Dr. Fenton Party June 14

The Hicksville Public School District will be honoring Dr. Catherine J. Fenton at her retirement dinner on Friday, June 14.

The festivities will be held at the Chateau Briand Restaurant on Old Country Road in Carle Place. The reception begins at 7 p.m. followed by dinner at 8 p.m. and dancing until midnight. The cost is $45 per person and includes hors d'oeuvres, dinner (choice of chateaubriand, chicken francese, sole almonidine, or vegetable plate), gift, and entertainment. There will be a cash bar all evening.

An R.S.V.P. is requested by May 1, for those persons planning to attend (or those wishing to contribute a dollar amount toward the gift). Please send your name, address, phone number, number of persons, $45 each, and total enclosed with check payable to: "Dr. Fenton Dinner Committee," Administration Building, Division Avenue, Hicksville, New York 11801.

Persons wishes to have a card or letter included in a souvenir album may mail the item also to the address above by May 1.

Dinner seating will be assigned. If you are interested in being seated with a particular group, please indicate preference.

Memorial Day News Update

Planning for the 1991 Memorial Day Parade and Services proceeded with a meeting of the Hicksville Combined Veterans Parade Committee this past Wednesday evening, at the clubhouse of the American Legion Post 421, this year's host post. Past-Commander John Rizos, Memorial Day chairman, has announced that there will be two parade-planning meetings in May, on the 8th and 22nd.

Services this Memorial Day will recall, in part, the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Pearl Harbor 1941 tragedy. Hicksville survivors of Pearl Harbor and, especially, community veterans of the Persian Gulf Operation Shield and Storm War, are invited to take part in this year's Memorial Day Parade and Services. Commander John Rizos urges all participating organizations to notify him of their intention to take part. He may be reached by telephone evenings at 433-7429. The Charles Wagner Post Clubhouse address for planning meetings is 36 West Village Green, Newbridge Road, Hicksville, N.Y. 11801.

School Vote To Include Transportation Prop

By Maureen Traxler

The Hicksville Board of Education unanimously approved, at its April 10 special meeting, a Transportation Proposition for placement on the May 22 ballot. This most recent proposition will follow Proposition #1, the 1991-92 budget, and Proposition #2, the approval of funds for the Gregory Museum.

The $916,441 request will be expended in the upcoming school year for in-district student bus transportation. Superintendent Catherine Fenton said the proposition represents "a return to 1989-90 district distance guidelines" - Kindergarten to Grade 3 - 1/2 mile, Grades 4-6 - 3/4 mile, Grades 7 and 8 - 1 1/2 miles and Grades 9-12 - 2 miles.

The Hicksville School district is currently on austerity, and under austerity regulations, in-district transportation has been eliminated from the budget. In order to continue to have a budget which reflects austerity levels, a goal the Board is striving to achieve, the Board chose to offer transportation as a separate entity from the total budget proposal for 1991-92.

Although Trustee James Marillo said he was "not in favor of fragmenting the budget," he added that he "sees (the proposition) as an attempt to pass the major bulk of the budget which has direct impact on the schools themselves." Trustee William Bennett agreed, saying, "We have to put together a budget which can run the education of the district. Students and parents have become accustomed to this mode of transportation."

Dr. Fenton proposed an addendum to the proposition which would bring transportation guidelines for the high school down to the middle school level of 1 1/2 miles. Such a change would require 6.5 additional buses and would cost the district $300,844. Board President Carol Wolf and Mr. Marillo expressed concern with the added expenditure in view of Governor Cuomo's warning that transportation reimbursement to districts could be slashed from the state's 1992-93 budget. The proposition to reduce secondary mileage eligibility was defeated 4-1.

As with the Gregory Museum, the enactment of the Transportation Proposition would be contingent on the approval of Proposition #1.

The Board moved on in its line-by-line review of budget Code 5000 (Transportation), covering supervision, in-and-out-of-district services, special education services, and field and athletic trips.

At a previous meeting Mrs. Wolf proposed the possibility of using public transportation for high schoolers who choose to attend private or parochial schools outside of district. The state mandates transportation for all students opting for education other than the public school up to 15 miles from their home. It is projected for 1991-92 that the district will transport approximately 260 students to 35 private and parochial schools for an expenditure of $491,300. Under Mrs. Wolf's suggestion for example, the district could provide a monthly student discount LIRR ticket to students who attend Chaminade or bus passes for students who attend St. Mary's in Manhasset, instead of the school bus which they now use.

Mr. Thomas Farrell, Chairman of the Citizens Budget Advisory Committee, noted that this is not unusual and other districts in Nassau County follow this rule.

Mr. Bennett felt that the issue needed further study and cautioned the Board not to dwell on this matter. "We have more important things to do, he said, and added, that the Board would be hard pressed to "explain to parents" the switch to public transportation for students going to out-of-district schools.

Dr. Fenton wished to check with the district's insurance carriers as to possible liability, and Vice President Arlene Rudin asked for more information before the community budget hearing on April 24.

Once again, the Board began to tackle the code which contains basic classroom expenditures, Code 2000 (Instructional Services).

Mrs. Rudin commented that in order for the district to "be even," or remain at the austerity spending level, "we need to cut $3 million." This statement enraged Mr. Bennett who countered that massive cutting in the 2000 Code "will cut into the very heart of this district."

Mr. Farrell noted that principals and special area budgets are

Seldin Speaks To Central Civics

Abe Seldin, second from right, Chairman of the Nassau County Board of Assessors, was the guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Central Civic Association of Bethpage.

Seldin reminded the members that May 1 is the deadline for applying for veterans' and senior citizens' exemptions in Nassau County and all other exemptions as well. He spoke about recent changes in exemption laws, how property is assessed in Nassau County and how to challenge your assessment if you think it may be too high. He also answered questions from the audience.

Seldin is shown explaining a property record card like the one the Department of Assessment maintains on each property in Nassau County to, left to right: Margaret Carvo; Association President Michael Stielger; and Ann Steinmetz, Secretary of Friends of the Library. Any civic association or community-based organization in Nassau County can arrange a free program on assessment by calling the Nassau County Dept. of Assessment's Speakers Bureau at 535-2490.

Author Meets With Students

John F. Kennedy Middle School in Bethpage was transformed into "Macdonald Hall South" in honor of Gordon Korman's book, "This Can't Be Happening at Macdonald Hall." The sixth grade students studied Gordon Korman's books for more than a month, as they read, discussed the books, and wrote about their reactions to the books. The students then made posters, games banners, quilts, and character statue scenes that depicted the books that the students enjoyed the most. The culminating activity was the visit to J. F. K. Middle School by the author, Gordon Korman. He told students about how he had written his first novel when he was in seventh grade, and had continued his writing career.

Gordon Korman then met with all the sixth graders in small groups, answering their questions about his books, writing as a career, and what new books they can look forward to.

The excellent experience for the students was a result of the sixth grade, language arts teachers: Mrs. Arcuri, Ms. Hill, Mr. Giansante, Mr. Teichert, Mr. Melone, Mr. Ambrose, Mrs. McKinley, and Ms. Patterson, assisted by the Reading Specialists - Mr. Pryluck and Mrs. Azoff. The project was coordinated by Dr. Regina Cohn, Director of Reading and Related Services for the Bethpage Public Schools.

Award Winner

More than 60 teams of students from Nassau County vied in the three divisional competition, which was held at Nassau County Police Headquarters in Mineola February 11-13.

The Golden Eagle squad competed in the competition for the last three years winning each year. This year the championship was shared with Great Neck South as both ended in a tie. "This is one of our best teams of the three winners," said Ed Cryer, the coordinator and organizer of the event at the high school. "Three of the members are juniors so we'll have a chance to win a fourth next year."

The special program for the April 23 meeting of the Hicksville Historical Society will be a description of "Life on an Oldtime Jericho General Farm" by Mrs. Phoebe Underhill Smith.

The Tuesday evening, 8 p.m. meeting of the Society in the Community Room of the Hicksville Public Library will enjoy this delightful reminiscence of life on a Quaker farmstead in the Jericho of yesteryear. Mrs. Smith grew up on the well-remembered diversified Underhill family farm and will also recall her membership in the Jericho meeting of the Society of Friends, whose meeting house is a local historic landmark.

Members and non-members of the Hicksville Historical Society are invited to be present for this latest of the society's stimulating gatherings.

Antique Show Preview Party

A spectacular Preview Party and Auction will take place on Friday, April 26, to kick off the L. I. Antiques and Decorative Arts Show, benefiting North Shore University Hospital at Glen Cove. Co-Chairmen Mrs. Vincent de Roulet, Manhasset, and Mrs. Julian H. Robertson, Jr., Locust Valley, describe the event as a unique evening that will include an auction of specially designed items conducted by noted auctioneer William Doyle, and a raffle with fantastic prizes.

All objects included in the auction have been designed, or selected, to reflect the garden theme of the weekend events. A black walnut and crystal birdhouse, a chinoiserie arbor bench, 1,000 daffodils, a yoshino cherry tree, a day-lily garden, and the use of a home in Bermuda for a week are a few of these Raffle prizes include two first-class airline tickets, couture garments, and exclusive jewelry.

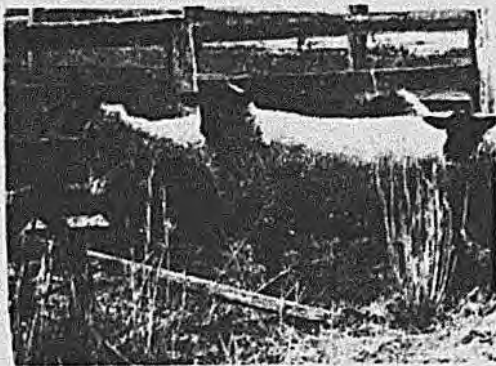

The Preview Party will take place at the Hay Barn in Planting Fields Arboretum in Oyster Bay. The festivities will be held under a tent decorated by world-famous floral designer J. Barry Ferguson. Cocktail party guests will enjoy the food provided by Culinary Architects Catering. They will be the first to preview the decorative arts objects that will be offered for sale by noted exhibitors and dealers during the Antiques and Decorative Arts Show on Saturday, April 27, and Sunday, April 28.

Tickets to the Preview party are available at $75 per person. They may be obtained by calling the Development Dept. at North Shore University Hospital at Glen Cove, at 676-5000, Ext. 2147. The Arts and Antiques Show will continue at Planting Fields Arboretum on Saturday, April 27, and Sunday, April 28. Admission is $5, and tickets may be purchased at the door.

Friendship Club Boutique

The Bethpage Friendship Club located at 7 Burkhardt Avenue Senior Citizen Center will hold a 1/2 price boutique sale on May 6 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Come one! Come all!

APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE FOR AEROSPACE CAMP

Applications are now available for a unique Aerospace Camp for boys and girls entering grades 5, 6 or 7 to be held at the Cradle of Aviation Museum in Garden City during the Summer.

The Camp has been very popular with the youngsters and suggested that parents sign their children up early. The Cradle of Aviation Museum, now in its formative stages, will eventually be the second largest air/space museum in the country.

The following activities will be available to youngsters who enroll in the four-day sessions:

*Air and spacecraft simulations, including hands-on use of a Lunar Lander Simulator and airliner cock-pit simulator.

*Anatomy of life support systems, including a chance to wear an authentic space suit.

*Model rocket building and launching.

*Planetarium sky show.

*Hands-on instruction with selected aircraft from the Museum's collection.

Each camp session will be held from Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and begin on the following dates: July 8, 15, 22, 29, August 5 and 12. The tuition is $125 per session and covers counselor supervision, training

News From VFW Post 3211

By P. P. C. Carmine A. Somma

On April 7 the Mid Island Support Group for Operation Desert Storm which meets at the VFW Hall were sponsors of Sunday's parade rally. It was a beautiful day for a parade. Chairmen from our Post were Vincent Edwards and George Walden, and the Cmdr. Vincent Ferrara and the Post Liaison Chairman Dennis Ladislav. It was a job well done - they got the parade organized and kicked off on time.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars whose participants were the Wm. M. Gouse Jr. Post 3211 and their Ladies Auxiliary, Plainview Post 5942, Syosset Post 6394, Levittown Post 9592, Bellmore Post 2770, East Meadow Post 2736, and American Legion Post 421, Vietnam Veterans of American Chapter #82 and the Boy Scout, Girl Scout and the Brownies. Groups also participated from the Air Force, Navy, Army, Marines and police departments. The Hicksville and Levittown Fire Departments blared their horns as marchers neared the park at Broadway and Jerusalem Avenue where ceremonies were held. Residents danced and sang along to patriotic music provided by Hicksville disc jockeys E.J.M.

It was a beautiful sight to see the Kennedy Memorial Park decorated with the American Flag and Yellow Ribbons of those military personnel whose families are unable to attend the celebration. The large tree located in the center of the Park is divided by red, white and blue lights into four sections, one for each branch of the service. As soldiers return home their families will take a ribbon off the tree. The Wm. M. Gouse Jr. Post 3211 Veterans of Foreign Wars Hicksville distributed American flags to the children in attendance.

School Budget Crisis

Senator Kemp Hannon meets with members of the Plainview/Old Bethpage Congress of Teachers including Mr. Morton Rosenfeld, right, and Ms. Judith Alexanderson, center. Both educators traveled to Albany to discuss crippling budget cuts in Long Island school aid proposed by the Governor.

ABH-AA Brian Gunnigle, U.S. Navy, returned home to Hicksville last week, if only on a weekend pass. He was greeted with rousing enthusiasm by his family, neighbors, former classmates, school children and the Gunnigles' new circle of friends from the Mid-Island Support Group.

Brian, a 1990 graduate of Hicksville High School, joined the Navy in July 1989 and served his first year of inactive duty concurrently with his last year of high school. He began active duty on July 17, 1990. The takeover of Kuwait and President George Bush's swift deployment of troops to the region caught many by surprise, particularly Brian and his family. At age 18, Brian was about to embark on an experience he would not long forget.

After basic training, Brian was stationed on the USS John F. Kennedy, arriving on board October 30. The Kennedy was the U.S. Navy Command Ship in the Persian Gulf and remained in the Red Sea for the duration of the military operation. Brian was assigned to the flight deck, preparing planes for take off and securing them upon return. Brian recalled that during the first days of war, the crew worked 72 hours straight without relief. The Kennedy fighters flew the initial sorties in the war effort.

During Brian's entire five-month hitch on the Kennedy, he said the aircraft carrier made only one port call, on New Year's Eve at the Saudi Arabian port of Jiddah. Brian remembers the mystified look on the Arabians' faces when the carrier arrived - the USS Kennedy sports 9 stories below the flight deck and 23 above, standing on end, the ship is taller than the Empire State Building. The Kennedy returned to Norfolk, Virginia, on March 28.

A highlight of Brian's homecoming was a trip to the Sound Beach Elementary School where the fourth grade had adopted him during his tenure overseas. Brian was welcomed with all the hoopla which can be mustered by an entire school coming out to see their modern day hero.

During those days in the Gulf, the fourth graders had written to him, and to their delight, he answered every letter. On Friday, April 12, the classmates now were able to ask more questions, and this time in person. Brian again answered all their questions, and he told them how much those letters meant to him.

The students presented Brian with an autographed school T-shirt and other gifts; they read poems, sang songs, and asked Brian to sing the Star Spangled Banner with them. This was one delighted class, they were able to go full circle, beginning with the challenge to write to a serviceman and ending with the satisfaction of seeing him safely home.

The theme of the Welcome Home Parade and Rally on April 7, "Till They All Come Home," has much to say about the fortitude and charity of Hicksville's residents. The importance of each soldier, each sailor, each flyer, each marine, each medic -- each veteran of Operation Desert Storm -- is manifest in each homecoming that will be celebrated across the community.

Local Navy Mate Welcomed Home

Brian's naval enlistment doesn't conclude until July 1993, but last weekend the military campaign in the Persian Gulf came to an end for Brian and his family when they visited the tree in Kennedy Memorial Park and removed Brian's yellow ribbon.

The Big Moment - Brian arrives and mom goes in for a hug.

Public Health Information

Early Detection of Breast Cancer

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE FOR WOMEN OVER THE AGE OF 35

And Two Important Saturdays / April 20 and April 27

The American Cancer Society, along with the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, recommends that women over the age of 35 have a baseline mammogram to provide comparisons as a secondary prevention method of breast cancer. It is also recommended, depending upon physical factors and family history, that after the age of 40 a mammogram be repeated at least every two years. Beginning at age 50, it has been recommended that mammograms be performed every year.

Appointments at two special breast screening weekends - Saturday, April 20, and Saturday, April 27 - are available at Syosset Breast Imaging. In addition to a mammogram provided by General Electric equipment specially dedicated to breast screening and with the lowest radiation available, you will receive special instructions on self-examination and an examination by a medical doctor, if necessary.

Waiting time is minimal, and trained female technicians working under the supervision of medical doctors board-certified in radiology further ensure the entire procedure will take about fifteen minutes. Your visit will be in comfortable surroundings and there is plenty of convenient parking, and even a play corner for children. For choice of time, please call as early as possible.

We participate in Medicare, and for these special dates all insurance will be accepted and, in many cases, will cover all or most of our fee. For those without insurance, a special community fee of $75 for these two dates is being extended.

Please do remember that while a visit to Syosset Breast Imaging is an important component of secondary prevention and early detection of breast cancer, regular visits to your family physician are the best way to help ensure good health.

LEGAL NOTICE NOTICE OF ANNUAL DISTRICT ELECTION HICKSVILLE UNION FREE SCHOOL DISTRICT HICKSVILLE, N.Y.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to the resolution of the Board of Education of Hicksville Union Free School District, Hicksville, New York adopted March 27, 1991, the Annual District Election of the qualified voters of this School District will be held on May 22, 1991, between the hours of 10:00 a.m. (D.S.T.) and 10:00 p.m. (D. S. T.) in the seven Election Districts, stated below, for the purpose of voting upon the following propositions(s):

Proposition No. 1

Shall the Budget approved by the Board of Education pursuant to Section 1716, be approved, and a tax on the taxable property of the District in the amount of such Budget, less State and Federal Aid and revenues from other sources be levied?

Proposition No. 2

In the event that the voters approve the school district budget contained at Proposition No. 1 above, shall the sum of Thirty Thousand ($30,000) Dollars be appropriated to the Gregory Museum for educational services associated with its programs and a tax be levied in that amount.

This Proposition is contingent upon the approval of the voters of Proposition No. 1.

PROPOSITION NO. 3

In the event that the school district budget contained at Proposition No. 1 above is approved by the voters, shall the distance that students reside from the school they attend be reduced for the purpose of eligibility for school bus transportation to and from school as provided in the Education Law as follows:

Kindergarten through Grade 3 - those who live more than 1/2 mile from the school, Grades 4 through 6 - those who live more than 3/4 mile from the school, Grades 7 through 8 - those who live more than 1.5 miles from the school, Grades 9 through 12 - those who live more than 2.0 miles from the school, for an additional cost of not to exceed $916,441 Dollars and the school district be empowered to collect the necessary taxes therefor. The enactment of this Proposition is contingent upon the approval by the voters of Proposition No. 1.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that nominating petitions for the office of member of the Board of Education must be filed with the Clerk of the School District no later than thirty (30) days before the Annual Meeting, said date being Monday, April 22, 1991, between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. A separate petition shall be required to nominate a candidate to each separate office. Each petition shall be directed to the Clerk of the School District, shall be signed by at least 103 qualified voters of the District (the same being two percent (2%) of the number of voters who voted in the previous Annual Meeting) shall state the residence of each signer, the name and residence of the candidate, and describe the specific vacancy for which the candidate is nominated, which description shall include at least the length of term of office and name of the last incumbent. Forms of petitions for School Board Members may be obtained from the Clerk of the School District.

The following vacancies are to be filled on the Board of Education:

3 year term ending June 30, 1994.

Last Incumbent: William P. Bennett

3 year term ending June 30, 1994.

Last Incumbent: Patricia Rooney

Unexpired 3 year term ending June 30, 1993

Last Incumbent: Jo Ann Miltenberg

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that Personal Registration and Election Districts have been established in the School District, that no person shall be entitled to vote at the Annual District Election whose name does not appear on the register of the School District, unless such person is registered under the provisions of Section 5-612 of the Election Law and that those qualified to register and vote shall do so in the School Election District in which they reside.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that copies of the statement of estimated expenses for the school year 1991-92 may be obtained by any taxpayer in the District at each school house in the District daily except Saturday and Sunday on and after May 15, 1991, between 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. and that any other propositions to be voted upon are available for inspection by any taxpayer in the District at each school house in the District daily except Saturday and Sunday on and after Wednesday, May 15, 1991, between 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that a public hearing shall be held on April 24, 1991, at Senior High School for the purpose of discussion of the expenditure of funds and the budgeting thereof.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the Board of Registration shall meet in the seven (7) Election Districts described below on Wednesday, May 8, 1991, from 3:00 p.m. until 8:00 p.m. (D.S. T.)

Any person shall be entitled to have his name placed upon such register provided that at such meeting of the Board of Registration he proves to the satisfaction of such Board of Registration to be then or thereafter entitled to vote at the school meeting or election for which such register is prepared. Said register will be filed in the office of the District Clerk on May 8, 1991, and will be open for inspection by any qualified voter of the District from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on any weekday from May 9, 1991, up to and including May 22, 1991. Residents who voted at an Annual Meeting of the District within four years from the date of the current Annual Meeting or who registered within that time need not register to be eligible to vote at the Annual Meeting. Residents otherwise qualified to vote who are registered under the provision of Section 5-612 of the Election Law need not register to be eligible to vote at the Meeting.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that during the voting hours on May 22, 1991, the Board of Registration will meet in the various election districts to receive registration for the ensuing year.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN THAT applications for absentee ballots may be applied for at the office of the Clerk of the District. A list of all persons to whom absentee ballots are issued will be available in the office of the Clerk on May 15, 1991 through May 22, 1991. Such list will also be posted at all polling places at the election of members of the Board of Education.

School Bus Terminal Permit Sought

A request for a special use permit in Hicksville will be the subject of a public hearing by the Oyster Bay Town Board on Tuesday, June 18, it was announced this week by Town Councilwoman Ann R. Ocker.

"The applicant, Valley Partners, is seeking the special use permit to continue using the facility as a school bus terminal in an "H" Industrial District (light industry)," Councilwoman Ocker stated. "The property is located at the intersection of Henrietta Street and Duffy Avenue in Hicksville."

The meeting will be held in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay, beginning at 10 a.m.

Homemakers Meet

The Homemakers Council of Nassau County will hold their monthly meeting on May 2 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the Community Church on Stewart Avenue in Hicksville. Hicksville's Annual Achievement Display will be on May 16. Guests welcome.

In Service

Air Force Capt. Virginia M. Jabour, a squadron section commander, has arrived for duty at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

She is the daughter of Raymond J. Holland Sr. and Leila C. Tompert, both of Suffolk, Va.

Her husband, William, is the son of Arline Jabour of Hicksville.

The captain graduated in 1977 from Forest Glen High School, Suffolk and received a master's degree in 1988 from Oklahoma University, Norman.

K. Of C. News

The Joseph F. Lamb Council No. 5723 Knights of Columbus, Hicksville/Mainview, is always seeking new members to join our very active Council. Any good Catholic gentleman in our area is cordially invited to join our very lively organization. The Joe Lamb Council has always been very active in the Community, especially in the works of charity. Under the leadership of our current Grand Knight Josef Ort, the Council has done much to personify the basic creed of the Knights of Columbus, which are: "Charity, Unity, Fraternity and Patriotism." Any Catholic gentleman interested in joining the Joe Lamb Council can contact the Director of Membership, P.G.K., P.F.N., F.D.D. Peter Volpe, at 935-3116.

After 17 long years in office, our Financial Secretary, Henry Schettini, has decided to retire from that position. Henry is a real likeable guy who is very well respected by his brother Knights. He has always been very efficient in his office and The Joe Lamb Council certainly appreciates his efforts throughout the years. Henry, we all say "Thanks." He will be replaced by one of our new members - Richard Layh, to whom we wish much success.

Brother Knight George Lynch fractured his left arm when he was bowling. It seems he got an important "strike" and was so excited that he slipped to the floor after and hurt his arm.

Finally, the Lamb April "Knight of the Month" is brother Knight Elie Saydah. Elie has always been a very hard worker for the Lamb Council and he is certainly liked and appreciated by his fellow knights. Our congrats to Elie!

Special Note

The Joe Lamb Council meets the 1st and 3rd Thursdays of the month in the school basement of Our Lady of Mercy in Hicksville, promptly at 8:30 p.m.

Inadvertently Omitted

The Mid Island Times story by R. Evers on the April 7 Gulf War Support Group Parade inadvertently omitted the essential contribution of the always-ready, accommodating Comanche Raiders. The Syosset American Legion Post 175 was also represented.

Beth. Students Participate In Mock Trial Tourn.

Judge Jean Lam listens to arguments from Bethpage students Douglas Sorin and JoAnn Barbieri during the BOCES III Mock Trials for gifted and talented students, held this week at SUNY Farmingdale.

Fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth graders from the Bethpage School District were in family court this week as part of a child custody case. SUNY Farmingdale was the site of the hearings, which were entirely authentic, except that the lawyers, plaintiffs, witnesses and defendants were all elementary and junior high school students participating in the eighth annual Mock Trial Tournament for gifted and talented students, sponsored by Suffolk BOCES III.

All the courtroom drama usually associated with such a controversial case was there, as an anguished father subpoenaed a newspaper reporter for information on the whereabouts of his child, allegedly kidnapped by the mother. Attorneys questioned and cross-examined, and witnesses testified before student judges.

With over 600 students from 21

school districts throughout Nassau and Suffolk Counties participating, this is the biggest mock trial tournament to date. Weeks before they actually go to court, students are given identical trial packets. They study and review courtroom procedure, and prepare arguments for both the plaintiff and the defense. "These trials give students insight into the legal system and how it works - it's a fantastic learning process," said Ely Kaplan, BOCES mock trial coordinator.

Judges' decisions, which were based on a point system, were handed down with a critique and discussion. Following the decision, courtroom decorum gave way to youthful exuberance, as winning schools cheered in triumph.

For more information about the BOCES III gifted and talented programs, call 884-1000, ext. 237.

Corp Seeks Modification Of Parking Restrictions

"Alux Automobiles Corporation is seeking modification of restrictive covenants in order to use a 50 feet buffer zone for off street parking. Their intention is to make the space available for additional parking for the Corporation's shopping center," said Councilman Douglas J. Hynes, announcing the public hearing to be held on May 21.

He went on to state that the irregularly shaped piece in question has a 200 feet frontage on the north side of Jericho Turnpike and has a depth of approximately 511 feet.

The hearing is scheduled for 10 a.m. in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Teen Awareness Conference

Among the new March of Dimes "Chain Reaction" Members for 1991 are: Sherry O'Neill (Pictured above) and Daniel Cirino, both of Bethpage High School, Bethpage.

"Chain Reaction," the March of Dimes Youth Leadership Council, is holding its second annual Teen Awareness Conference, "Face the Facts" on Tuesday, May 7, at the Westbury Holiday Inn from 8 a.m. to 1:45 p.m.

The conference will cover a range of important issues for today's teenager. Topics include: physical and emotional abuse in relationships, teenage pregnancy, parental and peer pressure, drug and alcohol abuse, teen suicide, racism and breaking label barriers.

In addition to workshops, the Suffolk Network on Adolescent Pregnancy (SNAP) Players will make a presentation on the risks associated with teenage pregnancy and other adolescent health issues.

The conference is developed and implemented by "Chain Reaction," which consists of high school students throughout Nassau and Suffolk Counties who were nominated by their schools. It is being offered free of charge and interested schools are urged to call the March of Dimes to register students.

The Teen Awareness Conference is one of several programs available to Long Island schools through the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation. School's support of March of Dimes fundraising events like Reading Champions, Wonderwalk, Super Ride, and WalkAmerica, etc., make health education programs like this possible.

For more information on the Teen Awareness Conference, contact Robin at 496-2100.

Travel Brochure Contest Winners

Bethpage youngsters responded with enthusiasm to the lure of travel and faraway places!

During the late winter and early spring, the Bethpage Public Library invited young people in Grades 1-6 to take imaginary journeys to their favorite places and create original travel brochures in honor of National Library Week (April 14-20). The contest was undertaken with the full cooperation of the Bethpage Public Schools and a number of teachers adopted the idea as class projects.

Youngsters were asked to charge out Bethpage Public Library materials of their choice to aid in designing the brochures which could include a map, information on famous attractions, buildings, customs, foods, music, climate, language, stories, important people and fun things to do. Beginning with National Library Week, winning entries were displayed in the Children's Room. Over 175 brochures were submitted and each youngster who designed one received a Certificate of Participation. The overall winners on each grade level are: Grade 1 - Giuliana Casalan, Kramer Lane School; Grade 2 - Edward Reilly, St. Martin's School; Grade 3 - Stephanie Cioffi and Sara Bestany, Charles Campagne School; Grade 4 - Valerie Warmhold, Charles Campagne, and Rachel Sullivan, Central Boulevard School; Grade 5 - Scott Goodside, Kramer Lane School; Grade 6 - Vinny Pahuja, John F. Kennedy Jr. High School.

"overstated by at least 15%," and he advocated bringing those budgets in line with their actual spending in the last couple of years.

Several of the principals present at the meeting defended their "prudent management" of building budgets, and Dr. Clancy of Woodland Avenue School said that the funds were necessary for the education of the students, adding, "We don't want to decimate that."

Asst. Superintendent William Hall reminded the Board and the advisory committee that over the last three or four years, "The principals have been denied their money" due to the imposition of spending freezes during the last months of the school year. Mr. Hall mentioned that the freeze was used to aid the district during difficult financial times and that monies saved were reverted to the general fund.

Dr. Fenton noted that all building budgets are worked up on the premise of per pupil allocations ($126 for each elementary student and $160 for secondary students.)

The Board only made a dent in the line-by-line review of this 30-million dollar code, and the code was scheduled for continued review at the April 17 special meeting of the Board. If the Board completes its review, it is expected to adopt a budget figure for 1991-92 at this meeting.

The Board of Education's next meeting, at which time the public budget hearing will take place, is scheduled for Wednesday, April 24, at 8:15 p.m., in the Senior High School cafeteria.

Scholarship Winner

The Service Merchandise Scholarship Program sponsored by Service Merchandise Company has chosen Cynthia Gaylor of Hicksville to receive a scholarship award. She is a student at Hicksville H.S. The Service Merchandise Scholarship Program was created to serve as a lasting tribute to Mr. Harry Zimmerman, who founded Service Merchandise in 1960. Mr. Zimmerman had a strong belief in higher education and this served as an inspiration for the Service Merchandise Scholarship program.

Each year Service Merchandise awards one hundred (100) $500 scholarships to outstanding students. The program is independently managed by Career Opportunities Through Education, (Cote) a nonprofit scholarship service organization located in Cherry Hill, N. J.

Buddy Poppies

Callers Do Not Trust Nancy Reagan Biography

Most callers to Input do not believe that the Kitty Kelley bok on Nancy Reagan will have much lasting effect in answer to this question: "Do you think Nancy Reagan's biography will have any lasting effect on history's assessment of the Reagan years?" Here are some of the answers:

COLLECTION OF GOSSIP

If anybody takes that collection of gossip as a biography they ought to have their heads examined. I admit that I have not read the bok, nor intend to do so, but the newspapers and radio talk shows have quoted from it so profusely that it is easy to see that it is far from an intellectual endeavor. The bok will fade in six months after the initial advertising disappears. N.B.

ENTERTAINMENT

I happened to see a copy of the biography in a bookstore on the first week of publication. I could not believe the number of people who were buying this trash. I asked some why they did buy it and it seems the nearest I could understand is that they thought it was entertaining and did not really care whether it was true or not. I admit that some people who didn't like the Reagans at all seemed to believe that this was the final bok and testament on Nancy Reagan. But the long range effect won't be great. B.F.

LIKE OR DISLIKE

If you liked the Reagans in the White House you would have no use for the bok. If you didn't like them you believe it is a definitive biography. Because more people seem to like the Reagans than dislike them I think it will have no effect. M.F.

DIDN'T HURT FRANK

Most people think that Kitty Kelley wrote her best biography when she tackled Frank Sinatra. But three years later Frank is more popular than before the bok told all about him and his friends as Kitty Kelley saw them. So I can't believe that the Reagan years will suffer from this money making writing scheme. F.D.

NO SAINTS

I found some things in the bok that confirmed what I had always thought. These people in the White House were no saints but they were sitting in a high and mighty position in the Presidency and they did not deserve the respect they received. No, not everyone will believe everything in the bok and there might be errors. But there is enough in the biography to let us stop talking about the Reagans as some kind of saints. They were pretty awful. M.D.

LITTLE RESEARCH

If you believe stories in the National Enquirer you will believe the Nancy Reagan biography. It is written with the same amount of authority as most stories in the Enquirer and the same type of research. Kitty Kelley will make a fortune and she really won't have to worry about who believes the biography or not. It was made to sell and it is doing that. Simon and Schuster, a world famous publisher is also sharing in these ill-gotten bucks. N.F.

NOT BELIEVING

Most people who are buying and reading the bok do not believe it according to a Time magazine poll. But some of the ultra liberals who always disliked Reagan will quote it as though it were true. But this always happens. Lyndon Johnson was given the worst treatment in a biography after he died but only those who wanted to believe it did. The rest say he was the best President for getting civil rights legislation and that is what we remember about him. Reagan will be remembered as the President who helped bring about the collapse of the Soviet Union and the bok about Nancy won't have anything to do with it. J.F.

TRUTHS AND HALF TRUTHS

Quite frankly, I believe that Kitty Kelley went too far in writing her concept of the biography of Nancy Reagan. I say "her concept" because of the reaction of many of those who have read the bok since it was released to the public. I just don't believe that the author herself could possibly authenticate all the things she wrote. It just seems to me that Ms. Kelley saw a real opportunity to capitalize on the kind of life Nancy experienced, binding truths and half-truths together to satisfy the innate desire on the part of the very curious public to believe the variety of episodes which probably could or did take place in the very exciting life-style of President Reagan's wife prior to and during her White House years. In the history of our country, numerous scandals have developed in the lives of U.S. politicians in many levels of the husbands, wives and close relatives of those families. Actually, current spectacular news items have been making the headlines and the air-waves and quite frankly, I believe it is expected that in the lives of stars in the entertainment field, scandal - real or imagined - is regarded as factual and very often expected. I must say that I haven't seen any exodus from the circle of friends, relatives and associates of Ronald and Nancy Reagan and I don't believe that the Kelley biography will have any lasting effect on history's assessment of the Reagan years. History - not Kitty Kelley - will record the peaks and valleys of the careers of the Reagans and I fully believe that the balance will be in their favor. P.G.S.

OTHER ISSUES

GUN CONTROL

With your question on the Brady Bill I would like to answer with a question. Would this bill apply to everyone or just the law abiding citizens? Why do we believe the criminals would obey this law when they haven't obeyed the more than 1000 laws we already have in this country is beyond me. The criminal who is not worried about committing armed robbery, rape or murder is certainly not going to be concerned about a gun law. Why don't we start enforcing the gun laws we already have or meting out tougher punishment for the criminals instead of punishing law abiding citizens, sportsmen like myself who enjoy collecting, hunting and shooting. M.M.

Discovery!

A Cup Of Humanity

By Paula Freda

With Passover and Easter and their message of hope and faith, just past, and spring bursting all around us with the promise of renewal, a story a young man, a co-worker, once told me a quarter of a century ago, comes to mind, and I would like to share it with you.

"....I was feeling particularly low that spring," the young man began. "And I looked it, dressed in a mended windbreaker and patched, faded jeans. The high-pitched voice that interrupted my sulking, grated, 'Hi, beautiful day, isn't it?' said the girl who had just sat down beside me on the park bench. I turned my head and glared at her frostily. In the distance the Staten Island Ferry announced its arrival with a hollow blast.

Irritably I replied, "Not when someone intrudes on another's solitude."

"Educated," she remarked, "though you'd never tell by your clothes and grooming."

"There's a wise, old saying --" I started.

"You can't tell a book by its cover," she finished, tilting her head to the side to study me briefly. "College graduate?" she inquired.

"A student, cum laude!" I informed her.

"Trade schools are better," she remarked.

I squinted a closer look at her. She was plain, hair a mousy brown, skin sallow. She wore a light blue pantsuit buttoned to a simple round collar. I asked, "Do you always talk to strange men?"

"Not normally," she replied. "But you don't seem dangerous, just depressed."

"I look like a bum," I said, rubbing the brown stubble on my jaw and cheeks. I hadn't shaved in three days.

The girl solaced (unnecessarily, I thought, irked) "Being unhappy can make people forget about their appearance."

"You don't have any troubles?" I inquired rather testily.

"Of course I do, but I like talking with people."

"And you talk to strange men," I added.

"No, I don't. I told you - you don't seem dangerous, just depressed."

"Lady has a screw loose," I told her.

She lowered her head, gazing down, and her hair fell limply forward. She was silent for a minute.

"Run out of things to say," I asked.

She glanced up. "I felt unwanted." Her eyes were hazel and almost lashless. I wondered about her.

After a few more moments of silence she asked, "Do you come here often?"

I shook my head. I could not exactly say why I had left my apartment on the Island and taken the railroad to Penn Station and then the subway to Battery Park, except that I'd suddenly felt a craving for the musty smell of the dark green waters and the cool, crisp jabbing breezes of Manhattan Bay. My job at the town bank had lately been pressing on my nerves. My parents who still referred to me as their boy, were ecstatic over my position as Assistant to the Assistant Manager.

For three days now, I had called in sick and exchanged the suit and tie and black patent loafers for my oldest and most comfortable clothing.

The girl broke into my thoughts once again. "I come here every workday."

I squinted, drawing my attention back to her. I had forgotten she was there.

She went on, "I even come here during the winter. I work just a few blocks away." She paused to search my face. "What's wrong? You look lost."

A smile flickered across my mouth. "I am lost," I said. "I was brought up to believe that we all have a purpose for being born. Only I can't fathom what mine is."

"Oh, that's easy enough," she offered. "Just listen to what your heart says, and do what makes you happy, and doesn't hurt anyone."

I stared at her incredulously. She definitely must have a screw loose. "Is that so," I queried sarcastically. This girl must live in a dream world. "And what do you enjoy doing that doesn't hurt anyone?"

She met my sarcastic tone with a chuckle, then growing serious, she said, "I enjoy sharing my feelings with others. She smiled as she asked confidently, "And you, what is it you like doing best?"

My eyebrows knitted as I surprised myself mulling over an answer to her question. "Damn, I don't know," I exclaimed truthfully. "I always thought along the lines of what I was most capable of doing."

She had a thin-lipped mouth, and wore no lipstick, no makeup at all. She ought to wear makeup, I thought. It could do much for her sallow complexion.

I was more attentive as she advised, "Once you know, you'll want to do that particular thing all the time. Just add patience and persistence, and that will equal success - that's the formula in a nutshell!"

She bobbed her head as though an important issue had been solved satisfactorily, then checked her wristwatch. "I have to be going, but it was nice of you to talk with me." She smiled warmly at me as she rose. She was short, I thought, but then it might just seem to me that way because I was six feet two.

She said, "Bet you're a real nice looker under all that stubble and patches and worn threads."

"I am," I told her bluntly.

"Right. Well, bye now." She started to leave.

"Wait," I called after her, rising and joining her. She gazed up at me. The sun glinted in her eyes and their hazel color splashed golden. I searched for something to say. "Wh-what's your name?"

"Carole," she said simply.

"Mine is George," I offered. "You said you come here everyday?"

"Yes -- every workday."

"Would you -- sit beside me tomorrow again, -- and talk with me some more? Help me find out what it is I like doing best."

Carole smiled and her face dimpled. Her cheeks pinked. "Sure I will."

"Good, then I'll see you tomorrow."

I watched her walk away. She was slightly bowlegged and her figure would never win her a beauty contest.

"Carole," I shouted, running after her.

She turned and waited for me to catch up to her. Again I searched for something to say. "Ah -- what time is your lunch hour?" I really wished she would stay awhile longer.

"One o'clock," she replied.

"Maybe I could walk you --" (I was about to say ... back to your office, but then I remembered the three days stubble on my face, the mended windbreaker, patched and faded jeans, not to mention my sockless, sandaled feet. "No, I guess not," I said. "I'll meet you here tomorrow. And I'll shave first and put on my Sunday best.

The girl nodded. Her face seemed all at once more defined, brighter. Her lips untainted by lipstick were parted softly, showing a glimpse of white, even teeth.

When she had gone, I strolled along the pier, thinking - how simple the solution to my depression was. Why hadn't I thought of it myself? The girl, Carole, must have a great deal of common sense. She dressed well, too. Simple and neat. And her hair, it was the color of warm chestnuts. I had tagged it mousy originally, but that was before she had risen from the bench and stood in the sunlight. Neither was her figure that bad, not too lean and not too fat. She had a pleasant sounding voice, soft, yet vibrant and expressive. And she was fun to talk with. What was more - she cared about her fellowman. She had cared enough to offer me, a stranger, a measure of concern, an ounce of kindness, a cup of humanity.

I hurried from the park, anxious to get home, take a bath, shave, get into some decent clothes, put my life in perspective. And tomorrow - tomorrow I was going to see her again, a certain girl with the loveliest hazel eyes and light brown hair and the most endearing smile I had ever encountered. I had no intention of losing sight of her. Girls like her were rare. A wholesome cup of humanity was hard to come by these days.

"Did you see her again?" I asked my co-worker as he finished his story.

"Oh yes," he beamed.

Just then, the receptionist handling the phones called out, "George, telephone. It's Carole, your wife."

As he hurried to answer the call, my co-worker winked, "A wholesome cup of humanity is hard to come by these days."

READER RATINGS

A. If I am dining out with a large group and do not feel like a cocktail, am I really obliged to order one so as not to put a damper on the party?

A. Absolutely not - and this applies to all size groups. No one should ever order an alcoholic drink to please others. If you wish, you may order a soft drink or mineral water, but this is purely optional.

Q. I seem to remember that years ago salads always came to the table with the entree. But now they are served in advance of the main course. Why did this change occur?

A. Salads are now customarily served before the entree in order to provide the hungry diner with something to eat while his main course is being prepared.

READER RATINGS

Q. We are not wine drinkers. If we're giving a party, what kind of wines should we stock in order to take care of our wine-drinking friends' pleasure - from cocktail hour through dinner? W.L.A.

A. For the cocktail hour you might have on hand dry or sweet sherry, or dry or sweet vermouth, or any of the popular "aperitifs." Many choose a glass of dry white wine at the cocktail hour (either chilled or "on the rocks").

For the first course, or to drink with any fish, salad, chicken, veal or fruit, a chilled white wine is nice (such as Chablis, Soave, Riesling, Chenin Blanc, Pinot Chardonnay).

For the meat or game course (or the salad with cheese), serve a Burgundy, Bordeaux, Chianti, Cabernet Sauvignon or Zinfandel at a cool room temperature (from 60 to 70 degrees).

Rose wines should be chilled like white wines. A rose is best served with a light dish and is more popular in hot weather than in cold.

For dessert you may serve the same wine you had from the previous course. Or if it's something festive like an anniversary, dessert time is the moment to bring on the champagne (the drier the better).

Some people enjoy a sweet wine with dessert, such as port or a sweet sauternes or sherry, but one seldom sees this custom followed anymore in this country.

READER RATINGS

BETTER PLACES

It had been several months since we visited Weigel's Place on Herricks Road, Mineola.

We were glad we came back. The restaurant has developed into one of the better places on Long Island for moderately well presented food. We had a first rate dinner there last week and we made haste to call in the fact that it was so good.

The service is courteous and prompt and the decor is clean and open. It makes you want to stay on as long as possible at the long wooden bar running down the side of the building.

Weigel's Place should be enjoyed by more people and we hope this will get in the paper to tell everyone about it. L.R.

FINE FOOD

This week we went to the Arbor Inn a week after our anniversary which we wanted to celebrate last week. They gave us great service and great food on Thursday. The decor of the Arbor Inn, the piano at the bar and the fine food is worth going to at any time. In addition to the food the people are very friendly at the Arbor Inn. We recommend it and especially if you are going to, celebrate something. J and L.S.

Q. When traveling through Europe I noticed some places serve the salad with the meal, some, like here, before. What is appropriate and why?

A. Every country has its own custom which dictate appropriate behavior. True, some places serve the salad with the main course, but the American style of before is taking hold in some places.

READER RATINGS

A. If I am dining out with a large group and do not feel like a cocktail, am I really obliged to order one so as not to put a damper on the party?

A. Absolutely not - and this applies to all size groups. No one should ever order an alcoholic drink to please others. If you wish, you may order a soft drink or mineral water, but this is purely optional.

Q. I seem to remember that years ago salads always came to the table with the entree. But now they are served in advance of the main course. Why did this change occur?

A. Salads are now customarily served before the entree in order to provide the hungry diner with something to eat while his main course is being prepared.

With today's emphasis on nutrition, salads are treated with much more respect than they once were. They are regarded not just as accompaniments to meals, but as important courses in their own right.

FINE SETTING

The Maine Maid is the place to go for a restaurant in a fine traditional setting. The Maine Maid is an old Quaker House. In fact, the owner told us that it is a landmark. But the decor is restful and elegant and the service is good. The food consists of well prepared meats and fish. Some of them are prepared right at your table. Tell your readers to try it and they will be glad for the suggestion. Toby C.

Q. We are not wine drinkers. If we're giving a party, what kind of wines should we stock in order to take care of our wine-drinking friends' pleasure - from cocktail hour through dinner? W.L.

A. For the cocktail hour you might have on hand dry or sweet sherry, or dry or sweet vermouth, or any of the popular "aperitifs". Many choose a glass of dry white wine at the cocktail hour (either chilled or "on the rocks").

For the first course, or to drink with any fish, salad, chicken, veal or fruit, a chilled white wine is nice (such as Chablis, Soave, Riesling, Chenin Blanc, Pinot Chardonnay).

For the meat or game course (or the salad with cheese), serve a Burgundy, Bordeaux, Chianti, Dabernet Sauvignon or Zinfandel at a cool room temperature (from 60 to 70 degrees).

Rose wines should be chilled, like white wines. A rose is best served with a light dish and is more popular in hot weather than in cold.

For dessert you may serve the same wine you had from the previous course. Or if it's something festive like an anniversary, dessert time is the moment to bring on the champagne (the drier the better!)

Some people enjoy a sweet wine with dessert such as port or a sweet sauterne or sherry, but one seldom sees this custom followed anymore in this country.

Microwave defrosting tips

By Desiree Vivea

Most of us regularly rely upon frozen foods and can't imagine life without them, but it wasn't until 1930 that the first line of frozen foods went on the market in Springfield, Mass. The newfound convenience must have been welcome.

Today, with a microwave at your service, frozen foods are more convenient than ever. No need to remember to remove foods hours in advance; you can defrost whenever it's convenient.

Foods wrapped in paper or plastic may be placed in the oven without unwrapping. Cover other foods with waxed paper to hold in warmth and speed defrosting.

Defrosting times can vary depending upon your oven's wattage and on a number of other factors: size, shape, and density and weight of food. Defrosting time will also depend in how solidly food is frozen. If not completely defrosted at end of suggested time, let stand for a few minutes at room temperature to complete thawing.

Separate frozen hamburger patties, chicken pieces, chops, etc., as soon as possible for quicker, more even defrosting. Remove packaging (plastic foam tray and paper liner) from meats before defrosting. The tray will insulate meat like a plastic foam ice chest and keep it cold. Always completely defrost meats before using in a recipe.

Defrost ground beef at 30 percent power five to eight minutes per pound. Check meat frequently and use fork to scrape off and remove thawed portions, especially when defrosting a package of more than one pound. This allows inner portion to thaw more quickly. Let stand five to 10 minutes to defrost completely before using in a recipe.

Defrost steaks or flat roasts at 30 percent power four to six minutes per pound, turning over halfway through defrost time, and letting stand until meat can easily be pierced in the center with a fork (five to 10 minutes).

Defrost chicken and fish at 30 percent power six to eight minutes per pound; turn over halfway through defrost time and let stand 10 minutes before cooking.

Most frozen foods require standing time after the defrost period to allow them to complete thawing without starting to cook (some ovens allow you to program standing time).

For large items — a roast or whole frozen chicken — alternate microwaving/standing time. Alternate five minutes of defrost with five minutes of standing time until food is thawed. This method allows heat to reach center of food without cooking inner portions. Allow 10 to 15 minutes of standing time at end to complete defrosting.

Defrost roasts nine to 11½ minutes per pound; whole chickens six to 10 minutes per pound.

Do not completely defrost frozen fruits, since they will taste freshest when served still slightly frozen. To thaw a 10-ounce bag of frozen fruit, turn into a microwave-safe bowl and microwave at HIGH (100 percent power) setting one to three minutes, or until still slightly icy. Use immediately or let stand 10 to 15 minutes to complete thawing.

(Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.)

MICRO-TIP OF THE WEEK

For quick breakfast juice on busy mornings, push out 6 ounces of frozen juice concentrate from can into microwave-safe pitcher. Microwave on DEFROST for two minutes; let stand five minutes before adding water.

RED SNAPPER FLORENTINE

- 2 (10-ounce) packages frozen chopped spinach
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1½ teaspoons lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
- ¼ teaspoon each salt and pepper
- 1 pound red snapper fillets
- ½ tablespoon butter
- 1 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
- ½ teaspoon paprika

Yields 4 servings.

Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes.

Cooking time: 11 to 17 minutes.

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power); MEDIUM (50 percent power).

Place unopened spinach packages in microwave; cook at HIGH setting 5 to 7 minutes, or until packages bend easily, rotating and turning over after 3 minutes. Turn spinach into colander and drain well.

Place spinach in 8-inch round microwave-safe baking dish. Stir in onion, lemon juice, mustard, salt and pepper, then spread spinach mixture over bottom of dish.

Arrange snapper fillets over spinach. Dot with butter and sprinkle with parsley and paprika. Cover with plastic wrap, leaving 1 corner open to vent. Microwave at MEDIUM setting 3 to 4 minutes. Stir and rearrange spinach around edges of dish. Replace cover and microwave at MEDIUM setting 3 to 6 minutes longer, or until fish flakes easily.

Serve with fluffy rice.

FOR TEENS

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Dr. Abraham: For a couple of weeks this guy paid a lot of attention to me, but I had mixed feelings about him. He just seemed too slick. He smiled so much, but not with his eyes if you know what I mean.

Now he has faded out of my life altogether, but I see him at school and always with a different girl. He keeps looking at each one as he looked at me.

I think I'm lucky to have figured him out for what he really is. "Sincerity" doesn't seem to be part of his personality.

Do you agree? — Deedee, Charleston, S.C.

Deedee: You seem to be right on target. Others as sharp as you are will probably also catch on quickly. Some may be taken in, and that can be so sad for them.

You were smart to see through him. Better luck next time.

Dr. Abraham: My girlfriend is wonderful to me, but she is a bossy person and that bothers me. She is always telling me what to do. Most of the time she's right, because what she tells me is usually something I didn't think of, like straightening my tie, shining my shoes, brushing down my hair in back, and sometimes the embarrassing thing of zipping up my pants.

I wish she'd stop, and I tell her that, but she goes right on. She says she does because she loves me. That's a funny way to show it, I think. — Phil, Rochester, N.Y.

Phil: Why not consider making a deal with her? You'll straighten, shine, brush, and zip up if she will get off your back. The fact that she repeats the same suggestions could provide you with a list to work on.

Psychologists sometimes refer to this approach as Grandma's Law — "I'll do this if you will do that." It often works, too.

If she is "bossy" only in the way you indicated and she continues to be "wonderful" to you, hang in there. It sounds like she's good for you.

Dr. Abraham: I am so ready to get involved with this fellow because he is all I've ever wanted. But the problem is that he keeps saying something like, "Not so fast. Let's get to know each other first."

I know him very well. He's kind, thoughtful, serious, good-looking and has the sweetest smile I've ever seen.

So why does he want to be "just friends"? That's sure not enough for me! — Eager and willing, San Jose, Calif.

Eager and willing: Probably because he is a "kind, thoughtful, serious" person he doesn't want either of you to get hurt. He apparently recognizes that friendship has to come first. Two people don't always reach the next stage of a relationship at exactly the same time.

He seems to be important enough to you for you to try being patient, as difficult as that appears to be right now.

So find things you enjoy together — talk, listen and be friends.

If it'll be, it'll be — a stronger relationship, I mean.

Dr. Abraham: I'm so heartbroken and am afraid to tell my parents how I feel. I'm in my first year at college and away from home for the first time. I am 18 years old. I had looked forward to this so much, but it's dreadful.

It's not that my classes are so bad or that I can't do the work (they aren't and I can), or that I haven't made friends (I have). It's just that I guess I have a case of homesickness.

I really want to go home. There is a whole group of us who feel this way.

I look forward to your opinion. If you think it's OK for me to pack up and go, I'll do it so fast that it will surprise even me. — Betsy, Dallas, Texas

Betsy: I'm going to hold back on advising you to pack up. You have a lot of company in practically every freshman college class all across the country. Many teens, especially those during their first time away from home, share your desire to go back.

College counselors have met with a lot of people with feelings like yours, so I'd like to suggest that you make an appointment to talk to your counselor. He or she probably will ask that you consider giving your new experience a little more time.

I agree with that suggestion. It may be hard for you to believe now, but the odds are that you'll be glad you did.

Traditional treats recall Russian Easter feasts

By Charles Britton

This year Easter will bring more widespread joy than usual.

The greater freedoms that recent events have brought to Central and Eastern Europe, where many who profess Orthodoxy make their homes, will bring additional crowds into once-persecuted churches.

Orthodox Easter has long been an occasion of particularly moving solemnity. The faithful greet the start of the holiday in a darkened church at midnight. A priest appears in the gloom, bearing a burning candle. Each member of the congregation holds a taper, and the flame passes from hand to hand until every candle shares the glow.

Then the priest leads the flock outside for a ceremonial procession around the building and then a ceremonial re-entry into the now fully illuminated sanctuary.

The holiday also represents the end of the privations of Lent. The faithful may have given up meat, dairy products and sometimes, according to the Rev. Paul Doyle of St. Matthew Orthodox Church in Torrance, Calif., certain fish as well.

Unlike America, where Easter culinary traditions are not well-established, many European cultures require particular dishes for the holiday feast that follows church services. And perhaps this year — as epochal changes continue to take place in Eastern Europe — we in the West can symbolically join those peoples by sampling some of their holiday fare.

Among Russians, Easter is practically synonymous with a dish called Paskha — it is, indeed, the Russian word for the holiday. "It's very delicious," said Doyle, whose congregation includes members with Eastern European backgrounds.

Paskha occupies a category of recipe virtually unto itself; it's a kind of sweet cheese spread — unless you would prefer to think of it as a pudding or an unbaked cheesecake. It always accompanies Kulich, a rather dry, mildly sweet raised bread. Together they share pride of place on the Easter table.

Of the two, Paskha is the easier to make. In the old days, the kitchen serfs would beat the ingredients into the requisite smooth confection. Nowadays, we can call on electric appliances to do the job much faster.

The main problem about making Paskha is finding the correct mold. In Russia, they use a form with flat sides, like a steep, truncated pyramid. These seem to be unobtainable here, except perhaps as an heirloom.

You can, of course, mold the cheese in any form with holes that will permit drainage — a small colander, perhaps, or a strainer with a stainless mesh. But a true Paskha should stand tall, and that's why most Russians in this country use an ordinary flower pot, either plastic or clay. As long as the pot has a hole in the bottom, it works perfectly, although the form is circular rather than square in cross section.

For our Paskha, I was about to turn to the same expedient when I came across a plastic food storage container that had almost the precise traditional shape. I provided drainage by punching a few holes in the bottom, working from inside out, with a two-pronged roasting fork.

Of the great number of Paskha recipes, this one poses the fewest difficulties. It calls for readily obtainable ricotta and standard cream cheese, and the egg yolks are cooked in a custard base rather than remaining raw, as in many older recipes.

This recipe was developed out of the formula given by Sylvia Thompson in her fine book, "Feasts and Friends" (North Point, 1988), which in turn was adapted from earlier versions.

PASKHA

2 egg yolks
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 teaspoon cornstarch (optional)
1/2 cup heavy cream
1 teaspoon grated lemon or orange zest
1 pound ricotta cheese
1 pound cream cheese, room temperature
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 1/4 to 2 sticks unsalted butter, softened
Cheesecloth
Candied fruit or nuts

Yields 2 1/2 pounds, enough for at least 20 servings.

Beat egg yolks with 1/2 cup of sugar until lemon-colored and thick. Beat in cornstarch, if using. (Starch offers a measure of protection against overcooking.) Beat in cream and zest.

In small heavy-bottomed saucepan, gently heat mixture, stirring constantly. When mixture becomes too warm for your finger and thickens enough to coat spoon, it is done. Do not let more than very soft curds form. (Alternatively, this step may be done in a double boiler, but it takes much longer.) Immediately turn custard into bowl of electric mixer or food processor.

Add some of ricotta and beat or process. When fairly smooth, add by stages remaining sugar, remaining ricotta, cream cheese, vanilla and butter. Beat or process until quite smooth.

Meanwhile, rinse cheesecloth in cold water. Wring out and use cloth to line mold you have chosen, letting some drape over sides.

After Work Gourmet

By Melanie Barnard
and Brooke Dojny

Both Brooke and Melanie have had the sublime experience of visiting Ballymaloe House, a renowned inn in rural County Cork, Ireland.

Brooke and her husband went on holiday, while Melanie had the unique opportunity to work in the famed Ballymaloe kitchen in order to learn to adapt owner Myrtle Allen's wonderful recipes for American use.

These recipes and some delectable photographs now appear in the lovely book "Myrtle Allen's Cooking at Ballymaloe House" (Stewart, Tabori & Chang, 1990).

It was the first trip to the Emerald Isle for both of us, and since we are not Irish, we went with none of the preconceived romanticism of family or cultural tradition. Though we did expect a nice trip, we were both absolutely overwhelmed by the magnificent verdant beauty of the country and by the open friendliness of everyone we encountered.

But what surprised us most of all in this land generally considered to be plain "meat and potatoes" country, was the wonderful food, especially that which we savored from Myrtle Allen's kitchen at Ballymaloe House.

Many years ago, Allen and her family opened their home, a 16th-century manor, to overnight visitors. Today, guests from all over the world come to savor the sweet air, rest in utmost comfort and sample some of the best cuisine Ireland has to offer.

Myrtle Allen is a passionate proponent of fresh, seasonal ingredients simply prepared to highlight the natural goodness. She also is an outspoken supporter of small, privately owned farms and businesses. Consequently, the fish and seafood at Ballymaloe come right off the boat at the nearby harbor, the produce and herbs come straight from local farms, and the meat and fowl are locally butchered and prepared.

Although every meal at Ballymaloe is a memorable experience, we especially enjoyed the quiet elegance of teatime. Freshly brewed tea is poured from charming handmade ceramic pots, and trays of delicious baked goodies make selective choosing almost too much to bear.

There are dainty sandwiches on brown bread and cakes or tartlets of the season. And almost always there is a basket of tender, warm scones (cousin to American biscuits) with Myrtle's own jam and a plate of Brown Picnic Cookies, a lightly sweetened thin shortbread cookie with a pleasantly nutty flavor imparted by the goodness of whole-wheat flour.

The good news for us (and you) is that both of these treats are a breeze to prepare. Here, adapted from Myrtle's cookbook, are the recipes.

TIPS

• Allen cautions that gentle handling is the key to tender scones. Stir and knead the dough only as much as necessary. Scones from the first rolling will be the best, but the rerolled scraps are pretty tasty, too.

• Lyle's Golden Syrup is available in many supermarket "gourmet" sections, as well in specialty food stores. Mild honey is a good substitute.

BALLYMALOE SCONES

2 cups all-purpose flour

1 1/2 teaspoons sugar, optional
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons cold, unsalted butter, cut into pieces
3/4 cup chilled buttermilk or sour milk

Yields about 12 scones.

Preparation time: 10 minutes.

Baking time: About 15 minutes.

Preheat oven to 400 F.

Sift flour, optional sugar, baking soda and salt into mixing bowl. Rub in butter until mixture resembles coarse meal. Stir in buttermilk all at once and mix with spoon until all ingredients are moistened and a dough forms.

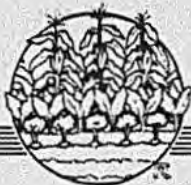

Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead 4 to 5 times. Roll or pat dough to 1/2- to 3/4-inch thickness and cut out rounds with 2-inch cutter, or diamonds approximately the same size, reforming and recutting scraps one time.

Arrange scones 2 inches apart on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in center of oven for 13 to 16 minutes, until well risen and tops are golden brown. Cool slightly on rack, but serve warm.

Note: To make sour milk, measure 2 teaspoons lemon juice and enough sweet milk to make 3/4 cup. Let stand 10 minutes until it thickens and looks curdled.

Backyard Gardener

By Patrick Denton

Broad bean the hardiest legume we grow

One of the most cold-hardy of all home garden vegetables is the broad, or fava bean, an apt vegetable to celebrate during the month of March.

One of the oldest cultivated plants, the broad bean is thought to have originated in the Mediterranean region. Broad beans were grown widely in Europe during prehistoric times, and they were well known to the Egyptians and Romans.

When one thinks of beans it's natural to think cold-tender and warmth-loving, since the most popular and commonly grown home garden beans — snap and runner beans — are tender perennial South American natives that need a well-warmed soil to germinate properly and abundant amounts of sunlight and warmth to produce well. These aren't planted until the really warm spring weather arrives.

The broad bean presents an entirely different story. Not a true bean at all, it's actually a giant vetch (Vicia faba), a cool-season legume like the pea and the hardiest legume we grow.

Depending upon the variety the upright, stout-stemmed plants grow up to 5 feet tall with dark purple-spotted white flowers followed by pods borne singly or in clusters in the leaf axils.

Embedded in the woolly white pod linings, the edible seeds develop and are harvested when they become visible as bumps along the pod. The large, neat seeds are eaten shelled like peas or lima beans, and steamed tender. They freeze well following blanching.

I always grow a few short rows of broad beans, enough for enjoying fresh at several summer meals and for freezing a half-dozen or so small packets for winter.

But I have friends, true broad bean fanciers, who grow a whole sea of the plants every year. Last spring, standing in their huge vegetable garden beside an immense planting in full flower, I discovered a whole new, lovely aspect of the broad bean — the sweet fragrance of the blooms, not noticeable in my few plants but abundantly evident in this large planting.

As long as the soil is not waterlogged, broad beans can be sown very early in the spring — or even in late winter in the parts of the North American continent that enjoy mild winters and where the planting site has an open-textured, fast-draining soil. In mild winter areas where the soil drains quickly of excess moisture in winter the seeds can be sown in October for a spring crop.

Broad beans grow best in a deeply dug, humus-rich soil that is not acid or oversupplied with nitrogen. If you know your soil is acid, apply some lime where the broad beans are to be planted. As a legume, the broad bean is able to attract and harbor on its roots nitrogen-fixing bacteria. Loads of available nitrogen in the soil can short-circuit this natural process.

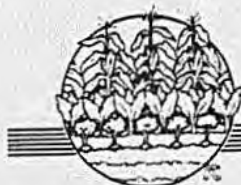

If the soil is well supplied with organic matter, no fertilizing should be necessary. But if you feel your soil requires a little boost use bonemeal for phosphorus and kelp meal for potassium, or a low-nitrogen formula such as 4-10-10. The phosphorus and potassium (the 10-10 part of the formula) help to ensure sturdy growth less likely to fall over when the plants are loaded with swelling pods.

To make efficient use of space, plant broad beans in double rows spaced 10 inches apart, with 2 to 3 feet (depending on the variety) between each set of double rows. Within the row, space the seeds 6 inches apart and plant them 1 inch deep in heavy soils and 2 inches deep in light, sandy soils.

The only problem common in broad bean planting is black aphids congregating on the growing tips of the plants. Control them by pinching out and destroying the tips as the aphids arrive. Taller varieties may need some staking.

A peculiarity of the broad bean is that some people, mainly those of Mediterranean ancestry, have a genetic enzyme deficiency that can cause severe allergic reactions to the beans, and even to the pollen.

The most commonly offered broad bean variety is Windsor Long Pod. Stokes Seeds lists Toto, a dwarf plant, as well. Johnny's Selected Seeds lists Ipro, a variety bred to produce well in warmer weather than other varieties will tolerate.

Our Children

Books of interest to parents and kids

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Dear Parents: I must have "hit the spot" a few weeks ago by telling you about some practical new books coming to the aid of parents and their children. Because you asked for more of them, here are four selected from the current pile.

A book aimed directly at parents of 6- to 13-year-olds handled an issue that families often face and the problems that occur if they ignore it. "How to Help Your Child with Homework" by Dr. Marguerite C. Radencich and Dr. Jeanne Shay Schumm has an interesting subtitle — "Every caring parent's guide to encouraging good study habits and ending the Homework Wars."

After telling you how to get started by deciding who should help, setting a schedule, creating a home study center, the place of home computers, and school contacts, the authors deal directly with specific academic areas. They include reading, spelling, writing, mathematics, science, social studies and foreign languages.

Because some parents may feel their involvement must always be serious, "Playing Games" is a section that can bring some fun into the homework scene.

This book is published by an organization that has released a whole series of unusual books related to family issues, including stress, giftedness, teen-age businesses, recording family life stories, and kids' involvements in social problems.

If you want more information or a copy of their catalog you can write Free Spirit Publishing Inc., 400 First Avenue N., Suite 616, Minneapolis, MN 55401.

Another book deals with a topic many parents seem to be glad to avoid. It can help put your mind at ease if your attitude is negative about you and your youngsters getting together in the area of art. A firm, "No, not me! Never! Forget it!" may be your reaction.

"Teach Your Child to Draw" by Mia Johnson points out that "if parents enjoy doing things with their children they can teach them to draw." If you aren't doing as much with your kids as you think you should Johnson's program may open a "fun and easy to follow" door for you and them.

As a way to introduce a child to basic art skills, as well as to art appreciation and art history, she provides a rare combination of knowledge and enjoyment for both parent and child.

A third book may have a more limited parent audience, but those whose children might benefit from it will perhaps have an interest that is both constant and intense. It is titled "Children with Asthma: A Manual for Parents," written by Dr. Thomas F. Plaut with the aid of parents, patients and other physicians. If you are interested, the second edition of this book is what you should seek.

Basic facts, case studies, medication, home treatment, school and travel involvements are all dealt with in what appears to be a thorough and sensitive manner.

Because there is so much beauty and enjoyment in today's fourth book, I can't resist telling you about it. It's for 4- to 8-year-old children, to read or have it read to them.

It is called "The Good Luck Pony," written by Elizabeth Koda-Callan, and comes with a locket that has a tiny "golden" pony charm dangling from it. The fascination of so many children with ponies and horses indicates that this little book can have wide appeal.

Its theme is of a child's coping with fear, being scared but brave, and being caught between a strong desire "to ride with the wind" and severe concerns or distress. It is a story of courage with great appeal for little girls, but for boys, too, I imagine.

I know a bright 3-year-old who also loves it. Her parents have reread it to her many times, usually telescoping the narrative to match her attention span, but always including the beautiful pictures created by the talented author.

All four of these books now are, or soon will be, available at your local library or bookstore. At least one of them might be on target for you.

Former Chinese Olympic coach 'living out a dream'

By Jamie Reno

SAN DIEGO — From 1956 to 1981, Paul Yang was head training coach at the Beijing Institute of Physical Education, one of the world's most prestigious athletic institutions.

At the school, which is where the Chinese Olympic gymnastics team is trained, more than 3,000 students study under 400 faculty members and a staff of 800.

At one point, Yang said, he had more than 100 of China's finest coaches working under him.

"We had 12 gymnasts from our school in the Olympics before 1960," said Yang, 55, who in 1965 was awarded the "Highest Honor in Sports" by Liu Shao-chi, then chairman of the People's Republic of China.

Since then, Yang's life has changed some.

Since August of last year, he has driven each Tuesday and Thursday from his home in suburban Lemon Grove to the Pacific Beach Recreation Center, where he teaches three gymnastics classes to a handful of children ages 6-14.

He has no staff under him; he sets up the equipment himself.

When they begin the class, most of his students don't know a vault horse from a charley horse.

"They try hard," said Yang diplomatically.

A gentle, soft-voiced man with an apparently infinite amount of patience, Yang said he has never been happier.

"I miss China, but for a long time I wanted to live in America and teach gymnastics to American children," he explained. "I am living out a dream."

Of his illustrious past, the students know little.

"I haven't told them," he said. His bosses at the recreation center didn't even know of his impressive credentials until a friend of Yang's mentioned it in passing a few weeks ago.

"It isn't important that people know. What matters is that the children like me and are learning something."

Evidently, they do and they are. When he arrived at the gym the other day, the children in his class of 6- to 9-year-olds really flipped.

With twinkling eyes of recognition, they raced to him in their tiny leotards and sweat pants, each trying to be the first to demonstrate the progress he or she had made on headstands and cartwheels.

"I can flip off the balance beam now," beamed one 11-year-old girl.

"I ran three laps before you got here," said a panting 8-year-old boy.

Children, Yang has observed, are a "little different here than in China." But he loves them just the same.

"They're a little more wild (here)," he said. "But if they respect you, you can teach them anything. I love the kids in this country."

Yang said he wanted to live in America ever since he was a child and his father was captured by the Red army and put in prison.

"He was put in prison simply because he was Christian," Yang said. "When he was taken away, I decided I wanted to go to a place where I could be free."

In 1981, after receiving an invitation, Yang left his family in Beijing and moved to Pennsylvania to become a visiting undergraduate gymnastics teacher at Lock Haven University. He received a certificate of honor from the president of the university, he said.

But Yang, who in addition to his extensive gymnastics training is an expert in ancient Asian therapies — including acupressure — was asked by Divine Providence Hospital in Williamsburg, Pa., to teach acupressure to doctors and nurses.

It was there that Yang conducted research on Chi Gong, a healing technique that involves transferring energy from a healthy person to an ill person.

"I'd like to introduce more people here to Chi Gong," he said, "but there are some in America who still don't trust or understand such types of healing. It is ancient in China, but it is a new idea here."

In 1983, Yang returned to teaching gymnastics at a performing arts school in Manhattan. By then, he was no longer considered a visiting scholar, enabling him to get his green card.

He found the Pacific Beach Recreation Center.

Yang, who also teaches at the La Jolla YMCA Saturday mornings and at the Children's Creative & Performing Arts Academy of San Diego in Clairemont, said his dream is to establish a competitive gymnastics team at the recreation center.

"I would like to someday have a team here that can compete all over the West Coast," he said, adding with a shrug, "Who knows? Someday we might even produce an Olympian."

Once he received it, he sent for his wife and two daughters in China.

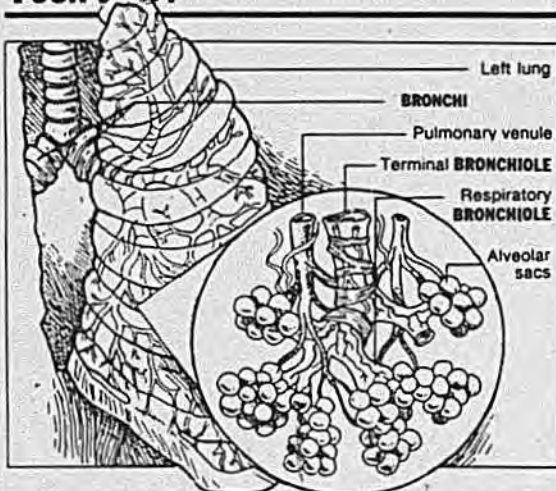

"I was so happy that I could stay in the United States and have my family here," he said, "but I didn't want to settle in New York. There was too much crime."

For a year after his family arrived, Yang taught exercise psychology, nutrition and acupressure at Columbia University. But he had his heart set on San Diego, where he had a sister and an uncle.

When his stint at Columbia was completed, he moved here and began the search for a place to teach gymnastics.

YOUR BODY

THE BRONCHI

WHAT: The Greek word bronchos means windpipe, an accurate name for the two main bronchi (BRON-kye) of the respiratory system. These large tubes branch out into smaller tubes called segmental bronchi, which in turn branch out into tiny bronchioles. The whole structure looks like and is known as "the bronchial tree."

Bronchitis means inflammation of the bronchi, and bronchial asthma refers to a condition in which spasms of the bronchioles block air passages.

WHERE: The right and left main bronchi branch out in the chest from the trachea, also a windpipe. The right bronchus goes to the right lung; the left bronchus goes to the left lung.

FUNCTIONS: The bronchi serve as air ducts to the lungs.

KITCHEN HINTS

Stews with beans are healthy and popular

Sometimes the beans fall apart.

Here's how to keep them shapely:

1. Drain soaked beans very well. Heat some fat or vegetable oil in the casserole and cook onions and garlic, if desired.
2. Add beans and stir to coat with fat, which prevents their bursting during long cooking.
3. After beans have cooked in fat for a few minutes, add liquid.

The sweet taste of maple

By Kit Saedaker

My sister-in-law adores maple syrup, maple sugar, maple anything. So do a lot of people. They feel about maple the way some of us feel about chocolate, that it's the best thing invented. Which means this is their time of the year.

Maple sap is starting to flow in New England, and the new maple syrup is coming in. With it are such delights as maple cream, maple sugar candy, even maple butter. Maple sugar on hot or cold cereal is special.

But my sister-in-law doesn't just eat it, she makes maple cake and custard. I've gone a step further, matching maple to a pork roast and freezing it in yogurt. That maple flavor gives everything an extra spin without being too sweet.

FROZEN MAPLE YOGURT

2 apples, peeled and grated
1/2 cup maple syrup
2 tablespoons water
3 tablespoons bourbon
2 cups plain non-fat yogurt
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Yields 4 to 6 servings. Each serving has about 110 calories, trace of fat and trace of cholesterol, and 60 milligrams sodium.

Put grated apples in saucepan and add syrup, water and bourbon. Bring to boil and reduce heat to simmer. Cook for about 5 minutes until apples are tender.

Put this mixture in food processor and puree until smooth. Stir in yogurt and lemon juice and freeze in ice cream mixer according to manufacturer's instructions. Or put in 8-inch square utility pan and place in freezer. After an hour, turn out into food processor and puree. Return to freezer for another hour and repeat. Then spoon into bowl, cover and freeze.

MAPLE CUSTARD

1 egg
2 egg whites
3 tablespoons sugar
1 1/4 cups low-fat milk, scalded

4 to 6 tablespoons maple syrup

Yields 2 to 4 servings. Each serving has about 85 calories, 1 gram fat, no cholesterol and 35 milligrams sodium.

Beat egg, egg whites and sugar together. Gradually stir in milk. Pour into individual custard cups and spoon 1 tablespoon maple syrup over the top of each (it will sink to the bottom).

Put cups on rack in shallow pan and carefully pour hot water into pan until it comes up sides of cups. Bake in oven preheated to 350 F for about 45 minutes until knife inserted near edge comes out clean (center can still be wobbly). Take cups out of water and let cool. Serve at room temperature or cold.

MAPLE ROAST PORK

1 1/2 pounds pork tenderloin
2 cloves garlic, sliced thin
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon rum or apple juice
1 1/2 tablespoons maple syrup
Pinch of cayenne

Yields 4 to 6 servings. Each serving has about 240 calories, 14 grams fat, 80 milligrams cholesterol and 60 milligrams sodium.

Make holes in pork with large fork. Tuck slices of garlic into holes and rub tenderloin with lemon juice. Mix rum, maple syrup and cayenne in small bowl and pour into large plastic bag (or double bag). Add pork, turning to make sure it's covered on all sides. Close top and refrigerate overnight.

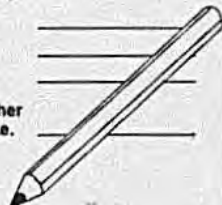

Drain pork, saving marinade, and place tenderloin on rack in roasting pan. Put it in oven preheated to 425 F for about 30 minutes. Lower heat to 350 F and continue roasting for another 30 minutes, basting occasionally with reserved marinade. Let roast stand 15 minutes before carving.

How to find your ideal daily caloric intake

Use this formula to find general caloric needs for weight loss or for maintaining your ideal weight. Be sure to check with your physician, because caloric needs vary with age, gender, physical condition, pregnancy, lifestyle and other factors.

- 1 Multiply your desired weight by 10: _____
- 2 Now, multiply your desired weight by:
 - 3 If you're sedentary _____
 - 5 If you're moderately active _____
 - 10 If you're very active _____
- 3 Finally, add the two numbers together to find your ideal daily caloric intake. _____

Steps can be made slip-proof

Q. We have a poured concrete walk and steps leading up to the entrance of our house. There are three steps that are about 4 feet wide, but not very steep.

My problem is that during wet weather, the steps are rather slippery. I am afraid that someone is going to take a nasty spill.

Do you have any suggestions on how to make these steps slip-proof?

A. The easiest solution would be to purchase a commercial non-skid material with an adhesive backing. This can be applied in strips across the steps. However, these are not very attractive and are not long-lasting.

A lightweight, hand-held power grinder can be used to cut evenly spaced safety grooves in hardened concrete treads. This is not unattractive and would be a permanent solution to your problem, although you may have to hire someone who is proficient with a power grinder for best results.

Q. We have wooden-framed windows in an older home. I repainted these last year, but now the paint is peeling in areas that also show signs of mildew.

Is there a special kind of paint I can use to protect the wood from mildew and prevent peeling?

A. You can purchase paints with mildewicides. Or you can put an anti-mildew additive into any quality paint to provide protection (sometimes a mildewicide is recommended, although the paint already contains some protective additive).

Prior to painting, however, you must prepare the surface to be painted properly or you will continue to have a peeling problem. This means a thorough cleaning, light sanding and priming. It may also mean scraping, stripping, reglazing, wire-brushing, filling and caulking depending on the condition of the surface. It is important that all loose and peeling paint be removed and that you stop any source of moisture that might be seeping through cracks and crevices.

Be sure that room ventilation is adequate so you minimize condensation. Check with your paint dealer for recommendations on both primers and paint that are treated, or can be treated with additive, to enhance protection from mildew. Choose a high-quality paint. It is well worth the extra cost.

Q. We recently purchased a home, and I have discovered some fairly large scratches on the patio sliding doors. Although there are a number of scratches, they do not seem to be very deep.

Is there any way that these scratches can be removed, or will I have to replace the glass doors? The latter will be quite expensive, so I hope you have some suggestions.

A. If they are not too deep, they can possibly be buffed out. However, this is not a job recommended for do-it-yourselfers.

Buffing glass requires applying just the right amount of pressure, or you could shatter the glass. Most glass company service departments can help you with this problem.

Q. A relative recently gave me several pieces of pewter, including a pitcher and some mugs. They have been stored in the attic over the years and have lost all of their luster.

I am hesitant to use regular metal cleaners, because I do not know how they will react on pewter. Could you recommend a cleaning process that would restore these items?

A. To clean pewter, dunk in hot, soapy water; rinse; then dry immediately and thoroughly with a soft cloth. Use silver polish to get rid of light tarnish on pewter. Or use one of the special commercial pewter cleaners available at larger housewares or hardware stores.

If you like your pewter with a mellow, antique glow, finish by polishing with a paste made of rottenstone and salad oil. For mirror-bright pewter, polish with rottenstone moistened with rubbing alcohol.

Q. My father-in-law is retiring after being president of a large corporation for the past nine years. He plans to continue a part-time consulting practice and has asked me to help set up a small office for him at home. Money is not a big factor, but I need some help, particularly in decorating a small space. — A.M.

A Small spaces can still make a great big impact. Just don't apologize for them or wimp out when it comes to choosing patterns, colors and the scale of the furniture.

New York designers Michael Love and Patricia Ross certainly prove that the sum of the parts can be greater than the square footage in an attic room they turned into a sophisticated gentleman's study.

The room we show here is a scant 10½ feet by 11 feet, but they've made it look big time by using grandiloquent antiques and grandiose patterns and finishes.

For example, what looks like a motif of painted tassels around the picture rail is the real thing, silken tassels in tones to complement the rich grape, wine and russet color scheme.

Other big ideas you could consider for your father-in-law's study:

- Personality pieces: The important Queen Anne lacquer desk, the screen that defines the far wall, wicker sofa plumped with pillows made from Aubusson carpeting.

- Dramatic touches: The animal print carpet by Patterson Flynn, the metallic brocade curtain flung over a curtain rod and held with 19th-century card clips (no sewing, promise the designers).

- Practicality: The wooden venetian blind strikes a contemporary note with its 3-inch slats, but it also controls light and privacy while adding importance to a small window.

Q. We've found a great old roll-arm sofa at the Salvation Army for almost no money. It needs reupholstering and we're going to try to do it ourselves. What kind of inexpensive fabric would you recommend? — C.R.

A. Quilted movers' blankets are cheap, sturdy and very good-looking. You may be surprised to find them available in great colors, too, like navy stitched in smart white zigzags.

Another thought: Indian-print blankets. Ralph Lauren, no less, is showing some of his furniture upholstered in woollen blankets, and it's a smash.

New York top designer Albert Hadley of Parish-Hadley (the design firm that Fergie tried to hire for the royal new digs she and the duke were building) has used an antique Indian blanket on a chair in his own apartment, so you'd be in very chic company with your resurrected Salvation Army find.

Q. I love old English mystery stories and keep reading about something called the "kitchen hedgehog." Was that a special piece of furniture or a kind of cooking implement? — A.K.

A. It's not so elementary, my dear A.K. We're talking a live animal here, according to experts on Victorian living. It seems that many prudent householders in the 19th century — especially city dwellers — kept a resident hedgehog in the kitchen. It napped the day away but, being nocturnal, roamed around at night, snapping up any insects that invaded the kitchen.

That may sound bizarre, but it's no stranger, I suppose, than keeping a cat to keep down the mice.

EXOTIC STUDY — With bold strokes and extroverted patterns, designers Michael Love and Barbara Ross turn a tiny room into a dramatic study.

NOTICE

HAVE YOU A HIDDEN
TALENT that has yet to be discovered in print?
We are looking for articles, not exceeding 3,000 words or less than 1,500 words, on local topics, opinions, ideas, nice places to visit on Long Island, and even fiction. In our magazine section, we will try to "Discover" one new feature length article and writer per week. Each writer will be reimbursed a stipend of $25.00.
If you want to be published and be part of an issue of Discovery, you may submit your article to: Litmore Publications, 81 East Barclay Street, Hicksville, N.Y. 11801.

Novenas

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE
Oh Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depths of my heart and humbly beg you to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. St. Jude, pray for us all who invoke your aid. Amen. Say 3 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Marys, 3 Glorias. Say for 9 consecutive days. Publication must be promised. This novena has never been known to fail. Thank you for answering my prayers. C.G.

HOLY SPIRIT YOU WHO SOLVE
all problems, who light all roads, so that I can obtain my goals. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evils against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you ever in spite of all material illusions, I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Say for 3 consecutive days after which the favor requested will be granted even if it appears difficult. This prayer must be published immediately. Thank you Holy Spirit. A.R.C. gcap3

Traveling for less: a bonus for seniors

TRAVEL DISCOUNT OFFERS

Interested in saving money while traveling very well? Try these discount opportunities:

• Dunfey Hotel, on the San Francisco Peninsula, has established a cost-free membership program for mature adults that offers 50 percent discounts on rooms, and varying discounts in the hotel restaurants, shops and on its sightseeing tour programs.

The Dunfey, a 270-room hotel recognized for its classic Tudor-style architecture and tradition of fine service, has established rates for members of its "Seasoned Travelers Club" as low as $55 per night, double occupancy.

Request membership and information, without cost or obligation, by writing: Amy Rosen, director of sales, Dunfey Hotel, 1770 South Amphlett Blvd., San Mateo, CA 94402. Telephone number is (415) 573-7661.

• Kimco Hotels in San Francisco have discounts for adults, 55-plus, at four of their properties: The Bedford Hotel near downtown, a $69 double occupancy rate (regular, $99), is available Sunday through Thursday nights, and includes a continental breakfast and parking; The Juliana Hotel on Nob Hill senior rate of $89 is valid every night (regular, $125); Vintage Court, a fine restoration done in the style of the California wine country, $99 per night (regular rate, $109), also offers a complimentary wine reception each afternoon; and The Tuscan Inn in the North Beach/Fisherman's Wharf area discounts its $160 nightly rate to $100 for 55-plus adults who request the discount.

Information on the Kimco Hotels and mature adult discounts is available by writing Public Relations, Kimco Hotels, 191 Sutter St., San Francisco, CA 94104.

• Gene Autry Western Heritage Museum is one of Southern California's newest and fastest-growing attractions and 60-plus adults may claim a 27 percent discount from general admission rates.

The museum depicts the American West from the 16th century to the present day, with seven permanent galleries and added periodic showings.

Regular admission is $5.50, 60-plus senior discount admission is $4.

For information: Gene Autry Western Heritage Museum, 4700 Zoo Drive, Los Angeles, CA 90027-1462.

FREE TOURIST ATTRACTIONS

The "1991 National Directory of Free Tourist Attractions" is now available from its publisher, Pilot Books of Babylon, N.Y.

The 64-page handbook, edited by Raymond Carlson, lists more than 900 parks, attractions, museums, restored villages, gardens, ships and events around the nation that offer cost-free admission.

Listings are organized by state or territory and then alphabetically by city or town, for easy reference. Operating hours and contact telephone numbers are also included.

The "1991 National Directory of Free Tourist Attractions" is available from Pilot Books, 103 Cooper St., Babylon, NY 11702, at $4.95 per copy, postpaid.

TRAVEL TIPS

One of the best booklets with "101 Tips for Mature Travelers" has been updated and republished by Grand Circle Travel. A 42-page handbook, the guide presents recommendations that range from preparing for travel, to what medications to pack for the trip, and from shopping and foreign dining to cruise tours.

The guide is available without charge from Grand Circle, and yet is remarkably free of commercials for their company. Grand Circle has been in business since 1958, serving originally as the exclusive tour program operator for the American Association of Retired Persons. In 1980 the company shifted its focus to providing travel for all mature adults and expanded its tour operations both in the United States and around the world.

Pour in Paskha mixture. Fold cheesecloth ends over cheese. Cover surface with plastic wrap. Place something stiff over cheese: a plate perhaps, or a piece of cardboard wrapped in foil. Put a can on top to weight down Paskha.

Place mold in pie plate to catch whey that will drain from cheese. Refrigerate for at least 12 hours, preferably 24. You want the cheese to drain enough to unmoild.

To serve, remove weight and plate, unwrap base of cheese. Turn onto serving plate. Carefully peel off cheesecloth. Decorate Paskha as desired with candied fruit or nuts. Traditionally, cheese is embellished with initials "XB," the Cyrillic letters that stand for the Easter greeting, "Christ is risen!"

It will keep several days in the refrigerator.

Variation: Stir ½ cup raisins or currants into mixture. I think Paskha is better without this touch if you serve it with Kulich, which also has raisins in it.

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

By James G. McCollam

Your chocolate set was made in Ohio

By James G. McCollam

Q. Enclosed is a picture of an antique chocolate set. We estimate its age to be about 90 years. It consists of a pot with six cups and saucers. It is marked "O.C. Co., — Limoges — Porcelain."

I would appreciate any information you can give me.

A. Your chocolate set was made by the Ohio China Co. in East Liverpool, Ohio, about 1900.

It would probably sell for $165 to $185 in an antique shop.

Q. This mark is on the bottom of a porcelain vase that I would like to have identified and evaluated.

It is 10 inches high and decorated with green and purple grapes. The handles are coated with gold.

A. Your vase was made by the porcelain factory in Marktschwarzen, Germany, during the early 1900s. The production of porcelain was terminated by World War II. Vases like this are selling for $65 to $75.

Q. Please tell me whatever you can about my prized cake plate. It is 10 inches in diameter and marked with an eagle over "C. T. — Altwasser." It is beige in color and decorated with orchids.

A. Your cake plate was made by the Tielsch Co. in Altwasser, Germany, in the early 1900s. It would probably sell in an antique shop for $35 to $45.

Q. The mark on the bottom of my compote is a crown over the letter "S." It is about 12 inches tall and is formed by two cupids supporting the bowl.

Can you tell me anything about its origin and value?

A. Your compote appears to have been made by the Sitzendorf porcelain factory in Germany.

Since its value might be in excess of $500, I suggest you take it to a local museum for possible authentication.

Q. Please tell me whatever you can about the value of my porcelain figurine of a girl lifting a cat out of a basket.

It is quite small, measuring about 4 inches by 4 inches and is marked with a castle with three towers and marked "B & G."

A. Your little figurine was made by Bing & Grondahl in Copenhagen, Denmark.

It probably dates back to the late 1800s and might sell for $225 to $235.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. When our neighbors moved recently, they gave us their pet bird, its cage and all of its equipment.

We are now wondering if the bird is male or female. Can veterinarians determine the sex of birds?

A. It is very difficult, if not impossible, to determine the sex of many pet birds merely by looking at their external appearance.

Although there are several techniques involving examination of blood samples or stool samples for sexing pet birds, the most common and most sure method is to look at the sexual organs through a surgical incision.

Usually the bird is anesthetized and a special instrument called an endoscope is introduced into the bird's abdomen through a very tiny incision. The veterinarian can look through the endoscope directly at the gonads and determine if they are testicles or ovaries.

Because the incision is so small, no suturing is required and the bird is on its feet within minutes after completion of the procedure. Surgical sexing of birds is quick, accurate and safe when performed by knowledgeable individuals.

If your veterinarian does not do surgical sexing, he can refer you to a veterinarian who has specialized in pet medicine. Most veterinary clinics associated with a college of veterinary medicine at a university have a specialist in pet bird medicine and surgery.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

AUNT TILLY

It was so warm last weekend we started our garden out in the yard. We planted flowers in the front yard and vegetables in the back. I hope they grow.

There are so many things to do in the spring around the house. We raked up the dead grass in the lawn and collected all the bits of junk that blew into the yard over the winter. Then we got out the lawn mower and cut the lawn. It was fun doing all this work for the first time this year, but by the end of the summer we'll probably be tired of cutting the lawn.

Do you like working outdoors around your house?

Your friend,

Aunt Tilly

P.S. This week's coloring contest winners are Travis Roland and Michael Benedict.

The World's Most Beautiful Grandchildren

Tyler F. Starr, 20 months old, born April 1, 1989. He has blond hair, hazel eyes and is a boy. He is my first grandchild and he literally lights up my life.

He lives in Rockville Centre with his lovely mother and handsome father (my son).

He is dressed as a very young John Wayne for Halloween - To me he is truly a Starr.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Will Medicare pay for dental work?

By William M. Acosta

Q. I am in need of some dental work. My brother told me that Medicare does not pay for dental work. Is that true? — T.H.

A. Medicare medical insurance generally does not pay for care in connection with the treatment, filling, removal, or replacement of teeth; and other surgical procedures directly supporting the teeth.

Contact your Medicare carrier for additional information.

Q. My husband is currently entitled to Worker's Compensation. Can he also receive Social Security disability benefits? — W.P.

A. If a person gets worker's compensation or certain other government disability benefits, his Social Security disability benefit may be reduced. This is because the law states that the sum of all your disability payments cannot exceed 80 percent of your earnings averaged over a period of time shortly before you became disabled.

Q. My disability claim was denied. I filed a reconsideration and was again denied. Now I have filed for a hearing. What happens at the hearing? — S.M.

A. The hearing is held by an administrative law judge who had no part in the first decision or the reconsideration of the case.

You may come to the hearing and explain your case in person.

The administration law judge will explain what has to be decided. He may question you and any witnesses you bring to the hearing.

You may question the witnesses, give new information, submit a written statement about your case and look at the information that will be used to make the decision.

You will be notified in writing of the administrative law judge's decision.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Q. I receive Supplemental Security Income. If I go outside the country are my checks affected? — C.N.

A. If a person is out of the United States for an entire calendar month, no payment can be made for that month. Also, once a person has been outside the country for 30 or more consecutive days, payments cannot start again until the person has been back in the United States for 30 consecutive days.
