'Fit For All' Program

In the photo, Ms. Collins, seated center, is receiving a "K" paperweight from Kiwanis Program Chairman Beth Dalton in recognition of a most inspiring presentation. On the right is Mr. Alan Beecher, First Vice President of the Grumman-Bethpage Kiwanis Club a dedicated volunteer with the "Fit For All" program.

Ms. Evelyn Collins, the "Director of Sports and Recreation for the Disabled" at Nassau Community College was the guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club.

Ms. Collins is a physical education instructor at the college, and spoke primarily about the "Fit For All" program which she conducts in the evenings at Nassau Community for the disabled. As she said, "Disabled and able bodied people have the same goals and abilities, but it takes more effort on the part of the disabled individual". Ms. Collins also said, "A person with disabilities can participate in any sport with special adaptations".

Enrollment in the "Fit For All" program is limited to people between the ages of 14 years to 80 years, and are physically challenged. At one of the earlier eight week programs, approximately 15 athletes met on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7 to 8 p.m. for aerobics, weight training (free weights and universal weight), stretching and conditioning. Attending many of the evening sessions were physical therapists, physicians and chiropractors, all volunteering their time, expertise and support. Several of the professionals who helped with instructing the group were disabled, according to Ms. Collins.

The Fall program will start on September 19. There is a fee for the program, but Ms. Collins stressed the fact that financial scholarships are available for the students. Also, the program is supported by outside funding sources to help offset the high costs of special equipment. Furthermore, since the students need one to one attention to supply them with a quality and safe workout, the demand for volunteers is extremely imperative. "The more volunteers we have for the program, the more disabled participants we can accept for our Fall semester" was how Ms. Collins said it.

Ms. Collins will gladly discuss the "Fit For All" program with interested students and/or volunteers. She can be reached at (516) 222-7518, or 7531. She is anxious to help the disabled, especially since she, herself, is disabled and confined to a wheelchair.

HBA Hosts Charity Game

HBA invites you to a Hicksville Charity Boys Baseball/Girls Softball Tournament at the Abe Levitt Complex, Stewart Avenue and Levittown Parkway, in Hicksville, on August 27, at 1 p.m.

The game will benefit the Association for the Help of Retarded Children.

Admission Cost is $1.

Walking Program Registration Open

Registration is now open for a walking program being sponsored by the Town of Oyster Bay Parks Department, it was announced this week by Town Councilman John Venditto.

Walking is one of the healthiest forms of exercise. The program will help residents develop techniques to gain the greatest benefit out of this activity.

"Offered in cooperation with the President's Council on Physical Fitness, the eight-week Walking Program is free to Town residents," Venditto said. "Also, the first 100 registrants will receive a free fitness tee-shirt. The program will be held at two locations: Marjorie R. Post Community Park beginning on Monday, September 12, from 7-8 p.m.; and Syosset-Woodbury Community Park beginning on Tuesday, September 13, from 10-11 a.m."

Applications are available at all Community Parks and at local libraries. For further information, contact the Parks Department at 795-1000 ext. 7787.

Third Party Tax Bills Available

Senior and disabled residents may be eligible to have a copy of their tax bills sent to a third party to ensure timely payment of their taxes, according to Town Receiver of Taxes Gary F. Musiello.

"Qualified residents can designate a third party to receive a duplicate of their tax bill," stated Musiello. "This service, which will lessen the chance for displacement, is available only to senior citizens 65 years of age and over and to disabled residents." Handicapped and disabled residents must have their third party notification application form certified by a Physician. These forms are available from the Office of the Receiver of Taxes, 74 Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay, New York 11771.

Musiello noted that the qualified and approved application, once changed to notify a third party, remains on file as a duplicate billing until the Receiver of Taxes is otherwise notified.

"I strongly urge senior and disabled residents, who feel they could benefit from this service, to please contact my office for further information and an application," concluded Musiello.

Six Feet Fences Now Allowed By Town

The Oyster Bay Town Board today amended the Town's Building Zone Ordinance with regard to fences in residential districts, according to Town Councilman Kenneth S. Diamond.

"Under prior zoning regulations, homeowners were permitted to erect six foot fences along their rear lot line and along the side lot lines to a point even with the rear of dwellings on the adjacent lots," said Diamond.

Fences that extended along the side lot beyond that point could be no higher than four feet.

"The amended ordinance now allows property owners to erect six foot fences along side lot lines to a point even with the front of their dwelling, or to the required front yard setback point, whichever setback is greater," Diamond explained.

Diamond noted that the ordinance applies to constructed fences as well as "living" fences such as shrubbery, hedges and trees.

Chemical Fumes Cause School Admin. Bldg. Evac.

Fumes from chemicals on a loading dock awaiting transfer caused the evacuation of the Hicksville School District Administration Building on Aug. 4. The Hicksville Fire Department received the alarm at 8:21 a.m., from the Division Avenue facility and responded to the scene with its Haz Mat team and 6 units.

Incident command was set up by chief officer in charge - Asst. Chief A. Merk. Haz Mat team members were given a list of the chemicals on the loading dock. The list contained chemicals such as Ammonium Chloride, Ammonium Phosphate, Lacquer Thinner, Sodium Metal, Lead Peroxide - to name a few. It was decided that level "A" acid suits would be worn by team members to enter the area and evaluate the incident.

The entry team consisting of Capt. Eugene Pietzak and ex-captain Richard Russell found many of the chemicals stored together and found a small quantity of phosphorus had leaked from a container, once it mixed with air a reaction occurred which gave off toxic fumes. The chemicals were isolated first, then the phosphorus was put in an overpack drum. A small quantity of sodium was found and it was packed in kerosene to stabilize. At this point in time all chemicals were in a safe condition and the entry team exited the hazardous area, and were de-contaminated.

Called to the scene to assist were the N.C. Fire Marshals Haz Mat Unit, N.C. Board of Health, N.Y.S. Dept. of Environmental Conservation. The Plainview F.D. provided an Engine Co. stand by at Fire Headquarters, along with a rescue unit from Jericho F.D.

The Hicksville F.D. Haz Mat team has been in existence since 1981 and responds to 60 to 80 calls a year. It was the first team organized on Long Island.

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Angelo A. DellaGatti presents plaques to winners of the 6th Annual Town of Oyster Bay Senior Citizen Golf Tournament. Proudly displaying their prizes are left to right, Pat Mensching of Hicksville, closest to the pin men's division; Joseph Brown, longest drive men's division; Mildred Kiernan, low net women's division; and Scott Tolmie, low gross men's division.

Letters

To the Editor:

I cannot fault the School Board for lining up all the people they can to get the Budget passed. However, I do not appreciate the unnecessary waste of paper and extra red ink needed. All of the material could have been presented in a more inexpensive way.

It also annoys me the way the facts are either slanted or left out. For example: "The only expenses allowed are to provide direct instruction for students, to discharge legal obligations, to conform to existing state and federal statutes, or to preserve property and assure the health and safety of students and staff." So how come our Superintendent received an increase in pay in an amount that would have covered the Senior Citizens Club.

We lost the top scholarships long before the austerity budget. What happened to Grumman, Westinghouse, General Electric and like companies that our kids successfully competed for in the 60's and 70's. Incidentally, the individual class was much larger than and we protested. I do not think it is the fault of the teaching staff. I believe it is our School Board and Supervisory Staff.

The Bulletin talks about safety. How come we have locks on the gates but Peter Road has two doorless, or gateless entrances that permit access to all of the High School Campus? This means a 24 hour admission.

Isn't it also strange that only one side is presented and at a time that leaves no room for opposing views before the day of voting?

All of this makes me distrust what the Board really represents and why the people of Hicksville permit it. We didn't in the late fifties or through the seventies. We deserve it because the Board knows there isn't any real organized opposition.

A. Allan Goldstein

Wellness Center At Mid Is. Y

A different kind of setting, mainly off the ground, provides challenge and excitement for 5 to 12 year old children at the Fitness Course of the Mid-Island YM & YWHA Day Camp at the Henry Kaufmann Campgrounds in Wheatley Hills.

The Summer Wellness program was developed by Maria Macarie, a certified Exercise Physiologist who is also supervisor of the Fitness Center at the Y Facility, 45 Manetto Hill Road, Plainview.

Ms. Macarie commented that children have a tremendous fascination and curiosity about mechanical things, things that move and with the idea of flying and being off the ground. The typical playground equipment redesigned for aerial use fascinates and challenges the children to develop their physical abilities. By mid-session, any fears the children have had generally dissipated in their excitement and discovery of their capabilities.

An example is a Super Swing station situated 12 feet in the air. All the children, under adult supervision, climb a tree ladder, walk along a log, maneuver themselves to the platform, then glide through the air in a circus trapeze manner.

Sidewalk Ordinance Expanded In Town

The Oyster Bay Town Board has approved an amendment to the Code of Ordinances pertaining to sidewalk maintenance, according to Town Councilman Howard T. Hogan, Jr.

"Following a public hearing on July 19, the Board has amended a Town ordinance to make it clear that property owners may be held liable by the court for any personal injury resulting from failure to maintain the sidewalk abutting their property," Hogan stated. "The ordinance has always required property owners to keep their sidewalks free of snow, ice, filth and other obstructions and maintain them in generally good and safe repair."

Hogan noted that at the public hearing, some senior citizens expressed concern about their ability to clean their sidewalks following a snow or ice storm. At Town Supervisor Angelo A. D'elligatti's direction, the Town will be contacting youth groups to recruit volunteers to assist seniors and the handicapped with shoveling.

Motor Vehicles Office To Move

Within a year, the Department of Motor Vehicles will relocate and enlarge its tiny Hicksville office as part of an ongoing program to improve service throughout the state.

In Hicksville, DMV inherited the present site at 670 Mid-Island Plaza from Nassau County when it assumed motor vehicle operations there in 1984. It is the smallest office in the state, which causes congestion and inconvenience for both customers and staff.

Under a leasing arrangement coordinated by the Office of General Services, the new office will be constructed a mile and a half to the south, at the intersection of Route 107 and Ledy Street. It will be accessible from two major highways, the Long Island Expressway and the Northern State Parkway.

The new Hicksville office will improve customer service in a variety of ways. It will be much larger than the present office, 23,000 compared to the present 2,400 square feet, and will have ample parking for 180 vehicles.

The building will also house regional offices for Field Investigation, Driver Safety, and Vehicle Safety Services. Employees from various Long Island offices will increase the present 13-member staff to approximately 50. The number of computer terminals will double from eight to sixteen.

Mixed Ideas On What To Do With Raceway Land

There were mixed ideas on what should replace Roosevelt Raceway if the track closes as announced in answer to this question: "The 174 acre Roosevelt Raceway site may be available shortly for development. As the last open site in the county what use could be made of it; shopping center, apartments, open park area, other? "Here are some of the answers:

RECREATION

If Roosevelt Raceway is not used as a track I think it should be for some recreational purpose. It has to be kept as an open tract because we are having a water and air problem. If the area is developed into apartments then there will have to be some way, as yet unknown, to handle the water problem. More stores are not needed and will only add to the congestion on the roads. S.J.

HIGH RISE APARTMENTS

I think that there should be high rise apartments allowed on the Roosevelt raceway land. We can find a solution to the water shortage the same New York City did by building another aqueduct and adding on to Queens water from reservoirs. The county has not enough housing for middle class people and the raceway land should be sold back to the county at a fair price, not a high market price because it was originally acquired from the U.S. government at a low price and part of the stipulation was that it would be used for housing. We do not want low income housing there but we want housing that young families starting out can afford to buy as cooperatives and sell later when they want to move into regular houses. If we do nothing about housing on Long Island the property values will fall because the demand for very high real estate will be saturated. We have trouble in getting industry to stay on Long Island because of a lack of housing. There is a need and it should be filled. N.T.

ATHLETIC STADIUM

Why not make a multi athletic stadium in the 174 acres where Roosevelt Raceway is now. How about a baseball team for Long Island? People would support it and it would not ruin the environment. H.K.

PLANNING COMMISSION

It is now time for the Long Island Planning Commission to show us that we really have a planning commission. Roosevelt Raceway should not be allowed to be sold in parcels to people who want to put stores on top of stores. We do not need more stores at all. The land originally was owned by the government it should not turn into a way people can become millionaires and leave the problems to the taxpayer. We need a plan now. It is difficult to say what should go in that space, but it should not be stores. G.R.

DON'T GIVE UP

While I agree that if the Raceway closes something should be done with the land that will benefit the county. But I believe keeping the raceway and letting a new owner come in such as George Steinbrenner will be the best use of the land. It will provide employment and recreation and will not hurt the environment. Let's not give up yet. M.Y.

PLACE TO LIVE

What a pitiful waste of land Roosevelt Raceway presently is. Horses and chariots running around a track while people bet on them certainly is not the best use of anything. We need space for people to live and we need space for people to be able to own at a fair price. There should be a plan to use most of the Roosevelt Raceway land for that purpose. V.T.

FOR A PARK

I think that the Roosevelt Raceway land should be used as a park site because it is a great deal of space and would be something to look at. We have too many shopping centers. And who wants to look at an apartment building? A.G.B.

BEST IDEA YET

The best idea to surface in the press recently regarding the Roosevelt Raceway is the one advanced by George Steinbrenner who indicated he might be interested in buying the track. I feel he has amply demonstrated that he knows how to make money out of sports and I don't see any reason why the Raceway should be any different. It would seem to me that the political leaders of our state should jump at this opportunity and do everything possible to develop it into an accomplished fact. We need more stores like we need a hole in the head; with the asking price, I don't think the site could qualify for low cost or affordable housing; and, as to open park area, Eisenhower is right down the road and doing a good job for Nassau County. When we listen to "I Love New York" and then find our top teams being attracted to New Jersey and with the Meadowlands doing a magnificent job for that state, why should we even think of closing down this sports attraction. I don't know just how one would weigh current traffic load against a brand new development of businesses and residential buildings but my gut feeling is that it would become a major problem not to mention the increased need to conserve water as well as to provide additional services such as fire, health, police, etc. I really think that Cuomo could regain some lost prestige if he were to turn George Steinbrenner's off-the-cuff remark into a reality. P.G.S.

PAST ISSUES

DRUG PUSHERS

The insanity of drug pushers and users has poisoned our society like a plague with no immediate cure. The many lives that have been destroyed and countless crimes that have been committed because of drugs cannot go unnoticed. If a national death penalty is instituted for drug pushers the supply of narcotics will be curtailed but it will not be enough to stop their use. Many who choose to use drugs would do so no matter how high the price. Those who are against drugs can make a difference individually. It is a difficult war that will be fought a long time before it is finally won. C.P.

Body Language-- Silent Conversation

By Gloria Roberts

Body language is to conversation what man is to woman, bagels to lox, and peanut butter to jelly. It is difficult to enjoy one without the other. Language is a means of vocally expressing or communicating feelings and thoughts to another. Too much attention is paid to words and not enough to the silent signals we give with our bodily movements. Contact with another person is the way you relate during the first few minutes of meeting, yet most people are not aware of how well they communicate with others.

Each time you touch an arm or shoulder, you send a silent intimate message to another. Many people enjoy being touched and respond to it quite affirmatively. Touch can break barriers where words may fail.

How often have you spoken without uttering a sound...with a look...with a touch? The body speaks without words, the eyes being the primary medium of non-verbal communication during the first few minutes of contact. Society dictates it is impolite to stare. A gentleman should not look at a woman any longer than a few seconds during the first eye contact unless she encourages the look with a direct meeting of eyes.

Eyebrows raised and lowered, accompanied by a smile may show interest and excitement. A frown can express puzzlement or even disagreement, while a wink encourages the feeling of a shared secret. Dilatation of the pupils expresses a serious interest when communicating with the opposite sex. Narrowing the eyelids might indicate suspicion.

The nose can also contribute to facial communication, although sometimes not the most attractive part of it. It can add a humorous component. A wrinkling may indicate dislike. Holding your nose with a thumb and forefinger indicates a distasteful odor.

The mouth that eludes that very smile acts as a response magnet. Who can resist a million dollar smile consisting of beautiful big white teeth and sensuous full lips?

Our shoulders and trunk indicate, among other things, control and self-esteem. Poor posture and stooped shoulders depict a diminished self-image. The chest thrown forward shows pride and is a clear symbol of high self-esteem. In woman, to quote a well-known photographer, "the thrust of the bust" can indicate how she feels about her self-image and femininity.

Excessive movement of hands and arms can signify restlessness, insecurity and even immaturity in adults. An open hand, versus a closed one, shows receptiveness, strength, firmness and conviction. The spreading of fingers is thought to indicate femininity.

Crossed legs or ankles while seated may typify an up-tight person but can be interpreted by others as a very relaxed position. A woman's legs express her sexuality and the shape of her ankles, calves and thighs sends messages to the men around her. Her choice of hose and skirt length signal how she feels about herself.

The feet also speak the silent language displaying restlessness, boredom, impatience and nervousness, and sometimes are prone to play "footsie" under the table.

Body language sends no strong messages but merely provides a basis for making a reasonable assumption. It is not a basis for concluding facts.

FINE SEAFOOD

Our party of four had dinner at Estoril Granada, on Mineola Boulevard in Mineola. Seafood seems to be their specialty. We asked the waiter for suggestions and he thought we would enjoy Carne Porco Alentejana. This consists of pork and clams in a delicate brown sauce. It was a happy choice. The other couple ordered the Caldeirada, which is the Portuguese version of Bouillabaisse. Our friends heartily endorsed their choice. If you are hankering for something unique and delicious, I think you will enjoy Estoril Granada. We enjoyed the ambiance of the restaurant and found the service excellent. G.W.

Great Italian Food

We've been eating at Mamma Lucia's every week for two years and the food is always fresh and delicious regardless of whether we choose from the regular menu or the blackboard special we've always been pleased. We generally order from the blackboard because it is more to the gourmet cooking. Peter and Lucia really care about the food and the service and price is quite reasonable for the outstanding quality of the food. There is no problem in parking because the Pathmark Shopping Center in Garden City Park is there and you can always find a space. R.A.

READER RATINGS

Q. I'm not Italian but I enjoy Italian food. However, I'm not sure of the proper way to eat spaghetti. Some of my friends simply use a fork. Others press a large spoon (held in the left hand) against a fork (held in the right hand) while twirling the spaghetti around the fork. Which system is correct?

A. In Italy both methods are used. The difference is regional. But then again in Italy Pizza is eaten with a knife and fork!

Our own preference is for the fork, no spoon, system.

Q. Help! What does someone do who enjoys eating out, but is constantly on a diet and has absolutely no will power?

A. One solution might be eating in a Chinese restaurant. The food is low in fat, desserts are simple and the usual beverage-green tea, with no cream or sugar-has no calories at all!

Another good idea might be choosing a restaurant with a big salad bar-a delicious and nutritious way to take the edge off an over-eager appetite.

Q. My wife and I both work and we like to try new restaurants. In some places we find the service is inadequate. What does a patron do who wishes to summon his waiter, but finds the waiter has "disappeared" for a long interval?

A. He might try to get the attention of a waiter not assigned to his table, asking him to find his "missing" colleague.

Imperfect service is a common complaint by those who dine out. Even the best restaurants have difficulties of this kind once in a while.

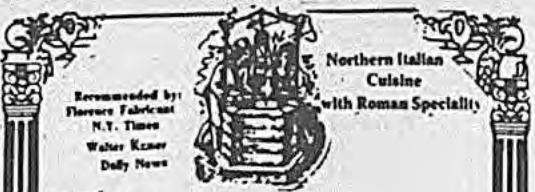

If you find a restaurant has excellent food but is lacking in fine service, a word to the manager (or to "Input") might be helpful in correcting the problem.

THE BEST

La Coquille Restaurant in Manhasset is a place that is unequalled by any other restaurant. It is a small restaurant that is run in a very efficient way so far as service goes. It is in a well appointed setting for dining.

But the most important part about any restaurant is the food. We have been there three times and have had such varied dishes as beef, veal, scallops and lobster and each a treat in itself. The food is also attractively served with vegetables cooked to a crisp tenderness.

For such great cooking and service in a French restaurant it is well to note that the prices are within an average range for a fine evening out. We recommend it.

BEAUTIFUL PLACE

Last week we read an ad in your section about Gerlich's restaurant in Glen Head.

I must say we were well pleased with the wonderful food and service at this restaurant. But I do not think the advertisement does the place justice. It is a beautiful place just to be in. It is decorated in a way that would thrill antique lovers with its Tiffany lamps and antiques.

In addition to all of this they have a pianist who plays at the delightful bar. We suggest you recommend this to all readers. Thanks for giving us the chance to phone in.

Q. What is the policy of restaurants when a waiter spills something on you? F.P.

A. There is no set policy except that the management usually is very apologetic. Almost all places ask to assume the cost of cleaning your clothing. Others do this and void the check for the entire meal. On small splashes they usually do what they can at once to clean up the spot. Regardless of what else it usually requires the personal apology of the one in charge.

Q. Many times I find that baked potatoes at restaurants are soggy, even the better restaurants. How come they can't bake a potato right? C.B.

A. They can bake potatoes right but the problem is that when you bake a potato it takes a long time and they usually bake a number of them at once. If you happen to hit at the right time you will get the best but later it will get more soggy. The best tip in ordering the potato is to ask the server whether they are freshly baked or not. If not better take something else.

Q. When figuring the tip for service, how is it figured, on the total bill with tax or on the bill before tax? E.R.

A. Generally it is figured before the tax is added although the amount of a tip is a purely personal thing and it ranges from 15 to 20 percent. Usually where the service is great you compute it as high as 20 percent.

Q. At a table with others we don't know at a banquet, what do you do about tips-if anything?

A. At public dinners there is sometimes a small card on each table which reads "Gratuities have been taken care of by the Dinner Committee"-a very good idea. If there is no such card at the table, the waiters, immediately after the service of dessert and coffee and before the speaking begins, come to the host or hostess of each table and place a silver salver before him or her, often with a murmured explanation that something is expected for the table's waiters. Unless all at the table are personally invited guests, the host or hostess makes no attempt to tip for the whole table but after placing a dollar (per service) for which he or she feels responsible) on the tray, directs the waiter to the gentlemen at the table, each of whom should leave (at $1 per plate dinner) a dollar and a half for himself and the same for the lady he escorts. Women should never be approached for tips if there are gentlemen at the table.

We call Mahoney's in Williston Park our "old reliable" because it never fails to provide us with a good meal. Last Sunday we went there in the evening. The place was filled but we still got a good seat. Mahoney's has a salad bar equipped with shrimp, soup and mussels along with the usual items that are found at salad bars.

Some members of our party had veal and some had scrod but everyone said that they enjoyed the good food at this newly refurbished old landmark on Hillside Ave. And if you want something a little bit better try their Irish coffee. G.K.

If you have questions about etiquette or dining out you may call them in to WE 1-0027 and we will find the answer.

Q. Last night we had fish and the host ordered a burgundy wine for the table. Isn't this use of a red wine in poor taste?

A. If it is in poor taste it would be up to the people consuming it to determine that it was not to their liking. The old fashioned etiquette about red wines being or meat and white for fish were a tradition but no one has to honor a tradition that is not to their particular liking. Get red wine with fish if you like.

Guide to Good Dining

MICROWAVE MAGIC

By Desiree Vives

A whole lotta shakin' goin' on

Salt and pepper are great seasoners, and they are everywhere.

Because salt and pepper enhance the flavor of virtually any dish on the dinner table, most tables are never without a pair of shakers. These come in an amazing variety of shapes.

I was at an estate sale recently where the deceased had amassed several hundred sets in a tour de force collection of kitsch. Like Noah's Ark, they were all in pairs: two pink flamingos, two calico cats, two hippos, two coiled snakes, two Statues of Liberty. One of the set would sport an "S" and the other a "P" — or you simply would have to guess which was which by the number of holes poked into their ceramic heads.

There was even a tiny pair of wooden outhouses, each with a half-moon carved into its tiny door. One announced "I'm full of P." You can guess what the other claimed to be full of. Most appetizing, I thought. I didn't make an offer on the collection.

If you have any problems associated with high blood pressure you should check with your doctor about restricting your salt intake. I usually add only a little salt to a dish during cooking (or none at all), then season sparingly, if necessary, at the table.

The American Heart Association has suggested that everyone, no matter what his health, should limit sodium intake to less than three grams, or 1½ teaspoons, a day.

As for pepper, I've never heard any health reason for limiting its use — so go ahead and shake!

Don't add any salt while preparing August Moon Chicken. There's plenty in the canned condensed soup and the soy sauce. The Microwave White Sauce counts on a bit of salt and pepper as its only seasoning. Use white pepper for visual appeal, to avoid a lot of little black specks in the creamy sauce. Spoon over hot cooked veggies, or mix with cubed cooked chicken and veggies to serve over rice or noodles.

(Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.)

MICRO-TIP OF THE WEEK

When microwaving a whole chicken or turkey, do not salt the outside of the bird, as this will cause the skin to dry out.

CREAMY MAC N' CHEESE

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon each dried parsley flakes and salt
½ teaspoon pepper

1½ cups milk
2 cups shredded mild cheddar cheese
2 cups (7 ounces) elbow macaroni, cooked and drained
¼ cup buttery cracker crumbs
Paprika

Yields 4 servings.

Preparation Time: 5 to 10 minutes

Cooking Time: 9½ to 13½ minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Place butter or margarine in 2-quart microwave-safe casserole and microwave, uncovered, until melted (about 30 seconds). Blend in flour and seasonings to make a smooth paste, then microwave about 30 seconds longer, or until mixture bubbles.

Add milk in a slow stream, stirring constantly. Microwave 4 to 7 minutes, stirring every minute, until sauce is thickened. Add cheese and microwave 30 seconds, then remove from oven and stir until cheese is melted and sauce is smooth. Fold in cooked macaroni, then top with cracker crumbs and sprinkle lightly with paprika. Microwave 4 to 5 minutes longer, or until heated through, rotating dish ¼ turn halfway through cooking time.

AUGUST MOON CHICKEN

1 (10½-ounce) can condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 (5-ounce) cans cooked chunk chicken
1 cup frozen chopped broccoli, thawed
1 cup frozen cauliflowerets, thawed
1 (4-ounce) can mushroom stems and pieces, drained
½ cup sliced water chestnuts
1 teaspoon soy sauce
½ teaspoon each pepper and dried thyme
Cooked rice

Yields 3 to 4 servings.

Preparation Time: 5 to 10 minutes

Cooking Time: 5 to 8 minutes (plus 3 minutes standing time)

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Combine all ingredients except rice in 1½-quart microwave-safe casserole; stir. Cover and microwave 5 to 8 minutes, stirring every 3 minutes, until heated through. Let stand, covered, 3 minutes before serving over hot cooked rice.

EASY WHITE SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon white pepper
1 cup milk

Yields about 1 cup sauce.

Preparation Time: 5 minutes

Cooking Time: 4½ to 6½ minutes

Oven Setting: HIGH (100 percent power)

Place butter in 2-cup glass measure or other container. Microwave about 30 seconds, or until melted. Blend in flour, salt and pepper, then gradually blend in milk. Microwave, uncovered, 4 to 6 minutes, stirring every minute, until sauce is thickened. Beat with wire whisk, if necessary, until smooth.

Wine Talk

By Richard Nalley

Why not chenin blanc?

A good, dry chenin blanc has so much of what is appealing in inexpensive chardonnay — such as crispness and delicate, clean fruit flavors — that it's hard to understand why price-conscious chardonnay lovers turn next to wines like sauvignon blanc, which taste nothing at all like chardonnay.

What's more, a California chenin is likely to be several bucks less than a sauvignon blanc. They're having, well, some difficulty in selling the stuff.

With California chardonnays up 30 percent and sauvignon blanc up 26 percent in 1987, according to the trade journal Impact, chenin blancs dropped 4 percent.

Pity the poor chenin blanc. This hardy staple of the American wine business did not even have its correct name recognized until the mid-1950s, after years of being sold under a series of weird aliases.

Chenin blanc has gone under the name "chablis" (which it's not), "pinot blanc" (it's not even a pinot) and, way back when, it was the original "white zinfandel" (negative here, too). It's downright confusing.

The problem is not that chenin blanc doesn't make perfectly respectable, and sometimes exceptional, wine. In the Loire, most famously in the appellation of Vouvray, chenin blanc makes everything from long-lived dessert wines to the very tart, high-acid dry wines of great fragrance and flavor.

California does not yet, at least in my tasting experience, produce a chenin blanc to match the balance of a fine Vouvray. The cold fermentation techniques now used for many California chenin blancs, however, are a step in the right direction. Reducing the temperature allows the winemaker to slow fermentation down and lock in chenin blanc's distinctive fruit flavors that might otherwise be dissipated.

Chenin blanc's major problem is cachet — it doesn't have any. A bountiful producer on the vine, chenin blanc has long been associated with such jug wine fillers as French colombard rather than with more prestigious French-derived grapes like chardonnay.

It is probably true that chenin blanc does not, except in rare cases, make a wine with the elegance and complexity of a fine chardonnay, but most budget-priced chardonnays are not connoisseur's wines themselves. Better a well-made drier-style chenin blanc with plenty of fresh, lively flavor than a bland chardonnay, particularly at the savings.

Recently tasted:

Louis Martini 1987 Chenin Blanc, Napa Valley ($6.15). Ripe and viscous-textured, though firm, with pearlike aroma and flavors that broaden out and become floral with some time in the glass.

Villa Mt. Eden 1986 Chenin Blanc, "Dry" Napa Valley ($5.99). Nice and crisp with plenty of acidity to support the delicate pear flavors and the tropical fruit that mingle in with the finish.

Cassayre-Forni 1980 Chenin Blanc, Napa Valley ($9.99). I picked this 8-year-old up at a wine shop for this column to see if chenin blanc would age gracefully. I will admit my expectations were not high.

After wrestling the stubborn cork to two falls or a TV time limit, I got my answer: It's a beauty. Bright gold, without a tinge of brown, the wine is still plenty crisp — apparently in its prime — with rich, ripe apricot and peach flavors that linger in the back of the mouth. Check it out.

Guenoc 1986 Chenin Blanc, Guenoc Valley ($5.50). If you haven't seen the Guenoc Valley appellation before (it laps slightly over from Lake County into northern Napa County) it may be because the Magoun family that owns Guenoc Winery owns the whole sprawling valley. This is one of the very few California wineries with a viticultural appellation all its own.

The wine shows an appealing gewürztraminerlike spice and perfume in the nose that carries over into the mouth, along with a touch of pencil-shaving oak and some ripe tropical fruit.

Parducci 1986 Chenin Blanc, Mendocino County ($5.69). Off-dry, it seems sweeter at first than it is because of its ripe fruit and full body. There is nearly enough acidity to carry it off, along with citrus and ripe pear. It's not exactly elegant, but it won't put you to sleep either. Drink over the next year.

Robert Mondavi 1986 Chenin Blanc, Napa Valley ($7.99). Off-dry and quite peachy but without any peach tartness, thick-textured and nicely put together. Tasty but not particularly distinctive.

Summer's last hurrah

By Melanie Barnard
and Brooke Dojny

Labor Day is a bittersweet holiday. It signals with finality the end of the lazy days of summer and at the same time heralds the beginning of fresh, cool and invigorating weather just ahead.

For those of us with children, Labor Day is the real New Year's Day. It is the beginning of another round of car-pooling, a new schedule of PTA meetings and teacher conferences, and a time to put away the bathing suits and get out the school clothes.

But all of that happens "after Labor Day." This, the weekend of summer's last hurrah, is a time when we like to wind down with last big windup. We almost always throw a party that includes such guests as the kids' friends who have been away at camp, the neighbors who just came back from vacation, and the relatives we didn't see all summer.

Because Labor Day always seems to be a real scorcher, at least in our part of the country, we like to make our bash as cool and simple as possible. Even grilling burgers, which entails building the fire and standing over the hot coals, seems like too much "labor." Instead, we like to make our meal ahead and set it out on a big picnic table for an hour where folks can pick and choose.

Fried chicken is quite often the centerpiece, both for its make-ahead qualities, and for its universal appeal. The rules for creating this, one of the best of native American dishes, are few and simple — but very strict.

Soak the chicken in buttermilk to tenderize and flavor. Season the flour very well and coat the chicken lightly, but completely. Use fresh oil and heat it hot.

The rest of our picnic is usually as big or as small as there are friends who are willing to contribute. We never turn down a "what can I bring" on Labor Day. Some suggestions are deviled eggs, biscuits, potato salad, coleslaw.

A particularly easy, colorful and tasty buffet vegetable dish is our Marinated Two-Bean Salad that combines the crunch of fresh green beans with the savory richness of canned kidney beans in a sweet and sour dressing that is a tangy complement to the chicken.

Take it easy and enjoy this holiday remembering that it is a commemoration to the "labor" of the home cook, too.

OUR FAVORITE FRIED CHICKEN

- 1 (2½- to 3-pound) frying chicken, cut in 8 pieces
- 2 cups buttermilk
- ½ teaspoon Tabasco sauce
- ¼ cup flour

½ cup yellow cornmeal
1 teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon black pepper
Vegetable oil for frying

Yields 4 servings.
Preparation and cooking time:
30 minutes.

Place chicken pieces in large bowl and pour buttermilk and Tabasco over them. Turn chicken so that it is evenly coated with milk, cover and let stand 10 minutes at room temperature or refrigerate up to 8 hours, turning once or twice.

When ready to cook chicken, pour off and discard buttermilk, but do not dry chicken. Heat about ½ inch oil in 2 large skillets (preferably cast iron), set over medium-high heat.

Combine flour, cornmeal, salt and pepper in paper or plastic bag and shake damp chicken pieces in seasoned flour. Shake off any excess coating.

When oil is hot, arrange chicken pieces in single layer in skillets and fry, uncovered, until crusty deep golden brown and meat is no longer pink near bone when pierced with point of knife. Breast and wing pieces will take about 18 minutes, thighs and drumsticks will take about 22 minutes. Regulate heat so chicken does not burn during cooking. Remove chicken with tongs and drain on paper towels.

Serve chicken hot or at room temperature. If cooled chicken begins to get soggy, re-crisp for about 10 minutes in single layer in a 400°F oven.

MARINATED TWO-BEAN SALAD

Salad:
8 ounces fresh green beans
1 (16-ounce) can kidney beans
½ cup coarsely chopped red onion
Dressing:
4 tablespoons cider vinegar
4 teaspoons sugar
1½ teaspoons Dijon mustard
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon Tabasco sauce
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 tablespoon minced parsley
Romaine lettuce leaves

Yields 4 to 6 servings.
Preparation time: 15 minutes.
Marinating time: 20 minutes or more.

To make salad, trim green beans and cut in 1½-inch diagonal lengths. Cook in about ½ inch of salted water in microwave oven for 3-4 minutes or on range top covered in boiling salted water for 5-6 minutes until crisp-tender. Drain in colander and run under cold water to stop cooking. Place in mixing bowl. Drain kidney beans into colander and rinse under cold water. Add to mixing bowl along with onion.

To make dressing, whisk together vinegar, sugar, mustard, salt, pepper and Tabasco. Whisk in oil and parsley.

Pour dressing over beans and toss to combine well. Let stand at least 20 minutes at room temperature or refrigerate up to 24 hours before serving.

Serve either from a romaine-lettuce-lined decorative bowl or individually on plates lined with lettuce.

Ears to you — golden summer corn

When shopping for fresh corn, avoid (if you can) those displays where ears are piled one over another in a giant mound. Corn breathes and gives off its own heat, and when stacked for too long in a mini-mountain, there's enough heat present to convert corn's sugar into starch — changing the flavor in the process.

How should you store fresh corn? You shouldn't. If you can help it.

The minute an ear is picked, those sweet, tender kernels begin to lose their appeal as corn's sugar converts to starch. So use as soon as you can after purchase for best flavor. If you must, store briefly in the fridge and use as soon as possible thereafter (do not remove husks and silk until just before cooking).

To barbecue corn in the husk, carefully peel back husks, leaving base attached. Remove silk, spread kernels with margarine and season, if desired, with salt, pepper, and herbs. Pull husks back over corn, gather top end of husks and tie tightly with string. Toss on the "barbie," and grill, turning frequently, 20 to 30 minutes, or until tender.

To microwave fresh corn on the cob, remove outer husks leaving inner ones intact. Peel these back gently, remove silk, and rinse under cold running water. Peel inner husks back over corn and tie with string. Arrange ears spoke-fashion on floor of oven and microwave on 100 percent power setting four to six minutes. Rearrange and turn corn once or twice during cooking time.

Following are some delicious ways to show off fresh corn (you can use frozen, of course, if fresh is scarce).

MOCK CORN OYSTERS

1 cup fresh raw corn, cut from the cob
2 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
½ teaspoon each pepper and ground marjoram
½ teaspoon cayenne pepper
½ cup sifted whole-wheat pastry flour
Vegetable oil
Celery salt

Yields about 5 dozen appetizers. In medium mixing bowl combine corn, egg yolks, butter or margarine, and seasonings. Stir in flour, blending well. In separate bowl beat egg whites until they form soft peaks, then fold into corn mixture.

Heat vegetable oil to about 350 F. Drop corn mixture by teaspoons into hot oil and fry until golden. Drain well on paper towels and serve hot, sprinkled lightly with celery salt.

NEW ENGLAND CORN PUDDING

2 cups fresh corn kernels, cut from the cob
1 teaspoon granulated sugar
½ teaspoon each salt and ground nutmeg
½ teaspoon pepper
3 eggs, lightly beaten
2 cups whole milk
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Yields 4 to 6 servings.

Preheat oven to 315 F.

In large mixing bowl combine corn kernels, sugar, salt, nutmeg and pepper; toss. Stir in eggs and set aside.

Combine milk and butter in saucepan and heat only until butter melts. Add to corn mixture.

Turn into lightly buttered 1-quart casserole and sprinkle top lightly with additional pepper and nutmeg. Place casserole dish into a pan of hot water. Bake in preheated oven 1 hour, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

SOPA DE ELOTE

1½ quarts milk
1½ cups fresh corn kernels, cut from the cob
2 tablespoons diced mild green chilies, drained
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Dash each salt and pepper

Yields 4 to 6 servings.

Heat milk over medium-low heat in saucepan (do not boil). Add corn and chilies to hot milk and cook, stirring frequently, about 4 minutes. Add beaten eggs but do not stir. Simmer for several minutes, then beat mixture lightly with a wire whisk. Add the butter and seasonings and stir until butter melts. Serve immediately.

Cooking Corner

Hot off the grill

By Linda Susan Dudley

Labor Day, for much of the country, signals the end of the season for open-air cooking and dining. In fact, Memorial Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day holidays are the biggest days of the year for barbecue-style cooking.

And if you like to grill you're not alone. There are 68 million American households with a barbecue or two and they spend a whopping $6.2 billion on food, grills, barbecue accessories and tools and fuel to cook an estimated 1.4 billion barbecued meals a year. This is the word from the Barbecue Industry Association, which keeps track of such facts.

There's no question that outdoor cooks have upgraded foods for the grill far beyond the routine hot dogs and burgers. Today, a peek at someone's grill might show a wide variety — everything from parchment-steamed fish to smoked-flavored pasta and cheese dishes.

And Joe Famularo, author of "The Joy of Grilling" (Barron's, $21.95), says that's what has updated barbecue into grilling. He believes that grilled foods have become the national cuisine of the United States.

"This is an ancient cooking technique, it's an art, not a science. And that's why it appeals to people," said Famularo.

Famularo said one of the most important things outdoor cooks forget to do is to pre-plan their dinner. "A lot of meats need to be marinated overnight, not to tenderize the meat but to give it different flavors."

Grilling, according to Famularo, is moving inside in increasing numbers. "It's not unusual anymore to include an indoor grill in kitchen remodeling projects," he said.

But indoors or outdoors, by the name barbecue or grilling, this form of cooking still spells good eating.

Here are some recipes to enliven any Labor Day menu.

As a change of pace, consider grilling a whole 10- to 12-pound turkey. It's more festive than hamburgers and less expensive than steak for a crowd. This chili butter for basting the turkey adds a Southwestern touch to the barbecue sauce.

BUTTERFLIED TURKEY WITH CHILI BUTTER

10- to 12-pound turkey, split, and thawed if frozen
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter, melted
 2 cloves fresh garlic, minced
 1 small green chili, seeds removed, minced
 1 teaspoon dried coriander, or 1 tablespoon fresh cilantro, chopped
 1 teaspoon cumin

Yields 8 servings.

Ask butcher to saw through backbone, or split turkey at home with cleaver and poultry shears, spreading turkey as flat as possible.

In small sauceman, melt butter. Add remaining ingredients and heat for 5 minutes.

When coals are at gray-ash stage, arrange coals to ring edge of barbecue. Place turkey on grill, skin-side up. Baste with chili butter. Cover and barbecue for 2 to 2½ hours.

Add fresh briquettes every half-hour, or as needed. Baste with chili butter every 20 minutes.

Note: Turkey may be roasted in 325-degree oven for 2½ to 3 hours, basting occasionally with chili butter.

MARINATED SLICED PORK

1 quart beer
 1 cup soy sauce
 1 teaspoon black pepper
 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
 Sliced pork to equal 12 5-ounce portions; sliced $\frac{1}{4}$ inch thick

Mix all ingredients except pork and marinade pork slices overnight. Grill over coals to desired doneness.

GRILLED CHICKEN BREASTS INTERNATIONALE

1½ teaspoons anise seeds
 ¼ teaspoon cracked black pepper
 ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
 ½ cup frozen tangerine or orange juice concentrate
 3 tablespoons Dijon mustard
 ¼ cup water
 1 tablespoon honey
 1 teaspoon tarragon vinegar
 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
 6-8 boneless, skinless chicken breast halves

Whirl anise seeds, pepper and cinnamon in blender until ground. Add juice concentrate, mustard, water, honey, vinegar and oil. Blend until smooth. Pour over chicken breasts in shallow bowl and marinate in refrigerator for several hours.

Grill chicken breasts over hot coals, brushing with marinade, 4 to 6 minutes on each side, or until springy to the touch. Do not overcook; chicken should be juicy, but not pink in the center.

GRILLED ZUCCHINI, ONION AND ORANGE SLICES

6-8 small zucchini or 4 large zucchini
 3 medium red onions, peeled
 3 oranges
 Olive oil
 Salt and pepper

Yields 6-8 side-dish servings.
 Slice zucchini in half lengthwise. Slice onions and oranges (with rind still attached) in ¼-inch slices. Brush zucchini and onion slices with olive oil. Place zucchini, onion and orange slices on cooking grid and grill over medium coals, 4 minutes on each side. Sprinkle zucchini and onion slices with salt and pepper to taste. Serve immediately.

HICKORY GRILLED COUNTRY PORK RIBS

4 pounds country-style pork ribs, cut into 3- or 4-rib sections
 ¼ cup peanut oil
 ¼ cup soy sauce
 ¼ cup cider vinegar
 ¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
 ¼ cup orange juice
 4 slivers orange zest (3 by $\frac{1}{2}$ inch)
 ¼ cup dry mustard or to taste
 ¼ cup chopped parsley
 3 garlic cloves, minced or pressed
 Salt and freshly ground black pepper

Yields 4 to 6 servings.
 Wipe ribs and put them in glass or ceramic containers in one layer.

Combine all other ingredients, mix well and pour over ribs, coating them completely. Cover and refrigerate for at least 24 hours, turning ribs several times. Bring to room temperature before placing on grill.

Soak 2 cups hickory chips in water for 1 hour. Start fire and, when ready, add drained chips to it. Drain ribs, wiping off marinade with rubber spatula or with hands; reserve marinade. Place ribs on oiled rack about 6 inches above coals and grill 1 to 1½ hours, basting every 10 minutes or so with marinade.

SPICY BARBECUED RIBS

4 to 6 pounds spareribs, cut into serving pieces
 4 quarts boiling water
 1 cup tomato ketchup
 ½ cup tomato juice
 3 tablespoons honey
 2 tablespoons Worcester-shire sauce
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon onion powder
 ¼ teaspoon garlic powder

Yields 4 to 6 servings.
 Place ribs in boiling water; boil 20 minutes. Drain. To prepare sauce, combine ketchup, tomato juice, honey, Worcester-shire sauce, lemon juice, salt, onion powder and garlic powder. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly, reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes.

Place ribs on grill and cook slowly 40 minutes. Turn frequently. Brush ribs with sauce. Continue cooking, brushing with sauce and turning occasionally, 20 minutes or until done. Serve with extra sauce, if desired.

Who says those who cook on the grill can't interject a little nouvelle cuisine into the ingredients? See the following vegetable recipe from "The Joy of Grilling."

GRILLED VEGETABLES WITH GINGER SOY SAUCE

Sauce:
 1 tablespoon peanut oil
 1 tablespoon chili oil
 4 green onions, thinly sliced
 2 tablespoons grated fresh ginger
 ½ cup dry vermouth
 ½ cup soy sauce
Vegetables:
 2 Belgian endive, trimmed and halved lengthwise
 8 large fresh porcini mushrooms (2 to 3 inches in diameter), stemmed
 2 Japanese eggplants, stemmed and cut into $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch-thick lengthwise slices
 ½ cup (or more) olive oil
 Salt and freshly ground pepper

For sauce, heat oils in a skillet, add green onion and ginger and sauté over medium heat until onion softens. Add vermouth and soy sauce and bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer for a few minutes. Remove from heat and keep warm.

For vegetables, brush each piece with olive oil on both sides; sprinkle with salt and pepper to taste. Grill over a hot fire for 5 to 6 minutes or until tender, turning 2 or 3 times and removing vegetables as they are cooked. Place the cooked pieces on a sheet of heavy foil, off the grill. When all are done, close foil and return to grill for reheating.

To serve, pour sauce onto a warm platter. Arrange grilled vegetables on top in a pattern to suit your fancy.

Author Famularo says these spices sound overpowering but once the meat is grilled, the flavors soften.

SPICE-RUBBED RIB STEAKS

2 prime rib steaks, 2 inches thick, bone in, (1½ pounds each)
 1½ tablespoons dry mustard
 1½ tablespoons paprika
 1½ tablespoons ground coriander
 1½ tablespoons cracked Lampung black pepper (available in food specialty stores)
 1½ teaspoons cayenne pepper
 2 large cloves of garlic, peeled and minced
 2 tablespoons peanut oil
 3 tablespoons cognac
 Salt

Remove excess fat from steaks and score remaining fat to prevent curling. Wipe steaks and place in a large glass or ceramic dish. Bring to room temperature.

Combine spices and garlic in small bowl or bowl of small food processor. Add oil and cognac and mix into a paste. With a rubber spatula, apply $\frac{1}{2}$ of the paste to both sides of the steaks and allow to marinate 2 to 3 hours at room temperature. Keep remaining spice paste at room temperature.

Prepare a fire; when hot, sear steaks 3 inches above heat source on 1 side for 2 minutes. Raise rack to 6 inches above heat and continbe cooking for 8 minutes. Turn meat over and brush some of the remaining paste on the cooked sides. Lower to 3 inches above heat and sear the second sides for 2 minutes. Raise the rack to 6 inches and continue cooking to desired doneness, about 8 more minutes (total grilling time is about 20 minutes). Smear remaining paste on second sides. Let meat rest for a couple of minutes. Season with salt.

Cut meat off bones and place bones on one side of large platter. Slice both steaks thinly; overlap slices on the same platter and serve.

Cookbook offers ingenuity in diet fare

"Weight Watchers Quick and Easy Menu Cookbook," New American Library; $17.95.

Hot Buttered Rum with Lemon-Cream Cheese Cookies — this is a diet cookbook?

Yes, as a matter of fact, it is. And not just from any advocate of skinniness but from the General Motors of the svelte figure — Weight Watchers International. This year the company, a unit of the Heinz organization, marks its 25th anniversary.

I found the book confusingly arranged. The recipes are listed under monthly headings, presumably to help the cook take advantage of seasonal crops. But I doubt that anyone uses a cookbook this way.

Here are the two recipes that originally caught my eye.

LEMON-CREAM CHEESE COOKIES

1 egg, beaten, divided
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup plus 2 teaspoons granulated sugar, divided
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup each cream cheese, divided, and sweet butter
1 teaspoon lemon juice
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon grated lemon peel, divided
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup plus 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
2 graham crackers (2½-inch squares), made into crumbs
1 teaspoon sour cream

Yields 8 servings, 2 cookies each, 135 calories per serving.

Measure out and reserve 1 tablespoon egg. In mixing bowl combine $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar with 2 tablespoons cream cheese, the butter and lemon juice, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon lemon peel, and all but reserved egg; using electric mixer at medium speed, beat until creamy. In small mixing bowl combine flour and baking powder; add to cream cheese mixture and stir until blended. Form dough into a ball, wrap in plastic wrap, and freeze for 30 minutes.

On paper plate spread graham cracker crumbs. Divide dough into 16 equal portions and, using hands, shape each portion into a ball, then roll in crumbs; arrange balls on non-stick cookie sheet, leaving a space of about 1½ inches between each. Using fingers, gently press center of each ball, making an indentation in each cookie; transfer to refrigerator.

Preheat oven to 350 F. In small bowl combine remaining 2 tablespoons cream cheese, reserved tablespoon egg, remaining $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon lemon peel, and the sour cream, mixing until smooth. Remove cookies from refrigerator and spoon an equal amount of cream cheese mixture into each indentation. Sprinkle $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon sugar over each cookie and bake in middle of center oven rack until edges of cookies are lightly browned, 15 to 20 minutes. Transfer to wire rack and let cool.

HOT BUTTERED RUM

1 tablespoon firmly packed dark brown sugar
2 teaspoons whipped sweet butter
Dash ground cloves
Zest of 1 small orange, removed in 1 long piece, then cut in half*
1 cinnamon stick (10 inches), broken in half*
6 whole cloves
1 cup brewed tea (hot)
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup unfermented apple cider or apple juice (no sugar added)
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup dark rum

Yields 2 servings, 120 calories each.

In small bowl combine sugar, butter and ground cloves, mixing until well blended; set aside. Wrap each strip of orange zest around each cinnamon stick and insert 3 whole cloves into each strip of zest. Trim zest if necessary.

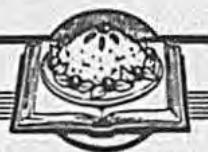

Into each of 2 8-ounce mugs place 1 prepared cinnamon stick and any remaining orange zest; add $\frac{1}{4}$ cup tea, one-third cup apple cider (or juice), and 2 tablespoons rum and stir to combine. Top each portion with half of the sugar-butter mixture; serve immediately.

Each serving provides: 1 Fruit Exchange, 120 Optional Calories.

Per serving: 166 calories: 0.3 grams protein, 2 grams fat; 20 grams carbohydrate; 54 milligrams calcium; 6 milligrams sodium; 5 milligrams cholesterol.

*The zest of the orange is the peel without any of the pith (white membrane). To remove zest from orange, use a zester or vegetable peeler; wrap orange in plastic wrap and refrigerate for use at another time.

* If 10-inch cinnamon stick is not available, substitute 2 2-inch cinnamon sticks.

Sunset Books lights fire under bored barbecueurs

By Verne Palmer

"Sunset Barbecue Cookbook" by the editors of Sunset Books and Sunset Magazine (Lane Publishing Co. $6.95).

If barbecue boredom is threatening, Sunset Books has a jewel of an answer for beginning grillers and their more seasoned compatriots alike.

This revised and updated version of Sunset's best-selling standard offers all the basic needs to get a neophyte from first fire to dinner table and enough fresh and intriguing recipes (175) to keep a veteran grilling all year long.

The information/reference sections: barbecue basics; marinades, sauces and butters; grilled appetizers; fuels, and grilling fruits and vegetables are wonderfully organized and easy to use — though why they're interspersed within the recipes is something of a puzzle.

The recipes are divided into beef, lamb, pork, fish, poultry and all-occasion patio party menu sections. All the old favorites are there, but they've been given interest-renewing new interpretations. Hamburgers, for instance, appear in ethnic dress and at least two are offered in platter-size versions.

For the more adventuresome there are such innovative ideas as pine nut-stuffed lamb chops, skirt steaks with fresh herbs, apple-glazed pork loin, Merida-style spareribs, pork and melon skewers, lemony skewered fish and vegetables, grilled scallops with ginger-lime sauce, garlic orange chicken, turkey steaks with cashew butter and on ad infinitum.

The book's 96 pages are nicely illustrated with drawings and full-color photos alike, and the recipes are well laid out and easy to follow. A sample selection follows.

PINE NUT-STUFFED LAMB CHOPS

8 lamb rib or loin chops, cut 1 inch thick
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons lemon juice
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon each oregano leaves, salt and pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup pine nuts
1 clove garlic, minced or pressed
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
3 tablespoons each finely minced green onions (including tops) and finely minced parsley

With sharp knife, cut horizontal pocket in each lamb chop, starting at fat edge and cutting to bone. Set chops aside.

Melt butter in small frying pan. Transfer 1 tablespoon of melted butter to small bowl and stir in lemon juice, oregano, salt and pepper; set aside. Add pine nuts and garlic to remaining melted butter in pan. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until nuts are golden brown. Remove from heat; stir in lemon peel, onions and parsley.

Stuff $\frac{1}{4}$ of pine nuts mixture (about 1 rounded tablespoon) into pocket of each chop. Lightly brush both sides of chops with some of lemon juice mixture. Place chops on lightly greased grill 4 to 6 inches above solid bed of hot coals. Cook, turning once, until chops are well-browned on outside but still pink in center; cut to test (8 to 10 minutes).

To serve, drizzle chops with remaining lemon juice mixture.

Makes 4 to 8 servings.

APPLE-GLAZED PORK LOIN

1 (4-pound) pork loin roast
1 cup apple juice
3 tablespoons soy sauce
1 clove garlic, minced or pressed
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon ground ginger
1 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoons each cornstarch and water

Barbecue pork by indirect heat, placing pork on grill directly above drip pan. Cover barbecue and adjust dampers as necessary to maintain even heat.

In bowl, stir together apple juice, soy, garlic and ginger. After meat has cooked for 1 hour, baste with apple juice mixture. Continue to cook, basting frequently, until meat thermometer inserted in thickest part (not touching bone) registers 170 F (30 to 60 more minutes).

Let meat stand while you prepare sauce. To make sauce, skim and discard fat from pan drippings. In small pan combine drippings and remaining apple juice mixture. Stir together cornstarch and water; pour into pan. Bring to boil over high heat; boil, stirring, until sauce is thickened.

To serve, cut roast into individual chops. Pass sauce at table to spoon over individual portions.

Makes about 6 servings.

Fresh herbs add a tantalizing aroma and flavor to barbecued meat. The heat of the coals releases the herbs' volatile oils, which are absorbed by the meat juices during the grilling.

Cover-ups for ugly fireplaces

ATTRACTIVE COVER-UP — Tired of that used brick? Ceramic tile and/or wood can be an attractive cover-up for aging fireplaces. Design by Watts Industries.

Q: Our used-brick fireplace in the living room is at odds with our modern tastes and contemporary artwork.

How can we make it less an eyesore? — N.V.

A: Of course, the least expensive, quick-and-dirty solution is to paint it out. By painting the fireplace the same color as the surrounding walls, you can make it almost disappear and serve as an innocuous background for your contemporary art.

If your budget permits, you might like to try a more ambitious solution such as the one pictured. The brick facing can be mudded and a new surface of ceramic tile added on top.

Actually, this same tactic can be used with a variety of materials: wood or wood paneling, marble, slate, even stainless steel. You might consider a combination of materials such as the one pic-

A: There are a number of techniques that can be used to achieve a whitewashed effect on wood, but the conventional process is complex and best done by professionals.

First, the wood must be stripped if it has any finish at all on it.

Then, the wood is bleached in a two-stage process using commercial wood bleach — a caustic acid that can harm your skin. It is important to wear rubber gloves and avoid breathing the fumes.

Next, a neutralizer is applied to stop the action of the acid.

Once the bleaching process is complete you can apply a limed oak stain or any white stain. A finish coat of polyurethane comes last.

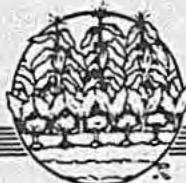

Because of the dangers and difficulty of this process, it is not generally considered a do-it-yourself undertaking.

Rough unfinished wood can be wiped down with plaster to remove the brick. If there is no way you can accommodate the extra inches a cover-up would require, then your best bet is to paint out the brick.

Any of these cover-ups could transform your eyesore into a dramatic and riveting focus for the entire room by making your fireplace a rich background for your contemporary artwork.

The critical issue on deciding to whitewash revolves on whether or not your wood has an existing finish. The stripping process is so time-consuming that it is probably easier either to remove the wood or reface it with new wood (which you can buy already whitewashed!).

Stroll the August garden

Let's take a stroll together through the August garden and gather to ourselves some of its pleasures.

The dahlias are in full bloom, and to keep them coming along freely let's stop to gather some for the house, picking and taking to the compost any spent blooms at the same time.

The ideal way to cut flowers in the garden is to bring along with you a pail of warm water in which to immediately plunge the stems as you cut. The flowers are then conditioned by being placed for a few hours, still in their pail, in a cool, dim spot before being arranged.

However, life being what it is, I often shortcut this sometimes elusive ideal and first fill clean vases in the kitchen to receive the flowers I plan to cut.

To each vase I add a floral preservative or a pinch of water-soluble fertilizer. Then I gather the flowers and arrange them in the vases after I have snipped a bit off their stems and removed their lower leaves.

Dahlias cut for the house, as in the garden, need lots of water so the vases are best filled near the top.

There will be gladioli, also, to cut for the house. These can be harvested when two of the florets are opened. If you cut them at this early point, you will get a lot of mileage from them indoors. As lower flowers open, the upper ones that have begun to wilt can be snipped off.

I usually end up rearranging gladioli two or three times — first in a tall vase with some greenery like asparagus fern to hold them stable; a second time in a lower vase to accommodate the cut-down flower stalks and sometimes a third time as the last florets are floated in a shallow bowl or dish for the table.

Among the perennial flowers there are some spent blooms to cut, as well. The painted daisies need some tidying up. At this point I like to just cut them back a little in a neat symmetrical shape, to leave as much leaf surface intact as possible so the plant will keep working properly, replenishing itself for another fine show next summer.

Once again, there seems to be another crop of new weeds popping up in the perennial bed. I will try to get in there after supper and cultivate lightly around the plants at the same time as I pull weeds and snip spent blooms. From here onward I will be watering a little less opulently in the perennial shrub beds because I like to send these long-term plantings into the fall as lean and mean as possible.

For the same reason, they will not be receiving any more fertilizer. Sending permanent plantings into fall and winter all soft and sappy, overwatered, overfed and overgrown with tender new shoots, is an invitation to disease and winter damage.

I see her and there in the vegetable garden there are a few young dill plants that have sprung from seeds shed from parent plants earlier in the summer. I will snip some of the fresh ferny foliage from them for our salad tonight, and perhaps to top our steamed potatoes rolled in butter.

We like to freeze a little of the fresh green foliage too, both for butter and to mix with sour cream to put on potatoes during the winter.

Chopped chives, salad burnet and chervil are also best frozen, to retain their bright green color and fresh flavor. We lay the finely chopped foliage on a plate or tray to freeze, then place it frozen in small labeled cartons or plastic bags.

If you have a favorite herb mixture — perhaps chives, chervil, sweet marjoram and parsley — freeze them in one bag.

PRAYER IN TRIALS (To be said in great affliction, or when one seems to be deprived of all visible help, and for cases despaired of) MOST holy Apostle St. Jude, faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the name of the traitor who delivered the beloved Master into the hands of His enemies, has caused thee to be forgotten by many but the Church honors and invokes thee universally as the patron of hopeless cases, of things despaired of. Pray for me who am so miserable; make use I implore thee, of that particular privilege accorded to thee, to bring visible and speedy help, where help is almost despaired of. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolations and succor of Heaven in all my necessities, tribulations and sufferings particularly (here make your request) and that I may bless God with thee and all the elect forever. I PROMISE thee, O blessed St. Jude, to be ever mindful of this great favor and I will never cease to honor thee as my special and powerful patron and to do all in my power to encourage devotion to thee. Amen. MAY the most just, most high and most adorable Will of God be in all things done, praised and magnified, forever and ever. Amen. A.S. gcA2

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE Oh Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful and intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depths of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. St. Jude, pray for us all who invoke your aid. Amen. Say 5 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Marys, 3 Glorias. Say for 9 consecutive days. Publication must be promised. This novena has never been known to fail. Thank you for answering my prayers. A.S. gcA2

Personal

MAY THE SACRED HEART OF Jesus be adored, glorified, honored, loved and preserved through the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus pray for us. St. Jude worker of miracles pray for us. St. Jude helper of the hopeless pray for us. Say this prayer nine times a day for nine days. It has never been known to fail. Publication must be promised. I have had my request granted. A.S.A.2

Our Children

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

A contrived approach to teaching honesty

Q: Our teen-age son recently found a lost wallet, returned it intact to the owner, and received a handsome reward.

It was such a good lesson in morality, specifically in the thought that honesty pays, so I'm tempted to plant something lost, or have one of my friends do it. Then perhaps our two younger children can learn the same lesson.

My husband thinks I'm nutty. What's your opinion?

A: I wouldn't go that far, but I am a bit skeptical of your contrived approach to teaching honesty. Besides, there is the danger that they may find out about your involvement.

They probably already know about their older brother's experience, so that was one lesson for them. Others can come from the model provided by their parents for truthfulness, honesty, and the rest of a "do unto others" kind of morality.

Those approaches may all be more effective than the one you suggested.

Q: Cousins of ours have a grown daughter who feels she has no problem, but they believe she does.

Here is the situation: The girl was raised in an Orthodox Jewish home, with strict observations of dietary laws, holidays and sabbaths. The young man she plans to marry is a "born-again Christian," from a family whose beliefs he shares.

The two of them are very much in love and feel strongly they can overcome any potential problems, insisting they are flexible enough to do so.

Both sets of parents disagree. In fact, they agree strongly among the four of them that the marriage is doomed.

The whole issue is driving our cousins frantic, to the point that it seems to consume all their thoughts and totally dominate their conversations.

I'd like to help them, but don't know how. Should I stay out of it and watch them suffer, or what?

A: The parents and their respective son and daughter no doubt need competent, objective professional assistance. They are all involved in a delicate situation that requires the best, perhaps from both of their religious settings, as well as from a family counselor with preparation and experience in matters of this type.

The assistance should be activated as soon as possible, obviously before the wedding.

If you are comfortable in offering this suggestion, that is probably as far as you can go in helping them.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

By William M. Acosta

Do I get a refund on SS taxes paid?

Q: I am 75 years old and have been receiving Social Security for 12 years. About six months ago I started working as a homemaker for the county, helping to assist sick people. I earn about $500 a month in net pay. Social Security taxes are being deducted. Can I get a refund on these taxes, since I am already receiving Social Security benefits? — R.B.

A: Going back to original sources is usually a sound approach. You might want to go to your local library and see whether they have a copy of Maria Montessori's book titled "The Montessori Method."

There are no doubt other useful materials on this subject. That library or one in a nearby college or university that has a teacher preparation program may be able to provide some of them.

Q: Among my happiest childhood experiences were the times I spent in our neighborhood public library, and the joy and pride with which I carried home and read the treasures I borrowed.

For years I forgot those happy moments, but they are now relived through my own children who are 6 and 8 years old. They share my enthusiasm, and I hope they pick up my reading habit that has lasted through so many years.

Until recently I didn't know of the many changes and developments in public libraries. One thing remains the same, however: The love of books and the gentleness, knowledge, and helpfulness of the staff. Their dedication is such a refreshing discovery in the current world of harshness and lack of concern for others.

A: One of the major gifts parents can give their children is the love for books. It can be transmitted especially through the model they provide. Any parent or child who cannot respond with enthusiasm to the question, "Have you read a good book lately?" is being cheated or cheating themselves of one of the major pleasures of life.

Let's not leave out of this picture two other strong contributors of this joy to children: Librarians in their school and their teachers.

Our Children

Q: I give you a dollar amount or a percentage figure on this as each individual record is different.

Q: My wife, age 61, is on Social Security disability. After receiving benefits for two years, she became eligible for Medicare. I am 62 and just recently applied for retirement. How is it that I will not be entitled to Medicare until I am 65? — E.L.S.

A: If all other eligibility conditions are met, Medicare is available three ways: at age 65, after entitlement to Social Security disability benefits for 24 months or if an individual has chronic renal disease (kidney failure). Thus, your wife became entitled earlier than age 65.

Q: I would like to know if it is true that when a veteran applies for Social Security and has his discharge papers in possession, he/she will receive an increase in the monthly Social Security benefit? — J.T.

A: This question continues to cause much confusion. It is possible to receive military credits from September 1940 on, but military credits are not a factor in most claims for monthly benefits.

The military credits may be granted when someone has worked less than the required quarters to be insured for benefits or if the inclusion would increase the monthly benefit. They cannot be granted if that same period of military service is considered in computing a monthly benefit payable by another federal agency (other than the Veterans Administration).

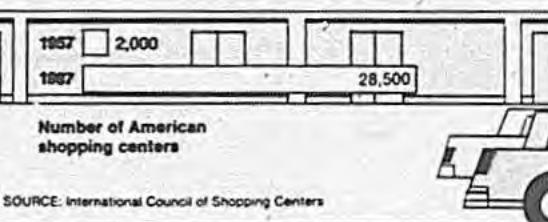

Military service from 1957 on is covered by Social Security.

How can we ensure leak-proof skylight?

Q: We would like to install a skylight to increase the lighting in a family room with an adjoining kitchen.

Our roof is fairly flat and I am concerned that a skylight might leak. Do you have any recommendations? — J.M.

A: A skylight shouldn't leak if it is properly installed, flashed and sealed.

Your flat roofline is somewhat more difficult to deal with than a roof with an incline, due to the slow runoff of rainwater. One solution to this problem is to install a dormerlike structure to house the skylight and mount it at a steeper angle than your roof.

Bubble-shaped skylights are another good choice for flat or gently sloping roofs because their shape is inherently strong and helps to shed water.

Your best bet to avoid problems is to select a high-quality skylight and have it installed by an experienced professional. Choose a skylight that is double-glazed (two layers of plastic or glass). The layers of glazing should not touch at the edges.

Be sure that the skylight has a curb or frame that extends above the roofline. Avoid flush-mounted skylights, particularly on a flat

Q: Our home is 6 years old and our deck is the same age. The deck has already started to have a slightly green appearance and some splintering.

A: Can I use the new deck stain (Koppers Co.) you mentioned in a previous column recommended for pressure-treated wood?

Do I need to do any other preparation work? And will it aid in stopping the wood from splintering? — S.M.

A: You should be able to apply this product successfully.

Prior to staining the wood be sure that it is clean and dry. Weathered or previously stained wood should be washed with plain water and wire-brushed as needed to remove dust and splinters.

To remove grease spots or stubborn grime, scrub wood with a solution of trisodium phosphate and warm water. To remove mildew or moss, add household bleach to the mixture.

On weathered wood you will want to apply two coats of stain. Deck Stain (Kopper Co.) has a water repellent and is formulated to tint and protect all types of wood used outdoors, including pressure-treated lumber. Since it has tint you may want to test a small area prior to proceeding with the application to see if you like the coloring.

Be sure to follow manufacturer's directions carefully in the application of the product. The wood preservatives and water-repellent qualities of this product should help splintering some. However, the type of wood you have would also be a factor.

Q: I have a white lacquered wall system that has yellowed badly over the years. I have tried everything I know of but nothing will remove the stain. Can you suggest what to use to make it white again? — L.H.

A: Many white paints and finishes will yellow with age. This is a chemical reaction and the only way to restore the whiteness is to refinish with a suitable white paint.

If the present finish is lacquer, be sure to choose a paint suitable for covering a lacquered surface.

Q: In the family room of our home there is a gap in the joint where the baseboard and the floor are supposed to meet. I believe that this was a remodeling job by the previous owner.

The flooring is parquet and the owner said that this space was there to give the wood room for expansion with changing moisture conditions. I can't believe that this ugly space can't be sealed without damaging the flooring.

Do you have any suggestions? — S.E.

A: Fasten quarter-round wood molding at the joint, driving long finishing nails at an angle through the opening itself between the flooring and the baseboard, into the timbers behind.

Fastening the molding this way allows movement in the baseboard as well as the floor and still keeps the joint closed.

TWEEN 12 & 20

By Robert Wallace, Ed.D.

anorexia, and that no one can make her eat.

I was asked to stay with Jill just as soon as school lets out for the summer. My aunt is hoping I can talk some sense into Jill.

What exactly is anorexia? What causes it and is it contagious? — Beth.

Beth: Anorexia nervosa is a baffling physiological disease of self-starvation. The most common victims are teen-age girls but the disease can strike anyone. It is not contagious.

The foremost anorexia symptom is substantial weight loss — at least 25 percent of the body weight — often accompanied by loss of menstruation in girls. Many anorectics have been overweight at one point, but once they start dieting, they can't stop. Their attitude about their body becomes distorted so they deny being ill or too thin, no matter how skeletal they become. Even an anorexic who weighs a guesome 70 pounds still sees her stomach as fat.

Ironically, anorectics often are ravenously hungry, obsessed with thoughts of food. They sometimes succumb to wild eating binges. These cause such feelings of self-disgust that they may induce vomiting or take boxes of laxatives (bulimia).

"A typical patient is a teen-age girl who is depressed, weepy, hostile, frequently agitated, and seems to be in constant motion," says Dr. Joseph A. Silverman, associate clinical professor of pediatrics at Columbia University, and a noted expert on anorexia.

"She usually wears heavy sweaters and slacks — not only to mask her emaciation but also to keep warm. All complain of severe constipation."

Still other physical symptoms include rough, darkened skin, the loss of hair from the scalp, and an uncommon growth of long, fine body hairs.

Many doctors feel there is no one cause of the disease, that in each case it results from a complex blend of emotional and physical circumstances. Others are studying the possibility of biological predisposition to anorexia.

Most experts agree, however, that our cultural obsession with thinness has some influence.

Anorectics tend to be "model teens" — extremely obedient perfectionists, often overachievers, who cannot even conceive of misbehaving and who don't go through the natural period of rebellion most children experience.

Beth, make sure you encourage Jill's mom to seek medical as well as psychological help for her. The end result of anorexia nervosa is death by self-starvation.

Answers on insurance and arthritis

Q: How do I find out about insurance for long-term care? — M.V.

A: Long-term care, such as in a nursing home, can run $22,000 to $30,000 per year. Most senior citizens will never be so institutionalized, but it may be a concern to you. There is no real long-term care provision in Medicare, so you must look to the private sector for this type of protection.

Write the Health Insurance Association of America, Dept. MS, 1001 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W., Washington, DC 20004, requesting the free pamphlet, "The Consumer's Guide to Long-Term Care Insurance."

You might also write to insurance companies to learn about this type of insurance, and learn a bit about their own product lines to: "Choice Time," Aetna, P.O. Box 4, Dept. MS, Hartford, CT 06156; and "Coming of Age," John Hancock Insurance, P.O. Box 111, Dept. MS, Boston, MA 02117.

Also check your own professional insurance agent.

Q: I have arthritis and am treating it with daily walking, exercise and a balanced diet. What more should I be doing? — A.G.

A: Do maintain a relationship with your family doctor or a rheumatologist for your professional diagnosis and prescription. Arthritis can be treated effectively and exercise and diet are just part of the best program.

For a package of information about arthritis, so you can learn all you need, write to the American Rheumatism Association, 17 Executive Park Drive, N.E., Ste. 480, Atlanta, GA 30329.

Q: I have arthritis in my hands and have a Dickens of a time dressing myself each day.

What can I do so I am not dependent on others for something as vital as getting dressed? — R.L.

A: Wonderful things are happening for your independence and your style at the same time.

Irwin/Taylor of Rochester, N.Y., is a bright young company headed by Janet Irwin and Pattie Taylor, who produce very stylish clothing where all fasteners are Velcro and, where necessary, there are tuck-away "handles" for pulling on clothes and hosiery.

Their catalog costs $1, but it might be well worth your investment to discover how you can still maintain your independence and feel good about how you look.

For the catalog send $1 to: Irwin/Taylor, P.O. Box 10510, Rochester, NY 14610.

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

By James G. McCollam

How much is my Louis XV armchair worth?

Q: I know that this is a Victorian Revival Louis XV armchair made just before the Civil War. What I need to know is a reasonable value for insurance purposes.

A: Your classification of your chair is exactly right and it appears to be in excellent condition.

It seems to me that $500 would be a fair evaluation for insurance purposes. With a little shopping around you could find a replacement for about that amount.

Q: We have acquired from my family an antique silver serving spoon marked "JC & S" and "EP." What can you tell me about its origin, vintage and value?

A: The markings on your spoon stand for "John Chatterly & Son" (England) and "electroplated." The Chatterlys had factories in London and Birmingham around the turn of the century.

Your serving spoon would sell in an antique shop for about $35 to $45.

Q: When I asked you questions about my fainting couch you told me there was no such thing. Since then I have talked to several dealers and they all say you are wrong. There is such a thing as a fainting couch!

A: Your couch with an armrest at one end only is properly called a lounge, a meridienne, a recamier, a chaise longue, etc. The term "fainting couch" was invented by dealers in the early 20th century.

Can you imagine Rhett Butler going to a store in Atlanta and saying he wanted to buy a fainting couch because Scarlett might faint someday?

Q: Perhaps you can settle an argument. We would like you to define exactly what an antique is. Does the age vary for different things?

A: The government defines an antique for us; it is anything 100 years or more old. As you say, antique automobiles are not that old and gun collectors don't insist on the century mark. However, for technical and legal purposes, an antique is 100 years old.

Q: I never see anything about aluminum ware in your column. Isn't it collectible? If it is, what about some typical prices?

A: In the early days, aluminum was more expensive than gold. By the 1920s a smelting process was developed that made aluminum economical.

The most popular with collectors are the hammered or hand-wrought aluminum pieces. Here are some typical prices:

- Bowl, 10 inches — $20.
- Compote, 5 inches — $15.
- Cocktail shaker — $15.
- Candy dish, glass liner — $25.
- Butter dish, domed cover — $15.
- Ashtray — $5.
- Tray, 8 by 18 inches — $20.

Q: Can you tell me anything about this old plate with the attached mark on the bottom? I am interested in knowing about the maker, its vintage and value.

A: Thomas Minton established a pottery in England during the late 18th century. The mark you provided was used by Minton & Co. in 1841 to 1844.

"Scinde" is the name of the pattern. Your plate would be worth from $35 to $45.

Q: When is it possible to diagnose pregnancy in a dog?

Our dog was seen getting bred by a mongrel about three weeks ago while we were on vacation. We are very anxious to know if she is going to have puppies.

A: Most veterinarians use abdominal palpation to diagnose pregnancy in dogs. This simply means that the veterinarian feels for the puppies through the abdominal wall from the outside.

The optimal time for diagnosis by this means is from the 24th to the 32nd day following breeding. The developing embryos are spherical in shape and are easy to distinguish from other abdominal structures at this time.

The temperature and size of the bitch and the number of fetuses dictate how easy pregnancy diagnosis by abdominal palpation is in any given dog. A nervous bitch often has a tense abdomen, making palpation very difficult.

It is very difficult to palpate the developing embryos in very large dogs such as Great Danes. A small litter, for example one or two puppies, is often carried far forward underneath the rib cage.

Abdominal enlargement is not very apparent until approximately the fifth week of pregnancy in most dogs. Large bitches with small litters often do not show any abdominal enlargement. Enlargement of the mammary glands is variable and cannot be relied upon as a means of diagnosis.

Diagnosis of pregnancy in dogs can be made by evaluating an abdominal X-ray after day 50 of pregnancy. The fetal skeletons are ossified by this time.

Many veterinarians are now using ultrasound as a means to diagnose pregnancy. The developing embryos can be seen as early as 16 to 20 days in some dogs.

Your veterinarian can tell you when he/she is capable of diagnosing pregnancy in your dog.

Q: My veterinarian has diagnosed sidebone in my horse. Although he did not indicate that the sidebone is a serious problem, I am concerned about whether this will eventually cause lameness.

Exactly what is sidebone and does it cause lameness?

A: Sidebone is ossification of the cartilages of the foot of the horse. There are three bones in the foot of the horse, the middle and distal phalanges and the navicular bone.

Attached to the sides of the distal phalange are the cartilages of the foot. "Sidebone" is the term used whenever these cartilages on the sides of the large distal phalange ossify or become bone.

Sidebone occurs most commonly in the front feet of heavy horses.

The cartilages just above the coronary band feel abnormally firm. Both the inside and outside cartilages can be affected. X-ray pictures can be used to confirm the diagnosis.

Lameness resulting from sidebones does occur, but is relatively rare, usually only present during the actual ossification process.

The causes of sidebone is believed to be repeated concussion to the quarters of the feet. The condition may be predisposed to by improper shoeing that inhibits normal physiologic movement of the quarters.

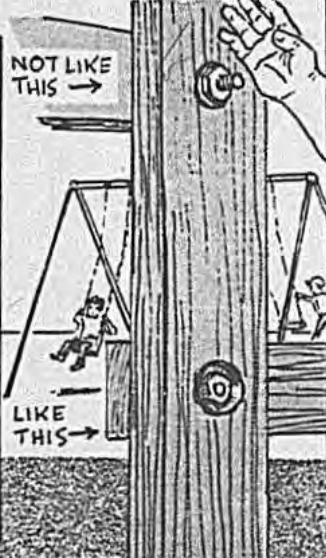

If sidebones are the cause of lameness, corrective shoeing often relieves the condition. It is very important to determine the exact cause of any lameness prior to treatment or corrective shoeing.

Your veterinarian can make suggestions following a thorough lameness examination.

Cubs Enjoy Bowling Party

In June, John Kulaya from Woodbury Lanes Bowl on South Oyster Bay Road, in Hicksville, gave the Cub Scouts from East St. Pack 172 a party. It was great!

The Cubs went to school that day with the excitement of bowling on their minds. After school, we all met at Woodbury Lanes Bowling Alley. Mr. Kulaya waited for us with a smile on his face. Each boy was given a pair of shoes to bowl in and off they went. All you could hear was the smashing of the pins.

The following boys were allowed to play two games, thanks to Mr. Kulaya:

Michael DelBago, Robert DelBago, John Luyster, Kevin Beiner, Nicki Hart, Daniel Caccio, Marc Ferguson, Brian Kurkowski, Jason Stanton, Jared Stanton, Ian Rasmussen, Chris Giarraputo, Greg Walunas, Joshua Bergen, Gregory Arlet, Nick Linnehan, Jason Hammond, Gary Wisnieski, Edward Lynch, Jim Walker, Patrick Walker, Ryan Walker.

It was exciting to see the boys have such a good time. Some of the Cubs had bowled before and some hadn't. Of course this wouldn't have been possible without the help of Pack 172's parents. They stayed to help the boys with the balls and teach them how to keep score. Thank you:

Irma DelBago, Barbara Linnaham, Janet Stanton, Debbie Arlet, Nancy Hammond, Roz Kurkowski, Susan Caccio, Pete and Dee Ferguson, Kathy Walker.

Mr. Kulaya, thank you again for a great afternoon.

Cubmaster Kathy Walker and Barbara Linnehan are having a great time keeping score. Jason Stanton was checking to make sure they are doing it correctly.

Brian Kurkowski and Jason Hammond learned the fine steps of throwing a bowling ball.

Jared Stanton got ready to throw the ball as his mother, Janet Stanton looked on.

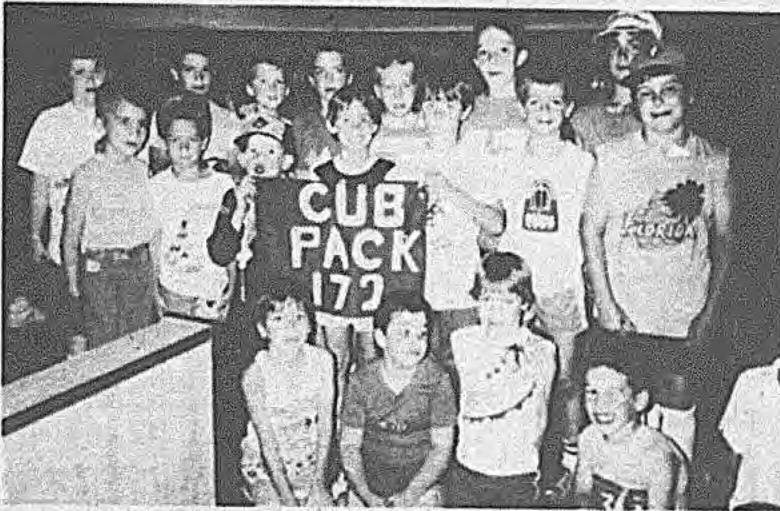

Town Closes Richfield St.

The Oyster Bay Town Board has approved the permanent closing of Richfield Street in Plainview, according to Town Councilwoman Ann R. Ocker. "The Town received a petition signed by residents on Richfield Street, Richfield Court, Willbent Lane and Oakwood Lane requesting that Richfield Street, which had been temporarily barricaded to prohibit through traffic, be permanently closed," Ocker explained. "Following a public hearing on June 21, the Board determined that it would be in the best interests of area residents to close the street at a point approximately 185 feet south of Richfield Court and 28 feet north of Oakwood Lane."

Ocker noted that the existing barricades will be removed and replaced by a permanent dead-end. The area will also be posted with reflective safety markers to indicate that there is no through traffic allowed.

Mr. John welcomes Patrick Walker and Jason Stanton to Woodbury Lanes.

Navymen Serves On New Cruiser

By Richard L. Guga

Lt. Tim Gilbride, son of Thomas and Alice Gilbride of Hicksville, is assigned to the Navy's newest Aegis guided missile cruiser, the Lake Champlain.

The ship is scheduled to be commissioned August 12, in New York Harbor.

Gilbride graduated from Holy Trinity High School in 1978 and C.W. Post College in 1982. He was assigned to the Lake Champlain last January, following a tour aboard the USS Vancouver in San Diego, and Aegis weapons training, also in San Diego.

"I'm responsible for the operation of the Aegis weapons system," he says. "Specifically, I'm the Combat Information Center officer and supervise 35 operations specialists who operate the ship's radars, communications equipment and various weapons systems."

Gilbride is justifiably proud of the Lake Champlain, the eleventh in a series of Aegis cruisers, the most technologically advanced ships ever built for the U.S. Navy.

The Aegis combat system, which distinguishes Lake Champlain and her 10 sister cruisers, is the heart of the ship's fighting capability. The Aegis system is an extensive integration of electronic detection, engagement and control equipment. The Lake Champlain is also equipped with a missile-launching system, capable of defense against airborne, surface and subsurface targets.

Gilbride is a "plankowner" on the Lake Champlain. The term dates from the days of wooden sailing ships, when original crew members traditionally were entitled to a plank from the ship's deck upon decommissioning.

Today, the term takes on a different meaning. Modern plunkowners establish a ship's initial operating procedures and routine.

The Lake Champlain is the third Navy ship to commemorate a naval battle fought during the War of 1812.

The first Lake Champlain, commissioned in January 1918, was a cargo vessel that supplied allied troops during World War I. The second Lake Champlain, commissioned in June 1945, was an aircraft carrier that served in the Korean War and during the U.S. blockade of Cuba in 1962. In addition, the aircraft carrier lake Champlain was the primary recovery ship for numerous American space flights in the early 1960's.

The cruiser Lake Champlain will be homeported in San Diego. (Richard L. Guga is a Navy Reserve Journalist, assigned to the Navy Public Affairs Center, Norfolk.)

The Hicksville Medals and Awards Chairman, Ed Kleniewski does it again. Through his efforts Ed was able to attain the United Nations Service Medal with the Korean War Bar for Comrade Carmine Somma. Comrade Somma served with the 45th Infantry Division 279th Reg. Co. E.

Comrade Kleniewski also obtained a new award for Comrade George Hampson. It is the Prisoner of War Medal for service in Europe. Comrade Hampson saw service in North Africa in 1943-44 and was captured in the Invasion of Cassala in Italy. He was a prisoner of war in Stalag-3B for 16 months. He was released in 1945. Comrade Hampson was with the 36th Div. 141st Infantry. Both Comrades received a standing round of applause at the regular meeting of VFW Post 3211.

Comrade Kleniewski stated "Even though it is 35 years after the Cease Fire in Korea, there are many men who have served gallantly for their country and have not been recognized for the service they performed. If any Veteran (he does not have to be a member of any Veterans organization to qualify) thinks he has a Medal or Award due to him, contact Comrade Ed Kleniewski at the Hicksville VFW Post 3211, 320 S. Broadway, and I am sure if you are deserving of it, Ed will do his best to see that you receive it. Comrade Kleniewski has already helped families of deceased Veterans to receive Medals they had earned. Comrade Kleniewski is dedicated to helping the Veteran. Keep up the good work Ed."

Careers Begin At Dowling
Choose Graduate and Undergraduate Degree Programs
Tailored To Career Needs.

■ The B.S. in Computer Science has a strong theoretical, scientific, and mathematical emphasis to prepare graduates for careers as developers of basic computer hardware and systems software technology. The B.S. in Computer Information Systems, which includes the study of systems analysis, systems design and computer programming prepares graduates for positions in accounting, programmers and analysts. By the year 2000, more than 40,000 jobs will be created each year in the computer field.

■ The Master's in Business Administration, developed with the participation of the corporate community, focuses on responsible business leadership with an emphasis on analytical skills to solve management problems.

■ The B.S. in Aeronautics, Aerodynamics and Management, Aeronautics and Applied Mathematics, Airway Science Management, Aircraft Systems Management and Airway Computer Science are six specialized degree offered by Dowling to meet the needs of the transportation and aerospace industries. Dowling is the only college in N.Y. State to offer four year baccalaureate degrees in Aeronautics.

■ The B.S. in Professional and Liberal Studies (B.S. PLS) gives maximum credit upon evaluation - up to 90 of the 120 college credits required for the degree, by combining prior education such as Associate Degree, military or job training and life experience - thus saving months and even years, as well as thousands of dollars.

■ The Bachelor of Business Administration at Dowling offers a choice of major in Accounting, Finance, Management, or Marketing. Each combines a general grounding in business principles with practical course work and is available through either day, evening or weekend classes.

■ The Master of Science in Education is available in Elementary Education, Secondary Education, and Special Education. Those who hold an undergraduate degree and are interested in teaching can obtain certification after pursuing graduate study.

■ The B.A. in Psychology at Dowling College prepares students either for direct work in the field or for more advanced professional training in graduate school. The program offers a scientific study of behavior and an knowledge of the forces that shape human relations.

HARVARD STUDY FINDS KAPLAN BEST SAT PREP.

Reporting the results of an Independent Harvard Study in the Boston Globe, Tuesday, February 9th, Harvard confirmed what we've known all along...

"Analysis of the scores of students using one of four coaching options — Kaplan, Princeton (Review), other schools, or high school — showed the largest point increases among Kaplan students."

If you want the highest SAT score you're capable of, call Kaplan. We're the best. And we're not the only ones who think so.

What should you expect from a college education?

A quality education demands not only a tenacious dedication to high standards, but the ability to meet challenges with inspired solutions. We at Adelphi University are dedicated to helping you unlock your powers of reason and analysis through a pattern of education and the intellectual engagement of your mind.

It's our commitment to you. A commitment to intellect.

True, Distinctive Liberal Learning

At Adelphi, you'll find an academic world dedicated to providing higher learning that you can use—knowledge that will develop your ability to think and use your imagination to create.

You'll discover that through the mastering of the elements of scientific knowledge, you will gain insights to the understanding of social, political and economic problems as well as cultural awareness, through the study of literature and the arts.

You will become learned, accomplished men and women. You will emerge as original thinkers, upon whom the advancement of knowledge and society depends.

An Imaginatively-Integrated Education

Today's challenges have already outstripped the ability of vocational and professional education alone, to provide answers and acceptable solutions to problems. Therefore, we at Adelphi University are developing an imaginatively-integrated curriculum. A carefully balanced approach. A mix of professional education and the insights drawn from the arts and sciences that will foster the understanding and the decision-making skills that together will prepare you for your future profession intelligently and competently.

Adelphi's goal is to prepare the finest educated men and women possible.

An Education for Leadership and for Life

Someone once said, "Universities ought to offer a degree in life." Not a bad idea. It's what we had in mind in our focus on distinctive liberal learning.

For through such liberal learning, you will acquire a powerful capability. A capability to be critical of everything you have learned or ever will learn; a capability without which no one may claim to understand or hope to change the worlds of today and tomorrow; a capability with which Adelphi graduates will become leaders in their professions, successful in their various pursuits, and fulfilled in their personal lives.

Robber Takes Money, Car

Det. Frank Mauro of the 2nd Squad reports the details of a robbery that occurred in Hicksville at 3:50 a.m. August 2.

Raymond Lambiase, 34, of Plainview, was walking to his car parked on West Parkway St. when he was approached from the rear by two unknown male whites. The subjects knocked Lambiase to the ground and demanded his money and the keys to his car. After taking $11, from the victim the subjects fled southbound on Rt. 106 in the victim's 1982 Toyota.

Lambiase refused medical aid for abrasions to his hands and knees.

The Second Squad is continuing the investigation.

College Note

Kim Smith, 8 Sunnyfield Road, Hicksville, is listed on the spring 1988 Dean's List of the School of Management, State University of New York at Binghamton.

Smith, a senior majoring in management, qualified for the Dean's List by being one of the top 50 students in the School, maintaining a grade point average of 3.75 or better during the semester.

At a recent outing at Eisenhower Park, area school children learned about electric safety from Long Island Lighting Company. Some outdoor safety tips to keep in mind while playing this summer: keep kites away from electric lines, never climb power poles, transmission towers or fences around substations, and if you see a downed power line, call LILCO - warn others away. For more information about LILCO's Community Safety Program, call 933-4438.

Social Dance At VFW Hall

Music Students At Disneyworld

By Marie Gunnigle

The students of the Hicksville High School music department are getting ready to begin their Fund Raising activities for their upcoming, May 1989 trip to Disneyworld.

The members of the Band, Chorus, Orchestra, Madrigals and Jazz Ensemble have been invited to perform at Disneyworld, Orlando, Florida.

In order to help offset the cost of this trip, the students and Parents Committee, will be sponsoring Five (5) fund raising events. Look for the first fund raiser right after school begins. The students will be selling colorfully decorated concert tour decks, for $1.00 each.

In early October the students will be selling Mr. Z's Wisconsin

Cheese and Sausage. Gift packs are inexpensive and make wonderful holiday gifts. Orders will be ready for Thanksgiving delivery and reorders will be delivered in time for Christmas.

The three other fund raisers are: a Dream Auction to be held on December 3, a raffle with major prizes, (the drawing will be February 4), and will end with a giant 200 family tag sale on March 18.

The students and teachers will be working hard to prepare for this unique opportunity. We are proud to have our children represent Hicksville. We hope the residents of our community will stand by our students with their full support.

Let's bring the name of Hicksville to the Magic Kingdom!

Greek Festival At Holy Trinity

The Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church of Hicksville will hold its 12th Annual Festival on September 9, 10 and 11.

The event will take place on the church grounds located on Field Avenue, South of Old Country Road and West of South Oyster Bay Road, in Hicksville.

Visit us and enjoy the delicious food and pastries of Greece. Sip its delicious wine. Have fun playing the games. Browse through our boutique, containing jewelry, crafts, records, etc. Most of all share the spirit of being Greek through our music and dance.

Performing through the Festival will be the Hellenic Dancers who are children of our Parish ranging in age from six to eighteen years dressed in their colorful ethnic costumes.

The Church will be open to the public to look at and admire our beautiful new icons, especially the large icon of Platynera which decorates our altar. You will also see an exhibition of all our Educational programs.

Admission to the Festival grounds is free. Free parking at LILCO on New South Road.

The Winthrop Experience

You look at a hospital differently when the patient is your child.

Nobody is ever thrilled with the prospect of becoming a hospital patient. Nobody.

And the feeling is even worse when the patient-to-be is not you, but your child.

That's why we go to such great lengths at Winthrop-University Hospital to prepare young patients — and their parents — for the experience. Our belief is that the more you know about what to expect, the less reason you'll have to be apprehensive about a hospital stay.

To this end, we sponsor an ongoing program of educational tours for children — school classes, Scout groups and the like. "Look. There's nothing to be afraid of," is the message we want to communicate.

Once they watch how a cast is applied or see how X-Rays help doctors make people healthy again, a hospital starts to look less mysterious and more, well, hospitable.

Pre-Admission Visit

For those whose hospital trip is more imminent, we offer a pre-admission "teaching session." A nurse will put the patient-to-be, and the parents, at ease by familiarizing them with the facilities and introducing some of the people who will soon be a part of the getting-well process.

Then a videotape featuring Mr. Rogers gently reassures the child about what happens in a hospital. The result is less anxiety, which can lead to a speedier recovery.

Any questions? We'll do our best to explain anything that's on your mind.

Every effort is made on our part to avoid the necessity for remaining in the hospital overnight. Many of the procedures that once required several days recovery can now be completed in the morning with the patient well enough to go home by evening.

Parents May Remain

When this is not possible, arrangements can be made for parents to sleep in the room with the child during the recovery period. We recognize that this can help a child to relax and often satisfies a parent's peace of mind as well.

However, our paramount obligation is to make certain that every patient receives absolutely superior-quality medical care. Here our reputation is among the highest in the country. Every aspect of our pediatric care is overseen by a senior specialist of extraordinary ability and wide professional renown. Our teaching affiliation with SUNY Stony Brook further assures a consistently high level of treatment. And in backup is a full complement of state-of-the-art technological equipment that enhances all these personal and professional skills.

Every effort is made to help parents feel confident about the care and concern that Winthrop offers their child.

In other words, you're in superb hands at Winthrop and this is what matters most. Hospitalizing a child is never easy but when it becomes necessary, you want to — you must — feel totally confident in any decision you make.

As you see, everything we do for our young patients and their parents is done with this in mind.

If you'd like to know more, we'll be glad to send you information on our hospital tours and pediatrics pre-admissions briefings. We'll also include the names of physicians on our pediatrics staff. Write to Dept L812, Office of Community Affairs.
