HBA Honors Sponsors

Hicksville Baseball Association held their annual Honor the Sponsor Dance on June 2. There was a great turnout of managers, coaches and team parents. Dr. Dave, D.J. for the night, kept those records spinning and in turn the dance floor was always packed.

The door prize, tickets for Westbury Music Fair, was won by the Zollo family.

It was a fun night for all those who attended, hope to see you all at our next HBA Dance!

In photo President Buzz Doyle and Vice President Jane Sehn presented sponsor Anthony Ferraro from VFW a plaque to say thank-you!

Attorney Speaks At Kiwanis

Mr. Anthony J. Colleluori, Esq. was the guest speaker at the June 6, luncheon meeting of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Colleluori is a member of the Board of Directors of the Nassau County Bar Association. His law office recently moved from Front Street in Mineola to Jericho Turnpike in Jericho just a stone's throw from the Milleridge Inn where he spoke to the Kiwanis Club.

In his presentation to Kiwanis, Mr. Colleluori emphasized the importance of keeping in close touch with your attorney on a regular basis, rather than waiting until a crisis occurs, whether you are an individual, a small business owner or a corporation. This way, the attorney could discuss possible scheduled or planned changes in your personal or business operations, and could advise you as to the legality of, or possible pitfalls in, the proposed changes before you might run into a problem that would be costly to overcome.

In the photo, Kiwanis President Dr. Joseph Lupo, on the left, is shown thanking Mr. Colleluori for his interesting and informative discussion which was well received by the Kiwanians in attendance.

Sign Up Now For Summer

In addition to two Reading Clubs, one for youngsters who have completed grades 1-6, and a Read-to-Me Club for pre-readers aged 3½-6, the library will offer a fabulous assortment of programs. There will be Storytimes galore: pre-school storytime (ages 3½-5), tiny tots time (ages 2½-3½), storytelling at the Bethpage Pool, and evening Teddy Bear Pajama Storytimes.

There will also be a colorful Kaleidoscope of program spectacles - evening family programs including a "Storytelling Mini-Series" by star performers and Walt Disney classic films. In addition, there will be magicians, puppet shows, wild animal shows, a sports clinic with the N.Y. Islanders, snack cookery, an extra special birthday party tribute to famous children's author, Dr. Seuss, an exciting "Introduction to Italian," a computer club, tons of crafts, and more.

Youngsters can also play the exciting "Safari Hunt Game," new this summer and sponsored by the Friends of the Bethpage Public Library. The prize is a colorful full-size frisbee. The game is available for two age levels - 5 to 7 and 8 to 12. The fun begins on June 25. Ask the Children's Room Staff for details.

Youngsters who have completed grades 1-6 can literally read their way to fabulous prizes and surprises with special treats contributed by Pizza Hut, 3743 Hempstead Turnpike, Levittown; fascinating games of miniature golf at Batter Up, Inc., 130 Hicksville Road; bowling games at Plainview Bowl, 500 Old Bethpage Road, Plainview. Our "Super Readers" will receive a delicious surprise from Carvel, 552 Stewart Avenue, Bethpage. All Bethpage Public Library summer programs are open to young people who reside in School District No. 21. For further information, please call 931-3907.

Insights Into Current Issues

Barbara Krupit will be at the Jericho Public Library on Wednesday, June 13, at 1 p.m. for a current events discussion. She will help you gain remarkable and practical insights into the issues of the day. Bring your lunch or a snack and we'll supply the coffee and tea.

Town Amends Waste Ordinance

An amendment to the Town of Oyster Bay's Solid Waste Ordinance, aimed at ensuring continued maximum groundwater protection during the Old Bethpage landfill remediation program was adopted by the Town Board following a May 22, hearing, according to Town Councilman John Venditto.

In order to save taxpayer expense of purchasing fill materials to be used in the ongoing capping program at the Landfill, the Town has received permission to bring in "clean fill" materials from contractors and others," explained Venditto.

This amendment to the Town's Solid Waste Ordinance sets down specific guidelines for what constitutes "clean fill" and also establishes penalties for anyone attempting to bring in materials which are not, in fact clean fill.

Athletic Achievement

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Angelo A. Delligatti, third from left, presents a special certificate for Outstanding Athletic Achievement to Stephanie Christian, a student at Bethpage High School, while Town Councilwoman Ann R. Ocker presents a similar certificate to Matthew Conway, also a student at Bethpage High School. The Supervisor initiated the program to honor students from high schools throughout the Town for their athletic accomplishments. The students, a boy and a girl from each school, were selected according to criteria established by their school's administration. Other award recipients included Sherrard Joseph and Christie Conrod of Farmingdale High School. Also on hand were Richard Glannadeo, second from right, Bethpage High School Athletic Director, and Don Snyder, Athletic Director of the Farmingdale School District.

Lions Installation

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark, third from right, presents a citation to George Montana, outgoing president of the Hicksville Lions Club, at the club's annual installation dinner. Also on hand were, left to right, club chairman Ted Marotti, Jamie Montana, Edith Sorok and incoming president Joe Sorok.

Letter

To the Editor:

Just a couple of weeks ago, the people of Hicksville overwhelmingly rejected the school budget. In the Sunday Newsday of June 10, the Hicksville school Administration has advertised for an assistant principal for the high school and a director of personnel.

Both of these positions should be eliminated and the savings used to reduce the school budget. The elimination of these positions would in no way affect the quality of education and would save approximately one hundred forty thousand dollars.

College Note

Marion Dorka, 20 Bradford Lane, Bethpage, was among some 238 seniors who participated in Commencement exercises at Houghton College, May 14. With family and friends, graduates heard a challenge by Dr. Virgil Cruz, a Houghton alumnus (1953) and professor of New Testament at Louisville, Ky. Presbyterian Theological Seminary to "Keep the Faith."

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dorka, Marion will receive a B.S. in recreation and psychology in December. She has participated in intramural soccer, water polo and volleyball and has been a member of Allegany County Outreach, the secretary in her senior year.

Justine Franzke of Bethpage has been named to the Spring Semester Dean's List for academic achievement. Dr. Doyle Matthis, vice president and dean of the college, has announced.

The Dean's List recognizes students earning an academic average of 3.5 or higher on a scale of 4.0 while carrying a class load of at least 12 hours.

Justine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Franzke.

Berry College is an independent, coeducational institution located in Rome, Ga., which emphasizes a comprehensive educational program committed to high academic standards, religious values, and practical work experiences in a distinctive environment of natural beauty.

Linda Diehl, a 1986 graduate of Hicksville High School, has graduated from the New York Institute of Technology at Old Westbury.

She graduated with a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Communications, was on the Dean's List and also received the Craig L. Goodman Memorial Award.

College Notes

Miss Jeanne P. Hughes of 9 Arbor Lane, Hicksville, was among the 915 graduates of Providence College who received their undergraduate degrees during the Colleges 72nd Commencement exercises on May 20.

Miss Hughes was awarded a bachelors degree in Public Accounting from the Liberal Arts College.

Keith Rice of Hicksville was awarded the Associate of Arts degree from Adams State College, Alamosa, Colorado on May 5.

Publishing Workshop

Bethpage teacher Victoria Neanick recently presented a workshop on "How To Get Your Work and Your Children's Work Published." Her informative program was part of the Whole Language Conference held at the Royce Carlin Hotel in Melville sponsored by TRACT, The Nassau County Teacher's Center on May 15.

"Becoming a published author doesn't depend on talent or skill," she says. "The only difference between being an unpublished author or a published author is that the published author never gave up." Mrs. Neanick provided the encouragement and know-how many participants needed to start immediately submitting their work for publication. She explained the new copyright law and the pros and cons of having a literary agent. She not only presented a step-by-step procedure of how to obtain an agent and a publisher, but also provided participants with a long listing of both. Mrs. Neanick gave a slide presentation and revealed how the children in her class at Central Boulevard School helped her to get her book, "Princess Diana: A Book of Questions and Answers," published. Now she is helping her students and other students and teachers get their work published as well.

Teachers Present At Language Conf.

Bethpage High School teachers Rosemary McKinley and Suzanne Rankin conducted a workshop at the Nassau County Whole Language Conference on May 16, held at the Royce Carlin Hotel. They spoke about a secondary level approach to teaching reading in the content areas called TRICA. They explained how the strategies could be used in all subject areas, and, specifically, on their approaches in the science and social studies areas, which they teach. The conference, sponsored by BOCES, attracted more than 800 educators from the Long Island area. One of the organizers of the conference was Dr. Regina Cohn, Director of Reading and Related Services for the Bethpage Public Schools.

Information - Recreation - Education. For thirty years, the Public Library's Bookmobile lumbered down the streets of Hicksville stopping at such well-known corners as Cornell Lane and Larch Street, Ketchams Road and Gardenia Lane and Burns Avenue and Dakota Street. Now how many of us can say we've had the same vehicle in our family for that long.

There comes a time in the life of all vehicles when you start to feel the shimmy or the brakes give out. Well, such a time has come for Hicksville's Bookmobile, and the library board has retired its mobile library.

The Bookmobile was purchased in June 1960 at a cost just under $19,500. During its life span, it served all Hicksville residents, moms and dads, students and their teachers, the blind and homebound. It was a curious thing, especially to little children.

Mrs. Grace Gillen, librarian aboard the Bookmobile for the past five years, recalls it as a small library in itself. "We carried over 3,000 pieces, including children's and adult's books, paperbacks, magazines and popular books. We had our own card system and check out stamps," adds Mrs. Gillen.

Grace also recalls arranging to bring books to the homebound. She would set up a time and bring 10 to 15 selections. She'd check out their books and come back in several weeks to collect them.

Moving around to their appointed stops, Grace, her assistant Virginia Dunne and driver Sal D'Amico met many people. They say that they and the community became almost like a family and that the service took on a personal touch. For the steady customers, those who would be out on the corner waiting, Grace recalls that if the Bookmobile was delayed, she would call ahead to alert them. "You know, we'd be out there all year 'round, even when we didn't have heat," says Grace.

Sal remembers that if the check out line was long, he would play games with the children, like how much is 17+9 (?). He also fondly recalls the children's homemade Christmas cards and other small gifts.

"I became somewhat of a celebrity in town", Sal says, recounting the time he was in the supermarket and a child pulling on her mom's leg shouted, "There's Sal, by Bookmobile drive." "I can't forget that," says Sal.

Naturally, some residents are disappointed that costly repairs and decline in use of the Bookmobile has brought an end to an era, but many residents will hold its memories in their hearts. "It was a very personal experience. It was great, and I loved it," says Grace. "I'll never forget the people," adds Sal.

As a follow up to last week's column about community-minded high schoolers, we'd like to acknowledge Bethpage High School's students. In Bethpage, there are two very active groups, the Student Council and a Student Civic Association.

Each year the Student Council sponsors a Thanksgiving food drive and during the Christmas season, the students hold a toy drive and adopt a family.

An all-out effort was made to encourage participation by all students in Red Ribbon Week last October. The Student Council ran this Fight DWI campaign in conjunction with MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving). The students issued red ribbons to be tied on car antennas, door handles or rear view mirrors to remind drivers of the potential hazards of driving while intoxicated. The students also tied the red ribbons on the telephone poles on Broadway.

Two years ago, a high school student was hit by a car. The Student Council has sponsored a volleyball fundraiser to help defray medical costs. Last year, the students raised $4,000 for the youngster and his family, and this year, raised an additional $3,000.

The student civic association has taken on a town beautification program. The high schoolers planted flowers and pursued a clean up effort, targeting areas which accumulate debris. On Earth Day this year, the club ran a recycling drive, collecting paper and plastics. They arranged for the Town of Oyster Bay to collect the paper and an outside business to pick up the plastics. Along this same vane, the Student Council purchased benches made of recycled material for the front of the senior high.

And speaking of ingenious ideas, the civic association held a Lip Sync fundraiser one evening. The students performed, and the monies raised went either to the high school PTSA or to the Suffolk County Developmentally Disabled.

Bethpage residents can take pride in the endeavors pursued by their high school youngsters and in their accomplishments.

Mother's Day Poetry Hour

Miriam Pasetsky, fifth grade teacher at Burns Avenue School, recently held her 4th Annual Mother's Day Poetry Hour. Mothers and other family members were treated to an assortment of poems presented by the students. The students chose poems from Shel Silverstein's "Where The Sidewalk Ends," and "A Light in The Attic," and Jack Prelutsky's "The New Kid On The Block." Some of the students also wrote and read their own poems about Mother's Day.

SADD members Attend Conf.

Hicksville High School Members of S.A.D.D. (Students Against Drunk Driving) and student advisor Susan Galland attended a conference at Massapequa High School on Saturday, May 10. After spending time in various workshops and sharing sessions, the group returned with exciting ideas for the next school year.

In the planning stages are: another "Video Dance," an exciting assembly program, a poster contest, as well as many special events for their meetings.

Members of S.A.D.D. wish to thank everyone who supported their activities throughout the past year.

From Hicksville

Congratulations to Trinity Lutheran Church, 40 W. Nicholas St., Hicksville, as it celebrates its 140th Anniversary.

A service of thanksgiving and celebration to the Glory of God and in grateful recognition of 35 Christ's church at Trinity Lutheran Church and School, Hicksville, in honor of Weldon W. Endorf. A reception followed after the service.

Lil Kaden wants it to be known that she is now at home and wants to thank everyone for all their prayers and get-well wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Credillo, Harrison Avenue, Hicksville, entertained their daughter, son-in-law and their beautiful grandchild from Chicago over this past weekend.

Happy Father's Day to all one and all dads.

The Sunshine Circle of Trinity Lutheran church had their Annual Dinner on Tuesday, June 12, at Wok's Restaurant on W. Marie Street. About 40 members were present.

All the children in Victoria Nesnick's third grade class at Central Blvd. School in Bethpage won a blue ribbon for their entry in Raintree's Publish-A-Book Contest.

Entries had to be between 400-600 words and on the topic of "My Best Friend" real or imaginary.

Although none of the students won first prize in this national contest, which would have meant the story would be published in a hardcover book, each student learned a great deal about the meaning of friendship.

"Having a best friend makes everyone a winner," says Nesnick. "I'm proud of every student's effort and would like to congratulate each and every one of them."

A Biology Lesson At Dutch Lane

The students from Mrs. Lynn's and Miss Cecere's 5th grade classes got to seeing how organs really look inside of dissected piglet.

The children all had parental permission and the student who did not want to observe worked on another project in another classroom.

Mrs. Danzi, who is a teacher of biology at Hofstra and also one of the students mom, taught an excellent lesson on organs and their functions.

It was very interesting and the students asked many questions

Mrs. Danzi slowly uncovers the piglet (preserved) to begin the lesson.

The students are very interested to see all the parts and learn about their functions.

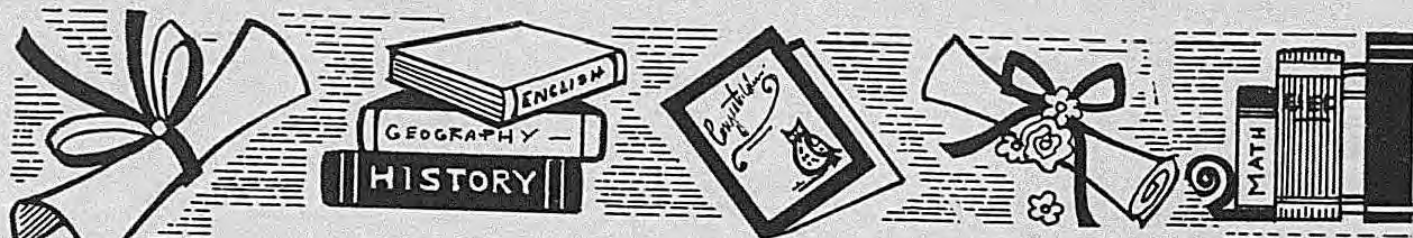

Miss Cecere is happy to see such a positive reaction from all the students.

JOB SMARTS

Decor, dress, stress and more work smart tips

By Alison Ashton

JOB SMARTS — Attention to office decor, interpersonal skills and dress give you the advantage on the job. Shown here: Suit by Liz Claiborne Collection.

Any veteran of the work wars knows that there is more to success than doing your job well.

Even the most calm workplace is rife with its own version of office politics. And every office has its (usually) unwritten dress code and protocol about how to maintain your work space and socialize with your colleagues.

For the newcomer, understanding the rules of the working world can be the biggest adjustment to make.

WORKING SMART

"Work smart, not hard," is the saying. That means working efficiently, managing your time and tackling the tasks that matter most.

Getting a lot done during the day is great. It's even better if you get those projects done that score points with management. Learn to identify your boss's objectives and work with those in mind.

If you have a full schedule and aren't sure what to do first, get help prioritizing — find out what must get done and what projects can wait for a slow day.

In addition to general business protocol, you'll discover that every office has its own set of rules (usually unspoken ones laid down by the head honcho). Hazing new employees is not uncommon, and your best bet is to try to ride it out calmly. That means don't get too upset and don't tattle.

Young employees, especially recent college graduates, often make the mistake of talking too much and telling their employers how things should really be done. Observe before offering suggestions.

Using basic good manners is another way to survive the cutthroat world of business. If your social skills need polishing, consider taking an etiquette class or reading a book such as Letitia Baldridge's "Complete Guide to Executive Manners" (Rawson Associates).

When traveling abroad, learn the business protocol of your host country: Don't get too personal in Britain; be punctual in Germany and don't discuss business during lunch; accept social invitations in Latin America.

Other smart ways of getting ahead include forming alliances with colleagues, delegating responsibility and gathering information while protecting confidences.

DECOR SCORE

Furniture, office size and location are the mark of rank in some offices. Even something as subtle as a chair with arms distinguishes the occupant as a person on the rise.

More employers are using space planners and environmental designers to create a workplace that fosters productivity and cooperation. In some offices, that might mean an open work space; in others, walls and privacy are in order.

Organizing tools, filing systems and space-saving storage systems help you keep extraneous materials out of the way. Adjustable chairs and computer desks are more common. Typewriters are also coming back in favor to dash off quick memos or address an envelope.

Executives generally need a space for work and one for meetings. New York-based designer Juliette Lam told Working Woman magazine that more execs prefer a conference table or inviting seating area instead of the traditional, intimidating "Big Daddy" seating arrangement.

Look around the office before you start pinning up family photos and festooning your work space with plants. Some employers don't mind a personal touch; others frown on it. For some employers, a workstation littered with personal objets d'art indicates a worker who is too settled in her job to promote.

In addition to office furniture, there is a myriad of personal organizing tools. If you're really busy, a handsome leather-bound Filofax will take some of the burden out of keeping track of appointments. Or try one of the new portable electronic organizers, such as Sharp Electronics' Wizard, which keeps track of everything from appointments to phone numbers.

DRESS TO IMPRESS

Image is a key element in the business world.

Witness Melanie Griffith in the movie "Working Girl." As a stenographer trying to climb out of the secretarial pool, she had to trim her long locks, tone down her makeup and trade her trendy togs for more appropriate classics.

People started to listen to her seriously. And when Harrison Ford wanted to get her attention, he gave her a gorgeous new briefcase to replace the shoddy folder she was using.

The message is not that simply changing your hair or buying a new suit will win a promotion, but that the right wardrobe and grooming will help those in charge see that you fit into the corporate environment. By the same token, proper dress won't distract them from your true abilities the way loud makeup or clothes can.

What is appropriate depends on the company and the type of work you do. Few employers have a written dress code, but all but the most dense employees will sense that there is an unwritten one to follow in order to fit in.

Marketing executives, for example, generally opt for suits and tailored dresses. Someone working in a lab setting, on the other hand, is more appropriate in casual attire.

Another common bit of advice is not to dress for where you are on the professional totem pole, but for where you're headed — up. If you want to be considered for a promotion, follow the fashion example of your superiors.

Review your wardrobe every few years. Discard items that are obviously dated or worn. Look for accessories (ties, belts, suspenders for men; scarves, jewelry, bags and shoes for women) to update your business attire each season.

Have your clothes altered for a proper fit. Also evaluate your grooming; hair and makeup shouldn't look dated.

Anyone who totes work-related items back and forth from the office should have some kind of briefcase. That can range from a small leather portfolio to a sturdy attache.

COLLEGE CASH

A guide to financial aid

By Mike Dale

The statistics will numb the brain of parents wanting quality higher education for little Johnny and Suzy.

By the year 2001, four years of of tuition at a private college will cost over $90,000. And a state university education could set you back over $50,000 for room and board, books, transportation, tuition and other expenditures.

That's the bad news.

The good news: individual states, the federal government and private investment firms have designed savings programs to help parents tackle the spiraling costs of higher education.

"In the past, families never really saved for future higher education," says Barry Dorsey, associate director of the Virginia Council of Higher Education. But the market now demands that parents plan ahead for their children's college years.

THE STATES OF HIGHER EDUCATION

Today more than 21 states have initiated programs designed to make savings for college easier.

Specifics of the savings plans vary from state to state, but they fall into two categories: state tuition guarantees and tax-exempt bonds.

Michigan, Florida and Wyoming, for example, offer tuition prepayment plans, making it possible to pay in advance and avoid future tuition increases.

Under the Michigan guarantee plan, parents would shell out $7,764 to the state to prepay tuition that ordinarily wouldn't be paid until their infant reached the age of 18 in the year 2008. Similarly, parents of a 4-year-old would pay $8,404 up front for the same privilege. And so on.

Other states have agreed to sell tax-exempt college savings bonds, according to the Education Commission of the States. They include Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, North Carolina, Oregon, Rhode Island, Texas and Washington.

Parents who purchase U.S. Savings Bonds — known as Series EE — pay no taxes on the deferred interest they earn if the money is used to finance a child's college education.

Say a family invests $100 per month in savings bonds for 17 years at 6 percent interest. The nest-egg would total $34,712 — tax-free — if used for college.

There is a slight hitch, however. The tax exemption on interest earned is phased out for couples earning more than $60,000 per year and eliminated for couples earning more than $90,000 per year. For single parents, the exemption is phased out after $40,000 per year and eliminated at $55,000.

But what if you prefer an inflation guarantee? No problem.

College Savings Bank in Princeton, N.J., boasting $75 million in assets, offers a certificate of deposit — called a "CollegeSure" CD — that pays an 8.25 percent interest rate based on the annual change in the cost of tuition, fees, room and board at 500 U.S. colleges.

Brokerage houses, banks and insurance companies also have devised various college investment plans. But some are nothing more than ordinary mutual funds or life insurance policies bearing fancy college names, such as Tuition Solution. Make sure these plans offer the exact tax breaks you require.

Generally, look for municipal zero-coupon bonds — nicknamed college savings bonds — because they pay all interest at maturity (you will know exactly how much the till yields when your child is ready for college).

Otherwise, pundits pick two solid minimum risk life insurance carriers specializing in college investing: USAA (619) 298-4539 and Ameritas (402) 467-1122.

CREATIVE SCHOLARSHIP SHOPPING

What happens when you haven't planned ahead through savings and investment programs, and your high schooler wants a taste of college?

Scholarships may be the answer.

"For all students of accomplishment who are seeking additional sources of college money, there is a large and too often overlooked reservoir of funds to tap," says Alan Deutschman, author of "Winning Money for College" (Peterson's Guides).

According to Deutschman, valedictorians, geniuses and whiz kids don't hog all scholarship monies, as so commonly believed. He says high school students from all levels of talent can cash in on the scholarship lottery.

LEND ME A DIME

Even if you purchase bonds and scrimp like Scrooge, you still may not have enough dough when Johnny is ready for his college experience. You can borrow.

The government continues its longstanding Guaranteed Student Loan program — although under a different name, "Stafford Loans."

Students may borrow up to $2,625 per year during their freshman and sophomore years, and $4,000 annually the remaining college stay, up to a maximum of $17,250.

In addition, many banks offer so-called "PLUS" loans — loans for parents with dependent undergraduates. Interest rates on "PLUS" loans may run up to 12 percent annually, but you cannot borrow more than $4,000 per year.

Then you could always tap your own savings. If you borrow from your 401(K) plan, your interest payments go to you instead of the bank.

Or, if you own a home, you could borrow against the built-up equity. Because interest payments on a home equity loan of up to $100,000 are fully deductible — if they're used for college expenses.

JOB OUTLOOK/LAW FIRM

Legal eagles, needed now

By Monica Perez

JOB OUTLOOK/FINANCIAL— Would-be financial wizards, such as Charlie Sheen portrayed in the movie "Wall Street," know that financial careers can be lucrative, though volatile.

Is it better to join a large law firm or a small one?

Should you head for the big-city law firm or stay in your hometown?

These are questions facing the graduates of law schools all over the country. The students who are at the top of their class are vigorously recruited by both large and small firms. The tendency of most students is to pick the large, famous firms for the prestige and apparent stability, but is this always the best choice?

The object of every young lawyer who seeks to be associated with a large or small firm is to become a partner. The apprenticeship, although at a starting salary of more than $60,000 a year, generally takes seven to 10 years. If a lawyer does not make partner, he or she most probably will leave the firm or remain in a permanent non-profit-sharing position. It is a career path usually not chosen initially and from which most lawyers never escape.

It is therefore important to weigh the merits of going with a large firm against those of a smaller one.

Dean Booth, the senior partner of Booth, Wade and Campbell, a small-size but internationally successful firm based in Atlanta, said, "The size of the firm does not necessarily have a bearing on the level of sophisticated work they do. Like us, many small firms represent giant companies. We just completed a case where we represented 20 major airlines."

Young lawyers often are impressed by the size of a firm. They feel that if the firm consists of several hundred lawyers, then it must be successful. Actually, the failure rate for large and small firms is about the same. Each year about 5 percent of all firms break up or fail.

One of the major differences in the large vs. small firms is the lack of recognition of one's talent as a lawyer. The very size of a large firm makes it difficult to assay the worth of an individual attorney. It is important, therefore, in a large firm to have a "mentor," a senior partner who looks out for the young lawyer's career in the firm and guides him (or her) around the pitfalls.

Also, in a large firm, the structure of the firm makes for a more regimented attitude. There is a need for many lawyers who merely do routine or repetitive work. There often is little opportunity for litigation work, a field many young lawyers seek to enter.

On the other hand, in a small firm the opportunities for litigation experience often are much greater. The salaries are comparable and there certainly is no need for a mentor since each lawyer is easily and quickly recognized for his or her ability to handle an assignment.

Much like the fictional television program, "L.A. Law," the personality and talent of each lawyer emerge because of the close contact and frequent meetings of the members of the firm.

Allison Wade, a partner of Booth, Wade and Campbell, points out that "law is one of the few cottage industries that requires a custom solution."

We like to present our young lawyers with the opportunity to come up with creative solutions to difficult problems of law. Their research and enthusiasm is an important element of a small but sophisticated firm like ours."

In small firms, young lawyers are exposed to senior people from the outset. In many large firms, the young recruits may meet one or two senior partners, but for the most part, their contact with top members of the law firm is very limited.

The large firm, of course, gives one the feeling of belonging to "the establishment." It feeds into the need to be accepted and to be part of a great American company. Most people want to be able to say, "I'm with IBM or General Electric," which in the law field would mean Skadden, Arps or White and Case.

The field of law is unique in that the opportunity exists to enter large firms, smaller firms or even go it alone by just hanging out your shingle and seeking clients.

For all but the most confident, job interviews are no fun. But they are a necessary step toward getting a job — important for both you and the employer.

The interview is the first opportunity for a prospective employer to see you as something more than qualifications on a resume. And it is your chance to meet the people with whom you'll be working and judge the atmosphere of the office.

PREPARATION COUNTS

A little preparation will bolster your confidence. And it includes everything from knowing the time and place of the interview to preparing answers for possible questions.

Learn specifics about the company through contacts who already work there. Study an annual report and make sure you understand the product or service they offer. Also review recent issues of any trade publications to bone up on industry trends.

Take time to mull over your strengths beyond what's on your resume. If you're applying for a management position, did you hire a terrific staff at your current job? Did one of your ideas boost profits?

Follow the example of artists and writers and pull together a few samples of your work. That can include reports, plans, a prospectus. Of course, you don't want to include anything that your present employer considers confidential.

Even prepare answers to a few questions. Interviewers are fond of asking applicants to itemize their weaknesses, why they are looking for a new job or what they dislike about their current position. Phrase your answers in such a way as to avoid running yourself down or saying anything derogatory about your current or past employer.

Also think of a few questions of your own. Your inquiry should demonstrate genuine interest in the company and the job, so find out who you will work with, what kind of training you'll get and what a typical day will be like. Find out why the position is open and how long your predecessor held the job (his or her promotion could signify possible advancement opportunities, but a high turnover will warn you about lack of stability at the company).

Leave questions about salary, benefits and other perks until you get a firm offer.

DRESS FOR SUCCESS

First impressions really do count. And you don't want anything about your dress or grooming to distract the interviewer from your fine qualifications.

The general advice is to dress for the interview, not the job. That means, with few exceptions, women should wear a skirt or tailored dress and men should wear a suit.

Men are always safe wearing a dark gray or navy suit with a white shirt, plain socks and well-shined shoes. Current trends advise you to forego suspenders in favor of a belt. And don't wear after-shave.

Women can't go wrong with a suit or dress, low-heeled pumps and low-key jewelry. Nylons are de rigueur, even in summer.

Keep makeup and hair simple and low-key. And don't spritz on perfume. If the interviewer's ex-wife wore your fragrance, it might not help your chances.

While safe and conservative dress never hurts, you also want to look like you'll fit in. One way to find out how they expect you to dress is to hang around the company's exits at lunchtime.

Not all jobs have the same dress code. A plain gray suit and subtle tie might be seen as dull for a prospective ad agency creative director whereas a vibrant paisley cravat and striped shirt would signify a creative bent.

THE INTERVIEW

Preparation and knowing you're properly dressed should send you to the interview with confidence.

Arrive a few minutes early. This gives you a chance to observe the office and the people. Be polite to the receptionist and support personnel — arrogance might get back to the interviewer and put you out of the running.

Greet the interviewer with a smile and a firm handshake. Remember to maintain eye contact throughout the interview.

Answer questions honestly and try to elaborate your answers with examples. Don't fudge on your current salary or qualifications. More often than not, employers check references and your lie could be exposed.

Many jobs require second (even third and fourth) interviews. These are often with the person you'll actually be working for and are of a more technical nature. This is your chance to demonstrate your knowledge of the field and understanding of the job.

Follow-up interviews are also more intense than the first time around. They can last anywhere from a couple of hours to an entire day, when you meet with a round of executives. Remember to keep you confidence and enthusiasm high.

The final bit of advice is to follow up every interview with a personal thank-you note. It lets them know that you are interested. Remember to spell the interviewer's and the company's name correctly.

INTERVIEW DON'TS

Should you eat a brown-bag lunch during an interview? Chew bubble gum? Bring your dog?

When it comes to job interviews, it would seem that some things are obvious. Not to everyone.

A survey conducted by recruiters Robert Half International showed that job-seekers can make some unthinkable interview faux pas.

"It would be an extreme understatement to point out that job applicants do not always act in their own best interests," says company founder Robert Half.

How right he is. Here are some of the more stunning responses.

■ "He dozed off and started snoring during the interview."

■ "Job applicant challenged the interviewer to arm wrestle."

■ "She wore a Walkman and said she could listen to me and the music at the same time."

■ "Interrupted to phone his therapist for advice on answering specific interview questions."

■ "Said if he were hired, he would demonstrate his loyalty by having the corporate logo tattooed on his forearm."

Internships, work-study, study abroad and more

University course work can be a bit dry, heavy on theory at times.

"This is all well and good," you think as your professor rambles on about linear regression, "but does this have any practical applications?"

If you want to find out, go get a job.

Head over to the career services center on campus, look at the bulletin board, talk to an adviser.

There are thousands of opportunities available to complement your academic experience, ranging from a paid internship at a lab on campus to volunteer work in West Africa.

You have a choice of several types of programs:

- Internships offer work experience concurrent with school attendance.

- Co-op programs allow the student to alternate semesters between full-time work and school.

- Work study is a state- or federally funded program open to students eligible for financial aid.

The object of these programs is to provide supplemental learning opportunities through a combination of practical experience and classroom attendance, allowing the student to apply academic theory to actual working conditions.

Career-oriented work experience is a career exploration tool, helping you to crystallize your goals. It allows you to recognize your strengths and identify skills you may need to acquire.

"The experience definitely makes a difference," says Chin Feng, who recently completed a six-month co-op program with a computer firm in Austin, Texas. "It gives you an idea of how theories learned in the academic setting will be applied."

An internship experience can soften the sometimes rough transition from school to work. More important, it gives you the experience of knowing whether you really want a career as, say, a reporter or publicist.

"It's a proven fact that work experience on your resume will help you get the job you want," says Phyllis Walker, at one university careers center. "It gives you a competitive edge."

Many companies use these work experience programs as low-cost, low-risk recruiting tools. It allows them to analyze the performance of a potential employee, without any costly commitment. IBM estimates that it can save $5,000 to $7,000 a position on recruiting costs in this manner.

"1990 Internships," edited by B. Rushing, Writers Digest Books, is an excellent resource, with over 38,000 listings. For additional information, contact the National Society for Internships and Experimental Education (NSIEE), 3509 Haworth Drive, No. 209, Raleigh, NC 27607.

Study abroad opportunities offer all the benefits of the "at home" programs, with the added bonus of learning about a different culture.

To the uninitiated, studying abroad may seem little more than a frivolous interlude. Quite a different view is maintained by those who have participated.

"One of the most amazing experiences of my life," says UCSD student Carlos Garza, of his year studying in Barcelona, "something infinitely valuable. I can't recommend it enough."

Two percent of the U.S. work force is employed by foreign companies, and an estimated one in four jobs is related to foreign trade. With this increasing globalization of business, familiarity with different languages and cultures is rapidly becoming a very marketable quality.

"When you're surrounded by the culture, you'll be surprised how quickly you learn the language," says Ethan Lacey, who just completed a 10-week intensive language program in Mexico. "It comes naturally, you don't have to force it."

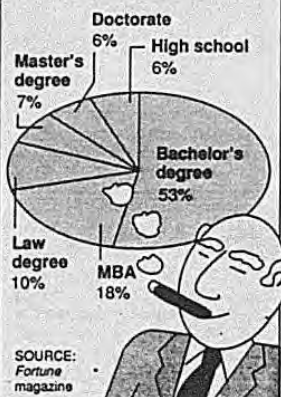

The academic programs of foreign universities are comparable to those in the United States, but it is the cultural experience that students learn from most.

"Learning doesn't only occur in the classroom. If the academic experience is all a person wants, this program is not for them," says Kasha Peterson of UCSD, who completed a year at the University of Nairobi in Kenya.

"It is very different, studying African history with African students," laughs Kasha, adding, "It was fun, frustrating, interesting. I made more than friends, I adopted families in Africa."

For information, contact the Council of International Education Exchange, Publications Department, 205 E. 42nd St., New York, NY 10017.

How much schooling do the CEOs of America's top 1,000 corporations have?

Remember when everyone had an "uncle" in the jewelry business, someone they could trust.

Remember how he'd ask what you were looking for and you said, "Well, I'm not sure but...uh...I want to spend $300."

Remember how he always brought you the perfect selection to choose from? They were so perfect that you couldn't pick which one you wanted. And he never showed you something that cost $200 more than you wanted to spend just to tempt and frustrate you. Why? Because he was family. Because he respected you. And why did you always feel like you got a deal? Because you trusted him. Because you knew your purchase was the right one.

AT JILLIANN'S JEWELRY we have been providing it for over 25 years. Come join our family today.

- All work done on premises in our own jewelry factory.
- Jewelry designed to your specifications.
- 14K and 18K Gold guaranteed by our trademark.
- Most jewelry repairs done while you wait.
- We welcome established jewelry stores who need special orders and quality repairs.
- Business people, ask about our shop by fax service right from your office.
- Diamonds set while you wait. We know how important your diamonds are so sit with our jewelers while they mount your stone.
- Formerly Lupy's...Don't worry, we've just changed our name, we're all still here.
- Remember, "The impossible we do right away, miracles take a little longer."

HBA Joins Memorial Parade

All officials, managers, coaches and players met up in the Sears parking lot to march in the Memorial Day Parade. What a great day, sunshine for the whole parade!

Some of HBA girls holding up our banner. The girls divisions begin in instructional and move up to minor, major and finally senior.

Boys Farms (ages 8 and 9) from Mets holding up their sponsor banner from National Westminster.

Our HBA banner heads our league along with President Buzz Doyle, on left, marching with his son Matthew.

There was a great show of 6 and 7 year old boys from the Instructional Division. Managers and coaches were proud to march with their teams: Pictured are Lou LiCalsi with the Red Sox's; Anthony Vaccaro and Joe Restine with the Hicksville Sluggers; Pat Fisher with his Royal team.

Instructional Boys head off this picture from the Dodgers, manager Lisa Papagno; Orioles with manager Kim Tarralles and Jim Cockren; Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles team, managed by John Leo, Frank Cincelli and Joe Epifano.

Managers Ed Chlusano and Bob Tremmel lead off their team the Giants followed by girls minors.

Mrs. O'Keefe majors along with her girls major team who are all having a great time.

Last but not least, some boys from the Major Division bring up the back of HBA marchers.

Thanks to a really nice clown many of the marchers got balloons.

Congratulations Graduates!

St. Ignatius CYO News

By Barbara Lewis

A Night To Remember

On May 26, St. Ignatius held their Midnight Bowling Party, and it was a big success. Everyone had a wonderful time, and I don't think anyone went home without winning something. We would like to give a "Big Thank You," to Andrea Kiernan and Barbara Hebron for making this night the big success that it was.

C.Y.O. Monthly Meeting will be held on June 28 this month due to graduations. The meeting will start at 8 p.m. and all parents in C.Y.O. are welcome to attend.

Baseball Highlights

K-2 League

May 30

Cardinals Defeated Barracudas

Hitting heroes for the Cardinals all hitting 5 for 5 were Brian Hebron, John Kiernan, Brent Rogers, Chris Barbino and Brian Mensching. Brian Quinn also made 3 hits for the day. For the Barracudas playing a brilliant game were, Dennis Noonan, Ryan Klupt, Marc Carvello and Jonathan Young.

June 2

Cardinals Defeated Sharks

Cardinals stars for the day were Danny Rogers 6 for 6, John Kiernan and Brent Rogers 5 for 5. Jerrod Troise had 4 hits and Paul Vaz and Matt Thomas 3 hits each. For the Sharks, hitting 3 hits each were, Gus Mitsopoulos and Brendan Simicic, 2 hits each were, Thomas Kleeman and Greg Binick.

Bluefish 7

Bluejays 6

Congratulations to both teams for playing such a tough game. For the Bluefish, Timmy McCartney 3 for 4 with great fielding. Jeff Santanelli had a great day with 3 hits. Marco Bruzzi also had a great day going 2 for 3. Making double plays for the Bluejays were Joseph Kearns and Allan Burns. Great defense and hitting 3 for 3 was Michael Allen.

Aggressive hitting and base running by, Brian Patwell, Mike Foran, Matt Patwell, Steve Locke, Paul Mackin and Jeff Reinhardt. Good defense plays by Mike Silvestro, Nick Hart, John Loyer and Craig Mueller helped to keep us in the game.

Travel Team News

Girls 7th Grade Softball

The 7th Grade Softball Travel Team still continues their winning ways by defeating St. James 23-0. Their record is now 5-0. Combining the winning pitching was Lauren Guerriero, Megan Wood, Carolyn Galdo and Beatrice Clark, combined for a one hitter. Good job behind the plate catching. Colleen Gardner, Mindy LeCren and Kristy Haley. Excellent all round game playing by Erin Mitchell. Also home runs were hit by Carolyn Galdo and Lauren Guerriero. Good hitting by Meegan Wood 4 for 4 and a triple, Meredith Hennessey 4 for 4 and Fontayne Mitos 4 for 5.

Boys 7th Grade Baseball

Scoring 12 runs while sending 16 men to the plate in the 1st inning, the 7th Grade Travel Team defeated St. Pius 24-9. Fine pitching from Mike (Speedy) Jerome, Rod (Hot Rod) Carolan, Chris (Bird) Murray, Mike (The Curve) Coen and Brian Rigert. An all round great hitting performance by the entire team with 32 hits.

Boys 8th Grade Baseball

St. Ignatius 8th Grade Travel Team started a two-game weekend with Mark Micalizzi delivering a clutch bases loaded hit, in the bottom of the 7th inning sending Jason Andrews home with the winning run in a thrilling come from behind 4-3 victory over St. Joseph's of Kings P-2k.

Winning pitcher, Billy Harvey went the distance, striking out 12 in his 2 consecutive victory. Billy also started the big rally in the bottom of the 2nd, leading off the inning with a single, Dennis Kelly smartly advected the runner and Bryan Higgins walked loading the bases.

Chris Boukas also walked tying-up the game and setting the table for the big blow that won it. On Sunday, the boys avenged an earlier defeat to St. Peters of Port Washington with an 11-2 mauling. Bryan Higgins, Scott Galdo and Dennis Kelly each had 2 RBIs as well as Steve Talento who also pitched 3 strong innings allowing only one hit.

HBA News Briefs

On June 2nd the Farm Division's Blue Jays played very well even though they lost to the Royals with the score of 11-6. The Blue Jays had superb pitching by John Fiorillo and Chris Chase and kept the team in the game to the very end. Great hitting by: Michael Funk with 2 hits, 2 runs, 1 RBI. Andrew Hamlin 1 key hit, 3 RBIs. Chris Chase 2 hits, 2 RBIs, and Scott McDonald 1 hit, 1 RBI. The hitting kept this well played game close down to the last at bat. We also had good fielding plays by Anthony Cappabianca, John Fiorillo, Michael Funk, Andrew Hamlin, Chris Chase and Scott McDonald. The manager and coaches of the Blue Jays would like to extend a special thanks to the people responsible for the reconditioning of the Stallion Field (Dutch Lane), beautiful job, thank you...

Saturday afternoon, June 9, after the rains came, the Farm Division's, Rangers played the Mets, and a fine game it was. While playing with just eight boys, the Rangers beat the Mets by a score of 12-8. The bats came alive when we needed them. Ryan Hildebrandt came alive with a big double and a single. John Harrigan broke out of his slump hitting two singles. Joseph Restivo got a big triple and a single and Adam Geslak belted a triple and a double. The team had good pitching and fielding which held the strong Mets to eight runs.

Since the beginning of May the Boys Farm's Pirates had a string of victories that carried through to June 2. The Team has a pitching staff of Kyle Rybak, Greg Zahn, Kevin Nolan and catching for the team is Alex Bobrowsky and Justin Ferreri. The team gets its hits from Mike Weber, Anthony Socca, and Mike Delaney and Pat McCann. The defensive support given by Dennis Mulligan, Pat McCann, James Monahan, Kyle Rybak and Greg Socca. Some of the scores were 17-3, 13-3, 3-3, 12-8 and on June 6, the victory against the Cubs 12-9.

Monday evening, June 4, the Girls Minor Division Team 4 played against Team 1, which was previously undefeated with a 10-0 record.

Team #4 got off to a quick start scoring 3 runs in the bottom of the 1st with 2 RBIs from the starting pitcher Danielle Faulker. Team #1 came right back to tie the score at 3 in the second inning. But team #4 showed they came to play when they scored 2 more runs in the bottom of the 2nd when Renee Scozzari hit a double to left field for the 2 RBIs.

The game stayed close at 8-5 as team #1 tried to keep the lid on things. But team 4 was not to be denied this night. After losing their 2 previous games to team #1 17-12 on their first meeting on May 2, and 6-2 in a rain-shortened game on May 26, Team #4 came up to bat in the 5th with vengeance. Before the end of inning, the game was all but over, when Kelly McCarthy hit a Grand Slam Home Run to make the final score 12-5.

Other standouts in the game included Melanie Rogers who pitched the final three innings for team #4 and only allowed 1 run while striking out 5 batters, and Gina Farella for team #1 who went 3-for-3 at the plate with a double and a homer and scored 2 runs.

On June 7, in another exciting game, Team #4 vying for second place in the standings, played team #3 on Thursday night. Team #3 was in complete control scoring 6 runs over the first 5 1/2 innings, while team #4 could only manage one run in their first 5 innings against Dana Granice, the starting pitcher, and Nicole Stergiopoulos. But in a wild last at bat in the 6th, team #4 came back to score 6 runs to pull out their most exciting victory of the year. The 6th inning was highlighted by a Grand Slam Home Run by Danielle Faulker to tie the score. The winning run was scored by Theresa Lampert who then doubled and was driven home by Michelle Rogers. Team #4 is 6-4 and in second place.

HBA's Travel Team sponsored by Puggies Famous Chickens played its second game on June 6, and lost a close one to Westbury by a score of 6-5. HBA had good hitting by Brian Reardon and Vinny Iocco with three hits each. The team as a whole played a great game, but, the ball got to the right places for Westbury. Thanks again to all the fans for showing up and supporting the team.

Whom Are You Calling An Idiom?

Hicksville High School special education teacher Barbara Greenberg introduced the concept of figurative language to her remedial reading class recently. The students enthusiastically responded by identifying phrases they suspected were idioms. The final result is a book on idioms produced by the students, entitled "Whom Are You Calling An Idiom?"

The students, Christine Balistreri, Jose Benavides, Teddy Carter, Christian Foley, Frank Gerwer, Tracy Harkin, Dawn Laronga and Danielle Manna,

Grandparents Day At Dutch Lane

June 1, was certainly a wonderful day for the "Grandparents and Special Persons" of the students at Dutch Lane School.

The parents from Dutch PTA were busy in the cafeteria serving a continental breakfast to all those who attended.

Afterwards all the guests gathered into our gymnasium where Mrs. Burke, Dutch Principal, then introduced the concert directors - Miss Sperber (band), Mr. Tarsdy (string ensemble) and Mrs. Decker (chorus) and the concert began.

After a sing-a-long all the guests got to visit with the students who were eagerly awaiting to put on plays, shows, dances etc.

It was a wonderful day and my very first time attending as a "Special Person!"

"Breakfast Specials," donuts and bagels sure were enjoyed by grandparents and special persons.

The audience consisting of all grandparents and special persons certainly enjoying singing "God Bless America!"

Miss Handelman's third grade class sang "oldies" and here, from left, Chris Swier, John Doyle and Jake Danzi pose with her after their performance.

Mrs. Callo with her first graders on Special Persons Day!

Miss Sperber leads her wind and percussion ensemble in "Italian Folk Song" on Grandparents/Special Persons Day.

Miss Kleiy's A.M. and P.M. classes danced for all their special persons.

Hicksville Beats Lindenhurst 2-1

By Al Bliker

The Hicksville Minutemen, the 1977 B Travelling soccer team, defeated the Lindenhurst Bulldogs 2-1 at the latter's field on Sunday, June 10, bringing their L.I. Junior Soccer League record to 5 wins, 2 losses, 2 ties, clinching second place in their Division, behind the fantastic goaltending of Tracy Koetter and the offensive punch of left halfback, Brian Rigert, who put in both Minutemen goals.

Both teams played strong, end-to-end soccer, for the game's first 20 minutes with Hicksville having more shots on goal than the opposition. Finally, at the 20 minute mark, Rigert hit left wing Bobby Wagner with a perfect lead which led to a save by the Bulldog goalkeeper, but Rigert was there for the rebound, putting it in. Lindenhurst came back to tie at the 30 minute mark with the half ending at 1-1.

The Minutemen came out flying in the second half with some beautiful passing but the Bulldog defense continually rose to the challenge, thwarting every Hicksville offensive effort. At the 50 minute mark, Lindenhurst caught fire and poured it on for a five minute sequence, which features some terrific saves by Koetter and a fantastic kick save by fullback Tim Dalton, off a rebound following a Koetter save. Koetter made some beautiful saves on point blank shots, and then the tide turned in favor of Hicksville.

At the game's 67 minute mark, Anthony Noya took a corner kick from the right side, which came right down on the foot of Rigert, near the left post, and he converted it for the game winner. The Bulldogs had enough left for one last offensive charge, which was broken up by Koetter, despite having the wind knocked out of her system as she made the save.

The players deserve a "cheer" for a fine effort. Thanks also to Assistant Coaches Tony dePinho and Pete Whitman for their fine help. Thanks also to sponsor Seaman & Eisemann for their support.

St. Paul's Bible Vacation School

Summer is fast approaching! Have you thought about what "growth" opportunities you'll provide your children this vacation? Why not come to "this summer's friendliest vacation destination" right here in Bethpage.

The "Friendimension" adventure, a community vacation bible school, will take place daily (Monday through Friday) from August 6 through August 17. Classes meet from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon and are available to children from age 3 through pre-teen. Our focus is friendship. Students of all ages will discover what the scriptures say about making and keeping friends. And, most important, how to become "forever friends," with Jesus Christ! Students will enjoy singing, craft projects, creative learning activities, Bible discovery lessons and refreshments. There is an $8 fee to cover the cost of materials.

Pre-registration for Vacation Bible School at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Bethpage will take place on Tuesday, June 19, and Wednesday, June 10, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Church.

St. Paul Lutheran Church is located at 449 Stewart Avenue in Bethpage (just south of the railroad station). Please use the Kearney Avenue entrance for pre-registration. For further information, please call the church office at 931-8262.

Friendimension Vacation Bible School

Trinity Lutheran Church, 40 W. Nicholas Street, Hicksville, invites you and your children to participate in our Vacation Bible School this summer. Sessions will be held on July 9-20, and August 6-17.

The two-week sessions are held

Monday to Friday, 9 a.m. to noon, for children 4-years old through grade 6.

This year's "FRIENDimension" VBS will include art projects, chapel, Bible stories, recreation, snacks as well as special programs on Wednesdays

- a music festival and Friendship Boulevard. A special program is being planned for the 5th and 6th graders.

If you would like more information and/or applications, please call 931-2225.

Most Callers Think Gorbachev Visit Success

Most Input callers think that Gorbachev's visit to the U.S. was a success in answer to this question: "Do you think Gorbachev's visit was a success?" Here are some of the answers:

RIGHT TIME

If you discount Gorbachev's answer about not letting Jews leave the USSR unless they will not emigrate to the West bank, most of Gorbachev's visit was a success. He was really here to build some economy ties to the U.S. and it seems that he came here at the right time. Our business leaders are worried and looking for new markets. They smile with Gorbachev when they think of the many products that are in short supply in the USSR and how much business is out there. Gorbachev wants and needs help from the U.S. and I think he is going to get it. M.F.

HOME TROUBLE

Gorbachev may have been successful here. He certainly got along well with President Bush, but back in his own country he may not be doing so well with Yeltsen ready to give him some trouble in Russia. I think that some of the success he had here will help stave off the bid from Yeltsen to take over his role in the USSR. H.F.

USE OF FORCE

Gorbachev was not so successful. He didn't really get any concrete promises and Pres. Bush may not be in a position to do that much without the Democratic Congress working with him. Gorbachev may have also made a tactical blunder in trying to control the Israeli nation's idea of where people should settle. He used a heavy hand in this matter and it only served to remind the world that the USSR still believes in using force to get its way. Gorbachev messed things up when he tried to use his visit to undermine Israel. N.T.

SOME HEADWAY

A single visit can never accomplish everything that could be done, but it would have to be said that Gorbachev made a good start and he came across as a very presentable person far different from the rough edges that we saw with Khrushchev. I believe that some headway has been made and we may be able to work much more closely with the USSR. R.T.

SOME TRADE

Whether you can call Gorbachev's visit a success or not will be proved with time. For now, he seems to be saying many things we like to hear and it is possible that we will have some trade agreements with the USSR in the future. He came across as a smart and astute person. We may be able to build on this beginning. At least it seems to be a way against preparing for a war. Y.G.

QUALIFIED SUCCESS

Frankly, I just can't find enough information of substance to decide whether or not the Gorbachev visit was a success. While he was here, things were happening in his sphere of influence with various conflicts of interest as between totalitarian and democratic forms of government; the problems to be solved respecting the consolidation of the two Germanies both economic and military with impact on NATO; the Jewish emigration to the territory occupied by Israel; the shocking revelation concerning the technical inadequacy of the Russian nuclear power plants; the inflexible Lithuanian attitude; the advent of Mr. Yeltsen as the new President of the Russian Republic with his own ideological ideas; and the increasing problems arising from the desire for political freedom and the vast changes that must be made to swing over from a dictatorship to a democracy within the complicated entities which constitute the USSR. Still, on balance, I believe that the visit was a qualified success - key documents were signed, planning for improved trade relations was initiated and personal relations between the two first families and their entourages laid the groundwork for amicable followup sessions in the future. P.G.S.

OTHER ISSUES

A special choice to a special person. The family of Janet Adkins made a wise choice. It was her decision to end her life, not the court's. The courts should mind their own business and let people make their own decisions. There was no hope for her. She wanted to live in the way she was used to. Dr. Kevorkian is a good person and loves people. He did not ask to do what he did to Janet Adkins but it was because he did what he thought was right. He only abided by her wishes. Her family's desires were with him on ending her life. How could a woman as sweet and active a person as she was go on being other than the way she was used to? If this was not to be so then God would have stopped it. L.C.

Papa Won't You Dance With Me?

PAPA, WON'T YOU DANCE WITH ME?

By Marjorie Wolfe

I watched the Eastman Kodak commercial, "Daddy's Little Girl," which uses a father's dance with his daughter to showcase many such dances through their lives together. My dad believed that once you're confident in dancing, you're confident in practically everything.

No, he was not what Paul Dickson calls a "Gourmet Parent" -- someone who would have toddlers studying Russian, claim their children would rather be at the National Gallery of Art than Disneyland, and would opt for a good nutritious lentil soup over a Whopper and Fries. He was, however, sensitive to the pain, pleasures and problems of raising a teenager.

August 1958. Our whole family left Rockaway Beach to vacation in Miami Beach. Mom, who suffered from hay fever, joined a group of other allergic people known as the "Pollen Dodgers."

The calypso dance was already "out" and I had never learned how to do the basic steps. And now the Cha-Cha was "in."

In the hotel nightclub I overheard dad whisper to mom, "Marge does a terrific fox trot -- no matter what the band is playing," he was right!

Dad would have agreed with Christopher Morley, "Dancing: wonderful training for girls; it's the first way to learn to guess what a man is going to do before he does it." At dad's insistence I enrolled in five half-hour dance lessons at the poolside dance studio, with the hope that I'd enjoy new poise and self confidence ... and be popular with the boys.

The dance instructor explained that the Cha-Cha was an offshoot of the Mambo -- and a fast rhythmic ballroom dance of Latin-American origin. The dance had a basic pattern of three steps and a shuffle. 1-2-3-and-4. 1-2-3-and-4. Quick-quick-quick and split. I mastered the Crossover and could maneuver the open turn, ending in an apart position. The Half Chase and the Kick Step, however, were a Herculean task.

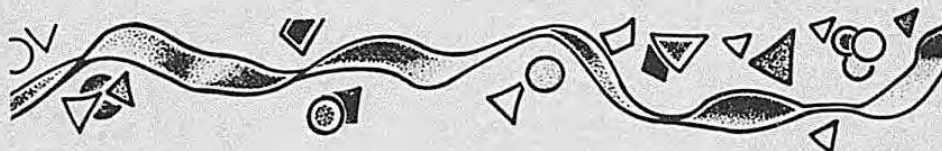

At the first sign of frustration, dad would say in Yiddish, "Gornisht iz nisht shver--men badarf nor kenem." (Nothing is too difficult -- you only have to know it!)

Thirty plus years later, I'm not convinced that his sure-fire formula on how to be popular with the boys worked. I've faked my way through the Twist, LaPachanga, the Bossa Nova, the Monkey, and breakdancing. My household budget was stretched to include dance lessons at Arthur Murray, get acquainted parties at the Fred Astaire Dance Studios, and Lambada Night at the Holiday Inn in Hauppauge. I've participated in HIP SYNCH, a Jan Leary term for someone who imitates dancers on a rock video, and written to Elizabeth A. Rappaport for details about her ethnic dance school called "Little Shop of HORAS."

Happy Father's Day, Dad. As Fred Astaire would say, "Can't act. Slightly bald. Can dance a little."

NICE MENU

Kenny's Cafe in Bethpage was a real treat. Their Shepherd's Pie is one of the best around. We stopped there on the spur of the moment last week and were very satisfied with the food, service and atmosphere. For weekend dining, I think a reservation might be a good idea since it tends to get crowded. J.B.

Q. If someone asks you to dinner, shouldn't he make the reservations, tell you where to come, and pay for the meal?
 A. Yes. The person who does the asking takes the responsibility for making the arrangements and for paying, unless it is clearly understood before hand that it is "dutch".

Q. When one approaches a receiving line and is asked to give a name, does one say, "Mrs. Jones" or "Mrs. John Jones" or "Mr. Jones" or "John Jones"?
 T.F.
 A. You just say, "Mrs. Jones" or "Mr. Jones" or more usual now, "John Jones". If you are a very special Jones, the person who introduces you finally to the guest of honor, sometimes has the opportunity to define you as it were. The receiving line should never be held up for lengthy conversations, however.

Q. I was always under the impression that it was incorrect to use a knife while eating a salad. However, sometimes the ingredients are in such thick pieces that it is difficult to manage using only a fork. What is your opinion?
 A. I see no reason why a knife cannot be used while eating a salad when the occasion demands it—that is when the pieces are too bulky to be manageable with a fork alone.

The rules of etiquette are not immutable. They must always bow to common sense.

Q. In my neighborhood there are quite a few restaurants. All of them do a brisk business and several have even expanded. Is it my imagination, or do people really dine out more frequently than ever before?
 A. It is definitely not your imagination. Years ago it was a rare treat for most families to dine in a restaurant. But that was at a time when women had more time to prepare meals, since they did not as a rule work outside the home. Today, the average American eats out several times a week.

READER RATINGS

Q. What do you do if you think you've been invited to a restaurant, so you don't bring any money, and then you're suddenly confronted with having to pay half the bill?

A. You must pay your share of the bill in this circumstance. It happens often in our lives, simply because we don't pay enough attention to communicating and preplanning our engagements. We should all be specific about when, where, and who pays, when dates and arrangements are jointly made.

If you're in a restaurant with no money in a situation like this, go to the captain and tell him your plight and that you will send the money tomorrow by messenger. If you show identification and if you sign a receipt for money owed, you might be able to arrange for payment of your share tomorrow. Otherwise, you are going to have to borrow money from your friends at the table. It is embarrassing, but come up with a logical excuse for not having money or credit card.

Q. Most restaurants seem to think it is necessary to play background music. Why is this done? Doesn't it inhibit conversation?

A. This is a matter of taste. Most people like music, provided it is unobtrusive, and they find it is an actual aid to conversation.

GOOD ITALIAN FOOD

My husband and I have visited Luna Restaurant in Floral Park two times. The first time was excellent. The second time was superb. If this is any indication of the quality of this fine Italian restaurant I can hardly wait for the next time we go there. The atmosphere is warm. The service is attentive and courteous. The food is like dining in heaven. If you like good food try their chicken Valdosta and be sure you don't leave until you try their tartufu for dessert. A.D.

Q. It seems every time I go to a certain restaurant with my wife, we're given very poor seats. Either we're put in a draft near the door or else we're seated next to the noisy kitchen. It is too bad because we like the restaurant otherwise. It has a nice cozy atmosphere and the food and service are good. What should we do?

A. One simple solution to your problem would be to request a better situated table when you are making reservations. You might also speak to the owner or headwaiter. If he sees you are frequent customers he will wish to please you.

CONSISTENTLY GOOD

The John Peel room in the Island Inn is consistently a good restaurant. We have been there a number of times and have always found the food and decor especially enjoyable.

The menu at the John Peel room includes a complete dinner from appetizer through dessert. We had prime ribs there last Thursday and were particularly happy with the large portion of beef along with the fine ambience of this restaurant, the service was attentive and prompt. As usual we had a good night at the John Peel room.

TOP IN DINNERS

The New Hyde Park Inn is a landmark on Jericho Turnpike in New Hyde Park. Most people have been there many times for one banquet or another. Throughout the years it has served as a top catering hall for many affairs.

As a restaurant it is equally good. We went there last week and found that it has a full menu for dinner and that all of the good things that were at banquets can be had in the restaurant. Because it is a festive type place it is a great one to celebrate a birthday as we did. Tell your readers that the New Hyde Park Inn is tops for dinners. We know. We were there.

Y.R.

Q. Why in some restaurants do I have to sit there so long before the waitress gives me the check?

A. Well, the answer to your question is hard to define. It might be simply because the restaurant is so busy that the waitress hasn't time to add up the check. But, at some of the better restaurants, you will never get a check unless you ask for it. In these establishments, they feel that the guests should decide how long they wish to talk or occupy the space after eating and only on rare occasions will they bring a check that has not been solicited and then with apologies.

GOOD LUNCH

Our party of four met at the Orchid Restaurant for lunch last week and thoroughly enjoyed it. We thought the ambience was delightful and the food was great.

The cuisine is Szechuan, Hunan and Cantonese. One word of warning: if you order a dish that has an asterisk, it means that the sauce is hot—so if you wish something a bit milder, please tell the waiter.

Incidentally, the service was most attentive. We were so impressed with our luncheon that we started thinking about our holiday office party and thought it might be a great choice and we would book early. M M

Q. If three or four couples dine out and wish to make reservations, in whose name should the reservations be made?

A. It really does not matter. However, it is best to make reservations in one name only in order to avoid confusion. The same person should be responsible for notifying the restaurant if plans should change and the dinner is delayed or cancelled.

Q. If an uncut loaf of bread is served to a couple in a restaurant, who should cut and serve it?

A. It would be gracious for the man to cut several slices from the bread for his woman companion and himself. Then he would offer the bread to her before taking his own portion.

Q. I do not understand why American restaurants continue to use French wording on their menus. Not long ago, I ate in a place where various dishes were described as "A l'Espagnole," "a la Grecque," and "a l'Anglaise." Telling diners that the foods were prepared in the Spanish, Greek, or English manner was not very helpful!

A. French cuisine is considered by many people to be the best in the world so it is not surprising that many terms dealing with food preparation are derived from the French!

Your waiter would have been pleased to inform you that a dish served "a l'Espagnole" is combined with tomatoes, onions and olives. One which is "a la Grecque" has a sauce of olive oil, lemon, spices and peppercorns. Anything served "a l'Anglaise" is boiled.

Don't be intimidated by French (or Italian, German, etc.) expressions on menus. Those terms are not difficult to master and after a time you will begin to see they are a useful "shorthand" for the diner, telling him about methods of food preparation and ingredients.

Q. Every time I take my mother-in-law out to dinner, she insists on taking half her meal home in a "doggy bag." Frankly, I feel embarrassed!

A. There is no need to be embarrassed. Your mother-in-law, like many older persons, probably has a small appetite. If she enjoys her "doggy bag" meal the next day in a delicious sandwich, who can blame her? Good is too expensive to waste. I give your mother-in-law credit for her common sense.

For gracious dining in all aspects I would heartily recommend La Marmite in Williston Park. The service, under the able guidance of Manuel, is courteous and attentive and the cuisine varied and excellent.

Anyone looking for a place to celebrate a special occasion or just to enjoy a satisfying dining experience would do well to favor this excellent eating establishment. O.C.

GUSTATORY DELIGHT

La Cisterna Italian Ristorante on Mineola Boulevard in Mineola has long been one of our favorite restaurants. Last Thursday night we dined there and experienced a gustatory delight with a very special entree, shrimp in a lobster sauce with homemade pasta. As usual the attentive service, the warm welcome by the host Angelo, the friendly ambience all made for a most enjoyable dinner. I heartily recommend this restaurant and am sure your readers will to. E.H.

Q. I seem to remember that years ago salads always came to the table with the entree. But now they are served in advance of the main course. Why did this change occur?

A. Salads are now customarily served before the entree in order to provide the hungry diner with something to eat while his mail course is being prepared.

With today's emphasis on nutrition, salads are treated with much more respect than they once were. They are regarded not just as accompaniments to meals, but as important courses in their own right.

Q. Recently I attended an elegant wedding and I noticed that the champagne was served in a tulip shaped glass rather than the traditional broad brimmed type. Is this something new?

A. It is a fairly new idea. The theory now is that a tulip shaped glass preserves the effervescence (bubbles) of champagne longer than a wide brimmed glass.

A. If I am dining out with a large group and do not feel like a cocktail, am I really obliged to order one so as not to put a damper on the party?

A. Absolutely not - and this applies to all size groups. No one should ever order an alcoholic drink to please others. If you wish, you may order a soft drink or mineral water, but this is purely optional.

Fireplace charm

FIREPLACE CHARM — Designer Marilyn Rose focuses an English country-style sitting room around a fireplace with a symmetrical arrangement of accessories on the mantel.

Q. I keep reading that the fireplace should be the focal point of the living room with all the furniture arranged around it.

A. My problem is that I don't know how to arrange the mantel. I mean, I've hung a nice mirror over it, but I need help in deciding what else to put in such an important spot.

Are there any guidelines? — H.M. Doylestown, Pa.

A. There are two best ways to accessorize a mantel:

■ Symmetrically, using two of everything formally balanced on each side.

■ Informally — which means asymmetrically — with a few well-chosen accessories that counterbalance each other across the mantel, rather like a seesaw.

What you actually choose to show off should reflect what is dear to your heart, what you think important enough to put front and center in the room. Of course, there are limitations, given the space you're working in, and the basic proportions of the mantel and fireplace.

In the room we show here, New York designer Marilyn Rose has worked out a careful, symmetrically balanced arrangement that is formal but hardly stiff. Anchored by the painting, the Chinese export bowl and the medallion in the center, other accessories are arranged in precise pairs: two sconces, two tall and two short candlesticks, two flower vases and two porcelain plates in stands.

An asymmetrical arrangement is inherently less formal, but can be equally impressive.

I like to hang a variety of artworks — in assorted shapes and frames — then work out a display of favorite items on the mantel in front of them: sculpture, a basket of dried flowers, a mass of candlesticks of many heights, a vase of tall bare branches, even a pot of ivy that trails down one side. ...

Just be sure what you choose works in scale to the fireplace/mantel/wall space. And do change it around with the seasons: say, a display of driftwood and shells for summer; a basket of bright leaves in autumn; evergreen branches in winter ... you get the idea.

Q. We're doing over our little country place on a very limited budget.

The floors are in rough shape — the house had been a cabin in a boys' summer camp — so we just sanded and painted them. But it's too cool to leave them bare, and I'm thinking about putting down a sisal rug. Will it be hard to keep clean? — L.H.

A. Sisal is a natural material that tends to absorb stains, especially greasy ones so, yes, it could prove a problem on heavily trafficked floors. But who says you have to use it in its natural, neutral color?

Sisal takes paint beautifully: Why don't you paint it like a large patchwork quilt, following the pattern of the sisal blocks?

You also could stencil a design that would help hide signs of wear.

A final protective coat of a stain- and soil-repellent spray should ensure the kind of carefree living that makes so much sense in a country home.

Backyard Gardener

Controlling devastating common garden pests

Erecting barriers and setting traps are environment-friendly mechanical methods for controlling many of our most devastating and common garden pests.

Among the trapping methods available to the home gardener are various kinds of sticky traps that immobilize pests forever on their gluey surfaces.

An old favorite sticky trapping material is Tanglefoot, applied on paper or cloth bands wrapped around tree trunks to prevent caterpillars and other insects from climbing trees to feed on foliage, buds or fruits, or to lay eggs. Such sticky materials are also barriers to ants, which protect aphid colonies by fighting off aphid predators.

I apply Tanglefoot to adhesive or masking tape, though sometimes I simply will use double-sided caterpillar tape purchased at a garden outlets. I band the fruit trees in the fall before frost to catch egg-laying insects climbing trunks, and I renew the bands at different sections of the trunks in spring to bar ants and munching crawlers.

Some sticky traps are designed to attract and fool pests into settling on them. Yellow traps capitalize on the attraction that color holds for whiteflies and leaf miner flies, aphids, thrips and fungus gnats. Sticky yellow traps for both indoor and outdoor use are available at garden outlets. They can also be homemade. I purchase the small size to control fungus gnats in the soil of indoor plants.

Cabbage maggot flies are attracted to gray, and can be caught on gray sticky board traps set on posts in cabbage family plantings. Just don't count on trapping every single fly and totally eliminating injury when large numbers of flies are present.

The old folklore that ashes snugly circling cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and brussels sprouts stems will deter cabbage flies from laying their eggs at the bases of the plants is not true. On the contrary, the flies will be attracted to the gray ash color.

A sneaky sort of trap uses powerful sex attractants called pheromones, which draw and trap a target pest. These traps are used both as direct controls and as monitors to show when a pest population has built to a point where sprays are necessary. Sex pheromone traps are commonly used as codling moth monitors in apple orchards.

Sound cultural practices together with mechanical methods such as barriers and traps offer many excellent, safe measures for controlling pest problems and maintaining a healthy, ecologically balanced home garden.

Yet another pathway to the same goal it to select resistant varieties.

This is no mysterious procedure. Simply plant more than one variety of your favorite flowers and vegetables each year, and note the varieties that grow most strongly and seem the least affected by insects and diseases. This way, year by year, you will be upgrading your selections to best fit your own garden conditions.

There is a good deal of concern these days about pesticide residues in our foods, and public demand has surely had much to do with the increasing numbers of natural, environmentally kind pest-control products in use today. Here's a sample:

• Pesticidal soaps: There is on the market a broad range of natural soap-based products for controlling most insects pests.

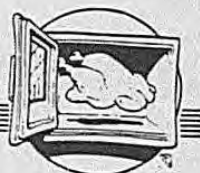

In the Safer line there is also a fatty acid and sulfur-based fungicide, a natural vegetation killer, moss killers, sticky traps and codling moth traps. Read the labels carefully to make sure you are purchasing a product that will control the problem you are concerned with.

• Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt): Bacterial spores sold under the names Dipel, Thuricide, Liquid Organic are mixed with water and sprayed on plants to control butterfly and moth larvae such as loopers and caterpillars.

• Rotenone: A botanical material derived from the roots of tropical legumes, rotenone's active ingredient is of moderately high toxicity to mammals. However, the dust and wettable powders on the market usually contain a concentration of only 1 percent.

Rotenone biodegrades quickly but is an effective control for many beetles, aphids, caterpillars, larvae and bugs. It is toxic to pigs, fish, frogs and toads.

Everything's peachy

June is the month when fresh peaches begin appearing in the produce section. They will be available until October, reaching their peak supply around August, so don't let the summer go by without indulging in this luscious fruit.

Ever wonder about those funny names for peaches, like freestone and cling? I did, until I found out that cling peaches are so named because the pits "cling" to the flesh of the fruit and are difficult to remove, while with "freestone" peaches, pits separate easily from the fruit.

The color of a fresh peach should be creamy or yellow, with rosy pink highlights. Fruit should be free from bruises or green color (if a peach is picked when green, it will eventually soften, but it won't ripen properly). When shopping, select peaches that are firm or only slightly soft when pressed.

When you get peaches home, place them in a paper bag and leave at room temperature. Check every day; peaches are ripe when they yield to gentle pressure. Refrigerate ripe peaches and use within three to five days.

To peel fresh peaches, microwave water until boiling, then submerge peaches in boiling water for 45 seconds; remove with a slotted spoon and plunge into ice water for about a minute. The skin will slip off easily.

For a wonderful summertime breakfast dish, peel and slice fresh peaches. Sprinkle lightly with lemon juice, sugar, dried shredded coconut and a bit of ground ginger. Serve chilled, topped with a spoonful of half-and-half. Delicious.

Everyone these days knows that fresh fruits and vegetables are a good health choice. Fresh summer peaches are a nutritious out-of-hand snack and a good source of soluble fiber (especially with the skins on).

The peach's lovely pink blush is a sign of carotenoids, which convert to vitamin A in your body. Peaches are also a good source of vitamin C, potassium, and other minerals.

At only about 58 calories per medium peach, they're a treat even summer dieters can enjoy without guilt.

(Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.)

RED PEACH PASSION

Water
4 large, ripe, fresh peaches
¾ cup dry red wine
½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons sugar
Pound cake
Whipped cream

Yields 4 servings.

Preparation time: 5 to 10 minutes.

Cooking time: 8 to 13 minutes.

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Fill 4-cup glass microwave-safe casserole with 3 cups water. Microwave 6 to 8 minutes, or until water is boiling. Submerge peaches, 1 at a time, into water for 45 seconds each. Remove with slotted spoon and submerge in ice water for about 1 minute. Peel off skins and cut each peach in half, discarding pit.

Arrange peach halves, cut side down, in 10-inch square microwave-safe baking dish. Cover with plastic wrap and microwave 2 to 5 minutes, or until peaches are heated through, rearranging peaches once or twice during cooking time.

In small bowl combine wine, orange juice and sugar. Pour over peaches and allow to cool. Cover and refrigerate at least 2 hours.

To serve, arrange peach halves over slices of pound cake. Spoon some of wine mixture over peaches. Top with dollop of sweetened whipped cream.

CHOCOLATE CRUMB PEACH PIE

6 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons granulated sugar
1½ cups crushed chocolate wafer cookies
Water
2 pounds fresh peaches, peeled and sliced
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon each ground cinnamon and nutmeg
Dash salt
Whipped cream

Yields 1 (9-inch) pie.

Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes.

Cooking time: 20 to 27½ minutes.

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Place butter in 9-inch round microwave-safe pie plate. Microwave, uncovered, 2 to 3½ minutes, or until melted. Stir in sugar, then cookie crumbs. Toss gently to mix, then press mixture evenly against sides and bottom of pie plate. Microwave, uncovered, 2 to 4 minutes, or until crust is set. Set aside.

Fill 4-cup glass measure or deep 1-quart microwave-safe casserole with 3 cups water. Microwave 6 to 8 minutes, or until water is boiling. Submerge peaches, 1 at a time, into water for 45 seconds each. Remove with slotted spoon and submerge in ice water for about 1 minute. Peel off skins and cut each in half, discarding pits.

Turn prepared peaches into prepared pie shell. Cover loosely with waxed paper and microwave 12 to 16 minutes, or until peaches are tender, rotating dish ¼ turn every 5 minutes. Serve warm with whipped cream.

Risotto rediscovered

We have fallen in love with risotto! When we ran a recipe for risotto in this column a couple of months ago, we became completely enamored of its soothing, creamy richness and intrigued by its infinite possibilities.

Risotto is a simple Italian peasant dish of rice that is simmered and constantly stirred while it cooks so that it gradually absorbs its cooking liquid.

In Italy, it is usually served as a first course or as a side dish. We think, however, that with the addition of bits of meat, fish and/or vegetables, it makes an absolutely perfect main dish — especially in these days of cholesterol-watching.

Short-grained Arborio rice is the best choice for risotto, and now it can be found in specialty stores and in the gourmet sections of some supermarkets. A stubby, oval-shaped, pearly white grain, Arborio rice has an enormous capacity to absorb liquid. This rice also contains more starch than most, which releases as it is stirred, adding body to the sauce. However, although it won't make as creamy a dish, regular long-grain rice also makes a perfectly delicious risotto.

Wild Mushroom Risotto is replete with the flavors of the woodland and tastes almost meaty in its richness and intensity.

Springtime Risotto is light and delicate, with the fresh flavor of peas playing off the salty bite of prosciutto and the sweet smokiness of sun-dried tomatoes.

With either, all you need is a big salad and maybe some breadsticks to finish the meal.

Use our proportions as a guideline and then go to it! You can create a marvel out of whatever you happen to have on hand. You can't possibly go wrong!

TIPS

• Risotto should be somewhat soupy, the rice swimming in a sea of creamy broth.

• If using long-grain rice, you may need a little less liquid, since it absorbs less than Arborio.

• Serve the risotto the minute it's done. If left to stand, it continues to absorb liquid and turn into a pilaf — albeit a delicious one.

• Risotto reheats perfectly well in the microwave. Just add some additional liquid first.

WILD MUSHROOM RISOTTO

8 ounces fresh wild mushrooms
3 tablespoons olive oil, divided
3 tablespoons butter, divided
1 leek, thinly sliced (white and pale green parts only)
1 clove garlic, minced
2 cups Arborio or long-grain rice
1 teaspoon dried thyme
2 cups beef broth

2 cups chicken broth
3 cups water
½ cup white wine
½ cup thinly sliced scallions, including green tops
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Freshly ground black pepper
¼ cup minced parsley

Yields 4 servings.

Preparation and cooking time: 35 minutes.

Wipe mushrooms and slice or cut into quarters. In large, heavy saucepan heat 1 tablespoon each of oil and butter. Sauté mushrooms over medium-high heat, stirring, until lightly browned. Remove with slotted spoon and set aside.

Using same pan (no need to wash it), heat remaining oil and butter. Add leeks and cook over medium heat for about 5 minutes, until beginning to soften. Add garlic, rice and thyme and cook, stirring with wooden spoon, for about 3 minutes, until rice grains are translucent.

Meanwhile, combine beef and chicken broths, water and wine in saucepan. Bring to boil and then turn off heat.

Add about 1 cup of hot liquid or enough to cover rice. Cook over medium heat, stirring nearly constantly and keeping mixture at an even gentle simmer until most liquid has been absorbed, about 3 minutes. Continue this process of adding liquid to cover and cooking until nearly absorbed, until all liquid has been used, about 15 more minutes. During last 5 minutes of cooking time, return mushrooms and any accumulated juices to risotto. Rice should be tender but still firm to the bite, and risotto moist and creamy. If too much liquid has been absorbed, add a little more water or stock to finish the dish.

Stir in scallions, season with lemon juice and a generous grinding of black pepper and spoon into shallow soup bowls or onto rimmed plates. Sprinkle with parsley before serving.

Berry special desserts

Spring and early summer are favorite seasons for those of us who love the strawberry's lush red fruits. Whether you prefer them plain with cream and sugar or made into classic desserts, now is the time to enjoy.

Strawberries do not ripen after picking, so choose berries that are plump, with a natural shine, rich red color and fresh-looking, bright green caps. Store strawberries unwashed in the refrigerator until ready to eat.

Strawberries straight from the basket contain 60 calories in a cupful and provide 150 percent of the recommended daily allowance of vitamin C, 8 percent of iron and a helping of fiber.

These ideas showcase strawberries, yet are fast and simple:

Serve fresh berries au naturel with caps (and stems, too, if you can find them) still attached for dipping into mounds of powdered sugar. Dip a plump strawberry first into sour cream or plain or vanilla yogurt and then into brown sugar or raw sugar crystals.

Add a touch of elegance to lunch or brunch by floating a whole strawberry in tulip glasses of champagne.

Slightly-sweeten big, perfect strawberries with caps removed. At serving time, spoon into goblets and splash with orange-flavored liqueur.

Try a strawberry cooler. In a blender, combine equal amounts of sliced strawberries, yogurt and skim milk. Sweeten with honey, to taste. For a Strawberry Fizz, substitute club soda for the milk. Garnish with a sprig of fresh mint.

For a slimming slush, use proportions of 1/2 fruit to 3/4 crushed ice in blender. Whirl until slushy. Pour 2 1/2 ounces into each glass and stir in a little lemon-lime diet soda.

For an instant strawberries 'n' cream sensation, crush 1 pint of strawberries and sweeten slightly with sugar. Stir in 1/2 cup whipping cream and 1/4 cup kirsch. Chill. Serve in stemmed glasses garnished with additional berries and a mint sprig for optional garnish.

To trim calories, fill a toasted whole-wheat pita pocket with banana and strawberry slices; enjoy it for breakfast instead of a sweet roll.

For a "light" banana split: low-fat ice milk or frozen yogurt, topped with strawberry sauce, made by pureeing fresh berries in the blender or food processor.

Mash fresh strawberries (instead of strawberry jam); spread on banana bread.

Make dessert kebabs: Alternate whole hulled berries and thick banana slices on party picks; roll them in thawed undiluted orange juice concentrate and then shredded coconut.

Here are recipes that put to good use the ripe, red berry that is king of the produce section.

What strawberry dessert is deceptively simple, can be made ahead yet is so classy it is often found on dessert carts in elegant restaurants? Chocolate-covered strawberries, those long-stemmed beauties for which chefs reserve the largest, most lush fruit. Here's how to make them and dazzle your guests at home.

CHOCOLATE-DIPPED STRAWBERRIES

- 4 ounces semisweet chocolate
- 1 pint basket fresh strawberries, if possible with stem and cap attached
- Broad green leaves for decoration (optional)

Yields about 6 servings, 3 or 4 strawberries per serving.

Break or chop chocolate coarsely. Use real, not imitation chocolate bars or squares for best results.

Place chocolate in small heat-proof bowl, then place bowl in 1/2 inch barely simmering water in small skillet over low heat. Heat, stirring occasionally, just until chocolate is melted. (Be careful that no water gets into chocolate.) Stir until smooth.

Remove skillet from heat, leaving bowl of chocolate in hot water. Pat strawberries dry. Holding by stem end, dip each strawberry into chocolate to cover about 3/4 of the way up. Drain excess chocolate, then place on waxed paper-lined tray; refrigerate to harden.

Serve strawberries on small dessert plates or platter lined with green leaves, if desired.

This sensational strawberry dessert has just five ingredients. Make it a day ahead so the cake can absorb the sweet berry juices.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE TRIFLE

- 1 pint fresh strawberries
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 cups homemade or canned vanilla pudding
- 1 (3-ounce) package cream cheese, softened
- 2 cups 1 1/4-inch shortcake or pound cake cubes

Yields 6 to 8 servings.

Hull and slice 1 cup of berries; arrange along side of clear, straight-sided 1 1/2-quart bowl or dish. Place remaining berries in blender container or food processor bowl; add sugar. Cover and blend or process until pureed.

In mixer bowl, beat pudding and cream cheese with electric mixer on medium speed until combined. Place half of cake in bottom of dish. Pour half of pureed berries over cake and top with half of pudding mixture. Repeat with remaining cake, puree and pudding mixture. Cover and chill for up to 24 hours.

Before serving, top with additional strawberries, if desired.

While simplicity is the key, the presentation of this shortcake is dazzlingly effective. Wedges of shortbread stand pinwheel fashion over strawberry-tinted whipped cream, laced with sliced strawberries and mounded with more berries in the center.

STRAWBERRY SHORTBREAD

- 1 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1 cup powdered sugar
- 2 cups flour
- 1 ounce grated semisweet chocolate (about 1/2 cup)
- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped and sweetened
- 2 pint baskets fresh strawberries, washed, hulled and sliced
- Whole berries, for garnish

In mixer bowl, cream butter and sugar. On low speed, gradually mix in flour and chocolate. Form dough into 2 balls, one a little larger than the other. On floured surface roll each ball to a circle about 7 inches in diameter (one should be thicker than the other).

Using broad spatula, gently transfer each circle to greased baking sheet. Prick surfaces generously with fork. Bake in 350 F oven 20 to 30 minutes, until just golden. While still warm, cut thinner circle into 8 equal wedges. Transfer all to rack to cool completely.

To assemble: Place shortbread circle on serving plate. Top with whipped cream and sliced strawberries, reserving dollop of cream for garnish. Set shortbread wedges into cream at an angle, points toward center. Top with dollop of whipped cream and whole strawberry. Cut into wedges.

Note: Shortbread can be made ahead and stored for several days wrapped in plastic wrap or frozen for longer storage.

STRAWBERRY GLAZE PIE

- 1 (8-inch) baked pie shell
- 2 pints strawberries, washed and hulled
- 1/2 cup sugar
- Dash salt
- 1/2 cup water (divided use)
- 1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 (8-ounce) package cream

cheese, softened
1/4 cup milk

To make glaze: Slice enough berries to make 1 cup. Place sliced berries in saucepan with sugar, salt and 1/4 cup water. Bring to boil. Cook 3 minutes; remove from heat. Mix cornstarch and 1/4 cup cold water. Stir into berries. Return to heat and cook, stirring until thick (about 2 minutes). Add lemon juice. Cool to room temperature.

Beat cream cheese with milk just until smooth. Spread in bottom of cooled pie shell. Cover with half of glaze.

Arrange reserved whole berries on top, stem ends down. Spoon remaining glaze over berries. Chill 2 hours.

Note: Ready-to-use strawberry glaze sold in 15 1/2-ounce jars in supermarket produce sections can be used in place of home-prepared glaze. In that case, pie will take only 1 pint of fresh berries.

STRAWBERRY-RHUBARB PIE

- 1 1/2 pints fresh strawberries, washed, hulled and halved
- 2 cups sliced fresh rhubarb (2 to 3 medium stalks)
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 6 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
- Unbaked pastry for double crust 9-inch pie
- Milk, as needed
- Sugar, as needed

Mix strawberries and rhubarb with 1 1/2 cups sugar and tapioca; let stand while making pastry.

Divide pastry in half. On lightly floured surface, roll out 1 portion 1 1/2 inches larger than inverted 9-inch pie plate. Fit into plate and trim crust even with edge. Fill with fruit mixture. Roll out remaining pastry; lift onto pie. Trim crust 1/2 inch beyond edge of pie plate. Fold top crust under bottom crust; seal together to make a standing rim and flute edge. Cut vents in top crust. Brush with milk and sprinkle with sugar.

Bake in 400 F oven 60 to 70 minutes, or until filling bubbles in center. After 30 minutes of baking, check pie occasionally and cover edges with foil, if necessary, to prevent browning. If pie begins to bubble over, place foil beneath pie plate. Cool thoroughly before cutting.

KITCHEN HINTS

Bottom of olive oil bottle looks different is it safe?

Yes, here's why:

1. Saturated fats make up a small amount of olive oil and often settle in the bottom of the bottle.
2. At cool room temperatures these crystals tend to be solid, even more so in the refrigerator.
3. At room, or slightly warm temperatures, this milky residue turns clear again.

Main-dish salads

With summer fast approaching and the trend toward lighter and healthier eating gaining momentum, main-dish salads are coming more and more into the limelight.

Salads are surely one of the most creative categories for the adventurous cook. There are no real rules to rein the kitchen artist in, and nothing but personal taste and inclination need prevail when combining ingredients.

For a hearty and filling main-dish salad, it's a good idea to start with cooked beans and/or grains as the base. It's nice to season the beans and grains with a few cloves of garlic or some minced fresh ginger while they are cooking.

For a very simple salad, the beans and grains may be tossed in a zesty vinaigrette. A more complex salad may be created by adding some diced raw vegetables such as zucchini, carrots, celery, scallions and peppers.

For a lighter salad, consider combining some grilled, diced vegetables. (This is an ideal way to use any leftover vegetables from your barbecue.) Toss in some cooked fresh corn, a generous amount of finely chopped parsley or coriander and a healthy dousing of oil-and-vinegar dressing. You may also add some cooked pasta, if you are so inclined.

For optimum taste, always use the freshest ingredients available and the finest quality olive oil and vinegar for the dressing. Be sure to combine a variety of textures in the salad and give some consideration to an array of colors.

When presenting a main-dish salad, use a large platter or bowl and create a bed or border of colorful fresh greens. Place the salad in the center and top it with thickly sliced tomatoes, thin strips of peeled avocado or some small mounds of oil-cured olives.

Served with some chilled wine or just-prepared vegetable juice and a loaf of crusty bread, such salads make meals fit for kings and queens. Salads of some sort may be found in virtually every cuisine. Here are a few unusual recipes for added inspiration.

Chili oil is what gives this salad its spicy zest. Unless you love fiery tastes, begin with $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon when preparing the dressing and increase as desired. For a milder, but very flavorful dressing, use Oriental (toasted) sesame oil.

CAROL GELLES' SPICY TOFU SALAD

- 1½ cups cooked and cooled whole-grain triticale or brown rice
- 1 cup diced firm-style tofu
- 1 (8-ounce) can water chestnuts, drained and chopped
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup julienned red bell pepper
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped scallions, both white and green

parts

- $\frac{1}{2}$ chopped finely minced fresh coriander
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- $1\frac{1}{4}$ tablespoons rice vinegar (available in health food stores)
- 1 tablespoon Japanese soy sauce or 2 teaspoons Chinese soy sauce
- $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon chili oil or 1 teaspoon Oriental sesame oil
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- Salt and freshly ground pepper, to taste

Yields 4 servings.

In large bowl, combine triticale (or brown rice), tofu, water chestnuts, red bell pepper, scallions and coriander.

In small bowl, stir together vegetable oil, vinegar, soy sauce, chili oil and garlic. Pour dressing over salad ingredients and toss gently to combine. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Adapted from "The Complete Whole Grain Cookbook" by Carol Gelles; Donald Fine; $19.95.

This is an Indian version of the American three-bean salad. It is an excellent use of leftover beans.

MIXED BEAN SALAD WITH FENNEL

- 1-inch piece of peeled, fresh ginger root, minced
- 1 to 2 minced, hot green chilies
- 3 tablespoons each chopped fresh coriander and parsley
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup olive oil
- 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon sea salt
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
- $1\frac{1}{2}$ tablespoons ghee (clarified butter) or sunflower oil
- 1 teaspoon black mustard seeds
- $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon caraway seeds
- 1 fennel bulb, trimmed, cored and thinly sliced
- 1 cup each cooked chickpeas, black-eyed peas and kidney beans

Yields 4 to 6 servings.

Combine ginger, green chilies, herbs, olive oil, lemon juice, salt and pepper in salad bowl. Heat ghee or oil in small pan over moderate heat. When hot, but not smoking, add mustard seeds and caraway seeds and fry until mustard seeds sputter and turn gray. Immediately pour seasonings into bowl and whisk dressing until emulsified. Gently stir in fennel and cooked beans. Cover and refrigerate for at least 2 hours before serving.

A revival of muffins and popovers

At one point, popovers and muffins were a regular Sunday feature. Then popovers, with their eggs and butter, fell into disfavor while muffins took the health-food road. Where once they were a breakfast treat, a teatime nibble, a snack, muffins became a way of life.

Just within the last year, in fact, muffins seemed almost essential. So long as oat bran promised to reduce cholesterol, oat bran muffins were our primary source. Even now that some shadows have fallen on oat bran's reputation, bran muffins are as popular as ever.

Indeed, all muffins are best sellers, and now it's time to bring back popovers. Start with the '90s recipe below, which uses one egg and two egg whites, cutting both calories and cholesterol. To make them more exciting, add half a teaspoon of nutmeg or cinnamon.

The bran muffins below benefit from the scent of lemon, and the corn muffins are the better for a shot of jalapeno peppers.

LEMON BRAN MUFFINS

- 1 cup wheat bran cereal
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup oat bran
- Grated rind of 1 lemon
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup fresh lemon juice (about 3 lemons)
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup non-fat milk
- $1\frac{1}{4}$ cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon baking soda
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 2 egg whites
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup honey
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup vegetable oil

Yields 12 muffins. Each muffin has about 150 calories, no cholesterol, 5 grams fat and 140 milligrams sodium.

Mix wheat bran cereal, oat bran, lemon peel, lemon juice and milk in bowl and let stand for 10 minutes.

In another bowl mix flour, baking powder, baking soda and brown sugar.

In third bowl, beat egg whites until foamy and add honey and oil. Mix thoroughly.

Stir egg mixture into wheat cereal mixture and mix well. Now dump in mixture of flour, baking powder, baking soda and brown sugar all at once and stir just to moisten. Don't overmix. It makes tough muffins. Spoon into 12 medium muffin cups (spray with non-stick coating or use paper liners) and bake at 400 F for 20 to 25 minutes until brown and firm.

POPOVERS

- 1 cup flour
- 1 cup non-fat milk
- 1 egg
- 2 egg whites
- 1 tablespoon unsalted margarine, melted

Yields 4 to 6 popovers. Each has about 125 calories, 50 milligrams cholesterol, 3 grams fat and 100 milligrams sodium.

Preheat oven to 425 F. Spray 6 popover cups or large muffin cups with non-stick coating and lightly coat with vegetable oil. Place flour, milk, egg, egg whites and melted margarine in workbowl of food processor and blend until smooth. Pour mixture into prepared pans and place in middle of preheated oven. Bake 30 to 40 minutes. Do not open oven door for the first 20 minutes at least. Popovers should be puffed up and brown. Serve at once.

SPICY CORN MUFFINS

- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup fresh or frozen corn kernels
- 1 teaspoon chopped jalapeno pepper or 1 tablespoon chopped poblano pepper
- 1 cup yellow cornmeal
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil or low-sodium margarine
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup non-fat milk
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 1 egg
- 2 egg whites
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon baking soda
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped pimiento

Yields about 12 muffins. Each muffin has about 110 calories, 30 milligrams cholesterol, 3 grams fat and 230 milligrams sodium.

Preheat oven to 400 F. Spray muffin pans with non-stick coating. Put corn, pepper, cornmeal, margarine, non-fat milk and buttermilk, egg and egg whites in workbowl of food processor and blend until smooth.

In separate bowl, combine flour, baking powder, baking soda and sugar. Combine dry ingredients with milk mixture. Add pimiento and stir until smooth. Spoon batter into muffin cups and bake on center rack of oven for 15 to 20 minutes. When done, turn off oven and let muffins cool a little inside with oven door partially open. Remove and cool on racks.

Grout stains can be troublesome

Q. We recently purchased an older home that has ceramic tile countertops in the kitchen. The tile surface is attractive and in good shape, but the grout between is stained.

I have tried numerous cleaners and bleaches with no success. Do you know of a method to clean grout without replacing it? If I do have to replace the grout, is there a specific product I can use that will help prevent staining of the new grout? — J.H.

A. Ceramic tile countertops in kitchens are subjected to the worst possible household stains, and the grout joints are particularly susceptible to these stains.

The Tile Council of America recommends applying a thick paste of scouring powder and hot water, letting this paste stand for five to 10 minutes. If stains remain, apply undiluted bleach for at least five minutes, rinse well, and dry.

If this fails to lighten and brighten your grout, you should consider regrouting the surface layer. Tile dealers have a special tool you can use to remove approximately 1/4 inch of the grouting so new grouting can be installed over the old.

For future protection, apply a sealer over the new grouting (or cleaned grouting). There are two types of sealers on the market.

The topical variety is usually acrylic-based; penetrating sealers, often silicone-based, are absorbed into the grout. However, some tile manufacturers do not recommend applying a sealer over their tiles, which means using great care in applying the sealer to the grout only, carefully wiping away any excess sealer solution from the tiles.

These sealers need to be renewed from time to time and are effective in general, but at times they're not particularly satisfactory in combating the problems of staining caused by fats and oils that you will have in the kitchen.

There is one product recently introduced by Glaze 'N Seal (Glessner Corp. Inc., 1301 Sansome St., San Francisco, CA 94111), which is an acrylic grout sealer that the manufacturer claims will protect against organic stains, including cooking oil, grease and beverages.

The sealer can be applied to untreated grout only and may darken or produce a slight wet appearance on some grouts. Care should be taken during application so that none of the sealer is allowed to dry on the tile surfaces.

Another new product on the market is Latapoxy SP 100, a stain-proof grout that is available in a wide range of colors. The manufacturer of this product (Laticrete International Inc., One Laticrete Park Northern, Bethany, CT 06525) recommends the product for kitchen counters as well as tile floors, as a stainless grout that is uniform in color and resistant to staining caused by most foods, beverages and cleaning agents.

Q. Recently we completed a deck using pressure-treated wood for the construction. I have been told to put a preservative finish on it in order to make the deck last longer.

Is this important with pressure-treated wood, or is it largely decorative? If it is useful, what type of finish do you recommend? — J.L.

A. Unfortunately, it is a common assumption that pressure-treated wood is treated to resist all types of damaging elements.

Although the treated wood resists damage from wood-boring insects, it is still vulnerable to water damage.

The Koppers Co. produces two such products: Rain Coat is a sealer designed for use on pressure-treated wood, and Deck Stain (which contains a water repellent) is formulated to tint and protect all types of wood used outdoors, including pressure-treated lumber.

Thompson's Water Seal and Wolman's Rain Coat are also popular water repellents used to help prevent damage. A sealer of this type is easy to apply, and probably something you can do yourself.

Newly installed pressure-treated wood should be allowed to season for one to three months prior to treatment. Be sure the deck is clean before you apply a sealer.

If it is stained, you can clean the surface with diluted chlorine bleach or a commercial deck cleaner such as Wolman's Deck Brightener. When the deck is clean and thoroughly dry, apply the water repellent or sealer.

Your deck should be treated with a water repellent approximately every two years. You can test the surface by splashing a glass of water against the wood. If the surface absorbs the water making the wood noticeably darker, then the wood is vulnerable and needs the immediate protection of a waterproofer. If the water beads up, or doesn't absorb into the wood, the surface is protected.

FOR TEENS

By Willard Abraham,
Ph.D.

After high school, then what?

Dr. Abraham: I've never done very well in school, although it looks like I'll be able to graduate from high school next year. That will be great for me because there have been times
when I didn't think I would make it.

The reason I will be because I've tried as hard as I can, have had some good teachers and my parents have been helpful, too.

But what comes next for me? I don't think I'll be able to handle college, at least not away from home.

I suppose I could get some kind of job, but with a low income, I imagine.

Although I've talked to my parents about all this,
they really don't know what I should do.

Do you have any ideas
that might help me out? —
Jerry, Passaic, N.J.

Jerry: You deserve a lot of credit for your school successes as well as for trying to plan ahead.

There are a number of possibilities you can look into, including starting at a community college or considering a type of reputable trade school if you think you might have some skills or potential skills on which they and you could build.

When school starts in the fall, talk your situation over with your school counselor. Many other high school students have faced and solved this problem,

and your counselor has no doubt been helpful in this kind of decision-making.
He or she may also have other suggestions based on knowing you and your school record.

Dr. Abraham: I wish I could get my parents to understand that just because I like to spend time by myself it doesn't mean I'm lonely. "Alone" and "lonely" just aren't the same thing.

I can be with my friends
whenever I want to, which is once in a while but not every day, night or weekend. My own company is far from boring, because I read, solve all kinds of puzzles and have a whole slew of hobbies. All of that is after I get homework out of the way, and I certainly don't like doing that in a group, either.

They even think I'm shy,
but they ought to see me
mixing it up when I'm with some of my friends.

I don't like watching television or movies with others because I want to hear as well as see, and some people like to talk and butt in on what we're watching.

Anything wrong with all this? — Matt,

Matt: As long as you don't become a total or near-total isolate, you may have no problem. There are some occupations that require workers who don't mind, and even enjoy,
being by themselves much of the time.

"Shy" and "isolated"
might be at one end of a scale, and being "extremely gregarious" at the other end, with a long range of
"normalcy" in the middle.

I assume you have considered activities and involvements that are available for you outside of your own room, have sampled some of them, selected the ones that have the most appeal for you, put a few on hold and rejected the rest.
If not, you might want to give a little thought toward going through that procedure.

It may also be worthwhile to select from among your friends one or more who don't talk at movies or while watching television. There can be enjoyment in looking at and then later talking about shared experiences such as these.

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

Pewter was common
350 years ago!

Q: Antique dealers who have examined this pewter stein say that the date of 1640 is the true vintage. It is 15 inches tall and holds about 2½ quarts. The handle on the lid is in the shape of a lion.

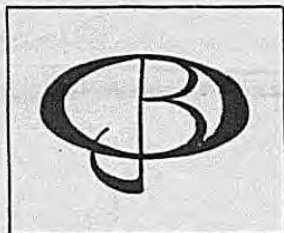

Can you evaluate this stein for me?

A: If the dealers are correct, your stein probably would sell for about $500 to $600.

Three hundred and fifty years ago there were more utensils made of pewter than there were made of ceramics.

Q: This mark is on the bottom of a 10-inch vase. It has angular handles running from the body to a wide neck. It is brown-to-pink and has three small feet.

I hope you can identify the maker and give me some idea about its value.

A: This vase was made by the J.B. Owens Art Pottery in Zanesville, Ohio, about 1910 to 1920.

It probably would sell for $175 to $200.

Q: My covered stoneware teapot is tan and brown, with white and blue floral decorations. Inscribed on the bottom is "Doulton & Slater's Patent."

Can you tell me about the origin and value of this teapot?

A: Your teapot was made by the Doulton Co. Ltd., in Burslem, England, about 1890. The company produced stoneware under Slater's patent from 1886 to 1914.

A dealer would price this at about $225 to $235.

Q: What can you tell me about my antique portrait plate? It depicts a beautiful girl wearing a curly white wig and red hat with an ostrich plume. The rim is decorated in blue and gold. It is marked "Austria."

A: Your plate was made after the McKinley Tarrif Act of 1890, probably about 1900. There were many companies that made porcelain in Austria, particularly in the area around Carlsbad.

Plates similar to this are selling in the $165 to $185 range.

Q: Can you tell me anything about a 2-gallon stoneware crock? It is marked "J.E. Norton, Bennington, Vt.," and is decorated in blue with a bird sitting on a branch.

A: The mark you describe was made about 1850-1860. Earlier Bennington stoneware was marked "L. Norton," later Bennington was marked "E. & L.P. Norton."

Your crock probably would sell for at least $1,000. You should have this verified by a local expert who can actually examine it.

Lumbosacral syndrome may cause lameness

Q: Our 8-year-old Saint Bernard has never previously had problems with lameness. She has been checked for hip dysplasia and found to be free of the syndrome.

Just recently she appears to be weak in her rear legs and she is reluctant to play like she used to with the neighborhood children. What is the likely cause of her problem?

A: It is impossible to tell you what the cause of your dog's rear limb lameness is without actually seeing her. There are many diseases that can cause signs similar to the ones you have described. One of the more recently recognized ones is lumbosacral syndrome.

The spinal column of the dog's lower back consists of seven lumbar vertebrae and three sacral vertebrae. The space between the last lumbar vertebra and the first sacral vertebra is called the lumbosacral space.

As a dog ages, the disk between these vertebrae and the other soft tissue structures surrounding the lumbosacral space may undergo degenerative changes and put pressure on the nerves that go through the spinal canal.

Pressure on spinal nerves can cause pain and irritation. This makes the dog sore, stiff, lame and reluctant to get up and move. The dog may stand around holding one leg up. The nerves to the urinary bladder and rectum may be affected. If this happens the dog may not be able to control its urination and defecation.

Lumbosacral syndrome can be treated successfully if diagnosed early. Treatment with drugs will often give the dog short-term relief. However, surgery is usually required to cure the condition.

Most dogs recover from the surgery without any complications. The convalescent period is usually six to eight weeks, after which most dogs can resume normal activities.

Any dog with hind limb lameness and weakness should be examined by a veterinarian. Usually treatment immediately following the first signs is more successful than treatment after the dog has suffered many days.

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Recently I read a book about cats called "Catwatching." It explains all about why cats act the way they do. There are lots of interesting facts that I learned from the book. For example, did you know that cats not only purr when they are happy, they also sometimes purr when they are afraid, to ask you to be nice to them. A cat who comes up to you wagging its tail is nervous, but a cat whose tail is straight up is glad to see you.

Although "Catwatching" is aimed at adults, you and your parents might enjoy reading it together, especially if you have a cat in your family.

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Patrick Casey and Peggy Smith.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

By William M. Acost.

Federal employees are covered by SS

Q: I just began to work for an agency of the federal government.

I noticed that Social Security tax has been withheld from my pay. I thought that federal employees were not covered by Social Security.

Please explain. — F.L.

A: Most types of employment in the United States are covered by Social Security. Work performed for the U.S. government by newly hired civilian employees and certain federal officials was covered by Social Security beginning Jan. 1, 1984.

Prior to 1984, most federal civilian employment was exempt from regular Social Security coverage.

Q: My husband has been sentenced to three years in prison. Will our Social Security benefits stop? — W.P.

A: Benefits are withheld for any month in which an individual is confined in a jail, prison or other penal institution or correctional facility within the United States for conviction of a felony. This rule applies only to the prisoner; the benefits of any auxiliaries of the prisoner are not affected.

Q: My neighbor told me you cannot own an automobile and still be eligible for Supplemental Security Income. Is that true? — L.H.

A: The value of one car is not counted at all if it is used to obtain medical treatment or in connection with employment or for transportation of a handicapped person.

If the auto cannot be excluded on the basis of use, then only the portion of the current market value that exceeds $4,500 counts as a resource.

Contact your Social Security office for a complete explanation.

Q: I will soon be eligible for Medicare. I understand that Part A is the Hospital Insurance, but what does the Part B Medicare Medical Insurance cover? — A.K.F.

A: Medicare Medical Insurance helps pay for covered services you receive from your doctor in his or her office, in a hospital or in your home.

It also helps pay for covered outpatient hospital services and other covered services and supplies, such as ambulance transportation, durable medical equipment, such as oxygen equipment, hospital bed or wheelchair. Prosthetic devices and artificial limbs are also covered under Medicare Medical Insurance.
