Giese Park Civics Meet On Monday

The Giese Park Civic Association will meet August 4 at 7 p.m. in the community room of the Hicksville Library. The main topic will be an update on the Giese Park issue.

At the last meeting of the association on June 30, plans for proposed development of the property by the Town of Oyster Bay were presented to the residents. These plans included two soccer fields, an off street parking facility, a children's play area and underground plumbing for a future restroom building. These plans were unanimously denounced by the residents who stated that the plans represented a sports complex rather than a park and that such a facility was not appropriate for a residential neighborhood in close proximity to private homes. Alternatives to these plans were discussed, which included a more passive park, the return of the property to the tax rolls for the building of homes and the development of senior citizen housing. All of these ideas were acceptable to the residents, whose utmost concern is maintaining the residential atmosphere of the neighborhood. A town attorney has been requested to attend the meeting to answer questions concerning the issue. Also at the meeting, plans will be discussed for residents to go to Town Hall to express their views to all members of the Town Board.

A spokesperson for the association has stated that the town's plans for the property is estimated to cost the taxpayers approximately $700,000 and could very well be more. The spokesperson also stated that the quality of life of the neighborhood is at stake and urges all interested persons to attend.

McDonald's Hearing Rescheduled For Aug. 26

The Oyster Bay Town Board has rescheduled a public hearing for August 26, on an application for a special use permit in Hicksville, according to Town Councilman John Venditto.

Venditto said, "the applicants, McDonald's Corporation and Paumanock Development Corporation, are requesting a special use permit to erect a restaurant with a drive-thru window in an 'H' industrial district."

The property is located on the east side of Broadway (Route 107), south of Louis (First Street) in Hicksville.

"Prior to the original July 8 hearing date," Venditto explained, "the attorney for the applicant requested an adjournment. The Town Board was able to add the hearing to the calendar of August 26, 1986."

The hearing has been scheduled for 10 a.m., in the Town Hall East hearing room, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Blood Transfusion Service At Hosp.

The Mid-Island Hospital Transfusion Service has been granted renewal of accreditation by the American Association of Blood Banks (AABB), according to James J. Dickson, Administrator of the 223 bed health care facility.

Accreditation occurred after an intensive on-site inspection by specially trained representatives of the Association. They established that the level of medical, technical and administrative performance within the facility met or exceeded the rigorous standards set by the AABB.

By successfully meeting the requirements for Certification, the Mid-Island Hospital's Transfusion Service joined more than 2,200 similar facilities across the United States and abroad that have earned the Accreditation rating and recognition.

Mr. Dickson said: "The AABB's inspection and accreditation procedures are voluntary. It is not legally necessary for a blood bank or transfusion service to be accredited, but like many others, our facility has always sought accreditation because it represents a level of professional and medical expertise that meets and exceeds government regulations. The primary goal of the program is to assist facilities like ours to achieve excellence, and thus provide higher quality blood, blood components and other services to patients."

Dr. Manuel Blgvera, Director of the Hospital's Transfusion Services said, "the standards for blood banks and transfusion services are written by a distinguished panel of experts in the field, composing the AABB Committee on Standards. The AABB National Committee on Inspection and Accreditation assures compliance before granting accreditation."

Founded in 1947, the AABB is the only national organization in the United States devoted exclusively to blood banking and blood transfusion services. Its membership of scientists, physicians, nurses, medical technologists and administrators is engaged in all aspects of the field. Other programs and services offered by the AABB included the national clearinghouse, a mechanism allowing donors to replace blood for friends or relatives living anywhere in the country; the rare donor file; frozen blood depots; continuing education programs, reference laboratories for information exchange and consultation; a voluntary hepatitis detection/testing program; public professional information services and professional publications.

Hicksville Bd. Appoints Willet Avenue Principal

Special to Mid-Island Times
By Maureen Trazler

In a short mid-summer session held Wednesday, July 30, the Hicksville Board of Education approved the appointment of Michael Dunn as Principal of Willet Avenue School. Mr. Dunn replaces Jack Schwartz who served one year as the school's administrator following the death of John Maher.

The Board was asked to accept the salary recommendation in Superintendent Catherine Fenton's contract. By a vote of 6 to 1, Dr. Fenton received approval for an 8% adjustment, raising her annual salary to $81,000.

President William Bennett focused on the Board's five-year goals formulated in 1985. The Board set specific achievement aims in the areas of mathematics and language arts, guidance services on the secondary level, tracking student mastery of basic skills and developing an improvement plan for the secondary program.

Under the secondary program plan, the Board has targeted the implementation of the Regents Action Plan and the improvement of the academic climate in the high school. Mr. Bennett noted that recent correspondence from a Hicksville resident pointed out that of the some 400 students in the class of 1986, only 26 youngsters, 6 1/2%, received a Regents diploma. Mr. Bennett said the district will be looking into the fact that such a low number of students are going into study for Regents diplomas.

The Board unanimously adopted Policy JGDA - Suspension of Handicapped Students. Because of their specific handicapping condition, certain identified students may be unable to meet behavioral standards. The policy states: "If it is determined that there is no direct link between the student's misconduct and his/her handicap, the student will be subject to the (behavioral standard) provisions of Policy JGD."

The Board received correspondence concerning low Kindergarten enrollment in one elementary school. Mr. Bennett referred the matter to Supt. Fenton and explained that enrollment is examined at the end of August and, at that time, determinations are made as to the number of classes warranted for each grade on the elementary level. The summer often brings additional residents to the district, and final figures are not available until that time.

Other actions by the Board included:
•Approval of a 9th grade social studies textbook, "Exploring World Cultures", Ginn & Co., 1986. Administration also recommended for approval the textbook "Health", Scott, Foresman - 1987, for use in Grades 11-12.

•Setting the annual fee for the district's independent auditors (Danziger, Newborn, Popkin, Tumpowsky & Co.) at $12,000. In the last seven years, the annual contract fee has doubled, reflecting the addition of a program audit to the regular financial audit as required each year.

•Award of bids totaling $394,920.45 for various basic services (fuel oil, sanitation, oil burner, uniform rental), as well as reconditioning of athletic equipment, sheet music, piano tuning and science supplies and equipment.

•Approval of recommendations on educational and civil service personnel matters including four resignations and eight teacher appointments.

The Board will hold a special meeting on Wednesday, August 13, in addition to its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, August 27. All meetings are held at 8:15 p.m. in the Conference Room of the Administration Building.

Truck Stopped With Haz. Chemicals

On July 24 at 6 p.m. the Highway Patrol stopped a tractor trailer eastbound on the L.I. Expressway, east of exit 40 Jericho. The tractor trailer is owned by the Captree Chemical Corp., 445 Winding Road, Old Bethpage. Upon inspection of the trailer it was found to contain a 55 gal. drum of Hydrogen Peroxide leaking.

Emergency Service Bureau personnel, Hazardous Material Unit, were called to the scene and closed the expressway down e/b east of exit 40. The expressway was reopened about 25 mins. later after the vehicle was removed to a safe location. About one gallon of Hydrogen Peroxide had leaked and three to four gallons of other chemicals were found to have leaked from what is believed to be from overfilled drums and a heat build up in the trailer. The combination of chemicals when combined could cause an extremely unstable situation. Two members of the ESB Haz Mat Unit entered the trailer with protective suits to aerate the trailer and check the other drums. The Jericho FD was at the scene if a wash down was needed as the interior of the trailer was inspected.

The operator John P. Rado of Huntington Station was issued 10 summonses under the New York State Transportation Laws.

Vets Answer To 'Why Two Monuments?'

On occasions, kids would ask me: What was Korea? What was Vietnam? This is why we need two monuments in Hicksville for these two conflicts -- so children can ask questions and be proud of men who fought for our country. Their fathers could be one of these veterans and does not talk about his particular war.

What I am trying to say is let's remember the men who made the supreme sacrifice in defense of their flag and country.

If you wish to make a donation, you can send it to Hicksville Veterans Monument Fund, P. O. Box 412, Hicksville, NY, 11802.

Did you have a relative in Korea or Vietnam? Let's be proud of them and honor them with a lasting tribute for their effort. Any questions, you can call chairman Conrad Steers at 822-5938.

Plainview Zone Change Hearing

The Oyster Bay Town Board has scheduled a public hearing for Tuesday, August 26, on an application for a change of zone in Plainview, according to Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark.

"The applicants, Seymour Friedman, Barry Myers and Barry Elgort, are seeking a change of zone from 'D' residence to 'R-O' residence-office district to enable the premises to be used as a dental office specializing in the practice of endodontics," Clark explained. "The property is located at the northeast corner of Manor Street and Old Country Road."

Stamp Machines Added In P.O.

Connie McAllister of Hickville is one of the first postal customers to use Hickville Post Office's new automated stamp vending equipment. Stamps are available 24 hours a day in the lobby of the main post office at 185 West John Street.

"Three new vending machines have been added to our 24-hour automated lobby," says Roger Niennaber, Hicksville Division General Manager/Postmaster.

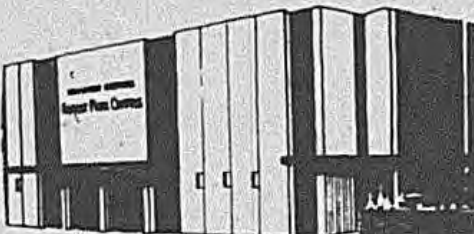

The machines are a new stamp coil vender and a new stamp booklet machine. A new dollar bill machine has also been installed.

Stamps are sold for face value in these machines. Included are stamped envelopes, aerograms, international and domestic post cards, international air mail stamps and the Love stamp. Stamps valued at 22¢, 1¢, 14¢, 17¢ and $1.00 are available in the machines to help customers perform a variety of postal transactions anytime, day or night.

"Any customer needing assistance can use the 24-hour phone located in the lobby. Our Hicksville lobby is one of the busiest on Long Island and we are glad to be able to offer additional services to our customers," said Mr. Niennaber.

EAT YOURSELF SLIM

Easy diet changes lower fat intake

By Shirley Bright Boody
Registered Dietitian

Dear Shirley: Can you give me some quick, easy ways to lower the fat in our diet?

My husband has been told to lower his cholesterol and I need to lose weight, so if we eat a low-fat diet won't that help both of us?

I work every day and I don't have time to read long books, but if you could put some tips in your column, we would really appreciate it. Thank you. — Jean and Jerry.

Dear Jean and Jerry: You're right, a low-fat diet will help you both. You can make these easy changes that will lower both cholesterol and fat considerably.

Use non-stick spray coating for all pans instead of oils or fat. Buy only lean meats. Remove any visible fat from all meats and poultry.

Use low-fat yogurt instead of sour cream. Use fettuccine instead of egg noodles. Use soft "diet" margarine instead of butter and then reduce quantities. Use "low-cal" salad dressings.

Skim off fat from all stews, casseroles, soups, chili and gravies. Use skim or low-fat dairy products and limit egg yolks to three or four per week, including cooking.

There are some great, new low-fat recipes books out now and you don't have to read the whole book, just pick out what pleases you.

Better Homes and Gardens has a good one titled "Low Fat Cooking." It's inexpensive and has many recipes.

Dear Shirley: I have seen some recent ads for some kind of pollen that is supposed to be a unique food for people. They said it's the best source of energy.

What I want to know is, should I buy some of this stuff? I am very low on energy, but it seemed quite expensive so I don't want to waste my money if it won't help me. I am a 72-year-old man. — H.R.W.

Dear H.R.W.: Pollen of any kind has no unique nutritional qualities that work to supply more energy. There are many inexpensive vitamin/mineral supplements at your local food or drugstore that will work for you. Use your money for good food and not gimmicks. There is a lot of questionable activity going on in the promotion of pollen and it is under federal investigation.

Dear Shirley: Is there any truth to the idea that taking magnesium supplements will lower a person's blood pressure? I have also heard that calcium helps.

Could you give me some information about this? Is it still important to lower the salt intake?

I have high blood pressure and I am very interested in getting it under control. — Mr. H.M.

Dear Mr. H.M. In a recent double blind-study, magnesium supplements did not affect a drop in blood pressure. Calcium, however, has been shown to help in certain cases.

A low-salt diet is usually recommended, plus weight reduction if one is overweight.

Medications are available to help lower blood pressure and you should see your doctor for the individual help you need.

Editor's Notebook

Recently we requested that the Hicksville School Board reschedule their once a month general meeting to a night other than Wednesday in order that we could report the facts to our readers on a more timely basis. This request was turned down. So, if the mountain won't come to Mohammed, Mohammed will go to the mountain! This week we literally "stopped the presses" until the report came in so it could be included in this week's edition. Special thanks to reporter Maureen Traxler for her service beyond the call of duty since she most certainly burnt the midnight oil writing this one down! Hope our readers appreciate this extra effort we put forth in our continuing effort to be the best newspaper your money can buy in Hicksville.

WHAT WAS going to be the Suffolk county takeover of LILCO probably won't get off the ground because the bonds won't be tax exempt and therefore won't sell. ## TOB Will Amend 'Family' Definition

The Oyster Bay Town Board has set an August 26 hearing date to amend the Code of Ordinances as it relates to the definition of "Family" according to Town Councilman Howard T. Hogan.

Hogan said, "the previous definition of family stated that a family is: any two (2) persons not related by blood, marriage, or legal adoption, living and cooking on the premises together as a single, non-profit housekeeping unit, both of whom are six-two (62) years of age or over, and residing on the premises. All other family units had to be related by blood, marriage or legal adoption."

In 1985, after several years of litigation, the Court of Appeals of the State of New York found that the Town's existing definition of family was unconstitutional since it discriminated on the basis of the traditional family definition and further on the allowance for elderly persons to share their home with an unrelated senior adult. The court decision left the method by which a Town could limit the number of unrelated persons residing together to its local municipalities.

"The Town, following a review of the various definitions used by other Towns, has patterned the new definition in conformance with the New York Court of Appeals recent decision and the leading United States Supreme Court decision," said Hogan. The new definition states that a "Family" is: any number of person, not exceeding two (2), not related by blood, marriage or adoption, and any ward of either unrelated person living and cooking together as a single housekeeping unit."

The hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday, August 26, beginning at 10 a.m. in the hearing room of Town Hall-East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

In Service

Navy Seaman Michael J. Wesolko, son of Patricia M. Wesolko of 57 Friendly Road, Hicksville, recently participated in the International Naval Review in New York Harbor July 4 as part of the Statue of Liberty Centennial Celebration.

During the celebration, twenty-one ships from 14 countries joined 11 U.S. Navy ships in the review, with this being only the fifth such gathering of military vessels in U.S. history.

The ships sailed into New York Harbor on the morning of July 3 and paraded on the Hudson River before anchoring throughout the harbor and river. Review began on the morning of July 4 when the battleship USS Iowa exchanged honors with the visiting ships.

Wesolko is currently stationed aboard the oiler USS Platte, homeported in Norfolk, VA.

A 1983 graduate of Hicksville High School, he joined the Navy in November 1984.

Thomas J. Tighe III, son of Thomas J. and Mary Tighe of 39 Ball Park Lane, Hicksville, has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of master sergeant.

A 1985 graduate of Hicksville High School, he joined the Marine Corps in June 1986.

One Sure Way To Get Results!

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.

Our Children

Should boys do housework?

Q. Don't you think a healthy, active 14-year-old boy should help with the chores around the house? I can't imagine you saying "no," but if you did my husband would probably jump up and down with joy because you would be on his side.

We have three daughters and this big lug of a son, and my husband feels it is all women's work around the house. He comes home after work, settles down with his TV and beer and would like nothing better than to have our son join him. (He hasn't brought up the beer question yet, but I know that will come in time.)

In the meantime, all the girls and I are setting dinner and setting the table while both males are glued to the television.

I'm fed up and I sure need your support.

A. You have it, and I hope it does you some good. I wonder where he has been during recent years when so many women are sharing both the work world and the home activities with men. From diapering and feeding the baby (men), to driving a truck and entering medical and law schools (women), changes have taken place that lead to shared responsibilities. They would begin early (certainly before a boy is 14), but since it can't be any earlier than it now is, this seems to be the time to list home activities and work out "ownership" of them. You, your son, all three girls — and their father — ought to be involved. If he refuses, you might try it out with your four children.

You haven't mentioned how your daughters feel that things have been going at home, but I imagine they also would like more fair sharing of the home responsibilities.

Your son may actually enjoy participating, and if he is made aware that he has been left out (especially if you and the other children have more conversation and fun by involvement in the chores), he may offer to help. If he does, just accept the offer graciously without an "I've won" comment or smile.

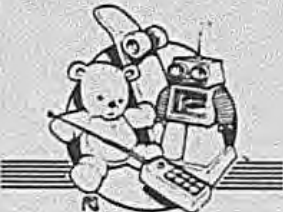

Your situation reminds me of the so-called "Grandma's Law" which states that if you do this, I'll do that — or if you do these household chores I will reward you in some practical, sincere way with a "thank you," a compliment, or some other indication of how much I appreciate your involvement.

Q. A recent stage that our 11-year-old daughter has entered is driving me up the wall. She and a girlfriend of hers are inseparable, and when they are together all they seem to do is giggle and whisper. Because they are so silly, secretive and immature, I wonder whether you can suggest some ways I can help them get through this phase in their lives.

You might try having a closed door between you and them, and perhaps turn up the TV a bit louder in the room where you are. It won't "cure" them, but it might help preserve your sanity.

Q. My husband and I grew up with pets, but because we both work we didn't think it was fair to have one. However, now we have a young child, a boy almost 2 years old, and somehow we would like to have a pet for him (and for us too, of course). What we are concerned about is how well he will handle the animal. It will probably be a puppy. Do you have any suggestions as to how we can help him develop some empathy for this planned family addition?

Your handling of an attitude toward the puppy will provide a model for your little boy. Gentleness, a light touch, a display of warmth, all combined with the kind of firmness needed, often demonstrate for children that they are the way to treat a pet. If you (1) select a dog of the type that is protective and can adapt to occasional childish pranks and short attention spans and (2) monitor the relationship as much as possible, especially during the first weeks and months, you can probably look forward to an enjoyable experience for your son and both of you.

NOTICE

HAVE YOU A HIDDEN TALENT that has yet to be discovered in print?

We are looking for articles, not exceeding 3,000 words, on local topics, opinions, ideas, nice places to visit on Long Island, and even fiction. In our magazine section, we will try to "Discover" one new feature length article and writer per week. Each writer will be reimbursed a stipend of $25.00.

If you want to be published and be part of an issue of Discovery, you may submit your article to: Litmor Publications, 81 East Barclay Street, Hicksville, NY, 11801.

Q. I just received my first Supplemental Security Income check. However, the amount seems quite small. Are you paid benefits from the first day of the month or from the day you apply for benefits? I didn't apply until almost the end of the month. — R.B.

A. Your first SSI check may be prorated. This means you will be paid only for the days of the month that you were actually eligible for SSI. You will not be paid for any days before the date we found you eligible for SSI. (Usually this is the date you applied for SSI.)

Q. My husband was injured while at work. He has filed a workers' compensation claim. It appears that he will not be able to work again for a very long time. Can he also file for Social Security disability? — N.F.

A. Yes. However, the Social Security disability check must be reduced if the total combined payments to you and your family are more than 80 percent of your average current earnings before becoming disabled. All earnings covered by Social Security, including amounts above the maximum taxable by Social Security, may be considered when figuring average earnings. For more information, contact your nearest Social Security office.

Q. Is it possible to pay into Social Security without working to get the necessary quarters of coverage? I have been told I need eight more quarters of coverage. — E.M.

A. No. In order to receive Social Security payments you need credit for a certain amount of work under Social Security. You can earn Social Security credits if you work in covered employment as an employee or if you work for yourself.

In 1986 you earn one quarter of coverage for each $440 of your covered annual earnings up to a total of four quarters for the year. No more than four quarters of coverage can be earned for any one year. If you work for yourself, you earn one quarter of coverage for each $440 of your covered self-employment income, up to a maximum of four quarters for the year.

Contact your local Social Security office for additional information.

Q. What is the earliest age at which I can retire, and how does early retirement affect my Social Security benefit? — M.W.

A. You can retire and get Social Security as early as age 62, but your retirement check will be reduced permanently. The amount of the reduction depends on the number of months you get checks before you reach 65.

If you start your checks early, you'll probably receive the same total sum in benefits over the years, but in smaller amounts to take account of the longer period of time you'll get them.

Q. I will be 65 later this year. I am in good health and plan to continue working. Will my continued work after 65 increase my Social Security benefit? E.K.

A. Your additional earnings may result in higher benefits. Social Security will automatically refigure your benefit after the additional earnings are credited to your record. In addition there is a special credit which adds 3 percent to your benefit for each year (¼ of 1 percent for each month) after 65 that you do not get benefits because of work.

Q. I am receiving payments as a wife of a disabled person and as a mother of a 15-year-old child. If this child is in school, when do payments from Social Security stop for her and myself? My husband at age 65 was put on regular Social Security but we continue to receive payments. E.S.

A. If a worker is receiving retirement of disability benefits, monthly benefits can be made to an unmarried child under 18 (or under 19 if a full-time high school student). As a wife, if you are under age 62, your benefits will cease when the child reaches age 16. Contact your local Social Security office for additional information.

Q. My neighbor recently received a letter saying his disability would be reviewed. I thought Social Security had stopped re-examining people who get disability benefits. Please explain? D.B.

A. There had been a moratorium on the review of disability cases, however as of January 1986, we have resumed the disability review. The reviews serve two purposes: first, to make sure those who are truly disabled receive all payments they are entitled to; second, to assure taxpayers that the money they pay into the disability trust fund goes to those who meet all requirements for benefits.

Q. My husband and I both receive SSI. Because of marital difficulties, we plan to separate for a while. Will this affect our SSI? D.W.

A. Yes. A change in your marital status could affect the amount of payments due you and your husband. You should notify Social Security if you separate. Any Social Security office can give you information about how this could affect your payments.

Trinity Lutheran Bible School

Trinity Lutheran had their first session of Bible School from July 7-18. The children had a great time singing, making projects and learning about Jesus.

The highlight of the two weeks was balloon day. Every child was given a balloon with a picture they had colored. On the count of three, everyone let their balloons go as they said "Praise the Lord". It really was beautiful.

On July 18, the closing program was held. Every class made a kite to decorate the church. Each class also sang a song. A slide presentation of the two weeks was also shown. The parents enjoyed the evening very much.

The next session of Vacation Bible School began on July 28. A very special thanks to Nancy Gossow and Mildred Drab, the first session coordinators.

We haven't seen many bored soldiers, though. We're used to seeing young men and women earn vocational/technical school money by learning about high-tech tanks or truck engines or radio communications. And by getting into rock-hard physical shape.

As soldiers, they can earn up to $25,200 for their vo/tech education, if they qualify. They save $1,200 from their first full 12 months' paychecks. The government chips in $9,600, and the Army, $14,400. On top of all that, they also receive a good salary, food, lodging, and medical coverage.

You could be one of them. Ask your local Army Recruiter about the GI Bill Plus the Army College Fund. And how it can turn saving money for your education into a matter of interest.

Callers Mixed In Sanctions By U.S. Against S. Africa

Callers to Input were mixed in their opinions on sanctions for South Africa in answer to this question: "Do you think that the United States should declare sanctions against South Africa at this time?" Here are some of the answers:

SIMPLIFIED ANSWER

Sanctions seem to be the simplified answer to a very complex problem. The fact is that bringing down the government of South Africa is, in itself, not going to solve any problem. It will probably bring about new problems. It is not possible to shift into a complete open society from one that has been repressive. So, simply imposing a block of sanctions will not do anything to solve the problem. It might bring complete chaos. If some of the countries and people calling for sanctions were also working on a long-range transition plan, then the whole thing would make sense. L.R.

PRINCIPLES

Yes. We must impose sanctions on South Africa to prove that America believes in freedom for everyone. We cannot go on dealing with a country that produces its products through slave conditions. We have to be ready to accept the consequences of standing up for a principle and we must pass sanctions right away. K.N.

MAGIC FORMULA

People who are calling for sanctions and freedom for South Africa know that the country would fall apart if the whites just moved out. The blacks would be totally unable to keep the industry going and it would be another example of what has happened all over Africa. The countries are not much better off than when they had foreign rule. The South African government is moving to solve the problem and they know better than we that it is a problem that cannot be solved overnight with some magic formula. G.R.

APPLY SANCTIONS

We are too worried about our own gains from dealing with South Africa to do the right thing. We can get along without trade from South Africa. They may not be able to get along without us, so we could be an important force in bringing about change to that troubled land. We should apply the most sanctions possible. M.E.

ANTI-HUMAN

The United States should definitely place sanctions against South Africa. It is terrible that our dealings with such an anti-human government only furthers the hatred of racism and apartheid. President Reagan should wake up, stop talking about freedom fighters and start taking action to help those black people in South Africa who are fighting for their freedom against an oppressive government. B.G.

NO SANCTIONS

I don't think, under any circumstances, that we should have sanctions against South Africa. There is no Berlin-type wall around South Africa. I don't see a mad exodus. I believe there are people actively trying to get into South Africa from Zimbabwe who are considered illegal aliens who are being sent back to their own countries. I think there are far more atrocities committed by many, many other nations and, although I sympathize with the black population and I'm dead against apartheid, I just feel that this is not one of the greatest tragedies that we have in our time. Maybe we should disenchant ourselves from the focal point that mass hysteria is giving to the country of South Africa.

POLITICAL HYPOCRISY

The groundswell for sanctions against South Africa is so politically and hypocritically inspired that it almost defies the expression of reasonable opinion one way or the other. Even the one man whose supposedly unprejudiced views helped to keep the radical sentiments under some kind of control, Bishop Tutu, went off the deep end recently in telling the world that the West should "go to hell!" Frankly, I believe that sanctions are likely to produce quite the opposite of the effects they are intended to do. For one thing, I believe that the black majority is not ready to take its place in the governmental or economic scheme of things -- no matter whose fault it is -- they just haven't got any of the basic requisites which would enable them even to start taking a significant place collectively in the national scheme of things. Any drastic change overnight would place them under the questionable control of despots of their own race and they would be no better off than before. The present government grew to its present state because they brought with them new ideas and an acceptance among trading, scientific, technological and consuming nations. The world, and that certainly includes us, critically needs the products that only South Africa can supply and any sanctions which would deprive us of that supply, even for a relatively short while, would produce short and long-range problems of grave consequence to our national interest. We are so worried about opinion if we should not support the black majority that we are ready to take the simplest apparent solution which, in my opinion, would actually be catastrophic. We should convince our friends abroad of the wisdom of getting President Botha and his supporters to see the light and to enact such legislation as would clearly demonstrate a complete change toward the abandonment of apartheid. He should select those blacks who have already demonstrated their capability and understanding of the consequences to the improvement of their long-range position. It's a job for team work and clearly spelled-out goals. It cannot be accomplished by sanctions. P.G.S.

How Priorities Changed A Life

By Gail R. Parker

I think my destiny was influenced by the acceptance of the word "priority". Somehow, it facilitated the demise of any attempted worthwhile endeavor in my life.

For example, I had always wanted to return to college. When my daughter was an infant I was offered the opportunity to attend a prestigious upstate college some distance from our home. However, feelings of guilt and a sense of abandoning responsibility prevented me from entrusting the care of my child to a stranger. The "me" generation philosophy had not yet been firmly entrenched in my thinking. After all, there seemed to be such a superfluity of time ahead.....

The second attempt at enrollment was when my daughter turned 6. I was registered for part time studies. Regretably, she was admitted to the hospital two days before the start of classes for an undiagnosed ailment. The high white blood count concerned me and I anticipated the worst. Fortunately, everything turned out all right but this anxiety provoking situation resulted in the curtailment of my plans.

As the years passed, I managed to take some evening courses. The idea of a major was indefinite, but there was no hurry. My practical nature considered business as a wise choice, but my aesthetic temperament relished liberal arts, especially journalism.

With all the ominous impediments deterring my progress we found it would be more feasible to tackle day classes when my daughter was older. However, this idea did not work out as most of the middle years were spent dealing with recurrent respiratory infections and a good deal of school absence. I abhorred the "happy homemaker" role and yearned to develop my potential. But, I could not in good conscience go off and do my own thing at my child's expense. She was my number one priority.

It is ironic that throughout all these priority situations, the thought of giving up my ambition did not waver. The rapid acceleration of time brought us now to high school graduation and acceptance into four colleges! The time has come, and was ideal. Both mother and daughter would be students concurrently!

As the fates would allow, the financial picture at home changed and necessitated an additional income rather than increased educational expenses. The college deposit had been sent in and I was to register in a week's time. What was I going to do now? My husband told me to go in spite of the fact that he personally felt "my time has past". I am psyched up for higher learning, but a part of me retreats feeling guilt-ridden and selfish. I suppose its night school ad infinitum....

Is it any wonder I detest priorities. It has postponed my life, dreams and ambitions, representing adherence to primary responsibilities and self deprivation.

I am back in a dead-end job performing the same uncreative work I despised twenty five years ago. My mood is pessimism for the future coupled with a conscious realization of broken dreams. I am beginning to believe in the futility of my endeavors. But, my essential gripe is not knowing when it is ever going to be my time for consideration as a "priority".

I abhorred the "happy homemaker" role and yearned to develop my potential.

Q. While visiting France last year my friend and I ate in an elegant restaurant. We noticed that forks and spoons were facing downward on the tablecloth. Do you know why this was done?

A. This is an old French custom which is gradually giving way to the English and American way of facing forks and spoons upward.

Q. Recently I came across a menu expression that was new to me. Can you explain what "A la burguignonne" means?

A. Translated from the French it would mean "in the Burgundy style" and it refers to any dish served with small onions, spices, bacon, mushrooms and, of course, Burgundy wine.

Service & Quality At Its Highest

Q. I often eat with friends at a local restaurant known for its beautiful decor and excellent food. However, for some reason the waiters and waitresses seem to wear grim expressions on their faces. They are not actually rude, but their manner is somewhat curt. Would it be a good idea to say something to the owner?

A. I don't know how the owner will take your comments, but you would actually be doing him or her a favor. It would cost nothing to have the employees a little more gracious and it would most likely increase the restaurant's business. Food and decor are important, but so is pleasant service.

MODEL OF SERVICE

The Galleria Restaurant on Nassau Blvd., Garden City is one that ought to get more attention. This new restaurant is a model for service. The personnel are at your service from the moment you enter the restaurant until you leave.

But this would not be enough if the food were not good. Last week we were very pleased with our dinners. A shrimp marinara which had a very fresh tomato sauce on tasty shrimp. The main dish came with pasta and a freshly cooked vegetable which on this night was spinach and tomatoes. We had a dinner salad additional and topped the meal off with Italian coffee from a selection of six or more possibilities. We think this is a good restaurant. J.E.

HAPPY CHOICE

It takes many ingredients to make for delightful dining. Our party of six felt that we found them all at the newly decorated George Washington Manor in Roslyn. We enjoyed a most delightful Sunday Brunch and were unanimous in saying that it was a happy choice.

The decor is both charming and elegant, the food selection was diversified and exceedingly good, the service is superb. We all agreed it was a delightful way to spend a few hours on a Sunday. We have also been there for dinner and were well pleased. In particular we enjoyed the cozy fireplace. We heartily endorse this very fine restaurant. D.J.

GOOD EXPERIENCE

The Benihana of Tokyo restaurant in Manhasset is a good experience. While the price is not low, the food is good and you get the free entertainment of watching the chef cut the fish or meat in a flamboyant style.

We had the fish dinner which was cooked from beginning to end before our eyes on the hibachi. The salad has a special taste prepared with the house dressing which is a combination of oil, vinegar and spice.

We recommend this restaurant. M.V.

"GOOD OLD DAYS"
All of the good places are not gone. For many years we have been going to Lauraine Murphy's in Manhasset. And it appeared that last Saturday several hundred other people had the same idea. But after a surprisingly short wait, considering the number of people who appeared to be waiting, we were seated in the inner dining room at Lauraine Murphy's. The place had not changed. They still serve the warm popovers at each meal. The food was great. Most in our party had roast beef with one holdout for scallops but everything came out wonderful and considering the number of people that must have been served that night it is nothing short of a miracle. We surely recommend Lauraine Murphy's to your readers. H.J.

YOU CAN BE A RESTAURANT CRITIC-If you visit any of the restaurants selected for inclusion in this section-call 931-0027 at any hour and tell your ideas. We want you, the reader, to be our critic. Your message then can be printed in this space.

Q. Last week we went to a well known restaurant with a party of four people. Each person ordered something different and the result was that the waitress brought the orders out at different times. What happened was that some people had to sit there and let their food get cold while waiting for the others. Some in the party said "go ahead and eat" but no one wanted to do that because it didn't seem right. What should have been done?
G.H.

A. What should have been done is that you should have complained to the management. You have mentioned a good restaurant and we are going to send the complaint on to them. The food should all be served at once or as nearly as possible. Otherwise no one is dining together and you might as well have all gone alone. That restaurant will have to get on the ball.

Q. I have noticed that tips are said to range from 15 to 20 percent of a bill in a restaurant. When you calculate this do you figure in the sales tax.
R.K.

A. No you do not generally figure the sales tax in the tip but a great many people now are doubling the sales tax to quickly arrive at the amount of the tip. With the new increased fraction the tip will then closely approximate a 15 percent gratuity.

Q. In a good restaurant that we attended recently an accordion player came around to each table and asked whether we had any requests. My wife made a request and the musician played it. Is this music provided by the restaurant or should I have tipped?
J.B.

A. Generally the musicians are paid by the restaurant to entertain all of the diners. But when you make a special request it is expected that a small tip will accompany the request. In this case $1 would have been a fair amount.

Q. My husband and I dine out with two other young couples at least once a month. We select a restaurant where we do not feel rushed, but nevertheless our evenings together seem much too short! Any suggestions?

A. Why not wind up the dinner with a relaxing drink or cup of coffee in one of your houses? This would not cause undue cost or fuss and it would be a nice way of "stretching" your time together.

Painting over stucco

Q. I am the owner of a house which I am currently renting. The exterior of the house is stucco that is pretty badly stained and needs painting. I have heard that one needs to use special paint for stucco. Could you please tell me if painting over the surface of stucco requires any special preparation and what types or brands of paint should be used? — G.B.M.

A. Most types of latex exterior paints are excellent for use on stucco surfaces. These can be applied with a roller. Be sure to read the directions for each brand of paint thoroughly when you are making a selection. Also buy the appropriate roller for that brand of paint. Your paint dealer can be helpful in making this selection. Note that when working in dry hot weather you may have to dampen the surface with water before applying the paint to keep the paint from drying out too fast.

Q. I always read your articles in the Sunday paper. The information is very informative. Recently you explained a compound that would go over a fiberglass patio top. I need to know what we can apply to an aluminum patio roof which is pitted with holes. When it rains it comes through and wets the patio floor. — A.L.

A. If the damage is a pin-hole leak, drive a roofing nail (use aluminum nails) with a neoprene washer into the hole. Then coat the nailhead with a dab of roofing cement. You can buy roofing nails with neoprene washers molded into the head of the nail. If the hole is larger, you will need to patch the area with the same type of metal as the roof. Do not mix metals. Coat the damaged area and the back of the aluminum patch with a thin layer of asphalt roofing compound. Then press the patch in position over the damaged area. Nail the patch to the roofing with roofing nails spaced about 1 inch apart. Then coat the nailheads and the patch with a thin layer of roofing cement. If this will make the patch unsightly from ground level, let the roofing cement dry for about a month. Then sand the patch with aluminum-colored metal paint. These are methods of patching and would work for several holes. However, if the entire roof is pitted and has numerous leaks, your only solution will be to replace the existing roofing.

Q. My outdoor carpeting has worn down in several areas. How should I remove it to replace the carpet, or can I just carpet over it? I've talked to several home stores and no one has given me a satisfactory answer. — K.M.

A. I do not recommend that you carpet over the existing carpeting. You should be able to remove the current carpet layer, which I assume was glued in place. Try prying up at a corner. You may want to use a hair dryer to warm the adhesive that was used. This will make it easier to pull the carpeting loose. You may also have to use a chisel or a scraper to wedge between the carpet and the flooring so you can pry difficult areas

Injured with crushed discs and fractured ribs and vertebrae, Mary Ann Dorman and her husband have faced penalties from the government because of their successful financial management over the years. The costs for her recuperative treatments are little covered by Medicare and they are hit by a financial drain. Still, they are survivors who are coping with the situation and with government, and still present a well-stated personal philosophy:

"I don't mind being called a 'senior citizen' if I am respectfully so addressed. As mature adults we don't want to lose our dignity, to be spoken down to instead of spoken with. Our intelligence has not decreased with each added chronological year of age."

The Dormans, residents of Port Hueneme, Calif., are working and sharing together, despite the medical setback — a positive lesson for the younger about the spirit that needs not diminish with age.

Ruth M. Christensen of South Pasadena, Calif., states that when approaching age 60, she "kicked and screamed inwardly being perceived by others as a 'senior citizen.' I don't mind being called an older adult." Ruth, a former librarian professionally, is now in social service work in the field of aging.

"Life has nothing to do with age. Life can be a many-splendored thing no matter how many or how few years a person has accomplished." This statement comes from Robert Shannon, chaplain and past All State Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, residing in Brick Town, N.J.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am 17 and have a summer job. It's the first time I have ever earned my own money and I'd like to spend it any way I choose. My take-home pay is $88 per week and my father insists that I put $70 per week in the bank "for a rainy day."

I don't mind saving some, but $70 per week is ridiculous. It's like I'm working for nothing. The $18 I have to spend barely keeps me in lunch money. Please give me your thoughts. If you agree with me, I'll show your answer to my father. — Jan

Jan: Part of the learning experience concerning a job is for the employee to wisely budget the pay. You should be able to choose how you spend your money and how much you will save, but at the end of each week you should be accountable to your dad for the previous week's wages.

If it's obvious you can't budget, or are spending the majority of your money foolishly (example — $60 per week spent on junk food), then Dad should set the rules.

Dr. Wallace: My father does not like my best friend even though she is a nice girl. On the last day of school before summer vacation, I asked my dad if I could ride to school with Maggie. We are both 17 and she is a very safe and courteous driver.

He said, "No!" When I asked him why, he said, "Because I said so." Well, I rode to school with Maggie anyway and he didn't find out and he never will unless I tell him. Do you think that I should? — Betty.

Betty: It's obvious that you have a guilty conscience. That's why you wrote to me. Yes, tell your father (wait until he is in a good mood) and take your punishment. While you're at it, find out exactly why your father does not like your best friend. It could be something that can be overcome.

Dr. Wallace: I am 16 and have a part-time job. Because I can't drive, my mother drives me to and from work, a round-trip of about 5 miles. For this, my mom charges me $1 per day for gas. We are not rich but we are not poor, either. I think my mom is out of line when she charges me. What do you think? — Lynn

Lynn: If moms charged 20 cents per mile every time they drove their children somewhere they would be independently wealthy. To answer your question, I think your mom is out of line when she charges you for gas.

Dr. Wallace: A lot has been written about teenage suicide but nowhere have I read about signs that show that a teen is a prime candidate to kill himself. Could you please print these signs. I know many teens would appreciate it. It's possible that we can do more than anyone else if we can identify the potential suicidal teen. — Bruce Bruce: Excellent letter! Indeed, teens can do much to help their peers when dealing with this growing social illness. Norman Altsi, M.D., a professor of psychiatry at the University of Michigan has developed a profile to evaluate the risk of teenage suicide.

No single item on the following list necessarily represents a suicide threat, but when a number of them occur simultaneously, the risk of suicide increases.

1. Depression.
  - a. Teen appears depressed and withdrawn.
  - b. Teen refuses to interact with family and friends.
  - c. Teen shows a sense of hopelessness.
  - d. Teen loses his appetite or cannot sleep.

2. Loss:
  - a. Teen expresses great sorrow or despair over a separation from family or friends.
  - b. Teen receives very disappointing news from family or friends.

3. History:
  - a. Teen's relative or close friend attempts or actually commits suicide.
  - b. Teen has a history of drug abuse.
  - c. Teen has previously undergone psychiatric treatment.
  - d. Teen has suicidal thoughts.

4. Stress:
  - a. Sudden increase in substance abuse.

For more information on teen suicide please write to University of Michigan Medical Center, Health News Service, 300 N. Ingalls, Ann Arbor, MI 48109-2007.

Dr. Wallace: I have a gripe with you. You said that girls should not date much older guys. Well, I disagree. I am 12 and my boyfriend is 21 and we get along just great. He is the nicest guy I have ever met. He treats me like a queen and spends a lot of money on me. I've dated guys younger but they are very immature. So please don't tell me to date guys my own age. My mom likes my boyfriend. — Candy.

Candy: I won't. In fact, you are too young to be dating anyone, regardless of age. I'm always angered that some parents actually encourage and allow a dating arrangement such as yours. Having a child does not qualify one as being a wise parent.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

Mainly for Seniors

By Leonard J. Hansen

Do you consider age at all?

Are you a "senior citizen?" Are you instead a "mature adult?" Are you an "experienced adult?" And, why?

Recently in this column we wrote about impressions younger people have of older adults. The article told of a reporter from a national business magazine who had shared many negative, surprising and ill-informed impressions of aging. To that reporter you were sitting in rocking chairs, contemplating the "great beyond," infirm, poor and dependent. So we asked for your comments as readers and as mature adults in our American society. The resulting letters are fascinating — here is a sampling.

I am a woman, 67, who rises at 3 a.m., spends 15 minutes doing exercise, works an eight-hour day and retires at 11:30 in the evening. On weekends I walk 5 miles each day. I recently read about a 92-year-old woman who does the same thing — only she has two jobs.

"As a crusade, I am involved with comparable pay for women. Society tends to put people in categories. Some men can't do a job as well as other men. It has nothing to do with your sex." So writes B.L. Milner

From Englewood, Fla., Mary Valdina writes. "I'm 78, my husband is 85, and we raised seven wonderful children during the Depression years. My husband just finished building a dock for his boat, and his team just won first place and traveling trophies in shuffleboard — he has eight more trophies of his own. I make Christmas decorations out of throwaways and pictures out of beads and dry material, and I volunteer actively at our hospital.

"Who says one has to sit in a rocking chair and waste a life away? Next month we're driving 1,250 miles north to see our family. God bless the opportunity we have."

"A good percentage of senior citizens are 'sharp as tacks.'" writes a reader from Redding, Calif. "We are not 'has-beens.' We have accomplished much and we continue to accomplish. God bless you. Hope you can get the truth to the younger population."

"I'm 83 years of age and believe the best is yet to come. I might have slowed down a bit but I still can keep long hours and accomplish what I want in my life." The statement is by Longin S. Bielani

Backyard Gardener
By Patrick Denton

The numbers of wild and cultivated garden plants that dry easily and well for winter bouquets is quite surprising. I've found that after just a little experience drying flowers the easy way - hanging them upside down in small bundles in a dark, airy place - just the look of a flower or seed head often indicates quite clearly its suitability for easy drying.

Last year, for example, we had a nice patch of French sorrel, whose leaves we love to munch for their lemony fresh tang, go to seed. It was fascinating to watch the stems grow - and grow - until they produced many sprays of thickly clustered, tiny seed pods in pink and creamy green. They looked as though they might dry well.

Cut and gathered with elastic bands into bundles of just a few stems each and hung upside down in a cupboard, the clusters did drop some of their seed capsules but not enough to affect their appearance. In fact, brought out late last winter, the tall stalks looked surprisingly lovely, their feathery texture and delicate colors quite intact.

I used the tall, elegant look of these dried sorrel seed stalks as the background for an arrangement in an old shopping basket that had been filled with the statice.

er with other dried seed pods and flowers made a warm statement of welcome against the wall facing our front door.

The sorrel seed stalks in the final arrangement combined nicely with narrow, twisted pink spikes of Russian static (Statice suworowii) and the broad, pink-bronze heads of dried showy sedum, accented with shiny pink and white daisy-like Xeranthemum blooms on their slender, airy stems.

Leisurely but regular prowls through the garden can unearth surprising and unusual materials for dried arrangements - an onion plant in flower, for example, or a plantain weed in the lawn with its narrow, nicely curved spike.

Chive flowers and flowering or ornamental onions (allium) seed balls and heads all dry well too. Even garlic and leek plants are potential dried decorative materials.

Nigella, or love-in-a-mist, seed pods are airy, delicate affairs perfect for dried bouquets. Poppy seed pods, commonly found in home gardens, are useful additions to winter arrangements. Even lily and peony seed pods can be used in this way. For accents of silver in arrangements, dusty miller and Silver King artemisia are easily air-dried as well. Field grasses and grains offer more easily dried materials for arrangements. Every few years, in fact, we seed a small patch of wheat just for a fresh supply of the attractive seen stems, which are especially nice in Thanksgiving arrangements and for adding to dried bouquets, wall hangings and wreaths for kitchen decoration.

Red-twigged dogwood shrubs offer brightly colored bare twigs and branches for dried designs. The lacy skeletons of their flower clusters are also attractive dried, as are those of the elderberry Queen Anne's Lace, a very common, beautiful "weed", produces broad, flat and lacy, white flower heads that dry into light and airy, starlike seed pod clusters.

Pearly everlasting and golden-rod are two more commonly found wild plants that dry nicely and are most useful in everlasting arrangements. The first receives its name for the pearly whiteness of both its fresh and dried flowers. The fat clusters of shiny white flowers with their dark golden centers atop light grey stems and foliage make handsome additions to dried designs.

The flat flower heads of all the yarrows - white, gold, yellow, pink and red - dry well too. Another achillea, The Pearl, bears small white double flowers that dry nicely and are valuable for a dash of frothiness to an arrangement.

Quality Or Quantity?
When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.
When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.
With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.
Our (not so secret) ingredient Readers = Results is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the many throwaways.

Freshen up an aging bath

By Sharon Owen Haven

Q: I have a small, windowless bath that has been untouched since the house was built in the '50s. Everything still works, it's just dark and claustrophobic. How can I modernize it without remodeling? — M.B.

A: Probably the only nice thing about small baths is that you can work wonders on an equally small budget. The picture offers a basketful of ideas that are neither overly complicated nor overly expensive.

This older bath was given a fresh, contemporary country look by adding wood wainscoting on one wall and half-round molding and new pulls on the old vanity doors. A crisp new wallpaper with a small pattern and white background makes the bath seem brighter and larger. This effect is further enhanced by the white-on-white color scheme in general, a new large, wall-size mirror and bright contemporary cosmetic lights.

Eye-catching accessories or collections will distract attention from older or less-than-perfect fixtures. Use leftover wallpaper to frame a print or hand paint a cover for an aging toilet seat lid. A jar of potpourri or sweet-smelling soap will also contribute to a fresher new atmosphere without breaking the budget.

Q: We are newly married and just beginning to furnish our apartment. The problem is that we need everything and are constantly frustrated by our champagne tastes and beer budget. Do you have any tips for making the most of what we've got? — A.F.

A: There is absolutely no reason why you cannot live in style, regardless of your budget. Indeed, budget restraints can provide the anvil on which to forge a unique and personal style.

You also can stretch that budget with careful planning and by developing a buying strategy that will serve your champagne tastes in the long run. Take the time to thumb magazines, read design books and window shop, both to refine your style and make yourselves fully aware of the possibilities.

And there are a few tips that will make a difference. Buy for value, whether it's the expensive classic piece you want for lifetime or the inexpensive temporary furnishings you intend to replace. You also will make the most of your money by keeping your designs simple and focusing on a few high-quality major purchases. Simple, low-profile, inexpensive furnishings can still contribute to your style and be upgraded through the years.

Of course, the more you can do yourself, the more you will save. Refinishing furniture, sewing draperies and creating your own lighting will free funds for major purchases.

For a case full of champagne ideas you might check out "Dollar Stretching Decorating," a recent book from Better Homes and Gardens.

Clock works made by Seth Thomas Co.

Q: Inside this calendar clock is a label reading, "Southern Calendar Clock Co., St. Louis, Mo., Clock and Calendar set May 1, 1877."

What can you tell me about this clock? It keeps good time and the calendar works.

A: Southern Calendar Clock Co. made the case only; the works were made by Seth Thomas Clock Co., Thomaston, Conn. Southern Calendar Clock Co. made these cases from 1875 to 1889, when they switched to making stoves.

In good condition, a clock like this should sell for about $2,000.

Q: I know that early World's Fair items are collectible but what about souvenirs from post-World War II fairs?

A: All World's Fair items are collectible, even from the 1982 Fair in Knoxville. An adjustable cap sells for $2.

1970 Osaka (Japan) medal — $4.
1968 San Antonio cup and saucer

- $6.
- 1964 New York bowl — $4.
- 1964 New York auto license — $12.

- 1962 Seattle Space Needle puzzle — $7.
- 1962 Seattle seat cushion — $6.
- 1962 Seattle shot glass — $6.
- 1962 Seattle plastic Space Needle — $6.

Q: This mark is on the bottom of an art deco vase. It is 13 inches tall and decorated with a bird and flowers.

Can you tell me who made it, where and when? I would also like an approximate value.

A: Your vase was made by Riessner & Kessel in Trnovany, Czechoslovakia, during the 1920s. The company was founded in Turn, Austria in 1892. This part of Austria became part of Czechoslovakia in 1918 and the name of the town was changed to Trnovany.

The value would be in the $175 to $200 range.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. Is it abnormal for a mare to carry a foal for 12 months? Our mare is nearing 12 months now. She seems to be normal in every way.

A. I have heard that it is possible to induce mares to foal. Is this a dangerous procedure for the mare or foal?

A. It is often difficult, if not impossible, to predict precisely when a particular mare is going to foal. The duration of pregnancy in horses is variable. It is usually between 320 and 360 days.

Although most people calculate the expected date of parturition as 11 calendar months from the last breeding, it is not uncommon or abnormal for 12 full months to elapse between breeding and foaling in some mares.

Male foals are carried one to two days longer than female foals. Foals born from January through April have gestation periods about 10 days longer than foals born from May through September.

It appears that the fetus itself dictates the duration of pregnancy. Whenever the uterine environment is no longer suitable for the development of the foal, the mare is stimulated to give birth.

One of the earliest indications of approaching parturition in the mare is development of the mammary glands. The udder starts to noticeably increase in size about three to six weeks before foaling. The udder becomes distended with colostrum about two days prior to foaling and oozing of this colostrum "waxing" from the teats can be observed in approximately 95 percent of mares six to 48 hours before foaling. Usually, within four hours of parturition slight sweating in the flank region and behind the elbows can be seen.

The mare usually will not eat. This rolling helps rotate the foal into the normal position for birth. All of these signs become progressively more intense until the water bag ruptures and the mare gets into actual labor.

If these signs are seen for longer than four hours and it is not apparent that the foal is going to be born very soon, the mare should be examined by a veterinarian to ascertain if the foaling is normal.

Because it is difficult to predict precisely when a particular mare is going to foal, many veterinarians now induce foaling with drugs within one to two hours of foaling. As the preparatory stage of parturition advances the mare becomes restless, shows signs of abdominal pain, switches her tail and lies down and gets up more frequently than usual. The mare may stretch as if to urinate and have small, frequent bowel movements.

During the latter part of the preparatory stage of foaling the mare may roll back and forth. Elective induction of foaling ensures the presence of professional assistance at the time of foaling.

The criteria used to determine if a mare is ready for induction include the length of pregnancy, udder development, and genital tract relaxation. The length of pregnancy should be near 330 days to ensure complete maturation of the foal. Foals born prior to this time are often immature.

The udder should be well developed and contain colostrum at the time of induction. It is a disaster to have a foal born to a mare without milk. The cervix, opening of the uterus, should be relaxed and easily dilatable prior to induction. This is something that your veterinarian can evaluate for you.

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Friday is the first of August, meaning one half of the summer is gone and the other half is still to come before school reopens!

What have you been doing on your vacation? Sometimes I get cards and letters from the boys and girls who read this column and they are extremely interesting. I am always amazed at the different places you've visited. It is really great fun to get pictures of London, Pikes Peak and Cape Cod. In fact, opening mail is one of the nicest things I do in the summertime!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are: Andrea Jauregut and Caroline Steen. You'll both be hearing from me soon!

MAKE YOUR GARDEN HOSE LAST LONGER

DON'T TURN IT OFF AND LEAVE IT ON THE GROUND FULL OF WATER. DRAIN AND COIL IT IN A FIGURE 8, FROM WHICH YOU CAN PULL IT WITHOUT TWISTING IT. STORE ROLLED ON A REEL IN A COOL, DRY PLACE. DON'T COIL IT ON A NAIL IN THE WALL (IT WILL PINCH AND KINK). TAPING A LEAK IS ONLY A TEMPORARY FIX. USE HOSE CONNECTORS. PUT IT AWAY BEFORE YOU MOW!
