Kiwanis Welcomes New Members

In the photo, the two newest Kiwanians are shown seated, right to left, Susanne Wischnewsky in front of her sponsor Patricia LeCompte, and Douglas Lake in front of his sponsor Robert McGuinness. Past President Dr. Pastuch is smiling in the rear, happy to see the club continue its growth. (Photo by Sleg Widder)

The Hicksville Kiwanis Club added two new members to its roster at the February 7th luncheon meeting at the Milleridge Inn when Ms. Susanne Wischnewsky and Mr. Douglas Lake became Kiwanians. Ms. Wischnewsky is a Sales Representative with McBee Systems and was sponsored by Patricia LeCompte. Mr. Lake is the District Manager of First Investors Corporation and was sponsored by Robert McGuinness. The privilege of performing as the installing officer at the official ceremony was given to Past President Dr. Keith Pastuch by Kiwanis President Dr. Joseph Lupo. Dr. Pastuch congratulated Ms. Wischnewsky and Mr. Lake on their applying for membership in Kiwanis and explained to them that the "Objects of Kiwanis International" are what Kiwanians follow in their business and private life. After reading these objects to the two applicants, and hearing them say they would adhere to them, Dr. Pastuch welcomed them into Kiwanis.

Shopping Mall Changes Night Hearing Feb. 27

The Oyster Bay Town Board has scheduled a night hearing for Tuesday, February 27, to consider a request for a special use permit to make modifications in a shopping mall in Hicksville, including relocating a movie theatre, it was announced this week by Town Councilman Howard T. Hogan, Jr.

"The applicant, Delco Development/Mid Island Co., are seeking a special use permit to make a number of changes in the Broadway Mall, which is located in a 'G' business zone on North Broadway in Hicksville," Hogan stated. "They include relocating an existing theatre, demolishing the present theatre, converting 21,400 square feet of existing retail space to a 500 seat food court, reconfiguring the existing ring road in certain areas, relocating the bus stop and changing some signage."

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Night Hearing On Zone Change

A public hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday, March 27, by the Oyster Bay Town Board to consider an application for a change of zone in Hicksville, it was announced this week by Town Councilman Leonard B. Symons.

"The applicant, Jerry Spiegel, is seeking a change of zone from 'D' residence to 'F' business district (neighborhood business)," Symons said. "The parcel is located on the north west corner of West John Street and Strong Street in Hicksville."

The meeting will be held in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay, beginning at 8 p.m.

'Golden Touch' At Fork Lane

A number of 5th grade students from Mr. Pisani's class dramatized a well known story for young people. The script they read was entitled, King Midas and the Golden Touch.

The students did an outstanding job! Not only did the cast perfect their speaking parts, but they also designed their costumes and scenery. The special sound effects of utilizing musical instruments was a super touch to the performance.

The students performed in front of Mrs. Rieger's class. Her students include the following: Cara Baum, Michele Bray, Ryan Ferraro, William Jacobsen, Kathleen Larson, Patrick McGowan, Christine O'Connor, Keith Wilcha, and Sean Sullivan. It was a pleasure to perform to such a wonderful audience.

Everyone involved in the production learned a valuable lesson concerning the play, King Midas and the Golden Touch. "It is better to give than to receive."

School Closings Discussed At Open Public Meeting

By Maureen Traizer

In a display of candor not often demonstrated at public meetings, the seven Hicksville School Board trustees opened up to listen to the community and speak their own thoughts on the reorganization of the school district at a special meeting held on February 7. Across from the trustees sat parents, teachers, senior citizens, PTA members, administrators, young and old, all concerned with the welfare of the children and their tax dollars.

Board President Mark Cardella prefaced the meeting agenda by noting that "no action" would be taken that night and that the meeting was being held "strictly for information." All told, the majority of the Board expressed a desire to close two or three schools, re-district the entire student population, and seriously look into moving the sixth grade to the middle school as part of the middle school program. When pressed by administration for names of schools for particular study with an eye on closing, the trustees named "for consideration" all but one elementary school, Lee Avenue.

Superintendent Catherine Fenton delivered a report prepared at the Board's request which offered background information on the prospect of closing elementary buildings. Dr. Fenton's report included a chart which detailed the projected breakdown of class sizes in each building for 1990-91. She pointed out that some schools show classes as large as 27 and 30 students, whereas on the same grade level in other schools, there may be as few as 17 students. "This is where people get the sense of inequity" in class size around the district, Dr. Fenton suggested.

Projected enrollments for 1990-91 show a need for 116 sections for students from kindergarten to sixth grade. At present that would require 108 classrooms and 107.5 teachers. Using the mid-point of a realistic range of students on the kindergarten, primary and intermediate level, the district worked out a mathematically ideal number of sections on each grade level. Coupling this information with the room capacity in each building, the district set up two plans for review. Plan A analyzed the closing of one, two and three schools using the concept of redistricting the entire elementary population. Plan B analyzed the closing of one, two and three schools using the concept of redistributing the children in a closed building to one or two neighboring schools.

Under Plan A, the savings in salaries for 1990-91 (least senior employees districtwide) in any given school, from principal on down to monitors, custodians and office staff would be: Closing one school - $672,318. Closing two schools - $1,335,976, and closing three schools - $1,614,855. Under Plan B, closing one school - $470,800, closing two schools - $1,002,094, and closing three schools - $1,434,543. Dr. Fenton also pointed out that once a building is closed there would be a savings on utilities. The total savings for each building for telephone services, electrical, oil, water and miscellaneous maintenance items would be $36,000.

On the other hand, Dr. Fenton cautioned that savings would not be realized in the budget for equipment and furniture or educational supplies and materials, since basically these materials would move around the district with the children. "The money for materials, supplies and textbooks are done at present by a building per-pupil allocation. The movement of students from one building to the next would only mean that the inventory of supplies would be redistributed to the students' new school," she instructed.

Assistant Superintendent William Hall noted that calculating transportation costs is difficult at this point due to the fact that his office has no hard figures to rely on. He pointed out that by redistricting additional buses will be needed, even after present buses are filled to capacity. Each additional bus will cost the district $42,000 in 1990-91. New York State reimburses the district 90% of transportation costs, but those reimbursements do not come to the district until the year following the expenditure.

Director of Instruction Robert Durso outlined building capacity (grades K through 6) and the impact on the use of the rooms in the buildings under the different plans. Closing one or two buildings under Plan A would still leave 15 to 27 classrooms available. Under Plan B, 4 to 22 classrooms would be left available. But closing three schools under either plan would mean a deficit in rooms available for regular instruction.

Editor's Notebook

The increasing awareness that some elderly persons are physically abused and neglected by family members has been accompanied by a widespread assumption about elder abuse: that it is inflicted by well-meaning individuals, often the adult children of victims, who are pushed over the edge by the stress of caring for a frail, dependent old person.

But that assumption is turned on its head by findings from the first large-scale random sample of elder abuse in a metropolitan area. Relatively well-functioning elderly people are usually the victims of abuse, which is often inflicted by emotionally disturbed or violent family members, say psychologists Karl Pillemer and David Finkelhor. A typical abuser is a spouse who depends on the victim for money, transportation, housing and household repairs.

Pillemer and Finkelhor defined maltreatment as one or more of the following: at least one act of physical violence toward the victim (ranging from throwing something at them to assault with a gun or knife) since they turned 65; withholding help important to daily life 10 or more times in the preceding year; and verbal aggression, including insults and threats 10 or more times in the preceding year.

Spouses were responsible for slightly more than half of the abuse cases, the researchers note. Abuse victims were almost evenly split between men and women. Victims were no more disabled or dependent on their abusers than were comparison subjects on their relatives.

However, abusers were much more likely than relatives in the comparison group to have been arrested, hospitalized for a psychiatric disorder, involved in violent behavior outside the family or limited by a physical problem. Abusers were more likely to have suffered a physical illness or the death of a relative in the previous year.

Their findings are consistent with a trend among family violence researchers to deemphasize the characteristics of victims - whether children, women or the elderly - and concentrate on the psychological problems of abusers.

Revelations about elder abuse have important implications for treatment programs, the investigators maintain. Many programs generally aim to reduce caregiver stress by providing in-home assistance in the care of elderly persons and offering support groups.

But many abusers need psychological counseling, Pillemer and Finkelhor assert. Those who are dependent on their victims may also need help in finding employment and separate housing.

Letter

To the Editor:

Below is a poem that I copied from the Vietnam Veterans of America Newsletter. My thanks to Ron Young for it. It was from the president's desk section that I found it. I address this poem not only to my civic (Northwest), but to all the civics. I do believe many will see themselves in this poem, hopefully it will inspire some of you. I'm sure other board members from the other civics feel the same as I do.

Are You An Active Member
(Author Unknown)

Are you an active member?
The Kind that would be missed?
Are you most contented that your name is on the list?

Do you attend meeting and mingle with the flock?
Do you just meet in private and criticize and knock?

Do you take an active part to help the work along?
Are you satisfied to be the kind
that just belongs?

Do you work on committees; to this there is no trick;
Or leave the work to just a few
and talk about the clique?

Please come to the meetings often and help with hand and heart.

Don't be just a member but take an active part!
Think this over, members you know what's right and wrong.

Are you an active member or do you just belong?

Viet Resource Center Grant

The Vietnam Veterans Resource Center, a division of Help Aid Direction, Inc., was awarded a grant from the Agent Orange Class Assistance Program in November 1989. The $92,000 grant will be used to establish a treatment program and referral network for the children of Vietnam Veterans.

The Vietnam Veterans Resource Center, which was established on April 7, 1985, was originally designed to meet the needs of the Vietnam-era Veteran. Therapeutic intervention primarily focused on issues of Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, divorce, substance abuse, unemployment, incarceration, and other war-related disabilities. Since its opening, the Center has extended its services to incorporate the family and friends of the Vietnam Veteran. Today, with the award of the Agent Orange Grant, the Center will be able to offer structured service delivery that focuses on the special issues of the children of the Vietnam Veteran. The Center has identified various physical disabilities and other personal issues as major concerns for these children. These issues will be addressed by a child specialist and a child psychiatrist, who will join the Vietnam Veterans Resource Center staff by mid-February.

Sponsors Plaque For Multiwire

A sponsor's plaque was recently presented by Mr. John Fitzgerald to Mr. Phil Caputo of Multiwire East in Hicksville. This plaque was given to Multiwire by the Hicksville Americans Soccer Club in appreciation for their sponsorship of the "1975 Hicksville Hawks." John Fitzgerald, the head coach is holding the trophy won by the "Hawks" in last year's U-14 New York State Cup Championship. Multiwire assisted in the financing of the Hawks trip to Niagara Falls to participate in the Eastern Regional Championships. They also assisted with the team's European trip during the summer of 1987. All the players and coaches wish to thank Multiwire East for their continued support. The players that were on this championship team are: Tommy Basaranlar, Danny Bell, Chris Benes, Kevin Costa, Stephan Fox, Chris Jendras, Kevin Koehn, Richie Kotschau, Ronny Ladimir, Danny Longo, Michael Longo, William Noble, Andre Parris, Robert Persaud and Brian Rooney. And special thanks from the Hawks to their coaches John Fitzgerald and Bob Ladimir.

Thanks for being a good S.O.R.T.!

On Saturday, January 20th, 400 Oyster Bay Town residents braved a winter outburst of snow and rain to help place 11,000 recycled Christmas trees along the dune line at Tobay Beach.

Many thanks to all of these volunteers - those named below and those whose names we did not get - as well as the thousands of Town residents who contributed their discarded Christmas trees for helping to make this recycling/beach conservation project an outstanding success.

Our thanks also to the private sector organizations who donated time, goods and services to the project

THE HEALTHY GOURMET

Greek food made for grazing

By Kit Snedaker

Greek food is made for grazing. It keeps. It's easily reproduced at home, and even my children loved it as picky youngsters. However, it helps if you like garlic.

I tried it first in Greek restaurants and then discovered that, good as the American version was, the Greeks did it better in their native country. I could live on tatziki and taramasalata. My kids adored stuffed grape leaves.

With a cut here, fat trimmed away there and the salt shaker tossed out the window, Greek food, I've found, fits the menu of any Healthy Gourmet.

The following recipes work for small affairs, as starters for a big do or as something special for just the family. All three of them can be done ahead and will keep for several days in the refrigerator.

Tarama or carp roe is available in Greek stores or in the special sections of most supermarkets. If you can't find it, call a Greek restaurant and ask for a source.

Same applies to grape leaves. I'm sure you can make them yourself by careful picking and steaming, but preserved ones aren't expensive and buying them done up in brine (and washing off the salt) is easier for busy cooks.

TAZTZIKI

- 4 cups plain non-fat yogurt
- 1 long hothouse cucumber or 3 small cucumbers
- 2 or 3 large garlic cloves put through a press or minced
- Juice of 1/2 lemon
- Freshly ground pepper

Yields 4 to 6 servings. Each serving has about 130 calories, no cholesterol and 115 milligrams sodium.

Make yogurt cheese by placing sieve lined with cheese cloth or cotton tea towel over bowl. Add yogurt and put whole thing in refrigerator for several hours until yogurt has dripped off most of its moisture and thickened.

Peel cucumbers, slice as thinly as possible and cut into julienne strips. Place in colander in sink and sprinkle with salt to leach out moisture. Leave for about an hour, rinse thoroughly and dry with paper towels.

Put yogurt in a bowl and fluff with whisk. Add minced or pressed garlic and cucumbers. Add lemon juice and pepper to taste. Serve at once or refrigerate and serve chilled the next day.

GREEK FISH ROE

- 1/4 cup tarama (carp roe)
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 slices crustless white bread soaked in cold water and squeezed dry
- 3/4 cup olive oil or 1/2 cup olive oil and 1/4 cup vegetable oil
- 1/4 to 1/2 tablespoon grated onion

Yields 1 cup. Each tablespoon (about 1 serving) has 100 calories, 10 milligrams cholesterol and 25 milligrams sodium.

In work bowl of food processor, put tarama as it comes in jar with lemon juice and bread. Using steel blade, mix well while dribbling oil down feed tube with motor running. Add grated onion. Serve as dip or spread on crackers or rounds of pita bread.

STUFFED GRAPE LEAVES

- 1 jar (about 1 pound) grape leaves
- Juice of 2 lemons
- Stuffing:
- 1 pound ground lean lamb shoulder
- 1/2 cup raw rice
- 1/2 cup minced onion
- 1/4 teaspoon allspice
- Freshly ground pepper
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 tablespoons minced parsley

Yields 6 to 8 servings. Each serving has about 180 calories, 50 milligrams cholesterol and 200 milligrams sodium.

Rinse brine from grape leaves and pick out 48 best. Put stuffing ingredients in bowl and mix thoroughly. Place each grape leaf, stem end toward you, on board. Put good teaspoon of stuffing at base, fold right and left sides over and roll up, tucking in end.

Imperfect leaves go on rack that fits into deep kettle to make a bed for stuffed leaves. Put stuffed leaves on bed of leaves, close together in single layer. Place plate on top to weigh them down.

Pour into kettle enough warm water to come up to plate. Place over medium heat, cover and simmer for about 20 minutes. Add lemon juice, cover and simmer another 20 minutes. Remove rack, discard unstuffed leaves and drain stuffed leaves on paper towels. Serve warm or cold with slices of lemon.

Girl Scout Thinking Day

Over 18,000 members of the Girl Scouts of Nassau County will follow a 64-year tradition of celebrating Girl Scout Thinking Day on February 22.

Thinking Day is set aside as a special time for contemplation - a time for Girl Scouts to change their focus from near to far, to recognize their alliance with the eight million Girl Guides and Girl Scouts in 112 countries around the world.

At this time, funds are raised for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. This fund helps to carry out projects around the world. Last year valuable assistance was offered to countries in Central and South America for program planning, leadership development, and community development; a West African country was able to revive Girl Guiding; and a regional conference brought Girl Scout and Girl Guide leaders together to better serve the needs of girls.

This year's theme is "Strength and Harmony in Diversity," and Associations in Nassau County, such as Jericho/Syosset are hosting International Nights featuring costumes, dances, crafts and food from all around the world. The Central Park Association (Bethpage, Plainview and Old Bethpage) will be combining a roller skating party with a special Thinking Day Ceremony.

Join us on this special day in thinking of our friends and neighbors throughout the world - and wishing everyone peace, health, literacy, and preservation of our natural resources.

Driving Tips Given At Meeting

Mr. Frank B. Hynes, a Traffic Safety Service Representative of the Automobile Club of New York was the guest speaker at the February 7 luncheon meeting of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club. In his opening remarks, Mr. Hynes made the statement that driving a car is more difficult than flying a plane, and, he said that many pilots had agreed with him when they were part of the audiences he had spoken to. Mr. Hynes referred to the crowded highways with fast moving vehicles, the effect aging has on the eyes, the onset of arthritis on the ankle and knee joints, the varieties of inclement weather, the close proximity of cars and trucks and buses, and how they all work together to force drivers to make split second decisions to avoid incidents. He also spoke about the problems of maintaining safe driving practices in light and heavy rain, as well as driving in snow and icy road conditions.

Mr. Hynes very generously brought along and distributed two brochures entitled "Defensive Driving" and "The Complete Guide of How To Go on Ice and Snow". Both of which are available from local AAA offices, or, from the Traffic Safety Department, American Automobile Association, Falls Church, Virginia 22047.

PGK Receives Town Citation

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark (left) presents a citation to John Lombardi of Plainview, who was honored as Past Grand Knight by Joseph Lamb Council #5723, Knights of Columbus. Also on hand were his wife Pat, Msgr. Boesel of Our Lady of Mercy, Hicksville. Lombardi has been a member of the Council since August, 1967, and has served as Warden, Deputy Grand Knight and Chief Counsel of the Columbian Squires. He has also given generously of his time and talents to many committees and activities.

Town To Use Borella Fields

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Angelo A. Delligatti recently announced that the Town Board has authorized a six-month renewal of an agreement with the Bethpage School District for the use of the Borella Farms Athletic Fields.

According to the Supervisor, the agreement, which runs from January 1 through June 30, 1990, will permit the Town to continue to maintain and manage the three playing fields, which are located on school district property.

"This renewal will assure the Bethpage PAL, Little League and Soccer Club playing fields for the coming season," said Supervisor Delligatti. The three organizations have been using the Bethpage fields for a number of years.

Central Federal To Modernize Offices Library Programs

J. Alan Ornstein, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Central Federal Savings, FSB, with architectural scale model of the Hicksville branch, after modernization and renovations are completed.

"As part of our continuing commitment to Long Island and the communities we serve, Central Federal Savings is embarking on a major modernization and renovation program, beginning with the Long Beach East and Hicksville branch offices", announced J. Alan Ornstein, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the Bank.

The modernization and renovations of the Long Beach East and Hicksville branches represent a multi-million dollar investment. Designs for the branch renovations call for increased customer parking, additional drive-up window facilities, increased teller stations and enlarged customer service and new account representative office areas.

Ornstein explained, "The focus and primary goal of our modernization and renovation program is to create branch environments that provide our customers with the most professional, expert customer service in the most expedient and efficient manner possible. Of course, the renovations will result in strikingly beautiful exteriors and interiors for the branches, making banking at Central Federal Savings not only more convenient and efficient, but aesthetically pleasing as well."

The modernization and renovation program is part of the Bank's commitment to reinvest in the communities it serves, and is an integral part of an aggressive business plan, initiated over two years ago by Central Federal Savings, to maintain leadership on Long Island. During the past two years, the Bank has updated its entire operations systems; reorganized its investment strategies to take advantage of new earnings opportunities; introduced new and innovative products and services (i.e. Personal Banking and Horizons Club); and brought in top-flight commercial and mortgage bankers to give the Bank added strength and expertise in these two important areas.

The Bank has also recently announced its plans for a public stock offering. According to Mr. Ornstein, the offering is part of the Bank's overall strategy in response to the new Savings and Loan legislation. Most important, according to Ornstein, "Conversion to a stock form of ownership is exciting because it will give our customers the opportunity to become owners of the Bank and truly benefit and prosper from the close and loyal relationship Central Federal Savings has enjoyed with the people and businesses of Long Island for over the past five decades."

Central Federal Savings, FSB has its main office in Long Beach and administrative offices in Mineola. The Bank has 14 branches across Long Island and in Manhattan and operates a safe deposit facility in Garden City.

Local Student Wins Scholarship

Nassau Community College Criminal Justice student Jennifer Nunziata of Hicksville, receives a $500 scholarship from Nassau County Sheriff Joseph Jablonsky, as NCC president Sean Fanelli (l) and Prof. Peter Grimes (r) smile approvingly. The award, sponsored by the New York State Sheriff's Association, is based on academic excellence, financial need, and a desire to pursue a career in criminal justice or a related field. Jennifer expects to graduate in May and intends to go on for her Bachelor's Degree in Criminal Justice/Sociology.

The Magic of Chemistry by Science on Demand:

Tuesday, February 20 - 2 p.m. - The program will offer an unusual, colorful demonstration of the elements of chemistry to delight and surprise young people. Seventeen dazzling and different experiments will illustrate important and fascinating basic principles. Grades K-6. Tickets available now in the Bethpage Public Library Children's Room for all young residents of District No. 21.

Hansel and Gretel Opera Workshop by Opera Options:

Thursday, February 22 - 2 p.m. An outstanding introduction to opera for young people, performed by Opera Options, professional singers who specialize in performing for young audiences. Based on the classic tale by the Brothers Grimm and the famous opera by Humperdinck, here is a unique program in which youngsters will learn about the elements of opera through musical highlights with costumes, staging, a make-up demonstration of the witch character, discussion, and choral participation. Ages 4 and up. Register now in the Children's Room.

Alice in Wonderland - Walt Disney Film Favorites:

Saturday, February 24 - 2 p.m. (color - 75 minutes) - Follow young Alice as she tumbles down the rabbit hole into a world of fabulous adventure - the time warp that is Wonderland - with the White Rabbit, the Queen of Hearts, the Mad Hatter, the Cheshire Cat and more! A Walt Disney adaptation of Lewis Carroll's enduring classic. For school-age children who reside in District No. 21. Tickets are now available in the Children's Room.

For further information about all of the above programs, please call 931-3907.

Families As Reading Partners

Families that read aloud, read a lot - current research indicates and reports show that children who have been read to in childhood excel in school. Therefore, starting January 25, the Bethpage Public Library will launch a brand new Read-Aloud Club called "Families as Reading Partners."

Hurry on over and sign up your youngster for our fun Read-Aloud Club for ages 3½ to 8. And the whole family can join into the fabulous read-aloud game - parents, grandparents, brothers, sisters, aunts, uncles - and more!

All you have to do is agree to read at least 20 library books to your youngsters and submit a written list of books (including child's name, address, phone number, age, and titles and authors of books) to the Children's Room staff by May 1, 1990. There will be a Gala Read-Aloud Party and Certificate Celebration on May 12, 1990, at 2 p.m. for all participating young people featuring a special one-man circus show by star performer Smedley T. Clown - with circus stunts, magic tricks, and loads of merry audience participation.

"Families as Reading Partners" is open to all young people aged 3½ to 8 who reside in District No. 21. Register now for this exciting family fun in the library's Children's Room. For further information, please call 931-3907.

Mid Is. Handles Plane Emergency

Thursday evening, January 25, some of Mid-Island Hospital's staff were working their usual shifts while other personnel were home listening to their television. The same evening at 9:50 p.m., the hospital's disaster plan was activated upon receiving a disaster notification call from Nassau County's Medical Communication Network. By means of our direct special line, the hospital was told, "There has been a plane crash on the North Shore of Long Island. You may receive patients." The usual shifts became unusual. The disaster drill, practiced twice a year, was put into effect by the nursing staff, physicians and auxiliary services.

Once our disaster plan was activated, key personnel were notified. The Emergency Team waited for the notification of the number of patients and type of injuries. Many staff members and physicians left their homes and came to the hospital on their own accord or remained beyond their shift to help. Approximately at 1:30 a.m., the E.M.S. police and fire ambulances began arriving with plane crash victims.

The Emergency Room's waiting area was established as a triage area. Non-disaster patients continued to arrive and were treated in the normal manner.

The admitting department began a survey to anticipate discharges from the hospital, which was at capacity. Some patients who were anticipating a Friday a.m. discharge, were released in the early morning hours as the plane crash victims were being brought in to the Emergency Department. Patients in the critical care units whose condition permitted were transferred to medical/surgical units. The patients and their families were extremely cooperative and understanding.

Bruce Sanderov, M.D., the hospital's emergency department's director has been with Mid-Island since last November. Once the emergency plane crash activity subsided, Dr. Sanderov was able to express his thoughts on the trauma situation by saying, "The effectiveness of the hospital's preparation for the disaster and the cooperation of everyone involved really stands out in my mind."

Although Mid-Island Hospital is not designated as a trauma receiving center, in a short two months, this 223-bed acute care facility has handled two bilingual emergencies. A November van accident brought French speaking Haitians and the Thursday night's plane crash brought Spanish speaking Columbians.

Karen McLoughlin, Assistant Head Nurse in the Emergency Department recalled how everyone pulled together. "Everyone wanted to help. At a time like that, it's the little things that become important-- from getting additional blankets to comforting families."

Employees from various departments, along with MIH physicians were extremely helpful for translating purposes. Staff members were able to comfort the patients and their families. After many days of visiting and checking-in on the patients, many new friendships were made by the staff.

Calls came in from community members who just wanted to help. They offered their translating abilities, cheerful visits for patients who didn't have any family members visiting, and gifts. A Spanish class from the Bellport Middle School sent get-well letters written in Spanish for the patients. Mid-Island wishes to thank the community for their calls and for dropping by with warm wishes. The patients' spirits were lifted due to their kindness.

Of the seven patients admitted, two males have been discharged. A third gentleman was transferred to another hospital to be with his wife. The others are in fair to good condition. They are getting stronger and improving each day.

The disaster drill is routinely practiced with the hope that it will never have to be put into effect. Unfortunately it was, however the years of practice made the difference.

Thanks to Mid-Island Hospital's employees and physicians, the victims who survived the terrible ordeal will overcome their injuries. For over thirty years, Mid-Island Hospital has been known for its dedication of the needs of our community and all whom we serve.

Ivan Gomez, a few days before being transferred to North Shore University Hospital to be with his wife. Laying on his chest is his 14 month old son who was discharged earlier in the day from Central General Hospital.

Left to right: Jericho Fire Department's Guardian Engine Co. 2's volunteer, Ira 'Ike' Goldstein with three year old Daniel Vasquez and Daniel's aunt. Daniel was rescued by Ike at the crash site. On Friday, January 26, Ike visited with Daniel and Daniel's aunt. He brought him a fire engine which lit up Daniel's brown eyes like saucers.

Guillermo Camargo, 26, of Bogota, Columbia, a general surgeon, was coming to the metropolitan area to visit relatives. The plane crash has changed his life in many ways. In one way, he now would love to speak English. When asked if he would like to come back and be a part of Mid-Island's Medical/Dental Staff, he replied with a smile, "As long as I don't arrive in the same way, I'll think about it."

Hearing Scheduled On Solid Waste

A proposed amendment to the Town's Solid Waste Code of Ordinance that will require certain refuse containers to be equipped with water injection ports, will be the subject of a Tuesday, April 3 public hearing of the Oyster Bay Town Board, according to Town Councilman John Venditto.

"The proposed modification to this solid waste ordinance would require that all refuse containers, trash compactors and dumpsters, which possess a capacity equal to or greater than ten (10) cubic yards, shall have or be installed with water injection ports for the purpose of extinguishing any fire within these containers," Venditto said. "Also in the proposed amendment are provisions for imposing a fine and/or imprisonment pertaining to the enforcement of this ordinance."

The meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Venditto noted the importance of providing our local fire fighters with these water injection ports so they will have the safest means of combating fires within enclosed refuse containers and dumpsters.

HBA - The Winning Way

By Carol Baglieri

Hicksville Baseball Association is underway getting ready for our 1990 season. Registration is taking place at Levittown Hall, with our last open registration February 24 from 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. All our old friends are back, and we welcome our new friends as well.

For those of us who have been with HBA for many years, we remember the 6 year old boy who couldn't throw a baseball or awkwardly swung a bat. We remember the little girl whose tiny hand could barely grasp a softball. Where did the years go? Now they are young men and women who are very much individuals, each having their own very special talents and abilities. We see all the lasting friendships that have been made on our ball fields. Our dedicated managers and coaches who have seen them grow and have spent countless hours teaching them how to play ball, and the sportsmanship that goes along with playing the game.

Our parents have spent many cold nights in April and May, and many hot, lazy, crazy days of summer, supporting all our children on the field. We have dedicated and caring people who run our concession stand for the sole purpose of giving the young people and their parents either a cold drink, or a hot one, on any particular day. Our children come with their nickels and dimes, always able to buy some treat for the day.

Our Board of Directors have spent hours all winter long planning each new season and working to see each one come to a successful end. At HBA, we have a total team effort and with this season we begin again with new 6 year olds and new coaches and new parents to experience the joys others before them have seen.

Yes, at HBA we are proud when our young players win a District Championship or play in a charity game to help those less fortunate, and we are proud to fly our banner. And, yes at HBA—that is "The Winning Way."

Soccer Registration

On February 25, at Hicksville High School, Boys Gymnasium, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., the Hicksville Americans Soccer Club will be registering children for Spring season - ages 3-6 only. If your child is in this age group, give him or her an opportunity to play this dynamic sport. Remember, February 25, from 10-2. See you there!

Minutemen Win 1st, 2nd Place

The Hicksville Minutemen, 1977 B travelling soccer team entered two teams in the Oceanside Indoor Tournament Sunday, February 11, and came home with First and Second Place trophies, as the two teams faced each other in the Championship game.

The "red" team had Jorge daSilva in goal, supported by Robin Blicher, Tim Dalton, Brian Rigert, Anthony Noya, Andres Turcios and Robert Wagner. Their first game was a 1-1 tie against Oceanside, with Turcios putting in the score. Their second game was a breathtaking 4-3 win over Elmont, on goals by Rigert, Turcios, and two from Noya. The third and fourth games were tough 1-0 losses to Floral Park and Valley Stream. However, their head-to-head win over Elmont placed them in Second Place in Division "A" and led to a Semi-Final against the Division "B"'s First place team, Valley Stream. In their best game of the day, they defeated Valley Stream 1-0 on a goal by Dalton.

The "white" team had Declan Healy in goal, supported by Kenny D'Introno, Jason Brown, Bobby Braun, Mike Whitman,

Tracy Koetter, and Danny dePinho. Their first game was a 0-0 tie against Amity. Their second game was a 4-0 loss to Valley Stream. The third game was a 4-0 route over Floral Park on two goals by D'Introno, one by dePinho, and another by Braun. The fourth game was a 2-0 victory over Oceanside, with Braun putting in both Hicksville tallies. Their record of two wins, one loss and one tie put them in Second Place in Division "B", setting up a Semi-Final game against Floral Park, who was First in Division "A". They won 2-0, led by two D'Introno goals.

The red team and the white team then faced off for the Tournament Championship, and the reds completely out played their teammates for a 4-1 victory. Noya scored two goals, while Dalton and Rigert had one apiece. Whitman had the white's lone tally. Congratulations to my "red" team for a morning of interesting, winning soccer. Congratulations, also, to the "white" team for their great effort. Special thanks to my Assistants, Tony dePinho and Pete Whitman, for their help in coaching the latter team.

St. Ignatius CYO Sports

Registration Update:

On Sunday, February 11, we held our third registration for 1990 season. Our next registration will be held on March 11. This is our last and final registration. Anyone who registers on March 11 or after will be charged a late fee per child. If you still have not registered, please contact Barbara Lewis for further information.

A Look Back.....1989

May 1989, our children in Baseball, Softball and Cheerleaders all marched in the Memorial Day Parade.

April 1989, Baseball and Softball teams started playing games. Also started a Girls Softball Travel Team.

June 1989, our 5th, 7th and 8th grade Boys Travel Team, won the "Sportsmanship Award" from Diocese.

August 1989, for the second year we participated in the "AHRC Tournament." We are very pleased that our Boys team won the trophy again. "Two Years In A Row For C.Y.O."

September 1989, our registrations were mailed out to all our C.Y.O. families for our fall programs.

October 1989, another first, St. Ignatius C.Y.O. 6th Grade Travel Team, for basketball.

November 1989, voting for new officers. Pres. Gary Lewis, Treasurer: Quentin Hannah, Baseball Director: Bob Patterson and Basketball Director: Joe Panarelli.

1990 Season for C.Y.O. is looking good. But we always need the support of the parents to make our programs the success that they are. St. Ignatius C.Y.O. holds monthly meetings on the third Thursday of each month, at 8 p.m. in the Old School Basement. We are looking forward to see new faces.

St. Ignatius C.Y.O. Hosts Doyle Baseball:

Doyle Baseball, America's #1 Doyle Baseball has instructed over 200,000 players ranging from T-ball to the professional ranks. Doyle's overall objective is to give youngsters their needed role models as well as fundamentals instruction. They care about a baseball youngster and his development.

Doyle feels it is important to make them feel special and to make baseball fun. With these ingredients Doyle feels baseball/softball will be a positive influence on a youngster's life.

So come join Doyle Baseball in Hicksville, March 17 and March 18. To register call Audrey Andrews, 933-0887, or Joan Famiglietti, 935-6369.

Open letter to K-2 Coach From Joe Panarelli:

With the K-2 season officially over, I would like to thank our K-2 coaches, Bill Cain, Ed Hebron, Bob Horvath, Jeff Klupt, Dan Rogers, and Tom Snadecky for an exceptional season.

This was an instructional league with no standings or playoffs, and because of the hard work and good example of these excellent coaches, all games were played in the true C.Y.O. spirit of teaching the boys teamwork and sportsmanship. The coaches taught the boys the fundamentals of the game, and all six teams showed great improvement as the season progressed. I would also like to thank all the parents for their enthusiastic attendance at the games and for supporting the coaches in their work with the boys.

Basketball Highlights:

Coast Guard Aux. Boat Courses

Three boating courses will be given by the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 12-3 at the Glen Cove High School, Dosoris Lane, Glen Cove. A 9-session basic course for powerboaters will commence on Tuesday, March 6. This will cover use of compass and charts, marine radio, rules of the road and safety and courtesy on the waterways.

For sailboat enthusiasts a similar course will commence on Monday, March 5, for 10 sessions.

Also on Tuesday, March 6.

A New York State Young Boaters Safety Course will be given for boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 15. This will run for four evenings, and upon successful completion, the State's Boating Safety Certificate is awarded.

Classes will start at 8 p.m. and there is a charge for course materials except for the Young Boaters course.

For further information, contact Public Education Officer Harris Silver at 433-1047.

Woodland Ave. Founder's Day Awards

Kathy Grady

Kathy Grady has taught here at Woodland Avenue since 1983 and had substituted in the District before then. She has taught second grade here but for the past few years has taught our Sixth Grade class. Kathy is very innovative in her teaching and is inspiring to all her students. It is not any wonder that her students enjoy learning and are eager to participate. Each year, Kathy spends three days away with her class on their Sixth Grade Trip and always adds to the memories of that special event. Kathy is also a member of our PTA Executive Board in the capacity of Teacher Liaison.

Before coming to Woodland, Kathy was also an active member of PTA at Fork Lane School, working on the Pre-School and Program Committees. Kathy had also taught in East Rockaway for five years prior to her starting in the Hicksville School District in 1979.

We are very proud to have Kathy Grady here at Woodland Ave. We feel that this Founders Day award is a much deserved honor.

Patricia Love

Pat Love has been an active member of PTA for many years. She joined Woodland Ave.'s PTA in 1980 and has served the children of Woodland in many capacities. Some of the committees Pat has worked on are Hospitality, Milk Program, Pre-School, Holiday Boutique and she has co-chaired Woodland's Winter Carnival Committee. Also Pat has held the office of Vice President of Woodland's PTA and is now finishing her second year as its President. In addition, Pat is a member of the MAC Committee at Woodland - a committee organized to discuss and develop educational goals as a result of Hicksville's participation in the Excellence and Accountability Program.

Woodland Ave. is not the only school that has benefited from Pat's seemingly endless supply of energy and devotion. She has served on the Ways and Means Committee for the Middle School PTA; the Legislation Committee for the High School PTA; and has served on Hicksville Council of PTA on both Legislative and Scholarship Committees.

Woodland Ave. feels lucky to have Pat Love on its team and feels that Pat is a most deserving recipient of this Founders Day Honor.

John Jimenez

John Jimenez is one of the custodians here at Woodland Ave. He has been at our school for the past four years, and has been employed by the District for the past five years. John is a very kind and caring person and is always ready and willing to help the children, staff, and PTA at our school at any time.

When Woodland has its annual Winter Carnival, John is always there lending a hand getting our carnival booths ready for us. Every year, for our Field Day, John will arrive early so he can help set up. Every other year, our Jungle Gym is set up and, again, we can rely upon John for extra assistance. No request is too trivial for him - he will always be there for you.

We at Woodland Ave. feel that the Founders Day Honor has as much to do with willingness, generosity and attitude as it does with deeds performed. We are proud to ask John to receive this honor.

Sue Murphy

Honorary Life Award

Sue Murphy was chosen this year to receive the Honorary Life Award from Woodland Ave. PTA.

Sue has been active in Woodland Ave. for the past 10 years and she has been secretary of SEPTA for 8 years. She is always a willing volunteer in all activities of the PTA and SEPTA and brings joy and laughter to all who come into contact with her.

Woodland Ave. is very proud to have Sue Murphy accept the Honorary Life Award and feel she is a most deserving recipient.

School Closings Discussed At Open Public Meeting

Another aspect of reorganization not specifically requested by the Board for study at the February meeting was the move of the sixth graders to the middle school. Dr. Fenton said that she reviewed verbal plans by Principal Gerald Klein to incorporate the sixth graders into the middle school program. "When one considers that our middle school has been recognized by the state as a School of Excellence, I think parents would be reassured to know that their sixth graders were going into a school that has been ranked in quality with the middle schools in the Jericho and North Shore school districts," Dr. Fenton stated. At the Board's direction, Dr. Fenton said that she would arrange for Mr. Klein to give an educational presentation to the trustees and interested parents.

Public comment on the Board's discussion ran high with emotion. "I'll fight the Board tooth and nail" on school closings said Ron Hildebrand, as he called for equitable state aid and reform of the lottery system as a means for districts to secure additional funds.

Yet Mr. Youngquist urged residents "to look at the total picture...If we don't do something at the present time, we will all suffer." Mr. Youngquist drew a picture which included repossessed homes, state people living in houses, factories closed, houses for sale more than a year and a divided community.

Charles Strugatz suggested the Board "look elsewhere to save that million dollars." He suggested that the savings of closing schools would be cutback by the added cost of busing students.

Mrs. Helen Lafferty reminded residents that if the budget is defeated "the only people who suffer under austerity are the children...If we are on austerity the value of our homes goes down, more than if we close a school or two. Your (the Board's) first responsibility is to the children of this community, to the taxpayers of this community."

Janet Von Bergen cautioned the Board not to be "over-ambitious" in closing schools. "Remember, you can't sell property without a public referendum, so don't let that affect your judgment."

Mr. Black, who was a member of the 1987-88 study advisory committee, called on the Board to make budget cuts before seeking to close schools. He suggested: "redistricting the student population among the present schools, remove teachers through attrition, cutback transportation to the State mandate, cut non-curriculum supplies, cut out funds to attend all conferences for one year, cut custodial and secretarial staff, cut non-mandated teacher aides, spread out spending on the asbestos program, and go back and look over the contract negotiated with the teachers."

Mrs. Carolyn Kelly, another committee member, recommended closing a school in the north and one in the southern section of town. She added that this would "improve the quality of education" and that the students would still be only a few minutes more from school.

The Board agreed to meet again to review additional data compiled by Superintendent Fenton. President Mark Cardella said that a date for a second public meeting could possibly be set at the next monthly meeting which will be held on February 27, at 8 p.m.

Safe Boating Course Available

New York State law requires that all children under the age of 14 must take the New York State Boating Class in order to operate any type or size boat on the water.

Oyster Bay Power Squadron, to encourage "safe-boating" at any age, will offer the New York State Boating Class to 10-14 year-olds free of charge. The course will be offered at the Syosset Public Library on Saturday mornings beginning March 10 and continuing on March 24, March 31, and April 7.

For additional information on this course and/or free "safe-boating" courses for adults, please call 921-2509 or 921-7572.

Input Callers Say Lift Some S. Africa Sanction

Most callers to Input believe that we should lift some sanctions on South Africa in answer to this question: "Should we lift sanctions against South Africa now or wait for a possible end to apartheid?" Here are some of the answers:

SOULD DO SOMETHING

I think we should lift some of the sanctions against South Africa now that they have released Mandela. It is true that South Africa was in a bind and had little recourse other than to let Mandela go and show some signs that it was going to eventually get rid of apartheid. But they have at least done something that appears to be a goodwill gesture. We should have a scale of rewarding by reducing sanctions as things are accomplished.

H.J.

NO GLORY

The South African government has done very little in releasing a man who was held for over 20 years on charges that should have not been brought to start with. They should take no glory in releasing an innocent man. As of now South Africa is still far below an acceptable level on human rights and we should continue our boycott against them.

M.F.

EASE UP A BIT

I think we should make some gesture to lift sanctions against South Africa. One of the problems with sanctions is that it starves a country economically into complying with our wishes. If that goes on too long when they do lift apartheid the country will be in too weak a condition to survive and there will be new problems there. We should ease up a bit and promise a complete lifting just as soon as they give up apartheid.

D.N.

REAL PLANNING NEEDED

The idea of the U.S. having sanctions against South Africa is a completely wrong idea. That country has big problems and we are standing on the outside telling them what to do when we have not done well at all in our own country with a much smaller problem. The basic problem is that if equality is allowed over night without some means of controlling lawlessness that the blacks will try to take out revenge against the whites, and the many poor uneducated blacks will storm all over the white minority. There are very few people who would seal their own doom by quick acts. There must be a long thought out plan of how to convert the nation to equality and there must be leaders in the black community who can maintain order. This will require more than just outside pressure. It will require much real planning between the two sides. Maybe Mandella will prove to be the needed leader and inspire others. If not all will lose.

K.V.

NO PRAISE NEEDED

I think South Africa's white government does not need any special praise for doing something it should have done many years ago, that is the releasing of Mandella. There have to be many more reforms than that before we should stop enforcing sanctions. If we go too fast now in lauding the South African government things will stop right there and the blacks will be held as slaves for a long time.

N.V.

RIGHT AWAY

We ended slavery in the U.S. with an executive order and there was chaos but the problems finally were worked out over the years. South Africa is going to have to do the same. There will be trouble at first but there is no way that an excuse can be made for keeping one race down to benefit another one. We should not lift sanctions until things are really made right.

J.C.

SPELL IT OUT

I believe that it is in the interest of the present South African government to rapidly follow through on the recent steps taken by President deKlerk to release Nelson Mandela as the first concrete move toward granting blacks privileges historically enjoyed only by the white minority. Needless to say, with the ratio of blacks to whites 68% to 18% there is a great deal still to be done before the present South African government can begin to show substantial progress following Mandela's actual release from incarceration and this assumes that he himself does not impose further immediate conditions on his release. Considering what actually is involved it can hardly be said that the transition will be either quick or satisfactory to all parties. One simply cannot overlook the magnitude of the areas of contention involved such as - blacks restricted to certain occupations - lower wages for comparable jobs - restriction against blacks to run for public jobs - the deeply rooted militant opposition of whites - and so on. One swallow doesn't make a summer and obviously the Mandela "release", while a harbinger of welcome changes, is hardly in my opinion the kind of news which should encourage an immediate lifting of the sanctions we imposed back in the middle of '89 when South Africa declared a state of emergency. However, I do not believe that it would be unreasonable at this point for us to specify the major considerations to be met as a precondition to the lifting of sanctions.

The Murder That Never Happened

By Dr. Arthur A. Delaney

The summer of 1892 was unusually warm, and a rather prominent stamp collector of the time, one Gaston Leroux, had been discovered murdered in his Paris flat. It seemed, at first, to be a senseless crime. For every premeditated murder there must be, short of the perpetrator's insanity, a motive.

In his apartment were found large sums of money and expensive jewelry. An examination of the book shelves revealed Leroux's valuable stamp collection. Numismatic holdings also were discovered, including a collection of gold coins. Both collections seemed intact.

Thus, the metropolitan police eliminated robbery as a motive. To complicate the case, Leroux had not been involved with women or shady activities. Indeed, no known enemy could be discovered.

Here was a respected man of property murdered in his home by persons unknown for reasons unknown. If Holmes had been on the case he would have grunted: "A knotty one, Watson!" But Holmes would have solved the case, as solved it would be.

Fortunately for the French Surete, counterpart of our F.B.I., one of the detectives assigned to the Leroux case was also a stamp collector, although one of limited knowledge. He had heard of Monsieur Leroux's philatelic reputation and with understanding curiosity proceeded on his own time to examine the collection.

Leroux had indeed built a magnificent holding. Page after page had been laid out, ruled with India ink, and annotated with the meticulous attention that is demanded of the dedicated philatelist. In one album the detective found an empty space. All collectors have spaces in albums that remain to be filled, but even the novice collector knew that the space had once contained a stamp. A hinge remnant remained, and Leroux's obvious penchant for neatness would not have permitted such a lapse.

Here was a clue. It appeared that someone had removed a stamp. But who did it and which stamp was taken? Unfortunately, there was no annotation to guide the detective. Seeking the aid of a long-time collector, the detective learned that the empty album space should have been occupied by the famous 2-cent Hawaiian "missionary" issue of 1851.

Only fifteen examples of the missionary exist and of these, only one is unique by being unused. In 1892, year of the murder, it was valued at $2,000., no mean sum in that solid, preinflationary era. The 1990 catalogue prices it at a mere $350,000.

The detective had now established a motive for the murder, and a most unusual crime it was! No stamp collection had been stolen. Only one stamp had been removed. It was obvious that the thief knew exactly what he sought; that he would murder for it; and that, sadly, he was himself a stamp collector!

One by one, Leroux's many acquaintances were carefully screened until only Hector Giroux remained as a suspect. Giroux was both a confirmed philatelist and Leroux's best friend. He was also the murderer, since in the France of that day an indicted man was presumed guilty until proven innocent. However, even French justice had to build a case that could be used to accuse Giroux, otherwise his pleas of innocent would be believed. After all, no one would murder his fellow man for a mere postage stamp! There was no proof, and the police did not wish in any way to alert Giroux that he was under any suspicion.

A casual meeting was arranged between the stamp collecting detective and the stamp collecting murderer. Gradually they became friends with Giroux teaching the detective about advanced philately's finer points. The policeman was a most attentive student, and Giroux was flattered by the younger man's frequent visits.

One evening the detective inquired about Hawaiian stamps. Giroux enthusiastically produced his album of Hawaii's emissions. The detective leafed through it with eager anticipation. Just as he was about to close the album disappointedly, the murderer produced the stolen missionary from its place of concealment. Giroux could not contain himself; he had to display his most prized philatelic holding. Not only was he guilty of murder, he was also guilty of the sin of pride. He would have committed the perfect crime, but vanity would do him in.

The detective produced his identification, made the arrest, and led a handcuffed Giroux to the prefecture. At first the accused man claimed ownership of the rare Hawaiian. But he could produce no proof of ownership. If the Missionary had not been so scarce, his claim might have been accepted. But it could not hold up in the case of this desirable stamp. Rare stamps have pedigrees and history of ownerships, all of which are recorded and known to the philatelic fraternity.

Giroux's weak claim soon broke down under the interrogator's lights. He admitted that he tried to purchase the Hawaiian Missionary from Leroux. His friend refused. And so, one evening during a stamp session, Gaston Leroux was murdered for a stamp by a fellow stamp collector.

Giroux was tried, convicted, and paid the supreme penalty. Thus, the highest price paid for a stamp is not that fetched by the famous British Gulana one-cent magenta. No, the highest price was paid for Gaston Leroux's Hawaiian Missionary!

It is an axiom of journalism that the truth never catches up with a falsehood. The story of Leroux's murder was first published in a French short story anthology near the end of the last century. It was subsequently translated into English and appeared in a London magazine. Soon it was known and repeated throughout the old British Empire as it circled the globe; frequently, the tale was embellished. It would today inspire the writers of a Colombo episode.

It's recapitulation created credence and the story became accepted as fact. It is even mentioned in Guinness. The French Surete received so many inquiries about the "Leroux Case" that it prepared a form letter stating that the whole incident was pure fiction. Perhaps a crime-does-not-pay moral may be found in the story. But it is a good one about a man and his victim, one who committed a murder and one who was done in, and both never existed. The murderer was indicted, tried, and convicted --but for a crime that never took place, and met an unhappy end on the guillotine.

SPECIALTIES

The LaMarmite in Williston Park is one of the top restaurants on Long Island according to the ad you have. We will go along with that. We have been going to this restaurant on and off for some time. It is something special and spoils you for the many other "run of the mill" places.

One thing nice about the LaMarmite is that it has several specialties of the house each day and they are genuine specialties. We have been disappointed elsewhere with the specials because they often turn out to be items that were made of leftovers. At LaMarmite, we have to say that the specials are really "special."

Another fine point about LaMarmite is that you are given attentive service from the beginning with the valet car parking to the end of the meal. This is really a first rate restaurant. G.E.

Q. Recently I was a guest at a club luncheon in a restaurant. Accidentally, I overturned my tomato juice. What was the right thing to do? The waiter didn't see the accident immediately. T.L.

A. A waiter seeing such an accident would immediately change the cloth, or if that was impossible at a long table, would spread a clean napkin over the spilled food. As the waiter did not do this because he was busy elsewhere, at a large luncheon you could have spread a napkin over the spot yourself, without undue discussion of the incident. Everyone occasionally has things like this happen.

Q. Will you please describe the correct procedure for introducing one couple to another (1) when the couples are approximately the same age, (2) when one couple is older or more distinguished in station than the other? M.J.

A. When the couples are about the same age it doesn't matter whose names are mentioned first. When one couple is older or more distinguished or perhaps guests in your town-you introduce the younger couple.

Q. If your guests completely finish their white wine, down to the last drop, isn't it all right to pour red wine into their same glasses? H.B.

A. No. Either have separate clean wineglasses on the table for the red or wash the dirty glasses and bring them back to the table.

READER RATINGS

Q. Recently I was a guest at a club luncheon in a restaurant. Accidentally, I overturned my tomato juice. What was the right thing to do? The waiter didn't see the accident immediately. T.L.

A. A waiter seeing such an accident would immediately change the cloth, or if that was impossible at a long table, would spread a clean napkin over the spilled food. As the waiter did not do this because he was busy elsewhere, at a large luncheon you could have spread a napkin over the spot yourself, without undue discussion of the incident. Everyone occasionally has things like this happen.

Q. If bouillon is served in a cup, do you drink it? Should you take part of it with the spoon? What if the cup has two handles. Do you use both hands?

A. Spoon up part of the bouillon before taking it up to drink. If the cup has one handle, hold it in one hand. If it has two handles, hold it by both handles. If the bouillon has solids in it, take them up with the spoon before drinking the bouillon.

Q. If someone asks you to dinner, shouldn't he make the reservations, tell you where to come, and pay for the meal?

A. Yes. The person who does the asking takes the responsibility for making the arrangements and for paying, unless it is clearly understood before hand that it is "dutch".

SOMETHING SPECIAL

Laurine Murphy's still comes up with a great dinner when you go there. Last week four of us made the mistake of going to Laurine Murphy's on Saturday evening without a reservation and at first we were a little annoyed that we would have to wait.

But everyone agreed after the meal that it was well worth the short wait. The food and gracious service is almost out of this world and this is backed up with a strolling orchestra to make the night something special. We recommend Laurine Murphy's. E.R.

TOUCH OF ELEGANCE

There is a real touch of elegance at Devins Restaurant in Garden City and it makes the difference when you are in a restaurant just how the restaurant looks and what type of service you get. It has always been our experience that Devins is first rate. Of course, the food is of great importance and Devins has a wonderful continental menu. We always enjoy the food at this restaurant. Last week we took a party of four to Devins and everyone in the party said they were exceptionally well pleased with the beef and with the fish served there. Devins is a restaurant that you can count on when you are entertaining important people or just go out for a wonderful meal. J.E.

LITTLE BUT GOOD

I think of all the restaurants you have listed that the small, but nice, BoMont's in Williston Park is the best. This little brightly decorated restaurant features some of the very best-food you can find anywhere. They have steaks and they have special dishes every day. Very often we go there for lunch and I can truly say that I have always had good food, sociability and a lot of fun at BoMont's. Tell your readers about this good place. H.R.

ORIGINALITY, INSPIRATION

The other night we decided to go to a new restaurant and we hit upon the ad for the restaurant with the novel name. Your Place Or Mine in Williston Park. While we had never been there before it appears that many other people had heard of it before us. The small restaurant was filled to overflowing. But we were treated courteously and well.

The food at this restaurant is exceptionally good and prepared in a different modern style. It has wonderful vegetables and the entree of beef that we had was cooked with originality and inspiration. In other words this is not just an ordinary restaurant, we think it is the best. Your Place-Or Mine is located in Williston Park on Hillside Ave. M.J.

No Longer A Secret

We tried a new restaurant last week and true to the ad it was Floral Park's best kept secret. The prices were very good and the portions were generous. I had a 17 oz. steak that was excellent and my wife had a chicken special that she said was out of this world. J.B.

We have a message for you.

Each week Litmor Newspapers presents a select dining guide called Reader Ratings to its readers. The guide presents the messages of outstanding restaurants in this area and it also is a forum for readers to tell other readers about why they like certain restaurants.

Reader Ratings, although it is read by up to 100,000 readers is an inexpensive way to meet the public and have the public meet you. Throughout many years, Reader Ratings has helped build loyal followings for some of the best restaurants in the area.

If your restaurant qualifies as a leader in the area we want to talk to you about being included in our guide. The cost is nominal and the results can be great.

Luna
ITALIAN RESTAURANT

"Recommended by Peter Glionnotti, Newsday"
As seen in the Daily News
Walter Kaner's Column
OPENED TWO YEARS ago, Luna is a warm, cozy, intimate 65-seat dining room with a pleasant, attractive setting.

Launched by the Tudisco family in Elmont, the restaurant served several generations of families. In 1987, Tudisco's oldest son, Vincent, and his son-in-law, Stephen DeFlorio, opened the new Luna at the present location.

Pleasant in setting, the dining room features peach and light-tinted gray walls. Mirrors and colorful pictures adorn the walls. Rust-colored chairs add splashes of color. Fresh flowers on each table provide more color.

Chef Vincent Tudisco and family dish out a tasty array of appealing Italian specialties, with meats and fish of fresh quality and deliciously prepared pastas. The service staff is friendly, attentive and courteous.

WELL RECOMMENDED

We happened to be going by Ben's Kosher Restaurant on Northern Boulevard and Glen Cove Road in Greenvale last week and remembered that it was one of the restaurants recommended in your Discovery.

At first we thought that it was not going to be what we wanted but then after we were inside it became clear that Ben's is the whole thing, just as it used to be in those famous restaurant delicatessans that are now out of business in New York City. You can get anything from a sandwich to a full meal and the members of our group did all of that. To recite what we all had would be impossible but let it suffice to say that we were well pleased and recommend Ben's. E.McB.

Decor Score

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

EFFICIENCY — This efficiency apartment features a storage unit wrapped in carpet to match the floor.

Turn a bedroom into an efficiency apartment

Q. Our 19-year-old son will be living with us during a protracted break in his college career — he is coming home to work while he decides what he really wants to do.

I would like to do over his room so it becomes a self-contained apartment, and any ideas will be appreciated. — L.S.M.

A. Treat his room as if it were an efficiency apartment, minus the kitchen.

Instead of a bed, I would use a sleep sofa with a cocktail table in front; lamps tailored for a living room; a desk, if there's space, and a couple of comfortable chairs for guests.

Your almost-grown son, accustomed as he is to living on his own, will appreciate a place to entertain his friends. The less bedroom-y the decor, therefore, the better.

The photo we show here offers another idea worth appropriating: the wall-long storage unit that houses records and A/V equipment in a minimum of floor space.

The unit is easily home-built from inexpensive pine boards and plywood because it's wrapped in remnants from the carpeting that covers the floor, wall to wall (it's made of Anso V Worryfree nylon, which is anti-static as well as soil- and stain-repellent).

Both you and your son will appreciate the acoustical benefits of so much carpeting, as well, especially when he cranks up the compact disc player!

Q. We are arguing over what color to paint the side porch on our late 19th century Victorian. The gingerbread and railings will be white like the rest of the house, and we have agreed to make the floor a bright green.

My husband insists that the porch ceiling must be blue — he says they're always blue, but he doesn't know why. Do you? — S.H.

A. Because the blue cuts down the glare and adds to the cooling qualities that made porches so important during pre-air-conditioning days.

Any dark color would perform the same service, as long as you stay on the cool side of the color wheel — purple, violet, blue-greens and the like.

Q. I have a tester bed with a simple railing that goes around all four posts.

My taste runs more to contemporary than traditional but, still, I like the idea of sleeping under a canopy. What could I use that doesn't smack of the 18th century?

A. Something very tailored, such as a quilted, solid-color top with no side curtains, a piece of garden trellis cut to fit and painted, or a long throw of fabric that would run behind the bed head, up over the canopy, and down again to the floor at the foot.

Backyard Gardener

By Patrick Denton

Today I would like to describe some books of interest to flower lovers and gardener/cooks.

"The Best of the Pumpkin Recipes Cookbook." If you have a number of pumpkins still in storage, or if you enjoy growing pumpkins every year, this is a book for you. It's a no-frills, coil-back pumpkin cookbook offering 383 recipes from appetizers to soups, breads, cakes, muffins and cookies, pies, desserts, side dishes and main dishes.

It's edited by Helen and Emil Dandar who have also published a similar zucchini cookbook with over 400 recipes.

"The Best of the Pumpkin Recipes Cookbook" is available from Sterling Cookbooks, P.O. Box 16, Penndel, PA 19047. The price is

"Recipes from a Kitchen Garden." This 92-page, softcover cookbook is written by Renee Shepherd of Shepherd's Garden Seeds. The book is a collection of recipes tried over the years and kept as favorites. It's a natural extension of the seed catalog, which features selected recipes and specializes in gourmet and European vegetables and herbs and edible flowers.

A sample: Basil Preserved in Parmesan Cheese, Rosy Dilled Radish Dip, Calendula Confetti Eggs, Pumpkin Cobbler, Garden Gazpacho, Light and Fluffy Corn Pudding, Chocolate Chip Carrot Cake, Brussels Sprouts and Carrots with Creamy Lemon-Poppyseed Sauce, Anise Hyssop Flower Drop Cookies, Marinated Anise Hyssop Baked Chicken.

"Flowers That Last Forever."

The book ends with a chapter called "Making a Profit from Dried-Plant Material." This useful final chapter offers a number of options, including simply selling the flowers fresh, straight from the garden for others to process and make into arrangements and gift items. Or, concentrating on the end-product side of the business, a person could use some homegrown and some purchased flowers and foliage to make a number of gift items for sale.

It seems to me that dried plant material has to be one of the better choices for anyone wishing to earn some extra income from his or her gardening and handicraft skills. I've noticed that whenever I've had a garage sale, some of the first items to go are the dried flower arrangements. Because my wife makes new ones nearly every year, from time to time we find ourselves with an embarrassment of dried flower bouquets. So we thin out the collection whenever we have a sale or add items to a neighbor's garage sale.

"Flowers That Last Forever" begins with a detailed guide to growing and preserving 31 different flowers and grasses. A section follows on various preserving techniques such as air drying, using dessicants, microwave ovens, glycerine and pressing.

There is a guide, as well, to commonly found seed pods and seed heads that are useful in dried arrangements.

Another section of the book outlines some of the ways to use the dried flowers and plants. This covers making dried arrangements, flower and leaf pictures, wreaths, corsages and garlands, swags, and with pressed flower calendars, bookmarks, gift tags, place mats and so on. A lovely idea that caught my eye among the "Hanging Items" is to thread fresh flowers that air-dry well into a garlic braid as you make it.

Included in this crafts part of the book are lists of tools and supplies and things to collect that will be of assistance in making items with dried flowers and plants. Once you start making dried flower crafts, for example, you'll never throw away another cracked or chipped teacup.

'Can do' with canned fruits

Winter isn't the best time of year for fresh fruits — but with a microwave in your kitchen, you will find there is a lot you can do to turn canned fruits into delicious main dishes, side dishes and desserts.

Warm canned peaches in your microwave. Drizzle with warm brandy and ignite, then serve over ice cream or pound cake.

Or microwave canned drained pear halves in white wine with several cloves and a section of cinnamon stick for a simple but elegant dessert.

Try adding well-drained canned blueberries to microwaved muffins for a special treat. Top with sifted powdered sugar when cool and they will be extra pretty.

Microwaved pies are even easier when you use canned pie fillings, and canned mandarin orange sections add color and flavor to poultry or pork recipes.

There are lots of other ways canned fruits can add interest to your winter diet.

Make cottage cheese or plain yogurt more interesting by serving with canned peaches or fruit cocktail.

Skewer canned pineapple chunks along with other ingredients in a shish kebab.

Add canned fruits to Jello salads, or serve canned applesauce on the side with pancakes or roast pork.

The heat processing of commercial canned goods destroys bacteria that cause food spoilage, and also removes most of the pesticide residue — so canned fruits are often freer of pesticides than fresh.

Canned fruits packed in fruit juice or light syrup will be lower in calories than those packed in heavy syrup.

Canned fruits are easy to keep on hand, so you always have an assortment of fruits to choose from — even in the middle of winter. Store all canned goods in a cool, dry place. Avoid storing near furnaces or radiators, and do not allow cans to freeze.

While canned goods will stay fresh and wholesome for several years, the Canned Food Information Council recommends a regular turnover of one year, to guarantee best quality.

Acid foods like canned fruit should not be stored in the can after it has been opened. The food may pick up traces of iron or lead from the can, and fruit can develop a metallic taste. It's best to remove unused portions immediately after opening the can, storing in a clean plastic or glass container in the refrigerator.

MICRO-TIP OF THE WEEK

When preparing microwaved jams or jellies, remember to use an extra large cooking utensil, so that the mixture will have room to boil up. To sterilize jelly jars, fill half full with water and microwave until water comes to a full boil.

DOUBLE-GOLD MANDARIN CARROT COINS

- 4 cups carrots, cut into 2-inch "coins"
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 (11-ounce) can mandarin orange sections, drained
- 1 tablespoon honey
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon each ginger and cinnamon

Yields 6 servings.

Preparation time: 5 to 10 minutes.

Cooking time: 9 to 12 minutes (plus 3 minutes standing time).

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Combine carrots and butter or margarine in 1½-quart microwave-safe casserole. Cover and microwave 7 to 9 minutes, stirring every 3 minutes, until carrots are tender.

Add all remaining ingredients. Cover and microwave 2 to 3 minutes longer, or until heated through. Let stand, covered, 3 minutes before serving.

FRUIT COBBLER

- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ¼ cup whole-wheat flour
- ¼ cup wheat germ
- ½ cup chopped walnuts or pecans
- ½ cup brown sugar, packed
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Dash ground nutmeg
- 1 (21-ounce) can apple or cherry pie filling
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Yields 4 to 6 servings.

Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes.

Cooking time: 7 to 10 minutes (plus 5 minutes standing time).

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power); MEDIUM-HIGH (70 percent power).

Place butter or margarine in small microwave-safe bowl. Microwave at HIGH setting about 1 minute, to melt. Add flour, wheat germ, nuts, brown sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg, tossing to mix evenly. Set aside.

Simply delicious scallops

It's scallop season. True, we can usually find this succulent bivalve year-round, but winter is harvest time for scallops, and somehow they just seem to taste better with a vision before us of hardy fisherman in the chill winter air, hauling up nets full of beautiful scallop shells.

Scallops come in two convenient sizes.

The larger size scallops are known as sea scallops. We particularly like these for broiling because a light breading can protect the exterior, while the interior cooks quickly to a meaty firmness without drying out.

The smaller variety, known as bay scallops, take well to a quick sauteing and are also the best choice for ceviche, the wonderful South American salad of scallops "cooked" by marinating in lime or lemon juice.

In either case, the cardinal sin (unfortunately, all too easy to commit) is to overcook the scallop. Anything more than the minimum of cooking and they become unappetizingly dry and tough.

If you add scallops to a stew or chowder, for example, do so only seconds before serving time or you risk presenting a very chewy finished product.

Today we provide two very simple and basic scallop preparations, believing that, as with most seafood, simple is usually best.

Sauteing is our preferred cooking method for the smaller bay scallops and we like them lightly dredged in seasoned flour so they brown nicely on the outside.

Our recipe is written for a half pound of scallops to serve two people. If you're cooking for four, simply wipe out the pan with a paper towel and repeat the process.

The Broiled Sea Scallops recipe calls for a light coating of bread crumbs — either fresh or dried. While both recipes were developed using the minimum of fat, we do suggest finishing off with a lemon/butter/parsley sauce, an unbeatable combination with any seafood.

TIPS

• In Europe, the bright pink scallop coral, or roe, is considered a delicacy. Some U.S. restaurants are beginning to present the mollusk this way.

• For the Broiled Scallops, line the baking pan with foil for easier cleanup.

• To make fresh bread crumbs, pulse good quality white bread in a food processor. One piece of bread makes about ½ cup of crumbs.

SAUTEED BAY SCALLOPS WITH LEMON BUTTER

- ½ pound bay scallops (the small ones)
- ¼ cup milk

- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- ¼ cup flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 teaspoons minced parsley
- Lemon wedges and parsley sprigs for garnish, if desired

Yields 2 servings.

Preparation and cooking time: 20 minutes.

Rinse scallops under cold running water and drain. In small bowl, soak scallops in milk for 10 minutes.

Heat oil in large skillet set over medium heat.

Combine flour, salt and pepper in paper or plastic bag. Lift scallops out of milk with slotted spoon and shake in seasoned flour, dusting off excess. Sauté over medium-high heat for 2 to 3 minutes, turning with tongs or slotted spoon so that scallops brown evenly. Transfer to plate.

Pour excess oil out of skillet. Set skillet over low heat, add lemon juice and bring to simmer. Cut butter into 2 pieces, add to sauce and swirl skillet so butter is incorporated. Stir in parsley and taste for salt and pepper.

Serve scallops set in small pool of sauce or spoon sauce over scallops. Garnish with lemon wedges and parsley sprigs, if desired.

BROILED SEA SCALLOPS WITH LEMON BUTTER

- 1 pound sea scallops (the big kind)
- ¾ cup milk
- ½ cup dried bread crumbs or 1 cup fresh bread crumbs
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- 5 tablespoons melted butter, divided
- 1½ tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons minced parsley
- Additional salt and pepper to taste
- Lemon wedges and parsley sprigs for garnish, if desired

Yields 4 servings.

Preparation and cooking time: 20 minutes.

In small bowl, soak scallops in milk for 10 minutes.

Preheat broiler and set rack about 4 inches away from element.

Combine bread crumbs, salt and pepper on plate.

Lift scallops from milk with slotted spoon and roll in bread crumbs until completely coated.

Place under broiler and cook for 2 to 5 minutes (depending on size), until crumbs are golden brown and scallops are springy firm to touch.

Giving up T-bone steak for tomato salad

Victory through vegetables, ran a mocking slogan of the counter-cultural '60s. As we move from the conservative '80s to the uncertain '90s, the claim seems to be coming true, after a fashion.

Vegetarianism — the doctrine that rejects the flesh of animals and sometimes all animal products whatsoever — has edged toward widespread acceptance, at least in part.

No one can be sure how many Americans follow the veggie doctrine. The U.S. Department of Agriculture offers a ballpark estimate of 2 percent of the population, about 5 million people, with no great confidence in its accuracy.

Lucy Moll, editor-at-large of Vegetarian Times magazine, said that the figure of 8 million to 9 million is often quoted, based on a survey by a polling organization. This too, she said, is none too reliable.

Experience suggests that there are more vegetarians than ever before, but evidence is lacking.

More important in the larger scheme of things, orthodox nutritionists and everyday citizens have come to a tacit acceptance of a large measure of vegetarian doctrine, as shown by the trend away from red meat and a new emphasis on plant foods and fiber in the diet. Many Americans, concerned about their health, have become virtual fellow travelers along the veggie way.

Vegetarians trace their lineage back to Pythagoras in ancient Greece and to the vast Buddhist and Hindu traditions of the East.

In the United States, the doctrine achieved an earlier peak of influence around the turn of the century. The most prominent diet reformer of that era, Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, attracted the rich and famous to the vegetarian regime at the Battle Creek Sanitarium in Michigan. While he was at it, Kellogg founded the breakfast cereal industry and the modern health food business.

During those days, Americans were worried about supposed scourges, such as autointoxication and excess uric acid, blamed on the eating of meat.

Vegetarianism appears to have gone into a decline by 1920. By World War II, it was mentioned in nutritional texts, if at all, as a regrettable eccentricity.

The veggie persuasion began a resurgence in the late '60s. In part, the conversion was probably another way for rebellious youth to annoy their elders, but the cause has outlasted the era of psychedelics and radical chic. Several reasons have contributed to the trend:

- The rehabilitation of carbohydrates. Reducing fads, athletic trainers and health evangelists used to share a strong pro-protein, anti-carbohydrate bias. But in recent years, carbohydrates — starches and sugars — have finally been recognized for what they have always been: the primary fuel of the human body.

- Theories of "carbohydrate loading" came into fashion for endurance athletes and trickled down into the larger audience of neighborhood joggers. Nutritionists now emphasize complex carbohydrates in the diet and freely accept vegetable sources of protein.

- While the orthodox still prefer a diet that draws from all food groups, the mainstream has perceptibly shifted closer to the vegetarian line, which has always disparaged the American love affair with protein (commonly identified with animal sources) and praised the carbohydrates plentiful in plant foods.

- The concern about cholesterol and fat. Medical science now urges people to consume less fat, seen as a contributing factor in a number of serious diseases. Cholesterol and saturated fat have been especially implicated in heart attacks. The trouble with a high-protein diet, we are now instructed, is that it is almost inevitably high-fat. The net effect of these strictures has been to move Americans away from red meat and animal fat.

- Plants don't make cholesterol, and although some vegetable fats are saturated, such substances in the American diet mostly come from animal sources. A plant-based regimen tends to be high in bulk and low in fat and caloric density, leading to easy weight control. Vegetarians could say, "We told you so." And they do.

- The rediscovery of fiber. It isn't only vegetarians any longer who believe that the rich, over-refined American diet needs a healthy measure of what our parents used to call "roughage," the non-digestible fiber found in plant foods.

- Mainstream authorities now talk up the virtues of fiber, and some types have been seized upon in the battle against cholesterol. The middle-age executive, spooning up his oat bran, looks like a vegetarian fantasy come to life.

- The "small planet" ideology. Frances Moore Lappe's book, "Diet for a Small Planet," first published in 1972 and often reprinted since, popularized the notion that the rich nations of the West gobble up the world's agricultural resources because of our appetite for high-cost meat production, and she proposed vegetarianism as a moral antidote to our greed. The argument persuaded many Americans that giving up meat was the virtuous thing to do.

- The animal rights movement. A small but determined band has adopted the welfare of our fellow creatures as a passionate cause. This has brought new energy to vegetarianism, which deplores both the killing of animals for food and decries what it describes as inhumane conditions on factory farms.

- The fascination with Eastern religions. An influential segment of the American upper-middle class discovered Zen in the '50s and went on to explore various branches of Hinduism and other varieties of Buddhism. These beliefs honor vegetarianism, which spread as a consequence. More recently, immigration has added native followers of these traditions to our social mix. The Seventh-day Adventist Church, founded in the United States, has been a center of American vegetarianism for more than 100 years.

- The fondness for Asian and Mediterranean cuisines. As Americans developed more sophisticated palates, they discovered that other people don't eat as much meat as we do. This is especially true of Asia, where millions practice vegetarianism out of conviction or necessity. The enormously popular Mediterranean cooking spares meat as well. Vegetarianism has never made much headway as a doctrine among Italians, but dishes like pasta with marinara sauce fit the requirements perfectly.

Those converting to vegetarianism have several varieties from which to choose. The vast majority of believers are ovo-lactarians; they eat milk and egg products.

Vegans follow a stricter path. They refuse all animal foods and some go further and disallow the use of any animal product, such as leather and wool.

A few vegetarians seek out yet more extreme sects, and their eccentricities make it easy to poke fun at the overall movement. We find those who eat only raw fruits and vegetables, those who munch vast quantities of sprouts, those who worry that eating root vegetables offends "plant consciousness."

Gurus gather around the fringes. The late George Ohsawa (aka Sakurazawa Nyotii) advocated an ultimate macrobiotic diet consisting of nothing but brown rice and a little fluid; some of the devout followed this regimen over the edge, into malnutrition and even death.

Viktoras Kulvinskis urges the juice of wheat grass as powerful medicine. "Dr. Johnny Lovewisdom" lived in an extinct volcano in Ecuador while subsisting on fruit and juicy vegetables; by this means he was able, among other accomplishments, to master his seminal emissions.

And at the outermost circle of nuttiness, the breatharians propose that human beings have the potential to live on air and water with perhaps a few vitamin pills. Wiley Brooks, founder of the Breatharian Institute of America in Arlington, Texas, said he did just that for 18 years. Some think that his claim should be taken with a grain of organic sea-salt.

Vegetarianism has a more liberal wing, too. Gary Null, the most frequently published spokesman for the cause, gives a nod to "pesco-vegetarianism," which allows fish. Null even speaks of a poultry-eating "pollo-vegetarianism." With such latitudinarianism, many a health-conscious person would find a pew in the veggie congregation.

Through vegetarianism's long history, adherents have based their claims on moral grounds: Eating meat makes people bestial, while a diet derived from plants develops wisdom and benevolence. Present-day followers continue to claim that vegetarianism will lead to a kinder, gentler society. Casual experience supports the impression that vegetarians are indeed more benign than average, but it was probably their attitudes that inspired their adoption of the diet rather than the other way around.

In any case, the uplifting effect of vegetarianism doesn't always work. It failed conspicuously with the most notorious adherent, Adolf Hitler. He remains a standing embarrassment to vegetarians, and although they love to catalog the famous people who have adopted their diet, they often forget to mention him.

Vegetarians and their opponents have worn themselves out debating over what diet is most natural for humankind. They brandish dental charts and intestinal diagrams, they search anthropology and archaeology for arguments, all to little avail. Nutritionists now readily concede that vegetarianism can be a perfectly sound option, although the devotee may have to exercise special care to arrange an adequate diet.

Ovo-lactarians should have no trouble obtaining plenty of the essential nutrients. Milk, cheese and eggs easily compensate for whatever plant sources may lack. Many athletes and people who do physical labor thrive on such programs.

Vegetarians have to consume a large bulk of low-density foods in comparison to a standard diet to obtain required nutrients, and this is one reason they tend to stay thin. By the same token, they can ill afford the reduced food value of many refined products, such as table sugar and white flour. They must eat whole-grain products — but most of them do this anyway because it comes with the territory.

Vegans face greater problems. Without any animal-produced foods, they have to pay special attention to consuming a balanced ration of the amino acids necessary to health. This can be done by combining plant proteins, as in the classic pairings of beans and rice. Traditional cuisines are rich in such dishes.

Vitamin B12 remains a sticking point. It is available from hardly any plant sources, and vegans risk depleting their livers of this essential nutrient and ending up with nerve damage and pernicious anemia. They need vitamin supplements. Further, vegan diets are not good for growing children, whose nutritional needs are more acute than adult needs.

Vegetarian cooks used to dish out penitential fodders such as brown rice and steamed veggies. Many still do, but a vast array of options has opened up from cultures where meat has always played a minor role and often is missing entirely.

Here's a Southern Italian main-dish soup — a variation on minestrone — that offered a balance of proteins before nutritionists discovered the idea. The name means "A Thousand Little Things."

MILLECOSEDDE

- ¼ pound dried chick-peas
- 1 onion, chopped
- 1 stalk celery, chopped
- 1 carrot, peeled and chopped
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- ½ head red cabbage
- ½ pound fresh mushrooms
- 2 quarts water
- ¼ pound rigatoni or other short pasta
- Salt, pepper
- ½ cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

Yields 4 servings.

Pick over and rinse chick-peas in cold water. Place in saucepan with plenty of water to cover. Bring to boil for 2 minutes. Allow to stand, covered, for 1 hour. Drain.

In very large saucepan or soup pot, saute onion, celery and carrot in oil until lightly colored. Add cabbage and mushrooms. Cook, stirring, until cabbage has wilted. Add beans and water.

Bring soup to simmer and cook gently for about 2 hours, or until beans are tender. Cook pasta in soup just before serving. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Serve with cheese.

This soup, prepared up to point of adding pasta, improves on second day.

Non-vegetarian variation: Use chicken broth instead of water.

India offers the greatest body of vegetarian dishes, which rely on interesting spicing rather than a simulation of meat.

This comes from Chandra Williams of Chandra's Fiji-Indian Cuisine in Manhattan Beach, Calif.

Black mustard seed is available at Indian groceries; standard yellow mustard seed is not really the same.

SPICED WINTER SQUASH

- 1 teaspoon black mustard seed (or to taste)

- 1 teaspoon whole cumin seed (or to taste)

Cooking oil

- ¼ onion, minced

- 1 or 2 (or more) cloves garlic, minced

- 1 portion banana squash, peeled and cut up — around 6 cups

Salt, pepper

Chili pepper to taste (optional)

Lime juice to taste (optional)

Yields 4 servings.

Heat oil in large saucepan with lid. When hot, add mustard seed and cumin seed. Let them sizzle for a minute or so. Have cover handy, for mustard seed will begin to pop. Allow them to do so for a few seconds without burning; add onion and garlic and cook until very lightly brown.

Add cut-up squash and turn chunks in hot oil. Cover and allow to simmer about 30 minutes; squash will render quite a bit of juice. Dish is done when squash is very soft, almost a puree. As it cooks, season to taste with salt, pepper and chili pepper and lime juice, if desired.

This dish also improves on standing; I make a large quantity at a time, and I prefer more mustard seed and cumin than indicated here.

Glhivciu, a casserole of vegetables, is the Romanian national dish.

Feel free to substitute ingredients or add to the list; the more the better. This is both an exceptionally satisfying dish and a good way to clean out the refrigerator. If you happen to have an artichoke, add the pared and cut up heart for a savory touch.

This is one of those recipes where a little of this and a little of that adds up to a lot of food. My version is more Mediterranean than Balkan.

GLHIVCIU

- Olive oil
- 1 onion, sliced
- 1 or 2 cloves garlic, minced (or more)
- 1 green bell pepper, sliced
- 1 red bell pepper, sliced
- 2 carrots, peeled and sliced
- 1 potato, peeled and diced
- 2 stalks celery, sliced
- 1 large zucchini, sliced
- 1 yellow squash, sliced
- About 2 cups of cauliflower flowerets
- 1 cup fresh green beans, cut up
- 1 cup peas, fresh or frozen
- Salt, pepper
- A large pinch each thyme, parsley and basil (or sprigs of fresh herbs)
- 1 bay leaf

Yields about 8 servings, maybe more.

In large frying pan, saute onion and garlic in olive oil for a couple of minutes. Then add ingredients in order given, the tougher vegetables first, stirring each into hot oil. You can prepare an ingredient as the previous one stews in the pot. Be sure to add plenty of herbs or dish will lack character.

Continue to simmer gently for 20 minutes or so, until vegetables are tender but not overcooked. (The usual recipes call for ingredients to be placed in casserole along with about a cup of stock, then covered and baked in a 350 F oven for 45 minutes to an hour. The top-of-the-stove method, I think, is easier.)

Variation: Add a large pinch of fennel seeds to the seasonings

Chinese stir-frying produces wonderfully crisp and flavorful veggies, inspiring Western adaptations like this:

CRUNCHY VEGETABLE STIR-FRY

- 1 bunch broccoli
- ¼ cup vegetable oil
- 1 small onion, thinly sliced
- ½ cup soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon Chinese rice wine or domestic dry sherry
- 3 cloves garlic, pressed
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon five-spice powder (see note)
- 1 (8-ounce) can water chestnuts, drained and sliced
- ½ pound mushrooms, sliced
- ½ cup slivered almonds, toasted

Yields 4 to 6 servings.

Cut broccoli into flowerets. Peel stems and cut crosswise into ¼-inch-thick slices. Rinse and drain. Heat 2 tablespoons oil in wok or large skillet; stir-fry onion until tender. Remove.

Stir-fry broccoli in 2 tablespoons hot oil over high heat for 1 minute. Add a couple of tablespoons of water, cover and steam 2 to 3 minutes, adjusting heat so food does not burn. In measuring cup, combine soy sauce, sherry, garlic, sugar and spice powder. Add to wok with water chestnuts, mushrooms and almonds. Cover; steam 1 minute. Add cooked onions. Toss well. Serve with rice.

Note: Five-spice powder contains star anise, cinnamon and other flavorings. It is sold, ready mixed, in Asian groceries.

BROWN BAG CHEF'S SALAD

- ½ cup lettuce, torn into pieces
- ½ cup spinach, torn into pieces
- ¼ cup kidney beans, cooked, drained
- 2 tablespoons shredded carrots
- 2 green pepper rings
- 2 radishes, sliced
- 2 broccoli flowerets
- 2 tomato wedges
- 2 tablespoons Swiss cheese strips
- ¼ cup cooked chicken cut in strips
- 1½ tablespoons low-calorie Italian dressing (bottled)

Yields 1 serving with about 210 calories, 37 milligrams of cholesterol and 257 milligrams of sodium.

KITCHEN HINTS

Fine sauces often need straining

But don't lose any sauce.

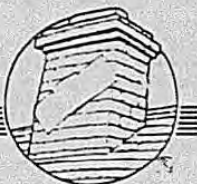

Here's how to retrieve every drop:

1. With a spatula or pestle, force sauce through a stainless steel or nylon sieve.
2. Plenty of sauce clings to the underside of the sieve. Scrape the sauce from the bottom with a rubber spatula. No sauce is wasted.
3. Discard solids inside the sieve.

Gold leaf can be cleaned — gently

Q. I have a couple of picture frames in gold leaf that were stored in an attic and have become rather dusty.

I am unsure on the proper method to clean these frames so that the gold leaf is not harmed. Do you have any suggestions? — A.M.

A. To clean gold-leaf frames and furniture, use a solution of 1 cup denatured alcohol mixed with 2 cups of clear water.

Clean the surfaces well with a clean cloth saturated with this solution. Treat gently, being careful not to rub the surface so as not to damage the gold leaf. Wipe dry (gently) immediately to remove any moisture.

Q. Our patio door has insulated glass panes. Several of these have collected moisture between the panes of glass. This is an eyesore.

Is there any way to get rid of this moisture between the layers of glass? — J.K.

A. This is a fairly common problem, particularly with older double-paned glass windows.

If the panes of glass are commercially produced double-pane windows, repairing a faulty seal is not a do-it-yourself project. The process involves removing the existing seal, cleaning out the edge joints and cleaning the panes.

Most insulated windows have a spacer around the edges between the panes that contain a substance to absorb residual moisture. If the seal fails, the material becomes ineffective and must be replaced.

Finally, the window must be reassembled and the edge joints sealed.

Your only solution is to replace the windows. There usually is a warranty that covers window seal failure. Depending on the manufacturer, the warranty can range from five to 20 years.

Newer products seem to hold up better than previously manufactured double-pane windows. However, I recommend that you keep your sales receipt if you have to purchase a replacement, so you can seek restitution if the new panes fail within the warranty period.

Q. Our 2-year-old marked the walls of our master bedroom with bright red and blue crayons.

Some of the markings are on wallpaper which is fairly durable, but I am uncertain as to the best approach to try cleaning it as well as a cream-colored painted wall.

Can you advise me on any suitable cleaners for crayon markings? — C.A.

A. One effective method of removing crayon marks is to apply a thin coat of rubber cement glue. Allow this to dry, then rub it off.

Much of the stain will be removed with the layer of glue.

Naphtha is another effective cleaner with crayon wax. A commercial cleaner on the market which is effective with crayon marks is De-Solv-It.

Some color may remain even after the removal of the crayon wax. If this happens, try cleaning the remaining stain by rubbing a little liquid detergent and a few drops of ammonia into the stain. Tamp gently. Flush with cool water.

Trisodium phosphate mixed with detergent and household bleach is another effective cleaner for painted walls (not the wallpaper). However, if you use this solution you will probably have to wash the entire wall or perhaps the entire room, as it may lighten the paint.

Test the trisodium cleaning solution in an inconspicuous area before washing the entire wall to make sure the wall and the paint job will not be damaged by this strong cleaner.

Our Children

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

A thin line between caution and fear

Q. As a parent I'm worried about the possible injuries to which my children are exposed. I'm a single, working mother, so I don't spend as much time with them as I would like to.

Despite a demanding job, I find myself repeatedly wondering while I'm at work, "Are they all right? Have they hurt themselves? What are they doing?"

We need the money, so I can't quit working and stay home with them, but how can I get relief from worrying about them and the feelings of guilt I have?

A. You can't insulate your children from all the possible hazards around them. But there are precautions you can take that can help relieve both the worry and guilt you feel, so normal, especially for a single, working parent.

If your children are in organized school or out-of-school sports, you can talk to their coaches or involved teachers or other parents, and find out what protective clothing the youngsters wear, what professionals are involved and how well prepared they are to cope with emergencies, and how well they can help your children prevent injuries.

You can teach them the rules of safety related to traffic, bicycles, and strangers, and of health based on diet, exercise, and sleep.

You can encourage your children to keep doors locked when they are home and discuss with them the dangers that may be involved in opening doors.

For the older children, motorcycle and automobile safety may have to be stressed.

To flesh out a list of safety factors, ask your children to add any ideas that occur to them and what they suggest for coping. Their wisdom along that line may help put your mind at ease.

Parents can toss aside the so-called Murphy's Law ("If anything can go wrong, it will") if they help youngsters recognize, prevent and handle many of today's threats to their safety and health.

Maybe you already have become aware of one difficulty involved in all this. Although we want our children to be safe, going into so many of the dangers could create unnecessary fears. The line between being careful and being scared is a thin one.

Q. I have a hard time accepting the fact that my wife and I can argue over something about which so much has been written and researched.

It all relates to drugs during pregnancy. Her point is that their use by the woman won't affect the baby. Therefore, her conclusion: She can use as much marijuana as she wants to.

Can you believe it? I really can't, not after all I've read in recent years.

It's as though the old line, "I've made up my mind, so don't confuse me with facts," makes sense to her. Not to me though. How about you?

A. I'm on your wavelength because I believe the facts as you do.

Has she gone (with you) to her obstetrician? That individual ought to be able to provide convincing evidence that she is on the wrong track, and her baby is the one who may suffer seriously.

Because it is also your baby I can easily understand why you are so concerned.

Q. Our little boy's best friend at his preschool is apparently a boy of another race. I wonder whether this will lead to a problem and whether I should do something about it.

Your comments please.

A. What kind of problem? When you let me know what you anticipate, I'll try to respond.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

By William M. Acosta

How to avoid crowds at the SS office

Q: I will soon reach retirement age. I prefer to go into my local office to file my application. However, it is usually very crowded.

A: Any suggestions? — E.D.P.

A: To make sure you don't have a wait when you do apply, it's a good idea to call ahead and make an appointment. Then you will be guaranteed that someone will see you at your scheduled time and you won't have to wait in the office.

When you call ahead to make your appointment, be sure to verify the documents needed with the people at Social Security. Check your phone book for the number of Social Security and call to make an appointment.

Q: I realize that certain income requirements must be met in order to be eligible for Supplemental Security Income, but are there special rules regarding the income of a child for the child to be eligible? — A.K.

A: A child qualifies for SSI on the same basis as a blind or disabled adult.

If the unmarried child under age 18 is living at home, some of the parents' income may be included with the child's.

Allowances are made for parents' work and living expenses and for other children living in the home. The remaining parental income is included with the child's to decide if the child is eligible.

Q: I am a 55-year-old divorcee. Can I be entitled on my former husband's record if he remarries? — E.O.

A: If your marriage lasted 10 years or longer, you will be entitled to the same rights and benefits as if you remained married. This is true even if your former husband remarries.

If your ex-husband continues to work when he is eligible for benefits, you will be eligible for benefits on his record when you reach age 62, if you have been divorced for at least two years. However, if you remarry, you may lose rights to any benefits on your former husband's earnings record.

Q: I noticed that my check has the notation "VOID AFTER ONE YEAR" printed on the front.

I thought that a government check was good for an indefinite period of time. — M.T.

A: A change in the federal banking laws, effective Oct. 1, 1989, set the one-year limit on cashing checks.

All checks issued by the U.S. government, including Social Security and Supplemental Security Income checks were affected. People have until Sept. 30, 1990, to cash existing U.S. government checks.

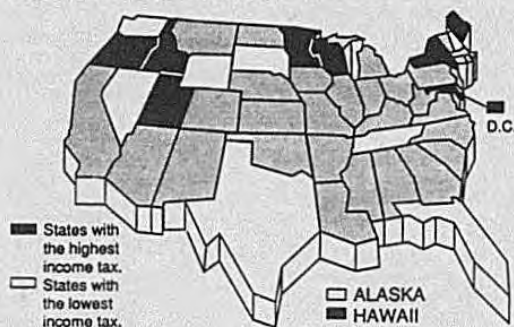

Most people will not be affected because they cash their checks right away.

DISCOVERY

Playing with dynamite

Health officials will be testing soil contaminated by chemicals from explosives research to see if natural microorganisms can be encouraged to neutralize the contaminants — a process called bioremediation.

The culprits to be removed

Trinitrotoluene (TNT)  $C_6H_2(CH_3)(NO_2)_3$

TNT forms colorless needlelike crystals that can be melted at fairly low temperatures (178°F) and poured into casings or molds. It does not explode until 464°F and is fairly resistant to shock. For these reasons it is a preferred explosive. Prolonged exposure will cause sneezing, coughing, sore throat, muscle pain and eventually kidney and liver damage.

Dinitrotoluene (DNT)

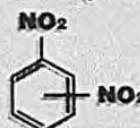

$C_6H_3(CH_3)(NO_2)_2$

Prolonged exposure to DNT will cause anemia, jaundice and anoxia.

Dinitrobenzene (DNB)

$C_6H_4(NO_2)_2$

Prolonged exposure to DNB will cause a burning or bad taste in the mouth, distorted vision, yellowing of the skin, eyes and hair, anemia and anoxia.

Mainly for Seniors

By Leonard J. Hansen

You can travel, even with heart problems

Should heart problems or other health concerns deny you the joy of travel?

No way, says Dr. Edwin Olson, associate professor of medicine at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center in Oklahoma City.

"Mature adults with heart problems can enjoy vacations as much as those who are not sick, provided they take certain precautions.

"If you have a problem while traveling, health personnel need information, and you can plan to have it all available if such is needed."

Olson lists the following recommendations, valid both for heart patients and any mature adult with an illness:

- Compile an accurate list of all prescription and over-the-counter medications you are taking.

- Research prior to travel where to get access to emergency care in the planned vacation area.

- List the names and home and office phone numbers of your physicians. If you have been in a hospital, list that information, also.

- Obtain a summary letter from your physician outlining past treatments and any present diagnosis.

- Take along an adequate supply of medication; refills may be difficult to get away from home. To be even safer, also have prescriptions with you.

- Make up a packet of common medications you might need, such as antacids, aspirin or an aspirin substitute, anti-fever medicine and something for nausea. Ask your physician for recommendations.

- Plan your trip considering the elevation of places to be visited. Oxygen concentration is less at higher elevations, so if this may cause problems adjust your trip planning or slow down the pace of activities in such areas.

Travel is a grand adventure for most mature adults. This opportunity may still be open to you if you have a health condition — when you plan and provide well in advance for any possible eventuality.

ABOUT SEA OR MOTION SICKNESS

Most mature travelers can now say farewell to sea or motion sickness by using a dime-size medicated adhesive patch — the Transderm

Scop — to introduce medication into the bloodstream easily, continuously and effectively.

The patch is worn behind the ear, according to Dr. Kenneth Dardick of Storrs, Conn., an expert on travel medicine, and can be effective from one to three days.

An advance visit to a physician is necessary for counsel and possible prescription.

HILTON EXPANDS SENIORS PROGRAMS

Hilton Hotels Corp. has expanded benefits in its Senior HHonors travel program, now offering room discounts of up to 50 percent at 310 of its hotels worldwide. Senior HHonors is a membership program open to adults age 60 and over for an annual domestic membership fee of $25 or $50 for worldwide coverage.

Two-hundred-forty Hilton restaurants also offer 20 percent discounts on dinners for two to program members.

Information on the Senior HHonors program is available at (213) 205-4017.

UNDERSTANDING THE NATIVES

Most travelers make mistakes when visiting foreign shores because they have not studied in advance about cultures, history, taboos and graces integral to the particular country.

The library, of course, will have a selection of books on the subject and the traveler will enhance his or her own travel adventure by advance study on each area or country to be visited.

One shortcut to learning is the "Culturgram" series produced by the David M. Kennedy Center for International Studies at Brigham Young University.

Special four-page reports are published — and updated regularly — on more than 90 foreign lands, presenting capsule briefings on customs and courtesies, the people, lifestyle, national history, climate, government, economy, education, transportation, communication and health. Each publication also offers recommended reading and contact information on embassy and consulate offices.

Price for each Culturgram is only 50 cents, postpaid. Buy all 90 reports for $30.

Send your request with the name of the countries for which you want Culturgrams, with your payment to: Publication Services, David M. Kennedy Center for International Studies, Brigham Young University, 280 HRCB, Provo, UT 84602.

FOR TEENS

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Sharing a bedroom with sloppy sibling

It appears to be "Lack-of-Cleanliness Day" for two teen letter writers. Their concerns are serious, and seem to be worth sharing with you.

Dr. Abraham: We live in a small apartment, and I have to share my room with my brother. He is 13, and I'm 16.

He's a pretty good kid, but too sloppy. He leaves his dirty clothes around, and all of his possessions (including books, games, and clean clothes) are thrown around, too.

Because I'm a neat person this bothers me a lot. I've talked it over with my parents, and they've told him, bawled him out, threatened him, and even punished him (by depriving him of TV and movies). It helps for a while but then he goes back to his old habits.

What can I do to control him, or do you think it's hopeless? —

Frank: Have your parents ever worked directly with him, in his and your bedroom, organizing his stuff? It is, of course, his responsibility primarily, but maybe he doesn't know how to do it.

Does he have enough closet and drawer space into which to put everything of his? An additional bureau or chest of drawers plus shelves and hanger space (if there is room for any of these) might also be considered.

You've put this matter into your parents' hands where it seems to belong. If their efforts continue to work only temporarily, despite a possible follow-through on the suggestions I've offered, one approach you might take is to work out a room division, his "turf" and yours. Even if the room isn't very big, this might help out at least as far as you are concerned.

Dr. Abraham: There is a guy my age (we're 15) who lives next door, and he is a pain in the you-know-where. I've given him all kinds of hints that we can never be good friends, but they roll right off him.

He's really a filthy guy with dirty teeth and greasy hair, and sometimes even smells bad.

I've talked to my parents about him, but they feel sorry for him because his father is dead and his mother has to work two jobs to take care of four kids in the family.

I can feel sorry for him, too, but does that mean I have to let him come over almost every day and take time from what I want or have to do?

My parents are on my side, but don't know what to do about it. Neither do I, except to tell him that I'm busy, or stay away from my own home to avoid him, or make up some dumb excuse to get rid of him.

What ideas do you have for me? —

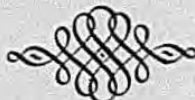

Joe: Sympathy is of course important, but you've apparently taken more than you should. Now it may be time for more direct action.

Either in person or in a letter you can tell him some things like this: He's a nice guy and all that, but you now have more friends than time permits (an opening on the "plus side" is usually a good way to start); you just have too much to do, and can't take on another friend or even an acquaintance.

Consider giving him two products as a present, ones you like and use (toothpaste and shampoo), and include a few other inexpensive ones (so that the gift isn't so obvious, even though hints don't seem to get through to him), perhaps sugarless gum, an unusual comb or toothbrush, or even an article of clothing that doesn't cost too much.

If he comes to your house again after all this, ask your parents to tell him that you are too busy to see him. Because you've handled a tough part, they might at least help on the follow-up.

In time he may become a changed, cleaner person, and if that happens you can of course reconsider the non-relationship.

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

By James G. McCollam

What is this serving dish worth?

Q: This porcelain serving dish is marked with "IPF" in a diamond with "Germany" underneath the diamond.

Can you identify the maker and tell me when this was made and its value?

A: This was made by the Ilmenau Porcelain Factory in Thuringia, Germany, during the early 1900s.

It probably would sell for about $45 to $55 in an antique shop.

Q: When I was a little girl, my aunt gave me a Hummel figurine called "The Umbrella Girl." It is about 8 inches tall and marked 152-B with the attached mark on the bottom.

A friend told me that it is quite valuable. Is it?

A: Value depends on your point of view. Since it would sell for about $900 to $1,000, most people would consider it valuable.

The mark indicates that it was made in the 1960s.

Q: I have a porcelain vase, 8 inches tall, with a portrait of a woman with long blond hair. On the bottom is a picture of an eagle with "M.Z." above and "Czechoslovakia" below.

What can you tell me about its origin and value?

A: Your vase was made by the Moritz Zdekauer Co. in Stara Role, Czechoslovakia.

It was made between 1918 and 1938 and probably would sell for $75 to $85.

Q: What can you tell me about a cast-iron bank in the shape of a bell?

It is marked "Proclaim 1776 Liberty Centennial Money 1876 Bank." It is 4 1/4 inches high on a square marble base.

A: Your bank was made in 1876 for the World's Fair in Philadelphia. It is collectible as a bank, as well as a World's Fair item.

It probably would sell for about $75 to $85.

Q: What can you tell me about a Blue Willow pattern platter marked with a picture of the world with "Alfred Meakin" across the center?

It measures 12 by 15 inches and is in fairly good condition.

A: Alfred Meakin Ltd., in Hanley, England, used the mark you describe between 1875 and 1895.

Your platter probably would sell in the $75 to $85 range.

Q: We have a combination piano and organ made by Chute & Butler Co. of Peru, Ind. It looks like an upright piano.

When was it made and how much is it worth?

A: These combination piano/organs were called piolians. They were popular in the first quarter of the 20th century.

In good condition, it should be worth $800 to $900.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q: We have recently noticed that our springer spaniel has an objectionable odor, apparently coming from her skin. Her skin seems to be oily and has a lot of scales.

A: Is it possible that she has seborrhea? If so, what can we do to cure the problem?

A: It is very possible that your springer spaniel has seborrhea.

Common signs seen with seborrhea include scaling, crusting, oiliness and loss of hair.

Seborrhea is seen most often in springer spaniels, blond cocker spaniels, German shepherds and dachshunds. It is seen in dogs of all ages and equally often in males and females.

The disease usually worsens during the winter.

Seborrhea is a disease complex with many causes; it is often difficult to determine the cause. Common causes are nutritional imbalances, external parasites such as fleas, allergies and hormonal imbalances.

Other diseases with skin lesions often look like seborrhea. Examples of these include hypothyroidism, demodetic mange, sarcoptic mange, fat-deficient diets and ringworm.

Successful treatment involves determining and correcting the underlying cause. Dietary changes, hormonal therapy, control of external parasites and removal of substances causing allergies are often indicated.

In cases in which the underlying cause cannot be determined, anti-seborrheic shampoos are often used to control the disease.

Because there is individual variation in response to different shampoos, the best one for each dog is determined by trial and error. Once an adequate shampoo is discovered, a bath once every one to two weeks is usually sufficient to control the signs of seborrhea.

Because of the discomfort that your dog is experiencing and because of the many diseases that look like seborrhea, you should have your dog examined by a veterinarian as soon as possible. Even if the disease cannot be cured, it probably can be controlled.

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Last summer I helped a friend of mine find a new home for his horse, Santana. Santana lived in a stable here on Long Island for many years. My friend decided that since he didn't have time to ride his horse enough the horse should go somewhere where he could get more attention. My friend has a cousin in Pennsylvania who has two horses and three children who like to ride, so it was decided to take the horse to the cousin's farm.

Santana knew something was up when we arrived at his stable early one morning. It took three men to push, pull and coax the horse into the moving van. He whinnied and kicked the sides of the truck for six hours straight until he arrived at the farm.

After he got his feet back on unmoving land, he lay down on the grass and rolled around on his back to show how glad he was. Now the horse is happy and has plenty of human company.

Your friend,

Aunt Tilly
