The faculty and staff of Trinity Lutheran Church, 40 W. Nichols Street, Hicksville, are looking forward to another wonderful year. As we look back, we congratulate our graduates of last spring for their special achievements. Left to right are Tanisha Goodman, Alana Yost, Darlene Yost, Mr. Weldon Endorf, Principal, Jennifer Gross, Valerie Crispell and William Parker. Mr. Endorf presented each of these students with a music award on behalf of Aid Association for Lutherans, Branch 3329.

Assemblyman Fred Parola, center, recently joined with other Assembly candidates at the Hicksville Republican Club meeting. Among the topics that were discussed were the environment, hydroelectric power, support for the death penalty and additional tax relief.

Local Artists Display At Library

Two Hicksville Artists, Richard J. Ericson and Carol Garrett will be showing their work at the Hicksville Public Library for the month of September. All are welcome to come view the fine Art of these two Hicksville people.

Richard J. Ericson's exhibition is realism influenced by impressionism.

Born in Chicago, he began drawing at five years of age and started in oils by twelve. The father of seven sons whose works are in many private collections here and abroad. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Jr. and Jimmy Dean, the entertainer are two of the prominent collectors.

Formerly a Hicksville Sr. High School Art Teacher and Art Director of all student shows, 1962-83.

Carol Garrett has been drawing portraits for 25 years, 20 of these years as a resident of Hicksville. Working from a black and white photograph, she uses a magnifying glass and up to ten different grades of lead pencil to achieve a detailed photo-like finish. It can take her as much as three hours to do one eye alone. Without any formal training, she has developed her own technique and improved on it over the years. She feels she has attained her greatest success when she is able to enhance some characteristic of her subject not apparent in the original photograph. Her portraits, of children especially, have become a business for her. Mrs. Garrett draws for the love of it. She says its "very relaxing, as long as its going well."

The victim was treated and released at Syosset Hospital, receiving stitches for his wound.

Of the five subjects, one is described as a male Hispanic, 5' 10", 26 years, black curly hair, wearing a blue polo shirt.

K Of C Schedules Open Meeting

By Frank De Galdano
Grand Knight

Joseph Barry Council Knights of Columbus have scheduled an open meeting for membership on Tuesday, September 15, at their Council chamber on 45 Heitz Place at 8:30 p.m.

If you are 18 years of age or over and a practical Catholic and are desirous to join our organization for love of God, Country and Brotherhood, we cordially invite you to spend and start this evening with us.

There is no obligation on your part, just give us a chance to tell you a little about the Knights of Columbus, what we do, and what we stand for.

Become a Knight and Grow with us. You are welcome to bring a neighbor, a friend, or relative.

Fatal Accident In Hicksville

The 8th Squad reports a fatal auto accident that occurred in Plainview on August 24 at 1:50 a.m.

The deceased, Gregory Costa, 31, 44 Bluebell Lane, Plainview, was eastbound on Old Country Road. In the vicinity of Round Swamp Road, he left the roadway in his 1984 Cadillac, striking a tree, a pole, and turning over. He was pronounced dead at the scene at 2:30 a.m. by Dr. Calma.

Hicksville Man Robbed In Syosset

The Second Squad is investigating a robbery that occurred on August 27 at 11:30 p.m. at the Syosset railroad station.

The victim, Juan Santiago, 23, of 4 5th Ave., Hicksville, was confronted by five male Hispanics. The subjects grabbed him, and during the struggle, he was slashed by one of them in the right hand. Another subject took $30 from his pockets. The subjects then fled on foot.

The victim was treated and released at Syosset Hospital, receiving stitches for his wound.

Of the five subjects, one is described as a male Hispanic, 5' 10", 26 years, black curly hair, wearing a blue polo shirt.

Democrats Petition For Council Dists.

Voters in the Town of Oyster Bay will be asked whether they want Town Board members elected by districts instead of in the present at-large arrangement.

The Democratic backed petition has more than 6,000 signatures according to John Matthews who heads the drive. 5,800 signatures were needed to present the petition on to the Town Clerk and have it included on the ballot. What the Democrats say they hope to accomplish with the petition is to win at least one seat on the Town Board. This would probably be the Old Bethpage and Jericho area.

Presently the six councilmen come from no particular area by law and all represent the entire Town.

Hicksville Schools Open For New Year

The Hicksville Public Schools opened their doors this week for the new school year as nearly 2300 elementary youngsters and 2400 secondary students returned to class, ready for an exciting year of learning and growth.

District professional and support staff members met for orientation on September 2 at a program featuring guest speaker Jay Sommer, National Teacher of the Year for 1981-82 and member of the Commission on Excellence, who shared insights and experiences with the Hicksville staff.

A presentation by last year's first grade girls from Fork Lane to the music of "Hands Across America" included participants Betsy Alexander, Robin Beck, Jill Dayney, Annemarie Elenis, Robin Goldberg, Renee Grenier, Marlena Horton, Jennifer Kotreich, Angela Leal, Gina Pelletiere, Lisa Santoniema, Susan Stoltz, and Marissa and Abby Toich. Amy Verbaawens, entering the Junior High School from Dutch Lane, sang a parody about school based on the song "Nine to Five", and a videotape of last year's performance of "Help Us to See the Light", a work composed for the district by Artist-in-Residence Julius Williams and performed by senior high students, was shown.

Attendees were also introduced to 22 new professional staff members and two new administrators. Geraldine Silver is the new Assistant Director of Instruction and Michael Dunn will be serving as Principal of Willet Avenue School.

The Board of Education and district administrators are looking forward to a successful and stimulating 1986-87 school year for all staff members and students.

Dennis Rustom of Hicksville, a pre-med student at Holy Cross College, is congratulated by Kanti Rai, MD, Chief of Hematology/Oncology at Long Island Jewish Medical Center and Ilene and Alan Berry of Roslyn. Dennis is a 1986 recipient of the Brown Fellowship Scholarship named in honor of Mrs. Berry's father, and is working with Dr. Rai on several scientific studies utilizing the Tumor Registry.

Editor's Notebook

Congratulations to the Hicksville Fire Department and their 58th annual parade and tournament. It was another smashing success with the weather helping to make it a perfect weekend. The carnival was an added plus and fire officials say that with the help of Nassau County Police everything went smoothly. There were some complaints about prices charged for rides but with today's insurance costs this is to be expected. This annual event, one of the most popular tournaments in the state, has certainly helped to put Hicksville on the map. We wish the fire department and its members many more successful Labor Day weekends. These hardworking volunteer people deserve all the praise they can get.

School's in. Approximately 4700 students began studies for the fall semester at the elementary and secondary levels of Hicksville School District. There are no school holidays listed on the calendar until October 13. We'll be keeping you posted on school events as they come up.

Don't forget that deadlines for news articles are Wednesday by noon. We appreciate hearing all the news of your group, school or club. Don't be bashful, send it in. Lots of your neighbors will enjoy hearing about your efforts.

Restaurant Hearing Date Set

Oyster Bay Town Councilman John Venditto announced that the Town Board has scheduled an October 7 public hearing on a request for a special use permit in Hicksville.

The applicants, AVK Restaurant and Josam Associates, are requesting a special use permit in an E business district (neighborhood district) to operate a restaurant with a permitted occupancy of more than 75 persons and a second special use permit for a bar with a capacity of 38 people, for a total of 113 persons," Venditto stated.

The property is located at the west side of South Oyster Bay Road, south of Woodbury Road, also known as 406 South Oyster Bay Road, Hicksville.

The hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday, October 7, beginning at 10 a.m. in the Town Hall East hearing room, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

To the Editor:

May I applaud loudly, your excellent three-part series on the service clubs of Hicksville. Each of the pieces describing and illustrating these American traditions: Kiwanis Club, Lions Club and Rotary International was so informative.

As one who enjoys delving into and preserving local history, I value particularly your chronological highlighting of the activities and good works of these great clubs. The rosters of the service club presidents is particularly enlightening and cause for pleasant memory and appreciation when one sees the array of community-oriented and civic minded people who have served Hicksville over the years.

It was an added satisfaction to be able to contribute much of the raw material from which you fashioned with such journalistic skill the three attractive sections for the August Mid Island Times. You have made my coming work on the social aspects of the modern Hicksville history I am preparing for the Public Library that much easier.

For one last look, for now, at a service club of fifty years ago, here is the Hicksville Kiwanis Club, after a meeting in 1939 standing outside the old Hicksville Inn (where today's Central Federal Savings and Loan Association stands today).

Sincerely,
Dick Evers

To the Editor:

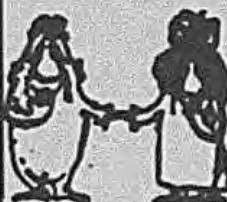

On August 2, I was hit by a car at the corner of Newbridge Road and Genesee Street in Hicksville.

While I am still in the hospital making daily progress, my family and I wish to express our heartfelt appreciation to the Hicksville Fire Department, Nassau County Police, and Nassau County Rescue Squad for their admirable performance in getting me to the Nassau County Medical Center for medical treatment.

We also would like to thank all our caring neighbors and friends for their immediate assistance and words of comfort.

Sincerely,
Jean Diradourian

Donation Buys A Shade Tree

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving ten free shade trees to people who join the nonprofit Foundation during September.

A Pin Oak, Red Maple, Weeping Willow, Red Oak, Green Ash, Thornless Honeylocust, Silver Maple, Tuliptree, European Mountainash, and Sugar Maple will be given as part of the Foundation's campaign to encourage tree planting.

These trees were selected because they provide beautiful fall colors, flowers, and berries, in addition to cooling summer shade, according to John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director.

The Foundation will give the ten free trees to members contributing $10 during September. The six-to-twelve inch trees will be shipped this fall between October 15 and December 10 when conditions are right for planting. They will be sent with enclosed planting instructions, and are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free by the Foundation.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, a $10 membership contribution should be sent to Ten Shade Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by September 30, 1986.

Brigandi Wins Water Election

One hundred seventy-eight votes were cast for re-election of Nicholas J. Brigandi to serve a three year term as Water Commissioner of Hicksville Water District. There were no opposing votes cast.

Commissioner Brigandi thanks those who voted for him in Tuesday's election.

Yevoli Receives Sierra Club Award

The Long Island Sierra Club has announced its "Environmentalist-Of-The-Year" Award will be presented to Assemblyman Lewis Yevoli at a Cocktail Party on September 12.

The Club will be holding its general membership meeting at Chelsea House of the Muttontown Preserve in East Norwich beginning with a guided tour of the grounds at 6 p.m., with cocktails following at 7:30.

Other endorsements for political candidates will also be announced that evening. The meeting is open to members and non members at no charge. For more information, contact Ken Robinson at 794-6900 or Al Hauser at 921-5882.

Suicide Problem Conference Topic

Due to the increased number of suicides in our society, particularly among young people and senior citizens, Hicksville Youth Council is sponsoring a conference on Suicide with Dr. Alan Wolfelt as presenter. The conference will be held on Friday, September 12 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Antun's and the $40.00 registration fee includes all conference materials, luncheon and refreshments at breaks.

Dr. Alan Wolfelt is the Director of the Center for Loss and Life Transition in Colorado and has previously done an excellent conference for the Youth Council on Death and Dying. Dr. Wolfelt is a nationally known thanatologist particularly noted for his work in the grief experience of adults and children and will present a program applicable to the general public as well as to those in the helping professions and clergy. The conference will focus on myths and misconceptions about suicide, recognizing suicidal family members, friends, what interventions can we make and how to deal with the grief of the survivors. Time will also be spent on developing the awareness of the participants as to local and national resources as well as effective community prevention strategies.

"It is an unfortunate reality that we will at some time in our lives feel the effects of the suicide of someone we know, whether they be a family member, friend or co-worker. This conference is an excellent opportunity for individuals to learn more about suicide as well as pick up some very useful information and techniques. I encourage everyone who possibly can to attend on September 12 and let me emphasize that the program is directed to all concerned individuals whether you are a professional, interested community resident or member of the clergy," said Barbara Nelson, Executive Director of the Hicksville Youth Council.

Group discounts are available and for more information please call Barbara at 822-7688 for registration. The Youth Council is open Monday to Thursday, 10 a.m. - 9 p.m. and Friday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Library Exhibits Architectural Photos

A travelling photographic exhibit displaying a wide range of outstanding examples of architecture from communities throughout Nassau County, will be presented at the Hicksville Public Library from September 4 to 17.

The exhibit, consisting of seventeen, 20" x 24" color photographs and an information placard, is sponsored by the Nassau County Department of Recreation and Parks, Division of Museum Services, as part of its salute to "Architectural Heritage Year, 1986."

The programs celebrating Architectural Heritage Year will focus on the values that architecturally significant buildings contribute to the local environment. In proclaiming "Architectural Heritage Year", County Executive Francis T. Purcell pointed out that "Nassau County has a great variety of architecturally significant structures representing the development of American architecture from colonial to contemporary times, and that Nassau's villages and towns are proud of their architectural heritage, taking steps to preserve and protect their structural landmarks."

Buildings displayed in the exhibit represent the towns and villages of Garden City, Glen Cove, Hempstead, Jericho, Lawrence, North Merrick, Manhasset, Mineola, Old Bethpage village restoration, Old Westbury, Oyster Bay Roslyn, Sands Point, Sea Cliff, and Uniondale; with architectural styles ranging from a country Dutch colonial home to a contemporary glass sculptured office complex.

The Berkeley School of Hicksville in Long Island and its extension at Oakdale have announced the names of students attaining honors for the quarter ending summer, 1986.

Students named to the President's List have achieved a 4.0 average. To qualify for the Dean's List a student must have an average of at least 3.2.

Museum Schedules Courses

The Hicksville Gregory Museum is offering three highly relevant topics and study opportunities for teachers and interested laymen as in-service training courses: Mountain Building & Plate Tectonics, The Early History of Long Island and Its Communities and Whales.

Mountain Building & Plate Tectonics-A 2 credit, two hour session course offered by Dr. Charles Rockwell. Will California eventually 'slide' into the Pacific Ocean, as some predict? Have continents really 'drifted' apart over the centuries? Answers to these questions and many others which have intrigued geologists for decades will be some of the topics of discussion. Also the theory of plate tectonics, representing the real frontier of earth science will be considered in the framework from which most other geological processes should be viewed. This course will start Wednesday, October 1 at 4 p.m., 10-2 hour sessions. Fee $60.

The Early History of Long Island and Its Communities-A 2 credit, two hour ten session course offered by Gregory Museum Historian, Richard Evers. The course will cover the early history of Long Island, and is designed to assist teachers with the State-mandated fourth grade social studies curriculum and to provide any teacher with insight into Long Island history through the period of the American Revolution. This course will start Tuesday, September 30 at 4 p.m. 10-2 hour sessions. Fee $60.

Whales-A 2 credit, two hour ten session course offered by Carolyn Haplerin. This course offers an overview of whales and other marine mammals. The series will supplement parts of the sixth grade curriculum project "Voyage of the Mimi", as well as studies of mammals for other grade levels. Some of the topics that will be covered-Ancestry, Anatomy and Physiology, Habits, Migration, Intelligence plus classroom projects such as vocabulary, puzzles and songs. This course will start Thursday, October 2, at 4 p.m., 10-2 hour sessions. Fee $60.

Registration is now taking place by telephone or in person. The Gregory Museum is located at Heitz Place, Hicksville, one block south of the intersection of Bay Avenue and Woodbury Road. For registration or information 822-7505.

Airman Scott Stevenson, son of Mary M.S. Danley of 2301 N.E. 49th St., Lighthouse Point, Fla., and grandson of Lillian Stevenson of 304 W. Nicholai St., Hicksville, has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Celebrity Sports Talk

Should kids question managers and umpires?

A READER ASKS: At what age should a kid begin to question umpires and managers?

Bud Black, pitcher, Kansas City Royals: A player should never question the umpire. That's the manager's prerogative. A player at any level can question the manager if it's done correctly. Managers don't mind if the player wants to know what's going on — usually why he isn't playing.

Tony Gwynn, outfielder, San Diego Padres: A player can start questioning at the college level. Little League, junior high and high school are times for learning. Amateur players may have questions but should never second-guess a manager or umpire because they know more about the game than kids do.

Eric Show, pitcher, San Diego Padres: Immediately — if he thinks the manager or umpire is wrong.

Cal Ripken, Jr., shortstop, Baltimore Orioles: After playing baseball for awhile, you feel you know more than the managers and umpires. But you shouldn't question them. Your job is to play ball and their job is to manage or umpire.

Andy McGaffigan, pitcher, Montreal Expos: If you have a legitimate beef, you should bring it up no matter what age you are. You shouldn't be belligerent. Tell the person involved that you'd like to know why certain things are happening.

Glenn Hubbard, infielder, Atlanta Braves: Big league ball players question the umpire. I don't think kids should. But I really don't know why they shouldn't. The umpire's job is to be in charge and the kid's job is to play baseball.

Bruce Benedict, catcher, Atlanta Braves: Great discretion is needed in questioning umpires.

Celebrity Sports Talk

When major leaguers get tired or go through bad times, they get on the umpires. Little kids see this and think it's all right to act the same way. Belonging to a certain age group doesn't allow you to yell at people.

Dale Murphy, outfielder, Atlanta Braves: I didn't question an umpire until my later years in high school, saying, "Hey, maybe you missed that call." Psychology is involved because you can let the guy know he made a mistake without making him mad. Maybe he'll begin to think you were right. You can question the umpire, but I don't recommend arguing with him.

Jim Winn, pitcher, Pittsburgh Pirates: You can question in high school, but Little Leaguers should play the game, learn the game, just have fun. I used to argue in Little League. I cried at some of the calls.

Rich Schu, infielder, Philadelphia Phillies: Questioning a manager's decision is kind of taboo. You just don't do that. It doesn't do the team or the player any good to second-guess. Even if you think you know more about a certain situation, keep it to yourself. However, if I were up here for 15 years, I might have a little more to say to the manager.

Vince Coleman, outfielder, St. Louis Cardinals: There's never a time in your career when you should question an umpire's call or a manager's decision. They're doing their job — to make the best decision they can. It's like when your parents tell you to do something, right or wrong you respect it.

Don't put infant on adult diet

Is there such a thing as carrying a diet too far? Yes, as some well-meaning but misinformed parents have found out. Consider the plight of one young couple who thought they were doing the best possible thing for their 21-month-old infant daughter, when they diligently put her on a strict low-fat, low-cholesterol diet.

The parents were well-to-do and totally committed to the best possible care for their child; yet for more than six months, she failed to thrive and achieve normal weight gain. The pediatrician could find no evidence of illness and certainly there was no poverty nor neglect, as is usually the cause, so he was at a loss to explain the distortion of the child's normal growth pattern.

As time went on, the parents became distraught and finally sought help from a team of medical specialists. After checking out the whole family for any possible illnesses or disabilities, none was found. But one very significant fact was discovered: the youngster had been put (by the parents) on a diet meant for adults.

Was it one of those ridiculous fad diets? Not by a long shot! It was the one suggested by the American Heart Association. How could that hurt a child? By unnecessarily restricting much-needed calories for proper growth and development.

It turned out that the mother had been overweight as a child and into her teens. Her father had been overweight when she was growing up and had later had a heart attack and died. When she learned about the American Heart Association diet, she put herself, her husband and her child on it — vowing, no doubt, that they would never develop a high cholesterol or weight problem if she could help it. She thought she had found the perfect way to feed her family, but, she was wrong, as she later discovered.

After some nutritional counseling by a registered dietitian, she learned that healthy children should not be put on restricted diets and, because of her misguided ideas, that her child was failing to thrive and grow properly.

What was she doing wrong? She was so worried about cholesterol, fat and obesity that she gave the child only skim milk, very lean meat and complex carbohydrates. Between-meal snacks were forbidden.

What did the child need? Freedom to have a well-balanced diet which included whole milk and whole milk dairy products that will provide enough calories to grow on, and between-meal snacks if desired.

Fortunately these parents learned their lesson and after a couple of months of a non-restrictive balanced diet, the child resumed a normal growth and development pattern.

Sometimes people become obsessed with dieting and inflict their often distorted ideas onto their young children because of some family history of obesity or heart disease. The American Heart Association diet is excellent to reduce cholesterol and help prevent heart disease and is designed for older children and adults as needed. It is not suitable for healthy young children, because it limits needed calories for proper growth and development.

Dean's List

Bethpage - Alessandra Cavalluzzi - Professional Secretarial Program Graduate of Bethpage High School.

Bethpage - Ann Farina - Professional Secretarial Program Graduate of Plainedge High School.

to resume from where we left off in June, when Congressman Lent visited with us. It's a privilege to have elected officials as distinguished and experienced as Senator John Dunne and Assemblyman Fred Parola visit with us and help us get underway again...and Jack Galasso has exhibited a hard-working character during his campaign for the 13th Assembly District seat, which our club members have found quite admirable. It should be quite an evening."

Members will also discuss the club's plans to participate in the Central Park/Bethpage 50th Anniversary Parade, scheduled for September 13. The club is ready and willing to welcome new members to join with them and to Be A Part Of It!

Hicksville Gas Attendant Robbed

Two black males, one possibly armed with a handgun, robbed a 28-year-old gas station attendant at a Hicksville gas station of $100 around 9:20 p.m. on August 26.

Eugene Beehan, the attendant, from Plainview, was approached by the two suspects, in front of the Northville Gas Station at 496 Plainview Road, who asked for cigarettes. As Beehan went inside the station to get the cigarettes, both suspects followed and one, who appeared to have a gun under his waistband, announced a stickup demanding the station's receipts. Beehan handed over $80, which didn't satisfy the suspects who stated "there must be more." They made Beehan lay on the floor, where his personal wallet was taken from his person. As the suspects started to leave with the wallet, Beehan asked that they just take the $20 in the wallet but leave the wallet—which the suspects did. They put Beehan in a closet and left the station in an unknown manner and direction. Beehan waited a while, then called police.

No injury was reported and the suspects were described as follows:

1. Black male, possibly armed with a handgun, 25 years, 150 lbs., stocky build, 5'-8"; 2. Black male, 25 years, 6'-3", medium build, 190 lbs. Both wore blue jeans.

The Second Squad is investigating.

News From Bethpage Library

Pre-School Storytime sessions for ages 3½-5 will begin on Thursday, October 9, and Friday, October 10, at 10:30 a.m. The weekly programs will include stories, songs, puppet fun, games, films, and much more. Pre-schoolers who are residents of School District No. 21, and who have had their third birthday before April 30, 1986, are welcome to attend.

Tiny Tots Time will begin on Wednesday, October 8, at 10:30 a.m. Each program in this monthly four-session series for parents and very young children (ages 2½ to 3½) will offer stories, finger plays, songs, films, and a brief discussion for parents of a variety of materials appropriate for use with this age group. Among requirements for Tiny Tots are residency in School District No. 21, the youngster's second birthday by April 30, 1986, and a parent in attendance at all times.

Please register early in the Children's Room, as participation in both programs is limited.

Saturday Storytime for youngsters in Grades K-3 will begin on Saturday, October 11, at 10:30 a.m. and will include stories, songs, puppetry, films, games, and more. Once a month, as announced in special Children's Room flyers, there will be a Saturday Surprise Time craft program for the same age group, also at 10:30 a.m. No registration is required, but participation is limited to residents of District No. 21.

Plainview-Old Beth. Road Runners Meeting

David Balasley will be on hand at POBRR's September meeting to show how the money raised in the 1986 David Lerner 10K Run is being used to help rehabilitate young bone cancer amputees.

The Tuesday, September 16 meeting of the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club will feature a visual review of some of the highlights of the running year, via films, videotapes and slide presentations. The meeting will be held at the Plainview-Old Bethpage Public Library, 999 Old Country Road in Plainview, starting promptly at 8:00 p.m.

Kicking off the evening will be filmed highlights of the July 4 "Thank You Paine Webber" Long Island Women's 5 Kilometer Championship Run, prepared by George Oefenbach. Following the film, videotaped highlights of the May 10 Long Island 12-Hour Run, specially prepared by David Daniels, will be shown. Finally, David Balasley and Paddy Rossback will exhibit a slide presentation featuring the Hospital for Special Surgery pediatric sarcoma rehabilitation program that is funded from the proceeds from the April 10 David Lerner 10K Run. All in all, it promises to be an entertaining and informative second look at a few of POBRR's most important events so far in 1986.

The general public is cordially invited to attend. For more information, call POBRR President Mike Polansky at 516/433-0919.

Syosset-Woodbury Seniors cruised the Great South Bay with plenty of delicious food, good music and dancing. Ready to board the Bay Mist are: Zena Musso, Mary Blanco, Mary Kline and Jean Gissel.

Our Children

Early years are most important

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Q. I somehow have the feeling that too much attention these days is placed on the importance of the early years of childhood, to the detriment of all the other stages a child goes through. A little more balance might be worth considering.

Because I hear and read so much about the difficult pre-adolescent and adolescent years, I would like to suggest that we level out our emphasis and give "equal time" to the other ages in children's lives.

What do you think about that?

A. Every stage of a child's life is important, of course, but the formative early years are especially significant because what happens later depends so much on that foundation.

I have a lot of competent company on this issue, including Benjamin Bloom, T. Berry Brazelton, Burton White, and Frances Horwich, the famed Miss Frances of TV's long-running "Ding Dong School."

They and many others stress the importance of parental involvement from the beginning as well as the careful selection of and partnership with a sound preschool whose personnel, program and facilities are carefully monitored.

It really isn't a matter of either/or, any more than it is in connection with support for the gifted vs handicapped. No phase of childhood should be relegated to a "second-class" level.

Q. I was appalled to see the letter from the parent with the 7-year-old daughter who doesn't like dolls. What a narrow-minded attitude he/she has.

My upbringing was with three sisters and one brother. We didn't have money for many toys. I didn't like dolls either, but I collected horse statues and figurines. In time those statues were traded for the real thing, and I trained race horses for 12 years.

Fortunately my parents were wise (obviously way before their time), and never pushed dolls or feminine frills on me. Now, at 33, I still do not favor very feminine clothes or lifestyles, but I turned out just fine!

Thank you for helping that parent see the light. I hope my experience is helpful too.

A. We are on the same wavelength. As I stated in my reply to the first letter, where it is written or decreed that all little girls must like dolls — or little boys must all like guns or other macho items?

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

What constitutes permanent disability?

ditional information.

Q. My father is a U.S. citizen who receives monthly Social Security retirement checks. He plans a six-month visit to his brother who lives in Italy.

Will this affect his Social Security benefits?

A. Since your father is a citizen of the United States, his Social Security checks will continue while he is outside the United States as long as he is eligible.

The Social Security Administration should be notified of the country he expects to visit and the date he expects to leave the United States. When we hear from him, we will tell him how to arrange for his check while he is abroad.

News From Road Runners

Dramatic victories in the Men's Elite Mile by Elton Lewis of C.W. Post and in the Women's Elite Mile by 1984 Olympic Silver Medalist Diana Richburg capped a highly successful day of track competition at the August 31 Seacrest Classic Track and Relay Carnival. The event was held at Long Island's Mitchel Field Athletic Complex in Uniondale.

Lewis battled head to head with Mary Hemsley of the Bronx before pulling away in the final straightaway to cross the finish line in 4:08.5. Hemsley was second in 4:09.67, and Jim Kent of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania was third in 4:14.89. Richburg stayed with eventual runners-up Marilyn Milligan of West Islip and Therese Devlin of Wantagh for the first three quarters of the Women's Mile, and then pulled away in the final lap to win in 4:48.15. Milligan was second in 4:55.67 and Devlin was third in 4:57.27.

The Cherrywood Masters Team captured first place in both the Masters 4x800 Relay and the "Over 200 Year Old" 4x800

Relay, the College Point Road Runners won the Open 4x800 Relay, Sports Tech won the Mixed Pyramid Relay and the Mixed 4x800 Relay, and the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club captured the Women's Distance Medley.

Top individual finishers included Kerry Perez (52.0) and Ann Fischer (59.8) in the 400 meters, Vincent Shaw (12:02.89) and Marilyn Gilliard (2:14.05) in the 800 meters, and John Krumholz (15:38) and Paula Chakos (18:23) in the 5 Kilometer Run.

The meet was conducted by the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club under the auspices of the Metropolitan Athletics Congress, and was sponsored by the Seacrest Restaurant of Old Westbury. The Elite Miles were sponsored by Greater New York Auto Leasing Company. The Meet Director was POBRRC's Tom Horan assisted by Steve Attias and Jim McDougall. Technical assistance was provided by David Katz of Finish Line Promotions.

Elton Lewis hits the tape to win the Men's Elite Mile.

Quality Or Quantity?

One Sure Way To Get Results!

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.

Our (not so secret) ingredient Readers = Results is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the many

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the resolution published herewith has been adopted by the Town of Oyster Bay, Nassau County, New York, on the 29th day of July, 1986, and the validity of the obligations authorized by such resolution may be hereafter contested only if such obligations were authorized for an object or purpose for which said Town is not authorized to expend money, or if the provisions of law which should have been complied with as of the date of publication of this notice were not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the date of publication of this notice, or such obligations were authorized in violation of the provisions of the Constitution. Such resolution was subject to a permissive referendum and the period of time has elapsed for the submission and filing of a petition for a permissive referendum and a valid petition has not been submitted and filed.

Dated: Oyster Bay, New York,
August 29, 1986

ANN R. OCKER
Town Clerk

RESOLUTION NO. 784-1986 BOND RESOLUTION DATED JULY 29, 1986

A RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF $1,377,500 SERIAL BONDS AND $72,500 CAPITAL NOTES OF THE TOWN OF OYSTER BAY, NASSAU COUNTY, NEW YORK, TO PAY THE COST OF THE CONSTRUCTION OF A NEW BEACH PAVILION FOR TOBAY BEACH IN AND FOR SAID TOWN.

WHEREAS, all conditions precedent to the financing of the capital project hereinafter described, including compliance with the provisions of the State Environmental Quality Review Act, have been performed; and

WHEREAS, it is now desired to authorize the financing of such capital project; NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT

RESOLVED, by the Town Board of the Town of Oyster Bay, Nassau County, New York, as follows:

Section 1. For the specific object or purpose of paying the cost of the construction of a new beach pavilion for Tobay Beach in and for the Town of Oyster Bay, Nassau County, New York including original furnishings, equipment and apparatus required therefor and for the grading and improvement of the site thereof, there are hereby authorized to be issued $1,377,500 serial bonds and $72,500 capital notes of the Town of Oyster Bay, Nassau County, New York pursuant to the provisions of the Local Finance Law.

Section 2. It is hereby determined that the maximum estimated cost of such specific object or purpose is $1,450,000, and the plan for the financing thereof is as follows:

a) By the issuance of the $1,377,500 serial bonds of said

LEGAL NOTICE

Town, authorized to be issued pursuant to this bond resolution and

b) By the issuance of the $72,500 capital notes of said Town hereby authorized to be issued pursuant to this bond resolution. Such capital notes shall be sold at private sale and all further powers in connection with the details and the sale thereof are hereby delegated to the Supervisor, the chief fiscal officer, in accordance with the Local Finance Law. Pursuant to Section 107.00 of the Local Finance Law, the proceeds from the sale of such capital notes will be provided prior to the issuance of the bonds herein authorized or bond anticipation notes. Said capital notes shall constitute the down payment required by Section 107.00 of the Local Finance Law.

Section 3. It is hereby determined that the period of probable usefulness of the aforesaid specific object or purpose is thirty years, pursuant to subdivision 11(a)(1) of paragraph a of Section 11.00 of the Local Finance Law. It is hereby further determined that the maximum maturity of the serial bonds herein authorized will exceed five years.

Section 4. Subject to the provisions of the Local Finance Law, the power to authorize the issuance of and to sell bond anticipation notes in anticipation of the issuance and sale of the serial bonds herein authorized, including renewals of such notes, is hereby delegated to the Supervisor, the chief fiscal officer. Such notes shall be of such terms, form and contents, and shall be sold in such manner, as may be prescribed by said Supervisor, consistent with the provisions of the Local Finance Law.

Section 5. The faith and credit of said Town of Oyster Bay, Nassau County, New York, are hereby irrevocably pledged to the payment of the principal of and interest on such obligations as the same respectively become due and payable. An annual appropriation shall be made in each year sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on such obligations becoming due and payable in such year.

Section 6. The validity of such bonds, capital notes and bond anticipation notes may be contested only if:

1) Such obligations are authorized for an object or purpose for which said Town is not authorized to expend money, or

2) The provisions of law which should be complied with at the date of publication of this resolution are not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the date of such publication, or

3) Such obligations are authorized in violation of the provisions of the Constitution.

Section 7. Upon this resolution taking effect, the same shall be published in full in Massapequa Post, Mid Island Times, Syosset Tribune & Locust Valley Leader, together with a notice of the Town Clerk in substantially the form provided in Section 81.00 of the Local Finance Law.

Section 8. This resolution is adopted subject to permissive referendum in accordance with Section 35.00 of the Local Finance Law.

"WHEN I HEARD ABOUT U.S. SAVINGS BONDS' COMPETITIVE RATE..."

WARNER BROS. INC. © 1986
Used with permission

Everyone's amazed when they hear what U.S. Savings Bonds have to offer.

Savings Bonds earn market-based interest rates—just like money market accounts—so you're guaranteed a competitive return, no matter what happens to interest rates. All you have to do is hold your Bonds for five years.

What's more, the interest you earn is completely free from state and local income taxes. And federal taxes can be deferred. You can buy Bonds for as little as $25. And it's easy—purchase them where you work or bank. For the current rate, call 1-800-US-BONDS.

Current Membership Rosters For Kiwanis, Lions And Rotary Organizations

Special to Mid Island Times
By Valerie Pakaluk

Recent articles appearing in this newspaper on the three local service organizations—Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary—prompted this follow-up to tie up the series. Thanks to club presidents and publicity people for their prompt and generous help in getting the current rosters to us in time for deadline this week. Perhaps you would all like to know the men who make up the current membership rosters.

In Service

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Robert J. Young, a resident 54 Williet Ave., Hicksville, was graduated from Coast Guard recruit training.

Young attended the eight-week training at the Coast Guard Training Center, Cape May, N.J. Among the subjects he studied were first aid, Coast Guard history and seamanship, communications, damage control, firefighting and physical conditioning.

A 1985 graduate of Hicksville High School, he joined the Coast Guard Reserves in May 1986.

This 1939 Kiwanis Club photo shows some of the club's members posing outside the Hicksville Inn. Those identified so far are as follows:

Back: unidentified, Jay Smith, Dr. Walter Stilliger; unidentified clergyman; Frank Chlumsky, Councilman; Percy Maud, Printer; unidentified; Archie Mowen, undertaker.

Front: Jay Schyartz, Lawyer-Judge; Leon Galloway, teacher; Morris Rochman, Lawyer; Tony Mussel;

Dr. George Laucks, Chiropractor; Dr. Chas. Masek, dentist; Bill DeFensis, printer; John Stark, dairy; Bill Kemp, Gulf SS; Dr. Bob Ferdinand, dentist.

Why take a chance on your family's health...when help is just a phone call away?

Choosing the right physician for your family is an important responsibility, one you take seriously. You need to be well informed. And you need to know your options.

At Community Hospital, we can assist you with this important decision. Our free Physician Referral Service takes the guesswork out of choosing a physician.

The Service introduces you to some of the most highly respected physicians on Long Island. Whether you require the services of a Family Practitioner who has evening or weekend office hours, or a physician who specializes in a particular field, or one who speaks a foreign language, the Physician Referral Service can point you in the right direction. And many of our physicians have special interests in areas that may be important to you such as weight control, diabetes, sports medicine, or problems associated with the aging process.

Don't wait for an emergency. Let us help you make that important decision...TODAY:

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

In light of the fact that less affluent school districts do not receive enough revenue from property taxes to match pupil costs of richer districts, do you think that the real estate property tax should continue as a means of funding school budgets?

Input Callers Mixed On Kent State U. Monument

Callers to Input were mixed in their answers to this question: "Do you think there should be a memorial erected to the students who died in the Vietnam protest at Kent State University?" Here are some of the answers:

NO MEMORIAL

No. There should not be a memorial. The students were within their rights to protest the war if they wanted and it was a tragedy that things got out of hand and students lost their lives in the protest. But, to single this protest out simply because things got out of hand does not make much sense. Actually, the students were simply voicing opinions. There should be no monument and no applause for the tragedy. J.T.

MEMORIAL NEEDED

Yes. The students tried to express an opinion which, at the time, was not a popular one and National Guard troops were sent in and I believe needlessly killed the students. If this is allowed to go unnoticed, then anyone with a grievance will be intimidated from expressing a view. K.W.

TROOPS DESERVE CREDIT

It is absolutely unbelievable that a memorial should be considered for these protesters. Many of them were deferred from the war and did not go in it because they were students. They do not seem to be the bravest of their time. True, some lost their lives but this was more an accident than a contemplated risk. The men who fought the war deserve our sympathy because they did not get the backing and encouragement of a government that, through the democratic processes, decided to go to war. The troops were undermined by the protests and the result is that the war was lost and so was a portion of the world that is now under ruthless Communist rule. F.R.

NO RIGHT TO BLOCK

I think that if the university wants to put up a monument that it should do so and that it might be worthwhile, but I do not think that as money should be used for this purpose. The dissenters exercised their rights. The action of the National Guard was wrong. But, the protesters should have been dispersed in a different way after they had made their point. The right to speak does not mean the right to block or force the views on other students. I do not know what went on there exactly because I only read news reports, but in other places protesters blocked others who did not agree with them from going about their business. There is nothing in the Constitution that suggests that dissenters have the right to block others. D.B.

PATRIOTS

Yes. There should be a monument to the Kent State students. They are just as much patriots as those who helped form the Revolution that brought about this country. M.G.

TRAGEDY OF TIMES

No. I think that the Kent State students were caught up in a tragedy of their times. The protest was mishandled but this is not reason to make what happened a national monument. N.T.

FAVORS MEMORIAL

In reference to the Question of the Week, I definitely think there should be a memorial for the students who died in the Vietnam protest at Kent State University. These four students died while protesting and exercising their rights as Americans to assemble and speak freely. They are heroes just as the Americans who died fighting for their country are. V.G.

PRIVATE FUNDING

Nothing has caused as much controversy or divided our country as much in recent years as the Vietnam war. Although I do not oppose the idea that a memorial be erected to the students of Kent State, I do not think the government should support the funding of this. Everyone is entitled to their own opinion. Unfortunately, some people die for what they believe in. C.P.

DIFFERENT VIEW

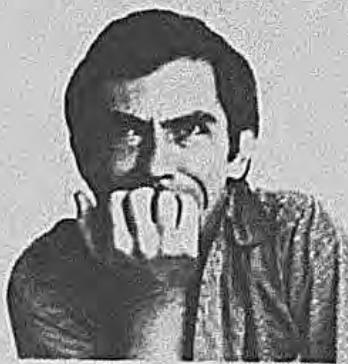

In answer to your question, there should be a memorial erected to the brave soldiers who were at Kent State preventing the anarchy that had been building in this town. I had the pleasure of talking to a priest who was there at the time and he told me the day before there had been all kinds of rioting. This was just a continuation and the ball was rolling into greater and greater anarchy and destruction of property. These soldiers had no other option but to fire on these bums who were trying to destroy the area. A.D.P.

MIght ENCOURAGE MORE

I don't know whether the idea of a memorial to the four Kent State students is or is not being given serious consideration. I hope not--not because the opposing ideas of the students did not deserve consideration but because singling this incident out to glamorize violent dissent with government policies of this magnitude and sensitivity could only serve to encourage similar public exhibitions. I can only believe that the Ohio National Guard were forced to resort to violence in an effort to control a runaway situation demanding corrective action of that kind. From what I read as to the behavior of college students today with respect to similar situations with strong political or social overtones, I have the impression that the inclination is to be heard but not to use violence as a means of getting their point across. Unreasoning violence in cases like this does not change a thing--if anything, it often serves only to harden the determination to follow the original decision. History books tell the story of the encounter at Kent State but, in my opinion, putting into words the type of message that some would like to perpetuate in granite, would be impossible and inappropriate. How To Make Decisions

(“The Hamlet Syndrome”)

By Joseph T. Liscalzo

Even then I had no regrets taking an elective course which was considered difficult and inappropriate for a sociology or psychology major - English Literature: Shakespeare. With not much knowledge as to what was to come later in my life, I nevertheless enjoyed analyzing such plays as "The Merchant of Venice," "Macbeth," "Hamlet," etc., and benefited even more from examining and interpreting the behavior, the thoughts, the feelings of such powerful characters as Macbeth, Lady Macbeth, Hamlet, Portia, etc., etc. Iago, in the play "Othello," was one of my favorites. He was perplexing and challenging, especially to one of college age.

In the years that have followed, I have come to learn much more about the real people in the everyday drama of life than I ever did about the characters created by Shakespeare but there have been similarities too. One such similarity influenced me to create the above label and employ it gently and lightly with some people, when and where appropriate.

Indecision is a trait present in many of us human beings - not by "decision" or choice. In fact, it is an undesirable trait, a depressing trait, a tension producing trait. Dante, many years ago, found indecision so distasteful, so alien, that he placed indecisive people in the lowest level of Hades. Not necessary today. Indecisive human beings place themselves in a torment or turmoil, a kind of living "hell" with their indecision. "To be or not to be" - almost literally became a frequent expression in therapy sessions. It led me to use the label "the Hamlet syndrome" with so much favorable response and understanding that I have used it regularly.

Most of the time, I utilize the label - "the Hamlet syndrome" as a prelude to a didactic explanation on how to approach decision making. May I expostulate here with the sincere hope that the explanation may add clarity and encouragement on this so important phenomenon in human behavior?

First of all, I truly believe that the preoccupation, the apprehension about the horror of a "wrong" decision is inhibiting, stifling and anxiety producing. Learn from children. Notice how spontaneous they are most of the time and then how dramatically nervous, fearful, inhibited they become at the suggestion that they have to make a decision and, if wrong, there might be unpleasant consequences. Beginning with that simple reason, I guide children and adults towards four possibilities: a "wrong" decision, a "right" decision, a "bad" decision, and a "good" decision. For the most part, history will determine whether our decisions - good or bad - will be right or wrong. As human beings - responsible human beings - we should avoid "bad" decisions because, for the most part, history will reflect dire consequences to ourselves or to others from "bad" decisions.

What is a "good" decision? What is a "bad" decision? A "good" decision is the result of a process which includes the unique characteristics of the human being. The human being collects information, data through the senses, then examines them, reasons, and deliberates over them. After this reasonable process, for a limited but reasonable period of time, the human being is ready to make a decision. Because he or she has applied his or her unique faculties, the human being can feel and think confidently that a "good" decision has been made - whatever the outcome.

Wisdom and humility demand another consideration unique to the human process. The person reasoning his way towards a "good" decision would certainly benefit from his or her own research into the question and, more importantly, would prudently and modestly find the experiences of others quite worthwhile. Thus, the sensible expectations of the person making a decision are that he utilize his ability to collect data and deliberate over that data and that she wisely and humbly tap the resources and experiences of others during her process of decision making. The product of a "good" decision, one to be proud of and, interestingly, one that will sustain self-confidence in the process and person, even if again history decides that the "good" decision has gone "wrong." Years ago I funnily used investing in Ford's Edsel as an example. Many people deliberated and then took advice from seasoned investors, but their investment in Edsel stock, unfortunately, proved "wrong."

Now, rather obviously, one can discern what a "bad" decision would be. Impulsive decisions are often "bad" decisions. They are decisions made with little or no regard for even "bothering" to collect data; and then with less regard for deliberating - reasoning the question before concluding in a decision. Again, somewhat obviously, this person, reluctant to reason, would also be unlikely to avail himself of research of others' experiences - so, once more, a "bad" decision.

One subtle irony as something of a postscript to the above discussion. And I try gently and carefully to reflect it with my reference to Hamlet. As painful as a "good" decision gone "wrong" might be (remember though, what was said about the satisfied feeling from the process), indecision "to be or not to be" can become much more painful and devastating. Remember something else that was said earlier in this treatise. The unique human characteristic of "common sense" must be enjoined and applied to the process of decision making by adjusting an appropriate amount of time to the importance and impact of the decision.

One final comment, for children especially, but for adults too. Practice is essential. Provide opportunities for yourself to make a multitude of minor decisions or ask someone you respect to allow you to make decisions that you previously might have shunned. Gradually you will develop your confidence to make decisions and, more significantly, you will understand and appreciate the process of human decision making. Then a slight adaptation of one of Shakespeare's most famous lines might be appropriate: "what fools we mortals be" if we don't take advantage of one of our greatest gifts, the ability to reason.

Q. After finishing a meal at a good restaurant I had an experience that could have been avoided by the restaurant. When I offered a particular credit card the waiter said that they did not honor that card and did I have another. I did not have another and barely had enough money to pay in cash. Shouldn't the restaurant have told us in advance which credit cards they accept?

A. Not exactly. You should have inquired in advance if you did not see a decal of the card you had on display. They really have no way of knowing what card you have and it is an accommodation to you that the cards are accepted so you should have borne the responsibility.

Q. Is it allowed for a restaurant to include a tip, automatically, on the bill for food ordered? A friend and I had that happen recently and resented it because the service was very poor and we felt a tip was not in order. Please answer.

A. No, in this country the custom is not to add any tip to the bill and unless the menu states the prices clearly says that this will be done it is not correct. Most people would not be happy with that system in the U.S. because diners have always had a flexible tip system in which they could give a better tip for better service and if this is not kept then the tip is just a fee.

Q. Is it considered bad manners to take anything to drink to your lips while there is still food in your mouth? B.C.J.

A. Yes, because this may leave particles of food in the beverage or leave an unattractive smear on the glass. Your mouth should be empty before you take anything to drink. Certainly you should avoid the effect of "washing down" food that is already in your mouth. It is amazing how many people are guilty of this breach of etiquette.

Q. I do not understand why American restaurants continue to use French wording on their menus. Not long ago I ate in a place where various dishes were described as "a l'Espagnole", "a la Grecque" and "a l'Anglaise." Telling diners that the foods were prepared in the Spanish or Greek or English manner was not very helpful!

A. French cuisine is considered by many people to be the best in the world so it is not surprising that many terms dealing with food preparations are derived from the French!

Your waiter would have been pleased to inform you that a dish served "a l'Espagnole" is combined with tomatoes, onions and olives. One which is "a la Grecque" has a sauce of olive oil, lemon, spices and peppercorns. Anything served "a l'Anglaise" is boiled.

Don't be intimidated by French (or Italian, German, etc.) expressions in menus. Those terms are not difficult to master and after a time you will begin to see they are a useful "shorthand" for the diner, telling him about methods of food preparation and ingredients.

Q. When a couple dines out the woman is frequently placed in a seat against the wall. The man is then seated facing her with his back to the room. In a case like this, is it considered good form for the woman to summon the waiter?

A. Yes, the woman can signal the waiter, if necessary. She can also tell the man when the waiter is approaching so he can turn his head around at the proper moment and speak to him.

LITTLE BUT BIG

The Italian Garden Restaurant at 348 E. Jericho Turnpike, Mineola isn't the biggest restaurant you have listed, but it may be among the best.

We went there last week and enjoyed the fine pasta, shrimp and veal dishes that this big little restaurant serves. You get the feeling that things are being prepared for you instead of on the big assembly line, the way things are done in the very large restaurants.

The food is fine Neapolitan. The service is prompt, personal and well done. This is a restaurant that should be recommended. R.K.

FINE FISH

Last week we went to an authentic Portuguese Restaurant named Estoril Granada. It is located on Mineola Blvd. in Mineola. The fish dishes there are simply wonderful and so many of them offer sauces that are not found anywhere else.

We had a party of four there on Thursday and all of them said that they want to come back again.

The service and the decor make it a nice place to go. I'm sure that other of your readers would want to try it also. H.W.

VERY PLEASED

We have visited the Villa Pottofino on Mineola Blvd. in Mineola several times and have been very, very pleased. We had stuffed veal which was fantastic, the mixed fish dish was great and the service was very concerned, not to mention the owners. After four or five visits we continue to be pleased and want you to really plug this restaurant because it's the best in Italian food. C.D.

Desserts from serendipity

On Jan. 28, 1754, Horace Walpole decided that the English language needed a word for the happy ability to make fortunate but unexpected discoveries. So he turned to an old legend about three lucky princes of Serendip, the old name for Ceylon, and came up with serendipity.

Serendipity struck in my kitchen recently while I was making one of my favorite desserts, Julia Child's recipe for fresh strawberry sorbet.

Fresh strawberry puree is mixed with sugar and egg whites, then frozen. The egg whites act as an emulsifier and an inhibitor to the formation of ice crystals.

As usual, I dumped all the ingredients into my food processor and let the machine make the mixture. But this time I absent-mindedly wandered off while the machine was running, and when I returned a couple of minutes later, I found that the mixture had transformed itself. To my surprise, the egg whites retained much of their power to absorb air and the mixture had increased at least three times its original volume, almost filling the beaker.

What's more, the puffy texture remained after the mixture had been frozen in an ice cream maker. The resulting dessert was as light as parfait but with the intense flavor of fresh strawberries. Since the mixture contains no milk or cream, it is perfect for those who must avoid these products.

And without butterfat, it is relatively low in calories. I said "relatively" — the mixture still has to contain quite a bit of sugar for the right flavor and texture.

More serendipity followed. It turns out that the same procedure produces any number of fresh-tasting frozen desserts using combinations of fruits, say, plums and peaches. This is a good way of using excess odds and ends of fruit on the verge of spoilage.

The basic recipe calls for two pieces of equipment: a food processor and an ice cream maker. Blenders won't do the job. An ice cream machine is not an absolute necessity in every case, however, and some mixtures are firm enough to be spooned over cake or eaten right out of the processor.

I have no clear idea why this procedure works. My guess is that the acid in the fruit promotes the foaming action, an assumption supported by experiments with non-acid mixtures that stayed liquid rather than mounting into a mousse.

Theory matters less than the fact that this procedure is far easier than any other sorbet or frozen parfait recipe I know. With today's kitchen equipment, it comes to close to being automatic.

SERENDIPITY STRAWBERRY SORBET

4 cups sliced fresh strawberries (about 3 cups puree)
1½ cups sugar
Squeeze of fresh lemon juice
2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla and/or 1 tablespoon liqueur, optional

Place berries and sugar in food processor. I use a large model, if you have a smaller machine, proceed in 2 batches.

Process until berries are pureed and ingredients are blended. Turn into bowl and chill in refrigerator. This initial chilling is to promote freezing later on. There is no point in mixing it further at this stage.

When mixture is cold, return it to beaker of processor with egg whites and lemon juice, and let motor run 2 to 3 minutes. The mixture will lighten in color, become foamy, like a mousse, and increase 2 or 3 times in volume.

Turn it into an ice cream maker and freeze according to manufacturer's instructions. A tablespoon of liqueur (such as kirsch) can be added but only at end of ice cream-making process. Beware of adding too much alcohol at any stage, for it will deflate the mousse.

SERENDIPITY PEACH SORBET

4 cups fresh ripe, cut-up peaches, peeled, about 3 cups puree
1 to 1½ cups sugar
Squeeze of fresh lemon juice
2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla or 1 to 2 tablespoons liqueur, optional

Place peaches and sugar in large food processor. (If using small processor, do in 2 batches.)

Process until fruit is pureed and ingredients are blended. Turn into bowl and chill in refrigerator.

When mixture is cold, return it to beaker of processor with egg whites and lemon juice, and let motor run 2 or 3 minutes. The mixture will lighten in color, become foamy, like a mousse, and will increase 2 or 3 times in volume. Turn it into an ice cream maker and freeze according to manufacturer's instructions.

This procedure can be used with just about any fruit. Fruit that is very ripe and soft may be pureed raw. But if it is too firm for that, stew it as directed below.

PUREEING PROCEDURE FOR FIRM FRUITS

4 cups cut-up fruit (peaches, plums, etc.), loosely packed, about 1½ pounds
1 to 1½ cups of sugar
½ cup water
Squeeze of lemon

You may either peel fruit and then simply puree it in food processor when it is cooked, or leave it unpeeled and pass cooked fruit through a sieve, which will remove the peel. I prefer the latter method. The amount of work is about the same, and you make more economical use of the fruit. More important, much of the flavor and color of many fruits is found just under the skin, and this tends to be lost if you peel the fruit first.

Simmer the fruit in the sugar and water for about 10 minutes, until soft. Without the water, the fruit may produce a mixture that is too heavy. Either puree or sieve the fruit, according to the procedure you have chosen. You will have about 3 cups of puree. Chill and then use in the standard recipe above.

A very tasty dessert resulted from the use of 4 cups of chopped rhubarb, stewed with the full amount of sugar. Fresh pineapple is good too. The raw fruit will puree readily; however, it separates after a while and so cannot be used without an ice cream machine. A combination of fresh citrus fruits makes an especially refreshing sorbet as evidenced in the following recipe.

SERENDIPITY ORANGE-GRAPEFRUIT SORBET

3 to 4 cups fresh cut-up oranges and grapefruit segments together with their juice
1½ cups sugar
Squeeze of fresh lemon juice
2 egg whites
1 tablespoon orange liqueur, optional

Peel and cut up the oranges or other sweet citrus fruit. The membranes will add to the body of the dessert. Grapefruit membranes, however, are bitter, so the segments have to be sectioned. Discard all seeds, and squeeze any juice from the core of the grapefruit.

Puree the fruit without the sugar in the food processor. Pass the puree through a coarse sieve, like a colander, to remove large pieces of unprocessed membrane.

Return puree to processor with the remaining ingredients and proceed as above.

SERENDIPITY SORBET WITHOUT AN ICE CREAM MAKER

Firm purées, such as those made with berries or stone fruit, freeze satisfactorily without an ice cream maker.

Turn the mixture into metal bowl and place in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator. From time to time, beat up the mixture with a wire whip or hand mixer.

As a matter of fact, I have let the mixture freeze without beating it up. The result was acceptable, although the texture was not as good.

When set, cover the dessert well with plastic wrap, pressing the wrap onto the surface of the dessert.

This procedure does not work well with fruits that render a large amount of thin juice, such as pineapple, or with the following fruit juice invention. These are likely to separate before they are frozen unless you use an ice cream maker, which keeps the mixture stirred together. In general, the thinner the fruit in the formula, the greater the volume of the resulting foam but the less stability it has.

SERENDIPITY FRUIT JUICE SORBET

1½ cups unsweetened fruit juice (but not those including coconut or other fatty substances)
1½ to 2½ cup sugar, depending on sweetness of the juice
1 egg white
Squeeze of lemon

Chill the fruit juice before mixing. Place in food processor with other ingredients and proceed as above. This mixture will fill beaker of large food processor. If you have a smaller model, stop after about 30 seconds, pour out half the mixture and proceed in 2 batches.

Without fruit pulp to give it body, this mixture produces a very light sorbet. As noted, it will not work well without an ice cream maker.

Alcohol-free party drinks

At almost every kind of get-together these days, from Sunday brunches to formal dinners, more and more guests are passing up alcoholic drinks and sticking to libations that leave them lucid when the party's over. This trend probably reflects both today's heightened concern with fitness and an increased awareness of the dangers of driving after drinking. Whatever the reasons, our patterns of socializing are undergoing a real change.

Most of the substitutes for alcoholic drinks are pretty boring. Cola, iced tea and water just aren't very festive, and so I always mix a batch of special nonalcoholic drinks when I'm entertaining, to let non-drinking guests know that their enjoyment is important to me.

Today's recipes are for five of my favorite alcohol-free drinks. Perfect Virgin Marys and Mock Mimosas are great for brunches, and just as festive as their intoxicating namesakes. Cantaloupe Coolers, Strawberry Pineapple Quenchers and Mango Delights are perfect for hot-weather entertaining.

Many supermarkets and specialty food stores now carry sparkling white grape juice (used in today's recipe for Mock Mimosas).

and sparkling apple cider, both of which are excellent bases for improvising your own non-alcoholic party drinks. Ice cream and fresh fruits are good ingredients for hot weather drinks that you can serve at any gathering.

I hope you'll try and enjoy today's recipes, and that your guests will enjoy them as much as mine do.

FROZEN CANTALOUE COOLERS

Flesh of 1 large, ripe cantaloupe
6 tablespoons frozen limeade
16-20 ice cubes
6 ounces sparkling water

In a blender, combine half of cantaloupe, limeade and sparkling water, and four to six of the ice cubes, and pulse until ice is pulverized. Add another four to six ice cubes and pulse until drinks have a thick, smooth, frozen consistency. If too thin, add more ice and blend again. Repeat the process with the other half of the ingredients.

Garnish the rim of each glass with a lime wedge (optional) and serve immediately.

Makes 4 to 6 drinks.

FROZEN STRAWBERRY PINEAPPLE QUENCHERS

12 large, ripe strawberries
1 cup crushed pineapple (fresh, if available)
½ cup pineapple juice (fresh, if available)
¼ cup canned cream of coconut
10-12 ice cubes
4-6 ounces sparkling water
Slices of fresh pineapple for garnish (optional)

In a blender, combine strawberries, pineapple, pineapple juice, cream of coconut, sparkling water and half the ice cubes. Pulse until ice is pulverized; add the rest of the ice cubes and pulse until mixture has a thick, smooth, frozen consistency. If consistency is too thin, add more ice and blend again.

Garnish the rim of each glass with a slice of fresh pineapple (optional), and serve immediately.

Makes 4 drinks.

FROZEN MANGO DELIGHTS

1 large, ripe mango, peeled and pitted
4 tablespoons frozen limeade
10-12 ice cubes
4-6 ounces sparkling water
Fresh strawberries for garnish (optional)

In a blender, combine mango, limeade and sparkling water, and four to six of the ice cubes, and pulse until ice is pulverized. Add the rest of the ice cubes and pulse until liquid has a thick, smooth, frozen consistency. If consistency is too thin, add more ice and blend again.

Garnish each glass with a fresh strawberry, if desired, and serve immediately.

Makes 3 or 4 drinks.

MOCK MIMOSAS

1 bottle (26 ounces) sparkling white grape juice, well chilled

10-12 ounces freshly squeezed orange juice, well chilled
Fresh mint leaves for garnish
Fresh strawberries for garnish

Fill glasses two-thirds full with sparkling white grape juice, then fill the rest of the way with fresh orange juice. Garnish each glass with a fresh strawberry and a small sprig of mint and serve immediately.

Makes 6 drinks.

PERFECT VIRGIN MARY

24 ounces good quality tomato juice
½ cup freshly squeezed lemon juice
1 tablespoon freshly squeezed lime juice
3 tablespoons prepared horseradish (the fresher the better)
3 dashes Worcestershire or more to taste
2 dashes Tabasco or more to taste
Freshly ground black pepper to taste
6 stalks celery, with leaves, for garnish

In a tall pitcher, combine all ingredients except celery stalks. Add six ice cubes and stir vigorously.

Fill six 12-ounce glasses with ice, place a stalk of celery in each, pour in the blended ingredients and serve immediately.

Makes 6 drinks.

RHUBARB-STRAWBERRY MUFFINS

1 ¼ cups flour
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
Dash of salt
1 egg, slightly beaten
¾ cup milk
½ cup vegetable oil
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
¾ cup diced rhubarb
½ cup sliced strawberries
2 tablespoons brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Preheat oven to 400 F. Grease two 12-cup muffin tins. Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into large bowl. Combine egg, milk, oil, vanilla and orange peel in small bowl. Pour egg mixture into dry ingredients and stir with fork until moistened. Fold in rhubarb and sliced strawberries. Fill muffin cups two-thirds full.

For topping, combine brown sugar and cinnamon. Sprinkle evenly over batter.

Bake for 20 to 25 minutes.

Yield: 2 dozen.

Stewed or diced frozen rhubarb works well, when fresh rhubarb is unavailable. Enhance flavor by adding one teaspoon strawberry essence to batter.

microwave magic

Microwave recipes to cure Septemberphobia

For many years, I regarded the coming of September with something approaching dread. And not without good reason. For most of my childhood and a good chunk of my adult life, it brought an end to easy days in the sun and a return to pencils, desks, books and grades.

And I don't think I'm alone. I've seen it in the faces of college kids and grade schoolers — that look of fearful dismay when they realize that summer is on its way out, and freedom is going with it.

These days, of course, I no longer associate September with being shackled to a desk. I've long since grown accustomed to this state of affairs as a year-round reality.

And yet, the coming of the ninth month still brings a touch of nostalgia for the fast-disappearing summer, and a feeling akin to pity for all those school kids returning to the dreaded grind.

If you sense that your school-age offspring are suffering pangs of Septemberphobia, do them a favor. Turn the tables on their fears and welcome in the month with a special "End of Vacation" dinner. Make the kids' favorite dishes, and be sure to tell them there are worse things than shopping for school clothes and lined notebook paper. Worse things even than P.E. class and oral book reports.

Tell them most adults would gladly exchange an unvarying, year-round 9-to-5 routine for nine months of the three R's. But they'll find out when they grow up, which will be far too soon, poor dears.

Note: For the following menu, bake potatoes ahead of time, prepare filling and spoon into shells. Set aside while ribs cook, then microwave 5 to 9 minutes on HIGH (100 percent power, to heat through. Prepare corn last, as it takes only 3 to 5 minutes.

PORK RIBS IN BARBECUE SAUCE

3 pounds pork spareribs
1 large onion, thinly sliced
1 small green pepper, sliced into thin rings
1 lemon, sliced very thin
Dash pepper
1 cup bottled barbecue sauce

Preparation Time: 5 to 10 minutes

Cooking Time: 30 to 35 minutes (plus 5 minutes standing time)

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Arrange spareribs, bone side up, in 3-quart glass casserole. Cover and microwave 15 minutes, turning ribs over after 10 minutes. Drain off liquid.

Arrange onion, green pepper and lemon slices over ribs. Sprinkle lightly with pepper, then pour sauce evenly over all.

Cover and microwave 15 to 20 minutes longer, until meat near bone is no longer pink.

Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving.

Serves 4.

CHEESE-STUFFED POTATOES

4 medium baking potatoes
½ cup milk
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 tablespoon chopped chives
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon each salt and pepper
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
Paprika

Preparation Time: 5 minutes

Cooking Time: 11 to 19 minutes (plus 5 minutes standing time)

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Scrub potatoes and pat dry. Spread paper towel over floor of oven and arrange potatoes in circles on towel (about 1 inch apart).

Microwave potatoes 8 to 14 minutes, or until soft. Let stand until cool enough to handle, about 5 minutes. Slice top from each potato and scoop out center into mixing bowl.

Add all remaining ingredients except paprika. Mash until fluffy.

Spoon mixture back into potato shells and arrange on serving plate. Sprinkle lightly with paprika.

Microwave 3 to 5 minutes, or until heated through, rotating dish one-half turn after 2 minutes.

Serves 4.

MEXI-CORN

1 (1-pound) can whole corn kernels, drained
¼ cup diced green pepper
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon diced pimientos
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Preparation Time: 5 minutes

Cooking Time: 3 to 5 minutes (plus 3 minutes standing time)

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Combine corn, green pepper, onion, and pimientos in 1-quart glass casserole; stir to mix well. Cut butter into small pieces and melt over top of vegetables.

Cover and microwave 3 to 5 minutes, stirring after 2 minutes, until heated through. Let stand, covered, several minutes before serving.

Serves 4.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. In one of the bathrooms of our "new" old house, an earlier tenant had applied sticky contact paper to the walls and then later painted over it. Over time the paper has begun to peel. Attempts to remove it result in exposing the wallboard.

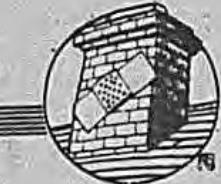

Is there any way short of new walls we can remove this stuff and prepare the walls for painting and/or wallpaper? — B.R.W.

A. Before you can do anything, the contact paper should be removed. Use a hair dryer to warm the adhesive on the paper backing so it can be pulled off.

Once it is removed, you should inspect the wall for any damaged areas. Repair all cracks and holes and apply an undercoat. An undercoat or primer will be important for either wallpaper or paint preparation.

If you select paint for the new wall treatment, use a primer that goes with that paint. The undercoat is especially important when hanging strippable wallpaper; if the wall isn't properly prepared, the wallpaper won't be removable.

Q. Two weeks ago I had my driveway cemented and a carport built. My contractor claims that the cement company delivered to him (at my home) some "hot cement," which dried so fast that it prevented application evenly on the ground.

The result is a very uneven surface on which rainwater pools for days at a time. The dips are quite pronounced, four of them around 3 feet by 2 feet wide. So now, instead of getting my feet muddy and out of my car, I get them very wet.

Useless to tell you how upset I am. Any hope and suggestions on how to improve or remedy this problem? — D.T.

A. The admission by the contractor that the cement was faulty should make him responsible for the repair and any restitution that should be made by the cement company. I am assuming that he arranged for the cement purchase and delivery, and selected the supplier.

It should be possible to put a thin coating over uneven areas and level the low spots. To do this, use a concrete patching material and concrete glue. (Red-E-Crete topping material and Red-E-Crete concrete glue are one brand name.) Be sure to follow instructions on the container carefully if you do this yourself.

Q. We have been plagued with scorpions inside our home. We have used full-strength Diazonox several times, to no avail. We would like to know if there is a more effective chemical to kill scorpions. — W.E.T.

A. Yours is a serious problem and one that probably requires the help of a professional exterminator. Have both your home and yard inspected. Very likely the house will require fumigation, and the yard should be sprayed to prevent scorpions from coming in from the outside.

Although the bites from scorpions are not lethal (unless someone is highly allergic to them), they are poisonous and can cause considerable discomfort.

If you want to try a do-it-yourself remedy, there are some good products on the market. Consult your local nursery for recommendations on a yard spray. Be sure you spray the entire area, particularly the foundation area, of your home. Inside fumigation bombs are available which you can place in each room. You will have to close up the house and leave for several hours to use these.

Arthritis means inflammation of the joint; it can be chronic — meaning that it continues for life — and in some of the arthritic diseases it can be considered degenerative — in that the damage to the joints and connective tissue is irreversible. The two major forms of arthritis are osteoarthritis — degenerative joint disease — and rheumatoid arthritis — probably one of the most painful of arthritic conditions.

Drug therapy is aimed at reducing pain and inflammation or otherwise slowing and controlling the symptoms of arthritis. Physicians can choose from a wide array of anti-arthritis agents: aspirin, non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs and steroids that are relatively fast-acting drugs, as well as gold salts, penicillamine and immunosuppressive agents, which are relatively slow-acting drugs.

Aspirin, with doses of 12 to 24 tablets daily, was the main medication for arthritis until the mid-1970s, when a wide variety of new non-steroidal anti-inflammatory agents (NSAIDs) became available. Pfizer's Feldene was one of these. Others include Naprosyn, Motilin, Indocin and Clinoril. They are both similar and yet very individual in how they work with individual patients.

Q. Is Feldene safe?

A. It is safe and effective by standards mandated by the FDA. It is safer — with less possible side effects — than using aspirin for anti-inflammatory purposes.

Q. What and how does the drug work in treating arthritis?

A. First, arthritis affects, to some degree, almost 40 million Americans. Most are older rather than younger, though arthritis can affect even the very young

Q. What are the possible side effects of NSAIDs?

A. There are side effects for every drug on the market. For the NSAIDs, the possible, but not predictable side effects are gastrointestinal, sometimes ulcers. New studies show gastrointestinal problems with many arthritis patients, even before treatment, so it is unknown whether the problem is really a side effect or that a possible increase is the side effect.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am 17 and in my last year of high school.

There is a certain boy in two of my classes that I would like to go out with. He looks and stares at me a lot and I stare back, but he hasn't asked me out. We do talk but he doesn't say too much.

He talks a lot in class and acts macho so I don't think that he is shy. I think he is interested in me but I'm not quite sure.

How can I find out? — Tammy

Tammy: Many guys act macho to hide their shyness and inability to communicate with the opposite sex.

Be a bit assertive. Since he stares at you it's an excellent sign that he is interested. Tell him after class that you would like to go out with him and if applicable, invite him to a party, family function, church activity or any other activity where people would be gathered.

Let the second date be 1-to-1.

Dr. Wallace: In school we learned of a program called "Safe Rides." It is sponsored by the Boys Club and Girls Club.

Safe Rides provides transportation for teenagers who are drunk and call for rides. These rides are provided on Friday and Saturday evenings from 10 p.m. to 3 a.m. I volunteered to be a driver so I could help my fellow teens and maybe help save a life or two.

When I got home from school and discussed the program with my parents they said no. They are concerned that some drunk teen might try to steal my car, pull a gun on me or try something much worse.

I told them another teen would be riding with me and that organizations would provide extra insurance and they still said no. What can I do to get them to see my views? I really want to help. — Sally Sally: Why not volunteer your time in other activities? Is it possible to answer telephones, do clerical work or any other useful service? Give it a try.

Since your parents are adamant in their decision not to allow you to drive, obey their wishes.

Dr. Wallace: I am a high school junior and I would like to be an attorney when I finish my college career.

Right now, I have a lot of questions on what college I should attend, what courses I should take, job opportunities for lawyers, scholarships that are available and much more. Is there any central location I can write to that will help me?

My sister's husband (they are now separated and getting a divorce) is an attorney, but my mother does not want me to ask him for guidance. I hope you can help. — Brian, Frederick, Md.

Brian: Please write to the American Bar Association, 1155 E. 60th St., Chicago, Ill. 60637. This career organization will, free of charge, supply all the necessary information you request.

Dr. Wallace: My best friend is deathly afraid of getting fat. She cannot pass a mirror without looking at herself for a minute or two. Yet when we go out for something to eat after a school basketball game, she eats more than any of us.

It's not unusual for her to eat two large hamburgers, a large order of fries, a large milk shake and a hot apple turnover. She is a lot thinner than I and I'm filled up with one normal hamburger, a small order of fries and a small soda.

Another friend says this girl might have an eating disorder that starts with the letters "bul."

If it's not dangerous, I might try it. I love to eat and I'd love to be trim and slim. — Peggy Peggy: It's possible your best friend might have bulimia, an eating disorder in which the teen goes on an eating binge and then eliminates the food by self-induced vomiting or laxatives.

Needless to say, bulimia is not a recommended method for weight loss. It can and does cause emotional as well as physical problems.

Another "food abuser" is the teen afflicted with anorexia nervosa, a self-inflicted eating disorder when the "victim" starves away 20 percent or more of her body weight. Even when the victims are slim, they see themselves as overweight. A Gallup Poll taken November 1985, indicated that one teenage girl in eight may be afflicted with bulimia or anorexia nervosa. While both teenage boys and girls can suffer from an eating disorder, girls afflicted outnumber the boys who suffer from bulimia and anorexia, 10-to-1.

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE
Oh holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful and intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depths of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power, to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return, I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. St. Jude Pray for us all who invoke your aid. Amen. Say 3 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Mary's, 3 Glorias. Say for 9 consecutive days. Publication must be promised. This novena has never been known to fail. Thank you for answering my prayers. M.D. hs4

Guidelines on reaping & final fall harvests

By Patrick Denton

As the season of mists and mellow fruitfulness approaches, a few guidelines on those final autumn harvests of fruits and vegetables might be helpful.

ONIONS AND GARLIC: Harvest these bulbs as soon as the tops have died down. Cut off the withered tops, unless you plan to braid and hang them. For successful long-term storage, both garlic and onions should be placed in a single layer in shallow boxes to dry and cure in a warm spot — at a sunny window or glass door, near a wood stove — for about 10 days. Turn them often to thoroughly dry all the surfaces.

When the skins are dry enough to rustle as they are turned, the bulbs are ready for storage. Remove any damaged or thick-necked onions to the kitchen for early use — do not attempt to store them. Arrange loose cured onion and garlic bulbs in clean shallow boxes, and store both in a dark spot that stays cold and dry.
Ideal temperatures are close to but not below, freezing.

POTATOES: Potatoes for storage are harvested when the plants' tops have fully matured and dried. Dig the tubers carefully and allow their surfaces to air-dry thoroughly, out of direct sun, before storing. Never wash potatoes or any other root vegetable before placing them in storage. Remove all pierced and damaged tubers to the kitchen for early use.

Ideal storage conditions for potatoes are dark, humid and cool at 44 degrees to 50 degrees
Fahrenheit. Cold temperatures below 38 degrees Fahrenheit will cause an undesirable sweetening.
And as air circulation is important for successful storage, it's a good idea to place the tubers in slatted or shallow boxes.

TOMATOES: Fully ripened tomatoes (like sweet peppers) keep best in the 44 degree to 55 degree
Fahrenheit temperature range.
Placed in a cooler spot, in the refrigerator for example, they should be left there until they're

For storage and ripening, the tomatoes should be thoroughly clean, either washed in a 1:10 bleach solution or wiped with a clean cloth rung out in such a solution and the fruits dried and stored in single layers out of direct sun.

WINTER SQUASH AND PUMPKINS: Harvest these when they have sized and colored up, and their skins are hard — before frost, to avoid any softening of the skins that can invite rotting. Cut storage squash and pumpkins with a short length of stem, but don't use it as a handle.

Wipe the fruits clean with a cloth rung out in a 1:10 bleach solution, and cure them just like onions and garlic — in a really warm spot for about 10 days to dry and harden their skins. Once cured, winter squash and pumpkins store easily in any dry, cool place.
A storage temperature range of 55 degrees Fahrenheit is ideal.

APPLES AND PEARS: Apples can be harvested when they have sized up and the first few ripe fruits have fallen. To pick apples, lift them gently up against their spurs.
Ripe fruits as a general rule detach easily without harm to the fruiting spur when handled this way.

Pears are picked the same way, but in a less mature state. Left to turn fully ripe and yellow on the tree, they go soft and brown at the core and will not keep. Pick pears when they have sized up, detach easily and are still firm and green, or whitish-green.

Both pears and apples store best in a dark, cold place near to but above freezing, and with a high relative humidity. Try not to store either in the same area as potatoes, as the fruits release ethylene, a gas that hastens sprouting in potatoes.

just about to be used, as chilling can cause some deterioration once the fruits begin to warm up.

Green tomatoes, like unripe melons, need warmer temperatures over 55 degrees Fahrenheit to ripen nicely indoors. Usual room temperatures just slightly on the cool side are fine. The tomatoes should be fully sized up and ideally showing a little orange or red coloring for the best flavor development. However, unripe tomatoes that have at least begun to turn very light green will usually finish ripening satisfactorily indoors.

Give favorite room a summer wardrobe

By Sharon Owen Haven

Q. The whole family hangs out in our comfortable family room that has lots of windows and French doors to a terrace and lawn. We keep it very cozy for the cold months, but I'd like to lighten it up for the summer.

The old summer slipcover idea appeals to me, but do you have any other ideas? — J.D.

A It is not necessarily expensive to summerize your decor, and it is well worth the lift to your spirits. Of course you probably wouldn't want to change the entire house, but why shouldn't a favorite room get a pretty new summer dress too?

Because slipcovers in cool white or pastel-colored cottons are refreshing to the eye and touch, they have long been a popular method of accomplishing a hot weather make-over. Here are some others as well.

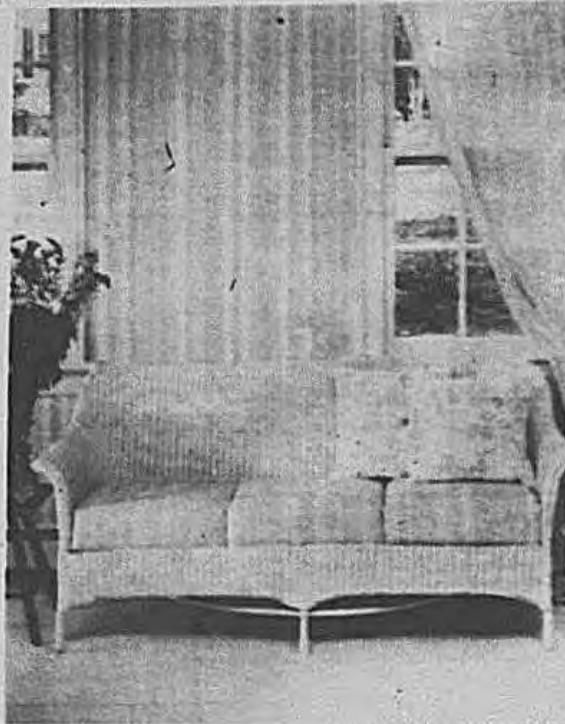

Replace heavy draperies with something simple and light to let in the breezes — you may not need window coverings at all in the summer. Roll up heavy carpets and leave floors bare or substitute cotton dhurries. Put cold weather afghans and winter accessories in the attic and substitute fresh flowers, blooming plants or ferns.

You might also rearrange your furniture to focus attention on your outdoor terrace and lawn instead of toward the fireplace. Even your already-summery wicker might appreciate a fresh coat of paint in one of those delicious new sorbet shades the season has served up.

Q. After years of stripping layers of wallpaper off walls, I am not a fan. I do, however, like color and pattern on my walls.

I got a bid on some hand-stenciling that was beyond my budget. Do you know of any other alternatives? — A.L.

A How about trying a new technique called "wallprinting"? A professional wallprinter uses a machine that looks like a hand-held printing press and can apply

A SUMMER PLACE — By putting heavy accessories in temporary storage and using a few quick-change tricks, you can turn a winter room into an appealing summer place.

a design of your choice directly on a wall in up to three colors of paint. The final result looks like wallpaper but is washable.

Many ready-made designs are available or you can also have a custom design created. The process costs about half of what you would pay to wallpaper and uses no solvents or hazardous materials.

Perhaps the best news for the weary wallpaper stripper is that if you get bored with the pattern, you can simply paint it over and try a new design.

If you would like the names of wallprinters in your locality, write to Solution To Wallpaper, 83E Shaw, Suite 250-C, Fresno, CA 93710; or telephone (209) 432-7181.

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

Difference between old and new Kutani

By James G. McCollam

Q. This tea set consists of teapot, sugar and creamer, six cups and six saucers. On the bottom of each piece is marked "Hand Painted, Kutani, Japan."

What can you tell me about this beautiful set? I understand that Kutani porcelain is quite valuable.

A. First, let me explain. There is "old" Kutani and there is "new" Kutani. "Old" Kutani was made in the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries. "New" Kutani was made in the 20th century and marked "Japan" or "Made in Japan."

Your set of "new" Kutani would sell for about $165 to $175. It was made between 1920 and 1940.

with the enclosed mark on the bottom. There is also a number, #83. I would like to know when this set was made, its value and, if possible, the maker.

A. Your berry set is known as Old Ivory. It was made by Hermann Ohme in Niedersalzbrunn, Germany, during the 1880s. All patterns were numbered, not named. A pattern #83 berry set would sell for $325 to $375.

Ohme was in business from 1882 until World War II.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. We are considering purchasing a dachshund for a pet. We have heard that dachshunds are very susceptible to back problems.

It would be difficult for us to pay for surgery or extensive treatments if back problems developed. Also, it would be difficult to endure the emotional pain of watching a loved pet suffer.

What is your advice?

A. Accepting a pet is a large responsibility. You are to be recommended for considering possible problems prior to purchasing a puppy.

Unfortunately, back problems are relatively common in dachshunds. English bulldogs, Pekingese dogs, French bulldogs, pugs, cocker spaniels, basset hounds, beagles, boxers and bull mastiffs. The dachshund is the breed most often affected.

The risk of occurrence in dachshunds has been estimated to be approximately 10 times greater than for all other breeds combined. About 20 percent of all dachshunds experience back problems at some time during their lives. The peak age at which back problems occur in dachshunds is between 3 and 6 years of age. One method to evaluate the possibility of your chosen puppy ever suffering from back disease is to find out if any of the puppy's relatives has had back disease.

The most common form of back disease in dogs is intervertebral disc disease. Between each two vertebrae (bones of the spinal column) is an intervertebral disc, which absorbs shock and allows movement of the spinal column. Each intervertebral disc has an inner soft center and an outer fibrous capsule. With age and degenerative disease, the discs dehydrate and lose elasticity, and as a result they can rupture or protrude into the spinal cord where they cause pain and loss of function.

The signs of intervertebral disc disease vary with the exact location and degree of rupture of the disc. Disease in the neck region results in a stiff neck, pain and sometimes front leg lameness. Disease in the lower back causes rear leg lameness or paralysis and sometimes loss of bladder and rectal control. Most veterinarians diagnose intervertebral disc disease by evaluation of the history of the signs, observing the signs and reading radiographs of the back.

Treatment varies with the location and severity of the protrusion of the disc, often involving the use of corticosteroids to reduce swelling, enforced rest or confinement, physical therapy of the paralyzed limbs, pain relievers, good nursing and manual expression of the bladder and rectum.

Caring for a paralyzed dog can be a very trying experience. Some dogs do not ever recover use of their rear legs. A special cart with wheels has been designed to support the paralyzed rear legs of dogs that cannot be helped by other methods, allowing the dog to move about quite freely and is surprisingly well accepted by most dogs. Surgery to relieve pressure on the spinal cord is recommended in some cases. Your veterinarian can recommend the best forms of treatment for your particular dog, should the need arise.

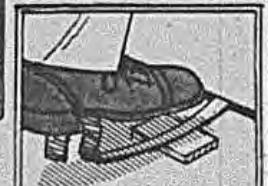

Although disc disease is a common occurrence in dachshunds, this should not deter you from purchasing the puppy you desire. It is quite possible that if you care for the dog properly, he will never suffer from back disease.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

As I write these words to you, school has already begun. I can't help thinking of a young neighbor of mine who was starting first grade.

That afternoon I stopped to talk to her mother and asked how the little one liked school. We continued our chat for a while when I noticed the first grader looked unhappy. Finally she lost patience with the two grown-ups.

"Mom", she said, "don't you know I have to get home soon so I can do my homework?"

The mother and I had a little chuckle, and later I thought to myself that the six year old had the right attitude to succeed in school. That is many years ago. She must be all grown up now. But every September when I see children off to first grade I think of my little neighbor (as she was then).

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Karen Hill and Ann Gearino. Congratulations to both of you!
