Water Restrictions Loom In Hicksville Water Dist.

The Board of Commissioners, Hicksville Water District, has been directed by the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation to impose district wide restrictions on water use. Recent newspaper releases lately have spelled out the various directives issued by the agency. We have protested their methods since the adequacy of supply problems are not in our area but in the western part of the county. Our protests have been unsuccessful, and we have no choice but to impose such measures if we are to conform to the restrictions.

You must be aware that for many years the Hicksville Water District has taken pride in planning and implementing a plentiful and wholesome water supply for all the residents and businesses in Hicksville. We have provided you with as much water as you wanted and when you needed it.

Very shortly you will receive a letter from the District representing a preliminary survey to ascertain which potential changes we might make that are acceptable to you. We request that you please respond to this survey, so we can evaluate our options.

Hicksville Dedicates Korean & Vietnam Memorials Nov. 11

By Richard Evers

The sacrifices and service of men and women in wartime are timeless as history makes clear. Courage and fortitude in human beings are living virtues and ideals commemorated by thoughtful people long after heroes and the faithful troops in ranks are dust. Hicksville calls to mind this truism on this Veterans Day, November 11, when it honors its sons and daughters who served in the Korean War and in the Vietnam War.

The dead and living survivors of those epic struggles against aggression will be honored on Tuesday by the unveiling and dedication of two war memorials at the Hicksville Memorials Site, the south end of the Junior High School at Fourth Street and Jerusalem Avenue. Formal services will begin promptly at 9:45 a.m. and will be followed by the traditional Veterans' Day services at 10:30.

Among the invited honored guests who have expressed an intention of being present are Hicksville Gold Star mothers: George Lang, holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor for his valor in Vietnam; Assemblymen and Councilmen; religious, school and organizational leaders. Class officers and National Honor Society officers of the Hicksville Senior and Junior High School student bodies will take part.

The speakers for the day include William Bennett, President of the School Board; Sheila Noeth, editor and publisher; Conrad Steers, President of the Nassau Chapter of the Vietnam Veterans of America, and Jeff Fried, President, High School Honor Society.

The Hicksville Korean and Vietnam War memorials are a testament to this old village's enduring community spirit and its sense of values. Hundreds of residents and business leaders have raised the funds for these monuments which are being erected to stand with the Village's WWI and WWII Monuments.

"Over the Top" goes the Hicksville Veterans Monument drive as Director William "Bill" Wagner of the Wagner Funeral Home presents Connie Steers, fund drive chairman, with a check for $500 this week. The Hicksville community - hundreds of residents and business people, has raised $10,000 for the dedication of a Korean War, Vietnam War memorials on November 11.

Post Office Trivia Facts

The Blériot monoplane carried the first U.S. airmail from Garden City to Mineola. To honor the famous flier of this plane, Nassau County has named a roadway after him. Earle Ovington Blvd. leads to the Cradle of Aviation Museum from Hempstead Turnpike.

"Neither snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night...."

The most familiar post office well-worn saying is a city block long and is carved above the entrance to the general New York City Post Office. "Contrary to popular belief, this saying is not the official U.S. Postal Service motto. It doesn't have one," says Roger Nienaber, Hicksville General Manager/Postmaster. "But the Postal Service does have an interesting and often humorous past," he added.

In 1872, the post office forecasted weather for the War Department. Some post offices experimented with stamping weather predictions on the back of envelopes. This practice proved less than successful and was quickly stopped.

From 1862 to 1876, the Post Office Department issued postage currency because the Civil War had brought about a shortage of hard money. In 1911, the Postal Savings System was inaugurated and was at one time the largest single savings "bank" in the country.

In the early 1900's, rural mail carriers, working with the Agriculture Department, conducted pig surveys.

In 1911, the first experimental air flight occurred between Garden City and Mineola. Earle Ovington, the first U.S. Aeroplane Mail Carrier, carried 640 letters and 1280 postcards.

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond, center, and State Senator Ralph J. Marino cut the ribbon at a grand opening ceremony for the Court Reporting Institute School of Stenotype in Hicksville. Also on hand were, left to right, Associate Director Michelle Houston, Dean of Admissions Mary Hauptman and Financial Aid Officer Ted Doukas. Located in the Mid-Island Plaza, the Court Reporting Institute is the only school on Long Island devoted exclusively to teaching court reporting.

In 1912, an Idaho family mailed their 4 year old daughter to a town 100 miles away via parcel post. The postmaster ruled the girl met the requirements for sending baby chicks and attached a 53 cent postage stamp to her coat.

In 1958, jewel merchant Harry Winston entrusted the Post Office Department with the then million dollar Hope Diamond. He mailed it to the Smithsonian Institution wrapped in plain brown paper.

When a new post office Leola, Pa. opened, the postmaster asked for a hitching post because of heavy horse and wagon traffic. That was in 1962. The hitching post is still there.

Last year, over 5,000 carriers were bitten by dogs, a fact funny to neither the Postal Service nor the carrier bitten. Less serious attacks were reported by a carrier bitten by a goose, one hospitalized after a struggle with a bantam rooster and another carrier in Texas who reportedly had to flee repeatedly from a child's Easter present, a bunny.

"Today the Postal Service is vital to the health and welfare of the American economy," says Mr. Nienaber. "More than 450 million pieces of mail are moved each day by postal employees - that's over 140 billion pieces a year. Taken on a per capita basis, we handle about 600 cards, letters, magazines, catalogs and packages for each person in the USA each year."

Halloween Party A Big Success

The Parents and Children of Burns Avenue School report that their Halloween party was a big success! The children enjoyed pizza, juice, twinkies, songs "goodie bags" and the entertainment of John Foss the "Uni-Cyclone", the world champion unicyclist. Mr. Foss complimented the children for their good behavior and enthusiasm.

The following stores and companies helped with donations, without which the party would not have been a success: Carvel - W. Village Green; Pathmark; Hostess; King Kullen; Foodtown; Arby's; Jack's Restaurants; C.J.'s General Store; Grand Union; Record World; Maltzies; Radio Shack; Athletes Foot; Stacey Hallmark; Videorama; Fair Haven; McDonalds.

Living In The Fast Lane

George and Jeanne Ofenloch

George Ofenloch, a 59 year old resident of Bethpage, has been chasing his wife, Jeanne, for a good part of his life. But then, he's not the only one. In the 1984 New York City Marathon, Jeanne at the age of 56, had some 12,000 persons run after her because she was the fifth woman to finish in her age group, 251st out of 2,394 women and 3,396 out of 15,592 total finishers with a time of 3:44:50.

If there is any event which is symbolic of the Ofenloch's relationship, perhaps it is the marathon. George remembers Jeanne Donohue when they were both students at Sewanhaka High School in Floral Park. "Although I didn't know her personally at that time, I can still see that flaming red hair streaking through the halls. She was fast even then." But like the marathon which is a long race with many twists, their lives took a turn away from one another.

Upon graduation, George joined the Navy and started a life apart from Jeanne. After his discharge he became a police officer for the Nassau County Police Department, eventually retiring twenty-five years later in 1974 with the rank of sergeant from the Fifth Precinct in Valley Stream. But during this time their paths crossed again and in 1971 they married.

In 1979 the Ofenlochs had gone to Eisenhower Park to see Jeanne's brother, Ray, run the Long Island Marathon. The sight of Ray crossing the finish line so inspired George that he vowed that he, too, would complete a marathon. "I went out the very next day and bought a pair of Pro Ked running shoes. I sneaked down the block to the corner so the neighbors couldn't see me and then ran a mile. Well, I really didn't run the entire mile; I ran, walked it for the first couple of weeks until I eventually could run the entire distance."

George increased his training regimen until he finally arrived at the 45 miles that he runs weekly at an 8 to 9 minute pace. Along the way, he has entered at least fifty races by his own count and established PR's of 34:30 in the five mile Bethpage Tune-a-thon, 43:30 in the Plainview 10K and

3:44:20 in the 1982 Long Island Marathon. He has also completed the New York City Marathon in 3:46:05. But his greatest thrill was finishing his first Long Island Marathon in 1981 in 3:58:10. "The exhilaration of crossing the finish line in Eisenhower Park that first time is beyond words. I felt as if I had accomplished something of tremendous importance. All of the pain and hard work was forgotten in that instant. It was one of the most emotional moments of my life."

Jeanne, too, had an emotional moment when she completed her first marathon on Long Island in May, 1984 in 3:43:53. "It was absolutely my best racing experience, but also my toughest. I felt as if I wanted to laugh and cry at the same time when I finally stopped running. The time spent on the course constitutes my finest hours as a runner."

There have been many other races for Jeanne. She has established herself as one of the finest master runners in the Greater Metropolitan Area, if not the country with such notable times as a 42:12 first place in the Plainview 10K and a 1:33:09 second place finish in the prestigious Brooklyn Half Marathon in 1986. Surprisingly, though, Jeanne is not a competitive individual. She doesn't run to win or for the accolades that winning brings. "I love the movement. It's a perfect way to relax and feel the tension drain out of me. I run because it makes me free."

Running not only makes Jeanne free, it brings her closer to George. "The reason I started running was that I wanted to share the experience with George. He was so fascinated with it, that I knew the two of us could bring more to each other if we had this common bond between us. Of course, I was a smoker then. Incidentally, at the beginning of my racing career I had won a second place age group trophy in a 5K race in Seaford. As I was waiting for my name to be called, I sneaked a cigarette in a hallway in the high school. Mike Polansky, President of the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club, nearly had apoplexy when he saw what I was doing and explained to me that I was committing a serious breach of etiquette and, furthermore, if I wanted to remain a member in good standing of the Club, I had better change my ways. I did and Mike breathed easier. As a matter of fact, so did I.

"Not only did running bring me closer to George, but it gave me the motivation and strength to break a destructive habit.

George and Jeanne Ofenloch are two people running together in the pack for the entire distance who also happen to be husband and wife.

Everyone's amazed when they hear what U.S. Savings Bonds have to offer. Savings Bonds earn market-based interest rates—just like money market accounts—so you're guaranteed a competitive return, no matter what happens to interest rates. All you have to do is hold your Bonds for five years.

What's more, the interest you earn is completely free from state and local income taxes. And federal taxes can be deferred. You can buy Bonds for as little as $25. And it's easy—purchase them where you work or bank. For the current rate, call 1-800-US-BONDS.

Kiwanis Club Makes Donation

The Board of Directors of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club decided to make a generous donation to the Hicksville Veterans Monument Fund Drive honoring the Korean and Vietnam veterans from Hicksville when they heard that the funds available to date might not be sufficient to completely pay for the monuments.

Mr. Conrad Steers, President of the Nassau Chapter of the Vietnam Veterans of America and the Chairman of the Hicksville Veterans Monument Fund Drive, was advised of the decision (as well as the amount of the donation) and was asked to come to the October 29 meeting of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club for the official presentation of the check.

Ticket Dispute Ends In Arrest

An 18-year-old Hempstead man was arrested and charged with first degree robbery of two transfer tickets from an MTA bus driver in Hicksville at 5:20 p.m. on October 29.

A passenger, Arnold A. Washington, student, entered the bus on Duffy Ave. Hicksville and gave the bus driver, Susan Stager, 30, a transfer. The passenger demanded the transfer ticket back and when the bus driver refused, he stated he would "cut her up" if she didn't. He grabbed two tickets from the bus driver who pushed an emergency button on the bus which in turn notified Nassau County Police. Bureau of Special Operations Police Officer Anthony Turano and Joseph Haeslein responded and arrested Washington. The transfer tickets were recovered and a retractable razor was found in the possession of Washington.

As a preparation for Halloween Mrs. Grumo's morning and afternoon kindergarten children visited Schmitt's Pumpkin Farm in Melville. They were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Rosol's class. The children rode on a wagon to the fields where each child picked a pumpkin. After leaving the pumpkin farm, the children went to McDonald's in Hicksville where they enjoyed eating a delicious lunch. It was a fun day!

Hicks. Express Takes A Double

The Hicksville Express, an intramural soccer team, twice defeated the opposition, the Hicksville Bucks, by scores of 4-0 and 5-3 this past weekend. The Saturday game, the season finale, saw the Express finish in second place. Sunday's game was a preliminary, a prelude to next week's semi-finals.

In Saturday's game, the Express displayed great teamwork and hustle as the defense hung tough while the offense exploded. Michael Baglieri, our scoring machine, put in two goals, while Tracy Koetter and Matthew Hamlin contributed one apiece to lead the team. Also doing a great job of offensive support was John Kurkowski, Michael Bernius and Chris DeStefano. The defense, in control throughout the contest, featured Joey Zaffuto, Robin Blicher, Brian Swacey, Bryan Lagas and Matthew DePalma, our sure handed goalie.

Again on Sunday, the Express demonstrated crisp passing and soccer savvy as goals were scored by Michael Baglieri and Michael Bernius (one apiece) and Tracy Koetter, our dynamo, scoring three big goals. The Express never let down, supplying big, booming kicks or thread-the-needle ball control as needed.

Thanks to Coach Steve Baglieri and Assistant Lenny DeStefano for the terrific assistance provided to these youngsters. Now on to the semi-finals!

Our Children

Bilingual skills enrich life

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Q: My wife and I disagree on the use of a foreign language with our children in our home. To me it isn't "foreign" because it is the one with which I was brought up.

My folks always spoke Spanish at home, I speak it well, and I want my young children to speak and enjoy it too.

My wife and her family speak only English. She insists that because English is the dominant language in this country our children should be limited to it. Besides she believes that speaking Spanish at home will create a handicap for them when they enter school.

That is the issue: I feel a second language broadens them; she feels it restricts them in some way. What is your opinion?

A: If only a different language is spoken at home until a child enters school, that fact could possibly delay for a while his or her learning related to reading and other skills based on English.

However, the richness that comes from knowing two languages (plus perhaps some of the accompanying cultural factors) may more than compensate for that delay. Because young children often seem to have little if any difficulty in using two languages, limiting them to one during the early years may result in "losing" some of that excellent time for acquiring both.

Many of us as we grew older have been sorry we didn't share more of the background, culture and language of our parents. When it became too late to absorb that enrichment, we often realized how much we had missed.

The opinions of others may not agree with mine. I'll be glad to give them "equal time" if they will share their thoughts with me.

Q: My husband takes pride in the exercise he does. He goes to a spa near the house three evenings a week and seems to enjoy very much what he does there.

I, of course, see nothing wrong with that, but now that he has started to take our 10-year-old son with him, I've begun to wonder about it. It doesn't appear that either of them overdoes the exercise, but is it good for a boy that age to have regular, organized activities like that?

I wouldn't have any question if it were baseball or some other sport, but somehow this seems different to me.

A: You and your husband might ask your family physician about types and intensity of exercise that are appropriate for your boy.

There seem to be at least two possible benefits that can evolve from this practice if suitable exercising is done and enjoyed: The physical results and the developing companionship with his father.

The fact that your husband takes the boy with him indicates that he recognizes the importance of a sound father-son relationship, a matter some parents fail to understand.

Q: It drives me up the wall to see our 6-month-old baby eating with his hands, digging into all kinds of gooey food. It wouldn't be so bad if all the food stayed in his mouth or on his tray, but he is such a slob!

The amazing thing is that the mess doesn't bother my wife at all, but I can't stand it.

Are all babies that sloppy, or just ours?

A: A little more information about child development may help you out. Your local library or a competent bookstore can suggest books on the subject that will put your mind at ease.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Social security number issued to infants?

Q: My granddaughter recently had a baby. When I inquired at the bank about setting up a fund for the baby I was asked for her Social Security number. Don't you have to be at least a certain age before a Social Security number can be issued? — O.B.

A: No. Social Security numbers can be issued to infants, even newborn infants. Besides a birth record, evidence of identity such as hospital or doctor's record, hospital wristband, baby book or newspaper birth notice must also be submitted. Contact your local Social Security office for additional information.

Q: My mother mentioned that she might purchase some "medigap" insurance. What is medigap insurance? Does she need it since she has Medicare?

A: "Medigap" insurance is a term used to describe privately purchased supplemental health insurance. Medicare pays a large part of health care expenses, but not all. Because of the limits and deductibles that are part of both Medicare Part A and B, many people buy supplemental health insurance of one kind or another. There is a wide variety of supplementary insurance plans, each offering an array of options and benefits. Therefore, an individual should shop carefully before choosing such a plan.

Q: I've been getting SSI for over a year. Not long ago I received a call from the Social Security office asking about my income and bank account. I was also asked questions regarding who lived in the household with me. Why is this information needed? — W.T.

A: We review every SSI case from time to time to make sure people receiving checks should still receive them and that they are receiving the correct amount. These reviews are required by law. The review is done my mail, phone or personal interview.

Q: Since retiring two years ago, I haven't done any work. I was thinking of working during the Christmas holidays. If I earn under the allowed amount, am I required to report my employment? — C.K.

A: You should report promptly any change in your work situation to avoid receiving an overpayment of benefits that you would have to repay. If you are 65 or older you can earn $7,800 in the 1986 and still be entitled to all checks. If you are under age 65, the earning limitation is $5,760.

A Boo's Who At Willet School

In traditional form, students, faculty, and parents at Willet Avenue School, Hicksville, dressed in costume and participated in the annual Halloween Parade. Highlighting the event this year, faculty members dressed as Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs and sang parodies of the Dr. songs as they marched.

After the parade, of course, were the usual Halloween games such as ducking for apples, donut on a string, telling ghost stories, followed by lots of great refreshments.

Every Willet Ave. student appeared in costume for the Halloween Parade.

Willet Ave. faculty members enjoyed the parade as much as their students: Teachers Nancy Stewart appeared as Sneezey, Sophie Milburn as Sleepy, Joanne Crown as Happy, Margaret Boiz as Snow White, Nurse Bridget Herzlinger as Doc, Rhoda Ratner as Bashful, and Barbara Koenig as Dopey. Principal Michael Dunn also participated, dressed as Grumpy.

A Plea From Lee Is Answered

By Tom McGovern

On Thursday, October 30, at the Lee Avenue School Mr. Conrad Steers, President of the Nassau Chapter of Vietnam Veterans and Chairman of the Hicksville Monument Fund, drew two (2) winning tickets in a raffle designed to raise funds for the Hicksville Monument Fund.

The fund raiser was the result of the ideas and efforts of two highly motivated parents of Lee Avenue children, Barbara Lewis and Linda Mirro, in cooperation with Mr. John Mateer, the school Principal, and the generosity of the school art teacher, Miss Eisen, who donated an original painting and hand painted stationary which were first and second prize in the raffle.

The first place winner was Peter Martin of Mrs. Marra's A.M. kindergarten class and second place went to Angela Patti of Mrs. Pfizenmayer's 2nd grade class.

Mr. Steers was overwhelmed at the response to this drive and congratulated all the children who rallied to raise a whopping $442 for this cause. An invitation was extended to all to attend the dedication ceremonies which will take place at the Hicksville Junior High School on Veterans Day, November 11 at 9:45 a.m.

Shamrocks Boot Cold Springers

By A. Blücker

The Hicksville Shamrocks 1974 boys traveling soccer team defeated the Cold Spring Harbor Dragons 2-1 this past weekend at Cantiague Park, bringing their Long Island Junior Soccer record to 3 wins, 1 loss and 3 ties.

The Shamrocks were at their defensive best throughout the game, led by goalie Eddie Jacobsen, fullbacks Chuck Oliver and Chris Friedrich, who had his best game of the year, and sweeper Chris Doyle, who took all Shamrock goal kicks with beautiful results. Stopper Brian Harkins was at his hustling best and put in the Shamrocks first goal on a pass from left wing Karl Rice, on a boomer from 20 yards out.

Matthew Pordum was all over the field at center half, ably assisted by the excellent play of halfbacks David Lovato, Brian Pine and Domenick Perillo. Eric Blücker, who played right wing, striker and fullback, was perfectly positioned to the right of the goal, to put in the winning shot off a perfect corner kick by striker Jason Kingsley. Karl Rice was a dynamo at left wing, halfback and full. Chris Koetter was in the thick of the action at striker, right wing and fullback. Jason Kingsley made his presence felt from wing, striker and half. Junior Tomlinson was at the heart of many charges from wing and just missed heading in a corner kick which barely went over the bar.

Congratulations to the Shamrocks, who are fighting for second place in their division with nine points and three games to go, coach Herb Pordum and assistant coach Glenn Kingsley, Jr. Also hearty get well wishes to Greg Szumowski, out with a leg injury and Gregg Grusso, also out with a leg injury.

Old Bethpage Gasses Up

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Joseph Colby held a press conference today, October 30, at the site of Long Island's largest methane gas to electricity generating operation.

Referring to the operation located at the Old Bethpage Solid Waste Disposal Complex, Colby said, "Gone are the days when prospectors headed west to find gold in the hills; nowadays we can find revenue in the hills by drilling for methane gas where garbage was once landfilled."

The Supervisor noted that during the first ten years of a twenty-year contract the Town will gain approximately $1.6 million of revenue in the general Town budget.

The Oyster Bay facility will be the largest of Energy Tactics' Long Island operations. At full capacity its three generators will deliver 2.12 megawatts of electricity to Eden, enough energy to feed the needs of 1300-1500 homes," said Colby.

In September of 1985, after considering three viable proposals, the Town of Oyster Bay selected Energy Tactics, Inc. of Yaphank to install the equipment necessary to draw off the methane and signed a twenty-year agreement with them.

The extraction of methane gas from decaying garbage is a widely used method of limiting landfill odors and removing the key element in underlying landfill fires as well as gaining a previously untapped source of revenue.

In explaining the operation Colby noted that wells are strategically spaced on the landfill site, to a depth of 50 feet. Perforated plastic pipes are connected to the header equipment which delivers the gas to the compressors feeding the three engines.

At present there are 13 active extraction wells on site and their number will eventually reach more than 30 as access to the more recently capped sections of the landfill becomes available.

Colby noted that during the first half-dozen years of the facility's operation the project will generate the highest level of electricity production and therefore the greatest amount of revenue for the Town.

"An important feature of any operation of this nature is the safety factor," said Colby. "This project is inherently secure since the gas, as it is extracted from the landfill, contains insufficient oxygen for any degree of combustion. Only when the fuel source is contained in the engine cylinders is the air then mixed to fire the engines. Monitoring of the system takes place both on site and through direct equipment observation in E.T.'s Yaphank offices."

The Supervisor concluded, "Landfills have existed for hundreds of years. They served a purpose at a time when more sophisticated methods of garbage disposal were unknown or untried. The technology that Energy Tactics, Inc., has developed gives to Towns such as Oyster Bay a method by which to rid landfills of potentially harmful methane gases while supplementing budget revenues."

Overexercising causes problems

By Shirley Bright Boody
Registered Dietitian

Dear Shirley: My 19-year-old daughter is an exercise enthusiast, but I think she is overdoing it. She has not menstruated for three months and she refuses to go the doctor because she says she feels fine. Two of her girlfriends who run with her also have stopped their periods.

It sure doesn't seem right to me. Is there a name for that and does it have anything to do with their diets?

The parents of the other girls are worried, too. Is there a diet that could help them get back to normal? — Selene J.

Dear Selene: Loss of menstruation is called amenorrhea, and it's quite common in young women who are extremely active in endurance sports and ballet. The greatest problem appears to be lowered bone health, with an increased risk of stress fractures, osteoporosis and even curvature of the spine. Very low estrogen levels seem to trigger both amenorrhea and lowered bone health and density.

The girls need to be examined by a physician to identify their individual problem. Excessive weight loss and a poor diet can cause significant damage. Maintaining sufficient calories to avoid weight loss and increasing the calcium in the diet with milk and dairy products, whole grains, fruits and vegetables will help. Lean meats, fish, seafood and poultry are also needed to increase the total nutrition.

Dear Shirley: I have had a high cholesterol blood problem for many years and I have mostly ignored it. I know that is stupid, but now I am getting older and I guess I should go to the doctor and get a checkup.

What kind of treatment would I need? Are there any new drugs problem. I can't tell you what to do because you should see your doctor first.

Generally, drugs are not a substitute for a diet, you need both. Bile acid sequestrants are the drugs often prescribed today. They can cost anywhere from $50 to $100 per month and they do have some side effects. They do seem to help, however.

Briefly, your diet should be low in calories if you're overweight, avoid all hard animal fats, limit eggs to two per week and avoid foods that contain those things. Oat bran and nicotinic acid (B complex vitamin) may also help you, but please see your doctor.

Dear Shirley: I have been going to a nutrition consultant who says I should have a hair analysis to find out what minerals and vitamins my body needs. It is quite expensive, and I wonder if they can really tell me anything about my health. Do you think I should do it or is a waste of money? — Inga R.

Dear Inga: Most hair analysis results are ineffective and useless in determining nutritional deficiencies. A qualified medical or hospital lab may help and several samples of hair are needed. Frankly, I'd suggest you save your money.

Dutch La. Students Visit Pumpkin Farm

On Tuesday, October 28, the two kindergarten classes (A.M. and P.M.) joined together to go to the Filasky Farm in Brookville.

The bus ride was beautiful and the children got to observe the fall leaves in full color. When they arrived, they toured the vegetable and fruit stand, where they saw many different kinds of vegetables and all kinds of apples. All of the children enjoyed listening to the pumpkin man who sits on a tractor and tells them stories and plays games.

The horses, pigs, turkeys, lamas and other animals were outside for the children to observe.

Then it was off for a hayride and to pick out their own pumpkins to take home. It was an exciting day.

Teacher Miss Klely, (seems) Mrs. McCarthy and Mrs. Swier and students listen to the great pumpkin man talk.

Melissa McCarthy and Eris McDonald enjoying seeing all the farm animals.

Children of Lee Avenue School enjoyed their first Cultural Arts Show of the year on October 29. Two magic shows were performed by Irwin Merlin, the magician. The first show was seen by grades 4-6 and the second by K-3. Most of Merlin's tricks involved both children and teacher participation, which left the students so excited and amazed at the wonderful tricks performed. In photo, Nicolle Anello doing the balloon trick and Mr. Skuplinsky, 4th grade teacher, having his head chopped off in a six foot high French guillotine by another 4th grade teacher, Mrs. Nicolich, who was later saved in half. November Events At P.O.B. Library

November Exhibits in the Mini Gallery. Drawings in Pen and Ink by Glenn Casper. All Showcases. Beadedeck & Beadazzled (jewelry) by Eva Newborn-Gish.

On Thursday, November 6 at 8 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be especially proud to present "Meet Local Author, Jud Newborn."

Mr. Newborn, a Plainview resident for 33 years, will be discussing his newly published book, "Shattering the German Night: The Story of the White Rose." This is the thrilling true story of a group of German students, some of them former Hitler Youth, who began actively resisting the Nazi state, when they could just as easily and safely have merged with the crowd.

The evening discussion will be related to the Bitburg incident and the Kurt Waldheim affair and tendencies to revise the Nazi past.

On Sunday, November 9 at 3 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be presenting the play, "Talley's Folly" by the Other Vic Theatre Company.

Clive Barnes of the N.Y. Post said of "Talley's Folly": "a funny, sweet, touching and marvelously written and contrived love poem for an apple and an orange." What could be more incongruous... the courtship of a young Ozark, all-American, wealthy Sally Talley by the logical Jewish accountant, suitor, Matt Friedman? The time: 1944. The place: a folly (boathouse) on the Talley property, flooded in the moonlight. All should be romantic, a waltz in three-quarter time. But we are watching two kindred spirits... human beings uncomfortable with the world in which they live and fearful of the change that their relationship will afford them.

First come, first seated.

"Men and Angels" by Mary Gordon will be the subject of the Book Discussion/Review at the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library on Monday, November 10 from 1-3 p.m.

Our resident book reviewer, Barbara Krupit will once again help you to see the many different aspects of this book.

Men and Angels is about love—the love between men and women, parents and children, friends, the artist and her work—and about the failure of love when it cannot encompass the unlovable.

On Tuesday, November 11 and 18, from 10 a.m.-2:30 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be offering "55 Alive Mature Driving Course."

This refresher course has been developed by the National Retired Teachers Association and American Association of Retired Persons as a community service program for motor vehicle operators age 50 and over.

Students can save money on auto insurance premiums, deduct points from their driving records, and get special knowledge about driving and aging which enables them to stay on the road longer. You must bring drivers license (as proof of age and driving status) to first session. You must attend all sessions. Bring a pen. Brown bag lunch suggested.

The cost per person is $10. Please make checks payable to the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). Register at Circulation Desk. No cancellations, no refunds.

On Tuesday, November 11 at 8 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be offering a Book Discussion/Review led by Barbara Krupit.

The book is entitled "Superior Women" by Alice Adams. "Superior Women" is about five young women, newly admitted to college, meet for the first time. We follow them as their lives open out through the 1950's, '60's and '70's—their careers, marriages, love affairs; their secrets about themselves; their feelings about each other. We watch the unfolding of destinies that both flow inevitably from character and are filled with surprises. "Superior Women" is a novel rich in all the pleasures of character and incident and social observation—a novel in which we recognize our friends, ourselves, our youth, as Alice Adams anatomizes the generation that entered college during the Second World War.

On Wednesday, November 12 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be offering a Hearing Screening sponsored by Mill Neck Foundation.

The Mill Neck Foundation's Telecommunication Van will be located in the parking lot. No appointment necessary. All ages welcome. Free.

Confused? Mixed up? How will it affect me?

On Thursday, November 13 at 8 p.m., William Sinnreich, Attorney and CPA, will present a lecture/discussion entitled "New Tax Laws Explained." Mr. Sinnreich will attempt to make clear the many different versions we have heard during the past year.

On Friday, November 14 at 1 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be presenting "Insights Into Current Issues" led by Barbara Krupit.

From local and national to international news, Barbara Krupit will discuss what the headlines that day. You can discuss the issues and share your views.

On Wednesday, November 19 at 7:30 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be holding a Board of Trustees meeting in the staff room. The public is invited.

On Thursday, November 20 at 3 and 8 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be showing the film "The Natural" starring Robert Redford, Robert Duvall and Glenn Close.

Robert Redford is the Natural in this mystical tale of the rise and fall of a mysterious athlete with a magical prowess at bat. Roy Hobbs (Redford) is first seen in 1923 as a Midwestern farm boy who heads for Chicago, determined to pitch for the Cubs and be "the best there ever was in the game." But on his first night in the big city, Roy's dreams are violently shattered when a psychotic young beauty lures him to her hotel room and shoots him with a silver bullet. Sixteen years later, Hobbs becomes the oldest rookie in the major leagues when he reappears in the dugout of the last place New York Knights. A mythical American hero who has been given, miraculously, a second chance at glory, Hobbs comes up against corruption, deceit and treachery as he fights not only to win the most important game of his career, but to save his life.

This film is rated PG and runs 134 minutes.

On Friday, November 21 at 8:15 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library and the Town of Oyster Bay, Department of Community Services, Cultural and Performing Arts Division will present a Classical Guitar Duo featuring Michael Newman and Laura Oltman.

Recipients of the NEA's Recitalist Grant which will subsidize their concerts in New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Kansas City, their unique repertoire ranges from Renaissance and Baroque lute duets to commissioned works and their own transcriptions. This pair is now recognized as one of America's foremost guitar duos.

This program is part of CAPA's Distinguished Artists Concerts 1986/87.

Join us at the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library on Sunday, November 23 at 3 p.m. to enjoy a pleasant afternoon listening to the Connoisseur Chamber Ensemble.

The artists are Oscar Weiner, violinist, Avron Coleman, cellist and Joyce Ann Liebman, pianist and music director of the Connoisseur Chamber Ensemble.

The library is located at 599 Old Country Road in Plainview, opposite the Morton Village Shopping Center (938-0077).

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

What do you think of the New York City proposal to charge automobiles $10 to come into the city to alleviate congestion and help air quality?

Most Input Callers Think Trick Or Treating Is O.K.

Most callers believe that Halloween "trick or treating" is here to stay but may be limited in some ways in answer to this question: "Do you think that Halloween "Trick or Treating" has had its day?" Here are some of the answers:

NOT OVER

No. "Trick or treating" is not over. It has provided fun for children of generations past and it should continue to do so in the future. It may be that supervision is here to stay with the children but this will serve two purposes. It will keep the tricks down to just little things and will guard against people with warped minds poisoning the candy and other treats because the adult can look things over. M.Y.

SIMMERING DOWN

Yes. I think the whole idea is simmering down. We did not have as many "trick or treaters" come around this year, possibly because of all of the scare stories that were in the news. It is just one more thing I believe that will be lost due to the sickness of our society. K.E.

IDEA NOT LOST

No. I do not think that the basic idea of dressing up for Halloween will be lost. But it would be a good idea if the "Trick or Treat" part of it were put away for good. This is too much like extortion and it is a holdover from the past when it probably did not mean anything except fun. But now, some of the older trickers do break things and cause trouble even when they are treated. I would rather it turned into a guessing type contest and forget about calling out "trick or treat." T.Y.

IT IS FUN

"Trick or Treating" should not go away. It is fun and when I was a kid, I enjoyed it. So now we are trying to get rid of some of that fun of growing up by telling the little ones they cannot enjoy Halloween anymore. This is humbug. J.R.

WORTHLESS IDEA

"Trick or Treating" is a leftover from the past and the sooner it goes away the better. All the kids do is collect more candy and things than their stomachs can endure and any good parent would throw the whole bag out as soon as it comes into the house. The idea is worthless. Let the children find enjoyment in some other way. L.W.

BLUFF TRICKS

Old customs die slowly and if "Trick or Treating" is dying, I'm afraid that no one on our block knew about it because they were all around this year and I welcomed them. The adults get just as much fun out of it as anyone else. The tricking is mostly bluff anyway, so don't get excited over that. E.W.

SUPERVISED

I think "Trick or Treating" is fun for the kids. But it has to be supervised as it was this year. If the kids only go to houses they know, there won't be any trouble. And the kids won't be apt to pull any dirty tricks either in places they know. Keep "Trick or Treating" in Halloween. B.T.

HASN'T CHANGED

The custom of "Trick or Treating" on Halloween hasn't changed that much since I was a child although in today's world, children are encouraged to be more careful wherever they go. The joy and fun of the holiday still remains for them. "Trick or Treating" should continue as long as there is Halloween. C.P.

HERE TO STAY

I certainly hope not! But, in any case, those who take commercial advantage of the occasion will continue to promote it in their own self-interests and what's wrong about that! Quite apart from that though, it's the little youngsters who derive the maximum benefit from Halloween—an opportunity to let their imaginations run rampant in the selection and wearing of costumes which satisfy an inner craving to act out a part and be someone or something else. I am happy to see organized efforts by parents and officialdom to steer this energy into controlled avenues which provide safety measures without dampening creativity, imagination and enthusiasm and thereby minimizing the "trick" aspect. But, in a nutshell, I am convinced that "Trick or Treating" is here to stay; otherwise, I have squandered or committed a lot of pennies, nickels and chocolates in a vain and hopeful anticipation of responding to the front door bell and enjoying the pleasurable response to this annual bit of self-centered generosity. Discovery!

There's A Yellow Peril In N.Y.

By Marjorie Wolfe

The Taxi and Limousine Commission is now involved in operation "Easy Rider." They are attempting to catch drivers who refuse to take passengers where they want to go, who are rude, and who do not know their way around the city. Here are my impressions.

I hailed a cab at Penn Station and asked the driver to take me to the Javits Convention Center to attend the 32nd International Fancy Food & Confection Show. I was laden down with samples of chocolate-covered Gummi Bears, a chocolate pizza, a can of Wild Life Venison Chili, and a Buffalo shaped Beef Jerky.

The driver placed my samples in the trunk and courteously opened the rear door for me. From outside the cab appeared to be suffering from an acute case of "rattle fatigue," but inside the cab had a faint smell of raspberries.

"Like that odor, lady?" he asked. "I'm wearing a fragrant Swatch Watch."

"You're not one of those Taxi and Limousine Commission inspectors who are participating in operation "Easy Rider" are you?" he asked.

"Do I look like one?" I asked.

"No, but the undercover inspectors come in all shapes and sizes to throw us off guard. They'll never catch me refusing to take passengers where they want to go!"

Before I could settle down comfortably, the cabbie introduced himself. "Hi, I'm Bill Gordon. Did you notice my Lands' End Breton Red Sailcloth pants and Rugby Tough knit shirt? Boston has a dress code for cabbies; mine is wife-imposed!"

"Would you like to read my copy of the 'New York Map to the Stars Homes'? It contains tart tips on celebrity hunting. Among the celebrities whose digs have been uncovered are Woody Allen, Pia Zadora and Claus von Bulow. And I can even show you where Anne Fabon and Carlen Sanderson (the first female sanitation workers in New York City, live."

"No, thanks," I responded. "Do you think you could lower the music?" I asked.

"Sure, lady. Guess you don't like Harry Chapin's 'Taxi.'"

"Hope you're not in a rush; it's gridlock and limolock this time of the day."

"Limolock?"

"Limolock entered the city's vernacular in '85 when the largest gathering ever of world leaders paralyzed and fascinated the city with the weeklong flutter of parties, protests and police overtime. West Germany's Helmut Kohn was almost run down by Ronald Reagan's motorcade...and rumor has it that the traffic was so bad, rescue planes had to drop supplies of the DoveBar to the ice-cream vendors."

"That bad," I said.

"And, in addition, we cabbies have to contend with 'aviators' (speeding drivers), 'cowboys' (reckless drivers), 'flying orders' (instructions from the dispatcher) and 'squeegee kids' who attempt to wash windshields of cars stopped in traffic. Quick, lady, look out the window at the Dumpster Decor."

"Dumpster Decor? what's that?" I asked.

"It's furnishings that come from dumpsters and piles of abandoned junk," he replied.

"Did you read in the newspapers that the Transit Authority has made some changes? The double-letter subway designation has become extinct. The AA local is now the K; the QB is the Q. The LL is an L and the GG is G. Isn't it simpler to just hail a cab?" the cabbie asked.

I nodded and thought, "He certainly is knowledgeable." Miss Manners would probably say, "Who originated the preposterous notion that getting there is half the fun?"

"And notice that the idling charges are only ten cents per 45 seconds—or $8 an hour. That's a steal. Talking about stealing, did you hear the story about the two guys standing outside Washington Square Park's Arc de Triomphe? One said to the other: 'Wanna share a cab?' The other guy said, 'Sure: you take the battery and I'll take the hubcaps.'"

Oh, did I chuckle!

"After the Fancy Food show wanna buy some Perry Ellis sheets, Day and Night china at Bloomie's, a chocolate floppy disk, Yankovich's take off on James Brown's 'Living in America' ('Living with a Hernia'), or visit Mayor Koch's Greenwich Village apartment for which he pays $351.60 a month rent?"

"No kidding," I responded. "Look, just drop me off at the corner. When I get home I'm writing a letter to the Chairman of the city's Taxi and Limousine Commission to tell him how pleased I was with your service and attitude."

"His name's Gorman Gilbert—G I L B E R T."

"Bye now."

"Goodbye. Have a nice day!"

NEGATIVE FINDINGS

I feel very frustrated that you don't publish the negative findings of your readers when they visit restaurants advertised in the section called Reader Ratings. I personally have visited almost all these restaurants and have, on occasion, been terribly disappointed. In school I learned that a negative result was as valid as a positive result. Wouldn't it be nice to know the negative results as well as the positive? Otherwise the concept is really not worth much. S.D.

EDITOR'S NOTE TO CALLERS:

Individual criticisms of restaurants are sent in memos directly to the restaurant mentioned unless they are recurring discrepancies. Restaurants, consistently not up to standard, will be dropped from listings here.

GRACE, CHARM

For grace and charm the Viennese Coach in Syosset is unsurpassed. The main room features a pianist (ed. note George Benner) who plays a variety of contemporary music. The food is a treat. On Sunday we had shrimp in a special green dill sauce and a specially prepared German recipe for chicken. We certainly think that the Viennese Coach is one of the outstanding restaurants in the area. It is located on Jericho Turnpike just next to the Syosset Theatre.

Where Our Readers
Have The Last Word

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides and a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great, and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings."

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

READER RATINGS

NEGATIVE FINDINGS

I feel very frustrated that you don't publish the negative findings of your readers when they visit restaurants advertised in the section called Reader Ratings. I personally have visited almost all these restaurants and have, on occasion, been terribly disappointed. In school I learned that a negative result was as valid as a positive result. Wouldn't it be nice to know the negative results as well as the positive? Otherwise the concept is really not worth much. S.D.

EDITOR'S NOTE TO CALLERS:

Individual criticisms of restaurants are sent in memos directly to the restaurant mentioned unless they are recurring discrepancies. Restaurants, consistently not up to standard, will be dropped from listings here.

"GOOD OLD DAYS"

All of the good places are not gone. For many years we have been going to Lauraine Murphy's in Manhasset. And it appeared that last Saturday several hundred other people had the same idea. But after a surprisingly short wait, considering the number of people who appeared to be waiting, we were seated in the inner dining room at Lauraine Murphy's. The place had not changed. They still serve the warm popovers at each meal. The food was great. Most in our party had roast beef with one holdout for scallops but everything came out wonderful and considering the number of people that must have been served that night it is nothing short of a miracle. We sure'll recommend Lauraine Murphy's to your readers. H.J.

BETTER AND BETTER

The Davenport Press is an old landmark in Mineola having been, according to the menu, a bank and a printing establishment. The food at this restaurant continues to improve. Although it was good when it opened, they seem to be hitting their stride now with good service and everything else.

We had fine sirloin steaks at that restaurant last week and the potato (baked) and salad were very good. The price is moderate and all in all we felt it was a good experience. H.R.

Q. Sometimes when I go to a restaurant I pick melon as an appetizer. The problem is I am not always sure whether to eat it with a spoon or fork. Which is correct?

A. It is considered proper to eat smaller melons (cantaloupes or muskmelons) with a spoon. But larger melons (honeydews, Persian or casabas) may be eaten with either a spoon or knife and fork, whichever you prefer.

CHARMING DECOR

It takes many ingredients to make for delightful dining. Our party of six felt that we found them all at the newly decorated George Washington Manor in Roslyn. We enjoyed a most delightful Sunday Brunch and were unanimous in saying that it was a happy choice.

The decor is both charming and elegant. The food selection was diversified and exceedingly good. The service was superb. We all agreed it was a delightful way to spend a few hours on a Sunday. We have also been there for dinner and were well pleased. In particular we enjoyed the cozy fireplaces. We heartily endorse this very fine restaurant. D.J.

READER RATINGS

Q. Whenever my husband takes me to a restaurant he never says "please" or "thank you" to the waiter. This bothers me because he is always polite with house guests or other members of the family. What do you think?

A. Your husband mistakenly believes that paying for a meal entitled him to be discourteous. Not true! The words "please" and "thank you" are certainly proper to use in speaking to a waiter when a favor is requested or a service is acknowledged.

Q. I notice that some restaurants have exceptionally crowded checkrooms. When I see this is so, I usually take my fur coat with me to the table. Frankly, it was expensive and I don't want it to be crushed!

A. It's acceptable to take your coat to the table. You should wear it until you are seated, then allow the shoulders to fall back over the chair. If you have an escort, he may wish to help you in arranging it.

Q. We are a group of young business women who have lunch together once or twice a month. Since we are coming from many directions, we generally meet at the restaurant. Is it proper for the first person who arrives to be seated, or should she wait for the others?

A. Usually the first arrival waits for the second. They ask to be seated, telling the waiter that others are coming. It would not be practical for everyone to wait in the vestibule until the whole party arrives!

Q. When ladies already seated at a luncheon table are introduced to each other, do they shake hands, seated, when they may conveniently do so?

T.G. A. No, they bow. In this country, there is very little shaking hands between women, although the hostess always shakes hands with her guests, male and female, and anyone acting the role of hostess, say a teacher at the school, a woman representative of a firm being visited by outsiders - would rise and shake hands with the visitors, women as well as men.

Q. There was a receiving line, with the hostess first in the line, and our representative next to her. As the guests entered I noticed that there was some confusion as to who should be greeted first - the hostess or the representative next to her. What is the rule when the host holds such a prominent position?

A. The rule is always the same. One greets first the person first in line, who is the hostess or the acting hostess, always shaking hands. Occasionally there is a line made up only of men, and in this case the first man encountered is the one one greets first. As a matter of fact, very often the most important guest, for whom the reception is given, is placed in the middle of the line.

Cooking Corner

By Verne Palmer

It's tough to judge what Italy's greatest artistic contribution has been. But with all due respect to the "Mona Lisa" and the Sistine Chapel, my vote goes to gelato.

With its velvety smooth texture, bright, extroverted flavors and intoxicating aromas, Italian-style ice cream is the hottest scoop in America today.

Generally speaking, gelato is not as sweet as American ice cream. Its flavor lingers on the palate longer. And it is lighter and softer, and less easily sculpted into a neat "scoop."

Good, pure, fresh ingredients made in relatively small batches is the secret. Marcella Hazan is fond of saying in interviews. Hazan is the author of the best-selling "Classic Italian Cookbook."

Some experts say that gelato's higher proportion of flavoring agents (such as fruit purees) to the base ingredients results in an ice cream that feels lighter in the mouth.

According to Lester Greenberg, manager and ice cream maker at Il Dolce Momento in San Diego, the biggest difference between gelato and other ice creams is the amount of air that is incorporated into the frozen dessert.

"Italian ice cream is much denser," says Greenberg. "Because it is chilled very quickly in very sophisticated machines, it doesn't get moved around much and doesn't get a lot of air."

In contrast, many American ice creams consist of up to 50 percent air.

Though denser, gelato boasts a lighter, silkier texture than other types of ice cream because it is almost always freshly made and not frozen for long periods.

Another important characteristic of gelato is the absence of additives and stabilizers. In this country, artificial flavors and colorings are allowed in the manufacture of ice cream. According to Cook's Magazine, an upscale gourmet's monthly, there are more than 1,200 chemical stabilizers and emulsifiers that can be legally added to U.S. ice cream.

There are several types of Italian ice cream, distinguished from one another by the basic mixture.

• Cremolatti is made from a base of milk, cream, sugar, egg yolks and vanilla. To that base are added such flavorings as chocolate, hazelnuts, amaretto and rum.

• Gelati di crema bianca is made with milk, cream and sugar but without egg yolks. Greenberg explains that this base is preferable for the more subtle flavors of gelato. The egg yolks would overpower delicate vanilla and fine fruit essences.

• Sorbetti are made with only fresh fruits, sugar and egg whites.

• Semi-freddi, which have a softer consistency than other types of gelati, are made by hand from cooked meringue, whipped cream and flavorings. "It's the richest thing I make," says Greenberg, adding that his chocolate, zabaglione and torrone semi-freddi are "mousse-like."

In Italy, another popular type of gelato starts with an egg yolk-thickened sugar syrup. Whipped cream is added along with flavorings or fruits. Spumoni, studded with candied fruits, is a well-known example of this type.

• Mantecati, the richest type of gelati, is made with an egg custard base and enhanced by the addition of either half and half or milk.

Though crema, a rich mixture of egg yolks and milk with a teasing tingle of lemon peel, is the most popular flavor in Italy, there is a dizzying variety of gelati to wow the ice cream lover.

A typical roster at a gelateria in Italy* might include nocciola (hazelnut), amaretto macaroon, crema zabaglione (made with Marsala wine), pesche (peach), pera (pear), fragola (strawberry), gianduja (chocolate hazelnut), torrone (nougat), noce (walnut), stracciatella (chocolate chip) and moka, a strong, unsweetened coffee flavor that is the world's nicest wake-up.

Reproducing the famed Italian ice creams at home is getting easier all the time.

Modern machines for pureeing and freezing ingredients are efficient, simple to operate, and in many cases, reasonably priced.

Exceptionally good natural ingredients are at hand. Greenberg insists that "the fruits in California are much better than those in Italy."

And the inventiveness and exuberance of modern American chefs has yielded dozens of unusual recipes.

Concocting the custard from which most gelati are created is the chore that scares off many home cooks. The job is somewhat tedious and time-consuming, but it is not difficult. (And many of the newest ice cream machines perform this step for the cook.)

Most recipes call for warming the milk without letting it boil, beating the egg yolks until pale and creamy and forming ribbons from the beater to the bowl; and adding the milk to the egg yolk mixture slowly. After that, just two or three minutes of constant stirring over medium heat results in a rich custard, ready for flavorings. After sufficient chilling, the custard is ready to be processed in an ice cream maker.

IL GELATO DI CREMA (CREAM ICE CREAM)

2 cups milk
4 egg yolks
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 tablespoon water
1/4 teaspoon salt
Double boiler (not aluminum)
1 lemon (zest only) grated
Ice cream freezer

Warm up milk in small saucepan over medium heat until edge is ringed with tiny bubbles. Turn off heat at once. Do not let milk boil. Cover pan and let rest for 10 minutes.

While milk is resting, put egg yolks, sugar, water and salt into mixing bowl. Beat yolks until creamy and pale and form ribbons. Add milk to the bowl, a little at a time, stirring in well with a wooden spoon.

Pour contents of bowl into upper half of the double boiler. Place double boiler over the burner with heat on medium. Stir custard cream continuously from the moment the water in the lower half of the pan begins to boil. Within 2 to 3 minutes after the water has started to boil, the custard is done. Do not let custard itself come to a boil.

Transfer custard cream to a bowl, and stir in lemon peel. Let cool completely, then place in refrigerator.

When custard has chilled for at least an hour, place in ice cream freezer, and from there proceed according to the manufacturer's instructions.

When the ice cream is done, place it in a plastic container with an airtight lid, and freeze. It will be ready to eat when it firms up a bit, within 1 1/2 to 2 hours, depending on how cold your freezer is. It should not be extremely hard. If you are making it several hours or a day or two ahead, place it in the refrigerator for at least 30 minutes before serving. It should be soft enough to offer little resistance to the spoon.

Makes 4 servings.

GELATO DI PRUGNA (PRUNE ICE CREAM)

14 to 18 dried prunes
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1 1/2 cups cold water
1/2 cup cold whipping cream
Ice cream freezer

Put prunes, sugar and water into saucepan and bring to a simmer. Cover and cook 10 to 15 minutes, depending on size of the prunes.

Let prunes cool; remove pits. Put prunes and all liquid from pan into blender bowl and puree. If you are using a food processor, put prunes in first, run steel blades for a few moments, then add liquid and finish pureeing.

Whip cream briefly until it thickens slightly.

Mix cream and prune puree in a bowl and place in refrigerator for at least 1 hour.

Put mixture in ice cream freezer and proceed according to the manufacturer's instructions. The ice cream is ready to eat when done, or if you like it firmer, put it in the freezer in a tightly sealed container for 1 to 2 hours. If preparing far in advance, let soften in refrigerator for 30 to 45 minutes before serving.

Makes 4 servings.

CINNFUL CHOCOLATE

1 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups cocoa
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
Pinch of salt
8 egg yolks
1 1/2 cups half-and-half
2 cups cream
Ice cream freezer

Sift together sugar and cocoa into metal mixing bowl. With wire whisk, beat together sugar, cocoa, cinnamon and salt. Add yolks to cocoa mixture 1 at a time while whisking ingredients. After all yolks are incorporated, a thick chocolate paste will result.

To this, slowly mix in 1/2 cup half-and-half. This will soften the paste to a stirrable consistency. Place cream with remaining cup of half-and-half and heat to a near boil. While cream is heating, place bowl containing chocolate mixture over a pot of hot water, whisk mixture immediately and continue until mixture is quite warm to the touch. At this time the cream should have heated to a near boil. Do not boil.

Slowly add hot cream to the warm chocolate mixture, whisking over the heat. Cook this mixture for a few minutes or until it leaves a thin coating on the back of a spoon. At this point remove the bowl from the heater and place over a bowl of ice. The hot bowl should rest in ice. Whisk the mixture until cool. Place this cream into container of the ice cream maker. Follow manufacturer's directions for freezing ice cream.

Makes 1 1/2 quarts.

HONEY ICE CREAM

4 egg yolks
1 1/4 cups creme fraiche
1 1/4 cups milk
1 cup, plus 2 tablespoons honey
Ice cream maker

Beat egg yolks with creme fraiche. Set aside.

Bring milk to boil, whisk in honey and bring mixture back to boil. Slowly whisk it into the egg yolk mixture. Strain and refrigerate until cold.

Freeze in ice cream freezer according to the manufacturer's directions. Store in the freezer compartment of your refrigerator.

Makes 5 cups.

CREPE SUZETTE ICE CREAM

1 1/2 cups sugar
Pinch salt
4 egg yolks
1 teaspoon orange rind
1 1/4 cups half-and-half
2 cups cream
1 ounce Grand Marnier
4 crepes, chopped into 1-inch squares
Ice cream freezer

Combine sugar, salt, egg yolks and orange rind. Whisk together until a paste is formed. Heat 1 1/2 cups half-and-half. While it is heating, place previously formed paste in a metal mixing bowl and whisk over boiling water until warm. When half-and-half is hot, stir into warm paste over boiling water. Cook until mixture has thickened slightly or thinly coats the back of a spoon.

At this point, place the bowl of hot mixture on a bed of ice and whisk until cool. Finally, add cream and Grand Marnier. Place orange cream into the container of ice cream maker and proceed as manufacturer suggests. Add chopped crepes at the last moment.

Makes 1 1/2 quarts.

Lots of American shoppers pass the veal section of their supermarket's meat counter without a second glance. There are a number of reasons for this — some cuts of good veal can cost $8 a pound or more; veal is not a traditional staple in American cooking; and veal has a largely undeserved reputation for being tricky to cook.

After-work cooks should give veal a try, though, because there are many quick and delicious ways to prepare it, and you need only 4 to 6 ounces per serving, so the cost of preparing veal dishes is really quite modest.

VEAL CHOPS WITH GREEN PEPPERS

- 4 large loin veal chops — about 1½ pounds total weight
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 4 medium green peppers, seeded and thinly sliced
- 1 medium onion, finely chopped
- 4 artichoke hearts (canned in water, not oil), drained and sliced
- 1½ tablespoons capers
- Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
- Flour (for dredging veal chops)
- 3 tablespoons butter
- ½ cup dry white wine

Total preparation/cooking time: 35 minutes

In a large, heavy skillet heat the oil and add garlic, peppers and onion. Saute over medium heat until onion is tender and translucent, but not completely browned. Place in a medium bowl and stir in the artichoke hearts and capers. Add salt and pepper to taste and reserve.

Lightly dredge the veal chops in flour, shaking to remove excess. In the same skillet, heat the butter and brown the chops on both sides over medium heat. Add the reserved ingredients, cover and cook over medium-low heat 25 minutes, or until chops are tender.

Arrange the chops and peppers on a platter and place in a preheated 150 F oven.

Add the wine to the skillet over low heat, scraping all the crisp particles from the side of the pan into the wine. When the wine has reduced a bit, pour over the chops and peppers and serve.

Serves 4.

VEAL OSCAR

- 4 veal cutlets, 4-6 ounces each, pounded to ¼-inch thickness
- 4 tablespoons butter
- Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
- 12 asparagus spears, trimmed to 4-5 inches in length
- 1 cup cooked crabmeat, shredded

- 1 recipe hollandaise sauce (recipe follows)
- Parsley sprigs for garnish

Total preparation/cooking time: 25 minutes (including hollandaise sauce)

In a large skillet, melt 3 tablespoons butter over fairly high heat until the butter is bubbling, but not smoking. Saute the veal until golden brown on each side. Remove veal to a platter, add salt and pepper to taste, cover loosely with foil and keep warm in a preheated 250 F oven.

Meanwhile, steam the asparagus 5-7 minutes, until just tender. In a small frying pan melt the remaining 1 tablespoon butter over medium heat. Toss the crabmeat in the butter until heated through.

Remove the veal from the oven and on each piece of veal lay 4 asparagus spears and top with a quarter of the heated crabmeat. Top with a generous amount of hot hollandaise sauce, garnish with parsley sprigs and serve.

Serves 4.

EASY HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 4 egg yolks
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 1 pinch white pepper
- 1 pinch cayenne
- ¼ tsp. dry mustard
- 1 stick unsalted butter

In a blender or food processor blend the lemon juice, egg yolks, salt, pepper, cayenne and mustard. Melt the butter in a small skillet or saucepan until bubbling (it must be bubbling or the hollandaise will not thicken).

With the blender running on medium or high speed, slowly add the hot butter in a thin stream. Serve hot.

Makes about ¾ cup
NOTE: for thicker hollandaise, or to reheat, the sauce may be placed over hot water in a double boiler.

BREADED VEAL CUTLETS

- 4 veal cutlets, 4-6 ounces each, pounded to ¼-inch thickness
- Salt and freshly ground pepper
- Flour (for dredging)
- 1 large egg
- 1¼ teaspoons water
- 1 cup freshly made bread crumbs (* see note below)
- ¼ cup (½ stick) butter
- Lemon wedges (for garnish)

Total preparation/cooking time: 15 minutes

Sprinkle salt and pepper on both sides of the pounded cutlets. Dredge them carefully in the flour, so that they are thoroughly covered. Shake off excess flour.

Beat the egg and water together and dip each cutlet in the mixture. Coat the cutlets evenly with the bread crumbs. If time allows, cool an hour or more on waxed paper in the refrigerator, so breading will adhere better to the cutlets during cooking.

In a large, heavy skillet, heat the butter over medium heat until it is bubbling but not smoking. Add the cutlets and saute on both sides until golden brown. Arrange the cutlets on a serving platter, garnish with lemon wedges and serve.

* Fresh bread crumbs make a big difference in this recipe. Four slices of firm white bread will yield about a cup of crumbs. If you are using fresh bread, heat it just a couple of minutes in the oven, until it is somewhat dried, tear the bread into pieces and put in an electric blender, a handful at a time, on high speed. If you are using bread that is somewhat stale you will not need to put it in the oven.

Drain spinach thoroughly in sieve, pressing out excess moisture with back of spoon. Return to casserole and stir in remaining ingredients except cheese. Blend well.

Cover and microwave 8 to 10 minutes, stirring gently every 4 minutes, until heated through.

Sprinkle cheese over top, replace cover, and let stand several minutes before serving, to melt cheese.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. We are planning a new roof soon. A number of homes in our area have installed asphalt shingles right over the old wooden shingles. Is this wise? We wonder if it would be better if we removed the existing roof prior to reroofing with asphalt? — N.M.S.

A. Often reroofing over the existing wood shingles enhances the sturdiness of the roof and provides better heat resistance. It is also a simpler process, avoiding dirt both inside and outside the home that is created in any roof removal project.

Proper preparation of the old roof before reroofing is essential. Missing shingles must be replaced, curled shingles flattened by splitting and nailed in place, and loose shingles nailed.

Along all edges of the roof, shingles are cut away for a width of 2 inches, and the spaces filled for roof replacement (this also applies to gables). Fill with strips of wood the same thickness as the old roof. This will provide for solid nailing at the edges and make a good finish for roof replacement.

Nails should be long enough to pass through new and old roof (1 1/2 inches would be standard). Use cut nails rather than wire nails, and be sure they are rust proof (galvanized, aluminum, or copper).

Reroofing depends on the condition of your current roofing. Often wood shingles can look strong from the ground, but by closer inspection, you may find that they crumble beneath your feet. If the condition of the roof has deteriorated significantly, as seems to be the case with our next reader, it would probably be advisable to remove the existing roof before reroofing.

Reroofing is only advisable over wood shingles, not the heavier, old wood shakes, which must be torn off and replaced with a new roof. A roof inspection by a professional would be advisable before proceeding.

Q. We have an older home that has been reroofed several times. Now, our current roof is worn and leaking in several areas. We don't know if we should reroof again, or would it be better to remove the entire roof and start over? The original roof was wood shingles, with two reroofings in asphalt shingles. The roof boards are spaced. Can you advise us? — L.W.

A. Judging from your description the last roof must be in rather bad shape. Usually when repairs are required, it is not long until a new roof will be needed. It could be that when the first over-roofing was done, that the original wood roof was not prepared properly. There would be problems if the old wood shingle roof was not satisfactory, especially if the wood shingles were warped or curled appreciably at the butts when the first over-roof was put on. Also, some of the nails might miss the roof boards (over-roofing nails must be longer than those used in initial installation).

In your case, since several roofs have already been installed, it would probably be inadvisable to install another because of the weight factor. Your best bet is to remove everything. It's going to be a chore, but in the long run it may be just as cheap as over-roofing again.

Take everything off, pull all nails, then fill the spaces between the roof boards with wood strips of the same thickness as the original boards. Then you can proceed with the installation of a new roof. Suppliers can give you instructions on the installation of a new roof, or you may want to consult with a roofing contractor. Reroofing is not usually a do-it-yourself task.

a very short time, work a bit, and then return to their native land. Many times, these foreign nationals, on returning home, would marry women with children and on the death of the recipient your Social Security funds would provide hundreds of dollars, each and every month until each of the children reached adulthood. A boon-doggle, a rip-off? Most probably, but Congress did little or nothing about it because the system was cash rich.

Provisions for monitoring or taking people off Social Security or disability benefits, historically, were never enacted — so that even convicts injured when attempting an escape from prison could collect Social Security disability benefits. The Son of Sam, mass murderer, was just one of hundreds of inmate recipients. Congress finally corrected this flagrant abuse of the system by specific legislative action.

During the administration of President Lyndon B. Johnson, the Social Security Administration was moved, from an independent status, to one inside the overall federal budget — so that the cash-rich fund could be used to offset the high costs of the Great Society programs. Social Security has remained within the general federal budget ever since.

The manipulation of the Social Security system has been fiscally irresponsible — the funds taken in were not preserved for the purpose to which they were to be dedicated. You paid into the system for your retirement, but today your dollars are nowhere to be found. Instead, the funding for your benefits today comes from the payroll deductions of today's workers.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I'm a parent and always read your column and I usually agree with you. This time I don't. Sarah, a 16-year-old, has a 9 p.m. bedtime on school nights and you agree with her that 9 p.m. is too early.

My son is also 16 and a high school junior who does not take drugs, smoke, etc. He is a very decent and responsible boy. I'm very proud of him and he knows it. He also has a 9 p.m. bedtime on school nights. At first he hated it and we had many battles concerning this. He, too, said, "How would you like being sent to bed even if you weren't tired?"

Finally I gave in — he could stay up until 10 p.m. as long as he kept up his grades and he was not tired. Well, he stayed up until 10 p.m. and he became grouchy, irritable and hard to live with, and his grades took a nosedive. It didn't take long for both of us to realize that even though he might not seem tired, his body and mind needed the extra hour's rest.

Now my son agrees that on school nights a 9 p.m. bedtime is not too early. — Mother

Mother: The problem was solved in your case when you allowed your son to stay up until 10 p.m. and you then both agreed that a 9 p.m. bedtime was the better time. Maybe other wise parents will also offer a choice.

Dr. Wallace: A year ago I was a miserable 16-year-old young lady. I am 5 feet, 3 inches tall and weighed 150 pounds. Today I weigh 115 pounds and I owe it all to the help and guidance of Overeaters Anonymous.

Please print my letter because there are many teens out there who read your column that could get help from O.A. A friend who was in O.A. asked me to attend a meeting, and out of desperation I did. I'm thrilled that I did. At my first meeting, I was given a quiz. I answered yes to eight of the 10 questions. If you say yes to two or more of the questions you could be a compulsive overeater.

1. Do you eat as a response to all kinds of feelings — highs, lows and in-betweens?

2. Does your overeating make you miserable?

3. Do your eating habits interfere with your social life, or does your social life revolve around food?

4. Do you eat normally in front of others and binge when you're alone?

5. Do you drift off in class because you're thinking about food or losing weight?

6. Do you hate gym and other activities because of your weight?

7. Do you spend more than you would like to on junk food?

8. Do you sometimes steal food — or money to buy it?

9. Do you pass up dances and other affairs because you can't fit into nice clothes?

10. Do you resent people's comments and "helpful suggestions" about your weight or about the amount of food you eat?

Please look in the white pages of your telephone book to see if an O.A. group is in your area, or write: Overeaters Anonymous, World Service Office, 2190 198th St., Torrance, CA 90504, for information.

Overeaters Anonymous cares about you. Please contact them today. — Lori

Dr. Wallace: Jim and I have been going steady for about six months and he will be joining the Navy next week. He wants to be stationed on a ship for four years because he loves to travel.

He says that he loves me and wants me to continue going steady. I'm not quite sure I want to wait four years for him. I do enjoy his company and I think that I love him.

Please tell me what I should do. — Caroline

Caroline: Tell Jim that you will write to him regularly and you will date him when he returns home on leave, but you no longer care to go steady. Inform him that you will be dating other guys and encourage him to date other girls.

Dr. Wallace: Barbara and I had been dating for over a year when she decided it was best that we break up over the summer, so we did. She dated other guys but I did not date at all. Last week one of her friends told me that Barbara wanted to go out with me again and for me to call her. I did, but when I asked her to go out she shocked me by saying no.

When I told her what her friend had said to me, she said her friend was confused. Now I'm confused. Who am I to believe? — Bruce Bruce: It's obvious that Barbara would have been thrilled at your call if she had been interested in renewing her relationship with you. I'm sorry to say, believe Barbara.

Social Security: You have seen headlines in the past that declared the program was in deep trouble. You have heard politicians propose changes. You have heard of some younger generations complaining about the escalating costs of participating in the system. You might even have seen the survey results where some younger people feel that Social Security won't be around to provide their benefits when they retire.

The fact — reported to remove any alarmist concerns — is that the system is fine right now, your benefits will be paid, and there are no current or anticipated proposals to cut the level of benefits to any senior citizen retiree recipient. The system is projectably solvent into the 21st century.

Why have there been crises in the system? Why did employer and employee contributions rise to above 13 percent, and why do the cutoff levels for contributions keep rising? These are good questions, involving a bit of history in order to provide answers.

Social Security in the United States was created during the administration of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt as a supplemental retirement income — as part of the New Deal. In the early years there were far more people working, paying into the system, with few numbers of people retired, collecting benefits. The system became "cash rich."

A basic flaw was incorporated into the original establishment of the system. The funds taken in as payroll deductions were not entrusted and invested — as in a traditional pension system — but were handled on a pay-as-you-go operation. Cash was taken in and cash was paid out, without a demand for preservation of the cash income as principal for investment, so that the interest income would then fund the benefit payments. If your present or former employer were to operate a pension program, the federal government today would demand the handling of funds in this way. But it was not so mandated or even utilized as mandate in the operation of the Social Security system.

The original intent of the system, to provide for retirement benefits exclusively, was altered a number of times as politicians added more and more people to the benefit payments for reasons other than retirement — children of diseased or disabled, extended disability provision, and many, many other programs.

Funds were also "borrowed" by political action to fund other desired programs by government, such as the Marshall Plan.

Provisions for "minimum benefits" — established to take care of early recipients who had not paid fully to gain the benefits — were never removed. So now, almost anyone can apply for "minimum benefits" — even foreign nationals who come to the United States for

PUZZLED?
Are you puzzled why we run more Classified Ads in our areas than our biggest competitors including the N.Y. Times, Newsday, The Daily News and the free throwaways that come to your door?

The Answer Is Simple -

RESULTS: When readers run ads with us they get results, not numbers of printed copies or other irrelevant information.

An Ad, any ad, is only an advertisement for you when people READ it. Large numbers of copies printed and hung on door knobs or multi pages of newsprint in large out-of-town newspapers are not what count. Only readers get your message and can bring you results. The next time you are thinking of advertising something - remember that it takes readers to get your message.

And then you will know why so many more local ads are run in our newspapers than in the big papers, or the so-called saturation throwaways. Don't count door knobs - count customers.

To Owners of Good Restaurants:
This Is Your Chance To Join "Reader Ratings"
The Last Word In Restaurant Guides
Where Our Readers Have The Last Word
This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides and a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great, and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings."
Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit: Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.
In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

Quality Or Quantity?

One Sure Way To Get Results!

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.

Our (not so secret) ingredient Readers = Results is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the many throwaways.

Remove TV from center stage

By Sharon Owen Haven

Q: Where can we put our TV? Our living room is not large and we like our seating grouped around the fireplace. Opposite the fireplace wall is the kitchen and eating area that is open to the living room and raised 2 feet higher.

A: We don't want the TV to be the center of attention. — L.J.

One solution would be to locate the TV low against the riser wall to the kitchen (as shown in the photo). This way your seating (grouped around the fireplace) will comfortably serve for TV viewing, as well.

You can mute the impact of the TV by making it part of a larger storage system. Pull-out shelves with swivel bases make it possible to turn the TV toward various parts of a room. Such cabinetry can also be constructed with doors so that you do not see the TV at all when it is not in use.

Depending on the configuration of your fireplace wall and the size of your TV, you might also be able to incorporate your TV there. Some solutions I've seen include:

- Putting the TV in a built-in cabinet over the mantle.
- Locating the TV in a firewood storage niche to the side of the fireplace.
- Building the fireplace wall out around the fireplace to create a storage wall for TV, books, art, etc.

There may be more possibilities in your room but without a detailed floor plan, it's hard to tell. Let these ideas fuel your imagination.

Q: Years ago, when my tastes were quite different, I made it known to my grandparents that I coveted their handmade grandfather clock. They never forgot and recently presented it to me with great ceremony.

Now, of course, I live in a very high-tech, contemporary home and don't know what to do with this white elephant without hurting my grandparents' feelings.

A: Any ideas? — N.E.

Don't be hasty. Before you hustle the clock off to a back room or begin making a plausible list of reasons for your grandparents, explaining why it has disappeared entirely, consider whether you might, after all, effectively incor-

CAMOUFLAGED TV — Adding the TV to a larger storage system softens its impact and reduces its importance as the focal point of a room. Design by Color Design Art porate it into your contemporary decor.

You can often create an exciting effect in a contemporary setting by using a single antique out of context. It might make a striking introduction to your home flanked by high-tech artwork, in the entry, for example.

The clock might also work effectively in the living room if it is treated as a piece of sculpture rather than an object of furniture.

If you dare to mess with the clock's wood finish, you could match it to your contemporary furnishings and thereby incorporate it more quietly into its modern environment. But my temptation would be to make it a focal point, as is. Your grandparents will be thrilled and you might well fall in love with it all over again.

BENCHWARMER'S SPORTS TRIVIA

Do you know the three races that make up horse racing's Triple Crown? What horse first won it?

They are the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness, and the Belmont Stakes. The first winner was Sir Barton in 1919.

ANTIQU OR JUNQUE

Ceramic figurines probably Staffordshire

By James G. McCollam

Q: What can you tell me about these ceramic figurines? They have been in my family for a long time. They look like earthenware or pottery. There are no marks on them anywhere.

A: Apparently, these are Staffordshire figurines made in the late 20th century. According to law, after 1891, they would have to be marked "England" or "Made in England."

In most market areas a pair of Staffordshire figures like these would sell in the $160 to $180 range.

Q: This mark is on a bisque-bead, kid-body doll. It is 20 inches tall, has a human hair wig, stationary glass eyes, bisque hands and arms.

I would like to know who made her, when and how much is she worth?

A: Your doll was made by Armand Marseilles in Koppelsdorf, Germany, in the early 20th century. Baby Betty dolls were made for and imported by Butler Bros. in New York. They registered the name, "Baby Betty," in 1912.

This doll would sell for about $400 to $500 in good condition.

Q: What can you tell me about Findlay Onyx? I don't even know what it is.

A: Findlay Onyx is a layered glass made by Dalzell, Gilmore & Leighton in Findlay, Ohio. Because of manufacturing problems, it was made for only six months in 1889. It was made in several colors - custard, amber, red, etc. The colors were layered and molded in floral designs. Here are some typical prices of this very rare glass:

- Bowl, 8 inches, custard color - $575.
- Celery, with silver trim, custard - $525.
- Jam jar, 4 1/2 inches, with collar - $785.
- Jam jar with lid, custard and silver - $450.
- Pitcher, custard with silver - $800.
- Salt shaker, custard and silver - $125.
- Sugar shaker, custard with silver - $375.
- Vase, custard and silver, 4 1/2 inches - $200.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q: Our cat recently died of leukemia. We are extremely concerned about whether our children are susceptible to the same disease. Can humans get leukemia from cats?

A: Leukemia in cats is caused by a virus called the Feline Leukemia Virus. FeLV infection is widespread among the cat population. It has been reported that approximately 50 percent of all free-roaming cats in urban and suburban populations are ultimately infected with the feline leukemia virus. In rural cat populations and in closely confined single cat households, the infection rate is reported to be less than 5 percent or 6 percent.

Most cats infected with the feline leukemia virus do not become chronic carriers of the disease. The saliva, urine and feces of infected cats usually contain the virus. Susceptible cats become infected whenever they contact any of these excrements from infected cats. The leukemia virus may be transmitted between cats that groom or bite each other, share litter pans or use common food and water dishes. The virus can also be transmitted from infected queens to their litters prior to birth. Apparently, the virus can cross the placenta, the membranes between the mother and kittens.

The feline leukemia virus is unstable outside of the cat's body. Therefore, a contaminated environment is usually not the source of the virus. Many cats with FeLV will not show any signs of illness. Others will experience weight loss, listlessness, anemia or just appear to be mildly sick most of the time. Cats with FeLV seem to be more susceptible to other diseases.

FeLV-infected cats are susceptible to stresses that uninfected cats are not. For example, stresses that may cause a crisis in a FeLV-infected cat include minor surgery, environmental changes or other infectious diseases. The feline leukemia virus can cause problems in almost every organ system of the cat's body.

A definitive diagnosis of FeLV can be made by your veterinarian when he performs a laboratory test to determine whether or not your cat is infected. The test takes approximately two hours. If a positive diagnosis of FeLV is made, your veterinarian can make recommendations regarding what you should do with the cat. There is some controversy about whether FeLV-infected cats should be treated or should be euthanized, "put to sleep."

Because FeLV is extremely contagious between cats, FeLV-infected cats should be isolated from other cats so that they are not exposed to the virus. It is also important to isolate FeLV-infected cats so that they will not be exposed to other infections to which they are highly susceptible.

Your veterinarian can help you decide if your situation is one in which a FeLV-infected cat live a normal, happy life. There are no known cures for FeLV. Hopefully, there will be an effective vaccine in the near future.

There has never been any evidence that any human has gotten leukemia from a cat. There is no substantive evidence that the feline leukemia virus infects man or causes human cancer. However, pregnant women and young infants should avoid contact with FeLV-infected cats.

Children should be taught at an early age how to play with dogs and cats and to wash their hands following play.

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Election Day, as you probably know, fell on Tuesday of this week. I know you're all much too young to vote, but some day when you are old enough you will have this privilege.

Yes, voting is a privilege in this country. We, as U.S. citizens have the opportunity to select people to office whom we feel can do the right job and what is good for the country.

To vote, we must be an American citizen, at least 18 years of age, living in the area for a certain length of time, and we must first register.

We are fortunate to live in a country where we have this right. I certainly hope that when you reach the age to vote you will always do so!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Kay Barton and Jean Cummings. Congratulations!
