Officials Attend "Night Out"

'Faces Of China' At Library

A slide/lecture, "Faces of China" will be presented at the Hicksville Public Library on Wednesday, September 6, 1989 at 8 p.m. Free and all welcome.

Come to China, an ancient country shaped by the great dynasties such as the Tang and the Ming, a nation that has served as the source of civilization in the East. Visit Beijing, formerly called Peking, where we will see the Forbidden City and the Great Wall that once guarded China against invasions. Visit Xian and see excavations of life-sized terra cotta statues of an army buried with the first great Chinese Emperor who died in 210 B.C., see Datong, a coal mining center, Taiyuan, Guangzhou, formerly called Canton, and Shanghai - a major port and the largest city in China. Visit Hong Kong, an electrifying mix of Asia and Europe, of Chinese and British cultures.

There are scenes of people at work and play integrated with the ethnic music of China, some of it recorded on the spot. This is a slide-tape show that opens up the heart of China.

Citizen's Van At The Library

Tuesday, September 5, from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m., The Nassau County Citizen's Service Van will be at the Hicksville Public Library.

46 Depts. Due Here For Labor Day Weekend

By Michele Coyle

The Hicksville Fire Department will be hosting over 46 fire departments from Long Island to Washington State during the upcoming Labor Day weekend.

The 61st annual old fashion tournament and drill kicks off Labor Day weekend at 9 a.m. Saturday morning. Approximately 15 units will be participating in contests requiring only man power at the West Barclay Street Tournament course. Contests include pulling carts with hoses and hitting targets with a stream of water and ladder climbing.

The festivities continue at 4 p.m., on Sunday when over 30 marching bands and seven fire department divisions march from fire headquarters on East Marie Street to Jerusalem Avenue down Old Country Road and over to Broadway during the Labor Day Parade. Grand Marshal Lieutenant Robert Becker and honorary Grand Marshal, ex-captain and commissioner Michael Kruppenacker will continue to lead the departments, some from New Hampshire. Upstate New York and Connecticut to Broadway, West John Street and Newbridge Road before ending up on West Barclay Street.

On Monday morning at 9 a.m., the motorized tournament begins at the West Barclay Street tournament course. Seventeen departments are registered to participate.

There is a small entry fee to view the tournaments. Bleacher seating for 5000 people is available.

Hicksville, Plainview Dist. Assessed Values Up

Assessed values, the amount real estate is valued at in the Hicksville school district increased 2.947 percent this year. The total assessed value of the school district is $125,665,156.

An increase in the valuation of the district offsets some of the increases in the school budget because it represents new construction to help share the tax burden.

Last year's total assessed valuation of the district was $122,066,156. In the Plainview School District the assessed valuation increased by 1.402 percent to $83,560,687 from $82,404,585 the year before. The Old Bethpage School District increased 1.027 percent from $12,980,458 to $13,113,896. The combined school district showed a 1.351 percent increase.

Local Church Hosts Blood Drive

Trinity Lutheran Church in Hicksville is hosting their semi-annual blood drive on Sept. 17. It will be held in the church gym, located at 40 West Nicholas Street, between 8:30 a.m., and 1:30 p.m.

The need for blood is constant all year round. Approximately 700 pints of blood is needed on a daily basis to fill the needs of 42 hospitals throughout Long Island and Eastern Queens. Only four percent of people able to donate blood do, so the difference must be met with blood imported from Europe.

Donating blood is rewarding, easy, and requires just an hour of your time. With one donation, five different people will benefit.

For example, your platelets may give a child with leukemia a chance to live, while your red blood cells may help an accident victim recover.

All equipment used to draw blood is sterile and disposable and used only once. The actual donation takes less than ten minutes and normal activity can be resumed shortly afterwards. The whole procedure from registration, medical screening, donation, and refreshments afterwards, takes one hour.

Anyone between 17 and 76, weighing at least 110 pounds, and in general good health is encouraged to donate. For further information, call Long Island Blood Services at 752-7300.

Editor's Notebook

Sadly, New York State has one of the highest infant mortality rates in the nation. Happily, something is being done to change that shameful statistic.

Under a new law approved by the Legislature this year, access to prenatal care in New York will be greatly expanded. Prenatal care can save lives.

Beginning in January, the expanded prenatal care law will extend Medicaid funding to 68,000 low income women. That's more than double the number now being served. It will also boost the $29.6 million New York now spends on prenatal services to $160 million next year in order to provide necessary medical help to more women and their babies.

Under current standards, women lose eligibility for these Medicaid funds when their income exceeds the federal poverty level. The new expanded eligibility will cover women with incomes nearly twice that level. Half the money will come from the federal government, which will ease the burden placed on local taxpayers.

Until now, thousands of pregnant women in New York State lacked quality health care for themselves and their newborn children. By greatly increasing the number of women we can reach with vital prenatal care, we decrease the number of infants born too early, too small or too sick. At the same time, we also lower the high cost of caring for infants.

The more we increase essential health care for needy women, the more we do to insure their infants will have a healthy beginning in life. This is surely one case where an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Nassau County Executive Thomas S. Gulotta, third from right, greets summer interns, working for the summer in various departments of the County of Nassau. The interns are seasonally employed in the County, gaining valuable hands-on experience in the operation of County government.

To The Editor:

This is in response to JoAnn Miltenberg and Bill Bennett's letters and Catherine Fenton's non-response to an important question the people had asked about the Robert Izzo issue.

The first sentence of Mrs. Miltenberg's letter states, "In June, innuendos circulated about two new board members being supported by the Teachers Union." The facts are:

1) Over 300 people had shown their support of which only a fraction work for the school district.

2) 2222 people voted for Bill Collins giving him 61 percent of the vote. Mrs. Wolf received 1404 votes giving her only 39 percent.

3) Mr. Martillo received 1747 votes giving him 47.5 percent. Mr. McGovern received 1217 votes giving him 33 percent. Mr. Schwartz received 708 votes giving him 19 percent.

I would think with these figures there is no question that the people are the reason Collins and Martillo are in office, not the teachers.

Mrs. Miltenberg and Mr. Bennett state that certain board members have negotiated a package with the HCT. If that were true, why then do they have totally different figures? Miltenberg's 11.5, 11.7, and 12.4 percent totaling $5,093,900 over a 3 year period. Mr. Bennett's 10.4, 10.7, and 10.6 percent totaling $6,800,000. Figures out of thin air? Maybe a smoke screen to take the heat off the Robert Izzo issue?

That brings me to Catherine Fenton. You never answered the question why you kept the Izzo issue quiet. You stated that you followed procedures dealing with personal matters. However, when it was mentioned that Mr. Izzo was not an employee of the School District, but an employee of Harran Bus Co., you still did not answer an important question.

Why were you keeping the matter quiet about a non-employee? I would think with the high salaries our administrators are getting (taxpayers' money), whose contracts were given by the old board members (18 months early), that someone could give us an answer to the question.

Jo-Ann Broska

To The Editor

I conclude that the current school board controversy revolves around a meeting attended by: Dr. Fenton (Superintendent of Schools), Mr. Gregory Guercio (School District Attorney), and Mr. Mark Cardella (President of the Hicksville Board of Education).

If I am correct, this quote is what the turmoil is all about.

Having been personally involved on numerous occasions in meetings of this nature, this appears to me to be a statement that was provoked and has been blown out of proportion. For people who have been involved in negotiations, this is neither shocking or disturbing. We could all tell some pretty wild stories about "closed door meetings." I tend to believe that this statement has been taken out of context for political reasons, since I am not privy to the entire dialogue that took place that day.

Why an immediate breach of the confidential policy/law by two Board members and the Superintendent?

Letters

The new board president has been quoted as saying "That's what's going to be given to the board. I have four votes for a settlement" at this meeting.

Why attempt to incite an entire community when the answer was a phone call away?

On many occasions, I have been prohibited from speaking at the Public Session of the Board of Education meetings. Mr. Bennett, then Board President, declared that what I was addressing was confidential in nature and part of negotiations, when in fact, it was not.

In light of the fact that this incident was, without a doubt, part of negotiations, New York State School Law, as well as Hicksville School District policy pertaining to confidential information, have been violated.

In my opinion, there is no justification for the hysterical breach of the confidential law/policy, since teacher contract negotiations are still in progress.

Ethically speaking, if I have to abide by the rules as interpreted by the School Board, then so does everyone else. I firmly believe, "what is good for one is good for all." Firm action must be taken for this violation.

This matter appears to be an attempt to sabotage the new Board and also an example of very bad politics.

Very truly yours,
Linda L. Hild, President
Hicksville Teacher Aides Assoc.
Hicksville Homeowner
and Taxpayer

To The Editor:

In their letters, Mrs. Miltenberg and Mr. Bennett make a big deal out of the fact that Mr. Cardella and myself live with our parents and do not own homes in Hicksville.

For the record, Mr. Bennett, State law provides that School Board Trustees must be residents, not homeowners. Therefore, both Mr. Cardella and myself are qualified to run and hold office.

For the record, Mrs. Miltenberg, you state that you are "a homeowner and taxpayer." What you fail to mention is that you were neither a taxpayer nor a homeowner in Hicksville when you were elected School Trustee. You only became a homeowner in March of this year.

You accused Mr. Cardella and myself of not paying taxes in Hicksville, yet you never asked us if we contributed to our respective households.

How, then, can you expect anyone to believe that you pay the taxes on your mother-in-law's house?

Mark J. Cardella, President
Board of Education
Hicksville Public Schools
and

Daniel MacBride, Vice President
Board of Education
Hicksville Public Schools

To The Editor:

Mrs. Lorraine O'Neill's letter in your "Letters to the Editor" made a very interesting observation, why are my percentages and figures different than Mrs. Miltenberg's?

To begin with my percentages of 10.4, 10.7, 10.6 refer to the salary increases of the teachers, that you the taxpayers will be paying, if this agreement is approved. Mrs. Miltenberg was referring to the entire "Salary Package" namely, 11.5, 11.7 &

12.4% and that includes the costs of Inservice courses, Evening H.S., Adult Ed., Dental Insurance, extra-Curricular, Coaches salaries, etc., these costs are over and above the costs of salaries, that you must pay for. Totalling 6.8 million, or 35.6% for the entire salary package.

Mr. Zaleski's letter that appeared along side yours, Mrs. O'Neill, states that "The offer was 7.75% for year one, 7.75% for year two, and 7.75% for year three, plus increment." (The increment is 2.8% Mr. Zaleski).

Now! that's tricky, since the 7.75% is placed on a very complicated Teachers Salary Schedule, where steps and lanes are involved, and that 7.75% generates a percentage salary increase from 10.3% up to 18.9%. The only one getting a 7.75% is the teacher on the "first step" and we haven't any on that step. When you add up all the teacher salary increases (390 teachers) it totals 10.4, 10.7 & 10.6% including increment. If you think this is confusing Mrs. O'Neill, just think how "confused" our inexperienced Board members are, and they approved it.

Oh, yes, one more point, Dr. Fenton did not recommend this Salary Package, as Mr. Zaleski contends. It was produced as a "see what if..." proposal, and the Board majority of Mr. Cardella, Mr. MacBride, Mr. Collins and Mr. Martillo changed "what if" to "let's do it."

And may I make this point clear, I did not violate executive session confidentiality, only the document that Mr. Cardella said he had the four notes on, as stated in the presence of Dr. Fenton and Mr. Guercio, and that document was the HCT Settlement Proposal, which the entire Board did not discuss, prior to August 4.

The question should be asked Mrs. O'Neill, when and how did then Mr. Cardella secure the four votes he said he had on August 4?

Sincerely,
Bill Bennett
Trustee Bd. of Education

Continuing our series dealing with local Houses of Worship, Litmor reporter Maureen Traxler this week highlights the various Jewish synagogues in the area. This is the third installment of a special summer series which concludes next week with Reformed Protestant, National Religious groups and Quakers.

Special Report
By Maureen Traxler

Northeast Nassau County communities are a stronghold for the Jewish faith. There are a number of synagogues or temples servicing members who profess their faith with varying degrees of strictures.

With the advent of the modern age, the Jewish religion saw adaptations to European and American cultures. Out of this came the growth of the different Jewish tendencies - orthodox, conservative and reform. All factions believe in one God and observe the same holy days.

The choice of place of worship for Jews may depend on one's upbringing, personal tendencies, convenience, availability of a Hebrew school, or the religious posture of the rabbi.

The orthodox Jewish congregations are the most stringent, believing in the literal interpretation of the Bible and the absolute authority of the Torah. Strict orthodox Jewish men will always have their head covered and wear a small prayer shawl (sometimes under their clothing), and the women will cover their heads by wearing a shawl or wig. Orthodox men and women sit separately in the temple, and women do not take an active part in the service. Kosher regulations are observed, and the Sabbath is kept as a day of rest.

The conservative Jewish communities are liberal in theology, traditionalist in observance. Conservatives are more open to women; they celebrate bar/bas mitzvah ceremonies. Conservative men, like the orthodox believers, wear yamukas as a sign of respect. Conservative Jews also continue to keep kosher, particularly at the synagogue, although some may not at home.

The most liberal of the three Jewish factions is the reform. In the reform congregation, women rabbis and cantors are permitted. Most reformers do not wear yamukas; they do not observe kosher, and do not believe in the absolute authority of the Torah.

As mentioned earlier, Jewish people seek out the synagogue or temple where they feel most comfortable at worship. For this reason, some may travel to neighboring communities to fulfill their religious needs.

In this week's article, we have reviewed Jewish houses of worship in our readership area. Several synagogues or temples were unable to be contacted due to their summer schedules. We wish to thank all the clergymen, officials and staff members who so graciously provided information.

Congregation Shaarei Zedek, Hicksville

Congregation Shaarei Zedek is the oldest orthodox congregation in Nassau County, incorporated in 1919. Services were conducted in various private homes and halls until a building was built on Barclay and Bay Streets, the site of the present day Elks building. For the high holidays, the congregation meet at the old courthouse on Heitz Place.

In 1964, the congregation moved to its present site, the pagoda-shaped building at Old Country and New South Roads, Hicksville (938-0420).

Congregation Shaarei Zedek is today a relatively small, traditional orthodox congregation with a liberal outlook. Although its present spiritual leader, Rabbi Melvin Sachs is part-time, he has revitalized a variety of social and educational activities for the congregation, which has dwindled in size, due to retirement of elder members and mobility of their children. Plans are now being made to accommodate the expanding numbers of younger orthodox Jewish couples.

The synagogue prides itself that a modern orthodox congregation with all types of individuals of varying Jewish observances, can feel comfortable and that many of their children have become more observant than their parents due to the influence of the rabbis.

Working for the congregation is a bi-monthly organ called "The Ark," and members are also involved in the National Committee of Furtherance of Jewish Education, which is the outreach arm of the Lubavitcher Movement striving to bring Jews to be more committed to their faith.

Through seminars and classes in Jewish teachings, members keep in touch with current events and community affairs. Various community organizations utilize the facilities for their own fundraising events.

In addition to Rabbi Sachs' duties at the synagogue, he serves as a chaplain for the City of New York Department of Corrections and a Hebrew Day School Principal.

Hicksville, Jewish Center, Hicksville

The Hicksville Jewish Center is a small conservative congregation which celebrates 35 years in Hicksville. Its Rabbi is Joseph Grossman and president is Michael Geller. The Center is located on Jerusalem Avenue (681-7030 or 931-9323) and has its charter under the Conservative movement. It is a member of the United Synagogues of America.

The congregation holds services on Friday evenings at 8:30 and Saturday morning at 9:30, and on high holidays. Guests are welcome. Primary Religious Instruction is offered for youngsters age 5 to 7 once a week. Hebrew school begins at age 8 and continues for preparation of Bar/Bas Mitzvah at age 13. There is a strong sisterhood and mens' group, which combines social and fundraising activities.

The center supports a number of community projects, including the Interfaith feeding of the homeless. The Men's club prepares donations to feed the needy families at Passover, and the youth group makes periodic visits to senior citizen homes and hospitals in the area.

President Michael Geller says the Center "provides the community with a conservative synagogue where everyone can find comfort, as well as a social environment to partake in."

Manetto Hill Jewish Center, Plainview

Manetto Hill Jewish Center is a 19-year-old conservative congregation located at 244 Manetto Hill Road, Plainview (935-5454). Rabbi Morris Bernstein describes the synagogue as "an informal group...a young congregation with many members in their early forties...and as having the largest active youth group on Long Island."

The people at Manetto Hill are very involved in all aspects of life at the synagogue. There is no cantor; the members prefer to lead the services. Manetto Hill is an egalitarian organization, allowing women to take an active role.

The congregation actively participates in the Hatzliu Rescue Organization which works with the elderly poor of the New York area. A religious and social evening Selichot is in the planning for Saturday, September 23, to mark the official beginning of the high holy season. A midnight service will culminate the event.

Manetto Hill Jewish Center enjoys a warm relationship with the surrounding non-Jewish and Christian community.

Temple Beth Torah, Westbury

Other area temples and synagogues include: Temple Beth Torah, 243 Cantiague Rock Road, Westbury (334-7979). Beth Torah celebrates Friday evening service at 8:30, Family Service at 8 Saturday morning, Junior Congregation at 9 a.m. and Adult Service at 9:45. Michael Katz, Rabbi; Kalman J. Fliegelman, Cantor; Irving Stone, President.

In Plainview: Plainview Synagogue, 255 Manetto Hill Road (349-0590); Young Israel of Plainview, 132 Southern Parkway (433-4811); and the Olive Tree Congregation, 88 Southern Parkway (939-2277).

Plainview Jewish

The Plainview Jewish Center located at 95 West Floral Drive, Plainview (938-8610), is one of the largest synagogues in the area. This conservative congregation has been servicing the community for more than 38 years; its Senior Rabbi is Julius Goldberg and its Junior Rabbi is Gary Creditor.

The synagogue operates an afternoon Hebrew School during the academic year for youngsters in Kindergarten through 12th grade. It also has a remedial

North Shore Syn

For a little over 36 years, North Shore (Reform) Synagogue has been serving residents in Syosset, Woodbury, Plainview and neighboring communities. The synagogue is located at 83 Mutton-town Road, Syosset (921-2282).

In addition to an active sisterhood and brotherhood, the synagogue is especially mindful of its youth. The synagogue operates a full nursery school program for toddlers to pre-K youngsters. The nursery school, under the direction of Marilyn Seiden, is religious-oriented and

Midway Jewish Center, Syosset

Midway Jewish Center counts its members from Syosset, Woodbury, Plainview, Jericho and Hicksville. The Center operates a religious school consisting of nursery (2½ years) to Pre-K and a Hebrew School for students in grades Kindergarten through 10. A youth group for teens and a summer camp program for pre-schoolers is also conducted on the premises.

Services are on Friday nights and Saturday mornings.

Midway's largest upcoming event is "Project 2000," a fundraiser in the planning for building renovations.

The conservative Jewish community at Midway is located at 330 South Oyster Bay Road, Syosset (938-8390). The Rabbi is Ezra M. Finkelstein; Dr. Felix A. Berger, Director of Religious School.

East Nassau Hebrew Congregation, Syosset

The East Nassau Temple established in 1956 is an interdenominational congregation welcoming Jews of liberal, conservative or reform persuasion. East Nassau is located at 310A South Oyster Bay Road, Syosset (921-1800).

In addition to services, the synagogue offers a Hebrew School and study program. The congregation is active in hosting luncheons for the elderly, and participates in an adult study program with neighboring synagogues.

The building is open to various outside groups, including the Kaplan College study system.

Bethpage Jewish Center, Bethpage

Temple President Bill Mayo describes the Bethpage Jewish Center as having "a very active, family-oriented congregation, where everyone can get involved."

The Bethpage Jewish Center, 600 Broadway (938-7909), has been an institution in the community for many years. After suffering a devastating fire to the sanctuary and social hall some years ago, the majority of the building was basically rebuilt.

The Sisterhood and Men's Club of this conservative congregation sponsor luncheons for older Jewish people, particularly a group from Far Rockaway. There is a young couples' club (combined age must be under 80) for the newly married, childless couples and couples having a first child. The Center has an active youth group, known for its works of charity.

Sunday School is offered for 6 and 7-year olds, where they learn about such things as religious holidays and keeping kosher through song, play and arts and crafts. Hebrew School in preparation for Bar/Bas Mitzvah begins at about age 7. The Center also offers pre-school classes for youngsters accompanied by a parent.

Trivia Nights, Las Vegas Nights, and outside productions and plays take place frequently, and the Center's Annual Bazaar is scheduled for November.

The Center opens its doors to various community organizations, and Rabbi Bruce Ginsberg has been an active participant in the INN (Interfaith Nutritional Network).

Temple Or Elohim, Jericho

Temple Or Elohim, 18 Tobie Lane, Jericho (433-9888), has been serving the community for about 32 years. The temple had its beginning with a small group of families meeting in storefronts and model homes until its current site was purchased. Today, Rabbi Philip Bentley places his congregation of some 440 families on the traditional side of reform.

Temple Or Elohim's Hebrew school comprises Kindergarten through 12th grade, and youngsters are prepared for confirmation at 10th grade.

Meeting monthly, there is an active mens' club, as well as sisterhood. The Temple is egalitarian in its reform persuasion, with men and women completely equal.

For the youth, there is a special group for 5th through 8th grade, and the temple is in a reorganization stage of its high school age group. In its social outreach, Rabbi Bentley says his congregation "is largely concerned with the poor and homeless on Long Island."

The Temple has been very successful in offering various Broadway-type shows and holds a bazaar each year. In addition, the Temple has a Scholars Program whereby personalities accomplished in a particular field perform or lecture. This year's theme, Jews of Italy, will bring to the congregation the music of the Italian Renaissance Jewish composer Solomon Rossi.

Jericho Jewish Center, Jericho

Jericho Jewish Center, located on North Broadway in Jericho, is the oldest and largest conservative synagogue in Jericho with a thirty year history steeped in tradition, fine and innovative Hebrew education and diversified activities geared to the many interests of its congregation. Rabbi Stanley Steinhart and Cantor Israel Goldstein lead the various services including daily minyons, weekly Sabbath Services and observances of every religious holiday with both adult and junior congregation services.

Mr. Samuel Goldberg directs the Center's highly acclaimed Hebrew school, the only one in Jericho accredited by United Synagogue. Hebrew High School classes are also conducted here for conservative youngsters throughout the Long Island area. Carol Greenberg heads JJC's Nursery School and summer camp programs.

Adult education is solidly addressed, with study sessions scheduled both during the day and in the evening on subjects ranging from today's issues to the study of Mishna, the laws of Judaism. New groups are continually encouraged to form as topics and interests of the congregants become expressed.

A very active Sisterhood and Mens' Club provide social and community activities and service projects throughout the year such as food baskets for the poor during Passover and Sisterhood's award winning fundraising for the Jewish Theological Seminary through Torah Fund. Parents' Council is still another congregation arm which serves the children with programs, model seders, a yearly community Purim Carnival and other youth-oriented projects coordinated by Youth Director, Fred Roth.

Other congregation projects involving the community include a yearly Bazaar in early December which attracts buyers from all over Long Island and Queens, Musical Theatre of Jericho which has presented such marvelous productions as "Hello Dolly," "Pajama Game" and "Anything Goes", and an active and successful yearly United Jewish Appeal campaign.

Jerich Jewish Center is on the brink of a renovation and beautification plan which will culminate in a newly re-structured sanctuary with adjacent catering facilities making it one of the most beautiful temples on Long Island. Sondra Stoller, Congregation President, invites all community members to join JJC at a service or in any of its many activities. For further information call the office at 938-2540.

Jerry Spiegel and the Dawson Holding Company were granted a special use permit by the Town of Oyster Bay board on August 15 to construct a one-story retail shopping plaza totalling 147,000 square feet at Willis Court and Bloomingdale Road in Hicksville.

Taken into consideration by the board was that the use of the property was consistent with both social and economic alternatives in the area, minimizing adverse environmental effects, and facts and circumstances adduced at a public hearing in July, last year.

up the environment, for both petitioners. Reports were made on water quality, air quality, traffic, water usage, flora and fauna, and visual resources.

William Gorham Industries, et al petitioned the board in December for a change of zoning to open a Chinese restaurant with a take out counter at the corner of Hazel Street and Bloomingdale Road in Hicksville. Agway petitioned the board in October for a special use permit to operate part of a warehouse as an office on Duffy Avenue in Hicksville.

The board also approved an amended site plan presented by T.B.G. Cogen and Grumman Aerospace Corporation to relocate equipment and construct an additional smoke stack in Bethpage, subject to the required variance for the height of the stack from the Zoning Board of Appeals.

In other business, Supervisor Angelo Delligatti was authorized to enter into a Hold Harmless Agreement with the Hicksville School District so that the Town may use the District's facilities for Town programs. The agreement, necessary in lieu of insurance certificates, will remain in effect for three years.

The original permit was granted last February in order for the forms to construct and operate a co-generation electric and steam plant and backup storage facilities.

Future meetings of the Town of Oyster Bay board include October 3, when the board will hear from Kenny's Cafe and Claddagh Grill, Inc., for a special use permit to enclose a patio and increase seating capacity at its South Oyster Bay Road, Bethpage location; and November 14, when the Exxon Corporation will be heard concerning a special use permit to operate a gas station for extended hours at Broadway and James Street.

In other business, the board accepted the findings of the Environmental Quality Review Commission concerning the environmental impact of petitions by William Gorham Industries, Inc.; Julie Lerman and Alex Shah; and the Agway Petroleum Corp..

The findings of the EQRC constituted negative declarations, causing no significant impact

The next meeting of the board is September 12 at 10 a.m. in Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

INN Moves To Redeemer Lutheran

By Effie Krogmann

I believe it was Shakespeare who said: "The pen is mightier than the sword". So be it.

So now Hicksville's main claim to social philanthropy is moving Eastward. Last week it was announced that the Hicksville I.N.N. was moving from one location to another. For over four years, the hungry and homeless have been fed by the I.N.N. in the Parish House of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church. Now it is time to move on, and Redeemer Lutheran Church on New South Road has agreed to allow this good work to continue there. Redeemer is a relatively small congregation with a relatively large outlook and approach to social outreach. God bless them.

Redeemer has housed AA, a day care center, the Boy Scouts, Overeaters Anonymous, homeless families and individuals and generally speaking has reached out to the community in whatever ways they were able. And, lest anyone believe that their beneficent efforts were always in the direction of the downtrodden, be it known that the children of the neighborhood have long considered Redeemer's parking lot as an official hockey field, residents of the contiguous community park vehicles in the church parking lot, and it is hard to determine whether the property at the rear of the church is used for a driving range or a canine bathroom. And welcome.

The fact that the I.N.N. (Interfaith Nutrition Network) was moving from Trinity to Redeemer was not a carefully kept secret. Announcement was made at several public meetings, and anyone who heard about the move did not hear a "rumor" -- they heard a "fact". Articles were sent to all the local newspapers two weeks ago -- and were published in the most recent issues.

While it is true that citizens have a "right" to know what is being done with public property -- there is no obligation of a property owner to consult his neighbor about every event that is going to take place on that property.

Hicksville residents -- or at least some of them -- believe that, somehow Hicksville has miraculously escaped the blight of homeless and hungry people. This phenomena is happening everywhere else, but if there are hungry and homeless in HICKSVILLE, "they must be bums from the city". Wake up, Hicksville!! They're here-- right in our midst. And on the way to mail a ten dollar bill to ease our conscience about the big-bellied children we see from some far off land on the television-- we trip over the same kind of people on our own doorstep. What hypocrisy!!

The people who are concerned enough to keep the I.N.N. going are giving enough of themselves -- their time and their talents and their assets so that they do not deserve to be maligned by unthinking individuals who are only concerned about themselves and their "possessions". I have personally been called by several of Hicksville's good people, and have actually been threatened by them. Their main problem seems to be the fact that I no longer live in Hicksville. True. I lived in Hicksville for thirty-eight years, and have been in business here for over thirty. I have paid my dues and made my contribution in public service to the community which I will match against anyone else. My business is here. I pay rent here. Some of the people here are my friends. Some people hate me because I usually say what I think --and have the courage of my convictions. And it takes plenty of courage these days!

As one concerned individual remarked, the social needs of the community should really be the obligation of the government. So far our government has not, shall we say, "risen to the occasion". And so the churches have. Does anyone really believe that the people who are fed at the I.N.N. would not change places anytime with the complaining people of the community who are somehow better off, and don't go to bed with an empty stomach?

When the homeless man named "Reuben", whom everyone remembers, I'm sure, was killed in accident-- there was a community outpouring which warmed everyone's heart. It seemed that somehow there really was "love" out there. Do the homeless and hungry have to die before we shed our crocodile tears and murmur over and over again, "We loved them, we really loved them". To those who really need our help, for today I'll say, "There are some of us who love you, and some of us who don't. We all know who said "They know not what they do".

Academy Requests

Deadline Nearing

Congressman Norman F. Lent announced recently that applications for a nomination to the United States military academies will be available to all Fourth Congressional District High School Seniors until November 15.

A request for nomination must be submitted before the Nov. 15 deadline. Upon receipt of all requested information, an applicant will be scheduled for a personal interview. Candidates will be evaluated on the basis of academic performance, leadership ability, and service to the community. Nominees will be notified of their nomination by early 1990, and if appointed, will enter the Class of 1994 at a United States military academy.

This process is open to individuals at least 17, but not yet 22 years of age on July 1 of the year of entrance to the academy. Individuals who are interested in seeking a nomination should write Congressman Lent at 2280 Grand Avenue, Suite 300, Baldwin, N.Y. 11510.

"Each year I am fortunate to be able to afford the young men and women in my District the opportunity to pursue a distinguished career in the service of our country," Lent concluded. "I urge interested individuals to contact my office before the Nov. 15th deadline."
