1000 View Annual Exhibit Of Farmingdale Schools

Band Concert, Play And Home Economics Demonstration Feature Affair

More than 1000 persons are estimated to have attended the annual school exhibit given by students of the Farmingdale schools last Wednesday and Thursday evenings, when examples of work during the year were shown, and demonstrations given in the school auditorium.

The exhibit came to a close on Thursday night with a concert by the High School band and the presentation of a report play by the pupils of Mrs. Maude Gardner's English classes. On Wednesday evening the program was in charge of the grade pupils, who also gave a concert, evoking loud applause from the parents and friends of the students who jammed the large auditorium. Both the grade and High School hands are under the direction of Sidney Baron, musical instructor of the Farmingdale schools.

A demonstration by the Home Economics Department was also given on the two nights of the exhibit. Mrs. Mildred Valenta directing her pupils in an exposition of the work done by her class.

Visitors to the school were shown the exhibits, as prepared by different classes, by girls of the Junior High School, who acted as usher. Each classroom had its own individual display, and the many parents who attended had a chance of viewing some of the work done by their children during the school year.

The exhibit is an annual affair in the Farmingdale schools. It is presented under the supervision of the principal of the school, Weldon Howitt.

Mayor Issues Proclamation On Housing Day

Saturday Designated; Contest Winners Named

Renewed activity in the Farmingdale Better Housing Campaign was seen this week as the local committee announced the winners of the school essay contest, and Mayor Frank Scholl officially designated Saturday as Better Housing Day.

The contest, in which members of both the Junior and Senior High Schools took part, was announced several months ago and the awards made in the school assembly yesterday afternoon. Helen Hicks, whose article is published elsewhere in this paper, won first prize in the High School contest, and Robert Kinney was declared the prize winner in the Junior High.

In the High School contest the other winners included Lawrence Campbell, Second Prize, and Hilda Groehling and Mary Frances Smith. Mabel Buchbaum won second prize in the Junior High with James Morley and Marion Petre receiving honorable mention.

Five dollars was awarded to each first prize winner and two dollars to each second prize winner. The judges were C. O. Schmidt, Denald Wood, Norma Sullivan, Grey Boas, Ernest Hackwitz, and George Baylis and Miss Mildred Valenta, Domestic Science instructor at the school.

Mayor Scholl's proclamation is as follows: WHEREAS, Saturday, June 15, has been officially designated as the Federal Housing Administration day as Better Housing Day, and a nationwide effort is being made to reimpress upon the minds of the public that the home is of supreme importance as the basis of our life, and the success and background of every community is an essential factor in the stability of every community, and that it matters for the health and happiness of the citizenship in general, and for the present and future, and

Officials Deny Breaking 1909 Gas Franchise

Long Island Lighting Head Replies To Cerny Attack

J. W. Carpenter, vice-president of the Long Island Lighting Company, in a statement issued last week denied recent attacks by Louis Cerny of the Farmingdale Civic Association, and declared that his company lived up to the terms of the 1909 gas franchise. His statement is as follows:

"Much space was given on the front page of the Farmingdale Post on May 20, 1935, to a statement by Mr. Louis Cerny of the Farmingdale Civic Association to the effect that the Long Island Lighting Company did not live up to its franchise heretofore granted by the Village."

"The statement is misleading and incorrect. I believe the municipal authorities as well as the citizens of the Village of Farmingdale desire to know the facts."

"On December 20, 1909, the Village granted a gas franchise to H. A. Odel for a term of twenty-five years. The franchise was assigned by Mr. Odel to the South Shore Gas Company in 1910. On July 16, 1917, by merger of the South Shore Gas Company, the Long Island Lighting Company acquired the gas franchise with the consent of the Public Service Commission."

"Mr. Cerny says in his statement 'there was a stipulation in the contract that there was to be paid to the Village an annual fee of $1500. It was provided that the rate charged for gas would not be more than $160 and $150 if the bills were paid within ten days.' Subsequently the Long Island Lighting Company took over the franchise and has not paid to the Village the annual fee and has raised the price of gas to $175."

"The fact is that the Long Island Lighting Company, since the date of acquisition of the franchise by it, has paid annually the fee required to be paid to the Village of Farmingdale under the terms of the franchise. The Company has in its records a receipt for each year of the payment of the fee from the Village Treasurer and proof of payment should be easily found on the records in the Treasurer's office."

"An electric franchise was granted by the Village on October 14, 1908 to the Babylon Electric Light Company and was acquired by the Long Island Lighting Company on September 23, 1915 through the purchase of the property, assets and franchise of the Babylon Electric Light Company with the consent and approval of the Public Service Commission."

"Mr. Cerny further says in his statement, 'in 1908 there was given

Sea Cliff Star Given Try-out

Willard Hyvobok, star twirler of the Sea Cliff high school, after a try-out with the Brooklyn Dodgers on Tuesday last, was invited to return and work out during the practice hours while the team is playing at Ebbetts Field.

Hyvobok's record while at Sea Cliff was outstanding and was the sole reason for Sea Cliff's good showing during the league season. Out of eight games in which he pitched he allowed 13 hits and struck out 101 players.

While it is not expected that Hyvobok will be traveling in fast company this year indications point to a successful baseball career for this Old Head boy who started for Sea Cliff. Bill received a great deal of encouragement from such players as Sam Leslie, Joe Stripp, Danny Taylor, Coach Otto Miller, who had him in low, and Manager Casey Stengel. Hyvobok will return to Ebbetts Field as soon as his examinations are over at Sea Cliff high.

On The Firing Line

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS OF U. S. Firing Line

By F. H. ALMIRALL. Flag Day, June 14, calls for a proud public confession of faith in our government, a faith that shall give strength to the weak, courage to the heartbroken and endurance to the disloyal.

Let us drive from our midst every element opposed to Americanism and every person who does not give undivided allegiance to our country, its institutions and its flag.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, United States, represents a body of service men (not ex-service men) who are still interested in our country.

DO YOU KNOW THAT: It was on June 14, 1777, that the Continental Congress proclaimed that the flag of the 13 United States be 13 stripes, alternately red and white in a blue field, representing a new constellation.

Thomas Cullen, one of the umpires of the local Legion Drum and Bugle Corps, is confined to his bed as a result of hitting a leg of mals Gang 'em, boy! Hope to see you out again, Tom, and real soon.

The administration's treatment of disabled veterans during the last two years does not bear out, we think, the tone of sympathy expressed by President Roosevelt in his bonus veto message to Congress.

UNTIL NEXT WEEK CEASE FIRING. F. H. ALMIRALL.

Motorists Watch Crow Slay Snake In Brookville

A large black crow triumphed over a good-sized garter snake on Ripley Lane, Brookville, last Thursday afternoon as motorists, attracted by the fight, watched from rimpole seats.

The garter snake, although courageous enough by reputation, found himself unequal to his adversary and tried desperately to escape into the underbrush at the roadside. The crow, however, headed him off and pecked at his neck until the head had been severed from the body.

A passing car frightened the victor away for a moment, but he soon returned, accompanied by several other crows, who joined him in the feast of their good appetites awaiting their approval of the feat.

Civics To Urge Town To Improve 1,000 Feet Of Shore Front

A drive for better train service and a public beach was started in Glenwood Monday night following a meeting of the Glenwood Landing Improvement Association.

With private interests gradually gaining control of much of the beach front, members of the civic organization decided at the meeting that an aggressive campaign might give Glenwood retention of the remaining shore front.

According to Harold Benson, the president of the Improvement Association, there is a 1,000-foot strip which might be used for bathing.

800 Swim Stars Prepare For Jones Beach Tourney

George Kojac To Give Exhibition Prior To Meet

Over 800 of the best scholastic swimmers and divers representing 60 schools will battle for medals and honors in the inter-scholastic outdoor swimming championships to be held at Jones Beach State Park on Saturday. The preliminary heats will start at 11 a. m.; the finals at 3 p. m.

During the meet there will be exhibitions of swimming and diving by well known amateurs, among them George Kojac, one of the greatest swimmers of the day, immediately following the amateur meet there will be an exhibition of swimming, comedy and straight diving by members of the Jones Beach pool show troupe under the direction of Victor Zoble.

Last year the senior championship was won by Erasmus Hall, who will defend this title on Saturday.

Among the more dangerous of the 1935 challengers are Richmond Hill High School, 1933 P. S. A. L. champions; St. Francis Prep, who has won 17 consecutive meets; Abraham Lincoln Manual Training and a number of dark horses among the local schools, not to mention the entries from New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut, any one of whom may upset the champions and capture the William Randolph Hearst Jr. cup.

The Long Island State Park Commission has provided new and enlarged bleacher seats from which one may have an unobstructed view of the races from start to finish. No charge is made for seats at the inter-scholastic meet.

CHARLES SNEDEKER

Snedeker Will Be Candidate; Not To Retire

Will Seek Re-election As North Hempstead Supervisor

Despite rumors that he would retire this year since he is eligible for a pension, Charles Snedeker, supervisor of the Town of North Hempstead, definitely will seek re-election this fall. It was learned from an official source this week.

Leo H. Duer, secretary to the supervisor stated Monday:

"There is really no statement to make as yet, but I am under the impression that Mr. Snedeker is going to comply with the many requests of members of the Republican party of the Town of North Hempstead that he remain in office."

There are many candidates in the field for the Republican nomination, the leading pair being perhaps Justice Wilmet Y. Hallock of Westbury and Supt. of Highways Arnold P. Kohler.

"It is the contention of the aspirants to the supervisorship that Mr. Snedeker has held it long enough and that if the party with-

Gay Affairs Mark Week-End At Sands Point Bath Club

Two dinner-dances, a cocktail dance and many informal Sunday luncheon and beach parties kept the members of the Sands Point Bath Club at Sands Point in a continuous whirl of social gaiety over the weekend of the afternoon.

Last Friday night many members and their guests assembled to attend the regular Friday night shore dinner-dance. The diversion of the evening centered on the horse racing games that were conducted in the casino, while many enjoyed the dancing under the open sky on the pool deck to the music of Al Duhaque and his famous 12-piece orchestra, who will play there throughout the summer.

Among the hosts and hostesses at Saturday evening's soiree de Gala were Mr. and Mrs. Willard G. Triest, Mr. and Mrs. John Englis, Mr. and Mrs. Ricardo Mestres, Mrs. Christiana P. Holmes, Commodore, and Mrs. Edgar P. Luckenbach, Major and Mrs. R. H. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Salsberber, Harry C. Cushing and others.

On Sunday afternoon the usual crowd assembled for the popular buffet luncheon at "Le Bouef sur le Toit" on the pool decks and for the gay cocktail dance that took place later in the afternoon. Equally popular was the Sunday breakfast dinner-dance that wound up the week-end activities in an atmosphere of carefree informality.

Among those who entertained at parties Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Dale M. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. J. Laroque Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Albert Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George von Seebeck, Mr. and Mrs. William Rogers Coe Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John M. L. ## Act Paves Way For Projects; Bans Tax Levy

Federal Grants Boosted to 45 Per Cent; Interest Low

Municipalities in New York State can now finance a wide range of public improvements on a purely revenue producing basis without recourse to taxation under the interpretation of the Killgrew Act passed by the Legislature and recently signed by Governor H. H. Lehman.

The law, it is understood, was provided so that counties, cities, towns and villages could take advantage of federal allocations to these classes of municipalities under the new relief program.

Officials who have made a study of the recent changes in the federal allocation plan which increases total federal grants on non-federal projects from 30 to 45 per cent and provides that municipalities are enabled to obtain the entire sum required for suitable improvements at an interest rate equivalent to slightly more than 1-1/2 per cent of the total cost.

The Killgrew Bill furnishes protection to the taxpayer with provision for public service at lowest cost and by prohibiting any tax levy or lien upon the municipality for the amount borrowed. Bonds issued under the act for the municipalities' 55 per cent share of cost must be sold to the federal government or one of its agencies and are retired entirely by the revenue produced with the undertaking.

Davison, Groat To Take Stump

G. O. P. Leaders Volunteer For Coming Campaign

At the request of Republican State Chairman Melvin C. Easton, F. Tubor Davison, former assistant secretary of war, and William Groat, Republican candidate for Congressman-at-Large during the 1934 campaign, have volunteered their services as speakers in the coming state campaign.

Henry Root Stern, treasurer of the Republican state committee, also will take the stump during the next few months, it was learned, and will join the oratorical shock troops composed of Senator Joe R. Hanley, Senator George R. Pearson, Assemblyman Irving M. Ives, Laurens M. Hamilton, Oswald D. Heck, Herbert Brownell, Jr. and Chase Meilen Jr.

Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, vice-chairman of the Republican state committee, also is planning a constant tour of judicial districts in the state.

Sculpture Protee To Stage Exhibit

Miss Jennie Nuccio, daughter of Glen Head, will have an exhibition of sculpture at her school in July. Miss Nuccio is a 17-year-old protege of Anthony Bello. Miss Nuccio's best models are heads of Theodore Roosevelt and Leonardo da Vinci. She is now working on a head of David which, when completed, will be presented the king of Italy.

Ready for New Assault on Mile Record

Win For Second Consecutive Year

A triple in the last half of the final inning by Cornelius "Red" Wade that sent Henry Roslund across the plate with the winning run enabled the Glen Cove High School baseball team to retain the North Shore All-League championship for the second consecutive year and setback Farmingdale, 2 to 1, in the play-off game at the Jericho Recreational Park in New Hyde Park on Tuesday afternoon.

Bonthron, formerly of Princeton, holder of world record for 1500 meters, and Jack E. Lovelock, formerly of Oxford, who established former world mile record of 4:07.6 on Princeton track in 1933; (right) Gene G. Venka, of Pennsylvania, traditional rival of Bonthron and Cunningham.

Leading Athletes To Compete At Princeton

Leading track athletes of three countries will make assaults upon existing world records at the second Princeton invitation meet which will be held in Palmer Stadium on Saturday afternoon, June 15.

Gene Venka, a rivalry which has produced Cunningham's mile record and Bonthron's 1500 meter mark.

Under the name of the Princeton Invitation meet, the Princeton Invitational track meet will be held in Palmer Stadium on Saturday afternoon, June 15. Last year's meet produced new times in the mile and half mile races. This year track experts are predicting the establishment of records for the two mile, mile, quarter mile and, possibly, the pole vault, as well.

They improved their position in the Oyster Bay meet by finishing a close third among the ten competing schools with 25 1/2 points.

Chamber Endorses Project For Ocean Front Protection

A beach erosion project for the entire ocean front of Nassau and Suffolk Counties from East Rockaway Inlet to Montauk Point was approved by the committee on ports and waterways of the Long Island Chamber of Commerce at a meeting at the East Marshes Coast Guard Station last Thursday.

South Shore beach protection, which includes jetties at Jones Beach, Fire Island and Moriches Inlets and many groins scattered along the coast from Montauk Point westward to contract and provide a large amount of manual labor.

This project, in which the Suffolk County board of supervisors, the Town of Hempstead in Nassau County, the City of Long Beach and the Long Island State Park Commission are interested, is being formulated in engineering terms with estimates of costs to be submitted to President Roosevelt for allocation of funds out of the $50,000,000 set aside for soil erosion and beach protection under the national works relief program.

THE GAS FRANCHISE

The whole argument of the gas franchise was, we think, something of a make-or-buy proposition. It was a matter of whether the village very much wanted it or the other if the measure was or was not passed. There was, however, an opportunity, small as it was, to lower gas and electricity rates in the village.

This the Farmingdale Civic Association took to heart, and the power that they hold over the village may be well demonstrated by the fact that it hadn't been for them, probably, the whole affair would have passed quietly by, and by Messrs. Aller and Dauenhauer would be sitting peacefully in their Amityville office, with the franchise by their side.

It is not often, however, that a small group of taxpayers can have a great utility company so completely in its power. The Lighting Company needs the 30 years franchise to protect its bonds, and the citizens know that they also know that it is a very nice feeling indeed to have fighting officials asking favors of them, so they have very naturally made the best of it. Long Island electricity is, on a whole, pretty high; and the Civic Association feels that by swinging the franchise over to the heads of the company, they may get some relief, because their rates. This, of course, is pretty impossible, because the Public Service Commission, decides about the rates, but anyway it's a hope.

The Board we think acted sensibly in deferring any action. After all the Village has a rather dim hope of gaining something out of not signing the measure at the present time; and they don't, so far as we can see, have a thing to lose. Farmingdale will keep on having electric and gas service as long as they want it, whether the franchise is signed or not.

As for the Lighting Company, they probably realize by now that it is best to drop the whole thing. And we offer that suggestion, too, to the Civic Association, for the time being at least. There are far more important activities about the village that they can take in their very active hands.

THE AMERICAN FLAG

The birthday of the American flag, which is marked by Flag Day, June 14, suggests the history of this emblem of patriotism and symbol of peace. It may also suggest to us that we need to be sure we know what we are patriotism and peace.

Patriotism is love of country, but not upholding our country when we know it is wrong. It means defending the country when it is right, and endeavoring to set it right when it is wrong. Patriotism is not the cry of the pack, nor the howl of the mob. It is not making a big fuss over trifles, nor carrying a chip on one's shoulder and constantly looking for trouble.

Patriotism is not the soap-bubble oratory about national rights. It does not consist of riding on the crest of the wave of enthusiasm so often indulged in by majorities. It is rather the courage to line up with minorities. The flag was born in a time of great national patriotism, when individual rights, comforts, interests were surrendered to the public good. That has always given the flag its beauty. The flag can be no better, no mightier than the people who live under that flag and call it Old Glory.

The flag has passed through the founders of battle. It has given hope and inspiration to the sons and daughters of liberty. It has always reminds us that war must be an ending in itself, but the last resort for peace with honor.

The flag symbolizes the peace that makes a nation great. It teaches ever and anon that the nation that lives by the sword must perish by the sword. He who prefers war to peace prefers the law of the jungle to the law of love and human brotherhood.

The flag can be luminous, wa-inspiring, radiant only as it floats over a land where strife, discord and dissension are minor factors.

The flag is destined to endure if we as citizens who salute this flag endeavor to walk in the ways of peace; make our government natural, not artificial; endeavor to think of all men as servants of their fellows, and not masters; and ever look upon our American democracy as a kind of creedless religion, a holy passion, a spirit, a right way of living and letting live.

There is so much ballyhoo these days over trifles, so much lung-power over what the country should do and be.

We would have no flag to unfurl today if there were not those who made sacrifices in the past; men and women, brave and true, who lived honorably and humbly, discharged their menial tasks with devotion, and consecrated their all to the cause of our government.

May the beautiful American flag ever wave over such a people, who will always give the state stability and permanence and the flag its luster.

If business concerns used more printer's ink in advertising, they would not need so much red ink to record losses.

"Unsound, un-American, unconstitutional," such is the verdict of the New Deal of the Grass Roots convention in solemn convocation assembled at Springfield, Ill., last week. It was called this meeting for the purpose of getting down to "grass roots" a much more than a mere expression than "grass roots" in order to examine records of the New Deal and to "present a declaration of principles" of a constructive character, which will point the way in which we can be helpful in the ending of the depression and in the preservation of American institutions.

Although this conference was held long before the Supreme Court decision, the President's attitude towards those decisions is highly praised. It is a very nice feeling indeed to have fighting patriots, such as there were also younger men, such as John Hamilton, the present chairman of the National Association, and Edward A. Hayes of Illinois, former national commander of the American Legion, as head of the resolutions committee, and each delegation vied with the other as to which could make the most picturesque as well as vocal Oklahoma delegation has and Kansas in the numbers, the size of which has never been seen East.

Personalities were zealously excluded and fundamental issues alone were discussed. In the days of the New Deal the lid was off, the truth was out in its bald ugliness, a spade was called by its proper name. The situation was faced in stark reality, but by decree, no aggression was stirred over, there was little left unsaid. The President will have to answer these charges or else forever lose the confidence of the people.

To Venerate, Amend or Cherish the Constitution?

The transcendent issue, of course, is the Constitution, brought to a crisis by the President's disregard for it, and the frank admission of this, as well as that of his benchmen, that it does not permit New Deal liberties, and that therefore it must be nullified by subsequent action, by decree, or amended. Mr. Lippmann tells us that the President has seen the light, that he realizes that "an amendment to turn over the national government omnipotent powers to regulate wages, working conditions, trade practices and prices would not be ratified by the American states, that it would divide and wreck utterly the Democratic party, that it would be just about the most speculative piece of folly by which any public man ever sought to cut his own throat."

If this is true, the President may not ask the country for a constitutional amendment to legalize "experiments." The New York Times editorially commenting on Mr. Lowden's statement "that no crisis so grave as the present has confronted the American people since the Civil War." For now, as then, the essentials of our form of government are being challenged in high places, says that "the mark of Mr. Roosevelt's about an amendment to the Constitution to enlarge the powers of Congress." The writer of that editorial should have been out to this conference and he would realize that the American people will stand no more fooling. The President cannot escape this issue by such "experiments" as practically every act which he has forced through Congress has wittingly violated the Constitution, and now he is being delayed as possible. Furthermore, the President continues to sponsor legislation which is flagrantly unconstitutional.

The Administration not only has defied the letter of the Constitution, but it has attacked what Mr. Lowden described as "the cornerstone of our government," "the division of power between the states and the central government. We call this the federal principle" by writing legislation for the state governments to pass. They have even produced a sectional map obliterating state lines.

No, the Constitution has been scrapped by the President, and his appointees, who boast of the fact that it is obsolete and that their oath of office is a mere formula and the people know it and accept the challenge.

The President cannot allow that "chance" remark because it revealed his true thought, nor can he afford to treat his oath of office so ## lightly lest he forfeit the respect and confidence of the people.

At that, an amendment to the Constitution in the manner provided for would be a more honorable method of changing our form of government than the subterranean measures adopted hitherto, an example of a champion in the gentle art of chiseling.

Grass Root Orators
The tribute paid to Lincoln sounded

the keynote, describing him as "the finest exemplification of opportunity under the kind of government he inherited and died to preserve."

Hamson E. Spangler, national committee man of Iowa, opened the conference—a brief of the highlights of his inspiring speech:

"We come in the spirit of our forefathers—sturdy pioneers, who in another great crisis formed a great political party which gave Lincoln to the nation. They saved the Union. Our purpose is to combat with all the power that is in us the false philosophy of those who would destroy America."

"The issues are national, not sectional." All former administrations have kept the faith. The Constitution had been upheld as the unchallenged basic law of the land. For the first time in American history free institutions are in need of defense against the attacks of a national administration which has taken the oath to uphold them. For the first time inviolable rights of the citizen are under assault by the town government."

"In the last Presidential election Mr. Roosevelt failed to be elected for certain reasons. By his provable man would betray; the promise of the American people. He stands today before the country as a violator of each and all of those solemn pledges.

A new element in political gatherings of this size was injected by Mrs. George B. Simmons of Missouri, who has written articles on the farm situation in the Saturday Evening Post. Her thinking is as straight as an arrow that never misses its mark and it was refreshing to hear her first-hand account. She and her husband are correctors of the type that make the backbone of the country, if only there are enough of them.

I wish you could read her whole speech. I must skip about the high spots:

"We are ready to dare to do our duty as we understand it. And so with minds and hearts and souls devoted to the common good, we are determined upon our common purpose of patriotic service we can do what 'What does our America require of us?'"

"One reason I am here today is that the Republican party desires now above all considerations of partisanship, to offer a medium and a vehicle to people of patriotism for such mobilization."

"I believe it is only fair to draw a very clear line between the Democratic party as some of us have known and loved it, before this inquisition era of brain-trust began to corrode our national honor, and this communistic, un-American regime we now so sadly suffer."

"I never found one farmer who realized about clause 9 of the 1934 corn-hog contract, yet it plainly demanded that the signers agree to such rulings as the secretary of agriculture might make hereinafter."

"My husband said he would not sign any contract that bound him and did not as much bind the other party to it."

When the read about the interpretation Washington put on the farmers' march, she thought "I reckon if somebody would turn one swallow loose in our nation's capital in January most of our Congressmen would get out their straw hats."

"And so when I consider that electric power plants are to be built to compete with the very private businesses whose tax money must go to support government-owned plants, the sanctimonious indictments of business men's capacity for the favor of the man in the street, the promises that neither a King Midas nor an Angel Gabriel could ever fulfill, I remember those contracts sent out

County Treasurer Harry L. Hedger of Glen Cove, who will be the only county official to face election next November, should feel relieved as well as gratified over the present condition of the bond market as compared with the panicky situation at the time he assumed office.

Probably no county treasurer bucked more "headaches," already stacked up in advance, than did Mr. Hedger, and certainly no one could have tackled an unpleasant task calling for exact knowledge and special training with more zeal and energy. He proposed himself to be the right man in the right place at the right time."

The chief Republican event of the week and for others to come if relative importance is considered, will be the visit of State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton and Minority Leader Irving M. Ives to the police auditorium at Minnola tomorrow evening (Friday) to address the nearly 600 members of the Nassau County Republican committee.

Chairman George R. Brennan, in his "call" to the membership, warns that "a limited number of guests may be invited, but in view of the present time, and the capacity of the auditorium, adequate accommodations will necessarily be curtailed."

Officials of the state committee are at work developing a Republican platform to be used in the fall campaign to recapture the Assembly. The legislative digest of the last session, in compilation by Senator Pearson and Assemblyman Ives, is expected to be ready for forwarding to the Republican members of the Legislature by the end of this week.

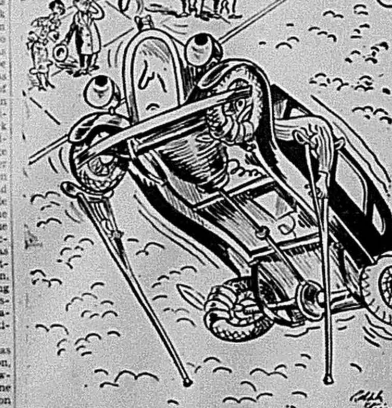

A plan to organize a Republican finance committee for the First Assembly District on lines similar to that already operating in North Hempstead, Oyster Bay and Glen Cove, got under way at a meeting held by Town of Hempstead "key men" (and women) in the Minnola court house last week.

Charles A. Blackwell of Brookville, chairman of the Second District committee, outlined the tentative modus operandi, assisted by Supervisor J. Russell Sprague and Warren Gordon of Garden City. The latter presided over a most enthusiastic gathering.

According to Secretary James N. Getling of Hempstead, the weekly meeting of the official Nassau County charter commission will be held in the supervisors' room in the Minnola court house as usual, but in "executive session" from now on.

Beware of Worn-Out Cars

It has been said that "the proper place for an antique is in the home and that a car, like a dollar bill, should be retired from circulation before it is down to the last shred."

That many owners of automobiles are falling to heed such sound advice is shown by the great number of motor vehicles that are found to be in poor mechanical condition when they are subjected to tests.

Figures on the inspection of automobiles as gathered by the Travelers Insurance Company indicate that three out of every four cars examined are in poor or even bad mechanical condition. Such inspec-

Statistics are usually dull and uninteresting. However, there are some figures which have just become generally known with the distribution of the 1935 enrollment books to the various committees of both major political parties in Nassau County. These figures are of special concern to the politically inclined, whether they be Democrats or Republicans.

The current list of enrolled voters is, of course, the one obtained last fall, and it reveals that in Nassau County there is a total of 36,826 registered Democrats to 17,576 Republicans, or a ratio of two to one in favor of the majority party here.

These totals are broken down by town and city as follows: Town of Hempstead, 22,253 Democrats, 49,503 Republicans; City of Long Beach, 3,542 Democrats, 676 Republicans; Town of North Hempstead, 6,273 Democrats, 12,892 Republicans; Town of Oyster Bay, 3,357 Democrats, 8,308 Republicans; and City of Glen Cove, 1,297 Democrats, 2,187 Republicans.

Comparing these figures with the list for last year, which obviously contains the names of those who enrolled in 1933, it is noted that this year the Democrats dropped 1,992 while the Republicans gained 6,377. In 1934, Nassau County's enrollment by towns and cities was: Town of Hempstead, 21,164 Democrats, 43,940 Republicans; City of Long Beach, 4,138 Democrats, 1,124 Republicans; Town of North Hempstead, 6,638 Democrats, 12,121 Republicans; Town of Oyster Bay, 3,910 Democrats, 6,283 Republicans; and City of Glen Cove, 2,043 Democrats, 2,431 Republicans.

Of course, the Republican leaders are quick to pounce on these statistics to bolster their argument that
