightly indented or scooped-out area on the underside of their shells.

Box turtles may live to very old ages — it is not uncommon to hear of turtles in excess of 20 years of age.

If you decide to keep the turtle, he should be eating well within a week. If not, you should return him to his natural habitat.

Generally, wild animals of any form are better in their natural habitat. Additional information regarding box turtles can be obtained from your veterinarian or local library.

Q. We live in an area where there are a lot of skunks and have heard that the best way to get rid of skunk odor on a dog is to use tomato juice. Is this really true? Do you bathe the dog in the juice?

A. The use of tomato juice to help deodorize dogs exposed to skunks is widely advocated.

Wearing rubber gloves, you should first thoroughly bathe the dog with warm water and a mild non-irritating soap. Towel-dry the dog, then soak in tomato juice with a little diluted lemon juice. The whole process may have to be repeated several times.

Being sprayed by a skunk is a serious matter. If the dog's eyes were sprayed during the encounter, a veterinarian should be consulted. The eyes should be flushed and an appropriate eye ointment applied.

An additional danger with skunks is the spread of rabies — skunks are the reservoir for rabies in many areas. Therefore, it is extremely important to keep your animals vaccinated against rabies.

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

By this time you and I have read many things about the 100th year anniversary of the Statue of Liberty. Many people are going into the city on July 4, although personally I prefer to watch the celebration on TV. I have a relative whose law office overlooks the Battery, so he will be perched on the 30th floor looking at history being made!

Be sure and write to me and let me know how you celebrated this most unusual Fourth of July.

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's color contest winners are: Alex Badlak and Scott Clifford.

FLAT EGG CARTONS ARE USEFUL FOR MANY THINGS LIKE SORTING FISHING TACKLE AND STORING SMALL CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS. BIG CARDBOARD FLATS ARE ESPECIALLY GOOD FOR STARTING PLANTS SINCE THEY ARE BIODEGRADABLE AND CAN BE CUT APART SO PLANTS CAN BE SET OUT WITHOUT HAVING TO BARE THEIR ROOTS. THE PLANTS GROW WHILE THE CARDBOARD CUPS DISINTEGRATE INTO THE SOIL.
