Book Characters Come To Life

The children in Mrs. Pfizenmayer's second grade class performed a delightful play, The Magic Bookshelf, for their parents and friends during Hicksville's Spring Expo Festival on Wednesday evening, June 3. The children also performed on Monday and Tuesday, June 1 and 2, for their schoolmates.

The Magic Bookshelf takes place in the home of Tim and Sally, brother and sister who no longer believe that book characters are "real pretend" people. With the help from their Fairy Godmother, the children realize that through reading and by keeping the magic of childhood alive, our favorite storybook characters can really become "real pretend."

The cast of characters were played by Tara Kelly (Sally),

Adam Mosebach (Tim), Catherine Sharkey (Fairy Godmother), Dominick Messapesa (Peter Pan), Stephanie Palmer (Wendy), Monica Chuchon (Tinkerbell), Thomas Bell (Captain Hook), Heather Kaplan (Cinderella), Catherine O'Brien (First Stepsister), Monica Leary (Second Stepsister), Christine Cassagne (Alice in Wonderland), Kimberly Bartlett (Sleeping Beauty), Nicole Mosiello (Twelfth Fairy), Melissa Ezcurra (Queen), Christopher McHugh (King), Alexis Sedoruk (Dorothy), Daniel Landers (The Wizard of Oz), Claudia Gaeta (Glinda, the Good Witch), Michael Haley (Jack in the Beanstalk), Michelle Tricarico (Red Riding Hood), Christopher McHugh (Wolf), and Sara Nasser (The Little Mermaid).

The program will take place on Monday, June 15, 2 p.m., in the Community Room of the Hicksville Public Library.

Life Extension Program At Library

The Hicksville Public Library welcomes Dr. E.J. Fabrikant as he presents "Life Extension," a personal invitation to residents that may lead to a longer, more vigorous lifetime on Thursday, June 11, at 7:30 p.m.

Topics include lifestyles that foster youth, aging-more than a passage of time, stress management and nervous system function.

Dr. Fabrikant is a practicing chiropractor. Admission to this program is free and open to the public. Further information can be obtained by calling the Hicksville Public Library's Public Relations Department at 931-1417.

Book Discussion Group in Schools

Teachers and other staff members of the Bethpage Public Schools meet once a month to talk about books. The Book Discussion Group was initiated this year through the efforts of teachers Rosemary McKinley of John F. Kennedy Middle School, and Maura Olson, of Central Boulevard Elementary School.

Mrs. McKinley and Dr. Olson participated in the Writing Project Program at Columbia University, and in courses in the Bethpage Public Schools taught by Writing Project instructors, where the idea of adult book discussion groups were discussed.

Each month the group discusses a book written by a contemporary author. It is an opportunity to share ideas about literature.

The group is making plans for summer reading to be ready to resume meetings in September.

Community Council Airs Healthcare Issues

By Maureen Traxler

In its closing meeting of the 1991-92 season held on June 4, the Hicksville Community Council presented a discussion on Medicare, led by Jim McWilliams of the Mineola Social Security Office.

In his presentation, Mr. McWilliams outlined Medicare Part A - hospital insurance, covering costs associated with confinement in a hospital or skilled nursing facility - and Part B - medical insurance, covering physician services, outpatient care, tests and supplies. To clear up some possible misconceptions, he pointed out that "skilled" nursing care refers to therapeutic treatment given to a patient who will eventually recover. Medicare does not cover "custodial" care, regular services provided to a well elderly person in a nursing home facility.

Medicare doctor coverage is designed so that the user (or patient) becomes the watchdog. By only paying 80% of the Medicare "approved charge for services," the system encourages the user to monitor doctors and to seek treatment when necessary, not just for a routine checkup.

"New York is less generous toward doctors than other states," adds Mr. McWilliams. In New York, physicians cannot charge more than 115% of the Medicare approved charge. (Remember, Medicare pays 80% of the doctor's bill, and the patient must pay the doctor the remainder.) Next year, doctors will only be allowed to charge 110% of approved charges; the following year, only 105%, and three years from now, doctors will only be allowed to charge patients the Medicare approved charge.

If a user feels the doctor has filled out a Medicare payment application incorrectly, they are instructed to contact their doctor. Mr. McWilliams notes that if they are not satisfied, Medicare has an ombudsman to handle such problems. (Contact the Social Security Office). Medicare also employs fraud investigators to handle serious cases, and doctors guilty of wrong behavior face sanctions. Mr. McWilliams referred residents to the "Medicare Participating Physicians Directory" which is most likely available in the Hicksville Library.

Both Medicare and Social Security are "dedicated" funds, meaning that monies directed to Medicare and Social Security can only be used for those purposes. Although Mr. McWilliams pointed out that the Social Security trust fund, containing some $300 billion, will be in the black for the next fifty years, he added that the Medicare fund is in serious financial condition. "You want to have additional insurance," Mr. McWilliams added.

Joining Mr. McWilliams was Katherine Agrillo, a certified financial planner (365-3064). Ms. Agrillo distributed a guide to health insurance for people with Medicare and noted that residents may also acquire "The Medicare Handbook" either from any Social Security office or by writing: Medicare Publications, Health Care Financing Administration, 6325 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, MD 21207.

Ms. Agrillo said that the Federal government has made some progressive changes in healthcare. She noted two. After July 30, 1992, those age 65 and over cannot be refused participation in the supplemental health program. Seniors have six months after their 65th birthday to apply, and if they do not apply within that time, they will not be permitted in the program. Ms. Agrillo also stated that Medigap insurance will be standardized in 1992, which means that companies will be confined to offering ten standard programs from which people may choose. She advises, "Shop premiums. One program cannot be better or worse than another."

Jim McWilliams can be heard on the "Social Security Spot," WHLI 1100 on your radio dial every Sunday at 8:45 a.m. On Sunday, June 14, his subject will be "The Notch," retirees born between 1917 and 1926.

Speaking on behalf of Hicksville Youth Council Director Tom Bruno, Community Council President Joe DePompa said that the Youth Council is facing a $26,000 reduction in funds. The Council asks for support for its upcoming fundraising events, the first of which is a Charity Softball Game, featuring Island alumni (including Bob Nystrom) and radio personalities from WALK-FM. Youth Council members will play this formidable team on Friday, June 19, 9 p.m. at Plainview Park on Washington Avenue. Donation is

Letters

Dear Hicksville Community:

We wish to thank Nancy DeSorbo, Student Advisor, the Hicksville High School Student Government and the parents of the PTSA who organized and worked so hard at the car wash on Saturday, May 30, for the benefit of the Cystinosis Foundation.

The car wash was a huge success due to all their hard work and the support and generosity of the Hicksville Community. It is so heartwarming to see how many people truly care. As a result of everyone's generosity and hard work, 242 cars were washed with a contribution of $1,000 being made to the foundation.

We are proud to say we live in Hicksville and again thanks to everyone who worked and supported the car wash.

Very truly yours,
The Krummenacker Family
and
The Finn Family

Hicksville Gymnast Named 1992 Champ

Wendy Marshall, a Hicksville High School Senior, has been named "1992 Senior National Champion." It was announced after her gold medal performances at the National Championships held at the University of Maryland, College Park.

Wendy received gold medals for her first place performance on vault, bars, beam and floor with an all-around score of 37.85 (out of 40), finishing in first place in every event in the preliminaries. As the only competitor to qualify for the finals in every event, Wendy placed first receiving old medals for the vault (with a score of 9.4 out of 10), bars (9.45), and floor (9.6). She captured second and the silver medal on the beam (9.1).

As the only gymnast to compete from Long Island, Wendy returned home with four gold medals and one silver medal. She is also the first person from Hicksville to ever compete in the national gymnastics competition.

She joined the high school team as a seventh grader and performed in five of her six years, with the 1989-90 season cancelled due to an austerity budget. The recipient of a full gymnastics scholarship to the University of Michigan, Wendy plans to study Kinesiology, an area that incorporates physical education, physical therapy, and communications, and she aspires to becoming a school principal someday. Graduating in the top 20% of her class, she is a member of the National Honor Society, and is the Secretary of her senior class.

Wendy has been invited to attend the Board of Education meeting on June 17, at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium, where she will be introduced and honored by the Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Salvatore Mugavero.

On a final note, the New York State team that Wendy represented finished fourth in Maryland. Locally, the Hicksville gymnastics team finished first in their division and second in the county championships.

Hicksville Students Raise Funds

Hicksville High School students rallied to raise money for five-year old Laura Krummenacker by holding a car wash which netted $1,000. Forty high school youngsters and two PTA members worked from 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. washing cars, and the PTA supplied the refreshments for the day. Mrs. Krummenacker recently met with Nancy DeSorbo, Student Advisor, and Richard Hogan, High School Principal, to graciously accept the donation.

Laura is a Hicksville child who has cystinosis, an inherited metabolic disease that damages the kidneys at a young age. Cystinosis always leads to renal failure if untreated, and, therefore, the need for dialysis and/or kidney transplant. Treatment is available to correct most of the metabolic abnormalities that occur by using a variety of medications. It is estimated that approximately 400 children in this country have this disease.

The district has been working with Mrs. Krummenacker to help offset the costs of Laura's treatment.

Flyers from the Cystinosis Foundation featuring facts about the disease and Laura's picture have been distributed throughout Hicksville recently. Through this publicity, it was discovered that another Hicksville child, Janice Finn, is also a victim of cystinosis. Mrs. Krummenacker has been working hard to make the public aware of this disease that strikes these two youngsters.

The Cystinosis Foundation offers parental support, education, and research support to the public. The foundation is a member of the National Organization of Rare Disorders (NORD), which furthers the cause of those with rare diseases, and the Alliance of Genetic Support Groups.

For additional information, fundraising inquiries, and charitable donations, please write to the Cystinosis Foundation, 17 Lake Avenue, Piedmont, CA 94911; 415-601-6940.

Author Visits Campagne School

On May 1, author Bill Grossman delighted the students at Charles Campagne Elementary School in Bethpage with his stories in poetry.

He explained to the children how he writes his books in rhyme and meter. Mr. Grossman delighted the children and teachers with the text of his new book about "singing" teachers, especially when he inserted the names of some familiar teachers into the story.

Bill Grossman met with each of the classes, spoke about writing limericks, and answered the children's questions about writing and the life of an author.

Arrangements for Mr. Grossman's visit were made by Eleanor Engel, a fifth grade teacher in the school, with the cooperation of the Campagne PTA and under the auspices of the Bethpage Public Schools Visiting Author Program, directed by Dr. Regina Cohn.

Bill Grossman

The Hicksville Youth Council will be playing a charity softball game against a team that will consist of Islander Alumni Bob Nystrom and friends, and WALK radio personalities Gene Michaels and friends. For any further information, please call the Hicksville Youth Council at 822-KIDS.

All proceeds raised at the game will be put back into the program to make up for cuts in funding. So come on out and support your youth council, and have a night of fun, food and autographs.

Hicksville Youth Summer Fun

The Hicksville Youth Council is planning a summer filled with fun and excitement. Despite the reduction in funding that we have already received, and the rumors of possibly getting our county funding rescinded because of the county budget gap, we must move on. Every Monday night weather permitting, we will be playing softball at the Middle School Softball field from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Our Drop In Lounge will be open every afternoon from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. for the young people to play pool, ping pong, nintendo and foosball.

Friday night is movie night, movies will be shown at the Youth Council every Friday night from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The list of our trips for the summer includes: New York Mets vs. The Cubs on June 24, Great Adventure on July 8, Trip to Bayville Beach on July 15, an overnight Canoe Trip on July 22 and 23, Trip to Splish Splash Water Park on August 5, Horseback Riding on August 12, Adventureland on August 19, and a trip to see Lazor Floyd at the Hayden Planetarium on August 26. We are planning a Fishing trip and a Yankee Game that have not been scheduled at this time. To go on any of these trips you must come to the Youth Council and pick up a permission slip. We have a limited number of spots available for each of these trips so sign up early to assure that you will be able to join in the fun. You can also stop at the Youth Council and pick up a calendar of events for the summer.

To find out further information about any of the trips or activities mentioned in this article please call the Hicksville Youth Council at 822-KIDS. Please don't forget to come out and root for the Youth Council as they play softball against New York Islander Alumni and WALK Radio on Friday night June 19, at 8:30 p.m. at Plainview Park, Washington Ave. Plainview. A donation of $2 per person will be asked of those who attend. All proceeds raised from this game will be used to make up some of the money that was cut from our County budget.

Midland Civics Wind Up The Season

Town Councilman Tom Clark swears in new Midland Civic President John Kuch

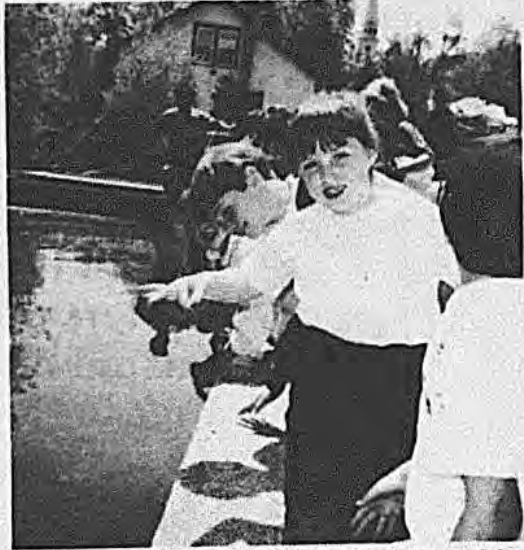

On May 19 at 7:30 p.m., the Midland Civics Association met for the last time this season at the Woodland Avenue School. It was a beautifully run meeting, and there was a great deal of audience participation. Councilman Tom Clark swore in the new officers and board members for the '92-'93 season. Newly elected President John Kuch conducted the meeting, since President Harry Single was unable to attend. Speakers included three candidates for the school board; Dave Staton, Voley Martin, and Linda Mirro, the other two candidates (James Martillo and Carol Reden) having declined to attend; Debbie Weintraub, a board member of the Gregory Museum; and Ellie Draycott, who was filling in for Connie Steers. The question and answer period after the candidates gave their opening statements were handled deftly by John Kuch, and the entire procedure was dignified and cordial. Debbie Weintraub spoke with pride about the Gregory Museum and what it means to our community. She urged passage of the proposition that we sponsor some of the cost of maintaining it. Ellie Draycott told about a group home for indigent veterans being treated for substance abuse under the auspices of Connie Steers and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. She asked for donations of food and vital toiletries for these desperate people.

Gert Paul proposed that we adopt a road as part of the Town of Oyster Bay Beautification Program. It was decided that we adopt Bethpage Road and Bay Avenue from the railroad to the juncture with Broadway. The motion passed unanimously. It is now up to us to 'pick up' and keep on beautifying our corner of this town.

Door prizes were given and refreshments were bountiful. The entire assembly of members and guests left the meeting with high hopes for a wonderful new season to come.

"Gone Fishin"

Mrs. Komarnick's first graders at Trinity Lutheran School visited the Cold Spring Harbor Fish Hatchery on May 19. The children had an opportunity to feed worms to the fish and to compare the various sizes of the fish raised there. Inside, the children were able to identify a variety of aquarium-raised fish, and were delighted to hold and examine all kinds of turtles. In photo: Bridget Bader and Matthew Benevento feeding the fish at Cold Spring Harbor Fish Hatchery.

Jottings From Yesterday

By Bill Clark
Traveling in New York State, when young with my parents on vacation, we passed many towns. Today looking at the N.Y. State map, I mentally planned a short vacation by car. I would drive several miles upstate to the other WOODBURY then go to HICKS and be in WESTBURY at end of day. Next day land a GOSHEN, I passed up BATH on my way to CHURCHVILLE to see the gardens in EDEN. SUFFERN from hours of driving I made a RUSH PAST RYE to FREEDOM for a FINE drive thru FLORIDA and SAVANNAH on to ROME, then thru the ALPS on my way to WARSAW. On way home it was BLISS to stop at DEPOSIT after the GALE at BACON HILL.

Reading a 1922 "The Evening World" it mentioned Dr. Elwood Curtis, a dentist and active public spirited citizen was largely instrumental in promoting the erection of the bronze tablet set in a large boulder for the WW I monument. Also Father Laurence Fuchs of St. Ignatious Church was mentioned on his 50th anniversary as priest of the parish and presented with a purse.

Lions Citation

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark, right, recently attended the Annual Installation Dinner of the Hicksville Lion's Club and presented a citation to Outgoing President Eileen Malda, center, in recognition of her efforts on behalf of the organization. Incoming President Terry Naylor was also on hand for the occasion.

Dickson in Relief - Shuts down Bakers

In the bottom of the first, Danny Hanwaker blasted a three-run home run to give Cardinal Bakery an early lead. With Kevin Tomlinson on the mound, Cardinali looked exceptionally strong, holding Photo Plus scoreless for the first two innings.

Then, Photo Plus started to chip away. In the third inning Elliot Charren walks, Seth Meyers and James Ulrich fly out, Robert Dickson doubles, scoring Charren. Dickson steals third. Jason Konigsberger walks. Dickson steals home. All of a sudden it's a different game. Chris Krimitos on the mound for Photo Plus, holds Cardinali in the third and gives up another run in the fourth. Photo Plus hitters up again in the fifth put it all together. Meyers and Ulrich combine for hits scoring a total of three runs for the inning.

With the score now Photo Plus 5, Cardinali 4, incomes Dickson in relief for Photo Plus. In the next three innings he has four strikeouts without giving up a hit. This was a strong showing for Photo Plus who is now 2 and 0.

The Chris Krimitos Story
What started out to be a rainy night, with doubts of getting the game played, ended bright and sunny for Photo Plus' Chris Krimitos. Playing on a field that made it near impossible for the pitching staff of both Photo Plus and Austin Law, Photo Plus takes a victory.

James Ulrich makes his pitching debut and did a great job giving up 2 hits and 4 walks during the first two innings. Then Photo Plus brought up Robert Dickson who had a 4 k's during the next three innings giving up only 2 hits. It again came time to call upon James Ulrich. He relieved Dickson and in the sixth pitched a terrific conclusion with a great pick off at second.

At the end of the sixth inning, with Photo ahead by 3 runs, the umpire called for one more inning. Austin Law scored four runs in the top of the seventh.

As Photo Plus came off the now darker field, approximately 8:30 p.m., their spirits were more than high. Leading off the inning was Keith Kalendarian (two for three) who smacks the ball up the middle for a single. Justin Konigsberger followed with another up the middle. With men on first and second Photo Plus takes a double steal; men now on second and third. Up steps Chris Krimitos who was 2 for 3. Strike one. Strike 2. Things don't look so good; he steps out of the batter's box, takes a deep breath, and regains his composure. On the next pitch he hits one well over the centerfielder, by far the farthest shot this season.

Cleaning the bases. Photo Plus wins 11-9.

batters stranding two of Photo Plus' men on the bases. In the bottom of the second, David Schiebelhuth singled on a ball hit to shallow center, stole second, and on a walk to Jean-Claude Santini, Schiebelhuth stole third. Dean Witter scored two runs in the bottom of the second.

The top of the fifth proved to be too much for Dean Witter, as Photo Plus bats came alive. Seth Meyers led off with a single followed by hits by Dickson, Keith Kalendarian Justin Konigsberger, and Chris Krimitos and Matt Gould. All of a sudden, Photo Plus was on top with a 5-2 lead. Photo Plus added two more runs in the sixth inning.

Top of the seventh... Mark Blum draws a walk, steals a second, and on a passed ball goes to third. Taking a good lead at third and with heads-up running, Blum was able to come home on a wild pitch giving Photo Plus a final score of 8-2.

Dickson and Kalendarian combined to pitch a very impressive game for Photo Plus; Dickson having six "K's" in four innings, giving up two walks and three hits. Kalendarian had seven "K's," in three innings, giving up one walk and one hit.

David Wetterhan came in for Dean Witter relieving Mandel and pitched two good innings.

This was a great game for Photo Plus who is now 5-0.
Gould & Machal break slump

Photo Plus is now 6-0 with five strong innings pitched by Chris Krimitos. Pitching well for KCI was Craig Gross who pitched four innings.

In the bottom of the fourth inning, Brian Sasso (KCI) teamed with Chris Colucci and turned a good looking double play.

Ricky Machol (Photo Plus) and Matt Gould each got hits breaking a batting slump. We are looking for more success in the future.

Fire Safety House At Trinity Lutheran

Students at Trinity Lutheran School recently participated in the "Fire Safety House Exit Drill Program." Under simulated fire conditions, the children learned how to test a closed door to determine if it was safe to open and how to crawl on the floor under a layer of smoke at ceiling level. Instructors assisted students in their escape through a second floor window onto a porch and down a fire department ladder.

Many thanks go to the Nassau County Fire Service Academy for sponsoring this public education project.

Hicksville Hawks Update

by A. Blicker

The Hicksville Hawks 1975 traveling soccer team proceeded to the finals of the New York State Cup Tournament via a 1-0 defensive masterpiece against the Clarkstown Eagles at rainswept Farmingdale College on Sunday, May 31.

The first half featured great end-to-end soccer on the part of both teams, who showed remarkable ball control despite the highly inclement weather. The Hawks lone tally came in the second half on an Andre Parris setup, which was put in by Lee Passavia. Hicksville then repulsed everything thrown at them by Clarkstown while also continually putting on offensive pressure, coming close to scoring on a number of occasions.

Besides the aforementioned, the balance of the Hawks, all of whom contributed mightily to the winning effort, were: Tommy Basaranlar, David Baumritter, Danny Bell, Eric Blicker, Earl Dennis, Dimitry Drouin, Stephen Fox, Kevin Koehn, Rich Kotschau, Danny Longo, Mike Longo, Scott McLaughlin, Ralph Schimmenti, and Neil Tomlinson. Plaudits are also due Coach John Fitzgerald, Assistant Coaches Pat McHugh and Rich Humann, and Administrator Brian Koehn.

The Flowers Keep Blooming!

Civic Association beautifies the area.

Since early spring, the flowers have kept blooming! First daffodils, then glorious tulips, now iris and myriad flowers newly planted for the summer season. On May 23 the Beautification Committee of the Midland Civic Association met at 10 a.m. to clean up the triangles on Willets Avenue and Nevada Street off Bethpage Road, and to plant flowers for the summer season. It was very warm, but the dedicated members completed the job.

Present, and working hard, were Ellie and Ed Draycott, Gert and Bernie Paul, Tom Pfeiffer and son, John Kuchs, Gail Gomula, Paul Richards, Maureen Seiler, and Aita Diaz. Tom Pfeiffer carried buckets of water from my outdoor faucet, Ed Draycott dispensed coca-cola from his cooler, and passers-by cheered us on. It was tiring but very satisfying.

Hopefully another site to be beautified will be allocated to us. However, we need a few more willing hands to make Hicksville beautiful!

Headmaster Award

Philip Buffa, a seventh grader at Buckley Country Day School, has been presented with the school's Headmaster's Award. This award is given to the student who best exemplifies "strength of character, leadership and service to Buckley." In addition, Philip has maintained an "A" average throughout the year and has been awarded high honors for his academic achievement.

College Notes

During Commencement ceremonies held May 31 on the Ammerman Campus of Suffolk Community College, Stefanie Ann Brown, formerly of Hicksville, was awarded an Associate of Arts Degree with the honor of graduating with distinction and Pi Alpha Sigma.

Stefanie will further her studies at SUNY Albany. Her grandparents, Bobbie (Mary) and Al Lippman, long term residents of our town, state "We are all so proud of you Stef."

Central Park Historical Society Meets

The last formal meeting of the Central Park Historical Society for the 1991-1992 season will be held at the Powell Avenue Library on Wednesday, June 17 at 8 p.m. It will feature Margaret Carvo and Richard Furey who will narrate and discuss Part II of the series "Moments in Medicine."

The first part of this series was presented at the May meeting. It drew expressions and questions of interest from those in attendance. The slides which traced development in medicine from prehistoric time to the middle ages elicited questions from the audience about timely procedures in pharmacy and medicine. These were answered by Richard Furey, our local pharmacist and co-proprietor of Beth Drugs.

Mr. Furey, in a display of professionalism, explained many aspects of pharmacy and medicine. It offered a rare opportunity for the audience to gain insight into the practice of pharmacy, including discussion of well known drugs and their usage. In fact, it stimulated several members to tell of their favorite "home remedies" which have been handed down in through their families. We are hoping that as a follow-up to the June meeting, our members will volunteer to discuss their favorite remedy for our group.

Margaret Carvo, with all her wit, charm, and professionalism, did a great job in organizing and scripting what could be a very dry subject into a very interesting and enlightening program.

The final get-together for the summer will be at our annual picnic with "Music Under The Stars" at the Bethpage Community Park on July 23. The concert Pops of L.I., under the direction of Dean Karahalas, will present "A Night at the Movies" to top off our evening of good friends and good food. In the event as to whether the picnic will be cancelled because of inclement weather, please call one of the following numbers: 931-0472, 933-1795, 931-8345.

Looking forward to seeing you in the fall. Remember Bethpage Day, Saturday, October 3.

Health Problem

Alert Dist. Urges Dog Owners To Be Responsible

The Hicksville Public School District is concerned that wide spread deposits of dog feces are creating a health hazard. Security will be taking pictures of dog walkers on district property and the Town of Oyster Bay will be notified. It is the hopes of administration that a public awareness program will encourage pet owners to pick up after their dogs and that dog walkers will refrain from using school property.

Dutch Lane Goes To Smithtown

Dutch Lane students from Mrs. Hoch's second grade class went on a trip to Smithtown Historical Society. Their guide met them outside the historical house at 10 a.m. The children were escorted inside where they learned all about the lives of the people who used to live in that exact house.

They were taught about fleece, how yarn was naturally dyed by using vegetables and fruits, how wool was spun and how flax (linen) was made.

I think the students enjoyed making a button and making a set of marbles out of clay that they could take home most of all.

Mrs. Hoch along with students Michael Recher and Michelle Magee work hard to make some flax (linen)

Here the guide carefully explains to the students how very few toys children had and how much they cherished what they had. Listening are Alyse Parsekian, Diana Nortan-Taylor, Dana Kuefner, Michelle Magee, and Laura Ward

The boys can hardly believe how much time it took to cook in a brick oven; (left) Matthew Doyle, Jesse Roestenberg, Chris Bretton, Darin Dolezal, Matthew McDonald, and friends

The Youth Council also asks residents to write to County Executive Tom Gulotta and Supervisors Mondello and Yevoli to push for another way to save money, rather than by abolishing the Youth Council.

--And Bind

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

If money could be saved by consolidating some school districts would you favor this move?

Most Callers Want To Know More About Perot

Most Input callers want to know more about H. Ross Perot before declaring in favor of him in answer to this question: "Do you know enough about H. Ross Perot to decide on whether to vote for him for President? Here are some of the answers:

ALL GAB, NO FACTS

Absolutely not. He uses all of the cliches without substance. He tells all things we know are wrong but does not spell out the remedies. He ignores the fact that he must have Congress behind him and he does not know who the next Congress will be. People may vote Liberal, Democratic or Republican and they may not agree with his solutions which we don't know. He has not committed himself on any issue or problem with a solution. All gab and no facts. A.G.

PEROT PLAYS GAME

Ross Perot is trying to play a game but he will be caught up with when the regular campaign starts. He got around being in any primaries so he did not have to tell us exactly what he stands for. But when a regular campaign starts he cannot continue to dodge issues. Unless the other candidates completely mess up their campaigns I believe that either Bush or Clinton will come out the winner and both will do far better than Perot. M.F.

BETTER WITHOUT PLATFORM

I think so many people are afraid of Perot as an independent candidate that they are pushing for him to say almost anything so that they can nit pick and make him look bad. Most people know that the party platforms are seldom carried out when election is over so they really do not care that Perot doesn't have much to say about specific programs. What makes Perot a good candidate is that he does not have to follow a platform made for him by some pressure group. N.C.

"READ HIS LIPS"

Well if we are going to: "Read his lips" maybe Perot is more honest than others in not spouting off before election what he will do. After all we did believe that Pres. Bush would not raise taxes and we were wrong. What you have to do with Perot is look at his many achievements in business and accept his integrity. If he passes those tests vote for him. He cannot be worse than what we have to pick from in the major parties. J.F.

GREAT DECEIVER

Perot is the great deceiver. He is not saying very much because he really does not know much about the government and therefore he cannot say very much. Too many people are out there believing that some miracle worker is going to appear and take the U.S. out of all of its difficulties. Well there is a saying "Things could be worse" and they may just get worse with Perot. M.D.

NOT FUZZY

My choice for President will have to be built on caution. I do not like everything that Bush has done or not done but I have had it with the socialist slant of Democrats so if Bush doesn't get re-elected I would rather have Perot. At least he is not lined up with the fuzzy thinkers who have control of the Democratic party. I do wish Perot would tell us more about his basic philosophy. G.F.

MANY PROBLEMS

There are so many problems confronting the country that it seems almost impossible that Perot would believe that he can just come in and be President without telling us what he thinks on numerous issues. We do not want to choose a President on emotion. He should give us real items of substance to analyze whether we want to vote for him or not. S.B.

DOESN'T KNOW PEROT

This may be a poor excuse but his physiognomy is such that I can't feel secure about anything Perot may state - the confidence factor is missing. His latest wrinkle which appeared in the New York Times this a.m. is a case in point. The headline reads "Perot's Vision: Consensus by Computer" and the subtitle "Electronic Town Hall Would Link Officials and Public by TV." Based upon an hour-long TV program, the public would express their opinions by mail to regional tabulating centers. In theory this would appear to be a vehicle to ensure giving all the citizens a voice in government but think of the cost, the complications, the opportunities for skulduggery! Then, there is Perot's move in lining up Hamilton Jordan with high level Democratic experience and Edward Rollins a key Reagan advisor both of these men reputed to be receiving a munificent stipend. Once again, we are faced with Perot's ability to pay out of his own pocket something which doesn't increase my interest in voting for him - just another example of his ability and desire to use his own fortune to accomplish his governmental ends. As to a direct answer to the "Question", I just don't feel that I know enough about Perot and his experience in governmental affairs to make a decision to vote for him for President. P.G.S.

The Ties That Blind --And Bind

By Harry Schreiner

Remember Boló ties, string ties, knitted jobs, 2-inch chokers, napkin-wide cravats, and ascots? Recall seascapes, Hollywood designs with actresses and actors handpainted on them? And how about those that had naked ladies on the back? There was even a company that featured cravats with your first name written artistically, backwards!

Today, it appears that tie manufacturers have committed de ja vu again as far as styles are concerned. They are sneakily widening them and adding the wild colorful designs that used to be.

The famous humorist, Heywood Brown once said that a necktie should have something of a rebellion about it. He went on to say ties should be implements used to show rebellion or defiance of the world.

"As one puts on his tie, he ought to be able to say to the whole dun-colored and stupid world outside, 'That for you!'"

"In fact," he said, "if the selection is daring enough, the necktie can speak for itself quite audibly."

Social scientists have long been intrigued with the idea of attaching social significance to a tie, whether it is wild, silly, gloomy, flippant or sincere. They have asked down through the ages if a tie is a reflection of the personality of its owner. This is impossible to determine, as a few large corporations have instilled the thought in their employees that if they do not dress sedately, they are not part of the company future. One company doesn't say so, but employees all wear sedate dark clothing with ties and expressions to match.

The tie could not have survived for so long if it didn't serve a real purpose - but what is it? Ties are uncomfortable in the heat, a trap for tomato sauce and other edible, stainable foodstuffs - and did you ever notice how you can wear a cheap tie for an eternity without spilling anything on it, but get harnessed up in an expensive job and if there is a stain within ten feet of you, it'll find your tie, permanently.

Ties also are things to make fun of, especially Christmas cravats, or ones that are a little bit offbeat. Many men will take comment about their suits, hats, coats, but when you tie into them about what is around their neck, they flip out.

Did you know that in the so-called Roaring Twenties a red tie was considered effeminate? Real men don't wear red (or lavender) they used to say.

Bowties also had their day and they are returning again. Most in the 40's were the horrendous clip-ons because few men had the skill to tie a bowtie. Frank Cashen, former general manager of the New York Mets baseball team, wore a bowtie for years and was kidded about it. Now, as they say, everything that goes around, comes around, and Frank is once again a fashion mogul as far as his neck decoration is concerned.

Another legend used to be that a man who wore a flashy tie was a con artist, however now that bright colors are back you need a scorecard to tell the one from another.

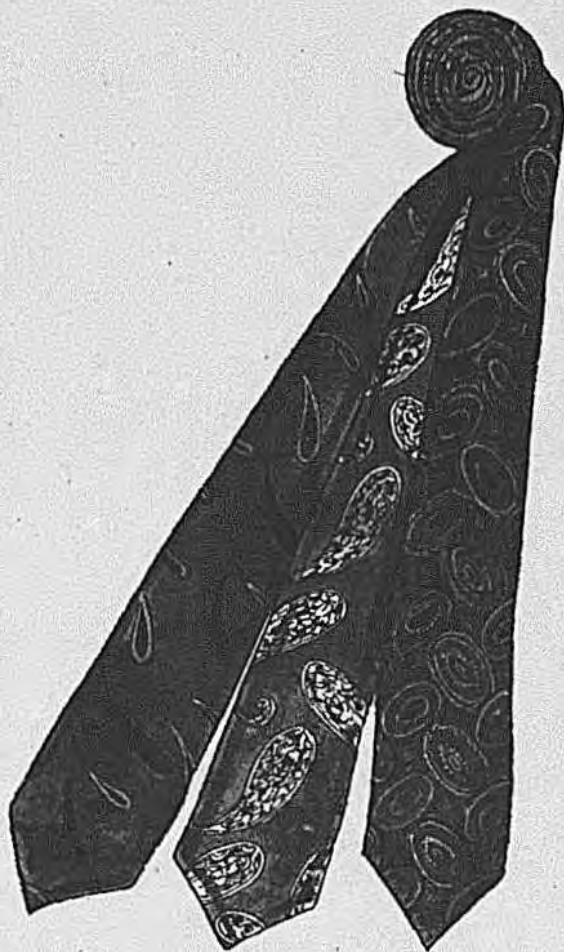

Back to that company we mentioned that frowns on flash and dotes on somber duds - psychologists have long agreed that flamboyant clothing could indicate an expansive personality, and subdued duds, a reserved or conformist nature.

Tie makers today walk a precarious line in reintroducing bright colors and wider ties. So do consumers. We never know when the trend will be jerked out from around our necks and two-inch knits will rear their ugliness once again, thus leaving us with a rack full of "old-fashioned" neckwear.

Funny, when you watch old movies to see the wide-lapels, big colorful ties and four button suits, how strange they look now. Just about as peculiar as some of the ties we are wearing will appear in a few years, like those weird Nehru jackets do today.

The only ones who haven't fallen victim to necktie style changes are those westerners who prefer ribbon ties. Whether the ties are red, white or blue, they still look as though they fit the rest of a cowboy's decor.

Could you ever imagine seeing Randolph Soett in a bowtie?

READER RATINGS

Restaurants come and restaurants go; however, we have found The Executive Restaurant on Mineola Boulevard continues to be one of our favorite choices, and we have lived here for many years. The warm welcome we always receive by Mrs. John Pavlovich and her son Mike, owners, makes us feel we are visiting close friends.

Our most recent visit was last Friday night, and I indulged in my favorite Zuppa de Pesce, (a bouillabaise). This is made to order and is by far superior to any I have tried elsewhere. Whether you order veal, chicken, pasta or seafood, you can rest assured that it will be a gourmet's delight. The service is always attentive by a caring staff. We always come away happy in the thought that we can depend on this fine restaurant.

If you haven't tried The Executive, I urge you to try it. We highly recommend it. E.H.

DINING GUIDE

Vegetarian View

By Margaret Wing-Peterson

With warmer weather and the fruits of summer in the market at less-than-astronomical prices, why not choose fruit ices? Previously familiar only to those who dined at very fine Continental restaurants, ices or sorbets were traditionally consumed to "cleanse the palate" between courses of a meal.

Nowadays, because these frozen refreshers are fat- and cholesterol-free, they've been mainstreamed into the diets of the health-conscious who seek good-tasting alternatives to ice cream. Compared to ice cream, ices are generally lower in calories. However, they're not necessarily low-calorie because of their relatively high sugar content.

Ices are easy to make since no special equipment is needed, other than a freezer and a mixer or blender/food processor. Essentially, fruit is pureed and sweetened (because freezing makes a product seem less sweet), then allowed to freeze.

The smoothness of the product comes from stirring of the mixture as it freezes, which disturbs the ice crystals forming. A coarser textured ice is often called by its Italian name, granita.

Any ripe fruit can be used, not just the ones in the recipes that follow.

STRAWBERRY ICE

1 cup water
1/4 cup sugar
2 cups strawberries, pureed
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice

ORANGE ICE

2 cups water
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup fresh orange juice
3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice

Yields about 3 cups per recipe. To make either ice: In medium saucepan, boil water and sugar over moderate heat, stirring only until sugar dissolves. Boil exactly 5 minutes; begin timing when sugar syrup starts to boil.

Immediately remove pan from heat; cool to room temperature. Stir in pureed berries and lemon juice or orange and lemon juice.

For a finely textured ice, pour mixture into small, shallow baking pan. Freeze mixture for 3 to 4 hours, stirring every 30 minutes and scraping into it the ice particles that form around the pan edges.

For a more coarsely textured granita, pour mixture into an ice cube tray and allow it to freeze solid, about 3 hours.

Remove cubes and crush them with ice crusher.

CANTALOUPE ICE

1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
6 cups ripe cantaloupe chunks (about 2 medium melons)

READER RATINGS

I highly recommend a dinner at the Blue Chip Seafood Cafe, recently opened by owner/manager Fleix Teraferma with chef Dave Mannes overseeing the kitchen. Chef Mannes was formerly with Dock's Downtown restaurant in Manhattan, NYC. Since 1975 the Blue Chip Fish Market has been supplying at the Wholesale Level the finest fish to many of Long Island's favorite restaurants. Mr. teraferma has decided to combine his fine fish and a great chef to give Long Islanders a super lunch or dinner at reasonable prices.

The other evening my wife and I with another guest enjoyed the broiled Scallops in a lemon herb butter, served with a salad, cole slaw and choice of potato or rice. The salad house dressing was most unusually good. The Chateaubriand of Tuna, served for two at $38 with an array of mixed steamed vegetables topped with Hollandaise Sauce was an extremely good value and taste.

Crowley Chronicle

W.L.A. corey news service

Q. We are not wine drinkers. If we're giving a party, what kind of wines should we stock in order to take care of our wise-drinking friends' pleasure - from cocktail hour through dinner?

W.L.A. For the cocktail hour you might have on hand dry or sweet sherry, or dry or sweet vermouth, or any of the popular "aperitifs". Many choose a glass of dry white wine at the cocktail hour (either chilled or "on the rocks").

For the first course, or to drink with any fish, salad, chicken, veal or fruit, a chilled white wine is nice (such as Chablis, Soave, Riesling, Chenin Blanc, Pinot Chardonnay).

For the meat or game course (or the salad with cheese), serve a Burgundy, Bordeaux, Chianti, Dabernet Sauvignon or Zinfandel at a cool room temperature (from 60 to 70 degrees).

Rose wines should be chilled, like white wines. A rose is best served with a light dish and is more popular in hot weather than in cold.

For dessert you may serve the same wine you had from the previous course. Or if it's something festive like an anniversary, dessert time is the moment to bring on the champagne (the drier the better!)

Some people enjoy a sweet wine with dessert such as port or a sweet sauterne or sherry, but one seldom sees this custom followed anymore in this country.

Quick Chinese meal a sophisticated fix

By Sharon Achatz

While not every meal has to make a showy culinary statement, occasionally it's nice to spice up life with a snazzy supper. Unfortunately, quick-to-fix meals often lack sophistication.

Chinese dishes are the exception.

The stir-fry method common to this cuisine is one of the fastest-cooking methods around, yet the use of exotic ingredients — and the fact that at-home Chinese isn't served every day — makes the meal seem elite.

Most markets now stock all the seasonings and ingredients necessary to create magnificent Oriental flavors at home — from ginger and sesame oil to chili oil and shi-take mushrooms.

Following are recipes for a Chinese-style meal of Hot-and-Sour Soup, Citrus Chicken Stir-Fry and Fried Rice. All can be made in a matter of minutes, particularly if the cook relies on pre-cut vegetables picked up either from the market's salad bar or frozen-food aisle.

Since stir-fry dishes cook very quickly, it's essential to have all the ingredients prepared ahead and at hand — just be sure to keep separate the various ingredients for each dish. Preparing the rice, meat and vegetables for all the recipes will take about 20 to 30 minutes above and beyond the times listed for preparation in each recipe.

Since stir-frys require constant attention, the preparation times can't be overlapped in creating this meal — unless you have two chefs, one each operating a wok. With a single chef, dinner will take about an hour to prepare. Eliminate the soup recipe, and dinner can be served in about 40 to 45 minutes.

The savvy chef can dress up the meal instead with premade appetizers from the deli or frozen-food aisle — egg rolls, dumplings, pot stickers — that require no more than a brief stint in the microwave or range prior to becoming tabletop temptresses.

And don't forget the fortune or almond cookies for dessert!

Plan of attack for meal preparation:

- Remove from freezer any frozen vegetables you plan to use so they can thaw.

- Cook rice. While it's steaming, make marinade, cut up meat for stir-fry and place in marinade. Place rice in refrigerator to chill.

- Cut up fresh vegetable ingredients. Open cans.

- Prepare soup to resting stage. While it rests, prepare chicken stir-fry; keep warm. Add remaining soup seasonings; keep warm. Prepare rice. Serve dinner.

HOT AND SOUR SOUP

- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 onion, cut in half, then sliced
- 3 carrots, thinly sliced on diagonal
- 1 1/4 teaspoons minced garlic
- 1 tablespoon fresh ginger, finely minced
- 2 (15-ounce) cans chicken broth
- 1 cup water
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 2 cups mushrooms, thinly sliced
- 1 bunch watercress, thick stems removed
- 1/4 pound snow peas
- 1 cup fresh bean sprouts
- 1/4 cup rice-wine vinegar
- 2 teaspoons sesame oil
- Dash chili oil, to taste

Yields 6 servings.

Preparation time: 20 minutes, excluding time to prepare ingredients.

Heat 2 tablespoons vegetable oil in heavy soup pot over medium heat. Add onion and carrots; cook, stirring constantly, 3 minutes. Add garlic and ginger; cook, stirring, 1 minute.

Add chicken broth, water and soy sauce. Bring to boil and cook, partially covered, 2 minutes. Add mushrooms and watercress; boil, partially covered, 1 minute.

Turn off heat, add snow peas and bean sprouts. Cover and let rest 5 to 15 minutes.

Stir in rice-wine vinegar, sesame oil and chili oil to taste. Heat through and adjust seasonings.

FRIED RICE

- 3 strips bacon, diced
- 1/4 cup chopped green onions
- 1/4 cup diced red bell pepper
- 1/4 cup frozen green peas, thawed
- 1 egg, beaten
- 4 cups cold cooked rice
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce

Yields 6 to 8 servings.

Preparation time: 10 minutes, excluding time for preparing ingredients.

Cook bacon in large skillet over medium heat until crisp. Add green onion, red pepper and peas; stir-fry 1 minute. Stir in egg; cook until scrambled. Stir in rice and cook until heated, gently separating grains. Add soy sauce and cook, stirring, until heated through.

WATERMELON ICE
 3 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
 6 cups ripe watermelon chunks, seeded (about 1/4 small melon)

Yields 5 cups per recipe.

To make either ice: In blender or food processor, process sugar, lemon juice and about 1 cup of melon chunks until smooth; add remaining melon and continue to blend until smooth.

Freeze in shallow baking pan, covered with plastic wrap or foil, until partially frozen or mushy, about 2 hours. Spoon mixture into chilled bowl; with mixer at high speed, beat until fluffy. Return to pan; freeze until firm.

For easier serving, let stand at room temperature until soft enough to scoop.

Microwave magic

DeeLoree Vives

FOR TEENS

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

You invite a little slice of tropical paradise into your home every time you purchase a pineapple. This sunny, sweet fruit is delicious by itself, as an accompaniment to the main course, or in a variety of desserts.

Pineapples do not continue to ripen after they have been picked. The ones you will find in a grocery store are usually ripe at the time of purchase, but a good way to make sure you are getting a really sweet one is to gently press the bottom of the pineapple. It should give slightly without feeling mushy.

The "sulfur test" is another way to tell that the fruit is ripe. Pineapple should smell sweet, but not cloyingly so. Avoid any that are overripe (brown spots and a host of fruit flies buzzing around smacking their lips are telltale signs that a pineapple is past its prime).

Best eaten shortly after you bring it home, a tantalizing fresh pineapple peeking out of the fruit bowl and filling the kitchen with its sweet heady fragrance guarantees that it won't be around for long.

To tackle carving up a fresh pineapple, first remove the green leafy crown by sliding it off at the base. Using a long, sharp knife, quarter the fruit lengthwise and remove the tough inner core by sliding it away from the soft flesh. Cut along the underside of the pineapple to remove the skin, then use a sharp paring knife to gouge out the "eyes" (dark spots) that may remain in the flesh.

Note that fresh pineapple contains a proteolytic enzyme called "bromelain." This is an enzyme that breaks down protein, similar to what happens when we digest food. Because of this, gelatins made with fresh pineapple won't set, and dairy products such as cottage cheese should not be mixed with fresh pineapple until just before serving.

If you don't want to bother with the surgical process of carving up a fresh pineapple, canned pineapple is the no-fuss alternative. In all ways try to keep a couple of cans on hand since, whether it's cubed, crushed or sliced, canned pineapple is so versatile as a recipe ingredient or a tasty garnish.

For an easy summertime dessert, sprinkle fresh cubed or sliced pineapple with a dash of cinnamon sugar. Place in microwave-safe dish, cover with plastic wrap, and microwave at HIGH (100 percent power) setting for several minutes, until fruit softens. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream.

Welcome the tropics into your home soon, and treat your family to a taste of paradise.

Recipes in this column are listed in 65- to 700-watt microwave ovens.

MICRO-TIP OF THE WEEK

can of pineapple slices and save juice. In a small bowl, blend together ¼ cup dark brown sugar, 2 tablespoons pineapple juice and 2 tablespoons prepared mustard. Drizzle tangy-sweet glaze over a cooked ham. Arrange pineapple slices over ham and microwave 5 to 7 minutes to set glaze.

PINEAPPLE AND SWEET POTATO HAM BAKE

- 1 (6-ounce) can undrained crushed pineapple
- 2 tablespoons packed brown sugar

- 6 slices cooked ham

Yields 6 servings.

Preparation time: 10 minutes.
Cooking time: 8 to 11 minutes.

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power); MEDIUM (50 percent power).

In microwave-safe 2-cup glass measure, combine pineapple, brown sugar, lemon juice, cornstarch, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves.

Microwave on HIGH setting for 2 to 3 minutes, or until mixture bubbles and thickens, stirring twice.

Slice yams or sweet potatoes. Arrange ham slices on microwave-safe serving platter and top with yam slices. Spoon sauce over all.

POLYNESIAN SERRAP

Cooking time: 8 to 10 minutes.
(plus 5 minutes standing time).

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Mix together sugar, cornstarch and ginger in a microwave-safe 2-quart casserole. Blend in vinegar and soy sauce. Then add all remaining ingredients except tomato. Cover casserole with lid or plastic wrap.

Dr. Abraham: I only have a minute. I'm off to a 50-mile bike race, but I just saw your answer to the 14-year-old bike rider. You missed the several most important safety tips on cycling. Wear a helmet, wear a belt, wear a helmet, etc., etc. Do you get my drift?

Almost anyone's bras are worth the $39.95 a certified helmet costs. Gloves are a good idea, too.

I love your column. — Rider

Rider: You are so right about the importance of emphasizing the use of bicycle helmets.

Because I stress it so frequently in this column, I can't imagine ever leaving it out. Maybe the reference was omitted because of local space limitations. How about sending me the clipping that included the item if you still have it? I'd appreciate seeing it.

Dr. Abraham: I have a strange problem with my boyfriend whom I've been dating for three and a half years.

Sometimes when we are talking he asks me a question, and I will say that I don't know. Then he will say, "Just guess," so I will, but if I am wrong he makes me feel stupid. He says, "Why don't you know that?" or "You have to know that because everybody does." I really love him, but I hate feeling this way. It makes me not want to talk to him for a few days. I am 17, and he is 18.

Could you give me some advice? — Feeling Stupid

Feeling Stupid: Because he makes you feel that way doesn't mean that you really are stupid. He seems to be tricking you by asking questions that he may know have answers that aren't familiar to you. That is neither fair nor kind.

One way to handle this is to quit guessing when he asks you to. He is playing a game with you and apparently always wants to win.

Tell him the game is over, and let's cut out this unpleasantness.

Dr. Abraham: I'm a guy whose hair is so kinky and curly that it really bothers me. It is also deep dark. I wish I'd be a blond guy with straight hair, but I guess that's kind of hopeless. So why am I writing to you anyway? Maybe it's just to get something off my chest to someone who seems to have the habit of being a good listener.

Any ideas, Dr. A.? I'm listening. — Dark Curly

Dark Curly: A theme that has worked with a lot of people is this one: Accent on assets. In playing the card game of bridge as well as to improve one's life it goes this way: Leading from strength.

With the help of a good friend or a close relative I hope it can be one or both of your parents). Ideally some of the strengths you have. Everyone has some. They go beyond one's physical looks and include a person's total appearance and personality. Showing an interest in others (no faking, please) can play a big part in this picture. These factors can be far more important than what you think about your hair.

Your barber is probably the professional who can help you most on this issue. How about a question or two in that direction?

Dr. Abraham: I have been going out with this guy for two months, but my mother doesn't agree to it. I am a 16-year-old girl, and he is a 21-year-old man. I understand how my mother feels about the age difference, but we still continue to see each other.

My mother doesn't know him, so she has asked everyone about him and they all say nice things. She knows that there is nothing wrong with him; she is just upset about his age.

We love each other and want to be together for a long time, but I don't know how long it will last with my mother the way she is. He doesn't have a phone, so she doesn't have to worry about my being on the phone. He doesn't have a car, either, so she can't come to see me unless he rides with his friends.

My question to you is what would you do if you were in my situation, and how can I get my mother to understand it's not the age that matters. It's how much we care about each other. — Confused

Confused: At 16, a five-year difference is quite a bit because one usually isn't even close to finishing high school and the other may be finished and on a job or in college or both. Their two environments may be very different, leading in time to possible conflicts.

There are at least two things you might consider, however. Try to arrange for your mother to meet him, and make an effort to spend time with others who are closer to your age. Those steps could help make your mother more comfortable and also provide ways for you to broaden your contacts, which is important at your age.

A cherries jubilee

By Charles Britton

Every holiday needs a food associated with it, and the Fourth of July is no exception. I asked several people what came to mind when I mentioned Independence Day, and many of them said, "Hot dogs."

Well, OK, I guess, but a few had a different — and much better — idea. They recommend making cherries the official July 4 treat.

After all, you can eat hot dogs any time of year, if you must, but the time for cherries is right now. And the fruit has a patriotic association through George Washington and his hatchet.

Of the cherries that appear fresh, the Bing variety is by far the best known and the most popular. It ranks as the standard sweet cherry, and it is followed by another red variety, the Lambert, which tastes much the same. The main difference between the two is that the Bing is round in shape, while the Lambert is heart-shaped.

The striking Rainier — pale gold, often with a brilliant red blush — has been making inroads into the market in recent years, though it still sells for a premium price.

The Rainier has a more delicate taste and lacks the winy vigor of the Bing, but it has its own refreshing quality. Rainiers cook up well, and the result has an attractive and very different quality from red cherries.

Michigan is famous for sour cherries, prized by many for cooking. Another favorite is the distinctively flavored Royal Ann, a yellow cherry with a pink blush.

These grow plentifully in Oregon, but most of the crop ends up as maraschino cherries. Manufacturers like to use Royal Anns for this purpose, because they bleach out the light natural color and then dye them the expected chemical red.

The best cherries are fully ripe and firm to the point of crispness in texture. They will keep fairly well for a few days if left unwashed in a closed paper bag in the crisper section of the refrigerator.

From a nutritional standpoint, fresh cherries are an excellent addition to the diet. A 5-ounce serving (a good handful) adds a moderate 90 calories, and, like most fruits, cherries are a good source of vitamin C, minerals and fiber.

They are no trouble to serve. The vast majority of cherries sold fresh end up consumed just as they are, making them a perfect addition to a picnic basket.

There are, however, myriad cherry recipes that are worth trying, if you can keep your hands off them beforehand.

Note on pitting cherries: Although you can simply squeeze out the pits, the job is much easier and less messy if you invest in a cherry pitter. These resemble the hand tools used to punch holes in paper and are available at most kitchen equipment dealers.

We begin our recipes with a grand classic:

CHERRY PIE

Pastry for a 2-crust 9-inch pie

1 cup sugar (or to taste)

2 to 3 tablespoons cornstarch

Pinch salt

Flavoring options (see variations)

5 cups pitted cherries

1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Egg Glaze (optional — recipe follows)

Yields 8 servings.

Preheat oven to 425 F. Line 9-inch pie plate with dough.

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt. Toss with cherries. Fill pie shell with fruit, dot with butter and top with an upper crust. Seal and flute edge. Cherry Pie often is given a lattice crust on top.

Paint the crust with Egg Glaze. Bake for 50 to 60 minutes, until fruit is bubbly and crust is brown. Serve warm or at room temperature. Cherry Pie may be accompanied by sweetened whipped cream or vanilla ice cream.

Variations: Any of these may be mixed into the cherries when being tossed with the sugar mixture: 3 or 4 drops of almond extract, a sprinkling of cinnamon or a sprinkling of ginger.

Cherry-Apple Pie: Replace up to half of the cherries with pared, cored and sliced Granny Smith or other cooking apples.

Cherry-Rhubarb Pie: Replace up to half the cherries with trimmed, sliced rhubarb; additional sugar will be required.

Egg Glaze: Beat 1 egg with 1 tablespoon water.

Here's an interesting pie, attributed to Zenda Cabral of Holladay, Utah. The dish is taken from "American Pie Celebration," a booklet published by Procter & Gamble Co.

The recipe calls for sour cherries, available frozen. You can substitute 5 cups of pitted fresh sweet cherries, cutting sugar to ½ cup. You need more volume of fresh cherries, because they will cook down more.

UTAH'S BEST CHERRY PIE

1 cup sugar

2½ tablespoons cornstarch

¼ teaspoon cinnamon

¼ teaspoon salt

½ cup peach nectar (available canned)

½ cup Chambord liqueur (optional — see note)

2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Pastry for a 2-crust 9-inch pie

¾ cups thawed frozen dry-pack pitted red tart cherries, well drained

Egg Glaze (see preceding recipe)

Yields 8 servings.

Combine sugar, corn-starch, cinnamon and salt in medium saucepan. Stir in nectar and liqueur. Cook and stir over medium heat until thickened and clear. Add butter, stirring until melted. Cool.

Preheat oven to 425 F. Line 9-inch pie pan with pastry. Add cherries to nectar mixture. Pour into crust. Top with upper crust, which may be lattice-style, and bake about 40 minutes. Cool until slightly warm or room temperature.

Note: Chambord is a sweet, raspberry-flavored liqueur. You could substitute an equal amount of sieved raspberry jam. Or try cassia syrup or black currant jelly.

Fresh cherries make an interesting salsa or chutney.

CHERRY SALSA

1 cup pitted cherries

2 tablespoons fresh chopped basil

1 tablespoon finely chopped green peppers

1 teaspoon lemon juice

¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

¼ teaspoon grated lemon zest

Salt to taste

Red pepper sauce to taste

Yields about ¾ cup.

In a food processor, or with a knife, chop cherries. Combine with remaining ingredients. Refrigerate at least 1 hour.

This salsa goes well with chicken, pork or boiled fish. It is best served when recently made; the flavors dilute with storage.

CHERRY CHUTNEY

4 cups cherries, pitted

4 cups fresh peaches, peeled, pitted and sliced

2½ cups brown sugar

2 cups cider vinegar

1 medium lemon, seeded and chopped

½ cup raisins

½ cup chopped onion

3 tablespoons fresh ginger, minced

1½ teaspoons salt

1 clove garlic, minced

½ teaspoon crushed red pepper

Yields 2½ pints.

Combine all ingredients. Bring to a boil in large saucepan with heavy bottom. Simmer about 2 hours, until mixture thickens, stirring frequently. Ladle into hot canning jars to within ¼ inch of tops. Seal according to jar maker's instructions.

Place jars in rack in large pot of boiling water with water 2 inches above jar tops. Boil 15 minutes. Cool on racks. After 12 hours test for proper seal.

Alternatively, prepared chutney may be kept covered in the refrigerator for a week or two.

This chutney may be served with poultry or pork.

To preserve cherries for later in the year, you have these choices:

• Freezing: Wash cherries, drain well and place as they are in plastic bags; seal. At 0 F, they will keep up to a year. If you like, you can pit them in advance. To use, thaw only partly.

• Canning: Wash and stem cherries; pit, if you like. Prepare a sugar syrup by simmering 1 part sugar to 3 parts water until dissolved. Place cherries in canning jars and cover with syrup to within ¼ inch of top. Seal according to jar maker's instructions. Place on rack in large pot of boiling water; cover jars to a depth of 2 inches. Process 20 minutes for pints, 30 minutes for quarts.

• Dehydrating: Regular and convection ovens that allow the proper temperature may be used instead of specially made dehydrators. However, you will need trays that permit air circulation. Wash and stem cherries. Pit and cut in half. Place skin side down on dryer trays. Dry at 135 degrees for 12 to 15 hours. When ready, the cherries will be leathery and sticky. Store in plastic bags in a cool, dry place.

And we end with this way of adding a few fireworks to the kitchen:

CHERRIES JUBILEE

4 cups pitted fresh cherries

4 tablespoons sugar (or to taste)

2 tablespoons butter

2 to 3 tablespoons brandy

Vanilla ice cream

Yields 4 to 6 servings.

Combine cherries and sugar. Melt butter in large frying pan. When hot, add cherries and saute gently until fruit is glazed and syrup forms in pan. Add brandy, and standing well back, ignite alcohol fumes that arise from pan. Be careful when you do this so that you do not get burned.

Shake pan to encourage alcohol to burn. As flames begin to die back, spoon the fruit and its juices over scoops of ice cream.

Variations: You can use the same technique with cut up plums, peaches or apricots. Apple, pear and pineapple chunks also work well. The fruit may also be spooned over crepes.

Safety note: Do not use an excessive amount of alcohol or you may get too high a flame-up.

The key to successful gardening along the seashore is observing what grows naturally in the coastal environment. In choosing plants, know your climatic zone.

Even though it might be tempting to try plants that thrive along the Pacific coast, they'd never survive the winter in an Eastern garden.

Every year thousands of dollars' worth of fertilizers and pesticides, as well as gallons and gallons of water, are wasted on the upkeep of unsuitable plantings and lawns by the sea because most people garden as they would inland.

If you must have a lawn, and you live along the coast, choose grass seed mixtures high in fescue, like American beach grass.

It's crucial for seaside gardeners to know the pH of their sand, especially if they want to establish sand-loving plants not indigenous to their area. You can always send your sand out to be analyzed, or use a store-bought kit to do it yourself.

Sand's advantages also are its drawbacks. For example, it's easy to work and allows for perfect drainage, but keep in mind that sand lacks organic matter and essential nutrients.

Of course, many native plants won't mind the lack of fertilizer or water, but for those that need more of both, the best solution is to use natural resources close at hand.

Kelp and other seaweeds can be applied fresh or washed as mulches or, better still, be worked into the soil for water retention.

Other good mulches (for acid-loving plants, such as strawberries) are oak leaves, pine needles, wood chips and salt hay.

Sand-loving plants, to name a few, are:

- Hardy perennials: beach pea, Christmas rose, day lily, artemisia, columbine, chrysanthemum, daisy, hollyhock, iris, yarrow and many more.

- Annuals: sunflower, lupine, marigold, zinnia, morning glory, nasturtium to name a few.

- Herbs: tansy, thyme, sage, chamomile.

- Shrubs: hydrangea, lilac, forsythia, azalea, bittersweet, broom and beach plum.

Q. Please let me know how to care for an azalea plant and how to get it to bloom again. It is blooming now. It is in a pot near the window that faces east. It is actually a corner window with a small section facing north. It is on the second floor of an apartment house.

A. Azaleas in pots should only be indoors during the winter and while in bloom. From the end of May on, sink your plant in the ground with light shade.

Regular spraying and watering, plus pinching back overlong growths will keep your azalea in tiptop shape. Before severe frost, bring the plant indoors. Keep it just moist, in a light, cool room at 40 degrees until about four weeks before you want full bloom.

Then bring it into a warm, sunny room; at this point, ample watering is necessary. Give it complete fertilizer until the color shows on the buds.

Learning to share comes slowly

Q. My husband is after our 1-year-old boy to share his toys and books with other children his age, and I have an idea that it is much too early for that kind of pressure.

When can kids learn to share without a lot of grabbing and screaming going on?

I hope you're on my side so I can get my husband off my back (and my little boy's, too) on this issue.

A. Because children vary in their development and maturity, no set time can be expected for sharing activities. However, they seldom make much headway before the preschool years (3 or even 4 years old).

Until then, it may be necessary to expect some friction among younger children. Separating them when they lay claim to the same item, distracting them with other toys that are usually desirable and, perhaps, colorful, using a smile and a few complimentary words when a child does begin to share — all of these parental approaches may be helpful.

I hope your husband begins to understand that sharing may come slowly and usually is absent in a 1-year-old.

Q. I need your help so much. My wife has started her first pregnancy, and we are both ecstatic over that. But I'm far from happy over her smoking habit, which she's had for 10 years and insists on continuing.

Is it as dangerous to our baby as I've read in recent years? She's read the same stuff but feels that as long as her diet and exercise are healthful, the baby will be all right.

What do you think about this?

A. I've read some of what you have, and my impression is the same as yours. She is taking a big chance by her continued smoking.

Try to get her to talk about this matter with your family physician or the pediatrician you're planning to use. If she refuses to go, go yourself, ask for materials that stress the dangers of smoking and plead with her (if necessary) to read them.

And please, take this action as soon as possible.

Q. My husband doesn't want us to enroll our 3-year-old in a preschool because he is so afraid that he will be hurt or abused there.

I've read about the importance of the early years, and our son seems so ready to be with other children and for the added learning that can take place in a good preschool.

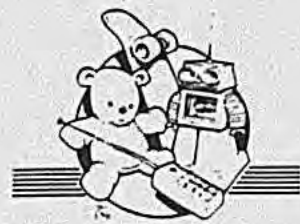

My husband suggested that I write to you for your opinion on this subject. Will you please share it with us?

A. Research studies on both subjects — child injury and child abuse — generally conclude that there is a much stronger chance of both happening in environments other than preschool settings. Home and community injuries and abuse factors are more frequent than such dangers in preschools.

However, it is important to check out in detail wherever a young child is placed, including the school's personnel, programs and facilities. Visits to preschools and questions to other parents who have children there often can be very helpful.

Your vigilance, of course, shouldn't stop with a child's enrollment. That's only the beginning. It should continue all the way through a youngster's schooling. Parents have to be careful not to drop out of the picture too early.

Seaside gardening

- For seaside lawns, opt for high-fescue seed mixtures, such as American beach grass.

- Use native plants that will grow in the sand's pH level.

- Kelp and other seaweeds make an ideal mulch to help sandy soil retain water. Other good seaside gardening mulches include oak leaves, pine needles, wood chips and salt hay. Use a 2- to 3-inch layer of mulch.

- Sand-loving plants include hydrangea, lilacs, azalea, sunflowers, marigolds, zinnia and daisies.

Couscous great addition to healthy meals

By Kit Saedaker

Couscous, a standard in Arab countries, is just coming into its own here. It looks like coarsely ground wheat, but couscous is actually a semolina pasta and as such goes with just about anything. It takes on the flavor of whatever it gets near, a great attribute for salad, main courses or vegetables.

Best of all, the quick-cooking couscous used here is available in any supermarket and is done in seconds. This same pasta also comes in a long-cooking variety that has to be washed by hand and steamed over meat or vegetables cooking below it. A specially designed pot, a couscoussier, is used for this, but for us, the quick-cooking is a blessing.

Here is couscous as a salad, with lamb (also Arabic) and with vegetables.

SPANISH COUSCOUS SALAD

- 2 cups water
- 1½ cups couscous
- ½ cup low-sodium vegetable juice
- 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
- 1 garlic clove minced
- 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
- ¼ cup chopped fresh cilantro or parsley
- ½ teaspoon salt (optional)
- Freshly ground black pepper
- 2 tomatoes, cut in wedges
- 1 cucumber, peeled and diced
- 4 scallions chopped
- ½ green pepper, chopped
- ½ red pepper, chopped
- 2 or 3 radishes, sliced
- 1 stalk celery, sliced

Yields 6 to 8 servings.

Each serving has about 240 calories, no fat or cholesterol and 200 milligrams sodium.

Heat water to boil in saucepan and stir in couscous. Reduce heat to simmer, cover and cook until water is absorbed, about 5 minutes. Fluff up couscous with fork, spoon into large bowl and set aside to cool.

For dressing, mix vegetable juice, vinegar, garlic, horseradish, cilantro, salt if used and pepper with whisk. Add tomatoes, cucumber, scallions, green and red peppers, radishes and celery to couscous. Pour dressing over the couscous mixture, toss and serve.

COUSCOUS WITH LAMB

- ¼ cup slivered almonds
- 1 pound boneless lamb, cubed
- ¼ cup dry red wine
- ¼ cup red wine vinegar
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- ½ teaspoon dry oregano (1 teaspoon fresh)
- ½ teaspoon rosemary (1 teaspoon fresh)

Salt to taste

- Freshly ground pepper
- 2 cups beef stock, homemade or canned, low-sodium
- 1½ cups couscous

Yields 4 to 6 servings.

Each serving has about 475 calories, 3 grams fat, 74 milligrams cholesterol and 360 milligrams sodium.

Preheat oven to 325 F. Put almonds on cookie sheet and bake about 5 minutes or until almonds are lightly toasted. Remove to cool.

Put lamb cubes in baking dish in single layer. Whisk together wine, vinegar, oil, garlic, oregano, rosemary, salt and pepper. Pour this mixture over lamb and marinate at room temperature for 1 hour or in refrigerator for up to 8 hours. Remove meat and save marinade.

Preheat broiler. Broil lamb about 4 inches from heat, turning and basting with reserved marinade until meat is pink, tender, about 4 or 5 minutes.

In saucepan bring beef stock to boil. Stir in couscous, reduce heat to simmer, cover and cook until liquid is absorbed, about 4 or 5 minutes. Spoon couscous out onto serving platter, top with lamb and sprinkle with toasted almonds. Serve at once.

COUSCOUS WITH CHICKPEAS

- 4 cups water
- 2 cups couscous
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- ¼ teaspoon cumin
- Salt to taste
- Pinch cayenne pepper
- 1 onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- ½ green bell pepper, chopped
- ½ red bell pepper, chopped
- 1 zucchini, diced
- 1 tomato diced
- 1 cup canned chickpeas, rinsed and drained

Yields 6 to 8 servings.

Each serving has about 320 calories, 9 grams fat, no cholesterol and 250 milligrams sodium.

Put water in saucepan and heat to boiling. Stir in couscous, reduce heat, cover and cook until tender, about 5 minutes. Fluff with fork and set aside to cool.

Heat oil in skillet and add paprika, cumin, salt and cayenne pepper and cook for 1 minute, stirring often. Add onion, garlic, and both green and red peppers. Cook, stirring occasionally, until soft, about 4 minutes. Stir in zucchini and tomato. Cook until slightly softened and add chickpeas. Cook 2 minutes longer to heat through. Mound couscous on large serving platter and top with cooked vegetables. Serve at once.

YOUR BODY

THE LENS

WHAT: You're heard of lentils for soup, but not for your eyes. But the word lens (LENZ), an important part of your eye, comes from the Latin word lentil because of its shape. The lens is made of layers of protein fibers and is encapsulated by clear connective tissue. It is held in place by the suspensory ligament.

WHERE: The lens, also called the crystalline lens, is transparent, and it is located just behind the pupil and iris.

FUNCTIONS: The job of the lens is to focus rays of light (that facilitate vision) to form an accurate image on the retina.

If your eyeball is shorter than normal and the image is projected behind the retina, you are farsighted, or hypermetropic. You need extra lenses — in the form of eyeglasses — to correct your vision. If your eyeball is longer than normal and the image is projected in front of the retina, you are nearsighted, or myopic. You need extra corrective lenses, too.

If your lens or cornea (the transparent fiber that covers the iris) is irregularly shaped, you are astigmatic. Astigmatism, that is, blurred or distorted vision, means the image is not focused on the right part of the retina — the central fovea — that gives the sharpest picture. Corrective lenses are needed here, too.

If your lens or its covering loses its transparency and causes various types of visual problems, you have a cataract. Cataracts usually are a result of aging, but some may be congenital or related to an infection or injury. When the lens severely interferes with vision, the lens may be surgically removed and corrective glasses prescribed.

Saving kids' skin from cancer

By Jane Clifford

School's out and so are the kids: out at the beach, out in the park, out in the sun.

We aren't going to bore you with more warnings about skin cancer, but we are going to tell you what a dermatologist says are the best ways to protect the sensitive skin of your little ones. And your big kids, too.

"What they should know is that it's estimated that people receive 50 percent of their UV (ultraviolet) exposure by the time they're 18," says Dr. Joseph Walter, a physician who also is assistant clinical professor of dermatology at University of California at San Diego Medical School.

Need some evidence? Well, Walter says a recent study showed that kids who are badly sunburned five or more times double their chance of malignant melanoma in their 30s and 40s.

"We are seeing skin cancer in kids who live in the southern United States, the kids who ski in the winter and sail and ski in the summer," he says. "It does occur. It does happen."

Walter says that during consultation work at San Diego State University, he diagnosed malignant melanoma — the most dangerous form of skin cancer — in a dozen students.

"It is critical for parents to be aware of it," Walter says. "They really need to protect their kids."

Here's how:

- Avoid the sun as much as possible between the hours of 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., daylight-saving time, that part of the day when the sun is strongest. During this four-hour period, el sol is heating 80 percent of its UV rays down.

- Don't take newborns into the sun during these hours — at all.

- Use a sunscreen at all times during the summer. Yes, even in the backyard, and especially on overcast days. "Night and morning low clouds" means the sun doesn't feel warm, but the damaging rays are cooking you nonetheless.

- Use a sunscreen with a sun protection factor of 15 to 30. Anything more than that is not necessary, anything less is risky.

- Don't spend a lot of money. All sunscreens, regardless of which upscale or discount store is selling them, are roughly the same.

- Use a full ounce (about 1/4 of the average-size tube or bottle) to get adequate coverage of skin surfaces. That's another reason not to buy the really expensive stuff.

- Reapply sunscreen at least every 60 to 90 minutes (even the ones that proclaim to be water-resistant). Reapply more often if children are in the water or involved in activities where they sweat the sunscreen off.

- Consider "PABA-free" products to avoid staining clothes and irritating sensitive skin.

If you're tempted to cheat on the SPF, just to get a little tiny bit of tan, Walter says, don't.

The idea behind a 15 SPF is that you can stay in the sun 15 times longer without burning than if you used no sunscreen.

"That's the theory. Here's the truth. We aren't laboratory animals, and in actual use most of them drop to an SPF 8 or 10. That's why we say to use a 15."

Following the rules is especially important, he says, for red-haired Caucasians with fair skin, such as those of Celtic or Irish descent. And, no, generally speaking, sunscreens are not dangerous.

"I don't think I'd use them on newborns. It's better for the first three months to keep babies out of the sun," Walter says. "But they're fine for older children."

For parents of older children, Walter acknowledges that the job is tougher. It may be easier to get teen-agers to clean their rooms than to get them to think about skin cancer. He urges you to suggest tanning creams, the ones that essentially color the skin to the desired tone.

"That's the way to go if you're a teen-ager and want a tan," he says.

These products do not, however, offer skin protection, so anyone using them still needs sunscreen when they're outside.

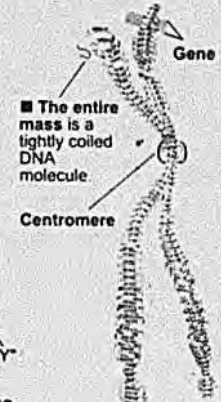

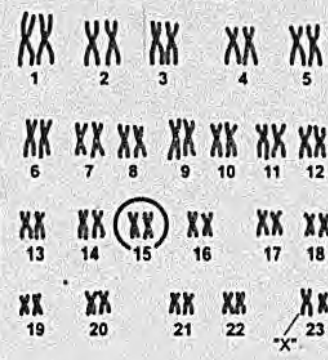

DISCOVERY

A clue to Angelman syndrome

Doctors have isolated a gene that causes a rare, strange disorder known as Angelman syndrome. Most people with the syndrome are believed to be misdiagnosed and unreported.

■ The problem gene is located on chromosome 15. Human life is defined by 23 pairs of chromosomes — the final pair determining gender.

■ Genes (3,000 to 4,000) are subsections of the chromosome.

Symptoms of Angelman syndrome

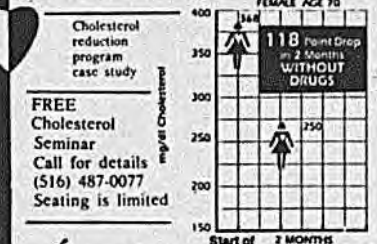

- Severe mental retardation.
- Inability to speak.
- Seizures.
- Love of water.
- Fair coloring.
- Hyperactivity.
- Puppet-like movements.
- Excessive happiness.
- Flat feet.
- Sleep very little.
- Thin, but voracious eaters.
- Crave physical contact.
- Pay excessive attention to surroundings.

Here's How

By Gene Gary.

Q. We moved into a home that has textured paint on the ceilings. I would prefer a smoother paint treatment. Is there any way to easily remove the texture so we can repaint the ceilings?

A. There is a product on the market, Texture-Off, specifically designed for textured and sand paint removal. Although this is a fairly messy project, it is not difficult.

Texture-Off is a gentle latex paint remover that can be applied with a roller. It adheres to the wall or ceiling surface. After setting for approximately two hours, a spackling blade is used to scrape the textured paint off. It may take more than one application, depending on the thickness of the texture.

It is available at paint stores and home centers. If you cannot locate the product, contact the manufacturer, Wm. Zinsser & Co., 39 Belmont Drive, Somerset, NJ 08875.

Q. We own a mobile home on our lot. When it rains for two or three days, the ground under the coach becomes very damp and we get a mildew odor in the house. Would putting tar paper over the ground solve the problem? Should something be put on the soil first to neutralize the odor?

A. The problem calls for the same treatment as you would apply to a damp crawl space under a regular home. First, let the ground dry out during the coming summer season when rain will not be a problem. Then cover the bare earth with strips of polyethylene plastic or moisture-and-vapor-proof building paper. Overlap strips at least 6 inches and seal the seams with roofing cement to prevent escape of moisture from the ground.

If you prefer, you also can use bricks along the seams to weigh the covering down instead of the roofing cement.

You also should check drainage in the area. Make sure the ground slopes away from your mobile home to assure that water drains away rather than collects underneath your home.

If you have a skirting on your mobile home, make sure that adequate air circulation and ventilation is maintained in the crawl space. In a home, each wall of the foundation should have louvers or vents installed, of a size allowing one square foot of opening for each 300 square feet of ground area. The same principle would apply to a mobile home.

Q. Our "new" house (circa 1898) has a rabbit warren where the kitchen should be. That is, the kitchen itself is very small, but there is a large pantry, a butler's pantry, another storage room and a tiny bath, plus a connecting hallway.

We'd love to combine everything into one great kitchen, but I'd like some idea of the problems that might lie ahead — besides the expense. Can you help us? — C.D.

A. I can offer some general predictions, but you'd be wise to seek professional opinions on the specifics of your individual kitchen from a certified kitchen designer, architect or contractor who has tackled similar make-overs in your area.

Before you can begin planning your new space, you'll need to determine which walls are load-bearing and which you can eliminate. Some of the latter may contain plumbing and electrical lines that will have to be rerouted.

You may also end up with ceilings of different heights or wall and floor areas that don't match, none of which is a major problem. Chances are your contractor will suggest adding fake beams and columns to mask any mismatches on ceilings and walls; new floor covering will do the trick underfoot.

Kitchen remodeling can be the most expensive project you can undertake in a house. It's also the most inconvenient (unless eating out for several weeks is your idea of heaven) and one of the messiest.

But when the dust settles, your new kitchen will greatly enhance both the resale value of your home and the quality of life your family enjoys at least four hours every day. Studies show that's the average time most Americans spend in their kitchens.

Perhaps the photo of the kitchen we show here will spur you on. New York interior designers Kevin Mayo and Ralph DeLucci faced a similar "rabbit warren" of small satellite rooms around an outmoded kitchen and decided to meld them all into one marvelous space.

An eat-on work island is the activity center; center of attention, however, are the monkeys that cavort on the mural of hand-painted tiles behind the stove. For the family who now enjoys gathering here, this kitchen is as much fun as a barrel of them.

COUNTRY KITCHEN — By giving up several small rooms, designers Kevin Mayo and Ralph DeLucci gained space enough to create a country kitchen in the grand-manoor style.

ANTIQU OR JUNQUE

By James G. McCollam

Repaired marble-top table is valuable

Q. Enclosed is a picture of a small coffee table. Since I took the picture, I have replaced the broken marble. The table is 20 inches high, 27 inches long and 18 inches wide.

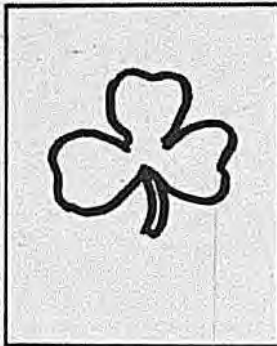

What can you tell me about the age, value, etc.?

A. This marble-top coffee table was made in the early 20th century and would probably sell for $325 to $335 in good condition.

Q. The attached mark is on the bottom of a cobalt-blue porcelain vase. It is 11 inches tall and decorated with panels depicting 18th century scenes of romantic couples.

I would appreciate anything you can tell me about this vase.

A. Your vase was made by the Limbach Porzellan Manufaktur in Thuringia, Germany, about 1900. It would probably sell for about $165 to $185.

Q. What can you tell me about a cane carved in the shape of a snake? The head turns over at right angles to form a handhold.

A. Novelty canes are very popular with collectors. Your cane was probably made in the late 1800s and might sell for about $435 to $450.

Q. I have an old calendar dated 1892. It has a picture of a pretty girl and was put out by Blatz Brewing Co.

Does this have any value as a collectible?

A. It sure does! In really fine condition, it might sell for as much as $500.

Q. We have been given a porcelain humidor that has hand-painted pictures of sailing ships. It measures 7 inches high and 4 inches in diameter. The mark on the bottom is an "L" in a wreath.

Can you tell me who made it, its value and vintage?

A. This was made by Lenox China in Trenton, N.J., early in the 1900s. It would sell for at least $100 in good condition.

Q. Please identify and evaluate my Limoges ice cream set consisting of a large bowl and six individual bowls. It is decorated with tiny blue flowers and red roses. It is marked "T&V"

A. Your ice cream set was made in Limoges, France, by Tresseanes & Vogt about 1900. It probably would sell for $365 to $385.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. I have a 2-year-old cat that must stay in the house essentially all of the time because of my work schedule. The cat has become very destructive, scratching the furniture and drapes with her claws.

I have heard that her claws can be removed. Would this be advisable for my cat?

A. With increased apartment and condominium living, requests for declawing have increased. Cats deprived of the opportunity to sharpen their claws on trees or wear them down on the ground often develop the bad habit of clawing furniture, draperies and carpets.

Because declawing renders cats defenseless and takes away their ability to climb trees, this procedure should be done only on cats that never go outside.

Most veterinarians recommend that cats be around 6 months of age when declawed. The cat is anesthetized during the procedure and experiences very little pain following the removal of the claws.

Usually, a pressure bandage to control bleeding and to prevent the cat from chewing on the sutures is applied for 24 hours.

The cat is usually released from the veterinary hospital after the pressure bandage is removed. It is recommended that shredded paper be used in the litter box for a week following claw removal to prevent clay particles from entering the surgical wounds. Your veterinarian can help you decide if declawing would be beneficial for your cat.

JUNIOR EDITION

Aunt Tilly's Corner

This weekend I was stuck at home, sick in bed. Although I hate being sick, I was lucky enough to have someone to take care of me and bring me good things to eat. It was kind of like being home with a mom to take care of me. As a grown-up, often you have to take care of yourself when you are sick.

Do your parents make you feel better when you are sick? Do they bring you meals in bed and drinks of water? You should appreciate this - someday you will be grown up and you may have to do this for yourself.

Information for the blind

By William M. Acosta

Q. Is there a way of providing information to those of us who are blind? — J.P.

A. Yes. Social Security has worked with the Library of Congress to produce a special four-track audiocassette recording of Social Security program publications.

The cassette, referred to as a "talking book," can be borrowed along with the required cassette player from any of the 160 Library of Congress-affiliated libraries across the country. Most of these libraries also carry Social Security Administration program information in Braille.

Q. I will turn 65 years old later this year, and I've recently begun to experience some chronic health problems. I want to buy additional health insurance to supplement my Medicare. Isn't there a law that says I can't be turned down or charged higher rates because of my health? — C.H.

A. Yes. For Medicare beneficiaries age 65 or older, the law provides a one-time, six-month period during which you can select a supplemental health insurance policy that is commonly called "Medigap." You can be assured that you will not be turned down for health reasons.

The six-month period always begins the first month in which

Medicare Part B (medical insurance) becomes effective for a beneficiary age 65 or older.

Q. A friend of my 7-year-old son was getting Social Security benefits. I thought Social Security was only for retirement. How are children able to receive Social Security? — S.P.

A. Social Security benefits are paid to children whose parent(s) has died, become severely disabled or retired. More than 3 million children are currently receiving these "dependent's" benefits.

Social Security also administers the Supplemental Security Income program, which pays monthly benefits to needy children with disabilities. Almost 425,000 children with disabilities already get SSI.
