Trinity Lutheran New Wing

View of Trinity Lutheran Church and School's new East Wing.

The members of Trinity Lutheran Church and School, 40 W. Nicholas Street, Hicksville, cordially invite you to celebrate the dedication of the new East Wing, this Sunday, November 23, at 3 p.m.

The East Wing will provide two additional classrooms, multi-purpose and Senior/Youth rooms, and additional offices. The new facility was erected to better serve God's people at Trinity and the entire community. It was designed with an elevator which makes all areas of the building, as well as the sanctuary, readily available to the elderly and handicapped.

Please join us next Sunday at 3 p.m. as we thank God for his abundant blessings!

Keeping "Old Glory" flying high at the John F. Kennedy Memorial in Hicksville in the face of winter's gale winds is no easy job. The Flag Committee under American Legionnaire Jack Elmann, right, was happy recently to receive a gift of two large U.S. flags from Charles Ehrlich, Area Manager of the Woodmen of the World, fraternal organization and a top-ranked insurance group. Commander Harry Christos of the Charles Wagner Post 421 receives the flags with pleasure.

Town Mulls Bldg. Halt, Hears LILCO Plan Rapped

By Adam DiPetro

A possible lack of water and too much traffic are the knotty issues facing the Oyster Bay Town Board which, at its last meeting on November 18, reserved decision on proposed amendments to the code of ordinances on its one-year building moratorium. The Board said it's awaiting more input from the public before making a decision.

"Our prime purpose is to see what we're dealing with," said Town Supervisor Joseph Colby, "through studies of the quality and quantity of our water supply and the overpumping of water. As to our supply," he added, "some people give it 50 years; others say it's good for 500. Well, our concern now is for future generations 500 years from now. Traffic is an increasing problem, too," he added. "Not too long ago, you used to drive along the Long Island Expressway in heavy traffic, but it always opened up at Route 110. Today, you find the road jammed out to Hauppauge."

"There are some people who will be hurt by this moratorium," admitted Colby, "and there may even be water restrictions imposed—but conservation will come. One-family homes on properly zoned land will not be affected," he added, "except by restrictions on lawn watering that could be set for odd-even days, for instance. If that works, the moratorium could be lifted."

Among the speakers who addressed the Board on the issue was John Fine of the recently formed Association for a Better Long Island, Inc., who voiced his concern for the moratorium's impact on unemployment in construction. "There must be some semblance of moderation," said Fine. "Speaking for people in the labor field who will be affected by this moratorium, I urge you not to do so, and I also urge you to consult with leaders of the labor community who live and work here." Colby replied that "Construction will still take place—it's not our intent to go back in time. There has been more construction in the Town of Oyster Bay over the last three years than throughout Nassau County. We have balanced zoning in the Town of Oyster Bay—essentially one-family zoning, but we have all sorts of business zoning, too. The time has come for us to take a deep breath and ask: 'Where do we go from here?' The answer may be in some kind of conservation."

William Cohen, an attorney representing builders, said he wasn't sure we need such a broad approach. "I can't understand," he said, "that in 1986 we can say: 'That's it.' We must have been very lax over the years, but imposing a moratorium is not going to solve anything. That only ties people up and stops development. It's had enough to let things get so bad, but now we're overreacting."

Kathleen Clayton, executive director of the Long Island Builders Institute, believes the moratorium would be harmful and have a negative effect on the local economy. "I'm sympathetic with the Board's concern," she explained, "but a moratorium is not the answer. Have we ever considered putting a moratorium on the amount of cars in a family? This could have a negative impact on local residents, too."

Also heard at the meeting was an environmental group that opposes an evacuation plan for the Shoreham Nuclear Power Facility (in their second appearance). Part of the LILCO plan to which the group objects is using a facility in Hicksville as a so-called reception center in the event of a nuclear accident at Shoreham, requiring nearby residents to be evacuated. The group, the Coalition for Safe Living, also opposes LILCO's plan to dispose of diluted waste water generated at the reception center by dumping the water on the ground.

A spokesman for the Coalition remarked that there were potentially dangerous effects to the communities within Oyster Bay Township and "We will be suggesting legal steps that can be taken to protect our locality. None of us here are paid; we are concerned citizens fighting for our lives, the lives of our families and protection of our properties and businesses. We are representing 75% of the people of Long Island who do not want Shoreham to operate."

Early Deadline

Due to the Thanksgiving holiday next Thursday it will be necessary to move the deadline for news, photos and classified advertising for the November 28 edition to Monday, November 24 at 1 p.m.

Regular deadlines will apply for the issue of December 5. The entire staff wishes all our readers a very Happy Thanksgiving.

Letters

To the Editor:

Unveiling the Hicksville Vietnam War Memorial was the proudest moment of my life. To walk in the shadow of George Lang Medal of Honor recipient, and the other Vietnam warriors during the unveiling was a personal honor.

During the unveiling I thought of the Hicksville men and women who served in Vietnam. Our Army Special Forces and Navy UDT. Of our always faithful Marines and Coast Guard. Our brave aviators and nurses of all services. Our infantry grunts. Our tunnel rats. Our patrol dog handlers.

I reflected on the suffering of our Disabled Veterans, our Gold Star Mothers and our POW/MIA remaining in Southeast Asia. In solemn dignity I honored those Hicksville residents who made the supreme sacrifice for our nation.

The Hicksville community has always supported our armed forces. We must see that military leaders use prudent tactics. We should never shed our blood to take a hilltop that will be evacuated the next day. May the Korean and Vietnam Memorials stand in everlasting peace in our community and nation.

On behalf of the commander and members of Charles Wagner American Legion Post 421, I wish to thank Connie Steers, Dick Evers and Sheila Noeth for their hard work in making a dream a reality for our Korean and Vietnam Veterans.

God Bless America and our POW/MIA.

Sincerely,
Gregory P. Bennett
Sergeant at Arms
Charles Wagner American Legion 421

To the Editor:

On behalf of the committee, I would like to thank everyone for making the Korean War Monument and the Vietnam War Monument a reality. By the generous donations by Hicksville citizens, the servicemen and women of both wars will be remembered for years to come.

On November 11 I was really proud of the Hicksville residents who turned out in a pouring rain to honor our veterans of all wars and to the rest of the community I am very proud of the way they responded by contributing over $11,000 for the lasting tribute to our men and women who served in our armed forces.

I would like to say that Hicksville is the finest community to live in because the residents are very sincere and giving, to remember our veterans who gave of themselves for our freedom and ideals. I will always be proud of Hicksville and commend everyone for opening their hearts for Hicksville veterans.

Again I thank you for knowing that I live in a fine community and will always be proud of everyone who lives in Hicksville.

Cordially,
Conrad F. Steers
Chairman
Monument Fund

Local PTA Units Attend Convention

Delegates to N.Y.S. PTA Convention, standing, Shirley Johnson, Joyce Wagner, Ann Freyelsen, Arleen Jonsson, Karen Garbus, Norma Goerke. Seated, Cathy Corrado, Nancy Staron, Carol Marks, Edie Allen, Peggy Gill.

Eleven members of local PTA units attended this year's 89th annual New York State PTA Convention held November 9-12 at the Concord Hotel, Kiamesha Lake. Concerned people from all paths and persuasions highlighted the broad base of this organization whose priority is the development of children.

At a recent Hicksville PTA Council meeting, delegates reported on the various workshops they attended, including, legislation, special education, AIDS, Crack and other illegal drugs, parliamentary procedures, safety, parent/child relationships and PINS (Pupils In Need of Supervision).

Carol Marks, Senior High School PTA President, reported that all 21 resolutions, plus 2 emergency resolutions presented at convention, were passed either in original or amended form. These resolutions will now be sent to the Legislature in Albany for consideration.

In the keynote address, Dr. Thomas Sobol, Scarsdale Superintendent of Schools, told the delegates that the interests of children were continuing to lose ground. Reviewing the spate of reports on American schools published during the past 6 years, he noted that students' test results and achievements were analyzed, but human qualities were totally ignored. The more recent reports have focused on teachers in regard to the needs of society not children.

Citing many statistics that point to the plight of children, Dr. Sobol indicated that all was not lost. People are starting to look at how we can bring up and educate children better. He reminded the delegates that, "a nation that neglects its children neglects its soul."

This State-wide convention is held every fall, and all PTA units are urged to send a representative.

School Bd. Cancels Comm. Mtgs.

The Hicksville Board of Education committee meetings schedule for December 17 and January 21 will be cancelled so that these evenings can be devoted to Finance Committee deliberations on the 1987-88 school budget. The meetings will begin at 8 p.m. on these two dates.

All interested residents and members of the other committees are invited to attend these sessions and to participate in the budget planning process.

The meetings of the Curriculum, District Facilities/Community Affairs, and Legislative/Policy Committees will resume their regular schedule on February 11. Community residents are asked to adjust their school calendars to reflect these changes.

The play adapted from Hannah's personal diaries gives the moving account of a carefree, rebellious urban youth who became an Israeli war heroine. Hannah Senesh parachuted into Yugoslavia to help Jews escape the Nazis.

The performance of the star Lori Wilner was described by critic Clive Barnes, as "resolutely radiant...in an evening full of theatrical virtue."

The haunting and supportive musical score is by Steven Lutvak and Elizabeth Swados.

Admission to the performance at the Y, 45 Manetto Hill Road, Plainview, is $10 for members and $12 for non-members, with a $1 discount for senior adults and students.

Hicksville Express Clinches Third Pl.

By K. Blicher

The Hicksville Express, an intramural soccer team comprised of second through fourth graders, clinched third place in a final playoff game this past weekend at Old Country Road School, with a 3-0 victory over the Hicksville Arrows.

The Express was led by forward Michael Baglieri's two goals and Tracy Koetter's single shot. These two, along with Matthew Hamlin, have been primarily responsible for the goal scoring during the regular season in which the team finished in second place. Also playing heads up, aggressive soccer in this game as well as all season, were Michael Bernius and John Kurkowski, our midfielders. The defense was seldom better as tough fullbacks Robin Blicher, Joey Zaffuto and Joey Minciacci, with Bryan Lagas and Brice Swacey held the opposition at bay. Our goalkeeper, Matthew DePalma was a sure handed asset during this game and all season long, as well. Get well, Chris DeStefano.

Congratulations to the Express for the well deserved win. A large thank you to Steve Baglieri, our super Coach, for his guidance and enthusiasm. By the way, if your child isn't playing soccer, you don't know what you're missing!!

Grumman TBF To Aviation Museum

Under the auspices of Friends for Long Island's Heritage, the citizen support group for Nassau and Suffolk Counties' museum systems, a Grumman Avenger flown during World War II has been acquired for Nassau County's Cradle of Aviation Museum in Garden City. The aircraft is a gift of Mrs. William Schwendler in memory of her husband, William F. Schwendler, one of the five original founders of the Grumman Corporation.

According to Norman R. Tengstrom, Chairman of Friends for Long Island's Heritage and a former Avenger pilot, the vintage airplane will form "the cornerstone of an exhibit at the Cradle of Aviation Museum portraying various Grumman aircraft used during the Second World War." This unique Grumman exhibition will duplicate an aircraft carrier flight deck, complete with wood, metal and metal bridge, and display three authentic aircraft: the Grumman Wildcat, Hellcat and Avenger.

Located at Mitchell Field in Garden City, Nassau County's Cradle of Aviation Museum will house aircraft, spacecraft and artifacts interpreting Long Island's significant contributions to the development of aviation. The museum will be approximately 100,000 square feet in size and is expected to be complete by 1989.

The Avenger was first developed in 1941 after the U.S. Navy placed an order with the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation of Long Island for a new generation of Torpedo Bombers. By the end of May 1942, 85 Avengers had been delivered, and during the following month a further 60 aircraft were accepted by the Navy. Eventually, Grumman built a total of 2,239 Avengers before turning over production of the bomber to General Motors of Trenton, New Jersey, where an additional 7,546 Avengers were produced before the war's end. Restoration of the recently acquired Avenger will be conducted by the Grumman Refitree and is expected to last two years.

A special "Fly In" ceremony took place at 1 p.m. on Tuesday, October 21, at the Grumman Bethpage Facility to mark the Avenger's return. At that time the World War II bomber landed at the Grumman airfield following a flight from Twin Falls, Idaho. Among those who spoke were Nassau County Museum System Director Edward J. Smith, Grumman Chairman John C. Bierman, Jack Rattalata, retired Vice President of Public Affairs at Grumman, Jake Bucolin, Vice President for Business Operations at Grumman, Norman Tengstrom and William Schwendler, Jr., son of Grumman founder William Schwendler.

Friends for Long Island's Heritage, the organization instrumental in the recent acquisition of the Avenger, helps to preserve historic structures, strengthen museum services and sponsor special events that interpret Long Island's historical, cultural and natural heritage. Mailing Tips For The Holidays

Postal employees are often asked by customers how best to prepare parcels and letters for mailing.

When holiday messages or parcels are delayed or damaged, no one is happy. The odds favor timely, safe delivery of holiday mail, and with a little extra care, customers can help the Postal Service complete its appointed rounds.

"Mailing early is the best way to get important holiday cards and gifts to their destination on time," said Roger Nienaber, Hicksville General Manager, Postmaster. "But there are several other mailing tips that will help speed your mail safely to delivery." Window clerks like Sue Lappano in Hicksville are glad to offer their expertise.

"Customers often ask me what is the best way to wrap and address parcels and letters," says Sue Lappano. "And they really appreciate it when I can provide some advice." As a first step, Sue urges customers to properly address cards and packages with the name, house number and street (or post office box) number, and the city, state and ZIP Code reserved for the last line. And including the apartment number is especially important during the holiday season. Sue reminds postal customers that some holiday greeting cards may not be acceptable for mailing at standard rates.

"Letter standards require that envelopes be at least 3 1/2" high and 5" long to meet postal standards," says Sue. "On the other hand, pieces that exceed maximum size must pay a surcharge."

Once letters and parcels are properly addressed, customers should turn their interests toward protecting the contents of their parcels by following several wrapping tips. "Make sure contents are well-cushioned and there is no empty space within the parcel," cautions Sue. "Use crumpled newspaper around the item, including all sides, top and bottom. Foam shells or air-pocket padding is commercially available and also works well. And padded envelopes help cushion small items, too."

The flip side of the coin is overwrapping. Too much of a good thing doesn't ensure a safer delivery.

"Just use your carton," says Sue. "Lots of brown paper and twine cord aren't necessary. Paper can easily rip and the twine can become entangled in mail processing equipment."

Sealing is an important final step in package wrapping.

"Customers should close parcels with one of three recommended types of tape: pressure-sensitive, nylon-reinforced paper, or glass-reinforced pressure sensitive," says Sue. "Cellophane tape or masking tape just aren't sturdy enough." And little things like properly positioning addresses and avoiding smudges also improve chances of timely, safe delivery.

"Use smudge-proof ink for address," counsels Sue, "and put the address on only one side of the parcel."

"Remember to put the recipient's address on the lower right portion of the package," says Sue. "And put your return address in the upper left corner on that same side of the parcel."

Mr. Nienaber reminds customers to seal their envelopes to prevent them from jamming our mail processing machines.

Postmaster Nienaber adds that following these handy mailing tips is in everyone's best interest.

"We're going to be working around the clock to speed your holiday cards and gifts to you," says Mr. Nienaber. "And you can help make our job easier by better preparing your mail."

Special Program Honors Vets

"Honor A Veteran" is the name of a special program presented by Mrs. Ruth Silverman's fifth grade class at the Burns Avenue School on Wednesday, November 12, at 7 o'clock p.m. Twelve veterans were individually honored for the sacrifices and services made to our country. There were representatives of World War II, Korean War, Vietnam War, Army Reserve, and peace keeping forces.

Each child introduced to the audience of parents and friends, the veteran he/she had studied, a brief summary of the veterans' military careers were presented, as well as a handshake and words of appreciation. The sincerity and heart warming feelings expressed by each child as he/she presented the veteran was felt by the entire audience.

Following the presentations, Petty Officer David Cashman of the United States Navy, addressed the group. He expressed words of appreciation to all the children. The evening program concluded with the entire audience joining the students in singing Anchors Aweigh, The Caission Song, The Marine Hymn, America the Beautiful, and The Star Spangled Banner. The music teacher, Mrs. Theresa Spammato, had prepared the children for the singing.

For several weeks prior to the honoring evening, the class had been engaged in map work, research activities, writing and art work dealing with a variety of aspects concerned with the armed forces and global conflicts. The meanings of personal sacrifice and dedication to one's country became apparent to the students as they pursued their studies.

The program was held in the all-purpose room of the Burns Avenue School. The walls were decorated with dozens of appropriate signs, pictures, and posters. Most of the art work has been completed by the children themselves. Some commercial posters donated by the U.S. Army and Navy were also displayed. The children's art work was generally supervised by Ms. Penny Edwards, the school's art teacher.

After the program, refreshments were served. The children's parents had prepared a delicious dessert table. Three parents, Mrs. Owen, Mrs. Emanuel, and Mrs. Grossman, were especially helpful in preparing the dessert table and in helping to decorate the all-purpose room.

This is the second consecutive year such a program was held. Mrs. Silverman thinks that the entire program has such high educational validity, that she expects to repeat the format each school year. Any teacher wishing to get more detailed information about the total program, including the preparatory activities, should contact Mrs. Silverman at the Burns Avenue School.

Shamrocks Win Soccer Doubleheader

By A. Bliker

The Hicksville Shamrocks, 1974 boys traveling soccer team, defeated the Auburndale (Queens) Trojans on Saturday 2-0. On Sunday the team traveled to Lindenhurst and played 1-1 tie against the Invaders, who had a 9-0 record going into their last game. The Shamrocks sterling play this past weekend brought their record to 4-1-4, leaving them in a battle for second place in their division.

Striker Chris Koetter put in a header off a corner kick by sweeper Chris Doyle, to give the Shamrocks an early lead against the Trojans. Doyle, who had come up for a corner kick, stayed around the 20, and was in perfect position for a rebound, feeding wing Eric Bliker, who led a perfect lead cross to wing Jason Kingsley, who then put it in. On Sunday after the Invaders took a 1-0 lead, Jason Kingsley put in a corner kick for the tying goal. Fantastic defense, led by goalie Ed Jacobsen, made the scores hold up on both days. Some of his saves were merely unbelievable!

On Saturday, fullback Christian Friedrich, who had an outstanding weekend, playing all 140 minutes, made the play of the game, saving a rebound in the goal mouth, after the initial save by goalie Jacobsen. On Sunday, fullback Chuck Oliver, who was steady as a rock, also playing in his second full game, duplicated Friedrich's play with a game saving sweep out of the goal mouth. Sweeper Doyle, in addition to his offensive exploits, was always in the right place on defense. The Shamrocks' strength up the middle was best exemplified by the outstanding offensive and defensive play of stopper Brian Harkins.

Domenick Perillo, Brian Pine, David Loyato and Matthew Pordum were dynamic at halfback in both games. Junior Tomlinson played a fine halfback on Saturday and an aggressive wing on Sunday. Chris Koetter was constant in the middle of the action at striker. Wings Eric Bliker, Jason Kingsley and Karl Rice never let up with terrific offensive pressure.

Congratulations to the Shamrocks and coach Herb Pordum, who go into next Sunday's finale at Camague Park with a shot at second place against the tough Malverne Jets. Additional congratulations to Diane Jacobsen, fundraising parent, for her huge assist in helping our team with its first successful fundraiser of the year.

Pack 172 Visits A Planetarium

Michael Lortz leads the way out of the Planetarium as Mrs. Kruger thanks Dr. Stan Simmons.

Dr. Stan Simmons answers questions by the Cub Scouts from Pack 172.

On October 2, the Cub Scouts from East St.'s Pack 172 visited the planetarium at Sylvia Packard Jr. High School in Plainedge.

Stan Simmons and Ronnie Smutny gave us a terrific show. As Ronnie Smutny made the stars appear before us, Dr. Simmons told us about the big dipper, the little dipper, the milky way, the planets and of course; the eclipse. The timing was perfect since an eclipse was expected the next day.

It was amazing when Dr. Simmons showed us how big the sun really is. When a picture of the earth was placed on top of the sun, it looked so tiny. The sun is enormous.

The planets were very interesting. Besides seeing their place in the solar system, we also saw their position at different times of the year. Some planets are visible from earth and others are not.

Two Productions For Plainedge Players

The Plainedge Playhouse on Stewart Avenue in Bethpage will host two productions in December.

The Manhattan Class Company's production of "This Place is Closed for Winter," written by Jon Hall and directed by Bar Teub, deals with the dynamics of power and madness in the lives of ordinary people as they go about their annual task of closing a small New England inn for the winter. The protagonist, a beautiful spinster, is obsessed with the past and transfers that obsession into a need to dominate the lives of those around her. Ultimately, she is confronted with a challenge that threatens to destroy her way of life and her perception of reality.

Performance dates: December 4, 5, 6 and 7. Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday - 8 p.m. A question and answer period will follow each performance.

"She Loves Me," the musical version of "Little Shop Around the Corner" with book by Joe Masteroff, music and lyrics by Jerry Bock and Sheldon Harnick, is a delightful holiday musical story of boy meets girl through a lonely hearts column.

Performance dates: December 12 through January 11. Times: Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m., Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Ticket prices: Friday $8, Saturday $9, Sunday $7.50.

Poet's Tribute To Veterans

Dedicated to All Veterans of Viet-Nam
The War is now over and nothing's been won
The Tattoo has sounded for each mothers Son,
The fields that were red will grow green with the Spring
And the sky will be busy with birds that will Sing,
The trees will have blossoms of leaves bright and gay
That will filter the Sunshine of a wonderful day.
The Paddies of Rice will abound with their wealth
The young and the old will be blessed with good health
The homeless will find once again a dry bed
And a roof that will shield them over their head
The roads that were damaged and pock marked with War
Will never again lead to some Peasant's door.
No more will our Country show anguish and fear
For we've banished each heartache and all of our tears,
We'll bring home our wounded our sick and our sore
And promise again there'll be no foreign shores...
Let the Sun shine so brightly in the heavens above
And teach me the words again of brotherly love.
Oh listen the sad notes...its Taps...day is done
Yes the War is now over...and nobody won.

Dedicated to All Korean Veterans
She stands beside the waters of the raging Sea
Perhaps for only God to see, breathing a prayer for the one that's missed
Recalling the many nights her lips un-kissed,
While off in some far lonely water lay
In some Korean darkened Bay,
A ship with all its manly crew
Wet with the coming morning dew,
Shivering with the cooling breeze
Some standing, sitting or on bended knees,
With sighted guns against the morning light
Who kept their guard throughout the night,
Her prayers were answered this I know
Have not the waters calmed, soft breezes blow,
They've helped to speed her prayer along its way
To some one there is Korean Bay.

Her memories triggered by a dream. Justin Stokes, a successful actress in her forties, looks back to the summer she turned fourteen. It was a summer that taught lessons of life, love, friendship and betrayal that haunt and shape her still, even though she has long suppressed the tragedy that marked its end. It was the year that she and her younger brother came north with their recently widowed mother to live with an aunt in a rural New York community. Girl Scouts Visit Woodbury Stables

On Tuesday morning November 11 the girl scouts of Troop 3001 woke up to torrential rain. Ordinarily this would be alright except that this morning we were going to Rice Farms and Stables in Woodbury, to complete the horse lover badge. Despite the cold and rain eleven scouts and five brave adults set out for a wonderful adventure. We arrived at 10:30 a.m. and parked. Plodding through muddy puddles we reached the indoor arena where Ms. Cindy Horan was waiting with several horses and three girls to assist her. Ms. Horan explained the proper care of a horse. She let the girls brush the horses. After a thorough demonstration of saddling and bridling, the girls were allowed to try their hand at it - what fun. The girls had prepared many questions for Ms. Horan and she very patiently answered them. Everyone had a wonderful fun filled time. Troop 3001 would like to thank Ms. Cindy Horan, Mrs. Jean Lowenthal and all the wonderful people who made the day so much fun.

Civic Assn. Launches A Clean-Up Prog

By Gert Paul

With the holiday season approaching, another year shall soon be at an end. The Midland Civic Beautification Committee is targeting 1987 as the year when some progress in the efforts of many people will be made. Hicksville has a long and proud history, but our town is clouded by its image of being a dirty, weed-strewn, lower-class community. This is unfair because so many homeowners take great care to enhance their properties. The image comes from our main streets and the people who do business in Hicksville. True, our houses of worship are all welcoming, showing respect for God and man. Our funeral homes are all beautifully kept, showing respect for the dead and their families and friends. However, too few of our businesses show such regard for the people who live in Hicksville and from whom they make their living.

Our committee, consisting of Norma Levison, Gloria Mann, Ellic Draycott, Sonia DeSilva, Eileen Richards, Minia Monterez, and myself have been looking for buildings that show effort and caring for the image of Hicksville. Our list of honor, which will be enlarged or deleted from, depending on review are presently as follows: 1) The Red Lobster, 2) McDonald's, 3) Pastos, 4) Caravilla Restaurant, 5) Mobil Service Station, 6) Phillips Floral Creations, 7) Metrodial (a burglar alarm service co.), 8) Goldman, Bros., 9) Peppercorns, 10) Gordon Hahn Assoc. Real Estate.

We encourage people to patronize these places of business as a way of encouraging others to do the following: Paint your facades if they are peeling, dirty, or garish. Plant a tree in front of your business or in the median as a donation to our town, put up planters next spring, or window boxes, decorate your windows, update the signs, form a block coalition to make facades uniform, get your dumpsters behind fences, and have garbage containers available. Marcos Ramirez, of the Hicksville Chamber of Commerce is trying to get garbage cans installed from the Town of Oyster Bay, and has planned for Christmas lights!

Let's get our community organized! Tell the people you do business with when you approve of how they keep their properties, and when you don't.

Raising our image will improve property values, improve the amount of business done, and turn Hicksville into an old, charming town instead of a seedy-looking one.

Members of our community, please join our crusade! Show your care!

The annual Hicksville Junior High School Mini-Marathon was held this September and October. After a full month of conditioning and preparation, the entire school student population, and teacher-coach Hank Cooney, ran the race.

Pushed to a maximum effort, almost 1000 participants took the test for a passing physical education grade. A continuous jog for the time limit (12 minutes for boys, 13:20 for girls) for 4 laps, entitled the student to a passing grade. A runner who does 7 laps in the allotted time received a shirt in addition to a perfect grade in class for this conditioning unit.

The boys and girls are taught the value of aerobic exercise, how to monitor resting, exercise, recovery heart rates, and how to begin a valuable lifelong activity.

The students listed are the shirt winners, but everyone who participated this year profited from the Fitness and Conditioning Program at the junior high school.

Ronald McDonald Visits With Cubs

October 4 was a special day at the McDonald playland on Broadway in Hicksville. The guest of honor was Ronald McDonald. The children were absolutely amazed. His hair was so red and his voice so gentle. Ronald was very good with the children. He was so patient with their need to shake his hand. He made sure he talked to every child.

Then Ronald was given a stack of papers. He asked every child his name and then gave him his autograph.

Then he said good-bye and left with a big Ronald McDonald smile.

The children came to see Ronald McDonald and receive his special handshake. It was a great day!

Spiegel's Honored By Hofstra U.

Jerry Spiegel

Hofstra University dedicated the Emily and Jerry Spiegel Theater Tuesday, November 18, according to Dr. James M. Shuart, Hofstra President.

The refurbishing of the theater has been made possible through a generous gift from Mr. Spiegel, Chairman of Spiegel Associates, Hicksville.

Jerry Spiegel is a leading Long Island builder and owner/manager of commercial and industrial properties. Mr. Spiegel has been a member of the Hofstra Advisory Board since 1973 and previously was a member of the Hofstra Council beginning in 1964. Mr. Spiegel and his wife

Emily have made generous contributions to Hofstra over the years. Avid art collectors, the Spiegels donated Georges Roualt's oil on paper, "Clown," to the Hofstra Museum's permanent collection.

"The significant support of Mr. and Mrs. Spiegel has long been appreciated by Hofstra University," President James M. Shuart said. "The newly-renovated Emily and Jerry Spiegel Theater will stand as a major contribution to Hofstra's commitment to the support of the arts, while enhancing the beauty and comfort of our campus."

The Emily and Jerry Spiegel Theater was built as the Little Theater in the late 1940's and has been used continuously as a classroom and as an arena for experimental theater and new one-act and full-length plays.

The renovated theater features new seating, a ceiling conducive to theater and classroom use, upgraded stage lighting, new house lights, flooring and carpet, a new stage surface and new air conditioning. In addition, the lobby was renovated and new doors were installed at the lobby entrance.

Including the Emily and Jerry Spiegel Theater, there are a total of seven performance halls available, year-round, to the Hofstra Drama Department, the Gray Wig Alumni Repertory Company, USA Productions,

Hofstra Mid-Season and other groups for their numerous productions. This year, Hofstra will present almost 100 events in performance halls such as the 1,200 seat John Cranford Adams Playhouse, the Student Center Theater, the Hofstra Cultural Center Lecture Hall, and Hofstra USA.

Mr. Spiegel shaped Long Island's future as one of the first builders of residential properties in 1949 and in 1951 furthered business and community development as an innovator in the development of commercial/industrial properties on Long Island. He has served as a trustee of the United Jewish Y of Long Island for the past three years, and is a Long Island Jewish Medical Center founder. He has been an Associate Trustee of North Shore University Hospital for fifteen years. Further, he is the deputy treasurer for the Village of Kings Point, a trustee of the North Shore Science Museum and a trustee of the Friends Academy. Mr. Spiegel is a Director of the American Friends of Israel Museum, a Director of Continental Bank, Garden City, and a member of the Nassau Advisory Board of the Chicago Title Insurance Co.

The Emily and Jerry Spiegel Theater is located on the south campus, California Avenue, Hempstead.

Pilot Program Expanded At Hosp

Tours for relatives of new born babies including Sibling Classes, Grandparents' Orientations, and Prenatal Care Classes are being stepped up in a major pilot program at Central General Hospital. It was announced this week by Dr. Gerald Ente, Director of Nursery Services and Neonatal Division.

Ente said, "as a local community hospital we compete for maternity services of larger institutions such as North Shore, Long Island Jewish and Stony Brook, but we offer certain personalized and individualized care, as well as family-oriented approaches that the larger facilities do not consider nor offer."

One of the maternity programs at Central General is called Sibling Classes which includes tours for the siblings of the maternity ward before the baby is born.

Any brother or sister, from ages 3 to 8 years, is actually brought up to the obstetrical unit and sees where mommy is going to deliver the new baby, sees where the baby is going to be kept; sees where mommy is going to be sleeping and why she is not going to be home for three or four days. During the visit, the sibling will actually handle a simulated fetal heart monitor where the sibling can listen to the heart beat before the baby is born. Dr. Ente said, "we call this 'hands on', where the sibling can actually lay hands on the new born. The whole process takes about 20 minutes and the sibling is given an opportunity to ask questions. The sibling may put on a small cap and gown, play Junior Doctor, and at the conclusion of the tour is given a certificate to show that he or she has completed a sort of Junior Lamar."

Rosemarie Nash, Obstetrical Assistant Director of Nurses said, "up until three months ago, siblings could not touch the new born during feeding times; now, the hospital has taken a 'hands on' approach for siblings with the baby and, providing siblings have received all of their immunizations and are in good health, we bring the infant into the room undressed and allow the visitor to see and touch the baby."

Grandparents also receive an in-depth program, where the hospital provides expanded educational tours. Dr. Ente said, "the hospital pays a great deal of attention to training the grandparent in the latest methods of newborn reaction to basic stimuli and handling. We find our approach to grandparent continuing education an innovative departure with other hospitals in the region."

On the tours, grandparents and trained nurses walk through the delivery room, the post partum room, and the birthing room. Nurses sit down with the grandparents and conduct classes to introduce modern concepts in new born care and well-baby care. "They're two generations behind," said Ente, "and we are bringing them up on things like disposable diapers and disposable formula as well as the other new concepts practiced here."

The Pre-Neonatal Care Classes, Sibling Classes and "hands on" visitation programs as well as grandparent tours are a pilot program in neonatal care that was first established by Central General Hospital last June.

The grandparent tours are conducted twice a month, every other Friday and on weekends. Usually, there are as many as forty-five grandparents in these tours for two shifts. The grandparents tours are booked in the delivery room and the Sibling Classes in the Hospital's nursery.

The hospital's neonatal division is teaching grandparents and siblings modern standards and techniques for new born care. Both Dr. Ente and Assistant Director Nash agree that Central General's in-depth maternity programs offer a humanized approach to new born well-care services.

There are more than forty practicing pediatricians and that number of trained neonatal care nurses at the hospital.

Residents in our community wishing more information about maternity services at Central General Hospital should contact Dr. Gerald Ente, Director of Nursery Services or Rosemarie Nash, RN, Nursing Care Coordinator at 516-681-8900.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Gabby Tabby

THE BIG NEWS from LILCO this week was not about the possible use of the Hicksville headquarters as an evacuation site from Shoreham in an emergency but that the company is redesigning the look of its bills. If it follows any of the planners at the Telephone Co. it will mean that after you read ten pieces of paper designed as a bill you still might not know why the bill is so high. LATEST word from the county is that it might be able to get along with less than an 8% increase in the budget and no explanation of what will become of the $46 million surplus in the budget.... A PLAINVIEW man, Mel Feit, has a gripe against bars. But no mention in the Human Rights claim has been made of the fact that men have less hair than women and might be given a lower price for the services.... THE POLICE REPORT is published each week as a public service to alert residents of where crime is taking place in the area and as an aid in the Neighborhood Watch program. Students Tour Golden Doors

At the "Golden Doors" of Hicksville's artistic wonder at Trinity Lutheran Church on West Nicholas Street, are two Fork Lane classes of second graders, enjoying themselves. The children from Ms. Flanagan's class were on a sight-seeing tour sponsored by the Hicksville Gregory Museum school outreach program recently. Trinity's replica of the world-renowned Ghiberti Renaissance bronze showing scenes from the Old Testament is one of two copies in the United States.

No sight-seeing trip of Hicksville places of interest is ever complete without Gregory Museum historian Dick Evers taking excited youngsters to see the Stolz family horse farm on Duffy Avenue. Sometimes genial Jim Stolz poses with his young friends.

Hicksville Aux. Police Seeks New Recruits

Nassau County Auxiliary Police Unit 312 announces the start of a recruitment drive. The need for new members has grown due to increased demand for Auxiliary Police Services and the loss of many members who have moved on to the regular police force. We need volunteers in order to increase our services to the community and help make it a safer place in which to live and work.

The members of the Auxiliary Police Unit 312 are graduates of the Nassau County Auxiliary Police Academy and are called upon by the police department to assist in specialized patrols and emergency details.

What's In It For You?

Volunteering to be a Nassau County Auxiliary Police Officer has some benefits besides the good feeling you get by helping others.

....college credit is offered by many colleges. (Life experience programs), after completing the Auxiliary Police Academy.

....Free training and the opportunity to work directly with one of the most modern and best trained Police Departments in the United States.

....Law Enforcement career opportunities.

....Workmen's compensation when on duty.

....Off duty benefit package (i.e. medical, dental, etc.)

At this time, Unit 312 is accepting applications for membership. If you or anyone you know is interested in aiding the community in this unique form of service, contact Auxiliary Police Headquarters at 422-2309. Applications must be between 17 and 55 years old, have a clean record, and be in good health.

News From Road Runners

POBRRC's Bob Oblas, left, of Old Bethpage and Barry Saltsberg, right of Plainview, enjoy the Pre-Marathon Pasta Party. Bob finished the Marathon in 4:10:34 and Barry crossed the finish line in 4:49:49.

More than 50 members of the Plainview/Old Bethpage Road Runners Club helped celebrate another year of running and fitness by successfully completing the 1986 New York City Marathon on November 2.

Gerry Miller led the local contingent with a sparkling 2:43:04, followed closely by teammate David Canner (2:43:22). Larry Green (2:51:24) was the third local finisher. Fifty-six year old Andy Mulrain turned in a great 2:59:44 to lead the POBRRC masters' contingent and Fred Winkel (3:01:25) and Art Koppelman (3:05:15) topped the local 40-49 age group.

Margaret Bertram was the first POBRRC woman to cross the finish line, and her time of 3:12:42 made her the first Long Island woman to finish the Marathon. Lois Polesky (3:30:42) and Gina Gelman (3:35:05) were the next two POBRRC women finishers, and Amanda Scola (3:47:28) and POBRRC Vice President Julie Shapiro (3:52:24) were the leading local women masters.

Local Marathoners, their families and friends were once again treated to a gala Pre-Marathon Pasta Party. This year's affair was held at the VFW Hall in Plainview and was another huge success and a fine tension-breaking social evening for those who had trained so hard for this year's Marathon.

Congratulations to all Marathon participants. Everyone who competed was a winner, no matter what his or her finishing time!

Our Children

Learning disability isn't mental retardation

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Q. Our son's teacher told me that he has a learning disability, and I believe it is so because of his difficulty with both reading and writing. Although he is 9 years old his reading of simple materials is slow and his writing is sometimes hard to figure out.

A. My husband says he is just plain dumb. He feels that the boy should be put into a special class for slow children. The school doesn't even have such classes because they try to keep children in regular ones even if they have some special problems.

A. Our boy receives help from a learning disability teacher who is concentrating on the reading and writing, and who feels he is making progress.

A. My main problem is with my husband's attitude which I think is so bad.

A. The area of specific learning disabilities relates to children who are average or above average in intelligence and who have such problems. They are not mentally retarded. Being taught in the regular classroom through "mainstreaming" as well as with the help of a resource teacher who has special skills provides one of the best combinations available.

There are many publications on this subject, available through local libraries and departments of special education in colleges and universities. Among the most knowledgeable professional writers in this field are Samuel Kirk, Janet Lerner and Larry Faas.

Q. I've known for a number of years what a compulsive, exacting kind of person my husband is, but I've adjusted to him. I've made myself overlook how precise he is about everything — telling time almost to the second, keeping his clothes in order so that he knows just when he wore each item, even the way he eats his food.

A. However, now I've become aware that our son who is only 4 years old is just like his father. His toys have to be placed just so, his books are arranged exactly straight on the shelves, he never messes up his room, his drawers, his clothes or anything. It just doesn't seem natural.

Q. Do you think this is something to worry about? Can I do anything about it?

A. It certainly isn't at all strange for children to have particular characteristics of their parents. They may acquire them genetically or by observation, imitating what they see.

You might want to make an effort to accept your boy as you have your husband, and derive some pleasure from the fact that his behavior actually could make him easy to live with.

However, both at home and in a preschool (if he attends one), your boy may be made comfortable about situations in which he is involved where all isn't in perfect order. Play activities, toys and art might provide such settings.

I imagine some other parents would be glad to change places with you at least once in a while.

Q. Teenagers can be pretty thoughtless, or is that obvious to everyone? I guess ours is no worse than others, but he has a habit I would like to break.

A. I wash the laundry and fold and pile it in the kitchen when I'm finished. He helps himself to the one or two items he needs, and leaves the rest there. If I didn't put the rest away for him, he would continue to nibble at the stack until it was all "used up."

A. Any suggestions? You might try an approach like this: "Your clean laundry is ready for you to put away. Do it now before you go to school (or visit a friend or play baseball)." The alternative could be for him to wash his own clothes, and put them away, not a likely choice.

Museum Gets A Sprucing Up

Finisse Co. painters are giving the Old Hicksville Courthouse at Heltz Place a fine face-lifting these days. The National Historic Building, the home of the Gregory Museum, has been the object of a Town of Oyster Bay Community Development/Preservation Project since the summer.

The Town's preservation project at the Old Hicksville Courthouse involved replacement of some windows damaged in fire control efforts during 1985's Memorial Day weekend electrical storm fire at the building.

A nice coat of fresh yellow paint with white trim was applied to the Old Hicksville Courthouse this past week. The 1895 landmark was well known until 1967 as a town meeting hall, justice of the peace court, and then for 32 years as the Nassau Second District Court. Today it houses the attractive mineralogical/fossil collections of the Gregory Museum.

Workmen of Unicorn Contractors are shown replacing the original front porch at the Old-Heltz Place Courthouse. The Gregory Museum Historical Committee has worked with the Town of Oyster Bay's contract architects, Weiderscham Associates, in trying to assure the authenticity of appearance in preservation and restoration work at the National Historic Building.

Input Callers Say 'No' To U.S. Hostage Deals

Most callers to Input believe that we should not make deals to get back hostages in answer to this question: "Do you think that we should make deals with Iran to bring about the return of hostages?"

A CHANGE

No. I cannot believe that the President has now changed his tough policy about hostages to get the freedom of one hostage. The idea that we would do this would not stabilize our relations with other nations but only let them know that we will pay ransom for the return of our people. It is the wrong way to negotiate. B.N. POLITICS

I would have said that we should not send arms or anything else to get back our people being illegally held as hostages. But I listened to what President Reagan had to say and I am convinced that if he would negotiate and work out better relations with Iran and the rest of the Arab world that there would be no need for them to take hostages to get their voice heard in the world and if we can negotiate better relations, it will help both the United States and Israel. In a normal world of the past, there was little threat to the U.S. citizens who travelled that they were in danger. There was no need to worry in foreign countries—although they did not always like Americans, they wanted our money and they wanted Americans to travel. The world does need negotiating to get going in the right direction and tough negotiating by which neither side will talk won't bring about an end to anything. What the critics are saying is that Reagan was right in the past and now he is wrong. But no matter how you look at it, things were not getting anywhere the other way. Presently the negotiations are being lost because of politics. J.R. NO ARMS

I am not a relative of hostages and feel very strongly about their release. However, our President has said many times that terrorists and government are not synonymous. You can deal with the government—not with terrorists. Every step necessary to release the hostages should be taken but not at the expense of giving arms. Intermediaries could have done the job just as they did in 1980. Are we trying to undercut our allies to get a foothold in Iran? Diplomatic tools should have been used—not arms. The President has not acted in the true tradition of the American people and certainly should be called upon to answer for his shameful act. P.W. LIKE WATERGATE

If you mean the kind of deal President Reagan is supposed to have recently made with Iran, I would say that it compares to some of the Watergate shenanigans which caused President Nixon's resignation. While every reasonable effort should be made for the release of American hostages in Lebanon, I would also suggest that our government order every American now living in Lebanon to leave that country immediately. As for any diplomatic relations with Iran, I would say not until there is a change in the Khomeini reign. C.K. NO VALID REASON

The dictionary describes "hostage" as "a person given or held as security for the performance of certain actions, promises, etc. by another." Frankly, I am not fully aware of the actions, promises, etc. which have been requested by Iran for whatever hostages may be involved. Presumably, they are not being held in Iran but in Lebanon although it seems to be equally clear that Iran has a strong voice in their release wherever they are. But, the mere fact that Khomeini or his nominal successor can hold that pivotal position based upon the current revelations of sotto voce negotiations by President Reagan as well as the expressed contrary opinions of his advisors, his cabinet and other important congressional leaders makes any negotiations with Iran completely ill-advised. I strongly favor our recent policy not to negotiate with terrorists for the release of hostages and I see no reason to abrogate that policy. Furthermore, I fail to see why we should intervene in the war between Iran and Iraq on any basis even though the President seems to believe the steps already taken are in our long-range interest. Somehow, I feel that we have let our allies down especially after the recent position of the U.K. vis-a-vis Syria. Obviously too, we should not tolerate policy engendered by the media which, in this case, is extremely vocal and neither should we lose our heads over the question of hostage release because of public appeals of those hostages recently released, such as Mr. Jacobson, who should be happy that they have their freedom and not try to create a forum of public opinion to push for the release of others by almost any means leading to ill-conceived decisions and actions. I see no valid reason for making a deal with Iran as to do so would only serve to validate their criminal responsibility. J.G.S.

OTHER ISSUES

LILCO PROBLEM

LILCO has their main headquarters in Hicksville. Now they're trying something new on the residents there. They want their major center for radioactive decontamination to be in Hicksville. Why should Hicksville residents have this center here? We'll be exposed to health safety hazards plus financial risk. L.C. DON'T COME BACK

I'm a former resident of Manhattan. I lived a great deal of my life there. I think to charge $10.00 is too little for cars to go into New York. I feel this way because when I was living there, I saw a lot of people there who shouldn't have been there, and I thought about what things the city could do to keep people and tourists out. There are a lot of self-contained neighborhoods in New York, and there will always be contempt for people who drive cars by those city residents. This is probably the best idea city officials have done to control traffic in New York City. There's a t-shirt that says "Welcome to New York-Now Get Out". That means quite a bit. I think there should be a new t-shirt that says "Welcome to New York-Pay Your Ten Bucks-Have A Good Time-Now Get Out and Don't Come Back Soon". J.M.

Discovery!

What Mid Life Crisis?

By Laurie Beller

When I woke up this morning I didn't feel any different than I did on any other morning. I carefully examined my sleepy face in the bathroom mirror and did not detect any new wrinkles, lines, crows feet, etc. I stepped back to view myself in the full length mirror behind my bedroom door, no new varicose veins, sagging flesh or loose muscle. It seemed like just another morning getting started about the same way they all did.

Mid life, mid life crisis, the phenomenon we all hear about, read about, see on T.V. Was I going to escape, get off this easy; would it pass me by without even a little tug at my ego? No I thought, I've been experiencing it all along, building up to this fateful day when I would turn thirty nine.

Jack Benny joked about it, and developed his reputation based on that magic number that stayed with him throughout his career. This would be the very last birthday I would admit to I thought. Right now on this dreary gray April morning I could hardly handle thirty nine, let alone the possibility of turning forty.

Where did the time go I pondered. I was always a deep thinker, quick to analyze, sensitive, and in touch with my feelings and those of others, this was a heavy one to deal with.

I still felt only as old as my kids, still remembered with much clarity my schooldays, childhood, friends, parties, dances and dates. I couldn't be the mother of a fifteen year old now experiencing all those wonderful as well as painful emotions.

How many times have I heard older folks say "the years go so quickly, I was young once," but you tend not to think about it, try to dismiss those thoughts from your mind. As we go along each day caught up with the busy life styles we lead, trying to solve one crisis after another either personal or on the job, we don't realize the days, weeks, months, years go by so swiftly.

If only I could stop and capture each memory, cease every special moment. The day I walked down the aisle and said "I do," being wheeled into the delivery room to bring life to my first born, only to witness his first step, first tooth, haircut, etc. Now he's asking me to help him decide who to ask to the Senior Prom.

Lately, I'm being called Ma'm by a young man behind a food counter, and told by a clerk in a record store, "my mom likes that singer too," when I requested a record album at the mall. It was all starting to come together now, face it, there's no turning back, and it must be starting to show now as I'm no longer "Miss or young lady" when addressed by a store employee.

It's a gradual progression, like putting on that extra ten pounds since the birth of your last child. You don't really notice it while it's happening, but suddenly it's there.

But, would I want to go back; back to the days when my husband and I saved and struggled to buy that new car, the house in the suburbs, jet off on the trip we always dreamed of? Would I want to plan another "Hamburger Helper" meal instead of sirloin?

I'm comfortable now with who I am, where I came from, what I've become. I worked hard for the comforts I now enjoy.

I spent many a night rocking my son back and forth in weary arms, only to see him become a handsome, intelligent, polite young man. I've earned every compliment I now receive from his teachers, family and friends. The many sleepless nights I spent nursing my two other children through their childhood ills, I cannot forget. The cold windy afternoons spent on the soccer field, tedious school meetings and the like will always remain a part of me. I've put my time in and "paid my dues" as they say.

The home I so efficiently run, I've earned. The swimming pool in the back yard I lounge beside every chance I get, I deserve. And as for my husband, the demands he must meet every business day, in the pressure cooker he's in, no one has earned life's pleasures more than he.

Now I've come to terms with age, with my time. Sure it may hurt a bit filling out that number on the annual census report, but would I really want to go back, return to days filled with eagerness and endeavor?

I will use this time in my life, to go forward and not look back, to learn to live, and fill each day with zeal and enthusiasm. To share every joyous moment with those I care about. To be grateful, mostly for good health and look forward to a future filled with peace and contentment.

Where Our Readers
Have The Last Word

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides and a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great, and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings."

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

A FAVORITE

The Marmite restaurant has been my favorite for years. We went there last Thursday and had a delicious fish special for one and a beautiful steak for the other person in our party.

At Marmite everything is first rate from the fully decked tables to the service of food. But this would not be enough. The food is really good and the menu is varied. It is a place to go for special occasions.

We have been going to Marmite for a number of years now and want to heartily recommend it to all your readers. G.F.

Q. I am a busy professional woman who finds it difficult to entertain at home. My working hours as an attorney are long and tiring. I really don't feel like coping with guests on the weekend. Would it be all right to repay my social obligations by inviting people to dine out?

A. Certainly that would be proper. Social obligations do not have to be repaid on a strictly tit-for-tat basis. Your friends would enjoy a delicious dinner in a relaxed restaurant atmosphere more than an at-home meal served by a hostess they sense is harried and exhausted.

Q. If two women dine out together, and neither is the guest of the other, what is the best way for them to pay the bill?

A. The best way I know is by asking the waiter to bring separate checks, and why this is not done more often I cannot understand. The second best plan is having one woman pay the check, then settling the bill afterwards with her companion.

Q. We are not wine drinkers. If we're giving a party, what kind of wines should we stock in order to take care of our wine-drinking friends' pleasure from cocktail hour through dinner? T.R. A. For the cocktail hour you might have on hand dry or sweet sherry, or dry or sweet vermouth, or any of the popular "apertiffs." Many choose a glass of dry white wine at the cocktail hour (either chilled or "one the rocks").

For the first course, or to drink with any fish, salad, chicken, veal or fruit, a chilled white wine is nice (such as a Chablis, Scaev, Riesling, Chenin Blanc, Pinot Chardonnay).

For the meat or game course (or the salad with cheese), serve a Burgundy, Bordeaux, Chianti, Cabernet Sauvignon, or Zinfandel at a cool room temperature (from 60 to 70 degrees).

Rose wines should be chilled, like white wines. A rose is best served with a light dish and is more popular in hot weather than in cold.

For dessert you may serve the same wine you had from the previous course. Or if it's something festive like an anniversary, dessert time is the moment to bring on the champagne (the drier the better!).

Some people enjoy a sweet wine with dessert, such as port or a sweet sauterne or sherry, but one seldom sees this custom followed anymore in this country.

There are not many Chinese restaurants that surpass the fine food of Long's at Mid Island Plaza in Hicksville. We have been going to this restaurant for many years and can truthfully say that there is not a restaurant around the consistently gives top Chinese specialties of all types.

Last week we tried their stuffed shrimp Islander chef's special. This was about the best new dish that we have had in some time. We must also report that the decor and service at Long's is friendly, courteous, and very professionally carried out. We recommend it to all of your readers. G.J.

IRISH ATMOSPHERE
I think that many of your readers are Irish or of Irish descent as I am but it doesn't really matter. There is a nice cafe in Bethpage called Kenni's Cafe that has just great food and a lot more.

It has good service and entertainment, folk songs and ballads on Friday and Saturday nights. We went there last week and found the food to be very good and the entertainment to be something special. I think that many of your readers would like to go to this fine place and I bring it to your attention. It is located at 729 South Oyster Bay Road, Bethpage. M.O'D.

GOOD WORDS

A very good friend invited me to lunch at the Maine Maid Inn in Jericho last Friday. I really don't know if I can find enough complimentary words to describe my experiences. First of all the Inn is charming and the decor is very relaxing. The waitress was so sweet. On her recommendation we both ordered the Friday special of Lobster Tail Scampi. It was served with rice or linguini and in addition we received a few shrimp on the rice. For dessert, again on the waitress' suggestion I had chocolate walnut pie which was simply magnificent and my friend had cheese cake ammorata. I admit I had to taste it too and will order that next time I visit the Maine Maid. By the way, we were completed with our meal in one hour. Great for all those business people out there and we didn't feel rushed at all. In fact, there was time for more coffee. V.P.

Cooking Corner

Turkey, trimmings, things to be thankful for

By Maureen Clancy

Folk who opt on Thanksgiving Day for the likes of quail, smoked salmon or, heaven forbid, Beef Wellington, clearly have no regard for taste or tradition.

Thanksgiving Day without a golden turkey, sweet potatoes and creamed onions is just another Thursday. And November without those days of mince pie-perfumed kitchens and mayo-smeared leftover turkey sandwiches would be just another 30 days to wait for Santa.

Even if turkey were a dry and bland-tasting bird (and it definitely is not if the cook is careful and creative), who can dispute the grandeur of butter swirled squash, tangy cranberry relish flecked with orange zest and walnuts, sweet potatoes gooped up with brown sugar, marshmallows and chopped pecans and a groaning board of homey pies and homemade pumpkin ice cream?

Why, even brussels sprouts and parsnips taste pretty good at this, the ultimate American celebration.

For those who feel as I do — that eating capon or beef on Thanksgiving would be as sacrilegious as sipping champagne in Clancy's Bar or eating boudin blanc at the ballpark — here are my favorite recipes for a memorable feast.

ROAST TURKEY WITH ORANGE, PRUNE AND CHESTNUT STUFFING

- 1/2 pound pitted prunes
- 1/2 cup seedless raisins
- 1 cup Port
- 1 lemon, seeded and thinly sliced
- 1 medium onion, finely chopped and sauteed 1 minute in 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/2 cup minced celery, tops included
- 1 large orange, peeled of all skin and pith, seeded and coarsely chopped
- 1 cup coarsely chopped canned, unsweetened chestnuts
- 1/2 teaspoon mace
- Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 cups bread crumbs
- 12- to 14-pound turkey, giblets removed and reserved
- 1 tablespoon dried sage
- 8 slices thick bacon
- 1 tablespoon flour

Combine prunes and raisins with Port in a bowl and soak in refrigerator overnight.

Transfer contents of the bowl to large saucepan. Add lemon slices bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes or until fruit is tender; drain. Transfer fruit to chopping board, chop coarsely and transfer to large bowl. Add onion, celery, orange, chestnuts, mace, salt and pepper, lemon juice and bread crumbs. Toss and correct seasonings.

Preheat oven to 325 F. Season turkey with salt and pepper inside and out, rub sage throughout the cavity, pack loosely with the stuffing and truss. Bard the breast with bacon slices. Place turkey on rack in large roasting pan, cover and roast 2 to 2 1/2 hours.

Meanwhile, place reserved giblets in saucepan with at least 3 1/2 cups water, bring to boil and reduce heat, cover and simmer 30 minutes. Transfer giblets to chopping board and chop coarsely, set aside. Strain 3 cups of stock into bowl and set aside.

Remove bacon from turkey, baste bird with pan juices, increase heat to 450 F. and continue roasting uncovered, 30 minutes or until golden brown.

Transfer turkey to heated platter, skim fat from pan juices, add flour and stir about 5 minutes, or until well blended and smooth. Add reserved stock slowly over moderate heat, stirring constantly; stir in reserved giblets, bring gravy to boil and serve piping hot in gravy boat.

From James Villas' "The Town & Country Cookbook" (Little, Brown, $24.95).

CRANBERRY CONSERVE

- 1 pound fresh cranberries
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup seedless raisins
- 2 oranges, cleanly peeled, seeded and cut into small chunks
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans

Place cranberries in large saucepan, add water and bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 3 to 5 minutes or until berries just pop open. Add sugar, raisins and orange chunks, stir and simmer 15 minutes. Stir in nuts and simmer 2 minutes. Remove pan from heat and cool slightly.

Spoon conserve into hot sterilized jars; seal and store in cool area. Or spoon mixture into jars, cover lightly with lids and refrigerate until ready to serve with roasted poultry or pork (keeps about two weeks under refrigeration). Makes about 2 pints.

SWEET POTATO AND PECAN PUDDING

- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 4 cups pared, grated sweet potatoes or yams

- 1/2 cup packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon each cinnamon and ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 eggs, well beaten
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans
- Pecan halves for decoration, optional

In saucepan combine and heat milk and butter. Stir into grated potatoes in bowl and combine thoroughly. Add and combine brown sugar, vanilla, nutmeg, cinnamon, ginger and salt. Add beaten eggs and pecans, stirring to combine thoroughly. Pour mixture into 1 1/2-quart casserole and bake 325 F for 1 hour. Arrange pecan halves on top of pudding, if wished. Bake an additional 30 minutes or until done. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

PUREE OF TURNIPS

- 3 pounds small white turnips
- 1/4-pound piece salt pork or 8 thick slices bacon
- Freshly ground black pepper
- Cayenne to taste
- Salt to taste
- 2 tablespoons butter

Wash and peel turnips and cut into thin slices. Combine in saucepan turnips with salt pork (or bacon) and water to cover; cook uncovered about 1/2 hour or until tender. Drain, if necessary, reserving cooking liquid.

Puree turnips with half the salt pork (or bacon) and season to taste with pepper, cayenne, salt (if necessary) and butter. Add cooking liquid if too thick.

MIXED BAKED ONIONS WITH PECORINO AND PROVOLONE

- 1/2 pound shallots, peeled
- 1 head garlic, divided into cloves, peeled
- 2 tablespoons (1/4 stick) butter
- 1/2 medium onion, diced
- 1/2 small carrot, diced
- Bouquet garni (thyme, bay leaf, parsley stems)
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1/2 cup peeled, seeded, chopped tomatoes or canned puree
- 6 tablespoons (1/4 stick) butter
- 2 red onions, sliced into 1/2-inch rings
- 1 Spanish onion, sliced into 1/2-inch rings
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper
- 1/4 cup grated pecorino cheese
- 1/4 cup shredded provolone cheese
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley

Blanch shallots and garlic cloves separately in boiling salted water until barely tender. Drain well and set aside.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in heavy, large saucepan over medium-low heat. Add diced onion, carrot and bouquet garni. Cover and cook, stirring frequently, until onion is tender, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in flour. Return to heat and stir until golden, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat.

Whisk in half of the milk (1 cup) until smooth. Blend in remainder of milk. Increase heat to medium-high and bring to boil, stirring constantly. Reduce heat to low, add tomatoes. Simmer sauce 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Meanwhile, melt the 6 tablespoons butter in large, heavy skillet over low heat. Add sliced onions and blanched shallots and garlic mixture. Cover and cook until tender, stirring frequently 25 to 30 minutes.

Strain the sauce into clean saucepan, season with salt and pepper to taste. Add cooked onion mixture. (Can be prepared several hours ahead to this point).

Preheat oven to 350 F. Butter shallow 1 1/2 to 2 quart baking dish and top with cheeses. Bake until bubbly, about 30 minutes. Top with chopped parsley and serve. Makes 6 servings.

EGGPLANT AND FILBERT SPREAD

- 1 eggplant, about 1 pound
- 1/2 cup ground toasted filberts
- 3 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 2 garlic cloves, crushed with 1/4 teaspoon each salt and ground ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Preheat oven to 400 F. Remove stem from eggplant. In shallow baking dish bake eggplant 40 minutes or until soft. Cool eggplant, peel and chop it. In the large bowl of an electric mixer, beat eggplant to a puree. Beat in ground toasted filberts, mayonnaise, lemon juice, garlic cloves and pepper, chill, covered for at least 2 hours. Add salt to taste and serve with crackers or toast. Makes 1 cup.

MEXICAN CASHEWS

- 2 cups cashew nuts
- 1 1/2 tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon powdered red chili
- 1/2 teaspoon each ground cumin and coriander

Saute cashew nuts in butter for several minutes, then remove to drain on absorbent paper. Mix salt, red chili and spices in paper bag and shake with nuts until well coated.

PUMPKIN ICE CREAM

- 6 egg yolks
- 1 cup mashed cooked pumpkin (half a 1-pound can solid-pack pumpkin, not pumpkin pie filling)
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger
- 4 cups heavy cream

In small bowl of electric mixer, beat yolks until pale, thick and creamy. Place pumpkin in top of large double-boiler. Add yolks, sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger. Place over hot water on moderate heat. Cook, stirring and scraping bottom with rubber spatula for 10 minutes or until slightly thickened.

Remove from bottom of double boiler and set aside, stirring occasionally until completely cool. If you wish, set the top of the double

For thousands of years cooks have used chives to flavor almost every kind of dish. From prehistoric days to the present, this member of the onion family has provided busy chefs with an easy way to add zest to a variety of recipes.

In the kitchen, chives are a versatile and lively helper. They are wonderful with soups, eggs, vegetables, meats and salads. Their fresh, distinctive flavor combines the sweetness of young onions with a very mild hint of garlic.

In France, chives are most often found in egg dishes and sauces. The Japanese use them as a colorful garnish for clear soups. In the Middle East chives are often included in spicy stews. Russian cooks add them to beet dishes and lamb. In Italy, chives are popular additions to green salads; the English are fond of them in cheeses.

Many large supermarkets carry chives during the spring and summer, but you may have to visit an herb store or specialty grocer to find them during other seasons. The best way to be sure of a ready supply of fresh chives, of course, is to grow your own. They are very easy to raise, and a pot of chives in a sunny window adds a cheerful touch to your kitchen all year round.

Almost every garden center carries chive seeds, but you may want to buy potted plants and then transplant them, since it takes three weeks or more for the seeds to germinate. Chives need a light soil — half sand and half loam is ideal — and plenty of water and direct sunlight.

When purple blossoms first appear on your plants, clip them off to keep the greens coming. The blossoms, which have a garliclike flavor, make a beautiful garnish for clear soups.

Chives are a hardy perennial, and need only be uprooted and separated every two to three years to keep them from clumping together too densely. Plants in outdoor beds should be spaced about 12 inches apart.

Clip back the leaves often to keep them growing rapidly. The clipped leaves may be kept frozen for up to two months.

Generally, when you're cooking with chives, they should be added close to the end of the cooking time. If you're mixing chives with cheeses or other dairy products they should not be added to the mixture until shortly before serving, since their flavor grows stronger the longer they are left in.

In today's recipe for Chive and Crabmeat Omelets with Hollandaise, the chives blended excellently with the flavors of the eggs, crabmeat and cheese. I used stone crab and Danish Havarti cheese, but frozen crabmeat and another mild-flavored cheese can be substituted with very good results.

Chive Cheese Puffs are an elegant hors d'oeuvre that is surprisingly easy to prepare. The pastry is the same kind you'd use for cream puffs or eclairs, and the filling combines cream cheese, cream and chives in a light, fluffy mixture.

Blue Cheese and Chive Salad Dressing is one of my very favorite ways to top a great salad.

In an emergency, freeze-dried chopped chives, available in almost every supermarket, can be substituted for fresh chives in any of today's recipes. If you use dried chives, reduce the volume by about half.

BLUE CHEESE-CHIVE SALAD DRESSING

- 1/4 cup fresh chives, chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon white vinegar
- 1/2 cup crumbled blue cheese
- 1/2 cup olive oil

Total preparation time: 5 minutes

Combine lemon juice, vinegar, salt, pepper and chives. Allow mixture to sit 5 minutes.

Add cheese and blend well with fork or whisk. Slowly whisk in olive oil until mixture is smooth.

This dressing is best if made an hour or so before use.

Makes 1 cup.

CHIVE AND CRABMEAT OMELETS

- 5 large eggs, well beaten
- Meat from 2 medium or large stone crab claws, shredded; OR 2-3 ounces crabmeat, shredded
- 3 tablespoons freshly cut chives, finely chopped
- 4 ounces Danish Havarti cheese, grated
- Hollandaise sauce sufficient to top omelets (optional)

Total preparation/cooking time: 15 minutes

In small frying pan, heat 1/2 tablespoon butter over medium heat. When butter starts to bubble, add crabmeat and saute, stirring with fork, for 30 seconds or so. Remove from heat and set aside.

Divide beaten eggs equally between two small bowls. In medium-size non-stick frying pan or omelet pan, melt 1/4 tablespoon butter. Pour in one portion of eggs and cook over medium-high heat, tipping pan from side to side frequently, so that uncooked egg runs over edge of cooked egg. When eggs are almost cooked, add half of grated cheese, sprinkle over it half the crabmeat and garnish with half the chives. Cover, reduce heat and allow cheese to melt. Slide omelet onto plate and fold in half. Either serve immediately or remove to a preheated 200 F oven while the second omelet is cooking.

Top with Hollandaise sauce (optional) just before serving.

Makes 2 omelets.

September through December is peak season for fresh cranberries. In canned form, they're available all year round, but it's really only during the holidays — Thanksgiving through Christmas — that most of us ever think of these ruby red morsels.

Cranberry sauce is, of course, the traditional condiment to serve with the Thanksgiving turkey, and if you've got some leftovers, here's a tasty idea: spread two slices of sourdough or whole wheat bread with thin layers of cream cheese. Add a layer of cranberry sauce to one, and a few slices of turkey to the other. Put them together, and you've got a great Thanksgiving leftover sandwich.

Unlike other berries, cranberries cannot be eaten raw. Hard and bitter, they must be cooked and sweetened with sugar or honey before they can be eaten.

Fresh berries freeze well, so if you find them in good supply and at a reasonable price, by all means stock up. Simply wrap unopened packages in an extra layer of plastic wrap and freeze. They'll stay in good form up to one year.

Cranberries are good for you, too. They're so high in vitamin C that they were once carried on long sea voyages to help prevent outbreaks of scurvy among crew members.

The berry's tangy flavor combines well with citrus fruits, apples, raisins, and sweet spices like cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. Use them to lend a tart touch to salads, desserts and beverages. Fresh or canned, colorful cranberries add a festive holiday flavor to any menu.

CITRUS-SPIKED CRANBERRY SAUCE

- 1 pound fresh or frozen, thawed cranberries
- 1 to 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1 tablespoon grated orange rind
- Pinch salt

Preparation Time: 5 to 10 minutes

Cooking Time: 10 to 15 minutes (plus 5 minutes standing time)

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Pick over fresh cranberries, discarding stems. Rinse and drain well.

Combine all ingredients in 2-quart glass casserole dish. Cover and microwave 10 to 15 minutes, stirring every 5 minutes, until cranberries pop. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes. Stir.

Serve warm or chilled. Makes 3 to 4 cups.

CRANBERRY-ORANGE NELLIE

- 1 (16-ounce) can cranberry sauce
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 large orange
- 3/4 cup uncooked rolled oats
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine,

softened

- 1 1/2 cups whipping cream
- 2 tablespoons powdered sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Dash ground nutmeg

Preparation Time: 10 minutes

Cooking Time: 8 to 10 minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Combine cranberry sauce and sugar in 6-cup microwave-safe soufflé dish. Grate rind of orange and add to cranberry mixture. Squeeze juice from orange and stir in, blending well. Set aside.

In small mixing bowl combine rolled oats, flour, brown sugar and cinnamon. Toss with fork. Cut in butter, mixing until crumbly. Sprinkle oatmeal mixture evenly over cranberry mixture.

Microwave, uncovered, 8 to 10 minutes, until juices bubble at edge of dish. Let stand, uncovered, until lukewarm.

Meanwhile, whip together the cream, powdered sugar, and vanilla until soft peaks form. Top each serving with a dollop of whipped cream, and sprinkle with a pinch of ground nutmeg.

Serves 6 to 8.

MULLED CRANBERRY WARM-UP

- 3 cups cranberry juice
- 1 cup orange juice
- 2 tablespoons raisins
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 10 whole cloves
- 4 whole cinnamon sticks (about 2 inches each)
- Pinch ground nutmeg
- 1 small orange, thinly sliced

Preparation Time: 5 minutes

Cooking Time: 6 to 9 minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Combine all ingredients except orange slices in 2-quart glass container, stirring to blend. Microwave, uncovered, 6 to 9 minutes, stirring every 3 minutes, until heated through and raisins are plump. Do not boil.

Remove cloves. Divide evenly among 4 mugs, placing a cinnamon stick in each and garnishing with orange slices.

Serves 4.

boiler in bowl of ice and water and stir constantly until cool.

In large chilled bowl with chilled beaters, whip cream until it holds a soft shape. If you beat until the cream is stiff it will make the ice cream heavy and buttery instead of light and creamy. In large bowl, fold pumpkin mixture and whipped cream together. Freeze according to manufacturer's directions for your churn. Makes 2 quarts.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q: Recently I read an item in your column concerning roof condensation. You mentioned that aluminum and fiberglass roofings were the worst when it came to condensation dripping — and that brought to mind my "new" fiberglass shingle roof.

This past winter the entire house and garage were wet inside — the walls felt damp, the inside air felt damp and my clothes felt damp. Every morning — no matter the temperature, I had to raise the windows and try to air things out.

Also, the wooden edge of my roof structure seems to be rotting before my eyes. Paint is peeling and turning dark. The underlying previous roof shingles are warped and swollen wavy.

Will my house survive? Or is the wood rotting everywhere under this fiberglass roofing. — M.W.

A: The condensation we referred to in the previous column had to do with fiberglass and aluminum used for patio or carport roofing, not shingles.

One of the newer and better types of shingles is the asphalt shingle with a fiberglass base. I doubt that your problem is caused by the type of shingle. It could be that the old roof, which you laid the new roof over, was not prepared properly. The old roof should have been inspected and missing shingles replaced, curled shingles flattened by splitting and nailing in place and loose shingles nailed. Along all edges of the roof the shingles should have been cut away and replaced with 2-inch strips of wood the same thickness as the old roof.

Rotting can occur only in the presence of moisture. And it sounds like you have a problem with moisture seeping under the new roof and causing problems. As you indicate the roof is new, I suggest you contact the firm that installed it. Perhaps, after a thorough inspection, they will take the proper corrective action. It will all depend on the type of contract you have and on the reliability of the roofing firm.

Another source of the problem could be insufficient ventilation in the attic area. Roof boards will swell as high up in the gable ends as possible, allowing at least one square foot of louver opening for each 300 square feet of attic floor space. Your moisture problem within the house may not be entirely the result of a faulty roof.

Condensation is caused by warm, inside air coming into contact with cooler, exterior surfaces.

Much of this condensation can be avoided by thoroughly airing the house on warm, dry weather days. In recent years there has been a trend to better insulate our homes, using weather stripping and caulking to seal air leaks. These are all helpful steps in maintaining temperature control within the home. However, these same steps prevent moisture from escaping from the house. This causes dampness and condensation.

You need to take steps to rid the house of excess moisture. Better ventilation is the key. Clothes dryers should be vented to the outside, exhaust fans can be installed in the kitchen, bath and laundry areas to remove moisture-laden air produced by activities in these areas. The simple opening of windows when you shower, do the dishes or the laundry will help. You can burn light bulbs in closets or install electric heat rods to help keep the dampness down in these areas.

You might also want to investigate the installation of a dehumidifier to help control dampness.

Q: I read one of your recent columns on selection of roofing materials. Would you consider it a good idea to replace the asphalt shingle roof on our home with a permanent material such as clay tiles or slate? — R.C.

A: I really don't think so. Both tile and slate are heavy and your roof framing may not have been engineered to accept such a heavy load. In addition, other roofing surfaces offer quite acceptable life terms for the investment. These include both heavy-weight asphalt and wood shingles.

NEW YORK CITY — Let's set the stage. You're in a very busy airport — such as La Guardia in New York — awaiting your baggage. Your most valuable items are in the case under your arm or between your feet, as you wait. It all sounds just fine.

That is, until "another traveler," a few feet away, trips and spills cash and other things on the floor. As a Good Samaritan, you step over to help the person retrieve the spilled items. At that time, your security has disappeared.

As you step over to help, the traveler's confederate grabs for your case of valuables. If you are a man, he grabs the wallet out of your back pocket, as you stoop to help. An accident? No. A ruse for robbery? You bet it is.

Or, as you are walking through that crowded airport scene, a free-standing sign declares, "Beware of pickpockets. Guard your valuables." Instinctively and without thinking, you check to see if your wallet is in place, that your handbag is closed properly or that the case with your valuables is still intact. By those actions, you have told the pickpocket or thief exactly where your valuable possessions are. He or she knows exactly what to grab at the soonest opportunity.

The examples are anecdotal — but they are true. Not just once or twice but many, to even hundreds of times a each day in places where travelers are congregated throughout the nations of the world.

The examples are cited by George Laughlin, a longtime police officer and detective with the New York Police Department. For over 20 years, he also worked in a security department of American Express, where he supervised investigations into travelers' check and credit card theft, fraud and counterfeiting from offices in Boston, Las Vegas, Miami, Philadelphia, Washington, D.C., and Montreal. Laughlin retired from American Express in January 1986, but offered us tips on safety and security for mature adults.

With a number of hints given, the next questions are concerned with where, why and how a con man or thief might operate.

Q: Mr. Laughlin, what are some of the ways thieves and pickpockets operate?

A: One of the widespread techniques used is that of distraction-extraction. This can be employed in cases where the person is naturally distracted, such as being engaged in a conversation, or in a case where a distraction is set up. Money accidentally being dropped on the floor, a physical accident, showing the victim or similar event.

Q: Do thieves look like thieves?
A: In most cases, no. They might look well-groomed and well-dressed, so they mix in crowds all the better. They might even look like the boy or girl next door.

Q: Why do crooks want to victimize travelers?

A: Pickpockets will work mainly where tourists and travelers are likely to be. For one reason, tourists and travelers often carry a lot of money. Criminals also prefer to victimize out-of-towners since most travelers are only around for a short time. If an arrest is made and the victim is not present to give testimony as a witness, the cases often are thrown out of court.

Q: What are your suggestions regarding hotel rooms?

A: Take your camera, jewelry and valuables with you or put them in the hotel safe when you go out. There is no place you can hide valuables that will fool an experienced hotel thief. Keep your room key in your pocket, on your person or leave it at the hotel desk when you go out. Thieves look for keys on restaurant tables and swimming pool lounge chairs.

Do not use the sign that says, "Please Make Up This Room," as it indicates that you are not in the room. This is an open invitation to a thief.

Always lock your room whether you're in or out. If your room has a double bolt and chain use them. The same thing applies to doors leading to patios, balconies and adjacent rooms.

Do not open the door unless you know the visitors. If your hotel key is missing, notify the hotel immediately.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: My best friend invited me to her slumber party last Saturday night. I was excited because several other good friends were going to be there. All of us were to bring certain snacks and I had brought mine. My mom drove me to my friend's house and when we got there, my friend and her mother were out front. When we walked up to the door my friend's mother said she was sorry but that the party had been canceled because my friend did not clean up her room good enough that day.

Naturally, all of the girls invited showed up and all were sent home. I think this girl's mother was wrong when she canceled the party. She ruined the evening for a lot more kids than her own. My friend could have been disciplined after the party. Do you agree? — Marty

Marty: I'm with you. Your friend's mother was inconsiderate, and she also was impolite. She or her daughter should have called and explained the situation. At least that would have saved a little time and a little gasoline.

Dr. Wallace: I am 15 and have a big problem. My parents were divorced three years ago and I have been living with my mom ever since. About two months ago my mom started dating for the first time since her divorce. I only saw this guy five times and hardly knew him before Mom married him last week.

He seems nice enough but he has weird religious beliefs. The first thing he did was get rid of our two television sets, our video recorder and radio. Next, he took all of my music cassette tapes and recorder. He thinks all of these are instruments of the devil. I'm really upset but Mom says that he is a "good man" and that she loves him very much. She asks for my patience and to give him "a chance."

I think Mom should have discussed my stepfather's different beliefs, don't you? — Jackie

Jackie: Yes, Mom should have had an open meeting with you and your then future stepfather and sensitive issues should have been discussed, but I'm not so sure your input would have changed things. At least you could have had your "honest say."

Hopefully, he can read my answer in the newspaper. I hope he doesn't cancel.

Dr. Wallace: This evening our church youth group was discussing teenagers and smoking cigarettes and it was agreed that our parents smoke more, percentagewise, than we do. Can this be true or is it just within our group? — Richard

Richard: With all the negative press smokers have been getting lately, I'm convinced that teens are smoking less than they once did. When I talk with larger groups of high school students, I'm given the feeling that smoking and using illegal drugs are on the decline, while drinking alcohol is on the rise. These are my unscientific thoughts.

The University of Michigan did a study on smoking of high school seniors and concluded there has been a significant decline in both senior boys and girls. Over 17,000 seniors were surveyed and 21 percent said they smoked cigarettes daily, compared with 29 percent in a similar study conducted four years earlier.

I think the key is that more teens are saying, "No, I don't want to start smoking." It's much easier to say no than to say yes and then try to kick the habit. Hopefully, the declining trend will filter up to the parents, as well.

Dr. Wallace: I am 18 and dislike my last name. I'd like to change it legally (it's a very simple procedure) but my parents don't want me to. They think it would be a disgrace, but I really don't care what they think. It's my name and I can do anything I want with it. Oh, yes, my grandmother is also "blowing her mind." She says if I change it, she will disinherit me. I really don't care if she does. I can't tell you what my last name is but it brings a lot of laughs and, for me, a lot of grief. Do you see anything wrong with changing my last name? — Carl

Carl: It's your name, your life and your decision. Since your last name causes you a "lot of grief," change it! Your family will eventually get over the disappointment.

Dr. Wallace: Please help me. I've been going steady with Rodger for two months and during that time all he talks about is his "ex" girlfriend, Nancy. I did this and Nancy saw that and Nancy went here and Nancy, Nancy, Nancy!

Brenda,

Brenda: Tell this guy that you don't bore him with your stories about a guy that you once dated and that if he mentions Nancy's name one more time to you, he can go back to her for good! And mean what you say.

To Owners of Good Restaurants:
This Is Your Chance To Join "Reader Ratings"
The Last Word In Restaurant Guides
Where Our Readers Have The Last Word
This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides and a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great, and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings"
Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.
In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

Quality Or Quantity?

One Sure Way To Get Results!

When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.

When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.

With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.

Our (not so secret) ingredient Readers = Results is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the many throwaways.

get your message across... and get results! Call us right now!

Quick jaunty window treatment hides shades

By Sharon Owen Haven

Q: My family is not big on draperies. I put roll shades on my daughter's windows for privacy and light control. They are up most of the time leaving the windows and views unobstructed, but they are not very attractive.

Do you have any ideas for some kind of minimal treatment that will cover up the shades without also covering up much of the window? — C.B.

A: You can whip out an easy window treatment in a flash that will accomplish your goals and perk up your daughter's room as well.

The simple "valance" pictured repeats the fabric used elsewhere in the room to create a coordinated look. Though it looks functional, its real purpose is decorative and cosmetic, since it hides the roll shades underneath.

All you need is fabric, 1/2-inch-square lengths of wood and 3/4-inch diameter wood doweling. Sew a channel on the bottom of the fabric and insert the doweling. This will weight the valance and make it hang smoothly. Wrap the upper side of the fabric around the wood lengths, hang fabric tiles over the top and screw or nail the wrapped wood into the ceiling.

You can make a knot or bow with the hanging ties under the doweling. Though the ties used in the treatment pictured are made of the same fabric, you might also experiment with ribbon or fabric in contrasting colors.

Q: It is time to repaint the horizontal siding of our 6-year-old home. We would like to maintain the look of wood but update the appearance of the exterior.

What are the most fashionable color schemes that will increase the resale value of our home? — D.O.

The trend is clearly away from dark colors, even pastels. Gray blues, dove gray, celadon green, even muted turquoise and salmon, are commonly seen on exteriors in new housing developments. These new colors are available in wood stains that give siding subtle, understated color while letting the wood grain show through. For reasonably new tract housing, wood trim looks best in darker values of the same color rather than the bold contrast that is often effective for older homes.

VALANCE SOLUTION — A quick-fix valance conceals roll shades but leaves most of window open to views and light. Design by Color Design Art.

Your best tactic for resale is to make your exterior look as newly built as possible. Since it is only 6 years old, you won't be able to capitalize on the character of an earlier style, so color is definitely the key.

Color preferences do vary somewhat from region to region, so I recommend that you take a drive around new housing developments in your area and see what is currently in fashion and selling well. Of course, all this is predicated on resale being your top priority. Otherwise, suit yourself.

BENCHWARMER'S SPORTS TRIVIA

Can you name J.R. Richard's high school and what was his earned run average in his senior year?

Richard starred for Lincoln H.S. in Vienna, Louisiana, in his senior year his E.R.A. was 0.00 and best game a 48-0 shutout in which he hit 4 consecutive home runs, had 10 R.B.I.'s.

Who were the only brothers in major league history to pitch no-hitters, against what teams.

Bob Forsch, St. Louis Cardinals no hit the Phillies 5-0 on April 16, 1978. One year and a day later Bob's brother Ken of the Houston Astros no hit Atlanta, winning 6-0 on April 17, 1979.

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

By James G. McCollam

Antique chair not an antique

Q: We bought this chair in an antique shop several years ago. The dealer told us it was over 100 years old.

Can you tell us just how old this is and what its current value is? What period or style?

A: Your chair was made around 1900 and is not technically an antique (100 years old). It is a relatively modern version of 18th century Queen Anne.

In good condition, it should sell for about $175 to $185.

Q: This mark is on the bottom of my porcelain figurine of a lion crouched on a rock. It is 10 inches tall and 15 inches long.

Can you tell me who made it, its value and vintage?

A: The mark you provided was used by Reissner, Stellmacher and Kessel in the Teplitz-Turn area of Austria. It was probably made around the turn of the century and would sell in the $275 to $325 range.

Q: During the recent weddings of Prince Charles and Prince Andrew there were a lot of commemorative items sold.

What are the prices of previous British royal commemoratives?

A: This is a lively field of collectibles. Here are some typical prices:

- Queen Elizabeth crystal tumbler, 1953 — $54
- Queen Elizabeth teapot, 1953 — $57

- Queen Elizabeth sugar bowl, 1953 — $22
- King George VI plate, 1936 — $22
- King George VI plate, 1939 — $34
- King George V pitcher, 1911 — $120
- Queen Victoria mug, 1887 — $80
- King George VI dish, 1937 — $46
- King George VI pitcher, 1937 — $40

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1 per item to James G. McCollam, P.O. Box 1087, Notre Dame, IN 46556. All questions will be answered but published pictures cannot be returned.

Human-animal relationship studied

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q: Are there any associations in the veterinary field that are devoted to studying the relationship between animals and humans? I feel that my dog has been a real help in stabilizing my emotions over the past several years. I would be interested in knowing about any organizations that are devoted to studying pet-human relationships.

A: The Delta Society is the leading international source on the interaction of people, animals and the environment. The Delta Society is a good source of information on the human-animal bond and pet-facilitated therapy. This organization was founded in 1967 in response to the growing worldwide interest in the interactions between people and animals.

How the lives of humans and animals affect each other is of prime importance. Recent evidence indicates that animals can have profound effects on humans' emotional health and physical well-being.

The Delta Society now has over 1,000 members. As a non-profit, public service organization, the society serves as an educational, research and service resource to the professional and animal-related fields and to the general public.

The society provides information on the following Pet-facilitated therapy programs: leaders in the human-animal bond field from around the world; guidelines for starting effective animal programs in local communities, nursing homes, prisons, hospitals and other institutions; current and past research describing the effect of animals on people's health and well-being; audiovisual and educational materials and legislation and procedures that allow companion animals in housing complexes and institutions.

The society sponsors national and international conferences with both scientific sessions and workshops. The society also publishes a membership magazine called People-Animals-Environment and a newsletter, which offers information on the latest human-animal programs and facilities, and The Journal of the Delta Society, which contains scientific findings regarding human-animal interactions.

The Delta Society is governed by an elected voluntary board of directors, with a full-time staff headed by an executive director. Its extensive board of consultants includes world leaders in community programs and research in human-animal interactions.

Funding for the Delta Society is provided by donations and membership dues. Membership is open to both professional and consumers. For additional information, write to: The Delta Society, Century Building, Suite 303, 321 Burnett Ave. S., Renton, WA 98055-2569.

There are many positive aspects to owning pets. The Delta Society can provide you with information regarding many of these benefits.

A day we have all been waiting for--Thanksgiving--will be here next week. Soon Mom will be scurrying around the house cleaning it extra well. Even big brother will be told to clean his messy room--or else!

Then Mom will go to the store and return home with enough groceries to feed an army. Finally, there will be all that cooking which fills the house with the delightful aroma of good things to eat.

I can hardly wait for Thanksgiving...how about you?

Love to all of you,

Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Marge McCarthy and Alan Roper.
