Kiwanis Club Distributes Another 3174 Lbs. Of Food

Another cold, rainy Saturday morning on March 28 did not keep the members of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club from keeping their promise to distribute an allotment of government surplus food to the needy residents of the Hicksville area who were patiently standing on line under umbrellas and raincoats waiting to see what would be available.

The truck from Mr. Electric Service Co., Inc. was unloaded at the Carvel Store on South Broadway with 50 cases of six 5 pound blocks of cheese (1,500 pounds), 25 cases of twelve 3 pound bottles of honey (900 pounds), 13 bags of twenty four 2 pound bags of rice (624 pounds), and 3 bags of 50 pounds of potatoes (150 pounds) for a total of 3,174 pounds of food.

Unfortunately, this was a smaller than usual allocation of government surplus food and the volunteer Kiwanians had to make the 300 blocks of cheese, 300 bottles of honey, 312 bags of rice plus the loose potatoes stretch. Some people at the end of the line, and the latecomers, were disappointed. Also, the Kiwanis Club regrets that because of the short supply of cheese and honey, some people left empty handed rather than take home some rice or potatoes.

Three Named To Hist. Comm.

The Oyster Bay Town Board has approved the reappointments of three people to the Town's Bicentennial Historical Commission, according to Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark.

"Reappointed to three years terms were Hon. Bernard McCaffrey of Plainview, Dr. Howard Imhof of Oyster Bay and Dorothy McGee of Locust Valley, who will continue to serve as chairman," Clark stated. "The terms will all expire on October 31, 1989."

Clark noted that the Commission has been designated by the Town Board to serve as the Town's commission for the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the signing and ratification of the United States Constitution. The Commission is currently seeking to have the Town declared an official bicentennial community by the State and federal commissions and is looking to develop educational programs for elementary and secondary schools.

Pre-Schoolers Eye Screening

Amblyopia is a functional eye disorder in which one eye can see sharply, but the other poorly. If it is discovered before school age, useful vision can be restored.

A group of PTA trained volunteers from Burns Avenue School will be testing pre-schoolers between the ages of 4-5 for "lazy eye" disorders.

Testing will be done on Tuesday, April 7, Wednesday, April 8, and Thursday, April 9 between the hours of 3:30 and 5 p.m. in the All-Purpose Room at Burns Avenue School.

All pre-schoolers ages 4-5 should try to come.

Hicksville... Then And Now

Newbridge Road was a typical suburban thoroughfare back in the early 1960s when this photo was taken, looking north from just below Cherry St. at the right. Though you wouldn't know it from this scene, traffic was becoming a serious problem in Hicksville and the days of narrow main arteries were numbered.

In the same view, taken several years ago, Newbridge Road looks about the same, except for it undergoing resurfacing and widening alterations. A center divider has also been added. Many of the old homes are still standing - as is Stock's Funeral Parlor at the left. (Photos by Bill Clark)

Pack 172 Feb. Meeting

Den 3 stands erect as Mr. Bailey gives them a uniform inspection. Den leader Midge Sonneborn watches as Michael DelBagni, Kevin Beiner, John Luyster, Howard Sonneborn, and Patrick Chiarelli are inspected.

Tiger Assistants Deborah Ariet and Jim Wisnieski are very proud of the Tigers. Patrick Walker, Nicky Linnahan, Brad White, Robert Parker, Gary Wisnieski, Edward Lynch and Greg Ariet were inspected that evening.

On February 25, East Street's Pack 172 had their pack meeting. The Cub Scouts started out with a formal uniform inspection. Walter Bailey came from the Boy Scout Council. The Tigers weren't so sure about this tall man looking at them to see if they were in uniform.

The theme of the month was Presidents. Den 1 made a game for everyone to play. It is called President's Bingo. Every den was given a playing card (with Presidents) and a bag of pennies. Each Cub in Den 1 read a short paragraph about a President and then he gave the name. This was done until we heard the word "Bingo."

Den 2 made up a President guessing game. Each Cub read a short paragraph about a President. Everyone else had to guess the name.

Den 3 made chocolate Valentines. There was only one problem with this project. They had already eaten them, so we couldn't see them!

Den 4 made beautiful plaques out of plaster of Paris. It was a flag with a Kennedy face on top of it. The boys had painted them very nicely.

Den 5 made beautiful napkin holders that were in the shape of an apple. They were made out of wood.

The Tigers told about the Valentines they made that were sent to a nursing home. Then they showed the beautiful Get Well card they had made for Mrs. Harvey. She is the Committee Chairperson and is greatly missed. Hopefully she will be out

NTV At Dutch Lane School

NTV - is that a new rock video channel? To the contrary, NTV stands for No TV. Children in Denise Yannone's class at Dutch Lane School have given up watching television! Inspired by the young New Jersey boy who didn't watch television for one year, Dutch Lane students decided to challenge themselves and see if they could live without television. They are already into the second week of NTV and children are alive and well. Even their teacher has joined in the project.

Students like Thomas Risoli (whose mother and grandmother also watch NTV) are finding more time for family games and activities and more sleep. Says Tommy, "The project is exciting and I hope I can do it for three weeks."

Frank Gerwer has been studying his times tables and spending time with his mom, who has also given up television. One evening the Gerwer family watched family movies from thirty years ago! According to Frank and Mrs. Gerwer, they all had a ball. Even though it's tough at times, Frank and his mom are supporting each other through the project. Frank's recommendation, "If you're going to try this, get a good hobby!"

Gregory Blund has been keeping busy building models with his dad. Greg has contributed to the class spirit by making NTV posters with his computer. Greg even made a special calendar so his classmates could mark off all the days they stayed away from the television. According to Greg, "It's great because I am spending more time with my family."

John Reddy has been listening to the radio and doing more reading. John read, "The Chocolate War" and "Through the Looking Glass." John says, "It's fun, especially getting VCR tapes to tape all the shows I miss!"

Says Kristine DeMartino, "I like the project, but I can't give up my two favorite shows, 'Growing Pains,' and 'Who's the Boss?' Kristine has been watching a lot less TV and is playing with her baby hamster 'Cuddles' and helping her mom in the kitchen.

Thomas Rottino has been doing extra math homework, much to the delight of his teacher. Tommy is spending more time outdoors getting exercise with his friends. Tommy says, "The project is fun, but it's hard not to watch TV on Saturday."

Besides reading every night,

Ryan Becker plays educational games on his computer and he is learning how to type. Ryan plays more with his friends and he is looking forward to the ice cream party the class will have to celebrate two weeks of NTV.

John Orslad was home ill for over a week and for most of the time he didn't watch any television. The class agreed that it must have been very difficult to stay away from the television set for such a long time.

Spending time with her family, reading and playing spelling games like "Boggle" with her sister are some of the things that keep Janet Koster enjoyably occupied and away from the television set.

Adam Tisdale has been playing with his computer, studying his spelling words and getting more exercise by playing basketball. Adam says, "I like the project. It's a lot of fun and I recommend it to other kids."

Mrs. Yannone's class.

The students have had some interesting class discussions about the positive and negative aspects of television. They have discussed "subliminal advertising" as well as educational television shows. As part of a creative writing assignment the children developed a list of twenty things to do instead of watching television. Anyone who is interested can obtain a copy of the list by writing to the class at Dutch Lane School, Hicksville, NY 11801. The students all agree that there are many fun and useful things to do instead of spending so much time in front of the television set being a "couch potato!"

Rotary Installs New Member

New Rotarian, Samuel J. Carr, right, is being congratulated by Club President, Dr. Peter J. Rocco, who acted as Installing Officer.

Inducting a new member into Rotary International is always a noteworthy and memorable occasion and such was the case at last week's weekly luncheon meeting of the Hicksville-Jericho Rotary Club at the Milleridge Inn. The new Rotarian is Samuel J. Carr, a commercial real estate representative of the Coldwell Banker office, Two Jericho Plaza, Jericho. Rotarian Carr was indoctrinated on the objectives and principles of Rotary International by Past President Arthur Pettorino.

Featured at last week's regular luncheon meeting of the Hicksville-Jericho Rotary Club were LILCO representatives Mr. Joseph Horan and Mr. Larry Fitzgerald. Mr. Horan, who was the guest speaker, told of the services provided by LILCO to the general public. A question and answer period followed the talk. Dr. Peter J. Rocco, Club President (right), thanked Mr. Horan and presented him with a Certificate of Appreciation on behalf of the club members.

Editor's Notebook

The Hicksville Chamber of Commerce, under the leadership of its president Marc Ramirez, has launched a campaign against the defacement of public buildings and property by graffiti. This has become an increasing problem in Hicksville. The Chamber and local police are working together and arrests are being made.

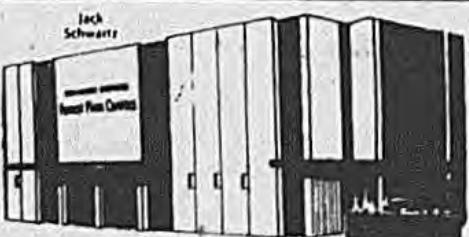

Two Hicksville boys, one 17 and one 20 years of age, were arrested recently after the Eighth Precinct investigated an incident at Hicksville High where some walls had been spray painted with graffiti. The police have requested that the arrest be made public to alert residents that this behavior will no longer be tolerated.

In addition, the Board of Education - at its meeting last week - approved spending $1500 to hire the services of a handwriting expert to help the school district identify the person or persons responsible for defacing school buildings. Believe it or not, the district (and this means you and I) pays approximately $90,000 a year to clean up the graffiti on school property!

It's about time we all did something about it. We urge local residents to dial 911 immediately if they see anyone or anything suspicious. Incidentally, it is not necessary to give one's name or address when reporting a crime.

On another note - the Hicksville Water Commissioners have placed restrictions on lawn sprinkling. Homeowners with odd numbered houses can sprinkle only on odd numbered days of the week and even numbers on even days. NO sprinkling on weekends. Check the news release submitted by the Water District elsewhere in this issue. (Does this remind you of the gas shortage?)

Hicksville INN Second Anniv.

Two years ago an organizational meeting was held at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Hicksville, for the purpose of trying to feed the hungry people in our community. On April 1, Hicksville I.N.N. recognizes a two-year milestone, of which the community can justly be proud.

Hicksville I.N.N., otherwise known as "The Soup Kitchen" is one of nine soup kitchens scattered throughout Long Island under the so-called umbrella of the Interfaith Nutrition Network. Regular support is pledged by various houses of faith, and the I.N.N. additionally has received commendable community support of materials and funding from individuals and groups and corporations. Perhaps the most meaningful donation has been of time and talent and effort, for which the participants should be recognized for the example they have set in our town.

On Friday, March 27, the Board of Directors met at Trinity Episcopal Church under the direction of the Rev. Dominic Ciannella. The Board acknowledges with gratitude a gift of $500 from the Hicksville Rotary Club, which is an ongoing supporter of the endeavor.

Hicksville I.N.N. tries to serve nutritional noonday meals, utilizing surplus foods which might otherwise be wasted. Likewise, the budget is kept at a minimum when useful products are donated; particularly paper products (plates, cups, napkins, etc.). If anyone knows of any such supplies which might be available to the I.N.N., please contact Father Ciannella. Any further questions can either be directed to him at the church, or to Effie Krogmann at 939-2800.

In Memoriam

Vincent Pollicastro

A mass of Christian burial was held on March 31, at St. Ignatius Roman Catholic Church for Vincent Pollicastro, who died on March 27, at Central General Hospital in Plainview, after a heart attack.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of Henry J. Stock Funeral Home. Burial was at Holy Rood Cemetery, Westbury.

Minnie Alexander

On March 24, Minnie Alexander of Calverton died at the age of 95.

In addition to her daughter, Marjorie H. Dieloid of Hicksville, Mrs. Alexander also leaves her daughter Dorothy Morse of San Mateo, California, her granddaughter Marjorie Cooper and her great granddaughter Amy Cooper.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Reginald H. Tuthill Funeral Home in Riverhead.

Plainview resident Frank Blank 93, died at his home on March 26 following a massive heart attack.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Blank served as a private for the 27th Infantry Division in France and was a long-time member of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 5942 and American Legion Post 118.

Mr. Blank was born in Brooklyn and lived in Hicksville for 40 years before moving to his son, Francis' home in Plainview nine years ago. He was married to his wife, Elizabeth, for 56 years until her death in 1975.

Mr. Blank was in the beer bottling business for 47 years. He owned his own beer bottling business in Maspeth and also worked for Wrangler's in Lynbrook and Piel's in East New York. He was a member of Bottler's Union 345.

In addition to his son, Mr. Blank leaves three grandchildren. The Henry J. Stock Funeral Home directed the arrangements. Mass of Christian Burial was said on March 30 at St. Ignatius Roman Catholic Church. Interment followed at St. John's Cemetery, Middle Village.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Gabby Tabby

SEVERAL areas of Hicksville and Syosset had a taste of darkness on Monday night until Tuesday when trees fell through electrical wires. The company said that all service was restored by Tuesday night except in rare individual situations so if your lights are still out you can take comfort in knowing that you have a "rare situation"....THE LIRR which always seems to do something to irk commuters, spent $30,500 to get out a circular to distribute to riders about helping keep litter out of the trains, and you guessed it. The 200,000 circulars themselves contributed to the litter on the trains last week....10 PEOPLE were arrested last week for hooking themselves into sealed connections on utility poles to get free cable TV. Many people who subscribe to the service are dumbfounded because they don't think the service is worth anything anyway....THE TOWN is going to convert the ice rinks at Bethpage park and Syosset-Woodbury park to miniature golf courses for the summer months. There will be a $2-3 playing fee....TRUCKS weighing more than 18,000 lbs. will be prohibited from using three Old Bethpage roads if the board approves the proposal following its week's hearing. The roads are Bethpage-Sweet Hollow, Old Bethpage and Round Swamp Roads....THE CRIME REPORT is published each week as a public service to alert residents of where crime is taking place in the area and as an aid in the Neighborhood Watch program. Anyone seeing suspicious activity should phone 911....BURGLARS broke into the Estrada residence 254 Old Country Rd., Hicksville on Mar. 16. They entered through the front door and stole jackets and jewelry....BURGLARS broke into the Ulahov residence 4 Dorothy Drive, Syosset on Mar. 24. They entered through a rear door and stole perfume and jewelry....A NECKLACE was stolen from the Gubler residence 2 Lewis Lane, Syosset on Mar. 23. Entry was made through a rear cellar door....GLASS in a side window of the Abruzzo home was broken by burglars on Mar. 24. The loss is unknown....BURGLARS pried a rear door of the Foster residence 7 Wendell St., Plainview between Mar. 28 and 29. They entered but the loss is unknown....SILVERWARE, a watch and cash were stolen from the Morrison home 14 Edward Drive, Syosset between Mar. 22 and 29. A rear window was pried open to gain entry....BURGLARS entered a rear window of the Herrick residence 11 Kodiak Drive, Woodbury between Mar. 15 and 20. Entry was through an unlocked front door....A GENERATOR was stolen from Mare Construction Co. 18 Midland Ave., Hicksville between Mar. 23 and 24. They came through a rear window and stole cash....$600 in jewelry was stolen from a residence at 10 Hunter St., Hicksville on Mar. 25. A side window was pried open to gain entry....A SIDE door at a residence at 37 Sherman Ave., Plainview was pried open by burglars on Mar. 25. Ralph Nader At CommunityCollege

Ralph Nader, America's foremost consumer advocate came to Nassau Community College on Wednesday, March 25, heralding the fight against Long Island's 11 proposed garbage incinerators.

Nader told a crowd of over 500 that mass burn incinerators are no solution to Long Island's garbage landfill dilemma - saying they "just exchange one problem for another."

Referring to The Town of Hempstead's incinerator currently under demolition and adjacent to the college the activist said: "In light of the serious pollution problems associated with incineration, I wouldn't want to go to school here."

The Hempstead plant was closed in 1980 when community groups learned that dioxin and other toxics were present in airborne emissions. The incinerator is under reconstruction and is slated to reopen in 1989.

Nader's speech was part of a lecture series entitled "Making It" sponsored by the college's Cultural Program. Nader cited incinerators as an example of corporate arrogance and government irresponsibility against which he has fought and "made" his career.

Nader spoke at length about the need for college students and the community at large to "make a commitment to civic action for the betterment of the country." He encouraged involvement in the civic projects of the New York Public Interest Research Group, Inc. (NYPIRG) who have a chapter at the college as a way of learning the citizenship skills one needs to affect change through our system of government. "If the people lead," the activist concluded, "the leaders will follow."

For information on how to get involved in the civic projects of the New York Public Interest Research Group (NYPIRG) you can call 222-0086.

Woodland Ave. Talent Show

Many talented students at Woodland Ave. School had the opportunity to perform for their parents, teachers and friends on Wednesday, March 11, when the school's P.T.A. held their annual Talent Show.

The show, organized by Mrs. Cheri Muholland and Mrs. Claire Peters, opened very appropriately with the tune "Hey Look Me Over", which was sung by all participants. For the next few hours, the audience was delighted to do just that, as children danced, sang and performed skits and comedy routines. Stage lighting, provided by Mr. Paul Hinckley, added a professional touch.

Woodland Ave. twirlers, under the direction of Mrs. Jane Hinckley, Mrs. Mary Adams and Mrs. Trish Barozie, proudly presented their routines as well.

As a finale, the children sang "So Long, Farewell" and left the stage thinking about what they'll do in next year's show.

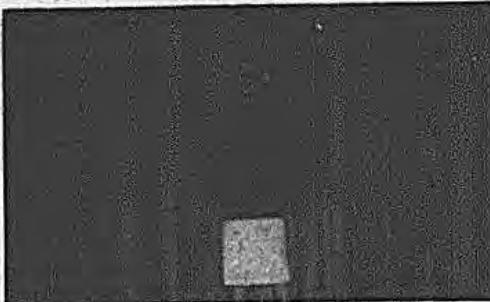

To all the students who participated and all the parents who helped make this wonderful event possible - congratulations and thank you. It was an opportunity for the children to express their creativity and their talent.

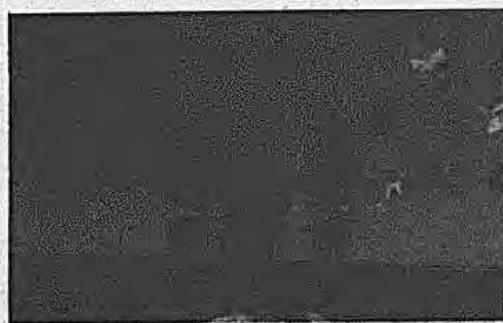

Fille Dalpiaz and Jelene Apostolidis dance to "C'est La Vie."

Michelle Nolan and Matthew Annakiewicz perform to "Hit the Road Jack."

Amy Entel singing "Everything's Coming Up Roses."

Christine Peters, Maureen Murphy and Kathy Murphy perform to "Hey Daddy."

Beginner twirlers perform to "Baby's Got Her Blue Jeans On."

Children bid audience "So Long, Farewell."

Suspicious Fire Reported In Hicksville

Arson Squad Det. Charles Miller and Fire Marshall Joseph Lynch report the details of a suspicious fire that occurred at the Ajax Wire Specialty Co. Inc., 119 Bloomingdale Rd., Hicksville at 5:33 a.m., March 21.

Bethpage F.D. and Hicksville F.D. responded with 100 men and 10 pieces of equipment under the direction of Chief Robert Wright. The fire took 1½ hours to be brought under control. No injuries were reported.

The structure sustained serious damage to the warehouse area. The shipping area and the offices were totally destroyed. Estimated damage is $200,000 to the building and dollar amount for the contents will be determined at a later date.

Nurses' Open House Scheduled

The Community Hospital in Glen Cove is holding a Nurses' Open House to introduce registered nurses to this 278 bed acute care facility on Long Island's North Shore. The event is scheduled for Saturday, April 25, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., and is open to recent nursing graduates, nurses experienced in all specialties and those interested in returning to the field.

Community Hospital features modern units for coronary and intensive care, a telemetry unit, and an emergency department and ambulatory surgery unit, both of which are undergoing expansion. The hospital also has a comprehensive maternity unit, pediatrics department and a psychiatric unit, in addition to its medical/surgical floors.

At the Open House, members of the nursing staff will be on hand to conduct tours and answer questions as well as provide information to nurses planning to re-enter the profession. Interviews will be conducted all day; no appointment is necessary.

"Community Hospital is an excellent place to work," said Janet Jacob, R.N., associate director of nursing. "It's small enough for a new person to fit in comfortably, yet large enough to provide the kinds of experiences that enhance professional growth. We thought an open house would be a good way to show off the hospital."

The Community Hospital at Glen Cove is located at the corner of Walnut Road and St. Andrews Lane, Glen Cove. Directions to the hospital and further information are available at 676-5000, ext. 2248.

Most Input Callers Think Speed Limit Change O.K.

Callers to Input had mixed views on whether the 55-mile speed limit should be changed to 65 as included in the highway bill approved by Congress in answer to this question: "Do you agree with the changing of the national speed limit from 55 to 65 in non-urban areas?" Here are some of the answers:

NO BENEFIT

No. I see no benefit in changing the speed; 55 is fast enough. What should be done is that there should be more enforcement of the speed limit so that all drivers are not pushed into excessive speeds to stay clear of those who keep tailgating and pushing to increase speeds. K.E.

ONLY A GUESS

The 55-mile speed limit was only a guess. It could have been other speeds but some groups sold Congress on the idea that it was the optimum speed for gas efficiency. The truth is that many cars waste fuel at that speed and it may not be saving much fuel at all. So far as the saving of lives go, the statistics are very flexible. Proponents of seat belts claim the same lives are saved as the proponents of a slow speed. On the Autobahn in Germany where there are no speed limits, the fatalities per mile are lower than where we have 55 speed limits in the U.S. Speed is the wrong culprit. Recklessness at any speed is the true villain.

H.E.

SHOULD GO UP

I am in accord with the idea that in urban non-congested areas the speed limit should be much higher than 55. Vehicles have been given better safety devices such as radial tires. Speed of itself is not much more dangerous at 65. On congested urban areas, the speed limit should remain at 55 and it should be enforced.

L.E.

LIMIT TOO LOW

Yes. When I took a trip through the western states this summer, no one ever bothered about speed limits and there were not many accidents. Tailgating by trucks and cars in maintaining the tight 55-mile limit, as in the state of N.J., is a much more dangerous condition than going 65 miles. This national limit should never have been imposed throughout the country. It should always be local option because the conditions vary from one place to another. The using of the national highway system funds to enforce speed limits was another heavy handed form of control that we have come to expect from the growing list of controllers in this country.

H.W.

PAST MISTAKES

I think we are making a mistake by giving up the 55-speed limit and also by giving up all of the great ideas for conserving fuel that we had in the 1970's. We still may be facing a fuel shortage in the future and we are going along again as though we can rely on foreign suppliers to keep our country running. These are the same mistakes of the past and we have not learned from them at all.

M.E.

DEMOCRACY

Since no one obeys the 55-mile limit except when a cop is looking, we ought to abandon it. Laws should not be made to be broken but because they are important to us. Most people do not drive at 55 and most do not want to do so--therefore, there is no reason for our representatives to tell us what they want us to do. They were elected to act for the majority and, too often, they act for small vocal groups. Let's have a democracy or quit deluding ourselves.

J.E.

NOT CLEARCUT

An important part of the rationale in setting the 55 mph speed limit in the first place was the conserve gasoline which was in short supply and very expensive. Actually, it was a national economic problem and it led to other avenues of research for alternate sources of energy such as windmills, solar energy, etc., most of which never really got off the ground. But, the biggest indirect benefit was the reduction in accidents and the consequent saving of lives and apparently statistics bear out real benefits in this area. We were also supposed to establish a program to maintain a federal stockpile of gasoline should we again be faced with a critical shortage. None of these basics has changed actual, or potential but now, economics is again playing a big part in the decision to moderate the law particularly with respect to the profitability of long-distance trailer trucks in cutting down the time between cities. I still think that 55 is a reasonable speed on all highways particularly when sharing the roads crowded with multi-wheeled behemoths, the drivers of which couldn't care less about the drivers of passenger cars and especially on rainy or snowy days and nights. But, greater speeds are demanded even on parkways devoted strictly to passenger traffic including cars driven by "maniacs" weaving in and out of lanes with absolutely no regard for the reflexes of other more cautious or elderly drivers. The question is not that clear as to what constitutes a non-urban area but I would be willing to go along with the 65 mph law between municipalities separated by many miles, but I would maintain the 55 mph speed limit on state parkways and expressways such as we have on Long Island. There is little to be gained on such roads, particularly at peak-load periods when 15 mph might be considered a reasonably good speed.

OTHER ISSUES

ORAL ROBERTS

The recent appeal by Oral Roberts to save his life by making contributions in the sum of several millions of dollars is pure and simple extortion. The people felt compelled to expend money that they would not ordinarily have spent or donated to Roberts. Additionally, Oral Roberts has a mansion and property valued in the high millions of dollars. He could have sold it. His family and ministry could have urged him to do so. Evidently, no one felt it was really necessary -- or else they didn't care. This is, again, pure and simple extortion or else a tremendous hoax.

By Dorothy Schueler

When sons or daughters go off to college, they all promise to write or call - often. Some parents are lucky. They get weekly newsletters or phone calls. Other parents are unlucky. They never get written word, and the spoken variety is heard only when a check is needed - usually in a hurry! Short of cutting off the money supply, what can parents do when they haven't gotten word one, oral or written, in weeks and weeks and weeks?

Here's a possible solution. It costs two postage stamps and is bound to get results - hopefully, the positive kind. It won't solve the chronic problem, but it will assure mom and dad, on a one-time basis, that their child is alive and well and still loves, or at least remembers them. When you think about it, at least from a student's point of view, that's all they really need to know.

Our number four chick (we had four girls) was the first to present us with this problem. The others wrote - sometimes wrote and wrote - and we couldn't empathize with other parents who never heard from their kids. "Must have been in the upbringing," we smugly assumed. "They spoiled that kid rotten, and now they're paying the price." When #4 left the nest to do her "best" (I could explain the quotes here, but that's another story,) in college, the "I told you so's" were justly earned by my husband and me. The postman never came, and the phone never rang - unless, of course, she needed you know what. We put up with this for three years, for we could always call and bawl her out or leave a message. This year she outfoxed us. She's living off campus, without a phone. Sure, we gave her money to install one, but she came up with a very logical excuse. "If I have one put in, I'll have to pay the whole bill; the other gals don't want one, but naturally they'd use it if it was here." We had just gone through three years of roommates dodging their share of phone bills. No way were we going to enter into this kind of a deal with our eyes and our wallets wide open. We told #4 to call collect, at least once a week and to write often. She calls only when she wants to collect from dear old dad and writes when her conscience won't allow her to sleep through the night, usually once or twice a semester.

Now, for the solution. Last week, after not hearing word one for forty-two days, I sat down and composed my weekly newsletter. Here's the last paragraph. "I know we are not even a number on your list of priorities, but you are still pretty high on your dad's and mine. Please clip out the following questions, answer them in a word or two, and return the coupon in the enclosed, self-addressed envelope." Guilt trip followed by an easy out. It worked. She called immediately - collect, as she had been instructed to do - and two days later we received a written reply. She answered questions about when she would be home for the next vacation, her job, her courses, her roommates, her parking fines that had all been forwarded here, the credits she still needs and the amount of the check she made out to the book store - so that we could balance our check book.

Her reply to the check question was, "The fee was four thousand dollars. I bought all my books embossed in gold." To the question, "Is Tommy (the boyfriend) alive or dead?" she answered "Buried alive in an Albanian tomb." To the question, "Are you alive or dead?" she quipped, "Alive - just shaking off the Albanian dust." The best part was scrawled on the back of the questionnaire - "Mother, mother, mother - oh, you are funny and piercingly filled with the attic salt (dry wit) I don't expect that this flattery shall help me worm my way back into your good graces, yet I do expect it to prove your scolding a bit harsh. You are not low on my priority list, but you are high on my intimidations scrolls. So many letters I never send. So many conversations we never had. Sorry. Love and miss you, #4.

If you are waiting to hear from your son or daughter, give my system a try. Three paragraphs of normal family chit-chat and no more than one sentence of guilt. Follow this with ten serious questions, and remember to end with "Are you alive or dead?" Oh, yes, don't forget to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope. Then remember to put the answer in your "memories" file. It's worth keeping.

TOPS IN DINNERS

The New Hyde Park Inn is a landmark on Jericho Turnpike in New Hyde Park. Most people have been there many times for one banquet or another. Throughout the years it has served as a top catering hall for many affairs.

As a restaurant it is equally good. We went there last week and found that it has a full menu for dinner and that all of the good things that were at banquets can be had in the restaurant. Because it is a festive type place it is a great one to celebrate a birthday as we did. Tell your readers that the New Hyde Park Inn is tops for dinners. We know. We were there. Y.R.

READER RATINGS

Q. We are not wine drinkers. If we're giving a party, what kind of wines should we stock in order to take care of our wine-drinking friends' pleasure - from cocktail hour through dinner? W.L.A. For the cocktail hour you might have on hand dry or sweet sherry, or dry or sweet vermouth, or any of the popular "aperitifs." Many choose a glass of dry white wine at the cocktail hour (either chilled or "on the rocks").

For the first course, or to drink with any fish, salad, chicken, veal or fruit, a chilled white wine is nice (such as Chablis, Soave, Riesling, Chenin Blanc, Pinot Chardonnay).

For the meat or game course (or the salad with cheese), serve a Burgundy, Bordeaux, Chianti, Cabernet Sauvignon or Zinfandel at a cool room temperature (from 60 to 70 degrees).

Rose wines should be chilled like white wines. A rose is best served with a light dish and is more popular in hot weather than in cold.

For dessert you may serve the same wine you had from the previous course. Or if it's something festive like an anniversary, dessert time is the moment to bring on the champagne (the drier the better!).

Some people enjoy a sweet wine with dessert, such as port or a sweet sauterne or sherry, but one seldom sees this custom followed anymore in this country.

Q. Will you please describe the correct procedure for introducing one couple to another (1) when the couples are approximately the same age (2) when one couple is older or more distinguished in station than the other? M.J.

A. When the couples are about the same age it doesn't matter whose names are mentioned first. When one couple is older or more distinguished - or perhaps guests in your town - you introduce the younger couple.

Q. When dining out I have often seen women wearing their coats to the table, then depositing them on the back of their chairs. However, I have never seen a man do the same thing with his overcoat. Is there really a difference in etiquette for men and women in regard to checking coats?

A. Yes, a man always checks his coat in a restaurant. But a woman has the option of checking her coat or bringing it to the table.

ELEGANT MENU

For a successful celebration I doubt we could have planned a better party than our double birthday brunch for ten at the George Washington Manor last Sunday. The ambience was beautiful with early 18th Century furniture and appointments. The menu was elegant and included champagne which was a great way to celebrate the occasion. The food, the cheerful service, the fireplaces, the view on all sides were memorable. We all came away on cloud nine, and all consensus was that we should do this every year! E.P.

Q. I had understood that Catholics were no longer obliged to abstain from meat on Fridays. However, someone recently told me that this obligation still applies during Lent. Since I frequently host business luncheons at local restaurants throughout the year, it is important for me to know this rule.

A. Many Catholics refrain from eating meat on Ash Wednesday and the Fridays of Lent. In addition, they limit themselves to one full meal on Ash Wednesday and Good Friday. As you correctly observed, Catholics need no longer abstain from meat on Fridays other than during Lent.

HIGH PRAISE

A number of years ago we had been to the Colonial Inn in Mineola and we were not so impressed with the restaurant although it always was good. Last week we noticed that it was under new ownership and stopped in again. We like the Colonial Inn and we liked its great stuffed pork chops with the apple and raisin stuffing. This restaurant is one that we would recommend to all of our friends. The new management is to be commended for improving the menu and not overpricing the food. Tell everyone about it.

N.R.

Q. If your guests completely finish their white wine down to the last drop, isn't it all right to pour red wine into their same glasses?

A. No. Either have separate clean wine glasses on the table for the red or wash the dirty glasses and bring them back to the table.

Cream butter and sugar on high speed just until well blended. Stop beater. Add eggs, one at a time, at low speed. Add chocolate, beat lightly. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together and add on low speed. Add vanilla. Stop beater and mix lightly with rubber spatula. Fold in chocolate chips and nuts.

Spoon into 9x12-inch greased pan and bake in 350 F oven 25 to 30 minutes. DO NOT OVENBAKE. While warm, sift powdered sugar generously over the top. Cut brownies into serving pieces.

WHITE CHOCOLATE-CHOCOLATE COOKIES

1 cup butter
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

$\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup cocoa powder, sifted
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon baking powder
2 cups flour
8 ounces white chocolate, chopped

Preheat oven to 375 F. Cream butter, sugar, vanilla and salt until pale. Add eggs slowly, continue to beat. Add cocoa, baking powder and flour. Mix until almost combined. Add white chocolate. Mix until all ingredients are combined well.

Drop cookies onto a buttered baking sheet and bake approximately 8 minutes for small cookies or 15 minutes for large cookies. Do not overbake.

PETTICOAT TAILS

1 cup butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
 $\frac{2}{3}$ cups flour
1 cup confectioners' sugar, sifted

Preheat oven to 400 F. Mix all ingredients in food processor or with a mixer until a ball forms. Gently knead into two rolls, each $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch in diameter. Wrap in plastic wrap and refrigerate 1 to 2 hours. Slice approximately $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch thick and place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in 400 F oven

10 minutes. Cool and top with a spoonful of glossy chocolate frosting. (Recipe follows.)

GLOSSY CHOCOLATE FROSTING

4 tablespoons butter
4 squares unsweetened chocolate
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon vanilla
 $\frac{3}{4}$ tablespoons milk

Melt butter and chocolate. Alternately add sugar and liquids, blend until smooth. Add additional drops of milk if frosting becomes stiff.

MOCHA MOUSSE PIE

Crust:
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chocolate wafer crumbs

Melt butter or margarine. Stir into wafer crumbs. Press evenly onto bottom and sides of 8-inch pan. Bake in 300 F oven for 10 minutes. Cool.

Filling:

24 marshmallows
2 teaspoons creme de cacao
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk
8 squares (8 ounces) semisweet chocolate
1 cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons coffee liqueur

Melt marshmallows in milk over low heat. Cool. Melt chocolate over hot water. Add liqueurs to chocolate. Pour chocolate mixture into the cream. Pour into pie shell. Garnish with grated semisweet chocolate, if desired. Freeze. Remove from freezer 5 to 10 minutes before serving.

FUDGE PEANUT PIE

1 cup butter or margarine
3 tablespoons cocoa
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup hot water
2 cups sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup flour
 $\frac{1}{8}$ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 small can evaporated milk
1 cup pecan halves

Preheat oven and cookie sheet to 350 F. In medium saucepan, melt butter. Add cocoa and stir until dissolved. Add hot water and stir again. With wire whip blend in sugar, flour, salt, extract and evaporated milk. Stir until batter is smooth. Mix in pecans and pour into unbaked pie shell. Bake on preheated cookie sheet 50 minutes or until a knife inserted 1 inch from the edge comes out clean.

Crust:
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cups flour
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter
2 tablespoons sour cream

Place all ingredients in food processor with steel blade. Process until a ball just begins to form. Press evenly into 10-inch tart pan. Refrigerate until ready to fill.

CHOCOLATE BRICK

1 cup strong, cold coffee
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons Grand Marnier
 $\frac{1}{2}$ pound unsalted butter
2 large eggs
12 ounces semisweet chocolate, melted
Vanilla wafers
1 cup heavy (whipping) cream beaten with 2 tablespoons sugar and 2 teaspoons vanilla (optional)
Walnut halves dipped in melted chocolate (optional garnish)

Combine coffee with sugar and Grand Marnier. Set aside. Cream butter. Beat in eggs and melted semisweet chocolate. Line a 9x5-inch bread pan with aluminum foil, allowing enough to hang over the edges to cover the top.

Arrange a layer of vanilla wafers on bottom of pan. Sprinkle wafers generously with the coffee/Grand Marnier liquid then spread with some of the chocolate cream. Continue in layers until all the cream is used — ending with a layer of wafers. Fold over foil to cover top.

Weigh down the covered "brick" by setting an identical pan on top of the cake and filling the empty pan with heavy objects (Or use a 9x5-inch board, topped with a weight, such as a six-pack of beer.) Let ripen in refrigerator at least 12 to 16 hours, preferably 24 hours.

To serve: Carefully remove foil. Turn out on serving platter. Slice the rich dessert in thin pieces. Serve with whipped cream on the side, if desired.

Yields 8 to 16 servings.

Bell peppers

By Paul Bensen

Bell peppers are one of the most versatile vegetables. They can star as a main course or play a great supporting role in salads, soups, casseroles and vegetable dishes. Cut in bite-size pieces, they make one of the best crudites. Also known as sweet peppers, they are available any time of year in almost every supermarket in the country.

Members of the Capsicum family, sweet peppers are high in vitamin A and C content, and are widely believed to have anti-bacterial properties. Stems and seeds should always be removed and discarded before peppers are added to recipes.

My recipes for today include an easy and distinctive first course, Roasted Bell Peppers with Feta Cheese; and an unusual seafood entree, Bell Peppers with Seafood and Herbs. Both are especially good when made with red bell peppers.

ROASTED BELL PEPPERS WITH FETA CHEESE

4 bell peppers, roasted (see text, above) — red, if available

8 ounces Feta cheese, crumbled

2 tablespoons good quality olive oil

½ tablespoon minced fresh basil, or ½ teaspoon dried

½ teaspoon dried thyme

Freshly ground black pepper to taste

1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley

2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice

1 medium clove garlic, minced

Do-ahead steps:

1. Roast peppers

2. Mince basil, parsley.

3. Juice lemon.

Total preparation/cooking time: 25 minutes.

Halve peppers and remove seeds, ribs and stems. Reserve juice from peppers. Sprinkle insides of pepper halves evenly with Feta.

With pastry brush, thinly coat bottom of baking pan on oven-proof casserole with olive oil. Add pepper halves and sprinkle evenly with basil, thyme and pepper to taste.

In small bowl, whisk together minced parsley, lemon juice, remaining olive oil, pepper juice and minced garlic. Spoon mixture evenly over pepper halves.

Bake, in preheated 375°F oven, 15 minutes or until Feta is golden brown.

Serves 4 as a first course.

BELL PEPPERS WITH SEAFOOD AND HERBS

4 bell peppers (red, if available)
3 tablespoons olive oil
½ cup minced scallions (including half the greens)
1 tablespoon minced garlic
½ cup minced fresh parsley
2 stalks celery, chopped
½ teaspoon dried basil
½ cup dry white wine
½ pound shrimp, peeled, deveined and cut in ½-inch pieces
4 ounces scallops, cut in ½-inch pieces
6 ounces crabmeat (fresh or frozen), picked over and shredded
1 cup freshly made bread crumbs
½ cup grated Swiss cheese

Do-ahead steps:

- Cook peppers.
- Make bread crumbs.
- Grate cheese.
- Chop celery and scallions, and reserve in plastic bags.

Total preparation/cooking time: 30 minutes.

Cut tops off peppers and reserve. Rinse out pepper shells, removing seeds and ribs. Cook pepper shells in boiling water with a bit of salt and olive oil for 6-8 minutes, until they begin to soften. Remove from water and drain.

Meanwhile, remove stems from reserved pepper tops and finely chop tops. In large heavy frying pan, heat olive oil over medium heat and add pepper tops. Sauté 1 minute and add scallions, garlic, parsley, celery and basil. Continue to sauté until garlic and scallions soften and just begin to brown.

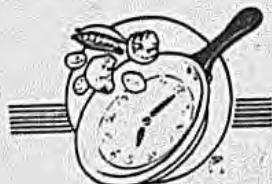

Stir in wine and add shrimp, scallops and crabmeat and cook, stirring, until shrimp are pink and firm - about 2 minutes.

Pour mixture into heatproof bowl, add bread crumbs, cheese, Prosciutto (optional), salt and pepper; mix together well.

Stuff pepper shells with mixture, place in baking dish with ¼ inch of water and bake in preheated 350°F oven for 20 minutes.

Serves 4.

NOTE: If scallops are not available, substitute an additional 4 ounces shrimp.

MICROWAVE MAGIC

By Desiree Vives

No food is more closely associated with Easter than the egg. Like the tree at Christmas and the turkey at Thanksgiving, Easter just wouldn't be the same without eggs.

Why eggs? Because they symbolize new life. Long before the Christian era, Egyptians, Greeks and Romans exchanged eggs during their annual spring festivals. The egg was also an important symbol on the Passover tables of ancient Hebrews.

What more appropriate dish could you serve on Easter Sunday than one prepared with eggs? Besides being the symbol of Christ's rebirth and the coming of spring, eggs provide the highest-quality protein known to man, and are second only to mother's milk in the essential amino acids.

Following are a few microwave recipes to help you celebrate a happy, egg-citing Easter:

EASTER SUNDAY BREAKFAST BAKE

1 (12-ounce) package seasoned bulk pork sausage
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup sliced fresh mushrooms
8 eggs
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon each pepper and paprika
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
Fresh parsley sprigs

Preparation Time: 10 minutes
Cooking Time: 18 to 26 minutes
(plus 5 minutes standing time)

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power); MEDIUM (50 percent power)

Crumble sausage into 10-inch microwave browning skillet (do not preheat). Add onion and green pepper. Cover and microwave on HIGH setting 3 to 6 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes, until meat is no longer pink. Drain off fat, then break up meat with back of spoon and spread evenly over bottom of skillet. Top with even layer of sliced mushrooms. Set aside.

In 2-quart glass container combine eggs, milk, salt, pepper and paprika. Beat well. Microwave, uncovered, at MEDIUM setting 5 to 8 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes, until eggs are just set and still very moist. Stir in shredded cheeses and pour over sausage.

Microwave, covered, at MEDIUM setting 10 to 12 minutes, rotating dish one-quarter turn every 4 minutes, until center is set. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving. Garnish with fresh parsley sprigs.

Serves 4 to 6.

MICROWAVE HUEVOS RANCHEROS

½ cup vegetable oil
½ cup diced onion
½ cup diced green pepper
1 (28-ounce) can whole tomatoes, drained
1 (3-ounce) can diced mild green chilies, drained
½ teaspoon pepper
6 eggs
1 cup shredded mild cheddar cheese
6 warmed corn tortillas
Mexican-style salsa (optional)

Preparation Time: 10 minutes
Cooking Time: 14 to 19 minutes
(plus 5 minutes standing time)
Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Combine oil, onion, and green pepper in 13x9x2-inch glass baking dish. Microwave 5 to 7 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes, until onion is translucent and green pepper is just tender.

Add drained tomatoes, mashing up with fork. Stir in green chilies and pepper. Cover and microwave 5 minutes, stirring after 3 minutes.

Break eggs over tomato mixture along edge of dish. With toothpick, pierce each egg yolk twice and each white 3 times. Cover dish with plastic wrap and microwave 4 to 7 minutes, or until eggs are done to taste. Sprinkle with cheese, replace cover, and let stand 5 minutes. Serve over warmed corn tortillas and top with a spoonful of Mexican-style salsa, if desired.

Serves 3 to 6.

MUSHROOM EGGS DIVAN

6 eggs, lightly beaten
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup sliced green onion
1 (10½-ounce) can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1 cup broccoli flowerets, broken into small pieces
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon onion powder
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
½ cup shredded Monterey Jack or Swiss cheese

Preparation Time: 5 minutes
Cooking Time: 6 to 8 minutes
(plus 3 minutes standing time)

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Combine all ingredients except pimiento and cheese in 1½-quart glass casserole. Cover and microwave 6 to 8 minutes, stirring every 3 minutes, until set but still moist.

Sil in pimiento and top with shredded cheese. Let stand, covered, 3 minutes before serving over toast points.

Serves 4.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

Q: My 8-year-old garage floor has a white snowlike fuzz during damp winter months that grows from day to day after sweeping. Any suggestions on ways to prevent this condition? — S.D.

A: This is a condition called efflorescence, a term that generally refers to a white, powdery substance sometimes seen on masonry surfaces. It is composed of one or more water-soluble salts originally present in masonry materials that have been brought to the surface by water and deposited on the surface by the evaporation of water.

It can frequently be removed by water applied with a stiff scrubbing brush. In those cases where this procedure does not remove all the efflorescence, the surface should be scrubbed with a solution of muriatic (hydrochloric) acid not stronger than one part of the commercial acid to nine parts of water by volume.

Before applying this acid solution be sure that you thoroughly soak the affected area with clear water. Use caution when working with the acid. Be sure that you pour the acid into the water rather than water into the acid. Wear rubber gloves, goggles and old clothes for protection.

After applying the acid solution and scrubbing the area with a stiff brush, thoroughly rinse with clear water. Let the areas dry thoroughly and apply a quality masonry sealer to the surface to help prevent reoccurrence. To further correct the problem, check drains to assure that water flows away from the foundation.

Q: How can I measure or estimate heat transfer through glass in order to guess at the cost effectiveness of improvements?

For example, I have a large glass sliding door on one level, another in a semi-finished basement. I am trying to decide whether to buy expensive storm doors. — T.G.B.

A: Glass is a poor insulating material and easily transfers both cold during winter months and heat on warm sunny days. For more exacting statistics on heat loss for your climate zone, contact your local gas/electric utility.

Most utilities have a conservation department that can provide excellent analysis for your problem into the metal door's rough opening. There also are high-performance insulating glass products on the market that are energy efficient.

The Andersen Co. manufactures a double-pane insulating glass that has a microscopic thin coating permanently bonded between the panes. This prevents radiant heat from escaping outdoors during winter months. And in summer it prevents most of the unwanted radiant heat from getting inside.

They also manufacture an insulating glass developed expressly for use in hot climate areas. By using a slightly tinted outer pane along with the special coating described above, it provides a very efficient protection from the outdoor heat.

Q: I would appreciate your advising if there is any product that will clean and shine pressed wood kitchen cabinets. I have tried many products and none seems to take off greasy films and fingerprints. Anything you can suggest would be appreciated. — D.M.G.

A: Wiping the surface lightly with naphtha may be the answer to your problem. This often removes stubborn grease and smoke stains. However, you should test a small area first to make sure that it does not damage the surface finish.

Another method is to use a solution of baking soda, 3 tablespoons mixed with 1 gallon of water. Use this solution with a sponge and go over the surface lightly, being careful not to leave an excessive amount of moisture on the wood surface.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I used to sing in the church choir but I decided to quit because I really don't have a good singing voice. In fact, some of the choir members said it would be better for the choir if I quit.

Because I quit (actually I feel better that I did) my mother has put me on restriction even though I am a "good" daughter and get excellent grades in school. Also, I enjoy my church very much and take an active part in everything except choir.

I am honest when I say I really can't carry a tune. What can I do to convince my mother that I did nothing wrong and that I don't need to be grounded? — Laurie

Laurie: Have a chat with the choir director and have this person explain that the choir improved the day you decided to retire. I agree — you did nothing wrong — therefore, no punishment is necessary.

Dr. Wallace: Brian and I are dating but we are not going steady and we do have a problem. Brian thinks that he can flirt with any girl he chooses but if a guy starts to hit on me, then he "blows" his mind.

What can I do to get Brian to stop flirting? I really do care for him. — Bev

Bev: You have two choices. First, tell him that if he continues to flirt, he had better be good at it because he is "ancient history" as far as you are concerned. Next, when he is flirting, just smile — at every guy who looks your way.

Dr. Wallace: I know there is controversy regarding adoptive children looking for their birth parents. I am a teenage girl. I also am a mother who gave her baby son up for adoption because I was too young and too poor to keep him.

I know his adoptive parents will love him and he will love them, but someday, when he is a young adult, I hope he will find me and we can share a love that only a birth mother and son can share.

I gave my son away to be loved and reared by a loving couple. I did it for love and I still will love him until the day I die. — Teen Mom

Teen Mom: I know your love for your son is a strong part of your life and someday I hope your wish comes true, but all teen moms don't share your views. Please read the following letter.

Dr. Wallace: I read in your column sometime back where an adoptive teen was trying to find her birth mother and she wondered if her birth mother wanted to see her.

When I was 16 I had a son and I wasn't married. I went to a Catholic "home" and was given the best of care. When my baby was born he was given to a married couple who promised to raise him in the Catholic faith.

I am now married and the mother of three daughters. My husband knows about my son but we decided it was in the family's best interest not to inform the girls about their adopted "brother."

I know that God is looking after this boy, but in reality he is their son (adoptive parents), not mine. They deserve all of his love and affection. They earned it. I did nothing but create life for their son.

Needless to say, I would not want this boy to try to find me. He would be a stranger to me. Instead of wasting his time searching for a birth mother, he should devote his strength and energy giving joy and contentment to his real, true parents.

I don't mean to sound heartless, just honest. I want what is best for him and me, and that is never meeting in this life. — Mom

Dr. Wallace: It seems that all one ever reads about in the newspaper is the glamour drug cocaine and a different form of cocaine — crack.

Our class was discussing the use of heroin and no one seemed to know much about this drug, except that it is highly addictive. Is heroin still a major factor in illegal drug abuse? Is it always injected? — Joann

Joann: Heroin, indeed, is among the most addictive illegal drugs. It's a powder, usually white, but sometimes gray or beige, that is either injected directly into a vein or snuffed.

The drug affects the central nervous system, reduces the ability to feel pain, and causes drowsiness. The initial effect of heroin is intense pleasure, followed by a much longer period of relaxed drowsiness. These effects wear off after just a few hours. The addict's body becomes dependent on the drug and he or she becomes desperate for another injection.

The risks of heroin addiction are great: physical neglect, infection and disease from dirty needles, accidental overdose and inability to support the habit, possibly resulting in crime.

Presently, there are estimated over a half-million heroin addicts in the United States and Canada. But the vast majority live in the United States.

Can I will half of my property to my son?

By Leonard J. Hansen

Q: Could I will half of my property to my son? My husband and I own the property and he is his stepson. My son has invested quite a bit of money in the property and I would like to protect his investment. Your advice? — L.D.

A: When drawing a will you can determine the disposition of any and all property. That is the purpose of the will. And it is the one sure way to assure the protection of your son's interests.

You should also consider talking to your attorney now about a will, asking, too, about whether it would be better to use a trust arrangement to effect the transfer or whether you should transfer part of the title now.

If part of the title is transferred now, it can be done, effectively recognizing your son's investment. For his tax purposes later, this might be advantageous. And the transfer of partial title now might make the settlement of any estate go more easily. If you do not plan to sell the house yourselves — to gain the $125,000 capital gains exclusion — you might find the early title transfer beneficial.

Your attorney can brief you on your opportunities and alternatives — particularly if you share some of the thoughts presented above. When you visit the attorney, have ready for him an itemization and valuation of whatever you consider your estate — as the overall value of the estate to any heirs will be pertinent, particularly for tax reasons.

I commend your question now, so that by proper planning you may assure what you want to happen today and tomorrow.

Q: I am 71 and considering marriage. Will this affect my Social Security benefits or the Social Security benefits of my future husband? — M.O.B.

A: Prior to 1982 your benefits when marrying as a senior citizen could have been reduced. Considering this, many senior citizens, for economic reasons, opted to just move in with each other.

In special legislation the "living in sin" (that's what the assumption was in the corrective measure debate) need was removed.

Today in your marriage, your benefits and your future husband's benefits will not be reduced, but just might be increased in the combination. If married after the death of a spouse on whose account your benefits are established in your local area, contact your county dental association or the local office of the state dental association. They can provide the names of two or three dentists in your area you might visit and interview regarding the procedure, its cost, its possibilities and prognosis of effectiveness for you.

Backyard Gardener

Some good books on the cherished fruit garden

By Patrick Denton

Home gardeners who enjoy growing their own fruits and berries may be interested in some of the more recently published books on the culture and enjoyment of these plants.

A very complete background and guide to 13 of the most popular fruits and berries is "Backyard Fruits and Berries" by Diane E. Bilderback and Dorothy Hinshaw Patent (Rodale Press; 300 pages; 93 illustrations; hardcover, $17.95).

The authors are veteran organic gardeners who have answered in their book the many questions that commonly arise among home gardeners struggling to understand and enjoy the workings of their cherished fruit gardens.

Explained, for example, are such things as how the plant, vine, cane, bush or tree grows, how its flowers are pollinated and how the fruits and berries form. Complete and clear guidelines are given to the planting care, common problems, harvesting and storing of each fruit and berry.

"Backyard Fruits and Berries" gets right down to basics. Nothing in this book will leave a novice fruit gardener puzzled. People thinking about establishing a strawberry bed, for example, are advised to sit down and decide just what sort of planting and renewal system they want to use before rushing out and buying plants. The growth habits and average life span of a strawberry plant are clearly explained. And various planting and training systems are simply described and illustrated.

Clear and simple as well is the book's plain and direct treatment of pruning fruit trees. Explained in detail are the when, why and how of pruning cuts. Especially interesting are the descriptions of what actually happens within the tree when a gardener makes a pruning cut.

An excellent paperback manual for growing berries is "The Berry Book" by Robert Hendrickson, a professional writer whose avocation is gardening. This is a Ballantine book, with 339 pages. The latest price I have on it is $3.95.

"The Berry Book" is a handy source of information on the care of all the popular berries. The strawberry chapters include the intriguing history of this popular berry as well as complete planting and care instructions. Of great use to many home gardeners will be the author's sections on growing strawberries in various types of containers and the cultivation of alpine strawberries.

Another feature of his berry book that I find most useful is its comprehensive treatment of insect pests and disease that commonly afflict each type of berry plant. References like these are a great help in identifying problems that arise among our homegrown berry plantings. Another attraction in the book is the group of recipes that concludes each section.

Still with the berries, we come to Garden Way's "Simply Strawberries" by Sara Pitzer (123 pages; softcover; $6.95). Principally a strawberry cookbook, this attractive publication begins with personal family memories of this well-loved berry, and helpful guidelines to the selecting and picking, caring for and freezing of strawberries. The author gives six different methods for freezing the berries, and offers some ideas for using the frozen strawberries.

There are recipes here for strawberries in soups and salads, drinks and preserves, desserts and light entrees, like strawberry blintzes. The author also describes some delicious ways of serving whole fresh strawberries — coated in chocolate, for example, or served with brown sugar and sour cream for dipping.

"Simply Strawberries" concludes with a chapter on growing the berries, including an authoritative section on container culture, and a history of the strawberry. A fitting end to this celebration of the strawberry comes with a quotation from Isaac Walton's "The Compleat Angler" — "Doubtless God could have made a better berry, but doubtless God never did."

MEDIA ROOM — High-gloss paint and minimal furniture give this small space a contemporary make-over as a media room.

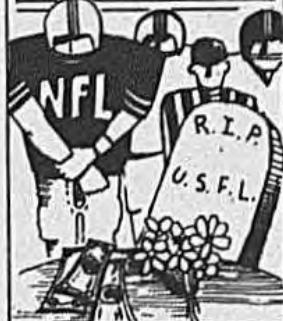

BENCHWARMER'S SPORTS TRIVIA

Q Name the boxing world's youngest heavyweight champion.

A Mike Tyson was only 20 when he became the WBC champ in 1986.

Q The USFL filed a $1.7 billion antitrust suit against the NFL in 1986. What was the result?

A The USFL was awarded $3 million by the NFL in 1986.

Spare room gets high-tech, low-budget treatment

Q: I have a tiny spare bedroom that I use as a TV/guestroom.

It has a plain white sofa bed and the TV, VCR and stereo sit on some recessed shelves in the opposite wall. There's not really room for much else but the room doesn't have much character.

How can I make it look like a media room instead of a spare room? — G.S.

A: Since this is a room that is mainly intended to be used at night or in the dark, I wouldn't spend a lot of time and energy trying to make it look bigger than it is. What it really needs is some dramatic impact.

I would be tempted to add flush doors over those open shelves to hide the clutter and give the room a good clean line. Then, why not paint everything in sight (walls, ceiling, shelves, radiator) a high gloss black (or red or ...)?

If there are windows, get some kind of shades or blinds in the same color that will entirely block out light. Remember, your focus is the media so the room should function as a more comfortable container for the main event.

Because the space is so small, I would not add any other furnishings except for two little cocktail tables or a small-scale "invisible" glass or acrylic coffee table.

Since the concept of a media room is basically cavelike anyway, dark bold colors are quite appropriate. And the only other absolute requirement is a comfy place to curl up.

Q: My family recently moved into a 70-year-old farmhouse with five bedrooms, four of which have low, sloping ceilings.

We want to create some excitement without giving up the "countryish" atmosphere we like. Any ideas? — D.J.

A: If I were you, I would treasure those ceilings as a real bonus for the look you are after. You can make the rooms exciting by playing them up.

Since I don't have any details about the shape or angle of the slope, location of windows, etc., here are several general ideas to consider:

- By painting the ceiling a light contrasting color from the walls you raise it visually and accentuate its lines.

- Conversely, you can create a dramatic cozy effect by using a one-color scheme in which the walls, ceiling, floor and furnishings are the same strong color. This also can be accomplished with pattern if you use the same wallpaper and matching fabric throughout the room.

- Add to the ceiling's country look by covering it in tongue-and-groove siding in a natural pine or painted with a white wash.

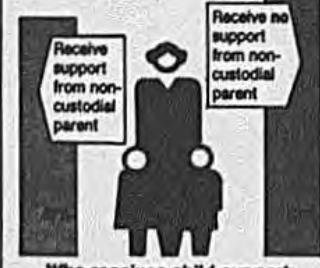

- Stencil a border in a country motif around the top of the wall where it meets the ceiling.

- Fool the eye by painting the ceiling a light blue and adding white-painted lattice over it.

Single parents and child support

Single-parent households (mostly headed by mothers) get by on half the average income of two-parent families. Many report problems in receiving needed child support.

Who receives child support:

The Wisconsin plan:
Mandatory child support will be withheld from the non-custodial parent's paycheck starting July 1 in Wisconsin. The Wisconsin support formula is:

 ■ Two children: 25% of gross pay
 ■ Three children: 29% of gross pay

Sheraton influence seen in dressing table design

By James G. McCollam

Q: Please give me your opinion about this mahogany dressing table. I would like to know when it was made and what it might sell for in good condition.

A: Your dressing table was factory-made in the early 20th century. The style was influenced by the Sheraton designs of the early 1800s and it is obviously very fine quality.

Since this is in the traditional manner in style and quality, it would probably be sold by a dealer for $500 to $600.

Q: Please explain something for me. I've heard so many different stories about Delft china that I am thoroughly confused. Some say it is very old, rare and expensive; others say it can be bought quite reasonably.

A: You're not alone. Many people are confused. Basically, Delft is a "type" of ceramics. It was originally made in Delft, Holland, about 300 years ago. It has been copied for about as long. Some Dutch potters migrated to England in the early 18th century and started making Delft-type china. Germany, France and Italy all produced similar wares.

Most of the Delft-type china available today is late 19th century and early 20th century. It sells from $25 to $150, depending on the quality. Old Delft (200-plus years) sells for about 10 times as much and is very rarely seen.

Q: The enclosed mark is on the back of a plate with a picture of old Philadelphia on the front. It looks like some of the high-priced historical plates that I have seen at antique shows.

What can you tell me about this plate?

A: Rowland and Marsellus were New York importers who used this mark on transfer-printed plates made in various factories in England.

Your plate has sold as high as $50 to $60 in recent years.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q: How is canine parvovirus spread from one dog to another dog? Can humans get parvovirus from dogs? We show our dog frequently and are quite worried about the diseases to which she is exposed.

A: Canine parvovirus infection is a highly contagious disease of dogs. The virus attacks the cells of the intestinal tract, white blood cells and, in some cases, the muscles of the heart. Dogs of all ages and of all breeds are susceptible to parvovirus.

Parvovirus infection in dogs has been diagnosed throughout the entire United States and in many other parts of the world. The disease is thought to be spread by dog-to-dog contact. Therefore, places where dogs congregate, such as dog shows, obedience trials, breeding and boarding kennels, pet shops, humane shelters, veterinary clinics and parks and playgrounds are places where the spread of the virus may commonly occur.

Dogs that are confined to one house or yard and that are rarely in contact with other dogs are far less likely to be exposed to the virus. The fecal waste of infected dogs usually contains large amounts of infective virus. The virus is resistant to environmental extremes and can therefore survive for long periods in the dog's surroundings.

The virus is readily transmitted from place to place on the hair or feet of infected dogs. Humans and other animals, other than dogs, are not susceptible to canine parvovirus. You should not allow your dog to come into contact with fecal wastes of other dogs and you should have your dog vaccinated against canine parvovirus.

Q: What are the signs of canine

Treatment of this disease is primarily aimed at combating the severe dehydration. The infected dog is given intravenous fluids and electrolytes. Drugs are also administered to halt the diarrhea and vomiting. Antibiotics are often given to prevent secondary bacterial infections.

Canine parvovirus is a serious disease and prompt treatment by a veterinarian should be obtained. All dogs that are allowed contact with other dogs should be vaccinated for canine parvovirus. Your veterinarian can recommend the best vaccination schedule for your dog.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

This is the first week of April, the fourth month of the calendar year. The word "April" has an interesting origin. It comes from a Latin word meaning "to open."

What is it that opens during the month of April? Of course, it is the buds. All winter long plants and trees (except for evergreens) have been bare, and now suddenly buds begin to open on their branches and before long green leaves appear. Nature reawakens after her long winter sleep and it is finally spring!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Alison Kenny and Rob Andrews.
