TRAVEL TALK

By Ronald Renard

A few weeks ago, on a crisp fall morning, I walked by the Hudson River piers from 55th Street to 48th Street and saw five beautiful cruise ships. They rested serenely at berth - all freshly painted and gleaming in the sunlight, yet with rakish lines that inspired thoughts of adventure, excitement and pleasure.

Well, I soon found the ship I was to visit as a guest of the management and went through the necessary boarding formalities. It was fun walking up the gangway and through the portal, but as I wasn't actually sailing, the nerve-tingling excitement of truly embarking on a cruise didn't hit me until my leave-taking; for it was then that I encountered the first real passengers. They had such a happy look of expectant pleasure and high good humor, and there was such an air of festivity about the scene that it was quite contagious. It had been years since I boarded an ocean liner and I had forgotten how thrilling it was. The scene rekindled all sorts of great memories.

The purpose of my visit was to become familiar with the Royal Cruise Line's ship, The Royal Odyssey, and to re-educate myself about the cruise world in general. And so I did.

I looked, along with other writers and agents, into every nook and cranny. We peeked into state rooms; looked at the shops and lounges; explored the sporting facilities; checked-out the decks, the theater and the dining room; and ended the day learning about the marketing incentives and special money savings options being offered potential passengers.

We all enjoyed the few hours spent onboard this attractive ship. The Royal Odyssey's public rooms were handsome, commodious and very comfortably appointed. The staterooms were compactly comfortable, and the crew could not have been more attentive.

We were told about a number of interesting and innovative programs featured aboard Royal Cruise Line ships: One, is an alternate diet plan based on the American Heart Association's "Eating Away From Home Program," which allows a passenger to eat sumptuously as well as healthily - obviously, overeating does not have to be a way of shipboard life. Another, is a well-received discreet escort program - "congenial single gentlemen, age 50+, to act as 'unofficial' shipboard hosts to single passengers."

Both of the above programs are important to ships that cater to an adult market. So too is a special incentive fare structure for single passengers. On this ship single passengers pay only $25 a day extra for an unshared stateroom.

The cruise industry is competitive, and the Royal Cruise Line has not been left behind. Its incentive plans are very much in place. A "limited time offering" of sizeable fare discounts up to 50% (although most percentage discounts are lower) and savings on early-bird bookings up to $300 per person are being offered by the line. (Discounts and savings vary a good deal according to sailings).

The Royal Odyssey, after a few months cruising in the Pacific, will return to American waters in March for three Panama Canal cruises and will then be repositioned on April 15 to Mediterranean and Northern European waters. It will spend most of the summer and fall of 1988 cruising the Mediterranean on 7, 14, and 21 day itineraries.

The ship is owned by a Greek concern headed by P.S. Pangopoulos and carries an all Greek crew of 360 to care for a passenger capacity of 816.

We (agents and writers) left the ship with very positive feelings. I know we all would have enjoyed a cruise aboard this handsome ship.

Environmental Comm. Meets On Nov. 4

The Town of Oyster Bay Environmental Quality Review Commission (TEQR) has scheduled its next meeting for Wednesday, November 4 at 10:30 a.m. in the Conference Room of the Department of Public Works, 150 Miller Place, Syosset.

The Commission will discuss the applicability of the Town moratorium on various applications pending before the Town Board and revisions to the Town's Environmental Quality Review Law.

Established in 1977, the TEQR Commission is authorized to study, analyze, investigate and report on all environmental impacts of applications submitted to, or actions contemplated by, the Town Board or other Town agencies.

TOB Meets Nov. 17 Over Child Center

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Douglas J. Hynes announced that the Town Board has scheduled an November 17 public hearing on a request for a special use permit in Hicksville.

Hynes said, "The applicant, Wee Care Holding Corp., is requesting a special use permit in the 'G-1' district to allow the operation of a children's day care center."

The property is located on the south side of West Nicholai Street, west of the southwest corner formed by the intersection of Broadway and West Nicholai Street, also known as 21 West Nicholai Street in Hicksville.

The hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday, November 17, beginning at 10 a.m. in the Town Hall East hearing room, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Editor's Notebook

Tuesday Nov. 3 is Election Day and for residents of the Town of Oyster Bay it is an important one. On this election the Supervisor post will be filled. Present Supervisor Joseph Colby is not running for re-election. The GOP has nominated Town Board member Angelo Delligatti of Massapequa. He is running against Democrat Leonard Austin of Jericho.

The election will be the second time Austin is running for the Supervisor post, but the first time he is pitted against a non-incumbent. Delligatti has been on the Town Board for three years but had less seniority than other Board members. Two main problems that the candidates will have to tackle after election is the Town Budget. Austin wants it submitted earlier so that the public can better get involved in the budget process. Delligatti feels that presently citizens can write to the Board and can review it at local libraries before coming to Town hearings.

A second important question is on solid waste disposal. Austin says that the problem requires a regional approach with a cost effective resource recovery system. Delligatti believes that the future lies with looking to the state and federal sources for a full solution.

Although it is still a long shot we are inclined to think that Austin, if elected, might be able to bring better solutions to the problems of the Town than a continuation of the present policies.

Vote your decision on November 3.

THE TOWN has passed a $98 and one half million budget that will increase taxes by 47 percent with just about all of the increase going to truck garbage out of state. The increase will mean about $200 increase per year in the Town taxes for each home....SOME POLLS indicate that Leonard Austin, the Democratic candidate for Supervisor, could beat out Angelo Delligatti for the Town Supervisor post and there are some people in the Jericho area who say that not running Kenneth Diamond for the post cost many votes....PUTTING a roof over the patio of the old Ebbets Field Cafe on Charlotte Ave in Hicksville could spell the end of the restaurant. History Night Proves Successful

The semi-annual Bethpage History Night was again a great success. Speaking to a full house in the Leo Schottland Auditorium of the Bethpage Public Library were Donna Kunzir and Harry Settino. Mrs. Kunzir gave the audience a preview of her forthcoming book on the history of Bethpage 1957-87. She showed photographs of various events and places in the time frame of her book and gave an explanation of each. Mrs. Kunzir expects to have her preliminary copy ready for editing by early 1988 and publishers are being contacted. The History Committee will keep the public informed.

Harry Settino, long time coach and Physical Education teacher at Bethpage High School spoke of his part in the training and coaching of Joe Sambito, Big League pitcher and participant in the 1986 World Series. Mr. Settino said that Joe Sambito is a very down-to-earth person who keeps in touch with his coach and community. Mr. Settino talked of his discipline with his athletes which reminds one of the military. Mr. Settino is an ex-Army officer. Apparently it has paid off. He has coached 4 players who made it to the major leagues.

He also mentioned the small part he played as Assistant Football Coach when "Skip" Macholz became Bethpage's first and so far only Thorpe Award recipient. The Thorpe Award is for Long Island's Outstanding Football Player. He credited Skip's development to Howie Vogts who was Macholz's head coach and mentor.

Approximately 20 fourth graders from Mrs. Olson's class at Central Blvd. School attended as well as interested and involved parents, some of whom had gone through the Bethpage School system and graduated from Bethpage High School.

We want to encourage anyone with facts, stories, clippings, photographs from the era 1957-87 to contribute materials for the archives. Please feel free to call and talk to Donna Kunzir or Buddy Mazzara, at 681-3161.

Local Stores Show Child Art

By Victoria C. Neimick

If change is a strong indicator of growth, then our own Broadway is certainly blooming. Local merchants are improving their images and perhaps even their sales by currently investing in bright new store fronts. Neighbors are smiling with appreciation and real estate values should be on the uprise.

But the best change of all is the one that reaches further than the facade of the building for it lifts the spirits of our youngsters and touches the hearts of our adult population. As you walk past two of the store fronts you can hear people say, "Oh, how sweet!" or "Isn't that nice?" "That's my son's work!" will declare a proud parent. There's excitement on Broadway because a few very special Bethpage merchants have willingly allowed me to display the outstanding artwork of two second grade classes from the Central Boulevard School, mine and Mrs. Sangesland's. The drawing ability of this year's youngsters is so astonishing that it seemed almost criminal to limit exhibiting their artwork to just the boundaries of a classroom bulletin board or to the narrow confines of a school corridor. Such talents need to be shared with a much larger audience. So the new storefront windows seemed to be the next logical show case.

Sol Franklin, manager of "Super Values" (formerly known by some as Shanes) was the first I approached with my subtle "Encourage Our Kids" campaign. Since he so pleasantly allowed me to display the children's Columbus portraits in his front window, I quickly tried my luck across the street at Lou Simonetti's "Bethpage Quality Cleaners". Here too my suggestion was received with much enthusiasm and encouragement. After I hung the last bicycle "masterpiece", along with the class photographs, and was about to leave the shop, one of the employees warmly said, "Thanks for teaching our kids!" I didn't think fast enough to say it all then, but want to publicly say it now to all the folks at "Quality Cleaners" and "Super Values" thanks for making my job more rewarding and thanks for encouraging our kids. The interest you take in our youngsters will certainly make a difference in their lives, because for some kids, the greater the recognition the harder they work and the better the results the greater the self-satisfaction. As young Emily Eglesco says, "That means my pictures are good." And besides, "It's fun!" adds seven year old Joshua Buonamassa. "I feel great my picture is in the store. I wish my brother's could be there too," shares Mike Nazzaro. "Everyone in the world can see our stuff when they go to the stores," explains Tassos Koroneos. "We'll be famous!" yells Jason Edelman. And that's what it's really all about, feeling good about your self and sharing your gifts with others.

There's a great deal of artistic talent in our schools at all the levels. Providing display window space to acknowledge and share young talent is an investment which cost nothing but certainly brings high emotional returns, not just for the kids but for many adults as well. Hopefully many more merchants will give our young budding artist another chance to shine while at the same time brightening the consumer's day and lightening our next visit to their shops.

Church Of Christ Dedicates Property

Norma Levison of the Church of Christ recalls the community changes during the 35 year history of the Church of Christ. The present building has housed several Protestant congregations: the Reformed Church; Holy Trinity Episcopal and the United Methodist Church.

(Photos by Dick Evers, Hicksville Gregory Museum)

Hicksville's Church of Christ had a fine turnout for its property dedication service on Sunday, October 18. Built in 1900, on the earliest church building site (the Union Chapel of 1853), the church grounds and frost overlooking Broadway, were reslandscaped and painted recently.

New Stamp Guide Now Available

The 14th edition of The Postal Service Guide to U.S. Stamps is now available at all postal facilities normally selling philatelic products and also will be sold by mail order from the Philatelic Sales Division in Washington, D.C.

The 320-page "encyclopedia" of U.S. stamps follows the format of earlier editions. An indispensable reference, the Guide is illustrated with full-color reproductions of U.S. stamp issues, beginning with the five-cent Benjamin Franklin and 10-cent George Washington issues of 1847 and continuing through the 1987 holiday stamps. Included also are up-to-date catalog values for single stamps, plate blocks, first day covers, souvenir pages and commemorative panels.

"New stamp collectors will find a special section in the Guide entitled, "Great American Storytellers," which gives helpful advice for starting a stamp collection and basic information about various aspects of the hobby. Yet, it also is designed to be a useful and inexpensive tool for experienced philatelists," says Roger Nienaber, General Manager/Postmaster of the Hicksville Division.

"Featured in the 14th edition is a highlighted chapter on the philatelic homage paid over the years to America's trains and locomotives. There is also a special article devoted to the establishment of Benjamin Franklin Stamp Clubs," he adds.

As in past editions, the Guide also contains a current listing of philatelic centers and major philatelic societies and publications.

Pastor Thomas M. Goodlet welcomes community leaders and members of his congregation at ceremonies marking the Church of Christ property renovation, part of the Hicksville community's "beautification efforts."

The north lane of Broadway (Route 107) was closed to accommodate spectators at the Church of Christ ceremonies recently. Here Pat Felt renders a song especially arranged for the occasion. Among the community-leader-guests present (in left background): Ann Ocker, Town Clerk; Councilman Tom Clark; Assemblyman Fred Parola; Ellie Draycott; John Bedaik; Howard Flanagan.

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark, right, Town Clerk Ann R. Ocker and Assemblyman Fred Parola, second from right, join Tom Goodlet, Pastor, for the dedication of the newly-renovated property of the Church of Christ in Hicksville. The project included total refurbishing of the lawn and shrubs surrounding the church and the placement of a new sign, shown here.

Midland Civics. Starts New Year

On Wednesday evening, November 4, at 7:30 p.m., the Midland Civic Association will hold its first meeting of the new year at the Willer Avenue School. Last year was a glowing success. Our president, Ellie Draycott, organized a coalition of Civic Associations in Hicksville to promote common interests. There was a Hicksville Beautification Day where Town officials were most cooperative; the triangle at Nevada Street and Bethpage Road was landscaped by the Town; the speed on Bethpage Road was lowered, and Grove, Prospect, Franklin and Lenox streets were marked with "No Thru Trucking" signs. Our Association has gained momentum, recognition, and exposure, in its efforts to improve our community.

In keeping with our goals, a wonderful meeting has been planned. Officials from the Hicksville Water District will discuss water conservation, water rates, water purity. Questions will be answered.

Commissioner Richard Blankfire of the Department of Planning and Development will discuss their rules and regulations and address the problems of Code Compliance, Zoning Board of Appeals, Building Department and engineering problems, etc. They will answer specific questions and problems dealing or pertaining to any of the above.

or pertaining to any of the above. Our organization is not only our first line of defense, it is also our vehicle for progress. Don't miss out. Come and bring a friend to this not-to-be missed information meeting. New members will be happily welcomed! Refreshments will be served during a social hour.

Shamrocks Tie Warriors 1-1

By A. Blicker

The Hicksville Shamrocks 1974 travelling soccer team continued their undefeated season by pulling out a 1-1 tie against the Village of Branch Warriors, at the latter's field on Sunday, October 25, to bring their L.I. Junior Soccer League record to 3 wins, no losses, 3 ties.

Both halves were controlled by the wind, which affected anything that was above ground level; the Warriors having the advantage in the first half and the Shamrocks in the second. The Warriors jumped off to an early 1-0 lead, as their striker managed to dribble by three Shamrock defenders and put in the shot. The balance of the first half belonged to the Warriors. In the second half the Shamrocks took over, exerting tremendous offensive pressure. At about the 15 minute mark, striker Jason Kingsley was tripped outside the box. He then put a line drive direct past the Warrior goalie for a 1-1 tie. Although the Hicksville team, as well as the Warriors, had numerous opportunities, the score held up.

The Shamrocks were paced by the exceptional play of right half David Lovato, who had a tremendous day, in both the offensive and defensive ends. Goalkeeper Ed Jacobsen, with some beautiful saves, was always in the right place at the right time. Hicksville fullbacks Chuck Oliver and Kristian Friedrich totally controlled the defense. Brian Harkins at sweeper and Chris Doyle at stopper constantly made their presence felt. Domenick Perillo and Matt Pordum made strong contributions from halfback. Up front, wings Eric Blicker and Kari Rice, as well as striker Jason Kingsley, kept constant pressure on VOB's defense. Greg Szumowski at fullback, Cory Kessler and Kareem Holman at halfback, and Chris Koetter and Jnior Tomlinson at wing, gave valuable rest to the starters and were a force to be reckoned with.

Thanks to the Shamrocks, coach Herb Pordum and assistant coaches Gianni Lovato and Glenn Kingsley, Sr. for another game of aggressive, well played, suspenseful soccer.

Nassau County Executive Thomas S. Guleotta, second left, attended the Hicksville Baseball Association annual awards dinner recently at Anton's in Hicksville. Joining the County Executive are left to right, Councilman Thomas L. Clark, Town of Oyster Bay; Greg Simonelli, President of the Hicksville Baseball Association; Town Clerk Ann R. Ocker, Town of Oyster Bay; and Councilman Angelo Delligatti, Town of Oyster Bay.

Minutemen Beat Sound Beach 3-1

The Hicksville Minutemen 1977 "B" travelling soccer team journeyed to Sound Beach (in the Shoreham-Wading River vicinity) and bested the Wildcats this past Saturday.

Down by a 1-0 score going into the second half, despite heads up soccer play in the first half, the fledgling Minutemen showed their determination by scoring three goals while the defense held Sound Beach at bay.

The goals were scored by Mark Spinner (2) and Jason Brown (1). The remainder of the team, all of who probably had their finest game yet, are: Robin Blicker, Greg Blinder, Mike Coen, Timmy Dalton, Mike Fitzgerald, Sean Flanagan, Anthony Noya, Brian Rigert, Greg Walunas, Mike Whitman, Brian Zeiders and our cool-under-fire goalkeeper Bobby Wagner.

Congratulations to the Minutemen, coach Bill Dalton and assistant Al Blicker for the impressive victory. A special thank you to Seaman & Eisman for generously sponsoring the Minutemen!

Livingstone Given County Honors

For 16 years until his death in 1985, Hicksville's Wally Livingstone directed and coached Nassau County's successful youth hockey program at the Cantlieague Park Ice Rink. When hundreds of his friends and former players dedicated a bronze plaque honoring Mr. Livingstone at the Rink last week, County Executive Thomas S. Guleotta was on hand to proclaim Wally Livingstone Day. The plaque and proclamation cited Mr. Livingstone's "dedication, enthusiasm and guidance" which "developed many young skaters' talents and character." The dedication ceremony featured, left to right, Hempstead Town Clerk Daniel Fisher, Mr. Livingstone's son Todd, County Executive Guleotta, Nassau Commissioner of Recreation and Parks Abram C. Williams, and Mr. Livingstone's longtime assistant coach Doug Abrams.

Fees Are Set For Ice Skating

The Oyster Bay Town Board has approved the 1987-88 Parks Department schedule of fees for the Town's three ice skating rinks, according to Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond.

All rinks will open for public skating sessions beginning Friday, November 27, weather permitting.

"The general admission price at the recently refurbished outdoor rinks, located at the Bethpage, Marjorie R. Post, Massapequa, and Syosset-

Woodbury Community Parks, will be $2 per two-hour session for skaters 16 years and older and $1 per two-hour session for children 15 and under," Diamond said. "A reduced rate of $1.50 per two-hour session for seniors age 62 and older will be available again this year. In addition, a special $1 one-hour session rate will be in effect at the Bethpage rink for skaters 16 years and older, $1.50 for children 15 and under and free for seniors age 62 years and older on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from noon to 1 p.m. and

1 to 2 p.m."

Skaters of any age group will be able to take advantage of special discount books of 10 tickets for $7.50 a book, a savings of up to $12.50 over the individual two-hour per session fee. "In previous years the discounts books were available only to youngsters under the age of 16 years," Diamond said. "We are now offering them to skaters in all age categories."

Diamond noted that skating discount books also make a great gift for the holidays!"

The 1975 Hicksville Hawks sponsored by Suvatey Association played a Division I contest against Plainview/Old Bethpage Firehawks on Sunday, October 18. The game was played at Grumman (high grass) field.

POB took the opening kick-off down into the Hawks defensive zone guarded by Kevin Costa, Mike Longo, Steven Fox and Chris Benes. They penetrated with a couple of shots on goal saved by Danny Bell. The rest of the first half seemed to have been played at the other end of the field. The Hawks had a 3-0 lead at half time.

Ronny Ladimir began the scoring from a penetrating lead pass from Larry Feinblum which gave Ronny a one on one with the goalie. No contest: score 1-0. Next goal was generated by superior passing from halfbacks Andre Parris, Kevin Koehn, Robert Persaud, and William Noble. Their passing technique got the ball up to Tom Basaranlar who took it deep into the right corner where he placed a low, high cross into the center of the field where Andre Parris put the final touch into the net. Score 2-0. The third goal of the half was scored by Danny Longo from a Ronny Ladimir cross.

POB came out strong the second half with some very aggressive soccer. But the Hawks controlled passing game plan proved superior and prevailed throughout the second half.

The scoring started off with some passing from the fullbacks to Chris Jendras halfback who fed to Danny Longo who crossed to Ronny Ladimir for a pretty good score 4-0. The following goal was an unassisted one by Danny Longo who chipped in a rebound from about 12 yards out.

POB penetrated several times only to turn away time and time again by the Hawks defense. After trading obvious fouls a penalty shot was awarded to POB against fullback Brian Rooney. POB scored past the outstretched hands of goalie Danny Bell. Score 5-1.

Moments later Ronny Ladimir was taken down from behind inside the box. The team chose Mike Longo, the Hawks stopper to take the shot. Mike scored to make it 6-1.

With less than 2 minutes left in the game Mike Longo booted a loose ball from 35 yards out that caught the POB goalie off guard. Final score 7-1. The score was not indicative of the way POB played. It was a tough game.

The Hawks are coached by John Fitzgerald and Bob Ladimir. After many years of success the 1975 Hawks are contemplating a European trip in the summer of 1988. Several fundraising endeavors are planned. Looking forward to your support.

"Nassau County has gained national recognition as one of the best places to live and raise your family. Oyster Bay Town is the best place in Nassau County, that's why we all choose to live here. We need your help to keep it that way."

Campagne Students Visit Caumsett

Mrs. Berryman's, Mrs. Engle's and Mr. Palazzolo's sixth graders at Charles Campagne School participated in a two night outdoor education program at Caumsett State Park during the week of September 14-18.

Returning students spoke enthusiastically about nature walks, fishing, astronomy, and sharing this experience with friends and teachers. Here is a sample of their comments:

At Caumsett State Park we did many things. We went on nature hikes and learned about trees, leaves, bushes, and many other things. We found out that you can eat acorns, birch beer and berries. After some hikes we went into the salt marsh. It was very muddy and smelly. We also brought nets and buckets to catch fish such as billy, eels and flounder. Another thing we did was called "the solo walk." We went to a narrow path in the forest. It was late and very dark. One by one we went down the path. When it was my turn I was a little scared but I made it. On a couple of spots it looked like there were two ways to go but when I got closer there was really only one. It was fun at Caumsett.

Keith Kosak

The sixth grade class went to Caumsett on September 14 for three days. I learned a lot of things at Caumsett. I learned what poison ivy was and saw a few animals. While we were there we went on nature hikes, visited the salt marsh, caught fish and basically learned how to live on our own. I think going to Caumsett was fun and an exciting experience.

Yoshana Silver

On September 14 our class went on a three day trip to Caumsett. There all of us learned a lot of things. We went hiking in the woods, fishing in the salt marsh, learned how to use a compass and did a lot of walking, running, climbing and slipping. We also learned a lot when we went to the beach.

The Counselors were great. They taught us how to fight some of our fears such as walking alone in the woods at night. We also got to see some of the animals such as a squirrel, chipmunk, fox and others. I had a lot of fun at Caumsett.

Jeanifer Wierzbicki

When I went to Caumsett I experienced many interesting things and adventures. My class and I had gone into forests and learned about plants and animals. We also had seen some old houses, where wealthy people once lived. The pond we had gone to see had many bugs and interesting things. The most fun place to be was the salt marsh. We walked through very deep water and mud. We had also gone on a night walk and learned about the stars. Caumsett was a very fun place to be. I hope to go back.

Laurie Zasidle

When I first went to Caumsett State Park, I experienced many things I never did at home. When I went there I didn't think I would learn so much. I saw what it was like in the forest at night, so dark and peaceful. We also saw some forest animals that only come out at night. I experienced what it was like to sleep in a mansion and how it felt to be away from home bunking with my classmates. My experience at Caumsett has helped me to learn more about myself and the outdoors.

April Vecchialotto

Monday morning we arrived at Caumsett. Jim and Carolyn, our counselors, met us and showed us around the park. After the tour we went for a hike in the woods. We found that there are many different things you can eat that grow wild, such as birch, acorns and berries.

In the middle of the day we went to the salt marsh, which was my favorite activity. When we came out of the salt marsh we were all wet and muddy. Jim and Carolyn told us to rinse off in the sand. After our dinner that evening we went on a solo walk. I think Caumsett was a good experience.

H.S. Band, Kickline In Marching Festival

By Michelle Kramer

If you hear the constant beating of a drum, the toot-toot of a clarinet or see children practicing step styles in the street, don't be alarmed. This is only a sign that it is again marching season for the Bethpage Marching Band Unit. The band has again been invited to participate in the Newsday Marching Band Festival. It is the Silver Anniversary of this festival which now has almost 60 bands performing over a four day period. The marching band unit from Bethpage has put a lot of preparation into their presentation. The Band, along with the Junior Varsity Kickline and the Varsity Kickline (A.K.A. the Golden Girls), make up a marching unit of over 100 members. The drum major of the band for the 87-88 school year is Brad Astrowsky. The band officer officers are Linda Anselmo, Brad Astrowsky, Chris Blades, Mary Higgins, Michelle Kramer and John O'Connor. The captains of the Golden Girls are Louisa Ricotta and Liz Gerken. All of these leaders work together with Director Fred Cohen to try to make this one of the most outstanding presentations that has ever been offered by the Bethpage Marching Band Unit. The theme of this year's spectacular presentation is "Salute to the Silver Screen." The marching unit put in three intense days of non-stop practice when it held its fourth annual Band Camp in Riverhead on September 18-20. Both the band and the kickline worked separately and together for hours on their presentations for the Newsday Festival.

The Marching Band Unit represents Bethpage at this festival and if you would like to show your support and town spirit please call Mr. Cohen at 931-2900 ext. 335 to order tickets for the 8 p.m. October 21 performance at Hofstra University Stadium. Attending this event will provide you with a unique opportunity to show your support of the Marching Band Unit, to hear a multitude of tunes, both new and old, and to view several original and fabulous presentations by the students of Bethpage High School.

Bethpage SEPTA Holds Installation

Bethpage SEPTA held its installation meeting October 15. Incoming officers Susan Raffici, President; Dr. Paul Cooper, 1st Vice President; Jack Fleming, 2nd Vice President; Maureen Baechalen, Membership Chairperson; Diane Wilson, Recording Secretary; Charlene Bove, Corresponding Secretary; and Lois Nosowitz, Treasurer were installed by District Council President Betty Tellalian.

Dr. Cooper, Director of Special Education, reported on the lower primary Special Education Class (grades 1 and 2) at Central Boulevard School and the newly created aide position in all three elementary special education classes. The Executive Board has a number of programs planned to help parents better understand their child's needs and to assist them in setting up a support system for one another.

Mrs. Raffici said she feels public relations between parents and the schools are very important. The District has been very responsive to children's needs in hiring aides for the special elementary classes and establishing a special primary class. "It is important to find the best ways a child can learn," she said. "Everyone learns in different ways, but everyone can learn." It is important to teach children to be responsible adults and to set career planning goals for special education students.

She stressed the importance of early hearing and vision screening and the benefits of early intervention programs. Parents who are concerned about a preschooler's development can get assistance from the Direction Center in Syosset.

SEPTA also welcomes parents of the gifted and talented to become members, as the gifted also have special educational needs. Parents and teachers can join SEPTA by sending $3 individual or $5 per family to Maureen Baechalen, 31 Crestline Avenue, Bethpage, NY 11714.

JFK Junior High Sports Update

John F. Kennedy Junior High School in Bethpage fields five teams during the fall season. The four season school year (fall, winter 1, winter 2, and spring) gives seventh and eighth graders many opportunities to participate in athletics, be part of a team and learn good sportsmanship.

The football team is rebuilding after many of its key players moved on to high school this year. The team lost its season opener as well as losing two players to broken fingers, but Coach Anziano has seen much improvement in team practices and is impressed with their hard work and dedication.

Cross country racing is enjoying a resurgence of interest among JFK students. The sport, which involves 1 1/2 to 2 mile runs along scenic routes in local parks, is fun to watch and instrumental in developing lifetime fitness. The primarily seventh grade team has come in first in both its meets, the first against Wheatley, and the second against six other Nassau County junior high schools. The team, which practices in Bethpage State Park, will be participating in eight meets this season.

Girls' soccer, which is coached by Bill Pettis, is 2-2 on the season. They defeated Woodland JHS in East Meadow and Southwoods JHS in Syosset in two 3-0 shutouts. They were defeated by McKenna JHS 5-1 and by Island Trees JHS in a close 4-3 game. The girls are learning fast and their coach has noticed lots of improvement since the first game.

Most Input Callers Think Force Against Iran May Backfire

Most input callers believe that the bombing of an oil platform in the Persian Gulf could increase tension in the Middle East in answer to this question: "Will our bombing of an oil platform in the Persian Gulf make matters better or worse?" Here are some of the answers:

NOT RATIONAL

On the surface it appears that bombing the oil platform would be a warning which would scare the Dickens out of Khomeini. Unfortunately, he is not that rational. He would use any means, even if it meant a suicide war. So, it was a mistake to do that bombing. We can only hope that it will not have much meaning and that the Iranians are not busy in destruction elsewhere. M.R.

NOT SIT BACK

We just cannot sit back and let the Iranians walk all over us. We had that in the Carter administration where we practically begged them to return our hostages after they had violated the rights of our embassy. We cannot get very far in showing that we will never fight for our rights and President Reagan has done this with some caution to show that it was more or less a warning. J.E.

WORLD POLICEMAN

We have taken our role in the world too seriously. We will end up defending the entire world as the British Empire once saw its duty. The Iranian attacks are happening because we have decided to play policeman for the world and risk our lives when we really do not need all of that oil from the Persian Gulf. We have oil in the U.S. and we could make a treaty with Mexico and help that country because it is loaded with oil. Instead, we are going half way round the world into war zones to buy oil. V.R.

MORE UNITY

It is not a matter of winning or not winning. We just cannot allow these small countries to intimidate the entire world, including the U.S. We should have the help of others and Iran would soon see that it could not go on with its lack of respect for the rights of other nations. We are on the right side in showing some force in return for their actions. What we lack is more unity from the nations that are being intimidated by Iran. B.T.

ECONOMICS

The entire Persian Gulf thing is foolish. We could get along without that oil and if we stop importing, Iran will be affected just like the rest of the Arab states. They would not have the money to waste on wars with Iraq or anything else if they could not sell enough oil. Economic sanctions would have been far better than a show of force. D.W.

JAPAN OIL

Too bad we are not dealing with a rational government when we are dealing with Iran because if Iran thought anything of protecting its own, it would not provoke bigger nations to fight with it. Unfortunately, the bombing in the Persian Gulf will be met with a reprisal and they will have to strike again and, before you know it, we will be in a small war which has as its base the preserving of an oil line to Japan, which is most dependent on imported oil. M.D.

GET OUT

In regard to the question of the week, I definitely feel that the bombing will make matters worse. Reagan is going to get us involved in a war in the Persian Gulf. It is a very poor move and we should cease and desist immediately and seek a peaceful solution and not get involved in a terrible war between Iran and Iraq. It will only cause the loss of more lives on all sides. B.G.

MATTERS WORSE

I believe that the bombing of the oil platform in the Persian Gulf will, in fact, make things worse. It's not as though we were dealing with rational people according to our own standards, but I don't think anyone can predict what Ayatollah Khomeini will think of next in a nation where life is held so cheaply. Unfortunately, Iraq started the whole fracas and Iran simply can't stomach the idea of capitulation. On the other hand, the U.S.A., as the most powerful nation on earth dedicated to world peace, cannot stand by and accept whatever Iran chooses to dish out in international waters. I believe we had every right to take military action as we did and, quite frankly, the United Nations should have been at least more vociferous in condemning Iran's unilateral military action. The Ayatollah has threatened worldwide retribution but we cannot live constantly under such threats and I believe it is now clear that our overseas friends do not take exception to our action. Quite apart from the Iranian attack on an American registered ship off Kuwait is the subsequent discovery that the assault was attributed to Chinese-made silkworm missiles of U.S. design. I can't visualize any deliberate intention of China to involve themselves but from such coincidences wars are made or, at the very least, serious misunderstandings. The whole thing is a mess and as long as Khomeini is in the picture, it is not going to get any better. P.G.S.

Clues From Crosswords Solve Many Problems

By Betty Reeves

I try to limit keepsakes, but there's one item I just can't bring myself to throw out. It's a crossword puzzle from a weekday New York Times. Every space is filled, which is not so unusual in itself; except that this one was filled in during one 40-minute train ride to Manhattan without the use of the dictionary, crossword puzzle dictionary, or atlas.

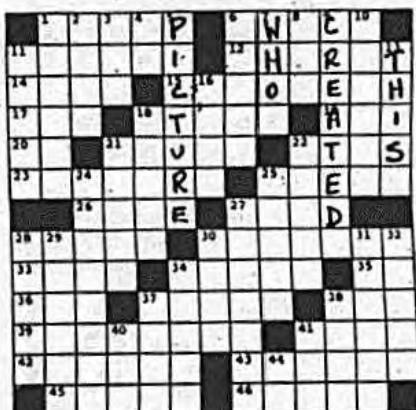

I don't know why it was so exciting. I just remember wanting to jump up and down, even kiss the conductor. But, by then, I was being herded to the door. If it wasn't apparent then, it has since become clear that crossword puzzles are addictive. In my case, the addiction has two levels.

The first is obvious: I love words, and the puzzles are simply-constructed word games. They refresh the memory, and make use of word trivia (if that isn't a contradiction in terms). They end the tendency to vagueness or of simply having a contextual understanding of words. They can offer a writer fun without any guilt for the time involved. I know I'm addicted because I've found puzzles torn out of my paper and set aside for later perusal without any recollection of having done so. I often carry one in my purse for use on buses and trains. Our kitchen table frequently bears the imprint of a puzzle on days when I'm too involved to locate a backsheet.

The second level set in soon after the addictive pattern was established. While going feverishly from acrosses to downs, from dictionary to atlas, and possibly even a Shakespeare anthology, I was surprised to hear myself muttering, "Aha! He thought he'd outwit me, but I knew he meant the verb 'notice' and not the noun." Or grumbles of, "Why'd he have to make it so hard, on a Monday?" I realized I was going past the puzzles in an effort to fathom their originator.

I guess I had always pictured a crossword puzzle editor as a little, slightly bent man peering owlishly all day at the world's largest collection of dusty old reference books, and then going home silent, morose and dull. His kids never heard a word out of him, his wife didn't care to, and, if he dreamed, it was only of the past when he neatly had been asked to work on book reviews. This unfortunate creature seemed so and I forgot him immediately, focusing instead on a seven-letter word for matriculater.

But somewhere in between the small corn grower (toc) and the Seine tributary (Marne), the crossword puzzle editor started to acquire a personality. Puzzle components included a wide range of subjects from archaeology to zoology, but that could merely be the output of a clever computer, I reasoned. What personalized the puzzles was the way the words were described and the choices and combinations of those words.

From the current-events entries, I imagined someone who enjoyed reading at least two newspapers a day; miraculously retaining what he read. Surely, the crossword puzzle editor must be interesting and stimulating at dinner parties or by the water cooler. He was obviously a student of the classics, of English and American Lit, and a history buff. By now, I began to wonder if he might not be a little vain about his erudition. He would have to know he knew more than the average commute about Shakespeare, for instance. Just as I was about to tune out on the snob, another side emerged: "milky gema" turned out to be "opals." (I had gotten sidetracked, remembering a recipe I had for corn gema or muffins.) It was apparent in many instances that the editor enjoyed throwing us off.

He quoted from the Bible on occasion, so it appeared he was not just into intellectual pursuits. He knew theatre, ballet and opera and even TV sit-coms, past and present. Foreign languages figure in the puzzles, and he puzes joyously. He's big on show biz and knows the very latest "in" expressions, but he's no slouch when it comes to ancient words, either. He's mischievous in trying to keep his readers unsure of whether the word is a noun or a verb.

I can't recall yearning to know, but I'm delighted I've learned what an ampersand, (&) is. And I was absolutely ecstatic to find that yes, there is a Santa for crossword-puzzle addicts: on the day before Christmas, we were gifted with a quick and easy, yet still, entertaining puzzle that started that last hectic shopping day with a record-time lift.

As I've shared my changing picture of the crossword puzzle editor with my family, I've seen worried reaction. My daughter is worried that my rambling about him sounds suspiciously like fantasizing, or, worse, the stirrings of a relationship.

She needn't worry. It can't be fantasizing because I have no mental picture of how the editor looks. But I do believe I can guess what he wears. Were I to meet him on the street, I'd instinctively reach for my pen and start the Acrosses on his black-and-white checked suit. He, of course, would humor me both by holding still as I wrote, and possibly by giving me clues.

READER RATINGS

Q. When dining out I have often seen women wearing their coats to the table, then depositing them on the back of their chairs. However, I have never seen a man do the same thing with his overcoat. Is there really a difference in etiquette for men and women in regard to checking coats?

A. Yes, a man always checks his coat in a restaurant. But a woman has the option of checking her coat or bringing it to the table.

Q. My job frequently requires me to have lunch with clients, usually other women, and it is sometimes hard to keep the conversation going for 30 or 35 minutes with someone I hardly know! What do you advise?

A. Yours is not an uncommon problem since carrying on a conversation is a skill that must be acquired through practice. You might begin by asking your client about her business background. That will show her you are interested in her and will provide clues for other topics. As you get to know each other you might speak of your own home and family, hoping she will follow suit. If she does not, it is best to drop the subject and stick to more general topics, knowing she does not wish to talk about her personal life.

TOPS IN DINNERS

The New Hyde Park Inn is a landmark on Jericho Turnpike in New Hyde Park. Most people have been there many times for one banquet or another. Throughout the years it has served as a top catering hall for many affairs.

As a restaurant it is equally good. We went there last week, and found that it has a full menu for dinner and that all of the good things that were at banquets can be had in the restaurant. Because it is a festive type place it is a great one to celebrate a birthday as we did. Tell your readers that the New Hyde Park Inn is tops for dinners. We know. We were there. Y.R.

ELEGANT MENU

For a successful celebration, I doubt we could have planned a better party than our double birthday brunch for ten at the George Washington Manor last Sunday. This ambience was beautiful with early eighteenth century furniture and appointments. The menu was elegant and included champagne which was a great way to celebrate the occasion. The food, the cheerful service, the fireplaces, the view on all sides were memorable. We all came away on cloud nine, and the consensus was that we should do this every year! E.P.

HIGH PRAISE

A number of years ago we had been to the Colonial Inn in Mineola and we were not so impressed with the restaurant although it always was good. Last week we noticed that it was under new ownership and stopped in again. We like the Colonial Inn and we liked its great stuffed pork chops with the apple and raisin stuffing. This restaurant is one that we would recommend to all of our friends. The new management is to be commended for improving the menu and not overpricing the food. Tell everyone about it. N.R.

READER RATINGS

Q. We are not wine drinkers. If we're giving a party, what kind of wines should we stock in order to take care of our wine-drinking friends' pleasure - from cocktail hour through dinner? W.L.

A. For the cocktail hour you might have on hand dry or sweet sherry, or dry or sweet vermouth, or any of the popular "aperitifs." Many choose a glass of dry white wine at the cocktail hour (either chilled or "on the rocks").

For the first course, or to drink with any fish, salad, chicken, veal or fruit, a chilled white wine is nice (such as a Chablis, Soave, Riesling, Chenin Blanc, Pinot Chardonnay).

For the meat or game course (or the salad with cheese), serve a Burgundy, Bordeaux, Chianti, Cabernet Sauvignon, or Zinfandel at a cool room temperature (from 60 to 70 degrees).

Rose wines should be chilled like white wines. A rose is best served with a light dish and is more popular in hot weather than in cold.

For dessert you may serve the same wine you had from the previous course. Or if it's something festive like an anniversary, dessert time is the moment to bring on the champagne (the drier the better!).

Q. There is a great catering place in my neighborhood which features wonderful food at moderate prices. However, dinners are always served "family style". Meat and vegetables are placed in large platters which guests pass around just as if they were eating at home.

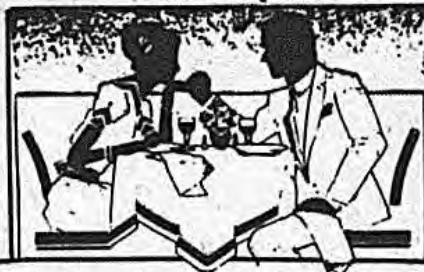

There is one problem with this type service, though. I notice that some people take more than their fair share or perhaps take all white meat when turkey is served. What can be done about this?

A. There is really nothing that you can do under the circumstances. Family style dining is a nice idea, but it doesn't work unless all the guests are considerate.

Why not ask the manager to provide conventional service, in which food is placed on plates in the kitchen, for your next affair?

Cooking Corner

By Kitty Morse

A Moroccan feast

"Bismillah! May God help you enjoy this meal," came the universal invocation from everyone around the table. We dived into the communal dish with the customary three fingers of the right hand, taking care not to infringe upon each other's portion of food.

All the ingredients for a Moroccan meal are available at local supermarkets. Here are a few recipes to help you create your own dffa. Surround a low table with large pillows to create the necessary atmosphere. Bismillah!

CHICKEN STUFFED WITH DATES OR PRUNES

1 large chicken left whole, rinsed and patted dry
2 extra chicken breasts
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon turmeric
1 medium onion, sliced
1 (4 ounce) package slivered almonds
1 large onion, diced very finely
½ cup honey
½ teaspoon, EACH, mace and ground cinnamon
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup pitted prunes or pitted dates, open on one side only
1 cup water

Brown chicken in oil on all sides. Do same with chicken breasts. Add turmeric and coat chicken evenly with spice. Add sliced onion and saute about 5 minutes. Turn off heat, leaving chicken in onion mixture.

In the meantime, mix slivered almonds with diced onion, honey and remaining spices. Stuff each date or prune with almond mixture and close it carefully. Set aside. Then stuff cavity of chicken with stuffed fruit. Pour any remaining marinade into cavity of chicken. Set extra fruit around chicken. Add water. Cover and cook over medium heat until chicken is done, about 1½ hours. Serve with steamed couscous or lots of crusty bread.

Yields 6 servings.

A traditional pumpkin dish from Northern Morocco:

CASSOLITA

1 pound pumpkin or butter-nut or Mediterranean squash
2 large onions, sliced thin
½ cup slivered almonds
½ cup raisins
Cinnamon, sugar, oil salt

Do not peel pumpkin; bake in 375 F oven about an hour, until knife inserted goes in easily.

Peel and cut in serving size pieces. Place pumpkin in oven-proof glass dish.

In the meantime, saute onions in a little oil until they wilt, add raisins and almonds. Sprinkle liberally with sugar (about 2 tablespoons) and sprinkle cinnamon on top. Place onion mixture over prepared pumpkin and bake in a 250 F oven for 20 minutes.

Preparation of bisteeya (also called "bstilla," "pastilla" among other names) may seem involved at first, but all it requires is a little organization. The unbaked bisteeya freezes very well for up to three months. The filling can be made a day ahead.

BISTEEYA

Filling:
1 large roasting chicken
1 medium onion, chopped fine
2 cups chopped parsley
½ cup chopped cilantro (or more, to taste)
¼ teaspoon turmeric
¼ teaspoon Spanish saffron (in strands or powdered)
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
½ cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
Salt and pepper to taste
Pastry:
1 pound frozen filo dough thawed (available in most large supermarkets and specialty stores)
Sauce:
5 medium eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup confectioners' sugar (or more)
Cinnamon (if necessary)
Assembly:
2 cups confectioners' sugar
2 cups ground almonds with a pinch of cinnamon
2 cups melted butter or margarine and a pastry brush

Place all filling ingredients in Dutch oven. Cook, covered, on top of stove until chicken separates from bones, about 1½ hours or bake in 350 F oven until the same amount of time.

Remove chicken from heat and let cool. Remove chicken from sauce. Discard bones and skin. Shred chicken with fingers. Refrigerate chicken if you don't intend to use it right away.

Place remaining sauce on top of stove and bring to simmer. Add eggs, 1 cup confectioners' sugar and adjust salt and pepper amounts. It should be fragrant with cinnamon. When mixture thickens, add shredded chicken. Let filling cool.

In the meantime, unfold filo dough in between 2 damp cloths on flat surface. Filo dough becomes brittle in contact with air.

Grease large pie tin, 12-inch pizza pan or large aluminum pan. Separate filo sheets and place one carefully on bottom of pan. Paint it with butter. Repeat the process with 4 more sheets. Sprinkle ground almond on last one. Butter and layer 4 more sheets. This will be bottom layer of bisteeya.

Spread cool chicken mixture gently over filo. Repeat layering process, alternating ground almonds with powdered sugar in between sheets of buttered filo. You might not use up all the sugar. Butter top sheet well. Tuck edges under, as you would a bedsheet. At this point, bisteeya may be frozen for up to three months.

If any filo remains wrap it up in its original packaging and re-freeze until future use.

To Bake: Preheat oven to 375 F. Bake bisteeya until top is a golden brown, about 30 to 45 minutes, depending on oven. To cook frozen: (Do not thaw). Bake according to preceding directions.

To Serve: Sift powdered sugar over top. Then delicately trace a geometric pattern with cinnamon over top as decoration.

Yields: 8 servings.

Note: Let filo dough thaw overnight in refrigerator or two hours at room temperature.

Spanish saffron imparts an unmistakable aroma and cannot be substituted for the inexpensive Mexican variety that is sold in many grocery stores.

Although Moroccan women knead their bread by hand (and you can, too) this recipe is adapted to use an electric mixer with a dough hook. If you prefer to mix the dough by hand, knead until dough feels elastic to the touch.

MOROCCAN BREAD 'KESRA'

1½ packages (1½ tablespoons) active dry yeast
2 teaspoons sugar
1 cup lukewarm water
4½ cups unbleached white flour
2½ cups whole wheat flour
1½ tablespoons salt
2 tablespoons whole anise seed
2 cups water (or a little more)
½ cup vegetable oil

Dilute yeast in lukewarm water and set aside until mixture starts to bubble. Combine all dry ingredients in mixing bowl. Arrange electric mixer with dough hook. Make well in center of flour mixture and pour in yeast mixture. Knead with dough hook, adding water in slow stream and scraping all flour from sides into center of bowl. If dough is too dry, add a little water.

After 7 to 10 minutes, test dough for elasticity. The dough is ready when it bounces back under the light pressure of a finger.

Separate dough into 3 equal balls. Rub each ball with a little vegetable oil and place the 3 on a greased cookie sheet. Flatten them out gently with the palm of a hand until they measure about 7 inches in diameter. Cover the loaves with clean cloth and let rise in warm place about 2 hours.

When loaves have doubled in size, preheat oven to 325 F. Rub top of each loaf with a little oil. Bake 25 minutes. When top crust is golden brown, paint the underside with a little oil, turn them upside down and bake 5 minutes longer.

Yields: 3 loaves.

Breewats are made with filo dough. They can have sweet or savory fillings.

HONEY BREEWATS

1 cup ground almonds
½ cup powdered sugar
1 tablespoon orange blossom water (available in liquor stores)
2 egg yolks
Dash of cinnamon
½ pound frozen filo dough
1 cup boiling honey
Shortening or oil for deep frying

Filling: Place 1½ cups whole, unpeeled almonds in blender or food processor and process at grind. Add orange blossom water, cinnamon, sugar and eggs. Mix well. Set aside.

Cut filo sheets in 3 equal strips. Place teaspoon of filling at bottom end of strip, fold over sides and roll up filo away from you, to form cigar. Set down gently, seam side down. At this point, breewats can be wrapped in plastic wrap and frozen for up to 3 months. The remaining filo can be refrozen in its original package and used at later date.

To Fry: If frozen, Do Not Thaw. Deep fry in shortening or vegetable oil until golden brown; drain well.

Bring honey to boil. Dip fried breewats in boiling honey and set aside. The breewats will keep several days in an airtight container. Instead of frying breewats, you can bake them. In that case, paint each breewat with melted butter, set them on an ungreased cookie sheet and bake in 350 F oven until golden, about 15 minutes. Dip in boiling honey and serve.

Yields 12 breewats.

Note: Let filo thaw overnight in refrigerator, or 2 hours at room temperature, unfolding gently in between 2 damp cloths.

This dish is traditionally prepared with pigeons in Morocco, but Cornish hens make a good substitute.

TAGEEN OF CORNISH HENS WITH ALMONDS

6 cornish hens, washed and patted dry
½ teaspoon saffron (Spanish preferred)
1 teaspoon turmeric
1 pound brown onions, thinly sliced
1 cup chopped parsley
Salt and pepper to taste
½ stick butter
2 tablespoons olive oil
½ cup chicken broth
½ cup whole, blanched almonds sauteed in butter until golden

Place hens in large bowl and mix with spices, half the onions and half the parsley. Place in Dutch oven with butter and olive oil. Add chicken broth. Cover tightly. Cook over low heat, until meat separates from bones, about 1 hour. Remove hens carefully from sauce and keep warm on serving platter. Add remaining onions and parsley to sauce. Bring to boil and let it reduce by a third. Add salt and pepper, if necessary. Yields 6 servings.

To Serve: Cut hens in half or leave whole. Pour sauce over and sprinkle with sauteed almonds.

Q. I have noticed that Chinese restaurants do not provide knives when serving meals. Can you tell me the reason for this practice? A. In the orient food is cut into small pieces before it is cooked.

This has the advantage of reducing cooking time and also minimizing any loss of nutrients. In China it is considered bad manners to cut food at the table. Q. Recently while dining in a Portuguese restaurant, my friend and I were served a sweet white wine with our dessert. Would you have any idea what the name of this wine would be? It was delicious.

A. You may have been served one of Portugal's azeit white ports. They come from the area of Oporto and I agree with you that they are very good and surprisingly little known by Americans.

Out of it?
Substitute!

You're in the middle of a recipe and you get to the part that calls for three eggs. So you go to the fridge, open the carton, and find you've only got two. Do you panic? No way — not if you know what to substitute.

Even the most organized cook occasionally runs out of some essential ingredient. But often there's a perfectly good (or good enough) stand-in that can take its place in a pinch. Here's a list of some common substitutions that could save an otherwise doomed dish:

- When baking, you can sometimes replace one egg in three with a tablespoon of cornstarch. Or substitute two whites or two yolks for one whole egg.

- No baking powder? For every teaspoon called for, replace with $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon cream of tartar plus $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon baking soda. Use right away, as it won't stay potent for long.

- Lemon juice: Substitute $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon vinegar for 1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice.

- Nuts: Replace with coarse bran, wheat germ, crunchy cereal like GrapeNuts, or toasted rolled oats (bake on a cookie sheet in a 425 F oven just until lightly browned).

- Garlic: Substitute $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon powdered dry for one small clove.

- Three tablespoons of cocoa plus 1 tablespoon butter or margarine is the equivalent of one square of baking chocolate. Many vegetarians prefer to use carob powder instead of cocoa. Add in the same amount — but cut down on any sweetener in the recipe, since carob contains its own natural sugar.

- Out of sour cream? For cooking purposes, blend 1 tablespoon mild-flavored vinegar or lemon juice with 1 cup evaporated milk. For garnishing or use in dips, substitute with an equal amount of plain, unflavored yogurt or cottage cheese, blended until smooth.

- If you keep a box of powdered milk in the pantry, you'll never really be out of milk. Otherwise, to replace 1 cup whole milk, use 1 cup low-fat milk plus 2 tablespoons melted butter or vegetable oil. When baking, milk can often be replaced by fruit juice or soy or almond milk.

And don't forget that many recipe ingredients (cheeses, vegetables, etc.) are interchangeable. If a recipe calls for cauliflower, go ahead and try broccoli, if that's all that's in the fridge. Most winter squashes now in season are interchangeable, too.

MOM'S VEGGIE STEW

- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil, butter or margarine
- 1 medium green pepper, seeded and chopped
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup celery, chopped (with leaves)
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 cup water or vegetable broth
- 1 small head cauliflower, broken into flowerets
- 8 small new potatoes
- 8 small whole white onions
- 3 medium-size ripe tomatoes, seeded and chopped
- 3 medium carrots, cut into $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch diagonal slices
- 3 small zucchini, cut into $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch diagonal slices
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
- 2 cups tomato juice
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley or about 2 teaspoons dried
- 2 tablespoons sesame seeds
- 1 bay leaf
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon each dried oregano and thyme leaves, crumbled
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon each dried dill weed, celery salt and pepper
- 1 cup fresh or frozen corn kernels

1 cup fresh or frozen peas
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water or dry white wine
3 tablespoons cornstarch

Heat oil or butter in 4-quart Dutch oven; add green pepper, celery and garlic. Sauté over medium heat until just tender.

Add all remaining ingredients except corn, peas, the $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water or wine, and cornstarch. Stir well and bring to a boil over medium-high heat, then reduce heat to low, cover, and simmer 1 hour. Remove bay leaf.

Stir in corn and peas. Cover and simmer about 5 minutes longer, or until tender.

In small bowl blend together the $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water or wine and cornstarch until smooth. Stir into vegetable mixture, adjust heat to medium-high and cook, stirring constantly, until stew boils and thickens. Serve hot.

Serves 6 to 8.

CREAMY DRESSING

- 1 cup sour cream or plain, unflavored yogurt
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup light cream or half-and-half
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon honey
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon each garlic powder, celery seed and freshly ground black pepper
- Pinch dried dill weed

Combine all ingredients in container or blender and blend until smooth, or beat thoroughly with a wire whisk. Serve over spinach salad or other greens.

Makes about 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ cups.

COND-CO-OP SPECIALIST. Our sales people only handle co-ops and condos under the Dept. of Law licensing of Phase II Lifestyles Unlimited. It's easy to see why we are recognized as experts in that field. Cherry Valley, County Seat, Lincoln Arms, Garden Plaza and the Harrison House are samples of the inventory we carry. Prices start in the 80's. Don't continue renting just because house prices seem to be unaffordable. We might have the best investment. wo5

Keep super-fresh nuts on hand

Nuts are oil-rich and turn rancid at room temperature.

Here's what to do:

1. Buy in bulk at health food shops. Turnover is faster, nuts fresher and prices lower than for supermarket packages.
2. Wrap nuts in airtight packages and freeze.
3. Remove amount needed; nuts can be used immediately. Rewrap remainder and refreeze.

How to kill grass and weeds between stones

Q: Having just re-stoned my 200-foot lane and the parking area and garage approach, I would like to know if there is a method I can use to keep grass from growing through the stone.

I don't want anything toxic to humans, pets or my well-water system. Don't tell me I should have put plastic down first. It just gets chewed up by the stone under the pressure of vehicles.

On the other hand, my parking and approach area do not get enough vehicular traffic to keep the grass down. — R.D.M.

A: One of the best products available to control weeds and grass from areas like the driveway you describe is "Roundup," also sold (in larger volume) under the name of "Roundup." This type of product is often used along our freeways to keep weeds and grass under control. It is simple to use, effective, and does not sterilize the soil. Check your local nursery for this item.

Q: The front of my cabinet doors below the sinks in the kitchen and the bathroom of my condo are finished with lacquer, I think, and are now badly water-spotted after 19 years.

I need advice on how to cover these water spots without having to refinish all of the cabinet doors. I would appreciate any suggestions you can give me. — C.M.H.

A: Treating the water-spotting will depend on the extent of the damage to the wood.

If you are sure that this is a lacquer finish, try cleaning the surface with a small amount of denatured alcohol or naphtha on a clean cloth. This should clean the surface and the dull the finish, so you can add a new coat of lacquer. You can not apply a lacquer finish over a varnish finish. Your best bet would probably be to strip the wood of the old finish, sand and refinish with a product of your choice.

If the finish is varnish, lacquer or shellac, you only need a modern furniture refinisher to dissolve the old finish. Check with your local paint dealer on the selection of finishing products and proper application for the new surface. You might want to consider a polyurethane or epoxy finish that would hold up better in the kitchen and bathroom environment where water conditions will continue to be a problem.

Q: The stucco on our home, which is 6 years old, looks faded and dirty. I would like to restore the surface but do not want to go the expense of having a new stucco finish applied.

C: Can the exterior stucco be painted, and is this something you would recommend? — W.A.

A: There is no reason you can't successfully paint stucco with lasting results. Most types of latex exterior paints are excellent for use on stucco surfaces. These can be applied with a roller.

Be sure to thoroughly read the directions for each brand of paint when you are making a selection. Also, buy the appropriate roller for the brand of paint. Your paint dealer can be helpful in both the selection of paint and the equipment required for application.

Note that when working in dry, hot weather, you may have to dampen the surface with water before applying the paint to keep the paint from drying out too fast.

The type of housing available. The areas are then rated according to point systems assigned for each of the categories: money matters, climate, personal safety, services, housing and leisure living. One area might be very high in desirability in one category — according to the author — while being very low in another. Miami might be the example, placing as the very best for leisure living, but No. 131, the very worst for personal safety.

A: Authors Boyer and Savageau have rated as the overall "No. 1" the Murry/Kentucky Lake area of Kentucky, and the least desirable No. 131 — as Portsmouth and Dover in New Hampshire.

The Top 10 of the ratings overall might prove surprising: Clayton/Clarkesville, GA; Hot Springs, Ark.; Grand Lake, Okla.; Fayetteville, Ark.; St. George/Zion, Utah; Brownsville/Harlingen, Texas; Bloomington, Ind.; San Antonio, Texas and Port Angeles, Wash. The overall ratings do not reflect the individual choices of retirees where choice of climate might be more important than the cost of housing.

If you are considering a move in retirement, the encyclopedic information of Rand McNally's "Retirement Places Rated" can be most valuable to your considerations. The 219-page paperback has large pages (8½-by-11) and is easily read. Retail price is $12.95 at bookstores, less at discount stores (ISBN-528-83031-0).

The choice of where you retire is your own — no one else can provide you with a magic rating. Your choices should be made on your own desires for your lifestyle, growth, activity and reasons. You can request information by writing chambers of commerce in areas you are considering. Also, write area convention and visitor bureaus for information on recreational, cultural and events activities and facilities. Your library should have reference books for the names and addresses of these organizations.

Retirement can be the best time of your life if you use it productively and to fulfill your dreams. Perhaps that dream fulfillment is in a move to a new area. Or perhaps it is right at home. The research and consideration can prove to be a satisfying, interesting and rewarding adventure.

Mainly for Seniors

By Leonard J. Hansen

Retirement -- to move or stay at home

"When I retire, I'll move to where it is warm, without these cold winters."

"When I retire, I want to play golf every day."

"When I retire, I want to get away from the noise of this city to where I can see the ocean every day."

"When I retire, I want to move from this small town to where I can hear a real symphony, see professional theater and explore museums and galleries."

"When I retire ..." Here you can fill in your own reason to consider a move on retirement — and if you do move away from your longtime residential area you will be among the 5 percent of retirees each year who do so.

The concept of moving — particularly from the states where it gets very hot in summer or very cold in winter — started years ago and has grown actively over the past 20 years. What makes it all the more possible is the development of complete retirement communities, such as Leisure World and Sun City. Originally these were established the sunbelt areas of Florida, Arizona and California.

Now they have been developed in other states, including Texas, New Mexico and Georgia.

Interestingly, most senior citizens who move after retirement do not move to dedicated retirement communities or villages, but instead to a general geographic area they find is their choice for retirement living. Here they will move as a new resident of the city and residential district, rather than to a senior community, apartment complex or mobile home park.

How do you choose your retirement Eden if you do not want to move? Well, every time there is a perceived need by enough people, someone will publish a book on the subject as a guide for your consideration and selection. Such a guide is the new Rand McNally "Retirement Places Rated" book, by Richard Boyer and David Savageau, which considers many factors in analyzing 131 desired retirement areas of the United States.

The analysis documents information on each market in a score of categories, from locations to rainfall, from cost of housing to

TWEEN 12 & 20

D: Wallace: I am 17 years old. My parents were divorced when I was 4 and for the past 13 years my mother and I have lived alone. I am an only child.

I am writing to you, not because I have a problem, but to thank my mom for raising me to be the best person I could possibly be. We didn't always have a lot of material things because money at times was scarce, but love always brought us through the hard times.

I wish all teens could experience the love, friendship and respect my mother and I share. She is the most important person in my life. Thanks Mom, you are terrific and I'll love you forever. — Sandi, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

S: Many teens share your feelings. Your letter will encourage them to say, "Thanks Mom for being there when I needed you. I love you."

D: Wallace: My parents are having big problems. My dad is under a lot of pressure at work and when he comes home at night he is very irritable. He yells at every little thing and makes my mother cry. This makes me very sad.

I understand my dad's situation at work but why does he have to bring his problems home? We have a large, lovely two-story house, including a spa and a swimming pool. But I'd gladly give all this up if my father would find another job and make less money. I know, that you can't help me but I feel better just getting this off my chest. — Marcy,

M: Many times parents do so much trying to make things pleasant for the family that they don't realize they are actually doing more harm than good. Make sure Dad sees your letter. Serve it to him at supper under his favorite dessert.

D: Wallace: I'm a 15-year-old girl and I am 5 feet, 6 inches tall. That's good! But I also happen to weigh 215 pounds. That's bad. My physical education teacher suggested that I join Overeaters Anonymous because I am a compulsive eater. I eat all the time.

Finally, I'm going to do something about losing weight. I'd like to join O.A. but I don't know where they are located. Can you help me? Also, is O.A. a legitimate organization? — Mary Beth,

M: Overeaters Anonymous is a legitimate organization that has no dues or fees. Its goal is to help the compulsive person eat properly and without the use of pills or shots.

Please look up the address in your local telephone directory or write to Overeaters Anonymous, World Service Office, 3730 Motor Ave., Los Angeles, CA 90034.

D: Wallace: About six months after I moved out of my family's house, I met a guy who was a fellow employee. One day, he asked me to go out to lunch with him and I said yes.

We discovered that we were both "attached." He was going steady and so was I. Well, to make a long story short, we started seeing each other after work on the sly.

Since I really liked this guy, I broke up with my boyfriend and asked that he break up with his girlfriend. He said that he would soon, but that he wanted to do it his way — as painless as possible. That was four months ago. I enjoy seeing Brian but I'm getting tired of our "let's meet at your apartment" dates. I'm really not upset that he is dating this other girl, but I don't like the idea of "sneaking" around.

B: Brian is a super guy and I have experienced wonderful times when I am with him. I really don't want to lose this relationship. My best friend told me to dump him, but I just can't seem to be able to do that. Please tell me what I should do in this situation, but please don't tell me to dump him. I know Brian really cares for me. — Lori,

L: Lori: It appears to me that Brian cares more about his steady girlfriend than he does about you, or you would be his steady. You don't need to dump Brian, but you do need to give him a choice — going steady with the "other girl" or continuing to see you. Make him aware he can't do both. His decision will let you know how he feels about you.

D: Wallace: My mom and I have a disagreement on how often a person needs to take a shower or a bath. I say daily, but Mom says that daily showers wash away valuable oils and that taking a shower twice a week is sufficient.

R: Rhoda: Baths or showers should be taken daily if you want to maintain a fresh smell. Body odor will build up and be a problem if a twice-weekly shower routine is used. Bathing does not wash away "valuable" oils.

D: Wallace: I quit smoking three days ago and I'm almost going crazy because I want to smoke, especially after dinner. When will this craving for a smoke stop? — Bill,

B: Bill: Hang in there! The first 10 days are the worst. After that, the cravings lessen. Some ex-smokers, according to the Lung Association, still feel an occasional desire for a cigarette months or even years after quitting. Actually, it's not a true physical craving, but rather a memory that can be handled.

After Work Gourmet

As American as apple ...

Perhaps no fruit has a richer history than the apple. Although it is hard to prove that Eve craved a Rome Beauty, a Northern Spy or a Golden Delicious, it is recorded that the apple was cultivated in Egypt 4,000 years ago. At least 36 different varieties were documented in the first century A.D. in Rome and the apple has figured prominently in the folklore of several ancient civilizations.

In spite of American tradition, however, it is not true that the apple is native to our land. In fact, until the Pilgrims arrived with bags of apple seeds, there were no apples growing on our soil. But the temperate climate of North America is ideal for apple cultivation and, with the help of John Chapman (better remembered as Johnny Appleseed), we now have thousands of hybrids growing in proliferation from Maine to Oregon.

Although most apples are harvested in the autumn, some types have been especially developed for summer eating and modern storage techniques have made it possible to have good crunchy apples all year long.

Still, the brisk winds and falling leaves of autumn spark the senses to wish for wafting aromas of baking apple crisp or simmering applesauce. Apple pie is unquestionably our national dessert, but every region of the country has its own favorite apple preparations.

Ozark Pudding, said to be Harry Truman's favorite sweet, is a simple and uncomplicated combination of chopped apples and nuts bound by an egg and a bit of flour. It is, however, uncommonly good, especially with a dollop of whipped cream.

Spiced Baked Apple Slices is a contemporary, timesaving version of a fragrant favorite. They are terrific with ice cream, but do try them as a topping for hotcakes or waffles.

OZARK PUDDING

- 2 teaspoons butter
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup walnuts (preferably black walnuts)
- 2 tart green apples such as Granny Smith (12 ounces)
- 2 eggs
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons flour
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoons baking powder
- Pinch salt
- 1 tablespoon dark rum
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup heavy cream

Preheat oven to 375 F. Generously grease 9-inch pie pan with the butter.

Coarsely chop walnuts in food processor and remove to mixing bowl. Do not wash processor. Core, peel and quarter apples and coarsely chop in food processor. Remove to bowl with walnuts. Do not wash processor.

Place eggs and sugar in food processor and process about 15 seconds until very well blended and lightened in color. Add flour, baking powder, salt, rum and vanilla and process about 6 seconds until well blended. Add apples and nuts and pulse 4 or 5 times to blend.

Turn mixture into prepared pan. Bake 25 minutes in the center of oven until rich, golden brown.

While pudding is baking, whip cream. Serve pudding warm with a dollop of whipped cream alongside.

Yield: 4 to 6 servings.
Preparation Time: 10 minutes.
Cooking Time: 25 minutes.

SPICED BAKED APPLE SLICES

- 3 tablespoons unsalted butter, divided
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup dark brown sugar, divided
- 3 tart green apples, such as Granny Smith, (about 18 ounces)
- 4 whole cloves
- 4 whole allspice
- 1 stick cinnamon, broken
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Vanilla ice cream

Preheat oven to 350 F. Melt butter and brush a 7x11 or similar size shallow baking or gratin dish with some of melted butter. Sprinkle evenly with 1 tablespoon of brown sugar.

Core apples, peel and slice into $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch-thick rounds. Arrange apples in slightly overlapping layer in baking dish. Stud randomly with cloves and allspice and place cinnamon stick pieces in center of dish, but not on top of an apple slice.

Combine lemon juice and vanilla and sprinkle over apples. Sieve or sprinkle remaining sugar over apples and drizzle evenly with remaining butter.

Bake 15 minutes in center of oven, turn on broiler and place apples about 4 inches from heat source. Broil 1-2 minutes until apples are richly browned and caramelized and syrup is bubbly.

To serve, remove and discard all whole spices, divide apple slices among each of 4 shallow dessert bowls. Top with scoop of ice cream and spoon syrup from the baking dish over ice cream.

Yield: 4 servings.
Preparation Time: 10 minutes.
Baking Time: 15 minutes.

microwave magic

Mushrooms: The fancy fungus

To microwave $\frac{1}{2}$ pound of fresh mushrooms, melt 2 to 3 tablespoons butter in a 1 1/2-quart glass casserole. Add sliced mushrooms, cover and microwave on HIGH (100 percent power) two to four minutes, stirring halfway through cooking time. Let stand, covered, a minute or two before serving.

Microwaved stuffed mushroom caps fare better than conventionally cooked ones because they retain their shape and flavor better.

MUSHROOM AND ASPARAGUS SALAD

- 4 tablespoons butter or oil
- $\frac{1}{2}$ pound mushrooms, thickly sliced
- $\frac{1}{2}$ pound asparagus tips, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 4 medium tomatoes, peeled and cut into wedges
- 1 green pepper, seeded and cut into strips
- 4 tiny sweet pickles, sliced
- 1 head Boston lettuce, torn into pieces
- 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons salad oil
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Pepper to taste

Preparation Time: 10 to 15 minutes, plus time for chilling.

Cooking Time: 8 to 9 minutes
Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Put butter, mushrooms, and all but tender tip pieces of asparagus in covered casserole and microwave, covered, 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add tips and microwave, covered, 3 to 4 minutes longer, until tender. Chill.

Just before serving, add all remaining ingredients and toss well. Serve immediately.

Serves 6.

CHICKEN-MUSHROOM SOUFFLE

- Wax paper
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter or margarine
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup all-purpose flour
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk
- 8 eggs, separated
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup finely diced cooked chicken
- 1 (4-ounce) can sliced mushrooms, drained
- 3 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon cream of tartar
- 3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- Paprika

Preparation Time: 15 to 20 minutes

Cooking Time: 19 to 23 1/2 minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power); MEDIUM-LOW (30 percent power)

Use wax paper to form collar around top of 1 1/2-quart microwave-safe souffle dish, extending 3 inches over top of dish.

Place butter or margarine in 4-cup glass measure; microwave on HIGH setting about 30 seconds. Blend in flour until smooth, then microwave about 1 minute, or until bubbly. Slowly stir in milk, blending well. Microwave 1 1/2 to 2 minutes, stirring after 1 minute, until mixture comes almost to a boil.

In medium mixing bowl beat 4 of the egg yolks (reserve remaining yolks for another use). Beat hot mixture slowly into egg yolks, then fold in chicken, mushrooms, onion and parsley flakes. Set aside to cool.

In large mixing bowl beat egg whites with cream of tartar until stiff but not dry. Gently fold in yolk mixture, then spoon into prepared souffle dish.

Sprinkle top evenly with Parmesan cheese, then dust lightly with paprika. Reduce oven setting to MEDIUM-LOW and microwave 16 to 20 minutes, rotating $\frac{1}{4}$ turn every 5 minutes.

Serves 4 to 6.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS-SAVOY

- 2 slices bacon
- 8 ounces fresh mushrooms
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup minced onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup seasoned dry bread crumbs
- 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
- Fresh parsley sprigs

Preparation Time: 10 to 15 minutes

Cooking Time: 3 1/2 to 6 1/2 minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Arrange bacon slices on plate between 2 layers of paper towel. Place in oven with slices running front to back. Microwave 1 1/2 to 2 minutes, or until bacon is cooked. Set aside to cool.

Clean mushrooms and remove stems. Set caps aside. Mince stems and combine with onion and butter in small glass mixing bowl. Microwave, uncovered, 1 to 2 minutes, stirring once, until onion is tender. Crumble bacon and stir into mixture along with bread crumbs.

Spoon small amount of filling into each mushroom cap, mounding slightly. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Arrange 10 to 12 on a plate and microwave, uncovered, 1 to 2 1/2 minutes, rotating plate $\frac{1}{4}$ turn every 30 seconds, until mushrooms are heated through. Repeat with remaining mushrooms. Garnish with parsley sprigs and serve hot.

Serves 6 to 8 as appetizers.

ORIENTAL — This new projection television system by Zenith, artfully set in teak cabinetry of Oriental design, makes a fashionable piece of furniture when its doors are closed over the TV screen.

Backyard Gardener

By Patrick Denton

Although the weather, no doubt, had a lot to do with it, I think that our family's increased success with spring flower bulbs is also partly due to the fact that each year we're learning a little more and getting a bit better at planting them.

Over the years that I've been a home gardener, I've come to appreciate more with every year one crucial ingredient to success in planting anything, whether it's a tree or shrub, perennial flower, seed or bulb; and that is the preparation of the soil first.

The actual planting of any of these things is almost incidental, — it's the soil preparation that will ensure their good growth, health and productivity and it's the soil preparation that deserves our best efforts.

Since many of the areas to be planted with spring flowering bulbs have grown other things during the summer, the first step is to clear them, composting all clean plant debris and immature weeds — that's money in the soil bank for next year's garden. Any diseased or dubious-looking stuff, and mature weeds whose seed could infest next summer's garden, should be burned or trashed.

And since the patch of soil you're working on has endured withdrawal of nutrients from the summer plant it grew, it's time now to counteract that withdrawal with a deposit to fortify its balance of riches. Here, I think it's a mistake to rely upon chemical fertilizers alone.

Last fall I placed a good 2 inches of compost over each area to be planted in bulbs. If compost is not available, a good substitute is coarse peat well dampened with a liquid fertilizer solution such as 15-30-15. Old mushroom compost or processed manure are other possibilities and any of these materials can be combined with each other.

I incorporate these bulky materials into the soil by digging the area as deeply as possible with a long-handled fork, mixing everything together as well as I can. Then over the surface I scatter a low-release type of balanced fertilizer like 13-16-10 or Holland Bulb Booster (9-9-6) at 1 tablespoon for every square foot and rake it into the top layer of soil.

When actually planting the bulbs, I like also to tuck an extra bit of goodness underneath each bulb to encourage a really effective root system for the plant. Last fall I used a handful of compost mixed with bone meal and the same balanced fertilizer used in the top soil. I calculated about a teaspoon of each under each bulb, and the compost-fertilizer blend is mixed well with the soil at the bottom of the planting hole before the bulb is set in at its proper depth and covered.

The bottom of small bulbs like snowdrop, grape hyacinth (muscari), bluebells (scilla) and crocus should nest at about the 5-inch depth level, while larger bulbs like tulips, daffodils, Dutch iris and the larger ornamental onions (allium) go deeper, at about 8 inches.

Q: I have seen many ways of concealing the television but nothing that really suits our needs.

Our living room is furnished with art and antiques from the Orient. Built-ins are not really appropriate in our setting yet we would like some way to hide our TV.

Do you have any ideas? — R.E.

A: You might take a look at Zenith's new 40-inch projection television system designed in an Oriental style. Its teak cabinet is lacquered and painted in an Oriental motif that makes a handsome furniture addition.

Another option is to convert an existing piece of Oriental cabinetry for TV storage. Understandably you may be reluctant to tamper with any of your fine antiques but it might be possible to find a less valuable, more modern piece that would lend itself to your purposes with a minimum of alteration.

With each of these options, you will have an appropriate way to bid sayonara to your TV in style.

Q: I live in an apartment on a limited budget. I need and have space in my living room for one seating piece that can be used occasionally as a guest bed.

An overstuffed chair that makes into a single bed appeals to me but I can't afford to buy one new. I don't really like futons.

Do you have any other suggestions? — L.R.

A: Given your limitations of space and budget, your best bet may be to fashion a bed that looks and feels like a sofa since it will be used that way most of the time.

There are several ways to accomplish this. One consists of a simple plywood platform box on which is placed a single bed mattress covered with upholstery fabric and topped with cushions and/or pillows. It looks like a sofa, feels like a sofa, but can be a bed in an instant.

If you use a wood veneer plywood, the platform can be finished to match your other furnishings. If you have left-over wall-to-wall carpeting you might cover the platform with it for a built-in look.

If you are not handy and cannot enlist the help of friends, family or an affordable carpenter, consider making a even easier platform with four or more small box-style modules, from an unfinished furniture store. You can then have a top piece of plywood cut to size, add a mattress and you're in business. The modules can be painted or stained and are quite inexpensive.

Should you have your heart set on a more formal piece of seating/sleeping furniture, you will probably have to settle for something secondhand. Keep your eyes peeled for garage sales, moving sales and private party ads where the real bargains are to be had.

In addition to convertible chairs and sofas, consider an upholstered chaise that can also be used for sleeping. And keep your own comfort in mind since guests are only occasional.

ANTIQUE

JUNQUE

By James G. McCollam

Tips on prints, etchings and lithographs.

Q: I am confused about prints, engravings, lithographs, etchings, etc. Can you explain these terms for me?

A: A print is any kind of picture reproduced mechanically. The other three are also prints.

A lithograph is made with a stone plate. The artist draws a picture using a waxy crayon. The wax retains the ink and is imprinted on the paper.

An engraving is made on a metal plate with a sharp tool. The engraved portion retains the ink that is imprinted on the paper.

An etching is made by applying wax to a metal plate. The wax is marked with a sharp instrument. The plate is washed in an acid bath. When the wax has been removed, the plate is etched. The plate is then inked and printed as an engraving.

Q: Enclosed is a picture of my reverse painted lamp. I can find no markings of any kind. Perhaps you can tell me when it was made and its value.

A: Lamps like this were very popular in the early 20th century, particularly during the 1920s. They are usually fine quality and eagerly sought by collectors.

A dealer would sell a lamp like yours for at least $500 to $600.

Q: Could you provide the names of bronze figures that are well-known collectibles? In your column you have mentioned some with rather high prices and some that were worth very little.

A: Usually, the low-priced ones are bronze finish over pot metal. Here are some standard works by recognized sculptors.

- Louis-Ernest Barrias, "Nature Before Science," 23 inches high, 1900 — $3,000.
- Antoine-Louis Barye, "Lion Crushing Snake," 14 inches high, 1890 — $600.
- Jean Boucher, "Chinese Sorceress," 28 inches high, 1913 — $2,600.
- Auguste-Nicholas Cain, "Partridge with Chicks," 18 inches high, 1890s — $1,000.
- George Collin, "Figure of Icarus," 28 inches high, 1900 — $2,000.
- Finn-Haeckon Frolich, "Bust of a Woman," 24 inches high, 1899 — $1,100.
- Mathurin Moreau, "Figure of a Nymph," 31 inches high, 1890s — $2,500.

Q: This mark is on the bottom of an old teapot. Could you tell me something about Royal Doulton china?

A: Doulton & Co. was founded in 1815 by John Doulton. The company first operated in Lambeth and then Burslem (England). In 1901, the firm received authorization to call their wares Royal Doulton. It is still in business.

Doulton makes figurines, vases, dinnerware, mugs, jugs, ashtrays, etc. All are collectible. Some of the figurines sell for several thousand dollars. Their character mugs and Toby jugs are extremely popular, some selling for over $500.

The World's Most Beautiful Grandchildren

Chelsea Marie is our very first and we hope not the last beautiful granddaughter. She lives with her Mom Cathy and Dad Tom, Jr. far away in Harleyville, Pennsylvania, so when we do see her we really make our hugs and kisses count. She's a big one year old this month and we love her very much.

Paternal grandparents are Dorothy and Tom Keane of Garden City.

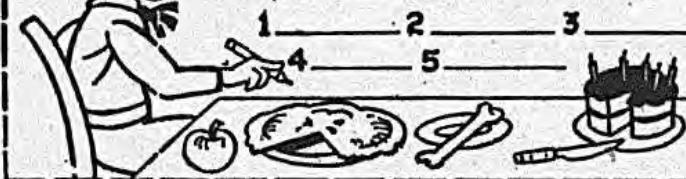

Here are my beautiful grandchildren for all your readers to see and admire! Alan Schlossel is three years old and his sister Nina is 11 months.

Their proud parents are Annette and Gerald Schlossel of Plattsburgh.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Last Saturday at just about dusk my friend and I had a "close call" when driving in the country. We almost hit an animal of medium size, with blackish fur and a white stripe down his back. Oh, no, we said to each other, not a skunk!

I'm afraid that if we had hit our "friend" we would have had a problem. The skunk would have showered us with his "perfume." Not only is the scent extremely unpleasant. It is very difficult to get rid of.

There's another reason we're glad Mr. Skunk was not hurt. He was rather cute, even if he does have one impolite habit!

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are: Robin Keely and Ann Simon.

Q: What is hip dysplasia in dogs? What are the signs of hip dysplasia? Which breeds are most likely to be affected with hip dysplasia?

A: Canine hip dysplasia, commonly abbreviated CHD, probably the most common skeletal defect in dogs, is simply an instability of the hip joints. The hip joint is a ball-and-socket type of joint. In CHD the socket portion of the joint is too shallow to contain the ball portion of the long leg bone.

The signs seen with CHD vary greatly. In severe cases signs may be seen by 3 months of age. If the condition is mild, signs may not be evident until the dog is 3 years of age or older. Usually a noticeable disturbance in movement of the rear legs is the first sign of CHD. Lameness may be apparent after prolonged periods of exercise. The dog may waddle or sway. Many CHD dogs have difficulty in rising and may exhibit morning stiffness that eventually dissipates as the dog exercises. Hip pain may lead to a grouchy or aggressive attitude. CHD dogs often are reluctant to move and need aid in climbing stairs and getting in and out of cars.

CHD has been reported in more than 80 different breeds of dogs. It is more prevalent in large dogs such as the Saint Bernard, Newfoundland, English bulldog, Old English sheepdog, German shepherd, golden retriever, Labrador retriever and Irish setter. A lower incidence is seen in Afghan, whippets, borzoi, German shorthaired pointers and collies. The incidence is low in breeds weighing less than 25 pounds. Breeding animals from the high-risk breeds should have normal hips themselves and their ancestors and littermates should have had normal hips. Your veterinarian can help you determine if a particular dog has or is likely to develop canine hip dysplasia.
