Many Hicksville residents benefitted from the government surplus food distribution conducted by the Hicksville Kiwanis Club on Saturday, November 22. The Kiwanis Club scheduled this distribution on the weekend before Thanksgiving Day with the hope that it would make for a happier holiday for some of the needy residents in the area. Volunteering their time to take part in this distribution, and shown in the photo, were, left to right: Kiwanians Bob McGuinness, Ed Kamber, Tony Citroia and Sam Zakian. Also participating, but not shown in the photo were Kurt Naegler, Marc Ramirez and Sleg Widder who took the picture.

P.O. Gobbles Up Holiday Cash

Employees at the Hicksville Post Office conducted their annual Turkey Drive. Over $1,800 was raised. This year 231 turkeys were purchased and made available to area agencies.

"Each year we raise more money," said Herb Lippert, Postal Service Supervisor, who coordinates the fund raising and turkey distribution. "We have some really dedicated postal workers who go out and purchase the turkeys. They make sure that agencies such as Hicksville's St. Ignatius Human Services Center and Loaves and Fishes Soup Kitchen get them in time to prepare their holiday meals.

"I am proud of the overwhelming response of our postal employees," said Roger Niennaber, General Manager/Postmaster of the Hicksville Division. "Each year our division employees donate generously to worthy causes and each year they surpass previous years' contributions. Our donations to the Long Island Blood Drive and United Way grows annually. We are pleased to know that 231 families in our Long Island area will be able to have a turkey on their table this Thanksgiving.

Hicksville School Survey Nets 13,000 Responses

Special to Mid Island Times

By Maureen Traxler

Dealing with the business of numbers and statistics, the Hicksville School Board held its monthly meeting this Tuesday, November 25. The Board received a long-awaited report on its district-wide survey of some nine months ago and was presented the annual Academic Profile. The Board also took one step further in the progression of staffing for the middle school by appointing a Coordinator of the Middle School Transition Program.

Before getting into the meat of the session, Board President Bennett presented an award to Mr. Conrad Steers, former commander of the Hicksville VFW. He offered the award "In appreciation for the efforts you made in making our Veterans Memorial... a great success." He congratulated Mr. Steers for accomplishing his goal of raising some $10,000 for the erection of the War Memorials.

The appointment of Chuck Wayne, the present Junior High School Guidance Chair as Coordinator of the Middle School Transition Program was unanimously approved. He joins Mrs. Marie Marshall, Middle School Assistant Principal and Mrs. Mary Sue Carr, Coordinator of Transition of the Senior High School, as the leading administrative figures in the reorganization of the secondary level.

Trustee Daniel MacBride unfolded results of the district survey last winter on a variety of subjects. Mr. MacBride carefully acknowledged that this is a preliminary report, and highlighted some interesting results.

In answer to questions regarding academia of the district better than 50% of the 13,000 responses received were "satisfied". Only 41% agreed that the district supplies effective support services. Almost 75% were in favor of improving efforts to strive toward regents diploma achievements. Other breakdowns included: 87% in favor of teaching values and ethics; 66% in favor of closed campus at the high school; and 81% were in favor of stressing Americanism and American heritage. On the issue of closing a school, 29% agreed, 29% disagreed, 34% had no opinion and 8% gave no response.

On other recent issues of high priority, disagreement was expressed for the payment of additional sums for the following programs: 56% disagreed on the improved bus transportation question; 55% on All-day Kindergarten; and 66% on hot lunch programs in the elementary schools. For the argument toward redistricting, 53% agreed, 32% disagreed and the remaining 15% either had no opinion or gave no response.

A number of parents approached the Board concerning problems at their schools. At Lee Avenue School, parents were concerned with loss of class time due to the very large numbers of students and the movement of these youngsters throughout the day. They also took issue with the one-hour, 20-minute lunches for the primary grades with the loss of school time. Also, all students eat their lunches in the classroom, since they do not have access to a lunchroom. The primary level has had some days of poor lunch time supervision. Parents from Lee Avenue also expressed concern for security at their school, citing a recent incident on Halloween which went unreported.

At Burns Avenue School, the problem was confined. Burns Avenue has one 6th grade, consisting of some 32 students, including two who are mainstreamed and three who are non-English speaking. The parents would like to see a split into two sections, but no action is being taken.

In both incidences, Board President William Bennett continually referred the residents to the building principal for answers. He said, "We (the Board) are not indifferent to your plight. We make rules and policy, but we cannot step in to solve individual situations." He continued that the Board would only consider a recommendation of a building principal or the Superintendent of Schools.

In line with this primary concern of children's education, Robert Durso, Director of Instruction, reported for Superintendent Fenton on the Academic Profile of the District which includes 3-year reports in the following areas: Iowa Tests of Basic Skills, Comprehensive Assessment Reports (PEP tests, Competency Tests, Regents Examinations), Scholastic Aptitude Tests and statistics on high school graduation results, enrollment, attendance, drop-out rates, average class size and pupil-support staff ratios.

The 100+ page booklet shows that, in most areas, Hicksville students are performing better than the norm and that the percentage level of growth shown has risen slightly in the past year. Certain areas continue to be slightly depressed, but efforts are being made to raise the base percentage. Dr. Fenton concluded that "raising educational standards of the entire district" is what it's all about.

Congratulations to all the students named for high honors at Hicksville High. It is with pride and pleasure we publish their names in this week's issue.

Sieg Widder reports the cheese distribution held last Saturday under the direction of the Kiwanis Club of Hicksville was another great success. As the government surplus becomes available the group will schedule another giveaway and readers of this newspaper will be notified.

A warming sight in Hicksville is riding or walking down Broadway these days after dark and admiring the beautiful Christmas decorations along Route 107. We have Marc Ramirez and the Hicksville Chamber of Commerce to thank.

'Wish' Man Speaks At Kiwanis Club

Mr. Tom Fusco, a member of the Board of Directors of the Make-A-Wish Foundation, was the guest speaker at the November 19 meeting of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Fusco explained that the Make-A-Wish Foundation is comprised of people from all works of life, working together, each providing his or her own unique talent, knowledge or service to transform a little person's fantasy into an actual experience. The "little persons" referred to are terminally ill children. The fantasy is often the child's last wish.

Make-A-Wish Foundation grants the child's wish to see or do whatever they have always wanted to see or do, and takes the child's family along as well. This is funded by donations which can be made to local chapters, which in this area is the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Nassau County, Inc., 382 Main Street, Port Washington, NY 11050, and Mr. Fusco stated that 90% of the donations is used for the children's fantasies.

Kiwanis Program Chairman, Mr. John Fitzpatrick on the right, is shown introducing Mr. Fusco to the membership.

Two Arrested In Bethpage Arson

Two Bethpage High School students were arrested and charged with Arson 4th after setting a small fire in the school on November 14 at 9:50 a.m.

A 16-year-old girl from Hicksville and an 18-year-old boy from Bethpage set the fire in a paper bag under a stage area in the school according to police. The fire caused the alarm system to call the fire department and the 800-1000 students in the school were evacuated. The Bethpage Fire Department responded, however, the fire had already been put out by two custodians. The custodians also caught the suspects and the police were called.

No injuries were reported. The arrests were made by Det. Stan Gajewski of the Arson Squad and Fire Marshal Greg Caroma.

Halloween Treats At Local McDonalds

October 31 brought out all the witches and goblins. At 5:30 p.m. they made an appearance at McDonald's on Broadway in Hicksville.

The children really looked great. To add to the excitement, the Hamburglar and Early Bird made an appearance. It was a great evening.

Three children won a Ronald McDonald doll for their costumes. They were Snow White, Superman and a ghost.

The children all received trick or treat bags.

The Early Bird takes Jim Walker under his wing. The Hamburglar was trying to steal his hamburger.

Kim Burns and Diane Neal enjoy the children at the Halloween party.

Scott Novynski tried to keep up with the laundry. The work is never done.

Kim Burns and Jennifer Walsh try to keep up with all the orders for the Halloween party.

Rhonda Green, Patricia Kelly and Kim Burns enjoyed the party as much as the children.

Hicksville Chamber Plans Many Events

The regular monthly meeting of the Hicksville Chamber of Commerce was held at the Milleridge Inn Quaker Room on November 18. The guest speaker was John Lungi, General Administrator of the Hicksville Post Office. Mr. Lungi brought the members of the Chamber up to date on the improvements being made in the postal service - all of which will benefit the Hicksville Community.

President Marcos Ramirez announced extensive plans for a community-wide Spring Festival scheduled for the end of May, 1987. The Hicksville Chamber of Commerce is joining forces with the Hicksville School system and all organized groups in the community to stage a two-day street festival. Service organizations, such as Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary are planning to participate. Cultural and ethnic programs are being incorporated and concerts are planned. Dr. Fenton, Superintendent of the Hicksville School System, and her committee are promising High School Band Concerts, Swing Bands, and general student participation.

Mr. Ramirez emphasized that this Spring Festival is designed to unite the people of Hicksville in a common endeavor, and bring an identity to the community. The Hicksville Chamber of Commerce, for the last several years, has attempted to excite an awareness in the residential and business community, of their responsibility to improve the image of Hicksville. There is an ongoing clean-up and beautification program - all designed as a "face lifting".

Since the Spring Festival is a very large undertaking, Mr. Ramirez announced that Tom Gallihue had agreed to be the administrator of the festivities. Mr. Gallihue has long been recognized in our community for his service to the Township of Osseter Bay, and the task of Administrator of this worthy project is in good hands. Mr. Gallihue is recently retired from his position in the Town Office, is a resident of Hicksville for many years, and is anxious to hear from anyone interested in joining him in these exciting plans.

A Day at the Movies

Summer Sunday afternoon was a time for a real adventure. Like walking bare footed 4 miles to see a silent movie. With a slice of home made bread in a brown bag, 10 cents for the movie, 5 cents for an ice cream cone tied in a clean white hankie, shoes and socks under our arm, fresh hair ribbons in our hair, we were really ready for the day's adventure, picking wild strawberries along the way.

About 1/4 mile from the village, we stopped and cleaned our feet on the green grass, put on our shoes and socks.

Paying our 10 cents at the theater, we then rushed down the aisle for front seats to listen to the man playing background music for the movie.

Most of the time his music was fitting to the picture, but sometimes he ran out of music sheets so he would improvise, but sad song and comedy was mixed up - that always gave us kids a good laugh.

Between part I and part II, there was the commercial, and what a commercial! Usually it was the village butcher shop advertising his products.

A flash on the screen showing meats hanging on large hooks, row upon row. Ham 10 cents a pound, bologna 5 cents a pound, and a special of the week, "with 1 pound of ham, a free pound of liver."

With an ice cream cone at the end of the movie we were happy to get back home.

AND NOW

Here we are again, Senior Citizens, sitting in our easy chair with an 85 cent ice cream cone, watching a movie on T.V. with the commercial coming on, in the background of singing and dancing kids and small cola cans comes through to the foreground.

As the saying goes "You've come a long way, Baby!"

Trio To Perform

On Sunday, December 7 the Riverside Trio will perform at the Mid-Island YM&YWHA, 45 Manetto Hill Road, Plainview at 8 p.m. The Trio performers Ingrid Dingfelder, Flutist, Sofia Raigor, Harpist, and Rita Koors-Myers, Pianist, will perform selections from Ravel, Handel, Ibert, Bach, Bartok, Loeillet and Boehra-Kreutzer.

Ingrid Dingfelder, Flutist, scholar as well as performer, discovered, edited and recorded the previously unknown 22 flute sonatas of Johann Christian Bach. She has performed world-wide.

The New York Times proclaimed "Her tone was full, the phrasing musicianly, and the final bravura movement brilliant."

Rita Koors-Myers, Pianist, has appeared as soloist, chamber musician and accompanist at major halls, including Alice Tully Hall and Carnegie Recital Hall, where she made her debut as pianist and harpsichordist. She has also been heard over WQXR, WNCN and WNYC radio as well as CBS television.

Times critics have acclaimed Mrs. Myers as a "Rate talent...an equally accomplished harpsichordist and pianist, who coped with stylistic extremes of Mozart and Bartok with rare flexibility and intelligence."

Sofia Raigor, Harpist, was born in the Soviet Union and graduated from the Leningrad Conservatory. She performed with world famous conductors including Rostropovich, Rachlin, Kondrashin, and Yuso Tovama. She has also given several solo recitals in Metropolitan Area concert halls.

Joint Hearings Set For Dec. 9

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Joseph Colby announced that the Towns of Oyster Bay and Hempstead will conduct joint public hearings on December 9 to consider two proposals. One will increase the established maximum amount which can be spent on improvements to the joint Community Hall and Swimming Pool District and the second will take under consideration improvements to the water supply and water distribution facilities within the joint Water Districts.

Colby said, "Within the joint pool district there are nine swimming pools, two of which are located in the Hicksville area. More than 2,000 residents of Oyster Bay and Hempstead enjoy using these facilities which require maintenance and improvement."

The hearing on water improvements is at the request of the Board of Commissioners of the Hicksville Water District so that they will be able to continue supplying adequate, acceptable water within the district.

The Water District is requesting permission to install a 600-foot well on property located at Plainview Road and Old Country Road (Triangle Park) in Hicksville.

"The Town recently signed an agreement to lease a portion of Triangle Park to the Water District," Colby said. "The funds from the agreement will be used to improve the park with benches, play equipment and landscaping."

The hearings will be held at Levittown Hall, Levittown Parkway, Hicksville, beginning at 9 a.m.

Colby noted that since the hearings are being held on the day of a regularly-scheduled Oyster Bay Town Board meeting, the Oyster Bay meeting will begin at 11 a.m.

Library Bd. Meeting Mon.

The Board of Trustees of the Hicksville Public Library will meet Monday, December 1, at 8 p.m.

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond, right, presents a citation to Ann Cerbone of Plainview, immediate past president of the Nassau County Veterans of Foreign Wars Ladies Auxiliary, who was honored by her colleagues at a special testimonial dinner. Among those on hand was Hempstead Town Presiding Supervisor Thomas Gulotta, who also presented her with a citation.

Heel Spurs

Recently a gentleman limped into my office and requested my opinion on what to do for "painful heel spurs".

Barely withstanding each painful step, he slowly hobbled onto the examination table and handed me copies of X-rays taken at the emergency room of a local hospital.

After a detailed foot examination and a review of the X-rays I gently explained that even though he has protrusions of extra bone, called spurs, they are not what is causing his symptoms.

The above case illustrates a common occurrence. Many people have benign spurs which may never cause them a drop of pain during an entire lifetime. Heel discomfort, in many cases, is caused by an inflamed area beneath the heel, called bursitis.

Podiatric management of bursitis and other types of heel inflammation must include a detailed foot evaluation in order to determine the underlying cause of the problem. Faulty biomechanics, poor running shoes, or arthritis can contribute to this inflammation. Once the culprit is caught and eliminated the painful symptoms can be treated.

Treatment, depending upon the severity and the nature of the particular condition may consist of a combination of physical therapy, the design of corrective orthotics, and a possible series of injections to shrink the area of inflammation.

The patient described above is now painfree and is back to his normal and active lifestyle. If you have heel pain, proper evaluation and treatment by a podiatrist is essential and will invariably yield gratifying results.

Pack 172 Enjoys Halloween Night

October 29 was Halloween Pack Night for Pack 172 of East Street School. The boys came in all kinds of costumes from baseball players to skeletons.

We began with a presentation from each Den. The theme of the month was weather.

Tiger Cubs showed us the Halloween Bags they made at their meeting.

Den 1 made an achievement pole with strings to hold the beads they earn. Then the Cubs told us different ways of telling what the weather is going to be such as radar, windmills, and clouds.

Den 2 made a collage of different seasons.

Den 3 made pictures with litous paper to show humidity. Some were boats; some houses. Then they showed us the spiders they made at a den meeting.

Den 4 were proud of the weather and temperature charts they made. They also showed us the plaster of paris Bobcat heads they painted and the pumpkins magnets they made.

Den 5 made posters with different types of clouds. They also found out how condensation trails are made. They also learned about the Heimlich Maneuver and how it works.

The Weblos made different knots and put them on boards.

After the presentations, the Tigers joined the pack by placing their clothespins on the Cub Scout Family Tree.

The Tigers from last year advanced to the Bobcat Trail. The Wolf Cubs advanced to the Bear Trail and the Bears advanced to the Weblo Trail. It was great seeing these boys move ahead.

Afterwards, Den 2 led everyone in a song. Den 4 made up a Halloween Pumpkin Game. It was fun throwing tin foil balls into a plastic pumpkin.

Everyone stopped for 10 minutes to enjoy some refreshments.

The awards began after refreshments. The following became Bobcats: Michael Kruger, Jeremiah Singer, Ryan Donovan, Chris Cisek, Ian Rasmussen, Frank Williams, Chris Gorman, Chris Murray, Larry McCarthy, Joseph Galipoli, Jason Stanton, Paul Mackin and John Luyster.

Jamie DiSilvestre received a yellow bead. John Rasmussen received an artist pin. Matt Arlet and Sajo Varkey received an athlete pin.

November 2, Billy Harvey and Chris Walunas received an award for their posters on Fire Prevention.

The night ended with a trick or treat box of cookies from McDonalds. The McDonalds on Broadway in Hicksville donated them. Thank you McDonalds.

The Weblos showed their knot boards to the pack. John Rasmussen was Noah's Ark, Billy Harvey was a punk rocker, and Matt Arlet was the Karate Kid.

Willet Avenue Fundraiser

The Fifth and Sixth Graders at Willet Avenue School, and their teachers, Mrs. Sones, Mr. Monfredo, Mr. Schulz and Mrs. Salat, were introduced to a very special puppet named Mark Reilly. He was brought to the school by Mrs. Karp, who works at the Cerebral Center in Roosevelt.

Mark Reilly was C.P. He and Taryn Donovan, a sixth grader, were the actors in a play that explained to the children about C.P. Mrs. Karp then told the boys and girls about the work done at the C.P. Center.

The visit to Willet was the kick-off of the second year of a fundraising project involving the fifth and sixth grades. The children will participate in a county wide trivia contest; they will solicit sponsors who will pay for each correct answer. The money raised will go to the C.P. Center. The winning team from Willet will meet all the other winning teams from Nassau County in a final round in February.

Last year, Willet Avenue raised several hundred dollars, and the children will attempt to do as well, or better, this year. They will also try to win the trivia cup at the final round in February.

Christine Spina of Willet Avenue demonstrates the roller racer used by handicapped students, while her schoolmates, including Jasmine Colon, Chris Connolly, Suzanne D'Introno, Taryn Donovan, Ellen Michalos and Corinne Conroy look on sympathetically.

While sixth grader Susie Fippinger gets the feel of being confined to a wheelchair, Mrs. Karp from the Cerebral Palsy explains some of the problems.

Early Yule Zip Urged By P.O.

The Postal Service is cooperating with the business community of Hicksville in urging customers to shop early and mail early for the holidays.

General Manager/Postmaster Roger Nienaber asks holiday shoppers to mail early this year to make sure that mail is addressed correctly (including Zip Codes) and that packages are wrapped correctly so that cards and parcels reach their destinations in plenty of time for the holidays.

"Normally, we handle about 1.5 million pieces of mail a day—including cards, letters and packages, in the Hicksville Division but during the holiday season, volume goes up to about 3-4 million pieces," the Postmaster says. "We in the Postal Service take pride in carrying your messages of love and joy. Mailing early helps us deliver the messages on time."

The key to successful holiday mailing is to mail early and correctly. Postmaster Nienaber says that includes planning now for gifts that must travel long distances by Christmas.

"Customers should also take care to write legible Zip Coded addresses for both the address and the return address. The use of Zip Codes following the name of the particular city and state aids us in processing the mail."

"Last year, our customers helped us tremendously. They mailed early in the season and early in the day. We hope they will choose to cooperate with us again this year, so we both will have an enjoyable holiday mailing season."

St. Ignatius CYO News

On Wednesday, November 19, CYO's newly formed 1st and 2nd grade league started the season off with a Bang! With six minutes into the game, Rick Hoffman's Warriors were going on the warpath against Brian Pinelli's Nets. Nicholas Cassano scored the first basket to get the Warriors on the scoreboard. Robert Haddad scored six more points for the team. Tom Morillo of the Nets put his team on the scoreboard by making a foul shot. Final score: 8-1.

The game between the Celtics and the Clippers put you at the edge of your seat the whole time. With both teams scoring basket after basket, it appeared the Clippers would squeak by as the winner. But...with seconds left on the clock, Kevin Anderson of the Celtics, tied the score at 12-12 to send the teams into overtime. With both teams huddled around their coaches, full attention was given by the players as to what the game plan would be in this five minute sudden death. It was Kevin Anderson again that saved the team by getting the first basket to bring the Celtics to 14-12 victory over the Clippers.

Both teams played the best that any two teams that age could play. The Celtics' victory was a combined effort by Kevin Anderson, Craig Finn, Brian Baricevac and Rubin Aviles while Ryan Quinn was a one man wrecking crew for the Clippers scoring all 12 points by himself!

IN the 3rd grade league, it was a victory again for the Wildcats. Billy Murphy and Anthony Panarelli scored the 15 points the Wildcats accumulated while Danny Sydor, Brian Patwell, Steven Locke and Jeff Puglia scored 10 points for the Cougars. It was the good defense work of Joe Michele that did keep the Wildcats in a winning position. It appears that good team work paid off again for the Wildcats!

LAST WEEK the Long Island Assn. announced that it was supporting a 10 cent per gallon tax on gasoline to fix roads on L.I. This week Gov. Cuomo, who failed to mention any need for new taxes in his bid for re-election, announced that he wants to add a five cent per gallon tax on gasoline and a 55 cent increase in tolls to finance the endless money pit called the MTA. ARE Town Republicans angry with Supervisor Joe Colby because he turned down a judgeship last summer or are they just sorry that he might run again and that they won't have a chance to rearrange the patronage that goes with the job a little bit more to their liking? AND THE big question is whether Assemblyman Fred Parola is big enough to get away with not appearing at GOP headquarters on Election Night to glad hand party-friends. He skipped the event without notice. THE POLICE REPORT is published each week as a community service to alert residents of where crime is taking place in the area and as an aid in the Neighborhood Watch program. Anyone seeing suspicious activity should phone 911. A VCR and jewelry were stolen from the Datoff residence, 5 Tompkins Ave., Jericho on Nov. 20. Means of entry are unknown. BURGLARS came through a rear window of the Vernon residence, 39 Elderberry Rd., Syosset between Nov. 11 and 18. They stole a jacket, wristwatch and frames. JEWELRY was stolen from the Kowasnick residence, 36 Seymour Lane, Hicksville on Nov. 20. Burglars entered through a rear window. BURGLARS entered the Stasi residence, 37 Bobble Lane, Hicksville on Nov. 20. They stole a VCR and jewelry. BURGLARS broke glass in a rear door of the Meehan residence, 15 Richman Ave., Jericho on Nov. 20. The loss is unknown. BURGLARS were unsuccessful in trying to enter Dr. Arthur Gross's office 372 South Oyster Bay Rd., Hicksville between Nov. 20 and 21. Glass was broken in a side window but no entry was made. BURGLARS broke into QA Microfilm, 1 Willis Court, Hicksville on Nov. 14. The front door was forced open to gain entry. $250 in cash and a reel of micro film were stolen. That's all the news for now. Mr. Jay Schulman and Rotarian Leo Sugarman presented a program of the 1986 Tax Reform Act to the Hicksville Rotary Club at their regular dinner meeting at the Milleridge Inn last week. Both discussed the pros and cons of the new law and although its full impact has not yet emerged because of its many complexities, the speakers felt the middle income earner will be hardest hit. Already, with the Democratic controlled Congress in place, many revisions and amendments are in the works. Cent. General Earns Award

Central General Hospital and Central Island Nursing Home received the 1986 Outstanding Contribution Award by a Small Business. It was announced by the New York State Council on Vocational Education.

The award was presented at the Holiday Inn, MacArthur Airport, at the council's statewide conference for representatives of local advisory councils.

Nature Workshops At Museum

Among the Hicksville Gregory Museum's recent Saturday workshops, was a Nature Hour for 5 to 8 year olds, conducted by Trustees Rosemary Barrow and Marilyn Schuler. They were assisted by Michelle Egar, one of the Museum's interns, from Hicksville Junior High, and Joe Soviero, a volunteer from Willet Avenue School.

Although rainy weather changed plans for an outdoor "Treasure Hunt," there were plenty of interesting things in the Museum collection. Besides sparking crystals to be examined under magnifiers and then taken home as souvenirs, there were seed pods and leaves to be studied, wasps' nests of many sizes and stages of construction, and a variety of birds' nests. It was a very busy hour!

Next workshop is a "Double Header."

On Saturday, December 6, the theme will be jewelry making

(just in time for Christmas). At the Museum, Mr. Richard Schuler, a member of the Nassau Mineral Club and the Museum's Board of Advisors, will conduct a workshop for 9 to 12 year olds from 1:30 to 2:30. The fee is $5.00 for Gregory Museum members, $8.00 for non-members. This includes all supplies.

The Hicksville Public Library and Nassau Mineral Club, with the cooperation of the Gregory Museum, will sponsor a two part workshop for teens on December 6 and 13 from 11 a.m. till 12:15 at the Hicksville Library. Adults will be admitted only if there is room. Registration should be made in advance. The fee is only $1.00. All necessary supplies will be provided.

On December 13, there will be an Origami workshop at the Museum from 1:30 until 3 p.m. for 8 to 12 year olds. For information, call the Museum at 822-7505.

Molly Travis, Stephen Gross, and Sean Conk are interested in various seed carriers examined at the Museum Nature Hour.

Marching Comets Rewarding Season

Marching Comets lined up for performance.

By Connie Mancuso

The Marching Comets season of Band Competitions has ended with two of their best performances.

On October 21, the Marching Comets performed at Hofstra University in Newsday's 1986 Festival of Bands. As the band and kickline entertained to "Fire Dance" and "Enchanted Kingdom" the audience cheered and applauded. It was a thrill to watch the precise playing and marching of the band and the beautiful coordination of the Starlettes as they both performed to these charming pieces of music.

On November 1, the Marching Comets performed in the annual Long Island Marching Band Championships at Mineola. Their repertoire consisted of three pieces of music: "Fire Dance" by Woody Herman, "Enchanted Kingdom" by Larry Kirshner, and "I Am" from a powerful gospel musical. The Marching Comets cheering section was attended by Dr. Catherine J. Fenton, Superintendent of Schools, Mr. William Gagnon, Supervisor of Fine Arts, along with the directors and proud parents of the Marching Comets.

As a part of the audience, and an involved parent of the Marching Comets, I was able to feel the pride that they exhibited as they competed. All of the members competed with a sense of determination to perform at their best level. Their beautiful performance was a reflection of their many hours of intense practice. The Marching Comets placed third in their division in the annual Long Island Marching Band Championships and we are proud of them.

The Marching Comets would like to acknowledge the senior members who have been a hard-working part of their group, and wish them a fond farewell. Although they may be leaving the Marching Comets, their spirits will always be with the Marching Comets.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force. He is a 1986 graduate of Hicksville High School.

Pack 172 Goes To The Zoo

November 1, Cub Scout Pack 172 went to the Queens Zoo in Flushing Meadow Park. The boys met at East Street School and then we were on our way to the zoo.

The day was absolutely beautiful. It was mild and sunny.

Once inside the zoo, the Cubs saw bears, buffalo, deer and many other animals. They loved going into the birdhouse to see the many different birds. The seals were also fun to watch as we noted a baby among them.

When the Cubs came out of the zoo, we went across the street to enjoy petting the sheep. There were so many farm animals there including pigs, chickens, and rabbits.

Then we went on a wagon ride. It was a lot of fun being pulled by a horse.

We left after that but not until we realized that it had been a great family outing.

Cub Scouts, Paul Mackin, Michael Lortz, John Rasmussen, Matthew Arlet, and Billy Harvey take a ride with Mr. Rasmussen.

Hickville Athlete Earns Varsity Letter

Hicksville resident Christine Gray earned a varsity letter as a member of the 1986 University of Delaware women's cross country squad this fall.

The Blue Hens, led by head coach Sue McGrath, posted a 5-3 dual meet record this fall and placed second at the East Coast Conference Championships November 6 at Delaware's Carpenter State Park. The Hens also placed 2nd at the Trenton State Invitational, Sept. 21, 5th at the George Mason Invitational, Oct. 4, and 5th at the Textile Invitational, Oct. 18.

Gray, a graduate of Holy Trinity High School, was one of the top freshmen on the squad this season, placing among the top seven Hens in several meets. Her top performances during the season was a 16th place finish in 21:52 over the 3.1 mile Carpenter course in a tri-meet vs. West Chester and Lehigh, October 25.

Gray will also be a member of the Delaware indoor track and field team this winter under McGrath. The Blue Hens enter the season with 27-meet winning streak over four seasons.

Nursery Students Visit Supermarket

November 17, the 4 year olds from St. Stephen's Nursery School visited the new Foodtown in Oyster Bay. They were met at the door by Gail Watson. She took the children with a friendly smile to the produce dept. There she spoke about the different fruits and then gave every child an apple. Julio came over to show the children how they take the outside off of a pineapple and core it. It was the greatest little machine. Julio cut the top and bottom off the pineapple and then put it through this machine. Like magic, the outside and core were gone.

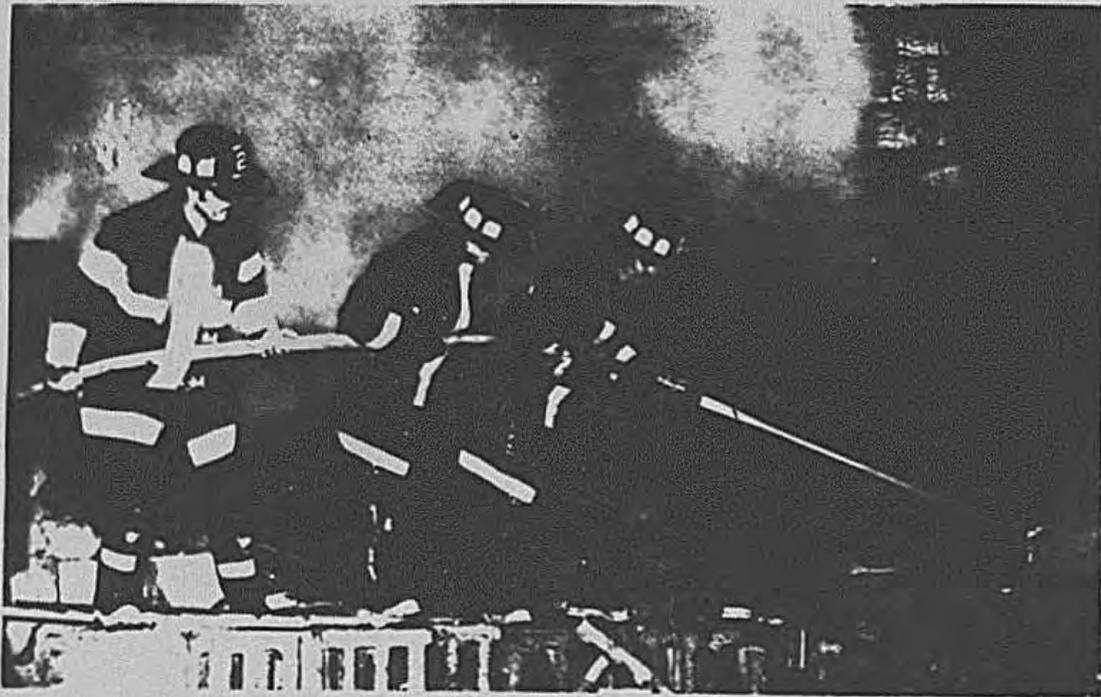

good by.

Gail came out with a slice ofologna as we stood in front of the deli.

From there the children saw the meat dept. and the dairy dept. Joe tried to tell them there was a cow in the back but the children wouldn't believe him.

Next they walked to the bakery dept. Michelle gave cash child a donut. It was amazing watching the machine make donuts. They smelled good too. They walked around to the check out. Of course, this was the last stop of the tour. Gail ended by explaining how the food is rung up and then paid for. The children were then given juice. It was a great tour. Thank you Gail. Thank you Foodtown for letting us learn about your store.

On they went to the seafood dept. to meet the lobster. Joe took a lobster out of the tank and let him walk. The children just loved it. Then Mr. Lobster sat on the edge of the tank and waved

If your neighbor's house caught fire, wouldn't you want to do more than watch?

Of course you would. And we'd like to offer a suggestion: become a volunteer fire fighter.

It's a great way to do something important for your community, and for yourself.

But to be a volunteer fire fighter, you'll need more than just a desire to help people.

You'll also need courage and dedication, enthusiasm, and a willingness to learn new skills and face new challenges.

If you think you qualify for this kind of job, come down to the fire station and talk to us.

Watching can be a helpless feeling. We don't have to tell you what kind of a feeling you'll get from helping.

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Do you think that Presidential press conferences are too harsh in the treatment of the President?

Input Callers Against Gasoline Tax For Roads

Most callers to Input were against any proposal to add a ten cent per gallon tax to gasoline to help repair roads in answer to this question: "The Long Island Association of Businesses is asking for a ten cent per gallon tax on gasoline to help fix Long Island roads. What is your reaction?" Here are some of the answers:

NO NEED

My reaction is that this is another ripoff proposed by a minority of people who wish to avoid taxes on their own business and get other people to pay. They just can't wait to get their hands on some new tax and anyone knows that when the price of gas goes up that we will continue paying the extra ten cents. There is no need for new taxes -- only a need for better use of the money now collected. J.E.

ALREADY TAXED

With taxes already high on automobile owners the real question is what happens to these taxes and tolls and why are they not used to repair the roads as they were originally intended. The Long Island Association represents a number of construction companies that are out looking for windfalls. They have little interest in really making roads any better. L.E.

GOOD IDEA

I think that it might be a good idea and one that will not be felt. The cost of gasoline has been declining rapidly and more people are driving more. It is foolish to think that some provision does not have to be made for repairing roads. They will simply go down hill rapidly and the cost on repairs for cars will increase. Go ahead and add the ten cents when it will not be felt. L.Y.

DON'T NEED IT

How come that every time the consumer gets any type of break that there are always people ready to cut in on it? The price of gas is lower from the highs of the past but it is still high compared to what it was for many years. We are now paying for the use of unleaded gasoline, seat belts, etc. How much more do they want to add on to the motorist? In addition, with the new tax code you cannot take off for the sales tax on your car. We do not need another tax and we do not need the LIA. G.E.

PRICE WILL BE UP

While I'm against the ten cent added tax simply because the price of gas will go right back up soon. I know that the politicians will go right ahead and enact this tax so that they can get more money to hire more people on "no show" jobs. We are already paying taxes for roads. What happens to that money? F.R.

PROVISIONS

If the tax of ten cents per gallon were enacted with provision that it will end if the price of gas goes over 51 and if the money were earmarked for some specific roads, then I might be in favor of the idea of adding ten cents per gallon to the price of gas. L.W.

USER FEES

With regard to the Input question about gas tax for Long Island: This tax could conceivably be justified as part of a general trend toward user fees -- that is those who use services should pay for them -- rather than have money come out of general tax revenues. However, if one recalls that originally the New York State Lottery system was to have funds earmarked directly for education and at this time has been converted over to providing funds for general purposes, one would be very hesitant to trust the politicians of both parties to use this money appropriately. Therefore, I would have to oppose this tax or favor monies being earmarked for roads exclusively by borrowing, by the issuance of Bonds. Recognizing, of course, that this money would eventually have to be paid for by taxpayers. L.E.S.

AGAINST

I am against raising gasoline taxes for any reason -- particularly for fixing the roads! M.S.

UNFAIR IDEA

I see this as only a temporary solution and one that is unfair. The price of gasoline will not always be as low as it is presently. In my opinion Long Island roads are not in poor condition. The government already taxes us enough. C.P.

WRONG IDEA

I am sorry that the question even arose and I'm shocked that the Long Island Ass'n has proposed it. As far as I am concerned, a further tax in any amount on gasoline would be a crime. All during his campaign for reelection Governor Cuomo has taken full credit for many accomplishments in New York State and a substantial number of those related to roads and bridges -- transportation generally. What has suddenly made it necessary for the Long Island public to relieve Cuomo of his responsibility to fix our roads? Why should the riding public on Long Island suddenly have to face the penalty of a 10¢ encumbrance on their travel? I have been listening lately on radio to Nassau County Executive Parcell interviewing certain business executives whose companies operate on Long Island and the whole tenor of their conversation is what a great place Nassau County is in which to live and do business. He has also been talking recently about an 8.4% increase in our county property taxes despite a large surplus. Not to mention the proposed tax in the Town of Hempstead to support the expense of the crucial waste disposal project. And, I think it is clearly evident that the current low price of gasoline is not here to stay -- the OPEC partners are getting pretty restless and one of these days their production will be geared to bring about increased revenue and those attractive prices at the gas pump will no longer appear. The excess profits tax levied on the oil companies has been bad enough in my opinion and one of our dwindling big industries should not be a further target for tax dollars. I think that the residents of Long Island should be very wary of the L.I. Ass'n proposal. Let them apply their considerable influence to governmental people and agencies who have the basic responsibility to repair those roads. P.G.S.

By Ernest Warnken

Almost everyone possesses some special talent...or at least the potential for excellence in some one of life's myriad facets. Some of us are blessed with a musical talent. Others have a flair for acting, painting, athletics. Some have the gift of gab. Others have strength in the art of selling, or home-making, or money-making. It may be a big talent, or a little talent...but there is something special about each of us.

Jimmy's special talent was dancing. Not break-dancing, nor tap-dancing, nor toe-dancing, nor ballet. Rather the classic, traditional ballroom dancing...the fox trot, the waltz, the rhumba. "Old-fashioned" dancing.

Old fashioned, yes...but beautiful to behold when Jimmy and his partner (and wife) stepped out on the floor, melted into each other's arms, and started to dance.

Seldom did they dance with other partners...and when they danced together, other couples would often step aside to admire them, clearing the dance floor and applauding when they finished.

On the dance floor, Jimmy's carriage was erect, shoulders squared, movements fluid and controlled. His dancing was picture-perfect.

Born into a large and far-from-affluent family, Jimmy's teen years coincided with the depression years of the 30's, when food for a large family was often a major concern. And whenever he spoke about those years, he remembered the pancakes. Pancakes for breakfast, lunch and dinner some days, because they were inexpensive, filling and available. For many years after, Jimmy would not or could not eat pancakes.

After high school, he found work in a tannery. Tough, dirty work, cleaning and curing animal hides. Pay was minimal, labor was back-breaking, and the rank odor of the tannery seldom left his nostrils, during the time he worked there.

Then World War II took him away from home for the first time in his young life. He served his country well in the South Pacific.

And in retrospect, Jimmy's Army service may have been the best time of his life up to that time.

The service offered him disciplines he had never had to observe before...and, conversely, a freedom he had never known. Freedom from poverty, freedom from a sometimes stifling family situation, freedom from the limitations of his environment...even freedom from pancakes!

Upon his honorable discharge from the service, Jimmy first found work as a dance instructor (naturally), then as a department store salesman, as a bank teller, and eventually as a loan officer. In between, he "moonlighted" as a travel agent.

He met his wife during his employment as an Arthur Murray dance instructor. It was love at first sight...and the start of a beautiful lifetime of beautiful dancing.

Jimmy had a passion for parades. The marching music may have had a lot to do with that. He could spend hours watching a parade on television or, better, "live"...as he did whenever the opportunity presented itself.

In fact, a highlight of Jimmy's short career with Macy's department store was an occasion when he was asked to help in their annual Thanksgiving Day parade in New York City. His assignment was merely to walk in the parade, holding a guide line attached to a giant balloon character. (If memory serves, the balloon character was Mickey Mouse.) Jimmy was consistently one of the top salespeople in his department...an achievement for which he was recognized and rewarded...but the high spot in his Macy's career was undoubtedly the day he marched in the Thanksgiving Day parade, guiding Mickey Mouse down the avenue.

Jimmy was a paradox. Capable of great affection, gratitude, sympathy, even sorrow for the plight of someone less fortunate than he...he was also capable of almost violent fits of rage and anger, usually dissipated as quickly as they generated. He admitted to a very low boiling point.

Indicative of this aptitude for anger is the story of why Jimmy didn't drive a car for most of his married life.

It seems one day a New York City police car darted in front of his car while he was driving. He was forced to brake hard and swerve to avoid contact. His reaction was to stamp on the accelerator, chase the police car, and wave it over to a stop. He then bolted from the car, righteous indignation streaming from every pore, advancing like an avenging angel upon two somewhat bewildered police officers.

That day, the luck of the Irish was with Jimmy. The two policemen heard out his comments, and then suggested that it would be in the best interests of all concerned if he would quietly get back in his car and drive away. His vitriol spent, Jimmy proceeded to do what the officers had suggested.

But that fateful day, as the story goes, was his last day behind the wheel. He never discussed it...and he always renewed his driver's license...but it seems he and his wife reached a mutual agreement. Ever since that day, she drove, he rode!

On the other, more positive, side of the coin are the stories about his deep compassion for those who visited him in his capacity as a bank loan officer. Often, these people represented what the banking community referred to as "marginal risks." Usually in desperate need

UNIQUE MENU
Monday night we dined at The Orchid Chinese Restaurant on Franklin Avenue in Garden City. We were delighted with this restaurant and heartily endorse it.

The ambience was both beautiful and restful with soft background music, and very attentive service.

It was by far the best Chinese food that we have ever tasted. The menu was unique and deliciously different. We chose two of the Jumbo Shrimp entrees which were superb. Looking over the interesting menu it was difficult to make a choice. Our remedy will be to make a return visit very soon. Incidentally they are open for lunch as well as dinner. We are pleased to have such a fine restaurant at practically our back door. E.E.

READER RATINGS

Q. When I am on a diet I find it difficult to find things at restaurants. What do you suggest? G.B.

A. The suggestion is that you check the ads and call restaurants. Many of them have special diet plates that will be just what you are looking for. Some restaurants will allow substitutions and you can make your own plate but you cannot be sure of this unless you check the restaurant policy in advance.

Q. When one approaches a receiving line and is asked to give a name, does one say, "Mrs. Jones" or "Mrs. John Jones" or "Mr. Jones" or "John Jones"?

I.F.

A. You just say, "Mrs. Jones" or "Mr. Jones" or more usual now, "John Jones". If you are a very special Jones, the person who introduces you finally to the guest of honor sometimes has the opportunity to define you as it were. The receiving line should never be held up for lengthy conversations, however.

GOOD EXPERIENCE
The Benihana of Tokyo restaurant in Manhasset is a good experience. While the price is not low, the food is good and you get the free entertainment of watching the chef cut the fish or meat in a flamboyant style.

We had the fish dinner which was cooked from beginning to end before our eyes on the hibatchi. The salad has a special taste prepared with the house dressing which is a combination of oil, vinegar and spice.

We recommend this restaurant. M.V.

The New Hyde Park Inn is a landmark on Jericho Turnpike in New Hyde Park. Most people have been there many times for one banquet or another. Throughout the years it has served as a top catering hall for many affairs.

As a restaurant it is equally good. We went there last week and found that it has a full menu for dinner and that all of the good things that were at banquets can be had in the restaurant. Because it is a festive type place it is a great one to celebrate a birthday as we did. Tell your readers that the New Hyde Park Inn is tops for dinners. We know. We were there. Y.R.

CONSISTENTLY GOOD
The John Peel room in the Island Inn is consistently a good restaurant. We have been there a number of times and have always found the food and decor especially enjoyable.
The menu at the John Peel room includes a complete dinner from appetizer through dessert. We had prime ribs there last Thursday and were particularly happy with the large portion of beef along with the fine ambience of this restaurant. The service was attentive and prompt. As usual we had a good night at the John Peel room.

READER RATINGS

Q. It seems every time I go to a certain restaurant with my wife, we're given very poor seats. Either we're put in a draft near the door or else we're seated next to the noisy kitchen. It is too bad because we like the restaurant otherwise. It has a nice cozy atmosphere and the food and service are good. What should we do?

A. One simple solution to your problem would be to request a better situated table when you are making reservations. You might also speak to the owner or headwaiter. If he sees you are frequent customers he will wish to please you.

Q. As a newly hired woman executive with a large store, I will soon be taking male clients to lunch on occasion. What is the best way to handle payment of the check?

A. A credit card would be your best solution. Another possibility would be a charge accounts with a good local restaurant.

The bills could then be presented to your employer.

Q. Last week, while eating in an elegant (and quite expensive) French restaurant, I saw a teenager sitting near me combing her long blonde hair at the table. Her parents seemed unconcerned!

A. The young woman's behavior was inexcusable. Arranging one's hair in a public place is always a breach of etiquette.

Her parents should have suggested that their daughter make a quick trip to the ladies room to fix her coiffure.

By Linda Susan Dudley

PEANUT BUTTER GRILLED CHICKEN

- 1 chicken, quartered
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 1 tablespoon peanut butter
- 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
- Juice of 1 lemon, about 3 tablespoons
- 2 tablespoons white wine
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- Salt and pepper to taste

In small saucepan, make sauce by melting butter and peanut butter over medium heat. Stir in tomato sauce, lemon juice, white wine, chili powder, salt and pepper. Place chicken on prepared grill, skin side up, about 8 inches from heat. Grill, turning every 15 minutes for about 60 minutes or until fork can be inserted with ease. Brush generously with sauce during last 30 minutes grilling time.

HERBED BARBECUE CHICKEN

- Chicken thighs
- Kosher salt
- Butter
- Fresh snips of herbs

Sprinkle chicken with kosher salt. Melt butter and drizzle over chicken. Cut fresh rosemary, marjoram, sage, savory, lay herbs on meatier side of thighs. Place chicken on prepared grill, skin side down. Grill 15 minutes, turn and sprinkle with salt again, if desired. Grill an additional 15 minutes. Remove herbs and serve hot. For eye appeal, garnish serving plate with more fresh herb sprigs.

LEMON CURRY BARBECUE CHICKEN

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1/4 cup fresh lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1 1/2 teaspoons oregano
- Few drops hot pepper sauce
- Salt to taste

Mix ingredients and baste chicken while grilling.

CHICKEN CHIANTILLY

- 4 boneless chicken breasts
- 1 1/2 ounces soy sauce
- 1 1/2 ounces sherry
- 4 ounces pineapple juice
- 1 1/2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons sugar or to taste
- 1 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder

Mix together soy sauce, sherry, pineapple juice, vinegar, sugar and garlic powder. In shallow dish, place chicken in single layer. Cover with sauce and marinate for 3 days in refrigerator, turning occasionally. Grill over hot coals 35-40 minutes.

SIMPLE GRILLED CHICKEN

- 2 chickens (gizzards, livers, neck, bones, hearts included)
- 4 cups water
- Salt and pepper to taste

Cut chickens into parts. In saucepan with water, place gizzards, livers, neck bones and hearts; add salt and pepper. Bring to boil over high heat, reduce heat to medium and cook 25 minutes. Place chicken on prepared grill, and cook, turning often. Remove chicken giblets and reserve for another use, if desired. When chicken begins to cook, remove from grill and submerge in pan of warm broth. Return chicken to grill, turn frequently, basting with broth and taking care not to burn meat. Grill at least 45 minutes or until golden brown. Chicken will be juicy.

APPLE BUTTER GRILLED CHICKEN

- 1 chicken, quartered
- 1 medium onion, minced

- 1 cup apple butter
- 1/2 cup apple cider vinegar
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 3 tablespoons prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon celery seed
- 1 teaspoon salt, or to taste
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

In saucepan, make sauce by mixing together onion, apple butter, vinegar, brown sugar, margarine, mustard and celery seed. Bring to boil (it will be rather thick). In large, shallow dish, place chicken quarters; pour sauce over chicken, cover and marinate in refrigerator at least 1 hour. At grilling time, brush off excess sauce. Place chicken on covered prepared grill (if no top on grill, make tent of foil), skin side up, about 8 inches from heat. Grill, turning every 15 minutes, about 60 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Brush generously with sauce during last 30 minutes of grilling. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

EASY MAUI CHICKEN

- 1 whole chicken, cut up
- 1 large green Bell pepper, seeded and cut in chunks
- 1 onion, peeled and cut in chunks
- 1 small can chunk pineapple
- 1 jar sweet and sour baking sauce

Put chicken on outdoor barbecue grill and grill until nicely brown on all sides. Remove to double wrap of aluminum foil, large enough to be folded over chicken. Set aside. In small amount of boiling water, boil Bell pepper and onion about 2 minutes; drain. Add pineapple and baking sauce, mix together and put on top of chicken. Wrap foil around chicken and seal. Place on grill and cook 30 minutes; let set 5 minutes and serve on rice.

Remember, the grill's temperature is as important as the oven temperature, so don't be impatient. To check the temperature of the coals, cautiously hold the palm of your hand about 6 inches above the coals. Count the number of seconds you can hold your hand in that position before the heat forces you to pull it away.

TIME AND TEMPERATURES

- 2 seconds — hot (high), 375 degrees and higher
- 3 to 4 seconds — medium, 300 to 375 degrees
- 5 to 6 seconds — low, 200 to 300 degrees
- 7 seconds — very low, less than 200 degrees

Place the chicken on grill skin-side-up. The center of rack is hotter than the outside, so the small pieces, such as drumsticks, wings and thighs, should be near the edges.

Turn chicken often during cooking to ensure even browning. Handle chicken with tongs instead of using barbecue fork to avoid loss of juices.

Apply sauce during last 30 minutes of cooking, turning chicken frequently and applying sauce liberally after each turning.

Grilled chicken should be well-done. Chicken is ready to serve if fork can be inserted with ease.

To speed up grilling time, partially cook chicken in conventional or microwave oven while the charcoal is heating. Complete cooking on grill, brushing often with sauce.

Following are some chicken grill recipes inspired by techniques or ingredients from Hawaii to Georgia to the East Coast.

SAN DIEGO

CHICKEN CLAMBAKE

- 1 Broiler-fryer chicken quarters, or other cut-up chicken parts

Whole green scallions
Red-skinned potatoes or small sweet potatoes, left whole and unpeeled

Ears of corn, husked, silks removed and halved
Smoked sausage links, cut into chunks

Celery stalks and carrots, cut into chunks, carrots peeled
Cherry-stone clams

To improvise an at-home chicken clambake, use a covered pot, such as a 25-quart stockpot. Fill pot with water to just below steamer tray and layer ingredients on steamer in following order: chicken, scallions, potatoes, corn and sausage and carrots and celery. Cover with heavy-duty aluminum foil into which holes have been punched. Add clams and cover with lid. Place over high heat on stove or on medium coals in backyard grill and cook about 1 hour to 2 hours — until clams open. Amounts may be adjusted for number of servings required.

CHINESE FIVE-SPICE BARBECUED CHICKEN

- 3 to 4 pounds chicken drumsticks or thighs
- 1/4 cup soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/4 teaspoon Chinese five-spice powder
- Freshly ground black pepper to taste
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon grated fresh ginger

In bowl, place soy sauce, honey, garlic, Chinese five-spice powder, pepper, salt and ginger, mix well.

Split each drumstick or thigh along the bone and thoroughly rub marinade over chicken and into slits. Place chicken in marinade, cover and refrigerate overnight. Place chicken on grill over medium-hot coals, skin side up. Cook about 20 minutes; remove chicken from grill and dip each piece in marinade. Return chicken to grill, skin side down, and grill 20 to 25 minutes longer.

CHILI TOMATO GRILLED CHICKEN

- 6 chicken quarters
- 2 tablespoons cooking oil
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 chicken bouillon cube
- 1/2 cup hot water
- 1 (8-ounce) can taco sauce or tomato sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon oregano
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 3 teaspoons mild chili powder, divided

In small frypan, place oil and heat to medium temperature. Add onion and garlic, stir and cook about 3 minutes or until clear and soft. Dissolve bouillon cube in hot water; add bouillon to frypan along with taco sauce, salt, oregano, vinegar and mustard. Dip chicken into sauce mixture; sprinkle 2 teaspoons of chili powder on all sides of chicken. Add remaining 1 teaspoon of chili powder to sauce; bring to boil and remove from heat. Just before grilling, re-dip each quarter in sauce. Place chicken on prepared grill, skin side up, about 8 inches from heat. Grill, turning every 15 minutes, about 1 hour, or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Brush generously with sauce during last 30 minutes of grilling. Yields 6 servings.

TEQUILA CHICKEN WINGS

- 2 1/2 pounds chicken wings
- 1/4 cup tequila
- 1/4 cup fresh lime juice
- 2 tablespoons chili powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup olive oil

Cut wings in half at joint; remove wing tip and discard or save for making stock. In small mixing bowl, combine tequila, lime juice, chili powder and salt. Whisk in oil until slightly thickened. Place chicken wings in shallow glass dish and pour marinade over. Cover with plastic wrap and marinate overnight in refrigerator. Place wings on prepared grill and cook about 12 to 15 minutes, turning frequently and brushing with marinade as wings cook. Serve with hot sauce or a spicy tomato salsa. Yields 4 servings.

Swordfish good choice for hurry-up cook

Swordfish is an excellent choice for any of the dry-heat cooking techniques — broiling, baking or grilling. All of these cooking methods are tailor-made for the after work chef, since they are relatively fast and simple.

Since swordfish is a bit oilier than many fish species, and its fat is distributed evenly throughout the meat, these cooking methods get rid of any excess fat and leave the meat tender and moist.

Swordfish are found in both Atlantic and Pacific waters, though they are becoming very rare off the southern U.S. Pacific coast. Black tip and mako shark steaks are misleadingly sold as "swordfish" in some West Coast markets — and many consumers don't know the difference.

Shark steaks, incidentally, may be substituted for swordfish in either of today's recipes. Many people are reluctant to cook shark, perhaps expecting it to taste strong or "gamy." These fears are unfounded. Shark is firm-textured, lean and mild-flavored. It's a best buy, too — one of the lowest-priced fish in the display case.

Named for their distinctive, sharp bill, swordfish grow to over six feet in length. The meat is rich-tasting and firm in texture. The most common market form is steaks, which are cross-section cuts of the body. Swordfish filets are also available in many stores.

In addition to the dry-heat cooking methods mentioned above, swordfish is also delicious braised — if you prepare it carefully and choose the right accompaniments. Swordfish that is to be braised should be blanched for a couple of minutes in boiling water, to remove excess fat. Tomatoes, onions and scallions are good braising companions for swordfish, and some lemon slices and dry white wine are also good additions.

I particularly like swordfish cooked on a charcoal fire. The charcoal taste brings out the flavor of the meat, and swordfish is firm and dense enough that it won't come apart on the grill.

Today's recipes are for two easy and delicious sauces for broiled or grilled swordfish. The Anchovy-Caper Sauce is a longtime favorite of mine. The flavor of the anchovy paste is very subtle. Not long ago, I served this dish to several friends, and one of my guests asked about the sauce's ingredients. Her comment was, "Oh, I hate anchovies — but I love this sauce!" Pesto Sauce needs fresh basil — the dried herb doesn't have the same flavor. Some food specialty stores and supermarkets now sell basil and other herbs in frozen form. In most cases, the frozen leaves are very nearly as good as the fresh herb.

As a general rule, allow 8 to 10 ounces of swordfish per serving.

ANCHOVY CAPER SAUCE FOR SWORDFISH

- 1 stick unsalted butter (¼ pound)
- 1 tablespoon anchovy paste (available in tubes in most supermarkets)
- 2 tablespoons capers
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Total preparation/cooking time:
15 minutes

Melt butter in small saucepan over medium heat. Add all remaining ingredients, except parsley and allow to bubble gently for 5 minutes, so that the flavors blend. Just before serving, stir in parsley.

Serve over grilled or broiled swordfish.

Makes enough sauce for 4 servings.

PESTO SAUCE FOR SWORDFISH

- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- ¼ cup finely chopped fresh basil (tightly packed)
- ¼ cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ cup olive oil
- ½ cup pine nuts (pignola)

Total preparation/cooking time:
10 minutes.

In food processor or with mortar and pestle, thoroughly mix garlic, basil, cheese and salt together. Beat oil in in a stream until evenly mixed in. Stir in pine nuts.

Serve over grilled or broiled swordfish.

Makes enough sauce for 4 servings.

By Desiree Vivea

Sauerkraut has a long and aromatic history.

During the building of China's Great Wall, a form of pickled cabbage was mixed with rice and fed to thousands of laborers. (How they kept going on that is beyond me!) And because it is so high in vitamin C, kraut was once taken on long sea voyages to prevent scurvy.

Aside from vitamin C, sauerkraut also is a good source of vitamins B1 and B2, riboflavin, thiamine, phosphorus and calcium.

Folk medicine prescribes sauerkraut as an aid to the digestive tract, and German mothers feed it to their children to prevent tooth decay and promote clear skin.

And it's not only Germans who are fond of the stuff. In Hungary, it is sometimes added to the famed goulash in place of beef stock. Belgians blend it with oysters and champagne, of all things. I've even seen a recipe for chocolate cake that includes sauerkraut. (I haven't tried it, so don't ask me!)

Sauerkraut's "strength" may be varied, if you like, by draining off its juices. For more personality, serve undrained. For a milder flavor, turn into a colander and rinse once, twice, or even thrice under cold running water. Bavarian-style kraut is a sweeter version, with added sugar and caraway seeds.

For those of you who don't speak German, "sauerkraut" simply means pickled cabbage.

Popular belief has it that one must either love or hate sauerkraut — and nothing in between. Well, I beg to differ. I merely like the stuff, not enough to eat it all the time, but I can't imagine a Reuben sandwich without it. And Polish sausage wouldn't be the same without a heaping side of this savory slaw. Try today's recipes and I think you'll agree.

KIELBASA 'N' KRAUT

- 1 pound Kielbasa (Polish) sausage
- 3 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 (1-pound) can sauerkraut, rinsed and well drained.
- 3 tablespoons beer

Preparation Time: 5 minutes
Cooking Time: 10 to 13 minutes (plus 3 minutes standing time)
Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Cut Kielbasa into ¼-inch pieces. Arrange in even layer in bottom of 1½-quart glass casserole. Sprinkle with minced onion and top with sauerkraut. Sprinkle beer over top.

Cover and microwave 10 to 13 minutes, rotating dish one-quarter turn every 3 minutes, until heated through. Let stand, covered, 3 minutes before serving.

Serves 4.

OPEN-FACED REUBEN SANDWICHES

- 4 slices pumpernickel or dark rye bread

Mayonnaise and mustard to taste

- ½ pound thinly sliced cooked corned beef
- 1 (8-ounce) can sauerkraut, rinsed and well drained
- Pepper to taste
- 4 slices Swiss cheese

Preparation Time: 5 minutes
Cooking Time: 6 to 8 minutes
Oven Setting: LOW (30 percent power)

Line glass serving platter or large plate with paper towel. Arrange bread in single layer on paper towel. Spread with mayonnaise and mustard to taste. Top each with equal portions of corned beef.

Divide sauerkraut evenly over corned beef and sprinkle lightly with pepper. Top each with a slice of Swiss cheese.

Microwave, uncovered, 6 to 8 minutes, until sandwiches are heated through and cheese is melted.

Makes 4 open-faced sandwiches.

AUTUMN SAUERKRAUT WITH APPLES

- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- ¼ cup minced onion
- 1 (1-pound) can sauerkraut, well drained
- 2 medium baking apples, peeled, cored and sliced
- 1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
- ¼ cup hot water
- 1 tablespoon cider vinegar
- ¼ teaspoon caraway seed
- Dash pepper

Preparation Time: 5 to 10 minutes

Cooking Time: 4 to 7 minutes (plus 2 minutes standing time)
Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Combine butter and onion in 1-quart glass casserole. Microwave, uncovered, 1 minute. Add sauerkraut and apples; sprinkle with flour and stir gently to blend.

Add all remaining ingredients, stir, and cover. Microwave 4 to 7 minutes, stirring once or twice, until apple is tender and dish is heated through. Let stand, covered, 2 minutes before serving.

Serves 4.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q: As a practicing veterinarian, I read with interest your column on flea controls.

I have a question now. What are the recognized controls for silverfish? What damage do they do in the home?

I look forward to your answer.
— Dr. R.F.G.

A Silverfish can enter the home in several ways. Often you carry them in in secondhand books, cardboard boxes or old papers.

If your home is new they may have come with the wallboard and green lumber and found a feast of wood shavings, sawdust and wall-paper paste. Humidity from newly poured cement gives them the dampness they need.

These long-lived nocturnal insects may be making their way inside from flowers near your home's foundation.

Preventing and controlling begins outside. Close off any holes around pipes entering the walls. Relocate flowers growing around the foundation some distance from the structure because these insects like the mulch in flower beds.

If you collect old books, check all new acquisitions carefully before setting them in your shelves. Clean out bookcases periodically, shaking out the books for any signs of the insect. Repair any plumbing leaks. Check any lined draperies you have; silverfish often hide between the lining and outer fabric.

Once indoors, silverfish hide and lay eggs in wall cracks and behind baseboards. Usually, the first signs of the insect itself are damaged papers or books. They eat the sizing on paper and chew ragged holes in the paper itself. They also eat cereals, dead insects, linen, cotton, silk, paste and glue (as used in book bindings).

One of the best non-toxic controls is technical boric acid. Technical boric acid is tinted blue for easy identification and is treated electrostatically to cling to the insect's coat. The powder clings to the insect and the poison is carried back to its lair where others pick it up. It's available at hardware and builder's supply stores. The powder should be blown with a bulb duster into any baseboard crevices and around door and window frames. Control may take several weeks.

There are also commercial chemical products on the market for the control of these insects.

Q: I was recently painting the trim on my house and got some paint on the bricks. I have made inquiries as to how this could be removed, and have been told that it cannot.

If you know of any way that paint can be removed from bricks I would appreciate your advice. — W.E.B.

A Brick is porous, so paint is often very difficult to remove. However, you can try these methods.

First, try using the paint thinner recommended for the type of paint you used on your trim. If the paint is still fresh, this may dissolve and remove the spots.

You also can experiment with a commercial paint remover. It may require several applications to remove the spots.

Masonry dealers recommend that you contact a brick supplier and tell them the type of brick you have, so they can recommend the proper cleaner. Masonry cleaners often do the job faster than guesswork with homemade remedies.

Once you have cleaned the area, expect it to be lighter than the surrounding bricks. Bricks tend to darken with soil and air.

perhaps, adaptation.

Published in paperback by Little, Brown and Co., "Love, Sex and Aging" is not sensational. It is a quality presentation on a subject of very real value to mature adults and of high informational value to younger generations. (ISBN 0-316-10718-2, $12.95 paperback, 441 pages, including appendix).

ON DEALING WITH LAWYERS

There are times when you must swear by lawyers to get the job done for you legally. There are other times and instances where you just might end up swearing at your lawyer — because of practices within the profession, misperformance, outrageous billings or failed efforts.

Your challenge is to know how and when to seek the counsel and performance of an attorney and then, importantly, how to give him or her, the actual assignment, how to monitor progress and how, if need be, to question and challenge that lawyer.

The book is "Abuse of Privilege" by Vertner Vergon. It is not a tirade against lawyers, the profession that has gnawed the United States the most litigious society in the world; it is a sharp "how to" book on working with legal counsel and then challenging it if that professional makes errors.

The $23.95 retail price tag for the hardback volume might seem high, until you consider that the amount is less than the cost of just 10 or 15 minutes with most attorneys. Your possible saving might be many times the price of the book.

Publisher of "Abuse of Privilege" is Exeter Publishing Co., Los Angeles, Calif. (ISBN: 0-937193-00-3, 281 pages, of which 108 is in the appendix of examples, forms and other reference material.)

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am 17 and considered very pretty. In fact, I've been told I'm extremely beautiful. You would think that guys would be busting my door down to date me — wrong! I rarely have a date and when I do the guy rarely asks me out again.

I'm bright, have a good sense of humor and I enjoy having a fun time. Still I get few dates. Why? — Jackie Jackie: A study at the University of Rochester in New York revealed that extremely attractive females aren't involved in boy/girl social relationships more often than their less-attractive counterparts.

Harry Reis, associate professor of psychology at the university and co-author of the study, explains why beautiful young women are not asked out as often as we think.

"Beauties are supposed to be incredibly desirable. But men paint an unrealistic picture of such women," he says. "These guys are threatened by them and are afraid of being rejected by them."

So, ironically, many beauties are stuck home alone. Hang in there! You will find Mr. Right, just as soon as he discovers you won't reject him. Keep smiling.

Dr. Wallace: Our basketball coach told us to eat a lot of potatoes, rice, spaghetti and other pasta. My dad said that our coach is incorrect and that he was going to talk to the coach about it.

Before my dad (he says steak is best) makes a fool of himself, I'd like you to find out who is right.

P.S. My dad is usually wrong on most things. — Beth Beth: The coach has recommended high carbohydrate foods that are quickly converted into glucose that your body needs for fast energy.

Steak (a high-protein food) isn't recommended because the stomach must work harder to digest it. This means, for the athlete, less instant energy. Chalk one up for your coach!

Dr. Wallace: I'm writing to thank you for encouraging me to use my seat belts when riding in an automobile. Three weeks ago I was driving my daughter to work and was involved in an accident. I rammed into the back of a car that had stopped in the street.

My daughter was not injured but I had to be hospitalized for head and chest injuries (painful but not critical). I can remember flopping around the car just like the dummy in the television commercials.

The doctor in the emergency room asked me why I didn't have my seat belt low your advice. I wish I had. — Mother

Mother: Thank goodness your injuries were not critical. You have learned your lesson the hard way. I'm sure you are now a member of the "I'll buckle up every time I ride in an automobile" club.

Dr. Wallace: My older sister got a car for her last birthday from our parents. She has had the car for over a month and she will not take me for a ride in it. I ask her and she always says she is too busy. Yet, she is not too busy to haul all of her friends around town. Do you think this is fair? I am 13 and my sister is 18. — Tina

Tina: To your sister, her car is like a new toy and she is busily showing it off to her friends. But she should at least be taking care of her little sister, occasionally.

Bring up the subject to your sister in the presence of your parents.

Dr. Wallace: Lately our society has been plagued with folks who have tampered with over-the-counter medicines. My father is a pharmacist and he is aware of a free pamphlet called Tips Against Tampering.

It says that the best way to avoid problems with non-prescription products is to carefully inspect the packaging before you buy them and both the packaging and the contents before you use them.

Some of the warning signs to look for are breaks, cracks or holes in a package's wrapping or seal; paper or glue on the rim of the container indicating it had a seal that's been removed; a bottle that has been under-filled or over-filled or a sloppy label.

Please have your teens write to U.S. Pharmaceutical Convention, 12601 Twinbrook Parkway, Rockville, MD 20852, for a free copy. Every home should have one. Also, Canadian citizens are encouraged to send for their free pamphlets. — Connie Connie: Thanks for the useful information. I hope U.S.P.C. has a lot of copies because they are going to need them.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

Mainly for Seniors

By Leonard J. Hansen

Let's look at books — new books of specific interest to mature adults that you might find in your library or bookstore.

Books published for or targeted to mature adults are being introduced in a very quick order, as both publishers and authors are recognizing that adults age 55-plus do buy and read more books than any other demographic group.

As in publishing in the general market or to other age groups, there is a wide range in the quality, usefulness and value of books to the special target of mature adults. The challenge is to find the best, the most interesting and/or most beneficial to your needs.

We have reviewed the most recent 100 books received here and present the following list of books that you might find of value to your own reading or lifestyle.

ON LIFE'S BEST YEARS

Dr. Miriam Stoppard has written one of the best books with an overview on the aging process in adults. The concept is to present the information in clear, informative language for best understanding so that mature adults can plan and participate in making retirement years the very best of one's lifetime. Some other books on the subject are loaded with hype. This one gives you the most up-to-date facts possible on physical fitness, growing through life, retirement, nutrition, adapting to your environment, adapting to a possible physical limitation and more.

"The Best Years Of Your Life" is published by Ballantine Books, New York, at $9.95 retail, for paperback (318 pages, with illustrations, ISBN 0-345-30763-1).

For those approaching mature years and for those already in their seniority, "The Best Years Of Your Life" is a fine and helpful book that just might help you to more life in your retirement lifestyle.

The myths, old wives' tales and longstanding assumptions regarding love, sex and aging in mature adults are reported, analyzed and debunked in a most complete and informative new report by the Consumers Union. Famed for their quality of research and analysis on a variety of subjects — from refrigerators to the economy and from autos to air travel — Consumers Union examines the subject matter in depth and with sensitivity. As you might expect, the report kicks the taboos, myths and negative assumptions, tackling each with fact.

Mature adults should not be deprived of love, affection or personal interaction — and mature adults should not assume that they will lose those abilities as they grow older. Consumer Reports tells it "like it is" for the reader's own information, acceptance and

The Last Word In Restaurant Guides
Where Our Readers Have The Last Word
This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides and a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings."
Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consistent ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.
In addition, they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

Quality Or Quantity?

One Sure Way To Get Results!
When you advertise in a subscription newspaper you get quality readership. You know that EVERY copy of the newspaper has been invited into the home and three to four people will most likely read it.
When you buy quantity the only thing you might be sure of is that it has been hung on door knobs or thrown on lawns all over the neighborhood.
With our newspapers YOU ONLY PAY FOR COPIES that will be read. It is this quality that produces results. Do not waste money on wasted copies. Advertise here and get results.
Our (not so secret) ingredient Readers = Results is the reason we are preferred over the largest metropolitan newspapers and the many throwaways.

Decor Score

By Sharon Owen Haven

Q: We've gone over our budget remodeling and it will be some time before we can afford to re-furnish.

We like our new living room architecturally, but it looks a little bland with white walls and our white sofas. Are there any low-cost ways we can make it less boring until we're ready to re-decorate? — J.B.

A: If you want to stick with white instead of painting the walls (a low-cost operation), you can add interest by adding textures that appeal to the sense of touch.

Though you may not want a lacquered floor such as the one shown, a highly polished hardwood floor presents the same smooth, shiny finish. This hard backdrop begs for a sensuous contrast like a warm wool area rug. Such textural contrasts often provide the focus in a space as people often have an irresistible urge to touch them.

Check your existing collection of accessories for interesting, bold textures. Pottery, glass, plants, dried flowers, hand-woven pillows or afghans, and highly textured artwork are just a few possibilities.

It is more effective visually if you use a couple of large accessories rather than many small ones. Notice how minimally the mono-chromatic living room pictured above is accessorized, yet you would hardly call this space boring.

Q: We are remodeling an "in-law" unit behind our home for my elderly father. We want to be sensitive to his tastes in color and furnishing. Are there other considerations that we should keep in mind? — R.W.

A: Designing for the elderly is a subject that is, fortunately, getting more attention now that our population age-curve is moving upward. ASID designer Carole Eichen suggests the following when decorating for seniors:

- Use lots of texture in walls, floors, draperies and furnishings to buffer sound.

- Since falls are the most common cause of injury among the elderly, use slip-resistant surfaces on floors, inset carpets to avoid tripping and choose carpeting with dense, close pile.

- Provide more light than conventional housing usually has. In kitchen, baths, stairways and work areas, lighting should be twice as luminous as normal.

- Doors should be at least three feet wide to accommodate walkers or wheelchairs and windows located at levels open to views when sitting down or lying in bed.

DRAMATIC CONTRAST — Neutral or monotone color schemes still can project drama with touch-tempting textures from smooth and shiny to soft and furry. Design by Stratford Furniture.

- Grab bars in showers, tub and toilet spaces are very important and add a seat in the shower.

Recent studies indicate that seniors remain healthier, more alert and positive when they are allowed to have control of their immediate surroundings, so do try to let your father participate in the remodeling process as much as possible.

of money, but unable to provide collateral or financial stability necessary to borrow it.

Acting from emotion, Jimmy would do everything in his power (and often more than that) to get approval for these loans. On the rare occasions when his efforts were successful, he was as gleeful as a child discovering a new toy. When unsuccessful he would carry a personal load of sorrow for days.

Jimmy's love for his wife was rare and beautiful. With the exception of working hours, they were seldom apart for more than a few hours. With no children, their love for each other seemed to grow stronger as the years passed. She said that not one day of their marriage went by that Jimmy didn't stop what he was doing, take her in his arms, and say "I love you."

He would often forego lunch in the early, struggling days of their marriage, saving enough from his meager lunch money to buy flowers, or some little gift, for her birthday, for their wedding anniversary, for some other occasion, or for no reason at all.

Jimmy had an overbearing compulsion to excel in the eyes of his wife. Who can fault him for it? Which brings to mind his golf game.

Not as fine a slancer as Jimmy was, he was equally inadequate as a golfer. He loved the game and played as often as possible...which was not often enough.

His form, as might be expected, was beautiful, but his execution fell much to be desired. He kept his own score card, which he never showed to his partners, only to his wife. Those partners long suspected his score card was several strokes less than his actual game. In fact, one of his golf partners was heard to say that "Jimmy's best golf club was his pencil."

However, no scorecard was necessary for their dancing. When they went away on vacation (to a place that featured a dance band, you may be sure)...they would invariably be declared the winners of any dance contest...and, again, other couples would clear the floor to watch them whirl and spin and dip.

On Jimmy's retirement from the bank, they were able to rent an apartment in a so-called "senior citizen" complex in Florida...with the intention of deciding whether or not they would make Florida their year-round home.

Being outgoing people, they made friends easily and quickly. Enthusiastically they joined in the many activities of their peer group. Shows, trips, parties, etc. Naturally Jimmy started a most successful and well-attended dancing class.

It seemed he was never happier. Golf was out for Jimmy...far too expensive in the area in which they lived. But with all their other activities, he probably never had time to miss the game.

There were trips...to Disney World, Epcot, the local gardens, the museums, the spring-training baseball games...so many things to do and see and contemplate.

They joined a church. Jimmy continued (although on a curtailed basis) his American Legion activities. And they both fell in love with Florida and the lifestyle of their retirement. So they decided to make their visit permanent, and bought a small modular home only a few miles from the apartment in which they were living.

So old friendships were continued...new friends made. Horizons were broadened, activities became even more diverse. Their lives, in short, were almost perfect for them.

Jimmy was so happy in those few short years of retirement. Happier, possibly, than he had ever been in a remarkably happy lifetime. He was relieved of job pressures...there were no real financial problems to worry about, few demands on his time or energies. He was surrounded by love and friendship, and had the leisure to enjoy all the fruits of that love and friendship.

The only pressures he may have felt were, in fact, self made. The car that might have refused to start...someone forgetting a date, or (heaven forbid) arriving late...a real or imagined slight by a friend. Little things, surely, and not in the same league as the pressures he endured while working. His high blood pressure was under control and there was little or no reason for it to go out of control.

Retirement, then, was the finest thing that happened to Jimmy. He knew it, his wife knew it, his friends knew it. Everyone was truly happy for him.

One Friday evening, a few days before Christmas, Jimmy and his wife were invited to a dance. It was a get-together that included many of their friends from the apartment complex, as well as their newer friends.

The hall was filled, but not overcrowded. The mood was joyous...but not overly exuberant. Old friends were greeted...new friends introduced. The decorations sparkled with joy. The spirit of the Christmas Season abounded throughout the room.

The orchestra was excellent. Smooth! Perfect music for dancing...music from the 40's, the 50's...the big-band sound.

At some time during the evening, Jimmy took his wife in his arms and said, as he had for almost every day of their marriage, "I love you."

And they danced. And danced. Everyone, it seemed, was dancing. They floated across the floor...gliding as though on a mirrored lake. Never, it seemed, had they danced so beautifully.

Gradually, other couples stopped dancing, stepped back to watch them. The floor cleared, until finally just one couple was left on the floor...seemingly oblivious to the fact that they were alone...intent on their dancing, and on each other.

Suddenly, Jimmy realized they were dancing alone. He looked around the room, surprised, and said, "Look, honey, They've cleared the floor again."

He smiled happily. His step faltered, perhaps for the first time in all his dancing days. A slight tremor went through his body. His eyes lost their sparkle, and he slumped out of his wife's arms to the floor.

It was Jimmy's last dance.

This is not a sad ending. Rather, it is a happy ending. Each mortal life must eventually end. For Jimmy, there was no better way. Dancing, which he did so well and enjoyed so much. In the arms of his wife, who shared his life and love so wonderfully. Among friends. Celebrating the most beautiful season of the year.

The memories are good ones.

ANTIQU OR JUNQUE

By James G. McCollam

Table's value based on workmanship

Q: According to an expert refinisher, this table is hand-carved mahogany and very old. What can you tell me about it?

A: This console table is a relatively modern (early 20th century) version of an 18th century style (Louis XV). Its value would be based more on its quality and workmanship than on its age.

In most areas, tables of this type are selling in the $500 to $600 range in good condition.

Q: I have a pressed glass bowl 6 inches in diameter. It has a pineapple and fan pattern with a sawtooth edge and the attached mark is molded on the bottom.

Can you tell me who made it, when and what its value would be?

- Flowerpot, 7 1/2 inches — $8
- Ashtray — $25
- Jar, 10 1/2 inches — $50
- Vase, floral, 10 inches — $22
- Various cookie jars — $25 to $65
- Various lamps — $50 to $90

Send your questions about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1 per item to James G. McCollam, P.O. Box 1087, Notre Dame, IN 46556. All questions will be answered but published pictures cannot be returned.

ANTIQU OR JUNQUE

A: Your bowl was made by J.B. Higbee Co., Bridgeville, Pa., early in the 20th century. It would probably sell for about $50 to $60.

Q: You recently listed a "Humpty Dumpty" cookie jar made by Abingdon Pottery at $60. Are other items made by this company also collectible and what can you tell me about Abingdon Pottery?

A: Abingdon Pottery was in business from 1934 to 1950. They made a line of novelties, cookie jars, utility ware and lamps. After 1950, their products were limited to sanitary ware. Collectors are interested in any of their art pottery from the early years. Here are some examples:

- Bookends — $60
- Vase, penthouse, 10 inches — $35

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. We live on the edge of town. There are many trappers in our area, and I constantly worry that our dog will get caught in a steel trap whenever my husband allows it to run freely.

A. Is this a widespread problem? Are there laws in most communities against trapping with steel traps?

A. The use of steel-jaw traps is a controversial subject in many communities. This issue has separated many pet owners and trappers.

Every year the Humane Society of the United States receives many complaints from owners whose pets have been caught or mutilated in steel-jaw traps. In most of the cases, the steel-jaw traps have been set on private property by trappers trying to catch small furbearing animals in order to sell their pelts. Few, if any, were marked with the trapper's name as is usually required by state game departments.

Very few trappers are caught and charged with violations. Although it is known that about 15 millions wild animals die every year in traps in the United States, figures for dog and cat deaths are generally unavailable. Few trappers report the non-game animals they capture in their traps.

Some trappers have admitted that they have clubbed or stomped to death dogs or cats caught in their traps. Most of these animals are then tossed into roadway ditches or bushes.

Although accurate numbers are difficult to obtain, some figures are available. The New Jersey branch of the Humane Society of the United States recorded more than 1,000 trapped pets during a three-year period. Veterinarians in one New York county reported treating more than 150 pets for trap-related injuries during a six-month period.

Examples of trap-related injuries could be given for nearly all areas of the United States.

Unfortunately, this is a widespread problem. The most widely used trap is the steel-jaw, or leg-hold trap. Usually the initial force of the trap's spring does not kill the animal. But the continuous pressure shuts off the blood supply to the animal's limb. This causes intense pain, swelling and, eventually, gangrene. Most animals caught in steel traps lose at least one limb. Animals that try to escape are usually maimed for life.

The steel-jaw trap is outlawed in approximately 70 countries. Unfortunately, the United States is not one of them. There are few states with laws prohibiting the use of steel-jawed traps, but there are some local laws forbidding the use of them.

In some situations, city or county ordinances take precedence over state laws. Pet owners should closely supervise their pets during hunting season. Hunting season lengths and times vary greatly in parts of the country. All cases of trapped pets should be reported to the local humane societies and law enforcement agencies. Efforts to ban the use of steel-jawed traps should be supported by all pet and animal lovers. Our pets need not suffer the pain and trauma of steel-jaw traps.

But whether you stay home or dine at Granddaddy's or Auntie's, I hope you will all enjoy the best Thanksgiving Day ever!
