Art On Exhibit

Carolyn Boettcher, an art teacher at St. Ignatius Loyola in Hicksville, proudly shows her students' art work at an exhibit, called "A Kaleidoscope of People," displayed at Roosevelt Field Shopping Center during Catholic School Week. In addition to her students' work, the seven-day show featured creations by pre-schoolers through high school seniors from Catholic schools in Nassau and Suffolk counties.

Commercial Fire Burns 8 Hrs., $1.6 Mil Loss

A fire at the establishment of Tony's Bumpers, 82A Woodbury Road, Hicksville, on Feb. 18, caused an estimated $1.6 million in damages to structures and inventories in the building and 2 neighboring firms.

The fire was reported at 1:36 a.m. and the first arriving Chief at 1:38 a.m. reported flames already through the roof in the rear portion of Tony's Bumpers which is situated behind, but connected to the Concord Auto Supply store at 82 Woodbury Road.

The fire burned for 6 hours before it was brought under control using over 200 fire-fighters, using 3 ladder companies and 8 Engine companies. The origin of the fire was believed to be in the office area of the Bumper Company and evidently burned unnoticed until smoke billowed up. At the height of the blaze, Tower ladders battled flames 150 feet in the air, 1 wall fell on a neighboring firm damaging a garage. Propane lines used by the LIRR also ignited forcing shut down of the Port Jefferson line for a short period. Fire brands were reported seen 5 blocks north of the fire scene. The Westbury Fire Dept., was called for an Engine Company to patrol the local neighborhoods. Twelve pieces of apparatus from Hicksville were used in addition to units from Westbury, Jericho, Syosset and Plainville. Units from Farmingdale, Bethpage, Levittown and East Meadow provided stand-bys at Hicksville stations.

Hicksville Chief Anthony Wigdzinski was in charge of fire operations. The fire at this time is being investigated by County Fire investigators and its cause is listed as undetermined. It is not unusual for a fire to start unnoticed and gain headway until it is spotted. Neighboring firms suffering damage were Concord Auto - who remained open for business the next day - $300,000 to structure, $100,000 to stock which probably will be reduced after insurance reps survey the damage. The Slavone Electric Co., 88 Woodbury Road, suffered $4,000 damage from a falling block wall and Double G Productions of Max Avenue suffered $2,000 water damage. The building was so large and surrounded by other buildings that it required fire units to back into dead end streets and work off rooftops of neighboring buildings. Only one injury was reported and that was for a back sprain after slipping on ice. The fire was under control at 7:15 a.m. and all units returned at 7:15 a.m.

Watercolors At Mid-Island

During the month of March, Mid-Island Hospital's main lobby will be filled with watercolor paintings by artist Lillian Adler. It is the Massapequan's third exhibition in the Bethpage hospital.

Lillian Adler has found her painting extremely rewarding. She is a member of the Independent Art Society and the Suburban Art League. Her work is in a number of private collections in several states. Lillian's artwork is an interpretation of various subjects with color painted in a realistic manner. She creates pictures that viewers can relate to. Lillian Adler had a painting recently accepted at the Chelsea Mansion. Her latest award was an American Frame Award from the Independent Art Society in the watercolor division.

Thanks to the Town of Oyster Bay Dept. of Community Services, Cultural and Performing Arts Division for coordinating the exhibits. Mid-Island Hospital is located on Hempstead Turnpike, slightly west of the Seaford Oyster Bay Expressway.

To Hire Consultant In Search For Supt.

By Maureen Traxler

After contemplating procedural options in a search for a replacement for retiring Superintendent Catherine Fenton, the Hicksville School Board approved the hiring of a consultant to assist in the search at its meeting this week. The contractual costs are not to exceed $15,000, excluding work-related personnel expenditures.

Board President Carole Wolf reported that after a fruitful fact-finding meeting with Dr. Ira Singer, the board received a list of potential consultants. The Board expects to review consultant proposals and narrow the field to three consultants by March 7. Upon final Board review, a decision should be made by March 12 on the consultant who will conduct the search. The Board will then convey its specific guidelines to the consultant, before the nationwide search begins.

Vice President Arlene Rudin estimated that there are approximately 124 applicants at the present time for the open positions in Nassau and Suffolk Counties. The consultant will place advertisements, review resumes, and conduct background checks. At the end of the search the consultant will present three to seven prospects for the Board to interview. The Board would like to have a new superintendent in place by August 1, "so that there will be a smooth transition," concluded Mrs. Wolf.

The Board established a 20-member committee to review leasing dispositions for the Willet Avenue School and Property. Representatives were named from the eleven PTA units and the following Community Civic Associations: Midland, Northwest, Duffy Park, Giese Park and the Hicksville Community Council. Six civics did not respond to the Board request for a representative, and the Board agreed to extend the closing date for submitting representatives until the evening of the first meeting, March 5, at 8 p.m.

The Board set the following guidelines: categorize the leasing requests already submitted; establish criteria for a preferred leasing commitment; make a formal presentation at the Board's March 27 meeting; and communicate the committee's decisions to their respective organizations and to the community.

Trustee James Martillo pointed out that the committee would be recommending the type of organizations to which the community would be interested in leasing, but that they would not be specifically choosing the organization. Trustee William Bennett commented that "there is not too much for the committee to discuss." To which Mrs. Wolf responded, "We are looking for input."

Hicksville's already short-staffed school board conducted business on Feb. 26 with only four members present; Mr. Collins was absent to illness. With the four-vote majority factor still necessary for passage of any motion, the Board found it increasingly difficult to approve certain recommendations. In light of this fact, the Board defeated the following items:

- a $55,526 five-year lease plan for a Xerox Model 1075 copier for the Middle School. The cost to the district would be $11,105 per year. Mrs. Wolf determined the copier "necessary for the education of children," but Mr. Bennett asked, "Why should we exempt this item" from the district's self-imposed budget freeze for the remainder of 1990-91. Messrs. Bennett and Martillo voted "no," and Mrs. Wolf and Mrs. Rudin, "aye."

- recommendation that the district pay Section VIII athletic fees and assessments in the amount of $9,165. Dr. Fenton pointed out that payment would keep Hicksville's membership in the association and pay administrative costs, but Mrs. Wolf questioned the legality of paying some of those fees during austerity. Mrs. Wolf and Mrs. Rudin voted "no," and Messrs. Bennett and Martillo, "aye."

- an extension of Jaco Bus contracts for a three-year period at 1% per year, commencing with the 1991-92 school year. Assuming full bus routes and the transfer students to Woodland Avenue School, the district would require 11 full-time buses and 20 part-time buses, subject to review by the district in September. Mrs. Rudin demanded to see the full contract and assess the rate hike. The motion was defeated with Mrs. Rudin opposing. At the end of the meeting, the Board reconsidered the motion and approved to table the item until next month. William Hall, Asst. Supt. for business, cautioned that he was obliged to let the bus company know the results of the Board's voting by mid week, and noted that the Regional CPI (Consumer Price Index) is as high as 6-6%. "A tabling motion is just as embarrassing

Academy Senior

The good people of Bethpage can add to their long list of notables another illustrious name, Patrick Rhatigan. He is a graduate of the Class of 1987 from Bethpage High School and is currently a senior at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs. During his four years there he has distinguished himself in many ways, first among which is making the Superintendent's List with his high academic average. Recently he was chosen Squadron Commander which places him in charge of one hundred cadets. Adding to the Renaissance character of Pat was his selection to be a member of the 1989/90 National Champion Rugby Team. Lastly, but certainly not the least thing to be said about him, is that he is currently the Catholic Parish Council Representative at the Academy. By the way, it would be worthwhile to mention that Mr. Rhatigan is planning on being a pilot and shall soon be flying solo somewhere in the blue Colorado skies.

'PEOPLE' Seminar

On March 19, PEOPLE presents "Children In The 90's Against The Odds," a presentation for and about parents, teens, preteens, and others concerned with our children.

Among the topics covered will be change, friends, communication, drugs, peer pressure, school, alcohol, family.

All welcome at 7:30 p.m. at the Bethpage Library, 47 Powell Avenue, Bethpage. For further information, please call PEOPLE at 433-5344.

In Service

Navy Seaman Recruit Dan V. Dilodilo, a 1990 graduate of Bethpage High School, Bethpage, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, San Diego.

During Dilodilo's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

His studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

Hicksville Invited To Volcano Program

On the first Sunday of the month the Board of Trustees of the Hicksville Gregory Museum extends an invitation to the Hicksville community to visit the museum free of charge.

For the upcoming open house on Sunday, March 3, the museum is offering a special video presentation on Hawaiian volcanoes. Magnificent footage of volcanoes that have erupted recently and that are still in eruption, are used to help illustrate the origin and development of the Hawaiian Islands. The power of the volcanoes and the fragile coexistence that man has with them are well documented.

The open house is from 1 to 5 p.m., and the volcano program will be shown twice, once at 1:45 and again at 3:00 p.m. The Hicksville Gregory Museum is located in the old Heitz Place Courthouse at the intersection of Heitz Place and Bay Avenue. The museum is normally open Tuesday through Friday from 9:30 to 4:30 and Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 5. For more information call the museum at 822-7505.

Police Officer Charlotte shows her group how to ride their bicycles safely.

Oratorical Contest

The Hicksville Senior H. S. had two participants this year in the Nassau County American Legion Oratorical Contest. Representing Williston Post #144 was David Cuccaro, and from Elmont Post #1033 was Cynthia Gaylor. Twenty-six students from 13 high schools participated in this event. County Oratorical Program Chairman Herbert J. Blauert expressed his gratitude on behalf of county Commander Anthony L. Paternostro for Hicksville's participation.

The American Legion has for years committed its energies to programs of Americanism to the youth in hopes that in teaching the great traditions and values of this country, young Americans will understand and realize the obligations and duties of the American citizen.

Phil. Flower Show Bus Trip

On Thursday, March 14, the Friends of the Bethpage Public Library has a rare treat for you. A luxurious motorcoach has been booked to transport you to the spectacular Philadelphia Flower Show. Don't miss this opportunity to enter a true horticultural wonderland. You'll have the opportunity to treat yourself to a delicious lunch at one of the many varied dining choices available at the Exhibition Hall. The bus will leave the library at 9 a.m. The cost is $38 for members of the Friends of the BPL and $40 for non-members. Book early - don't be disappointed. The library, located at 47 Powell Avenue (phone: 931-3907), is two blocks west of Exit 8 (Powell Avenue) on the Seaford-Oyster Bay Expressway (Route 135).

Chinese New Year At Central Blvd School

The Chinese New Year was celebrated by Mrs. Levine's first grade class at the Central Boulevard School in Bethpage. First the students told the Chinese New Year story to their families and then sang "Al Hayo," a Chinese song meaning "It is good indeed." Zachary Schiff and his mother brought their homemade almond cookies. Mrs. Wong and Mrs. Levine provided fortune cookies and fresh pineapple for all performers and guests. Everyone present enjoyed sharing in a small part of a very rich Chinese culture.

Res. Covenants Placed On Zone Change

A request for a change of zone in Hicksville has been denied by the Oyster Bay Town Board, according to Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark.

"The applicants, Harry Ravitz, Giovanni Cimmino and Ferner Mollberg, were seeking the change of zone from 'D' Residential District to 'R-O' Residence-Office District for the purpose of utilizing the premises as an accounting office," Councilman Clark stated. "The property is located on the north side of Old Country Road, west of South Elm Street also known by the street address of 156 Old Country Road, Hicksville."

"In denying the application, the Town Board found that the proposed change of zone would adversely influence the flow of traffic as well as jeopardize the safety of drivers and occupants of motor vehicles and pedestrians; that inadequate off-street parking has been provided causing safety concerns, congestion on the abutting streets and hardships for adjoining neighbors; would adversely affect the general appearance and be incompatible with the residential character of the general area; that the use intensity generated by such operation would disturb and unnecessarily interfere with the health, peace, quiet and comfortable enjoyment of life and property in this residential community; that the nature of operations of such an office use would not be in harmony with and be detrimental to the existing residential zoning surrounding the subject parcel nor be compatible with the character and nature of land uses in the area and would result in an appreciable reduction in the market value of properties in the general area," Councilman Clark explained. "The Board also noted that the nature, type, character and use requested would impede future efforts to harmonize and stabilize the general use and character of the area and would not be in conformance and in spirit with the aesthetic objective purposes and intent of the comprehensive zoning plan of the Town of Oyster Bay."

Councilman Clark noted that a public hearing on the application was held on October 9, 1990.

Mid-Island Y Presents 'Pirates of Penzance'

Gilbert and Sullivan's beloved opera "The Pirates of Penzance" is coming to Long Island - but with a distinct difference: it will be performed in Yiddish!

On Saturday, March 16 at 8:30 p.m., the popular Gilbert and Sullivan Light Opera Company of Long Island will present their version, called "Di Yam Gazlonim" at the Mid-Island Y Jewish Community Center, 45 Manetto Hill Road in Plainview.

"Pirates" is the latest production by this well-known group, which has delighted standing-room-only audiences throughout the New York area for years with its witty translations of such classics as "H.M.S. Pinafore" and "The Mikado."

The complete production - sung in Yiddish with English narration. Just imagine hearing "I Am the Very Model of A Modern Major General" (Ikh bin der groyser General) sung in "hamish" Yiddish..

Tickets are: In Advance: Members, $11. Non-members, $13; At Door: Members, $12.50. Non-Members, $14.50. $1 discount per ticket for seniors or students over 12.

For more information, call the Cultural Arts Dept. at 822-3535.

In Memoriam

Edwin Frederick Funfgeld
 Edwin Frederick Funfgeld, 80, died February 15, 1991. He was born in Hicksville, and had lived in Richfield, Ohio for the last 15 years. He was a member of Bethel Lutheran Church and Carpenters Union Local 1772.

Mr. Funfgeld is survived by wife of 53 years, Marie (Boughton) of Richfield; son and daughter-in-law, Ernest and Annelise Funfgeld of Sharon Center; son, Roland Funfgeld of Richfield; daughter and son-in-law, Joyce and George Ritzler of Clarion, Pa.; seven grandchildren; one great-grandson; sisters, Gertrude McReynolds of Arizona, and Elsie Stride of New York.

Services were held at the Billow Fairlawn Chapel, with Pastor Richard Gordon officiating. Interment at West Richfield Cemetery. Should friends desire, memorials may be made to the American Cancer Society, 3624 W. Market St., Suite 102, Fairlawn, Ohio 44333; or Visiting Nurse Service, 1200 McArthur Dr., Akron, Ohio, 44320.

Fascinating Rhythms At Hicksville Lib.

On Saturday, March 16, the "Fascinating Rhythms" will present an upbeat musical program highlighted by audience participation at the Hicksville Public Library, 169 Jerusalem Avenue, at 2 p.m. "Diane Moser and Neil Applebaum explore the various aspects of rhythms and the application to tap dance, music and song." Town Councilman Symons said. "It's great to see the way the children respond."

Both programs, which are geared to children ages four and older, are part of series of 14 being sponsored by the Cultural and Performing Arts (CAPA) Division of the Dept. of Community and Youth Services.

HICKSVILLE
WATER DISTRICT NOTICE
OF ADOPTION
OF NEW ORDINANCE
PLEASE TAKE NOTICE

that at a meeting of the Board of Water Commissioners held at the office of the Hicksville Water District, 4 Dean Street, Hicksville, New York, on Thursday, February 21, 1991, at 7 p.m., the foregoing Resolution was adopted as an amendment to the Ordinances of the Hicksville Water District; which amendment would include the addition of a Section 5.20 dealing with bottled/vended water. The text of the proposed resolution/ordinance is as follows:

BE IT RESOLVED, that the following ordinance is adopted as an amendment to the Ordinances of the Hicksville Water District:

SECTION 5.20 -
BOTTLED / VENDING
WATER FACILITIES

Bottled/vended water facilities consisting of either bottling plants or vending machines shall not be connected to the public water supply facilities of the District as a new service or be connected to an existing service of the District unless and until a permit has been obtained from the District. A permit shall not be issued unless:

- (a) each bottling plant and/or each vended water machine has a separate outside water service with a separate meter;
- (b) has a New York State and Nassau County Department of Health approved reduced pressure zone device;
- (c) has received approval or certification from the New York State and Nassau County Department of Health;
- (d) has provided and maintains for the duration of the effectiveness of any permit an occurring one million ($1,000,000.00) dollar liability policy, including general liability and product liability, a two million ($2,000,000.00) dollar aggregate liability policy, and a three million ($3,000,000.00) dollar umbrella liability policy all naming the district as an additional insured and providing the District with 30-day advanced notification of policy cancellation;

(e) has agreed under the permit to hold harmless, indemnify, and defend the District from any and all claims for damages, including reasonable attorney's fees incurred in defense by said District, resulting from the dispensing of water from the facility or inspection and testing requirements herein; and

(f) the additional conditions set forth below:

- The permit is expressly conditioned upon:
 - (1) Periodic inspection under the programs of both the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (or other Federal Regulatory Agency) and the New York State Department of Health;
 - (2) Compliance with all guidelines for drinking water quality heretofore or hereafter established by federal, state or local authorities;
 - (3) Weekly testing on the end product by an independent New York State

LEGAL NOTICE

approved laboratory for bacteriological testing for total and E coli coliform, with test results being mailed directly by the laboratory to the District and the regulatory agencies;

(4) quarterly testing for sixty (60) organics, ten (10) heavy metals, and twenty-three (23) physical/inorganic tests by an independent New York State approved laboratory for organic and heavy metal testing (said tests being performed in conformance with the following regulatory guidelines as they now exist or hereafter may be amended: (EPA Methods 502.2, 504, 608, EPA Primary and Secondary Drinking Water Parameters, and EPA 200 Series with Method 200.7) with test results being mailed directly by the laboratory to the District and the regulatory agencies;

(5) Annual testing for eleven (11) pesticides, two (2) herbicides and one hundred twenty-eight (128) pollutants by an independent New York State approved laboratory for pesticide testing (said tests being performed in conformance with the following regulatory guidelines as they now exist or hereafter may be amended: (EPA Methods 335.2, 420.1, 6010, 7000 Series, 8080, 8240 and 8260.) with test results being mailed directly by the laboratory to the District and the regulatory agencies;

(6) Results of the testg show that the water (end product) meets the requirements of all governmental and regulatory agencies described above.

In the event that any of the above conditions are not met to the satisfaction of the District, the permit shall be revoked and water service to said bottled/vended water facility shall be terminated forthwith.

Nothing contained herein, shall absolve the permit applicant or recipient of his, her, or its duty to comply with other federal, state or local agencies having concurrent jurisdiction of the subject matter of this permit.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that this Resolution shall take effect immediately.

Library Workshops

On three upcoming Wednesday evenings, the Bethpage Public Library will present a "Workshop Series for Parents" with David Stein, psychotherapist, who has said, "Parenting is undoubtedly the most challenging role a person can undertake, but in addition to love, we also need knowledge of the skills and techniques to deal with difficult decision-making." His evening series will offer perspectives on many aspects of child rearing as follows:

March 13 - 8 p.m. - Parent-Child Love, Child-Parent Love; Developing Self Esteem; Eating and Oral Gratification.

March 27 - 8 p.m. - Guilt and Anger

April 3 - 8 p.m. - Reward, Discipline, and Punishment; Learning Problems; Television.

David Stein, ACSW, has been a psychotherapist in private practice for the past twelve years. He also conducts family therapy at several early childhood centers in Queens. Each session will include group discussion and is open to parents, grandparents, expectant mothers, and caregivers too. Register for all sessions now at the Bethpage Public Library. The program is open to all residents of District No. 21. For further information, please call 931-3907.

featuring a glittering "Fun with Foil Show and Workshop" for this age group by star performer, storyteller, and craftsman Jack Lerner. Youngsters will listen to non-stop tales as a rainbow-hued parade of foil creatures is created. Merry hands-on fun - lots of enchantment for all! District No. 21 only. Call 931-3907.

On Tuesday, March 5, the Bethpage Public Library will launch a March special - a Mother Goose Time for 18-30 month-olds and their parents. The program will consist of mini-classes offering brief picture board stories, finger plays, songs, puppet fun, and circle games and will highlight a variety of materials that parents can use with this age group.

Mother Goose Time will be held at 10:30 a.m. on March 5, 12, 19 and 26. The program is open to residents of District No. 21, and registration is now being taken in the Children's Room of the Bethpage Public Library. For further information, please call 931-3907.

Families that read aloud, read a lot - current research indicates and reports show that children who have been read to in childhood excel in school. Therefore, starting January 31, the Bethpage Public Library will launch a brand new "Read-Aloud Club" called "Families as Reading Partners."

Hurry on over and sign up your youngster for our fun Read-Aloud Club for ages 3 1/2 to 8. And the whole family can join into the fabulous read-aloud game - parents, grandparents, brothers, sisters, aunts, uncles and more!

All you have to do is agree to read at least 20 library books to your youngsters and submit a written list of books (including child's name, address, phone number, age, and titles and authors of books) to the Children's Room staff by May 1. There will be a Gala Read-Aloud Party and Certificate Celebration on May 11, at 2 p.m. for all participating young people

Town Bd. Appoints Kunzig

The Oyster Bay Town Board on February 26 appointed Leonard Kunzig of Bethpage to fill the seat vacated by the appointment of John Venditto as Town Attorney.

Kunzig joined the Town of Oyster Bay in January 1982. He served as Assistant and Executive Assistant to the then Town Supervisor Joseph Colby. While in the Supervisor's Office, he served as liaison to the Town Environmental Control Commission and the Nassau County "STOP" D.W.I. Advisory Committee. He was appointed to the position of Deputy Commissioner of the Parks Department in January, 1988.

In addition to his other Town functions, Kunzig was a member of the Town's Labor Management Review Board and Management Negotiating Teams.

Kunzig brings to his new position not only his town experience, but a background in accounting. He is a graduate of the School of Professional Accountancy at the C. W. Post Center of Long Island University, where he earned a Bachelor of Science Degree in May 1980. He also holds a Computer Systems Analysis Degree from Grumman Data System Institute. Before coming to the Town, he was an internal auditor for the National Bank of North America.

A lifelong resident of Bethpage, Kunzig is active in a number of community organizations. In addition to being a charter member of the Bethpage Community Council, he is a member of the Bethpage Central Civic Association, the Bethpage Historical Society and the Plainview-Bethpage Lions Club.

Kunzig is married, and he and his wife, Donna, have two children, Brian, age 5, and Christi, age 2.

Republican Club News

The following individuals have been elected to serve as officers in the Theodore Roosevelt Republican Club for 1991:

President, Buddy Mazzara; 1st Vice President, Corey Comerford; 2nd Vice President, Janis Rufrano; 3rd Vice President, Lois Cusick; Treasurer, Craig Comerford; Membership Sec., Mary Comerford; Corr. Sec., Robert Jacoppi; Rec. Sec., Karen Romano; Press Sec., Mathew Rufrano; Sgt-at-Arms, John Cusick; Sgt-at-Arms, John Caggiano.

Oyster Bay Town Attorney John Venditto, left, greets Buddy Mazzara, right, President of the Theodore Roosevelt Republican Club at last month's Bethpage Republican Committee meeting. Venditto, who was a member of the Oyster Bay Town Board for 10 years, swore in Buddy as President of the Club at the January meeting. Executive leader, George Yochmann said, "It was great of John Venditto to come to our Club and swear in our 1991 Officers in what could have been one of his last official acts as a Town of Oyster Bay Councilman."

To The Editor:

At a time when the men and women in our armed forces are facing their greatest test, we at home are facing a test as well. Our test is to maintain our unity and resolve, as our troops are doing in the Persian Gulf.

We don't want Saddam Hussein to take this country's tolerance for anti-war demonstrators as a signal he should wait out our resolve in a long and bloody war.

I'm outraged at the brutal treatment of our POW's. And I'm saddened to see the media give so much attention to the small number of anti-war protestors who have sprung into action. It seems that every time a few protestors pick up their signs, the cameras swarm around them, and they end up on the news.

Our soldiers have said that they have a job to do and are going to get it done. I feel I have a job to do, too. And that's to stand up in strong support of our troops.

I want them to know that I and the American people are very proud of them. We are all inspired by their bravery.

I hope that you'll print my letter, and others like it, in the days ahead. Thousands of local American Newspapers are reaching our men and women in uniform every day. Your newspaper may be one of them. I want the troops to know that we hold them in our thoughts and prayers every day.

Sincerely,
Robert M. Eaton

Marriott Earns 4 Diamond Award

The Marriott Residence Inn, Plainview, has earned the American Automobile Association's Four Diamond Award for its constant commitment to quality and excellence, the Automobile Club of New York announced.

"Four Diamond Establishments are among the very best lodgings and restaurants in North America," Kris Krause, Dir. of Approved Accommodations said. "They succeed because their staff and management are dedicated to providing a memorable experience for each of their guests."

Most of the 27,800 restaurants and lodgings rated by AAA and listed in its 1991 TourBooks earned one, two or three diamonds, Krause said. Just 23% earned Four Diamonds. Only one other hotel on Long Island has earned the prestigious Four Diamond Award.

One of 173 Residence Inns in the United States, the Marriott Residence Inn, Plainview, is currently the only one located on Long Island. Residence Inns offer deluxe accommodations specifically designed for the extended stay guest and families. Executives relocating to Long Island find all the comforts of home including fully equipped kitchens with microwaves and a grocery shopping service. Families can spread out in very affordable one or two bedroom suites and relax in the health club, whirlpool or saunas. An indoor and an outdoor swimming pool provide recreation and entertainment for the whole family throughout the year.

Marriott Residence Inn, Plainview, has also received three coveted awards from the Marriott Corporation in 1990: The Red Carpet Award, The Gold Award and The Excellence in Customer Service Award. The Plainview property was one of only eight Marriott Hotels nationwide to receive The Gold Award for overall quality and customer satisfaction.

The primary goal of the Marriott Residence Inns is to make long term hotel stays as pleasant and as stress-free as possible. Their dedication to this end is embodied in the company motto, "As close to home as we can make it."

Fatal Industrial Accident

Det. Michael Kuhn of the Second Squad reports the details of an industrial accident that occurred at the American Transfer Co., 344 Duffy Avenue, Hicksville, taking the life of a 25 year old Brooklyn man on February 21.

About 12 p.m. Donald Osborne, of 1310 Nostrand Ave., Brooklyn, was operating a fork lift preparing to move a dumpster into a garage for repairs. It appears that Osborne was attempting to line up the fork lift with the dumpster and for reasons unknown leaned out the side window and apparently engaged the lift control. The lift arm began to rise pinning Osborne to the roof of the lift.

Osborne was taken to the Nassau County Medical Center in East Meadow where he was pronounced dead from internal injuries.

The Second Squad is continuing the accident investigation.

Student Honored By Rotary Club

Kim Scarano, a Senior at Bethpage High School, was honored by the Bethpage Rotary Club with a Certificate of Excellence for achieving Finalist Status in the National Merit Scholarship Competition. Acting as Miss Reliability, Kim has been involved in every phase of school life and can always be counted on to help out wherever she is needed.

A consistently strong student in school, she has also been a regular member of the Drama Club, acting in five shows. Most recently she played Constance in the "Madwoman of Chailot." She has worked closely with the Student Council, as chairperson of public relations and Quartermaster. That title meant that she had to do all the banners and flyers to publicize the activities

Hicksville Fire Reports

In other Hicksville Fire Department operations since February 8, Firefighters responded to Jericho to stand by as they battled a large house fire in Old Brookville.

On February 9, at 4:27 p.m., a smoky blaze broke out in a lower level storage area of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., 100 Duffy Ave. Eleven units under Chief Wigdinski using 60 members worked for 2½ hours to extinguish the fire which was hard to get at with equipment.

Later on February 9, Haz-Mat members and Firefighters responded to a propane leak at the Fairhaven Garden Center at 284 N. Broadway. Members at the scene under Asst. Chief Scanlon had to burn off leaking gas that could not be shut off.

On February 12, Hicksville Fire Department Haz-Mat Unit responded to assist the Plainview Fire Department when a propane truck struck a step van carrying solvents and caused it to flip over on its side injuring the driver and spilling 200 gallons of mixed solvents. Haz-Mat Unit Members contained the leaking fluids, removed the drums from the overturned vehicle, soaked up the spilled product and prepared the area for a commercial clean-up crew. Time of call was 9:25 a.m. and was completed at 12:30 p.m. The accident occurred by the Town Landfill area on Winding Road.

Comm. Forum

Senator Kemp Hannon will be holding a Community Forum at Bethpage Public Library, 47 Powell Avenue, Bethpage, on Thursday, March 14, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

"The Community Forum provides an opportunity for the people to express their concerns and suggestions to their elected representatives(s) and to personally discuss the possible outcomes on the community of actions taken in Albany. Whether your major interest is the state of the economy, the budget, spending slashes, education, environment, health, transportation, taxes, crime, all of the above, or something else entirely, this is your chance to tell me about it directly," explains Bethpage's State Senator.

"I have found that Forums like this foster a productive exchange of ideas that allows me to identify legislative priorities that reflect local needs and worries. That is why I regard this as the most important part of the legislative process," Hannon concluded. For further information, or to arrange to present views on any issue either as an individual or as a representative of a community group, please contact Senator Kemp Hannon's District Office at 550 Stewart Avenue, Garden City - Telephone Number 222-0068. Also welcome are those who prefer to simply listen, or who want to provide moral support for the speakers.

Res. Covenants Placed On Zone Change

Fifteen restrictive covenants have been placed on a change of zone granted in Hicksville, according to Oyster Bay Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark.

"The applicant, Jerry Spiegel, was seeking a change of zone from 'D' residence to 'F' business district (neighborhood business) in order to construct an office building on property located on the northwest corner of West John Street and Strong Street in Hicksville," Councilman Clark stated. "Pursuant to a day/night public hearing held on March 27, 1990, the Board has granted the zone change subject to fifteen restrictive covenants."

In granting the change of zone, the Board stipulated that there shall be no access to or from Strong Street on the subject property. The applicant covenanted not to seek any parking variances and to restrict the occupancy of the building to professional offices with no medical clinic or medical lab uses.

With regard to the maintenance of the property, there will be no outside storage of material, equipment or waste unless it is kept in closed containers fenced in on three sides. Parking will be permitted only in designated areas leaving the driveway open at all times for fire and emergency apparatus. The grounds must be kept free of litter and debris at all times, and no garbage pick-ups will occur between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m. All signs must comply with Town sign ordinances, and all lighting must be positioned so as not to spill over onto adjacent properties.

Councilman Clark noted that no building permit or certificate of occupancy will be issued until a site plan has been submitted to, and approved by, the Town Board. The plan must be to scale and show all access and egress; the location, layout and striping of all parking areas; the location of all fences, signs, dumpsters and refuse containers; the location, size and variety of trees and shrubbery used in landscaping; and any other information deemed pertinent by the Department of Planning and Development.

Right Around Home

By Maureen Traoler

Not only was February "Heart Month" and "Presidents Month," but it was also "National PTA Month." Ninety-four years ago, on February 17, 1897, 2,000 people gathered in Washington, D.C. Out of that gathering, a national organization was formed, and it dedicated itself to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children in home, school and community.

Each year, the organization celebrates "Founders Day," which commemorates the day when the concept of PTA became a reality. In Hicksville, the Council of PTAs this week hosted its 38th annual Founders Day Dinner. The 1991 District Honored Guest was Mrs. Norma Goerke.

Norma remembers moving into her new home in Hicksville with her husband Herb some 32 years ago. The house seemed so big, just for the two of them. But over the years, with three growing boys, Norma experienced the shrinking house phenomenon.

Hicksville was quite different in those early days, especially prior to the widening of Broadway and the raising of the railroad tracks. Norma says that when her oldest son, Andrew, entered East Street School, there were eight Kindergarten classes and Andrew's class met from 2 to 4 p.m.

Living with "my three sons" was a challenge, and Norma dutifully served her time as den mother and shleppeo to ballgames both HBA and CYO. But today she can be mighty proud - Andrew works for Manufacturers Hanover here in Hicksville; second son Robert works for the Stock Exchange Enforcement Division and attends New York Law School at night; and Brian will soon be graduating from St. John's University, a finance/economics major.

Thirteen years ago, Norma became employed by the School District as a Teachers Aide, assigned to self-contained classrooms, grades one, two and three. To prepare for the job, Norma took some classes at Farmingdale to teach the learning disabled. "It was fascinating," Norma recalls, "we were learning through the eyes of a learning disabled student."

This year, the district has initiated a pre-K special education program partially funded through a Federal grant. The program is housed at Dutch Lane School and consists of a 2½ hour AM session for three year olds and a 2½ hour PM session for four year olds. For most of the students, this is their first experience with the school situation.

"The children are good to each other," says Norma. "There's no fighting. They accept and love each other." Norma works with the speech impaired and aids in developing motor skills and socialization.

Norma admires their frankness. She relates a recent incident when the children were going home; she said, "Bye, I'll miss you." A student quipped, "Why?" Norma answered, "Because I love you." "I enjoy working with the children; I get a lot out of it," Norma says.

Norma has been active in many aspects of life in the community. As a representative of the Hicksville Community Council she served on the Town of Oyster Bay's G-1 Zoning Committee. She identifies the G-1 problem as one which carried so many restrictions that it hampered the development of Broadway. More recently, Norma served on the Town's Hicksville Park District Task Force. Although the Town has not yet succeeded in effecting a major park facility in the community, it has proceeded with work suggested by the task force for the various west pocket parks sprinkled throughout Hicksville.

In the early 1980s, Norma was a member of the School Board's Reorganization Committee. On the Board's Secondary Study Committee, formed to pave the way for the establishment of a four-year high school and conversion to a middle school, Norma recalls attending the Middle Level Conference of the National Association of Secondary School Principals in March 1986. Norma felt that the information gathered at that time was invaluable to the successful transition to a middle school system.

Norma's been a Confraternity of Christian Doctrine teacher at Our Lady of Mercy Church for eight years, teaching fifth grade. In the last year, she taught a student one-on-one in her home. She is also a Eucharistic Minister. In addition to her duties in her own church, Norma serves as secretary for the Plainview Methodist Church, her husband's church.

Apart from all her affiliations, from all her responsibilities as wife, mother, teacher, from her day-to-day routine, Norma has two passions: reading and "going on vacations" (traveling).

Norma urges residents to "get involved." "Be aware of what's going on in all aspects of town," Norma adds, "and get your information first hand."

Most importantly, Norma urges all people involved in Hicksville "to continue to work for our children, because they are our future."

Many thanks to the Chamber of Commerce for the fine display of Old Glory around the Memorial Fountain and the adjacent Kennedy Memorial Park. The Chambers Flag Committee, in turn, thanks the Town of Oyster Bay Parks Department who assisted the Chamber by installing the flag holders on such short notice. The flying of our flags means so much to our residents stationed in the Gulf and to their families at home.

Burglary Arrest Made

Detective Joseph Aliperti of the Second Squad reports the details of a second arrest in the October 16, 1990 burglary of a Hicksville residence.

Edward Accordinp, age 23, of 82 Kuhl Avenue, Hicksville, was arrested by detectives Aliperti and Steinmann at 11:20 a.m., at his residence.

Accordinp was arraigned in First District Court, Hempstead, on February 25, at 9 a.m.

Senior High Presents Comedy

The Hicksville Senior High School drama club will perform "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying," a Pulitzer-Prize winning comedy by playwright Frank Loesser.

The play, scheduled for Friday, March 22, and Saturday, March 23, 8 p.m. performances, will be in the high school auditorium. Tickets are $6 (all seats are reserved) and may be purchased at the high school during lunch periods or by mail (send order to Mrs. Paseltiner at Hicksville High School, Division Avenue, Hicksville, N.Y. 11801. Please make checks payable to Hicksville High School; include date and number of tickets).

"How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying" is the story of a young man, working as a window-washer, who reads a book with instructions on how to succeed in business. He uses this book to move up the corporate ladder in a big company. The first instruction is to find a company that is "so big that nobody knows what anybody else is doing." The laughs build from here.

Students in the cast include: John Butt as J. Pierpont Finch, the young man. Lauren Giacomino plays Rosemary, the secretary who falls in love with Finch. Daniel Bianco plays J.B. Biggley, the boss, who is married but has a girlfriend - a "bombshell." Barbara Wilson is Hedy LaRue, the "bombshell." LaRue used to be a cigarette girl at the Copa until Biggley gets her a job as a secretary in his company. T.J. Keevins plays Bud Frump, Biggley's nerdy nephew who works at the company. Additional lead roles include Nancy Hogan as Smitty, Lisa Entel as Miss Jones, and Sean Burns as Bratt. There are 45 students in the cast as well as crew members and the pit orchestra. Get set to be entertained with much singing and dancing! This show is guaranteed to be fun and is great for children of all ages.

For further information please contact the director, Judith Paseltiner, at 933-6647.

Kindergarten Registration

Kindergarten registration will be held during the month of March, at the Administration Building, Division Avenue, for children who will be five years of age on or before December 1. Children who will attend the following schools in September will be registered during the hours and weeks as listed: Burns and Dutch, Week of March 4; East and Fork, Week of March 11; Lee and Old Country, Week of March 18; and Woodland, Week of March 25. Hours, 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Valentines Day At Gregory Museum

On February 2, local artisan Diane Ruderfer once again displayed her talents at the Gregory Museum by helping students make old fashioned lace Valentines.

By using pre-cut hearts and lace, the students created picture frames, cards and 3D puffed out cards to give their special Valentine. A "hearty" time was had by all and the Gregory Museum hopes to make use of Diane Ruderfer's talents in the future.

as a not vote," insisted Mr. Bennett.

By delaying, the district runs the risk of losing the bus company or losing the contract extension at the low 1% increase. Several parents spoke up in praise of the bus company and urged the Board to accept the extension rate.

* hiring of one teaching assistant to accommodate the influx of limited English proficient (LEP) students. The assistant would be placed in English-as-a-Second-Language classes and would be under the supervision of the Foreign Language Department. The funds for this position would come from the LEP State Aid grant. Mr. Bennett and Mrs. Wolf voted "aye;" and Mr. Marillo and Mrs. Rudin voted "no."

Resident speaking at the general public session voiced frustration with the Board's handling of the evening's agenda. Mrs. Rose Walker opposed the Board's reluctance to pay the Section VIII fees, stating, "As a Board, you belong to associations, and it doesn't come out of your pockets." She emphasized that the students and their parents are carrying a heavy burden with regard to sports fees.

In light of the bleak financial outlook at all levels of government and the possibilities that the district will receive less and less funds from Albany and Washington, several residents urged the district to cut back. They cautioned the Trustees not to conduct "business as usual."

Jay Schwartz, treasurer of the Hicksville American Soccer Association, informed the Board that, under the austerity fee schedules, his organization recently paid out almost $1400 for the use of the high school gym and cafeteria on two occasions in February. Mr. Schwartz suggested that if the district finds itself on austerity in the future they may consider reducing costs for organizations which are not-for-profit or strictly benefit the children of Hicksville. He further suggested that the Board may then increase fees for outside organizations or those not directly serving Hicksville youngsters.

The Board will hold two public budget sessions on Wednesday, March 6, and Wednesday, March 20, both in the senior high school cafeteria at 8 p.m. The next regular meeting of the Board will be held on Wednesday, March 27, at 8:15 p.m.

Input Callers Favor Strong Energy Policy

Most callers to Input think that we should have a national policy to lower oil imports in response to this question: "Do you think an energy policy to lower oil imports should be pursued after the war?" Here are some of the answers:
WAITED TOO LONG

Frankly we should not have waited so long to have a policy that would develop less need for oil and less need for oil imported from the

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Do you think that Saddam Hussein should have to face war crimes charges?

Middle East. There are many parts of the world including the U.S. that have large deposits of oil but we have been able to juggle the price of oil from the Middle East so that it is cheaper than elsewhere. But if you consider the fact that the war, in part, was to defend oil, the price was higher than we thought. We should definitely have a national program designed to cut down the use of oil and we should try to get other countries such as Mexico to enter into agreements with us so that oil will come from a variety of sources. K.H.

NEEDED NUCLEAR

If we did not listen so strongly to the people who kept us from having a nuclear power plant we would have cut down the need for imported oil. But as usual a minority with nothing other than the manipulation of the media and politicians has stopped our development of energy with the idea that we should go back to the "horse and buggy days." The same group that talked as experts on the desert warfare is among the people who want to stop nuclear power. It is time that our national policy be that the majority rules instead of the fakes. J.F.

OTHER POWER

We can get along with less oil simply by developing other means of power. We have not been pursuing these goals somewhat because scientists are afraid of offending the anti nuclear people who have no solution to problems. They simply have a negative stand. We hear complaints that our national product is going down and that there is a recession. The war in the gulf has proved that the U.S. can still do things and it was done by not listening to the college experts who always know all of the answers but never are held responsible when they are wrong. L.N.

LONG TERM GOALS

I think that the Middle East, although, presently in our domain is not a place that we can depend on over the long haul to supply us with power. We need to formulate an energy saving program that will have a goal to get other sources of energy in the next century. We must have a long term energy policy and President Bush, who has shown his skill in engineering a victory in war, has the brains to form a policy that will make us self sufficient in the future. N.F.

GET RID OF LILCO

If one just looks at the whimps who run the Long Island Lighting Company and the lack of planning that this utility has for Long Island one wonders if a national policy will ever evolve. Long Island Lighting has no policy for the future. Its goals are simply to survive and milk the ratepayer for overpriced energy which it sells us. Our energy policy should start right here on Long Island by getting rid of the Long Island Lighting Co. and putting into place people with more skill. N.F.

OTHER ENERGY FORMS

Any energy policy will have to have bi-partisan endorsement and therefore it will take both major political parties to agree and carry it out. When there is a change of administration the policy should be locked into place. We have had success in the Gulf war but that should not lull us into believing that we can get as much oil as we want from that region. We need an energy policy that will cut down the use of imported oil and work to get us on to another form of energy. G.D.

WAR OBJECTIVES

After we win the Persian War we should 1. Try Sadam Hussein as a war criminal. 2. Destroy his military hardware. 3. After Iraqi oil production resumes, take a high percentage of income for reconstruction of Kuwait. 4. The U.S. should not contribute to rebuilding Iraq. J.Q.P.

FRIGHTEN PEOPLE

I think we do need an energy policy. We've needed one for the last three decades. Every President says he's going to come up with a great energy policy not dependent on the Middle East. And every President does not. George Bush said he would be the Energy President but he has enough on his shoulders right now. I really believe that we should pursue things that we have started. We have started too many things. We found out you could make a suitable fuel from cactus plants. We worked on wind and had windmills. We had fuel made of corn and other things that haven't really made it. All of these things are like science fiction to the average person and all a candidate has to do these days is say he has a great idea. Let's boondoggle to the tune of $2 million and check out these things with a few friends. That is the extent of energy conservation in this country. Just like the environment. People throw things out of car windows. People aren't conscious of environment or conservation. I think what we need is some good scare tactics to tell people that in a few years they will be paying triple or quadruple for gas and fuel. We need to frighten the people in the place it hurts the most in their wallets. H.S.

MUST NEVER BE IN A BIND AGAIN

What an ambient in which to reply to this week's "Question" with the U.S.S.R. muddying up the Gulf waters in their own self-interest aided and abetted by an egotistic madman. Certainly, whatever the solution to the present crisis, we should have learned a lesson. Unfortunately, it may be at a price we are not anxious to pay - that of making sacred environmentally valuable land and water available for oil exploration. But, it seems to me that there is enough oil under the surface of the Western Hemisphere to satisfy the basic needs of all the countries therein aided and abetted by additional energy from new sources motivated by Governmental funding of R & D to encourage such development. We certainly can't afford ever again to be caught in a bind by unscrupulous political scavengers ever willing to sacrifice the lives and interests of others in self-centered egotistic abandon. Certainly, lowering oil imports would be one way to encourage new development. Obviously, such a move would cause economic reverberations in the Eastern Hemisphere but I am sure that there would still be sufficient demand throughout Europe, Africa, the Middle and Far East to support the OPEC countries. P.G.S.

Helping Youngsters Understand War

By Marjorie Wolfe

During the mid '70s my son, Jonathan's elementary school teacher, Mrs. Pincus, expressed concern about his obsessive interest in his G.I. Joe doll. She inquired whether his father had served in the armed forces. (No, he hadn't.) While Jon's female classmates were playing with their Barbie doll, he and his young friends were clamoring for toy bombers, tanks, and toy soldiers.

Today's teachers are probably asking the same question about P.I. Peter from Honda, which comes with a miniature semi-automatic pistol and slinging bayonet. In 1991, according to "Toy & Hobby World," G.I. Joe, who had a tough 1990, will be backed up by $12 million in advertising this year, and all figures and accessories in the line will be outfitted with battle sounds and workable weapons. Scary, isn't it?

Marshall Cohen, Executive VP for MTV Networks says that a "poll found 85% of the children say they are worried (about the Gulf War) and 75% say they're sad, mostly due to the potential for people being hurt or killed." The youngsters are obsessed with the fragility of life. They turn on CNN and see pictures on the news of our troops in Saudi Arabia. Their vocabulary now includes such buzzwords as Golden BBS, Wadi, collateral damage, Homers, Zoombag, Fur ball and Frogfool. Their ABCs: armament, bomb blasts, and chemical warheads.

Shown below are some tips on how to handle your kids fears:

- Don't dodge the issues. Give honest answers. Talk about your child's stress.
- Attend a workshop for pre-school families to help parents deal with the anxieties produced by the daily news programs. The Mid-Island Y offers such a workshop. North Shore University Hospital also offers ongoing classes by the Positive Parenting Program.
- Discuss the significance of the yellow ribbon; it's a symbol meaning "I support the U.S. soldiers in Saudi Arabia."
- Use a world map or a globe and have your child locate the Middle East. "Newsweek's" Feb. 4 issue contained a series of Hammond pull-out maps of the Gulf War Zone.
- Ask your librarian for a tape of ABC's "War In The Gulf: Answering Children's Questions," which aired on Saturday, January 26. WLIW/21 has reruns of "Kids Ask About War." Even Mr. Rogers has talked about war!
- Define the military jargon as simply as possible. Explain that "collateral damage" is a euphemism for civilian casualties. Young people can comprehend the term "Homers": Iraqi commanders - as in Homer Simpson, the cartoon character. Another popular term which you might wish to discuss is "rumint," short for rumor intelligence.
- Encourage your child to purchase and mail Hallmark's new line of cards. One of them begins, "It takes a special person to serve our country."
- Maintain a sense of humor. Humor is like a needle and thread -- deftly used it can patch up just about everything. Avoid purchasing video war games or board games such as "Kuwait War." Keep your child busy with normal activities: Scouts, Little League, 4H, etc.
- Be prepared to explain statements like, "Why is it that old men declare wars, but it is youth that must fight them?" "What will happen if Scud missiles hit Long Island?" "Will we ever see the last of war, or will war see the last of us?"

Follow the advice of Dr. Lee Salk, the child psychologist: "...you can say that war is a terrible thing, yet we still need to have young men and women ready to defend national principles, and that the President, the United Nations and other countries always try to solve problems without fighting. You have an opportunity to help your children understand what it takes to make a peaceful world."

READER RATINGS

WELL RECOMMENDED

We happened to be going by Ben's Kosher Restaurant on Northern Boulevard and Glen Cove Road in Greenvale last week and remembered that it was one of the restaurants recommended in your Discovery.

At first we thought that it was not going to be what we wanted but then after we were inside it became clear that Ben's is the whole thing, just as it used to be in those famous restaurant delicatessans that are now out of business in New York City. You can get anything from a sandwich to a full meal and the members of our group did all of that. To recite what we all had would be impossible but let it suffice to say that we were well pleased and recommend Ben's. E.McB.

CHINATOWN HERE

Chinatown minus the long trips to New York City equals the Orchid Restaurant in Garden City. I am an epicure of Chinese food and I was very surprised when I saw the Orchid Restaurant in Garden City. I was passing through and I was hungry so I stopped in. At first I thought it was a very small restaurant but as I walked down the stairs it actually was very large and tastefully decorated and I was there with my family and the food was absolutely delicious. I feel that when I want good Chinese I won't have to go to New York City. J.L.

Q. When eating out, I am often tempted to enjoy my pie or pudding served with whipped cream. Tell me, how many calories do I actually save when I skip this all too delicious extra?

A. Whipped cream has 28 calories per tablespoon, so I would guess that the number of calories in the topping adds up to 150 or 200.

Q. Last week, while eating in an elegant (and quite expensive) French restaurant, I saw a teenager sitting near me combing her long blonde hair at the table. Her parents seemed unconcerned!

A. The young woman's behavior was inexcusable. Arranging one's hair in a public place is always a breach of etiquette.

Her parents should have suggested that their daughter make a quick trip to the ladies room to fix her coiffure.

Q. As a newly hired woman executive with a large store, I will soon be taking male clients to lunch on occasion. What is the best way to handle payment of the check?

A. A credit card would be your best solution. Another possibility would be a charge account with a good local restaurant.

The bills could then be presented to your employer.

J. When dining out I have often seen women wearing their coats to the table, then depositing them on the back of their chairs. However, I have never seen a man do the same thing with his overcoat. Is there really a difference in etiquette for men and women in regard to checking coats?
A. Yes, a man always checks his coat in a restaurant. But a woman has the option of checking her coat or bringing it to the table.

Q. Will you please describe the correct procedure for introducing one couple to another (1) when the couples are approximately the same age (2) when one couple is older or more distinguished in station than the other?
M.J.
A. When the couples are about the same age it doesn't matter whose names are mentioned first. When one couple is older or more distinguished - or perhaps guests in your town - you introduce the younger couple.

Q. When I am on a diet, I find it difficult to find things at restaurants. What do you suggest?
C.B.

A. The suggestion is that you check ads and call restaurants. Many of them have special diet plates that will be just what you are looking for. Some restaurants will allow substitutions and you can make your own plate but you cannot be sure of this unless you check the restaurant policy in advance.

Q. We're having a very fancy dinner party and need some help with our choice of white wines. I'm not much of a wine expert and frankly don't know anything about the whys or whens. Please help!
M.M.

A. For a good white table wine try U.B. Pinot Chardonnay which is produced primarily in the California North Coast Counties. The name is derived from the grape that produces the best white Burgundies and Champagnes of France. Pouilly Fuisse is a superior dry white Burgundy from the same grape. For a label watcher try Mon Tracht, a classic white Burgundy which is probably the most celebrated and expensive dry white wine of France. Chablis is a dry white wine. The name is used widely in the United States to describe a variety of white wines using some proportion of Chardonnay grapes.

FOR THE KIDS
If you have several small children like we do, but want to go out and eat and be at ease, take my advice and visit the Casa Mia in Bethpage. This small, homey place was so comfortable we felt like we were visiting family. The children's menu was plentiful and economical. We can't wait for warmer weather when we can take advantage of the outdoor seating. P.S.

NICE PLACE
Bonoer's Cafe is one of those small restaurants that makes me glad there are such places away from the larger crowds. For your readers who do not know of this place, it is located in Williston Park on Hillside Avenue and is just a small but elegantly decorated restaurant. The menu is a pretty good sized one and we have always found it to be an enjoyable place whether we were having a late night snack or a luncheon special. We recommend it to your readers. J.F.

Q. Help! What does someone do who enjoys eating out, but is constantly on a diet and has absolutely no will power?
A. One solution might be eating in a Chinese restaurant. The food is low in fat, desserts are simple and the usual beverage-green tea, with no cream or sugar-has no calories at all!
Another good idea might be choosing a restaurant with a big salad bar—a delicious and nutritious way to take the edge off an over-eager appetite.

GOOD ITALIAN FOOD

My husband and I have visited Luna Restaurant in Floral Park two times. The first time was excellent. The second time was superb. If this is any indication of the quality of this fine Italian restaurant I can hardly wait for the next time we go there. The atmosphere is warm. The service is attentive and courteous. The food is like dining in heaven. If you like good food try their chicken Valdosta and be sure you don't leave until you try their tartufo for dessert. A.D.

Q. It seems every time I go to a certain restaurant with my wife, we're given very poor seats. Either we're put in a draft near the door or else we're seated next to the noisy kitchen. It is too bad because we like the restaurant otherwise. It has a nice cozy atmosphere and the food and service are good. What should we do?

A. One simple solution to your problem would be to request a better situated table when you are making reservations. You might also speak to the owner or headwaiter. If he sees you are frequent customers he will wish to please you.

We enjoy dining out and when we find a truly outstanding restaurant we like to share it. Ristorante Giulia is just such a one. It is located at 570 Middle Neck Road in Great Neck; the cuisine is Northern Italian/French.

There is an antipasto display, shortly after you enter, which we could not resist, with roasted red peppers, thinly sliced, grilled eggplant, plus fresh mozzarella cheese, salamis, olives. It was exceptionally good! Crisp rolls and breadsticks, with a glass of white wine started the salivating juices rolling.

Our next two choices were Saltimbocca Fiorentina, which consisted of veal with prosciutto, sage, white wine and spinach, our other choice was Filet Mignon, with a green pepper sauce.

We topped off this fine dinner with cafe espresso.

The attentive service plus the fine food, the welcome atmosphere made for a memorable evening. I heartily endorse Ristorante Giulia. NMM

Q. I have noticed that Chinese restaurants do not provide knives when serving meals. Can you tell me the reason for this practice?

A. In the orient food is cut into small pieces before it is cooked.

This has the advantage of reducing cooking time and also minimizing any loss of nutrients. In China it is considered bad manners to cut food at the table.

Q. Recently while dining in a Portuguese restaurant, my friend and I were served a sweet white wine with our dessert. Would you have any idea what the name of this wine would be? It was delicious.

A. You may have been served one of Portugal's sweet white ports. They come from the area of Oporto and I agree with you that they are very good and surprisingly little known by Americans.

Q. When dining out I have often seen women wearing their coats to the table, then depositing them on the back of their chairs. However, I have never seen a man do the same thing with his overcoat. Is there really a difference in etiquette for men and women in regard to checking coats?

A. Yes, a man always checks his coat in a restaurant. But a woman has the option of checking her coat or bringing it to the table.

Beard lives on in recipes, biography

By Kit Snedaker

James Beard, more than anyone else, made us aware of the delights of our own food.

Even Julia Child recognizes him as the trailblazer of American cooking. "In the beginning," she says, "there was Jim."

When he died in 1985, Beard left a legacy of hundreds of newspaper columns and magazine articles written over the years, and 22 cookbooks with one, "Memories and Menus," half done.

His publisher, Knopf, immediately commissioned Evan Jones, author of "American Food: The Gastronomic Story" (and other books), who had consulted with Beard on his unfinished book, to write Beard's biography. The result is "Epicurean Delight: The Life and Times of James Beard," published last fall.

"The hardest part," Jones says, about this, his first biography, "is keeping Jim's image as each of his friends saw him."

Friends included every important cook or cookbook author in the country. Beard was an enormously civilized man, Jones says, but he managed an evenhanded treatment of this titan. He gives us Beard, warts and all.

"Jim insisted that what this country needs is a junk food day," Jones says. "Beard understood street food."

He also understood how to teach cooking. His were among the first cooking classes in the country set up for amateurs.

Jones includes selected recipes as part of the biography, starting with some of Jim's earliest. The variety and changes reflect the changes in American cooking in the last few decades.

While Beard was interested in every ethnic cuisine and developed dishes from them all, his real love was American food and American bounty. He was one of the first cooks to celebrate fresh ingredients and cooking from scratch in a world overflowing with convenience foods and packaged mixes.

Some of his recipes are below. I've reduced the salt and saturated fat somewhat without affecting the flavor.

BEARD'S LAMB LOAF

2 pounds ground lamb
1 cup dry bread crumbs
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup finely chopped parsley
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
2 eggs

Yields 4 to 6 servings. Each serving has about 175 calories, 10 grams fat, 271 milligrams cholesterol and 134 milligrams sodium.

Mix ground lamb with crumbs, onion, parsley, garlic and mustard. Add eggs and mix well (best with your hands).

Form mixture into loaf in shallow bread pan. Bake in preheated 350 F oven for 50 to 60 minutes. Serve with green salad.

Makes wonderful sandwiches the next day.

MELTING MOMENTS

¼ cup butter
¼ cup sugar (¼ cup plus 2 tablespoons)
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon baking powder
Rolled oats

Yields 30 to 40 cookies. Each cookie has 50 calories, 2 grams fat, 8 milligrams cholesterol and 14 milligrams sodium.

Cream butter and sugar. Beat egg yolk with vanilla. Sift together flour, cornstarch and baking powder. Stir in butter-sugar mixture. Then stir in egg yolk-vanilla mixture.

Shape into balls the size of a marble and turn in oats to cover. Place greased cookie sheet in shallow pan to avoid spillage. Arrange cookies on sheet, leaving room for them to spread out, and bake in preheated 375 F oven for 15 minutes.

MARSEILLES GARLIC SOUP

3 tablespoons low-sodium margarine
30 (yes, 30) peeled garlic cloves
6 to 8 cups low-sodium chicken stock
Freshly ground pepper
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
4 egg yolks
4 tablespoons olive oil
6 to 8 slices toast

Yields 6 to 8 servings. Each serving has about 170 calories, 7 grams fat, 122 milligrams cholesterol and 128 milligrams sodium.

Melt margarine in heavy saucepan over low heat. Add garlic cloves and shake, keeping heat gentle so garlic cooks without browning. It should just melt in margarine; letting it brown is fatal as the flavor turns bitter. Add chicken stock and season to taste with ground pepper. (Jim adds that he likes to grate a tiny bit of nutmeg. He also adds that in other recipes you may drop in a sprig of thyme, another of sage or clove.)

Simmer for 15 to 20 minutes and force through sieve or food mill to puree garlic. Reheat soup. Beat egg yolks into olive oil. Stir some of hot soup into yolk and oil mixture, then stir this gently into soup and heat. Do not under any circumstances let soup come to boil or yolks will curdle.

Serve in large soup plates, ladling soup over crisp toast, 1 piece to a serving.

FOR TEENS

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Dr. Abraham: When I'm out with my boyfriend at a mall or a movie, he keeps looking at other girls. When I ask him why, he says it is because they are beautiful. When I tell him to stop, he says he can't, and besides, what difference does it make? I'm the one he is with, so why should I complain, he says.

Does that make sense to you? I wonder whether I should hold on to him, or let him go ahead and chase all those that he thinks are so beautiful. — Angry

Angry: I can understand your frustration, but he may have a point, too. As long as you are the one he spends time with, you may be the main one in his life. You have him, and isn't that what is important?

But the situation would be different if you find out that he is wandering with more than his eyes, like having dates or phone calls with other girls. If that doesn't happen, continue to enjoy his company. It might phase out, but on the other hand, it could last a long time if you want it to.

Dr. Abraham: Do you think a 16-year-old guy should know better than to like two sisters, one 14 the other my age? I really think they are both terrific, beautiful, loving and (get this!) both love me. I can't believe how lucky I am.

Maybe this can go on and on, and I hope it can. But I don't know, I've read about guys who marry more than one at a time, but can it be done now? Is it legal? — Hoping Hoping: As far as I know, it isn't. Besides, you are all underage, and marriage isn't worth having in your thoughts right now.

Try to enjoy time with both of the girls as long as it is OK with them. I have a hard time believing they both will hold on for an extended period of time. Perhaps they will, but the odds seem to be against it. One of them may eventually present this ultimatum to you: Make up your mind which one of us will be your girlfriend.

If that happens, just hope that the one you choose accepts you.

Dr. Abraham: I'm a 13-year-old girl, and yesterday I had my first kiss from a boy. I think it was a kiss, but it just felt like a peck on my cheek. Maybe it was his first time, too, so I guess maybe he didn't know how to do it right. I'm not sure I do, either, so I guess I can't blame him.

All I know is that I don't think it was so great, so what is all the talk about how wonderful kissing is? I just don't get it. Do you? — New Kisser

New Kisser: Being at the getting or giving end with someone a person likes can contribute to the enjoyment. The involvement of both people can make it more pleasant. And "knowing how" is worth thinking about.

I looked up the word "kiss" in my dictionary. It provided this definition: "a caress with the lips." I found more in another fine book that I hope you will become acquainted with sometime.

It is "Bartlett's Familiar Quotations," and it included 44 quotations that use the word. The meanings for it vary almost that many times. And all that doesn't cover Bartlett's use of "kissed," "kisses" and "kissing" in many other quotations.

So you may see that the word gets its feeling and meaning from the individuals involved with it, and they differ from one person to another.

One thing on which most people agree is that it represents a pleasant experience, but it depends on the people and when the timing and place fit together, too.

Dr. Abraham: I daydream and have fantasies about the "Mr. Wonderful" I'll meet and fall in love with someday. Because I'm 15 years old, I'm not worried about when it will happen and don't feel in any hurry.

What does worry me a little is the grubby boys I see at school, little guys with hair and skin that shouldn't happen. They are sure not anything like the one I dream about.

I saw "Gone With the Wind" a few weeks ago, and that's more my type — Clark Gable, I mean.

Do you think I'm in for a lot of disappointments because I'm aiming too high? — Wishful

Wishful: Probably not, because the skin, hair and height factors will no doubt start to reach toward your standards within the next few years.

Try to keep your eyes open for those who share your interests and have the other qualities that are important to you. They might include traits like thoughtfulness, sensitivity, a sense of humor and brightness.

Although the ones you are attracted to later on may not be a Clark Gable, they will have the characteristics you are comfortable with and admire.

It is important to remember that they will be in the here and now, while famous movie stars and other "heroes" aren't.

Q. We have a small covered porch off the master bedroom, and I would love to set it up for summer like an outdoor living room.

There is a problem, though, because the sides are open and I hate the idea of having to drag the cushions in and out.

We can't really afford to close it in this year. What could I use that can stand up to the weather?

A. I will let New York interior designer Margot Gunther, ASID, answer that one. She faced the same situation in a show house — the classic Colgate estate in Connecticut — and found several weather-wise solutions worth passing along.

- Crisp sailcloth curtains are strap-hung on iron bars so they can be drawn in case of rain. No ordinary sailcloth this: It's protected by Teflon soil-and-stain repellent to be virtually impervious to rain.

- The same fabric covers all the upholstery, including the elegant but durable rattan chaise and chairs (from J. Williams).

- The sofa is an old one, made new again in its sailcloth covers — "A bit of smart recycling," Gunther points out, "since you might not want to expose good upholstery to the elements."

- The other chairs and tables are wrought iron, Giacometti-style, with glass tops and vinyl strap seats. No need to worry about them.

- The area rugs are good, but the curtains would protect them in all but gale-force weather. The painted canvas cloth beneath them mimics flagstones and is almost as durable as the real thing, since it's protected by clear polyurethane.

• All-weather accessories, such as garden urns and flowering plants, thrive in such an alfresco setting anyway.

In all, this is outdoor living at its best: a room with a view and — aside from an occasional mosquito — all the comforts of indoor living brought outdoors.

OUTDOOR ELEGANCE — Designer Margot Gunther creates an alfresco sitting room within protective curtains of white sailcloth.

Backyard Gardener

By Patrick Denton

Consider growing a patch of nasturtiums this spring. Nothing could be easier, as this is an almost lasciviously generous flower and the most gardener-friendly annual possible.

I always have a few extra packets of nasturtium seed on hand to fill quickly with lush growth and lively color those odd pockets and corners of the garden needing some quick summer brightening.

In mild winter climates the nasturtium often accomplishes this all by itself. In the spring sprightly plants appear here and there from seed fallen the previous summer. And though their appearance may sometimes disturb other plans made for their sites, it's hard to uproot these carefree, vivacious volunteers.

Few annual flowers are as lovely and useful as the nasturtium. The delicately fragrant, frilly blooms in their splashy shades of orange, yellow, red and mahogany make beautiful old-fashioned cut flower bouquets in small vases.

The young and tender leaves, rich in Vitamin C, lend a peppery tang to salads and sandwiches. The flower petals, also edible, bring fiery color as well as tangy flavor to the same foods. The blossoms serve as colorful holders for dip fillings, and they garnish fruit salads and other cold dishes with flair.

The nasturtium was found growing in Mexico and Peru, where it was used to flavor foods. From there the seeds were taken to Spain, and then to Paris where the plants became very popular. The English soon discovered nasturtiums, calling the plants "Indian cress" for the hot-flavored leaves. By the 17th century the nasturtium had become so popular as a garden and cut flower and as a food plant that few European gardens were without it.

The nasturtium belongs to the plant genus Tropaeolum. It is said that the round leaf suggested a shield and the flower a spear-pierced, bloodstained helmet — the whole picture resembling a trophy, or tropaeum, presented at Roman triumphs. The name nasturtium is from the Latin nasus for nose and tortum meaning twist — nose-twister, probably a reference to the grime-causing mustard oil in the leaves.

All nasturtiums are blessed with bright green waterlilylike leaves and sunny-hued flowers, a combination that makes these plants ideal brighteners for every part of the garden except for very deep shade. The nasturtium's three distinct growth habits lend added versatility to its use in the home garden.

Dwarf nasturtiums such as Jewel, Whirlybird, and the green-and-cream-leaved Alaska form bushy mounds 12 inches high with upward-facing flowers. These compact varieties are useful as edging plants, in mixed flower planters and in limited-space garden spots for a quick color fill-in.

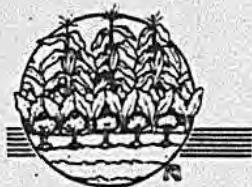

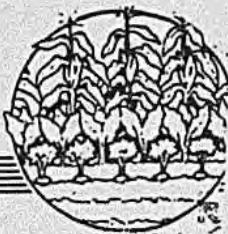

Semi-trailing nasturtiums are ideal for planting in baskets and for using to carpet a garden spot with lively color. The Gleam Hybrids are outstanding semi-trailing nasturtiums with large double flowers in salmon, yellow, orange, maroon and scarlet.

Tall climbing nasturtiums make vines 6 feet or more for growing on tall fences and trellises. These are usually identified on seed packets and in catalogs simply as Tall Climbing Mixed. My favorite climbing nasturtium is Tropaeolum peregrinum, the canary bird flower. This is a very vigorous climber with attractively lobed leaves and fringed canary yellow flowers. It is listed in the Park Seed catalog (Cokesbury Road, Greenwood, SC 29647-0001 — catalog free).

Growing nasturtiums is easy. Just poke the large seeds 1 inch deep into moist soil where you want them to grow, as the soil begins warming in the spring. Mid-April is about right in most years. Nasturtiums don't need a rich soil, but they will need regular watering in dry weather.

Nasturtiums are notoriously irritable transplanters. If for any reason you wish to start them indoors, perhaps for plants to set into mixed baskets or planters, start the seeds in small peat pots. At transplanting simply tear down the top and sides slightly before setting the plant, pot and all, into the soil.

Use Chinese sauces for exotic flavor

By Desiree Vivea

Love the flavor of your favorite Chinese restaurant dishes? You can replicate some of these flavors at home when you add prepared Chinese sauces to your own cooking.

In addition to the well-known soy sauce, some other popular Oriental concoctions are plum sauce, hoisin sauce, oyster sauce, chili sauce and sesame oil. All of these prepared sauces are available at Oriental markets, and most can now be found in larger grocery stores.

Soy sauce is an excellent addition to marinades and gives a nice, deep-brown color to microwaved meats. Made from fermented soy beans, wheat flour, yeast, salt and sugar, the soy sauce used by Chinese cooks comes in three grades: light, dark and black (the last is not really darker in color, but is instead thicker in texture with added solids, including molasses). Japanese soy sauce is a cross between light and dark, and may be substituted in most recipes.

Plum sauce, also known as duck sauce, is sweet, red and spicy. Made from plums, sugar, vinegar, hot peppers and spices, it is often used as a dipping sauce for finger foods like spring rolls. It is also blended with other ingredients as a binding sauce for stir-fry dishes. Plum sauce may be purchased in bottles or cans (flavor varies according to brand) or you can make your own microwave version using the recipe below.

If you do much Chinese cooking — or if you'd like to learn how — popular hoisin sauce is indispensable because so many recipes call for it. Hoisin is perhaps most often used with pork (it's a big ingredient in many marinades and barbecue sauces), although it also frequently flavors chicken, vegetables and fish. You'll also find it used at the table as a garnish for dishes like mu shu (those wonderful little savory meat-filled pancakes).

The bottle of hoisin sauce currently in my fridge (a product of Hong Kong) contains sugar, vinegar, soybean water, salt, flour, garlic, sesame seed, chili and spices. The sauce is thick, smooth and dark brownish-red, and smells sweet and spicy.

Oyster sauce is prepared from oyster extract, water and salt and is another of the most commonly used sauces in Chinese cooking. Deep brown in color, it lends a subtle oyster flavor to meat, fish or vegetable dishes, and it is also used as a table condiment.

Chili sauce is a thick red concoction of garlic and crushed chili peppers — use only a little to add a touch of fire.

Sesame seed oil (also sometimes flavored with chili peppers) is used not for cooking but for seasoning. Use this sparingly, as well.

Rice wine vinegar is another popular ingredient. If you don't have any on hand, a good white wine vinegar will do as a substitute.

The recipe for Chinese Plum Sauce comes from "Sunset Microwave Main Dishes," Sunset Publishing Corp., 1990. Use this sauce with duck, chicken or pork, brushing over meat during the last 10 minutes of cooking. Or use as a barbecue sauce.

The recipes for Broccoli with Oyster Sauce and Sesame Bok Choy come from Patricia Tennison's "Glorious Vegetables in the Microwave," Contemporary Books, 1987.

(Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.)

MICRO-TIP OF THE WEEK

Proper positioning of broccoli stalks will ensure optimum microwave results. Slit thicker stalks halfway up, and position in a round dish, with quick-cooking flowerets toward inside, slower-cooking stalks toward outside. Turn over halfway through cooking time.

CHINESE PLUM SAUCE

- 1 can (about 1 pound) whole plums
- ¼ cup water
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 small onion, finely chopped
- ¼ teaspoon Chinese five-spice or ¼ teaspoon each ground anise, ginger, cloves and cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon each dry mustard, ground cumin, and ground cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ cup tomato-based chili sauce
- 1½ teaspoons each soy sauce and Worcestershire
- ¼ teaspoon liquid hot pepper seasoning
- 1½ teaspoons rice wine vinegar

Yields about 1½ cups.
Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes.

Cooking time: 20 minutes.
Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Drain plums, reserving ¼ cup syrup (discard remaining syrup). Remove pits from plums. In blender or food processor, combine pitted plums, reserved ¼ cup syrup and water; whirl until pureed. Set aside.

Pour oil into deep 3-quart microwave-safe bowl; add onion and microwave, uncovered, for 5 minutes, stirring after 2½ minutes.

Stir in five-spice, mustard, cumin, cinnamon, pepper, chili sauce, soy, Worcestershire, hot pepper seasoning and plum puree. Microwave, uncovered, for 15 minutes or until reduced to about 1½ cups, stirring every 3 minutes. Stir in vinegar.

If made ahead, let cool, then cover and refrigerate for up to 2 weeks. Reheat before using.

BROCCOLI WITH OYSTER SAUCE

- 1 pound broccoli, flowerets only
- ¼ cup water
- ½ cup oyster sauce

Yields 4 servings.

Preparation time: 5 minutes.
Cooking time: 5 to 8 minutes (plus 2 minutes standing time).

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Soak broccoli flowerets in water for 5 minutes. Drain.

Combine broccoli and water in 2-quart microwave-safe casserole. Cover and microwave 5 to 8 minutes, until broccoli is tender enough to pierce with fork, stirring twice. Let stand, covered, for 2 minutes. Drain. Spread with oyster sauce and serve.

Our Children

Girl seems to live in a dream world

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Q. I have a problem about my daughter who is 13 years old.

We moved to California from Illinois. She doesn't have any friends, except at school, and the people here say we talk funny.

She sleeps much too much, watches TV a little, does her homework, and likes Cokes and baking cookies. That's about all.

She does everything well, but then it's off to her bedroom, sleeping again.

Sometimes she says that she must go back to sleep and finish her dreams. It's almost as though she goes to another world, and comes back to tell me what is happening there.

How can I break her of this habit? This seems serious, so maybe you have some ideas that will help. Thank you.

A. I hope these suggestions will be helpful to you and her.

Because you said that she has friends at school, would it be possible to invite one or some of them to your house and have her spend time with them? Perhaps that step would be of value toward her cutting back on what appears to be excessive sleep.

If they have a guidance counselor at her school, you might consider talking to him or her about the sleeping, dreaming, and spending so much time alone.

Please try to arrange for a physical examination by a competent doctor.

I'm not sure I understand why anyone would say someone from Illinois talks funny. After all, you're now in California and people move there from all parts of the country, in fact from all over the world.

Your comment reminded me of a time during World War II days when I heard a lecturer who had a radio program called something like "Where Are You From?" He said that the dialect of those from the Midwest was the clearest of any in our country. He added that if people came from Chicago they had the clearest of all. As a Chicagoan I especially liked that conclusion of his! I thought you also might enjoy it.

Please write again and let me know whether there are any changes in your daughter's behavior. I'll be very eager to hear from you.

Q. My husband and I are both overweight, go on and off diets, and really have little self-control when it comes to food.

What we are worried about is that our 8-year-old son is kind of fat, too. We have tried putting him on a diet, but it just doesn't work. He has become a food thief, sneaking into the refrigerator when we aren't around, and it is driving us up the wall.

A. Would you really be willing to "do almost anything"?

You seem to be providing a questionable diet model for him, and I wonder whether TV is your love, too. If your diet were consistently better and your television watching controlled, the example you provide would no doubt be more healthful.

A visit to your family physician could perhaps aid you in controlling the situation for your son, as well as for you and your husband. For starters you might share with him or her this letter you've written to me together with my response.

Cooking Corner

Chowder chef hates tinkering with tradition

Folks in Boston take their chowder, or "chowdah" as they call it, very seriously. And we're not just talking about the Manhattan red vs. New England white controversy.

In Boston, there is only one chowder. It's white. It contains fish, salt pork, onions, potatoes and milk or cream.

Jasper White of the city's acclaimed Jasper's Restaurant knows how to make real chowder.

"It's a 'frame of mind' kind of thing," White said recently by phone from Boston, where he had been digging his car out from under 14 inches of snow. "If you set out to make a soup, it won't work; if you set out to make a stew, you're in the spirit of what a chowder really is."

The best New England fish chowder starts with impeccably fresh fish, he said.

"The cod family is the best; if I had to pick just one fish, I'd pick haddock. On the West Coast, I'd use black cod. But any firm white fish with medium oil content will work. And salmon makes very good chowder."

Lean fish such as sole is not appropriate, nor is a firm, oily fish such as swordfish, he said.

White prefers to add the fish as whole fillets or in very large pieces. "It will get broken up somewhat as it's stirred. But it's nice to get a big chunk of fish when you dig in."

After that, it's a slow, gentle cooking process that results in a hearty, fragrant stew, thick with ingredients.

"But no flour," White hastened to add. "It gets thick from the potatoes. You shouldn't set out to make it thick; it will just happen."

The word "chowder" is thought to come from the French chaudiere, the iron pot or kettle that was hung over the open hearths of the Atlantic-hugging Brittany region. Fishermen from Brittany probably introduced the chunky stews here.

Today, they are as much a part of New England cuisine as brown bread, baked beans and fried scrod. And they should be appreciated as such.

White disdains the practice of ordering a tiny cup of chowder as prelude to a big feast.

"Most chowders should be served as a main course," he said. "They are hearty, satisfying soups."

He is equally disdainful about the idea of tinkering with a grand tradition in the name of "lightness."

"Without salt pork or bacon and cream, it's not chowder," White said with characteristic frankness. "I don't cut back on the butter, either; that's not what chowders are all about. If people are concerned, they should just eat a little less."

At Jasper's, White uses a blend of stock and cream to get a rich, but not cloying, taste and texture.

But chowders are not just restaurant fare, White hastens to point out.

"We make chowders all the time at home," he said. "And during the summer when we're in Maine (where the Whites have a summer home), we make chowders with the haddock and hake we catch."

White's favorite stew is his lobster and corn chowder, which he serves with homemade corn fritters. "It's such a logical combination," he said. "This chowder epitomizes the summer foods of New England."

In his introduction to the lobster-and-corn chowder recipe (contained in White's book, "Jasper White's Cooking From New England"), White explains how he uses native sweet butter and sugar corn, Vermont corn-cob-smoked bacon, Maine lobsters and unprocessed sweet cream from Gullford, Vt.

LOBSTER AND CORN CHOWDER

- 4 (1 pound) lobsters
- 6 ears corn on the cob (3½ cups kernels)
- 8 sprigs fresh thyme
- 1 teaspoon whole black peppercorns
- 4 bay leaves
- 1 onion, peeled, for stock
- 3 medium onions, cut in large (¾-inch) dice (3 cups)
- ½ pound slab smoked bacon, with rind
- 4 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 8 small new potatoes (1 pound), red or white, cut in ½-inch slices
- 1½ cups heavy cream
- Salt and freshly ground pepper
- Chopped chives or parsley for garnish

Yields 4 servings.

Bring generous amount of fresh sea water or salted water to boil, enough to cover lobsters completely when they are added. When water is at rolling boil, add lobsters. When water comes back to boil, cook lobsters 3 minutes exactly. Drain. When lobsters have cooled enough, break off tail and claws.

Crack claws and arms and carefully remove all meat. Cut tails in half lengthwise and remove intestinal tracts. Cut meat into large bite-size pieces; set aside in refrigerator. Put all shells and bodies in large kettle and cover with 12 cups of water. Bring to simmer.

Cut corn kernels off cobs; set aside. Cut cobs across and add to kettle. Pick leaves off fresh thyme and set aside; put stems of thyme in kettle. Add peppercorns, bay leaves and whole onion to kettle. Simmer for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Strain stock (you should have 6 to 7 cups).

Cut bacon into small (¼-inch) dice and render in soup pot until crisp. Add diced onions, thyme leaves and butter and cook until onions are wilted and tender (about 6 minutes); do not brown. Add corn, potatoes and stock. Simmer about 20 minutes or until potatoes are cooked through. Add cream and lobster meat. Season to taste with salt and pepper and simmer 2 minutes more. Serve in soup plates with chunks of ingredients sticking out above broth. Sprinkle each bowl with chopped chives or parsley.

NEW ENGLAND FISH CHOWDER

- 3½ pounds fresh cod fillets, skinless and boneless
- ¼ pound meaty salt pork, cut in ¼- to ½-inch dice
- 4 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 2 medium to large onions, cut in large (¾-inch) dice (3 cups)
- 3 bay leaves
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh thyme leaves
- 3 or 4 large Maine or other boiling potatoes, peeled and cut lengthwise in half, then into ¼-inch slices
- 3 cups strong fish stock (recipe follows)
- 2 cups heavy cream
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley and/or chervil
- 8 tablespoons (1 stick) unsalted butter

Yields 8 to 10 servings.

Prepare fish by removing any excess skin and picking out any bones with pair of tweezers. If you use a knife to cut out bones, be sure to leave fillets in as large pieces as possible.

Render salt pork in large soup pot until it begins to crisp. Add butter, onions, bay leaves and thyme. Cook for 5 minutes or until onions become soft. Add potatoes and fish stock and simmer for 20 minutes or until potatoes are tender.

Remove bay leaves and add cod fillets and heavy cream. Simmer slowly until fish is cooked through and begins to flake (about 8 to 10 minutes). Season to taste with salt and pepper. Stir in chopped parsley and chervil. Remove from heat.

Using slotted spoon, transfer chunks of fish, onions and potatoes to soup plates; then ladle over piping-hot broth. Put dollop of butter into each plate of soup and serve with crackers or biscuits.

FISH STOCK

- 2½ to 3 pounds fish bones
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 1 large leek, washed well and chopped small
- 1 medium onion, chopped small
- 3 stalks celery, chopped small
- 2 carrots, peeled and sliced thin
- 3 bay leaves
- 2 sprigs fresh thyme
- 4 or 5 parsley stems
- ¼ teaspoon whole black peppercorns
- 1 cup dry white wine
- Salt (optional)

Yields 1 quart.

Cut bones into pieces 2 to 3 inches across. Trim bones of any excess skin or viscera that may still be attached. Rinse or soak if necessary in cold water to completely remove any traces of blood.

Melt butter in stockpot on low heat and add leek, onion, celery, carrots, bay leaves, thyme, parsley stems and peppercorns. Cook for about 5 minutes, stirring a few times.

Add wine and place fish bones on top of vegetables. Cover pot and allow bones to sweat in the aromatic steam. After 20 minutes, remove lid and pour in 4 cups water, enough to cover fish bones.

Raise heat and bring stock to boil. Skim top, then reduce to slow simmer. Simmer for 10 minutes. If you like, you can lightly salt the stock.

Gently strain stock through fine strainer and chill as quickly as possible.

KITCHEN HINTS

When toasting, glasses are clinked

Chips can be the result.

Here's a safer salute:

1. A single clink won't do it, but the glass may be weakened.
2. The rims are the most fragile part. The best have little or no lip.
3. Don't clink the tops, tilt the glasses and use the sturdier bowl. The tinkling sound is the same.

The feminine mystique

By Melanie Barnard
and Brooke Doliv

A case can probably be made that most of the great restaurant chefs (at least until the last few years) in history have been men. But since excellent women cooks still outnumber men by staggering proportions, we believe that the statistics are definitely flawed.

These personal quirks aside, it is also notable that these great restaurant chefs paid more than a nodding due to the women in their lives since the number of classic dishes named after women are many.

In February, the month of romance, we feel it is high time to pay homage to this culinary feminine mystique.

A number of possibilities came to mind. There are those rich little cookies named after the famed actress, Sarah Bernhardt, and poulet bonne femme, a French chicken dish that honors good women everywhere. There is crepes Suzette, a coquettish little dessert, and pommes de terre Anna, a most wonderful treatment for potatoes.

But we have chosen to zero in on a couple of delicious recipes that seem to put themselves together to form the basis for a romantic little dinner a deux.

Steak Diane, a restaurant favorite in the newly "haute" dining era of the '60s, is best prepared for two since it is a delightful saute of a duet of steaks doused with cognac and flambéed with a flamboyant flourish. Serve it with buttered tiny new red potatoes and first-of-the-season asparagus spears.

Finish with Victoria Tart, which is as rich as the era from which it takes its name. Easy to make, it is almost sinful to eat.

Though we did vast (well, we looked in a few reliable sources) amounts of research, the reason for the namesakes of these classics and the stories behind them remain elusive. Ah, the feminine mystique.

STEAK DIANE

- 2 boneless New York strip, Delmonico or club steaks, each about 1/2-inch thick
- Freshly ground black pepper
- 1/4 tablespoon oil
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/4 cup minced shallots
- 1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tablespoons cognac or brandy
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Yields 2 servings.

Preparation and cooking time: 15 minutes.

Sprinkle steaks generously with pepper.

Heat oil and butter in heavy skillet large enough to hold meat.

Saute steaks over medium-high heat for about 3 minutes per side until browned and barely medium-rare. Remove steaks to platter and cover lightly with foil to keep warm.

Add shallots to drippings in skillet and saute 1 minute. Stir in mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Return steaks and any accumulated drippings to skillet. Heat, spooning sauce over steak. Turn off stove burner. Pour cognac over meat, let heat about 15 seconds, then carefully ignite cognac. Spoon flaming sauce over steaks until flames die down.

Serve sprinkled with parsley.

VICTORIA TART

- 1 prepared pastry disk
- Filling:
 - 2 ounces unsweetened chocolate
 - 8 tablespoons (1 stick) butter
 - 1 teaspoon instant coffee powder
 - 2 eggs
 - 1/4 cup granulated sugar
 - 1/4 cup packed light brown sugar
 - 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
 - 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- Topping:
 - 1 cup heavy cream
 - 1 tablespoon powdered sugar
 - 1 tablespoon dark rum (optional)

Yields 1 (9- or 10-inch) tart.
Preparation time: 15 minutes.
Baking time: 25 minutes.

Preheat oven to 450 F. Ease pastry disk into 9- or 10-inch tart pan with removable bottom (or 9-inch pie plate). Trim edges and prick bottom with fork. Place in freezer for 5 minutes.

Bake 10 to 12 minutes until pale golden. Let cool on rack while preparing filling.

To make filling, melt chocolate, butter and coffee powder in heavy saucepan over low heat or in microwave oven.

In mixing bowl, whisk together eggs, both sugars, flour and vanilla. Whisk in chocolate mixture. Pour into pastry shell.

Bake about 25 minutes or until edges are set and center is soft, but not liquid. Cool on rack. (Can be made 8 hours ahead and kept at room temperature.)

To make topping, whip cream with sugar and rum to soft peaks. (Can be made 3 hours ahead and refrigerated.) Serve tart with dollops of cream.

Note: If tartlets are desired, cut pastry into 4 pieces and ease each into a 3-inch tartlet shell. Bake as directed for about 9 minutes. Fill with 1/4 recipe of filling and bake 12 to 15 minutes. Serve as directed.

GARDEN TIPS

Pinecone bird feeders

During the winter, pinecones make attractive and functional bird feeders. Youngsters will enjoy making them and then watching the birds stop in for a snack.

■ Use large pinecones and tie them securely at the top with any type of string or ribbon (as fancy or plain as you like).

■ Stuff the cone with pieces of bread or moist crackers. Intermix seeds or dry crumbs. Loose seeds may fall out if not mixed with the bread or moist crackers.

■ The pinecone may be rolled in honey or molasses and then heavily sprinkled with birdseed and small crumbs.

■ Hang outside out of reach of cats and squirrels. Do not paint the pinecone or use glitter or glue. These may injure birds. Food coloring is acceptable.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. Our brick chimney is showing signs of age. Some of the mortar between the brick is cracked and crumbling. One side near the foundation is particularly damaged.

I experimented with some new mortar, applying it over the existing mortar in hopes of stopping the crumbling process. This did not work. The new mortar simply came loose with the older layers.

Can you give me any advice on how I might stop this process and repair the present damage?

A. Over the years brick mortar joints become more and more susceptible to damage by the elements.

There is a common, although tedious and painstaking, repair known as "tuckpointing." This involves the removal of cracked or missing mortar between the bricks and replacement with new mortar.

It is important that repair work be done, rather than let the mortar continue to disintegrate. If left unattended, moisture can get behind the bricks and cause major structural damage to the wood framework of your home.

Whether or not this is a do-it-yourself job depends on you, your level of patience as well as skills. This job requires the painstaking, cautious removal of all crumbling and cracking mortar, thorough cleaning, application of new mortar and removal of any excess mortar from the exterior brick.

Consider the magnitude of the job. If large areas need to be repaired, and bricks are falling apart or missing, you may be better off calling in a pro, a qualified masonry contractor. However, if the cracks are small and the deterioration minor, you can probably do the repair work yourself if outfitted with the proper tools.

Your best source of the proper equipment is a masonry supply store. You will need a cold chisel (no wider than the mortar joint width), a small sledgehammer, a stiff brush (like a whisk broom), a trowel and a pointing tool (used for getting the mortar into the joints), a rake or a jointing tool (one to match the existing mortar joint shape) and a stiff-bristle scrub brush for cleaning up any excess mortar you get on the brickwork.

Check with your masonry dealer for these tools and Type N masonry cement and masonry sand. Masonry cement is available in different colors to help you match the existing mortar.

This is a dirty, dusty task. Wear old clothes, eye goggles to protect your eyes and gloves. Use the cold chisel and small sledgehammer to remove all cracked or loose mortar to a depth of 1 inch, or until you reach sound mortar that does not crumble. Be careful not to chip or damage the bricks.

Using a stiff-bristle brush, clear away all dust and debris. You may also want to use a garden hose to be sure all existing dust has been removed. Some contractors use an air compressor for this job.

Dry-mix the mortar ingredients with a trowel, mixing three parts sand to one part Type N masonry cement. Make sure they are thoroughly mixed prior to adding water. Add enough water to form a thick paste. The mixture should be stiff enough to retain its shape when formed into a ball.

Let this stand for one to 1½ hours. You will need to work quickly after this, as you will only have about 30 minutes to work with the mortar before it becomes too stiff to use. Do not add more water. You will need to mix a new batch if the batch you are working with hardens.

Use the trowel to scoop up the mortar, using the pointing tool to push mortar into the joints. In the deeper joints (3 to 4 inches), you will need to apply the mortar in thin layers (approximately ¼ inch), packing each layer tightly and letting it set (until it does not give to pressure applied by your thumb) prior to applying the next layer.

Once the final layer is set, use the jointing tool to smooth the joints to match the existing joints. The joint's final shape is formed by running the end of the jointing tool over the mortar. Brush away any excess mortar from the brick exterior.

KITCHEN KIDS

Fun beginnings

By Rena Coyle

Whether you're a working parent or just would like your kids to start helping you out at home, teaching your kids to cook is one place your kids will enjoy giving you a hand.

When helping your preteen to start cooking, choose recipes that have easy instructions and will be foods that both they and the rest of the family will enjoy eating. Here are two recipes that you can start out on your kids.

The first recipe is for Hearty Beef Stew. With this recipe, your kids will get to practice chopping and cutting vegetables. The emphasis is on preparation and setting yourself up to prepare a recipe.

Before you leave your children alone in the kitchen with a recipe, food and cookware, take a minute to explain each step of the recipe. If your kids aren't sure of the skills being asked of them, make the recipe with them once before letting them try it on their own.

The second recipe will require preparing a sauce to cook with the Chicken Enchiladas. This recipe also will have your kids practicing chopping vegetables. It's good practice to have your kids use fresh vegetables instead of dried, canned or frozen whenever possible because these are the small additions that will really enhance any recipe your kids prepare.

Let your kids take it slow, giving them plenty of time to practice these skills, and in no time your children will gain confidence in their abilities.

HEARTY BEEF STEW

- 1 large onion
- 2 large potatoes
- 3 carrots
- ½ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon black pepper
- 2 pounds beef, cut into ½-inch cubes
- 3 tablespoons oil
- 1 (1-pound, 28-ounce) can crushed tomatoes
- 1 can beef broth
- 1 teaspoon salt

Utensils: Cutting board, knife, vegetable peeler, 3-quart pot, mixing spoon, measures, can opener, flat dish.

Yields 4 to 6 servings.
Preparation time: 30 minutes.
Cooking time: 2 hours.

Place onion on cutting board. Cut both ends of onion off and then cut onion in half lengthwise. Peel skin off onion and set onion halves flat against cutting board. Make 5 slices across onion and then cut another 5 times across slices. What you will end up with is a small dice. Set aside.

With vegetable peeler, peel skin off potatoes. Place potatoes on cutting board and cut potatoes in half. Place potato halves flat on cutting board. Cut each half into several strips, then cut across strips, leaving you with a large dice. Set aside.

With vegetable peeler, peel skin off carrots. Holding carrots steady against cutting board, cut carrots into ½-inch slices. Set slices aside.

Put flour and pepper into flat dish and mix together. Add beef a little at a time and toss until completely coated. Once all meat is coated, set aside.

Put oil in pot and heat over medium high. Add beef and cook beef until it has browned on all sides.

Add can of crushed tomatoes, beef broth and onion. Let broth come to boil and then reduce heat to simmer and let stew cook for 1½ hours.

Add potatoes and carrots and let stew continue cooking for another 30 minutes. Add salt and serve in bowls with hearty bread and spoon.

CHICKEN ENCHILADAS

- Sauce:
- 1 small onion
 - 3 green onions
 - 2 tablespoons butter
 - 1 (15-ounce) can tomato sauce
 - 1 cup chicken broth
 - 2 teaspoons chili powder
 - 1 teaspoon cumin powder
 - 1 teaspoon sugar
- Filling:
- 2 pounds cooked chicken, cut into bite-size pieces
 - 2 cups grated cheddar cheese
 - 1 small can (3½ ounces) chopped green chilies
 - 1 package 8-inch tortillas

Utensils: Mixing bowl, mixing spoon, measuring cups and spoons, 8x13-inch baking pan, saucepan, aluminum foil, oven mitts, can opener.

Yields 6 servings.
Preparation time: 30 minutes.
Cooking time: 45 minutes.

To prepare sauce, put onion on cutting board and trim off end and cut onion in half. Peel skin off and place onion flat-side down on cutting board. Make several slices in the onion, then slice across them making a small dice. Set aside.

Place green onions on cutting board and trim off root end of onion. Slice green onion into thin slices. Set aside.

Put butter in saucepan and heat over medium heat. Once it has melted, add onions and green onions. Stir occasionally and cook 2 minutes.

Add tomato sauce, chicken broth, chili powder, cumin and sugar. Bring mixture to a simmer and cook 15 minutes.

While sauce is cooking, prepare the filling: Combine chicken with cheddar cheese. Open can of chilies and drain liquid out into sink, then add them to filling mixture.

Preheat oven to 350 F.

Lay tortillas flat on the counter and spoon about ¼ cup of filling into each tortilla. Roll tortillas up and place them in baking pan, seam side down.

Pour sauce over tortillas. Cover pan with piece of aluminum foil and, with your oven mitts on, carefully place baking pan in oven and bake 45 minutes.

HOLY SPIRIT YOU WHO SOLVE all problems, who light all roads, so that I can obtain my goals. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evils against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you ever in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Say for 3 consecutive days after which the favor requested will be granted even if it appears difficult. This prayer must be published immediately. Thank you Holy Spirit and and thank you for answering my prayers. M.F.

Things that happened in March

March 1st was New Year's Day in ancient Rome and it was the first month of the year until January and February came into being in 713 B.C.

On March 3rd, 1847, Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor of the telephone, was born.

The first film produced in Hollywood was released on March 10th, 1910. It was called "In Old California." On March 12th, 1945, Anne Frank, the Dutch Jewish girl who hid from the Nazis and wrote her famous diary, died in a concentration camp. She and her family hid in rooms at the top of a building in Amsterdam.

March 17th is St. Patrick's Day — the patron saint of Ireland. March 1st is St. David's Day — the patron saint of Wales.

On March 18th, 1932, Sydney Harbour Bridge was opened in Australia. At the time, it was the largest single span bridge in the world. March 21st is called the Spring Equinox. It's the day when the sun crosses over the equator and our days and nights are roughly the same length.

March 25th is rock star Elton John's birthday. He was born in 1947 and his real name is Reg Dwight.

Julius Caesar was assassinated on March 15, called the "ides of March."

The famous Eiffel Tower was completed in Paris on March 31st, 1889. The construction took two years, two months and two days to complete. It stands 986 feet tall and is named after its designer and builder, Gustav Eiffel.

Amazing facts about rats

Did you know that a rat can fall from heights of up to fifty feet and land on its feet without being hurt? It can also swim for days, and climb straight up the side of a building to the roof.

Rats can gnaw through wood, mortar, concrete, brick, and even metal!

Like other rodents, rats' teeth never stop growing. If the rat didn't grind them down daily, his teeth would grow back into his brain and kill him.

Rats aren't picky eaters either. They will eat any kind of food they find around.

CORN FRITTERS

- 3 ears sweet corn
 - 1/2 cup yellow cornmeal
 - 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
 - 1 tablespoon baking powder
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 - 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
 - 2 thick slices of bacon, cut in small (1/4-inch) dice
 - 2 eggs
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 red bell pepper, cut in small (1/4-inch) dice (1/2 cup)
 - 1 small onion, grated
 - 1 tablespoon chopped chives
- Corn or other vegetable oil for deep-frying

Yields 8 servings.

Husk corn and blanch it in plenty of boiling salted water. Drain and cut off kernels (you should have about 1 1/2 cups). Set aside.

Mix together cornmeal, flour, baking powder, salt, pepper and cayenne pepper. Sift into mixing bowl.

Cook bacon until crisp. Add bacon as well as fat to dry mixture. Add eggs, milk, bell pepper, onion, chives and corn and mix well. Chill batter for at least 1 hour.

Heat oil to 350 F in pot appropriate for deep-frying. Using serving spoon, drop spoonfuls of batter quickly into oil so all cook equally. Do not crowd pot. Check first fritters. If necessary, batter can be adjusted slightly (thinned with milk or thickened with flour). Drain fritters on paper towels and serve while still very hot and crisp.

NEW ENGLAND CLAM CHOWDER

- 10 pounds quahogs or other clams
- Scraps of onion, celery, thyme and bay leaf (optional)
- 1/4 pound smoked bacon or salt pork, cut in small (1/4-inch) dice
- 2 medium onions, cut in medium (1/4-inch) dice (2 1/2 cups)
- 2 bay leaves
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh thyme
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 5 or 6 red or white new potatoes, roughly cut in 1/2-inch dice
- 2 cups heavy cream
- Freshly ground black pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley

Yields 8 servings.

Scrub clams thoroughly and place in large pan with 2 cups water and any scraps of onion, celery, thyme and bay leaf you may have around. Cover and place on high heat until quahogs are steamed completely open.

Pour off liquid and reserve. Remove clams from their shells; roughly chop (about 3/4-inch pieces); set aside. Carefully pour liquid (about 3 cups) through fine strainer, set aside.

Slowly render bacon or salt pork in soup pot until slightly crisp. Add onions, bay leaves, thyme and butter. When onions are translucent, add potatoes and broth from quahogs. Simmer until potatoes are cooked (about 12 minutes).

Add chopped clams and cream and simmer 5 minutes more. Season to taste with pepper and add chopped parsley. Ladle into soup plates or cups. Serve with crackers, cream biscuits or clam fritters.

Before your children begin cooking, be sure to discuss these safety hints with them.

■ Read the recipe thoroughly with your children, and discuss any steps or directions they may not understand. Decide on the best time for them to cook in the kitchen.

■ Place all utensils and ingredients on the counter before starting to cook.

■ Always keep oven mitts and pot holders by the side of the stove. Always wear oven mitts when lifting a hot pan off the burner or removing one from the oven.

■ Turn pot handles inward toward center of the stove.

■ Tie back long hair, wear old clothes and roll up loose sleeves.

■ The last step in cooking is cleaning up!

Mainly for Seniors

By Leonard J. Hansen

LOS ANGELES — Connie Goldman calls them "sound portraits," when airing, on National Public Radio: intensive, enlightening and positive interviews with mature adults.

Many of the interviewees are famous, having names you would recognize, like actors Jessica Tandy and Hume Cronyn, American balladeer Burl Ives, playwright and radio dramatist Norman Corwin, veteran filmmaker John Huston or Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Stanley Kunitz.

Thirteen American artists, each over the age of 70, were interviewed by Goldman regarding their age, continued creativity, energy and life satisfaction.

Yet other mature adults have been presented through personal interviews as "Late Bloomers," individuals who have retired from one employment field only to launch new businesses or second careers, survivors of heart attacks who have built new lives in sports, dance, exercise and positive health, others who have returned to college to advance their education, discovered and developed artistic abilities or have become volunteers who make a difference in communities and public service organizations.

"For years we have been taught that 'old age is a country nobody wants to go to,'" says Goldman, 60, who started her radio interviews of mature adults more than 10 years ago. "Many people, unfortunately, have bought into the statement and lowered their expectations for their later years.

"Some people accept the myth that they should be thinking about dying when they get gray hair, but nothing should be further from the truth. When you're older you're still alive, and you can take charge of your life. Start by making small changes every week or every day, and when you're rolling, make the big changes you want and need."

Connie Goldman gained recognition, awards and an appreciative audience when she joined educational radio stations and then National Public Radio 24 years ago as a program producer and on-air personality. At NPR she co-hosted the news and feature program, "All Things Considered," produced and hosted specials, and developed the "Late Bloomers" interview feature series, and the half-hour "I'm Too Busy to Talk Now: Conversations with American Artists Over 70."

Working and communicating to, with and for mature adults became a new full-time career direction for the broadcaster when she left NPR to form her own radio and audio production company in Los Angeles. Her first major project is a one-hour production based on her "Late Bloomer" interviews. Other projects include co-authoring books, speaking to professional, business and senior groups, and developing new radio program concepts.

"I'm a storyteller, a collector of the spoken word," she says. "I travel anywhere necessary in the country to do my interviews, because I want them to be personal, with the person's full voice and not limited as when using a telephone."

The intensity of human voices is a strong asset of her interviews, with statements edited precisely into her program format. She is one of the few broadcast producers who still uses "a grease pencil and razor blade for audiotape editing ... no electronic editing for me. I feel so much closer to the interview and its presentation with each painstaking step in editing."

The on-air result is one of the most effective in broadcasting.

"I have learned a lot from mature adults, my 'Late Bloomers,' around the country," states Goldman. "They prove that, at any age, a person can take positive steps to health, to the expansion of personal horizons, to learn new things and develop new skills. Age is not a hindrance to growth."

Goldman has defined 10 secrets of how to be a Late Bloomer:

• A positive, youthful, life-affirming attitude is a key element in remaining healthy and happy.

• Feeling you're "an OK person" — an essentially good and deserving human being — will directly affect your growth and change.

• Treat yourself with gentleness, generosity and respect.

• Creating and expanding your future is in your hands; the responsibility and choice are yours.

• How you respond to events is much more important than what the events actually are.

• Talk positive! Negative words and thoughts have power. Get rid of them. Positive words, images and thoughts have more power. Use them.

• Don't call anything you try a failure. Everything is a learning experience that takes you to the next adventure.

• You're responsible for the care, feeding and exercise of the body you live in; your fitness is your personal challenge.

• Good humor goes a long way. Laughter is the best medicine — a smile opens all doors.

• You can't just sit around waiting for your life to change. You have a responsibility to make it happen.

At a time when many broadcast producers look to retire, Connie Goldman, at 60, outlines her present and future projects in her company dedicated to telling in sound the story of mature adults in America.

Her "Late Bloomers" audiotape program and booklet are now available and recommended for mature adults. Scores of senior citizens talk of their lives and opportunities in later years, in a remarkable series of "sound portraits."

You may order a copy of the "Late Bloomers" audiotape and booklet program by sending a request and payment of $13.95 to: Connie Goldman Productions, 8888 Appian Way, Los Angeles, CA 90046.

ANTIQU OR JUNQUE

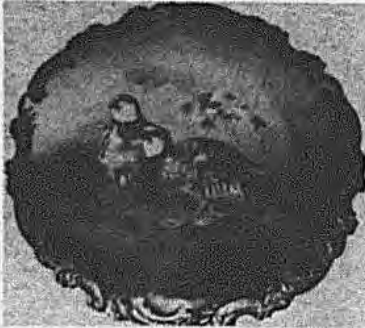

By James G. McCollam

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a shallow bowl. It is 11 1/4 inches in diameter and 1 1/4 inches deep.

On the bottom is a coat of arms, "Royal Bayreuth" with a pair of lions holding "P" and "T." Below that is "Priv. 1794."

What information can you give me about this item's value and origin?

A. Your game bowl was made by the Royal Porcelain Factory in Tettau, Germany, about 1900. The company was founded in 1794.

It would probably sell for about $165 to $185.

Q. This mark is on the back of a 10-inch-diameter cake plate. It is decorated with orange poppies with buds and leaves.

Please tell me what you can about its origin and value.

A. Your cake plate was made in Volkstedt, Germany, by Beyer & Boch. It dates back to the turn of the century and would probably sell for about $65 to $75.

Q. Please tell me what you can about my pitcher and bowl set.

It is decorated with blue flowers and gold trim. The bowl is 14 inches in diameter and the pitcher is 12 inches high.

They are marked "P.B. & S. — Tokyo."

A. Your toilet set was made by Powell, Bishop & Stonier in Hanley, England, during the late 1800s.

"Tokyo" is the name of the pattern. It would probably sell for about $200 to $225.

Q. Please identify and evaluate my German stein.

It is decorated with men drinking in a tavern and has a ceramic insert in the pewter lid. It is marked "1/4 L." and "No. 2532" under a picture of a castle labeled "Mettlach."

A. Your stein was made in Mettlach, Germany, by Villeroy & Boch during the late 1800s.

It would probably sell for about $400 to $500.

Q. Can you tell me anything about the origin and value of a cast brass trivet in the shape of a woman's head?

It sits on three legs and is marked "B & H." The measurements are about 4 by 6 inches.

A. Your trivet was made in Meriden, Conn., by Bradley & Hubbard during the late 1800s.

It would probably sell for about $65 to $75.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. How old does a cat have to be to become pregnant for the first time? Can cats become pregnant throughout the year?

A. Our children have a kitten that is 3 months old. I worry that the cat is going to have kittens.

Although cats can exhibit their first heat period (period of receptivity to the tomcat) as early as 5 months of age, most cats do not reach puberty (age at which successful breeding can occur) until 7 to 12 months of age.

Male cats usually reach puberty one to two months later than female cats. Purebred cats tend to reach maturity later than mixed-breed domestic cats. Cats allowed to roam freely outside usually begin to cycle earlier than cats housed inside.

Female cats usually exhibit reproductive cycles from January through the following September. This period of regular cycling is related to the length of daylight. Cats cycle while the day length is increasing and the temperatures are relatively warm. The exact time during each year that reproductive activity occurs varies with the different geographical locations and varying weather from year to year.

The reproductive cycle of the cat is approximately 13 to 15 days in length. If the tomcat is present, the queen usually will accept his advances during a period of three to six days. Mating usually occurs several times a day during this period. If no males are present the queen will stay in season for about 10 days.

Most fertile queens have two litters of two to six kittens each year. Most queens will not exhibit signs of reproductive cycling while nursing kittens. After weaning their kittens, most queens will show signs of heat in approximately two weeks. These cats can become pregnant at this time.

If you do not plan to allow your cat to have kittens, you should have her spayed. Most cats tolerate the spaying technique well and recover very rapidly. Your veterinarian can advise you regarding the best time to have your cat spayed.

Did you enjoy playing in the snow this week? No one expected much, but it seemed to snow all day Tuesday. The snow was wet, and was just right for making snowballs.

I used to like playing in the snow when I was a kid. We used to build forts in the snow and have snowball fights from them.

Now I like to ski in the snow.

I've seen many children skiing. Have you ever tried it? I think it's probably something that is easier to learn when you are a child than when you grow up.

Where do you go skiing? What else do you like to do in the winter? Write and tell me.

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Advise employer at once about W-2 discrepancy

By William M. Acosta

Q. My W-2 form for 1990 shows the last number of my Social Security as a 5 instead of a 3. What should I do? — G.D.

A. If the number differs you should advise your employer immediately so that the employer can report the correction to the Social Security Administration.

A difference in a single digit can delay or prevent earnings from being credited to the proper record. These earnings serve as a basis for future retirement, disability and survivors insurance benefits for the worker and his or her family.

A. Yes. You must tell us if you enter or leave a residential institution, hospital, skilled nursing facility, nursing home, intermediate care facility, halfway house, jail, prison, public emergency shelter, or any other kind of institution.

Let us know the name of the institution and the date you entered or left.

Q. My husband is three years younger than I am and is still working. I will be 65 in August.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Q. If a wife doesn't live with her husband for over 20 years, can she still get his Social Security?

We were married in 1950 and separated in 1965. However, we were never divorced. — J.K.

A. When you reach age 62 you can apply for spouse's benefits on your husband's record. As long as the marriage has not ended you may be entitled to spouse's benefits.

Contact your Social Security office for complete information.

Q. If a person is receiving Supplemental Security Income, is it necessary to notify Social Security if the person is hospitalized? — H.B.

I have never worked and am concerned about Medicare coverage. Will I be able to get Medicare at age 65? — M.C.

A. You will have Medicare at 65 even if your husband is younger than you and still working, provided he is at least 62 and will be entitled to benefits when he retires.

You can file an application for hospital insurance two or three months before you reach age 65.
