Hicksville School Board Tackles Enrollment

As summer draws to a close, the Hicksville School Board called upon Superintendent Catherine Fenton to make final determinations on a number of classes slated to contain as many as 30 children on opening day, September 9. The declining number of students on the elementary level has contributed to the increasing number of singleton classes on a grade level across the district or, in some cases, a decreasing number of classes at grade level.

Dr. Fenton reported at the Board's August 26 meeting that, to date, only nine classes remain to be analyzed. In these instances, data is still being verified with building principals. Potential staff is in the process of interview.

Dr. Fenton said that the actual number of students in a class is not the only consideration in determining when to split a class. The district also takes into account the ability of the students, youngsters assigned to resource room or remedial reading and math, mainstreaming of students, bilingual and transient students and also the background and abilities of the teacher.

The district's measurement for splitting into grade sections usually hovers at 31 students for the intermediate grades (4-5-6). In the primary grades (1-2-3) where youngsters are still in the process of learning basic skills, the district tries to split classes at around the 29 mark and in kindergarten, possibly even at 28 students.

Hicksville's student population has been in a steady decline since the baby boom days of the 50's and 60's. This phenomenon has led to the district's reorganization efforts over the past few years. In September, Hicksville will implement its secondary restructuring with the conversion of the junior high school to a middle school housing grades 7 and 8, and the establishment of a four-year high school. These changes have come about not only due to the lack of student numbers, but also to strengthen the educational systems and to conform with many new guidelines set by the New York State Education Department.

Trustee Carol Wolf reminded residents that the Board's reorganization committee will be continuing its work on the 38 recommendations in the elementary level area. At the September 9 committee meeting which is open to the public, the recommendations

Editor's Notebook

Most crooks are sure that laws were made to be broken. We here in the Town of Oyster Bay would just like to be reassured that laws were made to be enforced!

Recent editorial comments about the irresponsible trash disposal of some residents has brought such a tremendous response that it is most rewarding to know we've struck a nerve.

Callers to the 921-3850 Sanitation Office number have found that a speedy response is rare. Also, senior citizens manning the phones there are asking for names, addresses and phone numbers of the callers. Only complaints about your own residence requires that information. If you're calling in about a neighbor you do not have to supply that information.

One gentleman caller wanted my opinion as to whether one person can really make a difference. Well, of course, they can because they won't be alone. Lots of people are tired of being "dumped" on and want and expect to be satisfied with everyday, ordinary services for their tax dollars.

If you really want to make a difference, be persistent. It just takes a little time and effort and determination. Working together is a real community effort.

And, on the subject of trash - remember that Monday is a holiday and there will be no sanitation pickups. Please do not put garbage out until your next normal scheduled day.

This weekend calls a halt to summer fun and activities. Have a very enjoyable Labor Day Weekend and remember - schools open next week. There will be lots of children walking in the early morning hours to watch out for.

are to be pared down to a workable ten. The committee will study these suggestions with the goal of presenting options to the Board in February 1988.

The Board reviewed its five-year goals established in 1985; improve student performance in mathematics and in language arts; improve guidance services in the secondary schools; develop a district-wide program to track student mastery of basic skills, and develop a plan for improvement of the secondary program. Trustee William Bennett acknowledged that great strides have been made in the student performance areas, particularly in updating curriculum, assignment of staff and attraction of students.

The Board also adopted the suggested one-year goals of updating documentation of the computer skills program, K-12, and updating documentation of the district's K-12 academic enrichment program. Stating that "work has already been attained in the five major areas," Mr. Bennett urged that the Board forge ahead by undertaking the two additional goals.

The Board also approved the award of bids totaling $46,208 for athletic supplies, audio-visual equipment and computer supplies. Income eligibility guidelines for free and reduced price meals for the coming year were also approved, in compliance with the acceptance of funds for the State-aided milk program.

Superintendent Fenton acknowledged that various complaints have been received regarding the lack of notification of religious holidays on the 1987-88 school calendar. In particular question was the omission of the Rosh Hashanah holiday school closing on Thursday and Friday, September 24 and 25. This year, the district chose to display only Federal bank holidays, as to avoid confusion with the many varied religious groups. Dr. Fenton said that the district did not wish to offend any particular religious group and concedes that when school is closed, the community should be advised of the reason.

The September 9 reorganization committee meeting and the Board's next general meeting on September 30 are both scheduled to begin at 8:15 p.m. in the conference room of the Administration Building.

'Red-Bag' Waste Carter To Abandon Local Site

American Medical Waste Systems, Inc. on Duffy Avenue in Hicksville, has agreed to abandon its waste transfer site there for operation in another state by mid-night Saturday, September 5.

The agreement was reached last week between the firm and the Town of Oyster Bay, which had sued to stop the company's operation.

"We already had agreed, to move by November 1," said Larry Lawrence, the firm's general manager. "So this is a little sooner and will cost us some more money, but we're not unreasonable."

Lawrence said the town was being unreasonable because it also wanted to bar American Medical's recycling plant operation, also on Duffy Avenue.

"We're in 'H'-zoned area for light industry," he said, "and now they want us in an I-zoned area for heavy industry. Our recycling (of construction and demolition debris) is basically a manufacturing operation, and that's light industry."

But town spokeswoman Marlene Kastleman said that the town requires such a business to be in an I-zoned area. "We've made them aware that this zone is available, but they've never taken the initiative to apply for it," she said. She said that the firm could either file for a change of zoning or move. Lawrence said the company currently complies with the town's zoning code.

That issue is scheduled to be heard in court, within the next two weeks, according to both Lawrence and Kastleman.

Lawrence would not say to where his infectious waste operation would be moved, but he said the firm would continue to honor its contracts.

Frank Padar, Deputy Commissioner of Health for Nassau County, said that his agency is awaiting the decision of a hearing officer on whether American Medical violated health laws in its infectious waste operation.

In addition, completion of the course also deducts three points from the motorist's license by the New York State Department of Motor Vehicles if violations have been incurred during the 18 month period prior to taking the course.

News From Road Runners

The Super Runners Store Team trailed Gubbins' Running Ahead into the seventh leg of the eight leg, 50 mile Ocean to Sound Relay on August 9, but then took over for a convincing four minute win, with a total elapsed time of 4 hours, 16 minutes, 4 seconds. Gubbins hung on for second place in 4:20:14, with Team Avia/Condor 3rd in 4:24:35, and the Grumman Corporation Running Team 4th in 4:32:19.

The women's division of the race was even closer for the first five legs, with four teams less than a minute apart. Then Maddy Harmeling of the Plainview-Old Bethpage RRC Fast Feet Team stormed up Mill Neck's Mill Hill Road at the beginning of the sixth leg - and that was the race. Fast Feet went on to win in 5:41:08 with a fast charging Massapequa Road Runners Team 2nd in 5:52:28 and the Northport RRC Women 3rd in 5:58:22. The Grumman women, who had led briefly in the 4th leg, finished 4th in 6:01:34.

Fifty teams successfully completed the grueling fifty mile course, which started in Wantagh Park, headed east along Nassau County's south shore to Amityville, north to Huntington, and winding through Lloyd Harbor, Cold Spring Harbor, Laurel Hollow, Oyster Bay, Mill Neck and Brookville before heading south again to the finish line at Eisenhower Park. Each runner covered a leg of between 5.3 and 7.4 miles.

The Relay was sponsored by the leading Long Island real estate management firm of Spiegel Associates, and was conducted under the auspices of the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club, with technical assistance from David Katz of Finish Line Promotions. POBRR's Alan End was the Director of the Relay.

Spiegel Associates President Arthur Sanders expressed enthusiasm for this year's Relay as well as for the future of what is growing into Long Island's most important road racing event. "We are delighted by the enthusiastic reception to this year's Ocean to Sound Relay," he commented. "Spiegel Associates is proud to be associated with such an important and exciting event."

Trouble Shooting - a bird's eye view allows LILCO to check electric lines for potential problem areas. Using a special heat sensitive camera-like device, LILCO inspected more than 1,000 miles of transmission lines from the air this summer. Inspection of the smaller distribution lines throughout Long Island Communities continues from the ground with van-mounted equipment.

Infrared Prevents Electric Outages

LILCO is looking for trouble - before it happens. Using special scanning equipment, LILCO is inspecting overhead transmission and distribution lines to detect potential problem areas before they result in service interruptions for customers.

"Infrared scanning of electric lines reduces the potential for electrical failure by locating potential problems before an outage occurs," said William Museler, Vice President of Electric Operations. "It is helping LILCO improve the reliability of service to our customers, significantly reducing the number of outages caused by electric demand and normal wear on the system."

Using a temperature sensitive camera-like piece of equipment mounted on the outside of a van or helicopter, the scanner inspects transmission and distribution lines that bring electricity to LILCO customers. Inside the vehicle, a video screen displays an image of the equipment being examined. When the sensor detects a temperature on the line or equipment significantly higher than the temperature of the surrounding power line, it shows up as a glaring white spot on the screen.

These "hot spots" indicate places on the electric lines where strands of wire have been corroded or otherwise worn away, or where transformers or other equipment are overloaded.

Depending on the temperature difference recorded, which may range from 10 to 50 degrees centigrade higher than the temperature of the surrounding wire, repairs are scheduled on a priority basis.

This is the first year helicopters have been used to inspect more than 1,000 miles of LILCO's transmission lines. These are the large lines which deliver electricity from the substation to homes and businesses, are scanned with the infrared unit mounted on the roof of a van. Half the distribution system is scanned each year.

Sunday School Begins Sept. 13

What is Sunday School at St. Paul Lutheran Church? It's a place for children to gather in God's name and learn. It's a time for children to exchange their thoughts and ask their questions. And it's an occasion to sing, pray and interact in Christian fellowship. We would consider it a privilege to have your child join us. Classes meet each Sunday from 9:15 to 10:15 a.m. Call the church office at 931-8262, or come visit us any Sunday morning to register your child. All children ages 3 to 8th grade are welcome.

St. Paul Lutheran Church is located at 449 Stewart Avenue (just south of the railroad station) in Bethpage. The Sunday worship service begins at 10:30 a.m. weekly. We at St. Paul's invite you to join us in worshipping and praising the Lord.

H.S. Counselors Ready At Syosset

Syosset High School students are encouraged to avoid the September scheduling rush by visiting the Guidance Department before school begins on September 9.

Counselors will be available on the week beginning August 31 between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. to assist students in arranging their programs.

EXHIBITS

In the Downstairs Gallery; and All Showcases: Earth Designs on Ceramic & Porcelain. By Esther J. Tollen

On Wednesday, September 9, at 3 and 8 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be showing the feature film entitled "Still Of The Night", starring Roy Scheider, Meryl Streep and Jessica Tandy.

"Still Of The Night" is a contemporary romantic thriller about a cool, collected psychiatrist whose ordered life is disrupted when, after the brutal slaying of one of his patients, he meets and falls in love with the victim's mistress—a beautiful, vulnerable woman who may be a murderer. Oscar winner Meryl Streep and Roy Scheider star in Robert Benton's "Kramer vs. Kramer" subtle homage to the masterworks of the mystery genre.

The film runs 91 minutes and is rated (PG).

On Thursday, September 10, from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., the American Lung Association will be sponsoring a program at the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library entitled "Cigarette Break Away."

To register, call the American Lung Association of Nassau-Suffolk at 231-LUNG.

On Friday, September 11 at 3 and 8 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be showing the feature film entitled "Back To School" starring Rodney Dangerfield, Sally Kellerman, Burt Young, Ned Beatty, and M. Emmet Walsh.

Higher education will never be the same now that Thornton Melon (Rodney Dangerfield) has decided to go back to school! When his son has trouble adjusting to college, Melon, a self-made millionaire and owner of a chain of Tall and Fat Stores, decides to join him as a fellow freshman. Melon lightens his son's study load and smooths his social path while wooing English teacher Sally Kellerman and becoming the most popular student on campus! Comic genius Dangerfield is in top form as he throws himself into academic life, determined to have a lot more fun the second time around!

The film runs 94 minutes and is rated (PG).

On Monday, September 14, at 1 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be presenting a Book Discussion/Review led by Barbara Krupit. The book is entitled "The House of the Spirits" by Isabel Allende.

"The House of the Spirits" is the magnificent epic of the Trueba family—their loves, their ambitions, their spiritual quest, their relations with one another, and their participation in the history of their times, a history that becomes destiny and overtakes them all.

On Tuesday, September 15, at 8 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be presenting a Book Discussion/Review on the book entitled "White Noise" by Don DeLillo.

This is the story of a college professor and his family whose small Midwestern town is evacuated after an industrial accident. Jack Gladney is professionally known as J.A.K. and a professor of Hitler studies at the College-on-the-Hill.

Gladney and his wife, Babette, live with four of the children of their previous marriages. Babette, a low-key and adaptable faculty wife who reads tabloids to the blind and teaches senior citizens classes in posture, is distinguished by her forgetfulness and her preoccupation with death.

On Friday, September 18, at 1 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be presenting Barbara Krupit leading a discussion entitled "Insights Into Current Issues."

Barbara Krupit will discuss what's making the headlines that day, whether it be local, national or international news. You can discuss the issues and share your views.

On Wednesday, September 30, at 7:30 p.m., the Plainview-Old Bethpage Library will be holding a Board of Trustees Meeting in the staff room.

The public is invited. The library is located at 999 Old Country Road in Plainview, opposite the Morton Village Shopping Center - 938-0077.

AOH Plans Annual 'Feis'

The Nassau County Feis Committee extends a hearty "Cead Mile Falte" (One Hundred Thousand Welcomes) to their Fifteenth Feisanna, on Sunday, September 20 (Rain Date 9/27) at the Plainview Office Center, on Old Country Road - one mile east of the Seaford-Oyster Bay Expressway (Route 135) - to entrance at Hibernian Blvd., designated each year by the Town of Oyster Bay. The Church of Christ, at 105 Broadway, is taking on a new look. The grounds are being renovated.

The church building, an historic Hicksville landmark, was built in 1902. Over the years the congregation has made many alterations to the building to repair and beautify, including aluminum siding.

The current renovation of the property has included rototilling and seeding the lawn, replacing the shrubs, installing new lighting, and a new sign, and removing the black wrought iron fence in favor of a white picket fence. Both the new sign and the new fence are located closer to the street, drawing greater attention to the property and the building.

Pastor, Tom Goodlet, says, "The entire congregation is very excited about our renovation efforts. This is our way of helping to beautify Hicksville. The clean and bright appearance of these improvements reflect the youthful enthusiasm within our congregation. All of the work has been done by about thirty energetic volunteers."

The Church of Christ invites the public to stop by and view the renovations. A dedication ceremony will take place on Sunday afternoon, October 18, at 3 p.m. The community is invited to attend.

Lightning Strike Damages House

An early morning electrical storm moving through the Hicksville area caused a fire in a home at 54 Tiptop Lane. Lightning struck the home and caused an estimated $45,000 worth of damage. A second floor smoke detector alerted the two elderly occupants, who escaped without injury.

The Hicksville Fire Department received the alarm at 1:17 a.m. Forty firefighters, six units, under Asst. Chief G. O'Brien responded.

The second floor sustained most of the damage.

touched to see a very special young man remembered in such a way to benefit another youngster." Jerry Channell, a referee/linesman from Easton, Ct. read about the tournament in "Soccer America" and volunteered his time to work at the tournament.

Anyone who wishes any further information should contact Marianna Harrison, 83 Hillendale Road, Westport or Nancy Farmer, 12 Manitou Court, Westport, CT. 06880. They are the Co-Chairmen, who have said, "We can think of no better way to keep Michael with us than to gather fine players from near and far to play the game he loved so much. Michael's leadership and his dedication to the team and his friends made him a very special young man. Those qualities of leadership and dedication provide the focus for both the tournament and the scholarship it will support."

The Princeton Review Presents

S.A.T. PREP

With a cast of superstar teachers

"As a high school junior, I'd like to think I would have organized a boycott of the S.A.T.'s. But it's probably more accurate to say I would have picked up the phone and dialed the Princeton Review."

"A random sampling by Venture of 100 New York City students coached by the Princeton Review last year revealed an average improvement of 154 points."

"But the rock for the Ivy League schools is just one factor behind the Princeton Review's success. Probably more important is a witty and irreverent approach that turns a grim ritual almost into a game."

"If I were a high-school student in a city where a school like the Princeton Review was not available... I would be terribly upset."

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Joseph Ashton has been named a United States National Award winner in Band.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes less than 10% of all American high school students. Joseph Ashton, who attends Hicksville High School was nominated for this National Award by Jim McIlroy, Music Teacher at the school. Joe will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally. Joseph is the son of Patrick and Ellen Ashton. The grandparents are Constance Ashton of Babylon and Patricia Dunne of Spring Lake, N.J.

Diet Center Raises Funds

Barbara Sash, owner of Hicksville's Diet Center located at 161A Levittown Parkway, announced at a recent meeting of The Long Island Association of Diet Centers that the Hicksville Diet Center will join in LIADC's effort to raise funds for the benefit of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation.

LIADC has planned a fall Fashion Show and Celebration Dinner which will be held at the Long Island Marriott on September 15 from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m.

The fundraising event is expected to attract 600 guests to the Marriott's Grand Ballroom. Diet Centers from all over Long Island and Queens will participate.

Dieters who have achieved their ideal and goal weights will be modeling the well-known fashions of Mica which has locations in Great Neck, Cedarhurst and Woodbury. Both men and women dieters will model the furs of Fred the Furrer.

There is growing concern about health problems related to poor eating habits, poor nutrition and overweight among both children and adults. Members of the educational, medical and business communities will be on hand to salute the event. Karen Weiner, president of the regional JDF organization, said the funds raised would be used for medical research.

Donations are $35 per ticket and include dinner. To reserve tickets call the Diet Center at 433-6622 or the JDF office at 944-3622. Please reserve early.

Hicksville Union Free School District has announced a free milk policy for Fork Lane Elementary School, Old Country Road Elementary School and Woodland Avenue Elementary School, and a free lunch including milk for the Middle School and Senior High School.

Local School officials have adopted the following family eligibility criteria to assist them in determining eligibility:

Feed Stamp/AFDC/ADC Households: Households currently receiving Food Stamps or "Aid to families with Dependent Children" or "Aid to Dependent Children" only have to list their child's name and food stamp or AFDC or ADC case number, print their name and address, and sign the application.

Other Households: With incomes at or below the amount of money listed above for their family size may be eligible for and are urged to apply for free milk or lunch. They may do so by filling in the application forms sent home in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year to your building Principal. If a family member becomes unemployed, if the family size decreases, or if your family income increases by more than $50 per month or $600 per year the family must contact the school to file a new application. The form requests information needed to determine economic need based on the income and number of persons in the family. The information provided on the application will be confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

The school district does, however, have the right to verify at any time during the school year the information on the application. If a parent does not give the school this information, the child/children will no longer be able to receive free milk and lunch.

Foster children are also eligible for these benefits. A family may wish to apply for milk and lunch for them.

Under the provisions of the policy, the designated official will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the designated official, he/she may make a request either orally or in writing for a hearing to appeal the decision. Robert Greenberg, Director of Special Education/Pupil Personnel Services, whose address is Administration Building, Division Avenue, Hicksville, N.Y. 11801, has been designated as the Hearing Official. Hearing procedures are outlined in the policy. However, prior to initiating the hearing procedure, the parent or School Food Authority may request a conference to provide an opportunity for the parent and official to discuss the situation, present information, and obtain an explanation of the data submitted in the application or the decisions rendered. The request for a conference shall not in any way prejudice or diminish the right to a fair hearing.

All Questions on the application must be answered completely for the application to be considered by the school district for approval. In addition, the parent or guardian must sign the application form, certifying the information is true and correct.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child shall be discriminated against because of his race, sex, color, national origin, age, or handicap. If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated, they should write to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

A complete copy of this policy is on file in the office of the School Food Authority District Administrator where it may be reviewed by any interested persons.

Two Arrested For Turkey Thefts

The 8th Sqd. reports the arrests of two men for a burglary in which the property taken consisted of two 30 lb. turkeys.

Sgt. Michael Crawford and Capt. Daniel Lehanaky were driving on Hempstead Tpke. in Bethpage, when they observed three men carrying two turkeys. When they stopped to investigate, two subjects ran. Peter Krokodilos, 18, of 3780 Mansfield Dr., Seaford, remained at the scene.

With assistance, they went to nearby Zorns on Hempstead Tpke., and discovered a burglary at the turkey house. Krokodilos was placed under arrest for Burglary 3rd Degree, and violation of the Agricultural and Markets Law-Injuring an Animal. The two birds in the subjects possession had been stomped to death, and their heads ripped off.

A short time later, another subject was observed by PO's Thomas Ketchias and Roger Paganuzzi, and after a short foot pursuit, was also arrested. He was additionally charged with Resisting Arrest.

Most Callers Do Not Think Hart Should Re-Enter Primary

Most callers to Input did not think that Gary Hart should re-enter the race for President in answer to this question: "Gary Hart is considering getting back in the Presidential race for the Democrats. Do you think he should come back?" Here are some of the answers:

NO MONEY

I was surprised to see so many people taking the possibility that Gary Hart might re-enter the Presidential primary seriously. I don't really think that he will get enough backers to mount any sort of campaign. He has past debts and might be counting on Federal election money to pay off those debts. But, it would be hard for him to raise enough to get back in the race.
M.R.

RAW DEAL

I am pretty much for Hart re-entering. I think the newspapers and the public gave him a raw deal. I think he would make a good President because he has the ability to clearly analyze questions. I want a great leader and I do not want an analysis of his sex life. If you were going to have an important operation, you would not dismiss a doctor who had a couple of affairs and take on some incompetent. The Presidency is just as important.
H.W.

BEST QUALIFIED

So far, I do not know of any Democrat who is better qualified than Gary Hart. All of the polls show that Hart is still the leader, so why not let him run again? The newspapers are not supposed to be deciding who should run for office. Forget about all of this sensationalism and let Hart run.
J.E.

BITTER TASTE

There is a fantasy here if we believe that Gary Hart can get right back in the race again. When someone bows out of a race, it leaves a bitter taste in the minds of voters. And, under the circumstances that Hart bowed out, there was more than a bitter taste. He came across as a person who had very few principles and one who could not be trusted. There is very little hope that Hart could change enough minds at this stage of the game.
M.W.

GAME OVER

I doubt very much that most people will vote for Gary Hart even if he does enter the primary again. His decision to opt out and then return would hardly seem as though it is the stuff that Presidential decisions are made of. The game is over for Hart and it doesn't matter who else is in the running.
K.H.

JIMMY CARTER

I think that Jimmy Carter, and not Hart, would be better in the race. Carter has the experience. He had some terrible bad luck at the time he was President and I think he could do a far better job of being President than Reagan is doing.
M.F.

WRONG TYPE

Hart has lost the support of the American people and he should just forget about running anymore. He is not the type of person we need to run the country. He was completely right when he withdrew from the race.
F.W.

DON'T HAVE IT

Gary Hart just does not have it. But, as a Republican, if the Democrats want to put him up, I am all for it. He will not do as well as Walter Mondale against practically any GOP contender. While the media does not like Reagan, he would be re-elected again and any follower of his philosophy could beat out Hart.
N.G.

SHOULD NOT RUN

This should be simple if I, as a Republican, would like to make it easy for my candidate to win. As the Democrats are sharpening their knives to go to work on the GOP candidate, Gary Hart's re-entry would have an immediate dulling effect on those instruments because I believe that no one, no matter how astute, could win the Presidential nomination in the face of such ill-timed escapades. I am not denying that he had the best of everything among the Democratic candidates -- a full grasp of the issues and the ability to forcefully present a strong position on them -- but who will believe him in the light of the exposure of his basic weakness of character. Obviously, he is not the only Democratic candidate but perhaps none other has that Devil-may-care attitude which was the spark which set him apart from the others, but which also turned out to be a weakness which the public in all conscience could not accept. I know there is that well-known saying about people living in glass houses but, in this instance, I have a feeling that they would be the first to cast stones. Gary is sorely tempted to have a go at it but in the interests of everyone concerned, I think he should resist the temptation.

Discovery!

The Obnoxious House Guest

By Jerri Donohue

Living in close proximity to a tourist magnet such as New York City, we have often played host to guests who invited themselves for a few days or weeks. And, like mosquitoes, they are especially common this time of year.

Guests come in all shapes, sizes, colors and accents but obnoxious visitors can be lumped into distinct categories.

#1 THE SLOB. The Slob forgets his sneakers, sometimes his dirty Sox, for days under your sofa. He parks cold drinks anywhere, unmindful of water stains on your good furniture. His unsupervised kids draw murals on your wall. You might need to mail the Slob various possessions he leaves behind after scattering them throughout your house. I find the Slob's faults to be minor irritations: he feels at home and that's why he's somewhat careless. His redeeming qualities include a great sense of humor, and his sloppiness stems largely from absent-mindedness. He's simply more interested in your news, your kids, your garden, to pay attention to details of neatness. I feel great affection for certain Slobbs of my acquaintance and only include this category because this type of guest drives my husband crazy.

#2 THE MOOCH. Hard as it may be to believe, there still exist far corners of the earth, such as particular pockets of the Midwest, whose inhabitants remain unaware that New York is an expensive place to visit. The Mooch shows up with credit cards but very little cash—hence you find yourself buying his L.I.R.R. tickets, subway tokens, and even paying his museum admission. All these "little" expenses rapidly add up during a short stay. If you know that ordinarily the Mooch can afford to pay his own way, you will deeply resent footing the bill for his vacation. Revamp your plans—skip Manhattan and concentrate on the sights nearer to home. However, if the Mooch is a young and inexperienced traveler, or worse, a college student, have a heart and treat the poor soul.

#3 THE CHILD OR ANIMAL HATER. If you have pets or kids, do not ever, EVER entertain persons known to have a pronounced dislike for one of the above. Nor should you harbor in your home an individual who is allergic to the same. Why ban your dog or cat to the basement for days on end? Even if you didn't mind initially, you'll soon enough feel guilty about it. What's more, an allergic guest will probably sniffle and sneeze anyway because you are unable to eliminate every animal hair floating about. If your guest is an animal-hater and you don't confine the pet, you will bristle at the tension between them throughout the visit. Similarly, when you entertain a person who can't stand kids, you will be acutely uncomfortable each time the baby cries or your child misbehaves even slightly.

#4 THE SNOOP. This visitor plays his own version of Twenty Questions. He wants to know the price of your new windows, what your taxes are, how many years are left on your mortgage. Most of the Snoop's queries are intended to ascertain your current financial situation, but he also poses other personal questions, such as whether all your children were planned and why you did/did not nurse them.

#5 THE IMPROVER. The Improver wants to fix up your appearance, your house and your family. You should lose 20 pounds, dye your hair, dress differently. Improvers who rent think you should extend the kitchen, add a bath, finish the basement. You need to change the color of newly painted rooms, rehang your pictures, reupholster your chairs. Improvers who have no front or back yard gleefully designate the shrubs and trees you should eliminate. Childless Improvers advise you as to the correct time to begin potty training. Improvers are usually relatives.

#6 THE COMPLAINER. Pleasing the Complainer is an impossible task undertaken only by masochists. The Complainer measures everything against an unattainable standard of perfection. During a year abroad I shared an apartment with a European who subsequently wrote to announce that she would spend a month with me in the States. I replied that two weeks would be fine, but when she arrived, this woman informed me that she had to stay FIVE weeks or pay a very stiff penalty for her plane ticket. Because of strict laws in her country, the funds she'd brought with her were quite limited. She stayed the five weeks, and a once lovely friendship suffered irreparable harm. New York was too hot, the subway was too hot, my apartment was too hot.

The theatres were too cold, the supermarket was too cold, the restaurants were too cold. My apartment (Queens) was too far from Manhattan. At my own expense, I accompanied this visitor to events that did not interest me, only to listen to her complain that the man in front of us was too tall ("I can't see a thing!") or the music was not her cup of tea, or our seats were no good and overpriced besides. At her insistence we attended a church service in Harlem, but she was disappointed in the Gospel music. In the course of her entire visit, my guest made only two positive observations about America and Americans. At the Children's Zoo in Central Park, she commented, "This is what Americans excel at — things for children. Because Americans are all big kids themselves." After seeing "42nd Street," she acknowledged that the American musical is wonderful. For the rest, everything in America is too expensive. American meals taste like they came from a drugstore. Americans are all too fat ("Even the poor people are fat!") and too rude. Americans have too much money, but no skill in the art of living. A steady barrage of this brings out the flag-waver in us all.

In spite of the obnoxious types profiled here, most guests have enriched our lives with happy memories of their visits, and we look forward to entertaining them again. Hosting out-of-towners forces us to rediscover the exciting tourist spots in the area. Best of all, our shared experiences renew the bonds with family and friends who are distant only because of geography.

REAL WINNER

The Portuguese Restaurant Arlindo's on Mineola Boulevard, Mineola, is a real winner. The arched entrance to the restaurant makes you feel as though you are entering a retreat long ago. The decor is beautiful inside with a bright and new appearance.

Featured on the menu are fish and meat dishes with a distinct Portuguese flavor.

We were well satisfied with the food which included Shrimp cocktails paella (a combination of many fine fish treats including lobster, mussels, shrimp and scallops.). The service was very good and Arlindo, the owner, personally thanked us for being among his guests. We highly recommend this restaurant. T.R.

TOPS IN DINNERS

The New Hyde Park Inn is a landmark on Jericho Turnpike in New Hyde Park. Most people have been there many times for one banquet or another. Throughout the years it has served as a top catering hall for many affairs.

As a restaurant it is equally good. We went there last week and found that it has a full menu for dinner and that all of the good things that were at banquets can be had in the restaurant. Because it is a festive type place it is a great one to celebrate a birthday as we did. Tell your readers that the New Hyde Park Inn is tops for dinners. We know. We were there. Y.R.

GOOD RESTAURANT

A surprisingly good local restaurant is the Surfside on Hillside Ave. in New Hyde Park. This good sea food restaurant has been discovered by many other people who assemble there on almost any night of the week.

We were there on Thursday and found that their shrimp scampi and red snapper were wonderful. The preparation of the food and the entire look of the restaurant is appetizing. It is of new construction and everything looks spic and span. The food was deliciously cooked and the fish was as fresh as if it were caught a few hours before. This is a very good restaurant. G.F.

Q. Who is served first at table and when is the proper time to begin eating? F.P.G.

A. The hostess is not served first unless she is the only lady at the table or is alone with her husband and children. If grandmother or even a young girl guest is present the dishes are first presented to her after inspection by the hostess. When the hostess is serving from in front of her place, with or without the aid of a servant, she is served next to last and her husband last. For her to serve herself earlier will mean her food will be cold and her filled plate in the way.

After several people have been served, urged by the hostess, guests begin eating so their food will not be cold. And, except at breakfast, the polite husband waits until his wife has been served before beginning to eat.

Q. Is it considered bad manners to take anything to drink to your lips while there is still food in your mouth?

A. Yes, because this may leave particles of food in the beverage or leave an unattractive smear on the glass. Your mouth should be empty before you take anything to drink. Certainly you should avoid the effect of "washing down" food that is already in your mouth. It is amazing how many people are guilty of this breach of etiquette.

Q. Why in some restaurants do I have to sit there so long before the waitress gives me the check?
A. Well the answer to your question is hard to define. It might be simply because the restaurant is so busy that the waitress hasn't time to add up the check. But at some of the better restaurants you will never get a check unless you ask for it. In these establishments they feel that the guests should decide how long they wish to talk or occupy the space after eating and only on rare occasions will they bring a check that has not been solicited and then with apologies.

Q. Some restaurants make a big thing over a lobster tank, but I think it is disgusting to have to kill these animals in order to get a meal. Why do they have these tanks?
A. The reason is simply that lobster has to be freshly killed to be eaten. The lobster tank lets the diner see that what he is getting is really fresh lobster. Possibly some squeamish people believe that the lobster tank should be somewhere else but most diners want to see the live ones and if you do not, you should be suspicious. They are killed instantly in boiling water.

TRIP INTO PAST

We always feel that we have a fine time and wonderful food when we visit George Washington Manor in Roslyn. It is like a trip into the past with modern food and service to visit the Manor.

They have a good menu of American food that is cooked just right. Last week we had a party of four people who visited the G.W. Manor and had entrees which included fish, beef, and veal. Every person in our group said that they thought this restaurant is one of the finest they had ever been to. We decided then that we should spread the word around and decided to make this call J.H.

KITCHEN HINTS

Steaming without extra gadgets

Steaming food is healthy and can be done with equipment already in the kitchen.

Here's how to do it:

1. Pour about an inch of water in a deep pot.
2. Suspend sieve or colander in pot. Line with wet dishcloth.
3. Place food in sieve. Fold extra cloth over food, cover with lid and steam. Cloth prevents food discoloration from contact with metals.

READER RATINGS

Q. Recently I was a guest at a club luncheon in a restaurant. Accidentally, I overturned my tomato juice. What was the right thing to do? The waiter didn't see the accident immediately. T.L.

A. A waiter seeing such an accident would immediately change the cloth, or if that was impossible at a long table, would spread a clean napkin over the spilled food. As the waiter did not do this because he was busy elsewhere, at a large luncheon you could have spread a napkin over the spot yourself, without undue discussion of the incident. Everyone occasionally has things like this happen.

GOOD LANDMARK

The Davenport Press, which has been around as a printing shop but never a restaurant, for many years is a good restaurant.

They must have performed a miracle to change the old Davenport Press building on Main Street, Mineola into a restaurant. But let me tell you it is a good one.

There are several large intimate rooms. The large one we were in contains a real fireplace. There is a long bar at one end of the building. The menu is a good one. We had prime ribs that were juicy and tender with an appetizer called "Davey Jones Locker". It contained different types of seafood, shrimp, oysters and other choice pieces. We recommend the Davenport Press.

Grilling seafood

Are you one of the many people who are intimidated by the idea of cooking fish on your home grill? Perfectly understandable. Perhaps you tried it once a few years ago and ended up with a few shreds of dried-up fish on the table, having scraped most of the dinner into the fire when you tried to turn the fish and you discovered that it had glued itself to the grids of the grill!

The reason that most meats and chicken in its skin do so well cooked over the dry heat of a barbecue fire is that they contain a fair proportion of natural fat and thus are self-basting and less apt to dry out. Fish and other seafood, being much leaner and often having quite delicate flesh, usually need a little help in the way of an oil-based marinade to retain moisture. Lean, delicate types of fish such as fillets of sole, flounder, cod, snapper or bass are best brushed with seasoned oil and cooked in a hinged grill basket so that the fillets can be turned without sticking and falling apart.

We have chosen here two sturdier types of seafood that can be cooked directly on the grill with wonderful results. Butterflied in the manner we describe, the shrimp shells provide additional insulation from the high heat of the barbecue fire, resulting in beautifully moist meat. The basting sauce is well-spiced with cayenne so use a little less of the hot pepper if your palate can't take the heat. Serve with steamed corn and plenty of crusty French bread to dip in the sauce.

Swordfish and tuna are two fish that take well to grilling and the mustard marinade in our recipe can be used on either with delicious results. We can find swordfish chunks in our area — the pieces left over after the steaks are cut from the huge fish — and they usually are a little cheaper. Just make sure they're large enough (at least 1½ inches square) so that they don't dry out before they brown. Accompanied by herbed rice, a salad of green beans and red onion and served with a glass of chilled white wine, this is a summer meal to dream about.

SPICY GRILLED BUTTERFLIED SHRIMP

20-24 large shrimp (about 1½ pounds)
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
Lemon wedges for serving

Prepare and light barbecue fire or preheat gas grill.

To butterfly shrimp, cut through underside of body until you reach black vein that runs down back. Remove vein. Make sure you cut through tails of shrimp and then flatten by pressing firmly with heel of hand.

In saucepan melt butter with olive oil. Add lemon juice, garlic, salt and cayenne pepper and stir to combine.

Brush shrimp with some of butter-oil mixture and place meat side down on moderately hot grill. Cook for 2-3 minutes, turn to shell side, and cook another 1-2 minutes. Transfer to platter, drizzle with any remaining butter-oil mixture, garnish with lemon wedges and serve.

Preparation and Cooking Time: 30 minutes (excluding time to make the fire).

Yield: 4 servings.

GRILLED SWORDFISH WITH MUSTARD-HERB MARINADE

1½ pounds swordfish — either chunks or steaks cut at least 1½ inches thick
½ cup olive oil
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons minced shallots or scallions
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon chopped fresh basil or 1 teaspoon dried
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
Sprigs of fresh basil as optional garnish

Prepare and light barbecue fire or preheat gas grill.

Leave steaks whole or cut fish in 2-inch chunks.

In mixing bowl combine oil, mustard, lemon juice, minced shallots and garlic, basil, salt, and pepper. Add fish to bowl, tossing gently to coat, and marinate for 10 minutes.

Remove swordfish from marinade and cook on moderately hot grill turning several times for total of about 10 minutes or until fish tests done. Place on serving platter, brush with leftover marinade and garnish with sprigs of basil before serving.

Preparation and Cooking Time: 30 minutes (excluding time to make the fire).

Yield: 4 servings.

Note: Fish may be cooked in stove broiler with excellent results if desired.

microwave magic

By Desiree Viveca

It's hard to believe those long, lazy summer days have rolled along so quickly — it seems like summer vacation just began a few weeks ago. And it's equally hard to gear up for fall and school days so fast approaching.

"Back to school" used to be synonymous with "back to brown bag routine," and the daily chorus, "What's for lunch today?" chanted by schoolchildren coast to coast. Today, most schools provide nutritious, balanced lunches but sometimes the kiddies want to pack their own. So check out your microwave cookbooks for recipes for unusual snacks, sandwich fillings and wholesome desserts to lure them away from the candy and soft drink dispensers.

Shop around for colorful vacuum containers to pack foods that need to be kept cold or hot. Carve a happy face on a fat red apple. Jot an encouraging note on their lunch napkins. When their hopeful little faces peer into their Hulk Hogan lunch pails, you will feel good knowing you helped brighten their day.

With your microwave, and these recipes to start with, you can provide delightfully varied and nutritious lunches for your little loved ones.

A departure from the standard bread, filling and mayo sandwich, pizza rolls make a tasty lunch. Place on a colorful paper plate, wrap in plastic wrap and provide a plastic fork.

PIZZA ROLLS

1 pound ground beef
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 clove garlic, pressed or finely chopped
½ cup thick tomato sauce
½ teaspoon basil or oregano
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 Italian rolls (6 inches long)
¼ shredded mozzarella cheese

Preparation Time: 5 minutes

Cooking Time: 18½ to 21½ minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power); LOW (20 percent power).

Combine beef, onion and garlic in 1-quart glass baking dish.

Cover. Microwave at HIGH for 7½ to 9 minutes or until beef begins to brown, stirring twice. Drain off fat. Stir in tomato sauce, oregano, salt and pepper.

Split rolls in half lengthwise and arrange in oblong baking dish. Spoon on beef mix and top with cheese. Microwave, uncovered at LOW for 11 to 12½ minutes.

Your kids will be the envy of the cafeteria when they unpack their barbecued chicken thighs. Pack these tasty finger foods in a vacuum container and provide plenty of napkins.

BARBECUED CHICKEN THIGHS

2 pounds chicken thighs (about 8)
¼ cup cola
Salt
1 cup ketchup

Preparation Time: 5 minutes

Cooking Time: 15 to 17 minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Arrange chicken in ceramic skillet, skin side down. Pour cola over chicken. Microwave on HIGH for 10 minutes, turning chicken pieces over halfway through cooking time.

Drain off about ¼ cup cola. Sprinkle chicken with salt, as desired. Pour ketchup over chicken. Microwave on HIGH for 5 to 7 minutes, until chicken is tender, turning chicken pieces over halfway through cooking time.

CHOCOLATE GRANOLA BARS

1 (6-ounce) package semisweet chocolate pieces
¼ cup peanut butter
4 cups granola

Preparation Time: 2 minutes

Cooking Time: 2 to 2½ minutes (plus 1 hour for chilling)

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Place chocolate pieces in 2-quart glass bowl. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH for 2 to 2½ minutes, or until melted. Stir in peanut butter. Blend till smooth. Fold in granola.

Turn mixture into 8-inch square baking dish lined with wax paper. Chill until set, about 1 hour. Cut in bars. Store in refrigerator.

GREAT GRANOLA

3 cups oats, quick or old-fashioned
1 cup coarsely chopped nuts, preferably almonds or filberts
½ cup wheat germ
¼ cup packed brown sugar
¼ cup honey 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
¼ cup shredded coconut
¼ cup chopped apricots
¼ cup raisins

Preparation Time: 5 minutes

Cooking Time: 12 to 13½ minutes (plus cooling time)

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Place oats in 13x9x2-inch oblong baking dish. Microwave on HIGH 6 minutes, stirring twice. Stir in honey and vanilla. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH 6 to 7½ minutes, stirring 3 times.

Add coconut, apricots and raisins to mix. Stir occasionally as granola cools, to break up. Store in tightly lidded container.

Cooking Corner

By Antonia Allegra

Marjorie Fortier has the knack of mentally cooking an original recipe before she ever measures her ingredients or gets out her pans.

It is a talent that won the Connecticut woman $10,000, the top prize in the 37th National Chicken Cooking Contest held in Jackson, Miss.

"After I mentally cook a dish, I write it down, including measurements and cooking instructions. Then I prepare it," Fortier said.

Fortier said she cooked a chicken-avocado-cheese dish for supper one evening and her husband was enthusiastic about it. So was each of her three sons and her daughter. It was then she felt she had a winner with her Chicken Avocado Melt recipe. She is always looking for new chicken recipes because she serves chicken for dinner about four times a week, she said.

A retired registered nurse, she now works part-time as a travel agent and enters four or five cooking contests a year. "I always enter the chicken contest and, if you'll pardon the expression, the beef contest."

She will spend some of her winnings on a trip to Mexico for herself and her husband.

Fortier was one of five national winners who finished in the money, sharing a total of $20,000 in prize money from the sponsoring National Broiler Council, a trade association for the chicken industry. The competition, which is held every other year, included cooking the recipe twice during the three-hour cook-off. Each contestant had his or her own mini-kitchen.

There were nine men among the 51 finalists but none placed as a national winner. Each judge did not taste all 51 dishes. Instead, the judges were divided into five groups of three — with each panel tasting 10 or 11 dishes. The problem with some of the entries was "overkill," according to the judges. But not for the rest of the national winners, who had the "right stuff" when it came to preparing chicken:

Gloria Kirchman of Mankato, Minn., won the $4,000 second-place award for an original recipe for a chicken, fruit and wild rice salad. It was not the first time chicken has been a money-maker for Kirchman. She used to pluck and dress chickens for Minnesota farmers for 50 cents each.

She now is the housewares manager for a hardware store and gives cake-decorating classes. Married at 13, she had a husband and two children to cook for by age 16 and it fueled her interest in cooking. At 39, she already has six grandchildren.

Kirchman showed her sense of humor in the original title she placed on her recipe. She called it Mosquito Lagoon Chicken Salad because her area of Minnesota has large mosquitoes: "But the contest people took out the word. They thought it sounded unsavory."

Third-place winner Rose Lewis of Van Tassell, Wyo., proved persistence paid off in cooking chicken. This was the sixth time she had won the chicken cook-off's state finals to earn a trip to the national event. But this was the first time she landed in the money, earning $3,000 for Lemon Mustard Chicken.

The wife of a retired rancher, Lewis lives in the tiny community called Van Tassell, population 13, where even a trip to the grocery store means a 50-mile drive.

"I like to think up new recipes and we eat a lot of chicken because it's easy to buy and store in the freezer." (She shops every 10 days to two weeks.)

Ann Combs practiced cooking her fourth-place prize-winning dish 10 times before the finals.

"My husband really got into it," said Combs of her Bittersweet Farm Chicken, which won $2,000. "He would say, 'Try it again and this time put the parsley up in the left-hand corner.'"

Combs is a retired nurse and she and her husband are restoring a old farm house built in the 1800s in Ashland, N.H.

The fifth-place winner, Nelda Smith of Texhoma, Okla., said her Chicken in Lemon Sauce was an original recipe. "I had some lemons and some cream in my refrigerator that needed to be used," said Smith, an accountant and sales representative who also cooks a lot. "My husband is a farmer so I'm always cooking for field hands."

The recipe, which won her $1,000 in prize money, was the only one she entered in the cook-off.

CHICKEN AVOCADO MELT

4 broiler-fryer chicken breast halves, boned, skinned
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon ground cumin
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon water
¼ cup cornmeal
3 tablespoons cooking oil
1 firm, ripe avocado, peeled, sliced
½ cups shredded Monterey Jack cheese
½ cup sour cream, divided
¼ cup sliced green onions, tops only
¼ cup chopped sweet red pepper
Cherry tomatoes
Parsley sprigs

On hard surface, with meat mallet or similar flattening utensil, pound chicken to ¼-inch thickness. In shallow dish, mix together cornstarch, cumin and garlic salt; add chicken, 1 piece at a time, dredging to coat. In small bowl, mix egg and water. In another small bowl, place cornmeal. Dip chicken, first in egg and then in cornmeal, turning to coat.

In large frypan, place oil and heat to medium temperature; add chicken and cook 2 minutes on each side. Remove chicken to shallow baking pan; place avocado slices over chicken and sprinkle with cheese. Bake in 350 F oven about 15 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease and cheese melts.

Top chicken with sour cream, dividing equally; sprinkle with green onion and red pepper. Garnish with cherry tomatoes and parsley.

Yields 4 servings.

LAGOON CHICKEN SALAD

2 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved, boned, skinned
1½ cups unsweetened apple juice
3 cups cooked wild rice, prepared according to package instructions
1½ cups seedless green grapes, halved
1 cup chopped unpeeled apple
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup slivered almonds, divided
½ cup chopped water chestnuts
Spinach leaves
Dressing (recipe follows)

In deep saucepan, place chicken; add apple juice and cook over medium heat about 15 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Remove chicken, from pan, reserve broth for other use, if desired. Dice chicken and chill. Gently toss together chicken, wild rice, grapes, apple, celery, ¼ cup of slivered almonds and water chestnuts. Add dressing and toss lightly. Cover and chill about 30 minutes to blend flavors. To serve, place spinach leaves on platter, spoon chicken mixture on top and sprinkle with remaining ¼ cup of slivered almonds.

Yields 4 servings.

Dressing: Mix together 1 cup mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon seasoned salt and ¼ teaspoon cinnamon.

LEMON MUSTARD CHICKEN

6 broiler-fryer chicken thighs
5 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
3 tablespoons fresh lime juice
4 tablespoons prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon white pepper
¼ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon ground oregano
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
6 tablespoons margarine
Lemon slices
Lime slices
Parsley

In small bowl, mix together lemon juice, lime juice and mustard; brush over chicken, coating well, and set aside. In shallow dish, mix together salt, pepper, curry powder, oregano, lemon peel and bread crumbs. Roll chicken in bread crumb mixture, turning to coat on all sides. In heavy baking pan or iron skillet, place margarine and melt over medium heat. Add chicken, skin side down, and place in 350 F oven. Bake, uncovered, 20 minutes; turn chicken and bake 30 minutes longer or until fork can be inserted with ease. Place chicken on serving platter and garnish with lemon, lime and parsley.

Yields 4 servings.

BITTERSWEET FARM CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
8 tablespoons butter, divided
2 tablespoons julienne orange peel
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup orange-flavored liqueur
1 tablespoon soy sauce
¼ cup honey
8 whole cooked baby carrots

In paper bag, mix together flour, salt and pepper; add chicken, a few pieces at a time, and shake to coat all sides. In large baking pan, place 4 tablespoons of butter and heat until melted. Roll chicken in butter to coat all sides and arrange, skin side down, in single layer. Bake in 350 F oven 30 minutes. In small saucepan, place remaining 4 tablespoons butter and melt over medium heat; stir in orange peel, lemon juice, liqueur, soy sauce and honey. Set aside 2 tablespoons mixture. Remove chicken from oven, turn and pour orange-honey mixture over chicken. Return to oven and bake, basting occasionally, 30 minutes longer or until chicken is glazed and fork can be inserted with ease. Add reserved glaze to carrots and serve with chicken.

Yields 4 servings.

CHICKEN IN LEMON SAUCE

4 whole chicken breasts, halved, boned, skinned
¼ cup margarine
2 tablespoons white wine
¼ teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
1 cup cream
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 cup sliced mushrooms
Lemon wedges
Parsley

In large frypan, place margarine and melt over medium heat. Add chicken and saute about 10 minutes or until chicken is brown and fork can be inserted with ease. Remove chicken to oven-proof serving dish. Drain margarine from fry pan and add wine, lemon peel and lemon juice. Cook 1 minute; add salt and pepper. Pour in cream, stirring constantly and heat but do not boil. Pour sauce over chicken; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and mushrooms. Set oven temperature at broil with rack about 6 inches from heat. Broil until chicken is lightly browned. Garnish with lemon wedges and parsley.

Yields 8 servings.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q: In June 1986 we had a deck built that was attached to the east and south walls of our home. The deck is about 48 inches above ground. There is a railing about 38 inches high around the deck with pickets 6 inches apart. The deck is constructed of Wolmanized pressure-treated lumber with a lifetime guarantee against damage by insects or decay.

When the deck was constructed, the contractor said no sealer or protective coating should be used for the deck. However, the deck shows fading, weathering and some warping of the 2-by-6-inch boards for the deck and railing top. I have been told to apply a liberal coating of Cuprinol to protect the deck and railings. The contractor maintains that no protective coating should be used.

Should the deck be covered with a sealer and protective coating? If so, how should it be treated initially and how frequently should the coating be reapplied? — M.B.

A: I definitely would recommend a protective treatment for your deck. Be sure the wood is thoroughly dry before proceeding. You can use a semitransparent stain with an alkyl base that has a water repellent in it if you prefer a colorized treatment. Otherwise, treat with a water repellent recommended for exterior wood that is subject to weathering (Cuprinol is one).

If the deck is exposed to moisture from the underside, this should also be treated to prevent warping. If the ground under the deck is also subject to excessive moisture, you can provide further protection for your decking by covering the ground area with a heavy polyethylene plastic covering. Simply lay it on the ground area under the decking and weight the edges and seams down with bricks.

Q: I want to remove old linoleum that is glued to a previous one. Contractors here refuse to do it because of the asbestos dust involved. My problem is how to get rid of the old glue, which is yellow and hard as a rock. Would you suggest something to dissolve this old glue? — L.A.O.

A: Since the first layer of your flooring seems to be an asbestos tile or sheet flooring, I suggest that you contact a specialist in the removal of asbestos. The reason your second flooring was placed over the first was to avoid the release of asbestos fibers, which can become airborne with the removal of the flooring.

Asbestos is a health risk only when its fibers are released into the air and become breathable. This doesn't happen unless the asbestos is damaged, disturbed or deteriorated. With the removal of the flooring, you will be running a risk. There are contractors trained to follow Environmental Protection Agency regulations when asbestos must be removed.

Improper removal can create high levels of asbestos contamination, which has been linked to cancer. Information on testing for asbestos and its removal is available from the EPA. To get this data, call the EPA at (202) 554-1404 (or write Toxic Substances Control Assistance Office, TS-799, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, 401 M St. S.W., Washington, DC 20460) and ask for an asbestos information packet.

Most local health departments are able to refer home owners to trained inspectors and contractors authorized for the removal of asbestos materials.

Q: I have a brick house that is 3 years old. Do you recommend using Thompson's Water Seal on the bricks? I would like to seal them to prevent decay. — F.M.A.

A: A quality terrazzo sealer would provide the best protection, although Thompson's Water Seal can be used for this purpose. Check with your local masonry dealer for recommendations on the terrazzo sealer.

Be sure that the brick surface is clean prior to applying a sealer. Application of a sealer will change the coloring of the brick somewhat, making it appear darker.

er in first-degree relatives — parents, children and siblings — of Alzheimer's patients than for people without immediate relatives with the disease. In comparing the U.S. mortality tables with the Alzheimer's disease rates found in this investigation, the researchers determined that immediate relatives of Alzheimer's patients have a 12.1 percent, or one in six, chance of developing Alzheimer's disease.

"The potential implications of this study for society are enormous. Alzheimer's disease affects 1 million people already, and advances in the prevention and treatment of other diseases are constantly lengthening the average life expectancy of humans. Thus," say the researchers, "more and more people who have inherited the genetic predisposition for Alzheimer's are surviving long enough to develop the disorder."

For those mature adults without a direct family line affected by Alzheimer's, the probability or possibility of contracting the disease is dramatically lessened. For those adults with the disease identified within the near-family line, the probability still is that they will not contract Alzheimer's, but can be alerted to seek medical opinion early. New medications, such as THA, are being authorized — for limited use — to alleviate and defer the symptoms of the disease for a considerable time.

Most adults can forget the politicians and the alarmists and their broadbrush claims. Alzheimer's disease is not a part of the aging process.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Dr. Wallace: I am 15 and live with my mom, 17-year-old brother and 14-year-old sister. We are a very close, happy family. About a year ago our father died of leukemia. We miss him very much but his love has kept our family strong.

Our problem is that our dad's mother is unhappy that he is buried in Florence and wants him reburied in North Dakota next to his father. She keeps putting pressure on us and we don't know what to say to her anymore.

We realize that our father was her son but we don't want him so far away from us. What should we do? — Tammy Tammy: Your father's resting place should be where your mother desires and that is in Florence, Ala.

A firm, "Grandmother, we love you but our father will not be buried in North Dakota and that is final," should be sufficient whenever grandmother brings up the subject.

Dr. Wallace: I'm 16 and a bit upset. I have a full-time job this summer and I make pretty good money. When I get paid by check my mother cashes it and gives me $20 a week to spend. The rest is put into a savings account with my mom's name and my name on it.

Last week I saw the account book on the table in the living room so I looked at it. I should have had over $500 in it but all that was there was $100. Over $400 was withdrawn.

When I asked my mother about it she told me to never question her about money and that she would return the money "in due time."

Your comments please. — Barbara

Barbara: Your mother should have asked you to borrow the money if it was for her personal use or told you she was borrowing the money if for a family emergency. In any case, you should be repaid.

Dr. Wallace: I just finished an article in your column about the girl who was fed up being called names because she was overweight. She was asking teens not to tease other teens who were fat.

This reminded me of a fat girl who was in one of my classes last year. "Miss Piggy" was at least 60 pounds overweight, and all she ever did when kids called her names was to run crying to the teacher. Yet when anyone brought snacks into the room, she was the first one to beg for some of it. At lunchtime, all you would ever see her stuff her face with was cakes, pies, cookies and potato chips. Whenever anyone would say anything about her junk-food habit, she would respond by saying, "Mind our own business."

What I'm trying to say is that this girl deserved every name that she was called. If she doesn't have the courage to go on a diet, then she should not complain when she is called names. After all, it's us kids who have to look at her. She is lucky, she only sees herself when she looks in a mirror.

If I was fat and people called me names, I'd get skinny, and in a hurry. — Pat

Pat: Calling people names is cruel and usually causes the "victim" moments of hurt and depression.

All you see is a teenager who overeats and is overweight. You don't see the emotional stress that causes her to overeat.

This girl needs professional counseling and friendship, not ridicule and name-calling.

Dr. Wallace: I'd like to respond to the girl who was complaining because she had to work in her father's office after school and on Saturdays. Poor baby! She feels punished.

I consider it a privilege to work for my father three afternoons a week and all day on Saturdays. I've been doing this for the past two years and feel it's a great deal. He needs a part-time helper and I enjoy earning my own money. This also has given me the opportunity of knowing my father much better.

I also have my home chores that include helping with the dishes, doing the laundry, working in the garden and mowing the lawn. I also taxi my younger brother and sister to ball games, meetings, friends' homes, etc.

The majority of homework is done at school. Some of my teachers allow time at the end of the period to study. Most students goof off — I do my homework.

I go out with my boyfriend on Saturday nights and often he goes out with my family on Sundays.

Don't get me wrong, I'm far from being perfect. I hate doing the dishes and I despise chemistry and trigonometry and I sure will be happy when my sister gets her driver's license in four months. I sometimes complain about these things, but I do them because they are my responsibility.

Debbie: Your letter made my day! Families that cooperate and help one another can do nothing else but be happy.

Here's to your good health in the mature years — with a handful of breaking news items for this week.

EXERCISE FOR BONE STRENGTH

New research from the University of California at San Francisco provides most positive recommendations for assuring the best and most spinal bone density to avoid or lessen the effects of osteoporosis. The recommendation: exercise.

By comparing CAT scans of the spines in men who pursued vigorous exercise programs and those who led sedentary lives, the researchers, for the first time, analyzed the types of exercise for the most productive results.

The greatest spinal bone density was in men who combined weight training with either free weights or resistance equipment, such as Nautilus machines, and aerobic exercises, such as running or aerobics classes. Those who exercised only with weights came out second in bone density, followed by those who just did aerobics. Non-exercisers had the lowest spinal bone density.

Osteoporosis is a condition "that may not be detected until a bone is broken, but it probably can be prevented," announced the medical researchers.

THE ALZHEIMER FAMILY LINE

Most anyone in the mature years could become scared and confused by the general reportage about Alzheimer's disease. The illness is a tragic one for those afflicted through a gradual loss of mental ability. Some politicians and some alarmists pontificate on the basis that "everyone" will get Alzheimer's — but the statements and claims are false. Most senior citizens will never contract the disease, and new research published in the Archives of General Psychiatry (May 1987) centers the disease mainly as an inherited one, rather than one assumed as a condition or result of aging.

Kenneth Davis, M.D., Richard Mohs, Ph.D., John Breitner, M.D., and Jeremy Silverman, Ph.D., of the Mount Sinai School of Medicine and the Bronx Veterans Administration Medical Center in New York City have published the results of their research to show Alzheimer's as a genetic disorder.

The investigators found that the risk for developing Alzheimer's disease is four to five times great-

Time to move your houseplants inside

Every year at about this time I set aside a special day to arrange our family's collection of cleaned and de-bugged houseplants into their permanent locations indoors.

After summer's fattening outdoors and a thorough cleaning, our houseplants always make their return indoors looking fetchingly sleek and lovely. The trick is to keep them looking that way for as long as possible during the winter months.

Because so much of the success and pleasure we enjoy in our houseplants depends upon finding indoor conditions as congenial as possible to each type of plant, the first thing I do is to group the plants according to their needs. This gives me the chance to appraise the amount of space each category of plant will require. Then I go through the house assessing likely spots for one group at a time.

Once I decide upon the best possible location for a group of plants I clean it well, paying special attention to window troughs and ledges where insect pests can sometimes be lurking. Then, when I arrange a group of plants in their carefully chosen location I take care not to crowd them, for all house plants benefit from the fresh air that comes with free circulation of air around them. Our plants will also display their charms most attractively when spaced well.

Arranging houseplants together indoors according to their light, temperature, soil moisture and air humidity requirements greatly simplifies their care, and eliminates the disappointments that are inevitable when plants are forced to battle conditions under which they cannot thrive.

Federal Convention Considers Finances Debts, Salaries and Taxes

Philadelphia, August 27, 1787 (Delayed) - In almost any organization, the question of who pays for what is sure to arise. The Federal Convention, meeting here since May, has now encountered this in regard to the new government they are proposing. One group feels that the central government should assume all state debts on the grounds that they had been incurred for the common good during the Revolution. States which have paid off substantial parts of their debts do not look favorably on this proposal.

The major source of the central government's income to do this would be its power to tax imports.

After the usual expression of diverse viewpoints, the question was put into the hands of a special committee. It produced a suggestion that all debts valid against the Confederation would be also valid against the new government. This avoids the difficult question of defining a valid debt. The suggestion was accepted and is being written into the new Constitution.

Earlier the convention had agreed that members of Congress are to be paid from the national treasury, rather than by the states.

Both of these actions are a reflection of the increasing acceptance of the power that would be given to Congress to raise funds through a tariff applied equally throughout the country. This is a power presently held by the individual states. They use it extensively and are understandably reluctant to give it up, but probably will do so.

In another action the Convention ended its experiment with longer meeting days. It interfered with the delegates' dinner hour.

Though few of our homes can offer absolutely perfect sites for indoor plants, we can at least select the most congenial possible conditions for each type. Tropical foliage plants, for example, form the backbone of many a houseplant collection. These thrive best in bright indirect light at normally warm room temperatures, ideally with a slight drop at night. They appreciate good humidity levels in the air, which is easiest to maintain when they're grouped together. The most common cause of failure with these plants, and many other types, during the winter is overwatering.

Some of the most popular houseplants in this tropical foliage category are palms, philodendron, dracaena and schefflera, asparagus and other ferns, wandering Jew, Chinese evergreen, Swedish ivy and the foliage begonias including the rex and angel wing types.

Spathe flower, or peace lily, is one of the few houseplants what will bloom in similar conditions of bright indirect light. But as a general rule of thumb most indoor flowering plants, while they require roughly similar temperature and humidity conditions as the foliage plants, need higher light levels. In fact in areas with low-light winters flowering indoor plants will bloom only in the brightest possible sites.

I'm thinking of such popular indoor flowering plants as wax and rieger begonias, impatiens, and hibiscus or Chinese rose, which often blooms well into the fall before it takes a winter rest.

More tolerant of drier air are geraniums and Christmas peppers. I look for one of the coolest, sunniest spots in our house for these plants. Under these conditions our Christmas pepper plants stay gratifyingly colorful and decorative all winter.

Among the most tolerant of plants are the aspidistra, or cast iron plant, and sansevieria, or snake plant. Both these decorative foliage plants stand up well to poor light levels and dry air. The sansevieria requires infrequent watering during the winter.

The popular spider plant is another one that's usually quite easy to locate and care for in most of our homes. It thrives in a wide range of light exposures, is fairly tolerant of dry air, and requires infrequent feeding and watering because of the efficient storage capabilities of its fat tubers. A row of these plants set in hanging baskets forms a graceful curtain across a window.

Furnishing the greenhouse

SUN-ROOM FURNISHINGS — Furnishings for sun rooms and solar additions should be carefully selected for their resistance to sun damage.

Decor Score

By Sharon Owen Haven

Q. We recently added a glass greenhouse to the back of our home for energy conservation and much-needed family room space. Now we're looking for a low-cost, low-maintenance way of furnishing it attractively. Any ideas? — F.B.

A. It's always safest to treat a glass sun room as though it is outdoor space without moisture.

The sun is capable of inflicting serious damage to furnishings despite the various tints and screens used for greenhouses. It will fade and disintegrate the fibers in fabrics and carpets. Woods bleach, dry and crack under its cheerful intensity.

Some home owners solve the problem by using outdoor furniture in their glasshouses. Since these furnishings are made of weather-resistant materials, they hold up well under the intense sunlight.

If you want more of an indoor atmosphere, consider natural wicker or rattan, which withstands the effects of the sun well. Even these materials need an occasional misting of water, however, to keep them from becoming overly dry and brittle.

Most glasshouses have floors of brick, concrete, or ceramic/clay tile because of their heat-absorbing qualities. Anything that covers them will interfere with this energy-conserving process and not last long anyway. I would leave the floors bare.

For comfort's sake, you may want to have some cushions or pillows in the space. My recommendation is to cover them in inexpensive fabrics made with natural fibers such as cotton muslin in very light colors with a minimum of pattern. These fabrics will last the longest, show fading the least and will not be so expensive to replace when they do fall apart (and they inevitably will).

Q. I live in a rural area far from big cities, interior designers and showrooms. I want to make the most of what's available to me locally and do my own decorating, but I don't know much about the "rules" or basic concepts behind interior design. Could you recommend a good text? — J.G.

A. Though there are many fine decorating books which you may want to read as well, I think you could make a good start with "Decorating Made Simple" by Mary Jean Alexander. This inexpensive paperback is published by Doubleday & Co., and is geared to self-study.

What I find particularly useful about it for the beginner is that the author defines in depth the many design terms that are commonly tossed around under the assumption that they are universally understood.

Not only are these terms discussed, but the author also makes good and ample use of illustration to show the reader what a concept means visually and how to recognize its absence. For example, the reader is trained to see the difference between balance and lack of balance is an interior.

Once these difficult concepts are understood, you'll be ready to tackle any interior design book in the library.

Your bowl is a 'bride's basket'

Q. This bowl is red and translucent white glass with a clear handle. There are no marks on the bottom. What can you tell me about it?

A. This is a bride's basket; they were popular wedding gifts around 1900. The correct name for this is opalescent cranberry swirl. A dealer would price this in the $175 to $200 range.

Q. I have a small oval candy dish decorated with a country scene. I am sending you sketch of the mark on the bottom. Please tell me what you can about the origin and value.

A. Your candy dish was made by Carl Thieme in Potschappel, Germany, between World War I and II. It would probably sell in the $65 to $75 range.

Q. Why do experts always look for dovetails in the drawers of furniture? Even some new furniture has dovetails.

A. They don't look for dovetails; they look at dovetails. The handmade dovetails in antique furniture are unequal and unevenly spaced. In modern factory-made furniture the dovetails are uniform in size and spacing.

Since machine-made dovetails have been used for about 100 years, this is only one of many items to examine in the detection of antiques.

A serious disease of newborn foals

Q. Our newborn foal seemed to be very healthy at birth and nursed almost immediately, but died within a few hours.

Our veterinarian thought the foal died because of anemia. What caused this anemia and how can we prevent it in the future?

A. The foal most likely died of a condition called neonatal isoerythrolysis, a very serious disease of newborn foals. A severe anemia develops in the foal because of an incompatibility between the foal's red blood cells and the antibodies obtained from the mare's colostrum during early nursing.

Foals suffering neonatal isoerythrolysis are usually healthy when born, nurse the mare normally and are active for a short period of time. Twelve to 36 hours following birth, they become dull, sluggish, weak, quit nursing, and may be unable to stand. The membranes turn white or yellow. This yellowishness usually is not apparent until 24 to 48 hours following birth and becomes progressively worse during the next few days.

The course of the disease is variable. Foals may die of anemia in 12 to 36 hours. Most foals die on the third or fourth day.

Diagnosis of neonatal isoerythrolysis is based on the clinical signs seen in the foal and on testing the reactions between the mare's blood or colostrum and the foal's blood. Severely affected foals often require blood transfusions to survive.

The treatment of foals with neonatal isoerythrolysis involves removing the foal from the mare or muzzling it so that it cannot nurse for 48 hours. During this period the foal should be fed from another source, an artificial milk replacer or another mare's milk that is compatible with the foal's red blood cells.

Mares with foals with neonatal isoerythrolysis should be hand-milked every two to three hours. The foal can be allowed to nurse its mother after it is approximately 48 hours old because by then the ability to absorb the offending antibodies from the milk is lost.

Neonatal isoerythrolysis is usually not observed until the mare's third or fourth foaling. Mares with a history of having a foal with this disease should be watched closely near foaling time so that the foal can be removed or muzzled until its blood can be tested for compatibility with the mare's colostrum.

Foals can be raised from sensitized mares if managed carefully during the first 48 hours of life.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Shall I or shall I not mention that we are now in the month of September and school will open again next week?

Seriously, I'm sure you've "had it" with the summer and are looking forward to school. The long vacation days are beginning to be a little boring after so many weeks. Soon you'll be back renewing friendships with classmates -- you'll have lots to tell each other after so many weeks apart!

You'll be meeting your new teachers and getting some interesting books to read. You'll also be making new friends, students who have transferred to your school perhaps, or familiar people who suddenly seem more interesting this term than they did last term!

Happy school opening from:

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are: Meredith Stanes and Deanna Vargese. Meredith and Dennis will be hearing from me soon.

The World's Most Beautiful Grandchildren

Here is our granddaughter, Jacqueline Elizabeth Zolda, 2 years old, very well rounded, bright and sweet natured daughter of North Shore Taxidermist Joe Zolda, 'gifted' naturalist. She likes books, baby dolls, swimming in pool, walking in woods, and is not afraid of animals. She loves the animal farm, cats and dogs, Big Bird, Sesame Street characters, Miss Piggy/Muppets and, of course, Grandma and Grandpa.
