Bethpage Seniors Installation

Pioneers Thanked

At the June 1 meeting of the New York Telephone Company Pioneers, Nassau County Executive Tom Gulotta reviewed the County's programs for seniors, and thanked the Pioneer volunteers for their work in the county and their monetary contributions. Left to right: Nassau County Executive Thomas Gulotta, Sagamore Chapter President Walter Raitmayr (Seaford), Vice President Leo Gray (Syosset) and Treasurer William Kelly (Hicksville).

Nursing Home Volunteer

Oyster Bay Town Councilwoman Ann R. Ocker, second from right, recently attended the Central Island Nursing Home Recognition Luncheon and presented a citation to Jaime Roche, a 13 year old Bethpage resident, who volunteers her time to the Nursing Center and its patients. Miss Roche was recognized by the New York State Housing Facilities Association as the Teen Volunteer of the Year. On hand were Central Island Nursing Home Administrator Martha Sweet and Recreation Director Joanie Gorman.

American Legion School Awards

For the 35th year the Charles Wagner Post 421 of the American Legion presented Legion School Award Medals and Certificates to outstanding elementary grade students of Hicksville's public and parochial schools. The much-prized American Legion Annual Awards are presented to youngsters who excell in the study of American history and, at the same time, demonstrate outstanding school citizenship and service.

Among the names of this year's award recipients available at this printing are: Dutch Lane School: Jennifer Elefante, Michael Funk and Heather Ister. Fork Lane School: Jill Cromwell and Timothy Silver. Lee Avenue School: John Kiernan and Toni Ann Mirro. Old Country Road School: Patrick Flynn and Kirk Graepel. Trinity Lutheran School: Bethany Bracco, John Kelly, Peter Komarnicki and Natasha Tutt.

The School Award Program is one of a number of community service activities carried on by Hicksville's American Legion Children and Youth Program. Overall Chairman of this program is John Geier, Richard Evers, Post 421 Americanism Chairman, coordinates American Legion School Programs.

Presidential Scholars

Lyndon State College has announced Patricia A. Freyisen, of Hicksville, has been awarded a $500 Presidential Scholarship. Freyisen is a junior studying psychology at Lyndon State.

The Presidential Scholarship is awarded to upperclassmen who have a minimum grade-point average of 3.5 and have completed 24 credits at Lyndon. Recipients of the award must also receive recommendations from full-time faculty members.

Teens In Touch

The Hicksville Youth Council has created a new peer empowerment group called Teens In Touch. This ongoing rap group will meet every Thursday from 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., starting August 5. It is open to Hicksville/Jericho teenagers grades 7th to 12th. For more information, or to reserve a place in the group, contact Letitia at 822-KIDS.

New Board Seated; '93-'94 Year Begun

By Maureen Traxler

With the reelection of Helen Lafferty as President of the Hicksville Board of Education and the election of Richard Pfaender as Vice President at its July 6th meeting, the School Board launched its 1993-94 school year. Trustee Voley Martin was elected Board Secretary.

Mrs. Lafferty quickly proceeded through the reorganization agenda. The Board unanimously reappointed District Clerk Alice Wider, Counsel Guercio and Guercio, Internal Auditor Joseph Magee, Public Information Officer Maureen Bright, and District Treasurer Tina Inocco. The Board approved the appointment of Health Quest, as school physicians for the coming school year.

The Mid-Island Times was again selected as one of the District's official newspapers.

The Board appointed committee chairs for the 1993-94 school year as follows: Finance - Raymond Manzo; Facilities - Dave Staton; Curriculum - Nancy Calleri; Policy - Voley Martin; In addition, the Board appointed Richard Pfaender as PTA Liaison and Jim Black as Parliamentarian.

There was some discussion concerning the appointment of an official insurance consultant for the coming year. Asst. Supt. Stuart Opdahl reminded the Trustees that an insurance consultant was a recommendation of a previous lay budget committee which requested a third party sit in review of policies which come before the district, rather than relying on agents. The $3,500-a-year consultant position was awarded to Regent Consultants Corporation.

The Trustees tabled a decision on a new district architect. Asst. Supt. Opdahl said that the district has not been fully satisfied with the architects they have engaged in the last several years. There are alternatives, he said, including independent PEAs (Professional Engineers) and recent graduates from civil engineering schools. Mr. Opdahl proposed that the district could possibly save $50,000 by having an in-house position at a $35,000 salary. He requested that the Board allow the administration to explore the alternatives and report back at the August meeting.

Mrs. Lafferty expressed concern that the district engage someone with experience, noting that the district runs a multi-million dollar plant. Trustee Rich Pfaender asked Mr. Opdahl if this could possibly evolve into a shared position with other districts, and Mr. Martin expressed interest in exploring a contracted-employee position.

The Board adopted a meeting schedule for the 1993-94 school year which included one additional summer meeting, August 4. The district's annual meeting and budget vote will take place on Wednesday, May 18, 1994.

Pursuant to prior discussions of the flexible benefit spending plan, the Board accepted the agreement for full-time employee groups as developed by Peat Marwick, the independent district auditor. Asst. Supt. Opdahl explained that under Internal Revenue Service regulations, Section 125, employees may designate sums of money, within the calendar year, for expenses such as excess health insurance, dental, child care, to be deducted from their salary and placed in a fund to pay these expenses. Excess monies at the end of the calendar year are not refundable and are pooled to reduce costs for the next year. A review by district counsel determined that the agreement is in accordance with Section 125 and plans set up in other districts.

However, the Board reserved decision on an Employee Trust Fund designed for the purpose of establishing a self-insured dental program. Mr. Opdahl explained that the fund is not essential to the flex program and the district has an insurance policy to protect itself in the first year. The Asst. Supt. advised that more information is needed before approval.

The Board requested a review by the Asst. Supt. of informational items:

* State Aid - Under a state deficit reduction plan, flat grant districts were to receive additional aid. Although this seemed to be favorable, it appears that this "transitional aid," if dropped by the state, could eliminate transportation aid to districts in the future. Mr. Opdahl called this transition aid a "guise they (the State) use to get rid of aid that is useful for downstaters." The legislation would have its worst effects on Long Island and Westchester dis-

HBA Weekly Update

Team of "The Angels"

Girls Minor Division
Team #4, "The Angels" finished their season at 15-0 with a 15-14 win over the green team on the last day of the season.

Angela Lively's 6th inning double drove in Kaitlin Peter-son and Kristen Baglieri with the tying and winning runs in the come-from-behind victory. Krystle Ryback contributed to the winning effort by driving in 3 runs with a triple and a single. Kerri O'Connor also contributed by driving in Lisa Sarandrea, Megan Breen and Shauna Farrell with a clutch double.

The season ended with Cindy McCarthy leading the team with 8 home runs, Melissa Koetter having the most RBI's with 57 and Alyssa Provenzano the highest batting average at .729.

Tara Degoski also contributed to the winning season by banging out 6 doubles and making some outstanding plays in the field.

Boys Major Division
On Saturday, June 26, the Major Division played the pin play-off game, between the play-off winner, the Yankees, and the division first place winner, the Cubs. The Cubs had a great season with 11 wins and 2 losses.

Thirteen boys coming together made a team that played hard for the past two months. There is John Mulcahy, a young fellow who didn't hit a ball when he started, but now he's popping them to the outfield. Others like Mat McNiff and Justin Galacs who without their bats coming around and getting the hits, we wouldn't have done as well.

Talk about bats. Let's talk about Mike Benic who played short stop. He had great games with great plays, week after week. Adam Lachoff made the other guys cringe when he came up to bat. He pitched sometimes, played third, and did a great job wherever he was positioned. Now Mat, his twin, also made the other teams cringe when he came up to bat; he got us those insurance runs that were so important. Playing defense, Mat Lachoff played many infield positions, and got us some wins when he pitched. He saved a game or two with his fast reflexes on the bases.

When you talk about our outfield, those guys - Mat McNiff, Justin, John, Jason Turner and Chris Serpico stayed alert and had to move like a shot, when the ball was hit. They get a big "well done" and a special thanks for their cooperation. Though many boys don't want anything to do with the outfield, a young man named Michael Delaney plays center field like a pro. He runs in and out like a jet and has a great glove. I hope he keeps on improving and keeps on playing. By the way, he also played any position when asked, and has a great bat too.

Our other boys in the infield were great. A quiet guy who made those plays, from the other bases to first and made it look easy, was Constantine (Dean) Possas. Many times we called on him to pitch those last three innings to take us to victory. Third base was played by Tom Kuck, a tough position on the corner. The throw is tough, but Tom put it all together.

I saved these two teammates, our pitcher and catcher, for last, because they have to work together. A catcher must have many strengths, and Chris Cannizzaro has them all. He is fast, anticipates, and has the stamina to go all the way. Oh yes, he can catch too. Chris is a real team player.

The second half of that dominating duo is the pitcher. Without sounding like a bragging coach, I have to really compliment Howard Sham. When he started to pitch it was something to watch. He played second base as his alternate position and any other place he was needed.

This brings me to the last game of the season between the Cubs and the Yankees. Howard started to pitch the first inning and continued for the full six innings, giving up just one hit, and there were no runs. His arm did not waver at all. This was the first time this young mate, be good sports, and just play the best they could... Together!

Our coach, Jay Lachoff, and myself, Stan Shan, really enjoyed working with these fine athletes this season. man went the six and I am sure next year he will be a very strong pitcher.

This season was very special to the Cubs. First place is very special, but, what I hope is more important is that the kids learned how to be good teammates.

Want End To So. Elm Thruway

It happened again. This time a collision with careening cars at Plainview Rd., and South Elm St. They knocked over a mail box, and three people went to the hospital.

By Richard Evers
Concerned parents and homeowners near the dangerous Plainview Road-South Elm St. corner are urging the Town Board to reduce the car traffic making south Elm St. a throughway to Old Country Road.

Cars have smashed into homes on all four corners of the accident-prone intersection. Last week, a mail collection box was smashed, as a woman driver careened onto a lawn and was thrown clear of her auto. In the demolished other car, two senior citizens were trapped until Hicksville firemen freed them with "the jaws of life" equipment.

Councilman Thomas Clark and the Town Board have received a letter urgently requesting help, to safeguard the over 20 young children living on South Elm Street which is thronged all day with cars short-cutting through the street to get between Old Country Road and Plainview Road. A petition requesting Town intervention with the County Highway and Police Departments has been prepared.

Residents and parents have wanted a traffic light at the intersection, long before the East Street light, one block west, was installed a couple of years ago. Now, local residents are urging that the East Street light be moved one block eastward to South Elm St. It is felt that children will be bused to the soon-to-open Solomon Schecter School (the former East St. School building), and an East Street traffic light will not be necessary for pedestrians.

tricts. If the aid is dropped, Mr. Opdahl estimated that Hicksville district aid could be reduced by $2 million in subsequent years. He advised the Board to write to our legislators in Albany.

* Certiorari Report - One and a half years ago, the district began a review of the previous five year's state aid wealth formula in order to determine if the district is entitled to state aid due to incorrect aidable property value during that time. If the district can prove its case, it may mean an additional $2 million in back aid.

* Budget Report - Contrary to some perceptions, Asst. Supt. Opdahl assured trustees and residents that the district closed the 1992-93 budget year with sufficient reserve funds to assure the dollar decrease in the tax rate in the coming year. Additionally, he said, the latest figures received by his office, indicate that based on the assessments, the district will easily be able to hold the proposed tax rate of $31.254 per $100 assessed valuation for homeowners. "We are looking at two or three years of good figures," Mr. Opdahl confirmed.

* Recycling - In response to a request by the Burns Avenue PTA asking the school district to explore the possibilities of recycling the growing number of disposable styrofoam trays now used in the food service program, Mr. Opdahl reported the district has found only two companies with recycling facilities, one in Bridgeport, New Jersey, the other in California. He estimated a district expenditure of $11,000 to $12,000 to withdraw the styrofoam trays, and informed the Board that not many companies make paper trays, cups, etc. He offered that the district could put out a bid in these areas, although it may bring additional cost.

* Pay phones - Mr. Opdahl reported that the district has received some commission income from its pay phones. The contract with Wittech Systems basically continues the year-to-year rate schedule with no rate change on these phones. He noted that the district never received a response from New York Telephone when it originally pursued the pay phone conversion.

The next meeting of the Board will be held on Wednesday, August 4, at 8 p.m., in the Board Room of the Administration Building.

Hicksville Schools Honor Employees

Ruth Silverman and Carol Kiled relax with their husbands at the district reception held in honor of retirees and individuals celebrating 25 years of service.

"On behalf of the children of Hicksville Public Schools, I thank each of you for your service, caring and dedication you provide," stated Salvatore Mugavero, Supt. of Schools, as he and the Board of Education publicly acknowledged the contributions of Hicksville Public School District employees.

The district held a special reception prior to their Board meeting on June 23, and a presentation ceremony at the public meeting in recognition of employees who have retired during the 1982-83 school year, as well as employees who have completed twenty-five years of service to the district.

During the presentation ceremony with an audience comprised of family, friends, and colleagues, Dr. Daniel Kremin, Assist. Supt. for Personnel, acknowledged individually the many contributions made by each of the honored employees. On behalf of the Board of Education, Mrs. Helen Lafferty, President, presented the retirees with a plaque of appreciation, and the 25-year anniversary honorees with an engraved silver tray.

The following retirees were honored: William Cadar, Anthony Carmo, Margaret Costigan, Catherine Dillon, Arnaldo Ferraro, Rose Fugarazzo, Carol Gerald, Joseph Giambalvo, Farrokh Hormozai, Gerald Klein, Carol Kiled, Gordon Mackay, Kenneth McGinnis, Theresa McQuaid, Dorothy Pelletier, Laurence Redican, Phyllis Rubin, Rita Sales, Elsa Sharp, Henrietta Shore, Ruth Silverman, Paul Vetrano and Carolyn Weber.

In Memoriam

Judge Joseph Lebkuecker

Judge Joseph P. Lebkuecker died of heart failure Monday at Mid Island Hospital. Judge Lebkuecker, 92, was one of five original Nassau County District Court Judges. He served from 1938 to 1965.

He was a native of Hicksville, a graduate of Hicksville High School, Fordham College and Fordham University Law School.

Before selection for the County District Court, Judge Lebkuecker was a Justice of the Peace for Hicksville and had a private law practice. He was the first president of the Hicksville Republican Club and a committee man before his judgeship. When he left the bench he served as assistant committee counsel in state government in Albany and was in the general insurance business.

He was an avid boater and owned a 40 ft. cabin cruiser which he would sail in New England. He sold the boat after a stroke five years ago.

Judge Lebkuecker recently was honored by the Nassau County Bar Association with a medallion noting his 70 years of membership and his distinguished judicial service.

He is survived by his wife, Loretta M., son Joseph P., Jr. of Jamesport, daughter Joan D'Auria of Brookville, three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

A Mass was celebrated Thursday in Holy Name of Jesus Catholic Church, Woodbury; burial in Holy Rood Cemetery, Westbury.

Bike Safety Rodeos In N.Y.

The Town of Oyster Bay has designated July "Bicycle Safety Month," and will sponsor four Bicycle Rodeos for children ages 7 through 14, according to Town Councilman Douglas J. Hynes.

"Bicycles are an important form of transportation used by children each and every day," Councilman Hynes said. "They ride alongside cars and trucks on major roadways, and all too often our children have not learned the rules of the road so necessary to preserve their safety."

"Bicycle Rodeos are an excellent way to educate children about bicycles safety because they combine fun with safety instruction," Councilman Hynes continued. "This year we've planned events such as skills tests where children are tested on their use of hand signals and their ability to maneuver on a bicycle. In addition, children will be able to put their bikes through a safety inspection to see that they are in good working order and have the proper safety equipment. Of course prizes and raffles will be awarded this year as well."

Councilman Hynes added that as a result of last year's resounding success, the New York Auto Club has agreed to return "Mike the Talking Bike." "Mike," a well known favorite among children, teaches bicycle safety to children in a unique and riveting fashion.

The Town Bicycle Rodeos, which are being held as part of the Parks Dept. Summer Recreation Program, are scheduled for:

July 14, Marjorie Post Park, Massapequa.
July 16, Bethpage Community Park.
July 19, Ellsworth Allen Park, Farmingdale.
July 23, Syosset Woodbury Park all between the hours of 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Old Glory Flies On The 4th Of July

To the delight and wonderment of several thousand homeowners on July 4, they awoke to find small American flags flying on their front lawns. The flags were placed by Caldwell Banker Sammis Real Estate Agency folks, such as Patricia Gambino and family, as part of an ongoing flag usage and education program for the public.

Broadway, Hicksville was decorated with flags all day July 4, through the annual holiday flag program of the Hicksville Chamber of Commerce. Commander Albert Cianotti and members of the Charles Wagner Post, American Legion placed, and retrieved, the flags at sundown in their privileged Independence Day volunteer assignment.

For the past ten years Mid-Island Hospital has celebrated the spirit of Volunteerism, and more specifically our volunteer force, at an Annual Award Dinner. This year MIH spotlights a recent addition to the team - Esther Pinicus of Levittown.

Esther is a seasoned volunteer (volunteered for many years at the Local V), who joined Mid-Island Hospital Volunteer Services in March of this year and has already devoted 50 hours to our patients and staff. Thanks Esther for a job well done. Your acts of kindness are appreciated far more than you will ever know. Mid-Island Hospital. Where people and progress are making the difference.

What To Be?

'Maybe I'll be a police officer when I grow up!' A sentiment expressed by second grade students at Woodland School, following a visit to their class by Officer Phil Brady. Officer Brady, a NYC Transit Police Officer, was invited to Ms. Cutrone's second grade class to discuss his responsibilities and experiences as a police officer. The students enjoyed Officer Brady's enthusiastic presentation, which culminated their research on careers.

In Service

Navy Fireman Apprentice Nikolaos G. Yalamas, a 1990 graduate of John F. Kennedy High School of Plainview, recently participated aboard the aircraft carrier USS America, homeported in Norfolk, Va. in "Ocean Venture 93," an Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force and Coast Guard training exercise.

Yalamas was one of more than 20,500 service members who trained with forces from the United Kingdom, France and the Netherlands. Participants in "Ocean Venture 93," which took place off the coast of Puerto Rico, demonstrated the ability of continental United States-based forces to operate in a joint/combined environment with little or no preparation. The exercise, conducted by the U.S. Atlantic Command, included joint airborne, amphibious and helicopter-borne assaults ashore. These units also showed their ability to provide rapid military support to neighbors and allies of the United States, while the joint air force commander and the air force air component commander demonstrated the ability to operate from ships at sea.

He joined the Navy in August, 1990.

All bids must cover back door pick-up and collection and collection of recyclables as provided by the Town of Oyster Bay for the period covering February 1, 1994 and ending January 31, 1997 and the alternate period of February 1, 1994 and ending January 31, 1995 and must provide for pick-up and collection on Mondays Wednesdays and Fridays for one-half of the District and on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays for the other one-half of the District exclusively in order to be considered.

A performance bond for the full amount of the contract price for the period of the contract to be awarded and a certificate of public liability insurance insuring the Syosset Sanitation District and the successful bidder in the minimum coverage of $1,000,000/$1,500,000 for personal and bodily injury and $300,000 for property damage and a Certificate of Workers' Compensation Insurance coverage in accordance with the provisions of the Workers' Compensation Law of the State of New York shall be furnished to the District at the time of execution of the contract.

Each bidder agrees to abide by the Conditions and Specifications as set forth by the Syosset Sanitation District by the requirements of Chapter 11 entitled "Garbage Litter and Waste" of the Town of Oyster Bay Code of Ordinances, as amended, and by the Laws of the United States of America and the State of New York.

The Syosset Sanitation District reserves the right, in its sole and absolute discretion, to waive any informalities in or to reject any and all bids in whole or in part, which in its judgment is in the best interests of the Syosset Sanitation District.

Runaway Unicorn

Lee Avenue School Second graders Search for the "Runaway Unicorn." As the audience delighted over their performance, the students in Ms. Joan Flanagan's class traveled through Bookland hunting for the missing unicorn. The students, all dressed as famous storybook characters, journeyed down Storybook Lane. With the assistance of a real child, played by Anita Watterson, and the Wizard of Oz, played by Gabriel Palacio, a tender trap was set to bring the unicorn, played by Elise Gramaglia, home. And, of course, the superb performance concluded with the return of the unicorn as King of Bookland.

Soda Fountain At High School

High School students looking for a place to go in the evenings can now meet their friends in the new Soda Fountain at Hicksville High School. Mon. through Fri. evenings, students are welcome to enjoy the company of their friends in the relaxed atmosphere of the Soda Fountain, located in the school's cafeteria. In describing the many offerings available to purchase at the soda fountain, Renee Lotvin, Food Services' Director, commented "We have every flavor of ice cream under the sun; you name it, we have it!" Ice cream sodas, malteds and sundaes of all kinds are available. In addition, hot dogs, hamburgers, nachos and snacks may be purchased.

On Thurs. evenings, (July 15-Aug. 5), students are invited to join in the fun with the popular Japanese style entertainment, Karaoke, at the Soda Fountain. If you are a young person in grades 9-12, and a resident of Hicksville, why not join in the fun and come sing your favorite songs on Thurs. evenings from 6:30-9:30 p.m.?

The programs are offered as part of the Hicksville Public Schools Summer Recreation Program. Mon. through Fri. evening, students are welcome to participate in the open recreational program at the High School. Stop in, challenge a friend in a game of pool, enjoy some video games, work out in the weight room, keep in shape with aerobics, or play a game of basketball or tennis. Why stay home or just hang out and complain you are bored when you can meet your friends at Hicksville High School.

Summer Employment Program Underway

Once again the Hicksville Youth Council is working hard this summer to provide employment for the young people in the community. The employment program provides services for youth ages 14-21 in everything from babysitting and mowing lawns to clerical work and jobs in local businesses.

The Rent-A-Kid program is designed for young people ages 14-16 looking to make extra money. It places teens in "odd jobs" with local residents. Jobs in this program include those such as babysitting, mowing lawns and many others. The Vocational program helps youth ages 16-21 find jobs such as clerical work and positions in local businesses both small and large. An underlying goal of the Vocational program is to assist kids in identifying possible future career goals.

The Youth Council's Employment Program is a referral service for young people which links them to jobs that meet their needs and interests as closely as possible. The Youth Council encourages any teens looking for summer jobs to call and make an appointment. In addition, if you are a local employer looking for part-time or full-time summer help, the Council encourages you to call as well.

For more information, contact Chris Romano, Employment Coordinator, at 822-KIDS.

College News

Jennifer Moran, daughter of Virginia and Thomas Moran of Hicksville, has been named to the spring term Dean's List at Hartwick College. Moran is a sophomore majoring in psychology.

Inclusion on Hartwick's Dean's List is an indication of excellent academic work, including the completion of a full course load with at least a 3.40 grade point average.

The 60 minute tax break.

Our tax deductible Homeowners Edge® loan offers the lowest rate and fastest approval in town.

If you're looking to cut your taxes, it makes sense to cut out this ad. Because right now, during our Spring Loan Sale The Bank of New York is offering the lowest rate of any major New York bank on Homeowners Edge, a tax deductible installment loan.

Homeowners Edge® Installation Loan
8.75%* 9.75%
Variable Rate Fixed Rate

That means if you own a house, condo or co-op, 100% of your interest may be tax deductible.* Of course, you can use your loan for a car, a new kitchen, a college education—or any other worthwhile purpose.

With Homeowners Edge, there are never any upfront fees, points or closing costs. And whether you choose our variable or fixed rate loan, your monthly payments will always remain the same throughout the life of the loan. What's more, you can get a loan for as little as $5,000 and up to as much as $50,000.

60 minute approval. Even on Saturdays. To apply, visit The 60 Minute Loan Center at one of our 291 convenient branches. Or call us at

"Confidence Makes All

Author Gordon Korman Visits JFK

Author Gordon Korman visited John F. Kennedy Middle School in Bethpage on June 15. He spoke with the sixth grade students about his writing career, which started when he was in seventh grade. Students had an opportunity to meet with him in small groups to ask questions about his books, characters, and Mr. Korman that were of particular interest to them.

Gordon Korman's visit was the culminating event of several weeks of reading, discussing, writing about, doing art projects, and creating games based upon his books. Through the assistance of the John F. Kennedy Middle School PTA, students had an opportunity to purchase Mr. Korman's books, and have them autographed. In photo: Gordon Korman autographing books for Jason Feldman and Chris Legerto.

In Service

Navy Seaman Recruit Salvatore DeFazio, a 1992 graduate of Hicksville High School is currently deployed and has completed the first half of a six-month Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean deployment aboard the amphibious cargo ship USS El Paso, homeported in Norfolk, Va. as part of the USS Wasp Amphibious Ready Group.

DeFazio is again participating in Operation Restore Hope, a peace-keeping operation off the coast of Somalia. Elements of the amphibious ready group provided a rapid, from the sea response force of Navy units and Marine Corps special-operations capable assault troops, helicopters, Carrier aircraft and other amphibious assault vehicles to the multinational peace-keeping force commander in Somalia.

USS El Paso spent 50 days off the coast of Somalia earlier in the deployment. The Marines and sailors are participating in exercise Eager Mace in Kuwait, which was cut short when they were ordered to backload and return to waters off Somalia.

Scholarship Award

Nassau County Executive Thomas S. Gullotta, far right, recently attended an Awards Assembly for Hicksville High School.

County Executive congratulated Matthew Antello, recipient of the Justice Frank A. Gullotta Memorial Scholarship Award in honor of the County Executive's late father, the former Nassau County District Attorney and Justice of State Appellate Division.

Looking on was Matthew's mother, Geraldine.

Oyster Bay Town Councilman Leonard Kunzig and his wife, Donna are the delighted parents of a new baby daughter. Courtney Elizabeth Kunzig was born July 2, 1993, and weighed 7 lbs. She will be welcomed to her Bethpage home by seven-year old brother Brian and four-year old sister Christi.

Babysitting Jobs Needed

This summer has brought many young people to the Hicksville Youth Council seeking babysitting jobs. They are friendly and reliable young people, and many have references from past babysitting jobs. While the Youth Council would like to help these teens, they cannot do it without the help of the community.

If you are a parent in need of a trustworthy babysitter or an extra pair of hands to help out keeping kids busy during the summer months, the Youth Council can help. By functioning as a referral source, the Youth Council can provide you with names and numbers of qualified youth for babysitting.

For more information, contact Chris Romano, Employment Coordinator, at 822-KIDS.

Bethpage Student Honored By Hospital

For the past ten years Mid-Island Hospital has celebrated the spirit of volunteerism, and more specifically or volunteer force, at an Annual Award Dinner. This year Joseph Baschalen, a Bethpage High School Junior, was spotlighted for his many hours of community service since last July.

Joseph joined the Mid-Island Hospital Volunteers in July '92, because he wanted to "help people in need"... And He Has! Assigned to the Surgery Unit, Joseph performs many time-saving tasks for the nursing staff, visits with patients, relays messages, delivers ice water, etc.

Thanks Joseph for a job well done... Your smiles and acts of kindness are appreciated far more than you will ever know. Mid-Island Hospital... Where people and progress are making the difference.

STAR Reader Program

Students in the Bethpage Public Schools participated in the STAR Reading Program supported by McDonald's. The children read a required number of books for three months, and charted their progress on a chart that has various levels of the atmosphere. Many teachers in the elementary schools and middle school had their classes participate. Pictured are a sampling of some of the classes that participated:

Marion Siegel's class at Kramer Lane Elementary School

Dolores McAuliffe's class at Central Blvd. Elementary School

Maren Erichsen's class at Charles Campagne Elementary School

Joan Patterson's class at John F. Kennedy Middle School

Seniors Honored

Nassau County Executive Thomas S. Gulotta, (fifth from right), attended an Annual Reception honoring Directors and Presidents of the Senior Citizen Clubs and Centers, held at the C.W. Post Campus of Long Island University.

County Executive Gulotta is pictured greeting: Irwin Penzel, Senior Adult Club of St. Ignatius; Carmela DePace, of the Hicksville/Levittown Seniors; Angela Sotallaro, of the Hicksville/Mid-Island Seniors; Edna Crews, of Hicksville/Levittown Senior Club; Helen Jud, of St. Ignatius Senior Club; Matthew J. Bozek, of Salisbury Senior Citizens Club, Inc.; Enrico V. Vitelli, of the LILCO Retiree Club; Michael J. Kaczmarski, of the Our Lady Of Mercy Senior Citizen club, Inc.; Marge Cycon, of the Our Lady Of Mercy Seniors.

Volunteer Racks Up 50 Hours

Gregory Schuster of Bethpage, began serving his community by volunteering at Mid-Island Hospital, bringing new meaning to the concept of commitment in volunteerism by accumulating over 50 hours in less than one month.

"We are extremely fortunate to have Gregory on our team," said Beverly Wagner, Director of Volunteer Service and Patient Advocate. "His fortitude and selfless outreach is an inspiration to us all," she added.

Gratefully recognizing the dedication and commitment to our patients and staff demonstrated by each and every volunteer, Mid-Island Hospital honored its entire volunteer force at the Annual Awards Dinner last month.

Gregory Schuster accepts award from Giovanni Distefano, Administrator, Mid-Island Hospital.

Community Service

Nassau County Executive Thomas S. Gulotta, (right), congratulated Kellenberg Memorial High School's Community Service Award recipient, Hillary Meagher Cunningham, a Hicksville resident. Looking on was Kathleen Cunningham.

You Can Tell A Book By Its Cover

In a special spring Book Jacket Contest, a profusion of colorful book jackets designed by youngsters in grades 1-6 were submitted to the Children's Department of the Bethpage Public Library.

The Book Jacket Contest, promoted jointly by the public library and the Bethpage Public Schools, required that youngsters check out a Bethpage Public Library book and prepare a jacket for it, including cover art and written blurb. Many district teachers chose to use the contest as class projects. Six winners were selected from the large number of submissions, representing all grade levels included in the contest. The winning jackets are now on display in the Bethpage Public Library's main reading room near the circulation desk.

The six winning jackets were submitted by:

Grade 1
Miss Spyropoulos, Central Boulevard School

Grade 2
Jeannette Barzenski, Charles Campagne School

Grade 3
Katie Lawrence, Central Boulevard School

Grade 4
Eddy Reilly, La Salle Regional School

Grade 5

Another One For The Records

Oyster Bay Town Clerk Carl L. Marcellino has another one of the records, the Town records that is, in the form of a Local Government Records Management grant, making this the fourth consecutive year he has secured such a grant for his office.

"This is the fourth year this type of grant, which was established by the Archives and Records Administration of the State Education Department, was made available, and it is the fourth year my office has received a grant," the Town Clerk Marcellino stated. "I believe that reflects well on the operation of my office and on my own personal dedication to preserving and protecting the records entrusted to my care."

He went on to explain that under the grant, funds are awarded on an open-competitive basis to municipalities, schools, libraries and other records-retaining offices or institutions. Money for the program comes from requests under the Freedom of Information Law (FOIL) where individuals have to pay for copies of information they want. He noted that the Town's Department of Intergovernmental Affairs gave him assistance in applying for the grant.

Jottings From Yesteryear

By Bill Clark

Just back from visiting my sister in Florida. I came back to get warm. It is hotter and more humid here. We drove for a couple of hours on the main thruways lined with trees on both sides, and easy on the eyes, like we once had up here. Now they seem to think that tall concrete or heavy logs of wood walls for miles are easy on the eyes. The live wood with branches and leaves sure look nicer and no great expense per mile. We went to the Lion Country Safari, a far cry from

Moving Up Day

Elementary School Students Celebrate Moving Up! Pictured is Old Country Road School Principal Gersaldine Silver presenting diplomas at Moving Up Day Exercises. Fifth grade students in each of the district's six elementary schools participated in moving up exercises. In honor of the occasion at Old Country Road, Mrs. Silver shared with the students the book entitled "Oh, the Places You'll Go" by Dr. Seuss. PTA president Mary Beth Becker presented a photograph of the students to the principal to be hung in the school. In addition, students at each of the schools were recognized for academic excellence, perfect attendance and special achievements. At Old Country Road School, parents beamed, some with a tear in their eye, as the students sang "As we walk down the aisle, We leave you with a smile, You made it all so worthwhile."

In Service

Navy Seaman Recruit Salvatore DeFazio, a 1992 graduate of Hicksville High School is currently deployed and has completed the first half of a six-month Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean deployment aboard the amphibious cargo ship USS El Paso, homeported in Norfolk, Va. as part of the USS Wasp Amphibious Ready Group.

DeFazio is again participating in Operation Restore Hope, a peace-keeping operation off the coast of Somalia. Elements of the amphibious ready group provided a rapid, from the sea response force of Navy units and Marine Corps special operations capable assault troops, helicopters, Harrier Aircraft, and other amphibious assault vehicles to the multi-national peace-keeping force commander in Somalia.

He joined the Navy in Sept., 1992.

Now, today, 50 years later I am here at the same building, but now it is the Hicksville Gregory Museum along with the other old fossils, minerals, etc., and possibly some of the nearly 1000 butterflies that I had in my stomach in the '40's. They are part of the many things to see at the museum.

Independence Weekend Stirs Hicksville Veterans

By Richard Evers

Fourth of July this year may have taken place on July 5th, but Hicksvilleites were not dismayed, from the turnout of war veterans and public at the Oyster Bay Town Independence Day programs held on Monday, July 5th. Taking part, once again, in the Town festivities were Hicksville's color guard and members from the Charles Wagner Post 421 - American Legion, the William Gouse 1311 Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Henry Biel Post of the Masonic War Veterans. Other Hicksvilleites stood tall with the colors of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association and the Disabled War Veterans of America.

In a position of some prominence was Legion Post 421 past commander Arlene Howard who paraded as Vice Commander of the Nassau American Legion Third Division, with County Commander Willibe Wilson and his staff. Richard Evers, a 22 year Town Bicentennial and Historical Commission member, served once again as a Parade Marshal.

This year's Oyster Bay Independence Celebration was again sponsored by the Town's Bicentennial and Historical Commission with the cooperation of the Town Department of Parks and the Oyster Bay Community Band under Director Michael Iannuccello. The program at the Bandstand, Townsend Park, was chaired by Miss Dorothy Norton McGee, Chairperson of the Town Commission, and Town Historian.

Oyster Bay's 340th Anniversary as a settled community was the program's significant focus, a colorful recollection of the time when Oyster Bay was part of Dutch New Netherland. Recalling 1653 and the years of the dynamic, able Governor Peter Stuyvesant, was guest speaker John Voorhis, a Trustee of the Holland Society of New York. Among other guest speakers was Oyster Bay Town Supervisor Lewis Yevoli, who welcomed the enthusiastic turnout of citizenry and color guards, and paid tribute to the inspired efforts by Dorothy McGee for her yearly commemorative programs which recall Oyster Bay's role in America's history. Councilman Douglas Hynes, always an eloquent speaker, recalled highlights of Oyster Bay's 340 years.

Among the notable war veterans post leaders marching in the short parade through the village, preceding the bandstand ceremonies, were: Nassau County American Legion Commander Willibe Wilson and staff, Nassau County Council Veterans of Foreign Wars Commander Harriet Williams, Nassau Suffolk District Council Jewish War Veterans of the U.S.A. Commander Alvin Leibowitz, and Harold Johnson, Commander, Henry Biel Post 45 of the Masonic War Veterans of New York State.

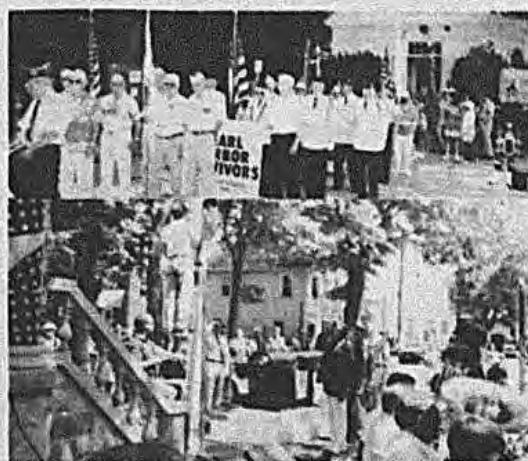

Among the regular military unit color guards and commanders present were: Lt. Colonel R.M. Carroll, 25th Marines; Chief Warrant Officer Myron A. Verville, U.S. Coast Guard Station, Eatons Neck, The Hofstra University Dutch Burgher Guard were under the command of Major Vincent Montero. Represented also were volunteer firemen from Oyster Bay and East Norwich, TOBAY, 4-H Council, Girl Scout troops and leaders of historical societies. Music for the parade was provided by pipers from the Gordon Highlanders Pipe Band and the FBI Pipe Band.

Most Input Callers Want Stricter Immigration

Most callers to Input believe that there should be sharp controls over immigration in response to this question: "Should we close immigration to countries that allow terrorists to publicly state intentions to harm the U.S.?" Here are some of the answers:

DON'T LIMIT IMMIGRATION

This is the most inhumane suggestion contrary to our Statue of Liberty and our own Constitution. This attitude was expressed by FDR when he turned back a shipload of refugees to die in death camps. We would have refused the Irish refugees. We would have refused Germans now because of the new Nazi terrorists. The innocent would pay the price for the criminals. It will lead to less international travel and more ignorance. Keep out the terrorists but not the innocent. This suggestion would benefit the terrorists by keeping the innocent trapped. A.G.

CLOSE IMMIGRATION

We should close immigration from countries that harbor terrorists. This applies most particularly to the Moslem countries where the terrorist threat is greatest. Moslems represent a distinct danger to American democracy. We should learn from the Lebanese experience where democracy collapsed once the Moslems became a majority. The U.S. must place restrictions on Moslem immigration and have strict surveillance on the fundamentalists. Attempts to distinguish between fundamentalists and other Moslems is futile. The Moslem religion in its pure form is incompatible with democracy. It rejects any distinction between government and religion. State and church are one, this is the slogan. "No law, no constitution only the laws of God and the Koran." A.B.

PROTECT OURSELVES

Countries that openly proclaim and embrace terrorists should not be allowed to send people to the U.S. This should not apply to those genuinely seeking refuge in this country and can prove it. We must tighten all immigration and those who are part of groups that seek to use terrorist methods whether here or in other countries should not be allowed here. We have to protect our own country first. L.G.

TERRORISTS OUT

By all means we should stop allowing people into the country who believe in terror. The lesson came home to us first hand in the bombing of the World Trade Center. When we hear of these things in other countries it does not make a full impression on us. We sometimes think of the cause as being important as is the case with North Irish terrorism, but we forget about the innocent who are blown up just because they are in the wrong place at the wrong time. No matter if the cause is Irish, Moslem or anything else, we must do everything possible to control terrorism. In addition this country should not be engaging in terrorism by bombing civilians in countries where we do not like the leaders. K.B.

TIGHTEN ENTRY

Our methods of allowing people into this country has to be tightened severely. The fact is that our loose system is easier on the fakes who find their way here for some ulterior motive than for those who are seeking entrance to find a better life. And by being so easily fooled we are narrowing the number of legitimate people who can get in by filling the country with people who are going to harm us. F.D.

BELIEVE IN DEMOCRACY

Yes. We should keep the Arab Moslem fundamentalists out of here. Their idea of justice is to wreak havoc on our cities. We want people here who believe in democracy. N.D.

MUCH TOO LIBERAL

Needless to say, in my opinion the question really answers itself. Anyone publicly stating his or her intention is to harm the U.S. should have his or her head examined, expressing at the same time the intention to enter our country with this clearly in mind. Needless to say, this applies equally to any terrorists already residing in our country. I will never understand how those involved in the Twin Tower affair were not apprehended earlier. They were apparently well known as dangerous immigrants but with no evident or timely effort on our part to apprehend them prior to any damage on their part. Perhaps one might say that we would be going too far in punishing the entire country by teaching such a lesson to a few miscreants but it has already been very clear as to the amount of irrevocable damage which can be done by such individuals. In my opinion, we are much too liberal in not establishing adequate controls to offset the possibility of such threats to our proud nation. P.G.S.

The Fifth Of July

By Domenick J. Freda

The Fourth of July always leaves me somewhat drained; after six or seven hours of watching things blow up, everything else seems anti-climatic. One can imagine what it's like to wake up the day after, feeling emaciated, hoarse and burnt, like the charred remains of a once brilliant firework. Rainy fifth of July have more appeal to me than the hot, muggy, sunny ones, not for any symbolic cleansing of the sky, rather because they cool temperatures and make me feel as if somebody else feels let down as well.

I remember the excitement, when I hadn't seen many years or many things incinerated, of the simple stuff that private combustible celebrations consisted of: bottle rockets, whistlers, sparklers, poppers and snappers. I'm sure the Grucci family didn't fret of losing any business to a bunch of kids riding around the school yards with a handful of rockets and dad's lighter, but I would not be surprised if their dynasty did not have a similar beginning. The big kid on the block, always out to impress somebody, would bring a few of the bigger, more colorful rockets, the kind that explode in three colors, and would expertly set them in the ground under the amazed glances of a bunch of eleven-year-olds. We'd bunch in as tight as possible to watch him light the fuse and get a better feel of the excitement and the danger, trying to feel older and braver, as if our proximity meant we were allowed to play with the more dangerous fireworks. A little crackle and sparkle and the big kid spun on his heels and ran, prompting us to scatter, nervously giggling and shouting. The jet airplane "woosh" of the rocket signaled the fleeing to turn around, just in time to notice the rocket's final ascending moments before it burst into an amazing floral design in the early morning sky.

The big kid would then start acting "grown-up" and analytically state that it was not dark enough to see anything and that he had to save the rest of his projectiles for the forthcoming evening. I would rush to get a glimpse of the dull-colored papier-mâche wrapper of the remaining rockets before the older kid left, scanning the foreign letters and symbols for the words "Big Bomb" or "Red Rocket" so that I could remember them to impress my friends with my pyrotechnic expertise that night. The big kid rode off on his ten-speed bicycle and we kids would launch a few more bottle rockets, imagining that the tiny bursts were actually grandiose multi-colored spectacles even better than what we had just seen. When we ran out of rockets or just got too hot and tired of standing in the summer sun, we'd walk back to our bikes, past even smaller kids with sparklers in hand, who had watched us with awe and now stood dumbfounded. Kicking the burnt out firecracker tanks and helicopters from last night's early celebration, we'd run through the school yard and sprint race back to our milk-crates-tied-on-for-newspaper-route bikes to see who could get home first.

The Fourth of July and the backyard barbecue have become synonymous in American culture; for me, the Fourth of July meant a barbecue with my relatives - especially older cousins and uncles who loved to set off the fireworks. Of course this also meant over-protective parents who never let me watch my cousins light the most dangerous, loud and exciting firecrackers across the street from my aunt's house. (Counting five fingers on each hand, I don't mind not remembering how an M-80 firecracker looks while exploding at close range.) Beyond all the glitter of small bombs bursting in air, my cousins and their friends had all the "Big Bombs" and rockets of all shapes and sizes, the togetherness of family and the celebration of the nation that allowed my family to be happy and prosperous shone brighter than any rocket I ever remembered. We celebrate as a nation with a special day, we celebrate as a municipality with a parade, but only when we were able to celebrate as a family did I realize the significance of this day to contemporary patriots: the freedom from poverty, from oppression, from fear, all make the birth of this country worth lighting all these firecrackers. The ability to share such an occasion ensures that there will always be families having cookouts commemorating their American citizenship.

To most people, the fifth of July usually means using up fireworks that no one remembered to light or cleaning up the backyard or the street where happy faces lit with the brilliance of the sky left paper plates smeared with barbecue sauce. Years ago, when there was no barbecue and I was too young to have friends with bottle rockets, I would walk the streets and the school yards trying to find some unlit shell amongst the debris. I never found anything except the connection between the streaks in the heavens and what took off from the ground, almost the same feeling as being backstage after a Broadway show.

Now I'm the big kid, although I still don't have any rockets, but I can light my friend's rockets without fear of blowing up (the knowledge, yes; the fear, no). The adults like to fire off mortar shells, the big, flowering fireworks, and I still try to get a glimpse of the wrapping. Fortunately, no one has to tell me to take cover when these things go off, I have seen what happens when something goes wrong.

The only problem with growing older with the Fourth is that the family barbecues stop eventually because the cousins grow up, the uncles grow tired, and some grow so old that they have passed on. Most of my bottle rocket friends have moved away or gone to work, although I do sometimes hear them firing bottle rockets from their cars as they race down my block.

I guess I do not appreciate the fifth because I think about what might have been, not the memories that made the day special in my past. Perhaps one day I will light my young son's sparkler and hopefully he will understand what the whole tradition means to Americans and families.

Celebrating corn and its byproducts

By Carol Cutler

With spring asparagus and peas on the wane and snap beans in the stores, thoughts begin turning to local tomatoes and corn. The seasonal calendar still holds true for most fruits and vegetables, but now there is one big exception, and a most pleasurable one: corn.

No longer does the whole country have to wait until July and August to sink eager teeth into the milky kernels. There has been a revolution in the breeding of corn, and now "supersweet" corn is yours to enjoy for many extra months of the year.

This good news comes from a great expert, Betty Fussell, author of "The Story of Corn" (Knopf). The subtitle of the book is "The Myths and History, the Culture and Agriculture, the Art and Science of America's Quintessential Crop."

The years of research that went into the broad sweep conveyed by that subtitle were warmly rewarded when "The Story of Corn" received the Jane Grigson Award for Scholarship at the recent honor ceremony of the International Association of Culinary Professionals in New Orleans. This was the first time such an award was made as a tribute to the late Grigson, the influential and astute English food writer.

Fussell cautions that supersweet corn should not be treated as ordinary corn. These stalks have been bred for sweetness; some contain as much as 25 percent sugar. The expert believes that supersweet is best eaten raw, like an apple.

If you must cook it, no more than 30 seconds in the boiling water, please. She wants you to warm it up just enough to melt the butter. The old three-minute cooking rule was devised 20 years ago when corn was an ear of a whole different breed. It would be like comparing a word processor to a manual typewriter.

In addition to being extra sweet, the geneticists have also bred the corn to convert its sugar into starch at a much slower rate. This explains why Florida corn can travel north and taste as sweet in Michigan as it does in Miami. You also have your choice of color — yellow, white or a colorful combination of the two.

So come July and August, what will the local product give you that Florida can't? The answer is a creamier texture, but the flavor will be about the same. Fussell states that there is no single best corn. As with anything produced by nature, it's a matter of a combination of factors: soil, care, water and, of course, genetics.

What is fascinating about "The Story of Corn" is that it makes you stop and think about aspects of our daily lives that we have long taken for granted.

Q. We are not wine drinkers. If we're giving a party, what kind of wine should we stock in order to take care of our wine-drinking friends' pleasure - from cocktail hour through dinner? W.L.

A. For the cocktail hour you might have on hand dry or sweet sherry, or dry or sweet vermouth, or any of the popular "aperitifs." Many choose a glass of dry white wine at the cocktail hour (either chilled or "on the rocks").

For the first course, or to drink with any fish, salad, chicken, veal or fruit, a chilled white wine is nice (such as Chablis, Soave, Riesling, Chenin Blanc, Pinot Chardonnay).

For the meat or game course (or the salad with cheese), serve a Burgundy, Bordeaux, Chianti, Cabernet Sauvignon or Zinfandel at a cool room temperature (from 60 to 70 degrees).

Rose wines should be chilled like white wines. A rose is best served with a light dish and is more popular in hot weather than in cold.

KITCHEN KIDS

Grilling on the barbecue is one of the simple pleasures of summer. The cooking method is one where children can be involved, even though they aren't the ones actually doing the grilling. It does require an adult assistant, but the preparation can be completely done by your child.

Your children's age and dexterity determines how much help they need in preparing these dinners. Starting about the age of 9, they can handle many of the steps in the recipes alone. It is the preparation and marination that gives the recipes distinctive tastes, thus allowing your children to set the tone of dinner.

The Chicken Sticks are a delicious combination of chicken, mild sausage and vegetables. The ingredients are cut, then skewered by your kids and left to marinate and absorb the flavors. Served with corn, rice or a simple salad, this is a refreshing change from a standard barbecued chicken.

CHICKEN STICKS

4 whole chicken breasts, boneless and skinless
1 pound medium Italian sausage
2 medium zucchini
1 large red bell pepper
12 large mushrooms
Marinade:
1/4 cup white grape juice
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup olive oil
10 sprigs of mint
2 green onions
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
Yields 4 servings.

Preparation time: 30 minutes.
Marinating time: 2 hours.
Grilling time: 15 minutes.

Utensils: pie pan, 8 bamboo skewers, mixing bowl, cutting board, knife, measuring cups and spoons, mixing spoon, glass baking pan.

Fill pie pan with 1 inch of water and soak skewers while preparing chicken, sausage and vegetables.

Cut each chicken breast into 2-inch pieces and set them aside. Wash and dry cutting board. Cut sausage into 1-inch pieces, set aside. Secure zucchini on board and trim off stem. Cut zucchini into 1/4-inch slices and set aside. Cut second zucchini in same manner.

Secure pepper on board and cut in half through stem. Scrape out seeds and pull off stem. Lay pepper halves, shiny side down, on cutting board and cut into strips at least 1 1/2 inches wide. Cut 1 1/4 inches down each strip, making a square. Set pepper squares aside.

Pull stems off mushrooms and set them aside.

Skewer chicken, sausage and vegetables alternately onto bamboo sticks. Set aside while preparing marinade.

Combine grape juice, lemon juice and olive oil in mixing bowl. Pull mint leaves off stems and put them on cutting board. Chop into small pieces and add to bowl. Trim root end off green onions. Cut them into thin slices and add to bowl. Whisk in salt and pepper, then pour marinade into the glass baking pan. Add skewers to marinade, turning them several times to coat. Refrigerate for 2 hours.

Thirty minutes before dinner, have an adult prepare coals. When ready, place skewers on grill and cook for 7 minutes before turning. Continue cooking for another 7 minutes. Remove and serve hot.

Crisp summer whites

It's the season when vegetables and herbs go into everything, from soups (like gazpacho) to pastas (like pesto) to salads (like tuna fish and chicken) to meatloaf sandwiches. Honest. Try meatloaf, mustard and fresh cucumber on a seeded roll. You can thank me later. And for a wine selection?

The wine I most often reach for with these lighter, herb-y summer dishes is Sauvignon Blanc or Fume Blanc (essentially two names for the same thing), wine that tastes a bit like summer itself. Sauvignon Blanc leaves the refrigerator cold, crisp and with an herbal element of its own that at times can come across as menthol-like. Along with drier-style European Rieslings, a well-made Sauvignon Blanc just may be the most versatile white wine for food you can find.

Often blended with Semillon or another fruity grape, Sauvignon Blanc can develop a round, fairly full feel in the mouth without sacrificing that clean, palate-refreshing finish. When treated like a Chardonnay, with oak-barrel fermentations and aging, Sauvignon Blanc can take on various attributes of creaminess and woodiness as well. This is anathema to Sauvignon Blanc purists but delicious to drinkers who cut their teeth on Chardonnay.

Perhaps best of all, you don't have to pay Chardonnay money for a quality Sauvignon Blanc or Fume Blanc, especially an American one. There are many lovely wines in the $10 and under bracket, and some gorgeous ones priced between $10 and $15. The following are some wines to look for.

The top Sauvignon/Fume Blancs previously reviewed:

($7 and under) Estancia 1991 Sauvignon Blanc; Geyser Peak 1991 Sauvignon Blanc; Columbia Crest 1991 Sauvignon Blanc; Robert Mondavi Woodbridge 1991 Sauvignon Blanc; Mirassou 1991 Sauvignon Blanc; Montevina 1991 Fume Blanc; Caliterra 1992 Sauvignon Blanc (Chile).

($8-$11) Barnard-Griffin 1991 Fume Blanc (Washington); Byron 1991 Sauvignon Blanc; Buena Vista 1991 Sauvignon Blanc, Lake County; Ferrari-Carano 1991 Fume Blanc; De Loach 1991 Sauvignon Blanc; De Loach 1991 Fume Blanc; Chateau Ste. Michelle 1991 Sauvignon Blanc (Washington); Fetzer 1991 Sauvignon Blanc "Barrel Select"; Preston 1991 "Cuvee de Fume"; Barton & Guestier (B&G) 1991 "1725" (white) (France); Fortant de France 1991 Sauvignon Blanc (France); Errazuriz 1991 Sauvignon Blanc Reserva (Chile).

(Over $12) Long Vineyards 1990 Sauvignon Blanc; Robert Mondavi 1991 Fume Blanc Reserve; Dry Creek Vineyard's 1990 Fume Blanc Reserve; Merryvale 1990 Meritage; Murphy-Goode 1991 Reserve Fume Blanc.

Sauvignon/Fume Blancs reviewed this week (all wines $10 or under unless specified):

At the top of the vintage class of 1991 are the Caymus 1991 Sauvignon Blanc, Napa Valley, at about $11.50, and the Dry Creek Vineyards 1991 Fume Blanc, Sonoma County, at about $9. Both are subtle, harmonious wines in which the winemaker has achieved a not-so-simple goal: flavorful, nuanced Sauvignon Blanc in which no one flavor or quality sticks out. The Caymus is a medium-bodied, aromatic blending of fruit and wood. The Dry Creek Vineyards is more fleshed out and juicy, but also subtle, with fine menthol and herb notes and a touch of creaminess.

"Let food be thy medicine" — Hippocrates, 431 B.C.

If you believe a glut of books flooding the market, then you'll come to think that: Pasta reduces stress; cool sherbet helps a sore throat; cabbage helps treat ulcers; cranberries speed up wound healing; legumes can reduce the risk of cancer; peanuts can provide a great pick-me-up; and a sweet fruit can satisfy a sugar craving.

So say books like "Superfoods," "Cold Spaghetti at Midnight," and "Foods That Heal," just to name a few.

But before you rush to find out what can cure your aches and pains, be skeptical of "magic" foods, says Sandra Eardley, registered dietitian and assistant professor at Southern Illinois University School of Medicine.

"You've got to take all this with a grain of salt," says Eardley. "No food is a magic bullet. Even milk, as wonderful as it is, isn't something you can live alone on because it's low in iron."

"When you're judging nutrition information, you want to look for information supported by research studies."

A second concern, says Eardley, is that "you can't tell a food where to go — that you're eating carrots to help your eyes."

These books work for people because they associate life experiences with food, says Eardley.

"When you have a cold, you end up eating what Mom used to feed you — no matter what the doctor says," she says.

There is research behind the premise that vitamin A helps fight cancer, but it doesn't mean it's a cure, she adds.

"Variety is still the key."

Most Americans want to believe in natural remedies and "superfoods," says a recent Natural Remedies survey of 200 adults by author and researcher of medicinal plants Stephen Fulder.

The telephone survey, conducted by Fulder, author of "Garlic: The Life Blood of Good Health" and "Garlic: Nature's Original Remedy," found 70 percent of respondents believe lemon and honey are an effective remedy for a sore throat. Meanwhile, 32 percent believe garlic may affect cholesterol, and 29 percent believe chamomile tea is an effective remedy for an upset stomach.

Delores Riccio, author of "Superfoods," says her book isn't intended to substitute for good medical care:

"This is simply to keep you healthy, give you lots of energy and help from aging too fast. I come as a writer, not a nutritionist or as a trained chef."

Therein lies the problem, says Eardley: "She's a journalist, not a nutritionist."

The premise of books like Riccio's is that you really are what you eat — that good food builds, repairs and fuels bodies and minds.

When food consumption is controlled, health, energy and moods are controlled.

"There are so many really super foods that prevent or heal illness, lift fatigue, alter mood and enhance alertness and memory, that once you fit them all into your menus, there won't be much room left on your plate for foods that are better left off it anyway," says Riccio.

The latter include a broccoli dish loaded with a heavy cream sauce or a cake in which sugar outweighs flour.

Riccio suggests keeping on hand old-fashioned oatmeal, brown and white rice, garlic, onions, shallots, olive oil, a variety of nuts and root vegetables, Parmesan cheese, tins of imported Italian whole plum tomatoes and fresh, frozen, canned and dried fruits.

She acknowledges that other foods, like zucchini, which didn't make her list of 35 "superfoods," have value.

"But 'superfoods' have multiple advantages," says Riccio.

Among her top 35: apples, bananas, barley, berries, broccoli, cabbage, cantaloupe, carrots, cauliflower, figs, fish, garlic, grapes, greens, legumes, mushrooms, nuts, olive oil, pasta, pineapple, potatoes, rice, tomatoes, turnips, wheat and yogurt.

"These are great foods to be eaten daily as much as possible," says Riccio, who researched the subject for years before she wrote the cookbook, her eighth.

"My mother was into this long before it was fashionable," says Riccio. "She came from a Mediterranean tradition that food, especially good food, is very important."

One of Riccio's favorite foods is pasta. When eaten without protein, Riccio says, it can be a drugless tranquilizer that relieves tension almost as fast as a couple of aspirins relieve a headache. Under stressful conditions, the brain uses up chemicals that stabilize the state of mind.

"With any carbohydrate, such as pasta, the brain begins manufacturing more serotonin, which promotes a calm, cheerful mood that puts one's problems into perspective. If proteins are consumed at the same time, amino acids slow down the process."

When you're feeling at wit's end, try a comforting bowl of vegetable soup thickened with lots of macaroni, and then relax, she recommends.

Maggie Waldron, author of "Cold Spaghetti at Midnight," says for a fever, drink plenty of liquids and take frequent baths and showers to wash toxins from the skin. For motion sickness, chew slices of ginger.

For indigestion, indulge in the friendly bacteria in cultured yogurt and kefir. For a cold sore, eat alkaline foods — lots of salads and steamed vegetables.

For acne, Waldron is convinced that cutting out sugar, which surfaces on the skin and invites bacteria to "come and feast," is the answer.

Waldron is best known for her promotion of potatoes, kiwi, beef and California raisins.

"It all started when I had a congenital bone problem as a kid. I broke a lot of bones. And the only thing my mom could do was fix the right food."

"It started my beliefs that food is the best medicine."

Her book takes a light-hearted, folk-medicine approach, offering cold spaghetti at midnight as a way to comfort, revive and even heal.

She'd feed a cold a Mexican pot pie in a cornmeal crust, use Jim Beard's Black Bananas to treat an upset stomach, or those same bananas covered with rum for a cold.

"The most important thing, really, is variety," says Waldron. "Some people eat the same 15 foods every week. That doesn't provide optimum nutrition. That doesn't work."

So what does?

Each claim must be analyzed, says Bob Reber, University of Illinois nutrition specialist. "It's very difficult for consumers."

"There's a little truth in all of it," says Reber. "Certain groups of vegetables, such as the broccoli family, do show reduced cancer risks. Years ago, the craze was vitamin C and colds."

"Consumers shouldn't place all their faith in something like that. Some people started taking vitamin C, yet still smoked. You have to look at all this in terms of your total lifestyle."

"It all goes back to variety and moderation. If people are out looking for easy answers, there are none."

"There's no quick and easy way to reduce your cancer risk by 50 percent."

Following are a few recipes that might comfort what ails you.

GREEK-STYLE SHRIMP WITH SHELLS

1/4 cup olive oil
1 large clove garlic, minced
4 large fresh ripe tomatoes, peeled and chopped (not seeded) OR 1 (1-pound) can imported Italian tomatoes, chunked, with juice
12 Greek olives, pitted
1 teaspoon dried oregano
1/4 teaspoon (or more) dried red-pepper flakes
Salt and black pepper to taste
1/2 cup dry white wine
2 tablespoons minced fresh flat-leaved parsley
1/2 pound cooked, shelled large shrimp OR cooked, cubed swordfish
1/2 pound medium shell macaroni, cooked according to package directions
1/4 cup loosely packed crumbled feta cheese

Yields 4 servings.
 Heat oil in large skillet. Sauté garlic but don't brown it.

Add tomatoes, olives and seasoning. Simmer uncovered for 10 minutes. Add wine and simmer 10 minutes more.

Add parsley and shrimp, bring back to a simmer and remove from heat.

Spoon hot, cooked macaroni into serving dish.

Stir in feta cheese; ladle sauce over top.

From "Superfoods" by Delores Riccio.

BROCCOLI AND ZITA CASSEROLE

1/4 cup olive oil
1 clove garlic, minced
1 1/2 pounds fresh broccoli, cooked
2 cups Italian tomato sauce
1/2 pound ziti, cooked according to package directions
1/4 cup Parmesan cheese
1 pound low-fat ricotta cheese
1/4 cup seasoned bread crumbs
2 tablespoons toasted wheat germ

Yields 6 servings.
 Preheat oven to 350 F.
 Heat olive oil in skillet; sauté garlic until softened but not brown. Stir broccoli into garlic oil and set it aside.

In large oblong casserole, layer half the tomato sauce, half the ziti, half the Parmesan cheese, all broccoli, all ricotta, remaining ziti, remaining sauce, bread crumbs, wheat germ and remaining Parmesan.

Cover and bake for 35 minutes in preheated 350 F oven (10 minutes longer if dish has been refrigerated before cooking). Uncover during last 15 minutes of cooking. Sauce should be bubbly and top lightly browned.

From "Superfoods" by Delores Riccio.

SWEET POTATO MUFFINS

2 cups sifted unbleached all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs OR 1/4 cup prepared egg substitute
1 medium sweet potato, baked and peeled (about 1 cup mashed)
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup milk
1/4 cup vegetable oil
2 tablespoons toasted wheat germ
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 cup raisins

Yields 12 muffins.
 Preheat oven to 400 F. Line 12-cup muffin pan with paper liners. Sift flour, baking powder and salt into large bowl.

In food processor, blend eggs, potato and sugar. (Or by hand, beat eggs and mash potato before blending with sugar.) Add milk, oil, wheat germ and spices; process or beat until smooth.

Pour liquid mixture into dry ingredients. Mix just enough to blend. Stir in raisins. Divide batter among muffin cups; fill about 1/2 full. Bake for 20 to 25 minutes.

MICROWAVE MAGIC

Desiree Vives

Summertime means fresh produce

It's summer, and that means fresh produce in abundance: time to revel in fruits like peaches, nectarines, apricots, melons, strawberries, grapes and cherries. Many vegetables are at the peak of their yearly supply now, too, like summer squash, snap beans, bell peppers, okra, corn, lettuce, tomatoes and cucumbers.

Locally grown produce — sold in smaller markets or at roadside stands — is often more flavorful than that grown by large-scale commercial farms. Also, locally grown fruits and vegetables are less subject to chemical treatment. Produce grown for a local market won't be shipped to faraway places, so there's less need for anti-spoilage chemicals. Nevertheless, wash all vegetables and fruits thoroughly in clean water before using.

Frozen veggies are generally about as high in nutrients as many fresh ones because they're flash-frozen just after harvesting, thus preserving their freshness and quality.

But sometimes freezing can result in loss of texture — so nothing beats fresh for good eating.

Be careful to use fresh produce quickly after purchase for best nutrition. Some vegetables lose flavor, quality and nutrients just days (or even hours) after picking, so shop frequently and use produce as soon as possible.

Microwaving, too, keeps vitamins and nutrients intact. Long boiling leaches out nutrients from vegetables, particularly water-soluble ones like vitamin C. So it's best to cook vegetables quickly, with little or no added water. Many vegetables can be steamed to perfection in a microwave oven, using only the water that clings to them from washing — so you don't drain away vitamins and minerals.

It's easy to microwave whole corn on the cob and whole artichokes. For corn, remove husk and silk, rinse, and wrap in plastic. For artichokes, trim off stem flush with bottom, and use scissors to snip off sharp tips from leaves. Rinse, then wrap in plastic. Microwave three to four minutes per ear of corn, four to seven minutes per artichoke.

Couldn't be easier.

Pattypan and zucchini are my favorite varieties of summer squash. Microwave whole or chop into bite-size pieces (be sure to cut uniformly to ensure even cooking). Like tomatoes, zucchini is so easy to grow that you may find yourself with a surplus. If so, try today's Summer Zucchini Medley.

Use summer tomatoes fresh in salads or sliced on burgers or sandwiches. Or microwave peeled, chopped tomatoes into a pasta sauce or a savory salsa to serve with chips or tacos.

Fresh tomatoes combine with other summer vegetables (cucumbers and bell peppers) to make the delightful Spanish garden soup, Gazpacho. Chill thoroughly, garnish as desired, and serve with cheese, a loaf of crusty bread and a dry white wine.

Make the most of summer this year by taking advantage of fresh produce. Nutritionists keep reminding us that Americans need to eat more vegetables and fruits, and when these are fresh and delicious, that's no chore. (They're naturally low in calories, too.)

GARDEN FRESH GAZPACHO

1/2 cup chopped red sweet onion
 1/2 cup chopped green bell pepper
 1 clove garlic, minced
 1 cup fresh cucumber, peeled and chopped
 8 cups peeled, chopped fresh tomatoes OR 1 (48-ounce) can chopped tomatoes
 1/4 cup olive oil
 3 tablespoons white wine vinegar
 2 cups tomato juice
 Juice of one lime
 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
 Dash EACH ground cumin, chili powder and oregano (to taste)
 Ice cubes, chopped tomato, cucumber, red onion, fresh parsley or cilantro, sliced black olives, grated Parmesan cheese or crumbled feta cheese and toasted croutons for garnish.

Yields 6 to 8 servings.

Preparation time: 20 to 25 minutes (plus chilling time).

Cooking time: 3 to 4 minutes.

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power).

Combine onion, green pepper and garlic in 2-cup microwave-safe measure. Cover with plastic wrap and microwave 3 to 4 minutes, or until vegetables are soft. Turn vegetables into blender container. Add cucumber, tomatoes, olive oil and vinegar. Cover and blend until smooth (process in batches, as necessary).

Pour into large bowl. Stir in tomato juice, lime juice, and seasonings. Cover and chill until ready to serve (2 to 3 hours). To serve, ladle into individual serving bowls and float an ice cube or two in each. Pass garnishes at table.

MICRO-TIP OF WEEK

To peel tomatoes, microwave a deep microwave-safe bowl of water at HIGH (100 percent power) setting until boiling. Drop in tomatoes, one at a time, for a few seconds. Then peel off skin in strips, using a small, sharp paring knife.

FOR TEENS

By Willard Abraham,
Ph.D.

Dr. Abraham: I guess I'm one of those people who sometimes carry a grudge against others when their feelings are hurt. It doesn't happen often to me because I usually let their words roll right off.

My mom helped me when she told me something that went like this: "Sticks and stones may break my bones but names will never hurt me."

The main hurts I get come from other kids who say things related to the color of my skin. I won't repeat them here because they are so mean and nasty.

What do you think I should do about my feelings? I'd appreciate whatever you tell me. — Waiting

Waiting: To be able to forgive someone for insensitive comments is a goal you might want to have in mind. "To err is human, to forgive divine" is a frequently quoted line from the famous 18th century writer, Alexander Pope.

However, when prejudice enters a relationship it may become too difficult to cope with or to ignore. A quiet response suggesting how inappropriate the remark is may be useful, depending on the closeness of your relationship.

If the depth of your feelings and inadequate responses of others lead to unpleasant confrontations, or show a tendency in that direction, it may be time to seek more compatible comrades.

If any of you teen readers have had unfortunate experiences related to prejudice, please tell me how you handled them so I can share them with other teens.

Incidentally, I've tried to trace your mother's "sticks and stones" quotation to its source, using a book that is often useful ("Roget's International Thesaurus"), but couldn't find out where it came from. Are any of you willing to do a little detective work through a library and a skilled librarian or a school English teacher? It could be an enjoyable challenge for you.

Dr. Abraham: I always thought that girls were a lot cleaner about themselves than boys, but it's not true in my family. I'm 18 years old, and my sister is 16.

She is clean in a lot of ways, but not about her mouth. It's the cleanliness (or lack of it) that relates to her teeth.

She has used the same toothbrush morning and night for at least a few years and refuses to get a new one. I gave her one as a birthday present and she threw it at me. And her breath is bad, too. A guy would never kiss her more than once, that's for sure.

Are the toothbrush and bad breath related? I sure wish she'd listen to me. — Big Brother

Big Brother: Have your parents said anything about this matter to her? If not, they probably ought to be brought into the picture. Have you mentioned the kissing issue to your sister? Perhaps you should.

In the September, 1992 issue of Dental Notes published by the Academy of General Dentistry it is suggested that toothbrushes be changed every two months. If you write to them at 211 E. Chicago Avenue, Chicago, IL 60611-2670 (and enclose a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope) you can ask them for a copy of that issue. It also includes suggestions on toothbrush selection and usage.

Bad breath, by the way, may be due to other problems. You might — very carefully — suggest that she visit a dentist or physician about this matter.

Dr. Abraham: My girlfriend is so smart and fast at everything, but she does one thing that drives me nuts. I guess it's because she thinks faster than her fingers can write. The result is that I can't read her writing. It is just a scribble, maybe like a child would make. When I tell her that it is such a mess she cries and says she can't help it.

"That's the way I write. That's the way I always did," she says.

When I ask her whether others can read her writing, she says, No. Others write for her on her school assignments when she tells them what to write.

Isn't that a pistol? A grown girl who can't write. Gimme a break, willya?

And yet I really like her. She's a doll, and good to me in every way except when she writes. — Impatient

Impatient: If you really like her enough, you might consider these three possibilities: Encourage her to get a tutor who will concentrate on this problem (perhaps a teacher, a bright student who can write legibly or if there is a psychological or coordination problem, a competent professional in those areas); suggest she learn how to type; try to become more patient with her and back off from what may have become nagging on your part.

If your relationship isn't strong enough to handle this situation, you may have to seek other female companionship. I hope not, though.

Dr. Abraham: My boyfriend is real cautious about how he drives, locks door and dresses (balancing colors and stuff like that). That doesn't bother me usually because I'm the kind of person who can misplace or lose keys and dress sort of helter-skelter and not give a darn. In fact, I sometimes like how sensible he is because it makes things easier for me.

But if we stay together or even get married some day, will his careful, serious personality become a pain in the neck to me? What do you think? — Tell Me

Tell Me: It may depend on how much you really like each other, how patient you are with each other's characteristics, and how mature you become in your relationship.

It sounds like he is a stable individual whose personality may fit in with yours in a comfortable way.

Sauces add polish to any dish

By Laura Daily

"Sauces are the most important part of the meal and the most difficult to produce if you aren't careful," believes Chef Scott Philip of the Snowmass Lodge & Club in Snowmass Village, Colo.

"Anyone can prepare great vegetables or meat, but the sauce is what really distinguishes a dish," he adds.

Philip advocates setting aside one or two days each month to prepare basic stocks. The finished product can be frozen in any volume, from ice-cube size (just pop one out of the tray instead of using bouillon cubes) to larger quantities for stews or as the basis of a more complex sauce.

His only caveat for stock preparation: "Watch that your meats (chicken, veal or beef) attain a rich, caramelized color but don't burn. A black crust will cause the sauce to taste bitter. Celery leaves, carrot skins and onion skins will also cause bitterness."

Philip likes stocks as the basis for sauces, "because if a stock is reduced enough, you get lots of flavor without having to add seasonings, especially salt."

For pasta, chicken or salmon dishes, Philip recommends cream sauces.

"The basics are very simple and you can create a variety of flavors just by adding different ingredients before the final reduction," he says. "Mushrooms, herbs, Parmesan cheeses all work well. You're only limited by your imagination."

To keep creams from burning, Philip says, don't reduce the sauce too far; instead, rely on adding small amounts of a cornstarch-and-water mixture to obtain the correct consistency.

"Bring the sauce to a boil each time after adding the cornstarch so you can judge the sauce's thickness," cautions Philip. "If you just keep adding cornstarch and then bring the sauce to a boil, you'll end up with glue."

Beurre blancs are considered one of the most difficult sauces to make, requiring both concentration and luck. But the results are worth the effort and can make any fish dish really special.

Cream sauces and beurre blancs are best prepared just before serving. If you must refrigerate, Philip reminds cooks that cream-style sauces will only take one reheating, and that should be done with great care to avoid breaking the sauce.

ROSEMARY CREAM

2 tablespoons chopped shallots
2 teaspoons chopped garlic
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 cup white wine
3 cups heavy cream
2 tablespoons chopped rosemary
3 tablespoons chopped reconstituted sun-dried tomatoes
1 tablespoon cornstarch mixed with a little water
Salt and pepper to taste

Saute shallots and garlic with olive oil in saucepan. Do not brown. Deglaze with white wine and reduce to half. Add cream and bring to a boil. Reduce to simmer for about 5 minutes.

Add rosemary and sun-dried tomatoes. Continue to reduce. Whisk in cornstarch and water mixture. Simmer for 3 to 4 minutes longer. Season to taste if needed.

TOMATO BEURRE BLANC

2 tablespoons chopped shallots
1 teaspoon chopped garlic
1 teaspoon olive oil
½ cup white wine
½ cup orange juice
2 lemons, blanched zest and juice
¼ cup chopped reconstituted sun-dried tomatoes
1 tablespoon chopped basil
½ pound whole unsalted butter, cut into small pieces
Salt and pepper to taste

Saute shallots and garlic with olive oil in saucepan. Do not brown. Deglaze with white wine and orange juice. Reduce two-thirds. Add lemon juice and blanched zest. Add sun-dried tomatoes and basil. Then, slowly whip in whole butter, being careful not to break sauce. You also can place reduction into blender and slowly add butter. Strain sauce and season to taste if needed.

HUNTER SAUCE

1 tablespoon chopped shallots

2 tablespoons chopped garlic
2 teaspoons olive oil
2 ounces shiitake mushrooms, sliced
2 cups veal demi-glace
2 roasted shallots, rough chopped
2 Roma tomatoes, peeled, seeded and diced
½ teaspoon chopped rosemary
½ teaspoon chopped thyme
½ teaspoon chopped oregano
Salt and pepper to taste

Saute shallots and garlic with olive oil in saucepan. Add mushrooms and continue to saute. Add veal demi-glace. Bring to a boil, then reduce to a simmer. Add roasted shallots, tomatoes and herbs. Cook for 5 minutes. Season to taste if needed. This sauce works especially well on game or beef.

BROWN CHICKEN STOCK SAUCE

2 pounds chicken (meat and bones)
3 shallots, peeled
4 garlic cloves, peeled
1 gallon chicken stock
2-3 thyme stems
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoons black peppercorns

Heat roasting pan. Add small amount of oil and chicken. Place in oven at 400 F and brown bones, stirring about every 10 minutes. Add shallots and garlic when bones begin to brown. Continue cooking until bones and shallots and garlic are browned but not burned. Strain off fat from pan and deglaze with some of the chicken stock.

Add ingredients from roasting pan to stock pot. Add rest of stock, thyme stems, bay leaf and peppercorns. Bring to a boil, then reduce to a simmer. Continue to cook stock until it is reduced by a third. Strain stock. Leftover stock may be frozen.

Hearty in flavor but low in fat, this stock sauce really adds pizzazz to simple grilled chicken.

DISCOVERY

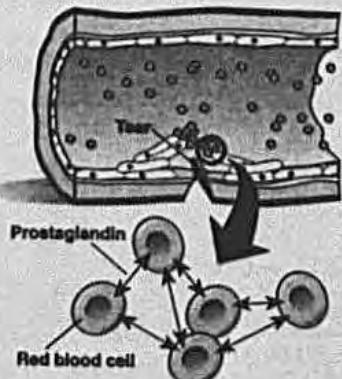

Aspirin, an oldie and a goodie

Though introduced in 1899, aspirin remains a useful and surprising drug. A white crystalline compound of acetylsalicylic acid, it is commonly used in tablet form to reduce pain or fever.

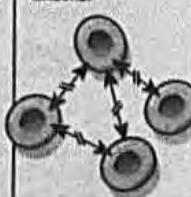

Aspirin reduces the production of certain prostaglandins. They are sometimes responsible for inflammation, pain, fever and the stickiness of red blood cells.

1 If there is a tear in a blood vessel, the prostaglandins direct the blood cells to clot together to stop the leak.

2 Since some heart attacks are caused by blood clots, aspirin helps relieve the clot. If taken regularly, aspirin may help prevent heart attacks.

Remember...

■ Never give aspirin to children under 12. Reye's syndrome may develop. Give acetaminophen or ibuprofen instead.

■ Aspirin, taken for long periods, may cause gastric disruptions.

Garden Talk

By C.Z. Guest

Weeds are every gardener's nemesis. No matter what you do, there always seems to be one lurking beneath the ground, ready to rear its ugly head between your carefully cultivated plants and flowers.

Weeds thrive where there is ample sunlight and room to grow. Among dense vegetation, like a healthy, well-maintained lawn, for example, weeds have a hard time establishing roots.

However, in flower beds and other more open planting places, weeds set up housekeeping, making them difficult to eliminate.

In the dark ages of lawn and garden care, people simply waited for weeds to appear, then got down on their hands and knees and pulled them out. Then they discovered that weeds couldn't grow beneath light-blocking plastic garbage bags.

However, plastic blocked everything — weeds, air, water — and led to soured soil that damaged plant roots. Now, thanks to a little scientific engineering, gardeners can beat weeds with the use of a landscape cover such as WeedBlock by Easy Gardener.

A strong synthetic fabric with thousands of "microfunnels" molded into it, WeedBlock permits the necessary air and water to penetrate the fabric while simultaneously blocking the sunlight that encourages weeds.

Besides deterring weeds, landscape fabrics also significantly reduce the amount of water lost to evaporation. With drought becoming an increasing problem in many parts of the country, these fabrics are being used for more than purely aesthetic purposes — they also conserve water.

APPLYING LANDSCAPE FABRIC

Flexible and able to contour to any surfaces, landscape fabrics are easy to use and give your property a professionally landscaped look.

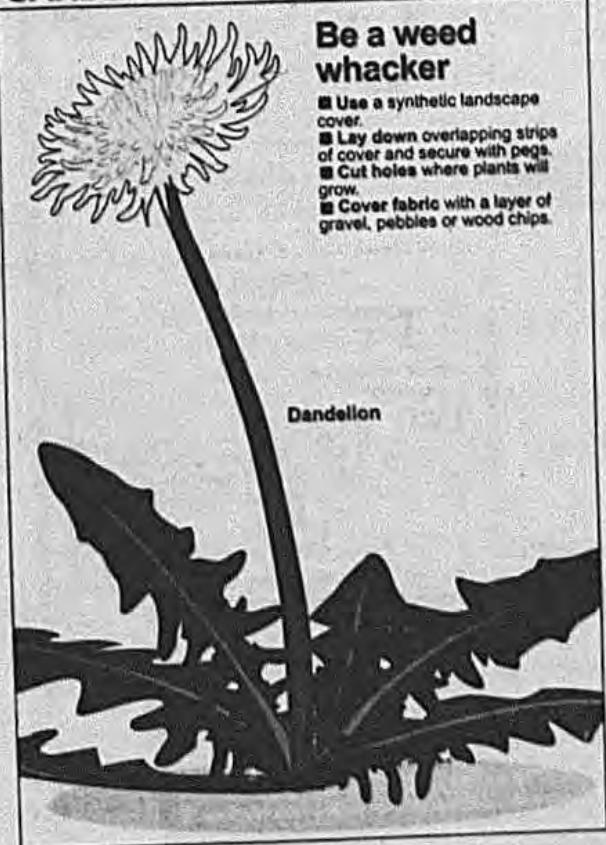

To prepare your beds, then, simply lay down overlapping strips of the fabric over the bed and secure with fabric pegs. Cut out holes or Xs with scissors or a knife where you wish your plants to grow. Then place plants directly through, into the soil.

Landscape fabric also can be used around existing trees, shrubs or perennial flower beds. To begin, clear away all surrounding weeds or grass, then place strips of fabric over the entire area, making sure it is as close to the plant as possible.

Trim away any excess. Then cover the fabric with an attractive layer of gravel, pebbles or wood nuggets.

For vegetable gardens, where cool soil is an asset, there also is White WeedBlock. Black on the soil side and white on top, these products have two functions: The white side reflects sunlight, warding off harmful insects that prey on the dark undersides of vegetation plants, while the dark side filters sunlight and blocks weed growth.

GARDEN TIPS

Be a weed whacker

- Use a synthetic landscape cover.
- Lay down overlapping strips of cover and secure with pegs.
- Cut holes where plants will grow.
- Cover fabric with a layer of gravel, pebbles or wood chips.

Our Children

By Willard Abraham

Parents fight chore war with kids

our own children were younger. However, my task was easier than yours because there weren't as many books to choose from as there now are.

One fortunate element for you is that there are experts to help you out. The best source (and there may be others) are school librarians and children's librarians in public libraries. They generally know children's interests and needs and can use maturity and other information that parents can provide.

Let me tell you about a new book that was beautifully written and illustrated for those in the 2- to 8-year-old range. It is titled "Socrates" (Chronicle Books) written by a clever author named Rascal and with bold, textured oil paintings from Gert Bogaerts. Both live in Belgium, but don't worry, the text is in simple, descriptive, sensitive English. It was created to be read to or with young children.

The story is a sheer delight, introduced by a picture on the cover of a large dog with long ears and soulful eyes circled by huge red-rimmed glasses.

The first page presents the same dog (without glasses) and only four words, "Socrates was an orphan." Then the story speeds up, with page two providing a pace and pattern that will please most young children.

"His parents had been snatched up by the dog-catcher and taken to the pound, leaving Socrates to live alone on the streets. He dreamed of a home other than his cardboard box. And, more than anything else, Socrates dreamed of having a friend."

Sadness, friendship and magic are all rolled together from that point on.

As you know, this is far from the only enjoyable book on those crowded shelves. The search for others might be frustrating but could be pleasant, too, especially if you involve your children in it.

Many recent books will attract your children and you, too, but try not to avoid those that have been appealing for youngsters for generations. A combination of carefully chosen past and present publications may be a wise way to go.

But start with one, and it will lead you to others. Those who work in bookstores generally have a good time sharing books, often whether you buy or not.

Q. As a parent, I want my children to enjoy reading because I do, but mainly because it can provide so many happy hours for them. My problem is that when I go into a bookstore and look through the many shelves filled with children's books, I'm puzzled, overwhelmed and even sort of turned off.

Where do I start? What do I look for? How do I know what to select from the huge, overflowing shelves of colorful books? They all look so good, but I just don't know what to choose. Our funds are limited, so I can't select a whole pile of them.

Can you help me out? Our children are 5 and 7 years old.

A. I can easily understand the frustration you feel because many times I've felt the way you do when

Could pollution cause breast cancer?

CHICAGO — Environmental contaminants, and specifically chlorine-based chemical pollutants, may account for rapidly rising breast cancer rates around the world, a recent study by the Greenpeace organization claims.

The study is among the first to link pollution to the growing problem of breast cancer, a disease that kills more than 500,000 women a year worldwide.

In the United States alone, breast cancer rates climbed 32 percent between 1980 and 1987, with the greatest increases occurring among women over 50.

Some environmental advocates charge that the possible tie between chemical pollution and breast cancer is often ignored.

"Breast cancer is one of the primary causes of premature death among women in the developed world, but there is very little mention of the connection between this disease and polluters," said Joan D'Argo, a campaigner for Greenpeace, an international environmental group.

The weight of evidence suggests that pollution, particularly from processes that use or produce chlorine, is a major factor in breast cancer," she added.

According to the study, chemicals known as organochlorines may be a major factor in causing breast cancer.

Organochlorines include such highly toxic chemicals as DDT, PCBs, dioxin and thousands of lesser-known chemicals, which accumulate over time in the body and have been proven to cause cancer.

Over time, these chemicals may interfere with or alter the body's ability to regulate estrogen, a hormone widely believed to play a role in breast cancer.

Some doctors claim that cancer researchers have long ignored the role of chemical pollutants in causing breast cancer despite decades of costly research.

"The cancer establishment remains fixated on obsolete 'blame-the-victim' theories of breast cancer causation, to the virtual exclusion of avoidable and unknown exposures to industrial carcinogens," said Dr. Samuel Epstein of the School of Public Health at the University of Illinois Medical Center in Chicago.

Researchers have "trivialized" the threat of chemical pollution and breast cancer, instead choosing to focus on cancer prevention programs that "reflect myopia and questionable science," he said.

However, an official with the National Cancer Institute discounted Epstein's claim and said the findings of the Greenpeace study were at best "suspect."

"There are a lot of problems with the data and the way the figures were obtained. I think he (Epstein) has some other agenda here. At this point, they're making some statements and allegations that are far beyond the data that exists now," the NCI official said.

The Greenpeace study also claims that:

- Women living in U.S. counties with waste sites were 6.5 times more likely to have elevated breast cancer rates than women in counties without a waste site.

- Levels of PCBs and DDT were 50 percent to 60 percent higher in the tissues of U.S. women with breast cancer than in women without breast cancer.

- Women working in petroleum, chemical, pharmaceutical and electrical equipment industries had significantly higher rates of breast cancer than other women.

- A study of 347 female chemists found breast cancer rates 63 percent higher than expected.

While breast cancer can be traced to other risk factors, such as heredity, reproductive factors and diet, those elements account for less than half of all cancer cases, said Joe Thornton, director of toxic research with Greenpeace and the author of the study.

The majority of breast cancer thus remains unexplained, (but) environmental pollution is likely to be a significant contribution," Thornton added.

Ample evidence points to chlorine-based chemicals as significant contributors to this epidemic," he said.

As a result of study, Greenpeace is proposing that the government order the gradual phasing out of chlorine and chlorine-based chemicals.

However, industry officials say such a move would be extremely costly since chlorine is used in a variety of products including paper, plastics and solvents.

Turkey fajitas add spice to summer nights

Looking for a way to spice up summer nights? Here's a fiesta of flavors that'll heat up your taste buds without warming your kitchen: Southwestern Citrus Salad, Spicy Turkey Fajitas and Refrigerated Cappuccino Dessert.

SPICY TURKEY FAJITAS WITH SOUR CREAM SAUCE

1 tablespoon paprika
½ teaspoon onion salt
½ teaspoon garlic powder
½ teaspoon cayenne pepper
½ teaspoon fennel seeds
½ teaspoon thyme
½ teaspoon black pepper
1 pound turkey tenderloins, butterflied
1 lime
8 corn or small flour tortillas

For Sauce:

1 cup sour cream
½ cup thinly sliced green onion
½ cup finely chopped fresh cilantro
1 (4-ounce) can diced green chilies, drained
1 plum tomato, seeded and diced
½ teaspoon black pepper
½ teaspoon cayenne pepper

Yields 4 servings.
Preparation time: 45 minutes, including time for marination.

In shallow, flat dish, combine paprika, onion salt, garlic powder, cayenne, fennel seeds, thyme and pepper. Rub mixture over turkey; cover and let sit at room temperature about 30 minutes.

Meanwhile, prepare sour cream sauce: In small bowl, combine all sauce ingredients; cover and refrigerate until ready to use.

Prepare grill. Once coals are ready, grill turkey 5 to 6 minutes, or until no trace of pink remains when turkey is pierced with knife. Turn tenderloin halfway through grilling time.

Remove turkey to serving plate and squeeze on juice of lime, slice turkey into ½-inch slices.

To serve, fill each tortilla with turkey slices and top with sour cream sauce.

SOUTHWESTERN CITRUS SALAD

4 lettuce leaves
3 seedless oranges, peeled and separated into sections
1 red pepper, cut into strips
1 cup jicama, julienned
½ cup thinly sliced red onions
1 lime, cut into 4 wedges

For dressing:
½ cup vegetable oil
¼ cup white vinegar
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon honey
½ teaspoon ground cumin
½ teaspoon chili powder
½ teaspoon salt

Yields 4 servings.
Place lettuce leaves on four individual salad plates. Arrange orange sections, red pepper, jicama and onions on serving plates, set aside in refrigerator.

To make dressing, mix together all ingredients; refrigerate.

REFRIGERATED CAPPUCCINO DESSERT

2 cups milk
1 tablespoon decaffeinated instant coffee
1 (3-ounce) package chocolate-flavor instant pudding
1½ cups thawed frozen whipped topping
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon

Yields 4 to 6 servings.
Preparation time: 8 minutes.
Pour milk and instant coffee into large bowl.

Add pudding mix. Beat with wire whisk 1 to 2 minutes or until well blended. Pour into individual dessert dishes; refrigerate.

Just before serving, mix whipped topping and cinnamon. Spread over pudding.

Here's How

By Gene Gary

Q. Our house, which was once in a quiet neighborhood, is located on a street that has become a main thoroughfare for traffic. The noises caused by passing traffic is awful.

Short of moving, do you know of anything we can do to combat this problem? — S.H.

A. Constructing a barrier between the street and your home is the best method of noise control. Most effective would be a concrete block or brick wall that is at least 6 feet high.

If your home is a two-story building, the barrier would have to be that much higher to help protect the second-floor level. Such a wall can deflect nearly 60 percent of the street sounds.

A wooden fence can reduce noise only by about 5 percent. Landscaping is also very helpful for sound absorption. This requires some long-term patience, however, as the greenery will need time to fill in. Check with your local nursery for recommendations on evergreen trees or shrubs that would be suitable for high hedges.

You also can block noise by sealing up holes with weatherstripping and caulking to assure that windows and doors are sealed tightly so that noise does not leak in through cracks and crevices. Sealing up holes around electrical service entrances, vents and any gaps where sound can sneak in is very helpful.

Install storm windows with heavy glass and good weatherstripping for added protection. Make sure your exterior doors are solid, tight-fitting at the threshold and weatherstripped. A solid door blocks out four times as much noise as a hollow-core door.

For dampers or flaps on bath-kitchen and laundry vents, install an extra elbow or section of bent flexible duct to create an indirect sound path. Add air conditioning, either window-mounted or a central system. This will allow you to keep windows and doors closed during warm weather and shut out the noise.

Another method of nixing noise is to fight sound with sound. You can purchase a little electronic gadget that is designed to generate an agreeable whir to mask persistent noise. However, masking the annoying noise can be a short-term solution if the masking sound becomes just as irritating as the ones you are trying to cover up.

Q. We are in the process of redecorating and have discovered that the existing wallpaper does not strip off the drywall with ease. We have tested several areas and the drywall panel is damaged when we try to remove the paper assisted by steam and a commercial stripping solution.

Do you know of any way we can remove this paper without damaging the wall board underneath? We want to get rid of wallpaper and paint the interior walls. — A.A.

A. Stripping off old wallpaper can tear the protective paper off the drywall panel at the same time, resulting in a surface that cannot be repainted. Excessive moisture from steaming to loosen wallpaper also can damage the drywall.

Another problem occurs if the drywall was not sealed before the wallpaper was hung. In this case, the drywall panel will have absorbed the wallpaper glue, and stripping the wallpaper will not only damage the drywall skin, but in many cases leave a glue residue that will prevent paint adhesion.

If the drywall paper hasn't been damaged during the stripping process, the glue can be scraped off. But you have to be very careful. Any damage to the drywall at this stage will mean that your previous tedious efforts to remove the paper will all be for naught.

Your best bet would probably be to have a drywall contractor cover the old wall with new sheets of 1/4-inch drywall. You will get a smooth wall in perfect condition for painting. The 1/4-inch panels can be glued in place using joint compound.

Since nails aren't necessary, you won't have to worry about covering indentations or nails popping in the future.

Window trouble

Q. I just don't know what to do with the windows in my living room.

They butt right up against the fireplace on one side (there's a bookcase on the other side).

I can't hang draperies or even put up a swag because there's just no space. I know it's hard to give advice without seeing the problem, but would you please try? — T.H.

A. I wouldn't say that "if you've seen one problem window, you've seen them all," but almost every architectural oddity has its parallel under some American rooftop.

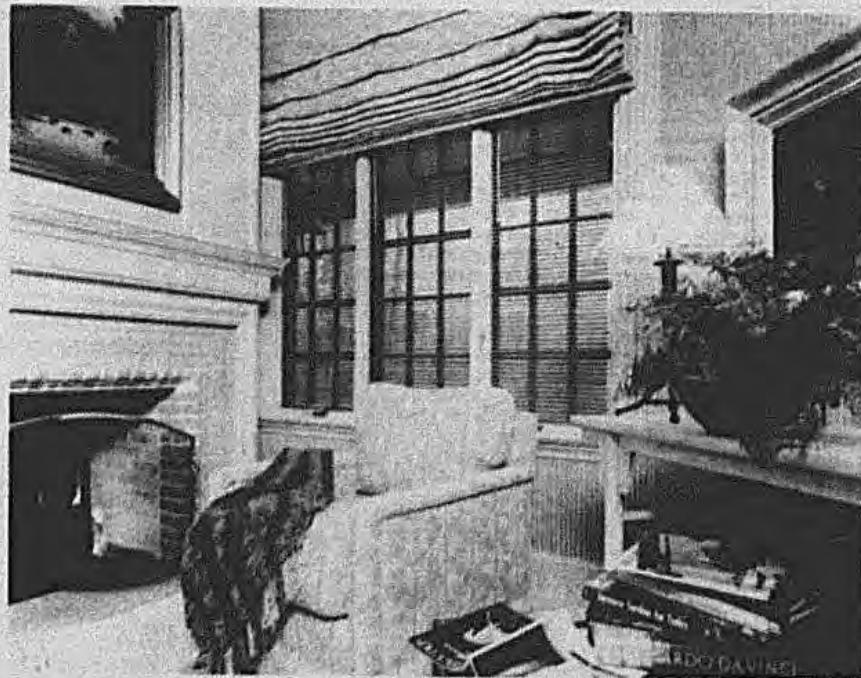

I found yours — and a good solution for it — in the photo we show here from the window experts at Hunter Douglas. No surprise, then, that their answer to an awkward corner window includes narrow wood blinds, a trio of them, used under a tailored Roman shade.

Both layers cling close to the windows, so there's no bulk to protrude into the room. And both have a strong architectural feeling that's more appropriate in this tight space than billows of fabric would be.

However, the shade is made to match the room's upholstered pieces, adding a soft touch, while the blinds offer light and privacy control with just a twist of Hunter Douglas' "magic wands."

Sight unseen, my advice for awkward room anatomy like yours: Think shades. Your options in types, sizes, colors and materials can help take the, ahem, pane out of window decorating.

CORNER CACHE — A window tucked awkwardly into a fireplace corner takes on architectural importance when it's dressed in miniblinds under a tailored Roman shade.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN (Never known to fail). Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me, herein you are my mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, show me herein you are my mother. Oh, Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (XO). Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances in my life you are with me, I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days, the request will be granted. This prayer must be published after the favor is granted. M.B. gcy3

GLORIOUS APOSTLE AND MARTYR ST. JUDE, helper of the helpless, the sick, the impossible, and worker of miracles, pray for us who beg you for your intercession. Thank You. H.G. hgy2

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE On Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful and intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depths of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked St. Jude, pray for us all who invoke your aid. Amen. Say 3 Our Fathers, 3 Hail Marys, 3 Glorias. Say for 9 consecutive days. Publication must be promised. This novena has never been known to fail. Thank you for answering my prayers. V.J.S. W-Jy3

ANTIQUE OR JUNQUE

By Anne McCollum

Q. My Prost Stein in the enclosed picture belonged to a relative of Italian descent, now deceased. No further details are known about it, except that it has been in my family for many years.

The following markings are on the bottom: "Germany — Gesetzlich — Geschützt." The lid appears to be pewter.

Any information will be appreciated.

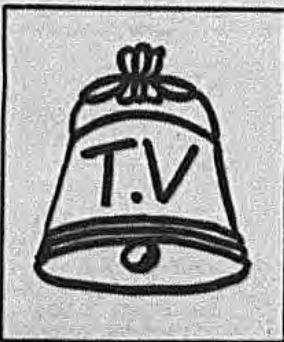

A. Your stein was made in Germany in the early 1900s. Gesetzlich and Geschützt mean the design is protected from being copied by other manufacturers.

The word Prost means "Here's to you," or "To your health."

This stein would be worth about $165 to $185.

Q. The enclosed mark is on the bottom of my porcelain cake plate. It is 11 inches in diameter, has a gold scalloped rim and a gold medallion against a white background.

Could you tell me where it was made, by whom, and its value?

A. Fine porcelain has been made in Limoges, France, for over a century by numerous factories. One of the most frequently found marks is 'Prosit!'

"T&V," which is Tressemans & Vogt, a New York importer.

Your cake plate was made for Tressemans & Vogt between 1891 and 1907. It might sell for about $65 to $75.

Q. Anything you could tell me about figurines made in occupied Japan would be greatly appreciated. I have collected quite a few over the years, bought mostly at yard sales.

Are they of any value, or worthless? Why are they stamped "Occupied Japan" instead of just "Japan" as most are?

A. From the end of World War II until April 28, 1952, Japan was occupied by U.S. armed forces.

The Japanese pottery industry marked many of their pieces "Occupied Japan" or "Made in Occupied Japan."

In general, prices of figurines range from $15 to $35.

Q. I have a powder box and hair receiver. I thought they were celluloid, but on the bottom of both are the words "Ivory — Py Ra Lin."

The powder box is very light weight. The hair receiver is quite heavy, and even though it is ivory in color, it is a much more yellow ivory than the powder box.

Can you give me approximate dates and an evaluation?

A. Sometimes manufacturers will go to great lengths to fool the public. Your powder box and hair receiver were not made of ivory.

They were labeled "Ivory" because of the color. Pyralin is a plastic. These items are plastic and were manufactured in the early 20th century.

Each piece is worth about $35 to $45.

Q. I have a small plate 8 inches in diameter.

It is trimmed around the edge in gold, and decorated with small blue and white flowers.

On the back is marked "Sevres" and "Bavaria" and a shield with the word "Thomas" in it.

I am really interested in the history and value.

A. Sevres is the name of the pattern of your plate. It does not refer to the much-sought-after porcelain made in the town of Sevres, France.

Your plate was made by the F. Thomas Porcelain Factory in Marktredwitz, Bavaria, Germany, in the early 20th century.

The value would probably be about $10 to $15.

Points on Pets

By R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.

Q. Our veterinarian recommended that we brush our dog's teeth! I have owned dogs for years and have never brushed any dog's teeth. Is this really necessary? Do dogs have more teeth and gum problems today than several years ago? It seems like veterinarians are pushing dental care more now than ever before.

A. The greater interest in dental care is probably due to a greater awareness of dental problems and to the greater number of older pets today. Because of other advancements in veterinary medicine, pets are living long enough now to develop dental problems.

The diets of our pets have changed considerably over the years. The wild ancestors of dogs and cats avoided plaque buildup by chewing on rough food and bones. Most dogs and cats today do not eat the same rough materials.

Prevention is the best method to be sure your dogs will always have healthy teeth. Each of your dogs' mouths should be examined by a veterinarian at least once per year. Dogs with serious plaque problems should have their teeth cleaned. This usually requires that the dog be anesthetized.

The teeth of most dogs can be brushed routinely with a toothbrush without much hassle. Your veterinarian can supply you with an appropriate dog toothpaste and brush. Flossing is usually not necessary because most dogs have widely spaced teeth. Your veterinarian can give you specific advice regarding the care of your animal's teeth.

Most Beautiful Grandchildren

Jessica Lynn, who was four years old in December, and her brother, 6½ months old William James (Billy) Harrison are the fun-loving children of Mary and Bill Harrison of Franklin Square. The proud grandmothers are Vera Harrison of Garden City and Peggy Harrison of Valley Stream.

Meet Alexandrea Tringali, born February 28. She is the beautiful granddaughter of Joe and Coralee Smith, and Roy and Gail Tringali of Hicksville. Her happy parents are Pam and Jim Tringali of Patchogue.

Aunt Tilly's Corner

We have had no let up from the hot weather and humidity in over a week. What are you doing to keep cool? Some people have air conditioners in their homes and cars, but many do not.

The best thing to do is plan quiet activities for the midday when the heat is worst. Stay out of the sun. If you want to go outside, don't forget to put on plenty of sunscreen.

Best of all jump into a pool, drink cool drinks and eat lots of ice cream!

Your Friend,
Aunt Tilly

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

Am I fully insured for retirement benefits?

By William M. Acosta

Q. A co-worker asked me if I was "fully insured" for Social Security retirement benefits, but I wasn't sure how to answer him. How can I find out if I am fully insured?

I am currently 35 years old. — S.T.

A. You are fully insured for Social Security retirement benefits when you have earned credits for a certain amount of work under Social Security.

To attain fully insured status for retirement benefits, 1 credit is required for each year since 1950, up to a maximum of 40 credits.

For individuals retiring in 1991, and later, they will need 40 credits, or 10 years, of work to have fully insured status.

Q. My husband decided to work past the normal retirement age of 65. He has a health insurance plan where he works, and is also enrolled in Medicare.

I recently turned 65 and have enrolled in Medicare as his spouse. It now appears that I will need surgery within the next few months.

Will Medicare help pay for some of my medical expenses while I'm hospitalized, or will I have to rely totally on what his company medical benefits pay? — R.W.

A. If you are covered under the group health plan of your husband's employer, the regulations state that Medicare cannot pay for services covered under the group plan.

The group health plan must pay its benefits first and Medicare may then help pay for services that the group plan does not cover, or which it does not pay in full.

Q. They have just told me that I will be able to get Supplemental Security Income (SSI) checks. What other assistance can I get to help me with my living expenses? — H.R.

A. To help you with your living expenses, you may want to apply for food stamps if you have not already done so.

In addition, if you are not eligible for participation in the Medicare health insurance program, you may want to consider Medicaid.

In many states, if you are eligible for SSI, you also are eligible for Medicaid. The local medical assistance office can tell you about eligibility for that program.

You also may be eligible to receive social services from your state or county. Contact your local social services department, or public welfare office, for details about that.
