Amer. Concert Band To Play 'Under Stars'

A performance by the American Concert Band will highlight the third week of "Music Under the Stars" for Bethpage Community Park District residents, according to Town Councilman Douglas J. Hynes.

The program will be held at the Community Park on Thursday, July 30, beginning at 8:15 p.m. In the event of rain, the performance will take place in the auditorium of Bethpage High School, Cherry and Stewart Avenues.

"Born in Mallow, County Cork, Ireland, Paddy Noonan came to the United States at the age of 12, and, soon after, began his musical career," Hynes said. "Considered one of the leading proponents of the piano accordion, Noonan, along with his band, has performed at Carnegie Hall, on television and on radio and has been heard worldwide on the Armed Forces Network."

Hynes noted that the program is being sponsored by the Cultural and Performing Arts (CAPA) Division of the Town's Department of Community Services and co-sponsored by the Town of Oyster Bay Arts Council, Inc. and the National Westminster Bank USA.

For children, CAPA will sponsor a play entitled "A Choice for Cinderella" at the park on Wednesday, July 29, at 10:30 a.m. Performed by The Open Stage, the old fairy tale gets updated with new songs and a new message.

For further information, contact CAPA at 795-5943.

"Musical excitement presented with sophistication and spirit has become the hallmark of the American Concert Band," Delligatti said. "Since it was formed in 1972 by Dr. Kirby Jolly, the group has delighted thousands with performances that evoke old time concerts in the park."

Delligatti noted that the program is being sponsored by the Cultural and Performing Arts (CAPA) Division of the Town's Department of Community Services and co-sponsored by the Town of Oyster Bay Arts Council, Inc. and the Nassau County Office of Cultural Development.

For children, CAPA will sponsor a play entitled "A Choice for Cinderella" at the Community Park on Tuesday, July 28, at 10:30 a.m. Performed by The Open Stage, the old fairy tale gets updated with new songs and a new message.

Editor's Notebook

Last week's Hurricane information met with favorable response. Several people called in to compliment the newspaper for printing easy-to-understand information on a topic that has been a question on people's minds for some time. Here is the second of a part series:

The list of names for the 1987 hurricane season is as follows: Arlene, Bret, Cindy, Dennis, Emily, Floyd, Gert, Harvey, Irene, Jose, Katrina, Lenny, Maria, Nate, Ophelia, Philippe, Rita, Stan, Tammy, Vince, Wilma.

The practice of naming hurricanes only after women, which started in 1963, ended in 1978 when men's names were added to the Eastern North Pacific Storm list. In 1979, male and female names were included on the remaining area lists.

The letters, Q, U, X, Y and Z are not included due to the scarcity of names beginning with those letters. Names for these storms have an "international flavor" because hurricanes are tracked by and affect other nations besides the United States. Names for the storms are selected from library sources and are agreed upon during international meetings of the World Meteorological Organization, and are not chosen for particular individuals.

The National Weather Service categorizes hurricanes by intensity on a scale of 1-5 with a "category 1" being a minimal hurricane and "category 5" being the worst possible hurricane.

Two common classifications for hurricanes are:

Major Hurricane: A hurricane with maximum winds of 111-135 mph.

Extreme Hurricane: A hurricane with maximum winds in excess of 136 mph.

For further information on this topic, contact Thom Lippman at 535-7524.

While Contra investigators in Washington say they are looking for a "smoking gun," smoking of a different kind is causing unrest here. County has passed a change in restaurant smoking rules which will be necessary for restaurants to have 75% of the space set aside for smokers starting the first of next year and the LIRR is awaiting word to see if smoking cars will have to be banned by the railroad in order to receive federal funds....THE TOWN is paying a fine of $1,000 to the federal Environmental Protection Agency for violations in the past at the Old Bethpage incinerator....THE COST of private parking may go up by one third if the Town increases the charge for parking at the Old Bethpage landfill on Nov. 1....EVEN though today was one of the hottest days so far this year LILCO got through without trouble. The usage was 3,360 megawatts. The all time high is 41 and that would spell trouble like brownouts....THE CRIME REPORT is published as a public service to alert residents of where crime is taking place in the area and as an aid in the Neighborhood Watch program. Anyone seeing suspicious activity should phone 911: BURGLARS broke into the Rosinsky residence 146 Main Parkway East, Plainview on July 7 but no loss was reported....A VCR was stolen from the Sieber home 11 Po Lane, Hicksville on July 9....THE BBS is unknown at the Friedman residence 430 S. Marginal Rd., Jericho. Burglars broke in on July 10....BURGLARS broke into the co-sock residence, 9 Edward Ave., Syosset on July 10. No loss was reported....A VCR and stereo equipment were stolen from a house at 45 Marginal Rd. Jericho on July 11....TELEPHONE equipment and an answering machine were stolen from the Dorn residence 146 Main Parkway, Plainview on July 14....$300 was reported stolen in a break-in at Lessing, Inc., Washington Ave., Plainview on July 15....BURGLARS broke into Harbor Distributing Co. 100 Cantague Ln., Hicksville on July 12. They stole $875....That's all the news for now...G.T.

Letters

To The Editor:

Gabby Tabby's comments about the town freezing salaries really made me decide to write about a real concern I have had for some time.

I can't understand why Ms. Fenton not only gets such a large salary, but also a large increase when we haven't seen any upward changes in scholarships, etc. All we get is more changes, more surveys and promises. If the taxpayers were not paying the bill, she would have had to show tangible results, not promises, and more surveys at our expense.

It is obvious the School Board knows how to spend money, but does not know how to measure results against expenditures. It is the first time I ever saw the town pull in its horns and perhaps our School Board can learn from them for a change.

At Adelphi, You'll Meet Influential People Who Can Help You Throughout Your Life.

There's a tendency these days for certain colleges to sound more like vocational schools.

We don't believe that's wise. Or that confining higher education to short-term career needs is practical or prudent anymore.

Consider this:

The U.S. Department of Labor estimates that people of college age today may switch careers three or more times in the years ahead.

Consider, too, that rapid changes in technology and in the practice of every profession make future job requirements in many fields hard to foresee.

Besides, at Adelphi we don't want to prepare you just for your first, entry-level job. We want to educate you for leadership, and for life.

That's why we've taken an imaginative new approach to the whole idea of higher learning. Learning that's rooted in 2500 years of academic tradition. Learning that draws on the creative powers of today's faculty.

As an Adelphian, you'll pursue a well-integrated course of study that combines programs in the liberal arts and sciences with forward-looking education for the professions.

Instead of a narrow curriculum embracing little beyond a preparatory major field, you'll grapple with the fundamental elements of thought and knowledge.

In the process, you'll discover the qualities of character and intellect that distinguish enlightened leaders.

You'll awaken to the potential of your own mind, and learn to cultivate its powers of reasoning, analysis, and creativity. That's what we mean by a commitment to the intellect. It's what makes this university distinctive and distinctively different.

Join us. Because it may take the wisdom of the past 25 centuries just to survive in the next one.

The Navy Has $50,000 To Help Pay For Your Education

A Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps (NROTC) scholarship pays for tuition, fees and books at over 60 colleges and universities across the nation, and provides a tax-free allowance of $125 a month for up to 40 months. So if you qualify for an NROTC 4 year scholarship, you could receive $50,000 or more to help you get the kind of college education you want.

Competition for NROTC scholarships is based solely on academic ability and demonstrated leadership potential, not on your family's financial situation. After graduation, you'll immediately move into a responsible, decision-making position as a Navy Officer. CALL COLLECT 516-683-2513

TOB Hearing Set For August

The Oyster Bay Town Board has scheduled a hearing to consider amending the section of the Building Zone Ordinance of the Code of Ordinances, according to Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond.

"The August 4 public hearing has been scheduled to consider amending Section 16, 'Non-Conforming Use' of Appendix A (Building Zone Ordinance) by deleting the section in its entirety and adding a new Section 16," Diamond said. "The new section will require gas stations which existed prior to the adoption of the aforesaid ordinance (January 27, 1953) and are in a 'F' business district, to apply to the Town Board for a Special Use Permit to make structural or substantial alterations."

The hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday, August 4, 1987 at 10 a.m. in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Most Callers Think Court Selection Okay

Most callers to input believe that the present system of selecting Supreme Court judges is good in answer to this question: "Do you believe that under the present system of the President picking and Congress approving or disapproving that we can find impartial judges for the Supreme Court?" Here are some of the answers:

LEADERSHIP

Yes. We can find good Supreme Court judges under the present system but it will take strong Presidential leadership to get the candidates into the court. Presently, many politicians are exerting as much power as they can to find a Supreme Court justice with their ideology, but only the President can do the actual naming of candidates. This means that there has to be a meeting of the minds and even though some politicians would like their own people on the court, they have to settle on a candidate from the other side. This adds balance. M.E.

NOT POLITICAL?

It is downright foolish the way things are going. We claim that the Supreme Court is not a political body and we look to them for wise decisions, yet both sides want to stack the court with people who would not decide the issue on the merits of the case but on their own ideology. There is not much faith in the Supreme Court being above politics even by the people who pick the justices. N.W.

WORKING SYSTEM

The present system has worked better than expected. Earl Warren was supposed to be a conservative until he became the Chief Justice. Then, he was quite liberal. Justice Black had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan but he became one of the most liberal Justices on the court. So things do not always work according to plan. K.W.

BETTER SCREENING

The present system makes the President scrutinize candidates before he presents them and it is necessary to look over a large field to find someone who can stand up to the selection process. This is not a bad idea because it means that political cronies are usually not picked and there is a great amount of time spent on getting better candidates. N.R.

MORE STATESMANSHIP

It seems a shame that after a President is picked by the majority of people that he is stopped from picking justices that agree with this mandate from the people. There should be less politics and more statesmanship in Congress. L.W.

COMPLAINING

It is hard to come up with a better system of picking justices for the Supreme Court than the one we have now. The power is shared between the President and Congress and neither one can just put through someone who has no qualifications for the job. It seems that a great deal of complaining is going on but that is also part of the American system. E.W.

POOR SYSTEM

I think that the present system is very poor. Instead of Congress worrying that we might not have judges who can put themselves above ideology and view the cases in an impartial manner, they are deliberately seeking to get someone on the court who will make either liberal or conservative decisions and this is not really the reason we have a Supreme Court. The system should be changed. G.D.

PUBLIC CHOICE

The public should decide who they want on the Supreme Court. The President picks someone who is known to be conservative and then Congress finds fault with his choice. This causes lots of arguments and disagreements. It should be left to the public to decide. The President can nominate but the final voice would be the people.

BEST WAY

I think the present system of the President picking and Congress approving or disapproving impartial justices for the Supreme Court is the best way it should be done. This provides for a system of checks and balances. We are a nation that abides by the Constitution that is now 200 years old and this is what the Constitution provides for. Over the years, this system has allowed us to pick the best type of Supreme Court justices. If Congress didn't have the right to check the President, the President could appoint anyone, even the most partisan judge. J.K.M.

KEEP PRESENT SYSTEM

I don't believe that we will ever find, under any system, impartial judges for the Supreme Court. Needless to say, any appointments under a sitting President would be structured around the basic principles which he, and generally his party, endorses. If that President has any stature at all, he will certainly try to choose a candidate whose qualifications are so impregnable that he or she could withstand the efforts of any opposition party to reject the appointment. I believe that, in the past, candidates who have been approved by the Congress have not always necessarily followed their anticipated philosophical bent much to everyone's surprise. But, I believe that any appointee who has followed a lifetime career in law and interpretation of that law under close public scrutiny and who has not engendered severe criticism in the process should be able to resist the perils of the present system which has withstood major efforts in the past to make basis changes such as court-packing legislation proposed by F.D.R. designed to liberalize the Supreme Court which was defeated by the Senate. And, I think wisely so, especially in light of the fact that we survived eight Roosevelt appointees without such legislation and on the basis of objective analyses of the candidates on their own merits and proven records. My answer is that, in my judgement, the present system for appointing judges to the Supreme Court recognizes human frailties but still enables us to appoint candidates who make their decisions intelligently, objectively and in the best interests of the nation as their analyses of all the facts would indicate. P.G.S.

A Student's Impression Of The Soviet Union

By Jean Carey

Led by Dr. John Lindell of the Political Science Department, twenty-five Hartwick students journeyed to the Soviet Union this January term. At first our requests were quite extravagant. What did we miss? Pizza with everything on it, Frikke with everything on it, good airplane food, like we had been served on our Finnair flight from New York to Helsinki. But as time in the Soviet Union passed, our requests began to ring with simplicity and by the third week, we were wishing for a meal which didn't include greasy potatoes, a glass of tap water, which we could drink, and a ride in an airplane which had been designed with the assumption that people would bring their knees along. But now, looking back, the month went by very quickly, and it was a month which none of us would ever trade. We had the opportunity to see a side of the world in which most people only get to read about.

There were seven Soviet cities on our itinerary. Our first stop was Moscow, capital city and location of the -40 degree nights. The heart of Moscow is Red Square. We visited it like true Moscovites, our hats on and our coats turned up against the cold. We enjoyed elements of pictures of the eastern docks of St. Paul's Cathedral which stood out rhythmic against the black winter sky.

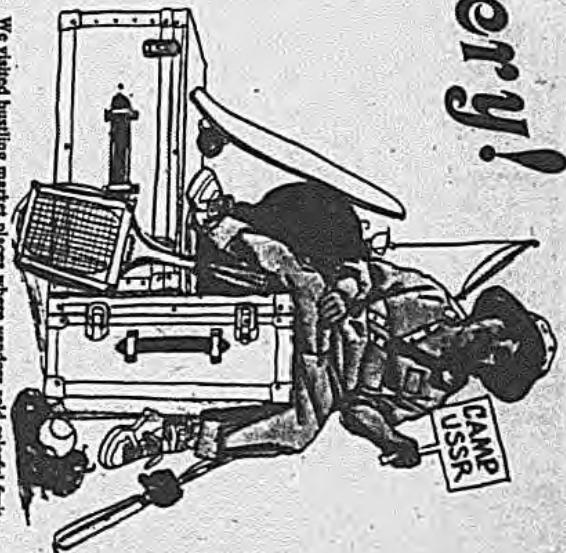

In Moscow we got our first glimpses of Communist party propaganda. There were posters with party slogans plastered onto the sides of buildings, frequent paintings of Lenin and Marx, and the pearl laden gowns of Catherine the Great, and the gold and jewel studded carriages built for the Czars but never used. As we walked around the Arseny, being chased by babushkas who didn't want us to take pictures, someone remarked, "No wonder they west Communists." The Czars had possessed such wealth, and the great masses of people such poverty.

In Moscow we had the chance to meet with two professors from Moscow University. They both were fluent in English and answered our questions frankly, and in great detail. One idea that they tried to get across to us, an idea that many Soviets tried to get across to us, was the devastating effect that World War II had on their nation. One of the professors told us that the United States does not know war like the Soviet Union does. By losing 20 million men in the war, she said that all Soviets now had an innate hatred of war. She seemed to downplay Afghanistan a bit, but her point about World War II was based on hard facts, and made us all stop and think.

Many things made us stop and think while we were in the Soviet Union. At one school we visited, a fifteen year old told us that he had read that in American schools, pictures were given maps which didn't show the USSR, that the spaces where the USSR should be was all just whited out. We had enough time conducting this young Soviet interviewee. He kept on calling President Reagan a capitalist, and he blamed us for the misrepresentation in "Rambo" and "Rocky IV."

People often carelessly refer to the USSR as "Russia," and it is sometimes easy to forget that the Soviet Union is a union of 15 "autonomous" republics of which Russia is only one. We spent the second part of our trip in the Central Asian Republic of Uzbekistan. When we got off our Aeroflot flight from Moscow to Samarkand - the first city we visited in Uzbekistan - we felt like we were in another world. We not only changed temperature by about 100° (-40 to almost 60), and time zones, but we had left Russia behind for a place where they spoke a different language, practiced a different religion (Buddhism), ate different food (lamb, lamb and lamb) and where the people were about three shades darker than their Russian counterparts.

Only about 60 Americans travel to Central Asia each year, and none of them usually do the "trifles." By visiting the cities of Samarkand, Bukhara, and Tashkend on our trip, we became some of the only people in the United States to see real native Central Asia. At times the trip got very difficult, because accommodations were a little sub-standard, especially if you consider today paper a standard. But the Uzbek people made it all bearable. They were alive and friendly, adorned in brightly colored clothes and forever smiling at us with their gold-toothed smiles.

We visited bustling market places where vendors sold colorful fruit and vegetables, flowers, spices and nuts. We visited mosques and minarets, and at one mosque there was a legend that if you walked around it three times, your wish would be granted. We walked, and we wished that the building would turn into a Burger King, but it remained unchanged; so we walked away disappointed, back to another meal which would inevitably contain the dreaded lamb-chops.

In Central Asia we visited collective farms, factories, a Lenin museum, and we had our "Half Way Through" party. We tried to drink vodka like the Soviets did - without anything else - but most of us succumbed to the use of tonic or orange juice as a chaser. During the trip we were confined to the hotel bars almost every night, where we could drink Helsinki beer, and where we had to pay in American dollars. Since Gorbachev's reforms have gone into effect, aimed at decreasing alcoholism, most Soviet bars have been shut down.

We spent more dollars than rubles everywhere we went. The only places we could really get rid of rubles were big department stores and the tourist places. The communist goods are Soviet-standard, though, and not very appealing to American standards. We ended up spending most of our money in the form of dollars. In special shops for foreigners, called "Detmash," there we could buy the very best souvenirs, including the famous Russian vodka and caviar, Matildas, all served in shop in their boxes.

At times it was frustrating to be constantly separated from the Soviet citizens. For the entire month we were taken care of by Intourist, the Russian travel agency. Our tour guide and bus driver took us everywhere, and we never ate in any restaurant other than an Intourist one. Our walking room in the airport was separated from the Soviet walking room, and our confined couches, heat, and a bar, unlike the room for Soviets. We felt this separation unfair and embarrassing, especially one cold snowy evening when a train picked us up and drove us out to our waiting airplane. Standing at the bottom of the airplane steps, in the bitter wind, was a group of Soviets. Our tour guide, however, ushered us right onto the plane, and we hung our heads as we cut ahead of the passengers, who, in their own country, had to wait for foreigners to board first.

The Soviet people were friendly enough, but we had trouble communicating sometimes, considering that most of them could not speak English and none of us could speak Russian. One group we did not have trouble communicating with, however, were the black market traders. From the very first day of our trip, we were approached by young men, who, dressed in American ski jackets, Levi's and L.L. Bean boots, looked like American guys. Leningrad, our last city, was the best place for trading. We set up appointments, and traded everywhere from bus stops, to hotel rooms, to cars, to the traders' own apartments. The traders told us that they wanted anything "Western." We gave them wool sweaters, socks, t-shirts, sweatshirts, and Swatches, and they gave us Soviet flags, military coats, belt buckles and very expensive Russian black lacquer boxes. It was all a very scholastic business, but the traders often wanted to be our friends and practice their English as much as they wanted to make a good deal.

Leningrad was the favorite city for many people in our group. For some it had been Sochi, the resort city on the Black Sea which boasted palm trees and warm weather, and for others it had been Volkograd, home of the famous battle of Stalingrad. But for all, when it came time to pack up and leave Leningrad, we were plagued by mixed feelings. We wanted to get home - we hadn't had any reliable news from home in weeks - yet we would be leaving behind a month of travel that was both eye-opening and fun. Some may have hesitated, but in the end we were all on that Finnair wide-body jet, and we cheered when we hit the ground in New York.

IRISH ATMOSPHERE

I think that many of your readers are Irish or of Irish descent as I am but it doesn't really matter. There is a nice cafe in Bethpage called Kenny's Cafe that has just great food and a lot more.

It has good service and entertainment, folk songs and ballads on Friday and Saturday nights. We went there last week and found the food to be very good and the entertainment to be something special. I think that many of your readers would like to go to this fine place and I bring it to your attention. It is located at 729 South Oyster Bay Road, Bethpage. M.O.D.

GOOD WORDS

A very good friend invited me to lunch at the Maine Maid Inn in Jericho last Friday. I really don't know if I can find enough complimentary words to describe my experiences. First of all the Inn is charming and the decor is very relaxing. The waitress was so sweet. On her recommendation we both ordered the Friday special of Lobster Tail Scampi. It was served with rice or linguini and in addition we received a few shrimp on the rice. For dessert, again on the waitress' suggestion I had chocolate walnut pie which was simply magnificent and my friend had cheese cake ammorata. I admit I had to taste it too and will order that next time I visit the Maine Maid.

NEGATIVE FINDINGS

I feel very frustrated that you don't publish the negative findings of your readers when they visit restaurants advertised in the section, called Reader Ratings. I personally have visited almost all these restaurants and have, on occasion, been terribly disappointed. In school I learned that a negative result was as valid as a positive result. Wouldn't it be nice to know the negative results as well as the positive? Otherwise the concept is really not worth much.

S.D.

EDITOR'S NOTE TO CALLERS:

Individual criticisms of restaurants are sent in memos directly to the restaurant mentioned unless they are recurring discrepancies. Restaurants, consistently not up to standard, will be dropped from listings here.

BETTER AND BETTER

The Davenport Press is an old landmark in Mineola having been, according to the menu, a bank and a printing establishment. The food at this restaurant continues to improve. Although it was good when it opened, they seem to be hitting their stride now with good service and everything else.

We had fine sirloin steaks at that restaurant last week and the potato (baked) and salad were very good. The price is moderate and all in all we felt it was a good experience. H.R.

Q. Sometimes when I go to a restaurant I pick melon as an appetizer. The problem is I am not always sure whether to eat it with a spoon or fork. Which is correct?

A. It is considered proper to eat smaller melons (cantaloupes or muskmelons) with a spoon. But larger melons (honeydews, Persians or casbas) may be eaten with either a spoon or knife and fork, whichever you prefer.

CHARMING DECOR

It takes many ingredients to make for delightful dining. Our party of six felt that we found them all at the newly decorated George Washington Manor in Roslyn. We enjoyed a most delightful Sunday Brunch and were unanimous in saying that it was a happy choice.

The decor is both charming and elegant. The food selection was diversified and exceedingly good. The service was superb. We all agreed it was a delightful way to spend a few hours on a Sunday. We have also been there for dinner and were well pleased. In particular we enjoyed the cozy fireplaces. We heartily endorse this very fine restaurant. D.J.

Q. We are a group of young business women who have lunch together once or twice a month. Since we are coming from many directions, we generally meet at the restaurant. Is it proper for the first person who arrives to be seated, or should she wait for the others?

A. Usually the first arrival waits for the second. They ask to be seated, telling the waiter that others are coming. It would not be practical for everyone to wait in the vestibule until the whole party arrives!

REAL CHINESE

I saw the ad in "Reader Ratings" and went to Lee's Tea Garden in Williston Park and it combines the old fashioned cozy Chinese Restaurant with modern day Cantonese and Szechuan food. It's great. We ordered fried rice, shrimp and the ordinary staple foods and then we graduated to where we had to ask the waiter's help in reading the menu. It was all delicious. Lee's is real Chinese cooking. FIRST RATE

I want to call in and say that the new restaurant Dallas Ribs, located where the Charred Oaks used to be on Jericho Turnpike, New Hyde Park, is a great restaurant. We went there last week and had two of the finest N.Y. cut sirloin steaks that we have ever tasted. The steaks are served with skin fried potatoes and cole slaw. There is a big menu with other items.

We thought the price was about right for first rate prime beef. We also have to comment that the service was very good and of course the decor is the finest.

G.F.

GOOD RESTAURANT

A surprisingly good local restaurant is the Surfside on Hillside Ave. in New Hyde Park. This good sea food restaurant has been discovered by many other people who assemble there on almost any night of the week.

We were there on Thursday and found that their shrimp scampi and red snapper were wonderful. The preparation of the food and the entire look of the restaurant is appetizing. It is of new construction and everything looks spic and span. The food was deliciously cooked and the fish was as fresh as if it were caught a few hours before. This is a very good restaurant.

After Work Gourmet

By Melanie Barnard
and Brooke DeJoy

The medieval earl of Sandwich may lay claim to the name, but his slab of meat between two slices of rough bread that allowed him to eat and continue to gamble at the same time bears only a rudimentary resemblance to today's artistic sandwiches.

The wide range of sandwiches allows for the hearty and sensuous, as well as the delicate and elegantly crafted. We offer one of each. Both are main courses in themselves.

Tuna Sandwich Provençal is reminiscent of summery breezes from the sun-drenched south of France. Fresh tuna is increasingly available across the country and quite different in flavor and texture from the canned variety.

Open-faced sandwiches may have gone the way of the Ladies' Lunch, but we think these palate- and eye-pleasing creations should enjoy a rebirth. Chicken and Asparagus Sandwich with Mustard Mayonnaise is an elegant and lovely presentation perfect for a warm evening. You might want to begin the meal with a cup of gazpacho or chicken broth with a few wispy thin egg noodles floating in it. Gazpacho is easily made using tomato juice as a base and adding chopped raw vegetables and seasonings to taste. The chicken broth begins with good quality canned broth and the noodles are cooked right in the broth. Finish with lemon sherbet topped with sliced strawberries.

No matter how you slice it, sandwiches have come a long way since the infamous earl came up with the idea.

TUNA SANDWICH PROVENÇAL

- 4 (4-ounce) or 2 (8-ounce) long French rolls
- 2 meaty tomatoes, such as beefsteak
- 1 pound fresh tuna, cut in $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch-thick steaks or 2 (6- or 7-ounce) cans tuna, packed in oil
- Freshly ground black pepper
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 clove minced garlic
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 6 tablespoons olive oil
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon dried basil or 2 teaspoons minced fresh basil
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon dried oregano or 2 teaspoons minced fresh oregano
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon hot pepper flakes, or to taste
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sliced or chopped pitted black olives
- 1 teaspoon drained capers
- Salt, if needed
- 8 very thin slices red onion
- 4-6 romaine lettuce leaves

Slice off top third of each French roll. Use your hands to pull out some of soft dough inside top and bottom but be careful to leave crust intact. Core tomatoes and cut in half crosswise. Squeeze gently to remove seeds. Slice tomatoes thinly.

Sprinkle fresh tuna generously with pepper. Heat vegetable oil in large skillet. Sauté tuna over medium-high heat, turning once, for 4-5 minutes until barely pink in center. Remove tuna to bowl and use fork to cut into small hunks. (If using canned tuna, drain, sprinkle with pepper and toss in oil in skillet for 1-2 minutes to heat through. Use slotted spoon to remove to bowl.)

Add garlic to skillet and sauté over low heat for 30 seconds. Add lemon juice and stir to scrape up browned bits clinging to bottom of skillet. Stir in olive oil, basil, oregano, hot pepper flakes, olives and capers. Taste and add salt if needed. Brush insides of French rolls with some of dressing and then gently toss remaining dressing with tuna.

Divide warm tuna mixture among bottom halves of rolls, then layer tomato, onion and lettuce onto tuna. Replace tops of rolls and firmly press sandwiches together.

Serve immediately, and if using larger rolls cut in half on diagonal.

Preparation and cooking time: 25 minutes.

Yield: 4 servings.

CHICKEN AND ASPARAGUS SANDWICH WITH MUSTARD MAYONNAISE

- 16 thin stalks asparagus
- 1 pound thin-sliced chicken or turkey breast fillets
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 3 tablespoons butter
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sliced almonds
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup white wine
- 1 tablespoon coarse-grain or Dijon mustard
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup mayonnaise
- 4 slices white bread

Snip off and discard woody asparagus stems. Cook asparagus in boiling salted water for 3-5 minutes until crisp tender. Drain and keep warm.

While asparagus is cooking, sprinkle chicken with salt and pepper. In a large skillet, sauté chicken in butter over medium high heat for 2-4 minutes until golden and just cooked through. Remove from pan and keep warm.

Add almonds to drippings in pan and sauté 1-2 minutes until golden. Remove with slotted spoon.

Add wine to pan and cook over medium-high heat, stirring to scrape up any browned bits in bottom of skillet, for 2 minutes or until reduced to about 2 tablespoons. Over lowest possible heat, stir in mustard and mayonnaise until well-blended and smooth.

Toast bread and spread thinly with some of mayonnaise sauce. Top each slice with chicken, 4 asparagus spears, remaining mayonnaise sauce and then almonds.

Serve immediately.

Preparation and cooking time: 20 minutes.

Yield: 4 servings.

MICROWAVE MAGIC

By Desiree Vives

Fresh golden summer corn

Summertime: the livin' is easy and fresh ears of golden corn are plentiful. Don't boil away the marvelous flavor of this favorite summer vegetable — microwaving is the best method for perfectly cooked corn that's tender and tasty.

It's fun to microwave whole ears right in the husk. Choose corn with fresh-looking green husks (peel back a little to check kernels). To microwave, remove outer husks leaving inner ones intact. Carefully peel these back, remove silk, and rinse corn under cold running water. Pat off excess water with a paper towel; replace husks and fasten with string. Arrange ears in a circle, spoke-fashion, on oven floor and microwave on HIGH setting (100 percent power) three to five minutes per ear. Rearrange and turn halfway through cooking time.

Four ears of corn will yield about 2 cups of whole kernels (use a sharp knife and cut away from yourself when removing kernels). Today's recipes call for freshly cut whole kernels, but you may substitute frozen.

It's important to cook corn as soon as possible after purchase. Hot summer temperatures cause the sugars in corn to convert quickly into starch, so the sooner you cook it, the more tender and sweet your corn will be. If not using fresh corn immediately, wrap whole unhusked ears in damp paper towels and store in the coldest section of your fridge. Plan to use within two to three days.

CARNIVAL CORN RELISH

- 5 cups fresh whole-kernel corn
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup diced green and red pepper
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped onion
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped celery
- 1 cup water
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup cider vinegar
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
- 3 teaspoons dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon pepper
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon ground turmeric

Preparation Time: 10 to 15 minutes

Cooking Time: 10 to 16 minutes
Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

until mixture comes to a boil, 5 to 7 minutes. Stir in corn mixture, then let stand until cool.

Cover and refrigerate overnight to let flavors blend, stirring once or twice. Serve chilled.

Serves 6 to 10.

MEXICALI CORN

- 2 cups fresh corn kernels
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped onion
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons chopped pi-
- miento or green pepper
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon pepper
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup shredded mild cheddar cheese
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup light cream or half-and-half
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley

Combine corn, onion, butter, pimento, salt and pepper in 1-quart glass baking dish. Cover and microwave 5 to 8 minutes, stirring every 3 minutes, until corn and onion are tender.

Stir in cheese and cream or half-and-half. Cover and microwave 1 minute longer. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving. Sprinkle with chopped parsley just before serving.

Serves 4.

CREAMY CORN CASSEROLE

- 2 cups fresh whole-kernel corn
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup heavy cream
- 1 tablespoon chopped green onion
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon each pepper and garlic salt
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Preparation Time: 5 to 10 minutes

Cooking Time: 9 to 13 minutes (plus 6 minutes standing time)

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power); MEDIUM-LOW (30 percent power)

Combine corn and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water in 1-quart glass casserole. Cover and microwave 4 to 6 minutes on HIGH setting, stirring after 3 minutes, until corn is tender. Drain thoroughly.

Add butter and let stand a minute or so until butter melts. Stir in all remaining ingredients except Parmesan cheese. Cover and microwave at MEDIUM-LOW setting 5 to 7 minutes, stirring every 3 minutes, until heated through.

Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving.

Serves 4.

Find your thrill on blueberry hill

There's nothing quite like the sensation of biting into a blueberry. First there's that slight feeling of resistance, then a burst of flavor as the skin gives way beneath the pressure of your teeth. It's like biting into summer itself, bringing memories of hot, dusty days and berry vines laden with sun-warmed fruit — irresistible to freckle-faced kids and would-be bakers alike.

In those days — as now — everyone had his own idea as to just how they tasted best. For the purist, there was no substitute for berries eaten out of hand or by the bowlful, swimming in milk.

For others, there was nothing so good as blueberries sitting atop, wrapped inside or blended into pastry of one variety or another.

Regardless of where your sentiments lie, you'll be happy to know you can indulge to your heart's content: Blueberries are low in fat, sodium and calories (41 calories per half-cup) and rich in iron and vitamins A and C.

The season is short — July and August are the peak months — but the berries store well, both in the refrigerator (10 to 14 days) and the freezer.

Choose blueberries that are plump and firm with a light, powdery gray-blue color. Berries should not be washed until you're ready to use them.

To freeze, simply overwrap pint baskets with plastic wrap, making sure all the surfaces are completely sealed. Blueberries also can be frozen loosely packed in freezer bags. Do not wash before freezing. Wet berries freeze in a clump. Dry berries freeze separately and pour out like marbles. Defrost only the amount needed; they don't refreeze well.

If you're a purist, you won't need any hints about how to enjoy your blueberry board, but if your taste is more wide-ranging, the recipes that follow are guaranteed to set your mouth to watering.

BLUEBERRY STREUSEL MUFFINS
 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 3 tablespoons sugar
 1 egg, well beaten
 1 cup sour cream
 1/2 cup milk
 1/4 cup oil
 1 1/2 cups fresh or dry-pack frozen blueberries, rinsed and drained
 Streusel topping:
 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
 3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Sift flour with baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat egg with sour cream and milk. Stir in oil. Add liquid all at once to dry ingredients. Stir until just blended. Carefully fold in blueberries. Spoon mixture into greased muffin pans.

Mix brown sugar with flour and cinnamon. Cut butter into mixture until mixture crumbles. Sprinkle mixture over top of muffins. Bake in hot oven (425 F) for 15 to 20 minutes or until topping is deep brown. Remove muffins and cool on a rack. Serve warm or cold.

Yields 10 to 12 muffins.

BLUEBERRY COBBLER
 1 quart fresh or frozen blueberries, rinsed and drained
 1/4 cup granulated sugar
 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
 1 tablespoon granulated sugar
 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 3 tablespoons shortening
 1/2 cup milk
 1 egg

In medium saucepan combine blueberries, 1/4 cup sugar, cornstarch, lemon peel, lemon juice and cinnamon. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture just starts to bubble. Lower heat and simmer about 5 minutes or until mixture has thickened, stirring frequently.

In mixing bowl thoroughly combine flour, sugar, baking powder, orange rind and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. In small bowl combine milk and egg. Beat slightly to combine. Pour all at once into flour mixture and stir just until all flour is moistened.

Transfer hot blueberries to 2-quart baking dish. Drop heaping tablespoons of biscuit dough into fruit. Bake at 400 F 20 to 25 minutes or until biscuits are browned. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream, if desired.

Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

BLUEBERRY TURNOVERS
 2 packages pie crust mix
 1/2 cup finely chopped pecans
 4 teaspoons grated lemon rind
 3 cups fresh or frozen blueberries, rinsed and drained
 48 small sugar cubes
 Additional sugar

Prepare pie crust mix according to package directions, adding pecans and lemon rind to mix before adding water. Knead dough lightly on a floured board. Roll out 1/2 of the dough on a floured board to an oblong 12x18 inches. Cut dough into 24 3-inch squares. Brush squares lightly with water. Top each square with some blueberries and a sugar cube. Fold over opposite corners and seal.

Brush with water and sprinkle with additional sugar. Repeat, using remaining half of the dough.

Place turnovers into freezer containers using foil in between layers. Seal and freeze. When ready to serve, place frozen turnovers on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in preheated hot oven (400 F) for 20 to 25 minutes or until brown. Serve warm or cold.

Yield: 4 dozen.

Note: These turnovers can also be made with 2 cups blueberry pie filling as long as you omit the sugar cubes.

BLUEBERRY SYRUP
 4 cups fresh or frozen blueberries, rinsed and drained
 1 cup honey
 1/4 cup flour
 1 cup water
 Juice of 1 lemon

In a saucepan, combine blueberries, honey and enough water to just cover the berries. Bring berries to a boil and boil 5 minutes.

In a bowl, mix flour with 1 cup water until smooth. Stir mixture into hot berries. Add lemon juice. Serve either hot or cold.

BLUEBERRY CREPES
 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 8 eggs
 2 1/2 cups milk
 1/4 cup melted butter
 Sauce:
 1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange juice, undiluted
 1/4 cup granulated sugar
 2 cups fresh or frozen blueberries, rinsed and drained
 1/4 cup slivered blanched almonds
 1/4 cup water

Sift flour with salt. Beat eggs well with milk and butter. Add flour and beat with a rotary egg beater until smooth and the consistency of heavy cream.

Lightly butter a 6-inch skillet. Spoon enough batter into skillet to coat the entire bottom thinly when the pan is tilted. Cook quickly on both sides. Stack on a plate as each is finished. Crepes may be prepared ahead of time and wrapped in foil or waxed paper to prevent drying.

To prepare sauce, combine all ingredients in skillet. Bring to a boil, lower heat and cook, stirring occasionally, for 10 minutes. Add crepes one at a time and, using a fork and large spoon, turn each crepe over in the sauce. Remove to a plate and fold in quarters. Serve hot, spooning sauce over crepes.

Yield: 8 servings.

BLUEBERRIES FOSTER
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1 large, very ripe banana, mashed
 2 tablespoons sugar
 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 3 ounces blackberry or raspberry brandy
 2 cups fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained
 3 ounces brandy
 Ice cream

In chafing dish or skillet melt butter. Add banana. Mix sugar and cinnamon. Stir mixture into pan. Cook, stirring frequently, until sugar is dissolved. Stir in blackberry brandy. Add blueberries. Cook, stirring lightly, until blueberries are thoroughly coated. Cook over low heat 5 minutes. Pour brandy slowly into pan so it floats on top of mixture. Ignite. When flames die down, stir sauce once and serve immediately over vanilla or blueberry ripple ice cream.

Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

DEEP DISH BLUEBERRY PIE
 6 cups fresh or frozen blueberries, rinsed and drained
 1 1/4 cups sugar
 1/2 cup flour
 Grated rind of 1 orange
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 2 cups biscuit mix
 1/4 cup sugar
 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/4 cup water

Combine blueberries, sugar, flour and orange rind. Pour into a 10x6-inch Pyrex baking pan. Dot top with butter.

Combine biscuit mix, sugar, cinnamon and water. Mix well to form a soft dough. Knead a few times on a lightly floured board until smooth. Roll out all dough, except 1/4 cup, on a floured board to an 11x7-inch oblong. Place crust over top and down sides of pan. Roll out reserved crust and cut into leaves for decoration. Fasten leaves to top of pie with water. Brush entire top with milk and sprinkle with sugar. Prick top with a fork to spell out the word Blue. Bake in a preheated hot oven (425 F) 45 to 50 minutes or until filling is bubbly and crust is brown.

To the Editor:
I would like to take this opportunity to tell you what a great job your papers do! I've helped a lot of people I know organize garage sales/house sales. I always recommend an ad in the Williston Times, etc. It always pays off. We try to ask people how they learned of the sale. So many times the answer is one of your publications. The Williston Times and the Garden City News are big favorites.

My husband decided it was time to organize one in our own home. Friends helped me this time. Happy to say we sold 308 items in three days. Your papers were a big help once more. Thanks again for a great paper and good luck to you. K.K.

 Have The Last Word

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides and a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great, and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings."

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

How shall I take care of my aluminum siding?

Q: I have aluminum siding on my house that is about 10 years old. It is white in color and over the years the color has become dull and old looking.

Is there any cleaning fluid or something that will clean it and bring back the brighter looking color? I am wondering if there is a cleaning fluid that could be used with high-pressure gun that I could use to wash it down.

Do you think I will be able to clean it and get satisfactory results or will I have to have it painted? — J.N.

A: Aluminum siding can be painted and there are special paints on the market for that purpose. However, in many cases all the siding needs is a good cleaning. Even siding with a finish that is oxidized or powdered at the surface can often be restored to good appearance if the proper cleaning methods are used.

Keep in mind that new paint also will get dirty and there are other possible problems such as peeling and flaking of the new paint, in addition to the extra expense of painting. In short, unless a color change is wanted, the effort to clean the existing siding is a good first step. The effort won't be wasted even if it doesn't work out, because cleaning is a necessary first step to painting.

Some professional painters have pressure-washing equipment that can do the work effectively, but, do-it-yourself pressure cleaning equipment can also be rented. A method recommended by some siding manufacturers for light cleaning is to wash the siding much like a car is washed, using a soft bristle brush such as an auto-washing brush and a solution of regular household detergent. Rinse thoroughly with clean water from a garden hose.

Some home centers also sell special aluminum-siding cleaners containing heavy-duty detergents. Specific directions for those should be followed carefully according to the literature provided by the manufacturer.

Q: My glass shower doors are a mess. Very stubborn hard-water stains and soap scum have dulled the once shiny metal frames of the doors. No commercial product has helped. What can be done to make the doors look like new again? — S.A.H.

A: First, go over both the glass and metal frames with dampened baking soda, then scrub with a terry cloth rag wrung out in white vinegar. Let this solution stand on the surface for a couple of hours.

For particularly stubborn stains go over the surface with a fine stainless steel wool pad. Rinse with clear water and polish with soft cloth.

Another solution you can try, which is good metal cleaner, is to mix 1 cup of trisodium phosphate with 2 tablespoons alum. Add enough water to make a paste and apply to the surface. Scrub with a soft cloth, rinse well and polish. If necessary, use a fine steel wool pad to scrub the surface in a second application.

If the metal is corroded nothing will restore the surface.

severe form, and the second most common type of arthritis, affects three times as many women as men.

"Arthritis attacks the joints most directly involved in sexual intercourse: knee, hip and lower back. When these joints stiffen," states Brothers, "it is no wonder that interest in sexual activity drops. Furthermore, the disease can change the appearance of a woman's body and her self-image, making her seem less feminine herself. Depression and fatigue are natural consequences of the pain and the physical limitation of arthritis. Patients with rheumatoid arthritis have higher divorce rates than patients with any other chronic disease."

But it doesn't have to be this way, according to this expert. "Arthritis almost never affects the sexual parts of the body. All women retain the ability to respond sexually well into their late years. There are many 'prescriptions' for a long life — consisting mainly of negatives — don't eat too much; don't drink too much; don't smoke; avoid stress. But there is one prescription for a long life that is not only positive, but it is welcomed by a majority of people. It is to have an active, healthy sex life."

Brothers cited research that showed that when you get a cold, it can be because of negative emotion, and that researchers at Johns Hopkins Medical Center found that those people in love have fewer colds than those who are not. "In other research on the common cold, psychoimmunologists have found that when an entire classroom is exposed to the rhino virus and related viruses that cause sniffles, the child who just won a trip to Disneyland doesn't get the cold at all, but the kid whose parents just got a divorce comes down the hardest with the cold. The same goes for the workplace. When the rhino virus invades that space, it's John, whose mother just died, who gets the worst cold, while Jane, who just got a promotion, escapes the virus."

Brothers cited other research by Richard Totman of Nuffield College at Oxford and Wallace Craig and Sylvia Reed of the British Medical Research Council on the Common Cold, showing the effect that the mind and emotions have on a cold. "Those that developed the most severe colds were those who had experienced stress in the six months prior to the infection."

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

TWEEN 12 & 20

Dr. Wallace: Several months ago two of my best friends smoked a marijuana cigarette when I was with them. I told them that they were making a big mistake. They asked me to take a puff and I told them "no way."

I did promise that I wouldn't tell anybody about the incident. Well, last night something came over me and I told my mother about the smoking party.

Now my mother wants to call the parents of my two friends and tell them what happened. She said she would want to know if things were reversed.

I told my mother that these friends are not regular users and that they only tried pot one time just to see what it felt like to get a "buzz." Do you think my mother should call my friends' parents? If she did, my friends would know that I betrayed their trust.

— Peggy, Sidney, Ohio

Peggy: No, I wouldn't advise that your mother call your friends' parents since the incident happened several months ago and was a one-time incident.

Dr. Wallace: I am 15 and went steady with David for three months but broke up with him because I met Brian and wanted to see him socially. After dating Brian steadily for two months we broke up because I still enjoyed David's company and wanted to date David again. Now I'm dating both guys and I like the arrangement.

My mother thinks that I am cruel and that I should make a choice between them. I disagree. We both decided that I should get your opinion. — Betty,

Betty: You are doing the best thing for everyone concerned. What's the big deal about going steady?

Dr. Wallace: I am 15 and live at home with my parents and 14-year-old brother. I graduated from high school with honors and I am in my second year at college.

I work about 20 hours a week at a supermarket and buy most of my clothes and some of my school books. I have a problem with my parents who treat me like a child and who want to control my life.

First, I want to share an apartment with my boyfriend, but my parents absolutely refuse to help with the expenses. They are willing to spend thousands of dollars if I live at the dorm on campus, but won't give me a penny toward the apartment. I can't understand my parents and their hangups about coed living when all my friends are doing it.

Second, they get on my case when I'm out at night. My dad says he's worried about me, but all he wants to do is to make my life miserable. Since my boyfriend works until 10 p.m., I can't see him until after that. I'm usually home by 2:30 or 3 a.m., every night, and I've never missed work. Although I have been late a few times my supervisor thinks that I'm a super worker.

Last night was the last straw! My dad took the car keys away from me and said I couldn't go out because I had a cold. My mom agreed with him because she's afraid of him. It's true that I had been in bed during the day, but I felt much better at night. I got so mad at him that I shouted, gave him an obscene gesture, used some four-letter words, and kicked the door. I am not proud of myself, but don't you think my parents were being unreasonable? I think I should be the judge of what is best for me.

I feel so miserable and depressed that I don't know what to do or whom to turn to. I'd like to leave home, but I can't afford to go on my own. My grades are suffering. My parents keep on saying, "If you don't like the rules, get out."

Please tell my parents, who read your column, to stop treating me like a child — and leave me alone. — Joan,

Joan: You are striving for independence and your parents are requesting that you abide by their rules and to function like an 18-year-old daughter.

Staying out to 3 a.m. every night and expecting your parents to help pay expenses so you can live with your boyfriend are both unreasonable. The obscene gesture and blue language are disgraceful and almost unforgivable. If you are being treated like a child — well, maybe it's because you are acting like one.

I'm sorry Joan but I back your parents all the way.

Dr. Wallace: My girlfriend and I are going to travel in Europe this summer and would like some information on the Eurail Youthpass. We plan to visit 11 countries by rail and stay at youth hostels. Can you please tell me how much a Eurail Youthpass is and where we can buy one? — Glenda, Glenda: A one-month Eurail Youthpass can be purchased for $310, and for $460 the pass is valid for two months. It's a great price. The Eurail Youthpass is valid in 16 European countries for unlimited second-class rail travel.

The restrictions are that you must be under 26 years of age and you must buy the pass before you arrive in Europe.

NEW YORK — The lady at the podium speaks with the poise and authority of the expert who has made psychology acceptable and human problems and their solutions understandable by the public in a score of years on television and radio, and in interviews in hundreds of feature stories in magazines and newspapers and in her own syndicated newspaper column.

Her subject — sexuality in aging, and even an active sexual life when disabled by arthritis or other afflictions — is one of her particular concerns.

The expert is Joyce Brothers, Ph.D., and she recently addressed a group of health journalists in a special meeting in New York City, reporting from research — her own and the work of others — on the subjects of aging, arthritis and other disabilities, sexuality and sexual experience and preventive methods for positive health.

Thirty-six million Americans currently suffer from arthritis — and half to two-thirds of those people also suffer from some form of sexual dysfunction. But arthritis doesn't necessarily mean the end of sexual activity, enjoyment and intimacy.

"More than two-thirds of arthritis sufferers are women — women who have a right to intimacy. As a matter of fact, not only can rheumatoid arthritis sufferers have sex, surprising as that may seem to those in constant pain, but doctors have discovered that the very act of sex seems to provide relief of pain in severe cases."

Dr. George Ehrlich, an arthritis specialist in Philadelphia, found that 70 percent of the victims he interviewed reported that the reason pain abates, according to Brothers, "is that sexual arousal stimulates the adrenal glands to produce more cortisone, and cortisone reduces inflammation, the cause of pain in the infected joints."

Osteoarthritis, "the wear and tear" disease and the most common form of arthritis, affects 24 million women, twice as many as men. Rheumatoid arthritis is a more terrible disease, but it is less common. It affects 2.5 million people, mostly women, and it is progressive, causing deformities of the joints.

Brothers cited research that showed that when you get a cold, it can be because of negative emotion, and that researchers at Johns Hopkins Medical Center found that those people in love have fewer colds than those who are not. "In other research on the common cold, psychoimmunologists have found that when an entire classroom is exposed to the rhino virus and related viruses that cause sniffles, the child who just won a trip to Disneyland doesn't get the cold at all, but the kid whose parents just got a divorce comes down the hardest with the cold. The same goes for the workplace. When the rhino virus invades that space, it's John, whose mother just died, who gets the worst cold, while Jane, who just got a promotion, escapes the virus."

A trio of topics

A trio of topics for summer gardeners this week:

CONTAINER FLOWERS

A few regular ministrations to our hanging basket and other container flowers from now till summer's end will help to keep them in top shape and bloom production. Trimming away disreputable bits, removing faded blooms, toping up the soil a little where that is possible will all help to keep the plants looking good.

This is not the time, either, to let up on the watering or fertilizing. In their confined circumstances, the root systems of these plants enjoy very constricted feeding and drinking grounds. And the frequent waterings they require quickly leach out nutrients from their planting mix. Even slow-release granular fertilizers need renewing every so often. The label directions on these long-term plant-food products will indicate how often the granules should be re-applied.

If it's your habit to deliver fertilizer to your container flowers in liquid form, very dilute feedings delivered often will sustain the plants in superior style to full-strength dosages given only monthly. Quarter-strength liquid feedings weekly or half-strength every two weeks, alternating between a good balanced formula for flowers like 15-30-15 and liquid seaweed, is an ideal regime.

CLIVIA

You can't imagine the surprise and delight that I experienced one day early last month as I was shifting the last of our houseplants outdoors for a little summer vacation. When I came to our two clivias, a close look revealed a cluster of fat flower buds tucked into the leaf recesses of one of the plants.

The pleasure was a special one because I'd grown these clivias, or kaffir lilies, from seed. This year I'd hoped for bloom but had given up by late spring, as the usual bloom period is February to April.

City celebrates Independence Day with joy; Federal Convention delegates resume meetings with gloom.

Philadelphia, July 9, 1787 (Delayed) Last week the residents of this city celebrated the anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. They take special pride in the remembrance for it was in the State House here that delegates from the thirteen colonies drew up that document which declared they were now "...free and independent states."

The event was commemorated with pomp, bell ringing, a salute from the artillery, and a parade through the streets by the fife and drum corps. Citizens met for revelry and rejoicing in the City Tavern, the London Coffee House and the Indian Queen.

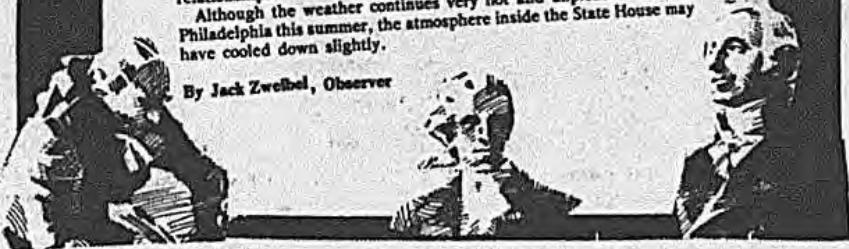

The next morning the Convention delegates appeared gloomy as they entered the State House. While casual observers may have suspected their appearance to be a result of the previous day's celebration, it was more likely evidence of the almost insurmountable problem they face in determining the composition of the two houses of the proposed Congress.

During the previous week a committee was formed to produce a recommendation for breaking the deadlock. But its report, received after the July 4 recess, was generally unsatisfactory. However, it did offer a glimmer of hope with a suggestion for a compromise: the membership of the lower house to be based on population, while that of the Senate would have an equal number from each state regardless of size. Exact numbers were not given.

This led to creation of still another committee to settle the numerical relationships.

Although the weather continues very hot and unpleasant here in Philadelphia this summer, the atmosphere inside the State House may have cooled down slightly.

By Jack Zweibel, Observer

However, grown as indoor-outdoor houseplants they can bloom at any time of the year and, personally, I'm never inclined to fuss at a plant that chooses to flower at an offbeat time.

Interesting, too, is the fact that the first of our clivias to bloom is the one in the clay pot. This certainly would seem to help verify the need of these plants for a dryish soil from November until the flower stalks are about 6 inches high. Because of evaporation from their porous sides, clay pots tend to keep their soil drier than plastic pots do. Cool night temperatures during the winter also help to give clivias the two to three months of partial dormancy they need to bloom. Tight pots are a must, as well.

A clivia won't bloom at any rate until it's mature enough. But even when not in bloom this is a grand decorator plant with its broad, glossy and gracefully arching deep green leaves. A plant in bloom, with dense orange-scarlet flower clusters held above the foliage mass, is truly magnificent.

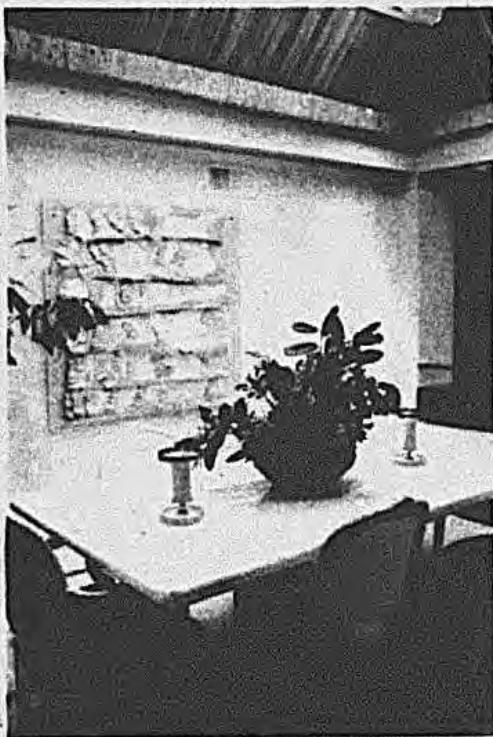

CORN CARE AND HARVEST

Sweet corn is a heavy feeder that can quickly deplete nutrients in the soil. For that reason it's helpful to apply a side dressing in covered furrows beside the rows, or scattered and scratched in shallowly around the plants of granular fertilizer both when the plants are around 8 inches high and again when the tassels appear. Either 6-8-6 or 4-10-10 can be used, at the rate of about a half tablespoon per plant.

Corn requires consistently adequate supplies of moisture in the soil as well, the most crucial times being just before the silks form, and again during the first couple weeks after the silks begin to turn brown — this is when the kernels are filling out.

During the period in which the tassels at the tops of the plants are ripe and shedding pollen, it's wise to avoid, if possible, using any high-flying overhead sprinklers on the corn. The drier the tassels and their pollen can be kept, the more freely it will be able to drift down to pollinate the silks below. And each silk pollinated, under normal conditions, means a kernel fertilized and filled out on the cob.

FOCAL POINT — The architectural lines and skylight of this coffered ceiling provide a focal point with an unusual ceiling treatment of raffia, redwood bender board and geometric ceiling panel. - Design by Beverly Feldman

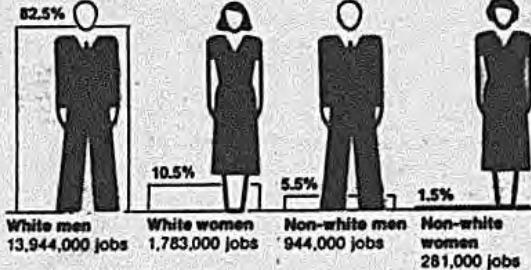

Q: Our dining area has a raised central portion of the ceiling with a skylight. The dining table and chair are directly beneath but we have no other furnishings in the limited space.

I would like to do something unusual with the ceiling since there are no windows in the area. Do you have any ideas? — V.A.

SMART MONEY

Top salaries still going to white men

Even though women and minorities have been making steady gains in the workplace they still have a long way to go to equal the wages of white men in middle management. Here is how American workers earning over $28,000 in 1984 were divided by sex and race.

Decor Score

By Sharon Owen Hayes

A: All too often potentially interesting ceilings are ignored or painted away for a ho-hum decor. You are wise to want to accentuate the positive in a small, windowless space. Not only can an unusual ceiling provide a dramatic focus to a room, it also can add visual space, by drawing the eye upward.

You can accentuate the ceiling by using a color that contrasts with the rest of the room. You might also mirror the sides of the skylight well or line them with globe lights for a sparkling night-time effect.

Check your local lighting stores for some of the interesting new screening panels that are being made for dropped ceilings. You might find one that could add pizzazz to your skylight.

Think about the look you want, in general, and then be creative about using appropriate materials in new ways. You could end up with a smashing look that is all your own. The unique ceiling shown, for example, combines lowly redwood benderboard, raffia and a high-tech screen panel for a dramatic Southwestern look that is both rustic and contemporary.

Update on peeling radiators

In an earlier column, I stated that heat-resistant paint for radiators was limited to an off-white shade.

For those of you still suffering ugly radiators, the color selection remains uninspired but better than no choice at all. Derust-O makes heat-resistant paint in black and brown. Zynolyt's product comes in beige and almond. Both brands of paints are sold in spray cans and can withstand up to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit without peeling.

Even with the additional colors, you still have the same basic decision to make: camouflage the radiator or glorify it. If you paint the radiator the same color as the wall behind it, you will minimize its impact.

On the other hand, you might want to focus on its funky shape by painting it a color that contrasts with the wall behind. This could be particularly effective in a contemporary setting by painting it black if there are other black accents in the room.

Of course, even with a rainbow of colors available there are limits to the miracles paint can perform. A radiator is a radiator is a radiator.

Rockwell plates not increasing much in value

Q: This plate by Norman Rockwell, "Portrait for a Bridegroom," was a gift from one of my husband's relatives. Can you tell me if it is very old and what it might be worth?

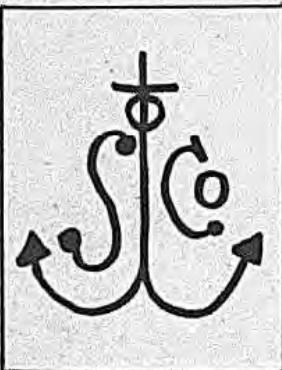

A: This is a current release, listing for $30.90. It was issued quite recently by the Edwin Knowles China Co., East Liverpool, Ohio.

There is a lot of interest on the part of collectors in Rockwell plates but they have not increased in value to any marked degree. The problem seems to be that the new issues are so popular that they are issued in large numbers and are not very scarce.

Q: The attached mark is on the bottom of a three-piece tea set — teapot, sugar and creamer. It is hand-painted porcelain and in excellent condition.

Please tell me what you can about its vintage and value. I would also like to know the name of the maker.

A: Your tea set was made by Oscar Schaller & Co. in Schwarzenbach, Germany, about 1900. This was the forerunner of the present-day Winterling Fine Ceramics Co.

A dealer would probably sell a set like this for about $125 to $135.

Q: Several times you have identified porcelain as being "Nippon." What does that mean? Is it the name of a manufacturer, a designer or what?

A: Nippon is the English-language equivalent for the Japanese word for "Japan." It does not identify the maker or anything but the fact that the piece was made in Japan.

Nippon was used from 1891 to 1921, when the U.S. government required that everything imported from Japan be marked with the word Japan and not Nippon.

People collect porcelain marked Nippon because the quality is usually very good and they know that it was made in the early 20th century.

Q: When I asked you about the value of my 1916 25-cent piece, you said from $5 to $60. Isn't that a pretty wide spread? Can't you be more specific?

A: The value of old coins depends entirely on condition. It's almost impossible to be precise without actually examining the coin.

For example, a 1916 quarter is valued as follows:

Date legible, complete outline of head shows — $5; all numerals of date show, letters are free from rim — $8; date is sharp, details show in shield and drapery, some feathers show in both wings — $13; legs and thighs are rounded, most feathers show — $25; slight wear on breast and knees, all feathers visible — $50.

Can distemper be prevented?

Q: Our neighbor's kitten recently died because of distemper. Our cat is usually first noticed at 2 to 3 weeks of age. It roams freely throughout the neighborhood and we are worried about her picking up the disease. What can we do to prevent our cat from getting distemper?

A: Distemper in cats is a highly contagious disease characterized by sudden onset, depression, dehydration and often death. The disease is often called feline panleukopenia. Panleukopenia simply means a decrease in the number of white blood cells in the blood. Veterinarians often examine a blood smear from cats suspected of having distemper.

Usually, the first sign of feline panleukopenia is a fever that persists for up to 24 hours. With the onset of fever, the cat stops eating, vomits and becomes depressed and weak. Diarrhea may occur two to four days following the initial fever. Although affected cats seem to desire water, extreme dehydration usually occurs very rapidly. The skin rapidly becomes dry and leathery. Affected cats often have a very mournful meow. This is most noticeable whenever the cat is handled. The abdomen is very painful. Therefore, just picking the cat up to comfort it can be very painful.

Although the disease can occur in cats of all ages, it is most often seen in kittens. A kitten can be found dead after having been seen course of the disease. Specific antiviral agents are not available to treat the disease.

Panleukopenia vaccines are very effective, inexpensive, and produce long-term protection. The premises in which a cat died because of panleukopenia should be thoroughly disinfected before a new cat is obtained.

You should have your cat vaccinated against distemper as soon as possible. Your veterinarian can also advise you regarding other recommended vaccinations for your cat.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

We are now in the middle of July and I hope all of you are enjoying the summer. Although there has been quite a bit of rain, there also has been enough sunshine for outdoor activities. I'm sure many of you have gone swimming or boating. You've probably also played ball and attended family picnics. Maybe you wish sometimes that summer could go on and on.

But we know summer is not forever. Still, there is half a month left in July, plus a full month in August. Plenty of time for summer sun!

Your friend,

Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are: Karen Allen and Jo Lawrence.

The World's Most Beautiful Grandchildren

Now that summer has started, Ian Thomas shows the best way to enjoy the outdoor life: dress cool, have a ball to play with, and don't go too far away from a nice swimming pool. Ian is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Thomas. Dad is the owner of K's Auto on Willis Avenue, Mineola. Proud grandparents of this handsome toddler are Mary Thomas and Lottie Gregorius, both of Mineola.
