

Poster Winners

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Thomas L. Clark, left front, and Supervisor Lewis J. Yevoll, front row right, recently visited the Hicksville Fire Department and presented trophies to Timothy Ramo of Dutch Lane Elementary School and Jennifer Lee of Fork Lane Elementary School, the winners of the department's annual fire prevention poster contest. On hand from the Hicksville Fire Department, back row, left to right were: 3rd Asst. Chief Phil LaNasa, 1st Asst. Chief Al Merk, Commissioner Cliff Davis and Department Chief Patrick Scanlon.

Request For Two Special Use Permits

Two public hearings have been scheduled by the Oyster Bay Town Board for Tuesday, November 10, to consider applications for special use permits in Bethpage, according to Town Councilman Leonard Kunzig.

"The applicants, Adults & Children With Learning & Developmental Disabilities, Inc., Contract Vendee and Grumman Aerospace corporation, Fee Owner, are requesting special use permits for two separate uses on two adjoining parcels in Bethpage," Councilman Kunzig said.

"The first Special Use Permit request pertains to the construction and maintenance of a day treatment facility," noted Councilman Kunzig. "The property is located on the east side of South Oyster Bay Road, 477 feet south of the intersection of South Oyster Bay Road and Stewart Ave."

Councilman Kunzig said the second Special Use Permit request centers on the construction and maintenance of administrative facilities in connection with proposed day treatment facility, located on the east side of South Oyster Bay Road, 677 feet south of the intersection of South Oyster Bay Road and Stewart Ave.

The meeting will be held in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay, beginning at 7 p.m.

'Who Am I' At The Library

The Children's Room of the Hicksville Public Library is now registering children for the popular "Who Am I?" program which is run by Donna and Ellen. The program is for children 1½ to 2½ years old. It will be held for four weeks, starting Monday, November 2, thru Monday, November 23. There is a choice of two times, 10:15 or 11:15. A Hicksville Library Card and proof of a child's age is required. There is a $4 fee.

Hearing Scheduled On Gas Station

A request for a special use permit in a business "G" General Business district in Hicksville is the subject of a Tuesday, November 17, public hearing of the Oyster Bay Town Board, according to Town Councilman Leonard B. Symons.

"The applicants, Amoco Oil Company, Lessee and Dawson Holding Company, Fee Owner, are seeking a special use permit to raze and rebuild an existing gasoline filling station, without a public garage," Councilman Symons said. "In addition, they intend to open a convenience store and to operate the facility 24 hours a day."

Councilman Symons added that the property in question is located in a Business "G" (General Business) district in Hicksville at the corner of Broadway and 16th Street.

The hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the hearing room of Town Hall East, Audrey Avenue, Oyster Bay.

Fire Dept. Warning

As the leaves begin to fall and accumulate local firefighters wish to caution residents not to park on top of leaves, as the hot exhaust system will readily ignite the leaves. The vehicle could catch on fire.

Open Burning - Open burning of any material is prohibited by Nassau County law, that includes grass, leaves or other rubbish. The first offense is a $250 fine. Fires spreading and causing damage are the legal responsibility of the person or persons who started the fire.

Attorney Arrested For Thefts

Nassau County District Attorney Denis Dillon today announced the arrest of an attorney for allegedly stealing over $240,000 from 4 clients. Alan Morris, 42, of 8 Regency Court, Nesconset has been charged with Grand Larceny in the Second Degree and 3 counts of Grand Larceny in the Third Degree. He is the 10th attorney arrested in Nassau this year.

According to Dillon the defendant practiced law at 28 East Old Country Road in Hicksville. It is alleged that between 1987 and this year, Morris stole in excess of $240,000 that he was holding in escrow on behalf of his client. Morris is currently under indictment on 67 felony counts in Suffolk County involving similar allegations.

The DA said in one allegation in Nassau it is alleged that Morris was retained in 1987 to represent a client in connection with a real estate transaction. Morris was ordered by a Supreme Court Judge to hold $204,000 in escrow. Our investigation shows that the money was deposited in the escrow account at a Garden City bank. By November of 1990 it is alleged that Morris had depleted the entire escrow account. It is believed that he converted these funds for his own use and has failed to return any of the money to his client.

Dillon said in the second matter, Morris was retained to negotiate the sale of property. In April '91, Morris was given approximately $48,000 on behalf of his client. It is alleged he failed to tell his client about the money or give him the funds.

State Traffic Signal Snarls Fire Response

The New York State owned Traffic Signal at Broadway and East Marie Street is the source of a major problem for Hicksville Fire Fighters. Fire Chief Patrick Scanlon has been trying for months to get the light timing re-adjusted but to no avail.

N.Y.S. Assemblyman Fred Parola has joined the fight to get the problem solved. In the past, Parola has managed to get the State Transportation Department to take action, but the current request has gone unanswered for almost 2 months.

Chief Scanlon cites that many times during the day and in particular the 6:30 a.m.-9 a.m. rush, and the 4 p.m. - 6 p.m. rush, Fire Fighters can't get to the Fire Station, and apparatus in the station has to wait till the gridlock clears up. The Signal holds traffic east and west-bound on Marie St. for a minute and three quarters (approximately), thereby backing up traffic. During this time there is little traffic on Broadway. The State has said in the past that they don't want traffic slowed on Broadway, although many residents feel the 40 mph speed is much too fast for the downtown stretch of Broadway.

Fire officials feel that while Broadway traffic flow is important, a special exception has to be made for this particular signal. Emergency traffic into and out of the area should take preference. It is obvious that seconds count in the response to calls for help, and a traffic signal should not be the deciding factor in a life or death situation.

The general public also suffers from this situation and often drivers go through the red signal when traffic allows because they believe the signal is stuck on red. This is an additional hazard to the safety of local drivers.

The Fire Department welcomes any help the public wants to give. Letters to state officials and the Regional Director of Transportation would help.

Mr. James Kuzloski, Regional Director, Dept. of Transportation, Region 10 Office, N.Y. State Office Building, Veterans Memorial Highway, Hauppauge, N.Y. 11787.

Drug Proclamation

Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Lewis J. Yevoll and Town Councilman Leonard Kunzig (right) present a proclamation to Bethpage resident Tracey Dunne, coordinator of a Bethpage-based anti-drug group known as "People." Dunne's organization sponsored "Support Red Ribbon Week," a campaign designed to build awareness to the need to prevent substance abuse. The Town-issued citation proclaimed the week of October 24 through November 1 as "Support Red Ribbon Week" in Oyster Bay.

Homemakers Meet

The Homemakers Council of Nassau County will hold their monthly meeting on November

5 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the Community Church on Stewart Avenue in Hicksville.

Lee Ave. School Poster Contest

Burns Avenue School Poster Contest

To The Hicksville Community:
 The Krummenacker and Finn families would like to express our heartfelt thanks and gratitude to all those who donated both their time and items to the garage sale for the benefit of the Cystinosis Foundation.

The sale was a huge success and all proceeds are being forwarded to the Cystinosis Foundation and the National Order of Rare Diseases (NORD) to help benefit all those afflicted with this rare disease.

We would also like to express our special thanks to Ivan Czippot and Remax Realty for the use of their parking lot and the Hicksville Kiwanis Foundation for their sponsorship. Also extra thanks to the Hicksville Fire Department, Bruce Goldblatt, Parkway Deli, Hicksville High School Key Club and the Concerned Citizens of Hicksville, their extra support helped make the day run smoothly.

It is gratifying to know so many people care that our daughter's lives will be better because of everyone's efforts.

Sincerely,
 Marybeth & Larry

Decorating Seminar

Decorating Seminar

Bring your swatches and samples to the "Step into Decorating" seminar to be led by Christine Woods, Interior Custom Decorator, at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, November 12, at the Hicksville Public Library.

Whether you are in the midst of a decorating project or ever expect to be, this seminar will teach you the fundamentals of color and pattern, discuss the latest styles and colors for the home, and offer tips and suggestions that will make all the difference in the look of your rooms. Ms. Woods will give specific, practical advice, even helping participants make their own floor plans. The function of a decorator will also be discussed.

The Indians of Long Island

Join Mr. Richard Evers at the Hicksville Public Library on Tuesday, November 17, at 4 p.m., for an educational, fun-filled narrated photo slide show for young adults. Take a glimpse into the civilization of Long Island's Algonkian Indians. Mr. Evers will exhibit and describe some native crafts and artifacts as well.

Preventive Nutrition Seminar

Noted nutritionist Gracia Perlestein will take the confusion out of healthful eating at a seminar at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, November 17, at the Hicksville Public Library.

She will lay out easy ways to plan menus and will talk about the best cooking techniques and ingredients for optimum health and energy.

Financial Options for Seniors

On Monday, November 16, at 2 p.m., the Hicksville Public Library will present an informative program that outlines the many different types of financial options open to senior citizens.

In this economic environment it has become a requirement to become more financially literate, and this program is designed to answer those questions seniors may have about where to invest and what to invest in.

Annuities Investments

This fascinating workshop will include a discussion of several investment alternatives and the risk associated with each, and how annuity contracts work. It will also demonstrate how a financial planning strategy, using an annuity may enable a retiree to receive his social security benefits tax-free.

This program will take place on Monday, November 16, at 7:30 p.m.

Re-Elect

STUART L. AIN

County Court Judge

A county court judge has to be prepared to make the tough decisions that are so important to the public safety and well-being. During his 10 years on the Nassau County Court bench, including seven years as an Acting Supreme Court Justice, Stuart Ain has amply proven that he has the dedication, integrity and experience needed to get the job done. Judge Ain has:

- Received the endorsements of the Republican, Liberal and Conservative parties
- Earned the commendation of the Fund for Modern Courts, which praised his conduct of court business
- Compiled an outstanding 35-year record as a lawyer and jurist

Deeply committed to the law, Judge Ain has presided over many criminal and civil cases, stamping each one with his mark of fairness. His ability to preside over criminal cases has earned him the support of a wide range of law enforcement associations, including the Nassau County P.B.A., Superior Officers Association, Detectives Association and the New York City P.B.A. and the Transit Police P.B.A.

Judge Stuart Ain — fair, competent, dedicated. Your vote can return Judge Ain to the Nassau County Court.

Syliva Grossman 'Making Peace With My Mother'

Lately, it seems to be the trend for people to blame their mothers for their less than perfect lives. Join author Syliva Grossman at the Bethpage Public Library on Wednesday, November 4, 7:30 p.m., to discuss her recently published book, "Making Peace With My Mother," a sometimes sad, sometimes funny journey towards resolving the painful relationship she shared with her parent.

Donna M. Reed, President of the Resources for Women, Inc., writes: "Syliva Grossman is a living example of the power of love and how it can transcend huge barriers to transform not only people, but relationships ... Her example offers not only hope but a guide for creating positive, loving mother-daughter relationships." Don't miss the opportunity to meet Ms. Grossman, share her story, and perhaps learn how to improve that all-important relationship.

Harvest Moon 'GOP' Ball

Several hundred Bethpage Republicans gathered at the firehouse ballroom last weekend, not only to support their candidates, but to eat, drink and be merry at the Theodore Roosevelt Republican Club's annual Harvest Moon Ball. A steady stream of "Row B" candidates addressed the enthusiastic crowd including: Nassau County Comptroller Pete King, who is running to fill the Congressional seat vacated by retiring Congressman Norman Lent; New York State Senator Kemp Hannon; NYS Assemblyman Fred Parola 14th A.D., Candidate for the NYS Assembly 13th A.D. John Canning and a special visit by Nassau County Republican Chairman Joe Mondello. In addition, several judicial candidates stopped by during the party.

The top of the evening came when State Senator Ralph Marino made a last-minute appearance and was greeted warmly by the Bethpage Republicans. Marino, who had two other engagements that night, made a special effort to come to Bethpage. Redistricting 10 years ago removed Bethpage from his Senate District, but this year's redistricting put part of Bethpage back into his area.

Bethpage Executive Leader George Yochmann presented Senator Marino with a banner that said "This is Marino Country." "We are thrilled Ralph Marino is back in Bethpage and that we will be represented by 2 great Senators, Ralph Marino and Kemp Hannon," said Yochmann. "Long Island needs both of these fine Senators to look out for our interests in Albany."

NYS Senator Kemp Hannon, left and NYS Assemblyman, 12th A.D., Phil Healey, right, may have bigger bumper stickers, but County Court Judge Stuart Ain has served the Court for almost 10 years and is seeking re-election this November.

News From Jericho Library

Christmas Bus Trip

Grab the children! The Jericho Public Library's off to an all new Christmas show at Radio City Music Hall on Tuesday, December 1, at 4 p.m.! The show begins at 7:30 p.m. so you'll have time for dinner and a stroll over to see the tree in Rockefeller Plaza before curtain time. The cost is $42 and that includes transportation and either an orchestra or front mezzanine seat. You may register at the circulation desk of the Jericho Public Library. There will be no refunds. For further information call the Library at 935-6790.

Ghetto Shanghai

Evelyn Pike Rubin, a Jericho resident, relates a little publicized holocaust story at the Jericho Public Library on Sunday, November 8, at 2 p.m. You will learn about the sanctuary afforded Jewish refugees from Nazi-occupied Europe in Shanghai during World War II. The story encompasses her growing up in Nazi Germany, Kristallnacht, and the subsequent voyage to Shanghai. She describes the terrible deprivation endured after being forced to live in a ghetto established by the Japanese authorities. Ironically, it was these same authorities who were responsible for the survival of the refugees. Mrs. Rubin has written a book called Ghetto Shanghai which she hopes will be published in the near future. As a featured lecturer in the metropolitan area for the past fifteen years, she has been interviewed on radio and cable TV.

Hicksville Fire Football Update

Sunday, October 18, the Hicksville Fire Football Team found themselves going head to head against the Valley Stream Hornets.

Hicksville's offense was strong with Paolo Fumagalli making another of his incredible runs, this time with two Hornets in tow, going 37 yards for a touchdown. Ryan Pound (tackle) and Justin Rostenberg (guard) were imposing on the offensive line.

Defense was intimidating. Jared Stanton (defensive end) and Adam Smith (corner back) both did an outstanding job. Brian Kelly (linebacker) showed some fast thinking when he recovered a fumble. The entire team did a great job.

Rabbi Katz Pres. Of Assembly

By Mitchell Kornet
 On Sunday, October 25, Rabbi Michael Katz, of Temple Beth Torah, was installed as the President of the Nassau-Suffolk Region of the Rabbinical Assembly. The Rabbinical Assembly is the international organization of Conservative Rabbis. The Nassau-Suffolk region encompasses over 50 Conservative synagogues, and more than 75 Rabbis across Long Island. The Rabbinical Assembly is an organization that allows its Rabbis to share ideas, pool resources, and work together to advance Conservative Judaism. One area that Rabbi Katz has been active in is the Hillel School, which sponsors people who are considering conversion. He has counseled and sponsored several people who have converted to Judaism.

Rabbi Katz also has authored and produced several brochures for the Rabbinical Assembly. They include "A Guide for Mourners," and "Shabbat," an introduction to the traditional observance of Shabbat.

Highlights of the installation ceremony included a welcoming address by Temple Beth Torah's President Ken Kornhauser. He told the congregation and guests how fortunate the Temple is to have a Rabbi who is such a wonderful teacher, counselor, confident and friend. Kornhauser said, "to know him, is to love him."

Cantor Kalman Fliegelman and Gloria Zimmerman provided musical entertainment for the congregation, and the keynote address was provided by Dr. Barry Holtz, Associate Professor of Jewish Island Center for Conservative Judaism. He said, "Only when we work together, can we accomplish our goals."

Rabbi Katz was raised in Philadelphia. It was through his association with Camp Ramah, the Conservative Jewish camping movement, that he decided to become a Rabbi. During his camping days, Rabbi Katz saw that he wanted to be involved with Jewish education, and he said that "becoming a Rabbi was the most interesting and exciting way to accomplish that goal."

After graduating from Temple University in 1973, Rabbi Katz entered the Jewish Theological Seminary. He spent six years at the Seminary, and after graduation in 1979, came to Temple Beth Torah.

His tenure at Temple Beth Torah has been very productive. The temple has grown in both numbers and activities. Through Rabbi Katz's leadership, more and more families have become involved in Temple life, and a major expansion and renovation of Temple Beth Torah was completed last year.

Education at the Jewish Theological Seminary.

Outgoing Rabbinical Assembly President Charles Klein installed Rabbi Katz as its twentieth President. He told the guests that the installation "represents the culmination of years of hard work on behalf of the organization. Rabbi Katz has taken on the most difficult responsibilities, and his writings have gained the admiration of Rabbis from around the country."

Following his installation Rabbi Katz told the guests that his hopes were for Conservative synagogues to work together and help one another. He also hopes to help establish a Long

Assoc. Flourishing

By Gert Paul

Happily, our Civic Assoc., under the leadership of its new President, John Kuch, continues to be a viable force for the good of our community. New and enthusiastic members have been recruited for the Board, and are making excellent contributions. Our triangles are still in full bloom with gorgeous mums donated by members Donna and Michael Lamberti of the Bayles Garden Center in Port Washington, and they even planted them! The Parks Dept. of the Town of Oyster Bay graciously complied to my request to replace some of the dead shrubs. Everything looks so nice, and we can carry its bright memory through the winter and into the spring when the bulbs come up!

Our association has joined the "Adopt-a-Highway - Adopt-a-Spot" Project and are responsible for Bethpage Road and Bay Avenue (from the railroad to the juncture of the Bethpage Road and Route 107) in Hicksville. A Clean-Up is scheduled for November 7 at 11:30. The Town requires a Safety Representative, and will supply bags which they will pick up. Volunteers please call 931-1740 as soon as possible.

Ellie Draycott continues to keep us informed on anything vital to the well-being of not only our community, but of Hicksville, itself! She should list the Town's Offices in Oyster Bay as her second home.

Teddy Roosevelt's Birthday

At the graveside of President Theodore Roosevelt in Youngs Cemetery, Oyster Bay, during Tuesday's annual pilgrimage to mark the anniversary of the President's birth are (left to right): Oyster Bay Town Councilwoman Mrs. Ann Ocker, Supervisor Lewis Yevoll, Commander Deborah Hirah who placed a wreath in the name of President George Bush, and Town Clerk Carl Marcellino.

A color guard from the U.S. Airforce Reserve stands in front of the grave of President Theodore Roosevelt as third grade children of the Oyster Bay Schools and their teacher sing a salute honoring Sagamore Hill, the President's beloved homestead. Tuesday was the anniversary of Teddy Roosevelt's birth.

Hicksville was well represented at the annual Oyster Bay Town and Dept. of the Interior pilgrimage to the grave of President Theodore Roosevelt on the 134th anniversary of his birth. Standing in warm tribute: U.S. Navy Recruiting Director for N.Y. District Commander Deborah Hirah, who placed the wreath of President Bush and Hicksvillites; Ray Gamble, Chef de Gare of the Nassau Voltire, Forty and Eight; Arlene Howard, Vice Commander, Nassau Co. American Legion, and Richard Evers, Chaplain, Legion Post 421.

Eagle Scouts Inducted

Hicksville's oldest Boy Scout unit, Troop 64, sponsored by St. Stephen's Lutheran Church and the Kiwanis Club has done it again. Friday's Troop Court of Honor inducted two new Eagle Scouts. Dennis Mitchell (left) and Patrick Russell stand proudly with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and Scout Master and Mrs. Jack Russell and Richard Evers (center) who presented the Eagles with Good Citizenship Medals from American Legion Post 421.

Jottings From Yesterday

To some people hard work is next to success, to me it is next to impossible. Doing garage sales around the area, I was surprised to find so many that hadn't known about the L.I. Aviation Field or where it was located, due to new ownership of the homes. So I thought some pictures would help them. In the pictures, the 2 hangers don't show. The water tower in the horizon is at Newbridge Rd. and Stewart Ave., now the area of Holy Trinity School. The Southern border was the Motor Parkway, to the East was Jerusalem Ave. and Newbridge Rd. to the West. The map shows Hempstead Turnpike and the curved road the Motor Parkway.

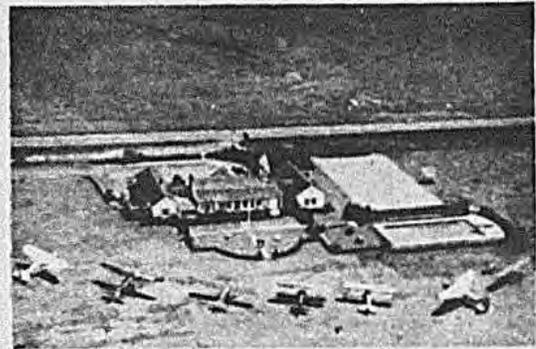

Many well known members and visitors were Lindberg, Doolittle, Earhart, DeSeveraky, Gilmartin, Jr., Fairchild, Guggenheim, and Whitney, for a few names. On May 19, 1938, First Flight Airmail was flown to Floyd Bennett Field. Some weekends you could have a ride on a small blimp. The area now is most Levitt homes. Portions of the club house were moved to several parts of Hicksville.

Airfield pictures were in Life Magazine and National Geographic.

(Like all years then and now, don't forget to VOTE.)

VOTE ROW C

SEND THE MESSAGE... VOTE CONSERVATIVE

CONSIDER THIS: Candidates come and candidates go, and most political parties sway with the latest popularity polls. Only the Conservative Party has been constant for thirty years promoting traditional values. When you vote for the Conservative Party candidates on ROW C, you are sending a strong message that you are fed up with those who bend to the latest media hype and that you insist upon government by principle.

A VOTE ON ROW C SUPPORTS GOVERNMENT BY PRINCIPLE

TAXES AND SPENDING by the national government may give short term relief to some special interest group demand but at the cost of long term economic problems. We don't need any more taxes or more deficit spending. Tax relief now will stimulate the economy and keep us from squandering resources on useless government programs and saddling our children with the debt.

ECONOMIC GROWTH: Government does not produce real wealth and cannot make productive jobs. Its intervention into the market economy can only diminish the wealth that is produced. President Bush's opportunity economy, given a chance by a new Congress, would unleash the entrepreneurial spirit of the American people which will result in prosperity and more jobs for all Americans.

LEADERSHIP requires moral authority. Refusing to wear your country's uniform in time of war might seem clever but is a character flaw that betrays leadership. A leader has to have the character to do what is right whether using the Veto against a popular program or sending young people to war.

EDUCATION: A healthy competition among public, parochial and private schools is more beneficial to education than any government monopoly. Education must not be deterred by 'politically correct' deconstruction or multiculturalism. The Conservative Party believes a VOUCHER system will provide everyone with the choice that will make real reform possible.

TRADITIONAL VALUES are being undermined by cultural politicization. Religious life is being held up to ridicule or depicted as sinister in the movies. Educational officials promote the acceptance of "alternative lifestyles". Vulgar and obscene mouthings in all media poses as common language. The hostility to the normal must be opposed not suffered, villainy is not a victim. We must regain the moral climate that supports traditional values.

CRIME: Punish criminals for the harm they inflict. Proven Murderers and drug King-pins do not warrant the same claim to the sanctity of life as the innocent unborn. Convicted felony murderers should be executed, not as a deterrence, but as Justice warranted by the facts of the case.

Senior Citizens Fall Luncheon

Salvatore Mugavero, Supt. of Hicksville Public Schools, has announced plans to hold the district's first annual Fall Luncheon for senior citizens. The luncheon will be held on Wednesday, November 18, from 2:30 until 4:30 p.m. at Hicksville High School.

Senior Citizens will be treated to a holiday turkey or country ham luncheon served by high school students. Entertainment throughout the afternoon will be provided by a variety of student groups from the fine arts program. High school art students will share their talents for the occasion by creating fall centerpieces. The afternoon promises to be a delightful experience for all.

Reservations are required. Senior Citizens in the community who are interested in attending the luncheon may contact the Public Information Office of Hicksville Public Schools, tel. 733-6589, or any of the four senior citizen community groups to which they belong: Levittown Hall Seniors, Hicksville/Mid-Island VFW Senior Citizen Club, Our Lady of Mercy Seniors, and St. Ignatius Senior Citizen Club. Tickets are $3 each.

PLASTICS RECYCLING

...it's the Law.

It used to be that there were two primary reasons for businesses to recycle... to save money and to save the environment. Now, there's another reason. Recycling is the law in New York State.

Businesses that recycle conserve natural resources, reduce carting fees and, with some recyclables, generate income.

Join the Town of Oyster Bay commercial recycling team.

Our local effort can, and will, have resounding global significance.

William J. O'Donnell

William J. O'Donnell 67, of Harleysville, PA died Wednesday morning at his home. He was the husband of Murial C. (nee Folz) O'Donnell and they had celebrated their 45th Wedding Anniversary in September of this year. He had lived in Harleysville for the last 20 years, and was formerly of Hicksville.

Mr. O'Donnell was born in Brooklyn, a son of the late Edward Francis and Clara (nee Lewis) O'Donnell.

He was a graduate of St. John's University. He was a comptroller for Tele-Dynamics in Fort Washington, PA prior to retirement. Before that, he had been employed by Arma in Garden City. While living in Hicksville, he served a term as President of the Hicksville School Board, and also served as Secretary. He was a former member of the Hicksville PTA. He was an Army veteran of WW II and a member of the Veterans of the Battle of the Bulge Organization. He was an active member of St. Marie Goretti Church, Hatfield, PA.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by three sons and two daughters: William J. O'Donnell, Jr. and his wife, Mary of Louisville, CO; Kevin C. O'Donnell and his wife, Jeanne, Salfordville, PA; Brian K. O'Donnell and his wife Carol of Cold Spring, N.Y.; Katherine C. O'Donnell, Cold Spring, N.Y. and Charlotte T. O'Donnell-Grimes, the wife of Merle Grimes, Parker, CO. Also eight grandchildren and one brother, Edward F. O'Donnell, Deer Park, N.Y.

Mass of Christian Burial will be Saturday, October 24, at 12 Noon in St. Marie Goretti Church, Hatfield, PA. Interment will be in St. John Neumann Cemetery, Warrington, PA (Bucks County). Calling hours at Huff & Lakjer Funeral Home, Derstine and Cannon Aves. Lansdale, PA, will be Friday, 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m., and Saturday, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. Donations may be made to the Heckler Plains Folk Life Society, 474 Main St., Harleysville, PA. 19438.

Hicksville Students Develop Leadership

On October 19, Hicksville High School students from various school clubs and activity groups were treated to a four-hour leadership forum given by Dr. Tim Lautzenheiser of Educational Resources, Douglassville, Pa.

This workshop was an intense, informative and challenging program where students became aware of what motivates their peers as well as themselves. The program heightened student awareness of the need to communicate effectively. The end result is student leaders who are eager to share the responsibility of running their clubs' projects and activities.

The program, sponsored by Nassau BOCES, was brought into the High School through the cooperative efforts of Fine Arts Supervisor, Bruce Houston, and Band Director Coordinator, James McRoy.

Kiwanis Hears Scout Leader

On Oct. 21, Jack Russell, Scoutmaster of Hicksville's Boy Scout Troop 64, addressed the weekly luncheon meeting of the Hicksville Kiwanis Club. The Hicksville Kiwanis Club is a sponsor of Troop 64. Scoutmaster Russell described many of the objectives and activities of his Troop which has now resided in Hicksville for 70 years.

Mr. Russell elaborated that Boy Scout membership starts at age 12 and boys are eligible to remain members through the age of 18. Before becoming Boy Scouts, most become Cub Scouts, which they become eligible to join at age 6.

In addition to being taught such skills as knot tying and first aid, Troop 64 Boy Scouts attend lectures where guest lecturers such as plumbers and electricians teach them some of the elementary knowledge of their trade. Other guest lecturers teach different subjects.

Mr. Russell also described community projects his Scouts get involved in, from Thanksgiving food drives for the under-privileged to programs to get pre-schoolers fingerprinted and photographed as tools to aid in the battle against kidnapping. Activities such as camping out, even during winter's frigid temperatures were also described. The winter trips are appropriately nick-named "igloos." Scoutmaster Russell gave a brief slide show, showing his troop going about the above mentioned activities and thoroughly enjoying themselves.

Scoutmaster Russell proudly announced that two of his Scouts will be elevated to the elite rank of "Eagle Scout" two days hence. Previously, only 40 Troop 64 Boy Scouts achieved this rank in the seventy years of the Troop's existence.

SOMEBODY'S DYING FOR A NEW PAIR OF SNEAKERS.

All over America children are the victims of violent crime. They are being assaulted and even murdered for the sake of anything from a pair of sneakers to some loose change in their pockets.

It's a situation that's only getting worse. Unless you do something to fight back, your child could become one of those victims.

You can make a difference. Start now by calling 1-800-WE-PREVENT and we'll send you information in successful ways to join with others to protect your children from crime in your neighborhood. 1-800-WE-PREVENT.

Ralph J. Marino

Majority Leader of the State Senate

He gives Long Island the power to protect our interests in Albany

Good politics is not just knowing what to do, or even when to do it. It is the art of persuading others to do it with you.

In a state government dominated by Democrats, that is no easy task for a Republican like Ralph Marino.

Years of experience earned Ralph Marino the respect and support of his peers and as Majority Leader of the Senate, he has been in the pivotal position to protect Long Island's interests.

His voice has been loud, it has been strong and it has been heard!

It takes leadership, not just one lonely vote, to get things done in Albany.

As Majority Leader, Ralph Marino has demonstrated time and again that he can build coalitions and gain support from both parties to protect Long Island and your interests. It takes experience, know-how and peer support. A freshman Senator has to first learn the ropes, and pay his dues. It isn't accomplished overnight.

Your worries about taxes and jobs are real. They're now! You cannot afford to wait while a freshman Senator goes to school.

Without Ralph Marino's leadership in the State Senate, Long Island will become anonymous and forgotten.

When Governor Cuomo wanted to reduce aid to Long Island schools by hundreds of millions of dollars, it was Majority Leader Ralph Marino who said "No!"

When Mayor Dinkins wanted to impose a new commuter tax, it was Majority Leader Ralph Marino who said "No!"

Every year, dozens of local concerns are addressed by Albany because Majority Leader Ralph Marino says "Yes!" when our community needs help.

Make no mistake; change has a flip side and it can be expensive - costly in the practical terms that are personally important to you and your family.

Needed now more than ever is the experience and leadership Ralph Marino uniquely gives Nassau and Suffolk Counties in the New York State Legislature.

Vote for Ralph Marino - and vote for yourself and your family.

THE QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Were the debates a crucial part of the campaign?

"THE FOLLOWING POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT IS HALF-BAKED BUT COMPLETELY PAID FOR."

Input Callers Believe Economy Is Most Important Issue

Most callers to Input believe that the economy was the most important issue in the campaign in answer to this question: "What was the single most important issue in the Presidential campaign? Here are some of the answers:

NEED SOLUTIONS

The economy has become a most important issue in the campaign but none of the candidates has really come up with any solution. The fact is that the lower economy is a worldwide situation brought on in a large part by the collapse of the Soviet Union. The solution will have to encompass what to do on a worldwide basis to restore the economy. This would include how we are going to stimulate world trade and what we can do to get many of the emerging world markets. I heard nothing about this from Clinton, who may well be the next President. His answer to most things seemed to be a vague statement of how he would cover domestic issues such as health care, although in that he did not really give us any idea of what kind of plan he has. We know what George Bush can do. And he hasn't done everything right, but he has a good track record on world affairs. It is too bad that the emotionalism of this campaign will bring us further from what is right and a solution to our problems. J.D.

ECONOMY CRUCIAL

Most people believe that the single most important thing at the present time is the economy. It appears to be getting slightly better, but nothing Bush can say at this time will be strong enough to offset the constant drum beating of the media. The economy will do George Bush in. M.G.

LACK OF WILL

While the economy was an important issue in the campaign the will of President Bush to really get out there and work as hard as Bill Clinton was the real factor. Bush just never pushed hard enough and therefore he was edged out from the beginning. I believe that Clinton forces will gain momentum and the issue of Bush and his desire to win will be the single factor that will decide the election. G.F.

WANT A CHANGE

The economy is the key issue. If you do not have a job, are worried about losing one or have big debts you want a change. M.S.

ANTI LIBERAL PROBLEM

The single most important item in the campaign was brought to the floor by the Republican convention. It was the declaration of war on women and on moderates by the far right who have taken over the Republican party. One speaker after the other drove home this crusade and Bush cheered them on. After this tirade we feel only "good old boys" and religious fanatics will be able to vote for Bush. Some lifelong Republicans hope the party loses in a landslide and we will regain the GOP in the near future. B.C.

ABORTION IS ISSUE

I believe the most important issue in this campaign is to address the 4,000 children killed in this country each day. Abortion is the most important issue. We have been through many economic crises with the crash and the depression in 1929, the 30's up to the very moment of the recession we are going through. Every one of these situations have been reversed and will be reversed. America will come back but there is no returning from abortion. As long as America continues to kill its children, America is not going to make it. Bill Clinton is right, America needs a change but we need a change of heart. We have to stop looking at ourselves and look at all people. Bill Clinton says he does not want to waste a single life, yet he is willing to give permission to women to kill their children. B.L.

ATTACK ON EACH OTHER

The single most important issue in the campaign was the attack that the three candidates inflicted on each other. The last debate seemed to be a little bit better. Each candidate brought out their viewpoints on how the candidates would get this country out of the recession. K.F.

ECONOMY PLUS CAMPAIGN

I hate to say it but I believe that character assassination was the most important issue in the Presidential campaign. However, having said that I go along with the cartoon accompanying your "INPUT" heading which emphasized the ECONOMY. As far as I can see, on this particular issue not one of the candidates has advanced a solution to this important and really crucial problem. Needless to say, it can't be cured without penalty to the taxpaying citizens but there are avenues to face up to looking to an ultimate solution - the problem just isn't going to go away. Members of our community constantly in the high income bracket have got to realize that unless the problem is solved or at least alleviated with a definite goal for its ultimate and scheduled final solution; we will quickly lose our position as the number one nation of the world with many of the benefits derived from that important position rapidly being absorbed by other powers. And finally, our Congressional representatives have got to take a more objective and responsible attitude bearing in mind the beneficial results their decisions can have on a real effort to substantially reduce the national debt. P.G.S.

The Gently Cursed

By Paula Freda

With Allhallow's Eve on our heels, here's a tale to share with your loved ones as you sit before the fireplace, while little ghosts and goblins knock at your door....

Harry touched the harp. It was made of white willow, exquisitely crafted and fastidiously handcarved, its corinthian capital combining delicately with the column, whereon a pattern of rosettes and ivy had been carved and gilded to spiral down its length in a loving embrace.

He ran his hand smoothly along the harmonic curve, the body and sound board and the base. He traced his fingertips over the carvings then brushed them across the taut metal strings. Gently he pulled one. A finely-tuned high C pierced the space inside the exhibition hall and several heads turned.

Seeming out of nowhere the curator appeared. Whatever his innermost self was like, his exterior was prim and cold. He exuded efficiency. "Sir, kindly refrain from touching the exhibits," he scolded.

"Sorry," Harry offered, dropping the offending hand to his side. "But it's the most beautiful instrument I've ever laid eyes on."

In the face of such adulation the curator's stern expression softened. "Yes, I agree; among harps it is a gem. It was accidentally discovered buried near the Parthenon in Greece, and its age is as yet undetermined. The Greek inscription carved into its base translates to mean "the love harp."

Harry nodded. "It should be played," he said. "Has anyone tried to?"

A very soft voice from behind him said, "I'm a harpist. Might I play it?"

Harry turned. She was the loveliest girl he had ever seen, a blonde, pale pink angel in a dainty white long-sleeved blouse and straight blue skirt.

A burst of emotion rushed through him. He swallowed and immediately controlled the urge to touch her. "Oh yes, please let her play the harp," he pleaded with the curator.

If he had millions of dollars, Harry thought miserably, at this moment he would give them all to be like other men. He stemmed the anguish that threatened to overwhelm him. He was not like other men. He did not have the right to pursue this girl, or any girl. For when the moon was full, his hair and eyebrows grew woolly and wild, his eyes bulged monstrously, his canine teeth enlarged and his mouth drooled, his fingernails and toenails tripled in size and his hands curled into claws.

Like his father and his father's father before him, Harry Brigget had been born cursed. Somewhere, sometime, one of his ancestors had been bitten by a werewolf.

"I'm not sure if I should let you," the curator addressed the girl. "But perhaps if you are a harpist as you say," he relented, clearly persuaded by her dainty fragile smile.

She requested a chair and the curator went immediately to get one. Harry could not keep from introducing himself.

The girl reciprocated. "My name is Danielle Louv-" Harry could feel himself floating in the soft, mellow hazel of her eyes.

The curator returned with a small wooden bench. Danielle sat, and gently pulling the harp back to rest on her shoulder and the inner side of her knees, positioned her slim fingers on the strings, then proceeded to pluck at them, producing a scale. "It plays beautifully," she remarked.

She began to play in earnest, softly at first, then increasing the tempo, spiraling it into a crescendo of vibrant titillating intensity. Visitors gathered about the exhibit, emotion showing on their faces. One or two dabbed at their eyes while the curator stood enthralled. Harry felt giddy and weightless, certain that any second he would leave the ground and tumble into the space above him.

He could not identify the music, Rachmaninov perhaps. But when she had finished playing, he could not hold himself from clapping furiously and crying, "Beautiful, beautiful! Brava! Brava! Bravissimo!"

He knelt at her feet. Gazing up into that angelic face he was glad that he was tall and broad-shouldered and not unpleasant to look at, a marketing executive who dressed the part. He had a degree of charm but he guarded it well, having spent years searching in vain for a cure to his affliction.

For several years Harry had rented a small cabin in a wooded area that people avoided because of the prevalence of wolves. The cabin had proved a practical solution to his problem. To the few strangers who wandered into his part of the woods, the pinewood cabin with its brick chimney appeared normal enough. The sheet metal with which Harry had lined the interior, the grille with its combination lock on the inside of the door, the chains, the iron bars on the glassless windows - bars hidden well by the dark wood shutters - were all invisible to the occasional passerby. On those nights when the moon was full, the howling of the wolves in the area mixed well with his and no one grew the wiser.

How dare he associate with this lovely angelic creature smiling down at him? Yet he could tell by that very smile and the soft response in her eyes that he had made a conquest.

She was so lovely. There was an essence of purity, an aura of innocence, one might almost say a saintly halo, surrounding her and the harp. He was sure that if he did not remove himself immediately from her presence, he would fall deeply and irrevocably in love with her, if he had not already.

Oh, fortunate the man worthy of her favors. But not for Harry Brigget, not for his cursed soul the dulcet nectar of that delicately sensual mouth. Not for him the feel of her honeyed breath against his cheek. Not for him to touch that pale pink skin.

He climbed to his feet. "Goodbye," he whispered and turning on his heel, quickly strode out of the room.

He could not forget her, especially here, alone in his cabin in the woods. A month had passed since he had beheld her face and read the promise of warm welcome in her eyes. Tonight there would be a full moon and the rabid creature lying dormant inside him these past four weeks would wake painfully and traumatize and steal his body.

Harry rose from his easy chair. Methodically he proceeded to disconnect the electrical appliances in the cabin and to lock up all breakable items in the closet near the fireplace. Going to the door he gave the combination lock on the grille two full spins. The monster sleeping within him would not remember the combination.

Taking off his shoes and socks, he was about to chain his ankles and wrists and hide the key when a tapping sounded at the door.

He listened quietly, not intending to answer. Behind the door a soft voice spoke his name. He would know that voice anywhere. "Danielle!" he cried. What was she doing here!

He would open the door, glimpse her beauty once more for one instant, then tell her to leave immediately. He dare not ask her into his cabin, and he would have liked to, Danielle of the angelic face, Danielle who he had already accepted into his heart and into his dreams, Danielle who in those dreams he'd held gently countless times.

Swiftly he worked the combination lock and opened first the grille and then the door. The words to send Danielle speedily on her way had already begun to form on his lips when the light from the moon risen high in the sky hit him squarely in the face. He screamed as pain tore through him, a rapier piercing his very soul. His last intelligible thoughts were of Danielle, so lovely, so delicate, so utterly doomed.

Harry woke as from a pleasant dream. The shutters on the barred windows were open, and cool autumn breezes continued to billow the curtains apart. Lazily, as though he had slept comfortably in front of the fireplace all night, he sat up. The memory of the girl standing in front of him as he metamorphosed into the wild, demented animal that was his monthly lot filled his mind's eye. "My God!" he wailed, looking frantically about him.

The furniture had not been disturbed. The door and the grille were locked and everything seemed in order. He might have wondered longer about the undisturbed state of his cabin, but foremost in his mind was the thought of Danielle. Where had he left her body, no doubt torn and mutilated? Oh, but this time he had destroyed himself as well! How could he possibly go on living after he had killed what he loved the most in this life. He must find her and bury her; beg forgiveness of her spirit and then offer reparation by surrendering himself to the authorities.

He rose intent on actualizing his thoughts when sounds in the kitchen as of pots and dishes being handled stopped him. He listened as a sizzling sound was joined by the smell of bacon and eggs.

He ran into the kitchen. In shirt and jeans and a pink plastic apron, Danielle was busy preparing breakfast.

"You're all right! I didn't hurt you," Harry cried, practically leaping for joy. He paused in confusion. "But didn't I turn into-"

Her face as she turned was utterly radiant. "Good morning, Harry," she greeted him in a lilting tone. She waited for him to return her greeting but when Harry remained staring, mouth open and jaw hanging, she added, "I won't ask if you slept well because I know you did."

She put the fork down and turned off the heat under the pan. Closing the distance between Harry and herself she answered belatedly, "No, you didn't harm me, and yes, you did turn into a werewolf."

Her next words were whispered shyly, her cheeks coloring prettily. "You were marvelous, Harry." She lowered her gaze demurely. "I knew what you were when I came here last night," she said, looking up into his face. Her hazel eyes sparkled and her pink mouth parted softly and trembled. She seemed to throb with newly awakened sexuality. Overnight she had blossomed into a seductive woman.

She explained, "The moment you knelt at my feet, I knew what you were. I don't know how. Perhaps our kind shares an intuitive link.

Wine Talk

By Richard Nalley

"The intense fruit flavor is just filling the winery," says John Trefethen, of Napa Valley's Trefethen Vineyards. "When you walk into the winery this marvelous smell of fermenting Chardonnay just engulfs you."

This is the part of the wine harvest most of us imagine: The pickers with their brimful buckets, the crisp fall air, the perfume of crushed grapes in the hopper. For the winery itself, of course, the harvest is also a month-and-a-half long heart-tug of anticipation, anxiety and relief.

By most accounts California's grape harvest this fall has been happily problem free, almost serene, if that word can be applied to a scene of so much activity. After sometimes difficult harvests in rainy 1989 and chilly 1991, 1992 is a year to breathe a sigh of relief.

With most of the grapes off the vines and the vintners so upbeat, it is worth noting what a "bad vintage" can mean: Not just questions about when to pick a wet or irregularly ripening crop, not just a whole set of winemaking problems in the cellar, but marketing difficulties down the road, especially for fine wines, as consumers are reluctant to buy the "off" vintage.

Never mind that there are some gorgeous California wines from 1989, and wonderful early-maturing Bordeaux from 1987. Assessments made of a difficult harvest in October can dog a vintage for years. All that, of course, means that wineries don't exactly advertise bad news at harvest time.

Fortunately, there doesn't seem to be much in 1992. After five years of drought most vineyards in the state got some winter rain, some spring rain, and — less welcome — some summer rain. Up north in June and in the south in July, the rain caused mildew problems, but most growers were able to arrest it successfully.

The summer was notable for being even and moderate. With bud break slightly early in the spring, the harvest began somewhat early in most areas, around August 20th for still wines and mid-August for sparkling wine grapes, which are picked earlier to preserve acidity.

Though there were unusual reports of mid-season red grapes in some areas being picked before some early season whites, the harvest has not been rushed, an important factor for wineries with limited fermentation capacity.

"It's a very orderly harvest," says John Buechsenstein, winemaker at Mendocino County's McDowell Valley Vineyards. "It's like we told the grapes to take a number, and there they are, ripe when we're ready for 'em. It's just that some of the grapes are in a different place in line."

If Your Restaurant is First Rate, We have a message for you.

Each week Litmor Newspapers presents a select dining guide called Reader Ratings to its readers. The guide presents the messages of outstanding restaurants in this area and it also is a forum for readers to tell other readers about why they like certain restaurants.

Reader Ratings, although it is read by up to 100,000 readers is an inexpensive way to meet the public and have the public meet you. Throughout many years, Reader Ratings has helped build loyal followings for some of the best restaurants in the area.

If your restaurant qualifies as a leader in the area we want to talk to you about being included in our guide. The cost is nominal and the results can be great.

Rely on low-fat cottage cheese, smoothed in a blender, or unflavored low-fat yogurt as the base for salad dressings and dips that normally call for fat-rich sour cream or mayonnaise. Select more whole grains, fresh vegetables and fruits and fewer refined starches, fatty chips and gooey desserts.

Have The Last Word

This newspaper, and the seven other weekly newspapers associated with it, publishes the last word in restaurant guides and a paid listing of many prominent selected restaurants in this area. While many of them have been rated by the great, and near great food connoisseurs, our readers will have the last word through "Reader Ratings."

Through a special 24 hour phone system, readers will be asked to call in their assessment of each restaurant they visit. Consensus ratings (good or bad) will be published as a continuing part of the guide.

In addition they can make suggestions, compliments or criticisms through the open phone line and messages will be sent through to the restaurant management.

READER RATINGS

Most people think they can't handle a crowd in their home, so they don't. One hears more excuses and sees fewer parties. "I don't have enough glasses" - "What will we do if it rains?" - "I can't imagine what we'd feed a whole gang of people when I have a hard enough time feeding my family" - "We don't have enough room for people's coats" - "I have no imagination about flowers and decor and can't afford a floral designer."

The reasons against giving a party can go on for pages. The reasons for giving a party may be few, but they're powerful. For example, you give a party to:

- Pay people back who have invited you.
- Give your friends enormous pleasure.
- Solidify the relationship with new friends and contacts.
- Make yourself feel very good because of the happiness you're giving others.
- In a more self-serving vein, you also:
  - Raise yourself up a few notches in the social scale.
  - Become more visible in your community.
  - Grow in social ease through experience.

The key to any successful large-party (50 or more) is organization and preplanning.

- Make a list of every single item that has to be ordered and purchased, picked up, prepared or worked on. Check off each item day by day as you accomplish that task.

- Invite a good mix of people - a variety of ages and professions. People love meeting potential new friends.
- Have everything done that can be done by the night before the party so that all you will have to do is recheck and put the finishing touches on your party on the actual evening of the event. For example:
  - Have the house cleaned.
  - Have the flowers arranged.
  - Set the table(s).
  - If parking is going to be a problem, have valets on hand.
  - If your party will be out of doors, think rain. Where can you move it to if it rains? Some of the best parties I ever attended were moved because of rain into people's garages or barns.
  - If you have a large group coming, rent coat racks from the caterer or party rental store. If you have a small group coming, you can always put coats on beds - or hang them on hangers on the shower curtain racks.
  - If you're hopeless, like I am, at arranging flowers, ask a friend who's a whiz at it to help you out. He or she will be complimented.

Home entertaining

By Carol Cutler

Talk can be entertaining

Sociologists, social arbiters and grammarians all lament the decline in the art of conversation. People speak in shorthand, and it's up to the listener to fill in the missing syllables. Umpire is ump, and referee is ref. Worse yet, grunts are supposed to be verbal replies.

Today's fast-paced lifestyle is partly to blame. So is television. You can't watch the tube and carry on a dialogue at the same time.

Furthermore, families today are pulled in many directions. George goes off bowling, while Sissy is taking an aerobics class and Marian is off with her reading group. Dinners together are fast fading into quaint old-fashioned memories.

Talk time is critically important in getting along well together. People who discuss their problems, or differing points of view, rarely allow small misunderstandings to balloon into heated hot air.

When we invite people into our homes, we put aside many hours to spend with them, which means entertaining them and conversing. We should also consider being kinder to ourselves and those close to us.

Husband and wife, especially, lack uninterrupted time together. Too often they are just too tired to even want to think, let alone talk. If that is the case around your house, make it a point to schedule some chitchat time. You'll be surprised how many nice things there are to discuss, not just problems.

Remember in the middle ages when no one had a dishwasher? After dinner members of the family took turns at KP duty. One washed, one dried and maybe still another put everything away. Then came the efficient, noisy dishwasher, and with it, an end to that enforced conversational period.

Washing and drying dishes is a mechanical procedure that requires little concentration. That leaves one free to turn thoughts to all sorts of subjects. It's the perfect time to indulge ourselves in some constructive talk time - big, little, serious or frivolous.

On the rare occasion when you can gather the family together for the evening meal, try to keep a lively and pleasant conversation going during dinner. Then send the children off to bed, to prepare homework, or just to read some worthwhile book. Notice that television is not suggested. Young ones don't need encouragement for that listless pastime.

Then the parents leisurely wind down the evening in the kitchen. The dishwasher is ignored and the dish mop and towel are brought out of the deeper corners of the cabinet.

You will both be surprised how rewarding uninterrupted time to talk can be. You might even find children wanting to participate in this Victorian pursuit. Encourage them.

In fact, why not invite the family to participate in a joint cooking session some rainy weekend day. A single cook who happens to be very fast and nimble could produce these delicious morsels alone. Helping hands make a neater and faster job of it.

Assign one or two helpmates to roll the dough into balls. Someone else to dip the balls into ice water. They are then passed on to the keeper of the sesame seeds, and finally to the baker. Happy together-ness.

SESAME SEED COOKIES

- 5 tablespoons butter, softened
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 cup flour
- Pinch of salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 cup sesame seeds
- 1 cup ice water

Yields 3 dozen 1-inch cookies. Cream butter and sugar together very well until mixture is light and fluffy. Add egg, vanilla and nutmeg, mix well.

Sift flour, salt and baking powder together and gradually work dry ingredients into butter and sugar. When flour has been worked in, knead dough for a few minutes until it forms a smooth ball. If dough seems too stiff, add few drops of water; if it feels too soft, add a tablespoon of flour. Chill for at least 1/2 hour.

Preheat oven to 325 F. Put ice water in small bowl, and some sesame seeds in shallow saucer. (It is best not to put all the seeds into saucer; as water moistens them, they will clump together.) With teaspoon, take small piece of dough and roll into small, smooth ball between your palms.

Hold ball on fork and dip into water for a few seconds; lift out and hold for a second to let excess water drip off.

Immediately drop cookie into saucer of sesame seeds. Use another fork to roll dough ball around in seeds. Transfer cookie to a non-stick or lightly greased baking sheet. Add more seeds to saucer as needed.

Bake 25 to 30 minutes, or until cookie is firm and seeds have turned a nice golden brown.

SPECIAL TOASTS

A toast becomes more special when you mention a specific reason, such as when you are:

- Sending someone hopes for success.
- Congratulating someone.
- Showing gratitude.
- Greeting a foreign guest.

A guest of honor would also raise a toast to his or her host to say thanks for the meal or party.

POINTS OF ETIQUETTE

• When you're the one being toasted, don't drink to yourself. In other words, when the others drink to you, sit smiling appreciatively and keep your glass on the table.

• Never give a toast that lasts longer than four or five minutes. The best toasts last no longer than three.

• Many hosts, particularly those of Scandinavian origin, toast their guests the minute everyone sits down at the table. It is a very nice custom. The host says something as simple as this: "Welcome to our house and to our table." Then he or she urges everyone to eat and have a good time.

SHORT TOASTS

When the drinks you have ordered in a restaurant or a bar have been served (sodas and bottled water included), as host you simply raise your glass to the person (or people) with you and say, "Here's to you," "Cheers," "All the best!" or to mention a few toasts in other languages: French, "A votre sante"; Italian, "Cin-Cin"; Spanish, "Salud"; Scandinavian, "Skal"; Japanese, "Kanpai."

Then raise your glass and take a small sip; the other people with you will repeat your toast to you and then take a sip themselves.

Yes, it may be a party, which calls for special fare, but that's exactly the time to expand on those heart-healthy food choices from the everyday routine. The people who share your party table deserve that extra consideration.

LIME MARINADE

- 1 tablespoon grated lime peel
- 1/2 cup lime juice
- 2 tablespoons olive or salad oil
- 1/2 to 1 teaspoon salt (to taste)
- 1/4 teaspoon cracked black pepper

GREEN ONION-SOY MARINADE

- 1/2 cup thinly sliced green onions
- 1/2 cup reduced-salt soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons dry sherry
- 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- 2 cloves garlic, finely minced

Each recipe yields about 1/2 cup. For either marinade, mix ingredients together. Each recipe will marinate 2 pounds of fish steaks. Marinate fish at least 2 hours in refrigerator, turning pieces over occasionally to coat evenly.

Leftover marinade may be used as a baste during grilling.

Ground turkey goes microwave

It used to be that turkey showed up on our dinner tables only during the holiday season. But there has been a real revolution in our turkey market, and American consumption of the big bird has more than doubled in the past decade (the average American now eats more than 16 pounds in a year). Nowadays, turkey is regularly consumed in about half of all American households.

Health experts advise us to include more turkey in our diets, especially when it's used to replace red meat.

An average-size broiled lean hamburger patty (about 3 ounces) has about 250 calories, 10 grams of fat and 86 milligrams of cholesterol. About half of the fat is saturated — the kind that's bad for your heart.

However, the same size patty of broiled ground turkey meat (with from 5 percent to 15 percent fat content) will have approximately 195 calories, 11.7 grams of fat and only 58 milligrams of cholesterol. And only about 3 of the grams of fat are saturated.

Ounce for ounce, turkey is higher in food value and lower in fat than red meats.

Ground turkey used to be available only in frozen form, but freshly ground turkey is now easy to find in most of the larger markets, and it's so versatile. Use as a substitute almost anywhere you'd use ground beef: in meatloaf, burgers, sloppy Joes, tacos, casseroles and sauces.

Because ground turkey is more bland in flavor than beef, you might experiment dressing it up with herbs and seasonings. Or, to lighten up lean ground beef, try mixing with ground turkey to bring down the fat and cholesterol.

As always, shop wisely. When you buy prepackaged ground turkey, it's likely to contain the skin and fat ground in with the meat. Ground turkey with the skin contains about as much fat as ground beef. To get really lean ground turkey, ask your butcher to grind skinless turkey breast for you.

Microwaved ground turkey will appear white. For color appeal, use a browning agent.

To make easy turkey appetizer meatballs, in a mixing bowl combine 1 pound ground raw turkey, ½ cup Italian seasoned bread crumbs, 2 lightly beaten eggs, ¼ cup finely chopped onion, 2 teaspoons dry basil, and ¼ teaspoon each ground oregano, salt and pepper. Mix well and shape into 2 dozen meatballs.

Microwave, a dozen at a time, in a 9-inch round glass pie plate for 5 minutes at HIGH (100 percent power) setting. Turn after 3 minutes. Spear with toothpicks and serve with marinara sauce, if desired. Yields 2 dozen appetizers.

Following are some more ideas for microwaving delicious and healthy dishes with ground turkey.

Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.

MICRO-TIP OF THE WEEK

Crumble ground turkey into a microwave-safe casserole and stir halfway through cooking time to break up the chunks. Microwave at HIGH (100 percent power setting) 4 to 5 minutes per pound, or until meat is no longer pink. Sprinkle with browning agent, if desired.

TURKEY-STUFFED BELL PEPPERS

- 1 pound ground raw turkey
- ¼ cup instant rice
- ¼ cup grated raw carrot
- ¼ cup minced onion
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon chicken bouillon granules
- 1 teaspoon warm water
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 (12-ounce) can tomato sauce
- 4 small bell peppers
- ½ cup shredded mild Cheddar cheese (optional).

Yields: 4 servings.

Preparation time: 15 minutes.

Cooking time: 8 to 12 minutes.

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

In medium mixing bowl combine turkey, rice, carrot, onion, parsley and garlic. Dissolve chicken bouillon in warm water; add to turkey mixture with pepper and 1 cup of the tomato sauce. Mix well and set aside.

Wash peppers. Cut off and remove stems, then remove seeds and membranes. Spoon turkey mixture into peppers. Arrange in an 8-inch microwave-safe pie plate. Cover with vented plastic wrap and microwave 7 to 10 minutes, or until peppers are soft and rice is tender. Rotate dish twice during cooking time.

Spoon remaining tomato sauce over peppers. Add shredded cheese, if desired. Microwave, uncovered, 1 to 2 minutes longer. Let peppers stand, covered, 3 minutes before serving.

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Dr. Abraham: It is hard for me to lose weight living with my parents. I am a 15-year-old girl, and I know I am way too fat. I also know that I don't have much willpower.

I have gone on a lot of diets and exercise programs, but I always slip off both of them. So even though I lose weight, it always comes back in spades after a short time.

I really have two problems — my own lack of control and my parents' terrible eating habits and the food they keep in our house. All their sweet, rich, fatty stuff tempts me, and when it's there I eat it.

I'm really in trouble, and I need help. — Too Fat

Too Fat: You may have identified your problem very well. The combination of lack of willpower and the model and environment your parents provide can be disastrous in a weight-loss effort.

Your short-term losses seem to show that a diet/exercise program can be effective. However, for long-term results you apparently need a sound program that is monitored to keep you on target.

Please talk it over with your school counselor, who can perhaps steer you in the right direction for that kind of help. It may be available among the professionals on your school's staff, or specialists to whom they can refer you.

Your recognition of your problem together with your brief successes could indicate that you may be on the way to greater successes. If your parents cooperate by limiting their diet and add an exercise plan of their own, that might help make your battle less difficult.

Dr. Abraham: I want to run for one of our school offices, but that means there will be a campaign for me to enter, and I worry about that. My hands get clammy, my face feels red and I get flustered even thinking about getting up and giving talks.

I think I have a lot to offer if I do run, but even the whole idea is so scary for me.

My friends all say, "Go for it," and they offer to help me get elected. I don't like to let them down, but honestly, I'm afraid to take the first step.

My parents are both in favor of my "going for it." Whatever you tell me will help me decide what I should do. — Uncertain

Uncertain: The fear you have of getting up in front of a small or large group may be more common than you think. Even some of the most experienced lecturers and theatrical people talk about the "stage fright" they encounter until they get into their presentations.

Being prepared based on the goal you have in mind is an important step in getting started.

It may help you get over this hurdle if you share your concern with one or more teachers in the areas of speech, theater or related fields. You may even want to consider taking a class in one of those areas, or request the chance to sit in and perhaps participate in segments of it that could help you.

You said you don't want to let your friends down. Think at least a little bit about how you might be letting yourself down if you don't take the move into an activity that you are obviously tempted to work toward.

Dr. Abraham: My kid brother and I have always had a pretty good relationship, but now I'm beginning to wonder about it. I'm 16, and he's 10 years old, so maybe that gives you the big picture.

The problem now relates to my getting a lot of studying done in my room when it is quiet before my folks get home from work. Till recently my brother let me alone, but that now seems to be over.

Every day he comes into my room without knocking and at any time. It breaks my train of thought, and my homework starts to get messed up.

It's bad enough already, but I think it will get worse if I don't put a stop to it.

What should I do about it? — Fed Up

Fed Up: He seems to have a need for your companionship as many younger siblings do.

If you can manage to spend a few minutes with him, either before or after your studies are out of the way, that may satisfy him. You decide how many minutes you can spare and when they should be. This arrangement can work only if he agrees to not interrupt you the rest of the time.

Two additional possibilities might be considered: placing a sign you create on the outside of your door that says something like: "Quiet, busy studying, no interruptions" or promising him that you won't interfere with his studying or reading, either. Of course, it may never have occurred to him that you would, but it might give him a sense of maturity.

Dr. Abraham: It is obvious to me, and always has been, which kid in my family is the favorite of my parents. It's my big sister. She's 15, and I'm a 13-year-old boy.

I'm as smart as she is, honest I am. As good to look at, too. I sometimes even do better in school than she does.

I help around the house more than she does and try to satisfy them by offering to go to the store and do other things.

They still smile at her more and rave about her to their friends. It makes me sick. — Not Favorite

Not Favorite: I certainly understand how you feel. Your attitude is often shared by other kids who are the younger ones in a family. Occasionally, it may be the older ones who resent what they feel is unfair treatment on the part of their parents.

The ultimate chocolate chip cookie

By Charlyn Fargo

To a confirmed chocoholic, there can be nothing to equal a soft, still-warm-from-the-oven chocolate chip cookie. Not ice cream, not cherry pie, not even the touted better-than-sex cake.

The chocolate chip cookie can be the perfect offering to a cranky child, the supreme appeasement for a lovers' quarrel, the ideal gift to a special friend or the ultimate bedtime snack.

The latter struck the fancy of Chester Soling, owner of The Orchards, an inn in western Massachusetts. Gwen Steege writes in her book "The Search for the Perfect Chocolate Chip Cookie" (Storrey), that Soling offered guests fresh-baked chocolate chip cookies and cold milk by their beds every night.

In early 1987, he decided to sponsor a nationwide contest to find the very best chocolate chip cookie. Some 2,600 recipes later, a winner was picked, and Steege's book resulted. The grand-prize winner was a moist, double-chocolate cookie from the Junior League of Las Vegas.

If there's a standard for chocolate chip cookies, it's the tollhouse recipe on the back of packages of Nestle chocolate morsels.

The legendary tollhouse cookie got its name from a lovely old tollhouse on the outskirts of Whitman, Mass., according to Dick Curd of Nestle Foods. Built in 1709 at the halfway point between Boston and New Bedford, it became a haven where weary travelers stopped for food, drink and rest while they waited for a change of horses.

The tollhouse was purchased by Ken and Ruth Wakefield in 1930. Stagecoaches stopped at the Wakefield's restaurant to pay toll at the gates.

Fame came to the inn with Ruth's invention of a brand-new kind of cookie. Having run out of nuts for a favorite Colonial butter cookie recipe called "Butter Drop-Dos," Ruth substituted broken bits of a Nestle semisweet chocolate bar, expecting them to swirl into the dough as they baked and melted. But though they melted somewhat, they still were definitely little chunks of soft chocolate, and her new "Chocolate Crispies," as she called them, quickly became a favorite with customers.

After the recipe was published in a Boston newspaper, the cookie so caught on with New Englanders that increased sales of Nestle's semisweet chocolate bars in the Boston area caused Nestle officials to investigate.

To make it easier to use their chocolate in the new recipe, Nestle scored the bars so they would break readily and even invented and marketed a special chopper for cutting the chocolate up, writes Steege.

In 1939, Nestle began making chocolate in morsel form, bought the tollhouse name from Wakefield's a year later and began printing the original recipe on the back wrapper of the package.

It's still a good recipe, but passionate chocolate chip cookie lovers have altered it slightly.

Laurie Klein, who manages the chocolate creative kitchens for Nestle, says the company stands by its original tollhouse recipe, one thing that's not likely to ever change.

The recipe on the back of the wrapper has only been changed once — a half-teaspoon of water has been deleted. "It was in Mrs. Wakefield's original recipe, but we found it makes no difference whether the water is added or not."

For those who like oatmeal in their cookies, Klein recommends adding only 1 cup to the tollhouse recipe. Keep the amount of flour the same, she says.

Nestle recommends only using butter — not margarine — in cookies.

"Light or tub margarine has a lot of air whipped in that makes a difference," says Klein. "The same with Crisco. For that traditional tollhouse buttery, melt-in-your-mouth flavor, it takes butter."

It isn't necessary to take the butter out of the refrigerator in the morning and wait until afternoon to get it soft enough to bake cookies. A better method is to microwave the stick for 10 seconds — just so you can squeeze it in the middle and it will still hold its shape. Melted butter is a big no-no.

The butter and sugars should be creamed for two minutes. After five minutes, the shortening tends to warm up too much, says Klein.

Large eggs should be used right out of the refrigerator.

And then there's the matter of the proper cookie sheet. Nestle recommends the old, heavy-gauge cookie sheets.

"The darker the surface, the hotter the cookie will bake, causing it to thin and flatten," says Klein.

She also offered some tips for common chocolate chip cookie ailments:

properly. Spoon flour into a dry measuring cup and level with the straight edge of a knife or spatula. Check the cookies a few minutes before the end of the baking time so they do not overbake.

• Cookies bump into each other during baking: The cookies are too large or are not spaced far enough apart on the baking sheet. It is also possible that the dough is too thin, either from using too little flour or too much liquid.

• Cookies are too brown: If only the bottoms are brown, chances are the baking sheet was too close to the bottom of the oven. If they are entirely overbrowned, either the oven is too hot, the cookies are smaller than the recipe specifies or the baking sheet is touching the sides of the oven.

• Cookies stick to the baking sheet: Either the baking sheets were not sufficiently greased or certain ingredients adhered to the sheets. Remove the cookies from the baking sheet almost immediately.

ORIGINAL NESTLE TOLLHOUSE CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

2½ cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup butter
¾ cup granulated sugar
¾ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 eggs

12 ounces (2 cups) Nestle Toll House semisweet chocolate morsels

1 cup chopped nuts
Yields 5 dozen.

In small bowl, combine flour, baking soda and salt; set aside. In large bowl, combine butter, sugar, brown sugar and vanilla extract; beat until creamy. Beat in eggs. Gradually add flour mixture. Stir in chocolate morsels and nuts.

Drop by level measuring tablespoonfuls onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 375 F for 9 to 11 minutes.

DOUBLE CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES (From the Junior League of Las Vegas)

1¼ cups flour
¼ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup butter or margarine, softened
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed

1 egg
½ cup unsweetened cocoa
2 tablespoons milk
1 cup chopped pecans or walnuts
6 ounces (1 cup) semisweet chocolate chips
Yields 3 dozen.

Combine flour and baking soda and set aside.

Use an electric mixer to cream butter. Add vanilla and sugars, and beat until fluffy. Beat in egg. At low speed, beat in cocoa, then milk. With wooden spoon, mix in dry ingredients just until well-blended. Stir in nuts and chocolate chips.

Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto non-stick or foil-lined baking sheets. Bake at 350 F for 12 to 13 minutes. Remove from oven and cool slightly before removing from baking sheets.

JOYOUS CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

3 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
¼ cup shortening
½ cup granulated sugar
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 eggs
1 tablespoon milk
3 tablespoons dark corn syrup
12 ounces (2 cups) semisweet chocolate chips or one 12-ounce bar, cut in pieces
½ cup pecans, broken
Yields 4 dozen.

Sift together flour, baking soda and salt, and set aside.

Cream butter and shortening together. Gradually add sugars and cream thoroughly. Mix together vanilla, eggs, milk and corn syrup and add to creamed mixture, beating until blended. Gradually add dry ingredients, mixing well. Add chocolate chips and nuts.

Form into small balls or use a small scoop to drop onto greased baking sheets. Bake at 350 F for 7 to 10 minutes, depending on size of cookies. Cookies are done when golden brown with slightly darker edges. When touched with a fingertip, a slight dimple should remain though cookie does not collapse.

GOOD 4-U CHOCOLATE CHIP COOKIES

1¼ cups brown sugar, firmly packed
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups uncooked oats
¾ cup oil, preferably canola

1 teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped nuts
2 cups flour
¾ cup water
2 cups chocolate chips
Yields 4 dozen.

Mix together brown sugar, eggs, vanilla, oats, oil, baking soda and salt, beating until well-blended. Gradually add nuts, flour, water and chocolate chips.

Drop on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 F for 8 to 12 minutes. Do not overbake. Let stand 4 minutes. Remove from sheet.

FAVORITE OATMEAL COOKIES WITH CHOCOLATE CHIPS

¾ cup shortening
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 egg
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups uncooked oats
1 cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
2 cups chocolate chips
Yields about 5 dozen.

Preheat oven to 350 F. Beat together shortening, sugar, egg, water and vanilla until creamy. Add combined remaining ingredients and mix well.

Drop by rounded teaspoons onto greased cookie sheet. Bake at for 12 to 15 minutes.

Protecting plants from fall frost

Q. How do you protect plants against the first fall frost?

A. I use a thermo cover, an easy-to-tend product that's more like a fabric that brings a nursery-like atmosphere to the garden. It keeps crops and flowers warm during light frost and cool nights. Easy to use, it installs in minutes.

Although this cover does provide frost protection in light frosts, it is not foolproof, so play it by ear! Listen to the weather station.

Just be sure that whatever covering you use is fastened properly around the plants to keep out the cold night air. Remove the covering in the morning as soon as the temperature rises above 50 F. If frost is forecast, back goes the cover to protect the plants in the evening.

Tomatoes aren't the only vegetable to consider covering. Watch the other tender varieties, too, such as zucchini and cantaloupes, etc. It's really worthwhile to cover these and other frost-susceptible plants in your garden. You'll probably be harvesting delicious produce for another week or two instead of pulling up plants ruined by the first nip of frost!

Although vegetables come to mind first (after all, we all love to eat!), don't forget to protect tender flowers and plants, too. Have you some fabulous dahlias just approaching their full beauty? Don't let the first frost be a killjoy!

Cover the dahlias the same way you would tomatoes. Marigolds, zinnias and other flowers can also be saved for fall enjoyment by covering them for a night or two when the mercury first dips.

When a forecast of prolonged freezing weather threatens to end your gardening season, the best thing to do is pick as many flowers and vegetables as you can for enjoyment.

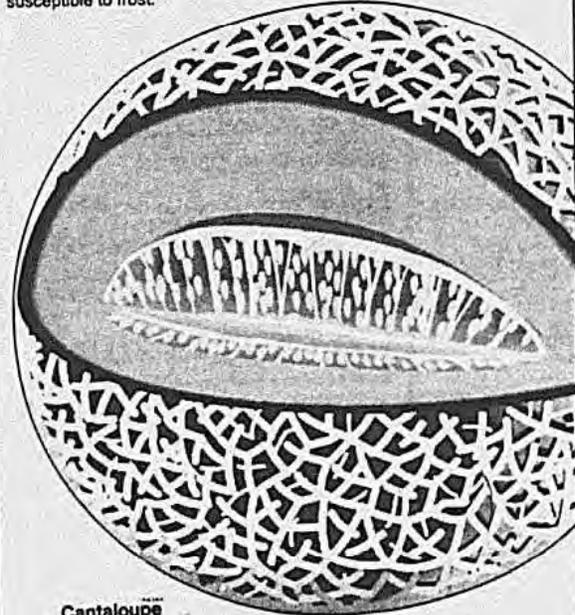

Gather large green tomatoes and spread them out indoors in a single layer in a box or basket in an airy place (temperature range 55 F to 60 F).

Garden Talk

GARDEN TIPS

Fall frost

- Protect crops and flowers from early frost with a thermal cover.
- Be sure the cover is fastened properly to protect plants from cool night air.
- Remove covering in the morning when temperatures reach 50°F.
- If prolonged freezing weather is forecast, pick as many vegetables and flowers as possible before the frost hits.
- In addition to tomatoes, zucchini and cantaloupes are susceptible to frost.

Our Children

By Willard Abraham, Ph.D.

Smart moves take advance planning

Q. Our children, two little girls 5 and 7 years old, are part of a family that will move to a new home 1,500 miles from where we now live. They have lived in this house since they were born, with the same friends and neighbors, so this experience may be difficult for them (and for us parents, too, of course).

We want to do our best to avoid or at least limit any possible problems. Can you give us some help? We aren't moving for three months, so we are in no hurry for whatever suggestions you can share with us, and we will appreciate receiving them. Thank you deeply.

A. It may seem early to start planning with your youngsters, but looking ahead is often the best way to prepare for a change like this.

One product I came across recently is a video called "Let's Get a Move On! (A Kid's Video Guide to a Family Move)", which was prepared for children 4 to 12 and their parents.

It includes suggestions relating to three steps, "Breaking the News," "Planning and Packing" and "Settling In," with open parent/child communication and activities in which all family members participate. Many of the details included are aimed at removing possible anxieties and frustration and replacing them with anticipation and even excitement over the coming event.

The video may be found locally or from the Ryder organization at 3600 N.W. 82nd Ave., Miami, FL 33166. I hope you have a good time in planning and making your move. It really can be done so that the family will enjoy the move itself and even the later adjustments.

Dear Parents: Some pretty surprising facts and figures of kids' summer spending habits recently came to my attention. They were provided by Dr. James McNeal, a marketing professor at Texas A&M University. McNeal has been tracking the spending, saving and income practices of 4- to 12-year-olds for 25 years.

Here are some of his findings, based on estimates:

- During summer, children in that age group spend more than $2 billion of their own money, plus being involved in how their parents spend another $33 billion.
- Their own expenditures convert to about $175 million a week, compared with $120 million a week they spent a few summers ago.
- The major expenditures are for food and drinks, with only slightly less on play items (including video-game parlors). Less of their money went into clothing, movies, electronics and video rentals.
- More significant is the $2.8 billion per week for parents' spending that kids will directly influence.

McNeal observed that "parents who are too busy working and short of free time are increasingly ceding a wide range of purchase decision-making to their kids."

Does that give us something to think about?

"Danielle, you?"

She nodded. "Only one difference. When I was a child, one of the few doctors who believes and understands the curse, quietly developed a medication, a tranquilizer of sorts, which enables me to retain my memory while the curse afflicts me."

She moved to his side. Twining a lock of his hair about her slender finger, she toyed with it. "I can reason while I become that hideous monster," she said, and "and function almost as a domesticated canine. Last night just as you and I metamorphosed, I injected each of us with a dose. That's why you feel so rested this morning." Apprehension suddenly filled her eyes. "You don't mind—my also being—" She released the lock of Harry's hair and resignation tinged her next words. "If you do, I'll leave quickly. I'll never bother you again, and you need not worry, your secret is safe with me."

Harry seized her hand and drew it to his lips. Pulling her into his lap, he pressed her doubting form to his heart. "Were ever two souls so gently cursed," he whispered before burying his face in the silken strands of her pale yellow hair.

Should you ever chance through that neck of the woods, you may pass by a pinewood cabin nestled cozily in its midst. It belongs to the Briggets, a genial couple. They recess there monthly. You can hear them frolicking with their children by the fireplace in the evening, laughing and singing, though terribly off-key, one might almost say they were howling.

Fitness Forum

By Susan Duerksen

Juawayne Kettler, a self-styled anatomy analyst whose eyes leave no bone unexplored, is scanning a client's outstretched back like a physician examining an X-ray.

"The problem here," she says, "is scoliosis (unnatural curvature of the spine).

"The left side has released into its natural position. Now, we have to get the right side down."

With that, Birgitta, 45, bends over a ballet barre in Kettler's exercise studio and flexes her spine just so, up and down, no more than an inch in either direction.

"Pulsing," Kettler calls it. And Birgitta won't stop until she's done 100 of them — the better to activate muscles that have long delegated work to other body parts.

"It may take 80 reps just to stimulate the right muscles," says the low-key but demanding Kettler. "If we could access those muscles right away, we would only have to do 20. But we're trying to change old muscle patterns."

That's the idea behind the deep-down muscle work that Kettler calls Body Lengthening Integration Sculpturing and Strengthening — BLISS, for short.

"When you do this a month or two, you can throw out your clothes and get a whole new wardrobe," says Birgitta.

Birgitta, a Swedish-born businesswoman and hospital administrator, is among a growing cult of 250 or so clients who pay up to $20 a session to awaken dormant muscles under Kettler's discerning eyes and hands-on supervision.

With the right amount of commitment and, alas, some tolerance for discomfort, Kettler's clients claim that BLISS can:

- Add inches in height, by straightening the spine and lifting the chest and shoulders.
- Remove facial lines, by accessing dormant facial muscles.
- Round and lift a sagging buttocks, by activating supporting muscles to which conventional leg lifts do little more than hip service.

• Uplift the breasts and expand the chest. ("I now have cleavage — and a bigger bra size," proclaimed one 36-year-old woman.)

Nobody's claiming immediate results — like the 10 years younger in 10 hours promotion that accompanied the 1984 introduction of Callan Pinckney's deep-muscle discipline, Callanetics (not to be confused with calisthenics).

But one BLISS exerciser, 55-year-old Leilani, could tell she was onto something different after the first 90 minutes.

"I didn't have to exert so much effort to support my skeleton," she said. "Muscles that had become lazy — or maybe never used — were coming into action. And I had more energy because more of me was taking care of me."

Anyone embracing such a regimen does so without the blessings of such mainstream organizations as the American College of Sports Medicine and the American Council on Exercise.

Said Karen Duncanson, who certifies personal trainers and aerobics instructors for the American Council on Exercise: "We really emphasize that instructors stay away from diagnosing, correcting and prescribing.

"I would be skeptical of anything that's not based on documented research — especially one person who claims they can provide some kind of magic.

"It's the same as looking for a doctor. You want to see their qualifications. Are they certified by a reputable organization? Have they been around awhile and proven that, over time, they can really change peoples' lives?"

AN EMOTIONAL RELEASE

Longtime Kettler devotees say that the 38-year-old woman has X-ray revision: An ability to analyze what each muscle and bone in the body seems to be doing, and an ability to prescribe movements to promote optimal balance, posture and muscle tone that can result in a rejuvenated look.

THE HEALTHY GOURMET

By Kit Saedaker

Madeleines are little cakes shaped like a fat scallop shell. When French author Marcel Proust ate one for tea, it set him thinking and became the famous first line of his epic "Remembrance of Things Past."

Full of egg yolks and butter, madeleines have been restricted to tea or dessert and not often at that. My madeleine molds get used once a year at best. Or did until recently.

At a function in Monaco, I was served little cornbread madeleines with cocktails as an hors d'oeuvres. What a great idea. They had all the glamor of the original cookie and far fewer calories. Besides, they were unusual and delicious.

I wish I had thought to do it, but I have to be honest, they were the bright idea of some French chef in this tiny principality nestled between the French Riviera and Italy.

Still nothing says madeleines have to stop here. Make them with scone dough, biscuit dough, any batter bread dough. Just toss in some added flavor such as jalapeno peppers or cinnamon or anise. The possibilities are endless.

But first, try these, like the ones I tasted in Monaco and found in the new "The Family Circle Cookbook" by the editors of Family Circle and David Ricketts.

Then move on to Easy Mini Pizzas and Garlic Pita Snacks. You won't be sorry.

CORN MADELEINES

- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 cup yellow cornmeal
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- 1 cup buttermilk
- 2 eggs
- 2 green onions, chopped
- 2 teaspoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ to ½ teaspoon ground hot red pepper
- ½ cup frozen whole-kernel corn thawed
- ¼ cup drained pimiento pieces

1 jalapeno pepper, quartered and seeded
Yields about 2 dozen madeleines.

Each has about 70 calories, 3 grams fat, 23 milligrams cholesterol and 150 milligrams sodium.

Preheat oven to 400 F. Grease 27 madeleine molds. Stir together flour, cornmeal, baking powder and baking soda.

Combine buttermilk, eggs, green onion, sugar, salt and red pepper in work bowl of food processor. Whirl until onion is chopped. Add corn, pimiento and jalapeno pepper. Pulse until pepper is finely chopped. Pour egg mixture over dry ingredients and stir just until blended.

Spoon rounded measure into each mold. Bake for 8 to 10 minutes or until golden and top springs back when lightly pressed with fingertip. Cool on rack and remove from pans when cool.

GARLIC PITA CHIPS

- 1 package (8-ounce) small whole-wheat pita breads
- ½ cup chopped fresh parsley
- 2 egg whites, lightly beaten
- ¼ cup olive oil
- 3 small cloves garlic, finely chopped
- ½ teaspoon coarse salt

Yields 64 chips.

Each chip has about 20 calories, 1 gram fat, no cholesterol and 36 milligrams sodium.

Preheat oven to 300 F. Lightly coat 2 baking sheets with non-stick spray. Cut each pita into 4 wedges, then gently cut or pull each wedge apart to form 64 triangles. Combine parsley, egg white, olive oil, garlic and salt in small bowl. Spoon some of parsley mixture over each triangle. Place triangles, parsley side up, in single layer on baking sheets. Bake for 15 to 20 minutes or until edges of triangles are toasted and parsley topping is set. Cool chips on baking sheets on wire racks.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. My microwave has accumulated residue from food splatters on the sides and upper portion including the fan. I've tried cleaning it with a damp cloth, but the build-up of splatters has hardened and can't be cleaned with regular, non-abrasive cleaners.

A. Can I use steel wool or heavy-duty scouring pads on the surface without damaging the unit?

A. Avoid any abrasive product that will rub off the interior finish of your unit. Try placing a cup of water in the oven and set the unit on full power (High). Turn it on for approximately three minutes.

When the tone sounds and the oven shuts off, don't open the door.

Let the hot water sit for another five minutes as the steam softens the hardened food. Now you can open the door and use a damp cloth to wipe and clean the interior. You may have to repeat the process until all of the baked-on food is removed.

You also can unscrew the nut holding the blade and remove the blade, so it can be soaked in hot, soapy water in the sink to loosen any baked-on foods.

It is important to keep your microwave clean, free of baked-on foods, so that it will operate properly. Otherwise, you can cause permanent damage to your unit. Baked-on foods create hardened carbon that can result in arcing.

A good preventive measure is to keep a stack of paper plates or paper towels near the unit and always cover the foods you are heating or baking to prevent any excessive splattering.

Q. About two years ago, we paneled the insides of all our closets with strips of red cedar. The closets had the wonderful cedar aroma for a while, but now it is hardly noticeable. What is the best way to bring back the aroma of the paneling?

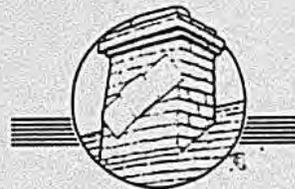

Wiping the boards with a damp sponge and sanding the boards have been recommended by friends. The sponge method seems to last only while the wood is damp. We hesitate to sand the boards before we checked to see if, in fact, this was really the way to go about it. Would the boards have to be sanded on a frequent basis?

A. As you have found, cedar odor does diminish with time. It can be easily restored by scraping or a light sanding of the surface and exposing a fresh, aromatic surface. An alternative would be to purchase one of the aromatic cedar sprays available at hardware dealers or closet shops.

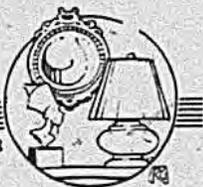

In either case, over time, the odor will again diminish and you will have to repeat the process.

I would caution against excessive sanding (be sure and use only a very fine grade of sandpaper) so that you do not wear down the thickness of the wood. You also can purchase wood cedar blocks and place them in your closet. The blocks can be sanded repeatedly without harming the lining structure of your closet.

Q. My husband is what used to be called a "couch potato." He's in love with the TV, and we have more tapes and remote controls than the Enterprise! I've seen big fancy "entertainment centers," but does anyone make a storage unit to hold all his "vids" that I can afford? — E.O.N.

A. Almost every manufacturer around today is offering pieces of furniture that are meant for the entertainment center in your home. You can consolidate all your gear in one area, then close it off neatly at bedtime behind a facade that can be any style, from English grand to countryland.

Chameleon "bland" is another way to go. The simpler the styling, the more easily you can integrate it with the rest of your room. Another plus: Such sleek units often are available "R.T.A.," that is, "ready-to-assemble." You put the pieces together yourself and save a bundle in the process.

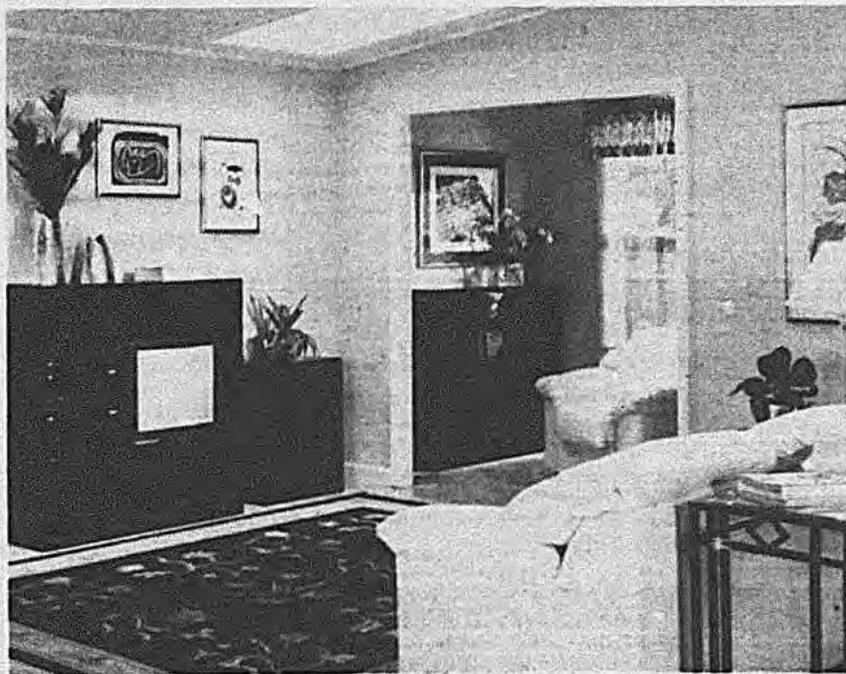

One handsome example: the entertainment center and storage pieces in this photo.

Made by Sauder Woodworking Co., they offer convenience at a price: The TV storage center costs about $150. The four tape storage units that have been stacked to create the chest (at right) will run you about $250. So, for a little work and not a lot of money, your couch potato can have everything he'll need for weeks of watching just a quick lunge away.

Q. We'd like to put sisal in the dining room, but a friend who has it at the lake says it won't be good there, that it spots and stains. What's your opinion? — P.C.A.

A. It would have echoed your friend's experience if you'd asked that in the recent past. Today, however, sisal comes in a new format — in blends with other fibers and with protective finishes that repel stains.

So popular is the sisal look, in fact, that you'll find "sisal" made of wool and wool blends ... which increases its price tag, along with durability.

SUBTLE STORAGE — Ready-made cabinets like these sleek black units from Sauder Woodworking Co. provide solutions to the problem of where to store the TV set and video tapes.

MAY THE SACRED HEART
OF Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us. St. Jude, Creator of Miracles, pray for us. Say this prayer 9 times daily. My prayer has been answered. Say it 9 days. It has never failed. Publication must be promised. J.H. gc05

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN (Never known to fail). Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God. Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me, herein you are my mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh, Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3X). Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3X). Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me, I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted. Thank you Blessed Mother." T.D.C. gc05

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE
Oh Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depths of my heart and humbly beg you to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. St. Jude, pray for us all who invoke your aid. Amen. Say 3 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Marys, 3 Glorias. Say for 9 consecutive days. Publication must be promised. This novena has never been known to fail. Thank you for answering my prayers. R.V. w05

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN (Never known to fail). Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God. Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me, herein you are my mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh, Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3X). Holy Mother, I place this cause in your hands (3X). Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me, I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted. ## Piano Baby doll is a valuable find

Q. I am writing you about this doll in hopes you can tell me something about her. She is beautifully sculpted, with blue eyes and deep hair molding, and her nightdress is tinted in dainty pastels. I bought her in France.

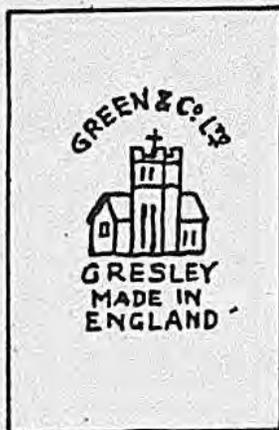

What would the price be for a doll like this?

A. Your doll is called a Piano Baby. In the 1800s, most well-decorated homes used a Piano Baby to hold the scarf they had on top of the piano in place.

Your Piano Baby was made in the late 1800s. I find a similar one listed in Herron's "Price Guide to Dolls" for $700 to $1,000.

Q. The enclosed mark is on the bottom of a two-tone brown and pale-blue teapot. It also has a small floral spray on each side. Can you tell me when this was made and whether or not it has any value?

A. T.G. Green & Co. made earthenware in Gresley, England, from 1864 well into the 20th century. Your teapot was made in the early 1900s and would probably sell for $35 to $45.

Q. I have no pictures of the item I am enquiring about, but hopefully you can identify it from a description.

It is 3 1/4 inches high, the base is circular and is about 2 inches in diameter. It is almost bell shaped but appears to be a grinder because there is a grinding piece inside and the top rotates. On the bottom it says "Tiffany and Co. makers Sterling 6805."

I would appreciate anything you can tell me about this and its price.

A. This appears to be a sterling nutmeg grinder made for the Tiffany & Co. jewelry store in New York, probably around 1900.

I find similar items like this listed for $500 to $600 in good condition.

Q. Please help me! I bought a ceramic bowl at a flea market. It is 11 inches wide and 7 inches high. It is a cream color with pink roses. It is marked "KT&K" with "S-V," China on the bottom.

Could you tell me who made it and what it is worth?

A. Your bowl was made by Knowles Taylor & Knowles in East Liverpool, Ohio. The S-V stands for semivitreous china. It was made in the early 20th century and would probably sell for $35 to $45 in good condition.

Q. I have a Coca-Cola tray with a lady with a glass marked "Drink Coca-Cola." She is wearing a pink dress, blue turban and a white fox fur. There is a Coke bottle in the lower right corner. On top it says, "Drink Coca-Cola."

I have no idea what it is worth. Would you please give me an approximate value?

A. Your Coca-Cola tray was made in 1925 and should sell for $275 to $300, depending on its condition.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. The clerk at the pet store from which we recently purchased our cocker spaniel puppy highly recommended that we also purchase a crate in which to keep her. It seems cruel to me to keep a puppy in a cage. Are there any real advantages to using a crate for a new puppy?

A. Although there are many advantages to routinely using crates with dogs, many people believe that they are cruel.

In a recent survey conducted by Dog Fancy magazine, 51 percent of the respondents reported that they originally hesitated to use crates for their dogs. However, after using crates, these readers became real enthusiasts.

Every dog needs a place to call its own — a place to rest and retreat from the stressful life of modern living. Likewise, every dog owner needs a safe area to place their dog while not observing or supervising its activities.

A crate can help direct an enthusiastic puppy's aggressiveness into a safe and acceptable pattern. Many dogs enjoy their crates and voluntarily go into them throughout the day.

Many dog owners place their pets in crates while they are away from home. This protects the household from damage that the pet might commit while the owner is absent and protects the pet from injuring itself.

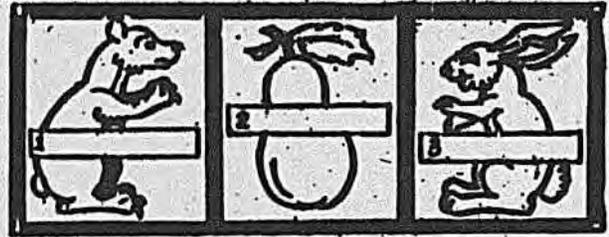

Crates often are used in house-breaking new puppies. To do this, the puppy should be kept in the crate except while outside to eliminate.

The puppy should not be allowed freedom in the house until completely housebroken. Of course, the puppy can be taken out of the crate for supervised play and training. A pattern can be set so that the puppy is taken directly to the yard from the crate at regular times. Most puppies soon learn the pattern and do not soil their crates.

Crates should never be used as punishment. Using a crate should always be a positive experience for your dog. Many people feed and water their dogs in their crates.

Your friend,
Aunt Tilly

Have you figured out what costume you will wear for Halloween. It is this Saturday! Will you be a ghost, pumpkin or perhaps a fairy princess or a gypsy with bangles and beads?

Whatever you will be, Aunt Tilly hopes you will practice Halloween Safety. Go trick or treating in a group and with your moms and dads. Wear costumes that don't impair your vision. Look both ways before crossing streets and don't eat any goodies until they can be checked by your parents.

Maybe you will attend a Halloween Party. They are lots of fun, too. I hope you enjoy yourself on this All Saints Day!

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Common-law property

By William M. Acosta

Q. I met my common-law husband in 1954 and I've been with him ever since. We never got married. I was just wondering, if he should pass away before me could I draw his Social Security? Our house and everything we own is in both of our names. Can I draw his Social Security? — E.L.

A. Check with your local Social Security office to see if the state that you live in recognizes your common-law relationship.

Q. Is there a limit to the amount a physician can charge a Medicare beneficiary for a covered service? — M.J.

A. Yes. Physicians who do not accept assignment of a Medicare claim are limited as to the amount they can charge Medicare beneficiaries for covered services.

In 1992, the limiting charge for all services covered by Medicare is 120 percent of the fee schedule amount for non-participating physicians, and in 1993, it will be 115 percent of the fee schedule amount.

Q. I will be receiving a disability pension from a private insurance that I have paid for since I started working. Will receipt of this insurance benefit affect my Social Security disability benefit? — P.L.

A. The following payments do not count when deciding if your Social Security benefit will be reduced:

- Veterans Administration benefits.
  - Federal benefits, if the work you did to earn them was covered by Social Security.
  - State and local government benefits, if the work you did to earn them was covered by Social Security.
  - Private pensions or insurance benefits.
  - Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments.
- Your private insurance benefit will not affect your Social Security disability benefit.

Q. How will I know what Social Security benefits to report on my income tax return? — B.A.

A. The "Social Security Benefit Statement" (Form SSA-1099) shows the amount of benefits you received in the previous year. This is the form that will provide the information needed at the end of the year.
