Middle School Term Ends

Eighth grade students with Felix, the Spanish Folk Tale Interpreter.

Life at the Hicksville Middle School has been reaching the end-of-year crescendo with many marvelous awards and exciting events.

International Day was held on May 11. It was a fun day for all. Seventh and eighth graders participated in activities of international flavor including the absolutely delightful Spanish folk tale interpreter "Felix" who not only taught the students through his story of "Juan Bova" and his "puerito," but also engaged several youngsters as actors in a skit about Spanish cooking and romance.

The students laughed and learned as the very artful Felix Pitre made the Spanish language come alive.

And speaking of alive, a former Hicksville graduate, Steven Finklestein, performed on African drums with Joseph Cardella, teaching about varied styles of drums and the hidden messages of African cultural music.

In the large gym, Mrs. Patricia Joseph demonstrated folk dancing and the students were not shy about joining in. Some of those routines took a little more thought than those the youngsters are used to. The day also included student exhibits and food tasting.

Next year's event will be an Americana Day. We just can't wait to see what Mrs. Marshall, our Assistant Principal, will dream up next. Our students were well represented when accolades were bestowed this spring. From science to math, Latin to athletics, this New York State Challenge for Excellence School is living up to its high standards. The PTSA wishes to congratulate all our students.

For the first time, the Middle School held a sports awards night. The June 5, program sure tired out the old palms. Student after student received certificates for participation and many also received Letters for participation on joint 7-8 grade or high school teams. Several students were honored for participation in four sports this year. Monday, June 11, the full Middle School awards program was held, and awards and certificates for accomplishments throughout the year were presented.

The eighth grade dance was held on June 1. All our young men and women were stunning. Graduation is just around the corner and PTSA wishes to extend best wishes for a rewarding high school career and a successful future.

On May 25, our PTSA hosted a staff appreciation luncheon. We hope all enjoyed the heroes and salads and our congratulations to Joanne Lazarrubba, Karen Pincus and Florence Grubbe who won the fresh flowers raffle.

At our final meeting of the year, June 4, a special tribute was given to retiring president Karel Rudis. Installation of officers for 1990-91 took place with School Board trustee Pat Rooney presiding. Mrs. Rooney noted that the evening marked the end of ten years and four children moving through Hicksville Middle School.

The new officers for the Middle School PTSA are: President, Maureen Traxler; Vice President, Rose Walker; Corresponding Secretary, Linda Colton; Recording Secretary, Karen Gilmore and Treasurer, Shirley Johnson.

Here's looking at an exciting year to come and new "challenges" for Hicksville's Middle School.

Over 2,000 students from 32 schools in New York's Sixth Senatorial District participated in Senator Kemp Hannon's "There Oughta To Be A Law" contest.

Letter

To the Editor:

I would like to thank all of my friends and supporters who worked so hard to make my campaign a success. I could not have done it without you. Your enthusiasm, faith and energy always gave me the push to go on. I appreciate even more the calls that followed the campaign like: "We're here for you whenever you need us - not just for the election." "We're ready to start working - just call." and "I've heard....you might want to look into this so that you can have the answer at the next meeting." The last statement is the most important.

We as a community have a habit of saving our questions or statements for the night of the board meetings to see if we can "stump the Board." We are supposed to be working together and the School Board is not the enemy. Given a few days, in most cases, we are able to research the question and get an answer or find out where to direct a person to get the answer. As concerned community members, when we can't get an answer or we don't like the answer we get, then we pursue the question in writing to the Board and then have the question asked at the meeting.

If you have a question, please ask it; if you have a suggestion, please tell us; and if you want to work together for a better Hicksville, please come to our meetings.

Sincerely,
 Jo Ann Miltenberg

Windorama 12 Risole Diesel Fuel 6

Joe Cox went the distance as Windorama defeated Risole Diesel Fuel 12 to 6. Joe had great defensive support as Al Graceffa speared a line drive at 1st base for an unassisted doubleplay and Matt Gold at 2nd and Frank Harman at short took away basehits on great defensive plays. Frank Harman went 3 for 4 with a 2 run home run and David Rubin scored 2 runs.

The hitting stars for Risole Fuel were Chip Haunns who had 2 triples and scored 2 runs and James Kolanderian who went 3 for 4.

Windorama 7 Super Mill Work 5

Singles by Joe Cox and Lee Sessa set the stage for Frankie Harman's 3 run homer in the 7th that proved to be the difference in Windorama's 7-5 win over Super Mill Work. Big Al Graceffa pitched the first 5 innings for Windorama and kept them close. Al was aided by James Piangozza's 5 put outs in right field, two of which were the front end of doubleplays. Matt Gold pitched the final 2 innings and got the win. Mike Signora played his normal great game behind the plate.

Steven Steffameci pitched 4 strong innings for Super Mill Work allowing only 1 run. Chris Luciano went 2 for 3 and scored 2 runs in the close battle.

Right Around Home

By Maureen Traxler

By Maureen Traxler

The United States had not entered into World War II yet, black and white TVs were just being introduced, and of course, computers and velcro were still a long way off, when John and Gertrude Nolan exchanged wedding vows and spoke the magic words, "I do." On June 22, Gertrude and John will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary at a family get-together.

Gertrude, whose family dates back over 160 years in Hicksville, and John, a Brooklynite, met at a roller skating rink in Mineola, and settled in the house on East John Street built for them as bride and groom. Here they raised their four children, Richard, Janice, Alan and Jerry, all of whom still live on Long Island.

Of their fifty years together, Gertrude remarks, "It was a lot of hard work, but there was a lot of happiness in the things that didn't cost the most." John takes a different view of their success story: "We keep each other's blood pressure up, but she's still the boss."

Mrs. Nolan enjoys painting and has been working at the art for the past six years at the Newbridge Road Senior Center. Mr. Nolan still puts in some hours as handyman and driver/companion. Both Nolans are long-time members of the Masonic Temple in Wantagh.

Gertrude, having been born and raised in Hicksville, has seen her quiet hamlet transformed into a cosmopolitan hub. "I've seen many changes here," she says, "some that I don't really care for." Gertrude's grandfather (Keller) settled in Hicksville from his native Germany. He was a chemist and manufactured soap and candles on their homestead on Newbridge Road. He sold his soap formula to Kirkman's Soap. Her father developed a potato farm on the 87-acre property, and when it came time to sell, part of his property was purchased for the site of Holy Family Catholic Church.

Gertrude and John Nolan have also been blessed with 13 grandchildren: Jason and John, sons of Richard and Sue Nolan; Joey, Chrissy, Kelley and Graig, children of Janice and Joseph Honahan; Alan and Timothy, sons of Alan and Pat Nolan; and George, Kevin, Danny and Jenna, children of Jerry and Edith Nolan. The Nolan family welcomes Kirsten. Grandson Joey was married to Kirsten on May 20.

Gertrude and John Nolan celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Hicksville Auxiliary Police Report

PAGE THREE Friday, June 22, 1990 MID ISLAND TIMES

For the month of May, seventeen members of the Hicksville Auxiliary Police Unit 312 volunteered a total of 506.5 patrol hours. This included the following incidents:

On May 4 two Officers assisted the Second Precinct with a missing person investigation at the Oyster Bay Sand and Gravel Company on Duffy Ave. in Hicksville. Officers were in a brief foot pursuit and one female juvenile was taken into custody.

On May 17 Unit 312 Chief was informed by a complainant at the T.O.B. parking garage in Hicksville that his 1985 Cadillac Eldorado was missing. After taking the complainant through the garage to insure that he was not mistaken, the Second Precinct was notified.

On May 26 two Officers were requested to assist a L.I.R.R. Police Officer at the Hicksville station with Spanish - English translation for a male Hispanic with an unknown problem. It was determined that the male Hispanic was reporting a stolen wallet which occurred on a train in Westbury on May 24. A report was then filed by the L.I.R.R. Officer.

Earlier this month, California voters were asked to register ye or nay on Proposition 117, an initiative to protect the mountain lion and to acquire habitat for the lion and other rare and endangered California species. Polls by both proponents and opponents showed that up to 80% of voters, including many hunters, agreed that senseless shooting of mountain lions should not be allowed, especially since lions are valued for neither food nor fur and typically end up as trophies on a wall.

The students in Ms. Anne Bergeron's sixth grade class at Fork Lane School extensively discussed the topic of animal rights as part of their interdisciplinary unit, "The Voyage of the Mimi." The youngsters were asked to write editorials on the theme - Should the sale of animal furs for clothing be banned? Here are some of their comments:

"With cotton, polyester, silk, wool, rayon and leather, we don't need animal furs! We use animal furs for our own pleasure, to make us look glamorous and stylish. Numerous animals have to suffer so we can have their furs. Killing animals for their furs is like cutting holes in your umbrella. You're destroying something that's there to help us," writes Jennifer Traxler.

But classmate Gus Kosmas counters this thought by saying, "It would not be fair if you could wear leather shoes, but you couldn't wear a fur coat. It would be like not being able to hunt," but being able to fish."

Gus continues: "Having been told what you should or shouldn't wear is against your constitutional rights and is very inequitable." But Jennifer adds in her editorial: "They (animals) deserve the right to live and live safely. Killing animals may not seem harmful to nature just now, however, if we don't stop sooner or later the animals we hunt will become extinct."

"Each time people kill an animal for their fur, the animal is suffering for another person's wardrobe ... Many of the animals who are hunted have to suffer before they die. This is very cruel and mean," writes Kristen Burns.

Robin Blicker states: "We should keep selling these luxurious garments, but we should have different procedures in getting their beautiful fur. We should only use the overpopulated, elder animals' fur. Killing these young, healthy creatures is like killing a baby for the one lock of hair it has."

Kristen feels strongly on one point, "that people don't realize animals are living things just like we are. They should be allowed to run around happily without having to worry about being killed."

But Robin philosophizes: "We don't have to slay these attractive animals to the point where they become extinct. These animals should be killed for their furs only during hunting seasons. If others don't feel the same way, they don't have to buy the furs."

End Of Year Bowl Party

The Fork Lane PTA treated its sixth graders to an end-of-the-year bowling party at North Levittown Lanes on June 8. Believe it or not, most of these kids are quite accomplished bowlers for 12 and 13 year olds, thanks to our school Junior Bowling League.

So, since straight bowling is a cinch, trick bowling was the order of the day. Between your legs, with your foot - that kept the score down. Afterwards it was pizza and hot music. Congratulations to our graduates, from the Fork Lane PTA.

Grandparents Day At Burns Avenue

June 1, was Grandparents Day at Burns Ave. School. All the students at Burns Ave. were allowed to invite their grandparents to the school, for a special day. All grandparents were given a smiley face corsage and refreshments. They were entertained by the children. A great time was had by all.

Hosts Needed For Dutch Students

Sponsored by Syosset International, 8 students and one professor from Erasmus University, in the Netherlands, will tour and visit in Syosset-Woodbury, on Friday, June 29. The Dutch delegation has been hosted at Hofstra University for the past month, by the International Student Division, under the guidance of Advisor Graydon Vanderbilt.

The one-day hosting program will be designed to acquaint the students with a way of life as lived at the American "grass roots" community level. The community visit will include a tour of the area, a meeting with community personalities, an afternoon swim party, and dinner in the homes of host families. A concluding activity will involve a general social affair of hosts and guests as the home of a local resident for the purpose of cross-cultural discussion.

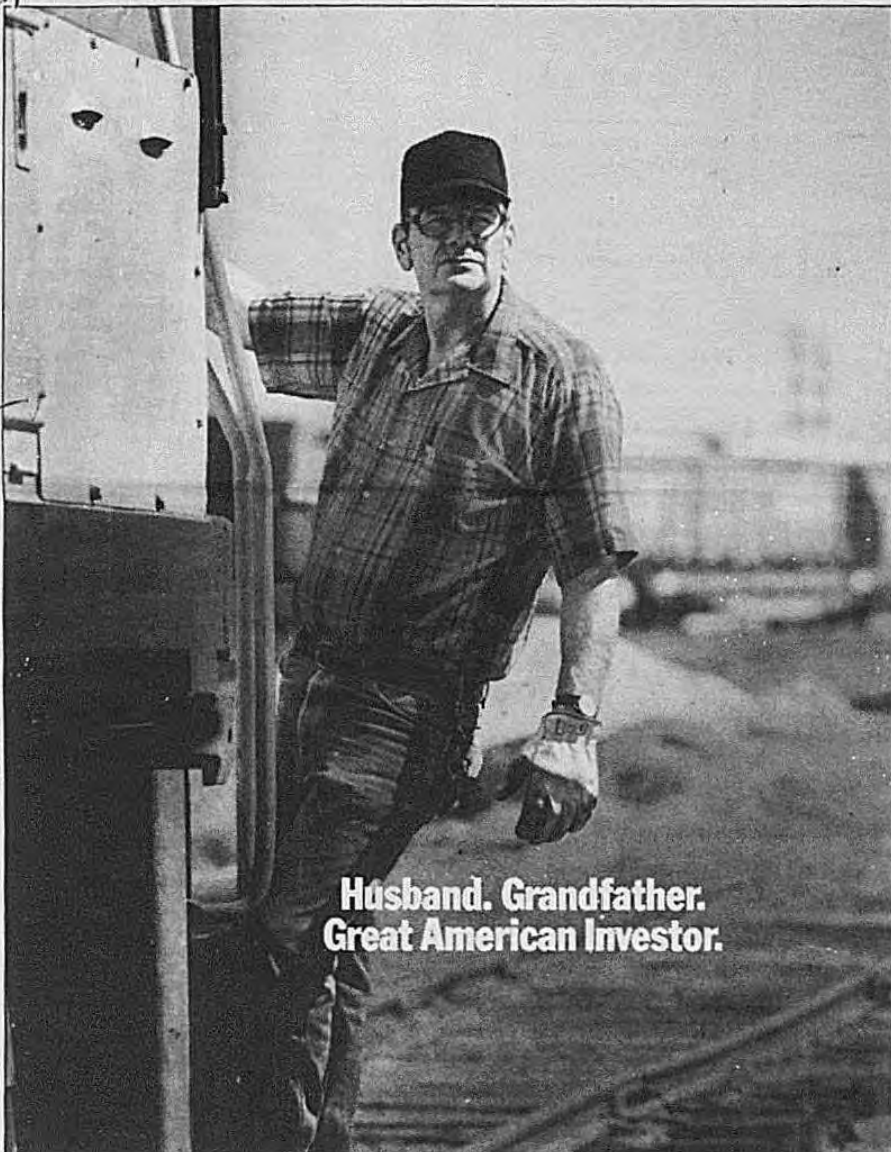

In order to create a successful experience for the visitors, it is necessary to secure the cooperation, support, and assistance of Syosset-Woodbury residents. Bill Kupec, Director of Syosset International, has indicated the following needs:

1. The use of a private home pool for an afternoon "swim" social activity, from 2 to 5 p.m. Refreshments will be provided by Syosset International.
2. Host families for dinner, from 6 to 8 p.m. One or two guests will be hosted.
3. Use of a large home, where hosts and guest can gather for dessert and cross-cultural discussions, from 8 to 10 p.m. Guests will depart for Hofstra at 10 p.m.

Any community group which would like to meet with the Dutch students on an informal basis, will be most welcome. In addition, any organization which would like to host a breakfast for the students, will help to contribute feelings of friendship for our community.

"This type of program is so essential for the creation of intercultural appreciation, understanding, and friendship. This experience with the Dutch students creates a wonderful opportunity for our community to participate and to indicate its continuing desire to 'live locally and to think globally'. Your assistance will help promote international togetherness at the local level. Your contributions will project Syosset-Woodbury as a truly global community. The efforts of our community members will be truly appreciated."

Volunteers are urged to call Bill Kupec, at 921-1997.

Husband. Grandfather. Great American Investor.

When Bob Lawrence began his career on the railroad nearly 30 years ago, he began something else, too. Investing in U.S. Savings Bonds—the Great American Investment. "It was my wife that got me started. She wanted us to put something away for our retirement," he says. Today, Bob is ready to retire with quite a nest egg. And while he still buys Savings Bonds, his reasons have changed. "My wife and I aren't worried about ourselves anymore. Now we're thinking of our grandkids. We give them Bonds as gifts." Savings Bonds come in a variety of denominations, are free from state and local income tax, and you can buy them at work or where you bank. For more information, call us, or write U.S. Savings Bonds, Dept. 892-N, Washington, D.C. 20226.

ONE OF THE OLDEST AND LARGEST

By Vincent Edwards
V.F.W. Post 3211 Hicksville was pleased to present a plaque to Bruce Baltera of Dunkin' Donuts, in Plainview. It read as follows:

To Bruce Baltera

"This Award is presented to you on behalf of our entire organization for your generosity and friendship throughout the year. From the Officers and Members of the Wm. M. Gouse, Jr., Post 3211 Hicksville, N.Y. June 1990."

Mr. Baltera of Dunkin' Donuts supplies V.F.W. Post 3211 with donuts every Wednesday and Friday for the Veterans Administration Satellite Program, which operates from the Hicksville V.F.W. Post. This is a V.A. Outpatient Program from Northport Hospital, which uses the Hicksville V.F.W. Post facilities for the purpose of treating Veterans and dispensing medication. This is accomplished by registered Nurses and Doctors from Northport Hospital. There are only two such facilities in Nassau County. The other at the Lynbrook V.F.W. Although both facilities are at V.F.W. locations, these programs are open to all Veterans regardless of their affiliation. Volunteers from The V.F.W. and The Ladies Aux. serve the donuts to the Veterans. Free coffee is supplied by The V.F.W. These Volunteers serve approximately 150 Veterans each week. This program has been in effect at Post 3211 for the last ten years. Any Veteran requesting information about the V.A. Satellite Clinic may call the Hicksville V.F.W. Post any Wednesday and Friday between the hours of 9 a.m. and noon. The phone No. is 931-7843.

Again we say Thank You to Mr. Baltera for his Community spirit toward Veterans.

Athletic Achievement Award

The Supervisor initiated the program to honor students from high schools throughout the Town for their athletic accomplishments. The students, a boy and a girl from each school, were selected according to criteria established by their school's administration. Other award recipients included Timothy Cleary, second from left, and Kristin Mund, second from right, students at Hicksville High School. Also on hand were Victoria Vrona, left, a physical education teacher at Hicksville High School, and Jerry Lannarelli, Holy Trinity High School Athletic Director.

Dr. Burke Day At Burns Ave.

Friday, June 8, was known as "Dr. Burke Day" at the Burns Avenue School in honor of the retiring principal, Frank Edward Burke began teaching in this district at the Nicholai School in 1949 before transferring to Burns Avenue in 1953. He became assistant principal in 1955, and principal in 1959. To mark his five decade span with the school, the students performed various dances and played different roles that marked each period. Each class presented Dr. Burke with a gift - mostly books that the class created themselves, especially books on his favorite hobby, sailing. The theme that prevailed for the day was "Smooth Sailing Dr. Burke!"

Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Catherine J. Fenton, unveiled the surprise dedication with the assistance of Physical Education Teacher Rosemary Lawlor. Ms. Lawlor spends many hours in the gymnasium, often accompanied by the joyous shouts of the children, according to Dr. Fenton. Therefore, it was her idea that the gym should be rededicated as the "Dr. Frank Edward Burke Gymnasium." A plaque with this dedication was unveiled and will soon be hanging in the gym.

Many people enjoyed the festivities throughout the day honoring Dr. Burke. Photographs marking the various years of his career here in Hicksville lined the walls. All the children joined in wishing Dr. Burke a happy retirement. Dr. Burke's wife, Nancy Burke, Principal at the Dutch Lane School, paid tribute as well as teachers, PTA members, administrators and parents.

Town Renews Field Agreement

The Oyster Bay Town Board today (June 19) authorized an eighteen-month renewal of an agreement with the Bethpage School District for the use of the Borella Farms Athletic Fields, it was announced by Town Councilman John Venditto.

"The Town previously had negotiated with the school district a six-month agreement for use of the fields, which expires on June 30," Venditto explained. "Under the new agreement, which runs from July 1 through December 31, 1991, the Town will be permitted to continue maintaining and managing the three playing fields, which are located on school district property in the vicinity of Plainview and Myron Roads.

"We are most pleased with the extension of this agreement," Venditto stated, "as it will assure the Bethpage PAL, Little League and Soccer Club, all of which have been using the Borella Farms facilities for a number of years, playing fields for the next couple of seasons."

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Mixed Reaction On Flag Burning Amendment

There was mixed reaction to the question this week: "Should we try to pass an amendment to the Constitution against flag burning in the light of the recent Supreme Court decision?" Here are some of the answers:

STAY OR LEAVE

I believe that those who burn the flag should have the option of going to jail or leaving the country. We should not put up with people who do not like this country to the extent that they try to degrade the work of all of those who gave so much for this country. I think we should have an amendment and then we should pass a law that would give the flag burners the choice. B.G.

STOP WATCHING

It might be unnecessary to have an amendment against flag burners. If people would stop listening and watching the type of people who burn flags they would soon stop. Most of the people doing it have never given anything to the country and they simply keep their mouths open and complain while the real people pitch in and save the country when it is in trouble. The fakes who were afraid to be drafted found it easy to burn the flag. They would have run miles away if they had to face any real danger. H.B.

SHOWING SCORN

Of course we should have an amendment against flag burning. The people using the flag in this way are trying to show their scorn for this country. They have no patriotism. They should have to spend time in other countries and they would be glad we have a country and a flag that stands for so much. K.W.

NO AMENDMENT

While I would not ever burn the flag I cannot get excited by those who think this is the way to express their feelings against something that is being done by the government. If we were at war probably the war time acts would make it a crime. But a regular amendment is just a waste of time. G.J.

WRONG ANSWER

We are spending too much time worrying about things like flag burning. The freedom we have in this country allows for people who do not appreciate what they have and that is really what freedom is all about. An amendment would be the wrong answer. F.S.

NO SOCIAL ISSUE

I don't think it is right to burn the flag, but on the other hand I do not think it is important enough to have an amendment to the Constitution. Amendments to the Constitution should be on very important social issues. K.F.

SHOULD BE SCORNE

The flag burners should be scorned by regular citizens for what they are doing but it is not worth running after them and putting them in jail because they do not appreciate what the flag stands for and all of the people who have fought under it. I would be against using the time and work to pass an amendment against flag burning. S.W.

LISTEN TO PROBLEMS

I see some political advantage in legislators passing an amendment against flag burning but aside from the politics I don't see what the amendment would help. If people have grievances they will still have them even if they cannot burn a flag. Best thing we could do is to try to listen to the problems and see if something can be done to work them out. An amendment against flag burning will not do this. G.M.

NOT NECESSARY

As an introduction to this "Question", I think it's important to know that the recent Supreme Court decision overturned the Flag Protection act of 1989 making it a crime to desecrate the flag. Quite honestly, I believe that the whole thing is a tempest in a tea-pot to a large extent created and kept boiling by those whose basic and deliberate intent is to create schisms within our society. I don't always agree with the New York Times but I like their recent editorial summation of the situation which read as follows "Americans - We the people - also love our Constitution. It remains a model for the world, still working splendidly after two centuries. The Constitution is not perfect and was not expected to be; it has been amended 26 times. But the Bill of Rights, those first 10 amendments that spell out so many precious liberties, has never been altered." Actually, it's hard to say whether the flag burners and their supporters are confused religious zealots or whether, as I mentioned previously, out-and-out trouble-makers. Our flag, and any flag for that matter, is a thing representing a country, a club, a cause, a religious concept, a team, a school, or any number of things as a convenient and wordless symbol or reminder. It has no intrinsic value and has a certain mortality but definitely not a soul. To endow a flag with a soul is inane and to get ourselves all stirred up expending our energies on meaningless and wasteful legalistic pursuits is not worthy of sensible and really patriotic citizens. ## Growing Up With Our TV Families

By Lucia Fangmann

For every home that boasted of a television set in the 1950's, there were also kids, like myself, who had a favorite TV family. It might have been the "Lassie Show" or "Leave It To Beaver." Regardless of whether it was a country farm setting or a suburban household, one could almost surely count on finding the "TV Mom" in the kitchen. Looking back today, with a little insight (called Motherhood), these "moms" were not really tied to their own apron strings. True, they may have been less mobile, less sophisticated, even a bit more plump than their modern TV counterparts; but their attributes were not only skin deep.

These women symbolically functioned as the hub of the family wheel. Perhaps, they were at times "too good to be true." But, then fiction is essentially a clear pond which can only reflect ripples of reality. As an art medium, TV fiction does not operate, nor should it, as an absolute picture of reality. The artistic distancing which fiction provides, allows us to step back and consider. We can then ponder the complexities of life and hopefully laugh a bit along the way, as we learn about ourselves, family and the world around us.

I realize, now, that the most significant attribute of these TV matriarchs was their fidelity to family. Unquestionably, this fidelity was strengthened and sustained by their humor. With this defense they were able to deal with their families' weaknesses and strengths. At the same time, this attitude certified, for the child viewer, that both strength and weakness was part of being human. From this philosophical standpoint we shared in the families' joys and sorrows. Further, we participated in the larger truth that despite mistakes, folly, disobedience and disappointment ... life does go on. The very fabric of adventure in the TV plots of "Lassie" originated with a transgression on Timmy's part which eventually led to discovery and enlightenment. The faithful dog, Lassie, would always be there to save Timmy and return him to his loving mother and father.

Today's resurgence of old, family situation comedies share a common thread. Their popularity exemplifies, I believe, the need to see life from a less complicated point of view, a life sustaining point of view. I hesitate to use the word "nostalgic" since that may imply that as adults, we are just yearning for a time past. Rather, it is instinctively, the need again for a humanistic framework, fleshed out with constructive humor; and in some cases benevolent satire.

One of my favorite TV wives and "moms" was that unique, zany character "Lucy." The ageless and universal appeal of this woman grows stronger every day, all over the world. "I Love Lucy Show" can be seen on various television channels virtually from early morning through late night. On TV Lucy was unconventional. Her antics and characterizations were hysterical. Despite, the recent sad true life stories which have been revealed by her daughter, since her death, the show's merit is secure. Again, the real life character and its TV persona can not be judged equally. Lucy's TV comic techniques are entertaining and revealing.

Through the vehicle of humor the folly of all the characters Ricky, Fred, Ethel as well as the "Ladies of the Fine Arts League" was exposed and gently corrected. As a mother, I look back, with tears in my eyes as I recall Lucy's pleadings with a pediatric nurse. She had promised Little Ricky that she would not leave him after his tonsillectomy performed in the hospital. Her lament that she has never broken a promise to him is pure poetry.

Another favorite cameo involves Ricky, in a performance which was made without the supporting role of Lucy. Ricky arrives at the maternity waiting room fully attired in a Voodoo costume from the Tropicana Club. He is absolutely overwhelmed as he makes his way to the nursery window. He has to be physically supported by Fred and Ethel as he looks with love and amazement at his newborn son. This particularly works on a multiple level. All the characters are inter-dependent on a psychological level as well as physical. In Lucy's TV family settings, a simple perhaps simplistic "Love and friendship conquers all" formula prevails and triumphs. One is reminded of the eternal words of the old-time love ballad, "With all your faults I love you still."

From these portraits can I conclude that old, family sit-coms were truly realistic ... certainly not. Were they totally representative of real life problems relevant to a world of thirty years later? Not entirely. In essence, the shows outlined and referred to, had a common thread. Their most endearing and enduring quality is their tacit belief that people are basically good. One's home, however humble or wealthy could be a sanctuary; precious to the family. Not even Beverly Hills could corrupt the family loyalty of the Clampetts' of TV "Beverly Hillsbillies."

Philosophically, my argument is not that back "when," all was well with the world. On these television shows, as in real life, there existed problems, ambiguities and misunderstandings. Mistakes were made by the good intentioned as well as the ill intentioned. Children disobeyed parents and many times parents conflicted with each other as well as with their children. Yet, there existed in the physical setting of the home the intangible hope for family and ultimately the society at large.

I believe, it is the themes of hope, continuance of unity despite obstacles, which nurtured us as young viewers. Most often, the depicted life situations were seasoned artistically by a constructive integral humor. The nostalgia of this setting beckons today, as we "pioneer children viewers" now struggle and search for solutions to adult problems. The tragic end of many TV children actors makes it all the more clear that art can not provide all the answers. The recent apparent suicide of child actor Rusty Hamer, from "Make Room For Daddy" is a tragic reminder. Art is a vital life force to man. It can be reflective of the best and worst of our society. We must participate in a meaningful life drama for the sake of ourselves and the family and children of our lives. Hopefully, our living rooms, complete with various communication machines also convey an atmosphere of tolerance and love. These qualities are truly the most essential and sustaining channels of understanding.

We find ourselves thrust in the decade of the 1990's. The world itself, in the wake of the devastation of drugs and crime, has indeed grown tired and a little old. The medium of television reflects this development. Our children watch juvenile situation dramas which transcend the plight of Timmy Martin being lost and Theodore Cleaver contemplating how to tell his teacher that he did not do his homework. And well they should. The world does not stand still. Children of today must be prepared to face and deal effectively with the complexities of life, as it exists.

Yet, there are positive, extraordinary events and forces at work throughout the world. These events are now shaping our viewing experience as they are miraculously relayed to our very living rooms by television. The recent terrible tragedy of the crash of the Avianca 707 in Cove Neck, Long Island provided dramatic footage of heroic rescue efforts by members of our local and surrounding communities. Through the medium of television the eyes of the nation and world witnessed the loss of life and the goodness of man, in Long Island's desperate fight to save it.

There is room, indeed still time for hope in art and life. The substance of man instinctively yearns for peace and harmony - this is our God given saving grace. May this grace always guide us as we view ourselves and the world around us.

Q. We are not wine drinkers. If we're giving a party, what kind of wines should we stock in order to take care of our wine-drinking friends' pleasures from cocktail hour through dinner? T.R. A. For the cocktail hour, you might have on hand dry or sweet sherry, or dry or sweet vermouth, or any of the popular "aperitifs." Many choose a glass of dry white wine at the cocktail hour (either chilled or "on the rocks"). For the first course, or to drink with any fish, salad, chicken, veal or fruit, a chilled white wine is nice (such as a Chablis, Soave, Riesling, Chenin Blanc, Pinot Chardonnay). For the meat or game course (or the salad with cheese), serve a Burgundy, Bordeaux, Chianti, Cabernet Sauvignon or Zinfandel at a cool room temperature (from 60 to 70 degrees). Rose wines should be chilled, like white wines. A rose is best served with a light dish and is more popular in hot weather than in cold. For dessert you may serve the same wine you had from the previous course. Or, if it's something festive like an anniversary, dessert time is the moment to bring on the champagne (the drier the better). Some people enjoy a sweet wine with dessert, such as port of a sweet sauterne or sherry, but one seldom sees this custom followed anymore in this country.

Q. It seems every time I go to a certain restaurant with my wife, we're given very poor seats. Either we're put in a draft near the door or else we're seated next to the noisy kitchen. It is too bad because we like the restaurant otherwise. It has a nice cozy atmosphere and the food and service are good. What should we do?
 A. One simple solution to your problem would be to request a better situated table when you are making reservations. You might also speak to the owner or headwaiter. If he sees you are frequent customers he will wish to please you.

READER RATINGS

My wife and I again enjoyed two most delicious dinners last Saturday evening at restaurateurs and caterers Frank Massaro and Phil Mazzella's well known Mineola restaurant, "The Cornerstone."

I started off with a chicken gumbo soup consisting of clams, shrimp, carrots, green peppers, onions and okra which gave it a captivatingly Cajun, spicy flavor, while my wife was delighted with her fresh garden salad of iceberg lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers and carrots, topped with a terrific creamy Italian dressing.

Neither of us could resist ordering the same entrée - broiled large, fresh sea scallops casino of bacon, celery, green peppers and scallions, served on a bed of rice and accompanied with a most memorable medley of fresh zucchini, carrots and chiorcy. We both agreed that the $9.95 cost was particularly reasonable.

We complemented our delightful dinners with an $8.50 full liter carafe of a real winner, a white chablis from Almaden's California vineyard.

I grand finaled by dinner with a $3.50 Mississippi Mud Pie, an extremely rich cake with double chocolate on the outside and lighter color, creamy chocolate mousse on the inside. My wife also raved over her $1.95 New York creamy cheesecake.

We were waited on by not one, but two super lovely Cornerstone waitresses, Betty Ann Falcone of Williston Park, and Mary Ann Elka of Mineola, while veteran chef Steve Groenke of Mineola, took a few minutes off from his busy schedule to explain to us some of the finer gastronomical points of his most creative cuisine. He also stressed some of the "super summer specials" that the Cornerstone is premiering, starting this Friday evening. They include a choice of either lobster tail and steak or lobster tail and shrimp for $13.95. This every single evening special includes a choice of soup or salad, coffee and tortoni. Chef Groenke also revealed that The Cornerstone's Sunday through Thursday evening specials include a Thursday "Steakout Night," featuring an $18.95 complete steak dinner for two, including soup or salad, coffee and tortoni dessert.

Incidentally, The Cornerstone's most tastefully appointed interior decor was done by noted Interior Designer Diane P. Schaefer of New Hyde Park headquartered Long Island Floors, Inc. fame.

READER RATINGS

Q. When ladies already seated at a luncheon table are introduced to each other, do they shake hands, seated, when may they conveniently do so? - T.G. A. No, they bow. In this country, there is very little shaking hands between women, although the hostess always shakes hands with her guests, male and female, and anyone acting the role of hostess, say a teacher at the school, a woman representative of a firm being visited by outsiders - would rise and shake hands with the visitors, women as well as men.

Q. There was a receiving line, with the hostess first in the line, and our representative next to her. As the guests entered I noticed that there was some confusion as to who should be greeted first - the hostess or the representative next to her. What is the rule when the host holds such a prominent position? A. The rule is always the same. One greets first the person first in line, who is the hostess or the acting hostess, always shaking hands. Occasionally there is a line made up only of men, and in this case the first man encountered is the one one greets first. As a matter of fact, very often the most important guest, for whom the reception is given, is placed in the middle of the line.

Q. The other night I dropped my butter knife while dining at a neighborhood restaurant. Should I have picked it up myself or asked the waiter to do so?

A. If it was convenient, you could have retrieved the knife yourself and asked for a replacement. It would also not have been wrong for you to ask the waiter to pick it up. Either way is correct.

Q. Is it normal restaurant procedure for a waiter or waitress to say "will this be on the dinner or a la carte?" before taking one's order in a moderate restaurant? I had a very embarrassing experience recently because a waitress didn't ask this information. Over the years, I have always been asked this question and never been in trouble. All the better restaurants in the city seem to do this. Thank you.

J. A. You are right. The waitress should tell you of the possibilities on the menu and she should inform you of how she is carrying it on her ticket.

GOOD RESTAURANT

A surprisingly good local restaurant is the Surfside on Hillside Ave. in New Hyde Park. This good sea food restaurant has been discovered by many other people who assemble there on almost any night of the week.

We were there on Thursday and found that their shrimp scampi and red snapper were wonderful. The preparation of the food and the entire look of the restaurant is appetizing. It is of new construction and everything looks spic and span. The food was deliciously cooked and the fish was as fresh as if it were caught a few hours before. This is a very good restaurant. G.F.

GOOD AGAIN

I had forgotten about Westbury Manor until I went there. What I forgot is that it had closed and reopened under new owners. The restaurant seems to be headed again for the place it used to have when Carl Hoppl ran it many years ago.

The beauty and spaciousness of Westbury Manor will always make it a good place to visit.

The food once again is back to what it used to be. I had filet mignon and another member of our party had lobster tail. The food was worthy of the fine setting. We ate in the piano bar and it is a quiet, lovely place. It should be highly recommended. J.R.

Q. Last week, while eating in an elegant (and quite expensive) French restaurant, I saw a teenager sitting near me combing her long blonde hair at the table. Her parents seemed unconcerned!

A. The young woman's behavior was inexcusable. Arranging one's hair in a public place is always a breach of etiquette.

Her parents should have suggested that their daughter make a quick trip to the ladies room to fix her coiffure.

A new restaurant opened on Mineola Blvd. in Mineola called Kevin Grants. We dined there the first day it opened. The place is newly decorated and the hosts greeted us warmly.

We ordered the Sunday/Monday weekly dinner special which consisted of lobster tail and an 8 oz. shell steak. Dinner included soup, salad, vegetable and dessert. The place is most attractive, the service was excellent and the dinner was delicious, and we though modestly priced.

We are confident Kevin Grants will be a good addition to Mineola and we plan a return visit soon. E.H.

ROOM WITHOUT A VIEW — Designer Bill Kopp of McMillen Inc. lends romance to a room without a view by wrapping all the walls in Lee Jofa chintz.

How to upgrade below-grade rooms

Q. Our daughter is coming back to live with us after a very unhappy divorce. We want to give her as much privacy as possible — she had her own home for seven years and hopes to create a new life for herself now.

The only place we could make any separate apartment for her is in the basement, but it's dark and depressing, certainly not what she needs. Can you help? — S.P., Geneva, Ill.

A. Use fabric to upgrade your below-grade rooms and totally disguise the basement setting. The room we show here, designed by Bill Kopp of McMillen Inc., one of the oldest and most prestigious decorating firms in the United States, offers a splendid solution.

The walls are completely covered in chintz that has been gathered on ceiling-mounted curtain rods. Not only does the fabric camouflage the location; its fresh crisp floral pattern ("Anastasia" by Lee Jofa) is as light and bright as all outdoors, so who cares if there's not a real window in sight?

Don't miss Kopp's other eye-foolers:

- The painting hung on the fabric "wall."
- The large tree used indoors (plant lights keep it healthy).
- The portieres pulled back at the entrance of the "tent" to heighten the al fresco atmosphere.
- An area rug used over wall-to-wall carpeting to create additional pride of place and anchor the furniture arrangement.

Q. I have painted my living room walls deep, deep bottle green, which looks terrific with my white sectional sofa and white painted woodwork. The two small Oriental rugs work OK, too, but the floors are dark stained with a reddish cast.

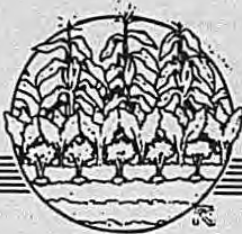

I love the bare wood, but I'm more and more convinced that only an off-white wall-to-wall carpet will complete the effect I'm after. What do you think? — B.V., Atlanta

A. I think you can enjoy your light effect and bare floors, too. Have the wood bleached white. The contrast with those dark green walls should make the room really sing out in a thoroughly modern way.

Notice, though, that I said have your floors bleached. It's not an idea I would recommend to many do-it-yourselfers.

The process is tedious and the bleaching compounds are caustic. You have to lay on successive applications of bleaching compound, then sand and add a neutralizer before you can finally put on the finishing coat and protect the wood with clear polyurethane. Better to call in a professional who has both the proper equipment and the experience to handle the job.

Encourage these garden allies

Not every bug is a bad bug.

There are, in fact, numerous creatures that are of decided benefit in the home garden. It is worthwhile to encourage them.

Birds, for example, eat great quantities of bugs. Setting up feeding stations and keeping them supplied with mixed bird seed or yellow millet will provide the dessert and an invitation to stay feeding in the garden.

Snakes, toads and lizards are helpful pest gobblers, too. Slugs are among our garden snakes' most highly favored fare. The shrew, though tiny, has a high metabolic rate fueled by the constant devouring of insects in great numbers.

We depend upon insects to pollinate about 85 percent of our fruits and some of our vegetables. Bees, several types of flies, butterflies and moths must be able to visit fruit and vegetable flowers safely to serve us in this important way. Avoiding the use of broad-spectrum pesticides will allow these helpful creatures to work in safety.

There are several important insects that feed not on our plants but on other insects that damage our plants. It's to our advantage to recognize and protect them. Very likely the most commonly found and easily recognized among these insect friends is the ladybug or ladybird beetle.

This spring I have noticed ladybugs scattered in profusion about the garden, a situation in which I delight, for these tiny bugs are one of the gardener's best allies. Most of us are familiar with the appearance of the ladybird's adult form. They are small, just a little over a quarter-inch long, broadly oval, usually red with black spots.

These adult beetles consume enormous numbers of aphids in our gardens and do not survive where aphids have been chemically wiped out. Ladybird larvae also have good appetites for these insect pests. The larvae are slightly longer and narrower than the adults and look rather like bristly, banded beetles with blue or orange spots on a grayish-black background. The eggs are usually orange and arranged standing on end in a cluster of a dozen or so. Before you squish your next bug or bunch of insect eggs, be sure they don't look like any of these.

Another beetle that is a decidedly worthwhile garden ally is the ground beetle, which, together with its larvae, feeds chiefly on insect pests. Often found in the soil and under stones or debris, ground beetles are large, black and shiny, rather ferocious looking and fast moving. The larvae are flat, banded and bristly with sharp-looking hairy appendages growing from the end of their bodies. Don't step on these friends.

Lacewings are another group of insects helpful to the home gardener. The adult is about one-third of an inch long with beautiful gauzy green or brown wings and long hairlike antennae. She lays oval eggs singly at the end of hairlike stalks. The larvae are called aphid lions for the job they do best. They are ugly, bristly creatures with wicked looking pincer jaws. About the same length as the adult, these offspring have mottled coloring and are tapered at each end.

A lacewing larva pupates in a globular white cocoon that is often found on the underside of a leaf. Be sure to leave these intact. When the adult is formed, it cuts a small lid from this cocoon and emerges through a hinged door.

Most syrphid flies and their larvae also feed on aphids. Often mistaken for a bee, the buzzing syrphid fly hovers over flowers and is a good pollinator. She lays her white, elongated eggs singly on aphid-infested plants. The resulting footless, sluglike larvae consume about an aphid a minute, grasping their prey in pointed jaws.

It's a good idea, before spraying for aphids, to look for some of these creatures and give them a chance to clean up. This also perpetuates their helpful presence in the garden.

Tachnid flies are common friendly parasites which lay eggs either directly on a target insect (often caterpillars) or on foliage where the insect will eat them and, in turn, be eaten from within by the larvae. These useful flies resemble overgrown houseflies, with bristly, mottled, grayish-brown bodies. They are often found resting on foliage or on flowers.

Simply salmon: steaks, salads, more

Salmon have a certain mystique for us because of their miraculous homing instinct — adult salmon annually swim hundreds of miles upstream to return to their birthplace and spawn a new generation of the pink-fleshed delicacy.

Salmon is available fresh, as a whole dressed fish, or cut into steaks or fillets. It also comes canned, but unlike tuna, canned salmon often contains small amounts of bone and skin. If you like, you can remove them although the soft bits of bone are perfectly edible and a good source of calcium. Try canned salmon in Dilled Salmon Loaf and Healthy Salmon Salad (recipes follow).

Fish are generally classified as lean or fatty, and salmon fall into the latter category. But don't be fooled by the word "fat" here — oilier fish, like salmon, are richer in omega-3, which has been found to help reduce blood cholesterol. So this is one "fatty" food that is good for your heart!

Most of our salmon comes from the icy waters of Alaska and the Pacific Northwest, although some salmon now are imported from Scotland and Ireland. Fresh salmon is more readily available during the summer months, so this is a good time to try salmon steaks — quick and easy to prepare in your microwave.

If you're looking for a romantic and impressive meal to serve someone special, try today's Salmon Steaks for Two. Steaks microwave in just three to five minutes and then are garnished with a creamy cucumber sauce and sprigs of fresh dill.

Salmon steaks are delicious for a summer barbecue, too. Baste with melted butter and lemon juice, and grill just a few minutes on each side.

However you prepare it, be careful not to overcook salmon. Like other fish, it is done as soon as flesh flakes easily with a fork. (Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.)

MICRO-TIP OF THE WEEK

To defrost frozen salmon steaks, arrange in a 9-inch glass pie dish with thickest portions toward outside. Microwave at DEFROST (30 percent power) setting two minutes. Turn over and microwave one to two minutes longer. Repeat, if necessary, when defrosting more than two or three steaks. Let stand 20 minutes before cooking.

SALMON STEAKS FOR TWO

- 2 salmon steaks (about 8 ounces each)
- 2 teaspoons butter or margarine
- ¼ teaspoon each salt and lemon pepper

- 2 tablespoons each mayonnaise and sour cream
- ¼ cup finely chopped cucumber
- 1 small green onion, chopped (green part only)
- 1 teaspoon lemon or lime juice
- Fresh dill sprigs

Yields 2 servings.

Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes.

Cooking time: 3 to 5 minutes.

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Arrange salmon steaks in 8-inch glass pie plate. Dot each with 1 teaspoon butter. Cover with vented plastic wrap and microwave 2 minutes. Turn salmon steaks over and microwave 1 to 3 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily. Sprinkle steaks lightly with salt and lemon pepper. Let stand, covered, while preparing sauce.

Combine all remaining ingredients except dill sprigs in small bowl. Blend well. Spoon mixture over salmon steaks and serve immediately, garnished with sprigs of fresh dill.

DILLED SALMON LOAF

- 2 cans (1 pound each) red salmon
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups soft bread cubes
- 1 cup milk
- ¼ cup melted butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon dried dill weed
- ¼ teaspoon each salt and pepper
- Dash paprika
- ¼ teaspoon dill seed

Yields 6 to 8 servings.

Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes.

Cooking time: 8 to 12 minutes (plus 10 minutes standing time).

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Drain salmon; pick through and discard bones and skin (optional). Turn into medium mixing bowl and flake well with a fork; set aside.

Crack eggs into large mixing bowl. Beat lightly with a fork then add bread cubes, milk, melted butter, onion, lemon juice, dill weed, salt and pepper. Add flaked salmon and mix well.

Pack mixture firmly into a 9-inch glass pie plate. Sprinkle with paprika and dill seed.

Cover loosely with waxed paper and microwave 8 to 12 minutes, rotating dish ¼ turn every 4 minutes. Let stand, covered, 10 minutes before serving, to firm.

Strawberry tarts

When the Queen of Hearts made those tarts, we just bet that they were strawberry!

Luscious, ripe strawberries are the perfect fruit for tarts since, without the covering of a top crust, these singularly magnificent berries can show themselves off to best advantage.

There is no other fruit so naturally beautiful in its whole, unblemished state. There is also no other fruit so ruined when cooked. The magnificent, rosy blush of a ripe strawberry turns pale and gray and the delicate, sweet flavor often fades into anonymity when the berry is cooked for more than a few minutes.

Instead, we feel sure that nature meant strawberries to be admired and enjoyed in their pristine condition, and a tart forms the perfect backdrop for these springtime beauties.

For the cook who wants to produce a culinary Renoir in short order, strawberry tarts are also the answer. Today's new refrigerated pie crust discs are a terrific and good-tasting time-saver. This, coupled with the fact that strawberries need little in the way of preparation except a brief rinsing and hulling, makes both of the following tarts exceptionally easy to make.

Strawberry Jewel Tart is a simple, old-fashioned idea made even better by combining the flavors of strawberry with banana, a marriage that seems to make both even better. The slight spiking of orange liqueur in the filling is a subtle, but delicious addition.

Strawberry Cheesecake Tart uses low-fat cream cheese and yogurt to make a lovely, light filling. Almonds and strawberries are a classic duo, so we have infused the tart with almonds by pressing them into the unbaked pastry to toast as the crust bakes as well as by adding a dash of Amaretto liqueur to the filling and glaze.

Though quite spectacular in appearance, both of these desserts are exceedingly easy to make.

TIPS

- Never soak strawberries to wash them. Instead, just before using, quickly rinse the whole berries under running water, pat dry on paper towels and then remove the hulls.

- Though giant berries may have great eye appeal, we have found that, overall, they are not as flavorful as smaller ones.

- Strawberries are available in the store year-round now, but there is nothing quite like a home-grown berry. If you don't grow them yourself, search out a local produce stand or ask your supermarket to find a local grower to supply strawberries in season.

Pastry:

- 1 (½ package) refrigerated pie crust disc
- 4 tablespoons chopped or sliced almonds

Filling:

- 8 ounces light cream cheese

or Neufchatel cheese

- 1 tablespoon unflavored yogurt

- ¼ cup powdered sugar

- 2 tablespoons Amaretto liqueur or ¼ teaspoon almond extract and additional 1 tablespoon yogurt

Topping:

- 2 pints strawberries, hulled and halved, if large

- ¼ cup strawberry jelly

- 1 tablespoon Amaretto liqueur or ¼ teaspoon almond extract, plus 2 teaspoons water

Yields 1 tart, serving 8.

Preparation time: 30 minutes.

Baking time: 10 minutes.

Preheat oven to 450 F. Prepare pastry according to package directions for single crust, prebaked shell, using 9-inch tart pan with removable bottom or 9-inch pie pan. Before baking, sprinkle almonds evenly over bottom of shell and press in with palm of hand. Bake according to package directions, about 10 minutes until golden. Let cool 15 minutes or up to 12 hours before filling.

To make filling, blend cream cheese, yogurt, powdered sugar and Amaretto in food processor until smooth. (Filling can be made a day ahead.) Dollop over baked tart shell and smooth gently with small spatula. (A few almonds may be dislodged, but that is fine.)

To make topping, arrange berries, hulled side down, over cream cheese in tart shell. In small saucepan or in microwave oven, melt jelly with Amaretto. Liberally brush berries with melted jelly, trying not to spill it onto cream cheese filling.

Refrigerate tart for 30 minutes or up to 4 hours before serving.

Red, white and blue salute to the burger

The Fourth of July is the summer's most laid-back holiday. Rarely is the fine linen and china brought out for a party. Instead, you're excused if you use paper serving dishes and plastic utensils.

Formality goes out the window when dinner guests are in bathing suits or shorts.

This year, give a red, white and blue salute to the perfect Independence Day party food, the hamburger.

It was 1889 when the word "hamburger" first showed up in print, according to lore, in a Walla Walla, Wash., newspaper. It has been an all-American institution ever since.

The meal that you can hold in your hand starts when a bun or roll slathered with ketchup, mustard, mayonnaise or all three is stuffed with a ground beef patty, sometimes with cheese and most often with lettuce, tomato and onion. On the side: potato salad, baked beans, pickles, potato chips or french fries.

Americans must love them because we eat an average of three burgers a week for each person in this country — which adds up to a hefty nationwide total of 38 billion hamburgers a year.

While Germans insist the hamburger is strictly American, the name did originate in Hamburg, Germany, where they ate a raw ground meat seasoned with salt, pepper and onion juice. In the mid-19th century, Hamburg was the major gateway for German immigrants bound for America. They brought along their native dishes, including the raw meat dish. It was the broiled variation of this that became known in the United States as "Hamburg steak."

From there, the history of the hamburger gets cloudy. Some say it was in 1904 that a Texas chef at the St. Louis Exposition slapped meat patties between buns and the modern hamburger was born.

Others say the hamburger originated earlier, in 1895, created by a lunchroom operator in New Haven, Conn. And then there are those burger fans who claim the hamburger was created in New York by a man who ran out of bulk pork sausage for his sandwiches and substituted ground beef.

Whatever the origin, it became a true All-American classic. Even the fitness and health trends haven't diminished interest in the popular burger, which does carry with it helpings of fat, cholesterol and calories. For the cause of nutrition, Americans may sacrifice the three-egg omelet, but ban the burger — never!

BURGER-MAKING TIPS:

- Use hands to gently shape ground beef into ½-inch thick patties.

- One pound of beef will yield four ½-inch-thick burgers.

- For the juiciest burgers, handle beef as little as possible.

- When making burgers for a crowd, shape patties ahead. Arrange in single layer on tray and freeze uncovered just until firm. Remove from tray and wrap tightly in moisture-proof wrap; label and return to freezer. Thaw burgers in the refrigerator before grilling.

- Cook burgers over medium coals, if barbecuing, turning once.

- Flattening burgers with a spatula can force out meat juices and make them dry.

- Wait to salt burgers until after they have been turned.

- To eliminate soggy hamburger buns, toast buns first before spreading with condiments.

Consider these special seasonings for a different burger flavor: basil, garlic powder, marjoram, ground red pepper, curry powder or a blend of chili powder and ground cumin.

For cheeseburgers, don't limit yourself to a slice of American. Be adventurous and consider these tasty combinations:

- With Cheddar — barbecue sauce and chopped onion.

- With Swiss — chopped red cabbage, hot sweet mustard and chopped chives.

- With Monterey Jack — canned mild green chilies and sauteed onion slices or guacamole and chopped tomatoes.

- With Provolone — roasted red bell pepper strips and oregano or sauteed green bell pepper and onion slices, green olive slices and oregano.

- With Blue Cheese — red onion slices and cracked black pepper or fresh apple rings and chopped toasted walnuts.

- With Mozzarella — sauteed onion and mushroom slices, tomato slices and chopped garlic.

- With Feta — fresh spinach leaves, tomato slices, red onion slices or marinated artichoke heart slices and pimiento slices.

Here are some other ideas for the versatile hamburger.

BACON CHEESEBURGERS FOR A CROWD

6 pounds lean ground beef, formed into 24 4-ounce patties

1 pound mushrooms (5½ cups), sliced

6 tablespoons butter

1½ cups green onions, sliced

12 English muffins, split and toasted

24 (1 ounce) slices Colby cheese

4½ cups Muenster cheese, shredded

24 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled

Yields 24 servings of burger-topped English muffins.

Saute sliced mushrooms in butter until tender; remove from heat and stir in green onion.

Broil or grill ground beef patties to order. Season to taste. Toast English muffin halves.

To assemble, top 1 muffin half with a slice of Colby cheese, burger, 1 rounded tablespoon of mushroom/onion mixture and about 2 tablespoons Muenster cheese. Melt cheese under broiler. Sprinkle with crumbled bacon.

Adding beer to ground beef creates a different flavor and texture. Here are two recipes that get their zest from beer and other bold seasonings, such as pretzels or onion soup mix.

ONION AND BEER BURGERS

3 pounds extra lean ground beef

2 packs dried Lipton onion soup mix

4 (1-ounce) shots of beer

½ cup ketchup

4 eggs

Seasoned salt and pepper to taste

Yields 8 patties.

Place all ingredients in large bowl and mix well together by hand. Make patties "the size of baseballs." Separate with pieces of foil and refrigerate overnight.

The secret is preparing the mixture and making the burgers the day before serving. Don't expect to cook them an hour later.

BEER BURGERS

2 pounds of ground beef

½ cup beer

½ cup crushed pretzels

2 tablespoons chopped onion

2 tablespoons pickle relish, drained

½ teaspoon salt, or to taste

Yields 6 patties.

Combine all ingredients and mix lightly until well distributed. Shape into 6 patties, ¼- to ½-inch thick and place on rack of broiler pan or on grill 3 to 4 inches from heat. Broil 5 to 6 minutes on first side; turn and broil 6 to 8 minutes or until done. Or grill to desired degree of doneness.

2-PEPPER BURGERS

½ cup short, thin green bell pepper strips

½ cup short thin red or yellow bell pepper strips

1 small garlic clove, minced

¼ teaspoon dried oregano leaves

1½ teaspoons olive oil

¼ teaspoon salt

1 pound lean ground beef formed into 4 patties

4 onion rolls, toasted

4 slices mozzarella or provolone cheese (1 ounce each)

Yields 4 sandwiches.

Cook peppers, garlic and oregano in hot oil in small non-stick frying pan over medium-high heat, stirring frequently, until crisp-tender, about 3 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in salt. In meantime, broil or grill burger patties to desired doneness. Place burgers on roll bottoms; top each with 1 cheese slice and equal amount of pepper mixture. Cover with roll tops.

SALSA-TOPPED BURGERS

1 medium tomato, seeded and coarsely chopped

1 tablespoon thinly sliced green onion

1½ teaspoons chopped cilantro or parsley

1½ teaspoons red wine vinegar

1 small garlic clove, minced

½ teaspoon each salt and coarse ground black pepper

½ to 1 jalapeno pepper, seeded and minced

1 pound lean ground beef formed into 4 patties

4 hamburger buns, toasted

1 cup thinly shredded lettuce

Yields 4 sandwiches.

For salsa topping, combine tomato, onion, cilantro, vinegar, garlic, salt, pepper and jalapeno pepper; cover and set aside. Broil or grill burger patties to desired doneness. Place burgers on bottom of bun; top each with an equal amount of salsa and lettuce. Cover with bun tops.

KITCHEN HINTS

You want to store special wines

Without investing big money.

Here's how to create inexpensive storage:

1. Any cardboard wine box is potential storage. Save a box or ask the dealer.
2. Turn the box on its side and add bottles. Pull side flaps down to keep out light.
3. Put in a cool closet or under the bed. This 12-bottle wine rack is free.

Summer soups

When appetites flag and temperatures hover in the 90s, there is nothing as appealing as a chilled summer soup. To guarantee the perking up of drowsy taste buds, aim for sharp flavors, crisp textures and brilliant colors.

Summer fruits and vegetables make all of these requirements quite simple to fulfill. In fact, the luscious tastes and colors of melons and tomatoes in peak season are enough to inspire even the most hot and tired cook to whip up a summer soup — especially if that soup requires no cooking.

And, with the exception of a rich corn chowder, there is probably no good reason to heat up the kitchen while preparing a summer soup. Since ingredients are so full of flavor at this time of year, it is quite possible to spin a variety of them together in the blender or food processor and come out with a delectable liquid repast.

Tomatoes make the most obvious base for a summer soup. Simply core them and puree them in the processor with a hefty bunch of fresh basil and a few tablespoons of fine, extra-virgin olive oil. For a soup of silken smooth texture, pass the mixture through a sieve. Add salt to taste and garnish with some finely chopped cucumber and a few garlic croutons. Be sure to serve well chilled.

Ripe melons are transformed into wonderful soups when thinned with a bit of light vegetable stock and blended with a splash of Madeira or port. For a creamier texture, stir in a bit of yogurt. Garnish with fresh mint leaves or a few thinly sliced strawberries.

A summer soup meal may be rounded out with a large tossed salad of summer greens and a loaf of crusty whole-grain bread served with peanut or almond butter — or a spread made by blending 1 cup of tahini with 1 to 2 tablespoons of the fermented soybean paste known as miso.

Here are some recipes to inspire the summer soup cook. They require little to no cooking.

The ripeness of honeydew can be determined by a fruity aroma and a light softening at the blossom end of the fruit.

ELLEN BROWN'S

HONEYDEW GAZPACHO

- ¼ cup mild white wine vinegar
- ¼ teaspoon freshly ground white pepper
- 3 tablespoons chopped fresh mint
- 2 cups thinly sliced celery
- 1 medium onion, peeled and diced
- 2 cucumbers, peeled, seeded and diced
- 1 cup plain low-fat yogurt
- 6 fresh mint sprigs for garnish

Yields 6 servings.

Combine all ingredients except garnish in blender or food processor fitted with steel blade. Puree until smooth.

Refrigerate until cold, at least 2 hours, and serve in chilled bowls, each serving garnished with sprig of mint.

STEVEN RAICHLEN'S CORN CHOWDER

- 5 to 6 ears fresh corn (enough for 2 cup kernels)
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 onion, finely diced
- 1 rib celery, finely diced
- 2 cups water or scalded milk
- 2 potatoes peeled and finely diced
- 3 allspice berries
- 3 whole cloves

Yields 4 to 6 servings.

Cut corn kernels off cobs with sharp knife and reserve. Melt butter in large pan and saute onion and celery over medium heat for 3 to 4 minutes or until soft. Add water or milk and potatoes, spices, brown sugar and seasonings. Gently simmer for 5 minutes or until potatoes are half cooked. Add corn and cream, and continue simmering for 5 minutes or until vegetables are cooked. Correct seasoning and sprinkle chowder with freshly grated nutmeg before serving.

DIANE WORTHINGTON'S HERBED CUCUMBER SOUP WITH WALNUTS

- 2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh dill
- ½ cup walnuts, coarsely chopped
- Salt and freshly ground white pepper, to taste
- 2 tablespoons walnuts, coarsely chopped for garnish

Yields 6 servings.

In food processor fitted with steel blade, puree half of cucumber for about 20 seconds. Combine yogurt and buttermilk in medium mixing bowl. Add pureed cucumber, parsley, garlic, chives, dill and walnuts. Mix until well combined.

In food processor, chop remaining cucumber into ¼-inch pieces using on-off pulse. Add to soup mixture. Add salt and pepper to taste. Refrigerate until chilled.

Picnic season is here again

Schools are just about ready to let out and the pools are prepared to open. The picnic tables are being dusted off and the charcoal is aglow. It's picnic time, and Memorial Day starts the whole ball rolling.

There isn't a kid around who would turn down a day at the park. The volleyball net is out, the baseball teams are set, the whole family is together and you haven't had to dress up as if it were some special holiday.

If your family picnics are anything like the ones I remember, there are grills stoked up and full of hamburgers and hot dogs. Mom has made her famous coleslaw and potato salad. The snacks needed to hold all of us little kids never varied — chips, pretzels and soda pop — enough just to hold us over.

Those yearly menus never seemed to change very much. Occasionally, an adventuresome grandmother would put together a little something special, and these were always the first goodies to go! Now, with these easy-to-make recipes, you can bring your kids into the kitchen before picnic day and let them get a bit creative and make a new addition to your family's picnic.

The first recipe is for chicken wings, everyone's favorite. These wings will take up just a small corner of the grill and will cook very quickly. The kids can help prepare these the morning of the picnic. Then once the fire is stoked up, just grill them for 4 minutes on each side and serve right off the grill.

The second recipe for vegetable spears with dip is for your younger kids to make. These spears are prepared a day in advance and then wrapped in a damp paper towel. The dip is best when made ahead.

Have your children give these a try. Not only will your picnic get a delicious start, but you just might pry your kids away from the chips and into a delicious dip, and this time with a flower of broccoli.

GRILLED CHICKEN WINGS

- 3 lemons
- 6 cloves garlic
- ¾ cup oil
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cracked black pepper
- 2 teaspoons Tabasco sauce
- 36 chicken wings
- ¼ cup prepared blue cheese dressing (optional)

Utensils: Cutting board, knife, lemon juicer, mixing bowl, measuring cups and spoons, mixing spoon, grill, tongs, serving plate.

Preparation time: 30 minutes.

Marinating time: 4 hours.

Grilling time: 8 to 10 minutes.

Place lemons on cutting board and with knife, carefully cut lemons in half. Squeeze lemons with juicer and pour juice into bowl.

Add lemon rinds.

Place garlic on cutting board and with side of knife, press garlic cloves flat against board. Scoop garlic up and add to bowl.

Add oil, salt, pepper and Tabasco sauce. Give mixture a stir and then add wings. Cover bowl with plastic wrap and set in refrigerator.

At the picnic, have a grown-up prepare the coals. When coals are hot and glowing, put chicken wings on grill. Let them cook 4 minutes, then with tongs, carefully turn wings over and cook another 4 minutes.

Once cooked, move wings to serving plate, and if your family likes to dip their wings, serve along with a bowl of prepared blue cheese dip.

SPEARED VEGETABLES WITH DIPPING SAUCE

- 2 spears broccoli
- 1 cup cauliflower flowerettes
- 12 mushrooms
- 12 cherry tomatoes
- 1 medium-size zucchini
- 1 medium-size green bell pepper
- 1 medium-size red bell pepper
- Dip:
  - 1 box frozen spinach, thawed
  - 2 scallions, sliced
  - ¼ teaspoon curry powder
  - ¼ cup sour cream
  - 1 (8-ounce) package cream cheese
  - 2 tablespoons apple cider vinegar

Remove all flowery broccoli heads from stalks by breaking off with your hands or by carefully cutting them off with knife. Save stems for snacking.

Pull stems off mushrooms and pull off any green leaves from cherry tomatoes. Set all vegetables in separate piles on table.

Place green pepper on cutting board and carefully cut in half with knife. Scoop out seeds and pull out core. Place pepper back on cutting board and cut into large squares. Put pepper in pile on table. Follow same process when cutting red pepper.

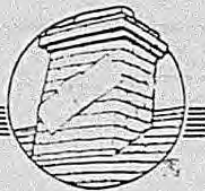

Carefully push vegetables onto skewers in your own favorite order. Do this slowly and carefully. If you have a stubborn vegetable, ask an adult to give it a push.

To prepare dip: Place strainer in sink. Add spinach to strainer. With your hands, squeeze spinach as much as you can, removing all liquid. Do this in small bunches that will fit into your hand.

Place scallions on cutting board. Cut off stem ends and cut into thin slices. Set aside.

Place spinach into food processor as you go along. Once all the spinach is ready, add scallions, curry powder, sour cream, cream cheese and vinegar to processor. Secure lid tightly and have an adult check it. Turn processor on and let all ingredients blend together. You may have to stop it once and open lid, and with rubber scraper, scrape down sides of bowl. Then replace lid securely and blend again until completely mixed.

Primer and paint best for graffiti problems

Q: We have a block wall surrounding our beach-area home. Pranksters have marked the wall with graffiti.

I am not sure about all of the substances used to mark the wall, but some of it was done with spray paint. We have been unable to remove these unsightly marks.

Do you have any suggestions on how to clean these walls? — M.F.

A: You will probably have to end up painting the wall, and it will be important to use a good primer so the graffiti will not bleed through.

A product often used by contractors is KILZ, manufactured by Masterchem Industries (P.O. Box 368, Antonia, MO 63012). This quick-dry primer-sealer has exceptional hiding power for covering stains — even smoke stains, which are difficult to keep from bleeding through.

Cover the primer with a final coat of paint. Check with your paint dealer for products recommended for use on masonry surfaces.

Q: We installed dark brown tile on the floor of a covered patio and used a similar deep shade of grout. The grout has not held its color. It has turned a blotchy gray and we are not happy with the overall look.

Is there anything we can do to restore the darker shade? — O.W.

A: The source of your problem might be efflorescence, which is caused by moisture seeping up through the floor surface and depositing salts on the surface of the mortar.

This can be corrected by scrubbing the mortar with a solution of muriatic acid (mix 1 part acid with 9 parts water) using a stiff-bristle brush (not wire).

Wear protective clothing, eye goggles and rubber gloves. Pour the acid into the water, not the other way. Be careful to avoid splashing. Rinse the surface with plenty of clear water after the acid application.

If this restores the color, treat the mortar with a sealer recommended by your tile dealer.

You also need to attempt to correct the source of the moisture. Check drainage around the patio. The ground should slope away from the area. Watering plants can also be a source of your problem if they are close by.

It also could be that the mortar is fading and efflorescence is not the problem. There are stains available that can darken the grout. Your tile dealer will have information on these products.

Another solution would be to remove the top layer of grout and replace it with a dark grout that your tile dealer recommends will hold its color. There are special grout-removing tools available at tile dealers. You will need to remove a good quarter- to half-inch of the existing grout before re-grouting.

Q: The home we purchased has glazed ceramic tile on the walls and floor of a large shower in the master bedroom. The floor surface is dangerously slippery when wet.

Is there anything we can do to this tile surface to make it less slippery and safer? — M.L.

A: Your easiest solution might be to apply peel-and-stick appliques to the surface. The vinyl appliques, available at department and discount stores, have a non-skid finish that give your feet some grip. However, you may not find these very attractive.

A better, more permanent solution is to have the tile treated with a chemical solution that etches the tile and makes it slip resistant. The etching is microscopic and does not mar the look of your tile surface.

One such product is "Safe-Stride," 7231 Carved Stone, Columbia, MD 21045, (301) 381-5911. Another product is "Slip-Guard," P.O. Box 836, Lake City, FL 32056-0836, (904) 752-8814.

Because they are hazardous, both these treatments must be applied by a professional. The manufacturers will recommend qualified tile contractors in your area.

FOR TEENS

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

People may run scared from perfection

Dr. Abraham: This may sound strange to you, but I know I'm pretty — very pretty. All I have to do is look into the mirror and see my features, skin, hair and a smile that are just about perfect.

I realize that no one is supposed to think or say anything like that about herself, but since it is really true, why should I refuse to recognize the beauty that I have?

I've never shared this awareness I have of myself with anyone, not with my parents, my sister (she's younger than I am and not as pretty), or any friends of mine.

And I do have many friends, but they don't last long in our friendships. They all disappear after awhile, the boys even faster than the girls. That's my worry, and that's why I'm writing to you. — Pretty Girl

Pretty Girl: I accept all you are saying about yourself. However, if your friends sense that you feel this way about your appearance, that may be the reason they "disappear." People sometimes run scared from perfection in others, whether it is real or just imagined.

You might consider discussing your feelings about yourself and your problem with a qualified professional who knows you in a personal way. Your school counselor may fit into that role. He or she might be able to help you understand the involvement you have with your appearance and why your friendships are so fragile.

Dr. Abraham: A friend of mine thinks that I spend too much time with my grandparents. I don't think so, and my parents don't either.

They live near us, and I do see them at least once a week, either at their house or mine. We generally have a very good time together. They aren't at all "old" in their ideas, and we seem to agree on a lot of things, like movies, some books and politics.

My friend thinks that they have spoiled me with gifts and the amount of time they are with me. I'll admit they have given me a lot of stuff, but I don't expect gifts from them, and I really appreciate every one I receive.

This friend has grandparents who live far from here, and she sees them only about once a year. Do you think that may be why she feels as she does about me and mine? — Audrey,

Audrey: You may have hit on what lies behind her comments. It is easy to understand why she may be envious of this close relationship you have (which, incidentally, sounds so loving and enjoyable).

Perhaps telling her less about the time you spend with your grandparents could be a good idea. It might help you accept her comments more easily if you place them in the framework of her situation.

Dr. Abraham: I really have a very bad, loud temper, and I know I have to do something about it. I've already lost some friends because of it, and there may be others who might take off if I don't calm down.

My mother is hot-tempered, too, so I come by it naturally. But she has learned to control herself most of the time.

Is there any hope for a wild one like me? What can I do to control myself? — Debbie Debbie: You have made a lot of progress already by recognizing the problem and seeking a solution to it.

If any of your friends are willing to discuss it with you, try to listen to their criticism, calmly and quietly. After all, they are on your side.

Be willing to say, "I'm sorry," and "I'll try harder to control myself," but only if you really mean it.

If you have a school counselor who knows you and is a person with whom you are comfortable sharing this problem, make an appointment to see him or her. If your school is already out for the summer, remember to visit with this professional when school starts again in the fall.

When teens see in themselves some traits of their parents, they may sometimes tend to give up, assuming it's useless to try changing. The fact that your mother has learned to control herself is a hopeful sign for you.

The offspring in such situations may be even more persistent and insightful toward changing than others who don't have a parent who is a good role model. Their efforts may not always be totally successful, but well worth trying anyway.

ANTIQU OR JUNQUE

Your antique desk is great example of its kind

Q: My grandfather was born in 1859 and purchased this desk when he was a fairly young man. The wood is walnut and the rolltop is burl walnut veneer.

I would appreciate any information you can provide.

A: Your Victorian cylinder-top desk was made in the 1880s and is an excellent example of its kind.

It probably would sell for at least $1,200 to $1,400.

Q: I have a set of 10 Christmas plates (1968 through 1977) bearing the enclosed mark. Can you tell me if these have any value as collectibles?

A: These Christmas plates were made in Norway by the Porsgrund porcelain factory. They are listed by the Bradford Exchange for prices ranging from $10 to $115 each. The set of 10 probably would sell for $265 to $285.

Q: We have a 14-inch-diameter plate made by the Buffalo Pottery. It has a picture of men on horseback and running hounds. It is inscribed "The Fallowfield Hunt - The Start."

Can you tell me when this was made and what it would sell for now?

A: The Buffalo Pottery was founded in 1902 to supply premiums for the Larkin Soap Co. In 1908, Deldare Ware was introduced and the Fallowfield Hunt series was part of that production.

Your large plate is correctly called a chop plate; it probably would sell for $500 to $600.

Q: The mark on the bottom of my pitcher consists of an artist's palette with the monogram "CAC." It holds about 2 quarts and is decorated with purple, red and yellow-colored fruit.

I would appreciate anything you can tell me about this pitcher.

A: This probably would be classified as a cider or lemonade pitcher.

It was made by the Ceramic Art Co. in Trenton, N.J., about 1900-1905, and probably would sell for $125 to $135.

Rocky Mountain spotted fever occurs in dogs

Q: We recently vacationed in a very forested area in the Southeastern United States and now are concerned that our dogs may have been exposed to ticks carrying Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

A: It is possible for dogs to get this disease? If so, what are the signs and how is the disease treated?

Rocky Mountain spotted fever does occur in dogs. Canine susceptibility to the causative organism was first demonstrated in 1933. Untreated cases can result in severe vascular damage and death of the dog.

Despite its name and its original description as a disease of humans in the Western United States, most cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever in dogs have been reported from the Southeastern United States, New York, Massachusetts and Ohio.

Dogs become infected with Rocky Mountain spotted fever by being bitten by a tick carrying the infective organism. The organism then attacks the circulatory system of the dog. This results in swelling, hemorrhage, lowered blood pressure, shock and death.

Many infected dogs have fevers, depression, vomiting, diarrhea, coughing and nervous system signs. The duration of signs usually does not last for over two weeks.

Most cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever are seen during the spring and summer. Veterinarians diagnose Rocky Mountain spotted fever by evaluating the history of the dog's being possibly exposed to the disease, observing the signs presented by the dog and running diagnostic tests on blood samples obtained from the dog.

Treatment of dogs with Rocky Mountain spotted fever usually involves administration of appropriate antibiotics over an extended period.

In areas where the disease is present, dog owners should try to minimize exposure of their dogs to ticks and should routinely remove ticks from their dogs. Owners should be careful in removing ticks from their dogs so that they will not expose themselves to Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Rocky Mountain spotted fever is a serious disease of dogs.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

Now that summer is here, it's time to make some plans for the Fourth of July. Although Independence Day falls on a Wednesday this year, most adults have the day off from work. Ask your parents if they want to make plans for the day.

I heard of a fun family type celebration that will be held in Eisenhower Park on July Fourth, from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. A strolling oompah band will entertain at several picnic fields. A puppet show, "One Two, Monster Zoo" will be presented at 11 a.m., at Parking Field #3 at 11 a.m. and 1:15 p.m. In addition, there will be softball games, a cricket match and lawn bowling throughout the day.

It sounds like a fun day for the whole family.

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winner is Kevin McKeon.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

By William M. Acosta

Update earnings report immediately

Q: My earnings for this year probably will be greater than I originally estimated on my annual report. Besides working more hours, I just got a raise.

A: Should I report now or wait until the end of the year? — D.S.

A change in your earnings estimate should be reported immediately. Each check received, based on an incorrect estimate of earnings, increase the amount of overpayment — benefits for which a person is not eligible and which will have to be repaid to Social Security.

You can update your earnings report by phone or by mail.

Q: If a woman had been married for 10 years to her ex-husband and has now reached age 62, does her ex-spouse have to be retired and also collecting benefits in order for her to receive benefits? — T.L.

A: A divorced spouse who has been divorced at least two years can receive benefits at age 62 whether or not her former spouse receives them.

The former spouse must be eligible for Social Security benefits, regardless of whether he has retired. To be eligible he must have worked long enough under Social Security and be at least age 62.

Q: I have just received my Medicare card. The claim number shown on the card is the same as my Social Security numbers except it has a letter following. Is this correct? — V.K.

A: Yes. Your Medicare claim number has nine digits and a letter. On some cards, there may also be another number after the letter.

When a husband and wife both have Medicare, each will receive a separate card and claim number. Each spouse must use the exact name and claim number shown on his or her card.

Your full claim number must always be included on all Medicare claims and correspondence.

Q: Do lottery winnings affect a person's Supplemental Security Income checks and should they be reported?

A: The purpose of SSI is to provide for the basic needs — food, shelter, and clothing — of those individuals who are over 65, blind or disabled and who have little income and resources.

Lottery winnings count as income in the month of receipt. Income retained into the month following, counts as a resource. The resource limits in 1990 are $2,000 for an individual and $3,000 for a couple.
