Gregory Museum Mineral Sale

The Hicksville Gregory Museum's Third Annual Mineral Sale and Open House will take place Saturday and Sunday, May 5 and 6. The museum and grounds will be open from 10 to 5 on Saturday and from noon to 5 on Sunday. Minerals for both the beginning and advanced collector will be available for purchase. On both days at 2 p.m. a talk will be given by mineral collector, John Kean, on "Opals, Cut Gems, and Other Things," to coincide with a special exhibit from his collection. Activities for children during the two days will include a lost mine and a rock swap. Children who bring minerals and fossils from their collection to the swap may trade up with the museum and collectors from local mineral clubs. A nominal fee is charged for the swap, but all other activities, including admission to the museum on the days of the open house are free.

The museum is located in the historic Heitz Place Courthouse, in Hicksville. For further information about the sale and swap, call the museum at 822-7505.

Award For Teaching Of Economics

Mr. Arthur Hager was the recipient of $100 and an Honorable Mention award by the New York State Council on Economic Education and the Mobil Oil Corporation. The award is granted in recognition of outstanding teaching in economic education to encourage teachers to develop effective curriculum materials and teaching practices.

The program submitted by Mr. Hager was developed as a teaching experience in 12th grade honors economics courses. This innovative approach consisted of a research project entitled "Analyses of Local Businesses Through An Economic Field Trip." Students selected a local business for analysis and, after preliminary research, made an on-site visitation to a business and interviewed the owner. Three of the written reports were outstanding and merit special commendation.

Carol Berman - Bethpage Sports Center
Frank Canty - Stained Glass Workshop

Cheryl Prizzi - Interview with Joan Cable

Mr. Hager and all the students in this teaching and learning experience found it to be rewarding and appreciated the cooperation of the local entrepreneurs who were interviewed. It is hoped the sharing of this teaching experience will foster the improvement of teaching economics in the schools of New York State.

Hicksville Annex Opens For School Tax

The Town Clerk's Annex, located in the Town Parking Garage at Newbridge Road and Duffy Avenue in Hicksville, will be open for five days to accept tax payments from residents who prefer to pay in person instead of by mail, according to Town Clerk Carl L. Marcellino.

"In order to provide this service to residents," Marcellino explained, "the annex will open to receive second half 1989-1990 School Taxes on Friday, May 4, and again on Monday, May 7, through Thursday, May 10, between the hours of 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m."

Residents may also pay in person at the Receiver of Taxes Office, Oyster Bay Town Hall West, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay and at Town Hall South, 977 Hicksville Road, Massapequa, during the hours of 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. weekdays.

"When paying person," Marcellino noted, "residents are urged not to pay by cash, only checks or money orders will be accepted and they should bring the entire tax bill. Please do not write on, or deface, the stub as it can cause rejection of the payment by the computer."

Traffic Signal Snarls Hicksville Fire Response

Hicksville Firefighters have once again turned to Assemblyman Fred Parola for help in getting the New York State Department of Transportation to repair the timing of the Traffic Signal at Broadway and Marie Street (East-West). Repairs have been promised since almost 2 years ago and still the light jams traffic up in front of fire Department's headquarters preventing members from getting in and apparatus getting out. In several cases outlying substations have responded as Marie Street units could not get out.

If you too have been held up by this light, address your complaints to:

James Kuzloski, Reg. Director
N.Y. State Dept.

Of Transportation
N.Y.S. Office Bldg.
Veterans Memorial Highway
Hauppauge, N.Y. 11787

As the Spring season begins, your Fire Department would like to remind all residents of a few important facts:

1) Open burning is prohibited on Long Island. You can be fined up to $500 for open burning in addition to any costs if your fire sets another's property on fire, or a firefighter is injured responding to your fire. The Town of Oyster

Bay accepts just about anything. Sanitation rules have been improved in our favor.

2) The Town S.T.O.P. Programs are starting up again. The first being held April 26 at Burns Park in Massapequa. All toxic waste should be disposed of properly. Throwing it out with your rubbish could injure sanitation workers who come in contact with it.

3) During the last few weeks firefighters arriving at several fire scenes have been confronted with cars blocking fire hydrants. This practice is widespread and poses a danger to everyone. Please keep the hydrants clear.

4) 911 Calls for Help - The Nassau County 911 system is a good system for police notification. However, it is increasingly being used to call the Fire Dept. The Hicksville Fire Dept. every year distributes phone stickers with the direct line number to the Hicksville Fire Dispatcher. A direct call saves time. A 911 Fire Call goes to Mineola through a Police operator who then transfers the call to the County Fire Communications Center who then decides which of 71 fire departments will get the call - This takes time. In Hicksville for the Fire Department dial 931-0026.

All Police Requests are 911.

Secretaries Week

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Angelo A. Delligatti, right, presents a proclamation to Patricia M. Conway, who works in Hicksville and is recording secretary of Professional Secretaries International, declaring the week of April 22-28 Secretaries Week in the Town of Oyster Bay. Receiver of Taxes Gary F. Musiello was also on hand.

VOLUNTEERS WORTH REMEMBERING

As we enter the final decade of the twentieth century, a look back reminds us of the contributions volunteers have made.

Volunteers have been the backbone of our growth and success since our earliest days as a nation. From building our farms and cities to housing the orphans and feeding the poor, volunteers provided the necessary support.

In this century, volunteers have grown in importance and have played a major role in solving many more problems and issues than ever before. Volunteers mobilized in times of disaster, joined the fight against poverty and illiteracy, and took on drugs and crime in our neighborhoods. Volunteers continue to fight all major attacks on our society. In personal battles, people volunteer to help manage issues like alcohol abuse and other illnesses through self-help groups. The homeless are fed by volunteers in shelters that house entire families. In fact, people volunteering for important causes has remained one of our most effective problem-solving resources.

Today, volunteers not only raise money for medical research, but also help in direct service to people with AIDS, cancer, and other illnesses. Volunteers don't just help the handicapped -- the handicapped have become volunteers.

People from all walks of life volunteer to help with all sorts of issues. Organizations like the Nassau County Office of Volunteer Services recruit volunteers for community needs. There are more than 325 Volunteer Centers across the country helping to meet local needs with local resources.

Volunteers are an integral part of our society. April 22-28, a special week honoring our volunteers, should not go unnoticed. As we begin the final decade of the century, let's recognize our volunteers. And may volunteers shine on long into the next century.

Parents, Educators Conference

A recent study indicates that 3 out of 4 American adults think that the problems facing today's children are more severe than the problems they experienced growing up.

Hicksville High School is presenting a unique opportunity for adults in the community to learn more about the problems facing young people and the ways in which they can help.

An evening conference for parents and educators has been scheduled for May 10, at 7 p.m., at the Hicksville High School. The evening will include an introductory presentation about the difficulties of parenting an adolescent and a series of workshops on topics of interest to parents. Each participant will have a choice as to which workshop they wish to attend. Workshops will be presented by mental health professionals who have specialties both in their topics and in work with adolescents.

The conference is being coordinated by the Peer Support Network (a group of young people who provide peer counseling in the High School) in conjunction with the school social worker and the High School administration.

There are 20 workshops from which to choose, among them: Stress Management for Parents, Understanding Drug Use, Cults and Heavy Metal, Communicating with Your Teenager, Drinking and Driving, and English as a Second Language. There is limited attendance.

Registration forms are available at Hicksville High School and must be returned no later than April 23.

For additional information, contact Mr. Dalvano, 933-6662.

"Get To Know Europe" Contest

To enter, students simply answer the questions on an entry form which may be obtained through a German or Social Studies teacher. Completed forms must be returned by April 17. Winners will be chosen from among those who answered the contest questions correctly and will be announced in early May.

No 'Easter

Letdown' Here

By Richard Evers

"Christ is risen!", the ancient refrain of triumph and exultation, echoed through crowded Hicksville churches this Easter Sunday. It was for this village's fifteen churches a day of homecoming, a day of family reunions, and a renewal of faith.

At St. Ignatius Loyola Church, all masses were crowded with families. Celebrating the 12:30 Mass, Father Peter Liu spoke movingly of Easter services as one of the Church's great seasonal moments which gather families and friends from near and far. In his inimitable, inspired manner, the esteemed Chinese-American associate-pastor evoked themes and expressions particularly dear to his heart and heritage: the blessings of family ties, the joys of periodic homecoming, the renewal of fraternity, and the enrichment which comes from reaffirmation of roots, community ties, and religious beliefs. Speaking of "our parish, the mother-church for Roman Catholics in this region," Father Liu recalled "that 1991 will be the Centennial Year of our beautiful church building."

The morning was wet, with ashen skies, and the gorgeous ladies' Easter bonnets of yesteryear lamentably few, but there were those undaunted souls who doffed or scorned raincoats to show off a bit of Easter finery and their bright corsages. And, grace of graces, the sun broke through in the afternoon, to shine on countless Hicksville Paschal family gatherings.

PAL Vice Pres. Speaks To Kiwanis

Mr. Jack Zeller, the volunteer Vice-President of the Hicksville Police Activity League, was the guest speaker at the April 11 luncheon meeting of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club. Mr. Zeller explained to his audience that the Hicksville PAL is part of the Nassau County PAL and that the Hicksville PAL is the second largest unit in Nassau County. Also, the former Police Boys Club (PBC) became the Police Activity League (PAL) in 1987 to provide an organization with membership available to both boys and girls.

The administration of the Hicksville PAL consists of a Director who is a police officer from the Nassau County Police Department, a volunteer President who serves as the Commissioner of Boys, and a volunteer Vice-President who serves as the Commissioner of Girls. The Hicksville PAL serves a total of 1100 boys and girls with 500 involved in baseball and softball, 250 in bowling, 200 in basketball, 100 in judo and karate, and 50 in lacrosse. Mr. Zeller stressed the fact that PAL is a participation league with emphasis on learning and sportsmanship, and, that every child, no matter in what place he or she finishes, receives a "trophy" at the end of the year. Funding for the program is obtained from sign-up fees based upon a family plan, as well as from donations.

Is something holding you back from opening a home equity credit line?

Announcing a home equity credit line with absolutely no upfront fees or closing costs.

Closing costs can really weigh you down.

Yet many banks ask you to pay them before they'll even lend you the money you need. Which means you may have to pay $1,300 or more on a $75,000 home equity credit line before you even use it.

EquityLink™ from The Bank of New York is different. It allows you to open a home equity credit line with absolutely no upfront fees or closing costs. Which means you don't have to pay for things like an appraisal fee, mortgage recording tax, title insurance or bank attorney's fees. We even refund the application fee at the closing.

It also offers you potential tax advantages later on, because the interest on home equity credit loans is virtually the only deductible loan interest left under the current Tax Reform Act.

Not surprisingly, The Bank of New York also offers you some of the lowest home equity interest rates in the New York area. If you'd like to know just how much you can save with an EquityLink credit line, visit one of our more than 240 convenient branches.

Or call us at 1-800-942-1784 (from NJ and CT, call 914-899-2182 collect).

So if you're thinking about a home equity credit line, think about The Bank of New York. And close the book on closing costs.

Jerry Miller

Syosset speedster Jerry Miller was never in better form than he was last Saturday, March 31, as he took first place overall in the 8th annual Dix Hills Run Against Time. Miller completed the four mile Dix Hills course in 20 minutes, 36 minutes, an average pace of 5:09 per mile, and that's pretty good by any standards.

Miller runs for the Plainview-Old Bethpage Road Runners Club, and won top honors as that Club's Runner of the Year in 1989. His next big event will be the Plainview 10 Kilometer Run for ASPIRE on April 21, where he has his sights set on another big victory.

Donors Needed In Blood Drive

As the start of springtime brings new life to Long Island, residents can give new life to those in need, by giving blood at the K of C #2520 on Monday, April 23.

Donors are welcome at the blood drive, located on Heitz Place in Hicksville, between 4 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Long Island Blood Services (LIBS) will co-sponsor the blood drive in an effort to ensure an adequate community blood supply will be available to anyone in need.

LIBS must collect approximately 700 units of blood each day to meet the needs of 48 hospitals throughout Long Island and Queens.

Each unit of blood can be used to help save as many as five lives. Once collected, each unit can be separated into one of five components, with each component used to treat a specific medical condition.

There is no substitute for blood. The human body is the only producer of this precious fluid - the volunteer blood donor - the only replacement source.

Anyone between the ages of 17 and 76, who weighs at least 110 pounds and is in general good health is eligible to donate.

For further information, please call Long Island Blood Services at 752-7326.

Hicksville Baseball Assn. Highlights

Saturday, April 14, was the day that the Farm's Royals defeated team #11, by a close score of 9-8. Dan Koloski was the winning pitcher. Joe Caruso had the save. A combined effort by Rob Lowig, Sherief Elbedeur, Steve Recher, Dan Sciorica, Joe Fuentes, Rob Greci, Jonathan Olsen, Joe DePrisco, and Bill Fogarascher won the game.

On another field on that lovely Saturday was the Rangers vs. the Twins. It was a hard played game, with the Rangers winning the day, with the score of 9 to 1. Adam Geslak and Howard Sham pitched the opener. A grand slam homer was hit by Adam Geslak and Joe Restivo hit a home run with two men on. For the first game of the season the team played well.

Input Callers Unimpressed With D'Amato's Trip

Most callers to Input think that Senator D'Amato did not accomplish much in his trip to Lithuania in answer to this question: "Did Al D'Amato do the right thing by going to Lithuania's Border?" Here are some of the answers:

POOR JUDGEMENT

Senator D'Amato used very poor judgement by attempting to enter Lithuania. He was attempting to insert himself where he did not belong and doing this while a member of the U.S. Senate. He could have provoked a very bad situation for the U.S. as well as making Lithuania's problems more volatile. I can't help but feel he was using this publicity not for the benefit of the Lithuanians. A.G.

THE SPOTLIGHT

What a way to get the spotlight off of Island Park and the HUD situation for Al D'Amato. I don't believe that he ever thought his trip would do any good for the Lithuanians. After all why would Russia care about what one Senator thought, let alone the fact that he did not have the blessing of the White House but simply decided to inject himself into the situation for publicity! J.F.

FOOLISH BELIEF

If anyone was foolish enough to believe that Al could open up the Lithuanian border they had to be crazy. The entire trip by D'Amato was a grandstander to try to tell his constituents that he was doing something for them. There is a large Lithuanian group on L.I. and they financed his trip and he made a mess out of it. But then it did keep the reporters from asking him other questions that he might not like to answer about the HUD mess. K.D.

BROUGHT ATTENTION

As a Lithuanian I think that every little bit counts. No Senator Al D'Amato couldn't do anything alone but he at least brought attention to the problems of Lithuania. For so many years we have been waiting for some outside help. We know that we will get freedom some day and we shall need the help of Al D'Amato and anyone else who will step forward. The administration in Washington has not done much for our country so at least we got some recognition from our Senator. N.L.

CAN'T GET AWAY WITH IT

I do not want to run down the work someone does for freedom. D'Amato didn't stand much chance of winning but at least he brought the attention of the world to the problems of Lithuania. Most people would not know where to find the country on the map but with the attention that Al D'Amato got for them they at least had more people interested. I think also that even though the Soviets looked as though they were not listening they were worried about the attention that Senator D'Amato was bringing and it made them think a little more about what they can get away with against Lithuania. N.S.

A POLITICIAN

Senator Al is like all politicians. They don't really care about anything but getting re-elected and Al needs the votes if he wants to run again. His record is so bad that anything has to help him. So with little to lose, he did little and got no more than we expected. The ideal was a dumb one and he carried it out just as would be expected. F.L.

SHOULD HAVE STAYED HOME

A Jimmy Carter he certainly is not! And, to that I might add - an Ambassador he is not! These comments are in reference to this week's "question" as to whether Al D'Amato did the right thing by going to Lithuania's border. With the sensitivity of the political situation in the U.S.S.R. as well as the impending Bush-Gorbachev summit and its importance to world peace, I can't possibly imagine why D'Amato decided to go to the country's border with the hopes of crossing it and possibly having constructive talks with its leaders. I can't even believe he received encouragement from the White House or the Hill to do so. As it happens, even Gorbachev was having his problems and clearly Al should have stayed home. P.G.S.

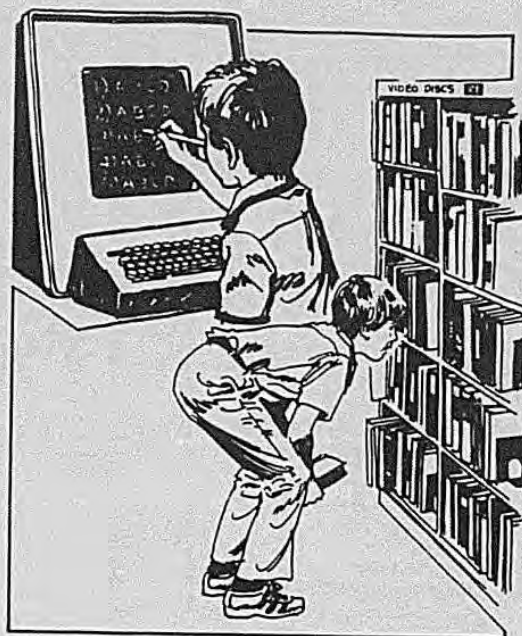

Senator D'Amato was ill advised to go to Lithuania without a valid visa. Apparently he got the treatment he deserved when the Border Guards turned him back.

It is better for the U.S. to have a sympathetic, but hands off policy in that situation and President Bush seems to be doing just that. D.J.F.

The Library Turns A New Page

By Dr. Arthur A. Delaney

There was a time, and not so very long ago, when a library was just a place from which to borrow a book or in which to read a newspaper. And the person in charge was Marion, the librarian. It has been estimated that 70 percent of Americans don't use the library. And, if they remember a library at all, it is the one overseen by Marion. Her library, like the fabled one room school house, is rapidly becoming another chapter in America's cultural past.

The thirty percent who regularly use our nation's libraries know they are on to a good thing, a community resource that is a taxpayer's bargain. The ones who never venture near today's library are losers, real losers, and in ways beyond the count. We'll take a look at a few.

The salient feature of yesterday's library was its book collection. There was little else. One went to the library to take out a book or to look up something in a book. The librarian was the collector, custodian, distributor, and retriever of books. She, and the librarian was invariably a "she," also maintained a quiet and orderly atmosphere. A stern look or two reinforced the loud SILENCE sign.

The modern librarian, a male as often as a female, is in reality an information and media specialist. His prime focus is still on the book collection, but it may not always be the focal point -- or at least the interest point -- to which today's patron gravitates. Librarians today are lending a lot more books, and librarians have taken on a role that dwarfs that of being a mere repository for books.

Most, if not all, public libraries purchase, catalogue, and lend all sorts of audio and visual material. That is, non-print material. The first non-print service libraries offered was the circulation of phonograph recordings. This naturally led to audio tapes and in recent years to the videocassette. Players, to accompany videotapes, are now also loaned by some 20 percent of America's libraries! Look in at the videotape section of your local library and you will find no lack of customers pawing and pushing their way towards that elusive title that always seems to have been checked out!

The immediate visual ancestor to the television program was the motion picture. Locally, through participating libraries, the Nassau Library System (a central resource for the county's libraries) has for years signed out reels of 16 mm motion picture films, many of them Hollywood classics. Lending films evolved into showing movies and today libraries have weekly screenings and regular film festivals. Cast your eyes along the checkout counter. There is usually a library calendar of events which lists film showings. An abbreviated listing is frequently found in local newspapers. Most libraries also mail their calendars to resident patrons. Don't think it junk mail; think of it as an invitation to new experiences and to new opportunities.

A few libraries have started to lend computer programs, and a good number have computers on hand for the patron's in-house use, although I know of no local library that checks out computer hardware. According to the American Library Association, however, six percent of computer-oriented libraries permit their patrons to take computers home. Of course, those not familiar with the esoterics of the computer world can sign up for workshops. The line between library service and traditional adult education may one day become fuzzy indeed!

Some of the items that are being checked out are mind-boggling to one whose youth was spent in the dusty, dim and single-purposed library of yesteryear. One of Nassau's 54 public libraries, for example, lends all sorts of power tools. Just think! For free, the patron can borrow an electric hedge trimmer or a gasoline-powered chain saw! In Texas, the familiar book mobile has been augmented by a tool mobile. In Grosse Point, Michigan and Cohoes, New York, library patrons can check out such conventional tools as hammers, saws, and screwdrivers. And why not? Since libraries have for years provided do-it-yourself volumes, the next logical step is to provide the tools necessary to carry out instructions outlined in the books! Another Long Island library has extended itself beyond lending manuals and associated tools. It holds successful hands-on sessions that include workshops on electric appliance overhaul, auto maintenance, and plumbing repair.

At one time art in the library was restricted to paintings reproduced in folios. Today, you will find librarians lending paintings so that homes will have a variety of aesthetics at no cost to the patron other than the bargain tax levy that covers library operation. The library itself will display paintings and sculpture. Often these are a product of local talent. Probably one of the most interesting and visually apparent developments in library decor has been the use of this community center for the display of art.

For many patrons, the library houses the only available photocopy machine available for personal use. I often marvel at how we managed to cope in the pre-Xerox world without that machine! Today, the photocopier has become almost as indispensable as the telephone. It wouldn't surprise me if we will soon be "faxing it" at the local library. And, by the way, notaries public, once found principally in banks, law, and real estate offices, are increasingly part of the library scene as some librarians take on yet another role.

Again, check the library calendar of events. You'll be surprised at what is listed. My local library once saved me money because of an income tax seminar offered during early evening hours. On another occasion I latched on to a group that pursued my life-long hobby. Until I read the library bulletin, I had no idea there was a cluster of fellow enthusiasts in my neighborhood. My local library conducts annual presentations during which I had the privilege of meeting and talking with Howard Numerov, Poet Laureate of the United States; Susan Sontag, author, philosopher, and film director; and the late novelist Mary McCarthy. Another opportunity enabled me to spend "An Evening With Sherlock Holmes." It was an informative and entertaining nickelodeon celebration of Holmes' life, times, and most memorable cases as presented by the highly acclaimed Sherlockian authority Dr. Arthur Liebman with piano accompaniment by his wife, Joyce Ann. The presentation was free, but most in the audience would cheerfully have paid admission.

Today, librarians analyze their patrons, taking their pulse, so to speak, and meet the needs and wants particular to their communities. Some librarians, for example, will place an emphasis on providing bilingual materials while others may offer illiteracy programs. Still others will provide resources to help in the preparation of effective resumes. The emphasis, no matter what the area, is always on usefulness and value. That has always been the librarian's hallmark, and while the role expands and the public's perception of his functions changes, he continues as a facilitator -- always placing the emphasis on service.

READER RATINGS

Q. What do you do if you think you've been invited to a restaurant, so you don't bring any money and then you're suddenly confronted with having to pay half the bill?

A. You must pay your share of the bill in this circumstance. It happens often in our lives, simply because we don't pay enough attention to communicating and preplanning our engagements. We should all be specific about when, where, and who pays, when dates and arrangements are jointly made.

If you're in a restaurant with no money in a situation like this, go to the captain and tell him your plight and that you will send the money tomorrow by messenger. If you show identification and if you sign a receipt for money owed, you might be able to arrange for payment of your share tomorrow. Otherwise, you are going to have to borrow money from your friends at the table. It is embarrassing, but come up with a logical excuse for not having money or credit card.

Q. When dining out in a restaurant should women seated at a table rise or remain seated when they are introduced to other women?

A. They may remain seated and this rule applies even if the women being introduced are considerably older than those at the table.

Q. Have you heard the expression "Maiden Dinner?" My cousin said she will be attending one soon and I did not like to confess my ignorance!

A. This is a rather old fashioned term and it refers to the traditional dinner given by the bride-to-be for her attendants usually a few days before the wedding. The Maiden Dinner is the equivalent of the male Bachelor Dinner.

Q. What is the correct way to eat crackers with soup?

A. Small crackers, such as oyster crackers, may be added to the soup and eaten that way. However, large soda crackers should really not be crumbled into the soup. It is better to keep them on the plate and eat them along with the soup.

Q. My friend and I enjoy a relaxing drink at the bar before eating dinner in our favorite restaurant. How much should we tip the bartender?

A. Ten or fifteen percent of the bill is the usual amount.

THE BARGE RESTAURATEUR DAVID MAHLER "TELLS IT LIKE IT IS"

While Thursday businessperson luncheon aboard Port Washington's unique floating The Barge Restaurant, berthed at The Capri Marina and Yachting Center, I asked the vessel's renowned Culinary Captain David Mahler about both is $14.95 lobster clambake and surf and surf that seafood lovers from near and far are really raving about.

"There are only a few weeks left for both our 1 1/4 pound Maine lobster clambake and surf and surf specials," he replied. "These are being promoted as off-season specials and we don't have any need for them when our full season is in full swing."

While we were on the subject of seafood, he reported that his $11.95 deliciously broiled Orange Roughy, imported from New Zealand, is making most favorable culinary waves these days, as this fish, snapper-like in both taste and texture, has been raved reviewed by food critics in general.

"My Orange Rough sales have tripled in the last year," he commented. "It's a mild, tasty, white and boneless fillet that people just enjoy very much. It's also a very versatile fish and can be blackened Cajun-style, steamed, poached, fried or sauteed. It's generally less expensive than sole and has replaced sole as our number one seller." J.DeG.C.

Q. The other evening my husband called a popular restaurant in our neighborhood and asked for reservations. But he was told the restaurant does not accept reservations on the weekend. How come?

A. The key word is "popular." The restaurant owner probably believes he will make more money by seating guests on a first come, first served basis, rather than by keeping tables open for diners who may be late or fail to arrive.

Q. I know, of course, that pie a la mode means pie with ice cream on top. But what do the words "a la mode" mean?

A. Actually they mean "in fashion" or "fashionable", in french and have nothing to do with the words for ice cream - "creme a la glace."

Q. How can I be sure what fork to use when dining out?

A. Your dinner fork is the outside one next to your napkin on the left side. Your salad or dessert fork is placed just left of the plate.

PLEASANT SURPRISE

We had a pleasant surprise Thursday night! Having heard of Casey's American Dining Room on East Jericho Turnpike in Mineola, we decided to dine there. This restaurant has been opened for about seven months, and friends had told us how much they enjoyed it, and the prices were moderate.

Thursday Night is their Seafood Night, and what a delightful surprise it turned out to be! A complimentary glass of wine, tossed salad, hot rolls, and your choice of any of Casey's great "specials from the sea" all for $9.95. The dinner was well prepared, the service was excellent and we thoroughly enjoyed it.

We came away from Casey's feeling we had made an important discovery. With today's outrageous prices, we felt we had made a "find" and could indulge ourselves at least once a week. We plan to try their Pasta Night which is every Wednesday, and are looking forward to it.

H.P.

TRUE CLASS

A restaurant that is in the true class is Devins. It is one of the newer ones in the area but it is a welcome newcomer.

The classic design and decor of Devins is a delight to visit. And, as is needed in all restaurants that are truly good, the food is excellent. The menu includes a full listing of the best in Northern Italian and classically fine foods including fresh fish entrees.

Our party of four went there last week. I was the hostess and I enjoyed hearing the great compliments of our guests. The compliments included the excellent attentive service. I shall always go to Devins when I have guests who I want to enjoy a good meal.

FAVORITE RESTAURANT

The Executive Restaurant on Mineola Avenue in Mineola has long been one of our favorite restaurants. It has recently been redecorated, and I can only say that I truly missed this fine restaurant while it was closed undergoing some improvements.

One of the things I like best about this outstanding restaurant is the personal welcome extended to each guest by both of the owners, John and Michael Pavlovich.

We were there Monday night for dinner and had a fine bowl of Clam Chowder, followed by the most delectable spaghetti with a delicate tomato sauce fra diavolo, bountifully laden with shrimp, scallops, clams, mussels and fish. My mouth waters just thinking about the fine dish. A mixed salad, rolls and Italian bread came with the dinner. A bottle of white wine and cafe espresso completed this excellent repast. I heartily recommend this restaurant, knowing that you will enjoy the ambience, warmth, and fine Continental cuisine.

PLEASANT SURPRISE

We were pleasantly surprised by a new restaurant in Garden City just off Roosevelt Field. It is the Akbar. This restaurant features Indian food but it does not go overboard on spices such as curry which tend to obscure food. We had prawn with just a flavor of spices and herbs of India and my wife enjoyed a chicken dish with its subtle touch of spice. We have been to many new restaurants in the area but this one is unusual and a real treat.

The building housing the Akbar is a delight to enter. It is found on 1 Ring Road with an entry from the main entrance at Roosevelt Field. We felt that this is a restaurant that will surely be enjoyed by your readers and hope you will publish this review of our personal feelings.

A.R.

Q. Soon I will be taking some new friends out to dinner for the first time. Would it be wise to select the menu in advance or should I leave the selection up to my guests?

A. I would suggest allowing your friends to choose their own menus. That way you will avoid certain pitfalls such as food dishes or allergies.

But do pick a restaurant where you have recently dined and whose ambience you prefer. That way there will also be no unpleasant surprises as to food or prices.

Criticism of restaurants are sent directly to restaurants concerned on the form of a memo. Restaurants that consistently give bad service or food are dropped from these pages.

Mahoney's Restaurant in Williston Park is a landmark and is well known for its fine food. We dined there last week and had their Barbeque Ribs which were mouth watering and delicious.
My companion had the Roast Prime Ribs of Beef and declared they were superb. I have yet to dine at Mahoney's that I haven't been completely satisfied. By the way, their Salad Bar from Sunday through Wednesday night includes Shrimp, and I might add their homemade bread has you going back for seconds. I have attended several Holiday Parties at Mahoney's and if you are looking for a local place to have a party I heartily endorse this fine restaurant. M.S.

READER RATINGS

Q. We are not wine drinkers. If we're giving a party, what kind of wines should we stock in order to take care of our wine-drinking friends' pleasure from cocktail hour through dinner? T.B.

A. For the cocktail hour you might have on hand dry or sweet sherry, or dry or sweet vermouth, or any of the popular "aperitifs." Many choose a glass of dry white wine at the cocktail hour (either chilled or "one the rocks").

For the first course, or to drink with any fish, salad, chicken, veal or fruit, a chilled white wine is nice (such as a Chablis, Soave, Riesling, Chenin Blanc, Pinot Chardonnay).

For the meat or game course (or the salad with cheese), serve a Burgundy, Bordeaux, Chianti, Cabernet Sauvignon, or Zinfandel at a cool room temperature (from 60 to 70 degrees).

Rose wines should be chilled, like white wines. A rose is best served with a light dish and is more popular in hot weather than in cold.

For dessert you may serve the same wine you had from the previous course. Or if it's something festive like an anniversary, dessert time is the moment to bring on the champagne (the drier the better!).

Q. In some very large restaurants there are some people to be tipped and I do not know which ones should be tipped. How can I tell?

A. If you are just slightly observant when leaving an expensive restaurant you will notice the entire staff from the captain to the wine steward lining up to say good night to you. These are generally the ones who expect to be tipped and they do not generally share in the splitting of the regular tip. These people are usually given a single amount and it is not contingent on the regular 15-20 percent tip. However, most restaurants no longer have large staffs and you usually only pay the regular tip.

Q. I noticed that some people pick up wine glasses by the bowl. However, I think it looks more elegant to pick them up by the stem. What is your opinion?

A. I agree with you that it is more attractive to pick wine glasses up by the stem. In the case of white wine, it also keeps the wine cool for a longer time.

Where Our Readers Have The Last Word

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides and a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great, and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings."

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

FOCAL POINT — Patterned Kilim rug "organizes" an arrangement of rattan furniture in a great Great Room.

Dressing up informal rooms

Q. We have a terrific family room/kitchen overlooking a lake behind the house. It has been pretty informal — I have my rattan furniture out there — but I'd like to dress things up some. The floors are ceramic tile. Would it work to put down a rug to cozy things up a bit? — M.O.

A. Here's proof-positive that a rug — even with a formal design — can live happily even in the most casual surroundings. In the photo, designer Margot Gunther, ASID, has used an antique Kilim as the focal point of a glass-wrapped family room, where the furniture is made of rattan and upholstered in simple canvas (from the J. Williams Co. in San Antonio, Texas).

Gunther says the kitchen was so plain white and black, she felt a strong urge for "one important pattern to pull everything together." The rug does it dramatically. One caveat: If your room gets strong sunlight, you should have tinted glass to foil fading. There are special films you can have applied to the windows that will solve the problem.

Q. I'm looking at ceramic tiles for my master bath. Quite frankly, I didn't know how many choices I would have in color and size. Since I never expect to replace this tile again, can you steer me toward colors that will stay in style? I still remember the awful black/pink and maroon/gray combinations that came with my parents' house, and I don't want anything that will look dated in a hurry. — B.S.

A. The wheel of fashion is always spinning, although things move more slowly in some circles, especially building products such as ceramic tiles. Not that tiles aren't fashion, however. You're right to be surprised at the breadth of choices available today.

What's in that is going to last? According to the industry's own forecasts, colors continue to remain softer and more tender in tile; the projected palette leans toward warm colors — sands and rosy beiges. Neutrals will remain strong for obvious reasons — you never get tired of them. You can change your color scheme just by changing your shower curtain and towels.

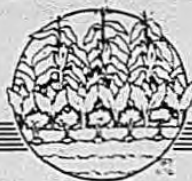

At the same time, decorative borders are becoming more popular in ceramic tile — as well as in other wall coverings. As for sizes, both larger squares — 8x8s and 12x12s — and old-fashioned small mosaics are making a strong showing.

Two other contenders definitely worth consideration: marble and terra-cotta tiles. Marble, of course, is classic and formal; terra-cotta is classic and informal. Your choice depends on the ambience you're after.

The pleasure of container plantings

You would think that the flowers and vegetables I grow in my half-acre garden would be enough. Yet I cannot resist the allure and the pleasure of container plantings as well.

One of the areas close to the house where I love to arrange boxes and pots of flowers and decorative vegetables is around the rim of my sunny patio. Their billowing growth and bloom create an atmosphere of mellow charm, perfect for enhancing the enjoyment of outdoor meals and those pleasant summer sessions relaxing with a book in this convenient outdoor space.

Over the years, I've grown many different plantings on the patio in cedar boxes and patio tubs. Last year, there were geraniums and verbena and trial seed-grown plants of the 1990 All-America Selections award-winners — the soft pastel pink plumes of Celosia Pink Castle, and two multiflora petunias.

Polo Burgundy Star brought to the patio brightly contrasting blooms with a white star pattern on a velvety burgundy background. Polo Salmon yielded masses of gently cooling salmon-pink flowers on primly compact plants.

Previous summers have seen a similarly colorful array of flowers and handsome vegetable plants housed on this outdoor living area. Some of my favorites have included signet marigolds, which always put on a lovely show of soft, ferny foliage mounds dotted with multitudes of small citrus-scented flowers. Viscaria's dainty single flowers in gentle pink and blue on fine stems bring an old-fashioned English garden charm to the patio atmosphere.

Towers of trailing lobelia have graced the patio corners in past years. I grow these in tiered three-pot planters or in a moss-lined circle of wire set in a pot. This latter arrangement is like an elongated moss-lined wire basket, with moss and planting mix added layer by layer as plants are added carefully at intervals through openings in the wire.

This tall style of container planting is ideal also for making pansy towers to accompany the pots and boxes of spring bulbs and primroses, English wallflowers and sweet violets that decorate the patio during the spring.

Portulaca is wonderful for summer pots in sunny spots like my patio. In warmth and full sun these succulent annuals cover themselves with brightly colored little roselike flowers. Miniature roses and gerberas have bloomed wonderfully well on the patio, too.

One year I grew a Cape gooseberry plant in a 30-centimeter-wide (12-inch) tub on the patio. Though not as productive as its brethren grown in the open garden that year, it formed an attractive bush. And the patio setting allowed for close-up enjoyment of the creamy yellow flowers beautifully marked at their centers with patches of vivid chocolate-maroon. The glossy, golden large cherry-size fruit borne inside papery coverings make a truly marvelous marmalade.

Peppers and eggplants are more handsome edibles that I've enjoyed during the summer on the patio. Canape and Park's Pot are two especially productive, compact and handsome peppers for container culture. Potted eggplants are exceptionally decorative with their tropical foliage, iridescent lavender flowers and glossy purple fruits. Slender, thin-skinned Oriental varieties such as Early Bird and Orient Express are my favorites.

Dwarf patio tomatoes also make handsome potted plants for a sunny deck or patio. Plants for good locally adapted varieties are available at garden outlets. I've often grown Pixie Hybrid inside a tomato cage stuck into an 8-inch-wide pot. This is an early and reliable producer of tomatoes 1 1/4 inches across.

Next week, some container flowers to brighten shady areas.

A cache of cashew recipes

Native to Brazil, the lush, spreading cashew tree flourishes in the intense heat of the tropics. Portuguese explorers and missionaries in the 17th century brought the tree to Africa and India, and cashews now are grown in tropical regions all over the world. Today, leading exporters are Brazil and India.

Besides the well-known nut, the tree produces a tart but edible cashew "apple," often fermented to make wines and liquors. The cashew nut is the seed of the apple — and, surprisingly, it grows outside, not inside, the fruit. Hanging from the bottom of the apple, the cashew is encased in a smooth, thin, caustic covering which can burn the lips and mouth — so you will always find cashews shelled.

The wrinkled, crescent-shape nut is softly crisp and buttery. Rich in flavor, cashews also are rich in fat: one ounce (18 medium cashews) totals a hefty 160 calories. Because they're so high in fat content, cashews can easily go rancid if left out for a long period of time. To maintain freshness and quality, store in an airtight container in your freezer. They'll stay fresh this way up to one year.

Cashews are available roasted or raw, whole or broken (the latter is cheaper and fine for baking or cooking). Cashew butter is expensive, but a wonderful change from peanut butter. Make your own by grinding one cup dry roasted cashews with four teaspoons peanut oil and one teaspoon honey in a food processor or blender. You can substitute cashews in many recipes that call for almonds or peanuts.

Great as a snack, cashews usually are the first to disappear whenever there's a bowl of mixed nuts on the table. Aside from snacking, they're versatile for all kinds of recipes. Use in salads, curries, stir-fry, poultry stuffing, candy, cookies, rice or vegetable dishes. And try today's "cache" of cashew recipes for the microwave. If you're nuts about cashews, these are sure to become favorites.

(Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.)

MICRO-TIP OF THE WEEK

To toast raw cashews in your microwave, spread an even layer on a paper plate and microwave on HIGH (100 percent power) setting 3 to 4 minutes, stirring every minute to rearrange. Or toast with 1 tablespoon butter in a microwave-safe bowl for 3 to 4 minutes, stirring every minute, until toasted to desired degree. Toasting time will vary according to oven wattage and freshness of nuts.

CHICKEN WITH CASHEWS AND SNOW PEAS

1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon powdered ginger
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ cup soy sauce
2½ pounds skinless chicken breasts, cut into thin strips
2½ cups fresh snow peas, washed and trimmed
¼ cup toasted whole cashews

Yields 6 servings.

Preparation time: 15 minutes.

Cooking time: 9 to 14 minutes (plus 3 minutes standing time).

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Place cornstarch, ginger and garlic powder in 10-inch microwave browning skillet. Add soy sauce, stirring to make a smooth paste. Microwave 30 seconds; stir. Add chicken and microwave, covered, 4 to 5 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes, to partially cook chicken.

Add snow peas, cover and microwave 5 to 9 minutes longer, stirring every 3 minutes, until chicken is cooked through and snow peas are tender. Stir in cashews, cover and let stand 3 minutes before serving. Serve with hot cooked rice.

CURRIED CASHEW CARROTS

1 pound fresh carrots
2 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
¼ to 1 teaspoon curry powder
¼ cup toasted cashew pieces

Yields 4 servings.

Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes.

Cooking time: 5 to 8 minutes (plus 5 minutes standing time).

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Scrape, trim and julienne slice carrots into thin matchsticks. Combine in 1-quart microwave-safe casserole with 2 tablespoons water. Microwave, covered, 5 to 8 minutes, stirring every 3 minutes, until carrots are tender. Drain; add butter, curry powder and cashews. Stir gently to combine and let stand, covered, 5 minutes before serving.

Bella Italia dinner

"Lift me up" or "pick me up" is the literal translation of Tiramisu, an informal Italian peasant dessert made by layering ladyfingers with creamy mascarpone cheese and topping them off with chopped bittersweet chocolate.

The concept of being lifted up could be used, as a general term, to describe all the cuisine of Italy.

Relying on the freshest of ingredients prepared in simple, straightforward ways, Italian food appeals to the way Americans are eating today. With its reliance on carbohydrates — such as pasta and rice — in lieu of animal protein, its abundant use of fresh vegetables and fruit and its reliance on olive oil rather than butter, the foods of Italy do, indeed, lift us up.

We decided to build this menu around the Tiramisu. This is a fabulous dessert that was "discovered" in New York when mascarpone, a rich concentrated, sweet cream cheese, started being imported into this country a few years ago. Our version calls for lightening up the cheese with an egg white meringue and layering it with coffee- and rum-soaked ladyfingers.

CLAM AND TOMATO RISOTTO

3 cups chicken stock
1 cup bottled clam juice
¼ cup white wine
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup chopped onion
1½ cups arborio or long-grain rice
12 ounces fresh plum tomatoes, seeded and diced, or 1 (16-ounce) can plum tomatoes, drained, seeded and diced
8 ounces chopped fresh clams or 1 (6½-ounce) can minced clams
¼ cup chopped parsley
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
8 whole clams in shell for garnish (optional)

Yields 4 servings.

Preparation and cooking time: 35 minutes.

In saucepan, bring chicken stock, clam juice and wine to simmer. Keep hot during the risotto cooking process.

In large, heavy saucepan, heat olive oil and butter. Add onions and saute over medium heat until beginning to soften, about 2 minutes. Add rice and cook, stirring with wooden spoon, until all grains are coated with butter and rice becomes translucent, about 2 minutes.

Add about ¾ cup of hot stock, or enough to cover rice. Cook over medium heat, stirring nearly constantly and keeping the mixture at an even, gentle simmer until most of liquid has been absorbed, about 5 minutes. Continue this process (adding stock to cover and cooking until nearly absorbed) until all stock has been used, about 15 more minutes.

Add tomatoes and clams and their liquid. Cover pan and simmer until clams are heated through and rice is tender, but still firm to bite, about 3 minutes.

Stir in parsley. Taste and season for salt and pepper, keeping in mind that clam juice is quite salty.

For optional garnish, scrub clams, place in saucepan along with ¼ cup water, cover and simmer until clams open, about 5 minutes. Use to garnish risotto plate, if desired.

TIRAMISU

2 egg whites
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons water
8 ounces mascarpone cheese (see note)
2 tablespoons Kahlua or other coffee-flavored liqueur
¼ cup strong coffee (see note)
1 tablespoon rum, dark or light
18 ladyfingers
1 ounce bittersweet or semisweet chocolate, chopped

Yields: 4 to 5 servings.

Preparation time: 20 minutes.

Standing time: 1 hour.

Place egg whites in bowl of electric mixer. In small saucepan, bring sugar and water to boil, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Boil syrup, uncovered, for 1 minute.

While syrup is boiling, beat egg whites to soft peaks. With machine on medium speed, gradually pour hot syrup into egg whites, beating until whites are stiff and glossy. Beat in mascarpone and then Kahlua.

Combine coffee and rum in shallow soup bowl. Quickly dip cut sides of nine ladyfingers into coffee/rum liquid and arrange them, rounded side up, in a single layer in bottom of glass bowl or on rimmed platter. Spread ladyfingers with half of the cheese mixture and sprinkle with half of chopped chocolate.

Dip remaining ladyfingers in coffee/rum mixture and arrange, rounded side up, over cheese layer. If any coffee/rum liquid remains, drizzle it over ladyfingers. Spread remaining cheese mixture over ladyfingers and sprinkle with remaining chopped chocolate.

Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate for at least 1 hour or as long as 12 hours. To serve, spoon Tiramisu into decorative dessert dishes.

Cheesy pasta is all-family comfort food

In an era when even Grandma's cooking has become hot — and haute — cuisine, cooks are looking for new trends in old standbys.

And what's more standard than macaroni and cheese? If there are any people in the United States who haven't tried it, they surely can be counted on the fingers of both hands.

In that familiar Kraft blue box enclosing a cello envelope of "cheese powder," macaroni and cheese has put many a college student through four years of higher education without starving.

For decades, this one-dish meal has been the answer for hungry families when a "budget-stretcher" is all the household cook could afford to put on the table.

Extra bonuses: Macaroni and cheese, with its bland flavor and creamy texture, is a food you can get most kids to eat. It's also a dish many adults find comforting to the soul in rough times and warming to the stomach in rough weather.

Now that 80 percent of U.S. homes have microwave ovens, it's time for a few recipes that utilize that speedy appliance. The following two are designed for the microwave.

All cheeses are easily overcooked in the microwave, becoming rubbery and tough. Add cheese toppings toward the end of cooking time, and never microwave cheese longer than a recipe suggests. You will find that shredded (rather than cubed) cheddar will microwave more evenly.

Pasta cooks in the microwave in about the same amount of time as by conventional methods.

Of course, a pasta and cheese dish cooked by microwaves instead of baked in the oven won't have that inviting browned crust.

MACARONI AND CHEESE

- 3 cups water
- 1 teaspoon butter or margarine
- 2 cups uncooked elbow macaroni
- 3 cups (12 ounces) shredded cheddar cheese
- 2 teaspoons all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- ½ cup milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Pepper to taste

Yields 4 servings.

In 3-quart casserole, combine water and 1 teaspoon butter. Cover with lid or plastic wrap. Microwave on HIGH for 5 to 6 minutes or until water boils. Stir in macaroni. Cover with lid or plastic wrap. Microwave on HIGH for 10 minutes, stirring after 5 minutes. Let stand, covered, for 5 minutes (macaroni should be al dente).

If undercooked, microwave on HIGH for 3 to 4 more minutes. Drain liquid.

Toss cheese and flour together, then stir into macaroni along with 1 tablespoon butter, milk and salt. Season with pepper. Cover with wax paper. Microwave on HIGH for 3 to 6 minutes (stirring every 2 minutes) or until sauce thickens. Stir before serving.

From "Sunset Microwave Cook book."

CURRIED

MACARONI AND CHEESE

- 2 cups elbow macaroni
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon curry powder, or to taste
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
- Paprika

Yields 4 to 6 servings.

Cook macaroni according to package directions; drain and transfer to 2-quart microwave-safe casserole. Cover and set aside.

Place butter and onion in 4-cup glass measure. Microwave 1 minute, or until butter is melted. Blend in flour, salt, curry powder and pepper. Add about ½ cup of milk, a little at a time, stirring to make smooth paste. Add remaining milk; stir.

Microwave 5 to 6 minutes, stirring every 2 minutes, until sauce is bubbly and thickened. Add cheese, stirring until melted. Pour sauce over macaroni, tossing to coat evenly. Sprinkle with paprika and microwave 1 to 2 minutes, to heat through, before serving.

***

Here are some tips for making cheese sauces by conventional method.

■ Sauces containing cheese should not be heated too long or at too high a temperature. Excessive cooking causes the casein in the cheese to coagulate and separate from the fat and water, producing a stringy mass with an oily slick.

■ Add grated cheese slowly to a sauce over low or moderate temperature; stir constantly to blend. Remove from heat or set pot over simmering water once cheese has melted.

When it comes to labels, food buyers beware

"The grocery store has become a Tower of Babel, and consumers need to be linguists, scientists and mind readers to understand the many labels they see. Vital information is missing and, frankly, some unfounded health claims are being made."

So states the Secretary of Health and Human Services, Dr. Louis W. Sullivan, as quoted in a recent front-page article in The New York Times.

If a government official is willing to go on record making such a statement, you know that things have really gone bad. Many of us blindly trusted government regulation of safe ingredients and food labeling until the red dye No. 2 fiasco about a decade ago. At that point, I and millions of other Americans were startled into the realization that many of the additives permitted in our processed foods have not been adequately tested to ensure our safety.

Obviously, the best way to know what we are eating is to grow it and prepare it ourselves. During a back-to-the-land movement in the '60s, that's just what some people did. But, for most of us, this is not a practical alternative. Besides, at some point, everyone has to rely upon outside sources for some food or other — whether it be wheat or oil or nuts.

So it is imperative that we have a feeling of trust that both our whole foods (such as grains and beans) and our packaged foods are prepared, handled and labeled by trustworthy people who are concerned about our health and well-being. Unfortunately, this criterion eliminates many of the food manufacturers successfully operating in America today.

One primary reason that misleading label advertising can exist is that government regulation of labeling is shockingly loose.

The Food and Drug Administration requires that manufacturers list ingredients in descending order of weight. This is misleading because, for example, if different types of sweeteners (brown sugar, white sugar, corn syrup, etc.), are used in the same product, they can be treated separately and fall lower on the list.

As many of us have already observed, providing calorie information is strictly optional. If included, the labels must indicate serving size and the percentage of the U.S. recommended daily allowance of certain vitamins, calcium, iron and protein. This information also must be given for products that make any health or nutritional claims. The latter products are the only ones required to offer a nutrition label — a description of the ingredients plus a breakdown of calories, fat, carbohydrates and sodium.

At this time, nutrition labels are available on only about 55 percent of processed foods, according to a recent article in Vegetarian Times ("What's in a Label?" — July, 1989). That means Americans are willing to take their chances on about 45 percent of the processed foods they eat.

Yet, even when nutritional information is given, it unfortunately is provided in a way that is not particularly useful. Serving size, fat and protein content frequently are given in gram weight, even though few Americans have any feel for metric measurements. Furthermore, the category of fat is not broken down into the all-important saturated or unsaturated types.

Ever since major food corporations have jumped on the health-food bandwagon, false or misleading package advertising has sprouted faster than alfalfa seeds. This is unfortunately as true of the produce available in health-food stores as it is of that on supermarket shelves.

***

Red lentils (also known as Egyptian lentils) have a more delicate and less peppery taste than brown lentils. Their flavor actually resembles split peas and, indeed, they do turn a brownish-green upon cooking.

CURRIED RED LENTIL SOUP WITH SQUASH AND TOFU

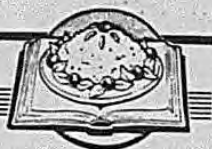

- 6 cups water
- 2 cups red lentils, picked over and rinsed
- 1 large onion, coarsely chopped
- 3 large carrots, scrubbed and sliced
- 1 pound butternut squash, peeled, seeded and cut into 1-inch chunks
- ½ pound tofu, cut into 1-inch cubes
- 2 tablespoons grated fresh ginger
- 1½ tablespoons mild curry powder
- 1½ teaspoons cumin seeds
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Salt to taste

Yields 6 servings.

In large soup pot, bring water to boil as you are preparing vegetables. When water boils, add all ingredients except salt. Return to boil, cover and reduce heat to simmer. Cook until lentils are soft and vegetables are tender, stirring occasionally, about 25 to 30 minutes. Add salt to water and adjust seasonings before serving.

Famed magazine team turns to microwave

"The Good Housekeeping Illustrated Microwave Cookbook"; Hearst/Morrow; $25.

If this cookbook came from another source, I am sure Good Housekeeping would grant its seal of approval. The editors of that highly regarded magazine have turned for the first time to the subject of microwave cooking with their customary thoroughness and imagination.

The volume begins with a section on the principles of microwaving, describing how the energy works, the choice of suitable cookware and maintenance of the equipment. A particularly useful treatment discusses the conversion of standard recipes into versions that can be zapped.

Though the book doesn't look massive, it manages to include some 500 recipes and 1,500 illustrations. The editors have done an outstanding job in presenting their dishes. Each recipe is depicted in finished form as part of an illustrated table of contents. Then, in the body of the book, many dishes are shown in step-by-step stages.

Many dishes offer a particularly convenient touch in light of today's smaller households: The ingredients are given in quantities for one, two and four servings.

Altogether this book is an admirable production, and it would be a good purchase not only for microwave novices, but also for those who are masters of the zapper.

PENNE WITH DOUBLE CHEESE SAUCE

- 2 medium onions, thinly sliced
- 2 large red bell peppers, very thinly sliced
- ¼ cup olive oil or salad oil
- 1 (8-ounce) package penne or

- other pasta
- ½ (8-ounce) package mozzarella cheese, cut into ¼-inch cubes
- 4 ounces fontina cheese, shredded (1 cup)
- 1 (3½-ounce) can pitted ripe olives, drained and cut in half
- ¼ cup loosely packed parsley or basil leaves
- Salt, pepper

Yields 4 servings.

In 8x12-inch microwave-safe dish, combine onions, red peppers and oil. Cook, covered, on high (100 percent power) 10 to 12 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring twice.

Meanwhile, cook pasta in conventional manner; drain.

Toss pasta and vegetable mixture together with cheeses, olives, parsley or basil, salt and pepper.

Note: This dish could be cooked just as easily in the standard way. Simply saute vegetables in oil using a frying pan. Proceed thereafter as directed.

Eggs are best when super fresh

But how long is fresh?

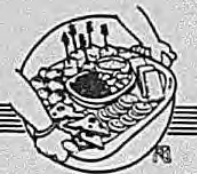

Here's a useful timetable:

1. Buy clean, unbroken eggs. Store in their carton or other covered container.
2. Flavor and texture are best if used within a week. Freshest eggs are perfect for poached, hard-boiled, scrambled or fried eggs.
3. The eggs will be usable for 4 to 5 weeks, but with less flavor. These older eggs are best used in baking and cooked dishes.

The rites of May

Few terms have such contrary meanings as May Day.

All over Europe, it is a day of celebration. In some places, it is simply a springtime festival. In other countries, it is celebrated as Labor Day and everyone gets the day off. In most countries flowers — those heralds of spring — also play an important role for the day.

At the other end of the spectrum is the international radio-telephone distress signal "Mayday." One can ponder the basis for such an unusual connotation given a sunny day. Perhaps it came from the French m'aidez (help me), which is quite close to "Mayday" when spoken.

Here we are concerned with the happier May days.

In France, lilies of the valley are the bloom of the day. Normally, that is the time of the year when they are in full flower in the woods. Although for the other 364 days of the year a retail license is needed to sell flowers, on May 1 anyone can pick and sell flowers to anyone else. Suburbanites wait for the subway trains to start operating so they can come into Paris to sell the deeply perfumed flowers for a lot more money.

A pleasant English custom is to celebrate the day by hanging a bouquet of flowers on the door-knob of a friend's home. In villages, youngsters still dance around the maypole with flowers in their hair as well as on the ribbons they hold.

Even the Soviet Union makes a big thing of flowers at the massive May Day parade that thunders through Red Square. Marchers vigorously wave flowers at the leaders standing atop Lenin's tomb. Since most of the posies are paper, the rough handling doesn't harm them.

Florists would love it if the custom of giving flowers became an American habit. Receiving a bouquet, no matter how small, is always a thrill — so why not make May Day a flower day as well?

Expensive and lavish bouquets or baskets are not necessary. There is much more meaning to flowers that are plucked right out of your garden. This is true sharing and in perfect keeping of the day.

If azaleas are around, snip off a few stems, tie them together with a ribbon, and slip them over the knob of a door that belongs to someone very special. An even nicer thought is to give this pretty surprise to someone who really needs a lift. If you know someone who is having a problem, help him or her get through the day a bit more easily.

Apartment dwellers probably will have to buy posies. The most charming arrangement is to buy several kinds of compatible flowers and mix them up in a bouquet.

Usually, there would be enough for several such offerings. To keep them fresh, moisten cotton wool and wrap it around the stem bottoms, then cover with aluminum foil.

May Day falls on a Tuesday this year, which, for most people, is not a good day for a real party. But why not invite a few friends over for a springtime treat after work? They can be offered wood-ruff-scented May wine, a light wine or rose wine, iced tea or any other engaging drink you happen to like.

Serve Rose Jewels as a very pretty and very special treat. The jewels are based on pink wine. Though these sparkling molds are really a dessert, they are so light (less than 50 calories a serving), they will not spoil anyone's appetite.

ROSE JEWELS

- ¾ cups rose wine
- 1 to 2 tablespoons sugar, depending on sweetness of wine
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 3 tablespoons water
- 3 tablespoons kirsch
- 2 tablespoons gelatin
- 1 pint strawberries, stemmed (see note)
- 12 small parsley sprigs

Pour wine into enameled or tin-lined pot. Add sugar and nutmeg and bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer gently, uncovered, 1 minute.

Meanwhile, pour water in small bowl and sprinkle kirsch and gelatin over it; put aside to soften gelatin. Remove pot from heat and immediately stir in gelatin to dissolve it. Cool.

Place 12 custard, or similar, cups on cookie sheet and fill with rose wine mixture to a depth of about ½ inch. Chill until fairly firm.

Meanwhile, fill stem hole of berries with parsley sprigs. Place one parsley-topped strawberry in center of each cup, parsley end down. Chill until firm.

Pour in remaining rose wine mixture to fill cups. Chill again until firm. If berries are large and their tips show above level of jelly, slice off to jelly level.

To serve: Unmold each Rose Jewel and garnish with a few fresh strawberries.

Note: To properly hull strawberries, use tweezers to pull out the leaves and the white pith beneath it. Slicing off the top is akin to using the guillotine.

Solutions to clear up clouds on glassware

Q. I have several cut-glass vases which have developed very unattractive water stains over the years. Do you know what can be used to clean these vases and restore their beauty? — A.K.

A. Sometimes cloudy glassware can be cleaned by simply adding a little ammonia to water and letting it stand in the vase for several hours or overnight. Rinse with clear hot water.

Another recommended product for removing water stains caused by mineral deposits is "De-Solv-It," manufactured by Orange-Sol Inc., 9 N. Roosevelt Ave., Chandler, AZ 85244.

If the staining is more severe, an acid solution is best. Try vinegar first, but if that is not strong enough, use a solution of muriatic acid and water, equal parts. Pour the acid into the water to prevent splattering. Remember that muriatic acid is dangerous. Wear old clothes and rubber gloves to protect the hands and goggles to protect the eyes. Use with extreme care. The acid solution should dissolve the stains on your vases.

If this treatment does not work, mineral deposits could have actually etched the glass surface. If this is the case, you probably will not be able to remove the stains. However, if the glassware is valuable, you might consult an expert on restoration of glass products and antiques.

Q. Our driveway has some unsightly stains, including some rust imprints from cans left standing on the surface. Can you make any recommendations for cleaning concrete and removing rust stains? — C.C.

A. For general cleaning of grease and oil stains on concrete, we recommend that you first scrub the stains with paint thinner or grease solvent. Then mix one part sodium citrate to six parts of water and six parts of commercial glycerine. Add sufficient whitening powder to form a thick paste.

A coat of this paste should be kept on the stain for one week, and a new paste added when it dries out. Then flush the dried-out second layer away, and the stain should be gone.

For rust stains on concrete, use the same mixture — but if the stain still remains, make another paste of one part sodium citrate crystals to six parts of water and add sufficient powdered whitening. Heavy layers of this spread and dried on the rust stain will usually remove it.

Another method of removing rust stains calls for an acid/water mixture. Since working with acid is dangerous, extreme caution is recommended. Wear old clothes, goggles and rubber gloves. Avoid skin contact and inhalation of fumes.

Use a solution of 1 pound oxalic acid powder or thioglycolic acid mixed with a gallon of water. Always add acid to water, never water to acid. Avoid splashing. Mop this solution on the stained area (don't reuse the mop for other projects).

After two to three hours, rinse with clear water, scrubbing at the same time with a stiff brush. Do not use a brush with metal bristles. They tend to leave small metal pieces or shavings which also will rust. Tough stains may require a second treatment.

Once the concrete is cleaned, it is a good idea to use a good masonry sealer or water sealer to protect the surface from further staining.

Q. We moved into a house where the previous owner had painted designs on the wall of one bedroom in a bright fluorescent orange paint. We repainted the walls using sealer and wall paint. Unfortunately, the orange paint keeps bleeding through even after several coats of wall paint. Do you know what can be done to cover this orange paint permanently? — D.W.

A. There is a primer on the market which might solve your problem. Sta-Kil primer (No. 164 White) is manufactured by Porter Paints, 400 S. 13th St., Louisville, KY 40203. The manufacturer claims that this product will cover and seal paint problems such as yours as well as crayon, lipstick, grease, smoke and water stains.

Lightly sand any distinct edges of the orange paint with a fine-grit sandpaper. Clean the wall thoroughly, and then paint only the orange areas with Sta-Kil. When it's dry, prime the whole wall and follow with an interior house paint.

DINING GUIDE

In the Discovery Section of this Newspaper

YOU CAN BE A RESTAURANT CRITIC - If you visit any of the restaurants selected for inclusion in this section - call 931-0027 at any hour and tell your ideas. We want you, the reader, to be our critic. Your message then can be printed in this space.

If I hang around them that ruins my reputation. If I don't hang around them, then that also ruins things for me. I wouldn't have anybody to be with. They seem pretty nice. If I need a couple of cents, they'll give it to me.

How can I stay away from them and still be friends with them without ruining my reputation? —
Nameless, Nowhere

Nameless: You really can't have it both ways, being away from them and still having them as friends.

You said that they got you into drugs, and the story usually is that the involvement keeps getting deeper unless there is a total stop. For you to stop completely, you may need help from your school counselor who can direct you to organizations and community agencies that work with teens who are into drugs.

Your most important source of help may be your own parents, so if you possibly can, share your situation with them. The people you have been hanging out with aren't real friends of yours. They mean only trouble in your life. So please end your relationship with them and seek others. This is extremely important.

You said you learned your lesson. The best one is that drugs can ruin your entire life. Is that the lesson you referred to? I hope so.

SS funds and other questions from readers

Your letters cover a variety of subjects this week — from the status of Social Security funds to taxes and wills. These are questions of interest to most mature adults in America.

Q: I am concerned about Social Security trust funds being used by Congress.

We would be better off if these funds could not be touched. How can we make this happen? —
J.F.N., St. George, Utah.

A: Social Security trust funds that are not being used specifically to pay present benefits are being used by Congress to fund the federal deficit. The Treasury Department "invests" the funds in special government certificates.

While the financial instruments are "backed by the guarantee and good faith of the federal government," it is fact that the funds are not in the bank, and without new taxation, will not be in the bank or available at the time they are needed to fund future benefits.

A General Accounting Office report issued earlier this year cited the problem in detail and urged Congress to recognize its folly soon.

If Social Security funds and expenses were taken "off budget" (as they were in the time prior to the Johnson administration), Congress would be forced to recognize the real budget deficit level now. This could cause reduced spending and/or increased general taxation, but would preserve the Social Security trust funds for the purpose intended.

The GAO also claimed that the preservation of the funds would be better for the overall national economy.

Considered, also, is the possibility of changing the investment mandate, away from Treasury certificates into other investments, perhaps municipal bonds, which would provide major benefits throughout the United States and possibly reduce other demands on the federal budget. The concept would also preserve the funds, plus interest, for future benefit needs.

Q: I enjoyed your article,
"Earned Income Means Penalties for Seniors," in my local newspaper.

Please provide the address for the organization that prepared and published the report to which you referred. — C.G. Bassett, Hilton Head, S.C.

A: Mature adults in America are hit by more and higher taxes than any other age demographic group and could be subject to an increase in them if Congress has its way.

For information on the report referred to in the earlier column
write: National Center for Policy Analysis, 7701 Stemmons Freeway, Suite 800, Dallas, TX 75247.

Q: I am 63, single, disabled, on Social Security and SSI (supplementary income), and have been unable to find housing here in California. So I live in my car.

How can I be helped? — L.P., Needles, Calif.

A: There may be federal and state programs available to help you arrange your financial affairs and locate appropriate housing — whether in California or another state.

Contact your local Area Agency on Aging — there will be offices in the largest cities of your county.
Staff professionals should be able to provide counseling to meet your needs, and even help open some doors to the right housing programs.

Q: May I name someone who lives in another state as an executor for my will? — M.C.V., Philadelphia, Pa.

A: Yes, your executor may be from another city or state.

In naming someone to that responsibility, do be sure that he or she will have the freedom and ability to spend the necessary time in your area, should it be necessary. There will be meetings with attorneys, two or more hearings in a court and, perhaps, necessary trips should there be assets to be sold or transferred.

Be sure that you trust that person for honesty and to follow your instructions. Your executor may be a friend and not necessarily a family member.

Q: Thank you for your article on nursing home insurance. We have discussed this with friends and family, to insure ourselves against this possible cost in the future.

Where can we find information on companies offering nursing and long-term-care insurance? —
C.H.C., Bluffton, S.C.

A: Some 70 companies offer long-term-care insurance policies, with approximately 30 of them meeting criteria established by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners. The insurance commissioners of each of the 50 states comprise this independent and effective organization.

Phone or write the office of the your state insurance commission at your state capital or at a local area office. The professional staff should be able to provide you with a list of companies and policies that meet the NAIC criteria and are sold in your state.

Q: I need supplemental insurance to Medicare, but I don't know where to start. I can't afford a large premium. Can you help? — F.W., New York, N.Y.

A: Medicare covers about half of the medical procedures and services to senior citizens, and then funds only a percentage of that balance. A Medicare Supplement (Medigap) policy should cover a percentage of the costs that Medicare recognizes, funding some to all of the balance of the medical bill. Policy coverages vary in the percentage paid.

Contact the office of your state insurance commissioner, requesting a list of companies and policies authorized to be sold in your state. Then, using the telephone book and referrals from friends, make appointments to see at least three of them.

Do not buy any policy on the first call or under pressure. By shopping around you should find a true Medigap policy and an affordable one.

FOR TEENS

By Willard Abraham,
Ph.D.

Environmental program

Dr. Abraham: I hope there are a lot of other kids as interested as I am in preserving and improving the environment.

A teacher of mine told me about what sounds like a terrific TV program for all of us to see. It's "Profit the Earth" and is scheduled for public television on Monday, April 16, but maybe another date in some parts of the country.
It is part of a project called "Operation Earth" and a yearlong deal called public television's "Year of the Environment — 1990."

Come on, guys, tune in with me. It's your world, too, you know. — Timothy,

Timothy: Right on! It's certainly a crucial issue, one that all of you, plus your friends, parents, legislators and everyone else should at least consider supporting.

Many organizations are deeply involved in the efforts you mentioned. Included are the Public Television Outreach Alliance, Corporation for Public Broadcasting, Public Broadcasting Service and local public TV stations.

As important as all of them are, so are the young people in this country.
You're our future!

Thanks for your thoughtfulness in writing, Timothy.

Dr. Abraham: My girlfriend and I have been going out for three months.
Our first month was all right, but for the last two we have been arguing a lot over the most stupid things. And the harder I try to keep our relationship together, the worse it is.

Her mother seems to try to keep her away from me.
But I really love this girl.
I buy her things when I feel bad; I spent $350 on her already.

I believe her mom thinks that I only want to have sex with her, but I have no intention of doing that because she wants to wait until she gets married. I respect her for that. I think it's great that she wants to wait.

I need your advice on how to get that through her mother's head. I want to be welcomed in her family and thought of as part of it.

I love my girlfriend very much. — Gino

Gino: Your commitment to each other is something to be admired, so for her to pass on to her mother how committed you both are may be helpful.

It would, of course, be better if you can tell her about it yourself.

Because you and your girlfriend have had your relationship for only a few months, it may be best to wait a short while longer to give her mother more of a chance to know you and to become more aware of your feelings toward each other.

Dr. Abraham: I'm a 13-year-old girl. My parents have caught me doing drugs, I mean not cocaine, speed, pot or crack. Well, I have learned my lesson, but those people who got me into drugs want me to go to parties and get drunk.
I tell them, "I can't tonight."
I've got to go to my sister's house."

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

By James G. McCollam

ROSE CANTON
...14-inch Rose Canton charger made in early 1900s is worth $400 to $500

Your butter dish was made in England

Q: You have written about Willow Ware before. Perhaps you can tell me something about my butter dish in that pattern. It is marked "Coalport — A.D. 1750-A.D. 1790." It is covered and has a strainer.

A: Your blue Willow Ware butter dish was made by the Coalport Porcelain Works in Shropshire, England, during the late 1800s. 1750 and 1790 are significant dates in the history of the company.

Your butter dish would probably sell for about $145 to $165 in good condition.

Q: This mark is on the bottom of a 12-inch cloverleaf plate with scalloped rim and an open handle. It has a portrait of an old-fashioned girl encircled with roses.

Can you identify the maker and estimate the value?

A: This serving plate was made by the Kister porcelain factory in Scheibe-Alsbach, Germany, during the early 1900s. It would probably sell for $65 to $75.

Q: Do you have any information about my Mills' 5-cent slot machine? It is decorated with four bunches of cherries.

A: This is known as the Mills' Black Cherry Bell. This model was introduced in 1945 and is currently selling for $1,000 to $1,500 in "good" condition.

You should be aware that since this was made after the cutoff date in 1941, this is illegal in some states.

Q: I recently acquired this 14-inch charger from the estate of someone who lived in China around the turn of the century. I am told that this is the Rose Canton pattern. It is marked "Made in China."

A: Rose Canton is a type of china that may vary slightly in pattern. It was produced in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Since this is marked "Made in China," it was made after the McKinley Tariff Act of 1901. The value would be in the $400 to $500 range.

Ear infections in dogs

Q. Our dog almost always has a small amount of brown ear wax in her ears. Is this normal? How can we tell if our dog has an infection?

A. A small amount of light-brown wax in your dog's ear is normal. Wax is produced by glands in the outer part of the ear canal and normally protects the canal and the eardrum.

Dogs with ear infections shake their heads frequently and scratch at their ears. If the nails of the dog are long, lacerations of the ear may occur. With severe infections the scratching and head shaking may seem uncontrollable and the dog appears to be quite miserable. The visible portions of the ears may be reddened. Pus and large amounts of dark reddish-brown to black wax in the ears may be noticed.

There are many causes of ear infections in dogs. Thorns and ticks on the outer flap or at the opening of the ear canal can cause your dog to scratch excessively. Ear infections often are caused by bacteria and ear mites growing within the canal.

Ear mites feed on skin debris.

The eight-legged ear mites usually can be seen crawling among the dark, foul-smelling debris. Live ear mites appear as moving white specks. They are about the size of the head of a dressmaker's pin.

Q. How important is it that we have our kitten vaccinated for distemper? We were recently given the kitten and currently do not have the money to have it vaccinated. We keep the kitten inside all the time.

A. Distemper in cats is a highly contagious disease characterized by sudden onset, depression, dehydration and death. The disease often is called feline panleukopenia. Panleukopenia simply means a decrease in the number of white blood cells in the blood.

The first sign of feline distemper is a fever that persists for as long as 24 hours. With the onset of fever, the cat stops eating, vomits and becomes depressed and weak. Diarrhea often occurs two to four days following the initial fever. Although affected cats seem to desire water, extreme dehydration usually occurs very rapidly. The skin rapidly becomes dry and leathery.

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

This week we're having real spring weather. It seems one minute it's too warm to wear a jacket and the next it's so cold that I shiver. This is the season I usually get colds, because I don't always bring a jacket when I leave home in the morning. Or, if I do bring a jacket, I forget to bring an umbrella, and it rains in the afternoon.

Do your parents make you wear warm clothes even when it seems like it will be a nice day? I know I used to hate that. I think a good compromise is to carry a sweater with you or leave one in your locker or cubby at school. That way you're never caught out in the cold.

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Clare Sheerin and Peggy Smith.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Taxes even after 70!

Q: I will soon reach age 70; however, I plan to continue working. I understand that earnings in or after the month I reach age 70 will not affect my monthly benefit amount, but will I continue to pay the Social Security tax? — H.K.

A: As long as you have earnings that are covered by Social Security, you continue to pay Social Security taxes — regardless of your age, and even if you are receiving Social Security benefits.

Q: I plan to retire at the end of the year. How far ahead of time should I apply for my retirement benefit? — G.J.

A: You should apply for your Social Security retirement benefit at least two to three months before you plan to stop working. This way your benefits will start when you stop working. Even if you don't plan to retire, it is important for you to contact us two to three months before you or your spouse reaches 65 to arrange for your Medicare health insurance protection to begin at 65.

Q: I was divorced several years ago and never remarried. I understand that it is possible I could be entitled on my former husband's work record. What are the requirements for receiving as a divorced person? — P.W.

A: A divorced spouse can receive benefits when the worker starts collecting retirement or disability payments if she or he is (1) unmarried, (2) 62 or older, (3) not entitled to a retirement or disability benefit based on her or his own earnings that equals or exceeds one-half of the worker's full amount and (4) was married to the worker for at least 10 years.

Q: Does the Social Security Administration check to determine if Supplemental Security Income (SSI) recipients are receiving money from other sources? — L.T.

A: Supplemental Security Income (SSI) recipients (or their representative payees) are responsible for reporting any information that may affect their eligibility or payment amount. However, they do not always report necessary information in a timely fashion. Therefore, the Social Security Administration (SSA) as established interlaces with federal and state agencies whose records contain information that may affect SSI eligibility or payment amount.

MALE MAGIC

Men's looks have a sporting chance

By Chip Tolbert

MALE MAGIC — For work and play, men are wearing soft fabrics, such as linen, washed silk and rayon. Shown here: Cardigan, pullover and trousers by Tony Lambert, Inc.

The first fashion season of the new decade is witnessing an evolution of the term sportswear.

American designers and manufacturers are concentrating on this clothing category to produce entire collections. There are a number of distinct directions for spring/summer that offer men dozens of possibilities.

Themes that are most prominent include the use of iridescent colors, floral patterns, the return of madras, the dominance of silk, the popover, golf-inspired leisure wear, and newfangled "overwear" that acts like sweaters and coats.

Iridescent colors appear as accents in tailored clothing and outerwear and more prominently in sportswear. The traditional red, orange and green iridescents are replaced by darker berry and jewel tones that are easier on the eye. The iridescent accents are popular on linen, silk, rayon and nylon.

Floral patterns are the most popular pattern in sportswear and are found on everything from bikinis, jeans, camp shirts, T-shirts, vests and jackets to drawstring pants. Some sweaters have jacquard knit floral patterns as well.

Back in fashion after a short lull, madras appears in more categories than ever before, including tailored sportswear, shirts, walk shorts, loungewear and swim wear. Madras patterns in linen, cotton and cotton blends have the same appeal as the authentic Indian bleeding madras. Stripes and abstract designs supplement the popular plaid pattern.

The dominance of silk in new formal styles as well as tailored clothing and sportswear also signals the biggest comeback since the '50s for this fabric. Silk blends with linen, wool and cotton are more breathable than the all-silk designs of past seasons. Men no longer have to fear perspiring in a contemporary silk shirt.

FASHION MUSTS

- Two, four, six and even eight are nice but the man of style will spring for a three-button jacket in a contemporary design from Girbaud or Barry Bricken.
- Double your pleasure with a double-breasted jacket from Mondo or Henry Gröthel.
- A blouson jacket to protect from the elements by Bill Robinson.
- Something floral like a print shirt from a.b.s. Men or a tie by Cecilia Metheny.
- Tee off in golf-inspired sportswear from the Bobby Jones collection.
- Ensure a bright future with a subtly iridescent suit by Nino Cerruti.
- The lighter the better in treated jeans and denim jackets from Pepe and Lee Co.
- I've said it before and I'll say it again, buy a vest. Try a knit sweater-vest from Crossings.
- A braided leather belt. A luxury in style from Bill Blass Accessories.
- A washed silk shirt, comfortable and practical from M. Julian.

Copley News Service

fabric with a sueded finish.

The popover is the track suit of the '90s. This item of sportswear pulls over the head and shoulders and is hooded for comfort and water/wind resistance. Fashionable and easy-to-care-for popovers are splashed with neon-bright colors, logos, embroidery and prints and look best when layered over coordinating T-shirts. Photographs — actual photographs printed onto sportswear items — are a major element of popovers as well as T-shirts and jackets.

The golf course used to be the only place where businessmen could be seen wearing colorful clothes. Sophisticated male consumers of today realize the value of color in everyday wardrobes and golf attire has now crossed over to mainstream sportswear. Knit polo-style shirts, cardigans, sweaters, drizzler jackets and colorful patterned slacks are examples of golf-inspired sportswear. One might also expect to see Bermuda-length shorts and even knickers off the golf course.

A new category of sportswear for the '90s includes multipurpose cardigans, shirts and jackets that create an alternative to sweaters and coats. Produced by sportswear designers and manufacturers, these shirts and jackets are styled like shirts and are unconstructed. They are meant to be worn over the traditional shirt. Blouson and cardigan styles provide further choice for men who desire the convenience of a sweater and the practicality of a jacket.

Sportswear has grown faster than any other category in men's fashion and this trend shows no signs of slowing down. So look for variety, color and excitement on the beaches, boardwalks and city streets this spring and into the future.

As in tailored clothing, taupe is a popular color for silk. At one time worn exclusively for formal occasions, silk enters the sportswear arena this season with shirts and separates made of washed silk, a light, comfortable

AFTER HOURS CHIC Opulence adorns evening fashion

By Karen Caldwell

AFTER HOURS CHIC — Long gowns in floaty, body-skimming fabrics make a feminine fashion statement after dark. Shown here: Crepe evening gown by Carolina Herrera.

Your evening options for this season range from showy embroidered gowns to jeweled jackets worn with chiffon skirts.

Gone is slick, hard-edged haute couture. The new look is gentle — but not naive.

These are feminine fashions: rounded, fragile and seductive.

This fresh new 1990s sexiness is far from the crass vulgarity of the past; styling is uncontrived, forthright, show-it-as-it-is.

Some of the season's keynotes: asymmetrical hemlines, one-shouldered dresses, slithery sheers, a sense of softness and movement, fringe, beading and embroidery.

And trousers. They're wide and flowing, in gauzy fabrics, worn with breezy jackets.

Ropes of big glass beads dangle from hems, jangling like temple bells. Earrings descend beyond the shoulders. Even shoes are ornate.

Bosoms are bare (or bare-what-you-dare), sometimes just a silhouette glimpsed under a translucent top. (If you're less adventurous, simply wear a camisole or body stocking under that wispy fabric.)

For those who have been faithfully attending the fitness center, new belly-dancer styles show off trim, flat midriffs.

Even colors are nude, emulating skin tones. They range from deep brown to rosy peach and pale alabaster.

Fabrics, including taffeta, have an iridescent quality. These change from one color to another as the light hits them. See-throughs are paired with solids; transparent is contrasted with opaque.

Acknowledging a new decade of high technology are metallic fabrics reminiscent of futuristic science fiction. Anything that sparkles and flashes appears with abandon.

Jackets are important — soft and slouchy, with rounded shoulders. Some designers take an avant-garde approach with them. Holes are cut in the backs, sleeves are sheer or eliminated. Sometimes the entire garment is just a series of straps and bands.

DAY INTO EVENING

The versatility of this season's free-flowing fashions lends plenty of options for the woman who can't run home and change.

One day/work outfit that flows easily into evening is the suit. Add a sheer or beaded top, longer earrings and high heels, and you're all set.

Or begin with a simple chemise; accessorize it with a filmy wrap or flyaway jacket. You also can slip on, over the chemise, an ankle-length sheer chiffon skirt.

Another option: Pair that same wrap or jacket with a lacy camisole and near-translucent trousers.

Or invest in one magnificent, lavishly beaded jacket. With this sizzling accessory, it almost doesn't matter what else you wear.

DESIGNERS' BEST

Top designers interpret fashion trends with their own signature styles. Some are wild and exotic, others more subdued. All reflect the pervading femininity of the season.

Giorgio Armani's evening clothes are replete with spice-route splendor. Colorful beads and jewels mix with gold in elaborate patterns. Jeweled bodices reveal bared midriffs above wrapped skirts.

"Grandeur" is the word observers used to describe the Oriental opulence of Gianfranco Ferré's evening gowns. His richly jeweled outfits set the runways ablaze and seem appropriate for no less than a potentate's wife.

Chiffon skirts from Bill Blass are dotted with leopard spots; his dresses have fringed hems and are worn with silk jackets.

Karl Lagerfeld's evening palette cools down with a preference for ivory, white and black bouffant dresses. The designer explained to W magazine, "There's nothing worse than too many bright dresses at the same party." His creations show a preference for halter tops and bare backs.

Lagerfeld also offers dozens of lovely, long pajamas and soft, semitransparent blouses with deep-draped décolletés or floppy bows.

Known for his floaty, feminine and layered fashions, Arnold Scaasi's evening dresses are Barbara Bush blue — his favorite client's favorite color.

Carolina Herrera favors fluid silhouettes. Inspired by Fabergé eggs, some styles use fragile embroidery on crisp, pale silks. White crepe dresses combined with crystal beaded jackets have a delicacy ideal for summer evenings.

Flowing pajamas and long skirts are the keynotes in Doby Broda's collection; the look is reminiscent of the 1930s. Her gold lame bias-cut dresses and flared pants are slinky yet feminine.

Donna Karan's collection is based on the designer's observation, "To be new, clothes should seem like wearing nothing." Her palette is nude, the dresses starkly simple — often worn under oversize, slouchy jackets.

A closet full of chic isn't acquired overnight. Instead it's a sort of ascendancy, achieved with time and discretion.

Observant shoppers are those consumers well-steeped in fashion magazines. But look for diluted versions of what you see in the glossies. True chic has dignity, and dignity is likely an abbreviation of those stylized photographs of long, lean beauties. You may need fewer accessories, less radical hemlines or perhaps more subtle color combinations.

While you're filling your mind's eye with a newly haberdashed you, don't forget what you look like. Nobody can wear every shape and shade. Your personal palette and silhouette should be fairly precise. If you're unsure of the best hues and shapes for your body, hire someone to advise you.

Color analysis is by now almost mandatory, even if you just buy a book and figure it out on your own.

Trickier is determining and adhering to shape guidelines. Are you short? Tall? Wide in the hips? Narrow in the shoulders? Every curve has its countercurve in clothing. Get good at camouflaging gaffs and accentuating your blessings.

Voluptuous types should leave the voluminous clothing to the more meagerly endowed. Tips include the following: Dress in one color for streamlining. Keep dark colors on the outside for a sleek effect. Go for the elongated verticals and avoid cowl or turtle-necks.

Who among us hasn't snatched up what seemed like the perfect outfit only to get home and find

WARDROBE BASICS

Tailors, discounts and more clothing savvy

By Tershia d'Elgin

that the fabric wrinkled easily, was too hot, looked lower-quality when out from under the store lights.

Or worse. The whole thing was great until washed, then horrors. It shrank, it frayed, it lost its pluck. Be sure to familiarize yourself with fabric types — cotton, wool, silk and synthetics. And check out the laundering instructions before you buy.

Either you're born with an innate sense of style or you're not. Without this intuition, you can still be among the best-clad. But you must seek out those with stylish visions as consultants.

Personal fashion consulting is big business and getting bigger as the choices get broader and time and disposable income get smaller. It's the consultant's job to keep you from looking shoddy in a fading wardrobe. They'll know where to get what you want in your price range.

Many top department stores across the country have in-store consultants. Likewise large malls offer this service. Otherwise, it's a matter of combing your yellow pages or asking acquaintances who've had positive experiences for referrals.

As part of the service, the fashion consultant will familiarize herself with your existing wardrobe. You'll determine together how best to beef up your look. They keep records of sizes, colors, your credit information and birth-days of kids and spouses, if so desired.

Hit or Miss stores, based near Boston, developed a handbook on coordinating a wardrobe. For a copy of the free booklet, send a self addressed stamped envelope to: Hit or Miss, Box M, 100 Campanelli Parkway, Stoughton, MA 02072.

Tailors are more necessary than most of us would admit. Who among us has a perfectly proportioned body — uniformly bilateral and without bulges? Many a potentially impeccable ensemble is ruined by a droopy hemline, jackets that pull or a baggy crotch.

A tailor can make that outfit fit you and you alone. If you're lucky enough to find one who can also create clothing from scratch, so much the better.

Accessories can give your wardrobe integrity. Mishandled, they can also cause confusion. You don't want to arrive jangling like a jalopy. The goal is to include hypnotic accents without distracting from the person you are underneath it all.

The rule of thumb is: Don't wear more than seven items at once. Nor should you wear less than four. For example, a dress, shoes and belt need earrings. A dress, shoes, belt, earrings, bracelet, textured hose and jacket do not need a scarf and necklace.

Knowing when and where to shop is part of the wizardry. Not many of us are on a fiscal leash long enough lead us to wild abandon. It's then a matter of knowing which stores have the most for the dollar, seeking out discount marts and swap meets and keeping sale dates at favorite stores on your calendar.

Many department stores have discount outlets for sale merchandise and slightly flawed goods. Often the damage is so slight as to be unnoticeable. All big cities and most communities have discount stores such as Marshalls or Lohmans that while offering less personalized service, carry fine brands for much, much less.

Shrewd dressers have an eye for timeless quality and cut. Scour second-hand stores and vintage clothing shops for one of a kinds and unusual accessories. These accent pieces can make mere clothes into eye-catching ensembles.

Some people feel positively overwhelmed by the sheer bulk of choices in the marketplace. One way to thin out your options and save time is to shop catalogs. These mail-order houses have really come into their own, and there is a selection for every taste.

EMBELLISHMENTS Scarves, snoods, hats and handbags

By Steve Hurtado

EMBELLISHMENTS — Enhance this season's simple fashions with creative accessories, from scarves to handbags. Shown here: Cartier's silk evening handbag and scarf.

Imagine spending most of your life designing accessories for such well-knowns as Halston and Calvin Klein.

You would acquire an eye for what works — and what doesn't.

Such is the case with accessory designer Frances Patiky Stein. According to Connoisseur magazine, she has "for three decades quietly articulated a consistent philosophy of affordable and appealing fashion."

Stein, who recently formed her own company, told the magazine: "What is remarkable about accessories dressing is that it's an investment. It's always going to work, over and over. Even though a handbag may be expensive, it certainly isn't nearly as expensive as a suit."

Connoisseur says that Stein "believes in building a small base of well-tailored, neutral-colored clothes that enhance your body and are appropriate to your lifestyle, and then creating on top of that an infinite wardrobe with scarves, shawls, jewelry, belts, handbags."

With that in mind, here is an overview of important accessories for the upcoming season:

HATS/HEAD WEAR

The all-pervasive look in hats is straw — usually natural, sometimes with metallic sheen.

Straw hats get broad brims at Valentino, tall crowns at Dior. Gianfranco Ferre's straw styles have drop brims.

Decorate the brim of your ivory straw hat with silk rosettes in pale shades of cream, pink, beige and peach.

HANDBAGS

In keeping with the season's tendency to softness, handbags have no hard edges. They're more baglike than ever, jazzed up with jewels, tassels and fringe.

Soft suedes and leathers predominate. For cloth bags, the patterns of choice are florals — mostly muted abstracts.

Gucci silhouettes include the traditional hobo style, drawstring bucket bags, and duffles. The company's casual handbags and totes are made from leather-trimmed khaki canvas, and have nautical rope and leather handles.

Stones that accent bags this season are large and semiprecious; clasps are made of agates, onyx, carnelian, garnets and coral. Sinuous clasps resemble snarling tiger's heads or snakes.

If you have a classic Chanel quilted leather envelope bag, give it a 1990s look by replacing the chain with pearls. (Wear the gold chain around your hips!)

Date books and personal organizers are entering the realm of fashion. In sizes ranging from portable to portfolio, they're available in everything from sedate natural-grain calf to chic forest green leather or red-hot croc.

Belts are gilt-laden and adorned with big buckles and large gemstones. Chains are the favorite (that is, when you're not wearing a tasseled scarf around your waist).

SCARVES

Lend softness to your look with scarves patterned with delicate pastel florals or embellished with silk metallic lace.

This season, scarves are worn with French flair: flung over the shoulders or long and hanging. Loosely wrap your neck four or five times, or fold once and fluff — or just cross over and tuck the scarf under your jacket, no flowing ends in sight.

Use scarves in unlikely combinations: a big, silky Hermes scarf over jeans and boots, for example can strike just the right note of casual chic.

Another popular option: Wear a scarf as a mini silk sarong over black leotard and tights.

Plush silk scarves are the newest bustiers; wrap one around your torso and knot it in the back to create a top sophisticated enough to wear under a blazer.

GLAMOUR GAB

'Soft' is this season's leitmotiv

By Alison Ashton

GLAMOUR GAB — Soft silhouettes, floaty fabrics and comfort are the key elements to this season's fashion, according to the editors of Glamour magazine. Shown here: Cotton blouse and skirt by Ruff Hewn.

If you're looking to update your wardrobe, give it a softer edge.

Because soft colors, fabrics and silhouettes are how we're greeting the '90s, according to Kim Bonnell, senior fashion editor of Glamour magazine.

What you won't see are a lot of wacky clothes. After the miniskirt fiasco a few years ago, designers continue to fashion clothes for real people.

"There is an uncertain retail climate now," says Bonnell. "Stores aren't risking money on clothes that won't sell."

The editors of Glamour have watched the couture shows in New York, Paris and London and contacted their 12 stringers across the country to see what "women are actually wearing" and decided that the leitmotiv for the season is comfort. Clothes that are easy to wear in pretty, feminine colors.

Here is what they forecast for this year:

- Soft shapes. Jackets are loosely tailored with gently rounded shoulder pads (forget the power shoulders of the '80s). Jacket lengths range from the hip to midhigh — perfect for the looser-fitting skirts you'll see. There are relatively few short, fitted jackets.

- Soft fabrics. Fabric and texture play a big role. In addition to the chiffon that was so popular last season, look for floaty crepe, rayon and washed silk — anything that gives clothes a gentle drape.

- Soft colors. Dusty pastels are more "grown-up," says Bonnell. Mint, rose, pale blue and yellow all have a dusting of gray, which makes these new pastels appropriate for the workplace. Avoid overly sweet Easter-egg pastels.

- Pick a new neutral color. Black will always be chic, says Bonnell, but shades of brown, navy, taupe and gray are emerging as new base colors for a wardrobe. And they are wonderful with the new pastels.

- Knee-length skirts. The basic straight skirt is updated by the sarong shape, which is complemented by soft, drapery fabrics. Designer Donna Karan showed the sarong a few seasons ago, and women complained that it was too hard to tie. This season, you'll find sarong skirts that are pretied.

If skirt lengths on runway models have you nervous, Bonnell points out that designers show their skirts short during the shows but ship them to the stores as much as 4 inches longer.

- Trousers are in the workplace. "I'm surprised by how many women can wear trousers for work," says Bonnell. The wide daytime pants of last year are tailored and narrower with soft pleats this year. Leggings and stirrup pants are still popular, especially with a long, soft jacket.

- Update with jewelry. You can update last year's suit, says Bonnell, with a single strand of quality beads. It's a look that you don't need to pile on a la Chanel. For everyday jewelry, sterling silver rings are popular. Look for them in interesting sculptural shapes, perhaps studded with turquoise.

IN THE SWIM Dive into sexy, classic swim wear

By Alison Ashton

Two things are influencing the direction of swim wear this season: aging Baby Boomers and fear of the sun.

Sexiness comes more from how the body is covered up than from what is revealed. Where designers took their inspiration from athletes in past seasons, turning out functional-looking beachwear, the look this season is definitely glamorous.

STRONG FOUNDATIONS

Old Hollywood glamour is strong this season, as necklines make the biggest swim wear news.

Bathing suits with halter tops, mock turtlenecks, sweet fichu necklines have the most fashion sense. You also will see plenty of off-the-shoulder necklines and wider straps that mimic a sundress. Some even have a small cap sleeve (these look almost like a body suit).

The one-piece is the most popular shape, especially with underwire and push-up bra tops and boned bodices for more support and shaping (as well as for that retro Hollywood look). Basic, functional tank suits are still abundant.

Generally, necklines are higher and legs are cut somewhat lower. Though you still will find plenty of flattering high-cut legs, you find them really high-cut. Some California designers showed very revealing g-string and thong bottoms on blushing models, but the overwhelming trend is toward something that covers more.

Interesting back treatments include racer backs, crossed and contrasting T-straps.

Bikinis are still around, although they, too, offer more covering. Many have traditional bra-style tops with underwiring teamed with high-waisted briefs. There are also a lot of comfortable cropped bra tops, like the kind you see at the gym.

TEXTURE AND COLOR

In addition to cut, look for distinctive color, texture and fabric treatments.

Suits accessorized with fringe, tassels, metal studs, leather and mesh inserts show that the ethnic influence is strong.

Swimsuit designer Brenda Welch offers a New Age maillot festooned with quartz crystals for good karma. Another black Brenda Welch number jingles with small gold coins.

Unusual fabric treatments give suits interesting texture and color. OP's crunched and bleach-soaked fabric creates effects that have been compared to a Rorschach inkblot test.

Soft, subtle styles go to the office

By Debra Cooper

WORK WEAR — Shorter skirts, trousers and dresses are making their way into the executive suite. Shown here: Fashions by Emanuel Ungaro.

Who says there's no room for romance in the workplace?

Wait until you see this season's business fashion. It's soft, feminine and, yes, romantic.

Long gone is the male-clone look.

Of course you can still be tough, aggressive and very much in charge — but you needn't dress the part.

The power suit of the '80s, a descendant of hard-driving Italian design, has given way to a more approachable look — one that makes it easier for a woman to create her own personal style.

Designers are bowing to the wishes of the working woman with "real clothes for real women."

The overall style is not mountains of lace, ruffles, bows and endless frills. Instead, it's a sophisticated yet comfortable, never-forget-you're-female approach to office attire.

The flavor of romance is expressed in pale, misty colors with occasional strong accents. Fabrics drape, shapes skim the body without clutching it.

Linen, for example, eludes its traditional stiffness when combined with silk or rayon.

"Everything must flow," says designer Gloria Sachs. "Even the tailored clothes are unstructured."

And there are more options — from billowing silhouettes to crisp navy-and-white nautical styles.

"I think most women today like the option in their wardrobes of both soft and feminine dresses as well as more tailored and clean-lined styles," says Mary Ann Restivo. "These suit not only the different requirements of their lives but their moods as well."

The season's softness is expressed with wonderful fabrics: chamois, silk, crepe, cashmere, chiffon, organza and boucle wool. For example:

- Anne Klein combines a chamois rayon jacket with a matching vest, sarong skirt and contrasting silk blouse.

- Donna Karan's taupe crepe twill drape-front jacket is worn with matching easy pants.

- Bill Blass' pink wool jacket is worn over a yellow silk crepe blouse and grass-green wool skirt.

- Oscar de la Renta pairs a boucle wool jacket with a wool gabardine skirt, both in sunrise orange. The blouse is bronze silk.

Shoulder pads have gotten as much press as hemlines in past seasons, and this year they're news, too — for what they're not. Gone is the tailored linebacker look. Pads are important, but they're not exaggerated. Rounded and softer, they give shape without shouting.

It's not that jackets aren't important. They are — in fact, they're one of the season's keynotes. Calvin Klein builds his collection around them, with fluid styles that drape gracefully.

Designer Ralph Lauren's suits also have "more delicate, more elegant, more romantic" styling. His white silk jacket has three vertical tucks on either side of the waist. You can wear it with pants and a tank top for a youthful, casual look. To achieve sophisticated styling ideal for the office, pair it with a pleated-front shirt and a long skirt.

A name to keep in mind is Nancy Johnson; her Victorian and retro-style blouses feature lace and cut-work collars. The white of the collar often contrasts with a darker blouse, setting off the lace — and framing the wearer's face. Her antique-looking tea-length dresses have peplums, polka dots, drop waists and/or tiers of translucent fabrics.

Other blouse options include the wrap blouse, which looks best with a long, unconstructed jacket (complete the look with a gold-buckle belt and long skirt); the double-breasted blouse, worn with a cut-away blazer or oversize cardigan; and, if you're feeling demure, the ascot blouse — perfect under a bathrobe wrap jacket.

And below the hem? Neutral hose and high heels.
