By ALBERT R. BEATTY

At least, that is the way James Roosevelt, eldest son of the Chief Executive, feels about it, and he so expressed himself during an interview Tuesday evening at his summer residence at Sands Point, N.Y.

Old Friends Meeting House May Be Moved

Park Commission Is Negotiating For New Site

The old Quaker Meeting house of the Bethpage Preparative Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends on Bethpage Road will be moved across the street, repainted and the new site landscaped and planted if the plans of the Long Island State Park Commission meet the approval of members of the group, it was revealed this week.

The grounds upon which the building now stands will be transferred to the Park Commission to straighten out their boundary lines, and the commission will undertake the work of moving the structure. The new site will be entirely fenced in, with two large gates which will lead into a circular drive where the commission will build around the building. The meeting house will be constructed some 150 feet from the road, facing north. Several trees will be planted around the structure, and the surrounding four acres well landscaped.

The meeting house has stood on the present site since 1741. The religious organization is one of the oldest on the island, having been organized here in 1608. One of the most important on the island has been visited by such great preachers as Elias Hicks, who recorded his impressions of the Bethpage group in his journal.

Farmingdale Has Saneest Fourth; No Accidents Or Burns

Farmingdale had the safest and saneest Fourth in its history on Thursday, when not one accident or Independence Day burn was reported to members of the Farmingdale police force, who had an easy time of it all day.

This record, according to Captain Art Powell, is very unusual indeed. "I guess people are just more careful," he declared yesterday. "There seemed to be just as much celebrating as usual."

Other Nassau towns reported equally uneventful fourths, and the only serious accident occurring in Amityville, where a small child was badly burned.

Santini Jewel Burglary Still Puzzles Police

Finger Prints Lead Nowhere; No One Suspected

Who stole jewels valued at $35,000 from the bedroom of Mrs. Randolph Santini of Brookville was just as much a mystery to police today as it was on July 1 when Mr. Santini reported it to Inspector Harold King.

Detective Lieutenant James Farrell and Detectives Henry Kochel and Refinad Ballard admit they have no idea who did the job. They have been irritated by imputation in the metropolitan newspaper that it was an "inside job." They have, of course, questioned the servants at length and hunted down more finger prints than are usually found in a Philo Vance mystery. The results have not been constructive. The finger prints found have been those of Mr. and Mrs. Santini or servants who are obliged to enter the bedroom in the routine of their work.

The servants' quarters in the Santini home are at a distance from those of the family, so that it would be impossible for a thief to enter the Santini apartments at certain times of the day without being seen by the domestics.

Making the detectives' work more difficult is the fact that Mrs. Santini had not worn her eye glasses for a few days between June 20 and the time their disappearance was first noted on June 20. There is, therefore, no method of determining the time they were stolen.

Two of Farmingdale's most distinguished citizens left this week for a trip through Pennsylvania. They are Walter Smith and Fred Wilkins, who expect to return next week.

THE CHEF SUGGESTS Making Your Summer Salads Ample And Complete

By JOSEPH BOGGIA
Chef-The Plaza—New York

A matter of service that should be mentioned in continuing our lessons in salad making is the question of quantity.

Recipes for today include Sicilienne, Tournaise, Venetienne and Zephyr salads... all taken from my personal file.

Sicilienne
Scop an orange and fill with diced apples, celery, pineapple and chopped nuts mixed with mayonnaise; sprinkle with shredded cheese and red pepper and finish with French dressing.

Tournaise
Pare and corralize and grapefruit in slices, dress them with French dressing and lay upon a heart of romaine. Top with asparagus tips crossed with shredded cheese and red pepper and finish with French dressing.

Venetienne
This is a beautiful bowl salad in which are combined lettuce, beet, celery, tomato, French string beans and apples—all cut in thin strips and dressed with French dressing seasoned with paprika.

Zephyr
Heart of endive, orange, grapefruit and shredded pickled walnuts dressed with cream mayonnaise with paprika.

ing, add the green pepper mixture shrimps and, if desired, a few mushrooms, which have been cooked in butter.

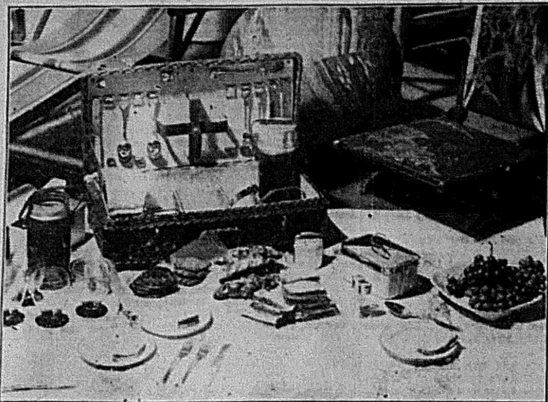

Tested Recipes

Pineapple Omelet
Beat 4 egg yolks until light and lemon colored, add 1/4 cup milk and a dozen crushed soda crackers. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a frying pan and when hot pour the egg mixture into it. Cover and cook over low heat, until lightly browned. Finish in a slow oven for about 2 minutes. Cook 1 1/2 cups crushed pineapple until it thickens, pour on half the omelet, fold and slide to a platter. Sprinkle with grated cheese and serve at once.

Spanish Shrimps
1 can shrimps
3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon minced green pepper
1 tablespoon chili sauce
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon minced onion
1/2 cup milk
Cook the green pepper, onion and chili sauce in 2 tablespoons of the butter, until brown. Next cook 1 tablespoon butter with 1 tablespoon of flour, add milk, and when boil-

Tomato Dressing
Drain the juice from 1 can of tomatoes and set aside for cocktails. Rub a cut slab of garlic over a thick slice of slightly stale bread and let stand for 30 minutes. Scrape off garlic, crumble the bread finely with a fork and add to the solid part of the tomatoes, beat vigorously with a fork or rotary beater. To 6 tablespoons of olive oil add 2 tablespoons tarragon, vinegar, salt, pepper and paprika to taste. Add to the tomato-beat mixture, beat well, chill thoroughly for at least 30 minutes. Service with crisp romaine or endive.

are just out of vacuum bottles, however, or have only an infant size, then invite the family drip pot to be filled with you and make fresh fragrant coffee right on the spot.

Chocolate Ice Box Cake
Sift 1 1/2 tablespoons granulated gelatin in 1/4 cup cold water. Scald 1 cup milk in a double boiler, add 1/4 cup sugar, 1/2 cup grated butter chocolate and 2 egg yolks which have been well beaten and mixed with the sugar and chocolate. Return to boiler and cook until thick, stirring frequently. Remove from fire and add softened gelatin, stir until dissolved and then cool. When thickened, add 1 teaspoon vanilla, beat well and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the 2 eggs. Line a pan with sponge cake strips, pour in a layer of the chocolate mixture, add a layer of sponge cake, cut rather thin and about 3/4 inch wide. Place in refrigerator for 10 or 15 minutes, then add a second layer of filling and cake. Set in refrigerator to become firm. Unmold and serve with sweetened whipped cream flavored with chopped macchimo cherries.

Life Of A President's Son Isn't Easy Roosevelts Say

his life's ambition is to shake hands with President Roosevelt, and he expressed hope that the son would be able to arrange a meeting.

"I intended to speak to my father about this man," he confided.
The White House was not a new sight to James Roosevelt when he entered following the inauguration of the President, for he had been there before on two different occasions—once as a boy to meet President Wilson when his father was Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and again when the former Governor of New York called at the Executive Office to confer with President Wilson shortly after Mr. Roosevelt's election.

He's Just Dad to Them
Most of the Roosevelts are frequent visitors to the White House, James remaining there for one week for three weeks. They look forward to these visits, he declared, because they get a chance to see and talk with their father. To them, he is not the President of the United States, but just Dad.

He continued: "Whenever father wants real criticism of what he does or fails to do, he calls in the family. He says we are the best source of comment, and he wants us to tell him of any faults we believe he has or any mistakes he may have made. And we never hesitate."

Although James confines his political activities to the Young Democratic Clubs of America, of which he is the national secretary at the present time and served as national treasurer from 1932-34, he is nevertheless sincerely interested in what is going on in the political world, and lets nothing of importance escape his notice. The public attacks on the President are read more thoroughly than the statements which praise him. Mr. Roosevelt said, "For I want to know exactly how the opposition feels about father and his policies."

Whether he will ever follow in his father's footsteps and seek public office, he does not know, and if so, to what post he would aspire.

"I feel better about that now," he whispered as the writer was about to leave. "It had occasion to call on the Paramount people today and they told me that many of the male cinema stars have little hair and are compelled to wear wigs. Furthermore, there is nothing very much I can do about it, is there?"

In Insurance Business
Since graduating from Harvard the President's eldest son, who is but 27 years old and stands six feet four inches in his stocking feet, has been engaged in the insurance business in New York with his partner, John A. Sargent. He enjoys his work and has been most successful.

For Mid-Summer Weddings

Garden Tables Are Most Effective

For the summer wedding no setting is so lovely as that which is provided by Nature herself. Happy then, the bride who may have the tables for an afternoon reception arranged in the garden.

Pleasing The Man

By CHLOE JAMISON
Hot or not... a good meal can always be counted upon to awaken masculine interest. But in order to win enthusiastic praise in summer it must be shorn of any formal ventralities, as possible. Formal dinners are never so irksome as then.

And there is another point that may well be borne in mind, when the intention is to please the men invited. If a cold meat dish is wanted, most any man finds a simple assortment including white meat, chicken, Virginia baked ham and tongue more intriguing than the most elaborate recipe of chicken morsels or shrimp-potatoes and peas molded in whipped cream. These are distinctly feminine dishes, better suited to luncheons and summer teas.

So with desserts. To the average man plain fresh peach ice cream or its equivalent tastes better than all the fanciful summer dainties pictured in cook books.

A third point that is often overlooked by both host and hostess is the fact that there is a goodly proportion of men whom a good cigar is as necessary a punctuation as is coffee at the end of the meal.

When entertaining at dinner it is courteous to offer a modest selection to smokers instead of providing merely the host's personal choice. Remember that some men like a cigar of medium flavor, others prefer one that is strong, or very mild. Tastes also vary with the weather. In summer many men forsake their stronger likes of another season for the mild, cool smoke.

Such considerations are perhaps aside from the question of cooking, yet they are closely related to the enjoyment of food. And both host and guests of his gender are grateful to the hostess who is generous toward these little whims.

Town Ratifies Leadership Of Russel Sprague

Hempstead G.O.P. Committee Sanctions His Endorsement

By CHARLES W. SMITH

The Republican committee of the Town of Hempstead ratified a previous action of the executive members of that body in recommending J. Russel Sprague for town and county leader at an enthusiastic meeting held in police headquarters Mineola, Monday evening.

Two resolutions were offered, each seconded by practical acclamation. The first by O. Burchard Smith recommended that "J. Russel Sprague be and he hereby is designated leader of the Republican party of the Town of Hempstead," because of the "high public service he has rendered, his comprehensive grasp of public affairs and his high attainments of mind and character which motivate his public career."

In his address, Mr. Smith reviewed events of the past five years following the "serious blow" experienced by the party in the death of O. Wilbur Donaghy. "For a time we had no guiding hand," he said, "we were like a ship without a rudder."

He stressed the party's good fortune in the accession of Mr. Sprague to the board of Supervisors. Trained by his late uncle in "stateship" rather than "politics," he has exhibited the finest qualities of leadership and has proven himself qualified in every respect, Mr. Smith showed.

In presenting the resolution recommending to the county committee the choice of Mr. Sprague as Republican head of the county, Supervisor A. Holy Patterson pointed out the handicaps under which the party has operated without a designated leader.

Mr. Sprague thanked the committee members for their evidence of confidence in him, which he analyzed as a "zeal and sincere desire to go places with the Republican organization next November."

W. Walter Randall, head of the Associated Committees, was elected to be recorded as not voting, but only to reserve his right as a county committee man to vote as such later.

He made plain his full sympathy with the plan to choose a county leader of the party.

Edwin G. Jenkins of the same body assured the meeting that the court action is suitably set, for a hearing on July 15, and that in the right of Mr. Sprague to call meetings of the town committee, will be withdrawn.

Charles Smith of Baldwin, chairman of the Republican town committee, presided, with E. Stanley Boonack acting as temporary secretary.

A resolution recommending J. Russel Sprague as Republican county leader was introduced by Mrs. Frank E. Brown at a special meeting of the Republican town committee in the F. Trubee Davison Women's Republican Club rooms, Willis Avenue, on Monday evening.

Judge J. Dwight Rogers presided between districts, were represented. The voting was unanimous.

BAYSHORE THEATRE
The really cool Bayshore Theatre boasts another week of outstanding screen attractions as beginning Sunday July 14 and playing through Wednesday July 17 is "Becky Sharp," the new all-color feature motion picture starring Miriam Hopkins with one of the most imposing casts ever assembled on the stage and screen. Steps into the shoes of the name of Becky Sharp brilliantly into the great new color era of the screen. Sir Cedric Hardwicke, knighted in 1924 for contributions to the English stage, and greatest star in the British Empire, crossed the Atlantic to make his American film debut as the Marquis of Stuyvesant, famous by name more than Tyrone Powers and George Arliss. Billie Burke long a favorite star of both the American and English stages and one of the most popular of screen celebrities, appears as the ambitious Lady Barrow.

Edgar Allan Poe's masterful poem "The Raven" supplied the title of the same name which is part of a big double feature program at the Bayshore beginning Thursday, July 11, and playing through Saturday, July 20. Seeking an outstanding vehicle for Karloff and Bela Lugosi, the producers and creators "Frankenstein" and "Dracula" chose Poe's immortal classic as the perfect medium for their combined unique talents.

The other feature picture on the same program is as equally important and one that will rank with the best Government Agent pictures including "G-Men" and "Public Enemy No. 1" and "Men Without Names." Fascinating insights into the detective work of the Department of Justice men and the longer love story are deftly combined in "Men Without Names." Fred MacMurray, Madge Evans, David Holt, the new child prodigy and Lynne Overman feature the July program as the stars in the exploits of Uncle Sam's detectives.

STRAND THEATRE
"The Case of the Curious Bride," a thrilling mystery film starring Warren William and the ever lovely Margaret Lindsay comes to the Strand in Farmingdale on Saturday, July 13. It is part of a double feature with "It's a Small World," with Spencer Tracy heading the cast, is the other attraction. The tenth episode of "Call of the Savage" will be shown at the matinee performance only, and all ladies attending will be entitled to a free gift.

One of the great love stories of modern fiction comes to the screen on Wednesday, July 17 when "Vanessa; Her Love Story" is presented. Taken from the novel by the great English writer, Hugh Walpole, the photoplay stars two of the best known of all screen actors Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery. Go on Wednesday night, too, and you will have a pretty good chance of winning the $25 merchants gift contest.

Private funeral services were conducted today in the home of the mother by the Rev. Lyman C. Bleeker, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church. Burial followed in the family plot in Cold Spring Harbor Memorial Cemetery.

Todd-Patsy Kelly comedy, action and news reel complete the program.

BABYLON THEATRE
Now showing at the Babylon Theatre "Our Little Girl" starring Shirley Temple. The "Vagabond Lady" playing on Saturday only, has action, comedy, beautiful settings, gorgeous gowns, and splendid acting. It is heralded as one of the best motion pictures of recent months.

Robert Young as the irrepressible "Tony," son of a millionaire department store owner, has the time of his young life providing delight for critics throughout the country, romantic and considerable romance to the plot of the story which revolves around the beautiful daughter of the store's janitor "Spriggy" Evelyn Venable as the daughter, "Miss Spriggins," turns in one of the best performances of her screen career.

Others in the cast are Reginald Denney, Barton Church, Frank Craven, Forrester Harvey, Dan Crimmins and Ferdinand Gottschalk.

"Oh For the Lamps of China," the latest Cosmopolitan production released by Fire National, and comes on Sunday to Tuesday is heralded as both a most powerful drama and a stirring human document.

The novel by Alice Tisdale Hobart, upon which the picture is based, and which was one of the best sellers, is a most colorful depiction of the life of American pioneers in China, who fought food, fire and famine as well as pestilence and banditry, to carry out the life of American business there.

Pat O'Brien has the leading role of an American fired with enthusiasm to make good with his country, a great oil concern, and to bring light to China by the way of lamps and oil.

Josephine Hutchinson portrays the girl Pat Marries, Jean Muir, John Eldridge, Lyle Talbot, Arthur Byron and Henry O'Neill are in the supporting cast.

George Raft is the star of Dashiell Hammett's "The Glass Key" on Wednesday and Thursday. This thrilling mystery by the author of "The Thin Man" presents the popular star as hard-fisted battler, who defies the loquacious of the underworld and his friends. It is the first time Raft has played a role of this type since his triumph "Scarface."

Louis Hewlett Takes His Life

Cold Spring Harbor Man, 71, Had Been In Ill Health

Louis Hewlett, 71, retired coffee buyer; and descendant of a prominent and wealthy Cold Spring Harbor family, was found dead in a vacant house on his mother's estate on Friday, July 13, and his body in the middle of his forehead and a 32-caliber revolver by his side.

Coroner William B. Gibson said no formal inquest would be held, and William Gardiner, head of the homicide bureau of the Suffolk County district Attorney's office, said, Hewlett undoubtedly had taken his own life.

Mr. Hewlett's brother, Walter Hewlett, returned from the city during the afternoon and missed Louis. A search for the latter was without avail and until the brother reached the small house on the opposite side of the Huntington-Cold Spring Harbor state highway, where he found the body. The man had been dead about an hour at that time, it was estimated.

Private funeral services were conducted today in the home of the mother by the Rev. Lyman C. Bleeker, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church. Burial followed in the family plot in Cold Spring Harbor Memorial Cemetery.

Paul Muni, who is pictured above in one of the scenes from the picture, has one of the most spectacular roles of his lengthy career in "The Informer," which comes to the Strand Theatre, Farmingdale, on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, July 14, 15 and 16. Liked by critics throughout the country, the picture has already been picked as one of the best ten of the year.

Town Ratifies Leadership Of Russel Sprague

(Continued from page 1) this has increased as inevitability of Mr. Sprague's control has been seen by the political wisecracks. Most Republican leaders are now agreed that Mr. Sprague offers the only stable leadership in sight in the county.

The resolution adopted by the Oyster Bay Republican executive committee this week follows: "WHEREAS, it is the sense of this meeting that the interests of the Republican organization of the County of Nassau can be best served by the designation of a leader to act in the place and stead of the present governing committee of the County Committee.

"NOW THEREFORE, be it RESOLVED that it is a recommendation of this Committee that a meeting of the Republican County Committee of the County of Nassau be called in the near future for the purpose of amending the By-Laws of the County Committee so as to abolish the governing committee and be it

"FURTHER RESOLVED that it is a recommendation of this Committee to the members of the County Committee that J. Russel Sprague of Lawrence be designated as Leader of the Republican organization of the County of Nassau."

Charter Foes Are Answered By Committee

Bar Association's Objections Denied By Partisans

Members of the Bi-Partisan Charter Committee began a series of weekly press releases this week detailing progress of the charter campaign in Nassau County and answering objections which have been raised to provisions in the proposed charter.

The first release follows: The Bi-Partisan Charter Committee is greatly encouraged by the weakness of the arguments against the charter presented at the recent debate on the subject before a special gathering of members of the Nassau County Bar Association and answered by the very friendly reception which that group gave the advocates of the charter. In the statements to be issued to the press from week to week detailing the progress of the charter campaign, the Committee will discuss the objections raised and answer them.

At this time the Committee directs attention to the first objection made at the Bar Association debate, to wit, that the division of the county in representative districts was not fair. The critic of this feature showed distinct bias upon two points. He believes in proportional representation and that the county in representative districts be chosen by that system. It is true that proportional representation is a fairer system than the one generally used for selecting members of a legislature and might produce better government. It is an ideal for the realization of which we may justly hope.

It would have been most impractical to have provided for that system in the charter. Because the voters generally are accustomed to electing representatives of one kind or another from districts, proportional representation would create a lot of unnecessary opposition to the charter which as a practical matter it was wise to avoid. There is nothing to prevent an amendment by a vote of the people at any time whereby the present system can be changed and proportional representation put into effect. Whenever the people want that system, they can obtain it without much trouble.

The objection that districts would create district leaders is raised because of the critic's bias against politicians. He seems to have an inherent prejudice against citizens who engage in that activity. The word frightens him. Those who unreasonably persist in insisting to the word politics a connotation of corruption should bear in mind a story of Theodore Roosevelt. As a college student he was asked what he intended to do after graduating. He replied, "I intend to make politics my profession and never rest until I am president of the United States."

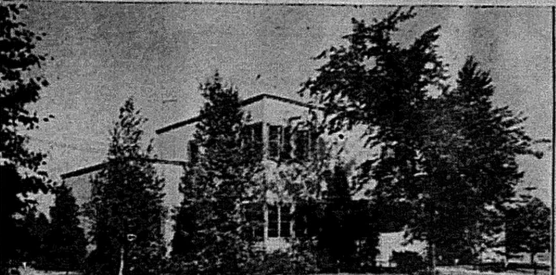

Another contention made against the district plan is that the districts are not fair; that centers of population will control and that sparsely settled areas will be completely overridden. In spite of it, ridicule remarks have been made about the shape of the districts and about gerrymanders. Of course, it is impossible to please everybody. If the districts were divided by creating 7 zones across the county from West to East there would have been objection to that. If it had been done from North to South there would have been objection to that. The problem was to divide the county into 7 parts each having approximately 50,000 people. It was thought advisable to avoid town lines because otherwise the town of Hempstead would have had the same overwhelming dominance as it has now.

The present plan follows the constitutional mandate by setting up districts as nearly equal in number of inhabitants as may be convenient and in as compact form as practical. If any of the critics of the charter will produce a better solution of the problem than the Committee did or will show a better set up of 7 districts of approximately 50,000 inhabitants, the Committee will welcome the results of such research and cooperate in an effort to have the people get the benefit of it.

Regarding the present Board of Supervisors of the county legislative body, the constituent units from which the supervisors are elected are wards or districts in every respect. No honest opponent of the ward system can say that the 7 representative districts proposed by the charter are so objectionable as to justify continuation of the Board of Supervisors where the minority has no representation at all. With the 7 representative districts there is a possibility for minority representation which cannot now be had.

In its next statement the Committee will consider the claims made that some of the charter provisions are unconstitutional.

The House That Science Built

Start Work On Nassau Sewers

Engineers Plan To Correlate 13 Different Systems

The introduction of trunk lines and modern terminal plants will be used to renovate the present antiquated sewer disposal system in Nassau County, the Long Island State Park Commission announced this week. A tentative plan is being mapped by a group of 100 engineers and surveyors which will be presented to the Nassau County Sanitation Commission. No detailed specifications have been completed yet, but the plan is to correlate the 13 different sewage systems now operating throughout the county. Although some of them are more than 100 years old, it is planned to leave each system intact and simply unite the whole in a scientific project for the draining and disposal of sewage. The Long Island State Park Commission believes that a modern sewage system in Nassau County would remove the threat of pollution from Jones Beach and other resorts along the North and South Shores.

STREET SIGNS

Street signs for Hicksville in a hurry and the best that can be procured at this is the demand made of the Town Board by the Citizens' Relief Protective Association of that community.

In the matter of the street signs the Board can have no reasonable alternative but to refuse to buy them. It would be manifestly unjust to compel all of the taxpayers of the Township to pay for community improvements that would benefit fewer than two-thirds of the people.

Refusal to buy signs, however, won't settle the problem. Street signs of a permanent nature are needed in Hicksville just as they are needed in Oyster Bay. In the unincorporated village of Baldwin salivary street signs made from wooden posts were bought by public subscription and squared and painted as an Emergency Work Bureau project.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN

The annual volunteer firemen's tournaments in suburban communities this week and last—the most recent having been that of the Nassau County vamps on Wednesday at Port Washington—were impressive indications of the undiminished strength of these unpaid protectors of property.

Occasional reports of undisciplined activities of volunteer firemen have prompted discussion of various plans to replace unpaid departments with paid units. It has been suggested that stronger control of a volunteer group could be exercised if it were organized around a nucleus of paid firemen.

TAX MAXIMS

Adam Smith's classic maxims on taxation deserve consideration at this time of agitation over a new tax program with its far reaching effects on the affairs of every United States citizen.
1. The subjects of every State ought to contribute towards the support of the Government as nearly as possible in proportion to their respective abilities; that is, in proportion to the revenue which they respectively enjoy under the protection of the State.

With the Republicans

By CHARLES W. SMITH

There is a lesson for Nassau County hidden somewhere in the fact that Assemblyman J. Austin Ohio of Atlanta recently stated that as a result of his tour in Albany he will receive good assignments upon receipt of the report of the Assembly by the Republicans next year.

George Ostratad, national chairman of the North Republicans, in a straight-from-the-shoulder speech recently, declared that his organization would fight any attempt to foist upon the party a reactionary candidate to oppose President Roosevelt next year.

The resolution adopted by the North Hempstead Executive Committee recommending J. Russell Sprague to be County Leader of the Town of Hempstead at a meeting in Hornell the other day: "The party's need is not so much for leadership as for privates who will do the solid work."

Using the G. O. P. to face facts squarely and realize that the Republican party has been losing votes steadily in the large cities would be a healthy attitude for a meeting in Hornell the other day: "The party's need is not so much for leadership as for privates who will do the solid work."

It is difficult to criticize a person worthy of admiration and respect in the sight of all men, like Receiver of Taxes Joseph H. Foster for the Town of Hempstead, a former official of spotless reputation and unquestioned efficiency, his office long has served as a model of its kind.

Ogden L. Mills, former Secretary of the Treasury, debating with United States Senator Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky Democrat, cleared the New Deal was blocking history, its theories were fallacious, and real recovery lies in the New Deal system. A majority of Congressmen now appear to agree with Mr. Mills, judging by the setback the President's New Deal has experienced. Such a result would have been impossible a year ago.

The Young Republicans in Canto believe that the Republican party isn't liberal enough, it can be made more so; but that sort of liberality that makes it the party of the craggy expenditure patchwork spread by the New Dealers is a mistake.

The local daily and weekly press was practically unanimous in stating, if not exactly emphasizing, the fact that among those contacted by their absence at the Hempstead Republican Executive Committee on Wednesday evening C. Walter Randall, George L. Thompson, and Philip F. Wieder-

Bumper Crop of Long Island Oysters Is Reported

More Than 3,000,000 Bushels Taken In Spring 'R' Months—Bivalves Are Now 'Hatching'

The cultivation, harvesting, and marketing of oysters on Long Island has always been one of the big industries of the State, and this year more than 3,000,000 bushels of the bivalves, almost an all time record, have been garnered by dredges, hand and otherwise, from parts of the nation and even to European countries.

While the nation as a whole, with the great Chesapeake bay and the vast "under water" farms along the Connecticut coast produce some 7,000,000 bushels annually, the demand for high quality in general, it is estimated that approximately ninety per cent of the oysters sent to Europe are from the Long Island crops.

After being dredged up, the marketable oysters are carried to ocean side "snacking" plants, hoisted from the water into giant hoppers which feed the bivalves to the plovers engaged in opening the shells, washing, sorting and packing the product for market.

Browns Lead 'Color' List In New Phone Directory

But Smiths Head All Names With 545 Listings—Joneses Lag With Only 145 Appearing In New Book

What's in a name is a poser the attempted answers to which have filled many a genealogical treatise. In the Nassau Summer directory, far and away the most in the form of the ever handy telephone directory, telephone subscribers in Nassau County are listed in their new summer directories from the New York Telephone Company last week as delivered by carrier of some 72,000 books and under way.

In this 360-page directory are found approximately 62,000 listings of names, addresses and telephone numbers of Nassau County residents.

The new directory is bound in a green cover distinguishing it from the previous issue which had a gray cover. This return to color carries through even to the alphabetical listings for a perusal of the many names listed on the three-colored page brings to light a variety of colors. The Browns seem to predominate in the color chart with 196 listings while the Greens have 171 listings.

Other members of the Board of Supervisors should not be offended at the assertion that his keen intellectually dominated their deliberations almost from the moment of his accession to that body.

With the Democrats

By ALBERT M. BEATY

One of the greatest assets of the Democratic Party in Nassau County is its many active senior citizens. No matter what the season of the year, they are doing or planning to do, they are with the Democrats. They are constant in the time, and are creating interest in the party and its varied program.

The Town of North Hempstead is viewed by political observers as the leading contender for the Republican nomination as County Treasurer of Suffolk. The organization's plan of prohibiting third terms for County officials is believed to exclude Terry.

The Bellmore Advocate points out that the Associated Committee cannot present a single member from the Town of North Hempstead. Well, we always did consider the Committee from North Hempstead usually inactive.

Smith Explains Election Facts

By CHARLES W. SMITH

July 2 was the first day for signing petitions for public office, and July 30 is the last day for county chairmen to notify boards of election of party positions to be filled.

August 6 and August 13 are the dates for filing designation petitions; August 16 is the last day to decline designation and August 20 is the last day to fill vacancy after declaration.

September 25 is the first day for holding judicial conventions and October 1 is the last day. Justices of the Supreme Court will be elected in all judicial districts in the State except the 6th and 7th districts.

October 1 and October 8 are the dates for filing independent nominations; October 11 the last day for filing independent nominations; October 14 the last day for filing new nominations.

Central registrations can be made at boards of elections in cities, counties and villages with more than 50,000 inhabitants from July 1 to August 1. In cities, counties and villages of less than 50,000 from August 1 to October 1.

When brewing tea for food tea do you pour the boiling water over both tea and the fresh mint used for flavoring? To do so greatly improves the drink.

Ideas About Things

By CHARLES W. SMITH

The Inevitable Happens
It is no reflection on the previous judgment of anyone concerned that the governing Committee of Five in the Republican county organization is practically no more.

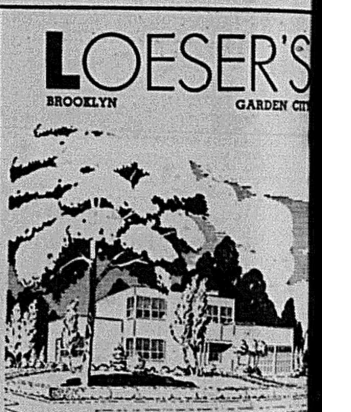

According to Editor we have only to glance at the County tax bill to get the gist of it. But that is just his little rhyme—and rhythm—and it's not his business to make a true picture of the mind that the Nassau County would not have a tolerable place in the world otherwise. He and me and the rest of us, together with the others, would not have either within the past year.

Picnickers To Protect Snakes

Summer campers and picnickers on Long Island and the Long Island Division Permanent Wild Life Fund to refrain from snakes.

"Several species of snakes on Long Island render a service to mankind and should be protected," the real made public this refers specifically to the black snake which is the most destructive rodent. It is deplored that so many want to kill every snake just because it is a reptile.
