Library Exhibit On Flag History

It is 14 years since Hicksville's grand American Revolution Bicentennial programs. The Hicksville Public Library will recall that stirring year for the foreseeable future with a colorful wall exhibit in the Elyr Bean Memorial Wing of the Library.

The Library's "Local Community Collection" historian, Richard Evers, has arranged for the display of twelve 5x7 foot Colonial and Revolutionary War flags, the gift of an anonymous donor.

Mr. Sol Bleck, proprietor of the American Drive-in cleaners in the Woodbury Shopping Center, generously assisted the Library by steam pressing the flags.

The public is invited to see these identified flag replicas which colorfully illustrate some of the flag history of the USA.

Open House At Nursery School

The Hicksville Nursery School is holding an Open House for Fall registration on Tuesday, August 21, from 10:30 a.m. - 12 noon for parents of 2, 2½, 3 and 4 year-olds in the school classrooms at W. Cherry Street and Nelson Avenue.

The Hicksville Nursery School is a non-profit, non-sectarian cooperative located in the back of the United Methodist Church. Founded in 1967, it has offered twenty-one years of quality education to hundreds of preschool children as well as serving as field training center for students from S.U.N.Y. Farmingdale, Nassau Community College and Adelphi University.

The school seeks to offer the young child an environment in which he can grow emotionally, socially, intellectually and physically under the careful supervision of a fully trained staff. The program provides varied activities with an abundance of materials and opportunities for free creative expression under the guidance of skilled, N.Y. State Early childhood certified teachers. Art, media, woodworking, music and rhythmic movement, language arts, storytelling, dramatics, puzzles, doll corner, books and manipulative toys are all part of the daily program. A huge indoor playground permits daily large muscle activity even in the worst weather. A mid-session snack of milk or juice and crackers or fruits and vegetables is provided. Field trips are included to broaden the child's understanding of the world he lives in.

All parents who wish to, can share in the administration of the school. Monthly business meetings give parents the opportunity to make decisions on administrative needs. There are lectures, films, and "rap groups" to help parents learn more about parenting. Fundraising projects are most often social events helping young families meet other adults who are at the same stage in life.

We invite all parents of pre-school children to join us for a chance to play and learn together in our spacious well-equipped rooms. For further information, call 931-3415 or 681-8246.

Concerns Voiced Over Special Ed. Transport.

By Michele Coyle

Complaints about the quality of transportation services being provided to students enrolled in special education programs this summer were heard by the Bethpage Board of Education during its monthly meeting.

One woman voiced dissatisfaction with the response of the district's transportation director in trying to reduce the one hour trip from Bethpage to Hicksville for her daughter. She said that two buses are provided for the afternoon release of children lessening the ride to a half hour. The woman stated that she is driving her daughter to school in the mornings even though the district is paying for the transportation, which she claimed was fully reimbursable by the state.

Donald Ranieri, Asst. Superintendent for Business, responded that transportation for special ed students was 90 percent reimbursable, in most cases and that he was not made aware of the case prior to the meeting.

Another parent representing parents of children in the GAP program (handicapped students summer program) said she received several complaints about bus company drivers who are supposed to drive children home in the afternoon. She, too, said that parents were picking their children up from school.

Board members asked Mr. Ranieri to follow up both cases.

In matters requiring action, three change orders relating to asbestos abatement at the John F. Kennedy Middle School and Central Boulevard Elementary School were approved. Energy Savers Insulation Corp. of Wading River were awarded the change orders which totalled approximately $32,000 and include work in the auditorium, boiler room and gymnasium.

The Board also awarded the high school tennis court renovations to John Gozo, Jr. Contractors at a cost of $77,342. It had been estimated to come in at $150,000. Estimates for the elevator for students with handicaps was closer. Array Enterprises won the bid for $154,900; $5,000 less than anticipated.

Awards were also given for bids on musical instruments, audio-visual equipment, special transportation, bread, ice cream, frozen food, cafeteria paper goods and cleaning products.

Norstar Bank was awarded the district's Tax Anticipation Notes for an average of 6.13 percent on $5.5 million, as well as $3 million in Bond Anticipation Notes at an average of 6.16 percent.

Approval of a recently enacted law increasing the maximum income permitted for a 50 percent senior citizens' real property tax exemption from $12,025 to $15,000 was given by the Board. The income schedule increases by $600 while the percentage decreases by five percent before bottoming out at a 20 percent exemption for an income of at least $18,000 but less than $18,600.

Superintendent John Sommi noted that this law should make more people eligible for a reduction in school tax assessment under the theory that seniors do not use school facilities as much as others. Last year, 151 Bethpage residents filed for the exemption, Dr. Sommi said.

In matters of personnel, a variety of actions were taken including: the appointment of three probationary teachers, two part time teachers, a regular substitute teacher, three Title I teachers and a list of substitutes.

A myriad of appointments were made for extra curricular positions at both the middle and high schools.

Six teacher aide positions were created: four were for special education classes at the middle and high schools, while the remainder were for the "Writing to Read" program at the Kramer Lane and Charles Campaigne Schools. Appointments were tabled for discussion in executive session.

Board President Kathleen Picinic announced that the Board may hold a special meeting in mid August to fill positions which are presently vacant.

The next regular Board of Education meeting will be held at 8 p.m., on August 28, in the Board Room.

Wagon Master "Bill" flips the French Toast.

Right Around Home

By Maureen Traxler

Many of us plan vacations which focus on a certain section of the country, be it Amish, New England, French Quarter or sunny California. Or maybe our fancy brings us off the mainland to England, Bermuda, Australia or the Far East. Maybe we search for knowledge of our country's past by visiting Andrew Jackson's Hermitage, Thomas Jefferson's Monticello or Philadelphia, our nation's birthplace.

Vacations are both exciting and hectic to plan; hopefully they are equally as thrilling to experience and bring us wonderful memories to cherish and scads of pictures to delight us for years to come.

I have recently come back from a vacation I'll not soon forget. I admit I was skeptical about the whole idea, but my experience went far beyond my shallow expectations. I'd like to relate my tale of -- East Meets West.

Many of us Easterners travel west, but how many of us are daring enough to book themselves on the four-day, three-night Bar-T-Five wagon train. On the morning we were scheduled to embark on our venture, we were faced with the situation feared by anyone who has ever gone on a family camping trip, served in the armed forces or been on a scout outing, it RAINED. And to the unskilled outdoorsman that means wet ground, wet equipment and wet you! (And of course, we New Yorkers never bring rain gear!). But by a great wave of the loving hand of the Almighty, the rain stopped by noon.

First order of business: We were introduced to our crew - Wagon Master "Bill," gruff, dry sense of humor and definitely in charge; second most important man, Mark, chief cook; Jeff, keeper of the horses; Cindy, kitchen mate; Wes and Scott, trail masters and wagon drivers; Too Slim, in charge of tents, sleeping bags and latrine; and Jason and Young Scott, the Wagon Master's sons. All real Marlboro Men, save Cindy, the fair maiden.

Now, we were ready to make the trip. Whether you chose to jostle in the legendary covered wagons, ride high atop a majestic Morgan horse of "hoof it" road side just to view the Lord's handiwork, you had to be impressed with the exquisite sights as we made our way through Targhee National Forest, deep in the heart of the Grand Teton Mountains of Wyoming and Idaho.

These lofty, snow-covered mountains, discovered by French explorers, were rivaled in beauty only by the multitude of wildflowers - purple and green, pink and white, red and yellow, with hues ranging to either end of the color spectrum. One of the youngsters remarked, "Look at all the greens" - the grasses, shrubs and noble spires of the lodgepole pines.

On the first night we all introduced ourselves and what a mixed group we were - from Ohio, California, Maryland, Virginia, Long Island, even Sweden. And with varied backgrounds - teachers, government workers (including a submarine technician), hospital administrator, cardboard box maker and paper distributor. Of the 35 "gringos" on this trip, nine were children, age 5 through 13.

The cowboys lead a tough pace over the next few days. We pitched our tents when we reached each camp; the men chopped wood and kids stacked it; ladies often helped prepare the meals (including beef, buffalo steak, fried chicken, tacos, sloppy Joe and "beans," it wouldn't be a cowboy meal without them!). Every morning we dismantled the camp and stored our sleeping bags in the back of the chuckwagon for the day's ride. We participated in chores, brushing and watering the horses and raking around the corral.

But hey, this is supposed to be a vacation! And it was, including canoeing, swimming, nature walks and, most loved by all, the horseback riding.

Along with the eight work horses, there were 11 riding horses. We were encouraged to ride and there were plenty of opportunities. In addition to the daily mileage to a new site, the men led two trail rides each day. The kids were always anxious to ride, and the cowboys were very fair to insure that everyone met their riding fill. No one went away disappointed. There were many candidates for the "Purple B--Award." (Cowboy's favorite joke!)

The Wagon Master would tell us we were experiencing what the early settlers did nearly 100 years ago as they made their way west. But, it all seemed like a lark until -- Indians!

On the second night of our trip we camped at the end of a long, rutty trail at a place called Loon Lake. After dinner, Wes and young Scott took 11 guests out on the evening ride to the corner of Yellowstone Park. After they were gone about an hour, young Scott came galloping back to camp, shouting that they were surrounded by two men, shooting guns and spooking the horses.

The Wagon Master yelled to Jeff to strap on his guns and go after them. He hollered for all of us to get behind the chuckwagon. The cowboys started shooting at the elusive raiders, and the children and most adults trembled. Then one of the mounted outlaws raced through our camp and vaulted over the campfire.

As the dust settled, we found out that this was part of the plan. This was part of life on a wagon train.

Over the next twenty-four hours, we were transformed. We were no longer New Yorkers and Virginians, Californians and Midwesterners. We were a close-knit group on this sojourn together, giving each other advice, encouragement, a helping hand; sharing secrets, jokes and songs; developing trust, respect and friendship.

It was truly a different type of vacation - wheeling through the west on a wild and woolly wagon train. It was a satisfying vacation in an odd sort of way, and it certainly raised our consciousness about the life of the pioneers.

Background: The Williamsport Tournament is an official Little League tournament, where the best of all the Little League Teams play against each other to find the best in the USA and many times the best in the world. Tuesday, July 24

Co-Managers Mr. Santo Grance and Mr. Greg Simonelli were filled with pride as they led their team to an 11-6 win over Baldwin. Outstanding hitters were Kari Schwartz with 3 hits and 3 RBI's, Lynne Fuentes and Hilary Cunningham with 2 hits each, and Lynn Puggiero belted 2 hits, including a double. Stephane Granoce pitched four, giving up just 2 hits and striking out 3. Shannon Faulkner came in for relief in the fifth inning. She also gave up only two hits and had three strike-outs, including a "strike-three" pitch to end the game.

Thursday, July 26

The Mid Island Tournament
Boy's 8 Year Old All-Stars
July 28

With a little bit of luck and good hitting, and fine base running, Hicksville beat Levittown West. The bats were alive when it came to the Hicksville bench. Kyle Rybak, Vinny LaGrega and Howard Sham worked together to get three runs in the first inning. Shawn Lyons got the leadoff hit in the 2nd and scored. Bobby Lowig played a great defensive game at first base. Sean Schneider had a good day at 2nd. By the time all the hits, runs, errors and scratches were tallied, the score was 12 to 4 Hicksville.

New Noise Control Ord.

A comprehensive Noise Control Ordinance has been adopted by the Oyster Bay Town Board, according to Town Councilman John Venditto.

"This ordinance was drafted to address the many concerns about noise pollution that have been raised by the Town Board and by residents," Venditto stated. "The ordinance defines acceptable decibel levels for a variety of noise disturbances and establishes a series of penalties for violations of the ordinance."

Among the noise disturbances addressed in the ordinance are radios, televisions, phonographs and stereo equipment, amplifiers, musical instruments, loudspeakers, public address systems, animal sounds, loading and Control Ordinance," Venditto stated. "It is very detailed as to what constitutes noise pollution and creates a hazard to health and welfare. It is also very specific as to what the responsibilities of the various Town agencies are with regard to controlling noise pollution in the Town. With the help of inspectors from the Departments of Public Works and Planning and Development as well as local police, who will all be empowered as enforcement agents, this ordinance should be effective in ameliorating many of the noise problems residents come up against."

Venditto noted that the ordinance was the subject of a public hearing held on June 19.

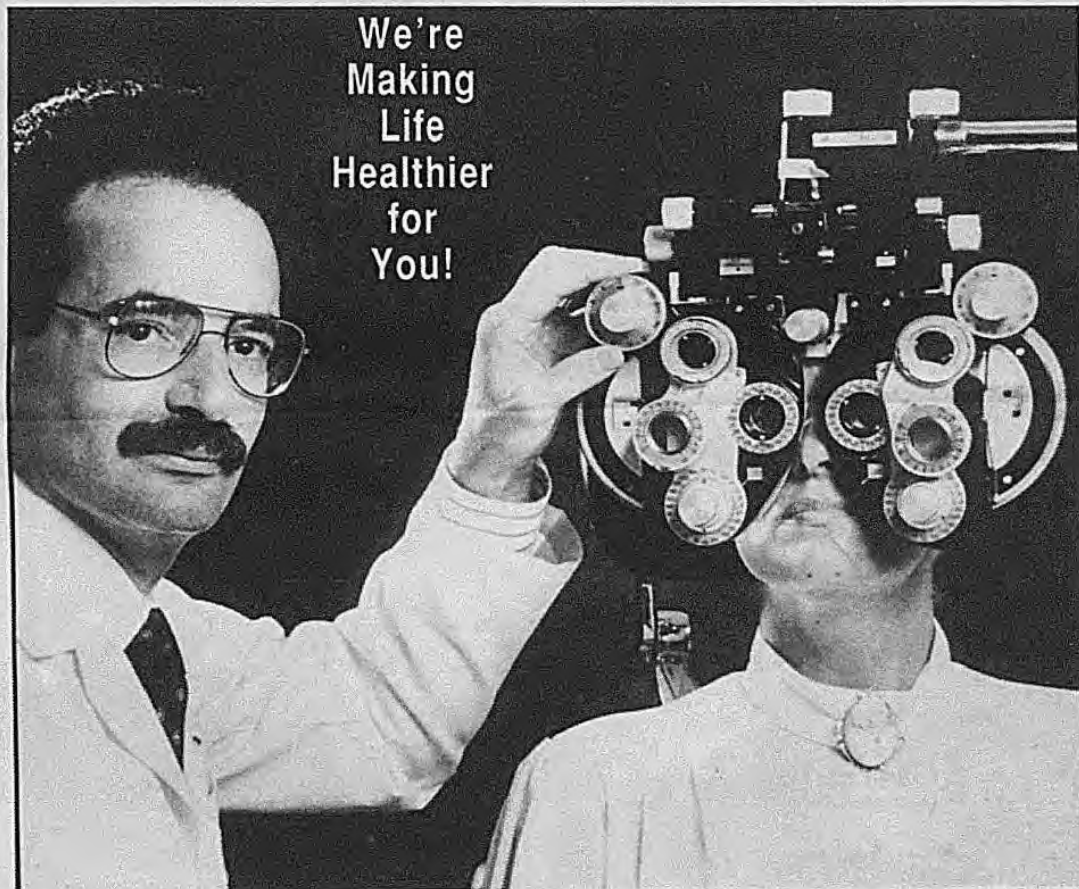

unloading of boxes, building materials and the like, construction equipment, vehicle and motorboat operations and repairs, explosives, firearms, and bells, sirens, horns and other signalling devices. The ordinance spells out their permitted uses with regard to time of day, decibel levels and the range distance that the sound may carry. The ordinance also enumerates the penalties for violations of the ordinance, which range from a fine of $350 and imprisonment for up to six months for a first violation up to a $1,000 fine and imprisonment for up to six months for repeat violations.

"Much time and research went into the drafting of the Noise

Cornea Transplants

The thought of becoming blind is certainly frightening... but now there are ways to restore sight for many people.

Damage to the cornea - the transparent tissue in front of the eye - can be due to infection, disease, trauma, or chemical exposure.

Without rapid diagnosis and treatment, blindness can occur.

Thanks to advances in surgery and technology at North Shore University Hospital at Glen Cove lost sight can be restored through corneal transplantation

Eye tissue gathered through the efforts of the Lions Eye Bank for Long Island are now being used successfully to restore vision.

SPIRIT OF LAW VIOLATED?

Does the ongoing bailout of the Savings and Loan institutions violate the spirit of the original law creating the FDIC and the FSLIC? It certainly seems so.

This law, created after the great depression, during the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt was specifically aimed at protecting the life savings of working people.

But now, apparently, one group of big money managers is being fleeced by another group of big money managers and the hard working middle class taxpayers are being forced to pay back every cent of the money that the first set of money managers lost in the fleeing.

It is estimated that this bailout of the S&Ls will cost between $300 billion & $500 billion. It is also estimated that this bailout will cost every man, woman and child between $3,000 to $5,000 in the next few years.

Some people say the first mistake in this bailout began a little more than two years ago when an Illinois S&L closed and the FDIC immediately moved in, not to save the $100,000 savings accounts of working people, but to save big time money managers as well, paying off the investors 100 percent of their investment. This mistake has been compounded ever since and now the middle class taxpayer is being stuck with the bill. He/she is paying this huge bailout bill with absolutely no return in services.

With the takeover of failed S&Ls, the government, the people, now own huge properties, big ticket items that they cannot afford. So now these properties are being sold at bargain basement prices to yet another group of money managers.

Maybe it is time to bring a halt to the looting.

Dutch Lane's 1990 Graduation

It was a great end of the year class picnic for all of Dutch Lane "Class of 1990" graduates. Teachers Harry Smith, John Malorino and Denise Yannone certainly enjoyed having this special time to relax after a hard years work getting their students prepared for their move-up to the Middle School. After their class picnics the 6th graders grouped together to collect their yearbooks, class pins and autograph books.

Bethpage Attorney Completes 50 Yrs.

Leon Carlen, prominent attorney from Bethpage was presented with a certificate commemoration of 50 years of practice by the Bar Association of Nassau County. Mr. Carlen was presented with the award at the Ninety First Annual Dinner of the Association.

Leon C. Carlen received his legal education from Brooklyn Law School. Admitted to practice in 1940, after serving in Air Force Intelligence in the Far East, Mr. Carlen began his legal career as a Special Agent for the United States Dept. of Agriculture. Thereafter he was engaged in private practice that dealt primarily in the insurance and negligence area. Mr. Carlen achieved recognition for his successful appeal to the Court of Appeals in a case that eliminated the doctrine of imputed negligence in New York State.

In addition to his service to the Nassau Bar Association, Mr. Carlen served his profession and the public as President of the Board of Trustees of Bethpage Public Library; Vice President of Nassau Library System; President of Bethpage Jewish Center; Arbitrator for American Arbitration Association and candidate for election to District Court of Nassau County.

Prominent Bethpage Attorney Leon C. Carlen is awarded certificate commemorating 50 years of practice by Nassau County Bar Association President Frank Yanelli.

Interfaith Walk For Life Brings Out Many

By Richard Evers

Following a 9 a.m. Mass for Life celebrated by Catholic Bishop James Daly at Hicksville's St. Ignatius Loyola Church, hundreds of pro-life group members and supporters made an "Interfaith Walk for Life" to the Hicksville abortion clinic, "Women's Choice", on West John Street, Saturday morning. It was the strongest Hicksville protest against abortion in many years.

The Mass and Interfaith Walk, sponsored by the Hicksville Prolife Committee and the Long Island Coalition for Life, was advertised in its flyers as "a prayerful presence", and the demonstration was an orderly, sensitive protest, although challenged moderately by a chanting group of about 75 Pro-Choice advocates. The participants' respective numbers are the estimate of a Nassau Police Inspector who commanded the sizable traffic, foot and mounted patrolmen present.

Bishop Daly led the "Interfaith Walk" from St. Ignatius Catholic Church, the procession of all ages stretching along Broadway sidewalks for over a quarter of a mile. Among the marchers were people from various Long Island communities, representing Protestant and Orthodox Christian congregations as well as Nassau Catholic churches. Rabbis from Orthodox temples were unable to attend because of their Sabbath services, but they supported the anti-abortion effort. Prominently printed on the flyers inviting the public to participate in the "Interfaith Walk" was the quotation from Elie Wiesel:

"Take sides. Neutrality helps the oppressor, never the victim. Silence encourages the tormentor, never the tormented."

Nassau County District Attorney Dennis Dillon and the county's Comptroller Peter King participated in the Mass in an overflowing St. Ignatius Loyola Church, where Pastor Edward Tarrant made welcome the large number of guest clergy, dignitaries and assembled public. It was a stirring moment in the history of the village's oldest Roman Catholic Church.

In the crowd standing across from the abortion clinic (where no abortions were scheduled on this day) were many religious, lay and political foes of the Pro-Choice position. Father James Lisante, diocesan leader in the anti-abortion struggle, was prominent at the Mass and during the John Street rally, acting as Master of Ceremonies at the latter place. In addition to Dennis Dillon, Peter King and Bishop Daly who briefly addressed the assembly, Town Councilman Thomas Clark briefly spoke, describing with humor and conviction the province of God's care which assists parents with numerous children (Tom is the father of 10 children). Republican Herbert London, the Conservative Party's candidate for Governor spoke, "calling on all Republicans to join him in rejecting the radical pro-abortion position of Pierre Rinfret, the G.O.P.'s officially-nominated gubernatorial candidate."

Pastor Joe Kelly of Sag Harbor's Protestant Resurrection Church spoke movingly of love and creation and was warmly applauded. Reverend Edward Pehanik from St. Gregory's Greek Orthodox Church in Wantagh spoke, as did Janice Weber, a mother, at one time, the "youngest school principal in the U.S.A."

The Interfaith Walk's marshals assisted the Nassau Police confrontation between the two abortion-struggle groups, encouraging the demonstrators to form behind barricades facing each other, with a line of five mounted officers between, the entire assemblage, out on the traffic median on West John St.

Among the prominent Pro-Life Movement leaders sponsoring the Interfaith Walks for Life (the next is scheduled for Deer Park, on August 25) were: Rosalie Joannou of Bethpage; Margaret Hoar of Glen Cove; Mary Murray, Hicksville; Georgia Maimone, Huntington; Virginia Gsell, Levittown; Theresa Paine, Wantagh; Catherine Malone, Westbury. Coordinators for the Interfaith Walks are Richard Manougian, Chris Moore and Ray Murphy.

Father Edward Pehanik of St. Gregory's Greek Orthodox Church, Wantagh (right) and a police-estimated 800 Pro-Life Interfaith demonstration making an orderly protest against presence of Abortion Clinic in Hicksville.

Father Edward Tarrant, pastor, St. Ignatius Loyola Catholic Church and some of his congregation in the crowd for the "prayerful presence" at the Hicksville abortion center. Father Ed's church, filled to overflowing, hosted a Mass for Life celebrated by Bishop James Daly, before the "Walk for Life", Saturday morning.

Catholic Bishop James Daly, Vicar General, Rockville Centre Diocese, and Father James Lisante leading six-block long Broadway "Interfaith Walk for Life" to the Hicksville abortion clinic, West John St., Saturday morning.

Francis Larkin playing a "lament" on his bag-pipe to greet the arriving "Interfaith Walk for Life" procession, a sad tribute to aborted millions.

The greatest of all protesters at the Hicksville abortion clinic, W. John St., Dennis Manougian (left) with his sign of an aborted human fetus. The North Bellmore resident and his son, for many years, have made Saturday morning vigils at the clinic their personal gift of love to the anti-abortion crusade.

Janice Weber, President of "Women for Women" organization, a mother, one-time "youngest school principal in America", was a speaker at the Pro-Life rally.

Nassau County District Attorney Dennis Dillon being interviewed by a Channel 7 reporter. Also supporting and taking part in the anti-abortion rally were: County Comptroller Peter King (left); Father Jim Lisante, facing camera, and far background, Dennis Manougian.

Well-remembered St. Ignatius curate, now a pastor of a Suffolk County Church, the Rev. Hugh Cannon at the "Walk for Life". Foreground children were some of many kids present or taking part with signs.

Hicksville INN Summer Barbecue

The volunteers and Board members of the Hicksville INN (Interfaith Nutritional Network) had a barbecue at the home of the Rev. Theodore and Nancy Grant. On Saturday, July 21, the gracious host and hostess had ready a tent which protected all from the rain, but allowed the guests to enjoy the lovely garden and outdoors.

Everyone enjoyed the home-made salads, fresh corn, watermelon and desserts, as well as the barbecued hot dogs, hamburgers, Italian sausage and Bratwurst.

The volunteers attending represented many houses of worship, such as the Jericho Jewish Center, St. Ignatius R.C. Church, Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, Redeemer Lutheran Church, Trinity Lutheran Church (all of Hicksville), St. Bridgid's R.C. Church and United Methodist Church of Westbury.

Mike Moran, Executive Director of the entire Interfaith Nutritional Network and author of the book, "Give Them Shelter," attended and led grace. Kenny Walker and Diane Otten and husband Don also represented the INN's offices in Hempstead. Diane Otten is Soup Kitchen Director and is a resident of Hicksville. Others in attendance were Beth and Kevin Costello, Lois and Bob Angstadt, Morty Fischman, Harriet Schwartz, Catherine Small, Alice Spinella, Anne Jenal, Inge and Dave Moyers, Louise and Herb Seifert, Kay Sewalk, Bob and Naomi McGuinness, Dot and Dick Briody, June and Andy Garger, Liz and Warren Shields, Clare and Charlie Walter, Irmgard and John Tuechler, Mike and Rosemarie Smith. Dr. Mike Smith is also a volunteer Social Worker at the INN. All agreed that it was a "fun day"!

The Hicksville INN feed the hungry and homeless of the Mid-Island area. The INN is located at Redeemer Lutheran Church on New South Road and serves dinner daily and also on the first and third Sundays of each month.

Cluster Sub Div. Allowed By Ord.

In an effort to further the preservation and protection of Oyster Bay's natural resources, Town Supervisor Angelo A. Delligatti has announced that the Town Board has amended the Building Zone Ordinance to include residential cluster subdivisions.

"The clustering concept has proven to be an effective planning tool to ensure that greater amounts of open space, and the ground and surface waters and wildlife habitat they contain, are preserved when subdivisions occur," said the Supervisor.

As explained by Supervisor Delligatti, residential clustering when deemed desirable by the Nassau County Planning Commission and the Town Board for a particular subdivision proposal, requires that a certain portion of the subdivision's total acreage be preserved in a natural state.

This will be achieved by building residential units closer together - or clustering them - on smaller building lots within a subdivision. The total number of building lots, however, would not exceed the number of lots permitted if the land had been subdivided in conformance with the minimum lot size and density requirements for the residential district in which it is located.

"In order to be considered for possible cluster development," said the Supervisor, "a residential subdivision application will have to encompass five acres or more."

All cluster subdivision plans will be subject to Town Board public hearing and approval as well as approval by the Nassau County Planning Commission.

Time To Beautify

By Gert Paul

Members of the Midland Civic Association gave up a lovely Saturday morning in June to plant geraniums, marigolds, and ageratum in the two triangles on both Willet Avenue and Nevada Street off Bethpage Road. It was difficult to dig into the hard earth, lined with heavy plastic, but everyone pitched in with energy and enthusiasm. Present were Richard Pfaender, Eileen Richards, Gail Gamula, Tom Pfeiffer, Gloria Mann, John Kuch, Tony DiFilippo, Joe DiTrona, some of the above-named family members, and myself. The flowers had been purchased with Civic Association money by Ellie Draycott and myself several days previously. After adding soil, fertilizing and watering, we stood back to admire the symphony of red, yellow and blue which was brightening our little corner of the world and were photographed by Eileen Richards.

At President Harry Single's suggestion, a more ambitious and formal planting is in the works for next year. We hope other Civic Associations in Hicksville will join to beautify some of their areas. Flowers and plants have been showing up more frequently at various business establishments in town. We hope this is a future trend. Let's make Hicksville Beautiful!

Two New Members For Kiwanis Club

The membership roster of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club was increased by two at the club's July 25 luncheon meeting with the induction of Ms. Rose Lee and Mr. Joseph Kunz, Jr., as Kiwanians.

Ms. Lee, sponsored by Sieg Widder, is the Personnel Manager of Kraft General Foods at 50 Ludy Street in Hicksville, is a member of the Association of Personnel Professionals and is anxious to become involved in Community Service.

Mr. Kunz, sponsored by Bob McGuinness, is the Owner/President of Assured Cleaning Services in Hicksville, wants to be of assistance in solving community concerns and bringing more business into the Hicksville area.

Kiwanis President Dr. Joe Lupo asked Past President Sieg Widder to officiate at the induction ceremony which consisted of congratulating the applicants on their choice of service clubs to join and asked them again to listen to a reading of the Objects of Kiwanis. Upon their agreeing to abide by these objects, Mr. Widder declared them to be full-fledged Kiwanians. The new Kiwanians were welcomed and "K" pinned by their sponsors. Mr. Kunz's sponsor Bob McGuinness was unable to be present, but President Joe adequately served as a proxy sponsor.

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

The state is considering a 10 cent or more increase per gallon on gasoline. Do you think that it should be mandatory that a certain percent of the tax be kept separately for roads?

Input Callers Against Abortion As Test

Most Input callers do not think that Judge David Souter should have to answer about his stand on abortion although there were many opinions offered on this question "Do you think Supreme Court nominee David Souter should reveal how he stands on the abortion issue before being approved?" Here are some of the answers:
NOT BE A TEST

The question of abortion or any specific question on how Judge Souter stands should not be a test for his confirmation to the Supreme Court. His qualifications are all that should be reviewed by the Senate. If a person has to give a complete catalog of how he feels on specific issues and if those answers have to agree with the Senators then we don't need a court at all. We could just put all cases in a computer and get the answer. To answer a stand on anything would prejudice a case before it comes before the court. Somehow our politicians are trying to make the Supreme Court into a political popularity contest. K.D.

REASONING PROCESS

I would like to know what Judge Souter's reasoning might be on abortion to get an image of how his reasoning process works. If he cannot show that he is willing to listen and understand the facts in a case then he will be a poor justice. Therefore it is relevant for him to tell how he arrives at particular points of view and it is up to the Senate to draw him out. H.D.

OVERSTEP BOUNDS

The Senate is once again ready to overstep its bounds. It is not supposed to be the selector of justices. It simply is empowered by the Constitution to check the credentials of a candidate. This could not possibly mean forcing a stand on any particular question. K.T.

SENATE IS WRONG

I do not think the Supreme Court nominee should make known his stand on abortion because if he has already been appointed to the Federal Appeals Court he already has the qualifications necessary to be a judge on the Supreme Court. The Senate is to advise and consent. It is not to dictate and interpret the Constitution. That is up to the judge and if Senators who are pro death or pro abortion wish to not have an interpretation of the Constitution honestly done, then his prior revelation of his abortion stand would prevent them from picking a very qualified individual. No I don't believe he should do that and I believe the Senate is wrong in its current statements concerning who they will choose because they are already interpreting the Constitution which is not their job. B.L.

PREJUDICE POSITION

It would be inappropriate to ask Judge Souter about his feelings on abortion. Answers would have to be a general statement on the subject. But a general statement could not cover every aspect of the problem. Cases before the court involve specific questions and these answers will not always fill a philosophical mold. All questions should be decided on their own merits. Answers to questions on abortion would prejudice a judge's position when he sat on a case. It would imply he had already decided the case. Supreme courts should decide cases with an open mind. Not on preconceived views. What is relevant about Judge Souter is qualifications, experience and character. Does he have a judicial temperament? Does his philosophy concur with the Constitutional principles of the U.S.? A.B.

SOMEONE ELSE

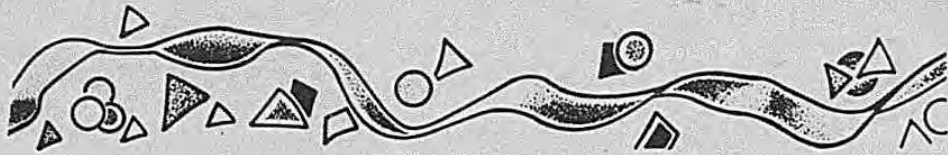

No. David Souter should not reveal how he stands on the abortion issue. But he should have declined the nomination to the Supreme Court because there are so many other men and women more eminently qualified for this lifetime position. It is indeed unfortunate that President Bush has forgotten our American history and heritage. If the founding fathers of this nation had not dared to be controversial then our country would have been aborted before its glorious birth. W.F.J.

ABORTION RELEVANT

Ever since the Supreme Court legalized abortion, the Reagan administration and now, the Bush administration have been trying to change the character of the court by choosing justices who are inclined to overturn that decision. Considering that polls indicate an overwhelming majority of people across the country favor pro-choice, it becomes quite important and appropriate that nominee Dave Souter, a protege of anti-abortionist John Sununu, be very carefully questioned by the Senate about his views on this issue, and then vote accordingly. C.K.

NO PREJUDGEMENT

I see no reason for having David Souter reveal how he stands on the abortion issue before being approved. Actually, I don't believe that any prospective member of the Supreme Court should be obliged to prejudge an issue on any subject prior to his or her approved appointment. Were such action to be mandated, our highly respected judicial system would turn into a farce subject to the whims and fancies of every special interest group with the political and numerical strength to influence a particular cause. In this case, from what I have read about the proposed appointee, his legal and court experience is above reproach with no preconceived notion on any specific issue of national interest which may come before the Court and the fact that the President appears to have popular support for the nomination of such a non-political candidate confirms that. Actually, the abortion issue has many facets throughout the nation and even if Souter had any strong feelings one way or another, it would still cause quite a countrywide hullabaloo. P.G.S.

Discovery!

Our Last Family Trip

By William Wrigg

All during our children's elementary and secondary school years, it was our custom to take family field trips to nearby, and not so nearby, historical sites in hopes of enriching their classroom studies in American History. It was during Easter recess, just before the Bicentennial, that we took what was to be our last family field trip. At the time, both daughters were finishing up their senior year in high school and readying themselves for college. And although no one expressed it, we knew that this would probably be the last trip together as a family. It was decided that it would be most timely and appropriate to re-visit the greater Boston area, and especially to follow along the Freedom Trail.

On our first evening in Boston, there arose in the eastern sky the most breathtaking, full Easter moon imaginable. This inspired our daughters to come up with a proposed "switch" on our next day's plans to visit the battlefield sites at Lexington and Concord. Since Paul Revere made his famous ride in the dead of night, why not, they suggested, take advantage of the full moon, and try to follow his trail as closely as possible, starting out within the shadow of the Old North Church's steeple and ending at Concord Bridge.

Eerie is the best way to describe our eventual late night arrival at Lexington Green. There, by moonlight, we read the historical marker describing how Revere and his side-kick, Billy Dawes, aroused the local minute men who were later to make their stand on the common, and among whom was John Harrington, the first to fall dead that morning. Contrary to popular belief, Revere and Dawes never got much beyond the outskirts of Lexington, notwithstanding Longfellow's famous, but inaccurate lines: "It was two by the clock/ When he came to the bridge at Concord town."

Just outside Lexington, Revere and Dawes came upon a lone rider who had been courting one of the local beauties. It was Sam Prescott, a dashing young doctor of twenty-four years who at 1 a.m. - this tells us something about the courting hours of our ancestors - had left the home of the fair Miss Millikan and was on his way back to Concord. Immediately, Dr. Sam was recognized and greeted by the other two riders as a loyal member of the Concord Chapter of the Sons of Liberty, and one who was totally in sympathy with the patriot cause. When he learned that a large British detachment was on its way from Boston, Prescott volunteered to accompany Revere and Dawes on the remainder of their mission. The three traveled together only a short distance before running straight into a British patrol.

As we read all this on the historical marker by the old Hartwell farm, located about midway between Lexington and Concord, the full moon had reached its zenith in the April sky. Along with the stillness of the night, it became most conducive for our imaginations to take full rein and visualize how the British patrol, hiding in the woods just beyond the Hartwell place, pounced on the three riders - Revere being knocked off his horse and seized by the huge hands of a Grenadier; Dawes too was captured. Only young Prescott managed to escape; using his whip as a cudgel, he broke loose and took his horse over a stone wall to freedom. He alone would finish the mission and spread the alarm to the remaining Middlesex Village (Concord) and farm.

Our destination had been Concord Bridge, and we finally reached there about midnight. Still ahead, was the ride back to our motel in Boston. Our daughters' weariness took the form of sudden and strongly expressed indignation over the fate of poor Sam Prescott. Whatever happened to this third man with Paul Revere who has been all but forgotten by history? And, how could such a thing have occurred? My wife and I, faced with a spontaneous cause celebre, attempted to assuage the deeply felt sense of injustice with plausible explanations.

One was that, long before the famous ride, Paul Revere's name was a household word because of his superb silverware craftsmanship. Then, too, there was Longfellow's classic, narrative poem which is stirring poetry, but poor history. (Longfellow never mentioned Billy Dawes, let alone Prescott.) And, lastly, there was the fact that Prescott was destined to die young, and not live on into the victorious post-war years like Revere and Dawes.

When full scale fighting broke out following Lexington and Concord, Dr. Sam Prescott volunteered to serve aboard a privateer ship which the British captured during the Battle of Ticonderoga. With other POWs, he was transported to the notorious British prison in Halifax, Nova Scotia where, at the young age of twenty-six, he was to die of pneumonia. Never was he to marry his lady fair from Lexington; nor ever was he to receive the full credit due him as the third, and only, man who completed that historic ride begun on the "eighteenth of April in Seventy-five."

On this last family field trip, our daughters confronted an aspect of life much more difficult to comprehend than the historical events which the Bicentennial would be commemorating. They had come fact to face with a truism, so well expressed by President Kennedy in a press conference shortly before his assassination, that life (and history) are not always fair.

FINE SETTING
The Maine Maid is the place to go for a restaurant in a fine traditional setting. The Maine Maid is an old Quaker House. In fact, the owner told us that it is a landmark. But the decor is restful and elegant and the service is good. The food consists of well prepared meats and fish. Some of them are prepared right at your table. Tell your readers to try it and they will be glad for the suggestion. Toby C.

Q. When dining out with a group of ten or twelve people is it necessary to wait until everyone at the table is served before starting to eat?
A. No, at a large table such as you describe it is usual to begin eating when three or four people have been served. It would be thoughtful for the host or hostess, if there is any, to urge guests to begin eating so their food will not get cold.

ATTRACTIVE RESTAURANT
A great restaurant is Surfside on Hillside Avenue in New Hyde Park. You will enjoy the restful decor and attractive surroundings. Whether you order steak or seafood, you will find it well prepared and attractively served. I find it refreshing to dine leisurely, in a quiet setting. There is also ample parking and it is so convenient. How nice to have such a good restaurant practically in our backyard! I think you will concur that this is a place you will want to share with your friends. E.E.

"OLD RELIABLE"
We call Mahoney's in Williston Park our "old reliable" because it never fails to provide us with a good meal. Last Sunday we went there in the evening. The place was filled but we still got a good seat. Mahoney's has a salad bar equipped with shrimp, soup and mussels along with the usual items that are found at salad bars. Some members of our party had veal and some had scrod but everyone said that they enjoyed the good food at this newly refurbished old landmark on Hillside Avenue. And, if you want something a little bit better, try their Irish coffee. G.K.

GOOD NIGHT

Last Wednesday we decided to follow one of the suggestions in your Reader Ratings. We were mainly satisfied with what we got although the service was a little slow. We went to the Platt-deutsche Park Restaurant in Franklin Square. The place was no stranger to us because we have been there many times before at catered affairs. But this time we went to the smaller restaurant and had sauerbraten. Considering that the check was reduced because we had four in the party eating sauerbraten and they gave us all of the salad we could ever eat it was a very good night both in food and cost. J.H.

FINE FOOD

This week we went to the Arbor Inn a week after our anniversary which we wanted to celebrate last week. They gave us great service and great food on Thursday. The decor of the Arbor Inn, the piano at the bar and the fine food is worth going to at any time. In addition to the food the people are very friendly at the Arbor Inn. We recommend it and especially if you are going to celebrate something. J and L.S.

Q. I have been invited to a formal restaurant dinner later in the year. However, I am also on a strict diet for medical reasons. Do you think I should mention that to my hostess?

A. By all means, tell her. If she selects the menu for her guests she will take your special diet into account. However, my own opinion is that where restaurant dinners are arranged it is better to allow guests to make their own food selections.

Q. What is the proper way of addressing a waiter in a restaurant?

A. My own preference is "Sir", rather than "Waiter" because it shows more courtesy and people do like to be treated with respect. For a waitress I prefer "Miss" to "Waitress" for the same reason.

Q. If an uncut loaf of bread is served to a couple in a restaurant, who should cut and serve it?

A. It would be gracious for the man to cut several slices from the bread for his woman companion and himself. Then he would offer the bread to her before taking his own portion.

Q. When vegetable are served in individual dishes should they be eaten directly from there side dishes or first transferred to the dinner plate?

A. Either way is correct, but my own preference is to transfer the vegetables with a serving spoon onto the main dish. The waiter can then be asked to remove the serving dishes, thus ridding the table of a great deal of clutter.

Q. When arriving early for a private party in a restaurant, who should do the seating when there is no waiter or captain on hand?

A. The man is expected to seat his woman companion. If he is accompanied by two or more women, he would seat his wife last.

Q. I seem to remember that years ago salads always came to the table with the entree. But now they are served in advance of the main course. Why did this change occur?

A. Salads are now customarily served before the entree in order to provide the hungry diner with something to eat while his main course is being prepared. With today's emphasis on nutrition, salads are treated with much more respect than they once were. They are regarded not just as accompaniments to meals, but as important courses in their own right.

READER RATINGS

A. If I am dining out with a large group and do not feel like a cocktail, am I really obliged to order one so as not to put a damper on the party?

A. Absolutely not - and this applies to all size groups. No one should ever order an alcoholic drink to please others. If you wish, you may order a soft drink or mineral water, but this is purely optional.

Q. I seem to remember that years ago salads always came to the table with the entree. But now they are served in advance of the main course. Why did this change occur?

A. Salads are now customarily served before the entree in order to provide the hungry diner with something to eat while his main course is being prepared.

With today's emphasis on nutrition, salads are treated with much more respect than they once were. They are regarded not just as accompaniments to meals, but as important courses in their own right.

Q. If three or four couples dine out and wish to make reservations, in whose name should the reservations be made?

A. It really does not matter. However, it is best to make reservations in one name only in order to avoid confusion. The same person should be responsible for notifying the restaurant if plans should change and the dinner is delayed or cancelled.

Q. If an uncut loaf of bread is served to a couple in a restaurant, who should cut and serve it?

A. It would be gracious for the man to cut several slices from the bread for his woman companion and himself. Then he would offer the bread to her before taking his own portion.

Q. Is it proper to tip soup or dessert dishes? And when is soup eaten with a spoon? I sometimes see people drinking bouillon, etc. directly from a cup. Is this correct?

A. The tipping of a soup or dessert dish is acceptable if the plate is tipped away from the spoon, not toward the eater. Soup or bouillon served in a handled cup or (Oriental fashion) small, cup sized bowl may be drunk. If there are vegetables or other garnish floating on top, these may be lifted off with the spoon before the soup is drunk. Noodles or other things which may be in the bottom of the cup are spooned up after the liquid has been drunk.

Q. I thought it was standard fare to get at least two vegetables with an entree but last week at the (name omitted) restaurant we were charged extra for vegetables. Is this right?

A. A number of restaurants have changed to charging extra for vegetables, particularly fresh ones, but the safest way is to look at the menu and ask the waiter. Sometimes there are extra vegetables and they are the ones that are given an added charge. But there are some restaurants that charge for every item individually.

Q. Are restaurants allowed to serve you something else if you ask for "Coke" or "Coca Cola" and they do not serve it?

A. The answer is technically they are not. But many will say they only carry "Pepsi" or another beverage. But you should be able to know in advance and refuse something you did not order. At least the "Coca Cola" company probably would want it that way, and "Pepsi" will also if it is the other way around.

Turn nondescript hall into at-home gallery

WORKS OF ART — Paintings, sculpture, rugs and craft objects turn a dull hallway into an exciting walk-through gallery.

Q: Our apartment has a long hallway that runs the width of both the living room and dining room, starting at the front door.

I have put a console table and a few pictures in the hall, but it seems a shame to waste all that space. What else would you suggest? — M.J., New York.

A: Keep going in the direction you have set. Add more works of art — including sculpture and other objects — and turn that underachieving space into an at-home gallery that is inviting to guests and interesting to you and your family as you go about your daily rounds.

The photo we show here has a number of good ideas to offer:

- Darken the walls, the better to show off the artwork. Art galleries have made a cliché of dead-white walls, but this is your home.

- Install lighting — track spots are perfect — to highlight the paintings and add an interesting (and space-stretching) dimension to the hall.

- Add small pieces of sculpture to your "gallery" on pedestals of varying heights (they will take very little floor space).

- Bring the floor into the act: Display dramatic rugs underfoot — an exciting Kilim, a painted floor cloth runner or prized Oriental.

Don't think of hallways as merely a means of getting from room to room. Your imagination can make getting there half the fun.

Q: My kitchen countertops are old plastic laminate with a lot of burn marks and scratches.

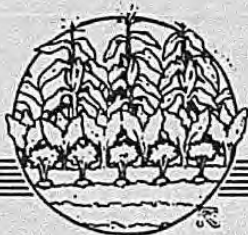

I can't afford to replace them, but I recently had a new ceramic tile floor installed in the kitchen. Is there any way I can use the leftover tiles on the countertops? — D.H.

A: Yes, you can have a matching tile countertop quite easily. Just sand the plastic lightly to roughen the surface before applying ceramic tile adhesive — buy one that is recommended for countertop use and follow the manufacturer's directions to lay the tiles (buy a few more if necessary).

An easy way to finish the edges is with ¼-inch-thick strips of a good hardwood, such as oak or birch. Glue or nail the strips to the counter edges, flush or slightly above the new tile surface.

Grout the tile with any color grout you like (grout comes already colored or you can add powdered colors to standard white grout). Then stain and varnish the wood edge to suit your taste.

Backyard Gardener

A summer project for kids

Today I have some timely reminders about August chores and a children's project to share with my gardening friends.

A CHILD'S GARDEN

Did you know that you can grow plants from seeds taken out of grapefruit, lemons and limes? They all make very attractive little bushes with thick, shiny, citrus-scented leaves.

I once had a collection of three grapefruit and three mandarin orange plants grown from fat seeds I found inside the fruits.

To grow a lemon, lime or grapefruit plant, select the plumpest seeds you can find inside the fruit. Wash the seeds well to remove some of their slippery coating, and soak the seeds overnight.

Fill a pot 4 or 5 inches wide with a sterilized planting mix and plant four or five seeds about ½-inch deep and an inch apart. Set the pot in a warm place and keep the soil moist but not soggy wet. In about three weeks, you should see some shoots.

When the shoots have grown about 4 inches long, pull out all but one or two of the strongest looking ones so that the ones you choose to leave will have lots of room to grow. Keep the soil moist but not overwet, and fertilize the plants about once a month with a mild houseplant food.

If you plant pots with different kinds of seeds, label each pot so you will know which plants are from which fruit.

STRAWBERRIES

A few kindnesses bestowed upon our strawberry plantings in mid August will pay rich dividends in next year's yields.

The first thing to do is remove any old, worn-out plants and any that have produced poorly this year. Then, give the remaining vigorous plants a health and beauty treatment.

Cut off dead foliage and weed around the plants. Remove all the runners except those ones you want to keep for extending the planting.

Just the ground around the plants lightly with bone meal, or a low-nitrogen fertilizer such as 4-10-10, and cover the fertilizer with a shallow layer of compost or composted manure mixed half and half with damp peat. Keep the plants well watered until rainy or cold weather arrives. This will help to ensure a lavish set of fruit buds for next year's berries.

To increase the number of strawberry plants, select runners growing from the strongest, most productive plants and secure them with short pieces of bent wire into hollows made in the soil where you want them to grow. They'll soon root, and will be nicely established before the cold weather. Runners rooted like this can also be disengaged from the mother plant and transplanted elsewhere once roots have formed.

An alternate method is to root the runners in individual pots buried to the rim in the soil. An advantage to this method is that potted runners are transplanted with very little root disturbance. And if you have a cold frame or cool greenhouse, and some extra rooted runners in pots, they can be grown in these shelters for some early berries.

HOUSEPLANTS

If you have houseplants vacationing outdoors, mid August is the time to begin getting them ready for their move back inside. Trim away any dead parts and prune each plant to the shape you want. Clean the soil surface of debris, and water with a mild fertilizer solution.

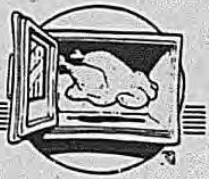

Decor Score

Repot plants that are clearly root-bound. Clean the pots well, and spray-wash the plants with Safer's Insecticidal Soap mixed at label rates. Small plants can be upended and swished in the soap mixture. Hold the soil securely in the pot with a piece of plastic and your hand.

Set the plants in a sheltered area such as a porch, or on shelving set against the house in light shade. At the end of August repeat the cleaning process, and bring the plants back indoors early in September before nights cool enough to make the transition extreme between indoor and outdoor temperatures.

Flavorful ginger

Many of us associate gingerbread with the holiday season: decorated gingerbread houses and iced gingerbread men hanging on the tree, but the first gingerbread is thought to have been baked on the Greek island of Rhodes around 2400 B.C.

Ginger is a favorite spice in cookies, cakes, pies, quick breads — and in pickling and curries. The spice is native to tropical Asia and is so popular in Chinese cooking that it's found in almost every meal.

Ginger is available powdered and dried, as well as crystallized. If you have never used fresh before, you will appreciate the difference: its aroma and pungent flavor are much stronger than powdered — a little fresh ginger goes a long way.

To use fresh ginger, peel away fibrous outer covering and mince flesh, grate, or crush a small piece in a garlic press to make ginger pulp. Or crush pared gingerroot under the flat blade of a wide knife.

Gingersnap cookies are popular with those who relish the flavor of ginger. To make an easy, gingery microwave piecrust (great for fruit or cream pies) crush gingersnaps to make 1½ cups of crumbs. Combine in a 9-inch glass pie plate with 6 tablespoons melted butter or margarine; toss with fork to moisten crumbs. Press evenly over bottom and sides of pie plate and microwave one to two minutes, or until set. Fill as desired.

(Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.)

MICRO-TIP OF THE WEEK

If a microwave recipe gives a range of cooking times, check after shortest suggested time to avoid overcooking vegetables.

They will be brighter, more nutritious, and taste better if you cook just until vegetables are crisp-tender.

GOLDEN GINGERED CARROTS

- 1 pound carrots
- ½ cup orange juice
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
- Dash each salt and pepper
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons orange juice

Yields 4 servings.
Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes.

Cooking time: 10 to 14 minutes.
Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Trim carrots and cut into ¼-inch coins. Place in 1½-quart microwave-safe casserole with the ½ cup orange juice, brown sugar, ginger, salt and pepper. Cover and microwave 9 to 12 minutes, or until carrots are fork tender, stirring every 4 minutes.

In small bowl combine cornstarch and remaining orange juice; blend until smooth. Add to carrot mixture and stir gently. Microwave, uncovered, 1 to 2 minutes longer, or until sauce bubbles and thickens.

ORIENTAL BEEF STRIPS

- 1 pound flank steak
- ½ cup soy sauce
- ¼ cup sherry
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- ¼ teaspoon diced fresh or powdered dry ginger
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 bunch (6 to 8) green onions, trimmed and sliced (green and white parts)
- 2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
- ½ medium green pepper, cut into chunks
- 1 medium tomato, cut into wedges

Yields 4 servings.

Preparation time: 20 to 25 minutes (plus 2 hours to marinate).

Cooking time: 7 to 12 minutes (plus 3 minutes standing time).

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Slice steak diagonally across grain into very thin strips. Place in 2-quart microwave-safe casserole and add soy sauce, sherry, ginger and sugar. Toss gently to combine, cover, and refrigerate at least 2 hours, to marinate.

Place cornstarch in small bowl. Gradually blend in enough water to make smooth paste. Stir into marinated meat mixture. Stir in onions, mushrooms and green pepper. Cover and microwave 6 to 10 minutes, or until sauce bubbles and thickens and meat is tender, stirring every 3 minutes. Add tomato wedges, stir, and microwave 1 to 2 minutes longer, to heat through. Let stand, covered, 3 minutes before serving over hot steamed rice.

Summer elegance

One of summer's most abiding pleasures is impromptu entertaining inspired by the beautiful weather — and by the grill on the patio.

We love to invite just a few friends on the spur of the moment to join us for a summer feast. The gathering is most often a joint effort. An invitation is issued and the ball is picked up.

"I'll bring an hors d'oeuvre."
"How about a wedge of cheese?"

"What kind of wine shall we bring?"

This kind of cooperation can result in a very elegant meal indeed.

So if you are doing just the main course, and maybe a dessert, your only responsibilities might be to make a quick trip to the market, set the table, pick the flowers and then do a little work in the afternoon to prepare the food.

Swanky Sam's Steak Salad is the specialty of Sam, a young friend of Melanie's, who is a dynamite cook and likes to present his food with style and flair. This summery whole-meal salad of grilled steak, vegetables and bread is one of his tastiest and best-looking creations.

Sam's recipe calls for tender, flavorful skirt steak, but if that cut is hard to find in your market, just substitute a club or sirloin steak.

TIPS

- Very ripe peaches are quite easy to peel with a paring knife. If less ripe, plunge the fruit into boiling water for about 30 seconds and the skins will slip off easily.

- The surest way to determine whether a peach is ripe is to sniff it. A fragrant peach is a ripe peach.

- Skirt steak has become better known in recent years because it is the cut of choice for making Southwestern fajitas. If you don't see it in the meat case, ask your butcher or meat manager for it. Every cow has one.

SWANKY SAM'S STEAK SALAD

- 8 tablespoons olive oil, divided
- ¾ tablespoons lemon juice, divided
- 1 large clove garlic, minced
- 1 pound skirt, cube or flank steak, cut in 4 pieces
- Salt and ground pepper
- 12 ounces plum tomatoes
- 3 tablespoons minced fresh basil

- 2 small zucchini (about 10 ounces total weight)
- 4 (¾-inch thick) slices Italian bread
- 3 cups arugula, cleaned and trimmed

Yields 4 servings.

Preparation and cooking time: 40 minutes excluding building fire. Build hot barbecue fire or preheat gas grill on high.

In shallow dish, combine 6 tablespoons oil, 3 tablespoons lemon juice and garlic. Sprinkle steak with salt and pepper. Place in oil mixture and let stand 15 minutes at room temperature, turning once or twice.

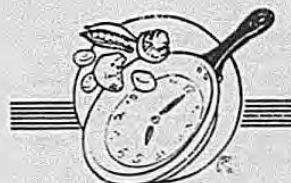

Meanwhile, coarsely chop tomatoes and combine with basil, remaining 2 tablespoons oil and ½ tablespoon lemon juice. Season with salt and pepper. Let stand while finishing meal.

Trim zucchini and cut lengthwise into slices about ¼-inch thick.

Remove meat from marinade and allow any excess to drip back into dish. Brush 1 side of zucchini with some of marinade. Place meat and zucchini slices on grill with meat at hottest point and zucchini surrounding meat. Brush 1 side of bread with some of marinade and place close to edge of grill. Cook 1½ to 2 minutes. Turn meat, zucchini and bread. Brush with remaining marinade and cook 1½ to 2 minutes more until meat is medium rare and zucchini is crisp-tender, and bread is lightly toasted.

To serve, arrange arugula on 4 serving plates or large platter. Thinly slice meat across grain and place in center. Arrange zucchini and tomato mixture around meat. Spoon any collected meat juices over salad and serve with bread.

Heat waves

If you want to serve me something special for my birthday, make it plain grilled chicken, corn on the cob from the farm stand down the road and possibly tomatoes picked within the quarter hour, with basil and chives snipped on the top.

I say only "possibly" because my New York state garden simply doesn't produce Indiana tomatoes — the ones I grew up with and still think are the best on earth.

For dessert, give me homemade vanilla ice cream with plenty of egg yolks and angel food cake without frosting — and why not, with all those leftover egg whites.

My husband is somewhat less enthusiastic. When he asks for a special meal and I serve him this best of all possible dinners, I get a withering reaction that suggests more persuasively than words that I had better get some new ideas.

It's not the vanilla ice cream that bothers him or the plain cake, and he likes corn on the cob well enough. He didn't grow up in Indiana, so New York tomatoes are all the same to him.

It's just that we have this meal all the time — through most of the summer and well into fall, when almost everyone else in the food-loving world has moved on to slow-cooked stews with sage and root vegetables.

It has occurred to me to try something different. The snag is this: For a long time, no recipes ever sufficiently tempted me.

But things are changing, as you will see in the recipes that follow. Cajun barbecue sauce with bay leaf, bacon, orange juice and thyme is hotly seductive in a way I never imagined.

Mustard-Dill Sauce makes swordfish even tastier than it already is.

And the Marinade for Tikka, generously spiced with coriander — whose pungency hits me close to the spot that Indiana tomatoes do — makes aphrodisia of that old dieter's standby, skinless chicken breasts.

My backyard grill will never be the same.

CAJUN BARBECUE

(For Meat or Chicken)

- 1 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 teaspoon onion powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon dried leaf thyme
- 1½ teaspoons freshly ground black pepper
- ¼ teaspoon ground white pepper
- ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
- ½ pound bacon, minced
- ½ cup chopped onions
- 2 cups chicken stock
- 1½ cups bottled chili sauce
- ¾ cup honey
- 5 tablespoons orange juice
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- Rind of ¼ lemon
- 2 teaspoons minced garlic
- ½ teaspoon Tabasco
- 1 bay leaf

Yields about 5 cups, enough for 2 racks of ribs (6 to 7 pounds), 1 6-pound chicken or 2 3-pound cut-up chickens.

Mix all seasonings in small bowl and set aside. In heavy 9-inch skillet, cook bacon over high heat until crisp. Add onions, stir and cover. Lower heat to medium and cook, stirring occasionally, for about 8 minutes or until onions brown. If they cook too quickly, lower heat. Add reserved seasonings, stir; cook 1 minute longer over medium heat.

Add remaining ingredients. Stir well, cook 20 to 25 minutes, then remove bay leaf and lemon rind. Transfer mixture to food processor and blend until smooth. It can be used immediately or refrigerated for up to 1 week.

Cook meat or chicken as usual. Begin brushing on sauce last ½ hour of cooking; baste every 5 minutes until done.

APRICOT-RED PEPPER GLAZE

(For Chicken or Pork Chops)

- 3 ounces dried apricots (12 to 15), minced
- ½ cup brandy
- ¼ cup minced onion
- 1 tablespoon butter
- ½ medium-size red sweet pepper, diced fine
- 1 (12-ounce) jar no-sugar apricot spread or apricot preserves
- Pinch cayenne pepper

Yields about 2 cups, enough for 1 3½-pound chicken or 4 pounds pork chops.

An hour before grilling, simmer remaining ¼ cup brandy and onions in heavy skillet over low heat until all but 1 tablespoon of liquid has evaporated. Add butter and finely diced red pepper; stir until butter has melted and pepper begins to soften (about 2 minutes).

In shallow bowl, cover apricots with ¼ cup brandy. Let stand at least 2 hours. (Brandy flavor intensifies over time.)

Add cayenne and apricot spread or preserves (the latter makes a sweeter glaze). Simmer 10 minutes longer, stirring occasionally.

Remove from heat, transfer to bowl; set aside. Just before using, drain brandied minced apricots and fold into sauce.

Grill meat or chicken as usual, brushing on sauce ½ hour before done.

RED PEPPER-PIGNOLI MARINADE AND SAUCE

(For Shrimp and Other Seafood)

- 1 large red sweet pepper, diced fine
- ¼ cup virgin olive oil
- 1 dry red chili pepper, seeded and crushed (or ½ teaspoon red pepper flakes)
- 4 cloves garlic, peeled and coarsely chopped
- 3 tablespoons toasted pignoli nuts (pine nuts) or toasted almond slivers
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons dry sherry

Yields about 1 cup, enough for 2 pounds shrimp or scallops.

Cook finely diced pepper in oil in heavy skillet over low heat until pepper softens (about 2 minutes). Add chili pepper and chopped garlic; continue cooking 2 minutes more, taking care not to brown garlic.

Add pignoli nuts or almond slivers, lemon juice and sherry; simmer 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from heat and puree in food processor or blender. Cool 1 hour.

Note: Marinade can be prepared to this point up to 24 hours in advance. Garlic flavor will intensify on standing.

Toss seafood with sauce until thoroughly coated. Cover tightly and refrigerate 1 hour. (If using shrimp in shells, make a cut along veins to aid marinating process; marinate in refrigerator 2 hours.)

When ready to cook, transfer seafood to grill, reserve remaining marinade. Cook as usual, basting every 5 minutes with reserved marinade.

MARINADE FOR TIKKA

(For Lamb or Chicken Kebabs)

- 2 tablespoons sesame oil
- 1 cup plain yogurt
- Juice of ¼ lemon
- 1 large onion, finely chopped
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 3 teaspoons ground coriander
- 1 teaspoon ground turmeric
- 1 teaspoon ground chili powder
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon salt

Yields about 3 cups, enough for 4 to 5 pounds chicken kebabs or 4 pounds lamb kebabs.

Blend sesame oil and yogurt in food processor or mixer. Add lemon juice and blend. Then add remaining ingredients and puree until smooth — about 1 minute. This can be done a day before adding marinade to meat or chicken.

Put meat or chicken in shallow dish. Pour on marinade and toss to coat. Arrange kebabs in single layer. Do not crowd. Cover tightly and refrigerate 24 to 48 hours; the longer time will intensify flavor.

Soak wooden skewers in water an hour or more to prevent burning. Skewer meat, reserve remaining marinade; broil or grill over low coals as usual, basting every 5 minutes with reserved marinade until done.

MUSTARD-DILL MARINADE AND SAUCE

(For Swordfish or Tuna)

- 1 tablespoon white wine
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- ½ cup olive or safflower oil
- 3 tablespoons chopped dill
- 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
- 1 tablespoon Pommery or other whole-grain mustard
- 1 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

Yields about 1½ cups, enough for 3 pounds fish (6 1-inch-thick steaks).

Mix wine and lemon juice in small bowl. Add oil in steady stream, whisking constantly until all oil is incorporated and partially emulsified. Add remaining ingredients and whisk until smooth. Refrigerate until ready to use.

Pour over fish and marinate at least 1 hour but no more than 6 hours.

Transfer fish to grill, reserve marinade. Cook as usual, basting with reserved marinade every 5 minutes until done.

Eggplant

When I was a kid, the word eggplant brought to mind the shiny, mauve-skinned vegetable that was transformed into a great treat called eggplant parmigiana.

I'm not sure whether I was more infatuated with the gooey mozzarella cheese or the vegetable itself, but to this day any mention of eggplant makes my mouth water.

Now that I am older and have had the chance to taste the large purple eggplant in its many guises, I consider it a great bonus that this mellow and versatile vegetable is now available in a variety of new sizes, shapes and colors to inspire the cook anew.

According to Elizabeth Schneider, author of "Uncommon Fruits and Vegetables, A Commonsense Guide" (Harper & Row, $16.95), egg-shape white eggplants are firmer, creamier and less bitter than their purple cousins, although their skins tend to be considerably tougher and thicker.

Small, deep-colored eggplants (sometimes called Italian or baby) — are similar to the common large ones but tend to have more delicate skins and finer flesh.

Schneider finds that Oriental or Japanese eggplants — the small purple, violet and striated varieties that are straight and narrow — are nice and sweet. Although you can use baby, Oriental and white eggplants for everything that you would make with the common type, "the varieties of texture, taste and color, as well as sizes of these other eggplants can be exploited for a different range of cooking techniques," says Schneider.

It's nice, for example, to use the dwarf varieties for individual stuffed portions and white eggplant when the dish would benefit by slices that hold their shape.

When shopping for eggplant, always look for very smooth, shiny, unblemished skins. (Avoid any that are waxed). The vegetable should feel firm to the touch and any indentation made by the fingertip should slowly bounce back. Use eggplants quickly as they do not keep well, even under refrigeration.

This cheery salad displays a rainbow of summer's vegetables in simple garb — little more than oil, garlic and plenty of verdant basil.

ELIZABETH SCHNEIDER'S EGGPLANT, PASTA AND GRILLED PEPPER SALAD

5 small purple eggplants, each 4 ounces (see note)
About ½ cup olive oil, or more to taste
3 large, thick red and/or yellow bell peppers
About 1¼ teaspoons salt
2 large tomatoes
1 pound curly pasta, such as rotini or fusilli
1 large garlic clove, minced
About 24 Calamata olives or other pungent black olives, halved and pitted

About ½ cup coarsely sliced basil
Dash vinegar
Black pepper to taste

Yields 6 to 8 servings.

Trim off eggplant caps. Slice eggplants in half lengthwise, then in crosswise slices about ¼-inch thick. In very large skillet, saute eggplant in batches over moderate heat until browned and tender, using as much oil as needed to prevent sticking. Reserve.

Set peppers on preheated broiler pan as close to heat source as possible. Turn until blackened and blistered all over, but not charred deeply. (Or do the same directly in gas flame.) Let stand a minute or 2, then wrap in damp towels or enclose in plastic bag 5 to 10 minutes to steam off skins.

Cut off stems and scrape off skins. Cut open peppers and remove seeds and membranes. Rinse peppers; cut into ¼-inch squares. Toss with salt to taste and about 1 tablespoon olive oil. Set aside.

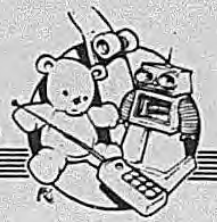

Place each tomato on fork and hold directly in gas flame, turning until skin bubbles and splits, about 15 seconds. Peel and halve crosswise; squeeze out seeds, then cut out stem ends. Cut into coarse dice. Set aside.

Dump pasta into boiling salted water and cook until just barely tender; be careful not to overcook, as pasta softens when dressed. Drain well; toss with 2 tablespoons olive oil. Cool, tossing occasionally.

Combine with tomatoes, garlic, 2 tablespoons oil, and salt to taste. Combine pasta, eggplant, peppers, tomatoes and olives. Season assertively and let stand, lightly covered, for several hours or more before serving.

At serving time, toss gently with basil and adjust vinegar, salt and pepper to taste.

Note: If small eggplants are unavailable, use 1 large eggplant, about 1¼ pounds and cut into slices ¼-inch thick. Cut each slice into quarters or sixths and proceed as directed.

Make your pool safe for children

Q. Child drownings in pools continue to be an awful thing where we live. No matter how many times parents are warned these tragedies seem to continue. We came so close to having one in our family.

Please help out in any way that you can through your column. One more warning may at least help save one young life and prevent its parents' heartbreak.

A. You are so right. This terrible problem can't be brought up too often in order to keep parents alert to it.

In a recent publication (whose name and address I will provide) a valuable list of suggestions from the Arizona Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics was included.

Here it is:

- Admit that no child is "water safe," even if the child knows how to swim.
- Provide constant eye-contact supervision to include designated adult "lifeguards" whenever children are in the pool.
- Keep the pool area clear of toys.
- Do not permit children to use inflatable toys and mattresses as life preservers.
- Install a fixed phone near the pool. Keep emergency numbers with the phone.

- When seeking child care (i.e., baby sitters), consistent behaviors regarding pool activity and access must be maintained and guaranteed by parents.
- Educate children regarding safety rules and reinforce them during swimming.
- Consider temporary filling of the pool with dirt or sand.

• Infant swim programs are of unproven value in prevention of childhood drowning. It is unlikely that infants can be made "water safe."

• Learning CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) may prevent death.

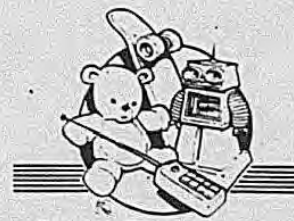

The academy also recommends that barriers be implemented by pool owners. Here are three they suggest:

• Permanent "Pool Isolation Fencing" should be installed. It should not restrict a clear view of the pool from the house, and should be kept in good repair and securely closed and locked when a supervising adult is not physically present.

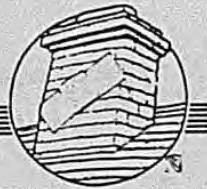

• The next layer of protection between a child and the pool is to secure all windows and doors leading to the yard. Self-closing and self-latching doors and windows can be installed to prevent unobserved access to the yard.

• Pool alarms and pool safety covers can provide additional layers of protection. Any one behavior or barrier alone will not prevent child drowning.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. The previous owners of a house we recently purchased constructed a room addition.

The quality of the construction is satisfactory, with the exception of a problem we are having with the nails popping out of the drywall. What can we do to remedy the problem? — A.B.

A. The most common cause of nails popping through the drywall is that moist lumber was used to frame the walls.

If the drywall was attached to wet lumber, the shrinking process as the wood dries causes the nails to pop.

The best method of correcting the problem is to refasten the drywall with drywall screws. They grip better than nails, and reduce the chance of more popping.

Drive the screws in 1 inch above or below the existing nails. Make sure the head of the screw is dimpled into the wall. Then drive the popped nails back into the framing lumber. Fill all dimples and holes with two coats of drywall compound. Sand it smooth and re-paint.

Q. I have had a serious problem with the breakdown and shedding of paint covering the knots in pine planks used to construct a pergola (lattice frame) over my balcony. Because there is no roof over the pergola, it is fully exposed to the weather.

A. Before painting, I have always sanded the entire surface, including the removal of any remaining previous coating from the knots, most of which are about 2 inches in diameter.

I have then applied a sealer over and around each knot, generally shellac, but on the most recent occasion, I applied aluminum paint on the advice of a technician with the paint manufacturers' association.

Over the sealer, I have applied a coat of oil-base primer followed by two coats of flat white latex exterior house paint. In every case, the finish has lasted only a couple of years, after which the remainder of the pergola's painted surface is still in good condition. — C.O.

Drywall fastened to wet lumber equals weakened nail grip

A. Unfortunately, the methods you have described are the steps we would have recommended.

It is important that the exterior latex paint used be of high quality. There are several factors to look for when selecting the exterior paint to assure superior adhesion and resistance to degradation from sun, moisture and temperature fluctuation.

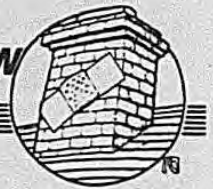

Look for a paint that contains 100 percent acrylic binder, a high percentage of solids (look for solids that are pigments or binders, rather than extenders such as clay and silica, which are less costly ways to add solids to the product so it will be applied more heavily), a high content of titanium dioxide, a sufficient amount of antifreeze (ethylene glycol) and mildewcide. Such paints will be more expensive, but worth the investment in durability.

Be sure to use a primer recommended by the paint manufacturer. Beyond this there is little that can be done.

Knots are extremely dense and resist penetration. If the knots occur in just a few boards, you might try replacing those boards with a higher-grade pine. The higher the grade, the fewer the knots. Otherwise, your only option is to repaint every year or two.

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE
Oh Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depths of my heart and humbly beg you to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. St. Jude, pray for us all who invoke your aid. Amen. Say 3 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Marys, 3 Glorias. Say for 9 consecutive days. Publication must be promised. This novena has never been known to fail. Thank you for answering my prayers. T.D.C.hal

HOLY SPIRIT YOU WHO SOLVE all problems, who light all roads, so that I can obtain my goals. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evils against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you ever in spite of all material illusions, I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Say for 3 consecutive days after which the favor requested will be granted even if it appears difficult. This prayer must be published immediately. New hotel and airline discounts for seniors

When the open road beckons this summer and fall, your mature age may be an advantage. Significant discount savings can be yours for traveling now and more often. Here is a quick digest of senior discounts and how to get information about them:

HILTON SENIOR HHONORS PROGRAM

Hilton Hotels has expanded its Senior HHonors program to be one of the best in the country for people age 60-plus.

For $25 per year membership, Hilton offers discounts of 25 percent to 50 percent at 240 of its hotels in the United States, and a 20 percent discount in hotel restaurants. For a $50 annual membership, the program extends the room discounts to include 70 Hilton hotels in 32 countries. A lifetime membership is available for $150 and includes the worldwide discount program.

Hilton's Senior HHonors program also includes for its members: pre-registration, special check-in desk, late checkout privileges, daily newspapers and free use of health and recreational facilities, where available. Members also participate in a merchandise and travel awards program for frequent use of Hilton hotels.

According to program manager Alison Kal, "We did extensive research into the benefits that mature adult travelers really wanted from a hotel and designed a simple program with the largest discounts possible. We listened and learned and, I hope, responded to the advantage of mature travelers and our Hilton properties."

Information and membership applications are available by a telephone call to (214) 239-0511, Ext. 901. Or write Alison Kal, Hilton Senior HHonors, P.O. Box 5567, Beverly Hills, CA 90209.

MORE HOTEL DISCOUNTS

Vagabond Inns in the west offer its discount program for adults 55 and over an average 10 percent discount off single room rates, plus the 10th night cost-free. Membership is yours for the asking. Telephone number for information is (619) 455-1800.

Other motel chain senior discounts are available from: Days Inns, 50-plus (800) 325-2525; Super 8 Motels, 55-plus (605) 225-1291; Comfort Inns, 60-plus (800) 228-5150; Econo Lodge, 55-plus (704) 554-0888; Hampton Inns, 50-plus (901) 758-3100; La Quinta Motels, 55-plus (512) 366-6095; and Red Roof Inns, 60-plus (800) 843-7663.

Hotel chains offering mature adult discounts include: Sheraton, 60-plus (512) 834-2426; Ramada, 60-plus (602) 389-5509; and Howard Johnson's, 60-plus (405) 841-1400.

SAVING IN THE AIR

Airline concepts for senior discounts at age 62 and over have been expanded this year. The programs now offer a pre-purchase of four or eight flight coupons in a range of $75 to $105 per coupon, each valid for a one-way flight or segment.

The concept will be particularly valuable to mature adults who fly from airports that do not have high competing traffic and therefore have higher airfares. For many of the airline coupon programs coast-to-coast round-trip flights may cost under $200, where the full-rate coach ticket may be priced at more than $1,000.

The following is a list of airline and coupon prices for four and eight flight coupons and notes on the specific program:

- Northwest: $384/$640. Includes the 50 states plus Canada. Days of travel are limited to Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

- Delta: $420/$704. Includes all 50 states plus San Juan, Puerto Rico. Travel may be taken any day, subject to seat availability.

- America West: $348/$598. Includes all America West flight cities, but two coupons are required for each direction for flights into or out of Boston, Baltimore, Honolulu, New York, Newark and Washington, D.C. Valid travel times are from Monday noon through Thursday noon and all day Saturday.

- American Airlines: $420/$704. Includes the 48 contiguous United States on one coupon each direction and two coupons each direction on flights to and from Hawaii and Puerto Rico. Travel may be taken on any day of the week (except for to/from San Juan), subject to seat availability.

- United Airlines: $384/$640. Each coupon is valid for one-way travel up to 2,000 miles, so a cross-country trip will take two coupons each way. Between the coasts and Midwest or South — trips under 2,000 miles each way — the savings may be most significant. Travel is valid for Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

- USAir: $420/$704. Valid anywhere the airline flies within the United States, with no restrictions on days. For this program, information and purchase you must deal directly with the airline through its local ticket offices.

The gray in your hair may prove to be to your advantage in travel on land and in the air. Say "discount" with a smile and with more money left in your pocket.

Bad news on your Rapunzel plate

Q. I am enclosing a picture of my plate with a portrait of Rapunzel (a character from Grimm's Fairy Tales) together with a copy of the certificate that came in the box with the plate.

I would like to know the current value to collectors.

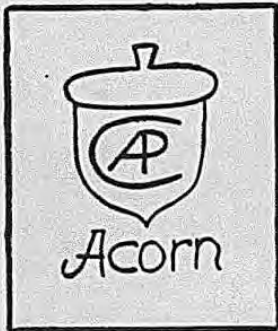

RAPUNZEL PLATE

A. The Grimm's Fairy Tale Series plates were produced by the Konigszelt Bayern in Hanau, Germany.

Your plate was issued in 1982 for $35; it is currently being sold for $25.

Q. The attached mark is on the bottom of a ceramic pitcher 6 inches tall. It has a brown glaze decorated with pink flowers.

I would like to know who made it and what it would sell for.

A. This was made by the Cambridge Art Pottery in Cambridge, Ohio. The company made art pottery between 1900 and 1910; it is becoming quite rare.

Your vase would probably sell for $200 to $225.

Q. What can you tell me about the vintage and value of a fancy wicker baby carriage with a parasol?

The sides are shaped like two fans and the wheels are metal with wooden spokes.

A. Your baby buggy was made in the late 1800s and would probably sell in the $800 to $900 range in very fine condition.

Q. I have an opportunity to buy an antique Corona typewriter that is different from most typewriters. The carriage is hinged and folds down over the keyboard for storage. It has only 30 keys, but has three shift positions.

The dealer wants $95 for it; is that a fair price?

A. This is the famous "jack-knife" portable that was devised for the "hunt and peck" school of typing. They were made briefly about 1918. They usually sell with carrying case for $75 to $100, depending on condition.

Q. Can you provide some information about the vintage and value of my Hummel figurine of a man on horseback slaying a dragon? On the bottom it has the crown mark and No. 53.

A. This is one of the few Hummels that does not have a child for the subject. It is "St. George" slaying the dragon. The mark indicates that it was made between 1935 and 1950.

Dealers are selling figures like this for about $1,000.

KITCHEN HINTS

Jarred marinated artichoke hearts are handy...

But usually they are too strong.

Here's how to soften their pungency:

1. Soak in clear water for about 15 minutes; drain well.
 2. If not using at once, cover with plain oil and refrigerate.
 3. When ready to use, drain well, then pat dry with paper towels.
- Now they taste more like artichokes and not vinegar.

Dog has blood in urine

Q. Our 5-year-old, spayed corgi has had some blood in her urine the last few days.

Although she tries to urinate several times each day, it seems that very little volume is released. Could this problem be due to kidney stones?

A. It is not uncommon for dogs to have stones in their urinary tracts. In females the stones are most commonly found in the urinary bladder and in males the stones are most commonly diagnosed in the urethra, the tube that drains the bladder to the exterior.

The dog breeds most commonly affected with urinary tract stones include the miniature schnauzer, dachshund, pug, bulldog, Welsh corgi, basset hound, beagle and terriers.

Although urinary tract stones may occur in dogs of any age, most affected dogs are between 3 and 7 years old.

The signs seen with urinary tract stones are usually due to obstruction of the urethra. Drainage of the urinary bladder is usually hindered.

Affected dogs usually make frequent attempts to urinate. However, only a few drops of bloody urine are usually passed at each attempt. Most of these dogs appear to be uncomfortable and walk in crouched positions. If not relieved soon, the animal becomes progressively depressed and eventually shows signs of uremic poisoning.

Diagnosis of urinary tract stones usually involves X-rays to determine the number, size and location of the stones. The main goal of treatment is to remove the blockage as soon as possible. Treatment often requires surgery.

There is some controversy regarding the cause of urinary tract stones. Therefore, some differences of opinion exist on how to prevent the disease. Whenever stones are removed from a dog they should be analyzed to determine their composition. Drugs can then be prescribed to prevent the particular kind of stone causing the problem.

If you suspect that your dog has urinary tract stones you should take it to a veterinarian as soon as possible for diagnosis and treatment. Most urinary tract stones can be prevented by careful control of the dog's diet and the use of preventive drugs.

Some major items Medicare doesn't cover

Q. I realize that Medicare will pay for hospitalization and doctors' bills, but what are some of the major items that Medicare does not pay for? — V.H.

A. Some of the services and supplies Medicare cannot pay for are:

- Custodial care, such as help with bathing, eating and taking medicine.
- Dentures and routine dental care.
- Eyeglasses, hearing aids and examinations to prescribe or fit them;
- Nursing home care except for care in a skilled nursing facility;
- Prescription drugs and patent medicines;
- Most routine physical checkups and related tests.

Q. My brother and I were discussing a recent murder case and the following question arose: Can a widow receive her husband's Social Security benefits if she murders her husband? — J.S.

A. Any person convicted of the felonious and intentional homicide of the worker cannot become entitled to monthly benefits or the lump-sum death payment payable on the deceased's Social Security earnings record.

Q. I want to make sure I have everything I need to file an application when I retire. What must I submit? — J.L.

A. You may need some or all of the following documents: birth certificate, proof of military service, W-2 form or self-employment tax return for the most recent year, proof of marriage and proof of divorce. People at Social Security can help you determine the documents you need.

Only original copies of documents or copies certified by the issuing agency can be used. Uncertified photocopies are not acceptable.

Q. Presently I live alone. If I moved in with my parents would my Supplemental Security Income payment amount be affected? — M.B.

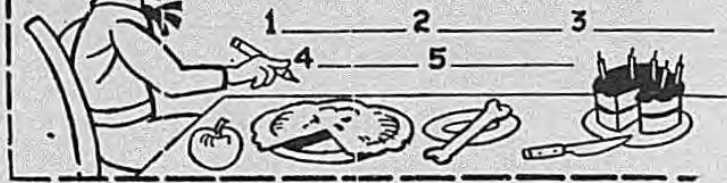

A. One-third of the basic SSI payment is deducted if an eligible person is living in another person's household and receiving support and maintenance in kind from that person. This deduction takes the place of setting an exact dollar value of the support and maintenance.

Let Social Security know if there is a change in your living arrangement.

This weekend I had the chance to go fishing for the second time in my life. Over and over again my friend and I cast out lures (a shiny fish shaped thing with hooks that is supposed to fool fish into biting it) but got no results.

Finally we started using little fish as bait to catch bigger fish. Then we started getting some action! It seemed like we couldn't keep the bait on the hooks for more than a minute before a gentle tug told us that something was eating the bait. But every time we pulled the line up, there was nothing on it!

Then my friend pulled his line up and found a crab clinging to the bit of bait on the hook! Evidently, we had been giving the crabs at the bottom of the stream quite a feast.
