Zoning Changes Scheduled January 12

The Oyster Bay Town Board has scheduled a January 12 public hearing to consider amending the portion of the Building Zone Ordinance, pertaining to condominium ownership in a commercial district, according to Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark.

"It is proposed that a new section, entitled 'Condominium Ownership In A Commercial District' be added to the Town's Building Zone Ordinance," Clark noted.

The hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday, January 12, beginning at 10 a.m. in the Town Hall East hearing room, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Delligatti Against Mr. B-B-Q Reopening

Citing its potential for disaster, Oyster Bay Town Councilman Angelo Delligatti announced today that he would put all of the Town's resources behind an effort to prevent the re-opening of a barbecue supplies warehouse in Bethpage that was recently gutted by fire.

The warehouse at 50 Lexington Avenue, adjacent to the Long Island Railroad tracks in Bethpage, exploded in flames and skyrocketing canisters of butane filled the neighborhood with debris and fear early in the morning of Friday, November 13.

The spectacular fire, which one volunteer firefighter described as comparable to a Grucci fireworks display, sent six firemen for treatment at two nearby hospitals, Mid-Island and Central General.

"We were lucky," said Delligatti, Oyster Bay's Supervisor-elect. "People could have been killed and who knows what the number would have been if it caused a derailment of a passing Long Island Railroad commuter train."

There were still empty 8-ounce butane canisters scattered about the neighborhood when Delligatti made a tour of the area with a number of local residents.

Fire officials indicated that more than 100,000 butane cans were on the premises of the Mr. Bar-B-Q warehouse as well as 10 large propane tanks, lighter fluid and butane stoves. The odor of burning charcoal still permeates the neighborhood a week after the fire.

Delligatti said the financial cost to the community was enormous as more than 200 firefighters from six companies were on hand. The LIRR service was knocked out until 10 a.m. and experts from various environmental and health agencies as well as the Nassau County Fire Marshal's Hazardous Material's Unit had to be called to the scene.

"The financial cost pales in comparison to the potential for the loss of human life," Delligatti emphasized.

Residents, many of whom were forced to leave their homes, pointed out the comparison with a fire in Suffolk County a few years ago when the complex owned by the famed Long Island Grucci fireworks family exploded in a rain of death and destruction over a two-block area. Delligatti agreed with their assessment and promised to work toward seeing that a similar situation did not happen here.

"In the Grucci case, the fireworks people acted in a responsible manner and relocated to an area more distant from homes and human activity," Delligatti said. "I'm hoping that the owners of Mr. Bar-B-Q will act in a similar fashion when they get an opportunity to re-evaluate their situation."

Delligatti said that even with the most elaborate safety precautions, there would be little defense against arson causing a repeat explosion in the future. "We must not allow that to happen. The fact of the matter is that the area in which the warehouse is located is densely populated by residential and other business use and is ill-suited for the purpose under which it is presently operated."

The Councilman, who was recently elected Supervisor, said he would designate a staff member to coordinate an effort to urge re-location and would assign representatives of various Town departments to look into whatever legal measures the Town could take to prevent a future disaster from developing at this site.

Editor's Notebook

This is the last issue before Thanksgiving and we wish all our readers a happy holiday filled with good food—and, more important, good company.

Since our deadline is one day earlier than usual, we had to leave out some advertising and some articles this week. We hope to include whatever was omitted in next week's issue. We thank our readers for their patience.

In the last few months we have been receiving many pictures and stories about children, including school and scouting activities. We are delighted to get this material and hope to print as much of it as possible.

Gone are the days when it was necessary to make a "big deal" about taking pictures. With today's point-and-shoot cameras and one-hour picture development, there is little reason for groups not to take publicity pictures of an excellent quality. This kind of publicity helps organizations to grow and raise funds for their special projects.

Just a few tips: please take the time to identify everyone in the pictures you send! Pictures with names are always more meaningful!

Regular deadlines return next week. Please get your material in by Tuesday at 5 p.m. or the latest by 11 a.m. on Wednesday morning. We appreciate your help.

TRAVEL TALK

By GENE KARLINS

GIFTS: The most difficult task at Christmas time is, for most of us, the purchase and giving of gifts. Obtaining just the right present for a loved one quite often requires considerable thought and shopping time, and still one can be off the mark.

Last fall a friend asked me to suggest a gift item for her parents who were planning to take an Alaskan cruise the next summer. I thought a good deal about her gift problem and passed along a few suggestions. But the very fact of being asked this question set me to thinking during the intervening year about travel related gifts. I'd like to share some of these thoughts with you; perhaps, one might even help to solve a gift-giving problem.

LUXURY GIFTS: The most obvious, most expensive and, of course, most luxurious would be the gift of an actual tour or cruise. A related luxury item is the gift of an extra travel package that could be added on at the beginning or end of a trip. Both would make marvelous presents for that certain special someone.

Moving now into the realm of most people's reality, there is one gift that might receive mixed and glances, but certainly would be most useful (considering that lawlessness is rife in most world capitals and large cities) and that is a money belt. According to one recently reported incident, credit cards and personal belongings are not even safe in a hotel's vault. A money belt has been known to save many travelers from the horrendous red tape of document replacement not to mention lost cash.

Comprehensive Communications, a marketer of auto tape travel cassettes and other audio/visual products, lists some interesting travel accessories in the back of its catalogue. Below are a few suggestions taken from this catalogue: Tascio Travel 7.15x35mm Zoom Binoculars, price $74.99; Battery operated clock-flashlight, price $19.47; mini maglite, price $14.95; Braun pocket travel shave (smaller than a pack of cigarettes), price $19.99; Braun Travel comb/curling iron/brush (ret. 6 oz.), price $24.95; Praesus Travel-dite Hair dryer (dual voltage for international use), 10 oz., price $19.86; Praesus deluxe dual converter (with four international adapter plugs), price $31.95; etc., etc. I'm sure there are other companies from which the above may be ordered, but this company seems to do a nice job in presenting its wares.

The company's catalogue is, of course, dedicated to displaying its line of cassettes. Among those of interest to the traveler are auto tours of national parks and geographical areas of interest, international waiting tour, video tape cassettes of national parks, sailing books and cassettes of children's songs. Comprehensive Communications, Inc.'s catalogue may be obtained by writing: C.C. Inc., P.O. Box 385, Scarsdale, N.Y. 10588 or by calling (914) 472-5133.

One other interesting little item that I ran across recently in the "Orvis Winter Catalogue" was a short-poled bird that fits any 35mm camera and weighs only 1 oz. priced at $9.95.

BOOKS: Guide books are always useful and most are updated yearly. There are other books, however, that might be welcomed by a traveler such as about (or long) distances-as-in, architecture and natural history books of the area being visited.

Specialized guide books such as Patricia Wells' "Food Lover's Guide to Paris," "American Youth Hostels 1987 Handbook" (may be ordered through American Youth Hostels, P.O. Box 37613, Washington, D.C. 20033), "Waterstripes, a Guide to East Coast Cruise Ships, Ferryboats and Island Excursions," by Theodore W. Scull (International Marine Publishing Co., Camden, Maine 04843) and "Travel Key Europe" by Peter B. Mansfield subtitled "How to Make a Phone Call, Do your Laundry, Find a Toilet and Much More" would make interesting and enjoyable gifts.

The above are a few suggestions for the traveler. It's also good to remember that travel cases and appliances do break and wear out; so even if one already has an item, it might need replacing.

P.S. If you have any good gift ideas, please let me know.

Kiwanis Taste Test Royal Cream

The program at the November 18 Hicksville Kiwanis Club meeting was a "Taste Test" of Devonshire Royal Cream Liqueur conducted by Terri Einsidler, the Regional Coordinator of Devonshire Meadows Ltd. The "Taste Test" was accomplished by serving each person (who volunteered) at the meeting samples of the Devonshire Royal Cream Liqueur and a competitor's Irish Cream Liqueur. The samples were in half ounce plastic glasses identified as Test one and Test two without the volunteer sampler knowing which product was in which glass. The tasters were given time to look at, smell, taste, and compare the two samples. Ms. Einsidler suggested that the tasters determine which of the two samples they preferred prior to voting. When the vote was taken, 12 of the 20 tasters indicated a preference for sample number one, which Ms. Einsidler happily identified as the Devonshire product.

Ms. Einsidler also distributed a Devonshire Cook Book with recipes using their product, as well as a Devonshire Luscious Brownie, the recipe for which was not found in the cook book, but was quite tasty.

Kiwanis Program Chairman John Fitzpatrick, on the right, is presenting Terri Einsidler with a certificate of appreciation for a most delectable program.

News From Bethpage Library

The New York City Ballet production of "The Nutcracker" has been a holiday season tradition for more than 30 years. The Bethpage Public Library is accepting registrations now for its bus trip to Lincoln Center on Tuesday, December 29, for a performance of the ballet classic. Famous for George Balanchine's thrilling choreography set to Tchaikovsky's glorious music, the production also features a one-ton Christmas tree that grows from a height of 12 feet to 40 feet; hundreds of elaborate costumes, including one (Mother Ginger) which is nine feet wide and weighs almost 85 pounds; an on-stage snowstorm that involves dozens of bushels of "snow" - (carefully swept up after each blizzard and reused); two alternate casts of 41 children, aged 8 to 13, chosen by annual audition; and a grand finale that involves close to a quarter of a million watts of lighting--more than any other ballet in the repertoire.

Schedule: The bus will leave from in front of the library promptly at 1:30 p.m. About two and a half hours will be available for enjoying the City's holiday atmosphere and for dining at any of the many restaurants in the Lincoln Center area before the 6 p.m. performance. The bus will leave shortly after the performance ends and should be back at the library by 10:30 p.m.

Registration: $40.50 per person, includes Second Ring, Center Seat and round-trip motor coach transportation. Children younger than 16 must be accompanied by an adult. Register at the library or mail check, payable to Bethpage Public Library, to the library, 47 Powell Avenue, Bethpage, NY, 11714 (please include day/ evening phone number).

On Saturday, December 12, youngsters will be able to create interesting holiday gifts at the Bethpage Public Library. Taught by Katherine Agrillo, noted specialist in crafts for youngsters, the program will highlight the making of an unusual magazine holder that can be used for periodicals, papers, pamphlets, pictures and more--an attractive and useful gift for the holidays or anytime.

The workshop will begin at 2 p.m. and young people are requested to bring a detergent box, 1/4 yard of contact paper, some gift wrap and scrap trims, as desired. The library will supply the rest.

On the first Thursday of each month, a meeting of a computer club for young people will be held at the Bethpage Public Library.

Led by Rob Reale, majoring in computers and business at SUNY-Farmingdale, the club will offer youngsters in grades 4-6 an exciting opportunity to learn about many aspects of computers. There will be an introduction to the library's extensive software collection, fun with graphics and word processing, an introduction to programming in BASIC, an and intriguing games, contests and other activities geared for their age group.

The club will meet on the first Thursday of each month from 4 to 5:15 p.m.

Chamber Beautification Efforts

Efforts by the Hicksville Chamber of Commerce "Beautification Committee" to reduce the litter on downtown streets continue, but more cooperation from the business community is needed. "We have asked merchants to refrain from putting out trash bags for pickup, on Friday," reports Marc Ramirez, President of the Chamber. "But some people persist in this habit, and by Saturday and Sunday, garbage litters Broadway."

Chamber of Commerce is complaining: "It's Sunday but trash containers are in prominent display on Broadway."

On a recent national holiday, Broadway merchants bedecked our main thoroughfare with broken or bulging trash containers.

If stray dogs are a problem, why put trash boxes out for pickup on a Friday? Hicksville Chamber of Commerce campaigns against this weekend Broadway mess.

Pedestrian Injured In Accident

The Eighth Squad reports the details of a serious auto accident involving a pedestrian. The accident occurred westbound on Hempstead Turnpike approximately 50' west of Seitz Drive in Bethpage on November 13, at 9:35 p.m.

Julie Lennon, 15 years, of North Massapequa was crossing from north to south on the roadway when she was struck by a 1980 Ford sedan traveling westbound and operated by Thomas Haley, 27 years of 3752 Regent Lane, Wantagh.

Ms. Lennon was taken to NCMC suffering from multiple body trauma and was admitted to the ICU unit.

A brake test of the vehicle was conducted at the scene and no charges were filed against the operator. The Eighth Squad is investigating.

Nassau County District Attorney Denis Dillon, left, and Assemblyman Lewis Yevoli held a press conference in Mineola to announce new proposals to crack down on fly-by-night home improvement contractors. The statewide legislation advanced by Dillon and Yevoli will include criminal penalties and a restitution fund for victims of a home improvement rip-off. Dillon said each year thousands of Long Island homeowners become victims of contractors who fail to complete agreed-upon alterations or who otherwise perform work in a totally shoddy manner. As a result, these homeowners not only lose thousands of dollars but also lose the full use and enjoyment of their family's place of residence.

Local PTAs Attend State Convention

Ten members of local PTA units attended this year's 90th Annual New York State PTA Convention held November 6-9, at the Riverside Convention Center in Rochester. Concerned people from all paths and persuasions highlighted the broad base of this organization whose priority is child advocacy.

At a recent Hicksville PTA Council meeting, delegates reported on the various workshops they attended, including Parenting, the Regents Action Plan, AIDS, Newspapers and the classroom, Helping children cope with stress; art in the school program, and "PTA nuts and bolts."

Pat Love, Council Legislative Chairman, reported that 20 of the 22 resolutions presented were adopted either in original or amended form. The resolutions dealt with such issues as amblyopia screening, hazing, protection of student privacy, poverty income guidelines and child support, community service for credit, in-school suspension, small class sizes and, in the area of the gifted and talented, instructional training for students and educators, guidance counseling for students, and special notation on teaching certificates.

The High Schools of Excellence resolution, originally withdrawn because Governor Mario Cuomo was no longer proposing the establishment of such schools, was returned to the agenda. The resolution opposes the use of public funds for a New York State residential school for gifted and talented students, and it was adopted as presented.

Two resolutions were defeated after debate; one called for substance abuse pre-service training for teachers and the second sought restoration of full income tax deductibility for the interest on guaranteed student loans.

In his keynote address, Dr. Adam Urbanski, President of the Rochester Teachers Association

The lighter side of convention. Delegates attend banquet hosted by New York State PTA President Mrs. Mary Ann Parker.

said, "Excellence without equity for all children is not worth pursuing." He called for holding teachers accountable, stating, "If we don't educate children well, nothing else really matters."

Dr. Norman Thomas, National PTA Vice President for Education, delivered the banquet presentation. Dr. Thomas gave the assembled crowd of 1,000 a mini-course on the "4 C's - Care - of the children; Cooperation - between home and school; Courage - to stand up for our children; and Commitment - to do our very best. Dr. Thomas said, "If we want quality education and quality teachers, we must have quality budgets."

This State-wide convention is held every fall, and all PTA units are urged to send a representative.

Halloween Party At OCR School

Our Children

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Girl dreams of owning a horse

Q. Our 8-year-old daughter has only one thing on her mind these days. No, it's not boys! That'll come, but not yet.

It is horses, and she wants one so much that it seems more important to her than her school work, her friends, and even television.

We are fortunate to have enough land to put a corral next to our house and enough money to get her a horse plus a saddle and all the rest, but we wonder whether we should.

A. My first reaction is to suggest that you begin shopping for one. But a second idea probably should be acted on before that, based on consulting an expert available to you concerning what kind, what size, where to shop, and who will coach her on riding and horse care skills. He or she might also share with you experiences with 8-year-olds.

Unless the care is entrusted to someone else, it won't take you long to realize that it is quite a responsibility, and many children aren't able to carry a large part of the load — so guess who ends up helping out or even doing it all?

Many publications can also be helpful, probably available through your local library.

For reasons that are not always clear, girls more than boys seem to develop affectionate relationships with horses.

Q. We read so much these days concerning family separation, divorce, conflict and abuse, and I often wonder about such information. Based on what I see in my own family and those of my friends, it all seems pretty far-fetched.

I'll admit that nobody really knows what goes on behind closed doors, but my limited evidence indicates we shouldn't be so tough in generalizing about family problems.

What do you think about this issue?

A. Generalizing is usually somewhat questionable, whether we are discussing single parents, working mothers, racial, cultural or religious factors, behavioral characteristics based on a child's age — or family relationships or patterns. The practice also may become objectionable when we erroneously generalize about the abilities of learning disabled, cerebral palsied, and other possibly handicapping conditions of some children and adults.

A recent survey by Better Homes and Gardens supports your admittedly limited observations. Their more extensive study revealed the following:

- More than 90 percent describe their family ties as "close-knit" or "fairly close-knit."

- More than 80 percent of those polled said their family had become increasingly important to them during the past five years. Only 3 percent reported that their family had diminished in importance.

- Seventy percent wish they had the opportunity to spend more time with family members.

- Two-thirds said they drive more than an hour to visit aunts, uncles, and cousins.

- Nearly 80 percent have attended family reunions, repeatedly by many.

This survey's results (despite the thought that those polled may be a selective population sample) are certainly encouraging and seem to support your optimistic point of view regarding present-day families.

Q. I understand so well the mother of an only child who is an active 4-year-old, and whose extended family pressures her with questions of why she doesn't have another child.

Facing those who asked why we had no more than one left me with some feelings of guilt and frustration. Neither of these helped my relationship with my son and husband. My husband and I had mixed emotions, and when we again tried to have children we found we were unable to do so. When we worked past the frustration we found a wonderful foundation of acceptance for ourselves and our family, quite adequate and full of love.

If I had first tried some of your ideas we may have arrived at the same results sooner, as we would then have felt less pressure from others.

A. My original suggestions included giving no response, changing the subject, leaving the room, asking something about the relative's own immediate family, turning on the TV, or starting to get dinner ready. Reactions like those may be a bit less direct and more polite than a none-of-your-business reply which some people (not you, apparently) are tempted to use.

Bethpage High Has Honor Teams Day

Bethpage High School turned out in full force at a School Spirit Assembly to congratulate the Golden Eagles Football Team and Volleyball Team on their victorious seasons.

The Marching Band, Golden Girls and Cheerleading Squad led the student body in cheers for the student athletes.

Mr. Howard Vogts, football coach, introduced his team members: Tom Gozaloff, Mike Cipriano, Jim Nugent, Frank Ellinger, Mike Conway (captain), Tony Guglielmo, Charlie Seminario, Tom MacVicar, Tony Filacousis, Joe Ambrosio, Mike Gerken, Joe Siracuse, Mike Schreiber, Chris Settino, Andy Marinuzzi, Larry Abenanti, Jim Ryan, Jim Cornicelli, Sean Scharnikow, Tom Rousakis, Mike Cofone, Craig Schulitz, Chris Blades, Tom Castle, Joe Caernak, Joe Renneisen, Mike Sardo, Craig Passante, and Matt Conway. The Golden Eagles finished the season with an 8-0 record to clinch the Conference III title and are headed for the playoffs at Hofstra University.

Miss Anne DiPrima introduced the Volleyball Team, which is in the second round of county playoffs. They boast a four year won-lost record of 88-10 and have been county finalists and undefeated division champs for three consecutive years. In 1986 they won the National League Championship. The team consists of captain Sue Trottier, Apple Bank's player of the game, who had 278 kills this season; co-captain Nicole Tobin, who scored 307 points with 267 assists; Kathy Eastwood, who contributed 187 assists; co-captain Michele DiGiuseppe, who scored 289 points; Stephanie Christian, who contributed 165 kills; Laura Feola, Diane Herbert, Carmen James, Kim Mondelli, Jen Parry and Erica Sylvester.

The Nassau County Coaches Association elected Michele DiGiuseppe to All-Division, Stephanie Christian to All-Conference, Nicole Tobin to All-League and Sue Trottier to All-County.

Road Runners Talent Show

The Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club will close out the year in style, with a talent show and holiday party immediately following their December general meeting.

The festivities will take place on Tuesday evening, December 15, at the Plainview-Old Bethpage Public Library, 999 Old Country Road in Plainview. The meeting will start promptly at 8 p.m.

The talent show is being "professionally" orchestrated by POBRRC Vice President Julie Shapiro and POBRRC's Joe Rottino will serve as the Master of Ceremonies. The program will feature the talents of various members of the Club. A wine and cheese spread will accompany the festivities. The general public is cordially invited to attend.

For more information about POBRRC, or about running and racing on Long Island generally, call Club President Mike Polansky at 433-0919.

Girls' Volleyball Team is congratulated by Bethpage High School.

Golden Girls perform at Spirit Assembly.

Pennant Design Wins Student Prize

Stephanie Heimbauer, a fifth grader at Charles Campagne School, recently won a PTA sponsored contest when she designed a pennant commemorating the school's 25th anniversary. Her blue and gold pennant bearing the school's name and the number 25 in Roman numerals is proudly displayed in the school's main lobby.

At the October PTA meeting, Agnes Harrison, Chairperson of the Pennant Design Contest, presented Stephanie with a $50

U.S. Savings Bond. Barbara Hachmann made a presentation on Latchkey Children to the 75 parents attending the meeting. Ms. Hachmann conducts a district-wide educational program for sixth graders called "I'm In Charge," which teaches children how to be responsible for themselves when left at home alone.

The PTA Program Committee ended the meeting with a fall craft demonstration.

Barbara Hachmann addresses the Charles Campagne PTA.

Stephanie Heimbauer receives an award from Agnes Harrison.

Central Blvd PTA Has Lip Sync Contest

Central Boulevard students swung to disco, rock, folk, oldies, and show tunes at the PTA's first lip-sync contest Tuesday evening, November 10. The standing-room-only crowd was treated to an exciting two-hour show with music by DJ Lori Waldman and expertly choreographed entertainment by 25 groups of students syncing and dancing to their favorite songs. The audience, composed of students, friends, and families, cheered the performers on with as much enthusiasm as one would expect to see for the superstar recording artists themselves.

During breaks, emcee Tony Zucco awarded a number of raffle prizes donated by local businesses and kept the crowd entertained with jokes and stories. Performers and guests enjoyed coffee, cake, and Carvel flying saucers at intermission.

A panel of judges awarded prizes to the top three groups. Third place went to Jessica Untener, Lisa Panico, Gina Venera, Kim Pollack, Carrie DeSimone, Beth Brenner, Angela Callegari and Cara Weigold performing to "I Will Follow Him," an oldie by Little Peggy March. Second place went to pint-sized Eric Steiniger performing the western "Cool Clear Water," recorded by Sons of the Pioneers. "Annie" and company, played by Jessica Blelo, Caitriona Mitchell, Kim Sodenberger and Audra Chiarella, took first place sweeping the crowd off its feet with brooms and buckets in "It's A Hard Knock Life."

Parents and children so enjoyed the evening that PTA hopes to make it a regular event.

Maggie Colander, Kristine Schlebel and Kristin Haasch "Walk Like An Egyptian."

Danielle Salvato, Lauren Lalino and Tracy Beslander "Heard A Rumor."

Audio crew takes a bow.

Right-To-Lifers Picket Clinics

The sun shone but the wind was cold as anti-abortion picketers demonstrated before Hicksville's abortion center.

A coalition of right-to-life organizations picketed Hicksville's Women's Choice abortion facility on West John St., recently. Marchers who braved a raw Saturday morning to protest the continued presence of medical abortion operations in the village included members from: Long Island Coalition for Life; Mother and Unborn Baby Care; and Celebrate Life. Some members of Nassau Knights of Columbus councils also took part. Fred Sussi of Bethpage coordinated the demonstration.

Some of the Right-to-Life coalition picketing the Hicksville Women's Choice abortion facility recently, are seen in action on West John Street.

IF YOU FEEL FORTUNATE YOUR CHILD JUST SMOKES MARIJUANA, THEN YOU SHOULD KNOW MORE ABOUT MARIJUANA.

Shall we start with the facts? Marijuana makes your child lethargic, apathetic and paranoid.

That's frightening. But so is this: Marijuana also causes mood shifts. And it causes your child to lose his memory.

It gets worse.

Marijuana causes a loss of motor coordination. Think about that next time your child drives the car home at night.

Had enough? No?

OK. Marijuana affects your child's reproductive system as well. It decreases your son's testosterone level. It can even lead to infertility.

Your daughter's reproductive system can suffer, too.

With marijuana, unfortunately, come menstrual irregularities.

There's more.

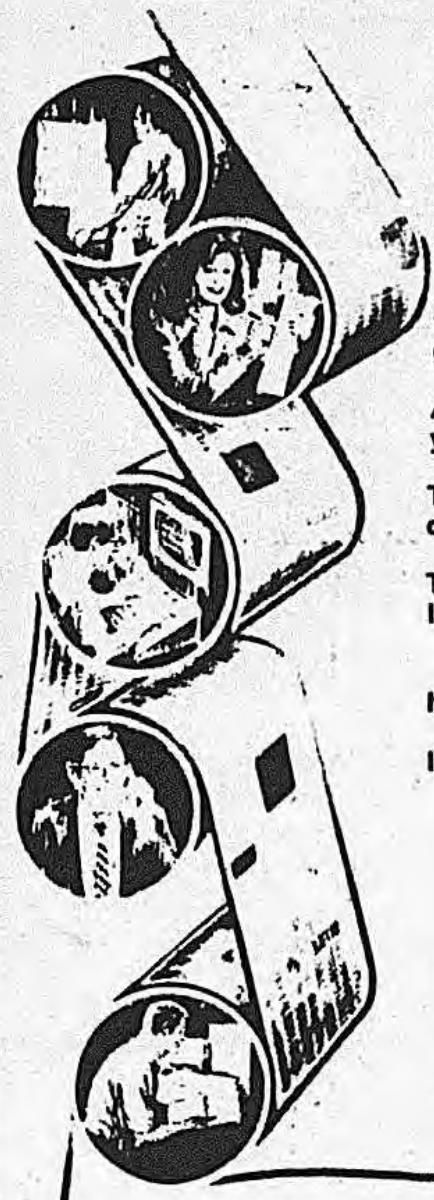

Marijuana also does damage to your child's lungs. You think cigarettes are bad? Marijuana is far worse.

There are other effects that seem to show up with this "minor" drug: decreased productivity, absenteeism, impaired performance as well as impaired judgement and impaired learning capability.

Put it this way: It doesn't do much for your child's education.

If you'd like more information about marijuana or any other problem drug, contact your local agency on drug abuse.

Flannery Copies Last Year's Form

Amy Flannery, a former all-county performer at Hicksville High School, has just completed her third varsity season for the University of Scranton women's soccer team.

Scranton finished eighth overall in Division III, earning its first NCAA post-season tournament bid on the strength of the team's 12-9-2 record against many of the top ranked teams in the nation.

Flannery was a member of the defensive corps for the Lady Royals who shut out nine opponents and have a 1.9 goals against average. She will be one of only two returning defensive letterwinners next season for Scranton.

At Hicksville, Flannery excelled in soccer, earning all-conference honors in her sophomore season and all-county laurels in her junior and senior seasons. Last year she was elected to the All-Middle Athletic Conference all-star team.

A nursing major at Scranton, Flannery is the daughter of Joseph and Carol Flannery of 60 11th Street in Hicksville.

Kenefick Adds To Scranton Soccer

Debbie Kenefick and Sue Cates, both former members of Holy Trinity High School's 1983 Catholic League and 1984 Division Championship teams, have just completed their third varsity season for the University of Scranton women's varsity soccer team.

Scranton finished 12-9-2 this season, placing eighth in the NCAA National Tournament. This appearance marked the first post-season appearance by the Lady Royals in the program's five-year history and the third consecutive year that the team has been ranked in the top 20 for Division III.

Both ladies made equal contributions to the scoring attack, providing five points apiece. Kenefick had one goal and three assists, while Cates notched two scores and an assist. (Scoring in women's soccer is 2 points for a goal, one for an assist.)

Kenefick played mostly at the midfield position, which consisted of all juniors. Cates played on the explosive forward line, one which produced a near record amount of goals during the 22 game season (51).

An education major at Scranton, Kenefick is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Kenefick of 190 Cottage Blvd. in Hicksville.

John F. Kennedy Junior High School in Bethpage held a colorful Halloween Dance October 28. The costumed crowd danced to the music of a live disc jockey and enjoyed refreshments, both provided for by the PTA.

(loans up to $350,000)

Quoted rates are for self-liquidating, "full income verification" loans with a minimum down payment of 25% of appraised value on 1-to 4-family homes. The annual percentage rates include commitment and origination fees. The Bank sets the interest rates on loans at the time of commitment (for a 90-day period), not at the time of application. The rates contained in this advertisement may change while an application is being processed, and may not be available at the time of commitment.

Repayment terms for 10-year (15-year and 30-year) fixed rate loans at the stated rates would be 120 (180 and 360) monthly payments of $13.36 ($11.21 and $9.72) per $1,000 borrowed.

Adjustable rate shown is a below-market introductory annual rate for the first year only. The annual percentage rate is based on the current value of "The Green Point's" Index Interest Rate (currently 10.75%) which is subject to change. The annual rate will not change more than 2% per year (up or down) and, over the life of the loan, will not vary (increase or decrease) more than 3% from the Index Interest Rate in effect at the time the loan is closed.

Input Callers Have Mixed Ideas On Questioning Of Court Candidates

Most callers to input believe that there may be trouble ahead for Corazon Aquino in answer to this question? "Do you think Aquino will be able to solidify the Philippines and remain in power?" Here are some of the answers.

STOOD STILL

So far the Aquino regime in the Philippines has either stood still or gone backward. It is true that she was hailed throughout the islands as a new great leader after Marcos left. But she has never come to grips with left wing and Communist demands. Until she does that the country is in danger and I do not think she will be able to stay in power.

K.L.

SHE MAY DO IT

Aquino came in after Marcos had drained most of the assets out of the Philippines. To blame her for having trouble does not make any sense. She is working hard and I believe if anyone is able to solidify the country she will do it.

M.E.

WEAK LEADER

It is just a matter of time before Aquino will have to get out of the Philippines. She is a weak leader in a place used to a strong dictator. All of the factions will run rampant over her if she tries to put the necessary governing laws into power. In the long run Aquino will not be successful.

H.K.

SHE WILL SURVIVE

I believe that Aquino has come a long way and that she will adapt to the situation and be able to solidify the government to make the Philippines a stable country again. It is always difficult to take over after a one man rule but she will be able to do it and we should support her work.

C.V.

MAY BE IMPOSSIBLE

Once again the forces that brought Aquino into power will probably bring about the Communization of that country. It was a bit naive to believe that Aquino with no real governing experience could take over the country and run it without difficulty. This was a story book approach. We would all like her to be able to solidify the country but it may well be impossible.

N.W.

BAD ODDS

Aquino has done well considering the odds against her. She has tried to bring some form of democracy out of a past dictatorship and sweep aside the Marcos problems. On top of that there are many different factions in the Philippines that want to gain control. She still has a chance of being successful and we should all hope that she will be. F.T.

FORMER DICTATOR

The Philippine problem is one that has come about almost from the beginning. Marcos held on to the power by total dictatorship. The problem is that you have rival forces which do not want to compromise and want to impose their form of dictatorship on the Philippines. Aquino comes in as a moderate favoring democratic ways. But there are other forces that want to battle to take over dictatorship. Marcos and his followers represent one of those forces but not the only one. There is a militant Communist force that would like to take over and dominate. This could make it impossible for Aquino to stay in power.

BE TOUGH

The biggest problem Corazon Aquino faces is the continued existence of Ferdinand Marcos. As long as he is alive, Aquino will continue to face turmoil in the Philippines. And, there are two divisive elements which Marcos can latch on to—the continued presence of the U.S. Military in the Islands and the poverty which encompasses the majority of the population. It seems that, in the light of these two dominant factors, a certain amount of ruthlessness must be mixed with administrative wisdom and human kindness. And, this applies whether the President is a man or a woman although feminine sentimentality has carried Aquino during the early stages of her rule arising from the assassination of her husband Benigno in 1983. The job which Corrie faces is a formidable one and the only way she can survive is by being tough, by rooting out the malcontents and the insurrectionists and by facing up to unpleasant measures which must be taken to put the nation's economic house in order. She may lose some popularity in the process but she will gain the respect of the people as progress is made. The nation will have to face a disagreeable period of reconstruction but as progress is achieved and the public made aware of positive objectives attained, she should be able to satisfy the Philippines and remain in power.

PAST ISSUES

BORK NOMINATION

When the President ignores the fact that Congress is an equal partner in running the country and picks candidates by political philosophy rather than sound judicial accomplishments the type of questions by Congress is more than justified. My complaint is that the questions were not searching enough. To deny the Constitution is a living changing document as Bork did claiming "original intent" was his philosophy should have been enough to deny his confirmation.

Holiday Season Brings Together Friends

By Jerard Mulvihill

Sounding not unlike a child awaiting the arrival of special guests - aunts or uncles or grandparents - on Thanksgiving or Christmas day, I proclaimed joyously: "They're coming. They're actually coming!" while waving the U.S. mail that brought the exhilarating news.

"Listen," I directed my wife after I'd calmed, "it says here 'we have decided to accept your invitation and visit you on Long Island.' How about that?"

Had it made my day and triggered an unprecedented flow of adrenaline? You bet. With today's references to "highs" for me this was the apex.

But I must explain. Pete and Carol, who live in Appleton, Wisconsin, are planning to visit us this September for the first time. I have never met Carol but Pete and I have known each other for near half a century.

Truly, he and I go back a long way. We entered college together and because our surnames began with the letter "M" and we both matriculated for a BBA degree we were thrown together in most of our classes. There were of course others who qualified with last initial and major subject area but Pete and I were kindred spirits. We saw things the same way. Believed in the same values.

At a time when "double-dating" was the way to go he'd borrow his family's car or I'd borrow ours. In retrospect life played a lot simpler than now for a young person, especially in one's teen years and early twenties. To be moral about it just a moment...you "didn't!" You didn't do drugs. You didn't do sex. Leastwise not in the grand scale of present society.

My friend and I graduated college together in 1942 and joined the army a month later to crush the fascist hordes. We endured basic training side by side under the relentless Texas sun and on to infantry officer's training at Ft. Benning Georgia. We acquired our gold bars together and only then were we separated by divergent assignments. The particular hell of war rifle platoon leaders know, followed. He traversed North Africa, Italy and France. And I advanced in France, Belgium and Germany. In the end God saw to it we came home. We made it, as they say.

Then, in 1946, the struggle of civilian life began. Though not as physically threatening, it was almost as disheartening as combat. We had no salable work experience or skills, not having held a job before enlistment in the service and with only a BBA degree and "Infantry" on our resumes at 26 years of age we were turned away from all but the least satisfactory jobs.

He struggled. I struggled. Eventually we both got a foothold on our lives though we never reached our expectations, never mind our dreams. But then very few do, not so? Our friendship deferred to everyday obligations and responsibilities. We drifted apart even in sending greeting cards. Addresses were lost. Other things seemed more vital, more important. Silence settled in for thirty years. A friendship at rest. This particular enrichment of our lives turned off. Because that's what friendship is basically...the enrichment of life.

Then one day about three years ago a letter arrived from Pete. Would I consider reviving our friendship? Would I? You bet I would and we did.

Now we're both retired and our families are grown. Remarkably, we still hold many of the same interests. We're the same physical complaints (we attribute to the Infantry) and the same appreciation of life (ditto). We correspond monthly on topics from art to zoology and enjoy every word.

So I'm going to see my friend Pete and his wife after all these years and they will meet us on our home ground. He and I will look each other in the eye and shake hands again...firmly. A simple gesture that can mean so much.

I feel like a kid. They're coming. They're coming.

Q. I have noticed that Chinese restaurants do not provide knives when serving meals. Can you tell me the reason for this practice?

A. In the orient food is cut into small pieces before it is cooked.

This has the advantage of reducing cooking time and also minimizing any loss of nutrients. In China it is considered bad manners to cut food at the table.

Q. Recently while dining in a Portuguese restaurant, my friend and I were served a sweet white wine with our dessert. Would you have any idea what the name of this wine would be? It was delicious.

A. You may have been served one of Portugal's sweet white ports. They come from the area of Oporto and I agree with you that they are very good and surprisingly little known by Americans.

Chu Palace is famous for its delicious Chicken Sisig with lettuce and its mouth watering legendary House Steak. Customers say Chu Palace has the best Peking Duck on Long Island: a young seasoned duckling slowly grilled until crisp and golden. Served traditionally with Chinese pancakes, hearts of scallion and Hoisin Sauce. A fully stocked bar and many other Chef's Specialties to please you. Isn't it time you tried Chu Palace!

"Emilia's is like a little bit of Europe tucked away in the midst of American suburbia. Everything about the place is warm. Filet mignon au poivre vert is superior to many; the beef is absolutely top shelf quality."

"Few restaurants on Long Island make you feel as welcome, comfortable and catered to as Emilia in Carle Place. Service is exceptional and the owners and staff go out of their way to be accommodating."

Florence Fabricant, New York Times, March 1988

GREAT RESTAURANT

Recently we had the occasion to eat at Santorini Restaurant at Woodbury Mall Jericho Turnpike once more. We had a large group with various taste. All of their Greek dishes were delicious and authentic. When one of our friends who had lived in Greece for several years said "this is real Greek food" we knew we had made a wise choice. They also have a variety of salads, chops and fish. Others in the party were well satisfied.

FAVORITE RESTAURANT

The Executive Restaurant on Mineola Boulevard in Mineola has long been one of my favorite restaurants and I always enjoy their fine, continental cuisine. Last week our party of four dined there, and two of us ordered the Zuppa diPescce, the French call it Bouillabaisse. I have thoroughly enjoyed this dish both in Spain and in Portugal; however I must admit this was the equal if not better. It is usually ordered for two. This dish with French or Italian bread is food fit for the gods.

If your taste buds are crying for a gustatory delight, try it! I heartily recommend it. The atmosphere is friendly, the service is great. The fish is delivered fresh daily. You will come away with a mental note, that this is a place to re-visit soon again. L.P.

Q. When dining out I have often seen women wearing their coats to the table, then depositing them on the back of their chairs. However, I have never seen a man do the same thing with his overcoat. Is there really a difference in etiquette for men and women in regard to checking coats?

A. Yes, a man always checks his coat in a restaurant. But a woman has the option of checking her coat or bringing it to the table.

READER RATINGS

Q. There is a great catering place in my neighborhood which features wonderful food at moderate prices. However, dinners are always served "family style". Meat and vegetables are placed in large platters which guests pass around just as if they were eating at home.

A. There is one problem with this type service, though. I notice that some people take more than their fair share or perhaps take all white meat when turkey is served. What can be done about this?

A. There is really nothing that you can do under the circumstances. Family style dining is a nice idea, but it doesn't work unless all the guests are considerate.

Why not ask the manager to provide conventional service, in which food is placed on plates in the kitchen, for your next affair?

ATTRACTIVE RESTAURANT

A great restaurant is Surfside on Hillside Avenue in New Hyde Park. You will enjoy the restful decor, and attractive surroundings. Whether you order steak or seafood, you will find it well prepared and attractively served.

I find it refreshing to dine leisurely, in a quiet setting. There is also ample parking and it is so convenient. How nice to have such a good restaurant practically in our backyard! I think you will concur that this is a place you will want to share with your friends.

READER RATINGS

TWO EVENTS

To celebrate two special events—one a birthday and the other an anniversary—our party of four decided to go to La Cisterna, an Italian restaurant serving Northern Italian cuisine, on Mineola Blvd., Mineola. This happens to be one of our favorite restaurants and we want to share our delightful evening with your readers.

For antipasto we all shared the following: Fettuccini Alfredo, Homemade Minestrone Soup, and Mussels in a Marinara Sauce, as well as an assorted Antipasto. It was all so delicious and whetted our appetites for the entrees.

The specialty of the house that night was shrimp wrapped in prosciutto served with a delicate mushroom sauce, and a rolled chicken cutlet stuffed with spinach and mushrooms. Another dinner was the veal piccata. All the dinners were served with fresh vegetables. Fabulous desserts served with caffè espresso with Sambucca. Add to this a leisurely atmosphere, excellent service and a genial ambience made for a meal fit for the gods.

I heartily recommend this outstanding restaurant. U.K.

Cooking Corner

By Kitty Morse

'Tis the season to be stuffed

Of all the components of a traditional Thanksgiving feast, the stuffing usually gets the least attention.

It is monochromatic alongside the kaleidoscope of fresh vegetables, crudites and relishes.

It is soft and squishy compared to the crackly mahogany skin of the turkey and the nutty cranberry confiture.

But its fragrance and moisture-maintaining qualities add panache to the plebeian all-American bird. And the wealth of regional recipes available today gives the tradition-bound cook a chance to experiment and create a new family tradition.

Since Thanksgiving is a celebration of the harvest, it is appropriate that the turkey stuffing, too, reflects the autumn season with a variety of ingredients.

Start with ground beef and sausage, wild rice, soaked and squeezed bread cubes or a blend of these.

Then add crunch with walnuts, pecans or macadamia nuts. Add richness with toasted chestnuts. Add zest with green apples and citrus juices.

Dried apricots, prunes and figs give bread stuffing a chewy texture and deep fruity taste. Raisins soaked first in cognac or port wine impart spirit. Fluffy scrambled eggs add a souffle-like lightness.

Parmesan cheese gives an elusive creaminess and a salty savor that obviates the need for additional salt.

And aromatic herbs such as sage, thyme, rosemary, chervil and parsley add personality. Each time the oven door is opened, the bird sizzles, crackles and sends inviting herbed smells throughout the house.

Chef Dennis Barry, 34, educated at the Culinary Institute of America, doesn't remember the turkey stuffing of his youth too well, but is sure that it was "fresh bread stuffing, not from a package."

Barry will stuff his turkey with bread stuffing ("I like to use day-old French baguettes ... the semolina dough is richer tasting") moistened with fresh turkey stock and seasoned with minced celery and fresh sage. He cautions that sage plants vary in intensity of flavor and recommends that the cook first make a sage "tea" with boiling water to determine how potent the leaves are. "Then mince the fresh, dry sage leaves and add to the stuffing accordingly," says Barry.

Cindy Black, executive chef of the Piret's chain, likes the classic bread stuffing, but with a difference. "I like it soggy," the busy but

unflappable chef says with a laugh, "real soggy."

Black starts with a sausage and garlic base. "Then I add lots of onion, lots of sage, turkey stock and fresh bread ... that's what makes it so soggy," she says.

Although the home cook can "doll it up with chestnuts and other things," Black insists that the simplest is the best.

Doug Organ grew up in San Jose, Calif., on packaged stuffing. "But my mother did cut her own celery and carrots," quips the 24-year-old chef. "That's about the closest she got to homemade."

Organ is not a big turkey-stuffing fan. "I cook a turkey dinner for my family every Thanksgiving, but I never stuff the bird," he says, "I always find other things to do with it."

Has he, in fact, ever prepared a stuffing for poultry, we asked? "Gee, not that I can remember," says Organ, "except for helping my mother open the package."

We offer these recipes taken from America's various regional cuisines.

GRAND MARNIER APRICOT STUFFING

1 cup diced dried apricots
1½ cups Grand Marnier
Turkey liver and heart
1 cup (2 sticks) unsalted butter
2 cups coarsely chopped celery
1 large yellow onion, chopped
1 pound bulk pork sausage
1 pound herb stuffing mix
1 cup slivered almonds
2 cups chicken stock
¾ teaspoon dried thyme
Salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste

Place apricots and 1 cup of Grand Marnier in small saucepan. Heat to boiling, remove from heat and set aside. Simmer turkey liver and heart in water to cover in small saucepan for 5 minutes. Set aside to cool.

Melt ¼ cup butter in large skillet over medium heat. Add celery and onion and saute for 10 minutes. Transfer to large mixing bowl.

Cook pork sausage in same skillet, crumbling with fork until no longer pink. Remove from heat and add to celery mixture.

Add stuffing mix, apricot with liquid and almonds. Finely dice turkey liver and heart and add to stuffing mixture. Stir to combine.

Heat remaining ¼ cup butter and stock in small saucepan just until butter melts. Pour over stuffing mixture and add remaining ¼ cup Grand Marnier. Stir well to moisten stuffing. Season with thyme and salt and pepper to taste.

Makes enough for a 21- to 24-pound turkey.

(From "The Silver Palate Good Times Cookbook.")

VEAL, PORK AND SAGE STUFFING

½ pound finely ground lean veal
½ pound ground pork
2 cups finely chopped onions
2 cups finely chopped celery
1 tablespoon garlic
1 bay leaf, finely chopped
¼ teaspoon dried thyme
2 tablespoons dried leaf sage, chopped
1 cup fresh or canned chicken broth
2 cups oven-baked bread crumbs, baked until golden brown
½ cup finely chopped parsley
¼ cup melted butter
1 egg, well beaten
Salt to taste, if desired
Freshly ground pepper to taste

Put veal and pork in large skillet without fat. Cook, stirring and chopping down with side of heavy kitchen spoon to break up lumps. Cook until meat gives up its liquid. Then cook until liquid is evaporated.

Add onions, celery, garlic, bay leaf, thyme and sage and cook, stirring, until meat starts to brown on bottom. Add broth and cook, stirring all around the bottom to dissolve brown particles that cling there.

Scrape mixture into mixing bowl and add bread crumbs, parsley, butter, egg, salt and pepper. Blend well. Set aside to cool.

Yield: About 6 cups.

CORN BREAD-SAUSAGE STUFFING WITH APPLES

12 tablespoons (1½ sticks) sweet butter
2½ cups finely chopped yellow onions
3 tart apples (Jonathan and Winesap are good), cored and chunked; do not peel
1 pound lightly seasoned bulk sausage (breakfast sausage with sage is best)
3 cups coarsely crumbled corn bread (preferably homemade)
3 cups coarsely crumbled whole wheat bread
3 cups coarsely crumbled white bread (French or homemade preferred)
2 teaspoons dried thyme
1 teaspoon dried sage
Salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste
½ cup chopped Italian parsley
1½ cups shelled pecan halves

Melt half of butter in skillet. Add chopped onions and cook over medium heat, partially covered, until tender and lightly colored, about 25 minutes. Transfer onions and butter to large mixing bowl.

Melt remaining butter in same skillet. Add apple chunks and cook over high heat until lightly colored but not mushy. Transfer apples and butter to mixing bowl.

Crumble sausage into skillet

and cook over medium heat, stirring, until lightly browned. With a slotted spoon, transfer sausage to mixing bowl and reserve rendered fat.

Add remaining ingredients to ingredients in mixing bowl and combine gently. Cool completely before stuffing bird; refrigerate if not used promptly.

If you do not wish actually to stuff bird (goose or duck, for example, can make the stuffing greasy), spoon it into casserole. Cover casserole and set into large pan. Pour hot water around casserole to come halfway up sides. Bake for 30 to 45 minutes at 325 F, basting occasionally with cooking juices from bird or with reserved sausage fat, if necessary.

Makes enough stuffing for a 20-pound turkey, to make 12 to 14 portions.

(From "The Silver Palate Cook Book.")

AMERICAN HEART ASSOCIATION'S SPRING STUFFING

½ cup margarine, unsalted
1 cup finely chopped celery
½ cup finely chopped onions
½ cup dry bread cubes
2 cups peeled, coarsely chopped apple
1 cup toasted sliced almonds
2 teaspoons orange rind
¼ cup orange juice
½ teaspoon thyme

Cook celery and onion in margarine until tender. Add to remaining ingredients. Toss lightly. Spoon dressing into oiled casserole. Bake covered in preheated oven (350 F) 30 to 40 minutes. For crisp top remove lid last 5 minutes of cooking.

Makes 12 servings.

AMERICAN DIABETES ASSOCIATION'S CRANBERRY-RICE STUFFING

½ cup brown rice, uncooked
¾ cup water
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1½ cups sliced mushrooms (½ pound)
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup fresh or frozen cranberries
¼ teaspoon dried thyme
¼ teaspoon dried basil

Cook rice in water until tender, about 1 hour. Sauté remaining ingredients in skillet until celery and onion are tender. Add rice and stir to blend. Use as stuffing in 2 Cornish hens or 1 small chicken.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q: A dinner guest rubbed his shoes on my beige wool carpet. Now it is streaked with four stripes of oxblood shoe polish.

How can I remove the dark smudges that remain? I have tried Fantastik, lighter fluid, KR2 and Woolite. Thank you for any ideas you might have. — M.J.

A: For removal of shoe polish paste on carpets, scrape off as much as possible and clean the residue with dry-cleaning fluid, using an eye dropper and beginning at the outer edges of the stained area, working toward the center. Use a clean white cloth as a blotter to lift the stain. Repeat as long as the stain is being transferred to the white cloth.

Finish the spotting process by applying the following formula: 1 teaspoonful of synthetic (soapless) detergent in $\frac{1}{4}$ pint lukewarm water. Stir thoroughly until you have obtained a clear, watery solution without residue. The amount of suds has no bearing on the effectiveness of the formula. Apply on the stained area with an eyedropper, and using a rotary motion, sponge stains with a clean, white, unstarched cloth, beginning at the outer edge and working in. Then with another cloth dampened with clean, lukewarm water, sponge the area several times.

It is possible that by removing the stain you may also remove some of the color of the carpet. Bleached spots can often be retained but this generally calls for the skill of an expert.

A key to the effective removal of stains is to treat the area quickly before the stains have "set." Knowing the right formula for various stains is very important.

Q: I have a heavy steel screen door (brown) that continues to be a delight to neighboring cats who have sprayed it repeatedly so that the lower area is heavily corroded. Everything I have tried to clean this area with has not been effective. Do you have any advice for this problem? — R.D.

A: Since the surface is actually corroded, not just discolored or stained, your only effective solution would be to repaint the metal.

Be sure to use a quality primer and paint made especially for metal surfaces. Your local paint dealer should be able to advise you on surface preparation and paint products (Rust-Oleum is one brand name).

To prevent further damage from your wandering neighbors, you might want to invest in a cat-repellent spray that will deter this action. Such products are available at nurseries or housewares stores. They do not have a long-lasting effect, so you will have to use the spray often. But once the animals have been discouraged, hopefully, they will change their habits.

Q: I recently purchased a "row house" that is over 100 years old. It was renovated prior to my purchase. There is just one problem. The basement walls are brick and mortar and they flake off. There is a constant collection of red and white dust on the floor.

I have been advised that the mortar contained too much sand 100 years ago and I should not worry about the problem. But I do. I would like to protect the walls, somehow. What can you suggest? F.B.

A: I have two suggestions that may help, but will not entirely correct the problem.

First, using a stiff bristle brush, clean the brick and mortar joints so that they are free of all the existing loose material. You can consider replacing the top layer of the original mortar with a new layer of mortar. This would require removing approximately $\frac{1}{4}$ inch of the mortar from between the bricks (a slow and tedious job), then replacing it with a thin layer of fresh mortar. Use a sharp instrument such as screwdriver for the task, or check with your masonry supply dealer for a professional instrument designed to do this job.

After you complete the task, apply a good quality masonry sealer over the entire surface (brick and mortar) to help prevent further flaking.

If you are hesitant to tackle the job of removing mortar and reapplying a new layer of mortar, you might consider using just the masonry sealer for protection of your walls. The sealer will change the color of the brick slightly, making it appear somewhat darker, or similar to the appearance it would have if wet.

"Today's medical practitioner does not know and is not aware of the remarkable ways we can keep the body healthy through exercise and nutrition. But it is something we can and must do."

The doctor, who trains athletes — from weight lifters through runners and endurance bicyclists — for health, advocates personal control in health decisions, including individual research into positive health. "Keep the body in its best shape through exercise and nutrition and the activity can prevent or deter those problems many assume a part of aging."

Namey uses the techniques actively in working with patients to overcome the effects of arthritis. He does prescribe Piroxicam (Feldene) to reduce inflammation in the joints while also developing exercise — including the use of weights — and diet programs to work with the whole body.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

Kelly: To keep things simple, young bodies are one of three types — slender, medium and stocky, it all depends on your bone structure. A visit to your doctor will tell you what body type you are, and the good doctor also will tell you if you need to lose weight.

Dr. Wallace: I am 15 and my boyfriend Mike is 19. We have been going together for two "rocky" years. Most of our problems occur because Mike "cheats" on me and I always find out. Last week, I caught him with my cousin in the back of his van, and they were doing more than just holding hands.

Yesterday, Mike joined the Air Force for a four-year tour of duty. Last night, he told me that he wanted to have a baby and that it would make him be "true" to me while he is in the Air Force. I really like this guy but I don't know if I can ever trust him. Your advice please. — Sandra

Sandra: Having a baby would be the worst thing possible at this time in your life. Break up with Mike while he is in the military so you won't have to sit at home and wonder "Is he or isn't he" being true. Chances are great the answer would be that he isn't.

Dr. Wallace: I've been dating Jill for six months and I like her very much. Last week, one of my buddies told me something that my girlfriend had done when she was dating another guy. When I asked Jill about it she said nothing, and that my buddy was lying. Now I don't know who to believe. One of them is lying. — George

George: Believe Jill and apologize to her for making her defend herself. Then forget the conversation ever took place. If your buddy was really a buddy he wouldn't spread gossip and rumors.

Dr. Wallace: I'm the type of person who dreams a lot and most of them that I remember are enjoyable. I have a pet dog that I love and she is almost always in my dreams. Is it possible to have more than one dream a night? If so how many dreams can a person have? The more the better. — Rusty

Rusty: The "average" human being has a total of about five dreams each and every night, but often only remembers one — the one he had just before waking.

Dr. Wallace: I am 15 and weigh 125 pounds and I'm 5 feet 2 inches tall. Do you think I'm too fat? I do! — Kelly

TWEEN 12 & 20

After Work Gourmet

By Melanie Barnard
and Brooke DeJey

Remember Thanksgiving dinner when you were a kid? You had to get all dressed up like you were going to church or a funeral, maybe. Then you waited a long time while the old folks either watched the football game or fussed interminably in the kitchen.

Hours passed, it seemed, and all that time the aroma from the kitchen got better and better until you thought perhaps you would literally faint from ravenous hunger. Finally, the appointed hour arrived and everyone was ceremoniously called to the dining room where the table was set with dangerously spottable linen, breakable china and loseable silver — not an auspicious beginning for one who by then was ready to eat the salt shaker.

Much ado was made (and much time spent) on carving the big bird while all guests publicly congratulated the carver on his skill (and privately wanted to grab a drumstick and run). Finally, bowls of mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, creamed onions and stuffing were dutifully passed around.

As a kid, your station at the table was not highly favored and, thus, your plate was among the last to be laden. The final insult came, of course, when Aunt Grace clucked as you used your roll to push the peas under the knife and the potatoes onto the fork and wanted seconds on stuffing before anyone else was even done with firsts.

For us (and we bet for you, too), surviving the formal Thanksgiving dinner depended heavily on the knowledge that later, when Aunt Grace finally went home and you could get out of those awful clothes, the leftover goodies would be tucked neatly away in the refrigerator. And that was (and still is) when the real feast began. The following recipes are two of our favorite Thanksgiving postscripts, and we frankly like them just as well (maybe better).

Our Favorite Thanksgiving Night Sandwich is quietly easy to assemble at midnight when you don't want anyone to know that you are such a glutton. You might think it odd to put the stuffing on the sandwich, too, but that is because you haven't tried it. We highly recommend that you give it a chance. By the way, we think that only mayonnaise will do on this personal classic, but if you are a butter person, go ahead and be different.

Next Day Shepherd's Pie is a real, up-front main course and not ever to be considered a mundane "leftover." In fact, the mixing up of the turkey, gravy, onions and vegetables under a big thick blanket of mashed potatoes is how we have secretly envisioned our original Thanksgiving plate to be constructed, anyway. In case creamed onions weren't on the table first time around, be sure to read the note at the end of the recipe lest you should be daunted at the outset. This recipe is also good any other time of year. Chicken can replace the turkey; any leftover vegetable can be substituted. Just use approximately the same quantities of meat, vegetables and liquid.

OUR FAVORITE THANKSGIVING NIGHT SANDWICH

- 6 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 8 thin slices good quality white bread
- 8 slices cooked white meat of turkey Salt and pepper, to taste
- ½ cup whole cranberry sauce
- ½ cup leftover cooked turkey stuffing
- 4 leaves romaine lettuce

Spread mayonnaise evenly on 1 side of each bread slice. Place turkey on 4 bread slices, mayonnaise side up, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Spread each turkey sandwich with 2 tablespoons cranberry sauce, then crumble 2 tablespoons stuffing over each. Add lettuce and top with remaining 4 slices bread, mayonnaise side down.

Yield: 4 servings.

Preparation time: 10 minutes.

NEXT DAY TURKEY SHEPHERD'S PIE

- 2½ cups cooked white and dark meat of turkey, cut in bite-size pieces
- 1 cup cooked creamed onions (see note)
- 1 cup cooked mixed peas and carrots
- ¼ cup turkey gravy
- ¼ cup white wine
- ½ teaspoon dried leaf sage
- ½ teaspoon dried leaf thyme
- ½ teaspoon dried marjoram
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 2½ cups mashed potatoes
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to 400 F.

In large mixing bowl, combine turkey, creamed onions, peas and carrots, gravy, wine, sage, thyme and marjoram. Taste and add salt and pepper if desired.

Spoon turkey mixture into a 1½- to 2-quart shallow casserole such as an 8-inch square baking dish. Carefully spread mashed potatoes over top. Drizzle with butter and sprinkle with cheese.

Bake about 25 minutes until hot, bubbly and potatoes are flecked with golden brown. (If top of casserole has not browned well, run briefly under broiler before serving.)

Note: If you do not have any creamed onions, use ½ to 1 cup cooked frozen pearl onions. Toss turkey with 1 teaspoon flour and add ½ cup heavy cream to turkey mixture in mixing bowl.

Yield: 4 servings.

Preparation time: 10 minutes.
Baking time: 25 minutes.

Backyard Gardener

By Patrick Denton

Part of the squirrely ambience of late summer and early fall comes with the in-gathering of freshly fattened houseplants. Perky and plump from their summer outdoors, shiny clean and pest-free, they're proudly positioned at appropriate windows for everyone to admire and enjoy.

And for a few weeks, all is pure pleasure, absolutely unclouded by any complication. Revelling still in the high light levels and congenial temperatures of September and early October, untouched by any pests or blasts of unsuitably dry, cold or hot air, our potted possessions remain unmarred in their splendor.

Then, as November advances, with the heat cranked up and the sun a little lower in the sky, our plants too often begin to lose that first fresh glow and sometimes their full, rounded figures, as well. It's time to hunker in and wait for better times at winter's end.

Meanwhile, frequent inspections are in order against unwelcome invaders — aphids, spider mites, scales — that seem to arrive from nowhere, even lighting upon some indoor plants in high-rise apartments at great distances, one might think, from likely sources of contamination.

Tiny insect eggs seem to emerge and develop from the air itself. And probably do. Cut flowers, fruits, vegetables, even potting soil and mixes can sometimes harbor unwelcome visitors that find happy homes in our houseplants. For that reason, keeping cut flowers and bowls of fruit away from potted plants is probably a wise precaution. Another is using only sterilized soil and planting mixes for indoor plants.

But despite my own advice to keep up a watch against plant invaders, I'm not a very devoted pest sentinel. Too much the incurable optimist, I sometimes neglect to monitor our houseplants and often it's the presence of some stickiness on or under a plant that alerts me to the presence of pests.

Aphids, soft scales and mealy bugs all excrete a sticky honeydew as they feed. Aphids are tiny soft insects, usually light green. They're quite easily visible clustered on young shoots, and become most active as winter is drawing to a close.

Adult soft scales look like small lumps with a shell-like appearance while mealybugs are like scales with white fur coats. Both begin life as tiny sap-sucking crawlers no longer than a piece of dust and so often are not noticed until their honeydew is seen.

Spider mites also are too tiny to be seen without a magnifying glass. Another sap-sucker, this pest makes its presence known by bleaching and mottling of the leaves whose juices have been leached away, and a fine webbing at the undersides of the foliage.

Spider mites are the Genghis Khan of houseplant pests. Thriving and breeding unbelievably in the arid warmth of our homes in winter. Reducing the temperature and increasing humidity levels slows its activity and reduces damage to our indoor plants.

As soon as I spot any plant that has become infested with any pest, I remove it, together with the plant next to it, to the bathtub for a thorough washing and a spraying with Safer's Insecticidal Soap

Q: I heard somewhere that every seat in a living room should have a coffee table or side table to put drinks on. This would crowd my living room. Is it really necessary? — S.W.

A: If you don't permit smoking in your living room, nor serve refreshments there, you can probably safely ignore this general rule of thumb. However, if you ever juggled a cup of hot tea on one knee and a gooey tart on another, you may have entertained murderous thoughts about a hostess who did ignore the rule.

Why bother entertaining at all if your guests are uncomfortable or in peril of wearing their refreshments? Your carpet may be in grave danger, too.

This does not mean you must turn your living room into a small table warehouse, nor face a terrifying obstacle course of TV trays when you entertain. A little sensible planning should do the trick.

One good-sized coffee table, for example, can service an entire seating grouping. A narrow sofa table might also work if there is ample space to sit sideways on the sofa.

Don't ignore small pieces (not necessarily even furniture) that can be pressed into service without taking up much space. The Chinese porcelain garden seat pictured is a delightful example. Stacking tables are another.

Finally it may be that you already have all you require for comfortable entertaining but simply need to rearrange it. Pretend you are a guest in all the possible seats in the room. Now, have you scalded yourself with hot tea? Have you made a mess of the floor?

Q: Do you have any general suggestions for decorating a teenager's room? — P.S.

A: In a nutshell: Let your teenager make as many of the decisions as possible and avoid getting personally involved in your aesthetics because it probably will all disappear under a layer of rock posters, anyway.

Kids this age need to explore their own blossoming identities. The best a parent can do is serve as a guide to insure that the room functions well. Here are the basics:

- Provide a well-lighted, adequate place to study.
- Make it easy to maintain so that the chances of the room getting cleaned occasionally (by them, not you) are improved.
- Provide lots of storage.
- Opt for durable furnishings that can withstand the perils of high-energy abuse.
- Try to arrange the room so your teenager can entertain his friends there.
- Since noise is the big issue for most parents these years, consider soundproofing — thick carpeting, locating their rooms as far away from you as possible. If you pad their cell sufficiently, then you won't need one.

BENCHWARMER'S SPORTS TRIVIA

Q: Who was the first man to clean and jerk 500 pounds in weightlifting competition?

A: Arnold Abbott, the "body builder" from the Harrah's Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev., became the first man to clean and jerk 500 pounds in weightlifting competition.

Q: Who threw 7 touchdown passes on Nov. 14, 1943, to set a National Football League record?

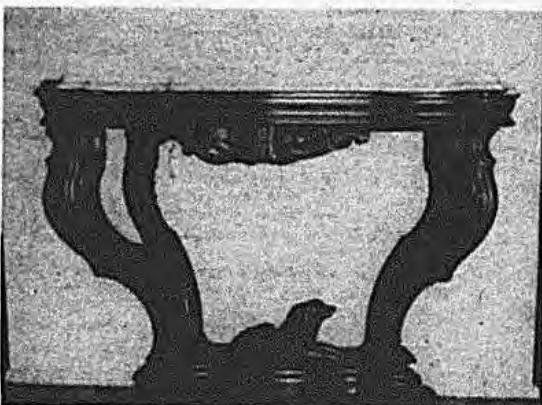

A: George McAfee, the "body builder" from the Harrah's Hotel in Las Vegas, Nev., became the first man to clean and jerk 500 pounds in weightlifting competition.

Carved dog adds value to table

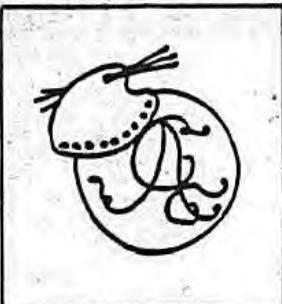

Q: What can you tell me about this antique marble-top table? It is solid walnut and has a hand-carved dog on the center of the base.

A: This is from the Victorian era and was made in the third quarter of the 19th century. Ordinarily, a table like this, without a dog, would sell for about $500 to $800. However, collectors are eagerly seeking tables like yours and would probably be willing to pay from $1,000 to $1,200.

Q: What can you tell me about this mark that is on the bottom of several pieces of porcelain in my possession?

I am interested in knowing if it is collectible or just "old" china.

A: This mark was used by the Ceramic Art Co. of Trenton, N.J. The company was founded in 1889 by William Lenox and Jonathan Coxon. In 1894 Lenox bought out Coxon.

The porcelain was very fine quality and similar to Irish Belleek. It is one of the most collectible American porcelains.

In 1906 the company became known as Lenox China and is still in business.

Q: Can you tell me about the vintage and value of my Royal Doulton figurine? The number is HN-1360; it is a young lady in a blue-pink-purple dress sitting on a blue-green love seat.

A: Your Royal Doulton figurine is called "Sweet and Twenty." It was made between 1919 and 1938; a dealer would sell it for at least $300.

Q: Is it true that the famous New York jewelry store, Tiffany & Co., had nothing to do with Tiffany lamps?

A: Yes and no. Charles Lewis Tiffany was owner of the famous jewelry store. He also fathered Louis Comfort Tiffany who chose not to work for his father and established a studio to make art nouveau lamps, glass and ceramics.

Tiffany & Co. jewelry is still in business, but Louis Comfort Tiffany died in 1933 and his studio closed its doors.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Frye, D.V.M.

Do animals hear at moment of birth?

Q: How common is it for dogs and cats to lack the ability to hear? Our Australian heeler does not seem to be able to hear. Can dogs and cats hear immediately following birth? If not, when do they normally acquire this ability?

A: Puppies and kittens do not have the ability to hear at the time they are born. Most researchers believe that kittens begin to perceive sounds at approximately 5 days of age and puppies at about 14 days of age. Normally, hearing is fully developed in pets by the fourth or fifth week of life.

Congenital deafness, present at birth, occurs with a high incidence in white cats with blue eyes. The receptor organ in the inner ear of these cats is abnormal. Dogs that have a predominance of white hair color and dogs that possess the "merle" color gene also have a high incidence of congenital deafness. The dalmatian, Australian heeler, English setter, Australian shepherd, Boston terrier, Old English sheepdog, and bull terrier are a few of the dog breeds that most often have this problem.

Dogs with congenital hearing loss may be totally deaf or may have partial hearing. The condition usually affects both ears equally. Some affected dogs can hear very loud noises or high-pitched sounds, such as dog whistles.

Hearing usually cannot be restored for animals with congenital hearing loss. However, if you suspect that your pet cannot hear you should have the animal examined by a veterinarian. Your veterinarian can determine if there is hearing deficiency and, if so, if anything can be done to correct this problem.

Input Callers Have Mixed Ideas On Questioning Of Court Candidates

Most callers to Input believe that there may be trouble ahead for Corazon Aquino in answer to this question? "Do you think Aquino will be able to solidify the Philippines and remain in power?" Here are some of the answers.

STOOD STILL

So far the Aquino regime in the Philippines has either stood still or gone backward. It is true that she was hailed throughout the islands as a new great leader after Marcos left. But she has never come to grips with left wing and Communist demands. Until she does that the country is in danger and I do not think she will be able to stay in power.

K.L.

SHE MAY DO IT

Aquino came in after Marcos had drained most of the assets out of the Philippines. To blame her for having trouble does not make any sense. She is working hard and I believe if anyone is able to solidify the country she will do it.

M.E.

WEAK LEADER

It is just a matter of time before Aquino will have to get out of the Philippines. She is a weak leader in a place used to a strong dictator. All of the factions will run rampant over her if she tries to put the necessary governing laws into power. In the long run Aquino will not be successful.

H.K.

SHE WILL SURVIVE

I believe that Aquino has come a long way and that she will adapt to the situation and be able to solidify the government to make the Philippines a stable country again. It is always difficult to take over after a one man rule but she will be able to do it and we should support her work.

C.V.

MAY BE IMPOSSIBLE

Once again the forces that brought Aquino into power will probably bring about the Communization of that country. It was a bit naive to believe that Aquino with no real governing experience could take over the country and run it without difficulty. This was a story book approach. We would all like her to be able to solidify the country but it may well be impossible.

N.W.

BAD ODDS

Aquino has done well considering the odds against her. She has tried to bring some form of democracy out of a past dictatorship and sweep aside the Marcos problems. On top of that there are many different factions in the Philippines that want to gain control. She still has a chance of being successful and we should all hope that she will be. F.T.

FORMER DICTATOR

The Philippine problem is one that has come about almost from the beginning. Marcos held on to the power by total dictatorship. The problem is that you have rival forces which do not want to compromise and want to impose their form of dictatorship on the Philippines. Aquino comes in as a moderate favoring democratic ways. But there are other forces that want to battle to take over dictatorship. Marcos and his followers represent one of those forces but not the only one. There is a militant Communist force that would like to take over and dominate. This could make it impossible for Aquino to stay in power.

N.B.

BE TOUGH

The biggest problem Corazon Aquino faces is the continued existence of Ferdinand Marcos. As long as he is alive, Aquino will continue to face turmoil in the Philippines. And, there are two divisive elements which Marcos can latch on to—the continued presence of the U.S. Military in the Islands and the poverty which encompasses the majority of the population. It seems that, in the light of these two dominant factors, a certain amount of ruthlessness must be mixed with administrative wisdom and human kindness. And, this applies whether the President is a man or a woman although feminine sentimentality has carried Aquino during the early stages of her rule arising from the assassination of her husband Benigno in 1983. The job which Corrie faces is a formidable one and the only way she can survive is by being tough, by rooting out the malcontents and the insurrectionists and by facing up to unpleasant measures which must be taken to put the nation's economic house in order. She may lose some popularity in the process but she will gain the respect of the people as progress is made. The nation will have to face a disagreeable period of reconstruction but as progress is achieved and the public made aware of positive objectives attained, she should be able to satisfy the Philippines and remain in power.

P.G.S.

PAST ISSUES

BORK NOMINATION

When the President ignores the fact that Congress is an equal partner in running the country and picks candidates by political philosophy, rather than sound judicial accomplishments the type of questions by Congress is more than justified. My complaint is that the questions were not searching enough. To deny the Constitution is a living changing document as Bork did claiming "original intent" was his philosophy should have been enough to deny his confirmation.

*"Let us be

Holiday Season Brings Together Friends

By Jerard Mulvihill

Sounding not unlike a child awaiting the arrival of special guests - aunts or uncles or grandparents - on Thanksgiving or Christmas day, I proclaimed joyously: "They're coming. They're actually coming!" while waving the U.S. mail that brought the exhilarating news.

"Listen," I directed my wife after I'd calmed, "it says here 'we have decided to accept your invitation and visit you on Long Island.' How about that?"

Had it made my day and triggered an unprecedented flow of adrenaline? You bet. With today's references to "highs" for me this was the apex.

But I must explain. Pete and Carol, who live in Appleton, Wisconsin, are planning to visit us this September for the first time. I have never met Carol but Pete and I have known each other for near half a century.

Truly, he and I go back a long way. We entered college together and because our surnames began with the letter "M" and we both matriculated for a BBA degree we were thrown together in most of our classes. There were of course others who qualified with last initial and major subject area but Pete and I were kindred spirits. We saw things the same way. Believed in the same values.

At a time when "double-dating" was the way to go he'd borrow his family's car or I'd borrow ours. In retrospect life played a lot simpler then than now for a young person, especially in one's teen years and early twenties. To be moral about it just a moment...you "didn't!" You didn't do drugs. You didn't do sex. Leastwise not in the grand scale of present society.

My friend and I graduated college together in 1942 and joined the army a month later to crush the fascist hordes. We endured basic training side by side under the relentless Texas sun and on to infantry officer's training at Ft. Benning Georgia. We acquired our gold bars together and only then were we separated by divergent assignments. The particular hell of war rifle platoon leaders knew, followed. He traversed North Africa, Italy and France. And I advanced in France, Belgium and Germany. In the end God saw to it we came home. We made it, as they say.

Then, in 1946, the struggle of civilian life began. Though not as physically threatening, it was almost as disheartening as combat. We had no saleable work experience or skills, not having held a job before enlistment in the service and with only a BBA degree and "infantry" on our resumes at 26 years of age we were turned away from all but the least satisfactory jobs.

He struggled. I struggled. Eventually we both got a foothold on our lives though we never reached our expectations, never mind our dreams. But then very few do, not so? Our friendship deferred to everyday obligations and responsibilities. We drifted apart even in sending greeting cards. Addresses were lost. Other things seemed more vital, more important. Silence settled in for thirty years. A friendship at rest. This particular enrichment of our lives turned off. Because that's what friendship is basically...the enrichment of life.

Then one day about three years ago a letter arrived from Pete. Would I consider reviving our friendship? Would I? You bet I would and we did.

Now we're both retired and our families are grown. Remarkably, we still hold many of the same interests. We've the same physical complaints (we attribute to the infantry), and the same appreciation of life (ditto). We correspond monthly on topics from art to zoology and enjoy every word.

So I'm going to see my friend Pete and his wife after all these years and they will meet us on our home ground. He and I will look each other in the eye and shake hands again...firmly. A simple gesture that can mean so much.

I feel like a kid. They're coming. They're coming.

READER RATINGS

Q. I have noticed that Chinese restaurants do not provide knives when serving meals. Can you tell me the reason for this practice? A. In the orient food is cut into small pieces before it is cooked.

This has the advantage of reducing cooking time and also minimizing any loss of nutrients. In China it is considered bad manners to cut food at the table.

Q. Recently while dining in a Portuguese restaurant, my friend and I were served a sweet white wine with our dessert. Would you have any idea what the name of this wine would be? It was delicious.

A. You may have been served one of Portugal's sweet white ports. They come from the area of Oporto and I agree with you that they are very good and surprisingly little known by Americans.

Restaurant Emilia

Northern Italian Cuisine

"Emilia's is like a little bit of Europe tucked away in the midst of American suburbia. Everything about the place is warm. Filet mignon au poivre vert is superior to many; the beef is absolutely top shelf quality."

Cathy Urbach, Center Island Penny Sawyer, January 1986

"Few restaurants on Long Island make you feel as welcome, comfortable and catered to as Emilia in Carle Place. Service is exceptional and the owners and staff go out of their way to be accommodating."

GREAT RESTAURANT

Recently we had the occasion to eat at Santorini Restaurant at Woodbury Mall Jericho Turnpike once more. We had a large group with various taste. All of their Greek dishes were delicious and authentic. When one of our friends who had lived in Greece for several years said "this is real Greek food" we knew we had made a wise choice. They also have a variety of salads, chops and fish. Others in the party were well satisfied.

FAVORITE RESTAURANT

The Executive Restaurant on Mineola Boulevard in Mineola has long been one of my favorite restaurants and I always enjoy their fine, continental cuisine. Last week our party of four dined there, and two of us ordered the Zuppa diPescce, the French call it Bouillabaisse. I have thoroughly enjoyed this dish both in Spain and in Portugal, however I must admit this was the equal if not better. It is usually ordered for two. This dish with French or Italian bread is food fit for the gods.

If your taste buds are crying for a gustatory delight, try it! I heartily recommend it. The atmosphere is friendly, the service is great. The fish is delivered fresh daily. You will come away with mental note, that this is a place to re-visit soon again. L.P.

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides and a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great, and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings."

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

Q. When dining out I have often seen women wearing their coats to the table, then depositing them on the back of their chairs. However, I have never seen a man do the same thing with his overcoat. Is there really a difference in etiquette for men and women in regard to checking coats?

A. Yes, a man always checks his coat in a restaurant. But a woman has the option of checking her coat or bringing it to the table.

READER RATINGS

Q. There is a great catering place in my neighborhood which features wonderful food at moderate prices. However, dinners are always served "family style". Meat and vegetables are placed in large platters which guests pass around just as if they were eating at home.

There is one problem with this type service, though. I notice that some people take more than their fair share or perhaps take all white meat when turkey is served. What can be done about this?

A. There is really nothing that you can do under the circumstances. Family style dining is a nice idea, but it doesn't work unless all the guests are considerate.

Why not ask the manager to provide conventional service, in which food is placed on plates in the kitchen, for your next affair?

ATTRACTIVE RESTAURANT

A great restaurant is Surfside on Hillside Avenue in New Hyde Park. You will enjoy the restful decor, and attractive surroundings. Whether you order steak or seafood, you will find it well prepared and attractively served.

I find it refreshing to dine leisurely, in a quiet setting. There is also ample parking and it is so convenient. How nice to have such a good restaurant practically in our backyard! I think you will concur that this is a place you will want to share with your friends. E.E.

TWO EVENTS

To celebrate two special events—one a birthday and the other an anniversary—our party of four decided to go to La Cisterna, an Italian restaurant serving Northern Italian cuisine, on Mineola Blvd., Mineola. This happens to be one of our favorite restaurants and we want to share our delightful evening with your readers.

For antipasto we all shared the following: Fettuccini Alfredo, Homemade Minestrone Soup, and Mussels in Marinara Sauce, as well as an assorted Antipasto. It was all so delicious and whetted our appetites for the entrees.

The specialty of the house that night was shrimp wrapped in prosciutto served with a delicate mushroom sauce, and a rolled chicken cutlet stuffed with spinach and mushrooms. Another dinner was the veal piccata. All the dinners were served with fresh vegetables. Fabulous desserts served with caffè espresso with Sambucca. Add to this a leisurely atmosphere, excellent service and a genial ambience made for a meal fit for the gods.

I heartily recommend this outstanding restaurant. U.K.

'Tis the season to be stuffed

Of all the components of a traditional Thanksgiving feast, the stuffing usually gets the least attention.

It is monochromatic alongside the kaleidoscope of fresh vegetables, crudites and relishes.

It is soft and squishy compared to the crackly mahogany skin of the turkey and the nutty cranberry confiture.

But its fragrance and moisture-maintaining qualities add panache to the plebeian all-American bird. And the wealth of regional recipes available today gives the tradition-bound cook a chance to experiment and create a new family tradition.

Since Thanksgiving is a celebration of the harvest, it is appropriate that the turkey stuffing, too, reflects the autumn season with a variety of ingredients.

Start with ground beef and sausage, wild rice, soaked and squeezed bread cubes or a blend of these.

Then add crunch with walnuts, pecans or macadamia nuts. Add richness with roasted chestnuts. Add zest with green apples and citrus juices.

Dried apricots, prunes and figs give bread stuffing a chewy texture and deep fruity taste. Raisins soaked first in cognac or port wine impart spirit. Fluffy scrambled eggs add a souffle-like lightness.

Parmesan cheese gives an elusive creaminess and a salty flavor that obviates the need for additional salt.

And aromatic herbs such as sage, thyme, rosemary, chervil and parsley add personality. Each time the oven door is opened, the bird sizzles, crackles and sends inviting herbed smells throughout the house.

Chef Dennis Barry, 34, educated at the Culinary Institute Of America, doesn't remember the turkey stuffing of his youth too well, but is sure that it was "fresh bread stuffing, not from a package."

Barry will stuff his turkey with bread stuffing ("I like to use day-old French baguettes — the semolina dough is richer tasting") moistened with fresh turkey stock and seasoned with minced celery and fresh sage. He cautions that sage plants vary in intensity of flavor and recommends that the cook first make a sage "tea" with boiling water to determine how potent the leaves are. "Then mince the fresh, dry sage leaves and add to the stuffing accordingly," says Barry.

Cindy Black, executive chef of the Piret's chain, likes the classic bread stuffing, but with a difference. "I like it soggy," the busy but

unflappable chef says with a laugh, "real soggy."

Black starts with a sausage and garlic base. "Then I add lots of onion, lots of sage, turkey stock and fresh bread — that's what makes it so soggy," she says.

Although the home cook can "dol it up with chestnuts and other things," Black insists that the simplest is the best.

Doug Organ grew up in San Jose, Calif., on packaged stuffing. "But my mother did cut her own celery and carrots," quips the 24-year-old chef. "That's about the closest she got to homemade."

Organ is not a big turkey-stuffing fan. "I cook a turkey dinner for my family every Thanksgiving, but I never stuff the bird," he says, "I always find other things to do with it."

Has he, in fact, ever prepared a stuffing for poultry, we asked? "Gee, not that I can remember," says Organ, "except for helping my mother open the package."

We offer these recipes taken from America's various regional cuisines.

GRAND MARNIER APRICOT STUFFING

1 cup diced dried apricots
1/2 cups Grand Marnier
Turkey liver and heart
1 cup (2 sticks) unsalted butter
2 cups coarsely chopped celery
1 large yellow onion, chopped
1 pound bulk pork sausage
1 pound herb stuffing mix
1 cup slivered almonds
2 cups chicken stock
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
Salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste

Place apricots and 1 cup of Grand Marnier in small saucepan. Heat to boiling, remove from heat and set aside. Simmer turkey liver and heart in water to cover in small saucepan for 5 minutes. Set aside to cool.

Melt 1/2 cup butter in large skillet over medium heat. Add celery and onion and saute for 10 minutes. Transfer to large mixing bowl.

Cook pork sausage in same skillet, crumbling with fork until no longer pink. Remove from heat and add to celery mixture.

Add stuffing mix, apricot with liquid and almonds. Finely dice turkey liver and heart and add to stuffing mixture. Stir to combine.

Heat remaining 1/2 cup butter and stock in small saucepan just until butter melts. Pour over stuffing mixture and add remaining 1/2 cup Grand Marnier. Stir well to moisten stuffing. Season with thyme and salt and pepper to taste.

Makes enough for a 21- to 24-pound turkey.

(From "The Silver Palate Good Times Cookbook.")

VEAL, PORK AND SAGE STUFFING

1/2 pound finely ground lean veal
1/2 pound ground pork
2 cups finely chopped onions
2 cups finely chopped celery
1 tablespoon garlic
1 bay leaf, finely chopped
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
2 tablespoons dried leaf sage, chopped
1 cup fresh or canned chicken broth
2 cups oven-baked bread crumbs, baked until golden brown
1/2 cup finely chopped parsley
1/2 cup melted butter
1 egg, well beaten
Salt to taste, if desired
Freshly ground pepper to taste

Put veal and pork in large skillet without fat. Cook, stirring and chopping down with side of heavy kitchen spoon to break up lumps. Cook until meat gives up its liquid. Then cook until liquid is evaporated.

Add onions, celery, garlic, bay leaf, thyme and sage and cook, stirring, until meat starts to brown on bottom. Add broth and cook, stirring all around the bottom to dissolve brown particles that cling there.

Scrape mixture into mixing bowl and add bread crumbs, parsley, butter, egg, salt and pepper. Blend well. Set aside to cool.

Yield: About 6 cups.

CORN BREAD-SAUSAGE STUFFING WITH APPLES

12 tablespoons (1 1/2 sticks) sweet butter
2 1/2 cups finely chopped yellow onions
3 tart apples (Jonathan and Winesap are good), cored and chunked; do not peel
1 pound lightly seasoned bulk sausage (breakfast sausage with sage is best)
3 cups coarsely crumbled corn bread (preferably homemade)
3 cups coarsely crumbled whole wheat bread
3 cups coarsely crumbled white bread (French or homemade preferred)
2 teaspoons dried thyme
1 teaspoon dried sage
Salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste
1/2 cup chopped Italian parsley
1 1/2 cups shelled pecan halves

Melt half of butter in skillet. Add chopped onions and cook over medium heat, partially covered, until tender and lightly colored, about 25 minutes. Transfer onions and butter to large mixing bowl.

Melt remaining butter in same skillet. Add apple chunks and cook over high heat until lightly colored but not mushy. Transfer apples and butter to mixing bowl.

Crumble sausage into skillet

and cook over medium heat, stirring, until lightly browned. With a slotted spoon, transfer sausage to mixing bowl and reserve rendered fat.

Add remaining ingredients to ingredients in mixing bowl and combine gently. Cool completely before stuffing bird; refrigerate if not used promptly.

If you do not wish actually to stuff bird (goose or duck, for example, can make the stuffing greasy), spoon it into casserole. Cover casserole and set into large pan. Pour hot water around casserole to come halfway up sides. Bake for 30 to 45 minutes at 325 F., basting occasionally with cooking juices from bird or with reserved sausage fat, if necessary.

Makes enough stuffing for a 20-pound turkey, to make 12 to 14 portions.

AMERICAN HEART ASSOCIATION'S SPRING STUFFING

1/2 cup margarine, unsalted
1 cup finely chopped celery
1/2 cup finely chopped onions
1/2 cup dry bread cubes
2 cups peeled, coarsely chopped apple
1 cup toasted sliced almonds
2 teaspoons orange rind
1/4 cup orange juice
1/2 teaspoon thyme

Cook celery and onion in margarine until tender. Add to remaining ingredients. Toss lightly. Spoon dressing into oiled casserole. Bake covered in preheated oven (350 F.) 30 to 40 minutes. For crisp top remove lid last 5 minutes of cooking.

Makes 12 servings.

AMERICAN DIABETES ASSOCIATION'S CRANBERRY-RICE STUFFING

1/2 cup brown rice, uncooked
1/4 cup water
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 1/2 cups sliced mushrooms (1/4 pound)
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 cup fresh or frozen cranberries
1/4 teaspoon dried thyme
1/4 teaspoon dried basil

Cook rice in water until tender, about 1 hour. Sauté remaining ingredients in skillet until celery and onion are tender. Add rice and stir to blend. Use as stuffing in 2 Cornish hens or 1 small chicken.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q: A dinner guest rubbed his shoes on my beige wool carpet. Now it is streaked with four stripes of oxblood shoe polish.

How can I remove the dark smudges that remain? I have tried Fantastik, lighter fluid, KR2 and Woolite. Thank you for any ideas you might have. — M.J.

A: For removal of shoe polish paste on carpets, scrape off as much as possible and clean the residue with dry-cleaning fluid, using an eye dropper and beginning at the outer edges of the stained area, working toward the center. Use a clean white cloth as a blotter to lift the stain. Repeat as long as the stain is being transferred to the white cloth.

Finish the spotting process by applying the following formula: 1 teaspoonful of synthetic (soapless) detergent in $\frac{1}{4}$ pint lukewarm water. Stir thoroughly until you have obtained a clear, watery solution without residue. The amount of suds has no bearing on the effectiveness of the formula. Apply on the stained area with an eyedropper, and using a rotary motion, sponge stains with a clean, white, unstarched cloth, beginning at the outer edge and working in. Then with another cloth dampened with clean, lukewarm water, sponge the area several times.

It is possible that by removing the stain you may also remove some of the color of the carpet. Bleached spots can often be retained but this generally calls for the skill of an expert.

A key to the effective removal of stains is to treat the area quickly before the stains have "set." Knowing the right formula for various stains is very important.

Q: I have a heavy steel screen door (brown) that continues to be a delight to neighboring cats who have sprayed it repeatedly so that the lower areas are heavily corroded. Everything I have tried to clean this area with has not been effective. Do you have any advice for this problem? — R.D.

A: Since the surface is actually corroded, not just discolored or stained, your only effective solution would be to repaint the metal.

Be sure to use a quality primer and paint made especially for metal surfaces. Your local paint dealer should be able to advise you on surface preparation and paint products (Rust-Oleum is one brand name).

To prevent further damage from your wandering neighbors, you might want to invest in a cat-repellent spray that will deter this action. Such products are available at nurseries or housewares stores. They do not have a long-lasting effect, so you will have to use the spray often. But once the animals have been discouraged, hopefully, they will change their habits.

Q: I recently purchased a "row house" that is over 100 years old. It was renovated prior to my purchase. There is just one problem. The basement walls are brick and mortar and they flake off. There is a constant collection of red and white dust on the floor.

I have been advised that the mortar contained too much sand 100 years ago and I should not worry about the problem. But I do. I would like to protect the walls, somehow. What can you suggest?

A: I have two suggestions that may help, but will not entirely correct the problem.

First, using a stiff bristle brush, clean the brick and mortar joints so that they are free of all the existing loose material. You can consider replacing the top layer of the original mortar with a new layer of mortar. This would require removing approximately $\frac{1}{4}$ inch of the mortar from between the bricks (a slow and tedious job), then replacing it with a thin layer of fresh mortar. Use a sharp instrument such as screwdriver for the task, or check with your masonry supply dealer for a professional instrument designed to do this job.

After you complete the task, apply a good quality masonry sealer over the entire surface (brick and mortar) to help prevent further flaking.

If you are hesitant to tackle the job of removing mortar and reapplying a new layer of mortar, you might consider using just the masonry sealer for protection of your walls. The sealer will change the color of the brick slightly, making it appear somewhat darker, or similar to the appearance it would have if wet.

City recently. Namey is associate professor at the Medical College of Ohio, Toledo, and chairman of the board of examiners for certification in sports medicine for the American Academy of Sports Physicians.

"Today's medical practitioner does not know and is not aware of the remarkable ways we can keep the body healthy through exercise and nutrition. But it is something we can and must do."

The doctor, who trains athletes — from weight lifters through runners and endurance bicyclists — for health, advocates personal control in health decisions, including individual research into positive health. "Keep the body in its best shape through exercise and nutrition and the activity can prevent or deter those problems many assume a part of aging."

Namey uses the techniques actively in working with patients to overcome the effects of arthritis. He does prescribe Piroxicam (Feldene) to reduce inflammation in the joints while also developing exercise — including the use of weights — and diet programs to work with the whole body.

Where do you start? Namey recommends the book, "Vitality and Aging," by Drs. James Fries and Lawrence M. Crapo of Stanford University.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, E.D.D.

Kelly: To keep things simple, young bodies are one of three types — slender, medium and stocky, it all depends on your bone structure. A visit to your doctor will tell you what body type you are, and the good doctor also will tell you if you need to lose weight.

Dr. Wallace: I am 15 and my boyfriend Mike is 19. We have been going together for two "rocky" years. Most of our problems occur because Mike "cheats" on me and I always find out. Last week, I caught him with my cousin in the back of his van, and they were doing more than just holding hands.

Yesterday, Mike joined the Air Force for a four-year tour of duty. Last night, he told me that he wanted to have a baby and that it would make him be "true" to me while he is in the Air Force. I really like this guy but I don't know if I can ever trust him. Your advice please. — Sandra

Sandra: Having a baby would be the worst thing possible at this time in your life. Break up with Mike while he is in the military so you won't have to sit at home and wonder "is he or isn't he" being true. Chances are great the answer would be that he isn't.

Dr. Wallace: I've been dating Jill for six months and I like her very much. Last week, one of my buddies told me something that my girlfriend had done when she was dating another guy. When I asked Jill about it she said nothing ever happened like that, and that my buddy was lying. Now I don't know who to believe. One of them is lying. — George

George: Believe Jill and apologize to her for making her defend herself. Then forget the conversation ever took place. If your buddy was really a buddy he wouldn't spread gossip and rumors.

Dr. Wallace: I'm the type of person who dreams a lot and most of them that I remember are enjoyable. I have a pet dog that I love and she is almost always in my dreams. Is it possible to have more than one dream a night? If so how many dreams can a person have? The more the better. — Rusty

Rusty: The "average" human being has a total of about five dreams each and every night, but often only remembers one — the one he had just before waking.

Dr. Wallace: I am 15 and weigh 125 pounds and I'm 5 feet 2 inches tall. Do you think I'm too fat? I do! — Kelly

TWEEN 12 & 20

After Work Gourmet

By Melanie Barnard
and Brooke Dooley

Remember Thanksgiving dinner when you were a kid? You had to get all dressed up like you were going to church or a funeral, maybe. Then you waited a long time while the old folks either watched the football game or fussed interminably in the kitchen.

Hours passed, it seemed, and all that time the aroma from the kitchen got better and better until you thought perhaps you would literally faint from ravenous hunger. Finally, the appointed hour arrived and everyone was ceremoniously called to the dining room where the table was set with dangerously spottable linen, breakable china and loseable silver — not an auspicious beginning for one who by then was ready to eat the salt shaker.

Much ado was made (and much time spent) on carving the big bird while all guests publicly congratulated the carver on his skill (and privately wanted to grab a drumstick and run). Finally, bowls of mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, creamed onions and stuffing were dutifully passed around.

As a kid, your station at the table was not highly favored and, thus, your plate was among the last to be laden. The final insult came, of course, when Aunt Grace clucked as you used your roll to push the peas under the knife and the potatoes onto the fork and wanted seconds on stuffing before anyone else was even done with firsts.

For us (and we bet for you, too), surviving the formal Thanksgiving dinner depended heavily on the knowledge that later, when Aunt Grace finally went home and you could get out of those awful clothes, the leftover goodies would be tucked neatly away in the refrigerator. And that was (and still is) when the real feast began. The following recipes are two of our favorite Thanksgiving postscripts, and we frankly like them just as well (maybe better).

Our Favorite Thanksgiving Night Sandwich is quietly easy to assemble at midnight when you don't want anyone to know that you are such a glutton. You might think it odd to put the stuffing on the sandwich, too, but that is because you haven't tried it. We highly recommend that you give it a chance. By the way, we think that only mayonnaise will do on this personal classic, but if you are a butter person, go ahead and be different.

Next Day Shepherd's Pie is a real, up-front main course and not ever to be considered a mundane "leftover." In fact, the mixing up of the turkey, gravy, onions and vegetables under a big thick blanket of mashed potatoes is how we have secretly envisioned our original Thanksgiving plate to be constructed, anyway. In case creamed onions weren't on the table first time around, be sure to read the note at the end of the recipe lest you should be daunted at the outset. This recipe is also good any other time of year. Chicken can replace the turkey; any leftover vegetable can be substituted. Just use approximately the same quantities of meat, vegetables and liquid.

OUR FAVORITE THANKSGIVING NIGHT SANDWICH

6 tablespoons mayonnaise
8 thin slices good quality white bread
8 slices cooked white meat of turkey Salt and pepper, to taste
½ cup whole cranberry sauce
½ cup leftover cooked turkey stuffing
4 leaves romaine lettuce

Spread mayonnaise evenly on 1 side of each bread slice. Place turkey on 4 bread slices, mayonnaise side up, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Spread each turkey sandwich with 2 tablespoons cranberry sauce, then crumble 2 tablespoons stuffing over each. Add lettuce and top with remaining 4 slices bread, mayonnaise side down.

Yield: 4 servings.

Preparation time: 10 minutes.

NEXT DAY TURKEY SHEPHERD'S PIE

2½ cups cooked white and dark meat of turkey, cut in bite-size pieces
1 cup cooked creamed onions (see note)
1 cup cooked mixed peas and carrots
¼ cup turkey gravy
¼ cup white wine
½ teaspoon dried leaf sage
½ teaspoon dried leaf thyme
½ teaspoon dried marjoram
Salt and pepper to taste
2½ cups mashed potatoes
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to 400 F.

In large mixing bowl, combine turkey, creamed onions, peas and carrots, gravy, wine, sage, thyme and marjoram. Taste and add salt and pepper if desired.

Spoon turkey mixture into a 1½- to 2-quart shallow casserole such as an 8-inch square baking dish. Carefully spread mashed potatoes over top. Drizzle with butter and sprinkle with cheese.

Bake about 25 minutes until hot, bubbly and potatoes are flecked with golden brown. (If top of casserole has not browned well, run briefly under broiler before serving.)

Note: If you do not have any creamed onions, use ½ to 1 cup cooked frozen pearl onions. Toss turkey with 1 teaspoon flour and add ½ cup heavy cream to turkey mixture in mixing bowl.

Yield: 4 servings.

Preparation time: 10 minutes.
Baking time: 25 minutes.

Backyard Gardener

By Patrick Denton

Part of the squirrelly ambience of late summer and early fall comes with the in-gathering of freshly fattened houseplants. Perky and plump from their summer outdoors, shiny clean and pest-free, they're proudly positioned at appropriate windows for everyone to admire and enjoy.

And for a few weeks, all is pure pleasure, absolutely unclouded by any complication. Reveling still in the high light levels and congenial temperatures of September and early October, untouched by any pests or blasts of unsuitably dry, cold or hot air, our potted possessions remain unmarred in their splendor.

Then, as November advances, with the heat cranked up and the sun a little lower in the sky, our plants too often begin to lose that first fresh glow and sometimes their full, rounded figures, as well. It's time to hunker in and wait for better times at winter's end.

Meanwhile, frequent inspections are in order against unwelcome invaders — aphids, spider mites, scales — that seem to arrive from nowhere, even lighting upon some indoor plants in high-rise apartments at great distances, one might think, from likely sources of contamination.

Tiny insect eggs seem to emerge and develop from the air itself. And probably do. Cut flowers, fruits, vegetables, even potting soil and mixes can sometimes harbor unwelcome visitors that find happy homes in our houseplants. For that reason, keeping cut flowers and bowls of fruit away from potted plants is probably a wise precaution. Another is using only sterilized soil and planting mixes for indoor plants.

But despite my own advice to keep up a watch against plant invaders, I'm not a very devoted pest sentinel. Too much the incurable optimist, I sometimes neglect to monitor our houseplants and often it's the presence of some stickiness on or under a plant that alerts me to the presence of pests.

Aphids, soft scales and mealy bugs all excrete a sticky honeydew as they feed. Aphids are tiny soft insects, usually light green. They're quite easily visible clustered on young shoots, and become most active as winter is drawing to a close.

Adult soft scales look like small lumps with a shell-like appearance while mealybugs are like scales with white fur coats. Both begin life as tiny sap-sucking crawlers no longer than a piece of dust and so often are not noticed until their honeydew is seen.

Spider mites also are too tiny to be seen without a magnifying glass. Another sap-sucker, this pest makes its presence known by bleaching and mottling of the leaves whose juices have been leeched away, and a fine webbing at the undersides of the foliage.

Spider mites are the Genghis Khan of houseplant pests. Thriving and breeding unbelievably in the arid warmth of our homes in winter. Reducing the temperature and increasing humidity levels slows its activity and reduces damage to our indoor plants.

As soon as I spot any plant that has become infested with any pest, I remove it, together with the plant next to it, to the bathtub for a thorough washing and a spraying with Safer's Insecticidal Soap

Q: I heard somewhere that every seat in a living room should have a coffee table or side table to put drinks on. This would crowd my living room. Is it really necessary? — S.W.

A: If you don't permit smoking in your living room, nor serve refreshments there, you can probably safely ignore this general rule of thumb. However, if you ever juggled a cup of hot tea on one knee and a gooey tart on another, you may have entertained murderous thoughts about a hostess who did ignore the rule.

Why bother entertaining at all if your guests are uncomfortable or in peril of wearing their refreshments? Your carpet may be in grave danger, too.

This does not mean you must turn your living room into a small table warehouse, nor face a terrifying obstacle course of TV trays when you entertain. A little sensible planning should do the trick.

One good-sized coffee table, for example, can service an entire seating grouping. A narrow sofa table might also work if there is ample space to sit sideways on the sofa.

Don't ignore small pieces (not necessarily even furniture) that can be pressed into service without taking up much space. The Chinese porcelain garden seat pictured is a delightful example. Stacking tables are another.

Finally it may be that you already have all you require for comfortable entertaining but simply need to rearrange it. Pretend you are a guest in all the possible seats in the room. Now, have you scalded yourself with hot tea? Have you made a mess of the floor?

Q: Do you have any general suggestions for decorating a teenager's room? — P.S.

A: In a nutshell: Let your teenager make as many of the decisions as possible and avoid getting personally involved in your aesthetics because it probably will all disappear under a layer of rock posters, anyway.

Kids this age need to explore their own blossoming identities. The best a parent can do is serve as a guide to insure that the room functions well. Here are the basics:

- Provide a well-lighted, adequate place to study.
- Make it easy to maintain so that the chances of the room getting cleaned occasionally (by them, not you) are improved.
- Provide lots of storage.
- Opt for durable furnishings that can withstand the perils of high-energy abuse.
- Try to arrange the room so your teenager can entertain his friends there.
- Since noise is the big issue for most parents these years, consider soundproofing — thick carpeting, locating their rooms as far away from you as possible. If you pad their cell sufficiently, then you won't need one.

Carved dog adds value to table

Q: What can you tell me about this antique marble-top table? It is solid walnut and has a hand-carved dog on the center of the base.

A: This is from the Victorian era and was made in the third quarter of the 19th century. Ordinarily, a table like this, without a dog, would sell for about $500 to $600. However, collectors are eagerly seeking tables like yours and would probably be willing to pay from $1,000 to $1,200.

Q: What can you tell me about this mark that is on the bottom of several pieces of porcelain in my possession?

I am interested in knowing if it is collectible or just "old" china.

A: This mark was used by the Ceramic Art Co. of Trenton, N.J. The company was founded in 1889 by William Lenox and Jonathan Coxon. In 1894 Lenox bought out Coxon.

The porcelain was very fine quality and similar to Irish Belleek. It is one of the most collectible American porcelains.

In 1906 the company became known as Lenox China and is still in business.

Q: Can you tell me about the vintage and value of my Royal Doulton figurine? The number is HN-1360; it is a young lady in a blue-pink-purple dress sitting on a blue-green love seat.

A: Your Royal Doulton figurine is called "Sweet and Twenty." It was made between 1919 and 1938; a dealer would sell it for at least $300.

Q: Is it true that the famous New York jewelry store, Tiffany & Co., had nothing to do with Tiffany lamps?

A: Yes and no. Charles Lewis Tiffany was owner of the famous jewelry store. He also fathered Louis Comfort Tiffany who chose not to work for his father and established a studio to make art nouveau lamps, glass and ceramics.

Tiffany & Co. jewelry is still in business, but Louis Comfort Tiffany died in 1933 and his studio closed its doors.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

I think we were all happy to hear the good news this week about baby Jessica. She is the little Texas girl who fell down a well and stayed there several days before she was finally rescued. Jessica has been released from the hospital and she is now back home with her Mom and Dad.

Her parents are grateful to the men who got their daughter out of the well and to the many people who sent money to cover the baby's hospital bill.

It will be a wonderful Thanksgiving for Jessica and her family!
Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

Do animals hear at moment of birth?

Q: How common is it for dogs and cats to lack the ability to hear? Our Australian heeler does not seem to be able to hear. Can dogs and cats hear immediately following birth? If not, when do they normally acquire this ability?

A: Puppies and kittens do not have the ability to hear at the time they are born. Most researchers believe that kittens begin to perceive sounds at approximately 5 days of age and puppies at about 14 days of age. Normally, hearing is fully developed in pets by the fourth or fifth week of life.

Congenital deafness, present at birth, occurs with a high incidence in white cats with blue eyes. The receptor organ in the inner ear of these cats is abnormal. Dogs that have a predominance of white hair color and dogs that possess the "merle" color gene also have a high incidence of congenital deafness. The dalmatian, Australian heeler, English setter, Australian shepherd, Boston terrier, Old English sheepdog, and bull terrier are a few of the dog breeds that most often have this problem.

Dogs with congenital hearing loss may be totally deaf or may have partial hearing. The condition usually affects both ears equally. Some affected dogs can hear very loud noises or high-pitched sounds, such as dog whistles.

Hearing usually cannot be restored for animals with congenital hearing loss. However, if you suspect that your pet cannot hear you should have the animal examined by a veterinarian. Your veterinarian can determine if there is hearing deficiency and, if so, if anything can be done to correct this problem.
