Third Ambulance Benefits Hicksville

By Gary McLendon

Sometimes things just have a way of working out. For years the thought of purchasing a third ambulance has been kicking around within the Hicksville Fire Department. But doing so, in the words of HFD spokesman Owen Magee, "Would involve meetings and commissions and studies". In other words a lot of red tape.

However, on August 21, in a collision with a car in Jericho, a Hicksville ambulance sustained $12,000 in damage. The accident left the fire department with one ambulance and according to Magee, "We cannot function in Hicksville with one ambulance. It's just too much."

Because of this unusual turn of events, the fire department had to purchase another ambulance quickly. The damaged ambulance is due to be returned, repaired in October, and when that happens... problem solved!

"It's nice to have a third ambulance because we respond to many multi-vehicle accidents where we need two ambulances," said Magee who added, "We didn't want it to work out this way, but it's worked out great. The new ambulance gives Hicksville and surrounding communities even better coverage."

Hicksville's new ambulance is a 1993 Ford, built by P.L. Ambulance Manufacturers of New Jersey. The ambulance, however, is not exactly "new". It's a demonstrator model purchased with 4,000 miles on it. This benefited the fire department in two ways. First, they received a reduced price. Second, it was almost completely equipped to match the specifications of the other two ambulances already in service.

"Where a brand new ambulance would have cost around $95,000 and taken about three months to get, we got ours for about $75,000, and it was on the job in three days," Magee said. Additional equipment and slight alterations were added by the Hicksville Fire Department.

The acquisition also has additional benefits. "The new ambulance is manufactured by the same company that built the other two, so parts for all three are standardized. And according to Magee there is no worry about replacing parts. "The ones we have are the best around, they very seldom break down," he said.

The new ambulance is equipped with a full complement of passenger stabilization and immobilization devices. It is also equipped with a telemetry system, which links on board monitoring devices to area hospitals, and a defibrillator which monitors and transmits EKG reports. As with the other two ambulances, the new one will be staffed by emergency medical technicians.

As far as coverage, the new ambulance will help by filling gaps in coverage caused by the county's cost cutting measures. In addition the new ambulance will fill gaps caused when two ambulances are required to report to the same accident scene, which according to Magee, "Is for whatever reason, happening with much more frequency lately."

Magee attributes the increase in severe auto accidents to, "A speed limit in town that is too high." In addition, he points to the intersections of Old Country Road and Jerusalem Avenue, W. John Street and Newbridge Road, and Broadway and Old Country Road as being areas where severe accidents are frequently occurring. "A better intersection he said, "Is Newbridge Road and Old Country Road, because the left turn signals control traffic better".

Philoxenia! At 1993 Greek Festival

By Gary McLendon

In a celebration of Greek heritage, that was enjoyed by all, the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church of Hicksville recently held its 17th annual Greek Festival. The festival, which featured all types of Greek food, Greek music, Greek dancing, boutiques, rides and games, was something special. Why? Because it had philoxenia, which is Greek for hospitality.

"We love it here. It's great!... The food is great!" said Mary Mikulasovich, of North Massapequa, who was attending the festival for the first time. Her friend and companion Pat Ferrara came with her children Catherine, Matthew and Chris, they were all enthusiastic, and all said they were enjoying themselves. "Me! Me! Me!" shouted Matthew, age 6, as he jumped up and down for attention. Matthew had little to say, but his actions clearly showed that he was having fun, as were people of all ages.

Bill and Edna Henne, residents of Hicksville for 35 years, enjoyed themselves as well. "I think it's really nice. Families get together, they enjoy, and it's something for you to do on a Sunday night," Edna said, Bill concurred. "I enjoyed myself. I think these things are great because they are a fund raiser for the church and for the people who do God's work", Bill said.

The festival ran for three days and nights and by all accounts the event was a success. Barbara Niemczyk, interviewed next to the Star Trek ride after her son Robert had just landed said "It's great!... We were here last night and there were a lot more people". She came back on Sunday because, "the lines were too long last night," she said.

"The crowds were heavy up until midnight," said Sala Fiorantino, a volunteer and member of the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church. "It's been very, very successful," she said.

Fiorantino volunteered at the "coffee shop", one of 10 booths covered by tents which were set up in the church parking lot. The coffee shop sold 10 varieties of homemade pastries, along with coffee, tea and other beverages. The pastries were made by members of the church.

Other foods that were served at the festival were gyros, souvlaki, Greek salads, loukoumades, baklava, spinach pie, mousaka, barbecued lamb, shish-kabobs and many more. Beverages were sold as well.

"It takes six or seven months to organize and prepare," said Gus Hadcioann, chairman of the festival. "Over 150 people are volunteers."

The proceeds of the event went to help offset the cost of the church's programs, such as after school programs, Sunday school, and a youth center that has recently opened.

"The festival is a major fund-raising effort," said Hadcioann, "It attracts a lot of people as you can see, and the main idea is to collect enough money to pay the expenses of the school."

The event drew crowds from across the area. "They come in from Queens, they come in from other towns, Plainview, Syosset, all around, but our parishioners are mostly Hicksville residents," said Hadcioann who added, "the rest come from all over the surrounding areas."

For parishioners such as Ellen Krimitsos, the event was fun- yet it hinted at a deeper significance. "I like it, it's fun, there's a lot of people. It's somewhere to be where you're with people from your country."

The event went over well with non-parishioners as well, as Pat Ferrara explained, "We came all the way from East Islip to see this festival. We love it here!"

Native Son Celebrates Mass

St. Ignatius Loyola Roman Catholic Church was the scene of another joyous Mass celebration by a parish son, recently. Newly ordained Father Michael Shannon, offered Mass with his parents and many friends in attendance, on August 22.

Father Shannon, a graduate of Hicksville public schools and the Buffalo University, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Shannon of Hicksville. Father Shannon was ordained in the order of the Legionnaires of Christ, whose seminary is in Connecticut.

He entered the seminary at age 26, after business employment and was a seminary classmate of Hicksville priest, Father Richard Gill, who was ordained in 1991. Father Michael will serve his order as a school administrator in Mexico.

NEWSBRIEFS

Hicksville Historical Society
And The Algonquians

Opening its 1993-94 program season with a whoop, the Hicksville Historical Society will be treated to an informative glimpse of Long Island's Algonquian Indian culture at its Tuesday, Sept. 28 meeting. Drawing on the historical accounts of the Algonquians, as seen by the Dutch and English settlers in the 17th and 18th centuries, Richard Evers will present a slide/lecture. Evers is the Hicksville Historian and has presented many such programs over the past 25 years.

The 8 p.m. meeting of the society will take place in the Kenneth Barnes Community Room of the Hicksville Public Library. This is the first meeting of the new society year, a year which will offer its members and the general public stimulating insights into Long Island's history and an opportunity to be part of steps to preserve and enrich the historical traditions of the community of Hicksville. Future meetings will be held the fourth Tuesday of every other month (except January when a Sunday afternoon social will replace the regular bi-monthly meeting).

Members and the general public are cordially invited to attend this (and all) September 28th meeting, to enjoy the congeniality of the historically-oriented company and to meet the society's new slate of trustees and officers for the 1993-94 year. These officers are: president, Richard Evers; vice-president, Maureen Traxler; treasurer, Richard Althaus; Recording Secretary, Aileen Levy; and Corresponding Secretary, Jessie Doyle. The trustees are Ruth Aaron, Edna and Bill Slater and Bill Jounck, with Kenneth Barnes and Rev. Dominick Cianella as honorary trustees. Patricia Spielman is membership chairperson.

Increased Security
At LIRR Stations

Assemblyman Fred Parola (R-C, Wantagh) today said added security for local Long Island Rail Road (LIRR) stations will help assure the safety of commuters who use the railroad and guard against theft and vandalism in station parking lots.

Parola said LIRR president Charles Hoppe has informed him that nine new police officers will be hired above 1993 budgeted levels and will be in place by early 1994. Also, a permanent Parking Lot Task Force will be formed to combat auto-related crimes at the stations.

Assemblyman Parola, who detailed his commuter safety concerns in a letter to Hoppe earlier this year, said a key concern in his annual survey of area commuters was a continued lack of adequate security at the stations and in parking lots. Theft and vandalism in the station parking lots have increased substantially in the last 10 years.

"Commuters are afraid to leave their cars in the station lots for fear of vandalism or worse," said Parola. "Additions to the LIRR police force and creation of a Parking Lot Task Force should alleviate some of the problems we are seeing at the train stations, but it is still not enough."

Results of Parola's 1993 commuter questionnaire indicated that only three percent of commuters surveyed felt their cars were "very secure" at the station parking lot.

Citizens Of The Year Named

By Patricia M. Conway

The Hicksville Chamber of Commerce has bestowed its 1993-94 Citizens of the Year Award, during its recent installation, upon Hicksville residents, Theodore and Nancy Grant. The Grants have been working together for the betterment of Hicksville over forty years.

The Grants both grew up on Long Island and purchased their home in Hicksville 30 years ago, after serving in churches in Laurelton and Woodhaven, Queens. They have four children, two sons and two daughters, and five grandchildren.

Ted studied and earned a bachelor of arts degree and a Master of Social Service degree at Adelphi University, a B.D. at Gettysburg Theological Seminary and D. Min., at the San Francisco Theological Seminary. Ted served for 25 years as pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church, retiring in 1990. He taught at the Graduate School of Social Work of Yeshiva University for 12 years and currently is executive director of the Ecumenical Consultation Center in Hicksville. In addition he works as coordinator of the Nassau Branch of Lutheran Community Services. For 20 years, Ted has served as chaplain of the Hicksville Fire Department. He was instrumental in establishing the Hicksville Youth Council and the soup kitchen in Hicksville, as well as serving on the Town of Oyster Bay Youth Board.

Nancy has a Bachelor of Arts degree from Adelphi University where she did graduate work and earned a permanent certification as a teacher of early childhood education. She worked as a substitute teacher for the Hicksville schools, as well as other districts, during the time she was raising her own children. She went on to earn a Master of Social

THEODORE AND NANCY GRANT

Work from Adelphi University and joined the staff of the ecumenical consultation center as a therapist in 1981. Nancy has also set up and run parent education and support groups for parents of pre-schoolers at a local nursery school. Nancy has continually given her time to help during local events such as the Chamber of Commerce Business Expo, health fairs, and the Hicksville Fire Department's 100th Anniversary, working to benefit the ECC scholarship fund.

Working together at Redeemer Lutheran Church Ted and Nancy have been very much involved in parish outreach programs such as the Open Door and the Runaway Youth Program, as well as educational programs.

In 1973, the Grants, along with Reverend Dr. Roland J. Perez, former pastor of St. Stephens Lutheran and two other professional colleagues, Peter Gelber and Vera Cakars, established the Ecumenical Consultation Center.

In 1975, they initiated and coordinated a program in Hicksville to encourage and coordinate churches in sponsoring Vietnamese refugees. Their home was personally opened to four refugees who they assisted in teaching English and helping them gain employment. Eventually, they were able to live independently in Hicksville.

The Grants say their main love and focus today is with the Ecumenical Consultation Center. The ECC was based on certain values. They believe strongly that mental health services should be readily available to everyone in the community regardless of their financial means. Fees are based on a sliding scale. The ECC receives no government funding and depends on support from contributions from local churches and community groups.

Ted and Nancy believe that help should be given on an immediate basis, when the need is critical for the family or individual. Although therapeutic services are sensitive to the spiritual and religious values of the people they serve, both staff and clients come from many diverse religious backgrounds.

"We are proud of our roots in the Hicksville community and grateful for the support we have received over the years. "We believe strongly in developing a close working relationship with local schools, churches and community groups," they said.

In line with their belief that mental health services should be accessible to all they recently established a scholarship fund. The fund helps those individuals and families who due to unemployment or financial difficulty cannot afford even the minimum fees of their sliding scale. They are working to publicize this fund and increase it so that therapeutic help need not be denied to anyone in the community.

The Grants have continuously given of themselves unselfishly and worked to enlist the cooperation and help of community volunteers, businesses and service groups over the years for various projects. Both as individuals and especially as a team, they truly deserve to be considered "Citizens of the Year."

Yom Kippur Begins
September 24

Yom Kippur, which begins at sundown on Friday, Sept. 24, and ends at sundown on Saturday, Sept. 25, marks the Day of Atonement for Jews around the world, and is the climax of ten days of penitence, which began with the Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, on Sept. 15.

Hallmarks of Yom Kippur observances are day-long fasting, participation in synagogue services during which congregants join in making a communal confession of sins, make atonement and ask God's forgiveness. By reciting these confessions together, members of the congregation acknowledge their personal responsibility for actions toward other individuals and their individual responsibility as members of society to society as a whole.

Jewish teachers hold that the Day of Atonement allows one to repent for sins against God, but not those one has committed against one's fellow human beings. In fact, atonement has no effect unless one seeks forgiveness from those against whom one has sinned.

Of the five prayer services that are held during Yom Kippur, perhaps the most impressive is the opening service, held on the first evening. Its highlight is the cantor's singing of Kil Nidre ("All Vows"), a powerful and moving chant which asks God to annul all vows of a religious nature that one has made hastily, unintentionally or under duress. During the afternoon service the next day, the Book of Jonah, which recounts the repentance of the Ninevite, is read in its entirety. The concluding service, held toward sundown as the Day of Atonement is ending, is marked by the sounding of the shofar, a ram's horn, which signals that the opportunity for repentance and forgiveness is about to close.

Among Yom Kippur's distinctive customs is the use of the color white, which is a traditional symbol of purity and forgiveness. Rabbis and cantors presiding at prayer service wear white gowns and yarmulkes (skullcaps, or head coverings), and a white curtain is placed over the opening of the synagogue's ark, where the Torah scrolls, containing the Hebrew version of the Five Books of Moses, the first five books of the Bible, are kept.

Oyster Bay Posts Contested

By Soria Kaulesar

Vying for the position of clerk against Republican incumbent Carl Marcellino in the Town of Oyster Bay are Democrat Carol Bosco, Liberal David Schoenfeld and Margaret Romaine of the Right To Life Party.

Republican Jack O'Leary is being challenged for his position as receiver of taxes by Democrat Thomas Lilly, Liberal Sophie Kaufman and Daniel Sullivan of the Right To Life Party.

The position of town clerk involves the responsibility for all records and delivery services in the Town of Oyster Bay, the third largest township in the United States, with a population of 300,000 people. According to Town Clerk Marcellino, 100,000 transactions are completed each year in two offices, one located in Oyster Bay and the other, in Massapequa. The offices affect every household in the town at least once a year.

Marcellino, Oyster Bay Town Clerk since 1988, claims, "I've done a good job delivering services to the Town of Oyster Bay in a responsive manner. I've demonstrated, over the years, that I have the ability to do that. You need background experience. I've been involved in my community in every way for 20 years." Marcellino claims to have accomplished while clerk, cutting operating costs and personnel by 10 percent in the clerk's office, initiating evening town clerk office hours at no added cost and creating a "model" office by introducing state-of-the-art computer technology, updating all vital records.

Bosco, Democratic candidate for clerk, said the changes she advocates are eliminating one of the two positions of deputy town clerk and instituting evening hours once or twice a month "to make the clerk's office more accessible to working families." Bosco said that she wants the job because "I admire Lewis Yevoli very much. I would be of great assistance to him cutting costs and waste. Bosco's experiences include being a former in-house counsel of a national propane company, organizing her own general law practice in Hicksville, and organizing volunteer income tax assistance while in law school. "I'm a hard worker and I have great organizational skills," she said.

Receiver O'Leary, a member of the Oyster Bay Zoning Board of Appeals from 1977 to 1988 and chairman from 1988 to 1993, said, "I've enjoyed public service for 16 years," adding that a major issue in the campaign is "setting the standard for service for other officeholders. We're here to serve the public and not ourselves."

Lilly, a former assistant US attorney who collected federal tax liens on Long Island real estate, believes that the major issue in the campaign is whether "someone can do something about reducing taxes so our families can live in this town." He added, "I would like to join Supervisor Lewis Yevoli in making living in the Town of Oyster Bay more tolerable and compatible for citizens so their children will not be compelled to leave because of the tax and spend policies of the Republicans."

O'Leary said, "This is not a policy-making position," but said that as chairman of the Conservative Party, "I am working to get local officials in office who are in policy positions who also reflect that kind of attitude." O'Leary said that he is the best person for the job because of "life experience, attitude, and integrity." "In a few months, I've proven that I can handle the job very well," he said.

If elected, Lilly's plans include promoting competitive bidding for town contracts and assisting Yevoli in eliminating abusive assignments of private vehicles to town employees. He said, "In addition to bringing integrity and efficiencies to this necessary government function, it is my intention to make myself personally available to our taxpayers in resolving their town tax collection questions, and also to make myself available for their concerns on how their tax dollars are spent in the town."

Schoenfeld and Kaufman did not return calls for comment by press time. Romaine and Sullivan could not be reached.

Cuisine Connection

The Dutchmen: Suits All Palates

By Gary McLendon

Only open since late July, The Dutchmen restaurant in Hicksville is fast becoming a popular addition to area dining. The Dutchmen, located at 68 North Broadway, features German-American food but also serves American and Italian cuisine. Open seven days a week, The Dutchmen is a good choice for family dining, as it features good food and a warm atmosphere.

The Dutchmen is a two-sided establishment. The bar is on one side, the dining area on the other. The restaurant, which covers approximately 600 square feet, is decorated in burgundy, black and gray. Potted plants decorate the walls and tables and two front windows provide a nice touch of sunlight without sacrificing the subtle decor.

The Dutchmen is co-owned by Dan Kersten and Jane Carter. Kersten named the restaurant after an old drag racer he once owned. About being in the restaurant business Kersten, a lifelong resident of Plainview said, "I like being around people, and I like to cook German food." In Kersten's words, "response has been very good."

Appetizers start at $3.95 and feature items such as chicken fingers with a honey mustard sauce, and shrimp cocktail, among others.

All diners are served with salad, potatoes or rice pilaf, along with sesame, poppy or pumpernickel rolls and butter.

The menu ranges from beef entrees, such as 16 oz. shell steaks, to the inexpensive children's menu for children under 12, providing a choice of dining possibilities at The Dutchmen. Items in between include fresh kielbasa with potato dumplings and red cabbage ($10.25), breast of chicken Francaise ($9.50) and baked cheese ravioli ($9.95).

According to Kersten, the two most requested menu items are the sauerbraten ($9.95) and the loin of pork ($10.25). The sauerbraten was sliced lean and was tangy and flavorful. It was served with beef gravy, red cabbage and potato dumplings. The red cabbage (thoughtfully served in its own dish) was hot and was tangy and slightly tart without an overpowering taste. The gravy was smooth and lightly seasoned; it nicely complemented the entree.

A very special part of the meal, however, were the potato dumplings. They were soft, smooth, creamy and had a delightful light lemon flavor. They literally melt in your mouth.

The meal was prepared by Jané Carter, who after the meal revealed the secrets that made the meal a success. "We use a half a pound of butter, eggs, onions, a dash of salt, and cinnamon along with the potatoes. For the sauerbraten, we marinate the meat for seven days in lemon, vinegar, peppercorn and cloves," she said.

For dessert, The Dutchmen offers items such as apple strudel, Black Forest cake, carrot cake, cheesecake and blackout cake.

Dinner is served Monday-Wednesday, 5-9 p.m.; Thursday and Friday, 5-10 p.m.; Saturday, 5-11 p.m. and Sunday, 3-9 p.m. Call 433-7792.

Be Aware That ...

The change in the political climate has forced Anton Publications to rethink its policy on paid political advertisements. We used to prohibit every personal attack. We used to scrutinize every statement and check out each fact. But it has become an exercise in futility.

It seems that most candidates are only interested in cutting their opponent's throats and distorting the facts. They prefer bashing the opposition to promoting their platforms and credentials and addressing issues that really matter to voters.

Here is our new policy:

"Anton Publications reserves the right to review advertising materials that are political in nature based on the following criteria:

A. The persons or corporations sponsoring the advertisement must be identified in the ad, i.e.: Paid For By Friends of _____ (candidate). A valid address (no post office boxes) and the telephone number of a responsible person must be supplied. These will not be printed.

B. All materials are reviewed by the publisher prior to publication. Anything blatantly libelous or slanderous will not be permitted. Fair comment, worded appropriately, may be made on campaign issues. Personal attacks will be discouraged.

C. Payment for all advertisements must be made in advance, or satisfactory arrangement for payment must be approved by the publisher.

D. Reproduction of the content, or part thereof, of any Anton Newspaper is forbidden without the express written permission of the publisher or his representative, which must be obtained, in advance, and by letter or fax request.

Anton Publications reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to refuse any advertising if it does not meet the above stated guidelines."

Promises used to be the cornerstone of election campaigns. Now it appears to be mudslinging, and it is done at every level, from local races to federal ones. Evidently, candidates have not learned that a negative campaign can easily backfire. And it's easier to throw darts than it is to take a stand on real issues.

During the next five weeks, readers will see paid political advertisements in this newspaper that go pretty far in their attempts to undermine the opposition.

We will do our best to discourage personal attacks, and we will attempt not to allow libel and slander. But trying to keep candidates from slinging mud and deciphering the often slanted interpretations of their opponents' actions has become a battle that is difficult to win.

However, in the coming weeks, we will attempt to take some of the charges made in the ads and tell the real story for you, our readers, either in the articles we write or our editorials.

Be careful. Read carefully and investigate candidates to the best of your ability before you pull that lever on Nov. 2.

A Letter from Lulubelle...

...How many names are you known by? I don't mean aliases or noms de plume, I just mean - are you the kind of person who is called James Jones - or are you, like our famous actor, always James Earl Jones??? ...If I asked about Ed Poe, you might think a minute, but if I said Edgar Allen Poe, there'd be no hesitation...it's such a strange thing that this has grown up as it has, and so many New England poets and writers seem to be known that way - think about Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, John Greenleaf Whittier, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Louisa May Alcott: and then there's Franklin Delano Roosevelt - I bet you don't even know what George Washington's middle name was - or even if he had one - I certainly don't...and how about the famous editor, William Allen White?...Emily Dickenson and many others made the big time without the three-name-thrust, but it certainly does sound more sonorous and impressive...I think from now on I'll have myself known as Lulubelle Arimathea Vostavazoo - that will make them pause!!

Yours, Lulubelle

BON VOYAGE

By Edythe and Jack Shepard

A sad note to begin a travel column: the murder of a German tourist in Miami. The young man, driving from the airport with his wife, followed all warnings about not stopping when your car is bumped, etc., drove on after being bumped. Unfortunately, it did not stop the predators, who shot and killed him; the eighth tourist murder this year in Miami.

The reason for its mention here is to report that on our recent European trip, we were also made aware by tour and local guides and via posters, signs and placards, to take precautions against the pilferers, pickpockets and purse snatchers. Everywhere we went, we were advised to hug our belongings, warned against hanging shoulder bags, exhorted to be on our guard, no matter how interesting the sights, since we might be the "sights" for the heisters.

We still remember, with nostalgia, the days when travelers didn't have to look over their shoulders; didn't have to be wary of those around them as they beheld the beauty of St. Peter's. Aah, for the good old days!

In recent years, tourist-targeting thievery is all too common, as we've heard and experienced episodes from Paris to Barcelona; Rome to Hong Kong. Luggage is stolen at airports, railroad stations and hotels, purses are rifled and wallets, lifted. Newspaper-waving gypsy youngsters confront and rob tourists; cliques surround and grab for valuables; visitors are jostled and separated from their belongings and ploys such as ketchup-spraying and coin-dropping, to divert and filch; all abound.

What is not happening abroad is the violence, which happens here too often, with Miami as the focal point of horror. In fact, while we were in London, the local newspapers headlined, "Muggers Pistol-Whip Britons in Florida" and the story recounted the beating of three young British men who were at a public phone outside of their Orlando motel; this after they had handed over all their cash to the gunmen.

While in London, we weren't surprised at guides' advice to be on the alert for thievery but were amazed at the number of posted warnings which addressed the same problem. At London's Quality Chop House, where we had dinner, an outside sign read, "We would like to advise diners that there have been a number of thefts from cars in Vineyard Walk. We therefore recommend that alternative parking arrangements are made."

In Westminster Abbey, near the area of the souvenir counters, a plaque advised, "Watch Out. Pickpockets operate in this area."

While in a shop in Cologne, Germany, we heard a woman's loud, angry voice outside - she was by three gypsy kids who rushed at her. Even though she was wearing a pouch strapped across her stomach, it did not stop them from trying to wrest it from her. In no uncertain terms, she yelled, "One stop nearer and I'll kill you!" Apparently they believed her and ran off.

"Rosenberger Markt" restaurants on the Autobahn and, in Austrian cities, combination markets and self-serve restaurants, place a card on each table reading, "We take care of our guests. Please keep an eye on your handbag and valuables. We recommend to deposit both in our free lockers, for a pleasant, untroubled stay at Rosenberger."

And even in Switzerland, there were posted warnings; as signs pictured a large hand in an open purse, with the word: "Vorsicht!" (Caution)...All sad signs of the times!

It is an indisputable fact that concern for tourists' safety, both here and abroad has never been more addressed than it is today, as tourist-related crime continues to increase. The American Society of Travel Agents reports growing anxiety about the security of travelers and has issued safety lists for tourists.

As vacationers, we tend to be more relaxed, and allow ourselves the luxury of dawdling and concentrating on enjoyment. Our guard is down and the "bad guys" know it. Tourists are excellent targets too, because they are in unfamiliar surroundings and usually carrying cash

The Fountain of Age, Betty Friedan, Simon & Schuster, 671 pp., $25.

Thirty years ago, in 1963, Betty Friedan fired the opening salvo of the women's movement with her Feminine Mystique.

Now Friedan is beginning another crusade and from this corner it appears that her new book, The Fountain of Age, may be as influential as her earlier work. Friedan is a trained psychologist. She teaches at New York University and the University of Southern California and lectures worldwide. She did the research for this book under grants from the Ford Foundation and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Friedan begins her new book with a personal anecdote: "When my friends threw a surprise party on my sixtieth birthday, I could have killed them all. I was depressed for weeks after that birthday party, felt removed from them all. I could not face being sixty." From the personal she moves to the reason so many Americans dread aging. She sees the media and especially advertisers' portrayals of people over 65 as feeble, potential Alzheimer's patients, even though Alzheimer's affects only five percent of the over 65 population.

The prevailing studies come from the sick and the institutionalized, not from the active older people. In the 20th century, the life expectancy has gone from 46 to nearly 80. She points out that the over 65 population has the highest voting rate of any group in the country. She goes on to explore what makes for a good old age. "Activity in society of some complexity, using cognitive ability and involving choice," she concludes "is evidently a crucial clue to longevity and vital aging." She also counsels against false self images. "An accurate, realistic, active identification with one's own aging—as opposed to both resignation and denial—seems an important key to vital aging and even longevity."

One conclusion that Friedan's research appears to document, women have less trouble aging than men. Because most women never expect their careers to define them fully, they are less devastated than men when their working years are behind them.

Friedan concludes that it matters less where older people choose to live than how they choose to live. She cites older Peace Corps volunteers as role models. Of course this presumes good health and she concedes that not everyone has that blessing, but Friedan's important book tells us that the important thing is for people to be able to take charge of their own lives. It is a book that deserves to be read, and not only by those over 65.

The bidding:

3♣	Pass	4♣

Opening lead — king of hearts.

Trump control is often a decisive factor in the play of suit contracts. Whenever feasible, the defenders try to run declarer out of trumps in order to cash their tricks in the side suits, while declarer tries to maintain control over trumps in order to withstand this attack.

Consider this deal where trump control plays a key role. West leads the king of hearts and continues with the ace. When declarer ruffs, he has four trumps left and so does West. If South were now to play the ace and another trump, he would lose control of the hand and take a bad beating. West would cash the K-Q of trumps and play another heart. When South ruffed, leaving West with the only remaining trump, the rest of West's hearts would become tricks and declarer would go down four!

To forestall this, South leads the nine of spades at trick three, not the ace. If West ducks, South comes home by cashing the ace and leading his winners in the side suits.

But let's say West takes the nine with the queen, East following suit. What can West do now? This is a crucial decision, for West's play at this point determines the outcome. Since dummy can ruff a heart continuation, West might decide to make a neutral return, such as a diamond or a club.

If he did this, declarer would make the contract. He would win the return, play the ten of spades in order to maintain trump control, and West would find himself helpless.

But if West, upon winning the nine of spades, plays another heart, he sinks the contract. The old bugaboo against giving declarer a ruff and discard does not apply here. It gives South no advantage, and, in fact, will cause him endless pain and suffering. There is no salvation. The best South can do in this case is go down one.

By Edythe and Jack Shepard

A sad note to begin a travel column: the murder of a German tourist in Miami. The young man, driving from the airport with his wife, followed all warnings about not stopping when your car is bumped, etc., drove on after being bumped. Unfortunately, it did not stop the predators, who shot and killed him; the eighth tourist murder this year in Miami.

The reason for its mention here is to report that on our recent European trip, we were also made aware by tour and local guides and via posters, signs and placards, to take precautions against the pilferers, pickpockets and purse snatchers. Everywhere we went, we were advised to hug our belongings, warned against hanging shoulder bags, exhorted to be on our guard, no matter how interesting the sights, since we might be the "sights" for the heisters.

We still remember, with nostalgia, the days when travelers didn't have to look over their shoulders; didn't have to be wary of those around them as they beheld the beauty of St. Peter's. Aah, for the good old days!

In recent years, tourist-targeting thievery is all too common, as we've heard and experienced episodes from Paris to Barcelona; Rome to Hong Kong. Luggage

New Teachers And Administrators Welcomed

Mr. Robert Durso, assistant superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction welcomes new teachers at a special orientation program held on September 1. The informative program was designed to acquaint the new teachers with the administrative staff, policies, procedures and curriculum issues. A total of 23 new full-time or part-time teachers were hired for the 1993-94 school year. Above, Robert Durso addresses teachers and administrators.

ANOTHER DEMOCRAT FOR TOM GULOTTA

J. LEONARD SAMANSKY
20 GREENLEAF HILL
GREAT NECK, NY 11023

Mayor, Village of Saddle Rock

Dear Democrats:

As a Democrat and an elected public official, I look at the Primary results as a tragedy for Nassau County Democrats.

Ben Zwirn's underhanded campaign tactics demeaned the Democratic Primary process. Ben Zwirn will do anything to win. He's untrustworthy, unprincipled and wrong for Nassau County and wrong for taxpayers and their families.

Ben Zwirn's administration in North Hempstead has been a dismal failure steeped in secrecy, fiscal gimmickry, scandal and mismanagement. In short, his term in office has been a disaster.

Ben Zwirn has spent and wasted millions of taxpayer dollars in lawsuits against the North Hempstead residents and local governments. North Hempstead, prior to Zwirn's becoming Supervisor, was financially sound and it even had a surplus. Now, the Town is owned by the bank and is in debt. A required audit has been prevented in order to hide the facts from public scrutiny. He even suggested that town taxpayers buy into a bank credit card carrying huge interest charges in order to keep the leaders happy. That's wrong.

Ben Zwirn's solid waste plan is a fiasco. There are hundreds of violations issued against it by the State. Huge costs and fees are charged to taxpayers to maintain a system of waste disposal for private profit. The Babylon deal is trash for cash at taxpayers' expense.

The Town of North Hempstead is now in shambles. Zwirn continues to ride on the people's backs for his own political advantage. Ben Zwirn should be ashamed of himself. I am embarrassed that he claims to carry the Democratic banner. I will not and I cannot support Ben Zwirn's candidacy.

I believe the choice for Nassau County Executive is crystal clear. Tom Gulotta is my choice, and we must re-elect him. I know Tom, and I have worked with him on a governmental level. Tom Gulotta is mature, honest and caring. Tom is a man of his word and a person of integrity. Tom represents all of the people.

As a lifelong Democrat, I urge all of my Democratic friends and neighbors to support Tom Gulotta for re-election as Nassau County Executive. I will not be a party to selling Nassau County to the banks or sending it "down the river." Your vote for Tom Gulotta will be a vote for good government, for integrity and for the future of Nassau County, for you and for all of the things for which democracy stands.

Vote for Tom Gulotta for Nassau County Executive.

TOM GULOTTA FOR COUNTY EXECUTIVE

Nassau Football: No Surprises

By Jack White

Nassau football coaches given the job of seeding the four conferences for this year's play saw little change in the balance of power. When their votes were tabulated, familiar names were again listed at the top. Under the power point system, schedules are created based on the order in which teams are seeded.

In Conference One, which includes the largest schools, Hempstead was chosen to edge Farmingdale. The Dalers will be under former Hempstead coach Buddy Krumenacker who replaced the retiring legend Don Snyder. Massapequa and Uniondale will be the other play-off teams according to the coaches with Syosset, Lawrence and Long Beach challenging. Farmingdale is the defending champion, having topped the Tigers in the 1992 final. No surprise in Conference Two as Coach Tom Flatley's Garden City Trojans are picked to repeat. The Trojans, whose Long Island record 30-game winning streak was snapped by Bellport, 8-6, in the first-ever Long Island Class II Championship, have appeared in the Nassau Conference Two title game in 10 of the last 11 years. The same play-off teams were chosen to return: Mepham, Carey and Hewlett. Garden City opens at Carey on Thursday, Sept. 23 at 4 p.m.

Lynbrook which went 11-0 in 1992, including a win in the Long Island Class III game, is favored to repeat in Conference III. Coach Joe Knoll's squad begins the season with 21 straight wins. New Hyde Park, Roosevelt and Clarke were tabbed as playoff teams.

The big change in Nassau football is the move of Bethpage to Conference Four due to a drop in enrollment. Coach Howie Vogts' 40th season should be notable as the Golden Eagles go against small schools. Island Trees, the Cinderella story of '92, will be back to battle to keep its Long Island crown. Manhasset and Locust Valley were seeded third and fourth ahead of perennial contenders Oyster Bay and Malverne.

The state has approved the Long Island Championships again, so the Nassau and Suffolk winners will meet at Hofstra Stadium on the first weekend in December.
